LADY LAURA'S RELEASE

THE STORY OF A SPOILED BEAUTY.

CHAPTER XVII. Lady Laura was immovable; and, seeing that, Mr. Sansome said no more. He waited at Rood House until his master returned, and spent some few minutes in conversation with him; and the opinion he formed of the handsome captain was anything but a favorable one. "It will be better, Laura, darling, not to say anything about the will to Angela," Captain Wynyard suggested to his wife; and she did not, just then.

CORNIS

Lift Off with Fingers

Doesn't hurt a bit! Drop a little "Freestone" on an itching corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then shortly you lift it right off with fingers. Truly! Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of "Freestone" for a few cents, sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the calluses, without soreness or irritation.

soulless and inane woman I have ever met. She has never abused me for five minutes since we have been married. She thinks of nothing but making me costly presents and giving me the whole of her tiresome society. "I understand," said Gladys, softly. "I was obliged to marry for money," he urged, apologetically; "and certainly my wife is all that any man could desire, except that she is a great deal too affectionate; but—Well, I must not complain; no man can have everything. Life at home bores me. Gladys, you will take compassion on me; you will let me come and see you sometimes?" "Yes; but you must not come too often, Vance. My aunt will not like it."

Art Objects Sold. Useful Information.

A widely varied collection of old furniture and art objects, property of Carl Winkler of Berne, Switzerland, sold at the American Art Galleries recently, and 129 numbers, including an interesting group of tapestries, brought returns of $41,433. Four historical old Brussels tapestries dating about 1635 brought the highest price of the day, going to Mrs. Emile Penche for $8,000. These, in perfect condition, form part of a set known as the "Eucharist" series and were executed by Van den Hecken of Brussels after cartoons by Peter Paul Rubens. They were made for the Infanta Isabella of Austria, daughter of Philip II. Among other purchases bringing the higher prices were No. 72, a Louis XVI clock in gilt bronze which sold to A. Ross for $500. Two Louis XIII armchairs, Nos. 91 and 92, upholstered in tapestry, sold to Miss T. F. Emlin for $1,040; to Seaman, agent, went No. 93, a suite of Louis XVI furniture, also in tapestry, a sofa and five armchairs, for $1,200. No. 94, a charming "causeuse" upholstered in Aubusson tapestry, sold to H. F. Dawson for $950. A sixteenth century Florentine wooden table, No. 96, was bought by E. E. Smithers for $650. A gold needle-pointed ruby velvet cope, Flemish, sixteenth century, No. 104, was bought by Bernot, agent, for $510. An eighteenth century Isphahan carpet, No. 111, sold to D. G. Kelskin for $1,700 and a sixteenth century Isphahan rug, No. 112, was bought by H. F. Dawson for $1,350. Nos. 114 and 115, a pair of needle-pointed baldachinns, French, of the eighteenth century, were bought by A. Ross for $1,000. No. 116, a petit point needlework tapestry of the middle of the eighteenth century, sold to J. Sykes for $700, and Mme. Cattadori paid $2,000 for No. 120, Brussels eighteenth century tapestry, "Triumph of Atlanta and Hipponeas."

Terrible Weeping Eczema. Fads and Fashions.

For the year 1909, I suffered with weeping eczema on my hands which caused me very much pain and worry for I could not use my hands for but very few things. I tried many remedies but they all failed to give me any relief and I was obliged to give up my work and came south at the same time. I was unable to use any preparation recommended to me but my hands continued to get worse until I was told to try D.D.D. Prescription, also soap which I at once did. A great deal of cut-work embroidery in of Asia and in France. One only was allowed in a religious house, one in a manor house, and one in the great hall of a castle or lord's house; but in other houses the smoke found its way out as it could. The spring hat has a decided droop to its brim. Contrasting faille ribbon is now used to trim the felt hat. A noteworthy feature of many spring frocks is the bolero. Colored silk lace is used for some charmingly draped evening gowns. A draped frock of wine-colored crepe is banded and trimmed with dull gold. A great deal of cut-work embroidery is used on the new French frocks. A circular frock of black satin has a narrow front panel of silver brocade. A coat dress of fine wool rep can be worn over the straight frock of foulard. Three tiers form the front of the skirt of a crepe frock, while the back is plain. White moire makes the collar and smart coquade of a coat-frock of black tulle. The present jersey frock is trimmed with a darning stitch in contrasting wool. An evening frock of tortoise shell tulle is embroidered in large gold and silver patterns. Novel bands of trimming are of dressed gray leather embroidered in silver thread.

Washington Fears War Out of Ruhr Situation.

Paris Officials Confident of German Overtures.—Norway Turns Down Commercial Treaty With Portugal.—Much Raw Material Seized by French.

WASHINGTON APPREHENSIVE
Special to the Tribune from Washington says, so serious is the situation in Ruhr now regarded in the United States capital, that "no one could be surprised at the outbreak of hostilities which would lead to the outbreak of war at any moment." The newspaper adds that uncertainties of developments in the Near East as well as in Ruhr "add to the feeling of apprehension in Washington."

FRANCE EXPECT GERMAN OVERTURES.
PARIS, March 2. The German overtures for a settlement of the Ruhr area are likely to be played possibly a month or even considerably longer, in the opinion of official circles as expressed to the French do not entertain any hopes regarding the ultimate results, which are being exerted on German nationalists and the German nation occupation, but it is not believed that it is not yet ripe for Germany overtures which French officials are confident she is bound ultimately to make, it being considered that no logical issue for her.

CHAMBERLAIN'S TRIBUTE TO L.G.
LONDON, March 2. Chamberlain paid a high tribute to former Premier Lloyd George at one of the Welsh national meetings. "He is one of those men who in every great crisis in Great Britain have always been given to us in the greatest measure, and who, perhaps, been moulded into something greater, something more splendid, more noble, by the very crisis which called forth the best of their powers and raised them to a high position. Courage, determination and resourcefulness have been combined in the same man."

FOOLING THE ENEMY.

ESSEN, March 2. Various tricks of camouflage such as wire tapping, night raids, and other schemes, devised to fool the enemy have been resorted to by one side or the other in the Ruhr struggle recalling the experiences of the war. A serious case of telegraph wire-tapping is reported to-day with the arrest of Brigadier-General Koch of the Security Police in Essen. The French accused the General of having arranged a listening-in apparatus which connected up with the military lines. Officers of this kind are classed under espionage and are punishable with death. Early morning raids by French troops to gain possession of German rolling stock are bringing excellent results in many instances in the railway yards.

FRENCH TOO QUICK FOR RAILWAYMEN.

HAMBORN, March 2. The French seized eighty cars of coke, fifteen of coal, ten of metal products, and two locomotives. When seized the cars were in two trains. The locomotives were getting up steam while trainmen were preparing to make a dash to run the French blockade into unoccupied Germany; but the French swooped down before the engineers had time to open the throttle. At various customs central posts, where soldiers are stationed along the highways leading into unoccupied Germany, trenches are being dug across the road to compel all vehicles to stop for inspection. The latest addition to the forces in Ruhr are carrier pigeons, with cages for them on wheels. They are ready for use should wire communication fail.

Successful Opening.

GIRL GUIDE HEADQUARTERS.

A most successful opening of the Girl Guide Headquarters took place on Thursday afternoon in the premises which they now share with The Old Colony Club, in the Smallwood Building. The opening was organized by the ladies of the Headquarters sub-committee, whose efforts the Girl Guides Association greatly appreciate. Those present generously gave useful gifts of donations towards furnishing the Headquarters, the sum of $128.80 being subscribed, while several ladies joined the Local Association. The Headquarters have already been used for the training of Guides (Officers) and lectures to Guides. It is hoped that the room will be made use of in the near future as a club room and library. The Association is deeply grateful for the practical sympathy which has enabled them to have such a central meeting place for the Guides.

"I Can Now Do My Work Without Feeling Tired"

Mrs. A. Moffatt, Roxton Falls, Que., writes:

"I suffered from a run-down system and nervous debility. I could not sleep or rest at night, and felt so weak I could not walk any distance. I took several tonics, but they only helped me while I was taking them. Mother advised me to take Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and I felt great benefit from the first box, and continued taking several boxes. Today I feel like a new woman, and am able to do my work without that dreadful tired feeling."

Guards Lift Tie-Cup

WREST TROPHY FROM ST. BON'S IN HARD FIGHT GAME.

SCORE 4-2.

The hockey game between the St. Bon's and the Guards last night, and re- played on a fairly good sheet was not considered good for individual play. The contest was fought from start to finish. Each rough play was in evidence. The puck was dropped into the Guards' half, and before the game was given a chance for a goal. Gordon Halley captured it, and by clever maneuvering sent it to the St. Bon's territory. He was followed by the Guards, and the puck was sent to the St. Bon's side. It was there that the puck was captured by the Guards, and sent to the St. Bon's side. It was there that the puck was captured by the Guards, and sent to the St. Bon's side. ### Port de Grave Notes.

GENERAL RESUME OF EVENTS POLITICAL AND LOCAL.

Now that the political atmosphere is somewhat clarified a few notes from the standpoint of a non-partisan on-looker may be of interest. In wandering around the different localities in Port de Grave district it is quite amusing to note how the fisherman is taking it all, and the peculiar questions that one is asked. For instance, I was quite surprised a day or two ago to hear a fisherman commenting that some members of the present Government were really without the last general election. Some of these, he said, came from the North and some from the Southern districts. He remarked that it was quite a peculiar thing that men of such stamp should have been elected to become a burden on the country and help to increase the taxation under which he and others were labouring. I ran across another queer old chap who said: "Sir, it seems to me that we are like a vessel that is at sea with two skippers aboard, in a gale of wind, one wants to shorten sail and the other skipper wants to pile on. The result is the vessel does some tall stunts." He seemed to think that something like this would happen if the present two skippers got control of the Government again.

Inter-School Basketball.

YESTERDAY AFTERNOON THE SECOND OF THE INTER-SCHOOL BASKETBALL MATCHES WAS PLAYED BETWEEN THE METHODIST COLLEGE AND THE ACADEMY OF OUR LADY OF MERCY.

The game was played between the Methodist College and the Academy of Our Lady of Mercy. The game was played between the Methodist College and the Academy of Our Lady of Mercy. The game was played between the Methodist College and the Academy of Our Lady of Mercy. The game was played between the Methodist College and the Academy of Our Lady of Mercy. The game was played between the Methodist College and the Academy of Our Lady of Mercy.

The writer unfortunately happens to know of 30 or 40 families who have been in dire distress during the last two years. Most of them have a number of hungry little children with their big eyes fairly glistening with a yearning for something they know not what. Why these innocents have to suffer the pangs of hunger and misery the writer knows not but suffer they did, and die some of them huddled in rags with their poor little stomach empty, save for the miserable dollop of flour and molasses handed out by a man appointed by the Government. Whether rightly or wrongly the mothers are apt to blame those highest in authority for those happenings. Never before had such want invaded their homes. They are eternally asking and will ask the reason why.

"Sir," one man said to me, "The drip of rum or the miserable few shillings will never win me over. I must be told the reason why. There will be little room this election for the table-thumping, statistic reading politician. The souls of the people have actually been purged in the fires of misery, bribery and rum will have little or no place (although some no doubt can be bought or made drunken but only a few). The everlasting demand will be 'Show us how we may live and prove it.' This task devolves equally upon both sides. 'Show us also,' they say, 'why our sons must leave their homes and parents and seek a living in strange lands, many of them to return to us in their coffins with their features disfigured beyond recognition.' They say why should all this be? Years ago we fished and died and died contented with our families around us. Now where are they?"

The Humber deal is creating and will create little or no interest in this district as the place is far from home, and after all they are a fishing people with nothing at heart but the fishery. However, to sum up, this time one or both sides must show a reasonable Modus Vivendi and, prove it. Up to date the only active candidate (self appointed) in the field is our old friend of Harbour Main, Mr. Cantwell. Last week accompanied by his old friend and supporter, Mr. Curlew, he went to St. John's to hear the Prime Minister in his den and demand the candidacy for Port de Grave. Mr. Curlew, I understand, did the interviewing but must have got a rather frosty reception as he returned without (as he himself expresses it) the ticket. Mr. Cantwell then put into operation the immense forces at his disposal and summoned his cohorts, wired the Prime Minister 42 names of really truly supporters—still silence. Today, Mr. Cantwell returns and tells us despite the fact that he was offered a permanent position and count less thousands he remained 'inoperable' and will contest the district single handed. Why the present Government has shown the cold shoulder to such a popular and promising candidate is a matter of great surprise to his many friends. Energetic, tireless and with a record second to none, the writer would recommend him strongly to the Opposition for while he may not actually set the Thames on fire he'll say he will raise considerable steam. I may say for the prohibitionists who might be tempted to look askance at his candidacy that he has actually renounced the sale of rum until such time as his status is fully established so that none may say that he is taking advantage of his position to secure a visionary popularity.

Early English
Author Executed.
On March 4, 1388, an execution of a most cruel character was inflicted upon Thomas Usk, the author of the "Testament of Love," a prose work of which no manuscript survives, but which was printed and published by Thynne in 1533, as was proved by the Rev. W. W. Skeat, Professor of Anglo-Saxon in the University of Cambridge, a most prolific writer, and by Mr. Henry Bradley, joint editor of the Oxford English Dictionary. They found it a very tedious and bewildering book, especially when leaves had got out of order; but its early date, contemporary with Geoffrey Chaucer, the English poet, gives it interest, for he was controller of the Customs at the same time as Usk was their collector. It was a time of terrible disturbance, in the reign of the weak Richard II. Although this sovereign personally suppressed the insurrection of Wat Tyler, invaded Scotland, and burned Edinburgh, his army was on August 10, 1388, finally defeated at Otterburn, in the battle that the ballad calls Chevy Chase. The rest of his reign was distracted by the rebellions of the Duke of Gloucester, sixth son of Edward the Third, who was, however, put to death in 1397; and next, of Henry of Bolingbroke, Duke of Lancaster, son of John of Gaunt, Edward III's fourth son, who succeeded as Henry IV, when he had forced Richard to resign and flee. Usk had fallen when the Duke of Gloucester had temporarily triumphed over Richard II, and Usk being tried and condemned for treason, was sentenced to be "drawn, or dragged, publicly to the place of execution; next to be hanged; and in that helpless position to be 'beheaded'; after which his head was to be contemptuously set up and exposed over Newgate Prison. A horrible description of this execution is given in the records that bear the name of Ranulf Higden, a Benedictine monk of Chester, who commenced them, but who had himself died in 1363. Usk had once been a Lollard, or Protestant of that time, but had become reconciled to the Church of England as it was then, and before his death received its consoling ministrations. Thirty blows of a sword were required to sever his head from his shoulders, through either carelessness or cruelty.

The Prison Mirror, a newspaper printed within the walls of a penitentiary in Minnesota, is being conducted under great difficulties. There is not an editor on the roll of guests. "Why is it," says an article in the Mirror, "that from the first inception of our paper, up to the present time, we have never had an editor to sojourn in our midst? Other professions have been well represented. Of preachers we have had enough to furnish subsistence to a cannibal chief for years; of doctors, sufficient in number to depopulate a state; of lawyers enough to establish a good sized colony in Hell; but of editors—not one."

3RD PERIOD.

The Guards formed the attack for a few minutes and Halley was called upon to save shots from Munn and Robertson. Clouston made a determined effort to get through the St. Bon's defence, but he was quickly run to earth by G. Halley. Paterson made a good run immediately after, only to be halted by Phelan. Play then changed over into the Guards' territory. Muir played a prominent part by good hard work on one occasion but found Volsey a hard man to beat. Callahan sent in a scorcher, a moment later, which missed the posts by inches. The puck was now travelling from end to end, with the shooting on goal very erratic. Fox was benched for two minutes. Halley and Phelan figured in some pretty stick-handling, and time passed but no scoring resulted. Robertson and Phelan on the defence were found hard men to get through. Paterson by a lone effort managed to elude his opponents by a clever dash 'west, but Eddie Phelan stopped his progress. Gordon Halley made a clever stop, when W. Clouston attempted to skate through a moment later, and making a good run east, bewildered the Guards by clever stick-handling. Coffins picked up the pass on the right wing and in shooting on goal found Volsey equal to the occasion. Eddie Phelan swept the rink but lost out to Robbie. Robbie and Clouston were penalized for mixing it. With two of the Guards players in the box St. Bon's tried hard to score but Munn and Herder kept their opponents at a safe distance until Robertson and Clouston returned into play. The St. Bon's pressed hard. Dr. Fox sent Volsey a hot one from close in, which he partly cleared. Phelan who was in the mouth of the goal captured the puck sent in a hot one but the Guards goalie, proved equal to the occasion. The Guards supporters gave Volsey a great cheering on his wonderful goal-tending. The St. Bon's appeared to be in a hard luck and try as they would the puck failed to get beyond Volsey. Muir decorated the fence for fouling Herder. Munn by clever stick-handling eluded his opponents a few minutes before the close and by a well placed pass to Conitas the latter went 'tra' for the Guards fourth and final goal of the game. In the dying moments of the match the St. Bon's tried their very hardest to score, but the Guards fell back on the defence and ward off all attacks. The game ended leaving the Guards the undisputed victors by a score of 4 goals to 2.

Mr. J. M. Tobin refereed the game.

NOTES ON THE GAME.

The Guards team, twice champions for the season, are to be heartily congratulated on their all-round play. Their victories are all the more popular, because they have gone through the regular League games and the Tie-Cup Series without suffering a defeat, which can be considered a record in hockey circles. The St. Bon's team are also due much praise on their exceptional fine play. They have a fine bunch of hockeyists, many of whom are the best stick-handlers in the League. The blue and gold are a strong team and we wish them the best of luck next year. The conditions governing the Tie-Cup are that it has to be won any three years. If in the event the record is not completed through lack of fees, the trophy goes to the team winning the regular League championship in the same season. One game still remains to be played in the Tie-Cup series. The Terra Novas and Felidians will ring down the curtain for the season on Tuesday next.

The Grass is Growing on Water Street.

"There will come a day when Coaker will control."

"There will come a day when the grass will grow on Water Street."

Few people gave much serious thought to the above sentences at the time they were published. Many treated the possibility of such with absurdity; whilst few outside of Mr. Coaker's own political household gave due credence to the main motives underlying Mr. Coaker's political ambition.

To range the North against the South, to destroy the business life of St. John's, and last, but not least, to, by the influence of insidious methods and propaganda to become the distator of the country.

We leave it to the people to judge how far Coaker has succeeded in ranging the people of the North against the people of the South, also to judge for themselves the success of his plan to have section oppose section and class oppose class.

As to whether he has accomplished his full aims in these respects we are not certain, but it is sufficient to assert that he has caused considerable strife by his policy and in no other free, supposed to be democratic country in the world would his conduct be tolerated.

W. F. Coaker, in his race for power and influence, has classed himself with those whose biased opinions and predictions mean ruin and disintegration. We have had them in the past but not in positions to exert their powers and influence as the Coaker of the day who, just as he schemed and plotted, holds the destiny of the Dominion and her people and regulates same to suit his personal whims and ambitions. Holding the balance of power by having eleven followers, who are paid seasonal fees and other remunerations, he (Coaker) directs the administration of the day.

The Premier in name only, Sir R. A. Squires, must accept Coaker's dictation, or accept the other alternative, relinquish his position which he prizes so highly.

The same might be said of Mr. Cave and Dr. Campbell, and other members of the Squires wing of the Government.

If they were independent men and refuse Coaker the power and control he has assumed unto himself they would be freed from their offices and suffer keenly the loss of the fat salaries they are drawing monthly and yearly.

Coaker, knowing their fallings, is playing them for all he is worth, until now they are nothing more or less than his pawns, whom he has intruded to be elected as representatives of the Fishermen's Protective Union. They unknowingly are helping Coaker to carry out his published plans to have the grass grow on Water Street.

It is public property that the Treasury is millions of dollars short of the estimates provided—a fact which clearly demonstrates that a great blow has been struck at the trade and industry of the Dominion. It is no secret that not only is business and commerce at a standstill in St. John's, but several large firms are on the verge of bankruptcy—a state of affairs caused solely by the incompetency of the Government of the day.

Coaker knew well what he was doing when he aimed his first shot at our chief industry, fish; by so doing he was well aware of the consequences respecting local industries and corporations foreign credits. He had hoped to antagonize the banks to complete his designs on Water Street. He knew well that in forcing his fish regulations he was hitting a hard crack at the fishermen, and incidentally the dealer and supplier, and he now derived the fruits of his wishes and will continue to do so whilst he has pawns of the make-up of Squires, Campbell and others, who jump every time he pulls the string.

Dare they refuse to cater to his wishes? Is he not paying them well to help him in his designs. They are too cowardly to even suppose they possessed the courage of their convictions. No white people can stand the strain the future foretells. Let the masses stand forth with an unanimous appeal that will end for all time the disgraceful, degrading, and dishonorable conduct and pledges of political serfs and pawns, who, by bluff, seek to disable and destroy the principles of democracy and the right to live, as free men, in our native land, Newfoundland.

Open Hall Joint Parade.

Dear Sir:—The Advocate published on Feb. 17th, an item from Open Hall dated Feb. 5 and signed "Open Hall Fisherman," and referring to the parade of the joint councils of Open Hall and Red Cliff. Open Hall fishermen says the reason why only two men from Open Hall Council walked in the parade was "because all the men were away or in the woods." If that is the reason it shows either very bad business management on the part of the officials of Open Hall Council or a very cold feeling for the F.P.U. on the part of the men. If the Union Council had arranged for the parade and did not inform their members, then it was bad business on their part. On the other hand, if the officers of the Council had informed the men that the parade was to be held and the men went into the woods instead of attending the parade it showed that the men of Open Hall knew a good thing when they saw it and preferred a load of good dry wood to a union parade. Try as you may, "Open Hall Fisherman," you are beaten by your own admission. You said that "Tyrone John Moss addressed the meeting at Open Hall when the Fishermen's Delegates were there and showed that it was extreme foolishness to expect a reduction of taxation." You did not, however, state that friend John White knocked Dan's argument to matchwood. Dan Moss is a good speaker for that there is no question, he is also an honest, straightforward fellow in most ways. He made a good speech at the meeting at Open Hall but he lacked the main thing—a good cause to fight. We all know that Dan's talk was not coming from his heart that night. Dan Moss is too solid a man to imagine that the cause on which he was talking is a true one. Open Hall Fishermen are not sincere in his closing remarks when he said: "the large majority of Open Hall will support the Government in the coming elections. Our friend knows as I know that not twenty per cent. of the voters of Open Hall will cast a vote for the Government candidates. No, friend, we cannot take you seriously when you make such statements as appeared in your letter. Now how can Mr. Daniel Moss of Open Hall think anyone is going to take him seriously in these days of free speech and freedom of conscience when he goes on a platform and talks of Abraham Lincoln, one of the greatest enemies of slavery and advocates of free speech, and at the same time tries to muzzle a man who wishes to speak according to his own conscience. Yes, and even threatens him with the loss of his child's breakfast, because he dares to speak at the bidding of his conscience. "Consistency thou art a jewel." In conclusion I may say that probably someone will want me to come out over by own signature. This I will gladly do when Open Hall Fisherman will come out over his name and address, but under no consideration other than that.

Yours truly,

He is Now a Well Man.

SO SATS MR. C. L. GREEN AFTER TAKING DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

He Cannot Speak Too Highly of the Benefits He Received From Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Ford, Ont., March 3 (Special.) After two years of suffering from kidney trouble, Mr. Green, a highly respected resident here, is telling his friends that he owes his new lease of health to Dodd's Kidney Pills. "I can highly recommend them," Mr. Green states in his enthusiasm. "They have made me a real well man."

Dodd's Kidney Pills hold their popularity not because of the promises they make, but because of the good they do. They are purely and simply a kidney remedy. The reason they are credited with relieving rheumatism, heart disease, dropsy, etc., is because all these diseases are caused by sick kidneys. Strengthen the kidneys, so that they do their proper work, and the cause of disease is removed.

If you enquire among your neighbors you will find scores of people who have found in Dodd's Kidney Pills relief from some form of kidney trouble. It may have been the dry, itching skin, dizziness, nervousness and inability to get refreshing sleep that mark the earlier stages of the disease, or it may be diabetes, dropsy, rheumatism or some other of the dangerous diseases that mark its advanced stages.

You will find that Dodd's Kidney Pills will help kidney trouble, no matter where or in what form it is found.

The Nickel Discovers Local Genius.

WHO WILL APPEAR IN MUSICAL SAW SOLES.

The Nickel Theatre has, during the past few days, discovered a local musical genius. He is Mr. Victor Ewart Legg, who specializes in bringing forth sweet, clear music from an ordinary carpenter's saw—music that bewilders the hearer. His manipulation of the saw would certainly do credit to a Straus violin, and he plays to piano accompaniment with skillful dexterity. This is something novel—something never heard in a local theatre before. Mr. Legg belongs to our city, and has been experimenting in this sort of music for some time, although he has never appeared in public before, but on Monday night patrons of the Nickel will have the opportunity of hearing him for the first time. We herewith wish to call the attention of the public to the fact that there is positively no faking in it—he actually brings real music from a saw. Hear him on Monday night.

Political Pars.

Squires and Coaker can't win! Bennett can't lose!

The brains and brawn of the country are behind Bennett for Clean Government.

Merchants, fishermen and laborers are as one man to turn the graters out.

A Bennett saved the country in 1899. Another Bennett will save it in 1923.

Coaker and Squires brought desolation on the country.

Bennett will bring Clean Government and Prosperity.

Bennett's bounty on fish will encourage the fishermen and restore confidence.

Glorious news from the West. Burgeo, Fortune and Burnin have joined in the fight for Clean and Honest Government.

Cheering news from the North. Also, that Coakerism is slowly but surely dying.

Green Bay and Trinity Bay are sure seats for Bennett!

Harbor Grace, Carbonar, Bay de Verde and Port de Grave are conceded to the Opposition; Placentia, Harbor Main, St. John's East and West are sure wins for Bennett.

Hip, Hip, Hurray! Turn the Boodlers out!

The voters are determined not to make the mistake of 1919 in marking their ballots this time. There is too much at stake.

Bennett and Clean Government will be the watchword.

Bennett grows stronger every day in every way.

Squires already denounces Coaker for the defeat which he knows is in store for him.

Coaker denounces Squires for hurrying on the election. He says they should have another six months of rule and ruin.

They are now on trial for their misdeeds and the people have already declared that they are guilty and will banish them from public life for ever.

There is still a possibility of saving the country from utter ruin. It can be done by the voters' ballot.

Voters, then, give Bennett a rousing majority in every district. Bennett must win.

Messages of congratulation are pouring in from every district. Bennett can't lose!

The Western districts appeal to districts north to help them to turn the government out.

Trinity, Twillingate and Bonavista will throw off the yoke of Coakerism in the coming contest. They have had enough of Coaker and his wild cat schemes.

Carbonar and Port de Grave are even by the Government's friends conceded as sure seats for the Opposition.

Bennett can't lose!

Misfortunes never come singly. We have had them for three years embodied in Squires and Coaker.

The election over, Bennett Prime Minister, fishermen supplied and confidence restored. Happy anarchy!

Everything points to-day to a sweeping victory for the Opposition.

Four years of honest, capable Government will restore to Newfound-

WEEK-END NOTES.

(I. C. MORRIS.)
CHAPTER IX.

Amongst the old firms and business people of Newfoundland, the name of Newman & Co. was numbered as one of the first; hence, in different parts of the country the impress of their operations is to be seen in the granite pillars, and iron slabs, which contain their initials. In many parts of the country also may be seen land-marks which indicate imperial property. All such land-marks as these bear upon them the Broad Arrow. For nearly two centuries the firm of T. & N. Newman and Newman & Co. have been identified with local Newfoundland trade, with local headquarters at Harbour Breton, and Gaulton, Fortune Bay. The principal firm was at London, where the name still holds its past record in the empire of commerce. It may be said that Fortune Bay was literally colonized by the English lads, who came out from London to Harbour Breton as youngsters on the Newman ships. While Harbour Breton was the principal local branch of the Newman business, there was at the time a very large and flourishing branch here in St. John's, conducted on what is known as Newman's premises, but which recently have been taken over by A. E. Hickman & Co., Ltd., for the purpose of the Boston Steam Ships. The business of Newman was conducted on very strict disciplinary lines, and the entire staff, from the head man to the accountants; and from the accountants to the shorecrews, were all indentured, and were bound as servants to the firm for one or more years. This rule was customary two centuries and one century ago, and even a half a century ago; and no doubt it had many advantages for the company, and perhaps had a few for the staff, but there were cases in which the practice proved very chafing to the apprentices, and because of some of them deserted their master's service. The ships of Newman & Co. were very fine of their class, and were mostly built of oak; and were copper fastened, as well as copper bottomed. The company had several brigs and barks, notable amongst which was the bark Eliza, and the brig Beagle, also the brig Chanticleer. The Eliza was in commission for one hundred and twenty years, and up to the time of her loss some twenty-five years ago she was reckoned to be the oldest ship in the world, or perhaps we had better say the oldest British ship in the world in commission. A peculiar feature of the Newman ships was the fact that they were mostly named after birds.

MARINE NOMENCLATURE.

The characteristics of the founders of our old business firms may be judged by the nomenclature of their ships; for instance, the Bowling fleet of sailing ships were mostly named after Shakespearean characters. There was the Miranda, the Titania, the Portia, the Ariel and the Bianca. Baine Johnson's fleet contained such names as the Octavia, the Christelle the Constance, the Parafiero, the Hebe, the other outstanding names. In literature those

Poultry Notes.

If you want eggs at this season of the year don't stuff the birds full at their morning meal. If they loaf with full crops you will get fat birds but no eggs.

Experiments have shown that about four-fifths of the feed an ordinary hen eats is used for body maintenance in producing energy, and in making up natural loss of tissue. Unless the hen has sufficient food to keep herself in good condition there will be no egg-production. Many poultry keepers have found from experience that grain alone will not make hens lay, no matter how fat the birds get. The easiest way for a beginner to keep hens in condition is to feed a good poultry scratcher-feed and also a good Dry-Mash and feed according to the maker's directions. The scratch-food is fed sparingly in the morning in the litter. Dry-mash is kept in hoppers in front of the hens all the time—they will not eat too much of it. Plenty of water is provided fresh each day in clear drinking vessels. Just before going to roost give as much scratch-food as they will clear up. Grit and crushed oyster shell should be before the hens all the time—it is cheap. Sprouted-oats is the best green food obtainable for poultry. A little trouble but results in egg-production and in vitality of stock makes it worth while. They only need one square meal per day per fowl. Every hen house should be dry. The floor especially should be free from dampness and also free from draughts. The litter should be clean and dry and plenty of it. Keep at least six inches of litter (dry straw is the best) on the floor and change it if it becomes damp and heavy. Don't expect hens to be healthy if they are forced to spend their day digging in cold damp litter. The hen-house should be bright. Let the sunlight get in and whitewash the interior to make it clearer and brighter. Each hen should have at least six square feet of floor space and also plenty of room while roosting. Use drooping-boards under the perches and so keep the litter clean longer. The commercial "dry-mash" contains a proportion of animal food. If you use "wet-mash," containing house scraps for the mid-day meal it will be necessary to provide some animal food to take the place of insects etc. obtained by hens on free range. The house scraps, consisting of bread, bottled potato peelings, etc., are stirred up with a mixture of bran, corn-meal and if possible ground oats, into a crumbly mash. Dried beef scraps for poultry may be purchased and if about ten per cent. of this is included in the mash a very satisfactory feed is produced.

His Excellency Proposes Health and Successful Voyage.

Yesterday the sealing captains were entertained at lunch at Government House by his Excellency and Lady Allardye. Those present were Captain Abram Kean, S.S. Terra Nova; Capt. George Barbour, S.S. Neptune; Capt. William Winsor, S.S. Thetis; Capt. Edward Bishop, S.S. Eagle; Capt. Westbury Kean, S.S. Ranger; Capt. Robert Bartlett, S.S. Viking; and Capt. George Whiteley. Lieut-Colonel Arthur F. Crosby, Executive Officer of the International Grenfell Association, who arrived in the city by last Rosalind was also amongst the guests. Captain William Bartlett, S.S. Viking; Capt. Jacob Kean, S.S. Seal, and Capt. Job Kneec, S.S. Sagona although invited were unable to accept his Excellency's invitation. After the luncheon, the toast of "The Kings" having been duly honoured, the Governor proposed the health of the Sealing Captains and wished them a successful voyage. His Excellency in his speech gave a most interesting account of his experiences in the Falklands and in other portions of the Empire. His personal connection with the celebrated Battle of the Falklands in the early days of the war was especially entertaining and instructive. Capt. Abram Kean, the veteran commodore of the fleet, responded and extended on behalf of the Captains a hearty welcome to his Excellency and Lady Allardye, assuring them that the great interest they were taking in all matters pertaining to Newfoundland was deeply appreciated by our people. It was a most enjoyable gathering and the Captains were very appreciative of the hospitality received at the hands of his Excellency.

When the great transformer at the generating station breaks, the whole electrical system suffers. Therefore, it is most important to consider the dependability of the apparatus which is used for this purpose.

THE FAVOURITE In Every District. WINDSOR PATENT "Canada's Best Flour"

TRINITY

1923-1928.

I have before me as I write, the official account book of the Colonial and Continental Church Society School and Teacher's dwelling house at Trinity. It begins with the accounts as presented to the Committee by Rev. William Bullock in 1825...

upon men in such conditions, and it is not used for this purpose now. In 1829, the land on which the building was erected was fenced. This cost £8, and the money was given by Messrs. Garland, Slade and Kel-

The winter of 1828 was an exceptionally cold one, and for many years after, when the old people wished to accentuate the coldness of any particular winter, they said: "That was the coldest winter since the winter the school-house was built." There is a note on the fly-leaf of this book as follows: "Lease of land on which the school-house and dwelling-house are built, commences from September 20th, 1828, and continues for 99 years. Rental 1 shilling per annum." So late as 1876 this rental of 1 shilling a year is entered in the annual account as paid. I wonder why this lease that, according to the note, would not expire till 1925, was annulled some years ago, and the property lost to the Society. Several interested people would be glad to know just why; and I shall be glad to hand on any such information, if it is strictly official.

In 1833 the following branches of the school were established, with teachers, as follows:

- English Harbor—Henry Shepherd. Salomon Cove—Henry Burnell. Ship Cove—James Butler. North Side—Jonas Jones. South Side—James Moore. Cuckhold's Cove—Elizabeth Fleet. Old Bonaventure—Thos. Gawler. New Bonaventure—Jas. Pichey. Those teachers were paid £14 or £15 a year, plus about £11.00 for teaching Sunday school. Annual subscriptions were solicited in support of the school, and a fee of 5 shillings a year was charged for the tuition of each child. The business firms of Garland and Slade, and their individual agents were always well and creditably represented in the lists of cash subscriptions; and were well to the fore in connection with any and every work that had to do with the welfare of the community. There are names of Wesleyans and Roman Catholics on every subscription list, e.g. W. D. Cross 5/-, John Cross 2/6, James Christian 2/6, John Power 2/-, William Stoneham 10/-, Capt. Eagen 5/-, George Stoneham 2/6, Rev. Wm. Wilson £11.0; and "By grant from the Roman Catholic Board of Education, for instruction and fuel £10.0.0 (1844). Amongst the names were always those of Mrs. Buchanan, and Mrs. Hayward; and (in 1833) Mrs. B. Garland, the only time I have ever seen the name; probably a visitor from England.

As far back as 1827, and for many years after that date, there appears tion work, upon which I built the superstructure of after years, that enabled me—in some little way, I trust—to extend the glory of God, by helping others along the narrow road. Ad uno disce omnes.

IN MEMORIAM

REV. JOSEPH W. BAGGS. Amongst those who came to Trinity about seventy-five years ago, and who worked here in the interests of the rising generation of that time was Mr. Joseph Baggs. An old parishioner who still remembers him, is of the opinion that he came to us from the north. That this is correct, and that the place in the north was Salvoige, I gather from the first item in Mr. Baggs' account with the Colonial and Continental Church Society. This item is dated June 18th, 1829, and is as follows: "To amount paid for passage for teacher and family from Salvoige, B. Bay." Mr. Baggs came to Trinity as a teacher for the Colonial and Continental Church Society. Mr. Baggs married Miss Sinton some years before coming to Trinity, and he and his wife arrived here in June, 1849. In common with all the men who came to Trinity as C. and C.C.S. teachers in those days, he was intelligent, dignified and reverent beyond the ordinary. Hence, those who as boys and youths attended this school, grew up to be men of standard worth; and with this education as a foundation, they found it comparatively easy to qualify as navigators, clerks, or business men in after life. This school, was the only one in Trinity, and in addition to a thorough grounding that was given in the three R's, religious instruction was given as an essential part of true education; and those who were privileged thus to be trained, never had any cause to be ashamed of their Christian manhood.

In July, 1849 his first child was born, and in the Baptismal Register of St. Paul's is the following entry: "1849, July 22nd, Baptized Frederic Henry Andrews, child of Joseph and Mary Ann Baggs." In addition to his general knowledge, Mr. Baggs had received from a clergyman-friend a good early training in theology; and with a goodly number of theological books that he brought to Trinity with him, he kept up his reading in theological subjects. He undertook the office of Lay Reader as soon as he arrived in Trinity, and thus became useful in conducting those services of the Church, that are given to a layman to conduct. He, however, realized that his theological knowledge could be more definitely, and more extensively used in the service of God's Church, by his taking Holy Orders; and the next year he offered himself as a candidate for the Diaconate, and was ordained to such, sometime during the year 1850. In 1851 his second child was born, and the following entry may be found in the Baptismal Register: "1851, Jan. 12th. Baptized, Charles Francis Simmons, child of Rev. Joseph Baggs, and his wife Mary Ann." In the absence of the priest of the parish (Rev. Thomas Wood) Mr. Baggs was privileged to administer the Sacrament of Baptism for the first time—to his own child.

As "Deacon-Schoolmaster" (such as he always signed his work after that much more respectable in appearance; whilst those who did it all were made happier by the actual doing of it, and the fact that it was all done by free-will offerings, and straight giving of labor and money.

My father was one of the Charter boys of the school, having gone there in "Daddy" Fleet's time. Whilst my father's sense of humour prompted him in after life to tell the boys some funny stories of the tricks they used to play on the "old man," and the well deserved taunt that he, in return used to play on their hides; his sense of gratitude never failed to cause him to attest his consciousness of the real worth of the school to him, in the preparation for his life's work, and in the formation of character. He was the Society's life-long friend, and his name and contribution was always found on the annual subscription list of the school in after years.

Twenty-five years after my father left school, I took his place as a boy of five years of age in the same old school, under the watchful eye, and the active arm of James Collis. At his death I was transferred to the drastic moulding influence of his son, Edwin Collis. When, years after, I began college work, I was always behind others in classics and many other accomplishments; but I could puzzle the Professor of Mathematics with Rule of Three, Practice, Cube Root, and Tare and Tret. I could make the Professor of Divinity green with envy at my knowledge of Colloquia, Epistles, and Gospels. I knew Dr. Watt's "Moral Songs" better than the author did; and the Higher Critic was nowhere when I undertook to recite the Pentateuch—for I had learnt it all by heart, over and over again, under the chastening rod, in the old Colonial and Continental School at Trinity. In this its Centennial year, with my life's work all but done, I desire gratefully to acknowledge my indebtedness to the Society for its generous share in the founda-

SLOAN'S LINIMENT (PAIN'S ENEMY) SOLD BY GEO. KNOWLING, LTD.

1860 Mr. Baggs was faithful in the discharge of his duties as schoolmaster to the C. and C.C. Society, and equally faithful and helpful as a Deacon, to Rev. Thomas Wood, who was the priest in charge of the parish in those days. Mr. Baggs still kept up his theological reading, hoping that God would permit him to live long enough to be privileged to be advanced to the priesthood. He was a large, rugged looking man, such as from outward appearances would indicate good health and a long life. An organic heart trouble, however, undermined his health, and he died suddenly on March 25th, 1862. "He asked life of Thee, O God, and Thou gavest him a long life, even for ever and ever." In the Burial Register of St. Paul's is the following entry: "1862, Interred, Rev. Joseph W. Baggs, aged 32 years." He was buried in old St. Paul's Church-yard, and his grave is unmarked and unknown. Mrs. Baggs and the children went to live with relatives in St. John's, but kept up a correspondence with friends in Trinity for several years.

Mrs. A. W. Earle celebrated her 75th birthday on February 27th, and received the congratulations of her many friends. "Mary Hannah, daughter of John and Amy Pillgrem, Trinity." (Church Register). Baptized by Rev. H. J. Fitzgerald, M.A.

Answers to Correspondents, etc. Philanthropist—I have always liked to believe that the name Trinity was given to our beautiful Harbor by Sir Humphrey Gilbert, about 1583, and that it was suggested to him by the three arms of water that together make up the harbor. Others believe that Trinity harbour was discovered by the Portuguese navigator, Gaspar de Cortereal, who entered it on Trinity Sunday, A.D. 1506. Take your choice, neither is authoritative. Either is creditable and appropriate. Query—The bourne from whence no traveller returns, as an expression for the grave, is generally misquoted, the real expression being—"That undiscovered country, from whose bourne No traveller returns." E.—Glad to hear from you, and that you are well. Also glad to hear that so many nice people are arranging to come to Trinity in the good old Summer time. —W.J.L. March 3, 1923.

The Starvation Point.

To the question, "If there were a siege, how long do you think the soldiers and civilians could live after the food supplies gave out?" an English paper answers: Science tells us that, if he can get drinking water, an ordinary man can exist for thirty days without food. At the end of that time, the machinery of the body will not be spoiled, and can be brought back to its former strength by careful feeding.

About a quarter of our body weight is fat, and it is mostly this fat that is absorbed as food during the period of starvation. We can do the same with from thirty to forty per cent. of our liver and digestive organs, and twenty per cent. of our brain and nervous systems can lose five per cent. It will be seen that the more vital organs—brain and heart—yield least of their valuable substance for the life of the body, while the less essential substances—fat, muscle, fibre and so forth—are consumed first.

SIDE TALKS.

By Ruth Cameron.

THE "ME TOO" FOLKS.

A Letter Friend writes me to write about the "me too" personalities.

She means the kind of people who court popularity by always agreeing with you.

They think it's a shame that the person they are talking to should be allowed to go to the picture shows so much.

They think so, too.

The next person they are talking to at the biggest educational centre that children aren't hurt by because they don't understand it.

stand if they think that, too. If you think religion must go out into the highways and byways and meet the people on their own ground, and feel that the dances in the parish house and the moving picture Sunday nights are splendid methods of doing that, these people agree with you.

But if you could just listen in (unseen) when the lady across the way who thinks that nothing could be wickered than dances in the parish house, and that all this mixing in with secular interests is undermining the Church, is holding forth, your mouth would drop open. For what you expected to hear her confuted, and the views which you expressed and which were agreed with brought forth, you hear nothing but the same enthusiastic agreement which formerly warmed the cockles of your heart with affection for anyone so discerning.

The Cockles Cool.

And both the cockles of your heart and your love grow cold together. I rather fancy my Letter Friend had had some such experience for she speaks with such great warmth. The habit of agreeing enthusiastically with what people say certainly wins popularity—until one is found out. But one is pretty sure to be found out by anyone with whom one has any extended acquaintance.

For casual meetings it does very well—if one has no special desire to preserve one's sincerity or mean anything by what one says.

But in the long run it is not so good a dodge. Of course there are people who don't do this deliberately. Indeed, when you come to think of it, I fancy that many deeds which we ascribe to deliberate agents are really just done because that seems to be the individual line of least resistance.

Less-Bother.

So some people say "me too" because it saves them the bother of thinking and is the simplest thing to do.

My Letter Friend asks me what I think of these people. Well, they are all right if you like better than anything to be agreed with. And some people do. But if you value sincerity and independent thought in a friend you won't care for them. Though even at that, I'll wager you will turn to them when some of your more sincere and independent friends have ruffled your feelings.

Charlotte Ribout's Collapsible Hat.

For generations women have found it impossible to carry an extra hat about, except in a container or a trunk.

Then a Parisienne thought of taking the "wiring" out.

She probably sat down and wondered, "What stunts haven't been done yet in millinery? What are the objections to present hats? What advantages can be added to them?"

"I'd like to take another bonnet along. Can't you design one to slip in a suitcase? I'm making a quick trip and don't want to be burdened with a handbox."

There's room for constructive curiosity anywhere—always a chance to do something better.

The first men to make sails and wheels and pots and looms and their descendants who puddled steel and designed cog and created dynamo, also began to achieve, notably through wondering how things could be done better.

They wanted imagination on possibility and sought and wrought until this earth changed into the miracle shop from which we now leisurely and comfortably satisfy all requirements.

If you realized oftener what an interminable procession of efforts preceded the civilization to which you were born, your own undistinguished career might spur you to a use of that cuckoo's nest of inherited ideas you call a brain.

Until you in turn design a tool or improve a method, or do something that a million available substitutes can't as easily accomplish, your time will be bought and sold at the reigning price of mediocrity.

ON THE STREET.

Wally Mason

The night was dark and windy, the faladsops on the beach, the thunder rained a a h i n d y, as I went down the street. My lonely way pursuing, "I'll walk around," I said, "note what the boys are doing, and then go back to bed." The night was wild and juicy, no stars were in the dome; it was no errand useful that took me from my home. A vain and foolish longing had let me thus astray, to see the people thronging along the Great White Way. And as I passed an alley, two highwaymen took toll; while one of them kept tally, the other pinched my roll. They smote me with a spanner and knocked me cold and flat, and, in a brutal manner, they spotted my Sunday hat. And when the twain skeddaddled on brisk and lawless legs, my brains seemed badly added, like last year's storage eggs. Yet I had sense remaining; enough to see the truth, as, struggling, weeping, straining, I journeyed to my booth. I sighed, while pouring cruces of ointment on my dome. "I would not have these bruises had I but stayed at home. My nutty, dippy yearning to roam the streets by night, and see the white lights burning, has got me in this plight. Hereafter I'll be wiser, I'll stay at home and read the Memoirs of the Kaiser, and then my head won't bleed."

Telegram Fashion Plates.

The Home Dressmaker should keep a Catalogue Scrap Book of our Fashion Plates. These will be found very useful to refer to from time to time.

FOR WORK OR AS A "HOME" DRESS.

3809. Here is a very comfortable frock, with graceful lines, in one piece style. The pockets are a useful and attractive feature. The sleeve may be finished in wrist or in elbow length. Figured percale, gingham, drill, linen, serge, mohair, sateen, kabardine and taffeta are good for this model.

The Pattern is cut in 6 Sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. A 38 inch size requires 5 yards of 36 inch material. The width of the skirt at the foot is about 2 yards.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

A MODEL FOR SERVICE AND PROTECTION.

4163. This "easy to make" apron model is nice in unbleached muslin with facings of contrasting material, or, in gingham, chintz or percale. The side seams are free below the hips, but if preferred may be closed their entire length.

The Pattern is cut in 4 Sizes: Small, 34-36; Medium, 38-40; Large, 42-44; Extra Large, 46-48 inches bust measure. A Medium size requires 4 1/2 yards of 27 inch material.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

A SIMPLE "EASY TO MAKE" APRON STYLE.

4276. Figured percale in blue and white, with banding of black bias tape, is here shown. This is a good model for gingham, rubberized cloth, linen, crepe or saton.

The Pattern is cut in 4 Sizes: Small, Medium, Large and Extra Large. A Medium size requires 2 1/2 yards of 36 inch material.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

A PRETTY HOUSE OR PORCH FROCK.

4270. Checked gingham in brown and white is here illustrated. It is trimmed with white plique. Figured voile or percale will also be good for this model. Taffeta or tab silk would be very pleasing, with stitching or embroidery for trimming.

The Pattern is cut in 6 Sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, and 44 inches bust measure. A 38 inch size requires 5 1/2 yards of 32 inch material. The width of the skirt at the foot is 2 1/2 yards. To trim as illustrated requires 3/4 yard of 36 inch material.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

A COMFORTABLE WORK DRESS.

3969. It is the little touches in the finish of this garment that will please you—as well as knowing that it is easy to make and comfortable to wear. In seersucker or chambray or a neat pattern of percale it is quite as nice as if made up in gabardine, dimity or dotted Swiss.

It is cut in 7 Sizes: 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, and 48 inches bust measure. A 38 inch size requires 6 yards of 36 inch material.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

FOR PORCH OR KITCHEN WEAR.

4161. Trim and neat is the style here portrayed. The development and adjustment are equally simple. Figured percale was used in this instance, combined with white linens.

The Pattern is cut in 7 Sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches bust measure. A 38 inch size requires 5 yards of 40 inch material. To make vest, collar and cuffs of contrasting material requires 1 1/2 yards. The width at the foot is 2 1/2 yards.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

Our Weekly Letter.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)
 Montreal, Feb. 17th (Delayed in Mail). The city at present has an epidemic of different diseases, influenza of a milder and less virulent type of three years ago, seems to predominate. Scholars, teachers, office hands and even the police seem to be the afflicted ones. The hospitals are crowded, while many schools have from 25 to 30 per cent. of their scholars and teachers on the sick list.

The cause is attributed to the changeable weather. The programme is heavy frost for a day or two, followed by rain for ten or twelve hours, then zero weather again. To add to the discomfort of the weather, there is the shortness of coal. Many persons have found it very hard to get even a small supply of fuel, while some schools have been kept waiting for 4 and 5 days for their supply. The City Council is supplying coal to the public at $16 a ton, plus the cartage. Soft coal has to be used in furnaces all over the city, and many of the coal merchants are having a hard time to try and get hard coal for their customers.

"The pickpocket" is a pretty slick person. The crowded street cars seem to be a favorite place to ply their nefarious work. It appears to be an easy thing to get away with an individual's wad on a crowded street car, when hanging on to a strap. You are hustled and jostled about to let persons get on or off at every corner. The tramways should put on extra cars to relieve the overcrowding during "the rush hours," especially when the members of the light and power brigade are out in full force to get rich quickly. The pickpockets work in pairs and have a kind of union. When they make a haul or see they are being watched too closely, they drop off the car at the first corner and beat it. An employee of the Grand Trunk, a few evenings ago, was relieved of $43, taken from an inside coat pocket, on a Windsor Street car. American Jews are master hands at the game and work at certain times in the city. The horse racing season, and the present time, the Winter Sports, bring a bunch of such artists to Montreal, to play the ponies and to play with such moneys as they can extract from the pockets of unsuspecting people. They seem to know the proper person or persons to touch for the money. One of the pickpockets ran into a tartar last week when he tackled Undertaker George Vandelo, an alderman of the city, and Chairman of the Police Committee. As the doggerel official was getting on a northbound car he felt a mysterious hand browsing in the vicinity of his bank roll and turning on the owner let fly a straight left. The gent on the receiving end took to his heels with the alderman in pursuit, but he got away through the crowd.

"There is an organized gang working the busy corners," said the alderman, "and it is very difficult for the police to grab them all. I warn citizens to watch their steps, particularly at this corner, as there have been many complaints regarding the operations of this species of crook."

Dr. Gordon Bates, Secretary of the Canadian Council of Social Hygiene, says that Montreal is the only city that openly tolerates a vice district. During the war, some 200 districts were wiped out in American cities, and he believes that Canada should wipe out the last stronghold.

La Presse, speaking for a bilingual Canada, says: "If a French-speaking Canadian and an English-speaking Canadian, who understands and speaks the French language, only have a few minutes' personal intercourse together invariably a large number of prejudices on one side as well as on the other will be dispelled. For this reason our English-speaking fellow-citizens ought not to hesitate to learn our language just as we generally learn of learning to speak and understand English. The more that Canada becomes bi-lingual the more likely is she to be united, wealthy, prosperous and contented."

The drug habit is still going strong, in fact, growing stronger every day, judging from the police court records. While a few are caught the vast majority of the addicts are still free. In a recent raid here the scene was appalling. In three rooms, a father, mother, ten children, ranging from three months to thirteen, one girl and two men had their residence. The children were sleeping in beds and on clothing on the floor at the time of the raid. Some four or five dozen of empty beer bottles, a lot of empty boxes labelled "Cocaine" were found. The girl was found in one of the rooms with two syringes and needles, and before her was a wine-glass filled with a colorless liquid. The police believe the girl is an addict, and was preparing a drug injection. Chinatown has its opium dens, but other parts of the city have dens for cocaine, heroin and morphine. A pitiful story is recorded in the Boston Daily Advertiser of February 7th.

"A short life and a merry one—then the grave and the hereafter." This brief rule for happiness, spoken lightly eight years ago by beautiful little "Marjie" Mahoney, then at Boston, came to a tragic fulfillment recently when the drug-wracked body of Marjorie Mahoney Jung was found lifeless in a dingy opium den at 17 Mott St., Chinatown, New York.

The young Boston business girl, who once spoke this motto jestingly to a police officer, has found ample opportunity to test its sinister truth. The "merry life" began eight years ago, when pretty "Marjie" lived in a lodging house on Massachusetts Ave., near St. Botolph Street, and worked in a Chinatown business office.

Determined to taste life to the fullest, she plunged into the hectic night life of Chinatown, with its lure of drugs and narcotics. With a chum named Florence, she frequented the gayest and most lurid of the "coke cabarets."

A few years later, she became the wife of Lee Jung, a Chinese merchant. Her chum at the same time married another Chinaman of Cleveland. Tiring of the night life of Boston and Providence, she prevailed upon her Chinese mate to take her to New York.

Again, her beauty and high spirits prevailed. She became the "heart-breaker" of Chinatown in New York. She was the gayest, the most vivacious, the most colorful of all the dope-driven spirits who haunted the exotic dens seeking forgetfulness and oblivion.

More and more racked by pain, influenced by a desire for narcotics to soothe her shattered nerves, Marjorie Jung gradually drifted into the most forsaken hovels of Chinatown, where only the despairing of hearts sought to drown out their memories.

And in one of these dens of despair she was found dead by the same chum who had known her in the days of the "merry life." But when her frail body was carried to Florence's room, Marjie was facing the second part of her mad prophecy—"the grave and the hereafter."

Michael Donnelly, of the firm of Rae & Donnelly, auctioneers, died during the week. The deceased was well acquainted in St. John's, and first visited the city and outlying districts over forty years ago. In 1921 he paid a visit to St. John's during the summer. He had business transactions with some people from the city, and other parts of Newfoundland for many years. His partner in the business died some years ago, but up to last May, when he retired, he was always "on the job." He fell sick shortly after his retirement and was operated on at the General Hospital for a growth in the stomach, from which he never recovered. His funeral, which took place from St. Anthony's Church, was largely attended. He had reached his 75th year. He was the oldest auctioneer in Montreal, and up to about four months ago, enjoyed excellent health. He was a brother of the famous poetess and writer, Eleanor C. Donnelly.

The Quebec Liquor Commission at Montreal has written a letter to The New York Times in which it is pointed out that the people of the United States and Canada are being deceived by bootleggers who use forged Gordon dry gin labels of the commission. The letter referred to the fact that recently some Gordon dry gin, sealed with forged labels of the commission, "was bought by our police in a very select club of a large dry city and handed over to us as 'place a conviction.'"

"A party willing to forge a label can well be expected to sell under it any poor or even poisonous stuff that he might find profitable to deal in," the letter continues. "As a matter of fact the bottle of so-called Gordon's dry gin, above referred to, when analyzed by our chemist was found to have but very distant relationship with the genuine article, and contained traces of poisonous substances."

"The Province of Quebec and its Liquor Commission have been taken to task for supplying American and Ontario bootleggers with their goods. It is now perfectly clear that most of the liquor sold as having been supplied by us is counterfeit from the case to the seal."

The stories which form the aftermath of the recent Provincial elections, and, in fact, as a general rule all elections, are many, curious and funny, but go to show how low persons can stoop to win their ends by "crooked" work with lies and even perjury, "the almighty dollar" playing the biggest part in the game. You might as well ask a horse to fly up in the air, as to try and teach some persons honesty in elections. Politics is a queer game and one that is sinking honor, principle, manliness, truthfulness and honesty to the lowest depths of degradation. "Dead men, tell no tales" is true, but they register votes in many polls. The same voter can vote four and five times in the same poll, by changing his clothes and going under assumed names. Honesty, honor, principle, manliness and truthfulness with a vengeance. True, what an old-time electioneer veteran of a score of provincial elections in Montreal said: "Conduct elections according to law! If every man who worked in elections in my day had his fingers there are ninety few who would not get five or ten years in the penitentiary." This is very consoling and quite a compliment for election workers. But don't forget that such work was not all done "For the love of Mike," but "All for the love of the Mighty Dollar."

"The Beauty Contest" in connection with the Winter Sports in Montreal was won by "Miss St. John," Miss Winnifred C. Blair, nineteen years old, as "Miss Canada." The Montreal Daily Star in an editorial, under the caption of "The Sports Queen," says: "The Girl from St. John" has carried off the national championship. Miss Blair returns to "Canada's Winter Port" bearing the proud laurels of the season's Winter Queen, and like a sensible girl she has refused to have her head turned by her success and goes back to her typewriter in the office of a customs broker. She and the city whose banner she carried so gracefully are to be congratulated upon her success.

While the competition, from which Miss Blair has emerged triumphant, has been popularly called a "beauty contest," it was more than that. It was also a test of proficiency in the sports of the season and of general deportment. The preliminary arrangements may not have been all that were to be desired, and some disappointment is inevitable. However, the visiting competitors were heartily welcomed here, and it is hoped that they are returning home with kindly thoughts of the City of Mount Royal.

What was supposed to be a "hold up" was quickly frustrated at the beginning of the week, when two alleged bandits made a rush for the cashier of the Montreal Light, Heat and Power Company, who was carrying a bag supposed to contain $67,000. The affair happened in front of the head office of the Royal Bank of Canada. The bandits were overwhelmed by a squad of detectives, who had been watching closely for the move. All three of the alleged bandits, including the driver of the Packard Car, had loaded revolvers. A week ago, stool pigeons tipped off the police that the theft was to be attempted, but instead of the Saturday's receipts amounting to $67,000 being in the bag, it contained only old newspapers and magazines of the cashier, who was ignorant of the contents of the bag until he opened it to hand the money to the Ledger Keeper of the bank. This was done to fool the robbers, for they were doubly fooled, and now they are in custody. Their arrest may clear up the Montreal Abattoir "hold up," and other robberies.

Newfoundlanders Abroad.

CARBONEAR VERSUS SPANIARDS' BAY.

(H. F. SHORTLIFF.)
Not long ago I gave the readers of the Telegram particulars of a Fishery Question that was stirring the whole population of British Columbia to its very depths, in which William Duff, M.P. for Lunenburg, N.S., former resident of Carbonear, who was chairman of the commission that wanted to place a close season on the Fraser River Salmon Fishery, and Mr. Robert Gosse, a former resident of Spaniards' Bay, had been selected by the owners of the Salmon Canneries representing a value of over Twenty Million Dollars of invested Rights, to go to Ottawa, and fight this serious question to a logical and satisfactory conclusion.

Every person in Conception Bay has been anxiously looking forward for the latest news of this Battle Royal, to hear who was successful in this great contest, as both have many friends in this country. The battle came off at Ottawa, and Mr. Robert Gosse has returned to Vancouver with flying colours. He was successful from every point of view, and the Report of the Commission to close down the immense Canneries has been given the "six months' hold," as we say in parliamentary language.

Robert Gosse has made a wonderful name for himself, and in all probability will be selected the next candidate, and very probably the representative for Vancouver at Ottawa, as he has all the facts of this great Salmon Industry at his finger-tips. He has shown the authorities at Ottawa how they can develop still more the great Fisheries of British Columbia with benefit to the whole country.

It is reported that Mr. Duff is making strong efforts to assist the halibut fishermen in British Columbia by arranging a Treaty with the United States. With these two Newfoundlanders working together, instead of pulling against each other, we are likely to see some stirring events in the near future. It is a great pity that two such capable and enterprising countrymen ever left this country, but they are at least showing the world what Newfoundlanders can do when they set their minds in the right direction.

It is pleasing to chronicle these facts, and I am sure that our old friend, Capt. Richard Gosse, will be a proud man over his son's success. I shall have more to say about the Gosse family later on. The canning of salmon on the Pacific Coast has developed into a wonderful business in recent years. It was started in 1863 with a few hundred cases, and last year they put up over Eight Million Cases of these salmon. Very little was known about Alaska previous to the rush for the Klondike Gold Diggings in 1896. It was about the last corner of the globe that any person ever expected to see any business started, but they have been so successful with the salmon in that far-away region that their output last season was valued at over Thirty-five Million Dollars.

When we see such an unlimited demand for Canned Fish of this kind, we should not think that there is something amiss in this country, and that greater efforts should be made to re-verse our fortunes in that direction. The world is going ahead all the time, and we must move with it, and learn new methods of putting up our fish. Our people here want fancy biscuits, not the "hard tack," which is going out of use, and it is the same in every other country, they want to see their fish put up in a better way. The Pacific Coast is taking the lead in canning fish in a hundred and one different ways, and we should move along in the same direction. If they can find markets for such huge quantities of Canned Fish, surely we are in a better position here to work it out, as we are so much nearer the markets and have by far a superior quality of fish, but the trouble is we are going behind instead of progressing, and if there is not something done to keep our young men at home, they will be soon all left the country to build up Nova Scotia and British Columbia.

Men's Snow Shoes at AYRE'S, $3.30 pair.

Fads and Fashions.

A pretty cloak made of Shetland shawls crosses in front and has a handsome collar of beaver.

A cut-work pattern on a foundation of crepe marocain is effectively outlined in fine silk soutache.

A knife-pleated skirt of grey will be worn with a black jacquette embroidered in grey soutache.

A cascade drapery of plain crepe is placed at the left side of a one-piece frock of printed crepe.

It is to be noted that the charming spring hats have crown several shades higher than last season.

Among the newest shoes the gray strap slipper of suede showing much openwork is very popular.

Port organdy collars and frilled vest and belts give an air of delicacy to frocks of English prints.

Ice Skating.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir— I notice by the papers that this Hier Johnson of Canada took eleven minutes and nineteen seconds to do the three mile race in the Prince's Rink a few nights ago. Surely this is not called speed, as when Simms raced Show in the City Rink before the great fire, if I am not wrong, he did the three miles a few seconds under ten minutes. I will remember at that time there was a chap called Donohue, who was then the champion skater of Canada, and his time was only a few seconds below Simms. I think it would be interesting to the sporting element, and if not too much trouble, if you would insert in your paper some of the 3 mile records in the City Rink before it was burnt in the fire of 1892, as I feel certain that this time of Johnson's cannot be called speed. Then take again Fred Chislett and Ferguson when they raced a gruelling race in the Parade Rink on St. Patrick's Day, and Chislett won the race by making a jump to the tape. I believe that their time was below Johnson's time, although the Parade Rink was a poor one to race in on account of the sharp corners. Thanking you in anticipation of this favour.
Yours truly,
SPORT.

On February 9th, 1892, a three mile race took place in the Parade Rink between Messrs. Winsborough, Boggan, Hayward, Molloy and H. J. Brownrigg. In the last lap of the race Hayward was leading, but fell, and both Winsborough and Boggan beat him in the order named. The time for each mile was checked as follows:—1st. mile, 3:15; 2nd. mile, 3:25; 3rd. mile, 3:00. The time for the race was 9:40. The above is taken from the Evening Telegram dated the 10th of February, 1892. Whether the course was a correctly measured one is not known, but the time in question appears to be exceptionally quick, particularly in the last mile. —(Sport's Editor)

Forcing the Dardanelles.

Although our Naval Forces during the Great War, were not successful in getting past the Turkish defenses in the Dardanelles, the feat was actually accomplished on March 3, 1907, when an English squadron, under Admiral Sir John Duckworth, emerged, but not without heavy loss. The Dardanelles is a heavily fortified and extremely narrow strait separating part of Europe from Asia; it forms the key to Constantinople and the Bosphorus, for which reason the Turks guard it with fierce jealousy. At that time Napoleon was at the height of his power, and skill as a conqueror, and it was feared that without combined action on the part of the Powers, most of the Continent of Europe would soon be in the hands of this one man, and the balance of civilized power be entirely overthrown. The Allied Powers, therefore, fought Napoleon singly or together, whenever and wherever they could, sinking all smaller differences in the face of the common enemy. Part of Russia's campaign of resistance lay in an invasion of the provinces that form the Roumanian of to-day; and Admiral Duckworth, in command of a squadron of British ships, was anxious to get to the assistance of Russia. His way lay through the Dardanelles, whose steep banks were crowned with forts, showing heavy guns pointing sheer down on to the narrow channel. The entry of the fleet of ships apparently so astounded the troops on guard by its very boldness that little resistance was offered; but having failed in his daring effort, the admiral found that the exit was not so easy. A hail of stone shot rattled on the decks, and it seemed only by a miracle that no ship was sunk to block the strait, and imprison the others like rats in a trap. Although he failed, in his attempt to reach the Russian troops, Admiral Duckworth and his men made a splendid exposition of the art of war, besides bequeathing to posterity a record of one of the most recklessly brave achievements in history.
