MAGNIFICENT VICTORY WON TO-DAY BY CITY AGAINST STREET RAILWAY

Chief Justice Meredith Shows No Hesitation in Handing Out His Decision—Railway Company is Given One Year in Which to Make Improvements—Counsel Watson Objects Strenuously to His Lordship's Ruling.

Here is the text of the judgment rendered by Chief Justice Meredith in the case of the City of Brantford against the Street Railway for forfeiture of franchise and recovery of tax arrears.

PRETTY HARD TO GET AWAY FROM THIS. To the uninitiated it might be explained that the decision won by City Solicitor Henderson for the Corporation of the City of Brantford against the Street Railway Company means:

1—That if Mr. Watson on behalf of the Company accepts the terms he cannot appeal if there is forfeiture at the end of one year in connection with work ordered.

2—That if he doesn't accept the terms there will be immediate forfeiture.

The victory was not only one for the city, it was a victory for City Solicitor William T. Henderson, who fought lone-handed an array of counsel which would have made most men stumble and hesitate in the presentation of their case.

The judgment handed down by Chief Justice Meredith was commended by all citizens who heard the case. It was the only logical one. The lawyers for the defence took advantage of every nook and corner in the complete, although Geo. F. Watson injected remarks to His Lordship, which His Lordship in turn cleverly and clearly met.

The result of the trial does not give Brantford possession of the street railway, by any means, but is the first step in bringing to an issue a better service in this city.

Part of the line was in excellent condition and part in a fair condition. In parts the tracks were in better shape than those in Toronto.

With regard to a notice sent by Mr. Henderson complaining of the East Ward and Eagle Place tracks Mr. Stockdale stated that the line in the East Ward had been gone over and repaired in the fall of 1912, and the Eagle Place tracks had also been repaired.

MOTOR OMNIBUS IS LATEST SCHEME FOR CITY OF BRANTFORD

Mr. A. Yager, who has just returned to the city after a business trip to England, is interesting local capital in the organization of a motor omnibus company for Brantford, the plans being to provide such a service in this city.

Police Court To-day—Several Cases Heard

A Case of Non-Payment of Wages Was Settled by Manager of Shoe Company—Other Cases Heard.

Another wage case occupied the attention of the police court officials this morning when Barton Sheppard brought action against the Brandon Shoe Co. for non-payment of wages.

Magistrate Livingston warned the accused that if he did not get on the "wagon" at once he would be severely dealt with, whereupon Lippincott promised that he would drink coffee and nothing else from now on.

When the poll tax cases were called in court yesterday morning, Harry Gordon failed to put in an appearance. As a result a warrant was issued for his arrest, and this morning he appeared in the prisoner's dock charged with neglecting to pay his poll tax.

C. H. Connell charged Albert Astor with conversion of certain goods which Connell claimed he loaned to the defendant until he secured enough money to buy some of his own.

The defendant denied that the goods belonged to Connell, but Magistrate Livingston decided that he had heard enough evidence to convince him that the goods belonged to the plaintiff and ordered them returned.

One drunk, a foreigner, was allowed to go with a warning.

Whiskey for Lutarh "I am going to get on the wagon to-day," said Oscar Lippincott, when charged as a drunk.

Strike Becomes A Serious One

The Strike at Dublin May Extend Entirely Over the British Isles.

[Canadian Press Despatch] LONDON, Sept. 17.—A great national strike, as it was described this morning by one of the trades union leaders, threatens the United Kingdom. Beginning with the lockouts of large numbers of workmen last week in Dublin in consequence of the strike of a number of members of the Transport Workers Union because of the employment of non-union laborers, rumblings of discontent have since been heard throughout the entire labor community of the British Isles, but thus far eruptions have occurred only in the larger cities.

The sympathetic strike of the Liverpool dockers and the transport workers on the railroads there and at Birmingham, has already partly crippled the three great trunk railways serving the Midland counties of England, namely, the Midland, the London and Northwestern and the Great Western, while the Manchester Ship Canal Company is also coinciding with a strike of its dock laborers for better wages.

At Liverpool seven of the great freight depots were idle this morning and others are likely soon to be closed for want of traffic.

Peace, too, seems to be a long way off between the workmen and employers in Ireland; as all attempts have hitherto failed to settle the Dublin trouble, which was the direct cause of the stoppage of work at Liverpool and Birmingham.

The difficulty of getting provisions into the Irish capital to-day has become so great that it is believed the markets there will have to close their doors.

London, which has been only indirectly affected by the strikes on the railroad systems in the Midlands, is more directly interested in the threatened strike of the motor omnibus drivers, which has now drawn nearer, as the firm which forbids its employes to wear union badges, this morning refused to permit any man disobeying its order to take out his omnibus. The men thereupon held a meeting and passed a resolution in favor of striking. If this should be put into effect it will tie up all the omnibuses and trolley lines in London, and the men have sent an ultimatum to the employers demanding the reinstatement of their dismissed comrades by Friday.

The Labor members of Parliament declare that the trouble in Dublin, London and elsewhere has been caused by the determination of the employers to challenge the rights of labor to organize, and they state that the lockouts in Dublin and the refusal to allow the trades unionist workmen in London, to wear their union badges, were decided upon only after the men had begun to talk of seeking redress for other grievances.

morning given his liberty by Judge Mulvren before whom he appeared. The crown authorities intimated that they had no evidence to offer. Thompson said he will now try to get the automobile in which he drove Thaw from the asylum and with it will tour Canada and perform in vaudeville houses.

Thaw Will Appear Next Before Governor of State

LITTLETON, N. H., Sept. 17.—Harry Kendall Thaw moved on to Concord, the capital, to-day to await the hearing before Governor Felker on Tuesday in the matter of his extradition. Safe in the knowledge that the United States district court will review his case on a writ of habeas corpus if he loses, the Matteawan fugitive was hopeful and light-hearted and smiled and waved at the crowds which greeted him on the way to the railway station. His train was due to reach Concord at 2.10. Thaw celebrated his court victory (Continued on Page Five)

BRANTFORD WILL LAND BIG NEW INDUSTRY WHICH WILL EMPLOY OVER 250 MEN AT COMMENCEMENT OF OPERATIONS THIS FALL

A deputation of prominent Brantfordites leaves this week to visit a United States city. The mission is no unimportant one. If the migration of Brantford men to the American city is successful, it means the establishing of a factory in Brantford which will employ at the very commencement 250 hands, and the firm is of such a character that it will develop and thrive on Canadian soil, having, as it has, a very large and almost exclusive market at its command. Members of the Greater Brantford Board refused to reveal their place of destination, because negotiations as a result of publicity might be upset. This much is certain, the local men have every reason to anticipate the success of their trip as assurances have been received that the big company intends to do business, and that in Brantford. The trip merely means closing up a most important deal.

REG. LLOYD JONES HAS FASHIONABLE WEDDING IN LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA

The Los Angeles Examiner contains the following which will be read with great interest by many Brantfordites as the groom in the interesting event Mr. Reg. Lloyd Jones is popularly known in Brantford and Brant County. The announcement is written by a special writer on the big Los Angeles paper:

Miss Emma Conroy became a bride last night.

The event was a milestone in Southern California's social life and the fact that she was marrying a very splendid chap, indeed—Reginald H. Lloyd-Jones of Montreal—was pleasing to scores of old-time friends who gathered at the Conroy's beautiful country place beyond Lankershim for the service.

It was less than a fortnight ago, if my memory serves me, that Mrs. J. F. Conroy and her charming daughter returned from their Alaskan trip, the surprising news of the latter's engagement to this Montreal man preceding them by two days and throwing the fashionable world here into a flutter of excitement.

There had been a whirlwind courtship, after the fashion of most things in which the adorable youngest daughter of this fine old Southern family is concerned. The bride of last night has individuality of an unmistakable sort, and if she did things just like anybody else in the world, she would not be Emma Conroy—or perhaps this morning, I should say, Mrs. Reginald Lloyd-Jones.

So it was that after this first shock, incident to the suddenness of it all, the fashionable ones declared it was just might have been expected from the frank, impulsive and altogether fascinating Miss Conroy. And society wanted to attend the wedding.

"Just a quiet affair," it was announced, however, and how could it be otherwise, with only ten days in which to prepare?

How, indeed—the question could not have been answered satisfactorily by any but a family given to the broad natural hospitality that ever has characterized the Conroy home. The Conroys did finally answer it by the Rev. Father Lilly of St. Vincent's Church.

Afterwards there was supper and a joyful evening which everybody enjoyed because this was a gathering of friends thoroughly convinced that a perfect festive was well and happily settled in life.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd-Jones have gone away for a brief wedding trip, but they are coming again to this country place to be for a while with Mrs. Conroy and her other daughter, Mrs. Bri Conroy Kelley, before going to Montreal to reside.

Rugby Team Organized
The Maple Leaf Athletic Club had a very enthusiastic meeting in the Y. M. C. A. last night, at which the members unanimously agreed to organize a Rugby team. Measurements were taken for Rugby uniforms, and pending their arrival, only light practices will be indulged in. The first practice is to be held on Wednesday night from 5 to 7 at the Agricultural Park. Besides members, any who are interested in Rugby are invited to turn out and play. The Maple Leafs propose challenging the B. C. I. team for the city championship on Thanksgiving Day. The club, which was organized in the spring, demonstrated with their baseball team that the members have the makings of champions, and it looks as if in rugby, hockey and basketball also, the Maple Leafs will give a good account of themselves.

CONSTABLE MOUNCE RESENTS STATEMENT

Label Suit May be Aftermath of Last Week's Case.

County Constable James Mounce greatly resents statement made in a local paper last evening which he characterizes as a despicable attack on the view of the good work he did in assisting the police last week in the murder case. Mr. Mounce threatened libel action against the paper, "I don't care for myself," said Mr. Mounce to-day, "but I have a family, and to have it spread broadcast that one has blocked the police and might have spoiled a capture is going too strong, entirely. I propose to have an apology or go to the courts to secure my rights."

WHY LIBERALS ARE ANGRY WITH ROGERS.

Since the return of Hon. Robert Rogers from his western tour the Liberal press has been renewing its attacks on the Minister of Interior. It is not to be wondered at that the Opposition journals are not feeling in kindly mood to the Minister of Public Works. He made two particularly vigorous speeches in the west which have put the Liberal party in a most serious position and to which there has been so far no reply.

At Vancouver Mr. Rogers exposed the hypocrisy of the Liberals in opposing the closure bill. He produced a bill which had been prepared by Hon. A. B. Aylesworth, Minister of Justice, under the Laurier regime, which was far more drastic than the closure measure passed by the government last session. The fact that the Liberals had prepared a bill of such a character and which would have been made law if Laurier had been returned to power reduced the strenuous opposition of the Liberals to a ridiculous farce.

Mr. Rogers made another speech at Moosejaw which revealed the outrageous character of the campaign which the Scott government carried on to win the last provincial contest in Saskatchewan. Mr. Rogers produced piles of evidence and sheafs of affidavits which showed that the Liberals had only won by a wholesale manipulation of the voters' lists. Hundreds of aliens were placed on the lists while hundreds of British subjects were disfranchised.

Mr. Rogers presented sworn statements to show that in the constituency represented by Premier Scott, a riding in which he gained his seat by a majority of 200 votes, the names of 500 Britishers were struck off the list and the names of 200 foreigners put on. These charges although they were put up to Scott and the Scott government straight have not been answered. They can't be answered.

JOURNALISM!

Having grabbed a few lines out of a Courier news item and having deliberately placed a wrong construction upon it in order to cover up its own sins of yellow journalism, The Expositor last night endeavored to make a half-apology for the publication of the picture of the knife-marked blood-stained victim of last week. Our contemporary says:

"The justification for doing what would otherwise be unjustifiable is the fact that when the photograph was taken and the cut made the body of the murdered boy had not been identified, and for the purpose of identification the utmost publicity was desirable."

How can the "justification for doing what would otherwise have been unjustifiable" be established on the grounds of the resirability of the widest publicity possible when identification of the boy was established before 2 o'clock, and the Expositor did not get on the street with the picture until 4 o'clock the same afternoon. Not satisfied with an early edition without the picture, our contemporary jumped into a second edition with the picture, hours after the name of the boy was known all over the city.

The Expositor is condemned out of its own mouth. The Courier had a similar picture of the remains, and promptly declined to make use of the same when identity was established. The attempt of The Expositor to justify something unjustifiable recalls another old friend of the Cupola: "How can the producer get more and the consumer pay less!"

The Courier again expresses the opinion that motherhood and childhood in this community were given a shock by journalism, of which a Hearst paper would not have been guilty.

AN INCORRECT VERSION. The New York Times publishes an article in which it declares that sympathy shown for Thaw while in Quebec had its basis on the "anti-Yankee" feeling of Canadians.

That is not a true statement. No such feeling exists in a general way. There may be a few in the Dominion who entertain bitter sentiments with regard to Uncle Sam but that is a personal and not a national affair.

As to the Coaticook demonstrators they lost their heads when they found the eyes of the people of Canada the United States and Great Britain suddenly focussed on their hitherto unknown place.

In addition there are always in all communities people maudlin enough to waste flowers and sympathy upon some murderer, especially if his crime has been of a dramatic type.

This was the case with Birchall, the well-connected and college bred individual, who did young Benwell, son of a British army officer to death in a swamp near Princeton. He was afterwards justly hanged at Woodstock, but up to the time of execution had all kinds of bouquets and letters of sympathy sent to him. In like manner Thaw has been the centre of a similar deluge, not alone at Coaticook, but also in the States and also from the Old Land.

With some people the sense of justice in such cases seems to be blinded when there is a spectacular fight for life. These worthies seem to forget that it was the deliberate and the calculated deed of the accused which got them into deserved trouble. Not valuing other people's lives they are not entitled to have the just processes of the law value theirs.

As to "anti-Yankee" feeling in Canada that statement is false. Only recently Canadians joined with our neighbors in observing one of the victories of the stars and stripes over British vessels. They didn't do that because of joy over the event but as an evidence of the mutual feeling and good will which now exists between the people on both sides of the border, the New York Times to the contrary notwithstanding.

ONE FLAW IN THE HOME RULE BILL.

The Ottawa Free Press, in discussing the Home Rule bill, now before the British House, points out one distinct flaw in the measure.

It is that the feature of the Asquith bill, which gives to Ireland control of her customs, is most unwise. Our contemporary adds:—

"At the outset Ireland is being given a power that could not be conferred upon the other countries. Such powers would be an unworkable feature of Canada had control of the customs. It would be impossible, therefore, to give to England, Scotland and Wales local parliaments with as much power as the parliament of Ireland."

This feature of the Home Rule bill, we cannot help thinking, would be an obstacle to that desired solution, Home Rule all round. One can imagine the serious unrest that would follow any later attempt to reduce the powers conferred on the Irish Parliament by the Home Rule bill. When T. P. O'Connor lectured in Ottawa he declared that Ireland wanted the Canadian system; the Home Rule bill gives Ireland more power than it would get under the Canadian system."

The objection is well taken. Many people think that under present conditions the British House, with the affairs of the largest Empire the world has ever seen, to look after, is crowded with too many domestic affairs which might be looked after in the same manner as Local Houses in Canada look after purely Provincial matters. But Asquith in his zeal to hold the allegiance of the Irish party, manifestly proposes to go too far.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

Sir Edmund Walker, President of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, says that Canada's bumper crop of this year has served to end financial worries, and financial tightness. Dame nature is certainly very good to this broad Dominion.

As the result of an investigation, Dr. Bruce Smith, Inspector of Ontario prisons, has reported that conditions have been such that "no one need stay who didn't want to." Quite a nice home-like place eh? Reminds one of the time when a Brantford grand jury, after viewing the gaol, made the statement in their presentment that conditions were such as to make the castle "one of the most desirable places of residence in the city."

Referring to the Government's pledges with respect to the question of naval defence, Mr. Borden said:

"These pledges have been fulfilled in the letter and in the spirit. We went to England, we consulted the British government, we placed before the country the statement from the British Admiralty, and we submitted to Parliament the proposals for temporary and immediate aid which in our judgment were justified by the need."

Good for Borden.

Premier Borden during a recent speech in Halifax issued some ringing talk with reference to the navy issue. He said in part:

Through men not directly responsible to the electorate of Canada our naval proposals have been defeated for the moment, and an increased burden has for the present been proposed and accepted beyond the seas. We have every confidence that this defeat is but temporary, and that the duty of Canada will yet be honorably discharged."

The Countess of Warwick has decided to enter the movie business. It was a former Earl of Warwick, who a few moons ago, was also in the movie business, but that was with regard to his fees.

To The Editor

JUST ANOTHER PROTEST.

Editor of The Courier: Sir: If there was any person in this city one would not expect to head the forces of disorder, illegality, and injustice, it would be a minister of Christ, and yet the Rev. Mr. Brown calmly defies all precedents set by a thousand years of loyal evolution, and tells us before even a coroner's inquest has been held, or the most preliminary trial of the case, who is guilty of the murder, what is the state of mind of the accused person, what should be done with the prisoner, and that no jury should dare to bring in a verdict that in any way conflicts with his, Mr. Brown's autocratic finding.

If his attempt thus to prejudice the case, and to prejudice the minds of probable jurors were not contempt of court, and subject to sharp castigation, if the wretched prisoner had only means for his proper defence, one would think that common decency would lead a man of his profession to suppress his inclination to abolish all legal processes and condemn a man unheard and untried to hanging. I find it morally as bad as lynching, and intended to justify such Southern methods of justice; but so far no one but Mr. Brown himself has given him any authority to try the case, and condemn the criminal. We have not entrusted him with the powers claimed by the Spanish Inquisition. We do not hand criminals over to Churchmen for judgment in this age of the world, and he would do well, in future, to wait the result of the calm unbiassed course of British justice, before he condemns his fellowman to death. We shall not abolish our law courts, and our trials by jury, because the Rev. Mr. Brown has decided the case in advance for us in the pulpit, even though he say, "I am Sir Oracle and when I open my mouth let no dog bark."

Once again, I ask for ordinary British fair play in the trial of a man, who has neither money, friends, nor intelligence enough to defend himself, even by silence.

If Ensign Trickey has been misreported, I have not noticed that until tonight he repudiated the report that he had asked Taylor for details of his alleged crime; he seemed willing enough to accept the prominent position that the reporters gave him, and somehow evidence that obviously tells against the prisoner leaked out as a result of Ensign Trickey's inquiries and interviews, I said, and still think this is unjust to a prisoner of Taylor's mental capacity.

I suppose I need not have said, except for Mr. Brown's intentional misunderstanding of my position, that I like the rest of my fellow citizens, I

HOSPITAL BOARD DOWN TO BUSINESS

Regular Meeting of the Board Was Held Tuesday Afternoon.

The monthly meeting of the board of governors of the Brantford General Hospital was held yesterday afternoon, Mr. C. H. Waterous presiding, and there being also present Warden Kendrick, Dr. Bell and Messrs. Beon, Watt and T. H. Preston.

The usual monthly accounts were passed.

The report of the superintendent, Miss Carson, showed that during the month 81 patients had been admitted, 84 discharged and eight had died. The highest number of patients in any one day was 51. Reference was also made to the fact that Miss Gee, the head nurse, had resigned, and the appointment of a dietitian and house-keeper for the Nurses' Home was recommended. The board took steps toward filling both these places. The position of head nurse will be offered to Miss McCullough, one of the graduating nurses.

A number of cases of indigent patients who ought not longer to be in the hospital was reported upon by the superintendent, and suitable action taken in each case.

A letter was read from the W.H.A. thanking the board for presenting them with a tablet to be placed in the Nurses' Home.

The offer of the Schultz Bros Company of $75 for the old morgue and driving shed was accepted, conditional on the morgue not being disturbed until the new one is completed.

The superintendent was authorized to procure Florence Nightingale medals and floral bouquets for the graduating nurses. Also complimentary tickets for the Opera House for these young ladies on the occasion of the Maude Adams performance.

The plans for the remodelling of the present main hospital building were submitted by Dr. Bell. The building committee was authorized to secure tenders at once for the new operating rooms, but the rest of the work will be left over until next year.

The chairman submitted a letter from Dr. Bell resigning his position on the building committee, of which he has been a most efficient chairman, because he found the work to be more than his health would permit.

The chairman and other governors expressed high appreciation of Dr. Bell's services, and the hope that some arrangement could be made by which he would at least remain on the committee. Definite action was deferred until the next meeting.

The Opening of the Nurses' Home.

The suggested program for the opening of the Nurses' Home and the graduating exercises on Friday was submitted, and referred to a sub-committee. It was arranged that from Dr. Bruce Smith, the government inspector of hospitals; prayer by Rev. Dr. Mackenzie; the formal gift of the home to the governors by the ladies and the acceptance of the same by the governors; address to the graduating nurses by Dr. E. R. Secord; presentation of pins, bouquets and other gifts to the successful nurses, etc. Formal invitations to be present will be extended to the members of the City and County Council, the directors of the Brant Sanatorium and the members of the Brant Medical Association, but the entire public is cordially invited. The exercises will take place at 3:30 p.m.

Boys' Work Meeting.

A strong committee was appointed to assist with the work in connection with the coming gathering at which some 500 or 600 boys from all parts of Western Ontario will be present. Rev. Mr. Hamilton was elected president and Mr. A. E. Day Secretary. The Ladies Aid Societies of the city will also organize in connection with the matter.

Last to See Radford

EDMONTON, Alb., Sept. 17.—F. S. Dowling, who is now in Edmonton, was one of the last white men to see Harry Radford alive. Dowling, a mining engineer, spent the summer of 1911 in the Arctic, travelling as far north as Banks Land, within 600 miles of the North Pole. He saw Radford at Fort Resolution and again at Fort Norman, west of Great Bear Lake. "Pretty risky," were Radford's last words as he pulled out of the fort, in reply to the words of Dowling at wishing him safe on his voyage. Dowling declares Radford was of a temper which would soon get him disliked by the natives, who are selfish and resentful. Dowling intends to return to the north to investigate some mineral fields.

Thaw to Appear

(Continued from Page 1) of yesterday over William Travers Jerome by playing the piano in the parlor of the hotel where he had been quartered here. Around him sat an admiring throng of hotel patrons. He played classical music mostly and avoided the modern rag time.

For over an hour he was at the piano. Ex-Governor Stone of Pennsylvania, was the only lawyer with Thaw today. The others satisfied with their work in having the federal habeas corpus hearing indefinitely suspended, left town last night. Mr. Jerome also left. He will go to Concord, probably on Monday of next week, to prepare for the extradition hearing.

INFERNAL MACHINE SENT TO GEN. OTIS

Proprietor of the Los Angeles Times Object of Another Attempt.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 17.—An attempt on the life of Gen. Harrison Bray Otis, whose newspaper plant, The Los Angeles Times, was destroyed by the McNamara, several years ago, was made yesterday, when a machine, said by the police experts to be a high explosive, was sent through the mails.

In the forenoon, when Gen. Otis' mail was received at his home, a package was taken by the Japanese servant, who stripped the paper wrapping from a peculiar box. The package was so suspicious in appearance, that the servant called Gen. Otis and showed it to him.

Gen. Otis summoned the police and Captain Felts, the powder expert of the department, opened the package from the side and pronounced the contents dynamite. There were four sticks.

"There is sufficient dynamite in that box," said Captain Felts, "to have killed a regiment. The dynamite is of high power, generally spoken of as 85 per cent. glycerine. It is controllable by a mechanism that would explode the dynamite had it been opened in the usual way. The top of the box was loose and would readily have opened to the touch of the finger sliding back in a groove. The under part of the lid contained a rough substance that would have passed over the head of a match or a fulminating cap and caused an explosion.

"There were two matches arranged so that they would scratch on sandpaper if the covering was torn, and the concussion cap connected with a stick of dynamite. It is a miracle that the bomb was not exploded in the mails."

Otis Kept Nerve. "Without a trace of nervousness after the narrow escape from death, Gen. Otis told of how the bomb was received, and how he had first joked with his Japanese servant about it. "I was writing a letter when the mail arrived. As usual the Japanese servant opens the mail and gives it to me. He had taken off the outer covering carefully, when he called to me: 'This thing looks like dynamite.' "I supposed he was only joking, and I called back to him not to strike it with a hammer. "But say general, this is dynamite," and his tone was such that I went over to him. I telephoned the police, and the package arrived, we drove down in my automobile and delivered the bomb to Chief Sebastian. "I am glad I have a careful Japanese," was the laconic remark of Gen. Otis.

The date of the stamp is illegible. The package was addressed to H. G. Otis, 2401 Wilshire Boulevard, City. It was written with a blue indelible pencil, and by a neat penman. The whole box was not more than three to four inches in dimension.

11, pavement $5,495.89—$27,079.03. In addition there were frontage taxes under agreement of some $40,000.

Cross-examined the witness said that since the railway had gone into the hands of a receiver, taxes had been paid in of $5,000 and $2,500, or $7,500 in all.

Q—"You've heard that Lorne Bridge is not safe?" A—"I've seen it in the papers."

Q—"In the newspapers, eh?" A—"Just like a good many other things in papers."

Mr. C. E. Bunnell testified that he was a civil engineer.

Q—"Son of City Treasurer Bunnell, eh?" A—"Yes."

He had examined the condition of the Street Railway rolling stock, and testified that it was not up to the mark.

Q—"You are connected with the Lake Erie and Northern Railway?" A—"Yes."

Q—"A road which is against the present Street Railway system?" A—"I am not here to answer that question."

Q—"How old are you, 21 or 22?" A—"No, 27."

Q—"You and your father are for public ownership?" A—"I have no views to express on that subject."

Mr. Wallace, formerly solicitor of the Grand Valley gave some testimony and this closed the case for the city.

The Defence Mr. Watson submitted that there was no case.

His Lordship overruled that, and said the case must go on.

Mr. A. James, C.E., acting for the Toronto receiver, swore that the overhead construction and track were in a good serviceable condition. That also applied to the rolling stock.

Q—"As compared with other places?" A—"It is a good service."

He hadn't examined the West Brantford end of the line because it had not been operated since he was first called in. He didn't know the reason.

Q—"As to the cars?" A—"They are clean, operated on schedule time and have all provisions necessary for safety."

To the Judge—"All modern improvements."

A—"Yes, except electric bells."

The Judge—"Why about seats?" A—"They are modern according to size of cars."

His Lordship asked witness as to how often the cars had been painted.

A—"Some this year."

The Judge—"How many not?" A—"I can't say, your Lordship; others would know better."

The Judge—"I am asking you to tell what you know about matters."

A—"All have been repainted inside of ten years."

Q—"Apart from electric bells the cars are modern?" A—"Yes, for cars not of the heavier class."

The Judge—"What do you mean by heavier class?" A—"Cars in use in Toronto and other places."

The Judge—"Why shouldn't Brantford have as heavy a class of car as any other place?"

At another point, when the Judge was questioning the witness, Mr. Watson remarked, "You seem to be loaded up against the cars, my Lord."

His Lordship—"I have ridden on them, Mr. Watson." (Laughter)

Q—"What would it cost to replace the present equipment with fairly modern rolling stock?" A—"About $400,000."

The Judge—"Would that include cushion seats?"

Q—"Have you included the value of the franchise in your figures?" A—"No."

Q—"You know that Toronto Street Railway franchise is held at $20,000,000."

A—"Yes sir."

Mr. Henderson—"All the wheels are true—none of them were flat."

The Judge—"Were the same cars put on as when the horse cars were given up."

Mr. Henderson—"They have been running for thirty years my Lord."

The Judge—"And yet they have all the modern improvements."

Q—"What about vestibules?" A—"Modern."

Q—"Are they large enough for one person to get on while another is getting off?"

A—"No."

After more cross questions by Mr. Henderson, the Judge remarked, "I am afraid the witness is referring to ancient history."

In response to questions by the Judge the witness admitted the comparative corrections of the description of the road given by Mr. Bunnell C. E.

Mr. Larmouth C. E. of Peterboro said he thought the place was about the size of Brantford. He had examined the Brantford plant thoroughly.

The track work as a whole was in a fair operative condition and the greater part of it in excellent condition. He meant foundations, ties and rails.

Overhead rails in good condition. Arthur street was in fair operating condition but not as good as the rest. It was not dangerous. He didn't examine Lorne Bridge or the West Brantford end as the latter was not operating.

He thought the cars operated better than they perhaps should. The life of a car with repairs is about twenty-five years.

He could not suggest any modern devices for "that type of car." He saw a flat wheel the day he was here. That was quite a common occurrence on all roads. Wheels would last a year.

The Judge—"Is the car of twenty-five years ago on the same basis as size of cars?"

The Witness—"In some respects, my Lord."

The Judge—"Or yes, on wheels and therefore a car."

In further reply to the Judge witness admitted that at night colored light on cars would be useful to denote destination.

Mr. Watson—"People can ascertain. The Judge—"Yes by stopping each car."

To Mr. Henderson, witness finally admitted that if called upon to furnish cars of a modern description he would not furnish the existing plant used in Brantford.

Mr. M. W. Green of the Railway Company said that $133,000 had been spent on construction work since January 1908. He heard that since more had been expended. The first mortgage issued on the city portion of the line was in 1902 for $125,000 to the National Trust Company, Toronto (the General Electric Co.'s).

The total bond issue had been $1,700,000. There were many holders in Brantford. The $1,700,000 represented the entire scheme including the Brantford plant, from Brantford to Galt City, Paris, a line to Port Dover, and a line to Ingersoll and Woodstock. The two last named had not been built, but some surveys had been made.

"STUFFY" M'INNIS IN THE LIMELIGHT

His Timely Hitting Proved Naps' Downfall—Game Went Ten Innings.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 17.—In a long drawn out game, which was marred by poor work by certain twirlers, Philadelphia yesterday defeated Cleveland in ten innings by 8 to 7.

McInnis, who led both teams at bat with a triple, a double and two singles in five times up, scored the winning tally on his two bagger and Walsh's single. After three innings of good twirling Shawkey and Steen began to weaken.

Shawkey was taken out after pitching five innings, with Cleveland ahead by 5 to 2. Penock disposed of the first two batsmen in the 6th and then forced in a run by giving four passes.

Houck, who finished the inning, sent in another tally on a single. Plank pitched the last four innings and did not permit a hit or run. Steen was taken out in the sixth after giving three passes and being hit for a single, which yielded one run and left the bases filled when James went to the rescue. The score: Philadelphia 8, Cleveland 7.

Eleven Strikeouts for Walter Johnson.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Walter Johnson and Joe Benz engaged in a great pitching duel here yesterday, the former coming out the victor after an uphill fight. Chicago got off to a one run lead in the opening inning, and it was not until two were out in the seventh that Washington got to Benz for its first hit and tied the score. Score: Washington 2; Chicago, 1.

Evened It Up With the Highlanders.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Detroit won its last game of the season here yesterday, thereby evening the series with New York. The score was 4 to 3. Jennings' team stopped Caldwell, who had won five straight games, by bunching hits in the seventh and eighth innings. Daus was hit harder than Caldwell, but was tight in the pinches. Onslow's hand was hurt in the ninth inning trying to field Holden's single, and he had to retire. The score: Detroit 4, New York 3.

GROH'S TIMELY HIT BEAT THE PHILLIES.

Pitchers Had Trouble With Slippery Ball—Doolin's Team Won Second Game.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 17.—Philadelphia and Cincinnati broke even in a double-header yesterday, the locals winning the first game 4 to 3 and Philadelphia capturing the second, which went six innings 4 to 0.

The second game was begun in a drizzling rain, which continued almost throughout the contest and was called at the end of the sixth on account of darkness.

In the opening struggle honors were even up to the eighth, when Philadelphia mainly through Johnson's wildness managed to squeeze a run over the plate on two bases on balls and a single. This put the score at 3 to 2 in Philadelphia's favor.

In the ninth, however, with a slippery ball to handle Seaton lost control. He walked three men and then Groh managed to connect with one of his curves and pelted the ball into deep left, which Magee misjudged, scoring Berghammer with the tying run and Packard with the winning run.

In the second game Mayer was effective at all stages while Robertson, a recruit from Savannah, Ga., had one bad inning, the third. At this stage Knabe walked, Becker singled and Lobert popped to the outfield. Magee filled the bases, and Cravath's double scored all three men. Luders' single brought in Cravath. This ended the run-getting. Score: First game—Cincinnati 4, Philadelphia 3. Second game—Philadelphia 4, Cincinnati 0.

GIANTS AND ATHLETICS ALMOST SURE TO BE THE TEAMS IN THE WORLD'S SERIES

That the Giants and Athletics will meet for the third time in a world's series seems now almost a certainty.

The big series is only about three weeks distant and while no official announcement has been made it is more than probable that the National Commission is going ahead with the arrangements on the assumption that New York and Philadelphia will represent the National and American Leagues, respectively.

The chances of either team being displaced are so slim as to be scarcely worth considering.

Arguments are already being heard of the relative merits of the Giants and Athletics and of the individual players in their respective positions.

It is now necessary for the Phillies to win twenty of their remaining twenty-four games, while the Giants are breaking even in their twenty games for the Philadelphia to beat the New Yorkers for the National League gongalon. It looks like a hopeless task, more particularly as Charley Doolin's men must play sixteen games in ten days after returning from the present swing around the western end of the circuit.

Seven are with Boston in four days, four with Brooklyn in three days and five with the Giants in three days. Pitchers are not made of iron.

Washington made their final dash too late to seriously menace the position of the Athletics. In winning five straight games from the Naps last week they snuffed out the hopes of the Clevelanders.

The Senators played the best baseball in the American League last week, and there is just a question whether the Washington team would not be more formidable opponents for the Giants in the world's series than the Athletics.

The latter's pitching staff is none too dependable, especially since the definite announcement that Jack Coombs has gone back to a hospital to be placed in a plaster cast.

The Athletics have seventeen games to play, and if they win nine and lose eight their percentage will be .636. To equal this the Cleveland Naps must win their last fifteen games in a row.

As a matter of fact, the Athletics must travel below the 500 mark for the remainder of the season to give either the Naps or the Senators even an outside chance of becoming American League champions. Can you see the handsome legs of the Athletics' pitcher, lefty letting about $5,000 each in world's series earnings slip away from them? They should worry.

FIGHTING FOR THREE FLAGS

Rochester appears to be engaged in a hopeless task in trying to beat Newark out for the International League pennant.

Both teams won yesterday, and the Indians' lead remains a game and a half. Newark won from Providence yesterday by means of a balk with a man on third. This was the only run of the game.

Enzmann held the Grays to two hits, while Reisigl allowed the Indians but three.

The Hustlers have a hard row to hoe. If the Indians win only two of the six games remaining to be played, Rochester must win four out of five to clinch the flag. This is not probable, but no easy task. If, on the other hand Newark wakes up and wins three of the remaining six games, Rochester will have to win Toronto both here and in Rochester. Newark has only four regular games left, one with Providence and three with Jersey City. The other two may not be played.

The Athletics drove another spike in the American League pennant yesterday by beating Cleveland 8 to 7 in ten innings. There is little chance of Connie Mack's men being ousted from the uppermost position.

Washington and Cleveland are battling for second place, with one game between them. Walter Johnson outpitched Joe Benz in a bitter duel yesterday. The big speed merchant had eleven strikeouts to his credit.

The Giants did not play at Chicago owing to rain. The Phillies won and lost at Cincinnati, so there is little or no change in the standing this morning. The Giants are at St. Louis today, and the Phillies at Pittsburgh.

THE Tales Guar TH

Copyright, 1913, by W. G. Chapman
 Our auto had gone dead after a long and great loose paving block. The chauffeur was busying himself getting the machine into shape again, and while Mary could brook no delay, but it was his character never to sit placidly by with his hands. He had estimated a stop of some continuance, had leaped to the vehicle, and asked for my help. It was a quiet part of the city, remembered by old settlers as once the narrow winding street, tending only two blocks, had been identical. Business had reached a swing over and fallen into the net of rag warehouses and stoneware. Some of the rickety old wooden structures had gone to decay and disuse. We strolled along stone walk, cracked and irregular while my friend desecrated on the edge past of those old tottering shanties.

It was sudden, startling, tragic cry, the call, the appeal that rang out upon that dull afternoon. The near hum of business activity not soften or dash it out. Marvel to a sharp halt and I followed his ample. Those keen eyes of his one came into the house and stood opposite us. Mine followed the caution of his own, roved across gray house fronts and rested on third story, where every sash boarded up or out of place.

"For the love of heaven—oh, one come into the house and stand. Those were the words, uttered, weird, thrilling accents. Time, and the speaker, a fair young girl, mounted with a suggestion of the tense and dramatic. She was frantically against the dark background of her against the rotting window frame. She wavered as though she would over the low reaching casement of the street. Her face was white marble, her eyes stricken with a fearful emotion of horror or grief. She saw us, and her cry meant for us.

"Come," said Marvel simply, and started to cross the street, shriek, ringing, far-echoing, but halted. Together we went out what had marked the waning form a pair of arms extended. They were sinuous, though stalwart, full, all-keen vestments enclosed. They encircled the shrieking girl, drew her back, one of them muffled face in the folds of a heavy, black coat, with the barb of the actor in the momentary drama, an oriental tinge to the situation.

There was blankness then, there had been animation. The drama or tragedy, the curtain down and the act ended. I would have seen the girl, but she was lightened me. He reached the site pavement, made a rush, and powerful body came like a bat ram against the closed door, and from its hinges like a barrier of the dull afternoon light of day traced a long passageway, teeming beyond was gloom. There was a flash as we reached a shaking, stony stairway. My friend had pulled out his portable electric tube, lowered it and himself, guided a shifting focus point that showed one of the girl's feet, which had reached a landing. A frail door edged the second flight. It was unlatched, and yielded to a touch of the top of the stairway we came a large room. It held the open day space, which, when it mysteriously vanished, had opened our vision for the space of moments. As Marvel passed, he picked up a piece of paper, a thin, flexible one of narrow stationery, glanced over the trailing we, a female form just leaping from the step. As she turned to run, the alley towards the next street turned slightly.

"The same girl," observed sententiously. "Yes, I asserted, noting the hand was held closely across her face and that she tottered as she nervously on the verge of collapse nervous excitement. I saw Marvel make a motion dash after her. Then he saw too late. At the mouth of the street an automobile, evidently being for the girl. She fairly leaped to her feet as she pulled herself up, the urgency with which the chauffeur acted telling that she gave him some speedy drive. The machine fitted out of a whisk, but not until my coat

SUFFRAGETTES AT TRICKS AGAIN
 They Made Desperate Attempt to Burn Down Peshurst Place in Kent.
 (Canadian Press Dispatch)
 LONDON, Sept. 17.—A desperate attempt by a suffragette "arson squad" to burn down Peshurst Place, the historic fourteenth-century country seat of Lord De Lisle and Dudley at Tunbridge, Kent, was made in the course of last night. The inmates of the great mansion, awakened by the crackling of wood and by clouds of smoke, found the frame work of a number of windows ablaze. A working party of household employes soon succeeded in extinguishing the flames with the efficient apparatus on the premises. Two women were seen fleeing across the lawn in front of the building, and a large amount of suffragette literature was found in the grounds, white heaps of rags, soaked in petroleum, was discovered in several places. Great indignation prevails among the neighboring residents, as it is thought probable that the mansion hitherto open to visitors, may be closed. It contains invaluable portraits of ancestors of the holder of the title, whose family name is Sidney. Among them are that of Philip Sidney, the famous English general and poet of the sixteenth century and that of Algernon Sidney, the politician beheaded in the seventeenth century for complicity in Rye House plot to kill King Charles II.

 CHAPTER XIV.
 ONE morning three months later Guy Oscar drew up in line his flying column. He was going back to England with the first consignment of simiacine. During the twelve weeks that lay behind there had been constant reference made to his little body of picked men, and the leader had selected with a grave deliberation that promised well. The lost soldier that was in him was all astir in his veins as he reviewed his command in the cool air of early morning. The journey from Maala to the plateau had occupied a busy two months. Oscar expected to reach Maala with his men in forty days. Filled up in neat square cases, such as could be carried in pairs by a man of ordinary strength, was the crop of simiacine, roughly valued by Victor Durново at £40,000. Ten men could carry the whole of it, and the twenty cases set close together on the ground made a bed for Guy Oscar. Upon this he lay, and he stretched his limbs every night along the journey that followed. It was on the open ground in front of the tents that Guy Oscar drew up his quick marching column before the sun had sprung up in its fantastic tropical way from the distant line of virgin forest. As he walked along the line, making a suggestion here, pulling on a shoulder rope there, he looked stanch and strong as any man might wish to be. His face was bronzed, his eyes that eyebrows and mustache stood out almost black, though in reality they were only brown. His eyes did not seem to be suffering from the heaviness applicable in others; altogether, the climate and the mystic breath of the simiacine did not appear to affect him as they did his companions. This was probably accounted for by the fact that, being chief of the hunters, most of his days had been passed on the lower slopes in search of game. Oscar gave the signal for the men to start, and the long caravan defiled. The porters nodded to Meredith with a great display of white teeth, while the head men, the captains of tens, stepped out of the ranks and shook hands. Before they had disappeared over the edge of the plateau Joseph came forward to say goodbye to Oscar. "And it is understood," said the latter, "that I pay in your account at Lloyd's bank your share of the proceeds." Joseph grinned. "Yes, sir; if you please; presume it's a safe bank." Meredith walked a little way down the slope with Oscar. "Goodby, old chap," he said, when the parting came. "Good luck, and all that. Hope you will find all right at home. By the way," he shouted after him, "give my kind regards to the Gossams at Louisa." And so the first consignment of simiacine was sent from the plateau to the coast. Guy Oscar was one of those de-

FROM ALL OVER THE GREAT WEST
 Come Reports From Women of Dodd's Kidney Pills. Telling of Renewed Health and Fresh Vigor Through Using The Great Canadian Remedy.
 OVERLAND, Sask., Sept. 15.—(Special)—From all over this great west are coming statements from women who have found renewed health and fresh vigor through using Dodd's Kidney Pills and in this growing community evidence is not lacking that the great Canadian remedy, is daily gaining friends among those, on whom the burdens of life fall most heavily. Mrs. M. D. Forsberg, a well-known resident, says: "Dodd's Kidney Pills did me a great deal of good. I tried two other kinds of medicines before using them but it was Dodd's Kidney Pills that benefited me." Women's health depends on the kidneys. If the kidneys are not right the result is weakness and weariness and a burden of pain almost too great to bear. Dodd's Kidney Pills make the kidneys right the result is that all poison is strained out of the blood, the seeds of disease are removed and the purified blood carries health and vigor to all parts of the body. Almost any bright, healthy woman can tell you why Dodd's Kidney Pills are known as woman's best friend. Five men who do a few things and do those few very well. In forty-three days he deposited the twenty precious cases in Gordon's go-downs at Louisa and paid off the porters, of whom he had not lost one. These duties performed, he turned his steps toward the baggage. He had refused Gordon's invitation to stay with him until the next day, when the coasting steamer was expected. To tell the truth, he was not very much prepossessed in Maurice's favor, and it was with a doubtful mind that he turned his steps toward the little house in the forest between Louisa and the sea. "And when did you leave them?" asked Jocelyn, after her visitor had explained who she was. "I left them forty-four days ago," he replied. "And were they well?" "Oh yes," he replied. "You know Meredith?" "Yes," she said. "We know Mr. Meredith." The visitor did not speak at once, and she looked up at him over the flowers, with grave politeness. "Meredith," he said, "is one of the most remarkable men I have ever met." "Really," she replied, with a kindly interest. "How?" "As he is not the man, I took him for. He is so wonderfully polite and gentle and pleasant." "Are you going back to them?" "No, I leave tomorrow morning early by the Portuguese post. I am going home to be married." "Indeed! Then I suppose you will wash your hands of us forever?" "Not quite," he replied. "I told Meredith that I would be prepared to go up to him in case of emergency, but not otherwise. I shall, of course, still be interested in the scheme. I take home the first consignment of simiacine; we have been very successful you know. I shall have to stay in London to sell that. I have a horse there." "Are you to be married at once?" inquired Jocelyn, with that frank interest which makes it so much easier for a man to talk of his own affairs to a woman than to one of his own sex. "As soon as I can arrange it," he answered, with a little laugh. "There is nothing to wait for. We are both orphan, and unfortunately we are fairly well off."

SAME TREATMENT AS RUSSIANS GOT
 This is Asked for Mrs. Pankhurst by American Women.
 NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—On considering that a telegram received from Secretary of Labor Wilson, saying that if Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the English militant suffragette, seeks admission to the United States, her case will be handled in exactly the same way as any other alien seeking admission, it is evasive the Women's Political Union through United States President, Mrs. Harriet Stanton-Bloch has addressed a letter to President Wilson requesting for Mrs. Pankhurst the same treatment shown the Russian revolutionists, Mme. Broshkovsky and Count Tscharkovsky. "They," the letter says, "were not subjected to any inquiry as to their acts in Russia or as to their attitude toward the Czar, and no English militant should be required to answer questions in regard to their attitude toward the English Government. To keep the hands white, wash them with oatmeal water."

DUNLOP AND RENFER ONLY ARE DRAFTED
 Only Two Canadian League Players to Go to Higher Company.
 George Dunlop, the former London shortstop, and Renfer, the Ottawa pitcher, will be the only Canadian League players of the season of 1913 to get to the big show. The former was purchased by Cleveland, while the Detroit Tigers recalled Renfer. However, "Brooklyn" and Toronto are very friendly, and it is possible that the former Canadian League players will come back to the Queen City next season. These three players will have a chance to show, but it is doubted that they will all stick. The majority of critics expect Renfer back in the Canadian League next season. Dunlop will certainly not come back. There is a possibility that some of the Class AA and Class A teams will draft some of the players of the Canadian League. There are some of them in demand, such as Donohue, Hamilton, Doherty, Ottawa, Eddie Wright, St. Thomas, Neile, Bierbauer and Heck of London. It is thought that at least half these chaps will go to a faster organization. They will have to wait for another year before they get a chance at the big show.

Set a New Standard
 In their narrow scope, the Canadian League players are being drafted in large numbers. The R.M.S. Royal Edward R.M.S. Royal George have got a new standard in their equipment, and the comfort and pleasure of each passenger is the first consideration. H.C.  "Heavy work, severe straining and evil habits in youth brought on Varicose Veins. When I worked hard the aching would become severe and I was often laid up for a week at a time. My family physician told me as operative work was my business that I should try several specialties, but soon found out all they wanted was my money. I consulted and took upon all doctors as little better than rogues. One day my boss asked me why I was off work so much and I told him my condition. He advised me to consult Dr. Kennedy & Kennedy, as he had taken treatment from them himself and knew they were square and ethical. I wrote them and got Ten New Mercurio Tablets. My progress was somewhat slow and during the first month's treatment I was somewhat discouraged. However, I continued treatment for three months longer and was rewarded with a complete cure. I could only say, 'It was worth a month's sleep before treatment, now I am earning $10 and never have a day's rest.' I wish all sufferers knew of your valuable treatment."
