Poetry.

BY MRS. A. P. POTTER. [By the courtesy of the writer I am permitted to copy the following verses. They have been published in the States and have brought heart-comfort to homes berëaved by the angel of death. Mrs. Potter, accompanied by her sister, Mrs. Maynard, recently attended the Woman's Baptist Missionary Union convention at Truro, on her tour through the Province.—PASTOR J.

I closely held, within my arms, A jewel rare;
Never had one so rich and pure
Eugaged my care.

'Twas my own, my precious jewel;
God gave it me.
'Twas mine: who else could care for it
So tenderly. But the dear Master came one day,

My gem to take.
"I cannot let it go," I cried,
"M; heart would break. "Nay, but the Master comes for it,

To bear above,
To deck His royal diadem:
He comes in love." "But, Master, it is my treasure, My jewel rare; I'il safely guard and keep it pure And very fair."

"If thou keepest thy gem," He said,
"It may be lost;
The threshold of my home, no thief
Has ever crossed.

"And where the heart's rich treasure is The heart will be; Your jewel will be safe Above The Master said these words. I gazed

With pitying look,
While in the early hush of morn
My gem He took. Close to my braest that morn, I held, Tears falling fast, An empty casket—the bright gem Was safe at last.

Yes, Master, Thou mayest keep Thine own, For it is Thine; Safe in the house not made with hands, Tis Thine and mine! - Home School, Everett, Mass

When the party adjourned to the side porch and the big yard, Mary's spirits had risen with a sense that the worst was over, and she exerted hereif to be so gay, gracious and charming that the idiot and the runaway pig should be blotted from memory. That she succeeded was proved by the sprightly voices and peals of laughter which shook the pendent branches of the sweet-bough tree.

"I do hope you'll invite us again," observed Juliet, like any spoiled child, as she tucked a loaf of brown bread under her arm preparatory to saying good-bye; "the people about here are very pleasant but their ideas of entertaining are so—so exclusive!"

Mary darted her mother a side glance, but she was beaming impartially upon her guests.

"Mrs. Fairchild and I have Hved long enough to learn that true hospitality lies in letting people share our every-day lives; but like other best things, it's the rarest, and I'm afraid the most difficult"—and Mrr. WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 12TH, 1898. -Apparently the vexed Behring Sea seal question, which has caused much legislative grambling and general hard feeling between Canada and the United States, is not to be settled without difficulty by the international commission. The American now at Ottawa, have proposed to protect the seal herds by parchasing the entire outfit of the Canadian sealers who are engaged in pelagic sealing, but this arrangement, though indicative of a desire to effect an amicable more at desired to desire the present contingent of the trouble, will probably not be accepted by the Canadian government, as that would be acknowledging the question tobeone of individual rather than national import. The Behring sea seal fisheries constitute a national right, and while it might be to the advantage of all concerned to afford a period of protection to the herds, it would look like undignified trafficking to sell that right to another nation. The United States has just paid a heavy bill of damages for wrongfully restricting the business of Canadias sealers, and the government, though sore over the award of the arbitrators, is still anxious to promote the fature of the insettlement of the trouble, will probably not still anxious to promote the future of the industry by incurring a further expense, but this time the money must be handled in a regular and binding bargain. It is probable tially gain their point, as it is part of the Canadian plan to conciliate rather than exas perate, and that, for the concession of cer tain trade priviledges, which will benefit —As a result of she awful mistake which mess interests. Here is exhibited the great power of organized labor, which, we are bound to say, is more often a power for evil than for goes; but it is when we consider that minoty per cent. of all strikes are fall ures, from the arrikers' standpoint, that we dissover the existence of a great force. Capital will not consecled to labor the right to limit its earning powers, and though it is a contest of one against a multitude, the one to limit its earning powers, and though it is a contest of one against a multitude, the one has the ail important weapon of defence or offence and can wait in luxurious idlences while labor faces a self-imposed condition that verges upon poverty and starvation. Capital may be tyranical, but its tyranice wannot be affectually modified by strikes, which rather increase than lessen the hardships of the wage carners. The happy solution of the labor problem will result from methods yet untried, though possibly mot unadvocated. The German Emperor proposes to give effect to one remedy that has long been talked of, by providing for government interference. To the average student it appears that the problem is at lass being brought to the consideration of the rouge tribunal. It is distinctly a govern.

barism that has held sway in China for centuries, and the electric telegraph, rail roads and elecationed institutions are being established as a result of a recent proclamation from the Emperor. The importance of this reform can hardly be overestispated when we consider that it will affect a nation of four hundred and twenty five million peeple, and bring them into closer touch with the civilizing influences of western total and business life. When the latinargy of past contrains is shaken off and the giant of sie Orient, great in area and population, is filled with wide awake modern ideas, then the powerful nations of to-day will be called upon to reckon with a new factor in sustaining a world-wide squalibrium in peace or in war. No doubt 3-pan's recent rapid prognoss tewards a more complete civilization has infected the Chinace geverament with a desire to place their connects on a lavel with that of their conquesting cousins, and the dawn of this new can be found that of their conquesting cousins, and the dawn of this new can be found to the country on a level with that of their conquesting cousins, and the dawn of this new car in China's history will date from Japan's victory over the vastly outnumbering Chinese army. History is but repeating itself when the conquered learn of the arts of war and paace from their conquerors. The edict from Pekin also provides for the establishment of a modern postal service, the right to appeal persenally to the throne and publicity regarding government expenses. These reforms will be of particular import to American churches, whose missionaries are laborage under difficultive to obstitiatize a heathen race, and their work will be greatly simplified.

Frauds in the Plebiscite Vote.

The provincial plebiscite executive met yesterday after, ont to consider what action should be taken in view of the numerous cases of fraud perpetrated in polls in St. Denis, St. James, St. Mary's and otherwards in the city of Montreal. The evidence was so strong and definite that the executive appointed a committee to complie a statement of all the cases reported, and investigate others and May the matter before the government for investigation. The cases reported show that while the general vote is supposed to be a light one in many polis in the city a bigger vote was polled than appear on the voters' list, Such zeal at such a time is plenomenal, and can only be explained by one word—fraud. THOUSANDS OF INDIANS ON THE WAR PATH IN THE WESTERN STATES.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 5th —A special to the Journal from Walker, Minn., says: "A terrific battle was fought at 11 o'clock this morning, 30 miles from Walker, at Bog. Ah.Me Ge-Shirks point, close to Bear Island. One hundred men under General Bacon landed on the point shortly after 8 o'clock. The landing was effected with considerable difficulty, owing to a high sea. After landing, the soldiers searched the thick undergrowth thoroughly, and every precaution was taken against ambush. No Indians were seen. Shortly before 11 o'clock the men were ordered to line up in an open space near the lake shore, and preparations were about to be made for dinner. The soldiers were standing in column formation when a shot was fired from Bog. Ah.Me-Ge-Shirk's house. The ball struck Ed. Harris, ex-marshall of Walker, a half breed. His arm was broken. Immediately the fire became general from all directions. It seemed that a shot came from every bush. Three of Gen. Bacon's men dropped. They were carried to the rear. When the first shot was heard every man in the command sprang for cover. General Bacon stood straight up and, supported by Major Wilkinson, looked straight into the cyes of the foe.

"Steady, men," he called, "keep cool now, keep cool."

Again there came a volley from the Indians, and then the Krag Jorgensens opened up with a frightful rattle just as the pillagers made a terrific rush. Half a dczen of them dropped and the rest fell back, yelling like fiends. There must have been 150 or 200 Indians. Lieut. Morrison, with 20 men, made a rush to prevent the recapture of Old Mah Quod and Bap Dway-We Dung. The marshals had these men under arrest. Lieut. Morrison's equal scattered the Indians who tried to rescue the prisoners. The Indians later fired in a desultory way, and the order was given the troops to charge.

BOSTON LETTER.

A few days ago I noticed a group of small dance on Monday evening last. A most enjoyable evening was spent.

The officers for Belleisle division for present quarter are: W. P., Bro. Leander Gesent, W. A., Sier Annie Trop; R. S., Beskie Parker; A. R. S., Alfred Geener; F. S., Israel F. Longley; Texas, Herbert heat of the city, close to the Bank of England, was reached about noon and I then went by the underground railway to Kings' Bent; Cap., Wm. E. Bent, I. S., Claude Young; O. S., Barry Parker; P. W. P., Seth L. Gesner.

Last week I sent you an item of some large fruit grown and packed here by different of Yorkshire. The train was a very fast one heat all previous records. He showed us a barrel of Blenheim pippins containing 154, with 14 on the head of barrel. We expect this to be the "boss" barrel of the county. Perfectly Cured

Weak and Low Spirited - Nervous Prostration - Appetite Poor and Could Not Rest.

"I take great pleasure in recommending Hood's Sarsaparilla to others. It has been the means of restoring my wife to good health. She was stricken down with an attack of nervous prostration. She suffered with headaches and her nerves were under severe strain. She became very low spirited and so weak she could only do a little work without resting. Her appetite was poor, and being so weak she could not get the proper rest at night, She decided to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, as we had heard it highly praised, and I am glad to state that Hood's Sarsaparilla has perfectly cured all her ailments." Massachussetts Ploughman. -By putting a sheet over a cucumber hill one or two nights when frost threatens, the bearing period may be considerably ex pickled cucumbers are a profitable crop. But farmers who have apple orchards and can make apple vinegar can get much higher prices for their cucumbers by putting then n salt, so as to pickle them, and then after freshening them, selling the pickles with vinegar in small glass jars. There is always good demand for pickled cucumbers thus pu -Sharp grit is a necessity when fowls are d on grain and solid food. Gravel is the est grit if the gravels are sharp and not too ound. The hen needs grit to grind grain in her gizzard. If she is fed on soft food too long or too much she is not liable to require grit. A great deal of the so called cholers is nothing more than indigestion, occasioned by too little grit of the right sort. If the right kind is available the hens will find it and take just what they want.

Agricultural Brevities. Professor Kedzie reminds farmers that represent returners that their most valuable mine of potash is the clay and loam of the farm. Every soil contains potash; but the clay is especially rich in it, and by the slow chemical changes, promoted by tillage, potash is constantly set in use for the plants.

It is amazing how children of the healthy, normal, matter-of-fact sort like literature not sentimentality, and some narrative, hu man interest, writes Richard Burton in the North American Review.

As a rule they relish it. I once experimented with a boy who hated the very word literature, and whose soul was completely absorbed in football and track athletics. I read to him, in course, Homer's Odyssey in Palmer's fine prose translation, a canto a night. The result was he imitated Oliver Twist, calling for more in case I flagged. And yet this was a lad of the unliterary age of fifteen, who could not abide the mere own little wifey ifey ! mention of poetry. But naturally enough he fell in love with the wanderings of that he liked to hear about the Cyclops and the Sirens and all the rest of it. The smell of the sea was in it all, and the smack of ad- you wish to see him, you darling, you !" venture and the magic of marvel. Be assured that the reader did not damage his case by telling the boy beforehand that here was a master poem. That would have been a stupid letting of the cat out of the bag. Get the story going, and all is well; the world of children loves a story as a grown-up world is said to love a lover. Then if we come to discriminate between press and world is said to love a lover. Then if we come to discriminate between prose and poetry the former has the preference with young folks. Girls as a class care more for poetry than boys, as indeed women do than men. Poetry broadly speaking is more subjective and elusive than prose, hence it is less adapted to the immature comprehension, yet verse on its musical side, with its allication and thyme, its rhythm and picture. yet verse on its musical side, with its aliti-eration and rhyme, its rhythm and picture-making, has often a great fascination for children, as many mothers will testify, and an acquaintance with this, the highest form of literature, should be incalculated at a tender age, as likely to be a permanent ser-vice in creating ideals and developing the sense of beauty.

Lemons and Their Uses. We know in a dull sert of a way that lemons are useful, but just how valuable they really are few of us realize.

A teaspoonful of lemon juice in a cup of black coffee will drive away an attack of billious headache. These facts help in beautifying one, for who can be beautiful and alling at the same time? The days are past when the delicate woman with "nerves" was the heroine of all the novels and the "clinging vine" supposed to be admired by all the men.

Lemons taken externally, or rather used, will aid in beautifying any one. There is nothing more valuable for the toilet table than a solution of lemon juice; a little rubbed on the hands, face and neck at night will not only whiten but soften the skin.

rubbed on the hands, face and neck at night will not only whiten but soften the skin. A paste made of magnesia and lemon juice applied to the face and hands upon lying down for a fifteen minutes' rest will bleach the skin beautifully.

For discolored or stained finger nails a teaspoonful of lemon juice in a cup of warm soft water is invaluable; this is one of the very best manicure aids. It will loosen the cuticle from the finger nails as well as remove discolorations.
