CHAPTER XXVII.

"The world will perhaps adjudge it thus, but I only know that my whole life and soul are wrapped up in you forever!"

"Captain Elwood!" Gladys spoke, firmly now. "Captain Elwood, you must not speak to me in this way. I never dreamed of love in connection with you."

A low cry of pain escaped him, and his face became white, and then livid. "Go on," he said, hoarsely. "Tell me what there is some hope."

"I cannot. Is it possible that you do not know that I am already given to another? My engagement has been announced in all the papers."

"Your engagement!" he whispered. "Great Heaven! is this true? Must I way good-bye to hope, to life?"

He covered her hands with kisses and tears; then he slowly rose to his feet, and by an effort calmed himself. His tones became even—almost quiet, but there was a set, stony look in his eyes that was pitiful to see.

"I did not know that it was wrong—hopeless—to love you—Lady Gladys, and God knows, I have given you my whole heart and soul. I did not know of any engagement—no one has ever mentioned it; but that is because we have not been long from Egypt. I do not blame you, but you have never spoken of any lover, you have always been so kind to me, and yet I cannot recall one word, one glance of encouragement. You are too good to deceive any one, in word, thought, or deed. But I think that you like me a little. I am egotistical enough for that."

"Indeed I do, Captain Elwood," Gladys said, quickly. "I value your friendship more than I can tell."

"Still, that is not what I want; it did add fuel to the fire of my passion, and I think that it will be better if we part at once, if I go away. It will not be wise of me to go to England, to Swinford Abbey with the earl. It would madden me to see you caressed by another, while I, who love you so much, must suffer in silence. No, no! I had better not go to Swinford Abbey!"

"It will be a disappointment to every one," Gladys said gently; "but you know your heart best. I shall be sorry, because I cannot afford to lose a friend."

He looked at her quickly. "That is a strange thing for you to say, Lady Gladys," he observed, thoughtfully, "a very strange thing!"

Among the first to welcome Lady Marcia and Lady Gladys were the Craythornes, and Gladys listened eagerly to all they had to say. "Of course, you have not heard much English news," Lady Craythorne said. "It is on the tapis that the Rev. Mr. Andrews is engaged to our pretty widow—Mrs. Nixey, you know. She is very wealthy, of course, and the parson's living is so poor."

"I quite expected something of the kind," observed Lady Marcia. "And the young man he was coaching, or cramming—I think that is what they call it—would you believe it? He has gone away broken-hearted, because Ada laughed at his professions of love. It was perfectly ridiculous how he carried on toward the

And she saw the force of his remark. "The beautiful daughter of the Earl of Swinford should not lack friends. You have your future husband, and he should be all in all to you. If you value my friendship so much that you do not care to part with it, Lady Gladys—if I can be of any service to you, nothing shall drive me away."

Again the fire of his passion shone in his eyes, and his tones sank to melting tenderness.

"Can it be," he whispered, hoarsely, "that this engagement of yours is a mere union of hands? It may be a mad notion of mine, but I have often noticed your pale cheeks, your weariness, your lack of interest in the beautiful world around us. Tell me, Lady Gladys, tell me?"

A wild hope again shone in his face, but Gladys shook her head. "It cannot make any difference to you, Captain Elwood. Nothing can stop my marriage, although it is not a love match. There is no question of love between me and Lord Cecil Stanhope."

"Lord Cecil Stanhope!" he muttered. "I do not know him, but I have heard of him. I am surprised that you should lend yourself to such a union. You were made to love and be loved. It is monstrous; but, of course, you are obeying your father, the earl. I shall not go away, now that I know so much, Lady Gladys, but I will not intrude myself upon you. I shall ever be ready to help you, if you need help, and I shall never love you less than I do now."

There was a ring of hope in his very tones, and Gladys regretted that she had said so much, but she replied:

"I may want your help some day, Captain Elwood. I know that I can trust you—I know that you are true!"

He seized one of her hands, and kissed it passionately, saying: "I shall be true to you!"

She remembered those words later; there was a mournful significance in them. She would not encourage his love; she would not give him the faintest hope. It was wrong—it was cruel. It would be best to confide in him as much as she dared, and yet she shrank from it. She told him that even if she were not bound to Lord Cecil Stanhope, it would be impossible for her to marry any other man—impossible for her to love any other man. She could not explain it, but he must never hope, he must never dream that she could look upon him in any other light than that of a dear and faithful friend.

But he shook his head, and smiled. He did not believe that such a thing were possible. Her words only filled him with a greater, wilder hope. He told himself that he would win her yet, if he had to wait the best years of his life.

Who was this Lord Cecil, and what was his claim upon her? What right had the earl to barter his child's body and soul? Was she merely yielding to parental control? Was she to be made miserable forever by obeying some false notions of honor?

He laughed to scorn the idea that she would never love—that one so sweet, so beautiful, so lovable, should lead a loveless life! She was innocent, she was young, she had not yet felt the passion that dwelt within her soul. It was but slumbering, and his should be the task to waken it to life, to beauty, and to eternal joy.

And if not? Then he would be her slave, he would watch her from afar, he would die for her!

CHAPTER XXIX.

A week later and Florence and its associations were but a dream. The earl and his party were back in England—back home again—and Lady Elwood and her son had accompanied them.

Among the first to welcome Lady Marcia and Lady Gladys were the Craythornes, and Gladys listened eagerly to all they had to say.

"Of course, you have not heard much English news," Lady Craythorne said. "It is on the tapis that the Rev. Mr. Andrews is engaged to our pretty widow—Mrs. Nixey, you know. She is very wealthy, of course, and the parson's living is so poor."

last—got madly jealous of Sir Charles Hastings."

Lady Craythorne laughed heartily at the recollection, and Gladys felt her cheeks burning.

"Do you know Sir Charles intimately?" asked Captain Frederick, suddenly looking up from a book he was reading. "He is an old college chum of mine."

"How delightful!" smiled Lady Craythorne, who had already decided that Captain Elwood would make a most eligible part for Flossie. "It is so nice to meet people who know one's most valued friends."

From this young soldier inferred friend of Hastings was a valued friend of Lady Craythorne.

"Of course you have heard something of this sad story?"

The captain inclined his head. It would have been quite romantic had he fallen in love with the lady afterward—like the stories we find in the novels! The most curious part is there were all kinds of reports about a sensational reappearance, but it is now considered by the friends of Sir Charles that it is quite impossible. Indeed, I doubt if she is living. His mother, Lady Hastings, has at length been induced to re-enter society, and people are quite eager to take her back again. I and my daughters will be their guests the second week in December. Ada is a great friend of Lady Hastings."

"I must look up Sir Charles one of these days," said Captain Frederick, and then he glanced at Lady Gladys, and wondered why she was so pale.

Lady Craythorne continued to chatter away; and for the first time Lady Marcia heard of the steward's strange conduct, and how bitterly the tenants resented it.

And when the rector remonstrated with him, he merely laughed, and told him to mind his own business. Of course, my lord will now bring Collins to book."

Gladys could bear no more, for she was aware that her father was at that moment closeted with the steward and Lord Cecil. She had seen them go into the library not half-an-hour earlier, and there was a terrible oppression on her spirits. This was Lord Cecil's first visit since their return from Florence, and she felt that it was of evil portent. He had spoken to no one; he had pretended not to notice her as he crossed the hall, but there was a cruel look in his eyes.

Knowing this, Gladys was miserable, and the chatter of Lady Craythorne only added to her misery. She quietly left the drawing-room, and went to her own apartment, to wait until the steward and Lord Cecil were gone.

While she was telling her maid to say that she had a headache if any one inquired for her, the earl was facing Collins in the library, while Lord Cecil sat in a recess, gnawing his mustache.

From this young soldier inferred friend of Hastings was a valued friend of Lady Craythorne.

"Of course you have heard something of this sad story?"

The captain inclined his head. It would have been quite romantic had he fallen in love with the lady afterward—like the stories we find in the novels! The most curious part is there were all kinds of reports about a sensational reappearance, but it is now considered by the friends of Sir Charles that it is quite impossible. Indeed, I doubt if she is living. His mother, Lady Hastings, has at length been induced to re-enter society, and people are quite eager to take her back again. I and my daughters will be their guests the second week in December. Ada is a great friend of Lady Hastings."

Irish Insurgents Must Surrender Unconditionally.

Free State Refuses Armistice --- Captain and Officers "Canadian Commander" Exonerated --- Canadian Fisheries Returns for June.

UNCONDITIONAL SURRENDER.

DUBLIN, July 28. The Cabinet at a meeting to-day declined to refuse to consider the suggestion advanced at a recent meeting by the Free State Government for an armistice in the South. The Government will assent to nothing short of unconditional surrender by the Irish forces.

OFFICERS EXONERATED.

MONTREAL, July 28. In the case of the grounding of the Canadian Commander on Little Miquelon on July 3rd, the Captain and officers are exonerated from all blame by the judgement handed down by Capt. L. A. Demers, Dominion Wreck Commissioner, to-day.

READY TO SUBMIT PROPOSALS.

WASHINGTON, July 28. An official announcement, verbally made at White House to-day stated that President Harding was preparing to submit formal proposals for settlement of the railway strike to meetings of the Railway Executive and General Strike Committee of the United States Shop Craft Unions.

SCENE OF THE FIGHTING.

DUBLIN, July 28. The principal fighting in the South at present is taking place around Kilmallock, and today's news would seem to indicate that the town may fall at any minute. With Kilmallock in the hands of the Free State troops, Mulloy and Fernern may be the scene of the next irregular stand, in which case both their flanks would be endangered. Irregulars are expected to fight desperately to avoid capture in prices. The return of the three shift working system at the docks, which ruled before the war, is being advocated as a remedy for the present congestion. Home prices of coal, it is thought, are not likely to increase. The kind of coal used for household purposes here is not in demand overseas.

OPPOSITION HOUSE LEADER.

REGINA, July 28. Hon. J. A. Maharg, member for Moose, and President of the Saskatchewan Grain Growers' Association, has been elected House Leader of the Opposition in the Saskatchewan Legislature.

GOOD NEWS FOR SYDNEY.

SYDNEY, July 28. A second blast furnace may be blown in at the Sydney plant of the British Empire Steel Corporation in the near future if general labor and business conditions permit, it is officially stated. The second furnace will make pig iron for factory purposes, a branch of the market which has shown such improvement. No official confirmation could be obtained for the local rumor that a battery of ninety coke ovens is also to be put in operation.

FIRE OUT.

NORTH SYDNEY, July 28. The French trawler La Champagne, reported at noon on fire off Cape Breton coast, had put the blaze out, and proceeded to the Grand Banks at 2 o'clock.

AN UNEARNED DIVIDEND.

NEW YORK, July 28. Directors of Bethlehem Steel declared the usual quarterly dividend on both classes of common stock, although Schwab said it had not been earned, but the corporation's outlook was so promising as to warrant payment from reserve funds.

THE DRUG TRAFFIC IN MONTREAL.

MONTREAL, July 28. According to those who are reputable authorities on the subject, over five hundred ounces of narcotic drugs are being smuggled into Montreal every day, a quantity sufficient to cause the death of at least a thousand persons. The traffic in drugs has recently assumed such alarming proportions that the local authorities found themselves unable to adequately cope with the situation, under the provisions of the existing regulations concerning penalties for drug peddling. Ottawa was appealed to with the result that judges have now jurisdiction to sentence persons convicted of selling drugs to minors to the jail.

NEW METHODS Must Be Applied.

Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir.—If with your kind permission, I secure the indulgence of using some of the busy columns of your popular paper, the Evening Telegram, I would like to refer to a matter, which I think should be one of great concern for the people who dwell in this "sea air Isle" which is famed, and justly so, for its prolific fisheries acknowledged to be the greatest in the world.

New Methods Must Be Applied.

Editor Evening Telegram.

The series of letters appearing in the Telegram from time to time from the facile pen of Mr. M. E. Condon have been read by me, and I am sure they have been by many others, with avid interest. They transcend, I hold, any other subject to which the mind of the patriotic Newfoundlanders might apply itself. It is an old saying, often quoted, that "a man cannot be a prophet in his own country," and with some, Mr. Condon is looked upon as a visionary or idealist who aims at the impracticable. But this has yet to be proven. Some of the greatest benefactors of the race were sensitive geniuses, whose prevision stood the test, when backed and buttressed by patriotic and altruistic citizenship. And, lest I be taxed with parsimony, let me here interject, that though I've known Mr. Condon since boyhood my motives in writing, as I do, are purely disinterested and are the outcome (like his) of an intense desire to see old Terra Nova reach, and reach soon, the zenith of her great industrial possibilities.

Mr. Condon has given the best years of his life—some 37 I learn—to the study of improvement in the cure of all classes of our fish life, especially the fowled cod. It is a peculiar fact that every species of fish caught within Newfoundland territorial waters, hold a flavor and superiority to similar species taken in the waters surrounding other lands, and possibly but for this fact our sun dried codfish might have been long ago superseded in foreign markets by the fish of our competitors, especially those of Norway. For over 400 years, or since a few decades after the discovery of the Island our codfish have been put up in the same old style: we are content with the methods of our ancestors. True, one must admit that this form of cure may not, possibly cannot, be improved on for the markets centred in Tropical countries, but need this particular process be universally applied? Could not a considerable percentage of our cod catch be manipulated for the more temperate climes, in a different manner? Have we not even attempted on any considerable scale to prove to the world the wonderful nutritive and palatable qualities of every species of Newfoundland fish, by cold storage, canning or other preservative processes? No, we have not, I firmly believe, and the sooner we begin to show to the world the splendid qualities of our salmon, herring, caplin, turbot, halibut and other fish, food served to them fresh, and containing all their pristine attributes of perfection, the sooner will our common country rise to the pinnacle of prosperity destined for her.

Look at the revolution wrought in the great meat packing industry of the United States. Visualize the change in process affected by bright minds in its fruit and vegetables canning industry. Were the progressive people who pioneered such industries content to proceed perpetually, with antiquated modes in the cure of these commodities? Not much. Continuous application to experimental work with a view to improvement in cure, had its reward from which the great Republic is to-day reaping a rich harvest. The superior of to-day may be the mediocore of to-morrow, and the realization of this impels the imaginative, quick brained American to yet (if possible) attain greater perfection as that research with this end in view continually goes on. Mr. Condon I think, in one of his missives referred to the great waste perpetually going on in connection with the Newfoundland fisheries. He strikes the right note here. It (this waste) is simply colossal. Some few years ago I had the pleasure of going through a great cattle and hog packing establishment in the United States. Not a particle of the carcass of any animal was wasted, the refuse matter, blood, etc., being dried and kept for fertilizing purposes and even the bristles of the hog were rendered a commercial value. What a contrast with Nfld. fish, where thousands of tons of excellent potential fertilizer in the shape of offal, are lost annually. Astute clever men like Rt. Hon. Sir R. Bond, Lord Morris, Sir E. R. Bowring, Mr. A. B. Morine, and others long ago realized that other methods must, perforce, be used in the marketing of much of our cod, salmon, caplin, etc., and men like Mr. Condon who are grappling with technicalities, blazing the trail in effect, not alone deserve well of every sincere fellow countryman, but should receive the practical and moral support of all who are imbued with love of their motherland and who desire to see her people happy and prosperous.

Yours thankfully,
NATIVE.

NOT BADLY DAMAGED.

LONDON, July 28. Reports received by the Marconi Company from Galway indicate that the damage done to Clifden Radio station on the coast of Galway, set on fire by Irish irregulars, is not as serious as first supposed. Where Ghosts Are Fed.

AND KINGS LIVE ON A MILK DIET.
Ghosts are absolutely averse to the inhabitants of Central Africa. They ate as fast as their domestic cats are to us. And the natives even go to the length of preparing food specially for them!

If a native believes that he is possessed of a ghost he goes to his local medicine man and asks him to expel it. One method the medicine men have of doing this is to prepare an appetizing meal, hoping that the food will tempt the ghost to leave the body of the man.

Sometimes it happens that the ghost is a stranger—this is a spirit from the body of a member of some other "clan" or tribe.

In these circumstances the man who owns the ghost is unlucky. The unfortunate man so possessed has to endure all kinds of foul smells (part of the treatment), and is almost suffocated by inhaling noxious fumes, which are calculated to drive away the unwanted visitor.

Tree Felling is a Long Job.

These natives, the Rev. John Rose tells us in "The Soul of Central Africa," believe that trees possess spirits, and a weird ceremony must take place before the tree can be chopped down.

First of all an animal is sacrificed, and the priest of the forest accompanies the woodman to the tree with the dead animal's blood. This is poured over the roots and then a string of beads is tied to the base. After the final ritual—the eating of a sacred meal—the tree is cut down.

Central African natives are firm believers in the transmigration of souls—the belief that is, that the soul of a dead person goes on living in some other body, either of a human being or an animal. When a king dies the priest will produce, perhaps, a lion's cub, announcing that the dead king has become a lion.

They Dance Sitting Down.

Once a year a mock king is chosen to represent the deceased monarch, and it is the belief of the natives that the soul of the dead king temporarily enters into the body of the deputy. Accordingly this man reigns supreme for one week, giving any orders he likes, and receiving presents from the reigning king, who, for the while, is in the background.

At the end of his week's reign the "temporary" king is strangled by the chief minister!

Milk is the main food in these African tribes. This, coupled with the fact that they do hardly any work, makes them so fat that they can hardly walk. When the women dance they remain seated, exerting themselves only enough to sway their bodies!

When a Sneeze Means Death.

Special milkmen serve the king, and a special maid brings milk to him. When she informs him that the milk is ready, he leaves the throne to partake of it, whereupon all the natives around kneel down, cover their faces, and remain silent. To sneeze or cough during this ceremony would be punishable by death.

The king has only one, most meat a day, and even then he does not touch the food with his hands. The cook feeds him with a two-pronged fork. Four times he places meat in the royal mouth, but should the fork touch the king's teeth the cook is put to death.

CLEAN UP!

This demand applies equally to the physical features of the city of St. John's (municipality) no less than to the moral. Ever since the last snows of winter melted away, there has been a cry of clean up from the citizens and ratepayers. How far that cry has been heard by those responsible is not difficult to discover. Apparently it has fallen upon deaf ears, for but little heed has been given to it. Excepting in the most superficial way there has been no cleaning up of the city streets on a systematic basis. Sporadic attempts have been made here and there, with results that are more imaginary than real. During rain storms the mire on the most used thoroughfares is ankle deep. After a day's sun and with the lightest breeze of wind the dust pest is intolerable, to pedestrians, and they are exposed to the dangers of suffocation not alone from the clouds of dust raised by the wind but also those stirred up by motor cars and trucks, which dash along merrily and with an utter disregard to the rights of the foot passenger. Regulations there may be, but it is patent that these are more honored in the breach than in the observance. In this instance then clean up becomes the duty of the City Fathers. Other instances could be given, not bearing upon the dust nuisance, but upon the sidewalk cleansing process by means of hose, which usually takes place when people are going to work, between the half hour from 8.30 to 9 o'clock.

The other Clean Up demand is of a different nature. Can it be true, as reported by a contemporary, that there is a festering sore on the moral body of this city? A sore that needs drastic treatment, and which, if not attended to at once, will spread and spread until cure is impossible. It has been charged that there are "redlight" sections in this town frequented by men and women who move in what is known as Society, and with a capital S., if you please. Some of these have been raided by the police, but it is noticeable that no prosecutions have followed. The aged woman who dispenses spruce for hop beer for a consideration in order to earn a livelihood, is hailed before the Court, when suspicions are aroused that her liquid refreshments are over-proof and capable of causing consumers to become intoxicated. The man who through over-indulgence becomes hilariously inebriated and departs from the paths of peace is likewise caused to appear before the judge and either receives a lecture on the evil habits of indulgence, or pays a small contribution into court toward the expenses of the Colony. But the rone, the profligate, the frequenter of houses of ill-fame, even when discovered by the police and routed out, rarely, if ever, comes before the bar to answer for immoralities that are a crime against the civil and social codes. Shielding of such loose characters, whether male or female, is but placing a premium on the continuance of actions that bring the fair name of St. John's into disrepute, and but offer an incentive to the increase of illicit intercourse.

Sugar.

EXCESSIVE DUTY INCREASES PRICE. The price of Sugar in August of last year was $12.00 per 100 pounds wholesale. Recent advances have brought the price up to that figure again. At present, however, wholesale dealers are selling at $11.50 in one and five barrel lots and at $11.25 in 50 and 100 barrel lots. The existing tariff rate on sugar accounts for $6.10 per 100 pounds, so that without the duty the price would be only six cents per pound, which some dealers consider is cheap enough under present conditions.

HIS DIARY.

July 27th.—Up betimes and abroad. I did meet with Mr. Mews and did have discourse with him of the Cabal and its intent to have a steamship service direct to West Indies. Anon, meeting Hon. G. Shea, that is the acting Premier, he tells me that the Cabal did have this matter on their minds this long time, and will try it as an experiment. It is, I think, like to be a good thing, and will cost less than divers other experiments which the Cabal did try. I learn to-day how the City Council will ask for a loan of $250,000 to improve the city's sewerage, which is a matter that should have long ago received their attention. The Regatta Committee did hold a meeting in the night, but they fell into quibbling and argument, and indeed, little else have they done this year.

Well Known Clergyman Passes Away.

A well known citizen and esteemed Minister of the Church of Scotland in Jamaica, the Rev. William Graham, has died in Edinburgh, along with his wife, a daughter of the late Sir Robert Thorburn, of St. John's Newfoundland, he arrived from the West Indies a month ago (writes a correspondent) to enjoy a time of rest after long continuous work, and to have the benefit of surgical skill. He was received into the Deaconess Hospital, where an operation was performed, and he seemed to be doing well, but his strength unexpectedly failed, and he passed away. Born in Lochmaben, sixty-three years ago, he received his education in arts and divinity in Edinburgh University, and after acting as assistant for a time in Cononagat parish, he was called to be minister of the Presbyterian Church of St. John's Newfoundland. While he was there, half the city, including his church and manse were burned down, and mainly through his energy and vigour these were rebuilt and freed of debt, and a period of prosperity opened again for his congregation.

In 1917 the Rev. Mr. Graham visiting friends in Curling, while on a visit from Jamaica. He has left behind him a widow, six sons, and one daughter. He will be greatly missed both by his congregation and by the people of Jamaica, for his personality was unique.—Western Star.

Road Work.

TELEPHONE COMPANY WILL CO-OPERATE.

The Avalon Telephone Company have notified the Road Commission that they will co-operate with them in any way they can, and this is taken to mean that the telephone poles on Topsail Hill, about which complaints have been made, will be moved back. These poles take up a considerable amount of road space and are a danger to motorists. The Turbay Road is being repaired under the direction of the Board of Works. Good work is being done, but it has been suggested that red flags or similar warnings of danger, should be placed near openings in the road. Work on the Portland Cove road was temporarily delayed while some repairs were being effected to the machinery. This road is in a very bad condition and repairs are urgently needed.

In the Realms of Sport.

HE'S IN AGAIN.
The grandstand manager appears And he is wondrous wise; His mission in this vale of tears, It is to criticize. He puts his finger on the flaws, And straightens out the mess; And makes so few mistakes because He takes the second guess.

All hail the grandstand manager, More power to his brain; The rosters often wonder how He stands the awful strain. His work is free and furthermore, His labours never stop, But if he worries me again, I'll have to call the cop.

RUNNERS COMING.
Mr. Coke Cahill has wired the National Sports Committee that the Crescent Club of Halifax is very anxious to send down their famous track team of Erin Smith, Mooney, Lott, and Grant Holmes to compete with the locals. These are the ones that ousted our boys at the Wanderers' Sports up there last year. The matter will be taken up at once by the local committee and a reply sent. Great interest is being evinced among racing enthusiasts in the proposed visit of the Halifax boys.

CATCHER SEVERELY INJURED.
The many fans who have been witnessing the admirable work of "Ank" O'Keefe, the Irish backstop, will regret to hear that during the progress of Wednesday's game at Mount Cashel he had the misfortune to break his thumb on a foul ball. It will mean that he will be out of the game for some time. It is rather hard luck on the Harps now that they are vying for championship honours with the Cubs.

SUNDAY GAMES.
London.—Many people are demanding that the London County Council allow the playing of cricket, tennis, and other games in the parks on Sundays. The movement has the support of most of the newspapers, and not a few of the clergy. They say that if people go to church in the morning they ought to be allowed to play games in the afternoon. "London spent yesterday out of doors," says the London Chronicle. "It was a perfect Sunday for games. Every private cricket ground, bowling green, and tennis ground was occupied. The only grounds where tennis was forbidden were those controlled by the London County Council. While members of the County Council themselves play golf and tennis on Sundays they prohibit others from doing so in the public parks. Thousands of young men and women would have played but for the County Council kill-joy ban, dawdled about doing nothing. The same with boys. It is better to have them on the cricket pitches than loitering about the park benches consuming cigarettes."

THANKS!
A kind friend has sent us some lessons in baseball, which we shall publish for the benefit of players and enthusiasts, beginning in Monday's column.

TO-DAY'S LAUGH.
May.—There seems to be something contagious about baseball.
Ray.—Yes—catching.

YOU SAID IT, BO!
A golfer who doesn't record his right score may be cheating himself, but he's cheating his opponent at the same time—which is decidedly more from his opponent's point of view.

LAST NIGHT'S FOOTBALL.
In the most delightful exhibition of football for the season the Guards rid themselves of their hoodoo when they defeated the Stars 2 to 1 before a large gathering of the fans. Playing conditions were ideal, which doubtless materially assisted in making the splendid combination of both forward lines in the Brigade live-up Coultas and Ellis were shelved for Angel and Gushue, both of whom did excellently. There were also two shifts in the Stars, and the old war horse Jack Sullivan was on instead of Brown. Play started at a fast clip, and six minutes after the start Flynn drew first blood for the Stars on a clever pass from Nolan. Shortly after, on a free kick, Thistle scored the equalizer on a wonderful brilliant place. From this to half-time the Guards had full control, and Power, the Star goalie, was kept on the jump all the time, and although he cleared repeatedly yet Charlie Quick was too toxy for him and bet him once. On play being resumed, the Guards added defensive tactics and although the Stars had some splendid chances yet no results were obtained. All players finished quite strong though some were a little fatigued. The second period was gruelling. It was certainly an exhibition worth seeing and a really good brand of football was handed out.

Hay Harvesting.
ROOT CROPS DOING WELL.
During the past week farmers in the vicinity of St. John's have been busy cutting hay. The harvest this year has begun earlier than usual, and new meadows are exceptionally good. There will be no shortage of local grown hay this winter, and consequently farmers will not be selling off their young stock. The root crop during the past couple of weeks is showing up well, but the phenomenal harvest anticipated, particularly of potatoes, will not materialize. Larger areas than usual have been set to turnips, cabbage and potatoes, it being the intention to use these vegetables more freely in supplanting imported feeds for cattle.

Hay Harvesting.
ROOT CROPS DOING WELL.
During the past week farmers in the vicinity of St. John's have been busy cutting hay. The harvest this year has begun earlier than usual, and new meadows are exceptionally good. There will be no shortage of local grown hay this winter, and consequently farmers will not be selling off their young stock. The root crop during the past couple of weeks is showing up well, but the phenomenal harvest anticipated, particularly of potatoes, will not materialize. Larger areas than usual have been set to turnips, cabbage and potatoes, it being the intention to use these vegetables more freely in supplanting imported feeds for cattle.

FAREWELL MESSAGE TO FRIENDS.

Lord Morris goes to Montreal, from where he will proceed to Toronto, Philadelphia and New York before returning to London. In conversation with the Telegram to-day he asked us to express to his many friends in Newfoundland how much he had enjoyed his brief holiday in his old home, due entirely to their gracious hospitality and kindness. He regrets not having time to remain longer, having been suddenly called by cable to New York, and so was prevented from personally thanking his many friends.

Regatta Meeting.

MERCANTILE CREWS PROTEST.

The Regatta Committee met in the T.A. Armoury last evening at the usual hour, President Hiscock presiding and a large attendance of members in attendance. Quite a lot of discussion arose over the difficulty of equitably deciding an event where five boats entered, as not more than 4 boats are allowed to start in any race. A letter from Lord Morris inclosing a contribution to the Regatta funds was read by President Hiscock. Lord Morris said he did not think he would be present at the Regatta as urgent matters had called him to New York. He however would be at the races in spirit. The collectors reported a good reception, but Treasurer James is still short of the required amount, which will undoubtedly be forthcoming before Monday night's meeting. The matter of bridges and other erections was discussed, and it was urged upon Mr. Harris, Secretary of the Board of Works, that the necessary public conveniences might be installed by that Department as had been done on previous occasions. Mr. N. Andrews on behalf of the Portuguese Cove fishermen asked if it were possible to have the schedule of the Army and Navy and Fishermen's races changed, as under the present arrangement it was possible that the Nellie R. would have to remain out of the event, because members of the crew were rowing in the Army and Navy race, which followed immediately. The matter will be decided on Monday, which it is hoped it will be settled satisfactorily. Re the case where five boats enter for a race it was decided on motion of Secretary R. Jeans, seconded by Mr. W. J. Higgins, that a dash over half the course starting at the foot of the Lake be held, the last boat reaching the stake being eliminated. The dash will be run in regular schedule, but not timed. The finals will take place at the end of the programme. As the Southside Juveniles were the only crew entering for that event, consequently J. Hussey asked permission to enter them in the Intermediate Fishermen race. The request was acceded to, and Mr. Hussey and his crew were complimented on their sportsmanship. A joint protest from the crews representing Messrs. Marshall Brothers, Bowring Bros. G. Knowling Ltd. and T. & M. Winter in the Mercantile race, was read by the Secretary. They objected to Messrs. H. Tilley and J. Harvey, members of Harvey's Mercantile crew, claiming they are not eligible to row with a mercantile crew, as they worked in the Butterline Factory. Mr. A. G. Williams stated that the factory was owned solely by Harvey & Co., and the men objected to did not do manual labor. The Committee on this explanation decided that both men were eligible to row. The representatives of the four crews objecting refused to draw their buoys and it is possible that the race may not take place. The following additional crews then entered:—

TRADESMEN.
Cadet—(cox): M. Walsh, (stroke); H. Skinner, B. Hart, J. Hackett, H. Ennis S. Madden.

Assassination of King Humbert.
Twenty-one years will have passed on July 29, since King Humbert of Italy was assassinated at Monza. He had accepted the invitation of the Provincial Athletic Club to be present at the distribution of prizes, and at half-past nine in the evening he drove to the Palastra, on which the sports were held, and was received by the authorities and a large crowd with cheers after presiding at the distribution, which lasted about an hour, the King left the Palastra, and was just starting in a closed carriage to return to the Royal Palace when four revolver shots were suddenly fired by a man standing among the crowd. The King was hit by three bullets, one of which struck him near the heart. His Majesty exclaimed "It is nothing!" The carriage was driven to the Royal Villa at full speed, taking only three minutes for the journey. The King was found to be still alive, but sinking so fast as practically to be beyond the reach of human aid, and he died as he was being carried into the Villa. He was at once placed on a bed, and doctors summoned, but they could only declare that life was extinct. Meanwhile the bystanders, on becoming aware of what had happened, made a rush to seize the assassin, and it was only with the greatest dif-

Half of Eight.

Mathematic, according to the average small boy, was simply a matter of giving teachers a good reason for punishing their unhappy pupils. And, certainly, that Tommy found it the unpleasant feature of his young life.

Tommy Smith said the teacher one morning during the hour of torture, "What is the half of eight?"

"What do you mean?" asked the teacher. "What do you mean?" asked the youngster cautiously. "Which way?" replied the astonished lady. "What do you mean?" asked Tommy. "What difference does that make?" asked Tommy. "Half of the top is round, but half of it sideways is three."

CHARLES R. DUDER.

"For what shall we mourn, for the premature death, the untimely passing of the young great wood?"

For the eagle that died in the tempest, afar from its eyrie's brood."

The remains of the late Charles R. Duder were interred in their last resting place, Thursday in the General Protestant Cemetery at Riverhead. Rev. Robert J. Power, M.A., St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church officiated at the home, assisted by Rev. Dr. Fenwick. An immense concourse of citizens followed the hearse to the cemetery. The deceased was probably one of the most widely known Newfoundlanders. There was scarcely a business man in the island but had to do with him in his many sided career. As a youth he entered the office of the late Edwin Duder, an uncle, who at that period conducted the largest fishery business in the colony. After separation from that business the merchants of this colony held such a high appreciation of his abilities that they sent him as Newfoundland agent to Brazil, where he was director and adviser on fish shipments totalling 400,000 qts. a year of a value of $2,500,000. In this arduous and complicated employment he by his tact and ability removed many causes of grave irritation and was the means of placing this our largest and best foreign market on a sound financial basis. The job was a big one and Mr. Duder filled all its requirements. After his return from Brazil he took over the management of the Standard Manufacturing Co. and in this new sphere he scored an unqualified success. His business reputation was untarnished. His word was his bond.

In social life he was paramount. At balls and dancing parties he was the Prince of Wales, and at the head of the dining table in the Masonic Club rooms he was the imposing host that made all partakers at ease and happy. His bonhomie, his kindliness, his tact will long remain a fragrant memory to the brethren of the mystic tie. As a billiard player, cricketer, skater, curler, angler, regatta man and fine sportsman, he was known and beloved by all those who delight in these glorious pastimes, and wherever the votaries of these pursuits assemble his form will be recalled up in sad sweet memory.

Charles R. Duder, wherever he went, carried the contagion of his warm sunny character. His bright, bold of 30 years ago was the summer attraction of the city whenever the Terra Nova cricket team clashed against the Mechanic or Shamrock. Mr. Duder participated in these titanic struggles, both as batsman and bowler and was among the most efficient of these athletes. Of late years angling and curling became his almost exclusive recreations and he excelled in both. It was his devotion to the former cult lost him his life at Ocean Pond.

To his sorrowing widow and family the sympathy of the whole community goes out. The blow must be a terrible one to his amiable wife and family. Time alone can assuage this sorrow, but it must be a source of consolation to know that thousands of sincere friends mourn with them in their bereavement.

How a Continent is Measured.

Until lately no great continent has ever been measured up by means of the surveyor's chain. Maps are usually made by means of astronomical calculations similar to those used by the sailor in fixing his position at sea. These calculations are found to be amazingly accurate when they are checked by the measure.

When, more than a century ago, the French instituted the metric system, they were very anxious that the metric should be an exact fraction of the earth's circumference—which the yard is not.

They therefore checked the astronomer's calculations by actually measuring the distance in a straight line from the North to the South of their country. When the work was finished it was found that the two sets of measurements differed only by a few feet!

To-day a far greater piece of measuring is being undertaken. Thanks to the construction of the Cape-to-Cairo railway, the whole length of the great African continent is being worked out by surveyors. Considerable portions have already been finished, and these show us that up to the present at any rate there is no need for us to revise our maps.

An error has been disclosed, it is true, but it is hardly of the kind to affect the atlas. It amounts—as a matter of fact to rather less than one inch for each hundred miles. Not a very serious mistake!

When the measurement is completed—as it will be before long—it is expected that astronomers and surveyors will differ by about about 50 yards for the entire length of this immense continent.

Yeast No "Fad"

Say Scientists.

The greatest scientific minds agree that yeast is one of the most important medical discoveries. No method of banishing skin eruptions or building health has yet been found which can equal it. This is because yeast contains certain vital elements which are lacking in the modern diet. Already millions of people have secured amazing benefits from yeast. Recently, however, a new process has been discovered, called "ironisation," through which people are securing benefits from yeast in just half the usual time. This process, embodied only in Ironized Yeast, helps to immediately convert the vital yeast elements into firm tissue and rich pure blood. It weakens the skin—erupts or troubles with pimples, blackheads or boils, it will pay you to try Ironized Yeast at once. To try Ironized Yeast, entirely free of charge, send for Famous 3-Day FREE Test. Address: Harold S. Ritchie & Co., Ltd., Dept. 57, Toronto. Ironized Yeast is recommended and guaranteed by all good dealers.

Where Will the Prince Live?

WHITE LODGE MAY BE HIS RESIDENCE.

LONDON, (Canadian Press)—Since the return of the Prince of Wales from his tour in the East, the question of his residence, both in London and the country, has been under serious consideration. No decision has yet been reached, and it is probable that his Royal Highness will retain his present rather modest establishment in York House, St. James' Palace, at least for the present. Queen Alexandra has intimated that she is willing to relinquish the possession of Marlborough House in favor of the Prince of Wales at any time, but she has declined this offer, adding, characteristically, that he "would probably get lost in the place," it being "miles too big" for him. Therefore, until such time as he marries, it seems safe to say that the Prince will not become the occupant of Marlborough House. The question of a country residence for the Prince of Wales has been debated since the war at considerable length. Years ago the hope was expressed that he would ultimately have a home in his Principality, and both the King and the Prince at one time considered this. It is probable that the Prince will shortly take over White Lodge in Richmond Park, where he was born 22 years ago. The present occupant in the veteran Viscount Farquhar, to whom the place was lent some years ago.

EDWARD HAS SIMPLE TASTES.

Another residence which the King would like to see occupied once more is Frogmore. It has been without a tenant the greater part of the present reign. Shortly after King Edward came to the throne, Frogmore was thoroughly rearranged and brought into line with modern requirements, and the present King and Queen stayed there with their young family on several occasions.

It was at one time suggested that Frogmore should become the home of the Earl and Countess of Athlone, but they much preferred their smaller and more compact home in the Henry III. Tower of the old castle. The Prince, however, has pointed out that, for the next year or so at all events, he would be only able to pass a few weeks at Frogmore annually. His tastes are extremely simple, and he admits that he has no desire to be saddled with the expense of a large residence that would of necessity be closed for the greater part of the year. Next winter, the Prince, no doubt, will lease temporarily a hunting-box in some county where he can enjoy several days sport whenever he can spare the time from his many duties, and several residences of this description have recently been brought under his notice in the hope that they will prove suitable. It is possible that when the Prince acquires a house of this nature he will have his brothers, the Duke of York and Prince Henry, as his co-tenants, since all of them are devotees of the chase.

Saved His Life.

Alec McDougall, a steward on board the steamer Sylvia was rescued from drowning, thanks to the prompt action of Quartermaster John Cross, this morning when at eleven o'clock the former lost his grip on the rope ladder, while cleaning out the scuppers of the galley, and went down into the water. The young man could not swim, and as soon as Cross was apprised of his presence in the water, he jumped overboard, and when the victim of the accident came up above water, grabbed hold of him, and a line being thrown overboard, soon had McDougall safely aboard. Although exhausted for a few moments the steward quickly recovered, being none the worse for his experience in the water.—Halifax Mail, July 24.

Murder and Suicide

At Truro.

ALLEGED DEMENTED SHOE DEALER SHOTS DOCTOR AND TURNS GUN ON HIMSELF.

TRURO, N.S., July 25. Dr. R. T. Bentley, medical health officer for the town of Truro and a prominent physician here for many years was shot to death at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the Y.M.C.A. corner of Prince Street within 20 yards of and within view of his house. Felix Cook, the assassin, conducted a boot and shoe store across the street. He rushed out of his door and fired three shots across the street at the doctor, and then going to the back of his store laid down on the sofa, put the pistol to his head and shot himself.

Dr. Bentley died within fifteen minutes of the shooting. One shot struck him in the face and passing in the back of the brain. The other two shots entered the chest. He died without regaining consciousness.

HAD HALLUCINATIONS.

According to the advices received at North Sydney from Truro, says the North Sydney Herald the evidence taken before the coroners jury at the inquest held over the body of the late Doctor Bentley, who was murdered by the suicide Felix Cook, the two men had a long consultation two days ago in Cook's store.

It is said that Felix Cook had a horror of being poisoned and that on several occasions he suspicioned his help were trying to take his life. One of his hallucinations was that the medical fraternity were attempting to poison everyone and it is suggested that Dr. Bentley gave the man some medicine in which Cook imagined there was poison.

It was thought that his mind was affected by the loss of a large sum of money, which he had invested in American securities and which depreciated in value during manipulations on Wall Street. He continually complained of the thieves on Wall Street to his intimate acquaintances here.

Friends of the Cook family here say that there is no doubt that the dead brother was demented. They instanced several occurrences that would point toward a mental unbalance.

Among other things told of the murderer and suicide is that he went to a drug store a few months ago and asked the clerk in charge for a mixture that would kill the microbes on paper money.

A Mrs. Miller, who did house work for the Cook's here, is stated to have refused to live in the same house with him for a thousand dollars a day.

Rod and Gun.

The August issue of Rod and Gun in Canada which is now on sale, contains a wealth of worth-while reading, and it abounds in bright and interesting features. The camper or vacationist will find the big article: "Some Suggestions Regarding Outfit," worth a great deal, for it is written by an outdoor's man, specially for the aid of holiday pleasure seekers whose trails lead through the wilds or the open spaces. "The Dandy of the Westmoreland" is a big fishing yarn by Robert Paige Lincoln.

There is a splendid article by Bonny-castle Dale, while the absorbing serial: "Men of the Hudson's Bay Co." is another feature. The various departments are filled to the brim with material which the sportsman will not want to miss. The Trap department is an unusually generous one, containing a long breezy account of the Eastern Canada Championships at Hamilton, which is replete with pictures of many of the "big guns."

of telling concerning a brother minister.

It was the first time the good man had preached in a certain village church, and he was pleased to note that during the sermon the congregation gazed at him with rapt attention.

He was so impressed with the matter that he spoke of he verger about it after the sermon.

"Bless your heart, sir," said the man, "as a matter of fact, we was all looking for you to disappear."

"Whatever do you mean?" asked the astonished clergyman.

"Well, sir," came the reply, "you see, the pulpit is rotten, and hasn't been preached in this ten years more."

Football Reminiscences.

BY ONLOOKER.

SENIOR LEAGUE MATCH, PLAYED ON LLEWELLYN PLACE, AUGUST 2ND, 1897.

K.A.C. vs. C.C.C.

In miserable drizzly weather, this match "pulled off" on the League grounds last evening, ending as stated above in a win for the Knowlins Athletic Club. On promenade around the enclosure one could not help being struck with the fact that the game has surely come to stay, for despite the weather, there were present quite an average gathering, amongst whom we observed the usual number of "noted" football addicts, who display their enthusiasm in their own particular manner. On finishing up at 6.40 p.m. we noticed that both teams had only ten players, but shortly after the kick off, G. Knowling Jr., centre half of the K's made his appearance, making the full team for the K.A.C., whilst the Cadets had to play the entire first half without the 11th man. The K's played down hill the first half, and right from the start began to rush matters, the game being only about five minutes old, when from a run on the left wing, by Tom Williams, the ball was nicely centred to Feaver, who shot an easy goal, Shea, the stalwart back of the Cadets making a bad miss. From this till half time the K's had the best of the play, the Cadets being at a disadvantage through the absence of a player (Brophy) but no further scoring took place, the teams crossing with the score: K.A.C., 1 goal; C.C.C. nil.

On resuming it was thought by a goodly number, that with a full team on (Brophy having arrived) and ground in their favor, the Cadets would at any rate, equalize. This was nearly accomplished soon after play was resumed, but the "Cadet" who made the final "shoot" made a mess of it, probably owing to the wretched condition the ball was in at this period. This half had just been in progress for some 10 minutes, when the K's secured a corner, which was nicely dropped in the centre, where quite a scrimmage took place for possession, during which the Cadets had an unfortunate "hands" given against them, nearly on the 12 yard line. Frost took the "free kick" awarded, and with the assistance of the Cadet goalkeeper, scored No. 2 for the K's. Play, which had been slow, (the ground being a bit heavy and the ball "soggy") got a little faster now, and the game was greatly enlivened, with two or three brilliant runs by Arthur Donnelly, on the Cadets right wing, but no further scoring took place, and when the referee sounded the final whistle the K.A.C. were 2 goals up. Referee: F. Maynard; Linemen: P. C. Mars, St. Andrews and C. W. Hayward, C.L.B. The following are the names of the full teams doing duty. K.A.C.—Goal: Soper; Backs: T. & W. Stranger; Half Backs: R. Cook, G. Knowling Jr. and Jenkins; Forwards: T. Williams, Moore, J. Frost, J. Robinson and Feaver.

C.C.C.—Goal: J. Grouchy; Backs: J. Shea and Fergus Donnelly; Half Backs: T. Evans, H. Donnelly, W. Cullen; Forwards: F. O'Neill, A. Donnelly, J. Murphy, G. Rowd and E. Brophy.

NOTES ON THE GAME.

The K.A.C. by their victory last night have raised themselves a little on the table of points, and now stand ties with the B.I.S. They played much better together than they have been doing lately, and put up a good game. The forwards all played well, giving a much better exhibition of the passing game than their opponents. In the centre Frost played much better than he has hitherto—this season and he seems to be more at home in that position than on the wing. In the half back line Knowling and Cooke played a rattling game, putting in a lot of extra work, as the full backs were undoubtedly weak.

The C.C.C. as a team did not put up a game equal to their last League Match although some good individual work was shown. Arthur Donnelly was the shining light in the front rank, playing a grand game from start to finish. The forwards however, should practice the "passing" game a little more, this being the play that tells in the end. The half back division were fairly good but we think Evans is much better at full back, having seen him to better advantage in the latter position. Some good work was put in by the full backs—T. Shea and F. Donnelly—especially the latter, who was very reliable. The game, all round, was pleasantly contested, and we have no doubt the best team won. During the progress of the game Arthur Donnelly had his hand badly cut from falling on a piece of glass, with which the enclosure seems to abound (which we can vouch for) having picked up several pieces while crossing to the north stand, before the start of the last two matches. Now, as we understand, there should be a caretaker; this matter should be looked into at once, or some serious results may occur before the end of the season.

Having now furnished all our readers with particulars of League Matches for season 1897 in which we have made reference to all the Clubs (9) then in the League, we hope—with permission from Editor of Telegram to give in our next Rems. some particulars of the Season 1898—the year that the C.C.E. were champions, Star second, Saints third, and B.I.S. fourth, and the year that the Star carried off the first League Tie Cup.

Gold in British Isles.

Princess Mary's wedding ring was made of British Gold. So were the Coronation Medals of King Charles I., while one of Queen Elizabeth's prized possessions was a beautiful golden porringer presented to her by Sir Bevis Bulmer and made entirely of gold washed from the sand of Scottish rivers.

Very large quantities of gold have in the past been won in various parts of the British Isles. I have myself seen an Australian miner get "color" from a Dartmoor stream, and no doubt nearly all the streams which rise on the high moor have a certain amount of gold in their beds. We know that the miners who used to "stream" for tin found quite a paying amount of gold in Devon and Cornwall.

There are many goldfields in Scotland. One is at Glenconner in Clydesdale, another on Crawford Moor, a third in Wenlock, a fourth on Manock Water. All these were worked in the days of the Stuaris, and there are records of nuggets of pure gold up to three pounds in weight having been discovered.

So lately as 1811, there was a gold rush on a small scale to Kildolan. It was in this district that—no more than fifty years ago—a really rich gold find was made by a returned Australian gold miner named Gilchrist. Nuggets up to the value of fifteen pounds each were discovered and no fewer than seven hundred men were soon on the spot. The pay dirt was found in the bed of the Slagitt, a small burn running down the valley. Gold has also been found during the present century near Anas in Dumfriesshire.

For centuries gold has been mined in Wales, and so lately as 1910 there were three gold mines worked in Merionethshire and one in Carmarthen. The mine at Gwyn yielded in ten years no fewer than 1,668 ounces of gold.

In 1812 a find of quartz was made near Trawstnydd, in Merionethshire which ran 15 pennyweights of gold to the ton, beside holding silver and copper.

There is a gold reef thirty miles long within 150 miles of London. This underlies the Forest of Dean, and is composed of old red sandstone conglomerate strongly resembling the celebrated "banket" of the Witwatersrand.

Like the Rand, the Forest of Dean reef is basin shaped, and is said to extend underneath the coal measures. That there is gold in this reef is a known fact, but whether it would pay for working is not definitely ascertained.

In the Dublin Science and Art Museum is the model of a gold nugget found in County Wicklow in the year 1795, the weight of the original nugget having been 22 ounces. Between 1795 and 1798 over 900 ounces of gold were washed out of the Wicklow goldfields. You may see some of the actual nuggets which were found there in the Museums of Geology in Jernyn Street, London.

She Dusted.

Things were getting desperate with a certain servantless lady. She was therefore quite excited when the registry-office people sent her a possible maid.

"Are you a good cook?" she asked the gaily-dressed applicant.

"No, I don't cook," was the reply, ironical.

"Are you accustomed to washing and ironing?"

"I'm afraid I couldn't do either, they're too bad for the hands."

"Can you sweep and turn out a room?"

"Certainly not." This was quite decided. "I'm not strong enough."

"Well, then," asked the exasperated lady of the house, "what do you do?"

"I dust!" replied the girl placidly.

Our Dumb Animals.

REPORT OF CHIEF AGENT S.P.A. FOR WEEK ENDING JULY 29th.

Attended to the landing of 19 head of cattle from train and found one cow dead in the car. Shippers should place more feed on the cars for cattle.

Attended to the landing of 71 head of cattle and one horse from S.S. Sable L. All in very good condition. Saw them all watered and taken away to pasture. Received word from Mr. John King at Klondyke Farm that somebody had brutally destroyed a 2 year old heifer owned by him on the Outer Cove Road. Visited the place, made a thorough inspection of the surroundings in company with Mounted Constable Russell. Removed the skin from the head of the heifer and found the mark of the pole of an axe. Also examined a cut in the breast which apparently was done by some sharp instrument. Mr. King offers a reward of $100 for any information leading to the conviction of the person who committed the act, as per advertisement in this paper. Attended to the landing of 9 head of cattle and 26 sheep that came by train. Mr. David Duff and the foreman at the Railway Station are very prompt in giving me information immediately on the arrival of cattle and they get them landed as quickly as possible out of the cars. Received word from Engineer Steele on the Trepassy line concerning a horse that he was forced to kill to relieve its suffering. The horse was lying on the railway bridge before the arrival of his train. He stopped the train 300 feet from the horse and found the animal with a broken leg and several other injuries. The S.P.A. sent him a Veterinary certificate to the effect that the horse was incurable by reason of the broken leg, and thanked him for his interest on behalf of our dumb animals. Attended the pony and horse races at Mount Cashel and saw that everything was carried on humanely. Attended a sale of cattle at Neal's wharf. Had an ox with an injured leg removed on a stoven. Sent in a horse with sore shoulder, and another with a sore back to be properly treated and be healed before the animals could be worked. Received a telegram from William Taylor, Port aux Basques, in charge of 188 head live stock, who complained of having no feed or water for his animals. As it is the duty of owners or shippers to provide feed and care for stock in transportation, I wired him that he should attend to the same or be liable to the penalty provided by law. Interviewed the Reid Nrd. Co. on the subject who said they would provide hay if requested to do so at owners expense. Cattle are always watered by the Company at Port aux Basques and Bishop Falls. All horse owners are requested not to overdrive horses on Regatta Day, and to see animals are properly watered and cared for.

Coal Fast Diminishing.

Sydney Mines, July 24.—With approximately one hundred and twenty five thousand tons of coal in reserve at the banking station one month ago many were rather skeptical that it would be some time late in the fall before the coal would be moved to the shipping pier. However, at the high speed the two steam shovels are operating almost without a break in the twenty-four hours and the amount of banked coal passing over the road, very little of the huge pile of coal will be in stock at the end of August. Last week the coal was shipped at the rate of twelve hundred tons a day, and the Scotch management are making every effort to dispose of the banked coal as speedily as possible. This is a good sign of the times and removes a whole lot of anxiety as to future operations in the coal industry when navigation closes at the end of the year.

Child Welfare.

YESTERDAY'S CLINIC SHOWS SUCCESSFUL EFFORTS OF C.W.A.

The C.W.A. are to be congratulated on the success that their special week for the examination of the children of St. John's has attained. The meetings held this week have proved that the noble work this Association is doing has been a wonderful education to many mothers; and the benefit that they get from the clinics will be the means of bringing up better and healthier babies in the future. At yesterday afternoon's meeting the Doctors were kept busy from 2.30 until 6 o'clock, examining the little tots that had been brought along by their mothers. The Association's Rooms presented quite a wonderful sight; when the number of children filled the rooms, and the stairs had to be used by the waiting mothers. The way the cases were handled was as follows:—First the children were taken into a room and a record made of their age, address and a short history since birth. Next they were taken into another room, undressed and weighed and a record made of the weight. The final stage was the examination by the Doctor: the mother of the child being present all the time, was told of the child's defects, if any, and was advised as to the diet, hours of rest and the general routine as to the bringing up of a healthy child.

The boys, newly painted, were placed in position yesterday and the stakes will be set on Monday.

The bridge at the head of the Lake, never wide enough for the traffic, will be improved this year.

There is likely to be another protest entered at Monday night's meeting. This time another member of the C.E.L. Football crew will be objected to.

There will be no juvenile race on the programme. Evidently the South Side boys, now entering for the Intermediate fishermen's race were looked upon as sure winners.

In some of the wards the collectors are not receiving the coin expected, although they report a good reception. The Veteran President however, went over the top in his part of the district, a feat which he credits to his team mate, Secretary Harris, who brought him from the basement to the top of every building.

Carpenters, handy men and women are busy every night until dark, erecting tents and stalls in preparation for a big day.

The band stand has been erected but through some reason the band concerts are not being held as usual. Judging by the number of protests and technicalities discussed, professional sporting events will have nothing on our derby. More sports are needed.

Regatta Ripples.

Last evening was fiscal on the Lake and the practice boats were in constant use. Three crews of Truckmen were out, and although Kearsay's champion crew are in splendid form, there are whispers of a dark horse and the race may prove very exciting.

Anglo-Persian Oil Co.

LONDON (Canadian Press.)—The great refinery of the Anglo-Persian Oil Company at Llandarcy, near Swansea, in Wales, which was formally opened recently by Stanley Baldwin, President of the Board of Trade, will be able to supply at least one-third of the total consumption of this country in full operation, it is stated. The daily production of petrol is at present 450 tons, approximately 150,000 gallons. Though for some years oil refining has been carried on to a limited extent in Great Britain with Scottish shale, this event marks the beginning of a new industry, on which three years of continuous work and some £2,000,000 have already been expended. It has a direct interest to the British taxpayer, as two-thirds of the ordinary shares of the company are held in this country.

REFINING CAPACITY INCREASED.

The enterprise is an innovation in the oil industry in that the crude oil, instead of being refined at or near the oil fields from which it is obtained, is separated into petrol, kerosene, lubricating oils and other marketable products 6,000 miles distant from its source. At present the treatment of crude oil is 2,000 tons daily, but it will shortly be increased to 3,000 tons, or roughly a million tons yearly.

FOURTH DERAILMENT IN TWO WEEKS.

The express is due at Port aux Basques late this afternoon. This is the fourth derailment in the space of a fortnight and there must be either something wrong with the rails or roadbed in the Western section of the line.

SIDE TALKS.
By Ruth Cameron.

AS CHEAPLY AS ONE!

Two can't live as cheaply as one, but of course the basis of the idea, is that the wife is going to add the value of her labor as a homemaker to the man's wage, and that under these conditions the wage will buy more than it would before his marriage when he is paying others directly or indirectly for service. And that is perfectly true, although it is not true that it will buy twice as much.

The Wife Contributes Service.
If an unmarried man is paying $4 a week somewhere for a room he can doubtless get an apartment for $30 in which he can have as good a room besides the use of dining and living rooms. Add something for heat and light and you have a figure not as small as the $28 per month he would pay for his room but not as large as double that. His wife by taking care of the apartment makes up that difference in cost.

Likewise if he has been paying hotel he has been paying for the cost of cooking the food as well as for the raw materials. And presumably his wife supplies that labor and manages to get enough for two out of a slightly larger sum than he paid for one.

Movie Tickets and Car Fares.
Of course there are many ways in which this doesn't work. You can't get two moving picture tickets for the price of one, nor two car fares for one (even if only one gets a seat. But the thing I wanted to draw attention to was this. That when the wife is unable by lack of previous training or is unwilling because she does not like house-work, to contribute her labor as a home-maker to the budget, two have got to have twice as a seat. More over any woman who does work outside the home and thinks that she adds that much to what the family income would be if she stayed at home and did the housework is wrong. If they board they are going to pay something for services as well as for food and rooms, if they keep house and hire service that is going to run up very quickly.

Not Pare Galn.
Mind you, I am not saying that I do not think there are circumstances under which women are happier at work other than housework. What I am saying is that the woman who goes out of the home must not deceive herself into thinking that she can count all her salary as pure gain. Of course there are women who manage in their spare time at night and morning to do a good deal of housework. But either their employers or their health will suffer in that case.

Why the Name of Mary Will Be Popular.

There is no more popular name than Mary. Yet of recent years the old homely names like Alice, Margaret, Teresa and Mary have gone sadly out of fashion. Their places have been taken by Mavis, Irene, Gladys, Diana, Millicent, Doris, Freda, and the like. Scarcely three female babies in every hundred have been christened Mary.
This is due almost entirely to the pardonable pride of the young mother in her baby. As the most wonderful of all babies, she must have a distinctive name. Nothing "common." And so the baby is named after some exciting flower or new art color, or after the heroine of a popular novel.
There have been many famous Marys in history—and it is significant that, in their day, each was known far and wide by her first name.
Mary Pickford, too, owes part of her universal fame to the fact that she bears a name which has gentle associations to every mind. To millions of picture-goers the "world's sweet-heart" is just "Mary."
Like old songs, and old friends, old names are best. And the reason why we haven't more Mary's is because we must take most of our blessings for granted. We are so familiar with them we easily lose a sense of their beauty.
When circumstances set us thinking, however, and enable us to realize the good things that are ours, we make amends. Thus after the marriage of Queen Mary, nine baby girls out of ten were christened Mary.
In the same way, this year will be a year of baby Marys. Like her mother, our beloved Queen, Princess Mary is destined to be the fairy godmother of many thousands of Marys born and to be.

Visiting Orchestra Delights Nickel Patrons.

Selections From Bigoletto and Medley of Irish Airs Rendered.
The Nickel Theatre was largely attended last night, when the visiting American Orchestra delighted everybody with an excellent programme of high class selections which were vigorously applauded. This clearly shows that the Nickel management is all heart to secure something out of the ordinary for its many patrons. The picture attraction was the great American stage success, "Secret Service" featuring Robert Warwick. The production is brimful of excitement and startling climaxes. The sort of picture that goes big with a St. John's audience. The other subjects were up to the usual high standard.

Labrador Herring Fishery.

There seems to be a very strong opinion among our herring packers who engage in the Scotch pack industry along the Straits coast Labrador that the season set for operations along the coast, namely the first of September is altogether too late. Parties who have made preparations tell us that by the first week in September the fishery is practically over on Labrador, and that the season should open there early in August in order to reap the benefits of the harvest of the season. The hearing at that time are in the pink of condition, being fat and plump. We commend this matter to the consideration of the Fisheries Dept.—Western Star.

J. Murray Anderson

PRODUCING NEW SHOW.
John Murray Anderson, the revue writer, at St. John's, is producing a new musical comedy in New York within the next few weeks. He has written the lyrics himself and will do his own staging. The new edition of his famous "Greenwich Village Follies" opens shortly at the Shubert Theatre, New York. Included in the line-up for this revue are Yvonne George, famous Frankie actress, Carl Randall, Frankie Heath, Lucille Chalfonte, George Raft and Savoy and Brennan (who were on tour with last season's "Follies") Joe Cook is mentioned as a possibility for the next Greenwich show.
Sammy White and Eva Puck were placed under contract for three years by the Bohemians, Inc., the producers of the "Greenwich Village Follies." It is likely the team will be sent on tour in the fall with the 1921 "Follies" which will have Ted Lewis and Joe Brown. Plans call for White and Puck to appear in next year's "Follies." A London theatre is being sought by S. Benham, the American agent, for the purpose of showing the English, a composite production of previous "Greenwich Village Follies." Benham is acting in concert with Mr. Anderson, who will produce the show over there. The plan is to have "The Follies" feature Ethel Levy and Nelson Keys.

You will make no mistake if you go to For's Cove Garden Party on next Sunday, Boat Races, Foot Races, various Side Shows, Concert and Dance, Teas, Refreshments, etc. Come and join the happy throng. See full particulars on front page ad.—Jy28, 21
