Under False Colors

OR Lord Somerton's Ally.

CHAPTER XXX.

"It is to be hoped," remarked Elsie, "that the new rector will not permit his life to be made a misery by the squabbles and caprices of half a dozen different factions. I have heard papa say that the pastor should also be the master of the church. What is the new rector's name?"

"Mr. Lawson—Mr. Harold Lawson. A fine-looking man, too. Tall, dark, and the loveliest teeth imaginable in one who must be fifty if he is a day. Fortunately, he is married. Mr. Lawson called yesterday with the curate, and appeared to be very much interested in the park. He wandered about the picture gallery and the library, and talked about Sir John as though he had known him all his life."

Elsie became interested in Mr. Lawson, and regretted that she had not been at home to receive him.

"He and Lord Somerton have struck up quite a friendship," continued Lady Helena, "and there is no doubt that the earl's influence has had much to do in securing Mr. Lawson the living of Blairwood. You see, he owns much property a very short distance from here, and besides, practically acts for Sir John, poor man."

At that moment her ladyship uttered a little cry of surprise.

"My dear, there is Mr. Lawson crossing the lawn with Lord Somerton!"

Elsie looked up quickly and saw from the window the handsome figure of the new rector. Beside him the Earl of Somerton seemed almost puny. They were standing before a bed of flowers, and the clergyman appeared to be decanting upon their beauty. He had a dark, eloquent face, the features being of the old Roman type, and eyes of such intense blue that to many people they appeared to be black.

Upon hearing that Mr. Lawson and the Earl of Somerton were very friendly, Miss Sterne was prepared to dislike the new rector; but when she saw his face, her prejudice vanished. It was so kindly and so earnest that she wondered wherein there could be any sympathy between the two men.

The ladies left the dining-room, and the next thing that Elsie remembered was her introduction to Mr. Lawson by the Earl of Somerton.

The rector fixed upon her his bright eyes and held out his hand.

"This is a pleasure I shall not readily forget, Miss Sterne," he said, almost softly.

Then a plying smile stole over his fine features, and he added:

"I have heard a little of your trouble, Miss Sterne, in connection with your father's incurable malady. I am interested in Sir John because I am almost sure that I met him abroad when we were both young men."

"You were my father's friend?" Elsie asked, a soft light in her lovely eyes.

"There Were Many Things Which I Could Not Eat"

Mrs. H. Robert Wells, English Harbour, Trinity Bay, Nfld., writes:

"I was troubled with nervous dyspepsia—so much so that there were a great many things I could not eat at all on account of the distressed feeling afterwards. I used many different remedies, but they did me little good. Finally I tried Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and Kidney-Liver Pills, and was surprised at the relief this combined treatment gave me in such a short time."

DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD

that my cousin and my father's own man of business had conspired against him and me. Oh, I cannot tell you the whole dreadful story, but you will know it soon from others."

Mr. Lawson looked grave. "This is very unfortunate, is it not, and at this important period in your life—to most women the most important?"

She glanced at him, questioningly. "I refer to your approaching marriage," he went on, gently.

"I am afraid that some one else is afflicted with hallucinations, Mr. Lawson," Elsie said.

He looked at her searchingly, a slight frown contracting his brows.

"Then Lord Somerton is a little premature?" he stated. You very properly refuse to have a wedding celebrated until Sir John's illness is determined. I thought that it was rather strange—"

"Mr. Lawson," interrupted Elsie, "the Earl of Somerton is nothing to me. He has professed to wish to make me his wife, but I dislike him utterly. Oh, you must not listen to these idle and vicious stories. Everybody's hand is against me."

The new rector was both surprised and pained.

"Do not distress yourself, my child," he said, gently. "I can see that I have been deceived, though to what end I am at a loss to conceive. I have only been told one part of the story, and must wait until I can see you alone, Miss Sterne. Be sure that I will be your friend. By the way, let the earl suspect nothing at present, for the reason that he can object to my application for the rectorship even now, and I have a twofold object in desiring to be installed at Blairwood. I am convinced that there is some deep-rooted conspiracy here, now that I have talked with you. My lord and Lady Helena are coming this way, I will be careful not to arouse his suspicions that you have contradicted the story he told me."

So saying, Mr. Lawson adroitly changed the subject, and began to discourse learnedly upon the different styles of architecture which had been employed in the building of the Blairwood Park mansion.

"Yes, Miss Sterne," he was saying, when the earl stood within earshot, "I am a great admirer of the Corinthian, and have no doubt that the original of yonder columns was designed nearly three thousand years since."

With a warning glance toward the girl, he addressed a few words to Lord Somerton, who was watching Elsie with a world of admiration in his glowing eyes.

Lady Helena now endeavored to monopolize the society of the clergyman, and Elsie found herself alone with Somerton.

"I think that you will like Mr. Lawson," observed the earl. "He is a powerful preacher, and a splendid orator. Far too good for Blairwood; but he has knocked about the world a great deal, and years for a sleepy hollow wherein to spend the remainder of his life. It appears that his wife is an invalid, and he is charmed with this place."

"He is apparently a clever, well-informed man," Elsie replied, glancing after the retreating figures of Lady Helena and the clergyman.

"They are going for a stroll in the Park. Suppose we follow their example?" suggested my lord. "If you wish otherwise," he added, quickly, "do not let me influence you, Miss Sterne. Your pleasure is my first consideration."

For a moment the girl's eyes flashed, and the proud lips curled with scorn.

"You are very kind—remarkably so," she responded, icily. "I believe, my lord, that I promised last evening to relate to you what passed between myself and Mr. Grant yesterday?"

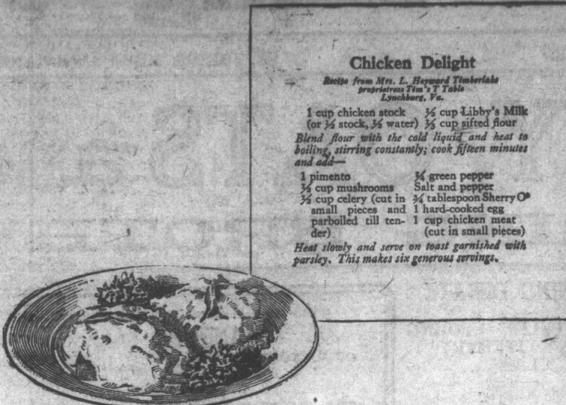

"Choose your own time, Miss Sterne. I repeat that your pleasure is mine at all times."

"Then I will tell you now," Elsie continued, "and will preface it by saying that I believe the whole thing to be a wretched conspiracy."

The pallor of my lord grew a shade paler. Had Mr. Grant overstepped the bounds of ordinary caution?

"I am afraid that he could only tell you what is unhappily the truth," he said, sadly. "My dear Miss Sterne, why needlessly harrow your feelings? Sum-of-murder—the murder of his brother—med up briefly, he accuses Sir John in-law, and your mother was no wife at all."

Mrs. Timberlake makes her specialty, Chicken Delight, with Libby's Milk

A place where exceptionally delicious foods are temptingly served is Tim's T. Table in Lynchburg, Virginia.

And among all the good things served there, none is more popular than Chicken Delight. It's a specialty of Mrs. Timberlake's, a dish that she makes as you do your favorite—with every care to have it perfect.

Thousands of other good cooks are using it regularly; so many of them, in fact, that Libby's is now generally known as "the milk that good cooks use."

Chicken Delight

Recipe from Mrs. L. Raymond Timberlake, proprietress Tim's T. Table, Lynchburg, Va.

1 cup chicken stock 1/4 cup Libby's Milk (or 1/4 stock, 3/4 water) 1/2 cup sifted flour
 Blend flour with the cold liquid and heat to boiling, stirring constantly; cook fifteen minutes and add—
 1 pimento 1/2 green pepper
 1/2 cup mushrooms Salt and pepper
 1/2 cup celery (cut in 1/4 tablespoon Sherry) 1 hard-boiled egg parboiled till ten- 1 cup chicken meat (cut in small pieces)
 Heat slowly and serve on toast garnished with parsley. This makes six generous servings.

7 1/2 teaspoons of butter fat in every 16 oz. can

7 1/2 teaspoons of butter fat in every can

They notice, as you will, that anything made with Libby's Milk has greater richness, finer flavor. It must, for there are 7 1/2 teaspoons of pure butter fat in every 16 oz. can of this milk—the very same butter fat that makes cream and butter such great enrichers of foods.

Cow's milk made double rich

Unlike ordinary milk, you see, Libby's Milk comes only from selected herds in the finest dairy sections of the country—those places where ideal pasture lands abound, and where men specialize in raising cows that give exceptionally rich milk.

Not only that. At our condenseries in the heart of these favored dairy sections, we remove more than half the moisture from this fine milk, making it double rich.

Nothing is added to it; none of its food values taken away. But to bring it safely to you who live, perhaps, many hundreds of miles away we must seal it in air-tight cans and sterilize it.

Have richer dishes tonight

Order a can of Libby's Milk from your grocer today. Try it tonight in one of your favorite dishes, in place of ordinary milk. See what wholly new richness it gives. And what fine flavor. You'll want Libby's Milk for all your cooking!

Write for free recipe folder

Upon request we'll gladly send you, free, a copy of a new folder which contains a number of excellent recipes sent us by good cooks who use Libby's Milk.

Preliminary to Big Fight on Prohibition

LONDON.—(A.P.)—Almost everyone in England feels that some day in the future this country will be the scene of a big fight over the prohibition question. Both sides are already busy bellowing from soap boxes and lecture platforms and spreading printed propaganda here and there.

To the side of the wets has just arrived Prof. Ernest H. Starling, University College, London, with a book on "The Action of Alcohol on Man."

"The work of the community," he contends, "is carried out almost entirely by men with whom the moderate use of alcohol is habitual."

"We have only to look at the leaders in every walk of life. In each group we find a small handful who are total abstainers, but a census would probably give over 90 per cent. who habitually partake of small doses of alcohol. Health is in most people a necessary condition of success; and most of the members of the leading group of society enumerated are distinguished not only by their good general health, but also by the fact that they live to a ripe old age."

"Dry dinners are an awful bore to everyone, the Professor seems to think, and the merriment is obviously forced. But an ordinary feast at which alcoholic drinks form a part is ever "distinguished by a natural flow of spirits and good fellowship."

"A man may go to such a dinner full of cares and the work of the day, with little or no interest in those he has to meet; whose occupations may be very diverse of his own, nervous of making any remarks to his neighbors for fear of making himself ridiculous or saying something in which they are not interested. After the first glass of champagne we notice the conversation, instead of being spasmodic and forced, becomes general and free; the self-consciousness and preoccupation of each man with his own affairs becomes lessened."

Allies Must not Disrupt Germany

British Ambassadors Enter Informal Protests at Paris and Brussels.

LONDON, Nov. 1.—(United News.)—The British ambassadors at Paris and Brussels have called the attention of the French and Belgian Governments to Premier Baldwin's declaration that England could not permit the disruption of Germany.

It is assumed here that this is the basis of Paris' reports that England has protested against the proclamation of the Rhineland Republic.

It is authoritatively stated that there has been no question of formal notes or protests.

LARGE SUPPLIES OF COTTON EXPECTED FROM THE SUDAN.

Manchester, Nov. 9. (A. P.)—The growing of the American type of cotton in the Gezira area of the Sudan is developing rapidly and the output next year, it is estimated, will be double that of last, while in 15 years the Sudan will be producing a million bales of cotton a year.

These statements were made recently in London by Major-General Sir O. C. F. Stack, Governor General of the Sudan, who explained that the increased production would result from new development work, including the construction of a dam across the Nile which would bring an additional 30,000 acres of cotton under cultivation.

Share in Foreign Policy is Distant

Members' Progress Seems Slow at Imperial Conference.

LONDON, Nov. 1.—(Canadian Press.)—From the present indications it seems doubtful if any great advance will be made in the main Imperial Conference with regard to the participation of the Dominions in the British foreign policy.

Members were kept informed of the progress of the Dominions in the British foreign policy.

Members were kept informed of the progress of the recent negotiations in calling an international conference on reparations, but so far it is understood no concrete proposals have been submitted for improved methods of consulting the Dominions between sessions of the Imperial Conference. The question, however, still has to be discussed.

SAVED FROM AN OPERATION

Now Recommends Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Washington, D. C.—"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound saved me from an operation which a physician said I would have to have for a very bad case of female trouble. My system was all run down for two years after my little girl was born. Then I read of your wonderful medicine and decided to try it. I could hardly drag one foot after the other, and after taking six bottles of the Vegetable Compound I felt like a new woman. I now do all my housework, also washing and ironing, and do not know what real trouble is. My health is fine, and I weigh 140 pounds. When I started taking it I weighed 97 pounds. I gladly recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to any one who is suffering from female trouble or is run down. You may use this testimonial for I am only too glad to let suffering women know what the Vegetable Compound did for me."—Mrs. Ida Hawley, 1120 Pennsylvania Ave. S.W., Washington, D.C.

Such letters from women in every section of this country prove beyond question the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

WILLIE'S FAREWELL MESSAGE.
THE HAGUE, Nov. 10.
In a farewell message posted at Wieringen, following the departure of the former Crown Prince for Germany, Frederick Wilhelm thanks the people cordially and explains that a personal farewell was impossible, because his departure under such conditions would have been difficult. "In a desperate plight, slandered and roofless, I came to Wieringen in November, 1918, and here I quickly found rest and human sympathy. I say good-bye to you and wish all that is best for the Island of the future. Many thanks till we meet again."

ELIGHT FEATURED BY LONDON PAPERS.
LONDON, Nov. 10.
The former Crown Prince's startling flight into Germany is featured conspicuously in London's daily papers, which speculate on whether the Allies will force Germany to give Frederick William up. The press makes much of the fact that the Prince was allowed to depart from Holland and enter Germany in face of the strong declaration by the Allies against his return.

NOT AT OELS—WHERE IS HE?
OELS, Nov. 10.
The former Crown Prince has not arrived at Oels up to eight o'clock to-night. There is no information as to where he spent Saturday, Sunday or to-day.

BERLIN NOT WORRYING.
BERLIN, Nov. 10.
The present whereabouts of the German Crown Prince is not known, but it is announced in official quarters that Frederick William spent Saturday night with friends on an estate near Hildesheim, in the neighborhood of Hanover, and would probably arrive Monday at Oels, where it is his intention to sojourn in his own castle. The departure of the Hohenzollern Prince from Wieringen, and his entry into Germany, does not seem to have caused the excitement in Berlin that might be expected. Popular opinion appears wholly disinclined to associate him with present or future nationalist machinations, if only for the reason he is viewed as "wholly out of the running," in that he is considered a liability to any reactionary enterprise.

Keep Your Hands Soft and White With Cuticura.
The daily use of the Soap, with occasional touches of the Ointment, is very effective for keeping the hands soft and smooth. EX-KAISER GETS PASSPORTS.
BRUSSELS, Nov. 12.
The former German Emperor received German passports for himself and suite this afternoon, according to the Galette. It is expected, the paper adds, that the Hohenzollern Monarchy will be restored December 4th, the former Emperor or the Crown Prince ascending to the throne.

GIVEN TWELVE PASSPORTS.
BRUSSELS, Nov. 12.
According to advices from various sources in Doorn, 12 passports authorizing journey to Berlin, have been handed the former German Emperor.

A REMEDY FOR PNEUMONIA.
ROME, Nov. 12.
Prof. Marchisfava, one of the most eminent of Italian physicians, has announced a discovery of a remedy for pneumonia and other lung diseases, by a young Swiss, Dr. Leandro Tomarkin. Already treatment has been administered to numerous patients in military hospitals with what are described as successful results.

BRITISH PARLIAMENT MEETS TO-DAY.
LONDON, Nov. 12.
The British Parliament re-assembles to-morrow under the shadow of a great political crisis and probable dissolution within the coming week to test the opinion of the country on the vexed controversy of protection versus free trade.

DISSOLUTION TO BE ANNOUNCED TO-DAY.
LONDON, Nov. 12.
It is understood that the date for the dissolution of the British parliament has been decided upon, and that it will be announced in parliament probably to-morrow. The Press Association states this evening, one report says, an election in December is on the programme.

KING OF GREECE TO GET OUT.
ATHENS, Nov. 12.
King George will comply with the request made by the military republican faction that he leave Greece for a brief period, pending clearing of the general situation. It is understood the monarch will depart for two months and he will either appoint a regent or ask the Government to constitute a regency. Dynastic questions will be discussed by the assembly later.

BRITAIN ABANDONS ALL IDEA OF ENQUIRY.
LONDON, Nov. 12.
In consequence of the failure of the negotiations between France and the United States over the scope of the proposed Enquiry Committee, Great Britain has abandoned all thought of an immediate reparations enquiry either with or without the participation of France. The British Government will henceforth devote itself to pressing domestic problems, awaiting a more promising moment to re-open the reparations question. The Government authorities repudiate the recent talk about any impending break with France, arguing that the existence of the Entente is the only anchor whereby the European ship of state can be prevented from going on the rocks.

PREMIERS HONORED BY EDINBURGH UNIVERSITY.
LONDON, Nov. 11.
Sir Hon. W. E. Mackenzie King, Prime Minister of Canada and Hon. William Robertson Warren, Premier of Newfoundland, were guests at a luncheon to-day of the Corporation City of Edinburgh. Earlier in the day the University of Edinburgh conferred degrees of Doctor of Laws upon them.

WILSON SPEARS OUT.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.
From his place of retirement here, Woodrow Wilson declared last night, in a message to the United States people, "that the sullen and selfish isolation to which the United States withdrew after the war, is deeply ignominious because manifestly dishonorable." The former President asserted that "democratizing citizenship," which the United States controlled, had gone worse until now than it has ever done since the first world war.

CONFERENCE WAS MADE.
On the matter of Empire Defence Conference, first declaring that views and conclusions of the Conference necessarily were subject to the action of the Governments and Parliaments of the various parts of the Empire, suggested the following as guiding principles:—The primary responsibility of each portion of the Empire represented at the Conference, for its own local defence; the desirability of the maintenance of a minimum standard of naval strength, namely equality with the naval strength of any foreign power in accordance with the provisions of the Washington Treaty; the desirability of the development of air forces in several countries of Europe upon such lines as will make it possible, by a means of adoption, as far as practicable, of a common system of organization and training, and the use of uniform manuals and patterns of army equipment stores, with the exception of aircraft, for each part of the Empire, that it may co-operate with other parts with the least possible delay, and greatest efficiency. The Conference also took note of the following: In the interest of Australia and New Zealand, the provision of a naval base at Singapore is essential for ensuring the mobility necessary to provide security of the trade of the Empire in eastern waters, and the necessity for maintenance of safe passages along the great trade route to the East through the Mediterranean and the Red Sea. It also urged the necessity of maintenance of Great Britain of home defence by an air force sufficiently strong to give adequate protection against air attack by the strongest air force within striking distance of her shores.

ARMISTICE DAY IN LONDON.
LONDON, Nov. 12.
Enormous crowds and brilliant sunshine marked the celebration of Armistice Day here Sunday. Naval, Military and Air Force detachments were stationed on either side of the nave of Westminster Abbey, and four Guardmen were posted at the grave of the Unknown Soldier. After two minutes of silence the great gathering in the Abbey sang "O God Our Help in Ages Past," and a short sermon was delivered. Then followed the procession past the grave of the Unknown Soldier, headed by Their Majesties, King George and Queen Mary.

FORT BLOWS UP, MANY KILLED.
BURHAREST, Nov. 11.
Many persons were killed and scores wounded when Fort Donnelli, on the outskirts of the capital, blew up yesterday. For many hours the city was impelled by bursting shells. The damage is reported to be heavy.

THE FRENCH CELEBRATION.
PARIS, Nov. 12.
France celebrated the fifth anniversary of the Armistice on Sunday with more pomp than solemnity, but less subservience and greater intensity of feeling than displayed since the last shot of the war. The momentous events in Europe, the unrest along the Rhine, and the return to the Reich of one of the men responsible for their losses, all tended to make the day not one for rejoicing, for the people of France. The Paris ceremony was one of great display and centred around the tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

LABOR PARTY READY.
LONDON, Nov. 12.
Addressing a Labor meeting in London, to-night, Ramsay MacDonald, the leader of the Opposition, said he would to-morrow challenge the Government in Parliament on its unemployment policy and its European policy, which had sacrificed every ideal and left Europe more militaristic and more warlike than in 1918. He denounced the Government's protectionist proposals and declared he had never known the Labor Party more enthusiastic for a straight fight.

Challenge

Better the steel snapped short amid
In the ringing shock of a battle thrust,
Than a weapon cobwebbed over and under
And pitted deep with rust!

Better the tall tree, burst and riven
By the lightning's stroke on the high hill's crown,
Than dead limbs stark on a scornful
heaven,
As the slow rot gnaws them down.

Better to fall in a last mad rally
And fall with the goal almost in sight,
Than drowse at peace in a tight-
walled valley
With never the grit to fight!

Play to the end—and a fig for the score!
Grin at defeat—and a shrug for shame!
But pity the shirker who dodges the burden
And shrinks from the head of the game!

Delorme Before
Court Next Week

MOVE FOR SANITY TRIAL SCHED-ULED TO COME EARLY.

Motions by Gustave Monette, counsel for the curator of the Delorme estate, directed toward a second "sanity trial" of Rey. J. Adelard Delorme, are expected in the court of King's Bench next Monday or Tuesday, when the priest will stand in the dock for the third time to hear the charge that he killed his half-brother Raoul Delorme.

Selection of the Grand Jury of the November term of the court will open tomorrow, and Monday has been set tentatively as the date on which petty juries will begin to work on the true bills returned by the Grand Jury. The Delorme case is one of the first on the list, since the true bill has already been returned and the case has merely to be called to place the prisoner in accusation once more.

Delorme must be called early in the new term, so that a date may be set for trial on the merits of the murder charge, November 19th having been mentioned as the possible opening day in the event of an effort being staged to divert court action toward another mental examination of the accused—and rumors are that such an effort will be staged and may succeed—the preliminary motions must be made when the case is called for the trial date to be fixed.

Mr. Monette can make the motion before Mr. Justice Wilson, president of the court of King's Bench, even though Justice Wilson considers himself unqualified to hear the Delorme trial proper, because of connection with the case celebre prior to his elevation to the bench. Consideration of the legality of motions designed to place Delorme in the hands of alienists once more, it is held, does not constitute part of the Delorme case proper, and thus it would not be necessary for Mr. Justice Wilson to yield to the judge, he may be selected by Acting Chief Justice Martin as the Delorme trial judge.

Most people connected with the case seem to think that the next Delorme trial will be one of sanity. The Crown, however, is ready to fight on facts, and is understood to have in reserve additional evidence that will strengthen the chain against the last June's trial. Official confirmation of reports to this effect cannot be obtained, but definite rumors are that one or more witnesses can now be called whose testimony would cause a sensation.—Montreal Star.

Every One Benefits From Tourist Traffic

Vancouver got $24,000,000 from its tourist traffic this summer and Quebec expects to get $50,000,000 a year very shortly. This money was widely distributed, not going only to hotels and retail stores. These may benefit directly but in the end the money spent by the tourists passes through a variety of hands and helps to quicken business activity in many lines. If a tourist spends $100 in a retail store, he is adding $100 to the turnover of the retail merchant but he is probably adding about $70 to the turnover of a wholesaler and about $55 to the turnover of some manufacturer. There are wages and similar expenditures all down the line. It is all right to depend upon local merchants, cigar stores, gasoline filling stations and hotels to provide the impetus to keep local tourist and publicity bureaus going, but when tourist work is on a broader scale, having a provincial or national aspect, manufacturers and others removed from purely local affiliations must realize the business value to them of tourist work—getting tourists into the into the country and provide not only financial aid to properly organized tourist bodies but also the moral support and advice of the executive heads of the companies.—Financial Post.

Armistice Day Remembrance

AT THE C. OF E. CATHEDRAL.

The service in the Church of England Cathedral on Sunday morning was both inspiring in its message, and in every way in keeping with the anniversary of the great occasion when the message of Peace was sent to every corner of the world.

Procession of Choir and Clergy. (Congregation standing in silence) during The Dead March (Solo) The Flag being placed on the altar. Then was sung:

Fieral Father, God Supreme Who didst in love the world redeem, We looked to Thee in days of old Thy mercies have been manifold.

Lord of the waves, our Sailors keep, Who meet their foes on treacherous deep, Protect and bless them in the strife, All souls are Thine in death and life.

Father Almighty, guide and shield, Our soldiers on each battlefield, In camp and fort reveal Thy power And mercy give in conflict's hour.

Dear Father, bless the shadowed homes, Where haunting fear now daily comes; Defend the right, make war to cease, Forgive all wrong, and give peace.

O God of the spirit of all flesh we praise and magnify Thy holy name for all Thy servants who having fought a good fight, have finished their course in Thy faith and fear.

Let us Pray. O God of the spirit of all flesh we praise and magnify Thy holy name for all Thy servants who having fought a good fight, have finished their course in Thy faith and fear.

Almighty God, who art afflicted in the afflictions of Thy people: Regard with Thy tender compassion the bereaved; Bear their sorrows and their cares; Give them comfort and peace in Thee; Supply all their manifold needs; and help both them and us to learn the lessons of Thy Fatherly discipline; through Jesus Christ Our Lord. Amen.

Silence for the space of two minutes. O Lord God of our fathers, Who in Thy goodness hast led this people hitherto by wondrous ways: Who makest the nations to praise Thee, and knittest them together in bonds of peace; We beseech Thee to pour Thine abundant blessing on the dominions over which Thou hast called Thy servant George to be King, Grant that all, of whatever race or colour or tongue, may in prosperity and peace, be united in the bond of brotherhood, and in the one fellowship of the faith, so that we may be found a people acceptable unto Thee; Through Jesus Christ Our Lord. Amen.

We beseech Thee, Almighty God, look upon the hearty desires of Thy humble servants, and stretch forth the right hand of Thy Majesty, to be our defence against all our enemies; Through Jesus Christ Our Lord. Amen.

Then followed the order of Morning Prayer.

Lessons: (L) II. Chron. xxviii: 4-16. (R) Revelation xv.

After the third collect, Prayer of St. Chrysostom and the Grace.

Hymn 165. "O God our help in ages past."

The Sermon. Hymn 279. "Now thank we all our God."

"God Save the King." Benediction.

Sermon Preached at the Cathedral Church of St. John the Baptist, St. John's, Nfld., on Armistice Day, Nov. 11th, 1923, by the Bishop of Newfoundland.

(Printed by request.) THE FORWARD LOOK.

St. Luke ix:62. And Jesus said unto him, No man, having put his hand to the plough, and looking back, is fit for the Kingdom of God.

May I suggest that in this word of Christ may be found the great, essential, principle, which should control our thoughts and actions as we face the world viewed five years after the Great War was brought to an end. The principle is this: we must look forward and not back: forward, with hope and determination to build a new world, and a better world than that which has been destroyed. It is easier far, I know, to do the exact opposite: to look back to bewail the wretched legacies bequeathed to us and our children, and to the greater part of the world, by those terrible years which we would fain forget.

There is a looking back which is a duty, of which we are reminded to-day—a duty of remembrance, of gratitude, of thanksgiving, of acknowledgment of the debt we owe, and which we can never repay. We are looking back just now, while we, in common with our whole empire, kept silence that we might hear the sound of their marching feet.

It is no course of wonder that Armistice Day should have as its central idea and as its most solemn and arresting feature the bowed head of our great Empire, paying tribute to its honoured dead. They at any rate paid to the full the purchase price of liberty. If there is no real peace after all, they had no more that they could give to obtain it. It is but common justice that we should year by year acknowledge this, and in reverent gratitude pay our tribute to their generous self-sacrifice.

This is the looking back that we needs must share with our brothers and sisters. Perhaps the tie that binds so many people in the common lot of sorrow and suffering is as strong as any bond that makes a widely scattered people one.

But we cannot bring ourselves to believe that even the most tender and touching observance of Remembrance Day is an adequate response to our obligation to the men whose memory we honour.

No one could have foreseen the quick extraordinary effects the war has produced both amongst victors and vanquished, and also, by reason of the interdependence of nations, upon those who were indirectly touched by the war. In fact it is practically impossible to find a corner of the world that is not in some way even now affected adversely. Amongst the leading nations such as our own the problems, felt have, been most baffling, so that the wisest statesmen are puzzled. It is found to be extraordinarily true that as John Oxenham said "No less than War Peace has its acid tests."

And this testing is making itself acutely in our own little Colony, as any one whose eyes are open to what is passing can readily perceive. For a time we appeared to have been immune from the extreme hardship experienced in other countries. There was less disturbance in the ordinary pursuit of business, and our people went on with their work, not without difficulty it is true, but yet with hope and confidence. Recently, however, complications have multiplied, and from one end of the country to the other men are beset with uncertainty. There is a widely felt unsettlement, amounting in many quarters to a marked discontent, hitherto almost unknown. One cannot but have the deepest sympathy for men whose difficulties seem to be incapable of ready solution, and many of whom despairing of finding relief from their burdens are leaving the land of their birth to seek a livelihood elsewhere.

But it is not in regard to the material side of life alone that unsettlement is observable. Partly as a result of it, it may be, there is in many quarters a breaking down of religious restraints, a loss of the sense of obligation towards God and the things of God, for which excuse is found in the fact that even leaders of Christianity are questioning the truth of the beliefs which the Christian faith rests.

There is all the difference in the world between the man who honestly seeks after truth, and in his search, finds that he must revise his judgments in regard to certain things he once held to be true, and the man who has no reverence, and who sets at defiance the laws of God as well as the laws of man, and becomes a law unto himself. He enthrones selfishness, and glories in it, and becomes a menace to his kind. He can do nothing to help the world, and at a time when men are acquiring anxiously for a way out of their troubles it is not to such as he they will turn.

But in all the turmoil of to-day, let us be ready to acknowledge that there is no short cut to tranquillity or to more restful days either in material or spiritual things. The age-long conflict has taken on a sterner phase since the war. Old evils, long kept in check, have been encouraged to adopt a bolder front and are making a bid for the bodies and souls of men weakened by strain and perplexity. And not yet have men been able to adjust themselves to the new and unfamiliar aspects of their existence. The tasks of peace are more complicated than were the tasks of war, and we have been unprepared to meet them.

Armistice Day might well recall our minds to the nature of the duties that confront us as a people and as individuals. If we cannot escape from a sense of disappointment at the failure of our sacrifices to accomplish what men hoped for, we must try to see how we may in our turn take up and carry on the unfinished tasks.

Whether consciously or otherwise the men whom we commemorate to-day died in order that tyranny might not enslave the world. That misuse of power was regarded, we believe rightly, as a terrible wrong against mankind. Nothing but a perversion of the idea of right could justify it. The conscience of the Christian world revolted against it. And men felt that this evil thing must be prevented at all costs. The end of the war brought one stage of the conflict to a close. The evils that have to be faced now may be of a different kind, but their author is the same.

There are two possible attitudes which we may be urged to adopt in times like these: one, comparatively easy, but to my mind worthless, but yet the one which is appealing to vast numbers here and elsewhere. An attitude which, to all intents and purposes, regards conditions both inside the Church and without as practically hopeless. Those who adopt this attitude see little good anywhere, in anything; they see no progress in matters that are worth while; the Church is nearly always wrong, her methods outward and antiquated, her power as a redeeming force 'as good as dead. But men who think in this way have no remedy worthy of the consideration of thoughtful people.

And there are those (I do not claim that they are the majority) who see, or believe they see in the Christian faith the one sure promise of better things. Their hopes are not quenched either by the remembrance of their own past failure and inconsistency, or by the lukewarmness, and indifference or opposition on the part of others. They are convinced that the living Christ is destined to rule in all the affairs of men. They do not underestimate the gigantic problems that await solution, but they feel somehow that Christ holds the key to each and all. They are convinced that His voice will yet reach men in all walks of life and claim and win their allegiance. Even now it is His voice that is heard calling to the men and nations that saved the world from one form of evil to save it again from the no less serious evils that face it now. It is as though we heard Him say: "You put your hand to the plough; if you would be fit for the coming Kingdom you must not now look back!"

This is where we stand to-day. Surely the only evidence that our remembrance day observance is wholly sincere will be seen in the attempts we make to be more worthy of the great trust committed to our keeping by the dear boys who died.

"If—y one touch of their Omnipotence God the Creator, Christ the Redeemer, Laid upon all mankind Their will this day. Think what might be—! Think what would be—!"

Men would all strive each for his neighbour's good, And all mankind form one Great Brotherhood. Self-seeking, self-aggrandisement, no more. With broken shards would strew his temple-floor, No more would twist his image all away. Nor down, His sons in senseless rivalry By the red sword's arbitrament to die.

When, as in heaven, on earth His will is done, God's Kingdom in the heart of man will come. (From John Oxenham's "Hearts Courageous.")

Is Lloyd George Coming Back?

Mr. Lloyd George's meteoric flight through Canada and the United States was in the nature of a triumphal procession from beginning to end.

His absence from England, intentional or otherwise it is impossible to say, corresponded with the sitting of the Imperial Conference, a time when there was certain to be little or nothing happening in political circles.

He arrived in England at the moment that the Conference closed. Had his plans been pre-mediated, he could not have chosen a more opportune time to land.

Lloyd George saw in it his opportunity, and almost before his feet had touched the land his denunciation of the Premier's policy was being flashed to every corner of the country.

Everyone who has followed the career of this remarkable man knows him to be a past master in the art of politics, and that he possesses a consummate skill which approaches the mysterious in anticipating popular demands.

Lloyd George has political enemies in England, many of them. Even in the days when he was in undisputed sway, there were not lacking bitter opponents who withheld their criticisms, partly because it was not the time to arouse political animosity, and also because the people were heart and soul behind him.

his ability and energy to the vital question of providing men and munitions to defeat the enemy, but by his example as well as by his magnetism aroused the people to a supreme effort which brought success.

What Does It Portend?

The announcement of the return, apparently by invitation, of the ex-Crown Prince of Germany, and the statement that the arch fiend, the ex-Kaiser, has also received his passports in order to come forth from exile in Doorn, have centred the eyes of the world upon Germany.

The country is in such a state of chaos that her statesmen would be willing to adopt any plan which promised to restore unity, and if the re-establishment upon the throne of the Hohenzollerns were likely to effect it, her recently established Republican form of Government would come to an abrupt end.

The Hon. Dr. W. R. Warren.

We congratulate the Prime Minister of Newfoundland upon the honour conferred upon him by Edinburgh University, which in recognizing him in person, at the same time pays a graceful compliment to the country which he represents.

DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS. MOST THE PAIN.

C.L.B. Cadets

In the early dawn light Sunday morning the ranks of the City Companies were seen winding their way to the south side of the Harbour of St. John's. It was St. Martin's Day and the thirty-second anniversary of the birthday of the Brigade which is always reverently observed by the Regiment. The anniversary is always frantically observed by attendance at the Altar in the early morning when the members, from the youngest private to the Regimental Chaplain and Lieut. Col. kneel in thanksgiving for mercies vouchsafed to the Brigade for the years past and to ask for blessings for the coming year. At the service of Holy Communion the officiating clergy were the Rt. Rev. the Bishop of Newfoundland, the Rev. Canon, Rev. J. B. Sullivan, Rector of St. Mary's and Rev. Herbert Pike, Company Chaplain, C. Company. This service had a two-fold appeal. Popular in the streets on Saturday had already been a reminder of "Comrades" sleeping in the fields of Flanders and many at the early service were thinking of gallant comrades who knelt with them on many anniversaries in the days before the great struggle. Their names are enrolled in the hearts of those who carry on the C.L.B. War Memorial where future generations can see the hallowed names of those who fought and won.

The general church parade in the forenoon to St. Mary's owing to the severe rainstorm had to be cancelled. The service was held in the Armoury. All the Veterans were there as well as the youngest recruit only too ready to answer marching orders, whether it rained or not—responding in the same spirit as the famous "Blue Puttees" of the Regiment of which they went over the top, July 1st. The Colonel decided to have service in the Armoury and Major Outerbridge and Doctor Cornell kindly motored the clergy to and from Headquarters. Over three hundred C.L.B. ranks answered the roll, the "Old Comrades" under President Crane turning out in great strength. The service was unique, being held for the first time at Headquarters. The officiating clergy were Rt. Rev. the Bishop of Newfoundland, the Rev. Arthur Sullivan, Rector of St. Mary's and Rev. and Capt. H. Leslie Pike, and Rev. Captain from the stage, where the Regimental drums were piled, draped with the colours. The Rector of St. Mary's conducted the service and gave the Battalion a practical address on the Brigade's Anniversary and what it meant. He exhorted the boys to make a fresh start, beginning today as the Brigade is entering a new year. He referred to a recent touching incident at the Cenotaph in London where some maimed soldiers were having rest and others had placed their wreath on the monument in memory of their pals. It consisted of a Union Jack in flowers containing the words "They have played the game, we have played the game. He admonished all ranks never to disgrace the uniform, but always to be cleanly and play the game. He said to see the Brigade had a birthday gift to London, part of which was to go to the South African coloured boys' fund. The C.L.B. is employing all time officers to organize and care for the African coloured boys—offspring of mixed marriages, a section of boys life there, which no other organization has done anything for. This is the highest spirit. The Rev. gentleman made reference to the wonderful work of the friends and benefactors of the Brigade and to the work of the ladies auxiliary and Old Comrades and that the anniversary is really a Thanksgiving Day. The address was most interesting. The stage for the wrestling bouts erected in the centre of the Armoury was occupied by the Band who furnished the music which was considered to be most meritorious. A collection was taken up and after the Benediction by the Bishop, and the playing of the National Anthem the parade was dismissed.

Lieut. Col. Rendell announced that the day has been fine, the numbers in parade with the Spencer College Guides who were unable to attend would have been a record. We congratulate the Old Comrades on their splendid appearance. Addressing the Battalion this week the Bishop who the Regimental Chaplain said that he had received a letter from Field Marshall Lord Grenfell of London Headquarters who wrote him "what the Executive of the C.L.B. in England, had a very high opinion of their Newfoundland C.L.B. Regiment." His Lordship informed the Brigade that this was most complimentary, and that at all costs, the high standard had reached in the past by those who have left their good work behind them and the work of those at present in the Battalion must be maintained. The Brigade in future cannot succeed on the reputation of its

Just Folks.

By EDGAR A GUEST

A FAIRY STORY.
Sit here on my knee, little girl, and I'll tell
A story to you
Of a fairy I knew
Who lived in a garden when I was a child.
She was lovely to see and whenever she smiled
The sunbeams came dancing around
Just to know
Whatever it was that was pleasing her so.
She lived in a poppy and used to peek out
And shout: "Oh, Yo-hoo!
I've been waiting for you!"
And then I'd go over to her house and play
And she'd saddle a bee and we'd both ride away.
Or sometimes we'd take a most wonderful trip
With the sky for the sea and a cloud for our ship.
Oft my father and mother would look out and say:
"The little girl sits
Flaps there by herself,
And he comes in and tells us of the things he has seen
And the marvelous places to which he has been."
He tells us of daint with princes and kings,
It's a curious boy who can think up such things."

Now this all occurred in the long years ago,
And the fairy has fled,
And the poppies are dead,
And never again may I ride on a bee
Or sail on a cloud with the sky for the sea.
But the fairy has promised, when business is fair
To come back again and to wait for you there.
Yes, you can go out when the skies are all blue
And see what I've seen,
And go where I've been.
You can have fairies to lead you away,
To show you strange sights and to share in your play;
And the grown-ups may say that your fancies are wild,
But fairies are real to an innocent child.

No more wonderful achievement has ever been recorded in the annals of crime detection, yet the men who are accomplishing the formidable feat of purging the Port of London of lawlessness are performing their task quietly and well.

Ten years ago they were reorganized and strengthened by the introduction of some of the cleverest detective brains in the country. Since then an unceasing warfare against crime in the docks has been carried on night and day. Shipping police were introduced into the holds of vessels loading or discharging. Organized gangs of warehouse thieves were fought with revolver and truncheon. Sailors, adrift amid land-sharks and harpies, were rescued from robbery and violence, and perhaps murder. Drug smugglers, jewel thieves, safe robbers, and the scum of the seven seas—all have matched their wits against the detective staff of the docks, and, more often than not, have lived to regret their foolhardiness.

One such case, recently recorded as the mystery of shed 17, gives an interesting glimpse of the persistent and skilfully waged warfare against crime which is carried on in the gigantic city of tall ships, teeming wharves, and fish warehouses.

Shortly after 7 a.m. on a bright June morning a permanent laborer, employed as a warehouse locker-up in the lower division of the S.W. India Dock, was going to his work.

As he was passing the City Arms Gates, which had not been used for years, he saw they were standing open. He also observed a small covered van, drawn by a lightish bay cob, standing alongside the open doors of No. 17 Warehouse. The tailboard of the van was down, and he noticed that the van was full of cases which were standing on their ends, but he had no idea what the cases contained.

He saw two men emerge from the warehouse. One of them put a padlock on the door, while his companion went ahead of the van, which was led off the dock gates by the man who had locked the warehouse doors. After the van had passed through, the man who had preceded it closed the dock gates and locked them, putting the lock in its proper place inside. Then he walked across the City Arms Bridge and was lost sight of.

About thirty yards from shed No. 17 the laborer saw, standing behind some cases, a third man wearing a blue serge suit, white collar and tie, and a soft felt hat, who appeared to be watching the movements of the other two men and the van.

The laborer was aware that the City Arms Gates had not been used for many years. Although there were constables stationed at the West End and Cube Street Gates, close by, he did not inform them of what he had seen or of his suspicions.

Arriving at the general office, S.W. India dock, the laborer told the foreman in charge of what he had seen. Some few minutes later, an office cleaner reported that he had heard a noise as of trucking when he passed the shed in question on his bicycle at 6.40 a.m.

The Opium Vanishes.

When the assistant foreman arrived at 8 a.m. it was discovered that ten cases of raw opium marked "P.S. Turkey," and valued at £2,000, had been stolen from shed No. 17.

Investigation by the dock detectives soon established the fact that the daring thieves had gained admittance to the dock and warehouse by means of false keys, as they not only removed the locks but replaced them. This led the police to the conclusion that the robbery could not have been carried out successfully except by collusion with someone employed in some capacity in the dock.

Statements were taken from everyone likely to know anything about the matter, and as soon as a description of the van, horse and cases could be obtained, it was circulated throughout the Metropolitan police district. This was later followed by meagre details of the men seen in the vicinity of shed No. 17.

Such were the clues upon which the C.I.D. department of the dock police had to work.

While individual officers were scouring the neighbourhood for traces of the mysterious van, others were questioning the residents of houses close to the City Arms Gates.

A MESSAGE

TO THE CONSUMING PUBLIC:

I have been recently appointed Newfoundland Representative for the Walter M. Lowney Co., of Boston, Mass., and ask you, one and all to co-operate with me in placing on the market once again, the finest chocolates ever imported into this Dominion.

In the olden days so the folks say, were the favorite in this country, but owing to excessive increase in raw material, together with a drastic jump in American exchange, the Lowney firm was compelled some years ago to withdraw their local connections, and consequently some Canadian houses grasped the opportunity, spent dollars in advertising, and through the medium of a good representative one of them stepped into the gap vacated by the good old Lowney firm.

Now, however, the clouds have lifted, the world looks more like normal, and are back again in our midst.

The chocolates unsurpassed, the packages most beautiful, and the prices exceedingly reasonable are three distinct reasons for your renewing friendship with an old acquaintance.

Buy and insist on and be convinced what Lowney quality can mean to you.

Remember the reputation of the company is at stake in the manufacturing of these goods, and you are protected absolutely by a written guarantee from this old American house. Established since '79.

With every assurance of your being simply delighted with your next box of chocolates

Mysteries and Tragedies of the Docks

INSIDE STORY OF THE OPIUM AND DRUG TRAFFIC—LIVERPOOL'S HOUSE OF "DOPE"—HOW THE GANG "WORKED IT."

(By MUNRO BLAIR, in Liverpool Weekly Post).

The Stolen Cases of Opium. Queer things happen in that vast network of shipping known as the Port of London. Valuable cargoes are broached, mysterious fires occur, and sailors disappear, never to be heard of again.

Despite the strict watch of the authorities, many perplexing and unsolved problems are recorded from time to time, but the desperate criminals who infest the wharves and quays of dockland are waging a losing battle. Little more than a decade ago crime in the docks was rampant, but ignored. Larceny was carried on openly. Criminal gangs in the guise of stevedores plundered and stole with cool effrontery. A small, inefficient and corrupt force of police made a pretence of safeguarding the interests of the shipowner.

Underwriters paid out more than a quarter of a million pounds annually as insurance on stolen merchandise. It was impossible for a workman to be honest. Cases are on record where men who were staunch teetotallers were compelled to drink contraband gin by the thieving bullies who bossed the wharf gangs, so that they, too, should share the guilt.

In 1910 the number of arrests for larceny and unlawful possession was well below 200. In 1919 the figures under the same heading were more than a thousand. To-day convictions are negligible.

SIDE TALKS.

By Ruth Cameron

ARE YOU ONE?

Do you know what a hypochondria is? I'll wager most of my readers would answer that it is an abnormal sort of person who always fusses over everything and is somewhat mentally unbalanced. There would be variations of course, but in the minds of most of us the "abnormal" or "unbalanced" part would predominate in the definition. And yet here are the symptoms:

Hunting For Worries. "Hypochondria shows itself in a perpetual hunting after things that vex and annoy and then brooding over them." Pretty common symptoms aren't they? We wouldn't have to look among the abnormal or unbalanced portion of the population to discover them. I'm thinking.

A friend called my attention to the above definition of hypochondria in a story about a man badly afflicted with the malady. "It brought me up short when I read it," she said, "and I'm glad I ran across it for I was on the road to hypochondria without realizing it." "Into a peaceful moment would come the haunting thought of something wrong and I would begin hunting for it in my memory, anxiously prodding and thinking: 'What is it that is bothering me? Oh, yes, Edith's sore throat.' And then I'd brood and worry until I had in imagination taken her through a siege of diphtheria and all but buried her."

Doesn't Ward Off Trouble. "Now, since reading that, when I catch myself at that sort of thing, I bring myself up short and tell myself that brooding won't ward off trouble if it's on the way, and if there is no trouble in store for me, how silly of me to get into such a state of mind over nothing."

Have you tendencies of that sort? If you have it's a pretty good idea to take yourself in hand like Edith's mother and ward them off.

I have a friend, a widow, who has brought up unaffiliated a family of six children. The years of their childhood were full of sickness and loneliness and times of terrible discouragement. She sold books, kept house for her babies, cooked and sewed day-times, and after they were tucked away in bed for the night went out and taught night school. When I asked her once how she ever did it she said: "Well, for one thing, having put my hand to the ploughshare, I never looked back. To have allowed myself the luxury of regret, to have brooded over what might have been had my husband been spared to me, would have been fatal."

"March Breast Forward." There's one good maxim for the near-hypochondriac: "Never look back."

And when you look ahead into the future, look hopefully.

It's just as easy to hope for better times as it is to fear worse times.

What a shame for anyone to spoil the peace of the present with what may be utterly groundless fear for the future.

There's another good thought for the brooders to keep in mind.

British Warships Break up Traffic

IN RED SEA SLAYERS.

LONDON—(AP)—Although the slave trade is commonly supposed to have been suppressed all over the world, two British warships, the Clematis and the Corndor, have been engaged in suppressing this traffic in the Red Sea for the last two years. Not only have they succeeded in stopping most of the Red Sea slave trade, but they also have stopped gun-running which was occasionally attempted.

High prices are paid for slaves in this part of the world, who are generally captured from the coastal tribes and sold to the Arabs, who take their victims inland.

A communication from a number of the crew of the Clematis tells an interesting story:

"We had spent a brief period of two years in the Red Sea," he says, "witnessing very varied scenes of tropical life, and experiencing the almost intolerable heat of two summers. The duties of the two Red Sea sloops are primarily to frustrate the diabolical bartering of humans which unfortunately still continues to a much larger extent than one is led to believe."

"On one occasion a show was detained which had been this trading, but it is to be regretted that the occupants successfully evaded capture, and carried away with them gold they had received for their slaves."

"It was, however, an exciting incident, for when we first tried to board they opened fire on our whalers. This necessitated the latter returning to the ship, and we eventually fired about eight rounds at the escaping crew."

"On another occasion a show was captured full of slaves, girls and boys between the ages of seven and seventeen."

"It was heartrending to stand by and see the hungry mites ravenously attack the bread we gave them. The show's crew endeavored to escape by jumping overboard and swimming ashore, but were successfully captured, and hopes are entertained that they got their full deserts."

Telephone System Inaugurated

A new wire is being strung from Curlew to Humbermouth in connection with the telephone system which is being installed for the outlying parts of Bay of Islands. It is believed the telephone system will give the localities a better service than existed under the telegraph system and at a fraction of the cost. The telephone will be operated in conjunction with the general telegraph system.—Western Star.

THE QUIET MAN.

WALT MATON

When men are elevated, please high and grand, they're often so elated they talk to beat the band. Odds-fishers, interviewers, are worked twelve hours a day, with every human topic they seem to be in touch, and all these people yawp are sure to say too much. They make some horrid blunder, they pull some boner rube, and all the voters wonder what lool' weed they chewed.

Then from the snowy summit they're laughed or hooted down; they find a dirge and hum it, and sink, with their renown. My old friend Calvin's risen to heights supremely great; a silent course is his—a simply won't orate. He hears men's cry ascending, "Come bind us with a spell," but he, remote, unbending, responds not to their yell. In vain the people follow and beg him for a speech; "Oh, come to Fumfuk's Hollow," "Oh, come to Bullfrog Beach!" Chautauque tents are waiting, town halls are all aglow, but Calvin's not orating, for marbles, chalk or dough. And so we have the feeling that he's a man of force, for we are tired of spitting, of wind-smiths loud and hoarse.

At the Canada Club

Mr. Mackenzie King, with good judgment, selected the banquet given in his honor by the old Canada Club to make a great and important speech. He took this most suitable opportunity of fully and frankly explaining matters of international politics involving a new procedure which has caused some apprehension both in Canada and the Mother Country. It is the first time in our memory of speeches by Canadian statesmen at Canada Club dinners during the last 25 years that a speech of such an important character has been made, and the Canadian Premier is certainly to be congratulated both on the selection of his subjects and the fine quality of his address. It was unfortunate that the most important speech at the Canada Club was made at such a late hour that no adequate report of the Premier's speech appeared in the London Press.

In regard to the special Halibut Fisheries Treaty, concluded directly between Ottawa and Washington, Mr. Mackenzie King showed that the matter is one of purely domestic concern to the citizens of the Pacific seaboard of the two countries, and he took particular and explicit care to emphasize his cordial adherence to the policy that no individual action should be taken by any part of the British Empire on matters of vital concern to other parts of the Empire "without the full knowledge and consent of all."

His speech was noteworthy also for the broad and scholarly way in which he traced the growth of Canada up to the present time, and his reference to the different Provinces of the Dominion working out their representative institutions as "emblematic of the League of Nations which makes up the British Empire." From the racial and other diversities he claimed that the leaders of Canada had "learned how to bring out of these differences a unity which emphasizes the things which we have in common rather than the things which divide," and from this, he claimed, "we have learnt how to live and let live and how to forget and forgive."

Mr. Mackenzie King, in his policy and in his speeches, evidences a pride in and love of Canada equal to that evinced by any of his predecessors, and in this speech he showed the imagination of a statesman, rather than of a politician, in the value he attached to the historical archives which have been so splendidly augmented by the gifts of Lord Durham and Sir Leicester Harnsworth. The Durham papers he regarded as so important that "a not inconsiderable part of their history would probably have to be re-written from these original records." Mr. Mackenzie King profoundly realizes the powerful influence which knowledge of and pride in Canada's early constitutional history can exert in inspiring the Canadian people to their fullest national status.

KINARD'S LINIMENT RELIEVES NEURALGIA

Mysterries and Tragedies of the Dock

 At one house in Montague-place, West Ferry-road, Millwall, a woman declared she had heard a vehicle stop outside. She got out of bed and looked out of the first floor window and saw a one-horse covered van with a man sitting on the front. She noticed that he was full-faced, and that the van was painted dark.
 On the right side of the sheet which covered the van was the remains of an advertisement bill that had been pasted on the sheet. A small piece of the bill still remained at the part nearest the tail of the van. The dock gate was opened by someone inside and the van passed in. She took it for granted that the gate had been opened by the police to admit the van, and went back to bed.
 Her son was in the front kitchen, which is underground, when he heard a horse. He looked up and saw a covered van go by. He then went into the back kitchen, picked up his dinner pail, and made his way up the area steps. He saw the dock gates were wide open. He thought it strange, and stopped a little while. As he was watching he saw an elderly man looking at him.

He was holding the gate open with his left hand, and as he turned his head to look down the docks the boy noticed that his hair was grey. The man appeared to be about 6ft. 6in. in height, and between 60 and 70 years old. He was a very thin man and his face was very white and haggard. He was wearing a dark suit, but it was dirty and much worn. His cap was a grey one, but lighter than his suit.
 While the boy remained the van was driven out by a man sitting on a seat inside, but it was not possible to see his face. The boy estimated that the van was in the dock for not more than five minutes. When it left it turned to the right over the City Arms Bridge towards Poplar.

On the Track.
 The possibility that the marks would be obliterated or removed from the cases, and that these might be rallied to some place out of London, such as Liverpool or Cardiff, or even forwarded to the Continent, was not lost sight of. Inquiries were set on foot at all railway depots and other steps take to trace the ten missing cases of raw opium.

Close questioning of the staff employed in or around shed 17 led to the admission by an assistant foreman that some days prior to the robbery a man, who said he was a detective officer, came and asked if there was anything in particular in the shed. The foreman told him about the opium, and showed him the cases through the grille. In all there were 25, valued at £2,500. By a closer examination of his tally book the assistant foreman discovered that the supposed detective officer came again the next day and looked around the shed. He then asked for the key of the lock-up. He went in, and shortly afterwards was followed by the assistant foreman. He inspected it and examined the floor and the wooden end of the shed. He remarked that it would be quite easy for anyone to get in. The floor had sunk a little at one place, and he noticed it. Together they went to the outside end of the shed to see if anyone could get into the lock-up by crawling up between the bottom board and the floor. Declaring that it would be much easier for anyone to remove some boards from the end of the shed than crawl in underneath, the visitor took his departure, saying that he would make a special report as to the unsafe condition of the shed. By a strange coincidence, the description of the supposed detective coincided with that of the man seen by the permanent labourer standing behind some cases on the morning of the robbery.

Another questionable character, who answered to the description of the man in the blue suit, seen near shed 17, was shadowed and observed talking to a Chinaman in Oriental-street, Poplar.

Local haunts of thieves were watched, and particularly the movements of Chinese suspected of illicit opium trading. Thus it was that the dock police, after much patient effort, obtained their first real clue. They learned that some if not all the stolen opium had been or would be forwarded as groceries to a Chinaman named Chang Chin Lee at Liverpool.

A chief detective-inspector was at once sent to the Mersey port. It did not take him long to ascertain that some opium was being dealt with surreptitiously by the Chinese population of the town, and he soon suspected Chang Lee of dealing in it. In order to obtain evidence, however, he had to move warily. When he discovered a clue he acted swiftly. By careful observation he gleaned that the prosperous Oriental merchant was in the habit of depositing articles at the luggage office of a suburban railway station, and was also having goods directed to him to be called for at other outlying stations. Working without rest and often in disguise the detective cultivated many acquaintances in Chintown.

A Big House of Dope.

Obtaining a search warrant he visited a house tenanted by a woman, English by birth, but the widow of a Chinaman, in Moseley-hill, but without result. Undaunted he enlisted the aid of the Liverpool detective force and simultaneous raids were carried out on Chang Lee's several places of business in Pitt-street and his private residence in St. James-road, with the result that at one of the Pitt-street shops there were found, concealed under the floorings and between the walls in the various parts of the building, a quantity of cocaine, some morphine and a large haul of opium. The larger portion of the drug had been boiled down and placed in small tins in a semi-liquid state. There was also a quantity of block opium wrapped in red paper, and five small lumps, similar in quality to that which had been stolen from the Port of London Authority's No. 17 export warehouse, with the exception that it had a very dry appearance, while adhering to one or two of the pieces were small portions of newspaper of Greek or Russian origin.

Although it was impossible to prove that these pieces were part of the raw opium which had been stolen from the South-West India Dock, sufficient evidence was in the hands of the police to proceed against Chang Chin Lee. He was charged under Section 40 B. of D.O.R.A. for being in possession of cocaine, morphine and opium, and was sentenced and deported.

Meanwhile the quest in London had not by any means been relaxed. It so happened that while the port detective was busy in Liverpool his colleagues, down East, were equally industrious. A minute search of cartage and jobbing carriers' stables led to the discovery of a clue, and on the morning following the raids at Liverpool observation was kept on all vehicles coming over the iron bridge from the direction of Canning Town towards Poplar.

The Gang Broken up.

Eventually, a light van, drawn by a lightish bay cob, was seen joggling slowly over the cobbled road. It was being driven by a man of about forty-six, while inside was a passenger. When the van reached the corner of Abbot's-road and East India Dock-road the man inside alighted, walked over to the tram stopping-place, and stood there. The van was stopped and searched. It was found to contain 173lbs. of opium, identical with that stolen from shed No. 17. This fact, however, could not be proved for there is no one in the country who can identify opium once it has been taken out of its original packing. The two men were detained. The driver described himself as a labourer, of no fixed abode, and it was not until the following day that the police discovered he lived at an address in West Ham, a circumstance which enabled confederates to remove all incriminating material from his room.

The passenger, who said he was a clerk, pleaded that owing to the overcrowding of the tramcars he was unable to get on and that the driver of the van had given him a lift, and that he was unaware of what the van contained.

When they were put up for identification witnesses failed to recognize the men as those seen at the dock gates with the van. One woman, however, thought she recognized the driver. He was charged and sentenced for being in unlawful possession of drugs.

Two other Chinamen, members of some gang, were also discovered to be engaged in opium traffic, in conjunction with a notorious white woman of Liverpool, and various traps were set and different subterfuges adopted to detect them, but always without success.

When Hell Broke Loose in Japan

WHEN TOKYO CRASHED INTO RUINS—THE WITNESSES' VIVID STORIES OF THE CATASTROPHE.

By the Associated Press.

When the earthquake struck the city of Tokyo, the Japanese earth-quake were so immeasurably beyond the power of words to convey and the imagination to picture that people in the country scarcely realize the ghastly scenes the catastrophe has reached. Japanese newspapers have reached England give descriptions of what happened in Tokyo and Yokohama, while a certain in the service of the Blue Line has sent his employers a letter describing how he saw Yokohama literally "crumple up."

Mr. H. O. Matheson, of the "Chicago Tribune" gives the following story of impressions in Tokyo in the "Osaka Daily News": "Tokyo had just closed its offices for the week. I turned its mind to the Saturday half-holiday and the Sunday afternoon when hell broke loose."

There came a grinding blow beneath my feet—a groan from hundreds of thousands of buildings commencing to crack and creak.

Then with a roar, came the first of tremendous shocks... from the ground away and swung... from every building rose a fine dust, darkening the air.

Buildings groaned and fell. The groaning of the swaying structures rose to a crescendo—then to a deafening cascade of sound as the falling, swinging structures began to crumple, fall, and collapse.

Shops, and houses began to totter with terrified occupants, people falling in fright, falling as the ground heaved, and swaying—but all staggered, staggering, or falling to the open spaces.

Some were pale with fear, a few were willing to help—a large number were laughing loudly in hysterics. I had just stepped from the Imper-

SEA CAPTAIN'S STORY.

Watched a Great City Crumple Up in A Few Minutes.

The Holt liner Lycaon was lying in Yokohama harbour on the day of the great earthquake, and in a letter to the owners the master conveys an interesting impression of the conditions aboard and ashore. The Lycaon carried 114 refugees from Yokohama to Kobe two days later. In the course of his letter Captain A. L. Gordon writes: "At 11.58 a.m. September 1st, while lying moored to No. 14 buoy Yokohama harbour, the ship was violently shaken. The chief officer and myself being on deck at the moment, rushed forward, momentarily thinking something had occurred to the mooring buoy, and there saw the town crumple up, the wharves and part of the main pier destroyed, all the ships at the wharves breaking apart and rocking about like corks. Almost immediately we were enveloped in dense dust and smoke. A typhoon was passing over at the time which added to the destruction. A clearance occurred in smoke and dust, and we saw that the whole town was in ruins, the greater part of both breakwaters submerged, and the town opposite the main pier on fire. Fire spread rapidly, owing to the high wind, all over the town and the heat on board the ship was terrific."

IN THE TIDAL WAVE. At 1.45 p.m. a tidal wave occurred, and greater confusion was caused in the harbour. We took two complete round turns against the wind, and with a full head of steam the engines were useless in trying to check the ship and avoid the S.S. London Maru, which collided with us, making a hole in the counter above the deck line, and, in the second swing, caught us again on the starboard quarter.

By this time the harbour was chaos, blinding smoke and dust coming off shore, burning lighters, wreckage and people floating about the harbour. Burning debris was flying through the air, and explosions near and distant could be heard above all. Hoses had been laid and everything of an inflammable nature removed from the deck. At intervals one could get a glimpse through the smoke, otherwise we were covered in a thick hot pall."

Dr. Banting Feels Hurt Because His Co-discoverer was not Honored.

Boston, Oct. 27.—Telegrams from Dr. F. G. Banting, Canadian physician, recently with Dr. J. B. MacLeod, awarded the Nobel prize for medicine by reason of his discovery of insulin, declare that "he is hurt" because Dr. Charles H. Best whom he acknowledges as co-discoverer, was not named in the award. The messages were made public yesterday by Dr. E. P. Joslin, speaking at the Harvard Medical School.

"I ascribe to Best an equal share in the discovery of insulin," Dr. Banting's telegram to Dr. Joslin read, "and I am hurt that he is not acknowledges, I will share with him in it always."

Another message sent to Dr. Best, who spoke at the Harvard Medical School, yesterday, said: "You are with me in my share, always."

Star of American and Italian Opera

WILL ARRIVE IN ST. JOHN'S BY THE SILVIA.

Miss Grace Bradley, a distinguished star of the Italian Grand Opera of Milan, Italy, and since 1920 of the Metropolitan Opera, New York, has been engaged by Mr. J. P. Kely to appear for a limited season in the Nickel commencing Thursday. This is a musical treat rarely found and it goes without saying that St. John's music-lovers will be enthusiastic in their praise.

Miss Bradley's career commenced at an early age. She received her first instruction in singing from Carl Bronson of Los Angeles, Cal., and coming to New York became a pupil of Clementine De Vere. In Italy she studied with Maestro Cotogno, and in Paris with Jean De Reszka. She has coached with Marcel Charlier in French roles and with Romaldo Sappo in Italian. Her repertoire includes thirty-two roles, consisting of French, Italian and English and also in German. Her operatic debut was made at the Teatro dal Verme in Milan, as Armida in "Trovatore." Returning to the United States at the outbreak of the war, Miss Bradley appeared extensively through the west both in concert and opera singing in all the leading roles of the standard repertoire with the late Florencio Constantino.

Also opening on Thursday are Dolly Moore and Jimmie Clayton in the greatest Dancing act seen in St. John's in many years. These brilliant dancers specialize in Double Russian Adagio, Toe Dancing and many tests of Acrobatic Dancing. This extraordinary program is too great to be recorded.

One Beauty
That millions now cultivate—
The beauty of pearly teeth

This invites you to make a test which delights all dainty people. To learn the way which millions know to whiter, cleaner, safer teeth.

You owe it to yourself. You owe it to your family and friends. Careful people of all nations are turning to a new teeth-cleaning method. Learn what it means to you and yours.

The fight on film

Dental research proved that film is the cause of most tooth troubles. And the cause of dingy teeth.

Film is that viscous coat you feel. Despite the tooth brush, much of it clings and stays. It becomes discolored more or less, then forms cloudy coats. That is why teeth lose luster.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs bred by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. Very few people, under old methods, escaped these film-caused troubles.

New methods now

Now dental science has discovered effective film combatants. One disintegrates the film at all stages of formation. One removes it without harmful scouring.

Able authorities proved these methods by many careful tests. Then a new-type tooth paste was created to apply them daily. The name is Pepsodent.

Leading dentists everywhere began to advise its use. As a result, careful people of some 50 nations are employing it today.

Pepsodent does other things essential. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is there to neutralize mouth acids. It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits.

Protect the Enamel

Pepsodent disintegrates the film, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never use a film combatant which contains harsh grit.

The stains of tobacco lodge in film. So do food stains. That is why teeth cease to glisten. That is why so many seek to hide their teeth.

The modern way is to fight that film. Combat it every day. Fight those coats and let the natural luster show.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth become whiter as the film-coats disappear.

You will gain a new conception of what clean teeth mean. You will gain results you would not go without. You owe yourself this test. Cut out coupon now.

Charlie Chaplin Comedy at Crescent To-Day

IN A ROARING TWO-ACT FARCE COMEDY.

The Crescent Theatre offers to its patrons for the week-opening, the king of comedians, Charlie Chaplin, who appears in his great two-act comedy entitled "His New Job." It's a picture apart from being humorous takes the spectator behind the scenes in a big motion picture studio, where a historical film is about to be produced and of course Charlie lends a hand, and eventually somebody "kicks him a boot." It's a roar from beginning to end.

One of the thrills that contribute to make "Over The Wire" such a gripping picture, is the elopement of the heroine immediately after going through the wedding ceremony. The man she elopes with is not her husband. A train is flagged and the couple is brought back to the husband. Then the novel situation is worked out, and a woman's hate is transformed to love. Arthur Somers writes the story specially for Alice Lake who takes the leading role. It's a production that you cannot help but enjoy.

Names are now being received for Friday night's bumper Amateur Contest—another big entertainment is in store for this week's big fun night.

Women who use Crisco once, find it difficult to use any other cooking fat afterwards for results from Crisco are more pleasing and satisfactory than from any other fat. Crisco is a vegetable fat, entirely odorless and smokeless. For a clean kitchen use Crisco.

Splendid Exhibition by Mount Cashel Dancers

SEEN AT THE MAJESTIC THEATRE LAST NIGHT.

Last night the Mount Cashel boys treated patrons of the Majestic Theatre to an exhibition of dancing which was splendidly executed and gave thorough satisfaction to all. They were loudly applauded by the audience. It is remarkable how boys of such tender years can dance so skillfully, and much credit is due to Brother Walsh who has been untiring in his efforts in training the lads.

The selections by the Mount Cashel Band was a delight to hear and added much to the enjoyment of the whole show, which was one of the finest of the season. To-night the boys will be present again and another programme of popular numbers will be rendered. Whilst complimenting the boys of Mount Cashel in their hand selections, we also desire to congratulate Director Bulley—their leader—who has brought the Band to such a high standing in local musical circles.

The Realms of Sport

PRELIMINARIES LAST NIGHT

Carl Delivers K. O. To Moore. Moore and enthusiasts gathered were present at the C. L. R. night to witness the preliminary bouts of the Big Championship Tournament which takes place at the Arena on Wednesday night. The contest who had entered for the various weight classes, were weighed in by Mr. F. V. Chesman, and the winners made their weight examinations by Dr. Burgess. It was announced that each man was to fight at 8 o'clock, the one appointed by the A.A.A. took the respective positions, and the fight with Mr. S. P. Cullen as referee. The first event on the program consisted of a wrestling bout between Featherweight class, between Parsons (125lbs.) and L. Chancy (125lbs.). Both lads put up a very good exhibition. Chancy, who was stronger than his opponent, and although he secured several dangerous head holds, failed to throw his man. In the second round, Chancy was awarded the decision on points, and earned the right to compete in the finals with T. H. C. Parsons (125lbs.) who drew the bye. The only wrestling bout in the other class weights was between Gordon 'Caul' and Moore. In the flyweight class, Caul was to be no match for Moore, as he stood side by side in the first round, but he was announced as a more powerful fighter than his opponent. The fans thought that Caul did not have a chance against the taller Moore. Moore had a big advantage in height and reach, while Caul was of a short and stocky build. However, after they had squared the ring, the hopes of the fans were better realized when Caul, at the outset of his opponent around the ring lights and left to his opponents. After one minute and thirty seconds of fighting, Caul reached and landed a terrific right to the chin and dropped him for a count of five. Moore managed to get up and in a half dazed condition, but he kept away from his opponent. Caul used good judgment, knowing he had his man, following the attack, and with a right to the chest, sent Moore reeling to the floor. Caul used good judgment, knowing he had his man, following the attack, and with a right to the chest, sent Moore reeling to the floor. Caul used good judgment, knowing he had his man, following the attack, and with a right to the chest, sent Moore reeling to the floor.

athletes put up a very creditable showing, and are to be congratulated on their efforts. Burgess and Caul were scheduled to meet in the semi-finals for the flyweight class; to take place after the last bout; but owing to Burgess injuring his hand in the previous bout, Dr. Burgess who examined the hand decided that it would be impossible for Burgess to compete before Wednesday night. Caul very sportingly refused to claim the bout under these conditions and he will be ready to meet his man whenever he is fit, and the winner will meet Macklin in the finals. The following competitors will compete in the finals at the Tournament on Wednesday night:—

Meigle Returns From Labrador

S.S. Meigle, Capt. Burgess, arrived from Northern Labrador at 12.40 this morning, after a good run of 18 days. The ship made all ports of call and went as far North as Highport. Capt. Burgess reports that no snow has made its appearance as yet. The whole Labrador coast is clear, and all the inhabitants are well provided for and settled away for the winter. During the run North the ship ran into a thick fog which was encountered for three days. The balance of the trip was all that could be desired for the season of year. Messrs. Snow and Wm. Bradbury, the Lighthouse keepers at Double Island and Indian Tickle arrived with their wives; also Mr. Wm. Lakey the marconi operator at Dominio. The Meigle has made her last trip to the Labrador for this season. Capt. Charles Cross takes over command of the ship to-day, and will leave at 6 o'clock this evening for North Sydney to bring down a load of freight.

Our Local Coal Fields

Editor Evening Telegram.
Sir,—I read with much pleasure your interesting note on the enterprise of T. J. Freeman, Esq., in relation to the Bay St. George coal seams, in which we all should be interested. His Grace the late Archbishop Howley was an ardent supporter of the coal seam theory, he wrote largely on the subject, he said in a letter sent to the press in 1889 that many days before Mr. Jukes had discovered coal in that district that a famous German writer, Mr. John Eschhold Porter, wrote in 1898, as follows "There are in Newfoundland, as in Cape Breton such rich coal mines that if the crown would but grant leave to work them their produce should be sufficient to supply all Europe and America abundantly with this commodity." It was Capt. Cook, the famous explorer, who had informed Dr. Jucker, and Capt. Cook had conveyed a lump of coal to the governor of that date, a sample found in that locality. Sir William Logan, the eminent Canadian geologist thought that a continuation of the magnificent coal seams of Sydney, Cape Breton, may be found about St. Georges Bay, and urged a search for them. Alexander Murray, Esq., our first geologist surveyor, was very pronounced as regards large quantities of coal being capable of discovery, may the day be not far distant when Terra Nova may take a pride in the utilization of her coal fields as well as in the Humber and White Bay industries which are now occupying the attention of our people. I remain, Yours truly, Obituary.

MR. JOHN J. MURPHY.
(H. F. SHORTICE.)

The many friends and acquaintances of John J. Murphy will learn of his death with profound sorrow. He passed on his reward on Saturday evening, 10th inst., fortified by all the rites of Holy Church, at the age of 67 years.

John Murphy was born in Harbor Grace in the year 1856, and was descended on both the paternal and maternal sides, from the most highly respected families in Conception Bay. His grandfather, Captain John Murphy, was one of the most successful seal-killers and enterprising planters of his day, and was amongst the few who accomplished the task of bringing in three trips of seals in a sailing vessel in the one spring. This occurred in the forties of the past century, when he was master and owner of the brigantine William. When the great Cathedral of St. John's was in course of erection, Captain Murphy and his crew repeatedly went to Kelly's Island to procure stone for that splendid monument of ecclesiastical architecture, and as a slight tribute to his untiring zeal and voluntary assistance, he received from the hands of the illustrious prelate, Rt. Rev. Dr. Fleming, a beautifully framed plan of the Cathedral, which is still in the possession of the family. The mother of the deceased, was a sister of the well known planters, seal-killers and master mariners, Captains Patrick and John Strapp, and aunt of Rev. Brother Strapp, of St. Bonaventure's College.

John Murphy received his early education in St. Patrick's School, and finished in the famous Grammar School, under Mr. Roddick. For several years he had a flourishing business on his own premises at the junction of Bannerman and Water Street, Harbour Grace, and for a number of years supplied to a considerable extent in the Labrador fishery. After the crash of 1894, he came to St. John's, and entered the employ of the Reid Newfoundland Company, in which he remained in the Freight Department until compelled to retire owing to declining health after twenty-one years of faithful service.

In his family life he was a kind and loving husband and father. In his city a good and unassuming gentleman. To us who knew him intimately his memory will be an inspiration to generous acts, purer thoughts and better lives. Although somewhat retiring in the social circle, his sparkling wit and humour scintillated in all directions, and was a sure indication of that grand old Celtic race from which he sprang, and made him the most entertaining and amusing companion. His wife, (nee Miss Alice Hamilton, daughter of the late Captain Peter Hamilton, Carbonear), and his daughter Mary, predeceased him some years ago, and there are now left to mourn, three sons, John in the Avalon Telephone Company, Michael and Harold in the United States, the latter two being in the Royal Nfld. Regt. during the great war, both in Gallipoli and France. Another son, Walter, was so seriously wounded in the Gallipoli campaign that he died from the effects, and is interred at Lemnos, in the Grecian Archipelago; also a sister, Mrs. Daniel Pumphrey, at present residing with her son, Rev. Fr. Pumphrey at Little Bay, and many other relatives and friends. The remains were conveyed from his late residence to the railway station yesterday morning, thence by rail to H. Grace, where, after the funeral obsequies held in the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception, they were laid to rest in the family plot in the Roman Catholic Cemetery amongst those of his ancestors, and those he loved dearest and best in life.—Requiescat in pace.

Bishop Feild College Dance

A GREAT SUCCESS.
The Young Folks' Dance, held last evening in Spencer College Hall, was largely attended, and proved, both socially and financially, a most successful affair. The dance was promoted by several of the Senior boys of Bishop Feild College, in aid of the fund for the proposed new Recreation Grounds for that institution. The Chaperones were Mesdames R. R. Wood and G. R. Williams, several members of the Staff of the College being also present. Refreshments were provided by a number of lady friends of the Institute, with Mrs. F. Sterling as Conventor, whilst splendid music, composed of all the latest popular dance numbers, was furnished by Messrs. Gerald LeMessurier and Max Colton, at the piano, and Harry Miller, who manipulated the drums and effects. Mr. Ed. Wood very capably discharged the duties of Floor Manager. The affair concluded promptly at midnight, and all voted it the most enjoyable evening for some time.

An Interesting Fact.

An honest and thorough test was made in Canada to prove that RAMSAY'S PINNACLE WHITE was superior to Pure White Lead. A mixture of 100 lbs. of RAMSAY'S PINNACLE WHITE and 5 gallons of Boiled Linseed Oil was matched against a mixture of 100 lbs. of Purest White Lead and 4 gallons Boiled Linseed Oil. NOTE:—RAMSAY'S PINNACLE WHITE stood 1 gallon more Linseed Oil, therefore more economical for painting. A wood surface was painted with a heavy black line in the centre, then two coats of RAMSAY'S PINNACLE WHITE was applied, the black line was completely hidden. A like wood surface and black line was covered with four coats of the Pure White Lead, and the black line was still noticeable. NOTE:—RAMSAY'S PINNACLE WHITE only took two coats to hide the black line, the same amount of paint in each case was used. THE RESULT:—RAMSAY'S PINNACLE WHITE is superior to Pure White Lead because it takes 25 p.c. more oil and spreads with a greater hiding power a much larger surface, it stays white much longer. There is nothing better made for painting Churches, Schools, Houses, etc. Stocked by, Newfoundland's Leading Builders' and Painters' Supply House
