CALENDAR

For the Year of our Lord

1865;

BEING THE FIRST AFTER BISSEXTILE OR LEAF YEAR,

AND THE LATTER PART OF THE TWENTY-EIGHTH,

AND THE BEGINNING OF THE TWENTY-NINTH YEAR OF THE REIGN OF HER MAJESTY QUEEN VICTORIA.

CONTAINING

Commercial, Statistical, Astronomical, Departmental AND GENERAL INFORMATION,

SPECIALLY PREPARED FOR THIS ISSUE.

THE ASTRONOMICAL CALCULATIONS

Have been made for Charlottetown, in lat  $46^{\circ} 14' N.$ , long  $63^{\circ} 10' 22'' W.$  from Greenwich.

The Sun's declination and equation of time are from the London
Nautical Almanac.

CHARLOTTETOWN:

PUBLISHED AND SOLD BY LAIRD & HARVIE, SOUTH SIDE QUEEN SQUARE.

MARS.

MARS is generally known by its red appearance, and was named after Mars the Roman god of war. It will be an object of interest only for the first half of the year, as after that it will be so near the sun and so far from the earth as to be unnoticed. At the beginning of the year it will be a little east of the Pleiades or Seven Stars, and it passes eastward through Taurus and Gemini, and on the first of June will be in the nebula of Cancer. It will be an evening star until Nov. 11, and then morning star the rest of the year.

SATURN.

SATURN will be south of the equator the whole of this year, and its place in the heavens will be between Spica Virginis on the west, and Beta Libræ on the east. In December it will be only a short distance west of Alpha Libræ. On the 16th of April it is nearest the earth, brightest, and in opposition to the sun, and rises at about sunset. It will be  $90^\circ$  from the sun on Jan. 19th, when it crosses the meridian about 6 o'clock in the morning, and on the 16th of July, when it passes the meridian about 6 o'clock in the afternoon. It will be in conjunction with the sun Oct. 26th, being then farthest from the earth and rising and setting with the sun, and invisible. It will be morning star until Jan. 19th, then evening star until Oct. 26th; then morning star the rest of the year.

MERCURY.

The planet Mercury is seldom seen, as it is never far from the Sun, and hence is much affected with the solar rays. Its density is greater than that of any other planet, being nearly that of lead. This planet is however visible at certain times, when near its greatest elongation east or west of the Sun. On the 8th of April, 7th of August, and 3d of December, it will be at its greatest brilliancy, being in the west soon after sunset. On the 3d of February, 1st of June, and 26th of September, it will be brightest again, and appear in the east before sunrise, the illuminated portion of the planet's disc always being towards the Sun.

VENUS.

VENUS will be farthest east of the Sun February 25, and will increase in brightness until April 1, being then in the west as evening star. Its position in the heavens at that time will be very near and a little west of the Pleiades, or Seven Stars. Its splendor now begins to decline gradually, and on the 7th of May it will be in inferior conjunction with the Sun, and lost in its superior light. Its dark side is then towards the earth. It next appears as a morning star, exhibiting a long, slender crescent, which rapidly grows wider and brighter, and on the 18th of June it will again be brightest, being then a short distance south-west of the Seven Stars. It will be at its greatest elongation west of the Sun, July 16th. It then passes off towards the superior conjunction, and soon fades.

JUPITER.

JUPITER will be morning star until March 18, then evening star until Dec. 31. It will be in the southern sky all the year, and at the most southern point on Nov. 19. It will not be at that place in the heavens again until 1877. It moves northward slowly after Nov. 19. From April 1, to Aug. 15, it moves backward, or towards the west. There are no conjunctions this year of Venus, Mars, or Saturn with Jupiter.

OBSERVATIONS ON THE MOON.

Our nearest neighbor in the heavens receives unremitting attention from astronomers, and its features have been more accurately mapped than some portions of our own globe. Its surface presents a wonderful scene of rugged grandeur: enormous craters enclosing vast volcanoes; isolated mountains far higher than any on the earth; broad plains, that look like the beds of former seas. Its changing aspects in its various positions with reference to the sun and us, are full of interest. Dr. Henry Draper, of the University of New York, has perfected a remarkably distinct and beautiful photographic picture of the moon, nearly two feet in diameter, made under a magnifying power of 320, which represents our satellite on a scale of 70 miles to an inch. His telescope has a silvered glass mirror, and is kept steady during the taking of a picture, while the little clock-work gives to the sensitized photograph-plate the motion necessary to keep it in focus.

It has long been known that the moon presents one and the same side to the earth all the time. Of late, the researches of a German astronomer named Hansen seem to have proved that this visible hemisphere of the moon is a sort of tower or crust, of a lighter and more porous substance than the rest of the moon, and projecting some 29 miles nearer to the earth than the average level of the lunar surface. If this be so, conjecture may take full possession of the further side of the moon, clothe it with an atmosphere, cover it with verdure, and people it with inhabitants.

DISTANCE OF THE STARS.

If a star be selected to-night, and its position on the background of the sky and with reference to other stars be carefully noted, and if the same thing be done six months hence — when the earth has reached the opposite extreme of its orbit — a minute change in its apparent position may perhaps be discovered. This is the star's annual parallax, and furnishes a means of estimating its distance in diameters of the earth's orbit. If a star has no parallax, it is immeasurably distant. Some of the nearest bright stars are Sirius, 130,000,000,000 miles, Arcturus, and the Pole-star; but recent observations show that some small stars of the 8th and 9th magnitude are nearer still, while some of the brightest stars in our sky have no sensible parallax.

ECLIPSES.

There will be four Eclipses this year, as follows :—

I. A partial Eclipse of the Moon April 10th, at midnight, visible in this Island. Eclipse commences 11h. 51m.; ends 1h. 37m. morning of the 11th. Size  $2\frac{1}{2}$  digits, or about one-fifth of the Moon's diameter.

II. A total Eclipse of the Sun April 25th, invisible in North America, but visible in most of South America and Africa.

III. A partial Eclipse of the Moon October 4th, in the evening, visible. The beginning of the Eclipse occurs before the Moon rises. The middle of the Eclipse will be at 6h. 46m. and ending at 7h. 47m. Size  $4\frac{1}{2}$  digits, or about one-third of the Moon's diameter.

IV. An annular Eclipse of the Sun October 19, in the morning, visible throughout the Island as a partial eclipse, commencing at 9h. 51m., and ending at 1 o'clock.

ASTEROIDS.

Three new asteroidal planets were discovered in 1863, making the whole number now recognized 79. Six new comets, of no great interest, were also observed during the year.

OBSERVATIONS OF THE SUN.

The English optician Cooke has invented a mode of separating the heat of the solar rays from the luminous portion before they reach the focus in the telescope. This is effected by a prism in the eye-piece, by which the luminous and the calorific rays being differently refracted, the latter are turned aside from the eye and do not molest the observer.

Close and careful observation of the sun is maintained by astronomers, and daily photographs of his disc are taken at the Kew Observatory, England. It is believed that the intense light and heat of the sun are kept up by meteors and asteroids continually falling into its atmosphere. On September 1, 1859, two observers at different places saw a sudden outburst of light far exceeding the rest of the sun's surface in brightness, and sweeping like a cloud over a part of his disc. This was thought to be an asteroid falling into the sun. This phenomenon was accompanied, as changes on the sun's surface are often found to be, by magnetic disturbances on the earth's surface, and by auroras of great brilliancy.

INVISIBILITY OF LIGHT.

It is well known, though not at all appreciated by the public, that light is invisible unless the eye is in a line with the source of the light, or with some object that reflects that light. Let a strong beam of sunlight enter a darkened room and fall on a blackened opposite wall; the entire chamber will remain in darkness, and no object in it will be visible but the floating motes in the air and intercepting a few rays. In applying this on the large scale, we may consider what would be our condition if we could see only objects luminous in themselves — even the sun giving us no light except when looking directly at it; and hence we may conceive how essential are those laws of refraction and reflection which make the atmosphere with its clouds, etc., and every other object great and small a conveyer of light, rendering all nature radiant to the beholder's eyes.

JANUARY begins on Sunday.

First Quarter, 4th day, 11h. 30m., morning.

Full Moon, 11th day, 6h. 48m., evening.

Last Quarter, 19th day, 10h. 24m., evening,

New Moon, 27th day, 5h. 18m., morning.

WORK FOR JANUARY.— Plans should be now made for the coming year. If not already accomplished, prepare to lay out the farm in regular fields, and introduce a good rotation—which will enable the farmer to carry on all his labor with clock-work regularity, to keep clean fields, to preserve their fertility, and to prevent confusion, so often resulting from too much work for the force at particular periods.

Keep all Barns and Sheds clean and in order, and prevent the untidy accumulations and confusion which some premises witness. Keep all tools under shelter, provide a place for everything, and let everything be in its place; and do not allow hens to roost on wagons, horse-rakes, and carriages.

Let Cattle and all other animals be kept perfectly clean, comfortable, & sufficiently warm. If they occupy sheds, great care should be taken to prevent cold currents between the boards, and especially under the sills, and high fences or other screens should prevent all winds from blowing in the front side. If kept in stables, still greater care should be exercised to preserve cleanliness and to provide sufficient ventilation. Many denounce stables for cattle on account of the foul air and foul keeping they are subjected to; while others denounce sheds on account of the cold currents which sweep through them. Use the curry-comb freely and regularly on both cattle and horses.

FUEL.— Draw, cut and split wood for summer use, so that there may be no interruption after the spring opens. If the wood is to be drawn only a mile or two, the best way is to cut and draw a large quantity at a time, and saw it with a circular saw by means of horse-power. Then immediately split and pile it, and it will season into fuel of the best quality—much superior to that which remains uncut for many months, until it becomes partially decayed.

Rats and Mice should be exterminated from all farm buildings.

First Quarter, 2d day, 8h. 56m., evening.

Full Moon, 10th day, 0h. 14m., evening.

Last Quarter, 18th day, 5h. 26m., evening.

New Moon, 25th day, 3h. 51m., evening.

AQUARIUS, or the Water-bearer, the zodiacal sign for January, and Pisces, or the Fishes, the sign for February, were named in Egypt some 2500 years before Christ, when these groups of stars rose soon after sunset in these months. At the same time the Nile overflows its banks, so that one group was called the Water-bearer (Aquarius), and associated with January, and the other, the Fishes, (Pisces), which naturally followed the course of the flood, was associated with February. In those days, at the earliest dawn of science, these names, therefore, had their significance, in the valley of the Nile, if no where else; but with our lakes and streams all locked in ice, and our hills and plains all cloaked with snow, a girl on skates, or a polar bear, would be quite as fit signs for these months. Still it is an interesting fact, that, as the fishes are handed down to us as the sign for February, the young trout of our mountain streams and lakes are hatched about the first of this month, the eggs having been laid eight or ten weeks ago, in a smooth gravel basin, scooped out by the male, just as every farmer's boy has seen near the shore of a quiet shallow stream, made by the bream or other fish. But fishes have but little to do with the farm work for this month that I was going to speak about. Do up the chores, chop wood, &c. Lay plans for spring and for the entire season, so that men may be regularly employed at all times without crowding or confusion. Secure good farm laborers—the best are always engaged first—the highest priced are often the cheapest, by saving constant watching or superintendence. A dollar or two more per month will often secure several dollars more in labor or its equivalent, good management. Open drains or channels in wheat fields, which have become choked by snow or ice, should be cleared out on the approach of thawing weather. Cattle should be kept off meadows. Attend to the comfort of domestic animals, and prepare for the spring's campaign

THE sun is moving north, and enters the sign of Aries, the Ram: a constellation not very well marked to be sure, but suggestive of sheep and lambs, and the care they require while this is the ruling sign of the zodiac. Most breeders think it is better to have fine woolled sheep drop their lambs in April, some even later; but for mutton sheep and the raising of lambs for market, it is of great advantage to have them come early, so as to get a good growth before midsummer. They pay for extra care and attention. Breeding ewes should be separated from the flock at yeaning time, if it is practicable, and supplied with well-trodden litter in a stable, rather than open sheds. Do not crowd them. If the lamb is weak, and the dam inclined to be restless, she may be laid down carefully, and the lamb induced to suckle. Sometimes the milk does not come immediately. It may be necessary to give the lamb a meal or two from another ewe, but don't give a lamb the milk of a farrow cow. If a lamb is found chilled and stiff from cold, it may have a bath as warm as the hand can be borne in it, and then rubbed dry. A few drops of rum or gin mixed with the milk have sometimes helped bring up a chilled lamb, but take care not to get the spirit into the wrong mouth.

Finish the various jobs of winter, and commence spring labor in earnest. Examine all tools, and put them in good order. Paint and grease carts and wagons. Examine and replace harrow teeth. Repair hinges of sagging gates, and nail loose boards on fences. Procure and clean grass seed for spring seeding. Examine and obtain a good supply of the best seed of oats, barley, and spring wheat. See that teams are kept in good working order, and if they can be frequently used, half a day at a time, they will become better accustomed to the active labor of Spring. Inspect thoroughly all the barns and out-buildings, and see that every part is in good order. Oil harness, and repair it where necessary for spring work.

Give special care to the cows and calves.

NEXT comes that magnificent constellation which the ancients named Taurus, or the Bull, containing that most beautiful group of stars, the Pleiades, and another called the Hyades, in the face, which the ancients thought to be a sign of rain when it rose with the sun. Couldn't have a better sign for April, by the way, for, besides the fact that the sun is now passing through the brilliant Taurus, the ox now attracts our special attention, as his busiest season is about to begin. Working oxen ought to be in good condition. "The ox knoweth his owner," and he knows when that owner feeds him well. Short food and too hard fare will give you little profit. Some farmers let their cattle run down to skin and bones by neglect and poor keeping through the winter, and then expect them to feel like work in spring. To be sure the patience of the ox is proverbial. He can bear abuse and ill treatment as well as any other animal, but he is sure to pay it back by want of thrift. Have you made sure of good seed for spring sowing? There's a great amount of poor old seed mixed in with much of that you buy, unless you take care to know something about it. Couldn't you raise better yourself? Change seed now and then.

FENCES. — One of the earliest tasks that can claim the farmer's attention is repairing fences. — Systematic managers, whose farms are divided by common rail structures, after having determined about how long they will continue, say six years, divide their whole farm into six parts, and repair a sixth each year — this keeps all in good order without further trouble, and without having too much to attend to one season, and but little another.

The importance of good fences is well understood by those who have observed the difference between crops safe from all intruders, and those occasionally trodden down and ruined; between moving on with the work without interruption, and the frequent annoyance of stopping important operations to run after intruding cattle, colts and pigs.

Sow Wheat and Oats as early as the seed can be put in, on well prepared land.

CATERPILLARS probably may come this month like a devouring army, camping in our orchards and along the highways and hedges. Why don't you cut down the wild cherries along the roads? They harbor vast numbers of these destroyers and supply the stock for work on the orchards next spring. It's a hard job, but stick to 'em. Brush 'em off one year, and you'll have less the next. If all the farmers in a neighborhood would take hold together, they would rid themselves of every caterpillar in less than three years. It's worth trying. Coal oil, they say, is sure death to caterpillars. Make a brush of feathers on the end of a pole and rub the nests, when the worms are in them. Try that.

Set out ornamental trees along the roads; the rock-maple is one of the most graceful and useful, grows rapidly on good soil, and makes oven a poor farm agreeable. The elm and the horse-chestnut are highly ornamental trees. It pays well, to say nothing of the pride and pleasure you may have from them, for any body coming to buy a farm would pay enough more to make it an object. You may set the row on the side of the road and make a sidewalk between it and the wall. 'Twon't cost a great deal.

CORN.—The amount of this crop raised is more controlled by good and bad management than almost any other. Many farmers are satisfied with 30 bushels per acre — they should average at least 80 bushels — over 100 may be often reached. The requisites for success are a well prepared, rich soil, and constant and clean cultivation. The former claims especial attention at present. A sward inverted to a moderate depth is a favorite mode of planting; it succeeds admirably if it has been well manured on the surface the previous autumn, the rains carrying the enriching portions into the soil. On good ground this will often make a difference of 20 to 25 bushels per acre. Inverting the whole sod perfectly will save much hand hoeing.

Coarse manure may be made into compost heaps for fall use.

Don't be afraid of cutting grass too early. Better begin too early than too late. Sow the early kinds,—orchard grass, Kentucky blue grass, and clover. Every farmer ought to know more about the grasses. They constitute the great basis of all good systems of agriculture, and are worthy of a special study by every one, and yet it is surprising to see how little they are understood. It is time to begin to teach something that is practical in the schools. Every boy and girl ought to learn to know the names and characteristics of the objects of everyday observation. I hope you cultivate the smaller fruits, like currants, gooseberries and strawberries.

TURNIPS. — These succeed well on all rich and rather light soils. Unless the soil be well enriched, it will be seed wasted and labor lost. They cannot be sown profitably without a good drill, which will plant several acres per day. In small experiments the seed may be dropped by nailing a tin cup to the lower end of a cane or stick, perforating the bottom with a small hole, a trifle larger than a seed, and shaking this with the seed along the drill, and covering by raking. This does well for garden crops. Never allow the weeds to become more than an inch high, and thin out the plants to at least one foot apart in the drill, or a foot and a half in very rich land. All novices in raising this crop may be quickly known by leaving too many plants, which crowd and diminish each other in size.

WEEDS. — Prompt and energetic destruction of weeds constitutes a prominent portion of the labors of this month. The great point is to take them early, when they are small and feeble. A weed in growing from an inch to a foot in height, increases as the cube, or a thousand fold in weight or bulk, and exhausts the soil correspondingly. Single weeds often produce 500 to 1000 seeds—sometimes several thousand—causing extra labor another year.

Dog-days reign, and haying, with many a farmer, now goes on. It don't drag as it used to. We have made some headway. Many an acre is better cleared and easier cut than it was years ago. If we do not get larger and better crops, we at least get them easier. With the mowing machine, the hay-spreeder, and the horse-rake, but little is left of the drudgery of haying except pitching on and off, and for the latter many a farmer is now using the horse-fork, which generally works well. These facilities for turning off work leave the farmer more time for improvement, and he is untrue to himself who does not make the most of it.

The best time to cut hay is at the transition from flower to seed. The precise point, of course, cannot be generally attained in ordinary practice, where many days are required for securing a crop, but the nearer we come to it the better. The expedition accomplished by means of mowing machines, horse-rakes, and horse forks, have, however, greatly facilitated this object. Cutting grass early produces more readily a good after growth. If done too soon, it will lack substance; if too late, it will be hard and woody. Celerity of operations depends much on good management, and on having everything in full readiness. The omission of some requisite will delay the whole, and a day's delay, by throwing the mass of the work into a rain storm, may result in heavy loss.

Stacking in the open field cannot be recommended. Ample barns should always be provided. Yet temporary necessity may often require stacking. When resorted to, it should be done well: the stacks built even and with symmetrical form; the hay should be pitched on from different sides to preserve upright and even settling; for when a stack settles to one side, it necessarily exposes the upper side to rain, and often to the loss of a large portion of the stack. Good stackers repeatedly and regularly pass around the structure, and place the hay in uniform forkfuls in regular and circular layers. The centre is always rounded the highest.

Drain off the low lands. It can't hurt them, and you'll get better hay, if not more of it. "Little pains bring great gains." Keep out the weeds. Don't let 'em go to seed. A few hours now will save much work next year. A true farmer's eye cannot bear weeds. He knows they draw hard on his potatoes, turnips and grain, besides exhausting the land in ripening their seeds. Out with them, then, and throw them to the hogs. They make good manure if not too ripe. A good piece of weeds will do to plough under for green manure. There's many a piece that you can clear up now better than any other time. What you want is a clear field well tilled. Once cleared, always cleared. It may cost some work, but only think of the difference. The mowing-machine, the hay-spreader, and the horse-rake can take the place of the scythe, the fork, and the hand-rake, and save you many a hard day's labor, and many a dollar in money.

Oats should be cut while the straw is yet slightly green—the straw will be more valuable, and the grain not shell out as when fully ripe. The gleanings of all grain fields may be secured with a horse rake.

Harvest Tools are often neglected, and suffered to remain weeks exposed to the weather, to their serious injury, by the rusting of metal and the decay of wood. Let them all be carefully housed, after having been thoroughly cleaned, and the bright metal parts rubbed slightly with lard, oil, or melted grafting wax.

In order to keep up the highest quality, or to improve the seed of wheat, select the very best portions of the field, and exclude the seeds of every weed. Many careful farmers, by continued attention for years, have succeeded in entirely eradicating weeds from their farms. To improve the quality of seed wheat, the largest and finest heads may be selected by hand.

Push on the fattening stock. It is cheaper to fatten now than later in the fall. Root crops sown in rows may now be cultivated to advantage. Dig potatoes when the skin will not slide if pushed by the thumb. Budding may still be done, though rather better to have finished last month. Stiff and hard soils may now be ploughed. Turn them up to the frosts of winter. The oxen and horses are stronger and better able to work now than they will be in Spring. A little work will not hurt fattening cattle much if they are well treated. It is a good time to cut timber. See that the barnyard is put in order, so that it will not shed all its liquid contents in winter. It is a good plan to haul in a little loam or muck. Leave the light and sandy soils to plough in Spring. Put the buildings in repair before the equinoctial storm sets in.

The yards and apartments in which swine are kept, should be scrupulously clean, and rendered comfortable by dry litter. Experiments have shown that they fatten faster under these circumstances. Great pains should be taken to feed them with clock-work regularity, and not to give them so much at a time that some will be left, and a distaste for food produced; neither should they ever be allowed to squeel off their flesh by waiting impatiently.

This is usually the best month for the manufacture of butter; the great leading requisites for success in which, are, first and most important, good, sweet, rich, abundant pasture; secondly, good cows; thirdly, a perfect cleanliness in the dairy house, in all the vessels used in it, and the air which surrounds it; and fourthly, general and skillful management throughout. Under the latter head may be mentioned, shallow pans or shallow milk in the pans, proper temperature of the cream, (about 60° Fahrenheit,) and working out all the buttermilk.

POTATOES.—A time should be chosen for digging these, when the soil is dry, as freedom from rotting depends greatly on having them packed away clean. If the cellar is moist, the bins for receiving them should have a grated bottom, to admit ventilation. If dry weather cannot be selected for digging them, it is best to deposit them, and spread them out for a few days upon a barn floor; during rainy weather they may be assorted, and when placed in the cellar will be less liable to rot than if taken there while wet and muddy.

FATTENING ANIMALS.—The regular feeding of all domestic animals for fattening should be carefully continued during the present month. Regularity as to time is of great importance—the animal's appetite is an accurate chronometer, any unusual delay is certain to result in a waste of flesh. It is important to attend to all their comforts—a great secret of success with skilful managers. Especially avoid waste, dirt and surfeit. Some of the best farmers are very careful to commence foddering cattle early, or as soon as frost affects the grass—that being regarded as the most critical period in the year, and when cattle fall away most rapidly, or contract fatal diseases.

All stubble ground should be well harrowed to start the weeds, which may be turned under either the present autumn or the next spring.

This is the best season of the year for out door painting, when the hot sun will not dry the paint to powder, but it will form a hard, durable coat.

Save seed with care in a dry, cool place, store the pumpkins.—if you raise any,—and every farmer should who wishes to have his cows keep up their quantity of milk,—keep a cheerful heart, make the best of every thing, cultivate the voices of your children at the singing-school, keep up with the times, take the best local newspaper, and pay for it, and do not fail to encourage all great and good public enterprises.

Roots.—Rutabagas and other root crops should be harvested early in the month, or one freezing night may destroy them. A special provision should be made for the preservation of rutabagas in masses to prevent their heating and spoiling. If buried out of doors they should be in a long pile, with frequent ventilating wisps of straw at the top; if stored in cellars they should be placed on a wooden grate or rack, so that the air may frequently pass under and up through them. All roots, whether turnips, beets, or carrots, should be packed away clean and dry.

ANIMALS.—Keep all fattening animals comfortable, dry and warm. Feed them regularly, frequently, and in moderate quantities. Do not try to economize by giving them foul or musty food. Provide places where they can obtain pure water at pleasure, throughout the winter. Do not depend on pasture, especially after the frost has dried it, but give fodder with a small, regular supply of meal. Many cattle are injured, and badly fitted for winter, by compelling them to live on pasture alone, late in autumn.

FALL PLOWING.—It will greatly assist the labors of next spring, in planting and sowing early, to do as much plowing late in autumn as practicable. In order that there may be a free drainage, the furrows should run directly up and down hill, by the shortest slope; if plowed across, the furrows will become filled, and the land soaked with water. It may be well to shovel the loose earth out of the dead furrows, for the same purpose. If the ground is wet or undrained, plow narrow lands. This treatment will enable the farmer to work his land early in spring.

The labors of the season having been devoted to the raising of crops, the period for their consumption has now arrived. As it is important, on the score of the economy, to raise heavy crops, so it is equally important now to study the most economical modes of feeding. 1. The first point of economy is to prevent loss by good and comfortable shelter. Exposure to freezing winds not only injures the growth and thrift of animals, but requires a greater amount of food to maintain animal heat. Sometimes the loss of animals, by death alone, towards spring, is greater than the cost of ample shelter. 2. The second is to feed regularly, that no loss of flesh may be occasioned by impatient fretting. 3. The third is, to give the food in the best condition. Hay and straw should be bright, and not musty.

Straw should be carefully saved, even when raised in large quantities, as it has so many uses. It may be employed largely in feeding animals, if a little grain of meal is fed to them, regularly, at the same time. It may be largely used as litter, and converted into manure. It forms an excellent covering for large heaps or roots in winter, whether in root cellars or more exposed. It may be employed as a cover for temporary sheds for protecting cattle and sheep. In most cases the best way to manage straw is to thrash the grain as the straw is needed through winter, by means of a two-horse endless chain power, which requires but few hands in attendance

GOOD WATER should be provided at all times for all domestic animals, and should be supplied to them frequently and regularly, or at their pleasure. Depriving them of drink for a long time, and then allowing them to drink too much, is detrimental to the best thrift.

Colts and young horses do well on straw, with a little grain—an excellent way is to cut oats in the sheaf an inch or too long, and feed the whole together.

GREAT P. E. ISLAND REMEDIES !

PREPARED BY

WILLIAM R. WATSON,

Of Charlottetown, P. E. Island,

DRUGGIST.

Having been found, by the experience of years, to possess the remedial qualities claimed for them, are confidently recommended to those suffering from the complaints for relief of which they are respectively intended.

The Proprietor guarantees that they are the best of their kinds ever offered to the public. Innumerable Certificates of the highest authority might readily be adduced as to the efficiency of each, but the celebrity they have obtained throughout the Island, where they are manufactured and best known, and most extensively used, renders the publication of such Testimonials unnecessary.

BALSAMIC SYRUP ;

AN INVALUABLE REMEDY FOR

Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Asthma, Chronic Coughs, Influenza, Difficulty of Breathing, and all Diseases of the Lungs, and Pulmonary Complaints.

This Medicine has the extraordinary property of IMMEDIATELY relieving Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness in the Throat, &c. It operates by dissolving the congealed phlegm, thereby causing a free expectoration.

Those who are troubled with that unpleasant tickling in the throat, which deprives them of rest night after night, by the incessant Cough which it provokes, will, by taking one dose, find immediate relief; and one bottle will, in most cases, effect a cure.

Where a gentle aperient is required, take an occasional dose or two of "WATSON'S DYSPEPSIA BITTERS." They operate without producing those unpleasant and often distressing effects which frequently continue for a day or two after taking powerful medicine.

DYSPEPSIA BITTERS :

AN INVALUABLE REMEDY FOR

Dyspepsia, or Indigestion, Jaundice, Bilious Complaints, Bad Breath Sick Headache, Heartburn, Acid Stomach, Diarrhæa, and all Diseases having their origin in Costiveness, or Bad Digestion.

These Bitters will be found beneficial in the first stages of Diarrhæa, or Dysentery, by taking half a teaspoonful at bed time : but when it fails, "Watson's Diarrhæa Mixture" will be found a perfect remedy.

DYSENTERY

DIARRHŒA MIXTURE:

Is a Safe, Speedy, and Effectual Remedy for Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Cholic, and Disorders of the Bowels
generally, in Adults and Children:

And if promptly applied in cases of Cholera it would be productive of the happiest results, as it quickly relieves acute pain, dispels Flatulency, subdues Purging, and comforts and invigorates the whole system.

** The public will please observe, that there is a Seal—"Watson Druggist, P. E. Island,"—upon the Cork of each Bottle, and that on the back (in panel) of each Bottle there are these words: "W. R. Watson, Charlottetown, P. E. Island," without which none are genuine.

Any person who may have purchased a bottle of either of the foregoing, and used it for any of the complaints for which they are respectively recommended, and experiencing no relief from its use, can have the price returned on production of the empty Bottle.

WATSON'S CLOVE ANODYNE

TOOTH-ACHE.

One of the most pleasant and best remedies ever offered to the public as a sure cure for the Tooth-ache. The original recipe was handed to the proprietor by an eminent Dentist, who has proved its efficacy for many years. Sold in Bottles with Directions, 9d. each.

ROSEMARY HAIR WASH.

This original and genuine article has for some time been universally admired and acknowledged as being the best and cheapest preparation for the Hair. It gives a vigor to the hair, which soon produces an imitable curl, and prevents its falling out either in exercise or a damp atmosphere. It is superior to anything ever discovered for preventing the hair from falling off, or becoming grey, and by invigorating the pores of the scalp, strengthens the weakest hair, and produces a luxuriant growth on the baldest places. Its properties are of the most beneficial tendency, rendering either natural or artificial hair as soft as silk, and bestowing an admirable gloss and pleasant perfume on the tresses. It exceedingly promotes the growth of Whiskers, Eyebrows, and Moustaches. To children's hair the effect is singularly advantageous, and it is perfectly innocuous even to the youngest infant.

It eradicates the dandruff more easily and safely than combs, &c.—In sickness, alarm, trouble, study, &c., all injury to the hair may be prevented by the use of this inestimable article.

In fine, as adding strength, affording nourishment, exciting to a luxuriant growth, and brilliantly ornamenting and embellishing the hair, the inventor avers without the fear of contradiction, that the Rosemary Hair Wash is not to be surpassed by any other article in the world!
