A stave warehouse! Perhaps some of my readers conjure up horrible visious of such a place. They fancy some foul, obscure den, some horrible Tortarus' informis, ingens, cis innen ademptum." But no, innocent friend! in these days men have learned the art of sinning expertly and genteielly, so as not to shock the eyes and senses of respectable society. Human property is high in the market: and is therefore well fed, well cleaned, tended and looked after, that it may come to sale sleek, and strong, and shining. A slave-warehouse in New Orleans is a house externally not much unlike many others; kept with meatness: and where every day you may see arranged, under a sort of shed along the outside, rows of men and women, who stand there as a sign of the property sold within.

Then you shall be courteously entreated to call and examine, and shall find an abundance of husbands and wives, brothers, sisters, fathers, mothers, and young children, to be "sold separately or in lots, to suit the convenience of the purchaser:" and that soul immortal, once bought with blood and anguish by the Son of God, when the earth shook, and the rocks rent, and the graves were oponed, can be sold, leased, mortagaed, exchanged for groceries or dry goods, to suit the phases of trade or the fancy of the purchaser.

It was a day or two after the conversation between Maria and Miss Ophelia, that Ton, Adolph, and about half-a-dozen others of the St. Clare estate, were turned over to the loving kindness of Mr. Skeggs, the keeper of a depot on——street, to await the auction next day.

Tom had with him quite a sizable trunk full of clothing, as had most others of them. They were ushered for the night into a long room, where many other men of all ages, sizes, and shades of complexion were assembled, and from which roars of laughter and unthinking merriment were proceedings; and, therefore, setting his trunk as far as possible from the noisy group, he sat down on it and leaned his face against the wall.

The dealers in the human article make scrupulous The Buties, both Queen's many importation of the Oats (Tounage duty earlies).

Court for the Trial of Courts for the Court fo

Hon. Donald Mac Donald, we Mexender and Donald Mac Donald.

This was an Action for a Troupes alleged to have been committed by the Defendants, on the Property of the Flaintiff, simate at Trouglis, in Gasen's County. The same occupied a considerable share of the attention of the Court, but was chiefly remarkable from an atterention, which took plane is the course of the precedings, between the Chalman (Captain Swabey) and Theophilus Stewart, Lee, a Barrister and Attorney of the Supreme Court. Mr. Stewart chained—as a matter of right—to appear as Counced for the Defendants, and was proceeding to set as each, in a way that did not appear exactly to coincide with the Chalman's views of propriety in such cases. Mr. Stewart's claim was therefore warming and energetically resisted by him, and one or two of at the other citing Magistrates, who contended that if heard at all, it could only be by the sufference of the Court, and not as an abstract right. Mr. Stewart, however, etill pensisting that he had a right to be heard as all, it could only be by the sufference of the Court, and not as an abstract right. Mr. Stewart has Mr. Stewart had the best side of the question, and on the Magistrates resuming their cents; and on the Magistrate interruption of measurements and the case as he thought proper. Ultimately, it was decided by their Worships that the case did not content that Mr. Stewart had the best side of the question, and on the Magistrate interruption of measurements and the public to state, that he found he had been in error in supposing that counsel could only be heard, in cases such as that just decided, as a matter of sufferance, and that it was perfectly optional with the Court to allow or disallow of another countries. This opinion had been founded upon what he knew to be the practice, formerly, in England, where he had, for a number of years, acted as a Magistrate; and he was, at the time, not aware, that an Act had subsequently been passed by the Imperial Parliament, which he freely actions of institute on Nicholas Vass, v. James Welly.

Nicholas Vass, v. James Kelly.

T. Henth Haviland, Eq., appeared for the Plaintiff, who resides in Halifax, N. S. He said that even if the Rule respecting counsel did not apply in Mr Stewart's case, there could be no objection to his appearing in the present one, as he was the Agent of Mr. Vass. This action was brought in consequence of a Treapass committed by the defendant, in taking possession of a house, fronting on Queen's Equare, in this Town, belonging to the plaintiff, without his or his atterney's permission, and occupying the same. He (Sir. Haviland) had brought a similar action, only a fortnight before, against the defendant, on which occasion he had only sought the imposition of a nominal fine. Judgment was accordingly given for the sum of 10s. and costs. The defendant had, however, gone to Jail, and having remained there the full time required by law, he had again taken possession of the present was, therefore, their Worships would perceive, a reiterated and aggravated case of treaspass. Mr Hatchissen here intimated that he was authorised to state, that if Mr. Haviland would consent to wait a few days, the defendant would "clear out." Mr. Haviland said he did not know what might be meant by the words "a few days," but as he was not acting for himself in the matter, he must decline consenting to any further extension of time in favor of the defendant. He must ask, however, at the hands of their Worships, the imposition of such a fine, in the present instance, as would effectually prevent his being again compelled to lodge another complaint before them. This might, by some, be thought a very hard case, but when it was considered that he do hotained Judgment against the defendant as far back as July, 1851, and that he allowed even months to rain before insuing the Writ, they might, perhaps, he disposed to modify that opinion; and the Defendant now wanted a further extension of time!

far back as July, 1851, and that he allowed seven months to run before issuing the Writ, they might, perhaps, be disposed to modify that opinion; and the Defendant new wanted a further extension of time? This, however, was new impossible, as he held a letter in his hand from Mr. Yasa, in which he stated, peramptorily, that the defendant must go est.

Mr. Kelly here handed in some papers, merely stating that he had lost £700 by the transaction, and that he should throw himself upon the merey of the Court.

Mr. Haviland thought that, in this case, the Court would not be doing their duty if they merely imposed a nominal fine. A heavy penalty was, he said, necessary to prevent the defendant's again lying out the time in Jail. He thought that this was a case which called for no particular sympathy on the part of their Worships; but should they see fit to deal leniently with bim, they could, of course, do so—it must, however, he done without his consent or approbation.

The Defendant was thereupon convicted; Fined £5, said, in default of payment, to be imprisoned thee months. Mr.O.H.

Gentlemen—In returning you my sincere thanks for this kind testimonial, which affords so handsome as well as a substantial a proof of the manner in which you are pleused to regard my humble efforts in introducing gas-light into this community, permit one to say that the people of Harbour Grace owe it more to the proof of the same of the spirit of advancement which characterizes our age, than to the exertions of myself or any other individual. I thank you especially for the gratifying way in which you have associated my aname with the cause of Temperance, which my estimation as well as your own stands so conspicuous among the improvements of the day.

Gentlemen,—My residence among you was of short duration, nevertheless the uniform kindness, sympathy, and assistance I have experieced from you all, will be cherished in my rencembrance long after I have left your shores.

Last week we saw a very well executed painting of the disastrous gale, which occurred in 1851, by which so many American fishing vessels were wrecked and so many lives lost. It has been Painted by Mr. Thrasher of this town for the New York Exhibition, and we doubt not will be an object of interest to many who may visit the Crystal Palace. The framing has been very neatly and appropriately done by Mr. Warren.

In no country in the world does intemporance in a more revolting form than in England and America. The habitual light-heartedness of the continental European, and the nature of the beverages most readly attainable are with him safeguards against excess. In the Angle Saxon blood we find, however, a gravity and decision of character which, when faily developed, produces the noblest results, but which, under the current of adverse of the company and the rates of Assurance.

Beyond the partition there is a spot which in many gin-houses is appropriated to gentlement life there are degrees and castes even in gin drinking, though it be a vice which of all others seems to susk its devotees to the most degrading equality. Yes—give the gentlemen gin drinkers a place—for in a few yedrs they will sink to the common room. Then the strong hand will be palsied, the righteye dim, and broadcloth and silk flaunt not in graceful folds, but in looped and windowed raggedness. And darker and drearier will, be the downward and rapid course to—death. There is one—a black band around his crushed white hat—who once was among the gentlemen—God help him! Such are the patrons of a Gin Palace. On the cell has acver in our own country raged to the extent to which it prevails in England. Thanks to the strenous exertions of philinthropists, it has been greatly subdued. Much however, still remains to be done—say much. Our national character is that of mea who, though impulsive and actively are still grave and carnest. While, on the one hand, we have all the temptation of the Englishmen, on the other, we are far more likely to experience nervous excitement and injury. This is a simply physical view of the case, but of what importance does it become when viewed in its fullest relations and what a fair land would our be, could we once banish from it the curse of intemperance!

Doctor Toby, a regular practising Physician, of East Machias, writes us under date of March 20, 1847:

"Please send mis half a gallow of your Gramp and Pain. Killers—it is this beat medicine to cure what it is represented to, that I everysed."

The Doctor first made use of it in his own case, for a severe sprain in the shoulder, caused by the upsetting of a stage, and found immediate relief, and soup evu used it in his practice.

Read the following. It speaks for itself.

RHEUMATISM CURED.

I certify, that I was efflicted with a violent Rheumatic pain in the small of my back, which entirely disabled me, so that I could not get up without the greatest pain and effort; nor could I walk without a cane, and but very little with. I applied Doctor Johnson's Anodyne Liniment, or Liquid Opodeldoc, and sveral other runselies, without any relief. After suffering in this way about, week, I purchased a bottle of Cramp and Pain Killer, prepared by Cuntis & Parrine, Bengor, and after three applications was entirely relieved and free from pain, and am now entirely sell. I also cared a friend of mine, who had been suffering for a long time with a fame side, with the same bottle. I believe it the best medicine in the world, and am happy to add my testimony, in its favor Okamp Pain Killer. All others bearing this name are base imitations.
