ROSE KAUFMAN ATTACKED ON OXFORD STREET

Frustrates Attempt to Gag
Her by Biting Assailant's Hand.

WAS HIDING IN BUSHES

Police Obtain Description of Alleged Robber From Victim.

An attempt at robbery took place in Knollwood Park Tuesday night, shortly after 10 o'clock, when a man attacked Rose Kaufman, 27 Sterling street. The assailant escaped after a brief struggle without effecting his purpose.

Miss Kaufman was returning from the downtown district, and was walking along Oxford street, and when near the Gummage's hot-house, was suddenly accosted by a man, who had been hiding in a clump of bushes. He attempted to gag her, but she managed to free herself by biting her assailant's hand. Miss Kaufman then called for help and the robber fled.

A description of the man was given to the police and the local detectives are now working on the case. An early arrest is expected.

The man was described by Miss Kaufman as being of tall and slender build, and was wearing khaki clothes at the time.

Miss Kaufman is confined to her home suffering from shock as the result of her experience.

KILLED BY FREIGHT TRAIN AT DUBLIN

F. E. Kane, Stratford Brakeman, Falls to Death Uncoupling Cars.

Special to London Advertiser.
Dublin, Ont., Sept. 20.—F. E. Kane of Stratford, 35 years of age, employed by the G. T. R. as brakeman, was instantly killed here this morning, when he fell beneath a way-freight running from Stratford to Goderich.

Kane was uncoupling three cars from the train, which had stopped at the Main street crossing, when the accident occurred. He was between the fifth and sixth car when he gave the signal to the engineer to proceed. For some reason he failed to uncouple the cars, and when presumably his foot caught he fell beneath the wheels.

The three cars passed over his body killing him almost instantly. Mr. Kane had been employed by the G. T. R. for nearly ten years, and was considered one of its most proficient employees. He is survived by a wife and children with whom he resided on Milton street in Stratford.

The train was in charge of Conductor Halpin and Engineer Waugh. BOLIVIA AND CHILE DISAGREE.
Geneva, Sept. 20.—The relations between Bolivia and Chile are such that "grave difficulties" threaten, unless the mediation of a friendly power or the arbitration of the League of Nations can be secured. This declaration is made in a letter from Alfredo Gutierrez, Bolivian delegate to the assembly, to the secretary of the league.

MAY ESTABLISH SCHOLARSHIP

"Y" and Boys' Work Board
Decide to Stage Campaign.

Believe Award Would Stimulate Interest in Studies at School.

A scholarship campaign to encourage the educational side of a boy's life, and to impress upon the lads of London the importance of education plays in later life, will in all probability be inaugurated by the London Boys' Work Board during the coming winter.

This subject came up for consideration at the first meeting of the board, held in the Blue Dragon Inn Tuesday night. Members of the board pointed out that several of the city's youth are quite willing to enter almost any pursuit in preference to school work. It was with a view of inducing boys to stay at school that the Y. M. C. A. has decided to foster a scholarship campaign, and the boys' work board, standing as it does for the all-round development of the boy in the same manner as the Y. is eager to co-operate to make such a campaign successful.

Plans for the coming winter were also discussed, and A. R. Kennedy, chairman of the board, outlined many features of the work that will be inaugurated this season.

Mr. Kennedy announced that the opening Tuxis supper will be held Thursday night, October 12, and the Tuxis supper of the fall will be held in the "Y" Wednesday, October 18. These convalescent suppers are staged to give the members of the various city groups an opportunity of becoming acquainted. The committee in charge of the Tuxis suppers consists of Richard Harvey, J. Campbell, S. R. White and Lloyd Houlding. Those who will look after the Tuxis Ranger "feeds" are F. W. Jolliffe, G. T. Hair, Dan Fisher, Dr. R. J. Gordon and Wilfrid Sigerman. J. A. #### Trustee Tanner Starled When Parcel Disappears

MISSING PENCILS RETURNED.

If the members of the Collegiate Institute committee continue with their escapades, Secretary W. A. Tanner has but one conclusion at which to arrive, and that is, they are a company of life-sized rogues.

The worried secretary is always missing something, it appears, and whether by coincidence or otherwise, when the doughty members of No. 3 committee are included among those present.

At the last gathering of these gentlemen, four pencils were missing when the final tally was made, and it looked for a minute at Tuesday's session as if a more dastardly crime than that even had been perpetrated. Waiting patiently in the ante-room for the meeting to get under way, E. A. Miller, principal of the South London High School, who had journeyed post-haste to be in attendance, was somewhat nonplussed when Secretary Tanner interrupted an incipient debate with the salutation: "Pardon me a moment, but did you lift a pencil, counted for."

FIRE IN LUCAN CAUSES $35,000 LOSS TO MILL

Crone Company's Plant Completely Destroyed in Early Morning Blaze.

LONDON BRIGADE ASSISTS

Volunteer Fighters Use Engine Bought 65 Years Ago.

Special to London Advertiser.
Lucan, Sept. 20.—Entailing a loss of $35,000, the 3-story plant of the Crone Milling Company of Lucan was burned to the ground early this morning.

The blaze, originating from an unknown cause, presumably in the basement, was discovered burning its way through the first floor shortly after 4 o'clock. Although a valiant fight was put up by the local volunteer fire fighting force and the London brigade was summoned to its assistance, the mill was a mass of ruins two hours later.

The mill, which was run by hydro, had been in operation day and night for several months. Tuesday night for the first time since the busy season began, the plant closed down at 10 o'clock.

As soon as it was discovered that the Lucan fire brigade, operating a hand-powered engine bought 65 years ago from a wagon firm in London, and called the "Rescue," could not cope with the flames, which endangered other buildings nearby, Mayor Wilson of London was appealed to for assistance.

A truck from No. 3 fire station, accompanied by Fire Chief Aitken and the mayor, rushed to the village. In less than an hour they arrived on the scene only to find that the fire had burned out and that hardly a brick of the walls of the mill stood one upon another. Other buildings were saved through heroic efforts on the part of the volunteer force.

In addition to the mill, 5,000 bushels of grain and a large stock of flour was destroyed. Ten men will be thrown out of employment.

The loss is partially covered by insurance.

EDUCATION STAFF HOLD PEACE TALK

Make Attempt at Understanding Who Is in Charge of Attendance.

A last desperate effort was made Tuesday night to effect an immediate understanding between the public school attendance department and the education staff.

Whether peace will be established cannot be anticipated at this moment. Gathering in special session, Senior School Inspector V. K. Green, Junior School Inspector G. A. Wheeler, Dr. George S. Weil, public school attendance officer, and Miss Dallas Radcliffe, the latest addition to the board of education staff, reviewed the situation at considerable length.

There was but little for publication other than the statement that the question will go before the trustees at their regular session Thursday, when certain adjustments are promised.

Dr. Weil explained briefly Wednesday that the meeting was productive of little.

Miss Radcliffe, on Sept. 1 last, assumed duties in Dr. Weil's office for the supposed purpose, it is explained, of lending such assistance as would be possible in connection with the enforcement of the adolescent school attendance act.

As the principal admitted his guilt, it developed that the missing parcel, a bundle of pencil sharpeners, was actually destined for the South London school. Everything was adjudged quite all right, and the secretary explained that with the members of No. 3 committee arriving he desired to be sure that the package was entrusted in good hands.

Quite ready, seemingly, to make restitution, both Trustees Casselman and Udy disclosed pencils that they had unconsciously placed in their pockets at the close of the last session and asked forgiveness. Accepting all apologies and fervent explanations, Secretary Tanner could not withhold the remark "that there were still another two pencils to be accounted for, but did you lift a pencil, counted for."

Trustees Stage Field Day In New Collegiate Gym.

MAKE COMPLETE INSPECTION.

FEATS of great daring and skill have been accomplished in famous stadiums, prompting unstinted and prolonged applause from masses of spectators who paid real good money to see the sights.

It is only once in a lifetime, however, that the lowly average person is permitted to view such an exhibition of combined dexterity, strength and everything else that goes with it, as the impromptu display late Tuesday afternoon in the Central Collegiate Institute gymnasium. And the privileged few who witnessed the performance returned to their natural haunts more convinced than ever before in the truthfulness of the old saying that "you can never tell by the look of a frog how far he can jump."

It is not to be assumed, of course, that any of the personnel of No. 3, the little four-legged creature that must have prompted the latter remark somewhere back in the dark ages.

The trustees, headed by Chairman A. E. Silverwood, visited the school primarily to survey such work as had been undertaken by the contractors, and when they gathered in the new structure none of them even dreamed for a moment that Architect Rogers could swing on the rings like a Yale athlete or that Trustee Langford could manipulate the Indian Turn to Page 3, Column 2.

WILL SUE TAX DELINQUENTS

Inspector States That All
Sums Owning Must Be Paid.

Scores Will Be Summoned for Non-Payment of Income Tax.

That the exchequer court of Canada will not be done away with through lack of work for many moons was apparent at the London branch of the Dominion Department of Taxation Wednesday morning, where preparations were under way to bring hundreds of Western Ontario residents to the realization of the fact that it is about as easy to beat the government out of ten cents as it is to jump in the water without getting wet.

The outstanding accounts to be taken to the courts are for different years up to 1920, George Tambling, Inspector of the London district announced Wednesday.

"Those who have not paid up," said Mr. Tambling, "have been informed by letter, by phone, and by every means in our power that their accounts must be settled. Then if a legitimate excuse cannot be offered after a reasonable length of time has elapsed, there is only one course open to the department, and that is to collect through the courts."

"In the city, it is our custom to notify a man by phone, but at other points in the district we must send letters, and it seems that a certain class ignore the letters altogether. They reach the house, and then they want to pay in a hurry. But it can't be done; the costs of the court must be met at that stage of the proceedings."

Mr. Tambling cited the case of a man who owed 63 cents interest on his account, and he evidently considered it too trifling to be given any attention. When the government finished suing him he had a bill of $20 to pay.

"Every account on our books, whether it be for five cents or $100 must be paid," declared the inspector. "There is no reason for a man neglecting to pay such a small account as 63 cents or a few dollars. Any man who has a taxable income can afford to pay an account that small when they can afford to invest in new automobiles and other luxuries."

"I believe collections in this district are as good as in any other part of the Dominion, however," he went on, "and the delinquent accounts, most of which are for accrued interest, will terminate the 1920 work. We are working on the 1921 accounts at the present time."

SAYS GERMANY IN PITIAL PLIGHT

London, England, Sept. 20.—An alarming picture of internal conditions in Germany in consequence of the poor harvest and the "unfamiliar" demands of her late enemies was drawn by Karl Wirth, German chancellor, in an interview with the Berliner correspondent of the Westminster Gazette. Germany's only hope, he intimated, lay in America.

"The hunger which was feared, owing to the bad harvest," he said, "creates an extremely dangerous situation and causes grave fears for the immediate future. There is danger of internal disorders should the misery continue."

TALK LAKE OF WOODS TREATY

Canadian Prime Ministers and Minnesota Governor Meet at Ottawa.

United States Anxious That Pact Should Cover Rainy Lake Also.

Ottawa, Sept. 20.—Canadian Press.—Virtual agreement as to the advisability of negotiating a treaty between Canada and the United States for the control of the Lake of the Woods, was apparent at the conference between prime ministers of the federal government and the provincial governments of Manitoba and Ontario, and Governor Preuss of Minnesota, which adjourned at half-past one this afternoon.

This afternoon the conference will be continued, and the views of technical officers of the government as to the feasibility of certain proposals will be advanced and considered.

While agreeing as to the advisability of negotiating a treaty covering the Lake of the Woods, Premiers Bracken and Drury are understood to be undecided as to the advisability of including Rainy Lake in its scope. Further consideration of the matter is expected this afternoon.

The conference opened at eleven o'clock. It was private. Premier King, Hon. Charles Stewart, minister of the interior in the federal government, and C. A. Magrath, chairman of the Canadian section of the International Waterways Commission, were present.

ELECTROCUTED ON POLE AT DUTTON

R. Gillard, Telephone Lineman, Dies While at Work.

Special to London Advertiser.

Dutton, Sept. 20.—R. Gillard of St. Thomas, employed by the Bell Telephone on a construction gang working in this village, was electrocuted shortly after 10 o'clock Wednesday morning, dying at 2 o'clock. He was 23 years old.

Gillard was working at the top of a pole on Main street north when the accident occurred. He cut a wire which fell across one of the high-tension wires of the hydro-electric system. Immediately he received a charge of 2,200 volts.

Fellow employees rescued him from the pole when he was hanging suspended by his belt, and medical attention was summoned.

A call for a pulmotor was sent to St. Thomas, and it arrived on an M. C. R. train leaving that city at 11:55.

HEARST SWAMPED IN NEW YORK PRIMARY ELECTION

Publisher's Political Ambitions Receive S. Selback Throughout State Yesterday.

New York, Sept. 20.—By Canadian Press.—William Randolph Hearst's political ambitions have received a willow-wind severe setback as a result of the primary election held yesterday throughout New York State. Yesterday, according to current opinion, the publisher politician had high hopes of obtaining the governorship of New York as a step to the presidency of the United States two years hence.

The first move in this rosette dream was to have been the election in yesterday's primary of sufficient delegates to the Democratic state convention to secure him the gubernatorial nomination of that party. Today came the awakening. The men who had carried on the Hearst campaign were swamped.

REPORTS DROP IN STEEL PRODUCTION IN AUGUST

Ottawa, Sept. 20.—Steel production declined to 59,291 long tons in August, as compared with an output of 62,737 tons during the previous month. The decrease is equivalent to 3,556 tons, or 5.68 per cent. The output in August is also less than that of the corresponding month last year by 12,822 tons, representing a decrease of 17.88 per cent.

City and Company Representatives Reach Agreement

FINISH ROAD THIS FALL

City Engineer Anxious to Get Started on Oxford Street
West.

The London Street Railway Company promises that there will be no opposition in connection with the expressed desire of the city council that Oxford street be paved this year from Wharmfild road to the bridge.

This public announcement follows a special conference Tuesday afternoon between the company's representatives and the special committee of the city council.

Richard Ivey, attorney, and C. B. King, general manager, attended for the company, while the city was represented by Mayor Cameron Wilson, Alderman John Ashton and City Engineer H. A. Brazier.

All members of the committee expressed frank pleasure Wednesday, relative to the attitude of the company and predicted that events would now proceed smoothly.

Alderman Ashton explained that the company's representatives appeared more than willing to co-operate with the city in order that the project would be successfully undertaken and without delay.

This assurance is not without its pleasing and comforting effect upon the city officials and aldermen at large, a number of whom feared that a controversy might ensue as in the Stanley street, which only ended when the company's cash receipts were seized on a certain day a year ago.

It seems that the company purposes to remove its tracks on Oxford street west, as suggested by Ald. G. B. Drake and favored by other members of the council as well as Mayor Wilson.

TO CONFER ON CITY TRANSPORTATION

Committee to Meet Monday to Hear Views of Expert.

A special session of the London Transportation Committee has been set for Monday.

Mayor Cameron Wilson, who announced Wednesday that A. E. K. Bunnell of the Toronto Transportation Commission will arrive in time for the gathering.

A session will be held, the mayor explains, as soon as possible after the arrival of the Toronto expert who will check up the tracks and equipment and all other property of the London Street Railway Company, setting an approximate value thereon.

This undertaking has been deemed imperative in view of the probability that the rate payers will be asked to express their opinion at the next civic election, upon a proposal to purchase the road from the company.

The committee, which includes Mayor Cameron Wilson, Sir Adam Beck, Philip Pocock, and Aldermen Childs and Drake, will consider London's transportation problems at the Monday session, touching upon the question also of motor buses and trackless trolleys.

PRINTERS OBTAIN NEW WAGE SCALE

Montreal, Sept. 20.—With the reaching of an agreement today by the management of the Montreal Star with the International Typographical Union all the local daily newspapers, except the Herald, have signed up new contracts with their typographers. The Star contract calls for the same terms as the other evening newspapers—$38 for a week of 48 hours. The Herald has decided to run as an open shop. The men more than under their old contract, with no change of hours.

U. S. PRESIDENT VEToes SOLDIER BONUS MEASURE

Washington, D. C., Sept. 20.—The soldiers' bonus bill, vetoed yesterday by President Harding, was to be started on a second voyage through congress today. Favorable action by the house was looked for generally, but friends of the measure doubted that they could muster in the senate the necessary two-thirds majority to override the veto. The plan was to call up the bill in the house soon after noon, and to have a rollcall after an hour or two of debate. The time of senate action was indefinite.

Queen of Greece?

MRS. WM. E. LEEDS.

THE former Mrs. William B. Leeds, widow of the American tinplate king, now the wife of Prince Christopher of Greece, may become queen of Greece. King Constantine unpopular because of the Greek defeat by the Turks, may be forced to abdicate in favor of Prince Christopher, his brother.

POSSIBILITY OF SESSION FADES

Summoning of Parliament
More Remote as Eastern Problem Clears.

Offers of Service Indicates Raising of Force Would Be Easy.

Special to London Advertiser.

Ottawa, Sept. 20.—As an indication that recent communications regarding the situation in the Near East give cause for no immediate alarm, and that the news is reassuring, the cabinet has postponed further consideration of the subject until next Friday. There will be no further cabinet council until that date unless emergency arises. Cabled messages from Hon. W. S. Fielding and Hon. Ernest L. Pope, who are in Geneva, have added to the reassurance, and the hope expressed that settlement will be reached without recourse to arms.

The possibility of a special session of parliament being called is more and more remote, and unless something unforeseen materializes in the situation it is not expected that there will arise any considerable display of opinion in favor of its assembling.

In the meantime the wave of popular feeling, which found expression on Monday and Tuesday in countless offers of service from every part of the Dominion, was abated, and the militia department has once more settled back on its haunches. The many messages received, however, indicate that the least of the troubles of the government in the event of need arising would be to secure the men necessary and willing to make up the quota required.

THINK SLAIN PASTOR USED FARMHOUSE FOR TRYST

New Brunswick, N. J., Sept. 20.—The inquiry into the killing last week of Rev. Wheeler Hall, rector of the church of St. John the Evangelist, and his choir leader, Mrs. Eleanor Reinhardt Mills, wife of the church sexton, was centered today in investigating a theory that an abandoned farmhouse near the spot where the bodies were found Saturday night, might have been used by the slain couple as a trysting place.

Two officials have been asked to consider the entire system, and to return a detailed report as to what improvements should be made that may meet with the approval of the council, together with the probable cost of the same.

Manager Buchanan, while admitting that the city is not lighted perhaps as satisfactorily as possible, holds to his contention that the citizens are receiving just value for every cent expended. He adds that London pays less per capita for street lighting than any community of any importance in Ontario.

The city engineer agrees in as far as that increased lighting naturally must entail increased expenditure.

LATE NEWS BULLETINS.

U. S. HOUSE PASSES SOLDIERS' BONUS BILL.

Washington, Sept. 20.—The house passed the soldiers' bonus bill over President Harding's veto.

WILL BUY DEEPER ST. LAWRENCE POWER.

Welland, Ont., Sept. 20.—President O. E. Fleming, addressing the Canadian Deep Waterways and Power Association here this morning declared definitely that a group of financiers were now prepared to buy the power proposed to be developed in connection with the deepening of the St. Lawrence.

The price is based on the estimated cost of the project, $252,000,000.

POWERS CONFER ON SETTLEMENT OF TURK TANGLE

Great Britain Insists On Absolute Freedom of Straits.

POINCARÉ SEEKS PEACE

Reported Pasha Prepares for Attack on Dardanelles.

BULLETIN.

Paris, Sept. 20.—The allied conference on the Near Eastern situation decided late today to call a peace conference of eight nations interested in a settlement to determine the terms of peace. This conference will meet probably within two or three weeks.

The conference, it was announced, will consist of representatives of Great Britain, France, Italy, Turkey, Greece, Japan, Rumania and Yugoslavia.

Paris, Sept. 20.—An agreement between Great Britain and France on the Near Eastern problem seemed reasonably assured after a two and a half hour conversation between Premier Poincaré and Lord Curzon, foreign secretary at the French foreign office this forenoon.

The two ministers outlined to each other at great length the views of their governments and considerable progress was believed to have been made towards an understanding.

Lord Curzon is understood to have informed M. Poincaré that Great Britain would insist upon the absolute freedom of the Straits of the Dardanelles, and would insure this freedom by the presence of a large fleet.

Confined to Navy.

The British foreign secretary, however, is said to have intimated that the British military effort in the Near East would be confined to the navy, which gave rise to the impression that the British troops would soon be withdrawn from Chanak.

Premier Poincaré informed Lord Curzon that the French policy was decidedly pacific, its chief aim being to make peace as soon as possible. He urged the immediate calling of a peace conference for a final settlement on the basis of the Turkish remaining on the Asiatic side of the straits, pending the outcome of the conference.

The two ministers were in agreement on the necessity of maintaining the freedom of the straits, although it is understood there may be some differences of opinion as to the character of the control to be exercised.

Lord Curzon arranged for a private conversation with Count Storoz, the Russian ambassador.

WILL REPORT ON LIGHTING OF CITY

E. V. Buchanan and City Engineer to Suggest Improvement in System.

According to the request of the city council, City Engineer H. A. Brazier and E. V. Buchanan, general manager of the public utilities commission, will confer Wednesday afternoon to discuss the city's lighting system.

A report will be prepared and submitted to the aldermen, as the direct result of the severe criticism that has emanated during past weeks from members of the council, who contended that the city is not adequately lighted.

RANEY STATES NO CHANCE OF STRONG BEER

Delegates of Temperance Organizations Address Parliamentary Hotel Commission.

URGES ASSISTANCE

John Macdonald Wants Proprietors Helped To Give Better Service.

TORONTO, Sept. 19.—Attorney-General Raney told the delegates representing temperance organizations who today addressed the special parliamentary commission on hotel accommodation, that there was no possibility of the hotels obtaining a license for stronger beers or light wines.

John Macdonald, the first speaker, said that hoteliers should not be under the ban of society. They should be helped to give the public proper service. Many hotel proprietors had told him that they were doing better now than ever before. His own travelers had told him that hotel conditions were vastly better.

Rev. Edgar Watson, the chairman, remarked that the Travelers' Association did not agree with this last statement.

Representing the Women's Christian Temperance Union of Toronto, Mrs. Ward stated that her association was willing to help the legitimate hotelmen, but not the saloon-keepers.

"We have heard so much of this increase from 1 to 5 per cent in the strength of alcoholic beverages that we are coming to the conclusion that it is time to abolish alcoholic drinks altogether."

Mr. Purley remarked that the days of Dobbin waiting for hours at the hitching-post while the husband squandered his wages across the bar were gone forever. The womanhood of the country suffered, she said, while the hotelmen grew fat on the profits of the barroom.

Dr. Coyne, the next speaker, said that if the hotelmen was under the ban he deserved to be, and he made no apology for saying so.

"Let the hotelmen cease his inebriations and continue his assistance against the wishes of the province and the ban may be moved. In the past I found that the hotelmen of the hotels under the old barroom system were of an infinitesimal quantity."

JUDGE MACBETH NAMED ARBITER

Pine Lawn Arbitration Board Will Now Commence Investigation.

Judge Talbot Macbeth will be designated as chairman of the board of arbitration appointed to investigate the alleged faulty construction of the city's houses at Pine Lawn. It was learned on Wednesday.

With the appointment on Tuesday of Thomas Terry, local garage proprietor, as arbitrator in the interests of the contractors Hayman & Willis, it is now expected that real action will be only a matter of time.

Mr. Terry is replacing A. E. Ponsford of St. Thomas, who, while first selected by the local contractors, declined to act, it was stated.

H. Walton, building inspector of Sarnia, appointed by the London Housing Commission, is expected to reach the city on Wednesday, following which a session will be held without delay.

The initial move will be the selection of a chairman, and it has been stated upon good authority that both parties are favorable to Judge Macbeth, and that he has consented to act if requested.

The arbitration board was ordered to investigate all the houses in the Pine Lawn area, and determine whether the roofs have been constructed as per requirements. It is hoped that this decision will finally settle a controversy that has created many a disturbance in city hall circles during the past twelve months.

While Building Inspector H. Walton of Sarnia arrived in London Wednesday morning, it is considered unlikely that the first session of the board will be held for a day or two yet.

BELLBOY AND MAID AIR TROUBLES IN CITY COURT

Magistrate Chides Plaintiff and Defendant for Wasting Employer's Time.

The wheels of justice were set in motion at the local police court today merely to arbitrate a quarrel in which a bellboy and a maid at a local hotel were involved.

After the hum of activities had died down, it was found that the bellboy and the plaintiff, with her husband as a witness, came out just where they came in.

Magistrate A. H. M. Graydon, who acted in the role of Solomon, refused to render a decision against the boy, who was charged with assault, and he chided both plaintiff and defendant for wasting their employer's time.

ENTER ACTION AGAINST V. R. KRAMPP, WALKERTON

Dickinson, Nicholson & Co. Seek To Recover $400 From Northern Merchant.

Two new writs have been issued at the county court. Dickinson, Nicholson & Co. have entered action against V. R. Krampp, of Walkerton, to recover $400.

The amount of three drafts accepted by the defendant, M. P. McDonagh will act for the plaintiff.

At the same sitting, the case of McDougall vs. Dobson will be heard. The plaintiff claims that a car which had been taken from him is now acknowledged to have been his property.

The action, which has been entered for the plaintiff by A. G. Chisholm, K.C., seeks to recover $600 and interest, amounting to $60.

TRUSTEES STAGE FIELD DAY

clubs like some people who get paid for it on barnstorming trips through the back townships.

How many of those who voted for Trustee "Ed" Smith at the last election ever beheld him leaping across a "horse"? Not many, his colleagues venture to say, and as a matter of fact he didn't undertake that particular stunt Tuesday, although it looked at one juncture as though he would make the attempt. The swing board creaked under the heavy chairman, and he hesitated at the psychological moment, as did Secretary W. A. Tanner, who ventured close but evidently concurred with "Ed" Smith that discretion is sometimes the better part of gymnastics.

It was only to be expected that Trustee Casselman would kick an old shoe across the floor a couple of times, and finally cravine more action, he let Trustee Bryden Campbell have the missile in the neck. Trustee Campbell doesn't realize yet who hit him, however, but he suspects Trustee "Ed" Smith.

As a popular diversion, "Bryden" rendered a practical demonstration of just how hefty a volley ball is, while Secretary Tanner also essayed a haul or two. Both tried without appreciable success, as the committee viewed the shoot, much to the consternation of the architect.

When the latter started swinging high and low and to and fro on the rings, however, all activities ceased elsewhere as the committee viewed how it should be done, hep "Ed" Smith executed a brief but quite acceptable act on the rings, winning commendable applause.

The chief event of the afternoon, the weighing contest, with Trustee Silverwood second and Trustee Smith a close third. An unsuccessful attempt was made to debar the winner, but he was compelled to undergo a second test without his opponent.

He weighs 247 pounds and a few odd ounces over, according to the collegiate scales. Trustee Silverwood entertained the opinion that he was holding down first place with 238 pounds, just one pound the better of Trustee Smith. He was soon ousted from the lead, as Trustee Campbell came into view around the corner and challenged the crowd with obnoxious success. His disappointed rivals comforted themselves with the reassuring opinion that "he would not be so cocky had Trustee Bice been an entry."

During the afternoon the committee conducted a thorough inspection of the building, the classrooms, floor, heating plant, etc., and concluded that the city possesses a high school that is worth every cent that was expended for it.

AIM AT RAISING SUM OF $12,000

First Presbyterian Church Accepts Amount as Forward Movement Effort.

Dr. Robert Laird Addresses Presbytery Meeting Tuesday Afternoon.

London Presbytery, at the Tuesday afternoon session in the First Presbyterian Church, accepted $12,000 as its share of the $350,000, which is the sum set as the objective of the campaign of the fifth year in the Forward Movement.

The resolution brought in by the general interests committee, and adopted by the presbytery, was as follows: "That we as a presbytery express our strong approval of the fifth year program of the forward movement committee, as presented to the general assembly, and would urge our ministers to follow the suggestions outlined as regards expositions, preaching and giving of missionary information."

"That the October meeting of the presbytery be entirely devoted to conference for the fifth year program of the forward movement, and that only urgent business be transacted at that meeting."

"That this presbytery accept $12,000 as its share of the $350,000, which the church is hopeful of raising as a special thank offering to make up the deficit of the missions funds; that an appeal be made to congregations for self-denial and sacrifice in view of the special demands for thank offering this fall; that we ask the board to send a special speaker to present the subject of thank offering before the presbytery on the 19th, and that the presbytery be divided into groups with conveners as was done a few years ago."

Dr. Robert Laird, treasurer of the Church of England in Canada, addressed the presbytery, assembled in the afternoon, on the forward movement, reviewing the cause which had led to the present deficit, and naming foreign exchange as one of the chief of them. He spoke eloquently and vigorously of the need for urgent effort in the fifth year campaign.

The report of the historical committee was presented by Rev. John Currie, and R. F. Ballagayne reviewed some interesting facts in connection with the history which is being compiled.

The booklet prepared by Rev. J. L. Stewart of Knox Church, Belmont, dealing with the history of Knox Church since its inauguration, was submitted to the presbytery by Dr. D. L. McCrae, who represented the Belmont Church.

It was decided by the presbytery some time ago that it should be represented at historical anniversaries within its bounds, on conditions that data concerning the early history of the church be submitted to the presbytery's historical committee.

WILL NOT HOLD UP NEW PAVEMENT

extending on Oxford street from the Wharfedale road to a point a few yards from the bridge, where the cars turn about for their journey again to the city.

OF Little Use.

As Aid John Ashton points out, this spur is actually of but little use to the company, and its removal would create an advantage for the company as well as the residents throughout West London.

"It would probably mean a saving of a good three minutes' service throughout that district," explained the chairman of No. 2 committee Wednesday, "and would perhaps eliminate the necessity of a wait at the switch. The spur is so short that its removal would create but little inconvenience."

It is now practically assured that the pavement will be completed this fall. Once final sanction is given and the tracks removed the work can proceed without further delay.

City Engineer Brazier states that his department is only too willing and anxious to get as early a start as possible before the cold weather sets in.

The company will make provision to turn the West London cars at the corner of the Wharfedale road and Oxford street.

DELEGATES ARRIVE FOR ACADEMY OF MEDICINE

Western Ontario Physicians to Hear Dr. Banting on Diabetes Cure.

Physicians from various points in Western Ontario are expected to be present at the new medical school on Ottawa avenue when the Academy of Medicine meets Wednesday afternoon.

While no accurate list of delegates could be obtained this morning, the attendance is expected to be a large one.

Dr. Banting of Toronto will address the members on the cure of diabetes. It will be remembered, Dr. Banting is the discoverer of this cure. Much interest has been expressed locally over the results Dr. Banting has obtained, and it was said this morning that physicians would welcome the opportunity to hear his ideas at first hand.

Would Take Advantage of Bull Fight to Raise Funds for Branch Collegiate

Mayor Wilson Finds Humor in Matador's Suggestion That London Stage Spanish Sport.

THE city has a chance to secure without effort the sum of $250,000, or in other words, an adequate sum to pay for a branch collegiate institute in East London. If any of the money was left over, it could be devoted toward a new building to replace the old Empress avenue public school in West London.

Senor Gallardo, champion matador (bullfighter) of Spain, who is said to be rather an important personage in his home constituency, through his chief learned adviser, Senor Jose Garcia, makes this handsome offer, with certain qualifications, however.

In what appears to be a circular letter to His Worship Mayor Cameron Wilson, which was at hand Wednesday morning, the Spanish champion explains that all that Londoners have to do to earn this easy coin is to grant him formal permission to stage a bullfighting contest within the confines of their beautiful city.

It would appear that Senor Gallardo and his associates think quite highly of London, for they explain that "after a careful investigation of conditions throughout the continent, they have concluded that the Forest City is the ideal spot for the great event, with the provision, of course, that all legal requirements can be satisfactorily adjusted."

Aside from the great financial benefits to be derived by the city (the seniors guarantee $250,000 of the gate receipts), it was pointed out that London would derive untold benefit from the vast interest that would be aroused throughout the country. In short, it would be just the sort of undertaking that the chamber of commerce should interest itself in.

While not fully conversant with the legal aspect of the affair, the mayor opines that "it would not be a bad venture, perhaps, if the city receives the $250,000 in advance." As there seems to be but slight chance of such coming to pass, it can be assumed that his worship does not consider the promised bout with any degree of seriousness.

It is well that Londoners should know something of this business, so we introduce Senor Gallardo, Bull-fighter, the greatest exponent of the Spanish (and American) art. All the rest of his tribe were eaten alive when the mound builders swept down on Napoleon the day he arrived at Moscow. Senor, how do the people like that?

of London. Senor's method of bullfighting is peculiar. On his hat he wears a flaming light. This is not a pipe, but an ether chamber that he smokes. In his hand is the 1923 model of a matador's baseball bat. The work of Gallardo is to enter the ring and wink at the bull, which is by this time having a meal of breakfast food and Spanghank peaches.

With him in the ring is Senor Shovel, also with the same troupe. He enters the ring in a barrel. The spy-glass is not a spy-glass, but an ammonia tube. The bird flies off and sits on the bull's horn, thus directing his attention from Gallardo. This is a fact.

"It is a fact," the brigadier said, "that the majority of the great men of our own age are those who left school at an early age, commenced to work, and what education they received after that came through the agency of the night school, or extra reading."

"We should have some arrangement whereby boys of the adolescent age could work during the week and attend Saturday and night school, and more or less during July and August through the activities of the society. This does not include 203 interviews with persons in the office, exclusive of scores of visits to home in connection with the work throughout the city and county."

The report that six children were received by the authorities from the juvenile court during the two months, does not by any means indicate, Inspector Kelly states, the work which confronts the society continually.

BLAME ROAD CONDITIONS FOR MISHAP NEAR HENSALL

Eyewitnesses State Hole in Road Responsible for Broken Steering Gear.

Road conditions are blamed for the accident on the London road near Hensall on Sunday last, when a car driven by Charles Chapman of this city collided with a lighter car driven by a Mr. Green of Hay Township, which resulted in injuries to four occupants of Mr. Green's car when the two machines rolled into a deep ditch one on top of the other.

According to statements of eyewitnesses and the garage men who arrived later, a wheel of Mr. Chapman's car dropped into a hole in the road on the approach to the bridge, which resulted in a broken steering gear.

Mr. Chapman approached the bridge from the north just as Mr. Green drove into view from the south. Believing that Mr. Green intended to wait for him, Mr. Chapman drove across the bridge in ignorance of the damage to his car.

Mr. Green did not wait, and as the two cars were passing the broken steering gear on Mr. Chapman's car caused a slight side-sweeping collision, which caused the two autos to roll into the ditch. Fortunately the cars were proceeding slowly at the time.

Dr. Hindmann of Exeter and Dr. Peck of Hensall, who attended William Blackwell, who, with his wife, was in Mr. Green's car and who suffered the most extensive injuries, report that he is recovering nicely.

The condition of the road will be brought to the attention of the township, as several accidents have occurred at the identical spot.

SISTER SACRED HEART OF HAMILTON DIOCESE DIES

Hamilton, Sept. 20.—Sister Sacred Heart of the Sisters of St. Joseph here, known for many years throughout Hamilton Diocese as a teacher in the separate schools, died at St. Joseph's Hospital here yesterday after an illness of about three months.

She was a daughter of the late James and Mrs. Mayes of Guilph, Ont., and had taught among other places in Brantford and Dundas. Two sisters, Mrs. Smith and Miss Margaret Mayes, of Toronto, survive.

Handsome Rodolph Makes Bailiffs "Sniffle" Relating Movie Hero's Trials

HANDSOME RODOLPH.. Page 1. NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—Handsome Rodolph Valentino wrung tears from the case-hardened bailiffs in Supreme Court before Justice Wasservogel when he caused his attorney to tell the world of a movie hero's sufferings for the sweet sake of art.

The bailiffs sniffed when Arthur Butler Graham, counsel for the heavy lover in "The Sheik," told of how Rodolph had no lounge on which to lie when waiting in his dressing-room, they sniffed when the attorney described Rodolph's humiliation attempting to disrobe and his movie costumes in an open automobile while on location.

Valentino was accompanied by Winifred Hudnut, who married Valentino once, but must wed him again in order to be his wife.

The young man's attorney said it was the Famous Players-Lasky Co. plaintiff in the suit, which compelled him to separate from Miss Hudnut.

The movie company asks an injunction to restrain Valentino from fracturing his contract.

BIG PROGRAM AWAITS BOARD

Trustees to Decide Many Long Standing Worries at Meeting.

Acceptance of New Collegiate to Come Up For Discussion.

Upon the assumption that "all other things will be equal" the next regular session of the board of education Thursday bids fair to eclipse all former gatherings of a similar nature this year, from a viewpoint of achievement.

As the trustees have not assembled for these many weeks to discuss the leading educational issues of the day, many and different are the problems that are slated for close attention.

Quite a lengthy program has indeed been outlined, and for those interested in movements progressive the final approval of plans for the much-heralded but tardy school in South-east London should prove a tasty morsel.

Those who relish an occasional study in arithmetic or the higher mathematics may find the financial statements, involving the Kingston Construction Company and the central collegiate institute and the ultimate acceptance or rejection of the same, a fitting topic for general debate.

There are those again who would favor a more epic subject for perusal. Provision has been made in this respect, as the trustees will be asked to issue an ultimatum as to who shall be "boss" of the public school attendance department, Dr. George S. Weir or Miss Dallas Radcliffe.

Both lay claim to the title, it is reported. As this item of business is to be served up as a species of desert it will more than likely "top" the session, whether the trustees can indulge in free and easy conversation with no time limit set.

Well Balanced Bill.

There are a number of other well chosen selections, calculated to round out a well balanced bill; some highly important, others less so, as the employment of more teachers, plans for further school accommodation; comment upon the mayor's coal purchase, etc.

From casual observation quite an interesting gathering is to be anticipated, and a full house is expected, with the exception of Trustee W. T. Clark, who has already passed in his resignation.

Should the salary committee convene in the meanwhile, the trustees will be able to consider a request for increased remuneration from Dr. Weir.

DEFERS ACTION ON JUVENILE COURT

Children's Aid Society Shelves Question for Further Consideration.

What attitude the Children's Aid Society will ultimately assume respecting the juvenile court is rather problematical at this moment.

While the members of that body in regular session Tuesday received a report upon the question they deferred any official action until they refer the statement to a committee for "further consideration."

Discussing the proposition briefly Wednesday, W. E. Kelly voiced his determination to do everything possible in the future as in the past to make London a better city for all concerned, and stood ready to render every assistance toward the new court.

From the regular monthly reports submitted, it was revealed that no less than 462 persons had been more or less during July and August through the activities of the society. This does not include 203 interviews with persons in the office, exclusive of scores of visits to home in connection with the work throughout the city and county.

The report that six children were received by the authorities from the juvenile court during the two months, does not by any means indicate, Inspector Kelly states, the work which confronts the society continually.

DENT TESTIFIES AT BRANTFORD

"Me No Kill," Says Witness Before Wednesday Court.

Admits Finding Body in the House, All Cut Up.

Brantford, Sept. 20.—The Dent murder trial was resumed this morning. Detective Boylan stated that after George Alexander had appeared at the police station, Dent stated that the murderer was not "Alexander," but was "Bosonlan."

The police were unable to find any trace of the latter man.

Dr. Cameron, a local physician, swore that he had tested the matter on the exhibits shown and found them to be marks of human blood. Doctors Philips and Chapin, who conducted the post mortem on Egan's body, gave evidence as to the manner in which the body was cut up—in twenty pieces, of which only one kidney was missing. The doctors stated that there was a round wound in the chest, which passed through the heart, that was caused before death took place.

Members of the city engineer's department and the local labor bureau testified that Dent got Peter Egan's pay check for work he had done for the city. The check was for $22. Further evidence was to the effect that Dent secured some wire and wrapping paper at stores in the city on the Tuesday in question. This wire and paper is said to be the same as those in which the remains of the murdered man were wrapped.

In his evidence, Dent declared that he had found the body in the house, cut up, and had tried to find Sergeant, but the Armenian Interpreter, but he failed to do so. He declared that "God knows I didn't. Me no kill." He admitted finding the body. It was all out up then, he told his counsel.

BAKER SEEKS UNION IN TOWN PLANNING

Urges City Council and Chamber of Commerce to Co-operate.

Closer co-operation between members of the city council and representatives of the Chamber of Commerce, who are also included in the personnel of the London Town Planning Commission is urged by City Clerk Sam Baker.

The city clerk deplored, Wednesday, that Mayor T. J. Murphy was the only member who appeared for a session called for Tuesday afternoon.

"I am in touch with those members of the commission," he explained, "and I suppose that they did not come because they believed that there was nothing of importance to claim their attention."

While favoring strongly the proposed move by the provincial government to a special committee to investigate legislation in the various planning centers, Mr. Baker adheres to his opinion that no city has accomplished as much, comparatively, in this respect as London.

Expenditure of a substantial sum has been expended, he pointed out, for surveys and the preparations of plans and maps and he holds that once the task has been undertaken it should not be allowed to lapse by reason of any misunderstanding or lack of co-operation between the various civic officials and administrators.

He touched upon the Chamber of Commerce, as involved in the question, not in a critical mood but while deprecating the absence of their representatives at the sessions.

GIVING-UP-BUSINESS SALE GREAT OPPORTUNITY FOR LONDON MEN

Frank Turner's Selling-Out Sale of Men's Clothing Commences Wednesday Morning.

A remarkable opportunity for London men to secure suits, overcoats and topcoats for fall and winter wear at remarkably low prices will be presented tomorrow morning, when Frank Turner, the well-known clothier and woolen merchant at 202 Dundas street, will commence his selling-out sale, and dispose of his entire stock of men's made-to-measure clothes for any price it will bring.

Frank Turner is positively retiring from business, and closing up his London store, so that in this sale the selling price of each garment has been cut so low as to make buying immediately imperative. Everything must be sold, and sold at once, before the store closes on Monday next, Sept. 25.

As Frank Turner has always specialized on making men's made-to-measure clothes instead of ready-made, while the store has been in London next as far as sales are concerned, deliveries will be made up until the end of the month (Saturday, Sept. 30), so that men who order their suits or overcoats will have no fear of not getting them in as quick time as they desire.

This selling-out sale, coming right at the height of the new fall season, is very timely indeed, and offers a splendid opportunity for every man in London to save money on his winter wardrobe. Everything must be sold; there are no restrictions or reservations, and it should be borne in mind that while the prices have been cut sensationally low, no reasonable offer for any garment or quantity of cloth will be refused.

What Cattle Are Best?

IN pioneer days, when hardy settlers partially freed the fertile fields of Western Ontario from their prison of virgin forest, cattle played an important part in enabling the farmer to eke out a living among the countless stumps. As land was cleared but still remained unbroken through lack of help cattle-raising grew in popularity until it gradually became an established industry.

Today, when land in all parts of the western peninsula is so valuable that many farmers deem it advisable to turn to intensive and specialized farming, cattle still hold a supreme place in rural industry. But in place of the grade herds which served well enough in earlier days, farmers find they must turn to selected pure-bred stock to get adequate returns.

Authorities are unanimous in their opinion on that point government officials in the Province of Ontario have long been waging war on the grade animal. Exhibitors at the Western Fair, in a series of interviews, expressed without exception the belief that pure-bred stock of good quality returns satisfactory profits, providing, of course, the farmer knows his business; while they were just as sure that inferior stock is but a sink-hole for good money.

Although unanimous in their stand against grade herds, breeders were greatly divided in their opinions on the best breeds both in the dairy and beef type. Talks with the various owners revealed the fact that there are just as many "best" breeds as there are breeds of cattle. A farmer desiring to go into the business could hardly make a mistake in this respect, for wherever he goes he is sure to find a breeder ready to champion the cause and relate the good points of the breed in which he is most interested.

PERSEYS as the ideal dairy cow found staunch champions at the Western Fair in JOHN PARSONS of London, GEORGE SLOOX of Sheddin, and BERT LAWSON of London township. It was their claim that while the Jersey perhaps did not give the quantity of milk other breeds gave, he milk made up for it in the richness of its butter-fat.

GEORGE SLOOX admitted proudly that his herd of 25 cows paid for his splendid 280-acre farm on which he lives. BERT LAWSON claimed that his feat of keeping nine Jersey cows on ten acres, four of which were given over to farming, and making from them an excellent profit, was argument enough in favor of the breed.

Ayrshires and Holsteins, too, found champions. J. L. STANSELL, P. of East Elgin, and M. B. STAPTON of Sheddin, were certain that gradually the Ayrshire would supplant the Holstein in popular favor. They claimed that under the new government tests in making sales the Ayrshire was the most valuable cow, as its milk contained a higher percentage of fat. Owners of Holsteins did not believe that the large black and white cow so commonly seen through the country was in any danger from the Ayrshire. They simply pointed to the large numbers in the show compared to the Ayrshires to defend their favorites.

Herefords, Shorthorns and Aberdeen-Angus as beef-producing cattle had their supporters at the fair. The Shorthorn, which undoubtedly holds the most popular place on the Western Ontario farm, was looked upon by several of the breeders as the ideal all-around utility animal. They claimed, too, that it fatten more easily and attains greater weight than other animals. ARTHUR O'NEILL, of Denfield, a large exhibitor of Herefords, enthusiastically praised the red and white curly-haired breed, on which he has based his fortune. Its extreme docility and willingness to eat and live on almost any feed are points in its favor, he said.

Then the Aberdeen-Angus found champion in JAMES BOWMAN of Delph, who liked the animal particularly because of its splendid carcass when dressed, which, he claims, is the supreme test for any animal. The carcass of the Angus, he said, was very little waste. It had established a record for wins at some of the largest stock exhibitions in America and in England.

The only conclusion that could be reached after these interviews was that it matters not so much what breed a man undertakes to raise as he is careful to select choice stock. The select, pure-bred animal is easy to fatten and finish for the market, while at best the grade animal only gives indifferent results. Often cannot be fattened suitably for export purposes. The grade animal, too, rarely reaches the size attained by the better stock, and at the present time commands no place in the beef market.

That the farmer of Western Ontario realizes this to a great extent is borne out by the fact that breeding stock from this section of the country is now bringing fancy prices in all parts of the world.

H. G. WELLS' FAMOUS OUTLINE OF HISTORY

The Romance of Mother Earth

The First Land Animals.

TODAY'S INSTALLMENT—3.

WE know that for hundreds of thousands of years the wetness and warmth, the shallow lagoons conditions that made possible the vast accumulations of vegetable matter which, compressed and mudified, are now coal, prevailed over most of the world. There were some cold intervals, it is true; but they did not last long enough to destroy the growths. Then that long age of luxuriant, low-grade vegetation drew to its end, and for a time life on the earth seems to have undergone a period of world-wide bleakness.

We cannot discuss fully here the changes that have gone on and are going on in the climate of the earth. A great variety of causes, astronomical movements, changes in the sun and changes upon and within the earth, combine to produce a ceaseless fluctuation of the conditions under which life exists. As these conditions change, life, too, must change or perish.

When the story resumes again after this interval at the end of the palaeozoic period we find life entering upon a fresh phase of richness and expansion. Vegetation has made great advances in the art of living out of water.

Before Grass or Flowers.
While the palaeozoic plants of the coal measures probably grew with swamp water flowing over their roots, the mesozoic flora from its very outset included palm-like cycads and low-grown conifers that were distinctly land plants growing on soil above the water level.

The lower levels of the mesozoic land were no doubt covered by great fern brakes and shrubby bushes and a kind of jungle growth of trees. But there existed as yet no grass, no small flowering plants, no turf nor green sward. Probably the mesozoic was not in age of very brightly-colored vegetation. It must have had a flora green in the wet season and brown and purple in the dry. There were no gay flowers, no bright autumn tints bevalled over the fall of the leaf, because there was as yet no fall of the leaf. And beyond the lower levels the world was still barren, still unclothed, still exposed without any mitigation to the wear and tear of the wind and rain.

When one speaks of confiners in the mesozoic the reader must not think of the pines and firs that clothe the high mountain slopes of our time. He must think of low-growing evergreens. The mountains were still as bare and lifeless as ever. The only color effects among the mountains were in the color effects of naked rock, such colors as make the landscape of Colorado so marvelous today.

Amid this spreading vegetation of the lower plains the reptiles were increasing slightly in multitude and variety. They were now in many cases absolutely land animals.

There are numerous anatomical points of distinction between a reptile and an amphibian. They held good between such reptiles and the amphibians as prevailed in the carboniferous time of the upper palaeozoic; but the fundamental difference between reptiles and amphibians which matters in this history is that the amphibian must go back to the water to lay its eggs; and that in the early stages of its life it must live in and under water.

A Momentous Change in the Egg. The reptile, on the other hand, has cut out all the tadpole stages from its life cycle, or, to be more exact, its tadpole stages are got through before the young leave the egg case. The reptile has come out of the water altogether. Some had gone back to it again, just as the hippopotamus and the otter among mammals have gone back, but that is a further extension of the story to which we cannot give much attention in this "Outline."

In the palaeozoic period, as we have said, life had not spread beyond the swampy river valleys and the borders of sea lagoons and the like, but in the mesozoic life was growing ever more accustomed to the thinner medium of the air, was sweeping boldly up over the plains and into the hillsides. It is well for the student of human history and the human future to note that. If a disembodied intelligence with no knowledge of the future had come to earth and studied life during the early palaeozoic age he might very reasonably have concluded that life was absolutely confined to the water, and that it could never spread over the land.

It was not until the late palaeozoic period that visitant might have been equally sure that life could not go beyond the edges of a swamp. The mesozoic period would still have found him setting boys to life far more limited than the bounds that are set today. And so today, though we mark how life and man are still limited to five miles of air and a depth of perhaps a mile or so of sea, we must not conclude from that present limitation that life, through man, may not presently spread out and up and down to a range of living as yet inconceivable.

Tomorrow: "In the Days of the Dinosaur."

various muscles of the body, as each of the three movements in it required different action. Its use again might popularize it, and it is certainly superior to many of the freak events that have been tried out in recent years.

TODAY'S WORD IS—PORTE.
It means—the government of the Turkish, or Ottoman, empire, called officially and in full "the Sublime Porte," from the name of the sultan's palace gate, at which justice was administered anciently.

It comes from—French "porte," gate or door.
It's used like this—"Although Kemal Pasha's successes against the Greeks are favorable to Turkish arms, they are not necessarily favorable to the Sublime Porte, since the Kemalists' ambitions are of a nature which the porte may not find it convenient to gratify."

DR. BISHOP'S ADVICE
DANGERS OF MEASLES
PARENTS seem to think that measles is a disease that every child must have and the sooner they get it and get over it the better. It is annoying but that is all. When we stop to think that it is the cause of thousands of deaths annually, it becomes evident that it is more than annoying. It is serious.

It is very contagious, and almost every child that is exposed to it contracts it. It is spread through transferring the secretions of the nose and throat of one ill with the disease to another person who has not had it. Handkerchiefs, books, pencils, drinking cups, coughing, sneezing, and the hands are the ways of carrying the germs.

The child who is exposed begins to complain in about two weeks, and has a cold in the head, red and running eyes and a hard, dry cough. Pale red spots develop on the inside of the cheeks in about two days, and the rash appears in three or four days. There are many mild cases, but these are just as dangerous to others as the more severe ones. Measles is frequently the forerunner of pneumonia, pleurisy, consumption and other serious and fatal diseases.

It may leave deafness or weakened eyes, and may even lead to tuberculosis.

The patient should be kept in a room separate from the rest of the house, and only the nurse or attendant and the physician allowed to enter. The discharges from the nose and throat should be received in cloths and burned, and the bed linen and other articles coming in contact with the patient should be kept in the room until they can be boiled or disinfected.

Oor Bairnies Are Awa'

WE ha'e oor gowden Autumn noo,
Sae bonnie tae oor e'e;
There're melons in oor garden plot,
There's fruit on ilka tree;
Yet, there's a sadness in oor hoose,
This bonnie, bonnie fa'!

'Tis vera easy tae explain—
Oor bairnies are awa'.

SOME dinna ca' their young-lins "bairns"—
They ca' them "kiddies" noo;
Let me still ha'e oor guid Scotch term—
Yon is th' term I lo'e.

A name that is for weeie goats
Is name for lassies braw;
It's nae oor "kiddies" wha are frae hame—
Oor bairnies are awa'.

GIN I ha'e worries tae molest,
Or sorrows tae beguile,
I dinna crave a cheerie drap—
Gie me a younglin's smile!
Tho' autumn gies me gowden hues
I'm nae content awa'!

I'm wearie for th' mirth o' youth—
Oor bairnies are awa'.

I miss these bonnie bairns o' mine
At morn, at noon, at e'en,
As sadly ilka place I roam
Whaur hitherto they've been.
But mair's o' a' I miss oor bairns
As shades o' gloamin' fa'!

Aft tae their mither then I say
Oor bairnies are awa'.

WHEN war had spread her self abroad,
At Kaiser Bill's decree,
Sair conflict raged in fury wild
On earth, in air, at sea;
Brave British bairnies firmly stood,
Tho' only some maun fa'!

At hame fond parents aft then said
Oor bairnies are awa'.

WE aften still, at gloamin' o' morn,
Mair sit us doon tae greet
For hosts o' gallant, bonnie bairns
We ne'er on earth shall meet.
Gie safely presently aboon,
We're fold an an' a'!

We ne'er shall hear this sad lament,
Oor bairnies are awa'.

Indeed, it seems to me that Baker's Cocoa is better and better as time goes by. No other cocoa seems to have such a delicious flavor or such an attractive color."

Walter Baker & Co., by processes peculiar to their method of manufacture and by the use of the most improved machinery have produced a cocoa which can be and is used as a standard for purity in chemical analyses.

A man with strong arms and a weak back would make a very poor baggage handler, though his strong arms might give him the ideal physical equipment to become a first-class blacksmith.

What would you think the best thing that man could do with his physical equipment? Would it not be to use the powers with which he is exceptionally well endowed for the important task of earning his living and that of his family? But at the same time, would it not also be very wise for him to develop strength in that weak back by exercise? Would he not be a better blacksmith in the long run if he had a well-balanced physique? Would he not be more healthy? Would he not get

INDS AUSTRIA PITTIABLE LAND DEVOID OF HOPE

Toronto Magazine Editor Declares People See No End To Misery.

FORMER GREATNESS LOST

Pound Sterling Changed To Kronen All That One's Pockets Will Hold.

"Austria is sad, pitiable, depressed. The people apparently see no way out of their misery. Stripped of all but eight million of its people, two millions of whom live in Vienna, the remnants of a former greatness alone remain."

Such is the intimate picture given of conditions in Austria by J. Vernon McKenzie, editor of MacLean's Magazine, Toronto, who has returned from an extended trip on the continent.

Mr. McKenzie was in London on Tuesday. Speaking to The Advertiser he said: "If a man wants to feel rich all he has to do is to take a British pound to Vienna and have it changed to native currency. A pound note is all that a person can change at one time, unless he were to carry a basket to take care of the kronen that would be heaped upon him in denominations that make one dizzy to count. People who have been staying in Vienna for some time find that it is a very cheap place to live. A Londoner and his wife had been here for several months and they said it had cost them only three shillings a day for the two of them. A tip to a head waiter of what amounts to eight cents in our money will bring more service than can well be assimilated, while for an ordinary waiter a four-cent tip, converted into their voluminous currency, brings forth a bow and treatment that might well be reserved for royalty."

Values Change Daily. "The changing value of the kronen," continued Mr. McKenzie, "is a confusing business. For instance when we first arrived in Vienna we got 230,000 kronen for five dollars, and four days after the same amount of our money was worth 350,000 kronen. In some of the larger stores they kept men busy marking up the prices of goods as the exchange rate varies. These prices are often changed twice a day. Half the shops in the city are closed, and many of the others keep open, because the government forces them to do so. But the people have no hope of a future. They view the territory that once was theirs, with its population of some thirty or forty million, now taken by Italy, Czechoslovakia and Poland, and they see nothing ahead. They do not produce enough to keep living, and in all it makes a sad picture, pitiful and distressing."

Bavaria Prosperous. Going through Bavaria, Mr. McKenzie found a country that was prosperous in appearance. "It seemed to make little difference in which direction one turned, the same was to be seen. We did a great deal of driving right out in the country there, and the farms, the barns, and all the buildings looked to be in good shape, and there was an atmosphere of substantial prosperity that could not be seen elsewhere on the continent."

Questioned regarding the feeling of the people toward popular government, Mr. McKenzie stated that the variations were not in favor of the present government. In Berlin, "it is perhaps natural," he stated, "when you consider that up to 1870 Bavaria was an independent state, that the people there still hold ideas of their own, and right now they want Prince Rupprecht to be their ruler, and they state so openly without the least hesitation, expressing the belief that it will be only a short time until the prince is their ruler. It is also interesting to note that Rupprecht is immensely popular with the people of Bavaria."

Superficial Prosperity. "Superficial prosperity" is the term applied to what appears on the surface in Berlin. "Berlin looks clean, neat, and the houses in good repair. The currency question is something that is as confusing there as it was in Austria. The day we reached the German capital a pound brought 8,000 marks; four days later the same amount secured 5,000, and the week after we left Berlin a stack amounting to 10,000 could be secured for the same money. To show what this means, a berth on the train to Cologne, which is the equivalent to the distance between Toronto and Montreal, cost 45 cents in actual money, and that was for upper and lower compartments. There seems to be no unemployment, and the people are working steadily, but the difference in exchange is so tremendously against them that it is hard to see where Germany can make progress."

"Several of the correspondents of London papers were discussing this matter, when the remark was made by Sir Philip Gibbs that Central Europe's medium of commercial transaction has broken down, and money will no longer buy goods. It is a hard matter," claimed Mr. McKenzie, "for a resident of Canada or United States to get a view of the

Kemal Pasha's Chief Aide Sees Bloodless Settlement

PARIS, Sept. 19.—A bloodless settlement of the crisis in the Near East, in which the British troops will shortly withdraw from the Asiatic side of the Dardanelles, was predicted by Ahmed Ferid Bey, principal spokesman for Mustafa Kemal Pasha in Europe, in the course of a statement to the Associated Press tonight.

"Common sense will win out in England, despite the apparent belligerency of the British government," said Ferid, who is the Turkish Nationalist representative accredited to France, "and the British soldiers will soon follow their French and Italian brothers-in-arms to the European side of the Straits."

"Our troops," he continued, "are proceeding to occupy all of Asia Minor up to the Asiatic side of the Dardanelles. We will occupy Chanak, where the British troops are stationed, and if they fire upon us, which we doubt very much, the responsibility for the inevitable bloodshed will be on British soldiers."

"However, we honestly do not expect opposition from the British. If they desire to remain in Chanak and behave themselves we will occupy the district jointly, but we think they will soon follow the footsteps of the French and Italians to the western side of the Straits. Turkey does not recognize any such thing as a neutral zone of the Straits; it does not exist; neither does the treaty of Sevres, which has not been accepted by any of the powers. However, we shall respect a small neutral zone, extending from Constantinople to Ismid in Asiatic Turkey. Our troops will not advance this line, which is proof that we have no designs on Constantinople."

"We are determined, however, to drive all the Greeks out of Asia Minor, and we believe that it would be most unfortunate if any of the powers interfered with us in this respect."

helplessness of these nations to right their own defects, and not until one spends some time there can he realize how it is impossible for trade to be good in Canada or the United States until there is something done to put this great stretch of country in Central Europe on a better basis."

"Do the Germans bear ill-will toward the Allies?" To this query our informant gave an answer in the negative, with the exception of France. "As the people in Berlin say, 'You fought us and you went away after the war. We must forget it and get down to business. But France stays and is determined to strangle us.' That feeling is quite general in Germany. The present government is approved by many, and endured by others who see no hope of anything more to their liking. But there is a deep-seated hatred against France that does not exist against Britain. For the German feels that if France were willing Britain would be far more lenient in the matter of reparation payments, and the hatred centers around the attitude of France toward the collection of that war debt."

Mr. McKenzie refused to even offer an opinion on the ability of Germany to pay, stating that the best financiers in the world had so far failed to agree on that very important issue.

New Kingdom Progresses. "It is surprising," he concluded, "to see the progress that has been made by Czechoslovakia toward normal conditions. We had the pleasure of meeting M. Benes, the minister of foreign affairs, and the man, who, by the way, organized the little entente of Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia and Rumania. He was quite hopeful for the future, claiming that as soon as his country succeeded in deflating some war values they would be in a position to go ahead. That country has not been loaded with paper money. They went the other way about it. As the value of money fell they decreased national expenses, in order to make ends meet, and they succeeded fairly well in so doing. Right now they are developing quite an export trade in all sorts of notions, toys, etc."

Military France. "France," concluded Mr. McKenzie, "is a military nation now, and she is keeping up a very large standing army, apparently with the idea of being prepared for anything that may turn up in connection with the German war settlements. It seems to be the feeling of the people that they are not going to be caught unaware, and, of course, the expense of such an attitude bears heavily upon the people."

While in England on the return trip Mr. McKenzie spent some time in London. The trouble that has developed in the Near East was not generally discussed there, although firms with large business interests in that locality were watching the situation carefully, in anticipation of trouble of a nature that has since developed. Some of these companies were receiving confidential reports daily, none of which were of a reassuring nature.

Niagara Fruit Crop Exceptional in Size and Quality. When Nature designed the North American continent one comparatively small area was selected on which to grow to an unusually fine degree the peaches, plums, cherries and other small fruits that add so much zest and variety to our summer menus. This spot was the Niagara Peninsula.

Niagara Peninsula fruit has long been known for its fine flavor and quality, but like many other good things, it was not always available for everyone who wanted it. Not because the Niagara district did not grow sufficient fruit, but because it was not always possible to distribute the fruit so that all localities were supplied.

The fruit industry, like many others, has seen changes recently. The automobile manufacturer learned that if he could make enough cars and place them where everyone could buy them, the price would come down. And so today nearly everyone drives an automobile. The same is proving true in raising and marketing fruit. Efficient methods of distribution are providing an outlet for a larger volume, the grower has an incentive to grow more fruit and the public benefits by getting an adequate supply at reasonable prices.

The fruit crop this year is exceptionally good, both as to size and quality. Niagara Peninsula fruit is now on the market all through the Dominion from Halifax to Calgary at prices within reach of all. The change in marketing Niagara Peninsula fruit has been largely brought about by the organization of the Niagara Peninsula Growers' Limited, with headquarters at Grimsby, Ontario. This association includes most of the best growers in the Niagara district. It was organized last year, but it was not until this season that its effects began to be appreciated.

"In all my experience in handling fruit I have never seen a greater volume grown in any one season," stated Mr. C. W. Baxter, general manager of the Niagara Peninsula Growers' Limited. "Frequently we have excellent crops of cherries, peaches or one variety of fruit, but this year every crop has been a bumper one. This, of course, has enabled us to supply all localities with fruit of a fine quality at very reasonable prices."

PAY LAST TRIBUTE TO RICHARD ANGUS

MONTREAL, Sept. 19.—Men prominent in banking, railway, professional, legal, political and diplomatic life gathered from far and near to pay a last tribute to the late Richard B. Angus, whose funeral took place here this afternoon. Major George Vanier, representing the governor-general, and Lieut.-Col. J. K. Keefe, representing the lieutenant-governor of the province, were amongst those present.

The residence at 240 Drummond street, was filled to overflowing when the funeral service was conducted by Rev. George Duncan, pastor of the Church of St. Andrew and St. Paul. Only a part of the ordinary office for the dead man was read, and there was inserted a special prayer, which constituted a high eulogy of the character and qualities of the deceased.

WOMEN'S ORGANIZATIONS HELP WITH CAMPAIGN

Representatives of London Organizations Attend Fair in Connection With Hospital Campaign.

Along the roads of Western Ontario during the coming week will be seen a large truck bearing the inscription in huge letters, "Western Ontario's Sick Children's Hospital. Will you help?" This truck will go to fifteen fair fairs, carrying a moving picture machine, radio apparatus, posters and bills, all of which will help the publicity committee in charge of the hospital campaign, to tell the citizens of Western Ontario of the service this hospital is destined to render.

At Stratford fair, Monday, radio concerts were heard from Cleveland, with five-minute talks on the hospital, at half hour intervals. Dr. Needham, of the Ontario department of health, who is also a child specialist, gave short addresses on the care of the child. Besides this she gave individual attention to babies, weighing them and giving excellent advice to their mothers.

Mrs. Carlisle Watson, director of the committee, accompanied by Mr. Ronald Foote, radio expert, and Dr. Needham will attend the following fairs, accompanied by two London women representing the various women's organizations in the city. Mrs. W. A. McCrimmon and Mrs. F. H. Butler attended the Stratford fair and the party was taken by Mr. Jarman who kindly loaned his car. On Tuesday Mrs. W. J. ## WITH THE BRIDES

POTTRUFF-CAIN.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Cain of Princeton on Wednesday, Sept. 13, when their only daughter, Lillian Beatrice, was united in marriage to Robert Pottruff of St. Catharines. The bride was escorted by her brother, H. S. Hallman of Brantford, officiated. An artistic archway and bank of flowers and ferns formed a tasteful setting for the ceremony. The bride looked charming in a gown of cream crepe de chine, with an embroidered veil of tulle caught with orange blossoms, and she carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses. As she entered the drawing-room with her father the bridal march from Lohengrin was played by the bridegroom's sister, Miss Muriel Pottruff. The attendants were the bride's cousin, Miss Cain of Kingston, gowned in yellow crepe de chine, and the groom's brother, Walter Pottruff, who acted as best man. The groom's pretty niece was a dainty little flower girl in a white silk frock, carrying a basket of yellow and white asters. A dejeuner was served in a marquee on the lawn. The guests numbered 65. Mr. and Mrs. Pottruff left for Muskoka later. The bride wore a suit of navy blue tricot, a black hat and an ermine stole, the gift of the groom. The guest of honor was the bride's great-grandmother, Mrs. Edward Graybell of Fordwick, 85 years of age. Mr. and Mrs. Pottruff will reside near Paris Plains. One Friday the Epworth League of Etobicoke met at the home of the bride and gave her a miscellaneous shower.

The groomsmen were Mr. Carl Schnarr, brother of the bride, Rev. ## BERSCHT-WENZEL.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized on Thursday afternoon, September 14, at 3 o'clock, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. Wenzel, Waterloo street, New Hamburg, when their only daughter, Grace Ardell, became the bride of Mr. Wilfred Henry Berscht of Wellfleet. Rev. Geo. A. Cropp of Jordan Station, a former pastor of Trinity Methodist Church, New Hamburg, officiated. The occasion was the twenty-fifth anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Wenzel, and many relatives and friends were present at the double event. The home was tastefully decorated with ferns and autumn flowers, a particularly pretty corner of the drawing-room being the scene of the ceremony. The bride, simply gowned in white canton crepe, with veil and orange blossoms, carrying a bridal bouquet of white roses and ferns and wearing a beautiful string of pearls, a wedding gift, entered with her father, to the strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding March, played by Miss Eva Nash of Stratford. The bride was style, Misses Kate Christner, Eva

Alias the Lone Wolf

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Was the secret of the most brilliant detective in the English Secret Service to be disclosed to the woman he loved? The man all Europe knew as ANDRE DUCHEMIN, who had been sent to the south of France to avoid plots by revengeful Bolsheviks, was recuperating from the effects of a bullet wound inflicted by Paris Apache, from whose attack Duche-min had previously rescued the young American widow.

EVE DE MONTAIGNE, and her friends, Duche-min's suspicions were aroused when clever questions concerning Eve's jewels, and veiled warnings about the "Lone Wolf" had been made by a strange party which had sought refuge in the chateau from a storm.

It consisted of WHITAKER MONK, his secretary, PHINUIT, the latter's brother, JULIUS, who acted as chauffeur, and the COUNT and COUNTESS DE LORNE.

On this night, when the chateau was asleep, the wounded Duche-min left his bedroom and went seeking "garetties" in the drawing-room. His candle, which he placed on the table, was suddenly blown out and then removed by unseen hands.

GO ON WITH THE STORY.

Duche-min straightened up sharply, and stood quite still, listening. No sound.

His vision spent itself fruitlessly against the blackness, which the closed window draperies rendered absolute but for those dull, sardonic eyes of dying embers.

In spite of himself he knew a moment when flesh crawled and the hair seemed to stir upon the scalp; for Duche-min knew he was not alone; there was something else in the room with him, something nameless, stealthy, silent, sinister.

A hand extended about a foot encountered the back of an upholstered chair, which he identified by touch. Assuming the chair to be occupying its usual position, he need only continue in a line parallel with the line of its back to find the entrance hall in about six paces.

Within three he stopped dead, as if paralyzed by sudden instinctive perception of that presence close by.

Whether he had drawn near to it, inch by inch, or whether it, seeing him about to make good his escape, had crept up on him, he could not say. He only knew that it was there, within arm's length, waiting, tense, prepared, and somehow deadly in its animosity.

Digging the nails deep into the palms of his hands, until the pain relieved his nervous tension, he waited once more, one minute, two, three.

But nothing.

Then very slowly he lifted an arm and swept it before him right and left. At one point of the air a trifle to the left, his finger-tips brushed something. He thought he detected a stir in the darkness, a stifled sound, stepped forward quickly, claving the air, and caught between his fingers a wisp of some material, like silk, sheer and glacial, a portion of some garment.

Simultaneously he heard a smothered cry of anger or alarm, and the night seemed to split and be rent into fragments by a thousand shooting needles of colored flame.

"Smitten brutally on the point of the jaw, his head jerked back, he reeled and fell against a chair, which went to the floor with a muffled crash.

CHAPTER X.

DUCHEMIN woke up in his bed, the glare of sunlight in his eyes. He groaned aloud, and with both hands clutched temples that promised to split with pain that crashed between them, stroke upon stroke, like blows of a mighty hammer.

Also his jaw was stiff, and developed a protesting ache whenever he opened his mouth.

Then Duche-min remembered.

"He got up hastily and spent several hours under an icy shower, and emerged feeling more on terms with himself and the world.

The valet-de-chambre brought with his tray the announcement that Madame de Montaigne presented her compliments and would be glad to see Monsieur at his convenience in the grand saloon. So Duche-min made short work of his dressing, his coffee and roll, and hurried down to the drawing-room.

Her profound reverie disturbed by his approach, she looked up, and, advancing to meet Duche-min with both hands offered in sympathy.

"My dear friend! You are suffering—"

He met this with a smiling denial. "Not now, at first; yes, but since my bath and coffee, I'm as right as a trivet. But Madame is not dressed for her journey."

"No, monsieur. I have postponed it"—a slight pause prefaced one more word—"indefinitely."

At this confirmation of the fears which had been haunting him, Duche-min nodded slightly.

"Yes," she said thoughtfully, when Duche-min had explained his presence in the drawing-room; "I too, found it not easy to sleep. But I heard nothing till that chair crashed."

"You came down here—alone?"

"But naturally, monsieur."

"I don't believe," said Duche-min sincerely, "the world holds a woman your peer for courage."

"Or curiosity?" she laughed. "At all events, I found you, but could do nothing to rouse you. So I called Jean, and he helped me get you upstairs again."

Well, you see, it was broad daylight before I noticed that the screen which stands in front of my safe was out of place. The safe is built into the solid wall, you know. I got up then, and found the safe door an inch or so ajar. Whoever opened it last night closed it hastily and neglected to shoot the bolts."

"And your jewels, of course—"

She pronounced with unbroken composure: "They have left me nothing, monsieur."

Duche-min groaned and hung his head. "I wanted to consult you first, and then—" She broke off sharply to ask: "Yes, Jean, what is it?"

The footman had entered to bring her cards, over which Eve de Montaigne arched her brows.

"Show the gentlemen in, please."

The servant retired.

"The men from Paris, madame?"

"Yes, you will excuse me?"

She went to meet the men in the middle of the room. Duche-min turned back to the window and was grateful for that moment's respite in which to compose and prepare himself. Within an hour, he knew, within a day or so at most, he must be under arrest, charged with the theft of the Montaigne jewels, damned by his yesterday as much as by every turn of circumstance.

The men whom Jean ushered in proved to be, outwardly, what Duche-min had expected: of a class only too well known to him, plain men of the people, unassuming, well trained and informed, skeptical, not improbably shrewd hands in the game of thief-taking.

Saluting Madame de Montaigne with calculated ceremony, one of them as spokesman offered to present their "It is not necessary, messieurs," she said. "I regret very much to have inconvenienced you, although, of course, it will make no difference in your bill, but I have brought you here to no purpose. The necessity for my contemplated journey no longer exists."

There were expressions of surprise, to which she put an end with the words, accompanied by a charming smile: "Frankly, messieurs, I have simply blanked my mind."

There was nothing more to be said. Openly more than a little mystified, the men withdrew.

The smile with which she dismissed them lingered, delightful and enigmatic, as Eve recognized the stupefaction with which Duche-min moved to remonstrate with her.

"Madame," he cried in a low voice of wonder and protest, "why did you do that? Why let them go without telling them—"

"Possibly that is my wish, monsieur." He gave a gesture of bewilderment. "Perhaps," she continued, meeting his blank stare with eyes in which amusement gave place to a look almost apologetic, yet utterly kind, "perhaps I have more faith in you."

Duche-min bowed his head over hands

"ONLY AN ALIAS FOR MICHAEL LANYARD, OTHERWISE THE LONE WOLF."

so tightly knitted that the knuckles were white with strain.

"You would not have faith," he said in a low voice, "if you knew me?"

She interrupted him in a gentle voice: "Are you sure?"

"What I must tell you," "My friend," she said, "tell me nothing that would distress you."

"If you had told those detectives," he said at length, without looking up, "you must have known very soon. They must have found me without too much delay. And who in the world would ever believe anybody else guilty when they learned that Andre Duche-min, your guest for three weeks, was only an alias for Michael Lanyard, otherwise the Lone Wolf?"

"But you are wrong, monsieur," she replied, without the long pause of surprise he had anticipated. "I should not have believed you guilty."

Dumb with wonder, he showed her a haggard face. And she had for him, in the agony and the abasement of his soul, still quivering from the rack of emotion that alone could have extorted his confession—she had for him the half-smile, tender and compassionate, that it is given to most men to see but once in a lifetime on the line and in the eyes of the woman beloved.

"Then you knew?"

"Since the night those strange people were here and tried to make me unhappy with their stupid talk of the Lone Wolf. I suspected them; and when I came to know you better, I felt quite sure I have faith in you."

"But why?"

She shook her head. "You mustn't ask me that."

"At the end of a long moment he said in a broken voice: 'Very well, I won't say a word. But this great gift of faith in me—I can't accept that without trying to repay it.'"

"If you accept, my friend, you repay."

"No," said Michael Lanyard, "that's not enough. Your jewels must come back to you, if I go to the ends of the earth to find them. And—man's undying vanity would out—'if there's anyone living who can find them for you, it is I.'"

Radio Radiations

MAJ. GEN. GEORGE O. SQUIER AND THE HEART-BEAT AMPLIFIER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 18.—The modern physician need no longer put his ear against the body of his patient to hear the heart or lungs perform. Nor need he use the stethoscope for this purpose.

Instead, he may place a small instrument on the patient's body and listen to the breathing and heart-beats from a distance.

This unusual performance is made possible by the use of the audio or vacuum tube amplifier, similar to the one being used in radio reception today.

The heart of the new instrument, that makes heart-throbs audible from a distance is the vacuum tube. It is exactly the same tube which amplifies the weak sound waves in a radio receiving set.

Among the first to demonstrate this instrument, in its application to breathing and heart-beats, was Maj. Gen. George O. Squier, of the United

How To Prepare Tasty Dishes

BY BERTHA SHAPLEIGH.

EVERYONE likes, and we might say needs, some sweet at the end of dinner or luncheon. These sweets we call desserts.

Too often they mean heavy puddings or rich pies, but instead may be a very simple serving of fruit, canned or fresh, with a sweet cookie or wafer to accompany it.

In hot weather avoid rich desserts, and plan to serve many of them cold. There is nothing better for children than cooked fruit combined with rice, tapioca or left-over cooked cereal.

If dinner is served at night plan a dessert which can be made in the morning and be easily served at dinner time.

Using Gelatine.

Gelatine is a very satisfactory material to use for stiffening fruit juices or milk so they may be molded and turned out in an attractive form. There are several prepared commercial gelatines which come sweetened and flavored, and need only the addition of a hot liquid to make. This is a great help to the housekeeper, and is usually cheap.

These commercial gelatines may be varied and the firms making them will send a book of recipes upon request.

For instance, a lemon prepared gelatin may be combined with cut-up fruit and stiffly-beaten whites of eggs or cream, added as the jelly begins to set. The chocolate flavor is much better when dissolved in hot milk instead of water.

One of the most acceptable desserts for a hot day is one which is frozen, and it may be a mousse, sherbet or ice cream. The mousse may be easily made by packing sweetened and flavored cream in a vacuum freezer and allowing it to stand three or four hours.

The ice cream and sherbet are made in the usual way by turning the freezer. Serve these frozen mixtures in glass with fruit or chocolate sauce, and one has the "sundaes" of the soda fountain.

The housekeeper will be canning and preserving, and often fruit syrups will be left.

Mix these with a white of one egg and freeze. When nearly firm enough open freezer and add cut-up fruit and a little cream.

Continue freezing for a little longer time, then pack, and allow to stand two or three hours and ripen. A delicious frozen dessert is the result.

Using Fresh Fruit.

Fresh or canned fruit, or a mixture of both, cup up, sweetened and served very cold in glasses, is excellent. With it pass cookies or sponge cake.

Our grandmothers always liked to have cup custards on hand for supper, and when well baked these are delicious and a valuable food.

Soft or "boiled" custard may be used in so many ways. It may be poured over stale cake or cut-up fruit, or served in glasses with a little beaten cream on top of each glass.

Another way is to pour the custard into a pudding dish and place spoonfuls of meringue on top. Place in a moderate oven five or ten minutes.

WHEN YOU BUY THE Westinghouse ELECTRIC RANGE You Buy Convenience

The idea of ease and convenience is the distinguishing fact of the Westinghouse.

Its beautiful oven is porcelain-lined. The heating units light out—there is nothing to disconnect. Then you can wash it sweet and clean and rustproof without any trouble.

Even the burners lift off the top, more easily than taking the lid off the old-fashioned wood range. It's seldom needed, but it's a wonderful convenience not found in other stoves.

The Westinghouse does all sorts of "home-work" so delightfully you really must not miss this week's special opportunities to see it in action every day in the Hydro Shop window, under the care of a Westinghouse skilled dietitian.

The Ideal Bathtub for Baby

EDDY'S Indurated Fibroware bathtub is just the thing for baby's bath. Besides being light, easy to handle and unbreakable, it has a surface which cannot cause injury—no cracks, no joints, no nails or rivets. It is moulded in one piece and unlike wood, it cannot splinter or come apart. It is much superior to metal because it cannot dent or rust. Metal tubs quickly absorb heat and are liable to scald baby's skin, even after cold water is added. In a like manner, metal if cold will strike chill to the skin and also cause the water to cool quickly. Eddy's Indurated Fibroware does not radiate heat or cold and is quite safe. For the same reason it keeps the water warm longer.

MINING TOWN MOURNS DEAD

Bodies of Men Entombed For 22 Days Brought To Surface.

Rescuers Relate Thrilling Experiences in Efforts To Reach Victims.

JACKSON, Calif., Sept. 19.—Five bodies of the miners, entombed 22 days by a fire in the Argonaut gold mine, were brought to the surface today. The United States bureau of mines crew wrapped the bodies in canvas where they were found last night in the 4,350-foot level of the Argonaut and carried them through the Kennedy mine adjoining. Three of the dead men were identified. The work of bringing out the 47 victims of the fire and the poisonous gases will continue until all have been recovered.

A coroner's jury will be sworn in tomorrow to view the ill-fated miners. It is not expected that the responsibility for the disaster will be fixed. The bodies were conveyed to a building on the Argonaut property, a mile from the Kennedy shaft, and placed in coffins.

A check of the names of the dead showed seven were American-born, twenty in Italy, 13 in Jugoslavia, and four were of Spanish or Mexican ancestry.

The state compensation fund is expected to pay about $100,000 to the dependents of the mine victims. In addition the state allows $100 for each burial and the Argonaut company has added $25 in each case.

E. A. Stent, vice-president of the Argonaut Company, said he felt the fire was unavoidable and his company had done everything possible to rescue the men. He declared he would welcome an official investigation. Three weeks ago last Sunday night, men deep in the Argonaut believed they smelled smoke. A shift boss took two men and went to investigate. They found the shaft afire at the 3,600-foot level, chanced death from gas and were carried through the fire to the top of the mine. Then began the work of fire fighting, which presently merged into one of rescue for the men below for the fire blocked the shaft and prevented their escape.

Men came from all over the West to offer their services, the curious fellowship of miners bringing heavy offers of service from all walks of life. Mining companies in distant states, even in Mexico, telegraphed proffers of assistance. The Kennedy Mining Company, operators of an adjoining shaft, sunk the bitterness of a law suit, in its willingness to be of service, and loaned all its property and facilities to the work of rescue.

Last Barrier Broken. For many weary days, disappointed sometimes by unexpected difficulties, and heartened sometimes by equally unexpected bits of good luck, rescue crews drove through the choked tunnel that once had connected the two mines, or bettered at the rock separating one of the Kennedy drifts from the Argonaut's 4,350-foot level. Early yesterday a drill was driven through the last barrier of rock into the Argonaut.

Sweating shoulders and unbreakable wills drove steel picks until this hole had been enlarged enough to permit a man to pass. Five men made a hasty and unauthorized exploration of part of the Argonaut, seeking survivors at the imminent risk of their own lives. The opening was enlarged so that a rescue crew could pass, and all day exploration went on without any result.

The levels were clear, there was no sign of any miner left in them, either dead or alive. The rescue men, hampered by their oxygen helmets and the heat of the underground workings, turned their attention to exploring the cross-cuts and drifts leading from the tunnels already traversed. In one they found a bulkhead that had not been there when the miners went below into that fatal mine three weeks ago.

Hope Rises Anew. Hope rose anew at this evidence that some at least of the entombed men had not died an instant death from the gases thrown off by the fire in the shaft, and the rescuers pressed on. They found another bulkhead, not built of planks and timbers, and stuffed with torn clothing like the first, but constructed of earth, rock and debris. It was a pitiful structure, gaping in places, so that the rescuers could see through it, but it checked the air currents somewhat and the men in the oxygen helmets halted before it, afraid to tear it down while the air before it was poisonous, lest they thereby cause sudden death to any who might be alive beyond it.

Hope stood at its highest when this second bulkhead was found, and from that height it made its greatest plunge. Before those who waited above for news of their loved ones knew even that the rescuers had broken through the bulkhead, word came that the bodies of 42 men had been found and counted.

Not long after, word came up from the telephone station, hurriedly advanced to the 4,200-foot level, that the other five also had been found dead.

Death Came Quickly. Jackson took the blow calmly, and presently found comfort in the sure knowledge, gained from notes left by two of the men, and from the reports of rescuers regarding the men's work before they died, that a quick, merciful death had come to them, instead of the agonies of starvation. There was no lingering

In the course of discussion of a resolution offered by Thomas Johnston, laborite, that the Dail acknowledge no limitation of its power to pass laws for peace and good government, William Cosgrave, president of the Dail, made the suggestion that the parliament should suspend legislation other than that of passing a constitution. He reminded the house that the future Irish parliament would have two chambers, while the present parliament has only one.

Mr. Johnston finally accepted an amendment on the lines of Mr. Cosgrave's suggestion.

Plan Fund To Provide Milk For Small Children in Galt Schools.

GALT, Sept. 19.—In the past school term the Waterloo Chapter, I. O. D. E., undertook to provide the smaller children attending Galt schools with milk free of charge.

The venture proved a great success and a benefit to the children, but the ladies find it would be a costly practice to continue, and tonight had a meeting with teachers and parents and representatives of various public bodies to discuss ways and means of raising between $1,500 to $2,000, which would be required to continue supplying the milk.

All agreed that the children should be given milk, and a committee will now endeavor to raise the money.

CLAIM WAR SCARE WILL RAISE PRICE

Grain Market Experts Expect Larger Increase Than Wheat Board Would Secure.

OTTAWA, Sept. 19.—(Canadian Press).—That should the war scare continue to exercise its effect on wheat prices, it would add considerably more to the aggregate income of the western Canadian farmers than would the wheat board have done at its best, was the opinion expressed today by men in close touch with the wheat marketing situation.

Yesterday's upward trend in the grain markets gave an indication of what may be expected should the present threat of war in the Dardanelles continue to be manifest. The latest estimate of Canada's wheat yield gave a grand total of something over 380,000,000 bushels, practically all of which, it is pointed out, is still in the hands of the western farmers. Yesterday's increases in wheat prices at Chicago and Winnipeg alone added many millions of dollars to the value of grain in the farmers' hands, always providing, of course, that the farmers will be able to get their grain on to the market while the higher prices prevail. In the Winnipeg exchange yesterday day gains ranging to five cents were registered on options for various deliveries. Estimating roughly 250,000,000 bushels of grain still in the hands of western farmers, yesterday's increase would add $12,500,000 to the total value, whereas the proponents of the wheat board during last session were expressing the hope that a board would add $25,000,000 to the farmers' collective income.

EGYPTIANS HELD IN SHOOTING CASE

Six Face Charge of Firing Upon Director of Horticultural Service.

LONDON, England, Sept. 19.—(Canadian Press cable).—A Reuters dispatch from Cairo, Egypt, says the department of political crime, under Ingram Bey, has made six arrests in connection with the outrage a month ago, when Director Brown of the horticultural service of the ministry of agriculture was fired upon and wounded by natives while driving to the central station with members of his family. The case has been handed over to the military authorities, and the trial probably will start next week.

A large number of arrests have been made in connection with a supposed gang of murderers. Some of the prisoners are believed to have been involved in the Abderrahman conspiracy case in 1920. The authorities are hopeful of a successful result in the campaign against the alleged murderers.

DEFERS SENTENCE ON HAMILTON MAN

Justice Middleton Postpones Decision Regarding Penalty For Robbery With Violence.

KITCHENER, Sept. 19.—A jury in the supreme court tonight convicted Arthur Jones of Hamilton of robbery with violence, but Justice Middleton deferred sentence until the next court three months hence. The jury recommended mercy, and the time spent in prison in the meantime will be taken off his ultimate sentence.

The story unfolded by the crown witnesses was that Jones went into the grocery store of Joseph Warden, Preston, on the night of June 3, holding up Warden at the point of a revolver, and taking $200 in cash from the till. His arrest was effected through a telegram which the accused dropped, and the taking of his motor car number by a nearby resident, who thought the car was stolen. Kitchener has a new plumbing law modeled upon that of Toronto, the main feature of it being that all plumbing fixtures must be ventilated. It also requires all journeymen plumbers to pass an examination conducted by a competent board. The new bylaw has been sent to the provincial board of health for approval.

Members of Conciliation Board Report Finding in Wage Dispute.

Recommend Clerks and Railway Arrange Rate Effective After Sept. 15.

Special to London Advertiser. ST. THOMAS, Sept. 19.—Finding that the clerks are the second most poorly paid employees in the service, and that rates of pay do not appear to be sufficient in accordance with present living costs, the conciliation board dealing with the wage dispute between the Pere Marquette Railroad and the company have in their report, now released by the minister of labor, recommended that rates of wages in force prior to July 1 shall continue until Sept. 15, and after that date that rates in accordance with an agreement between the company and the men be effective, but that if no agreement is reached that rates according to the standard fixed by the United States Railroad Labor Board, effective July 1, shall apply until a new decision is reached by the board or an agreement is reached. The report is unanimous, being signed by W. T. R. Preston, chairman of the board; Alexander Leslie

Father Sent to Jail, Mother Asks Judge to Care for Three Children

MONTREAL, Sept. 19.—A frail-looking woman, with a little baby in her arms, one tot at her side and a third tugging at her skirt, came into police court this morning, went right up to the bench and planted the three kiddies before Judge Monet. "Here are the children. I don't want them," she shouted in semi-hysterical fashion. "Send me to jail if you like. You have sent the breadwinner to prison; now look after the children," and with that she fled from the court.

The judge, gaping with astonishment, placed the children in the care of Salvation Army officers. He found that the husband is under a six-months' sentence in Bordeaux jail for keeping a still; that the woman, faced with starvation and lacking aid, had arisen from her bed where the youngest babe was born four days ago and decided upon this dramatic appeal to justice. The minister of justice will be asked to pardon the father so that he can look after the family.

of Kingsville, the company's representative, and Barrister Charles B. McClurg, the employees' member. Copies have been received by the executive committee of the clerks in this city and by the company's officers in Detroit. The decision of the board is considered more of a victory for the employees concerned than were the findings of the conciliation board that investigated the wage disputes of the Michigan Central and the Pere Marquette shop employees in Canada.

If the recommendations of the report are fulfilled, it means that the rates of wages for clerks, freight handlers, express and station employees in Canada will receive two and one-half months' pay at the rate of this year and that the Pere Marquette Company will fully and sympathetically consider the conditions whereby any grievances that may arise in the future may be submitted to a tribunal to be mutually agreed upon for adjudication, the clerks consider they have scored two other important points. The company has never in the past been in any way obliged to pay the rates of pay awarded by the United States board. It is pointed out, and the clerks have never had a tribunal for the consideration of grievances, as the United States board in several cases which came before that body for decision held that it had no jurisdiction to deal with Canadian grievances.

The board, from consideration of the evidence on living costs and wage schedules submitted, have suggested to the Pere Marquette Company that in making its decision it take into consideration the fact that the clerks are the second poorest paid class of employees in railway service, that the costs of living at the points in Canada on its system where clerks are employed, would seem to be excessive in proportion to the salaries paid the clerks, and that the cost of living in May, 1921, according to the figures published in the Canada Labor Gazette, has only decreased between 10 and 11 per cent, whereas with the proposed reduction under decision 1074, the clerks will have suffered a cut of approximately 16 per cent.

I. McKinley of Hanna, Lesueur & McKinley will probably conduct the defence. Residents near Corunna originally complained of the alleged pollution, resulting in an indictment against the corporation. ## UPSETS FEATURE WOMEN'S GOLF

Miss Joyce Hutton, Semi-Finalist in Open, Outstanding Upset.

TORONTO, Sept. 19.—It is customary in tournaments of different kinds for surprises to occur and while there were few upsets in the Canadian ladies' open championship at the Toronto Club last week, today's play in the closed championship at the same club was full of surprises. The surprise in the championship fight was the most sensational, the defeat of Miss Robertson by Miss Langmuir of Misses Langmuir being the most outstanding. Miss Joyce Hutton, semi-finalist in the open championship, was eliminated by Mrs. Whitton, a clubmate, in the first of the championship games.

Miss Kate Robertson was forced to acknowledge defeat by Mrs. Langmuir. The latter failed to get in the qualifying round in the first round, being one of the four players eliminated in the play-off for places after losing in third round. Miss Robertson, who shot a 103 on Monday, and made sure of getting in the championship fight.

The next game was also included in the surprise list by many, as Miss Moira McBride of Beaufort, who arrived in Toronto in the morning, had to play off for a place, losing out in the open, but winning in the closed. Miss McBride, who was defeated by Mrs. Douglas Laird of Winnipeg, and the latter, who qualified with 92 on Monday, was expected to go a considerable distance in the championship fight. This match was also decided on the home ground, Mrs. McBride being fairly long putt to advance into the second round.

Mrs. Murdoch, Miss Pepler and Mrs. Hope Gibson were the next three winners, and they won by comfortable margins.

Mrs. Ridout of Lambton threw a scare into the Misses Langmuirs, as she made the turn one up on Miss Ada Mackenzie, but the latter played better golf, and the match terminated at the sixteenth hole, with the Ontario champion three up. Mrs. Ahearn of Ottawa started out strongly against Mrs. Thompson of Brantford, and won the first three holes, but the latter improved, and after a long and hard battle, won the match, and the Ontario champion.

Mrs. Burns of Rosedale was credited with a good victory over Mrs. Hanney of Ottawa.

Miss Marion Beck, Toronto, scored an easy win over her clubmate, Miss Macdonald, while Miss Helen Paret, the Ottawa champion, who was under the weather last week, started into the next round by defeating Miss Riddell of Scarborough.

Miss Willo Gage eliminated the second Winnipeg player from the championship fight, when she defeated Mrs. Brydges at the 18th hole.

Miss Sybil Kennedy of Montreal, defeated Mrs. Rodgers of Lambton, 7 and 6, and completed the 15 holes in 88, which is only six over par and very good, considering today's conditions.

Other successful players were: Mrs. Bestwick, Mrs. Rowe and Mrs. Thorne. In the championship play-off, first round, tomorrow, Mrs. F. Spry of London plays Miss L. Macdonald, Toronto, and Mrs. D. Thomson, Brantford, and Mrs. Hazel Kennedy, Montreal.

Miss Marion Beck, Toronto is drawn against Mrs. W. H. Burns, Toronto, in the second round for the championship.

These Are Possible Pitchers Who Will Figure in 1922 World's Ball Series

NEW YORK AMERICANS

BUSH—One of the best of the best years of his career. The invention of what he calls the forkball enables him to come back to the mound in a manner of a spitter. Still has great speed, but resorts to it only occasionally. Has a good curve and excellent change of pace. Fields his position well. For a pitcher is a fine batsman.

NEW YORK GIANTS

SHAWKEY—After having just a 10-0 record in 1921, and failing in the series, Shawkey has had a big season in 1922. Has a fast ball which has a hop on it. Also mixes in a curve and slow ball. Is a good fielder and a pretty fair batsman.

ST. LOUIS AMERICANS

SHOCKER—The ace of the Browns' staff and one of the greatest pitchers in the game. Shocker is a right-hander. Has the right to use a spinnball but has everything else in his repertoire. Bubbles over with nerve, and is a guttural for work. A pitcher of Shocker's great ability is capable of winning a world series himself if he should get the breaks.

ST. LOUIS BRUINS

DAVIS—A right-hander who is very, very good when good, and very bad when wild. Has a fast ball and an excellent curve. Lack of a change of pace is his only failing.

ST. LOUIS CARDINALS

McQUILLAN—McGraw, when he is in the game, is a right-hander. Secured McQuillan in the league during the season. He is a hard man to beat. Compelled to beat, McQuillan is a right-hander.

ST. LOUIS REDS

Hildreth, has been named as the next season's racing. Six of the lot were sired by Peter Pan, five by All Gold, four by Chile, two by Bromstick, and one each by Whiskbrook II, pennant and Rickett.

Among the youngsters is a full brother of Exodus, full sisters of Brainstorm, Dexterous and Mullabalo and a half brother of Goshawk.

ROCKETS WIN

WOODSTOCK, Sept. 19.—The Rockets defeated the Pastimes by 15 to 5 in the first of the series to decide the city championship. The game tonight was fast and some very fast balls were served up to the fans. The batteries: Hill and Cuthbertson; Aude and Hastings.

LEONARD TRAINS HARD

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—Benny Leonard, lightweight champion, has begun strenuous training for his title contest with Charley White of Chicago, the night of October 3 at Jersey City.

ELGIN REGIMENT DELAYS ACTION

Special to London Advertiser. ST. THOMAS, Sept. 19.—Until requests are conveyed to local officers of the Elgin Regiment no action will be taken in regard to planning for a company to represent the St. Thomas district in case of war in the Dardanelles, it was decided Tuesday night at a meeting which followed a parade and drill.

Keen enthusiasm is shown by many local ex-service men, however, and it is felt that should enlistments be asked for that the district would be represented by a company at least.

Lieut.-Col. D. E. Gerrard pointed out at the meeting that any action at this time would be premature. The Elgin Regiment is now about 150 strong, and an effort will be made to increase the number to the 40 per cent which the militia department allows as a limit this year.

JONES

One of the game's best pitchers, who has had a very ordinary season with the Yankees. Possesses all his old-time stuff, yet has not been very healthy with a new pitcher knows much about pitching better than Jones. Lack of confidence in his real ability, due to many unexpected reverses, has been his chief failing.

BARNES

When in form Barnes is one of the best right-handers in the business. Has a fast ball, a curve, a spinnball and a change of pace. Has a hard man to beat. Compelled to beat, Barnes is a right-hander.

NEHP

One of the best south-paw pitchers in the game. Has good stuff, and a fast ball, but has a hard man to beat. Compelled to beat, NEHP is a right-hander.

SHAWKEY

MAYS—The breaks have been against Mays, the Yankees' ace of 1921. Still has his old-time stuff, but has trouble winning. Yank's ace has a fast ball, a curve, a spinnball and a change of pace. Has a hard man to beat. Compelled to beat, Mays is a right-hander.

BARNES

McQUILLAN—McGraw, when he is in the game, is a right-hander. Secured McQuillan in the league during the season. He is a hard man to beat. Compelled to beat, McQuillan is a right-hander.

SHOCKER

DAVIS—A right-hander who is very, very good when good, and very bad when wild. Has a fast ball and an excellent curve. Lack of a change of pace is his only failing.

PRUETT

WRIGHT

KOLP

A right-hander with a hander with good stuff. He is a hard man to beat. Compelled to beat, Kolp is a right-hander.

YANKS CONTINUE MARCH TO PENNANT

Come From Behind To Win From Ty's Men.

DETROIT, Sept. 19.—The Yankees continued their march toward the American League championship today by coming from behind in the latter part of their game with Detroit and winning 4 to 3.

Faced by a one-run handicap, yielded to Detroit in the second inning when Sam Jones allowed two of the four hits obtained off his delivery during the game. Yankees tied the count in the seventh inning, due to clever base-running on the part of Schang and Jones, and put the game away in the next frame on extra-base blows by Pipp and Meusel.

Ruth made his thirty-fourth home run of the season.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 19.—St. Louis dropped two and one-half games behind in the pennant race today by losing to Washington, 4 to 3, while Detroit was defeated by New York by the same score.

The Hamilton Spectator says that the Aces were willing to return to Hamilton for the rest of the season, as that wouldn't hurt mustard for their sandwiches.

Probably that's why the Aces didn't play very "amateur" baseball in the second series.

Woodstock, Sept. 19.—Indications that Woodstock will have a pretty snappy rugby team this fall. The United Athletic Club has rounded up the game, and already some very good practices have been held. ## Just Between Us

Every year it is becoming more and more realized that rugby and other sporting traditions of Canadian universities are as much an attraction as an athletic program that is at once comprehensive and his vision.

Every year students go to McGill and Toronto Universities, drawn by the glamor of the rugby possibilities of these big schools, and so far Western has not been able to make much headway against this tradition. However, Western University may turn this to advantage if the proper attention is paid to this side of the varsity life. It is becoming increasingly difficult for players from outside places to catch a place on the varsity teams. There have been plenty of charges made against fraternity rule in these universities, and certainly unless the freshman has unusual rugby ability his chances of making either varsity or McGill's first team are very slight. These factors should within a very short time react to Western's advantage, the chances of taking a predominant place in sports at Western being much greater than they are in the larger institutions of learning.

Another factor that enters largely—or will—is the fact that a great many potential rugby players abound in the smaller high schools of Western Ontario who would never get a chance to develop in the large squads which start out each year at either varsity, McGill or Queen's. These players would, under conditions at Western, get the chance denied them elsewhere.

In the States there are various colleges that owe their existence to the fact that through steady application they have been able to develop rugby teams that could defeat some of the big football eleven. Why could not Western, under proper tuition and with the right kind of spirit, develop a team that could take its place alongside of the machines the larger universities turn out?

While both teams in Boston may know beans, they can't be accused of being round-shouldered from carrying their baseball knowledge around.

The dangers of the roaring motor car are not so great as the dangers of the roaring motor car. To Saries it was something that carried no more danger than the average job.

In those moments when a race driver is tense, the moments preceding the start of a race Saries found something to joke about, some cause for laughter.

Saries, care-free, always managed to make the others partly forget.

Tommy Milton, one of the great race drivers of the day, never gets the dangers of the sport out of his mind. He is ever apprehensive.

Saries happy and gay found an antidote in Milton, moody and pessimistic.

Of the two, Milton was the better driver. Saries the more sensational. Saries drove races with reckless abandon. Milton drove them with scientific skill.

Saries loved the thrills of competitive driving, and he liked to thrill his audience.

Milton, driving carefully, always drives with a scientific exactness in which everything has been carefully planned beforehand. He is a master mechanic, a skilled workman. He eliminates from his plan all chances that might be dangerous. The great risk is ever before him.

HAS BIG APPEAL IN SMALL SCHOOLS

Executive Likely To Meet During Next Week To Plan Program.

Although so far, the W. O. S. S. A. program is still a matter of conjecture, the inclusion of soccer as a competition throughout the secondary schools of the area, is practically an assured fact. There is everything in favor of soccer as a game to be taken up, first because it is not the complicated pastime rugby is, and secondly, because it is a game which may be outlived very cheaply.

When the W. O. S. S. A. executive meeting will be to arrange the hockey, basketball and soccer schedules of the year, and the inter-school debating.

Officials here say that all the high schools are in favor of a soccer competition being started. Already most of these schools have soccer eleven. Through the spring and fall, there have been cup series taken in some of these teams, but does not attract all the schools by any means, and it is these schools that the W. O. S. S. A. soccer program is intended to reach.

The South London Collegiate is an example of a school where soccer is seriously considered as a preliminary step toward rugby. The athletic organization of the school decided for various reasons not to attempt to go in for soccer at present, but are considering soccer as a means of filling the gap.

It is expected that a full executive meeting of the W. O. S. S. A. will be held some time next week.

Rheumatism

A Remarkable Home Treatment Given by One Who Had It.

In the year of 1910 I was afflicted by Rheumatism and Sub-Acute Rheumatism. I suffered over three years. I took remedy after remedy, but such relief as I obtained was only temporary. Finally I found a treatment that cured me completely, and such a pitiful condition has never returned. I have given it to a number of my friends who were really afflicted, even bedridden, some of them 70 to 80 years old, and the results were the same as in my own case.

I want every sufferer from any form of muscular and sub-acute (swelling at the joints) rheumatism, to try the great value of my improved "Home Treatment" for its remarkable healing power. Don't send a cent; simply mail your name and address, and I will send it free to try. After you have used it, and it has given itself to be that long-looked-for means of getting rid of such forms of rheumatism, you may send the price of it, one dollar, but understand I do not want your money unless you are perfectly satisfied to send it. Don't that fair? Why suffer any longer, when relief is thus offered you free of delay. Write today.
