THE CHOLERA SOURCE IN SOUTH ITALY

Spread of the Disease Has Caused Break of Purposeful Silence

FEARED FOR EXHIBITION

Conditions in Affected District Declared to be Bad and Much Needs to be Done on Educational Lines—Recovery of Valuable Works in Statuary

(Times' Special Correspondence)

Rome, Sept. 24.—The tragedy of Verucchio has had the effect of definitely lifting the veil of silence that has been drawn over the subject of the cholera in Italy throughout the year. But it has done more than that. It has drawn more attention during the last few weeks to the conditions of life in a part of Southern Italy than has been done by all the articles written on the subject during the last ten years.

It has been well known that the "brut-to-male" (cholera) has been in existence on the mainland of Sicily for at least three months, but Italians have been content to follow the lead of their government and say that a public acknowledgment of the truth would jeopardize the success of the exhibition. Romans did not complain even when excursion trains at cheap fares were run to the capital from Naples, where they were well aware that cases had occurred. It is only lately, when the spread of the disease has been too evident to be denied, that they have expressed openly their doubts as to the wisdom of the policy of silence on the part of the government.

It is a question of this unwillingness to confess the truth has not defeated its own object. The exhibition, in spite of its artistic excellence, is acknowledged to have resulted up to the present time in financial failure. The official "Journal of Public Works" has confessed to a deficit of a million francs, a figure which has been received generally with an expressive shrug of the shoulders. And the hope of converting the deficit into a favorable balance which rests on an expected big influx of Italians and foreigners into Rome during the autumn and winter and the ensuing spring, has been discontinued by the exigencies of the authorities.

This is the more to be regretted inasmuch as public acknowledgment, coupled with vigorous restrictive measures, even such as were taken last fall, could have stamped out the evil when it first appeared in the early summer; and even now, after the close of the most dangerous period of our history, small without difficulty under complete control. But, on account of the distrust engendered, that may be too late a day when the success of the exhibition is concerned.

is Not an Incident Alone

The significance of the Verucchio outbreak is that it is not an incident; it is a type of cholera, small without difficulty situated in the South of Italy, and it reveals a degree of ignorance which, without such direct evidence, would not be believed to be possible. The people there had been already rendered anxious by the recent cases; they looked on the outbreak of cholera as a deliberate attempt to reduce the excess of population which had disclosed small without difficulty that every public official carried a poisonous "powder" for that purpose.

error which half of them in leading flight to the hills; fury drove the remainder to set fire to the town hall and murder brutally and horribly the communal secretary. The mayor had fled, and a government official sent to make inquiries died of sheer fright and horror at what he saw. The facts reveal not only the utter powerlessness of the municipal and health authorities to deal with any emergency which may arise (and that in spite of the reorganization of the medical services set on foot by Signor Luzzatti last autumn), but general conditions of life which are a discredit to the Italian people.

Verucchio has a railway station, at a distance of fourteen kilometers, but its only means of access is a mule track, as the road promised many years ago has not yet been built. Its water supply is an open aqueduct which became contaminated by the excrement of three kilometers to the hill springs. It has no drains of any sort, refuse is thrown from the windows into the narrow dark lanes which constitute its streets, and its people share their habitations with the chickens, the pigs and the dogs.

The school, such as it is, is not attended, as the work of even the youngest child is needed in the fields, and the communal budget, exhausted by the barest needs of the town, is powerless to cope with any emergency. The percentage of illiteracy is ninety-three. Trouble, such as the present outbreak of cholera, is regarded as either a visitation of Heaven or the work of the government, of whose existence the tax-collector, by, as a rule, the only evidence. The people, seeing that cholera attacks the poor only and spares those better off, draw the propitious inference that the well-to-do are in league to kill them off.

The remedy for this state of things is acknowledged to lie in education. The difficulty is, firstly, the lack of funds, and secondly, the inability of any administrative measure to emerge from the sea of political controversy and bureaucratic delay in Rome. The present prime minister, Signor Giolitti, who is also minister for the interior, is an ardent politician, but has given little evidence of constructive statesmanship during the many years he has controlled the fortunes of the country. The remedy proposed by Signor Pera is typical of the direction which discussion of the incident of Verucchio will take. The Italian deputy's remedy for all the troubles of the south is the immediate passing of the universal suffrage bill.

Educational Bill

One of the principal objects of an educational bill passed last year, was to put the poorer communes in a position to cope successfully with the school difficulty, and Signor Luzzatti's excellent regulations for the reorganization of the medical services of the state and the teaching of elementary principles of hygiene in the schools only await putting into action.

In the people of her southern provinces, Italy possesses magnificent material, uncultivated perhaps, but hard-working and extraordinarily clever. The real remedy will be found and fortune prospered as by a judicious expenditure of public money, coupled with prompt and impartial administration. But administrative ability is not the most prominent feature in the political life of Italy from Rome southwards.

Some of the days when Horace delighted the world with his epistles and satires, a special glimmer has hung round the neighborhood in which were situated the farm and villa given by the discriminating generosity of Maecenas to his friend, and an immense deal of labor and learning has been expended in order to ascertain with certainty the exact position of this delectable spot.

The approximate site was settled during the second half of the eighteenth century by a French abbe, Mr. Capmartin Chaupy, who spent a considerable part of his life in visiting the many places up and down Italy which claimed to be characteristic of the great poet. But Mr. de Chaupy was able to prove with certainty that the only situation which answered entirely to the description given was about eight miles from the modern Verucchio, the Vicca Varra, that Horace mentions as his nearest town, at the foot of which runs the little river now called the Digenita, which is obviously the Digenita of which Horace speaks, and which passes close to the little ancient Roman town of Mandelavici.

Excavations

The Italian government has initiated systematic excavations to bring to light all that has been left by past vandals, who, as late as seventy years ago, did not hesitate to carry off the beautiful marbles and statues lying about among the ruins in order to burn them and turn the iron into lime. From what has already been found it would appear that the historic villa was in the middle of an extensive garden, and protected it from the excessive heat of summer. Besides, there was an artificial lake in the middle of the garden 350 yards square and six feet deep, standing in front of the house, fed by the waters of the river. Lenses through a most ingenious hydraulic system, the pipes of which have been found almost intact.

The hydraulic works extended to the time of the Antonines, and of which the remains have also been found next to the villa on the left, with all the different rooms for bathing, cooling, or resting after the bath, showing the extreme of luxury which the ancient Romans enjoyed even in their country houses.

Magnificent mosaic pavements, fragments of beautiful frescoes and stucco work, and marble heads—one of which represents Faustina the younger—have also come to light. The body of the villa is composed of reutilized work, which is characteristic of the finest period of Roman architecture, in which the exquisitely regular form of the stones gives the appearance of a network to the walls, and which must have been particularly difficult to carry out in the hard limestone of the neighborhood. Meanwhile the excavations are being continued with great patience and care.

Barlow, Ballin County, 57, thinks it itself deserving of credit for the high percentage of church members among its innumerable. A census of the town gives the number of business men and the number of church members among them as follows: Merchants, 16, church members 15; bankers and bank directors, 19, church members, nine; doctors, three; church members, three; barbers, three; church members, three; clerks, eight; church members, eight; all other business, 15; church members, 15; making a total of 53 and 53 of them church members.

COL. McLEAN HAS TEN MAJORITY

Some Conservatives Make Scene at Declaration Proceedings in Queens-Sunbury

Gagetown, Oct. 5.—At the conclusion of the twice adjourned declaration day proceedings for Queens-Sunbury here today, Col. H. H. McLean was declared elected by a majority of ten votes.

This result was received with every expression of ill will from the Conservatives present and notice was given that the ball would be held in anticipation of a recount being presented by John R. Dunn and A. R. Shipp, the legal representative of the Conservative candidates, endeavoring to break up the meeting without giving Col. McLean a chance to reply to wild charges made in an address by latter Smith. The member-elect struck out from the shoulder, however, and succeeded in putting some very embarrassing questions to Mr. Smith.

Returning Officer Dickman presided today with Sheriff Holden as clerk and W. B. Wallace, K. C., present as legal adviser. Dr. L. A. Curry appeared for Col. McLean, and A. R. Shipp, John R. Dunn and J. W. McCready represented Mr. Smith.

PICKWICK ON STAGE IN PARIS

Dickens' Story is Given Broad Adaptation But Makes a Successful Production

Paris, Oct. 5.—The small theatre known as the Athenee gave the first performance of "Monsieur Pickwick," a very broad adaptation of Dickens' book written in five acts, by M. Dural and Robert Charvay. Mr. Dural is a well-known translator whose versions of Shakespeare have had much success in the last few years, and M. Charvay, co-author of "Mlle. Josette ma Femme," the most successful play of its kind of the last ten years, is another popular playwright. Writing together, however, the two authors have produced a work quite foreign to the accustomed style of either.

Dickens, who hitherto, has been treated so seriously in France is here invoked for collaboration in a burlesque, which often borders on the lightest style of musical comedy. Well-known characters are there more or less as Dickens described them and as Craskahank drew them, but they are much lighter hearted than tradition suggests them to be. Indeed, the England of Dickens is made to look as if it is in "Tom Jones."

Two acts of this light treatment of a serious foreign author rather unsettled the first night audience, but when it was quite certain that the authors were not intending the play to be taken very seriously all joined in the fun, and there was nothing but approving laughter right to the end. In the first act in Mr. Pickwick's rooms in London, Pickwick, Winkle, Snodgrass, and Tupman are planning to go to Rochester, Mrs. Bardell is persuaded by Dodson and Fogg to follow the party with the intention of inveigling Pickwick into a marriage proposal. Two months later the Bull at Rochester (Act II) is the scene of all kinds of startling adventures, in which Sam Weller and Jangle play a great part. Pickwick escapes the danger of a duel but comes upon the greater peril of Mrs. Bardell. The two speak at cross purposes, and, thinking that Pickwick has proposed, or rather that he has accepted her proposal, Mrs. Bardell faints with excitement.

The party moves on to Mr. Wardle's Manor Farm (Act IV) for some Christmas shooting and for Yuletide revels while the solicitors prepare for the great trial of Bardell vs. Pickwick, which comes on in the court of common pleas. Pickwick loses his action, but not his philosophic dignity. He decides to accept the lordship of half-crown dinners at the Fleet Prison rather than pay an unjust award. But the play ends like the traditional farce, and there are music and dancing and the sound of wedding bells within the walls of the Fleet Prison (Act V) when the curtain goes down for the last time. The scenery is quite effectively English, the costumes are pleasing and, considering the number of characters, the acting is very good on the whole.

A hair's breadth" is 17,000,000ths of an inch. For the purpose of such fine and delicate measurement toolmakers use what is called a micrometer caliper. The hair's breadth has to be taken into consideration in the making of parts of many machines and in the making of doors for vaults, where every part must fit to the nicest degree.

THE HERO OF SANTIAGO

This is Rear-Admiral Winfield S. Schley, United States navy, who dropped dead in a street in New York this week. He was virtually in command of the United States fleet which defeated and destroyed the Spanish fleet in Santiago Bay, in 1898, although his senior in command, Admiral Sampson, took all credit for it, until a court of enquiry, some years later gave Schley the glory, and he triumphed like a hero all through the country.

Daily Hints For the Cook

EGGS IN PEPPER RINGS

Remove the seeds and core from a sweet pepper, cut the pepper in half-inch rings. Put the rings into a saucepan with a little water; when it boils, drop an egg into each ring. Slip each ring and egg on a slice of well buttered toast and serve at once.

HERRING SALAD.

Heat well three smoked herring, turning often. Remove heads, skin and backbone. Shred the meat well. Put in a bowl with a small chopped onion, two hard-boiled eggs, chopped, and a boiled potato, diced. Add a teaspoonful of minced parsley, and season with salt and pepper; then add three tablespoonfuls of vinegar and two tablespoonfuls of oil. Dress thoroughly. Serve on lettuce, garnished with diced beets.

THE FRENCH CONQUEST OF ALGIERS

History of Interest in View of The War Now

FOUGHT FOR YEARS

The Arabs Can Put up a Terrible Struggle Against Invasion as Italy May Learn if The War is Continued

The story of the conquest of Algeria by the French is worth recalling, in view of the Italian invasion of Tripoli, the neighboring state.

Away back in the days of Caesar, Algeria came under Roman rule and enjoyed great prosperity until, about the middle of the fifth century, the Romans were driven from Africa by the Vandals. About two hundred years later the Saracens conquered the country, which became divided into a number of petty states, ruled over by barbaric chiefs. In 1502 there was a Spanish invasion, but in 1516 the Turkish sultan, Barbarossa, was invited by one of the native princes to lead a rebellion, which he did, and was proclaimed king, introducing a new system of justice, for which Algeria was noted until 1830, the year, meanwhile, being red with blood and in encounters with Spain, France and England.

Finally, to avenge the various injuries, shipping and an insult offered the French consul by the Bey, war on a large scale was declared and in 1830 a French army of 37,000 infantry, 1,600 cavalry and such artillery was dispatched. They defeated a native army of over 40,000 and advanced on Algiers, which surrendered after a one day's bombardment. Most of the Turkish troops there were conveyed to Asia Minor. The conquerors, by destroying the native mosques and seizing lands, set the Arabs against them and for years there was warfare of the most cruel kind. In Nov., 1831, Gen. Savary was sent with 16,000 additional men. One of his exploits was the massacre of a whole tribe including old men, women and children, during night, on account of a robbery committed by some of them. He also treacherously murdered two Arab chiefs, whom he had enticed in his power by a written promise of safety. In 1834 the Arab leader, being made a provincial chief, but the French became jealous of his power, and in 1835 there was another battle in which the French were defeated. Not for two years was peace declared, and then boundary disputes led to resumed hostilities a year later. An Immense Army By 1841, France had nearly 100,000 soldiers in the field, many of the tribes had been intimidated, while Abd-el-Kader had to take refuge in Morocco. There he raised a large force and returned, but was ultimately defeated and returned to Morocco to arouse the natives there to revolt. In 1844, however, the French were victorious in both countries, and Abd-el-Kader was again a fugitive, taking refuge with a band of followers in the mountains, from which they would make sorties. In June 1845, a band of Arabs pursued by General Pellissier, took refuge in a cave. They refused to surrender, and the general had a fire lit in front of the cave and suffocated them all—200 men, women and children. In 1847, the Arab chief surrendered, and was taken to France, but being allowed to remove to Damascus, rendered valuable aid to the Christians during the Turkish massacre in Syria in 1850.

My Corns Don't Hurt a Bit Tired, Ailing, Swollen, Smelly, Sweaty Feet, Corns, Calluses and Bunions, TIZ Cures Right Off.

Say good-bye to your corns the very first time you use TIZ. You will never know you have a corn, blister or callous, or sweaty, tired, swollen, aching feet any more. It's just wonderful the way the pain vanishes. With the corn-banisher it with your list if you wish—no more pain after TIZ than if there had never been a bluish on your feet. Doesn't that sound good to you? Doesn't it? Then read this: "The corns on either of my toes were as large as the tablets you made to cure them. Today there is no sign of corns on either foot and no soreness. It's an up-to-date Godsend.—Sam. A. Hoover, Proverbs, N. C." Just use TIZ. It's not like anything else for the purpose you ever heard of. It's the only foot remedy ever made which acts on the principle of drawing out all the poisonous exudations which cause sore feet. Powder and other remedies merely plug up the pores. TIZ cleans them out and keeps them clean. It works right off. You will feel better the very first time it's used. Use it a week and you can forget you ever had sore feet. There is nothing on earth that can compare with it. TIZ is made only by Walter Lather DeLoe & Co., Windsor, Ont., and is for sale at all druggists, 25c. per box.

aid to the Christians during the Turkish massacre in Syria in 1850. In the meantime there was almost constant warfare in the interior until 1856, when the authority of France was undisputed and peace reigned for a time. In 1859 a rebellion was quelled but in 1864 there was a serious uprising in the south. Year after year there were uprisings of a serious nature, until, in 1871, a widespread insurrection broke out, stimulated by the weakened condition of France at home. Horrible massacres were perpetrated, and all airports were blocked from the land side. It was not until after the fall of the commune in Paris that troops enough could be spared to quell this revolt. From October of that year, when a civil government was established, the colony has continued in a more or less flourishing condition.

Tripoli's Past Tripoli's history has not been so red. After falling successively into the hands of the Phoenicians, Romans, Vandals and Greeks, Tripoli was finally conquered by the Arabs twelve centuries ago, and has remained a Moslem state ever since. In 1510, Ferdinand of Spain took it and thirteen years later it was given to the Knights of St. John who were expelled in 1533 by Turkish Corsairs. Tripolitan pirates soon became the terror and scourge of the Mediterranean and half the states of Europe seem to have at some time or other, sent fleets to bombard the capital. In 1833 the Turks took advantage of a civil war to reassert authority and since that time it has been governed by representatives of the Sultan, the capital, is a typical Moorish city.

NEW ZEALAND TO BUILD HOMES FOR WORKING PEOPLE Dwellings Will Be Sold on Cash Instalments and Under Easy Terms

Melbourne, Aus., Oct. 6.—The New Zealand government's plan of building dwellings for rent or lease to workmen not having proved successful, partly because the houses offered no special inducements over those which could be rented from private persons, either in construction or cheapness, and partly because the designating term "workers' dwellings" created a certain amount of prejudice against them, the government is now erecting homes for sale to workmen on cash instalments and on easy terms. Under the act, the term "worker" includes "any person, male or female, employed in work of any kind or in manual labor, whose earnings at the time of his application do not exceed 175 pounds (252.00) per annum and who is homeless." He must live in the house he buys, although absence for twelve months at a time may be permitted, but he is not bound to dispose of his dwelling without the consent of the labor department of the government. The most expensive houses will not cost more than $3,000, and the purchaser will be given from twenty to thirty years in which to pay for his dwelling, interest on the mortgage being 11 1/2 per cent. Most married people are in favor of an occasional peace conference.

PLAN TO OVERTHROW THE FRENCH REPUBLIC

Reported That Fund of $10,000,000 is Being Raised—Princess Clementine's Part in It

Paris, Oct. 6.—A story is told here concerning Princess Clementine's presence among the Bonapartist party which, it is said, has increased the hopes of the latter in the success of a conspiracy against the French regime.

Princess Victor Napoleon, the husband of the Belgian princess, has a committee in Paris, which is said to be spreading a "Bonapartist feeling" in the French army and among members of parliament. Of course, if the French government made a complaint the Belgian government would have to warn the princess that conspires against a neighboring nation could not be tolerated on Belgian soil, and the daughter of King Leopold, if she persisted, would have to leave the country.

Mrs. Lillian Brown, wife of Capt. Hiram Brown, of West Hill, Me., is said to be the first woman in that state to receive a license to carry passengers in a motor boat. All summer Capt. Brown has been in command of a boat on a short line running out of Bath and his wife has been in command of another. Mrs. Brown is declared to be a most capable mariner.

there is sure to come physical suffering at times—suffering hard to bear—suffering which will be followed by serious sickness, if the first symptoms are neglected. But this suffering will not be forgotten, and there will be fiercer consequences unless relief is obtained from a safe, reliable, natural and effective medicine.

BECCMAN'S PILLS ought to be on hand in every home ready for use at first sign of trouble. This famous family remedy has proved in years and years of trial, its power to correct physical trouble and to ward off disease.

HE PAYS A QUARTER MILLION FOR HOUSE

New York, Oct. 6.—George Gould's son, Jay, paid $250,000 this week for the six-story dwelling, 162 Fifth avenue, between 80th and 90th streets, in which he will reside. Mr. Gould married Miss Anna Douglas Graham last spring.

MONUMENT TO ACTRESS RACHEL

Geneva, Oct. 6.—A committee has been formed, comprising English, French and Swiss members, with temporary headquarters in Paris, to erect a monument to the celebrated actress Rachel, who was born at Mumi, a little town near Zurich. It is proposed to choose the site as near as possible to the birthplace of the Swiss actress, and with this object the local authorities were consulted by the committee, with very satisfactory results.

Colonel Waldmayer, of Mumi, replied that one of the best sites in the town would be given for the purpose, and it required a suitable stone pedestal would be provided for the monument.

MARIE CORELLI GIVES ANSWER TO PASTOR

London, Oct. 6.—Rev. E. J. Campbell, minister of the City Temple, who is soon going on a preaching tour in America, has greatly wounded the susceptibilities of Marie Corelli.

In a sermon Mr. Campbell referred to Miss Corelli's latest novel "The Life Everlasting," which, he said, was "marked by a certain strain of hard, bitter, intolerant, unchristianlike intolerance on human depravity and culpability," adding:

"Miss Corelli seems to have been unfortunate in the people she has met. They seem to be so unchristian, hypocrites, devil-voluptuaries. The man or woman with a good appetite, sound digestion, and bowels and kidneys working right is never troubled much with sleeplessness. It is when the bowels become constipated and the liver and kidneys begin to trouble that the trouble begins. Lazy liver and constipated bowels bring on biliousness, indigestion, and sick headaches, making some suffering night's sleep impossible. BANKERS AFTER THE BUSINESS IN MONEY ORDERS

Members of American Association Will Compete for $750,000,000 Business Done by Government

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 6.—Twenty-six thousand bankers of the United States, members of the American Bankers Association, will go into the money order business in the near future and bid for the $750,000,000 of business that the government now handles annually.

Twenty-six thousand letters, advising bankers of the new money order plan, copies of an original drafted in New York by Joseph T. Talbert, vice-president of the National City Bank, New York; E. D. Durland, of Chicago, Ill.; and Joseph Chapman, Jr., of Minneapolis, are being mailed from New York detailing the plan.

At next convention of the Bankers' Association the subject was discussed and the money order committee came into existence with power to act for the association.

Mr. Chapman, chairman of the committee, who has returned from New York says the committee has completed plans for both foreign and domestic orders.

TAKE ACTION TO PROVIDE PLAYGROUNDS

Important Move Made at Public Meeting Yesterday Afternoon

MAYOR IN THE CHAIR

Resolution Asks Council to Arrange for Large General Playground and School Board to Take up Carrying Out of Project at City Schools

The meeting called by Mayor Frink yesterday afternoon to discuss playgrounds adopted resolutions asking the city council to provide a large general playground fully equipped, and asking the school board to take over the conduct of supervised playgrounds on the school grounds.

While the meeting was not large, there were influential citizens present and the feeling was unanimous. There was a large delegation of ladies.

Mayor Frink told of the action that had been taken leading up to the adoption by the city council of the principle of municipal playgrounds. He expressed his strong sympathy with the movement for playgrounds, and observed that it was not necessary to argue the case, for the value of playgrounds had been demonstrated.

He hoped the meeting would have practical results. There was a large area available for a general playground, thanks to the generosity of Joseph Allison. In putting it into connection he felt that the boys of the city could be relied on to give assistance.

Hearty Endorsement. R. B. Emerson, chairman of the school board, declared his sympathy with the movement. Personally, he had long felt the need of playgrounds for the children. The board had been hampered by financial considerations, for they spent a great deal of money on the schools, but he would be glad to see provision made for playgrounds had been concluded. There is, however, in accordance with the usual rule, a final duty for all outgoing governments to leave behind them a better state than they found.

George Ritchie made a most impressive plea for playgrounds, and told of the excellent results produced by the supervised playgrounds of the last few years. He dwelt upon the need of playgrounds for the children of the poor, and pointed out that boys often get into trouble through exercising a right and natural faculty, simply because they have only the street for a playground. An ounce of prevention is better than a pound of cure. The city should provide playgrounds, and if this were done there would be fewer children in mischief. He heartily endorsed the present movement, and suggested a joint committee to take the matter upon the city council and school board. Seven years ago he had urged that the grounds at Rockwood Park entrance be converted into a playground.

Resolution Adopted. A. M. Belding said there were two things to be considered, small playgrounds for the small children and a large general playground having facilities for outdoor games, and the equipment necessary for sports and athletic exercises, such as are now provided in so many cities.

Further resolved: That the city council be requested to have comprehensive plans prepared for the larger playground, and to place in the estimates a substantial sum to be expended in preliminary work; and that the board of school trustees be requested to make provision for supervised playgrounds at as many as possible of the city schools.

Further resolved: That a joint committee of five members of the city council and two members of the school board, be recommended to deal with the question preparatory to an appeal to the city council and board of school trustees.

Rev. H. A. Cody, in seconding the resolution, said that Rockway Beach and the land below the exhibition grounds could at small expense be converted into a good playground for little children. He saw no reason why some use could not be made of the Barrack Square for the larger boys. The Weldon lot had been taken for a school building and the South End had no playground. He had been very deeply interested in this question, and most heartily seconded the resolution.

Ex-Mayor Bullock said the time had come for action. Not only should a large playground be equipped, but the school board should conduct supervised playgrounds. He had personally been much interested in this matter, and had had a plan of a playground prepared which would be at the service of the city council.

W. C. Cross spoke on behalf of the Y. M. C. A., and had with him Messrs. Robb, Pitley and Bandlow. He pointed out that the two last named had much practical experience in playground work in other cities. Mr. Bandlow in Winnipeg, Cleveland, Springfield and Norwich. The Y. M. C. A. would back the movement. They did not take a boy till he was 13, but if he came from good schools and properly conducted playground he was a better boy than if he came from the street. The association realized the value of this movement and would render all the assistance possible.

Miss Mabel Peters told of the inception of the work by the Women's Council and entered a plea for the use of school houses and school grounds in the evenings as recreation centres. She told that had been done in other Canadian cities, and in Detroit.

DR. A. W. CHASE'S CATARRH POWDER. Improved powder, for the relief of Catarrh of the Bladder, Hay Fever, Croup, Whooping Cough, and all other ailments of the Throat, Lungs, and Bronchial Tubes.

troit, and dwell upon the benefits derived from properly equipped and supervised playgrounds. Miss Peters endorsed the remarks of Judge Ritchie, and made a special plea for playgrounds for the small children.

County Secretary to Lend Aid. J. King Kelley, county secretary, heartily endorsed the resolution. He recalled the fact that when an alderman he had been able to secure the use of certain streets for coasting, where the children could enjoy themselves in winter without committing a crime. Mr. Kelley referred to the fact that though we are beside the water very few of the boys learn to swim, and he would be glad to see the Y. M. C. A. open its baths to all the boys.

A. W. Robb, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., said that the younger boys of the city were given the use of their baths three afternoons a week during the summer and over 100 boys had taken advantage of the offer.

The committee selected from the meeting to lay the resolution before the city council were: Walter C. Allison, Rev. H. A. Cody, L. Bandlow, Miss Mabel Peters and Dr. Margaret Parks.

Mayor Frink was heartily congratulated by several of the speakers for taking the initiative in this matter, and ex-Mayor Bullock was also complimented on the interest he had shown, while mayor and since, in the welfare of the children. Miss Peters referred to the large delegation present from the Women's Council, and it was as their representative that Dr. Margaret Parks was named on the joint committee.

Mayor Frink expressed the hope that the committee would be in earnest, get a clear statement to present to the city council, and make every effort to promote the playground movement.

CONVERSION OF CONAN DOYLE TO HOME RULE

Success in South Africa Has Been Factor in Changing His Mind—He Writes His Views

Dublin, Oct. 6.—Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, twice a Unionist candidate for parliament, was asked by the "Bell" Evening Telegraph to send a message to be read at a final day for all matters of the home rule, saying:

"I have twice contested parliamentary seats as a Unionist, but on each occasion I very carefully defined my own position as regards home rule. That position was never broken away from the moment that home rule would only be safe with an altered economic condition and a gentler temper among the people, and, above all, after the local representative institutions already given had been adequately tested. It seems to me that these conditions have now been fairly well complied with."

So far as being law-abiding citizens goes, England, which is just recovering from a period of absolute anarchy, is not in a position to believe that the men of the north remained perfectly quiet during the same time. There are other more general considerations which have, as it seems to me, profoundly altered the whole Irish question. One is the apparently complete absence of home rule in South Africa. This has had a great influence upon my mind for the anomalies in Ireland are typical of the anomalies in the rest of the world which existed only ten years ago.

A second is our assurance that Ireland need not be a burden to the rest of the empire. A second is our assurance that Ireland need not be a burden to the rest of the empire. A second is our assurance that Ireland need not be a burden to the rest of the empire.

It is admitted that the private secretary to which the government wishes to appoint its chairman of the civil service commission seems to be insisting on the letter of the law. Prof. Shortt was in attendance at the council meeting tonight, and the matter was threshed out with him. The result of the conference is not known, but it is believed that no objection will be raised by Mr. Borden to a similar course being followed in the present instance. But apparently the cabinet is in the way according to the view of Prof. Shortt.

LOCAL OPTION RALLY

Meeting in Randolph Addressed by Rev. Mr. Beyer and Rev. Mr. Robinson

The first of the temperance rally meetings of which it is intended to hold a series, in connection with the local option campaign now being conducted in Fair-play, took place last night at the Randolph school house. The meeting commenced at 8 o'clock with Alexander Donnell in the chair, and the first speaker to address the meeting was Rev. Henry R. Beyer, of the Fairville Baptist church. He discussed the question Why Liquor is Opposed to Local Option, and took up the statement that liquor selling is either right or wrong, in connection with which he said "If a man opposes local option and that man is a manufacturer of liquor, is it for a purely philanthropic purpose?" The speaker went on to say that other business men do not desire to have saloons near their places of business, and in many ways pointed out the evils of liquor saloons.

The second speaker was Rev. W. H. Robinson, who also talked at some length on what he said were the undesirable features of the saloons. He was willing, he said, to meet any man on any public place in the parish of Lancaster to discuss the liquor question. He then discussed the argument that local option would increase taxation and made the statement that the liquor interest is not a business, but a licensed traffic, and that this licensed traffic increased taxation.

After his speech, thanks to the speakers was moved by Frank Baker and seconded by George Donaldson, and the meeting adjourned.

The Democratic state convention meeting in Boston yesterday called for a revision of the tariff and favored reciprocity with other nations. Gov. Eugene N. Ross heads the ticket with Thurl H. White of Pittsburg for lieutenant governor.

CHURCH UNION IS DISCUSSED

Proceedings of the Ecumenical Congress—Five Minute Speeches of Force and Eloquence

(By Rev. A. C. Crews, D. D.) Toronto, Oct. 5.—The outstanding feature of today's session of the ecumenical conference was the interest aroused on the subject of Christian union, particularly relating to the proposed organic union of the three denominations of Canada.

The live debate since the synod opened developed out of an overture to the general assembly, moved by Rev. W. H. Fitchett, Methodist minister and author of Melbourne, Australia, one of the delegates to the ecumenical conference now being held in Toronto.

Rev. Dr. Howard Sprague, of New Brunswick, introduced the question, and it was taken up with Allan Pinkerton himself, Mr. Doughtery, the New York superintendent during the time the Russell troupe was in Montreal, but no deputy commissioner of police at New York, and Mr. MacNamara, the Montreal superintendent. Most of the evidence consisted in straight denial of the charges of conspiracy, although there was a lot of interest aroused by the long examination of Mr. Doughtery. His language was couched in Boverly accents and enlivened with a good deal of pepper slang. He proved a peppery witness, and his temper got on edge under a sharp cross-examination by Mr. McLaughlin. The rapid exchanges between the two furnishing amusement for the big audience which all day crowded the court room.

After he concluded, other speakers rushed eagerly into the debate, several being taken up with the synod acting on the floor. Others wanted the whole question referred to a committee. Rev. J. P. Carleton, of Montreal, said: "The air is electrical with suspicion. The press today accuses ministers of involvement in not only a fundamental standard. A broad common ground should be reached that no man should suspect the other of incompetent attitude."

Other speakers were Rev. T. F. Fuller, of Toronto; Rev. H. A. Kent, of Toronto; Rev. J. F. Dastan, Halifax; Rev. G. A. Sutherland and Principal Forster. The last speaker declared there was no ground for alarm that the church was not loyal to the truth, or that its ministers were drifting into unbelief. After further discussion by Rev. Anderson Rogers, Rev. Dr. Selzwick, who eloquently defended standing by the old standards, and Rev. John McLeod, White Pine (C. B.), a vote was reached on Mr. Baird's overture tonight. His motion also amendments by Rev. A. Rogers and Rev. G. A. Sutherland, were defeated. The synod adopting an amendment of Rev. T. F. Fuller that Mr. Baird's overture be on the table, and the synod direct the assembly to take up the whole of the teachings of standards, and induction were carefully considered in order to preserve the peace and purity of the church.

A number of members recorded their dissent against the motion. The Rev. Messrs. Fuller and Rogers were appointed to lay the overture before the assembly.

Rev. J. W. A. Nicholson reported on systematic giving. The amount estimated for next year is $303,440 from 29,233 families.

The report on young people's societies showed 101 societies, a membership of 5,000, and receipts of $8,000.

Rev. Dr. Sprague moved a resolution denouncing the No Tenure decree on various grounds, for instance, that it declares municipal officers and employees, by a priest; that it is contrary to public policy and is the enemy of domestic peace and social welfare. The synod calls upon the people to resist the decree and legislators to render it inoperative by law.

The synod appointed a committee from each province to cooperate with other Protestants everywhere to give effect to the sentiment of the resolution by presenting to parliament their united convictions concerning the rights of common citizenship.

DISCUSS STIPEND OF MINISTERS

Minimum of $900 is Figure Fixed at Synod in Charlottetown—An Interesting Session

Charlottetown, P. E. I., Oct. 5.—At this afternoon's session of the synod, Rev. H. R. Grant, the whittling temperance worker, spoke vigorously on his favorite subject. He said more education in total abstinence principles is needed among the people, as the brewers are conducting an active propaganda to convey the false impression that the use of beer and wine promotes sobriety. He declared prohibition the greatest remedy for the intemperance evils which he scored. He asked what he termed the lax enforcement of the Nova Scotia temperance law.

Rev. D. Fraser, Canadian; Rev. D. S. Fraser, Musquodoboit, and Lieut. Governor Rogers also spoke.

MOTOR CAR TO OPERATE ON SEA BOTTOM

Englishman Invents a Novel Contrivance for Use in Salvage Operations

NEW DEADLY WEAPON FOR USE IN WAR OR ON SPORTING FIELD

Swede Invents Automatic Rifle Which May Do Away With Machine Guns in Battle

London, Oct. 6.—A Swede named Svenson says he has invented a new automatic rifle which may do away with machine guns on the field of battle, while the ordinary infantry soldier, armed with the weapon would become much more formidable than he is with his present equipment.

The new invention has been applied not only to rifles, but to fowling pieces and other weapons. As regards rifles, Mr. Svenson has invented two kinds of appliances, one of which can be used as an ordinary rifle and another as a machine gun. He says that his weapon can be used without the necessity of both functions with its weight in any way being increased. It can be loaded either at the breech or under the nose by inserting the cartridge magazine.

A company of infantry, equipped with the new rifle and forming a front of fifty men, can fire, he said, seventy shots a second, or if fitted with a larger magazine 250 to 300 shots in three seconds. A battery of machine guns, consisting of four pieces served by sixteen men with 15 feet long by 6 feet in diameter, fitted with wheels which will enable them to be driven along the floor of the sea, and a propeller which will drive it through the water. It has glazed port-holes that will enable the men inside to see in every direction, and a double bottom, which, when the crew wish to sink the vessel they can fill with sea water by means of a hand pump. Two air tubes are attached through one of them fresh air can be pumped by the salvage vessel above, and the air can be drawn up through it.

But the strangest feature of the car is several steel rods with ends shaped something like human hands, which project in various directions. These, by ingenious contrivance, are worked from within the barrel, so that they can be turned at various angles and pick up anything from the bottom of the sea. Other rods are fitted with drills designed to be through rock or armor.

The vessel is contrived so that once it reaches the bottom it can, if the ground is level, travel on its wheels, the electric motor power being transmitted from ship above by a cable. If any considerable obstruction is met the crew can lighten it, so that it floats above it and the vessel is propelled going. If it is desired to lift anything, the rods with handlike terminals can grasp an object or attach grapples to it. If the iron or wood sides of a sunken vessel cannot be broken the rods with drills will bore holes in them and the other rods insert explosives which can afterwards be fired from a distance by electricity. Another feature of the invention is an air-lock, through which, if necessary, a diver equipped with the ordinary dress can step out on to a wreck.

ON THE STAND Deny Any Conspiracy Against David Russell—Detective Doughtery's Evidence

Montreal, Oct. 5.—It was "Pinkerton day" in the Russell case, a whole session being taken up with Allan Pinkerton himself, Mr. Doughtery, the New York superintendent during the time the Russell troupe was in Montreal, but no deputy commissioner of police at New York, and Mr. MacNamara, the Montreal superintendent. Most of the evidence consisted in straight denial of the charges of conspiracy, although there was a lot of interest aroused by the long examination of Mr. Doughtery. Rev. Dr. Sprague moved a resolution denouncing the No Tenure decree on various grounds, for instance, that it declares municipal officers and employees, by a priest; that it is contrary to public policy and is the enemy of domestic peace and social welfare. The synod calls upon the people to resist the decree and legislators to render it inoperative by law.

The synod appointed a committee from each province to cooperate with other Protestants everywhere to give effect to the sentiment of the resolution by presenting to parliament their united convictions concerning the rights of common citizenship.

Swede Invents Automatic Rifle Which May Do Away With Machine Guns in Battle

London, Oct. 6.—A Swede named Svenson says he has invented a new automatic rifle which may do away with machine guns on the field of battle, while the ordinary infantry soldier, armed with the weapon would become much more formidable than he is with his present equipment.

The new invention has been applied not only to rifles, but to fowling pieces and other weapons. As regards rifles, Mr. Svenson has invented two kinds of appliances, one of which can be used as an ordinary rifle and another as a machine gun. He says that his weapon can be used without the necessity of both functions with its weight in any way being increased. It can be loaded either at the breech or under the nose by inserting the cartridge magazine.

A company of infantry, equipped with the new rifle and forming a front of fifty men, can fire, he said, seventy shots a second, or if fitted with a larger magazine 250 to 300 shots in three seconds. A battery of machine guns, consisting of four pieces served by sixteen men with 15 feet long by 6 feet in diameter, fitted with wheels which will enable them to be driven along the floor of the sea, and a propeller which will drive it through the water. It has glazed port-holes that will enable the men inside to see in every direction, and a double bottom, which, when the crew wish to sink the vessel they can fill with sea water by means of a hand pump. Two air tubes are attached through one of them fresh air can be pumped by the salvage vessel above, and the air can be drawn up through it.

But the strangest feature of the car is several steel rods with ends shaped something like human hands, which project in various directions. These, by ingenious contrivance, are worked from within the barrel, so that they can be turned at various angles and pick up anything from the bottom of the sea. Other rods are fitted with drills designed to be through rock or armor.

The vessel is contrived so that once it reaches the bottom it can, if the ground is level, travel on its wheels, the electric motor power being transmitted from ship above by a cable. If any considerable obstruction is met the crew can lighten it, so that it floats above it and the vessel is propelled going. If it is desired to lift anything, the rods with handlike terminals can grasp an object or attach grapples to it. If the iron or wood sides of a sunken vessel cannot be broken the rods with drills will bore holes in them and the other rods insert explosives which can afterwards be fired from a distance by electricity. Another feature of the invention is an air-lock, through which, if necessary, a diver equipped with the ordinary dress can step out on to a wreck.

ON THE STAND Deny Any Conspiracy Against David Russell—Detective Doughtery's Evidence

Montreal, Oct. 5.—It was "Pinkerton day" in the Russell case, a whole session being taken up with Allan Pinkerton himself, Mr. Doughtery, the New York superintendent during the time the Russell troupe was in Montreal, but no deputy commissioner of police at New York, and Mr. MacNamara, the Montreal superintendent. Most of the evidence consisted in straight denial of the charges of conspiracy, although there was a lot of interest aroused by the long examination of Mr. Doughtery. His language was couched in Boverly accents and enlivened with a good deal of pepper slang. He proved a peppery witness, and his temper got on edge under a sharp cross-examination by Mr. McLaughlin. The rapid exchanges between the two furnishing amusement for the big audience which all day crowded the court room.

After he concluded, other speakers rushed eagerly into the debate, several being taken up with the synod acting on the floor. Others wanted the whole question referred to a committee. Rev. J. P. Carleton, of Montreal, said: "The air is electrical with suspicion. The press today accuses ministers of involvement in not only a fundamental standard. A broad common ground should be reached that no man should suspect the other of incompetent attitude."

Other speakers were Rev. T. F. Fuller, of Toronto; Rev. H. A. Kent, of Toronto; Rev. J. F. Dastan, Halifax; Rev. G. A. Sutherland and Principal Forster. The last speaker declared there was no ground for alarm that the church was not loyal to the truth, or that its ministers were drifting into unbelief. After further discussion by Rev. Anderson Rogers, Rev. Dr. Selzwick, who eloquently defended standing by the old standards, and Rev. John McLeod, White Pine (C. B.), a vote was reached on Mr. Baird's overture tonight. His motion also amendments by Rev. A. Rogers and Rev. G. A. Sutherland, were defeated. The synod adopting an amendment of Rev. T. F. Fuller that Mr. Baird's overture be on the table, and the synod direct the assembly to take up the whole of the teachings of standards, and induction were carefully considered in order to preserve the peace and purity of the church.

A number of members recorded their dissent against the motion. The Rev. Messrs. Fuller and Rogers were appointed to lay the overture before the assembly.

Rev. J. W. A. Nicholson reported on systematic giving. The amount estimated for next year is $303,440 from 29,233 families.

The report on young people's societies showed 101 societies, a membership of 5,000, and receipts of $8,000.

Rev. Dr. Sprague moved a resolution denouncing the No Tenure decree on various grounds, for instance, that it declares municipal officers and employees, by a priest; that it is contrary to public policy and is the enemy of domestic peace and social welfare. The World Series. No past series in history will draw forth such crowds nor hold such close attention as that between McGraw's Giants and Knickerbocker's Athletics.

Comparing these two clubs, player for player, is getting to be a general pastime. Argument and rebuttal, discussion and or- ery, are ranging back and forth. There are three departments to be considered in this summing up—the two outfielders—the two infielders and the two batteries.

Starting with the two infielders it must be conceded that the Athletic quartette ranks the greatest combination in either circuit. The first strong impression is that McGraw's infield has a big shade on Mc- Graw's and yet when one stops to size up a two department, man against man, there is no noticeable difference.

Between Merkle and Melnes the edge may be close but the Giant's infield have the call from the standpoint of worth. Merkle has been through the fire and Mel- nes is yet to be tested under a heavy rain such as the big series will be. Both ranking first basemen, but in the close stage of the National league fight, Mer- kes has given one of the greatest exhibi- tions ever witnessed upon the field.

Merkle is taller than Melnes, has a wider range and is every whit as fast. Melnes has more than made good, but he has not reached Merkle's class. Larry Doyle is a hard hitting, quick thinking and consistent second baseman. There can be no argument here. Doyle has no rival. He is a second base- man who will be watched closer by McGraw's manager than any other ball player under Mc- Graw's banner.

Baker at short has the edge over Fletch- er in experience. Both are fast, reliable infielders. Fletcher has one of the greatest pair of hands in baseball and is a coming star. He is probably a better hitter than Barry but has not yet attained the Phil- adelphian's stardom.

Baker and Herzog at third are both fast men, both good hitters and are dependable. Baker is the longer, harder hitter and one of the most dangerous batsmen in the game in a pinch. Herzog has shifted from the third to third and back and therefore it is not so well set in the job as Baker is.

As infielders the Athletics' quartette must be given the edge upon past perform- ance, although the margin is slight. Mer- kes is fast in defensive play and a tripe- stealer. By this margin they win the copy- paper argument.

"Cy" Young Picks Giants. Whenever "Cy" Young the grand old man of baseball, sees fit to air his views on anything pertaining to baseball all are ready to listen, for there is no one who knows more about the game than Young. In speaking about the Athletics' quartette he will be played between the Giants and Athletics. "Cy" said that he figured the Giants to win the premier title. He says there is no question about the Giants be- ing the greatest base stealing team, and that they will offset the hitting ability of the Ath- letics, who may not hit so hard against one of the New York pitchers.

Diamond Sparkles. The Giants won the year's series with Pittsburg by 26 games to 22. The Giants have added a new pitcher to their staff. He is named Tom Denny, of the Texas league. It will be interesting to see how many times the Giants steal on the Athletics' pitchers. There is a big difference in opin- ion on this subject.

The Ring. Langford Inherited Fighting Qualities. Capt. Godett, a retired sea captain, living in Brooklyn, has some interesting stories to tell about Sam Langford's fam- ily. It seems from the captain's tales, that Sam came by his fighting qualities in his usual way; he inherited them.

"Sam's father and his uncle Bill," says the captain, "dipped with me from port in Newfoundland and sailed with me for years. Sam's father was a terrible fighter. He never lost in a rough and tumble. He was broad shouldered and had long arms and a thin waist and light hips and legs. His name was Bob Langford. He was one of the most honest men I ever knew, black or white. After he had sailed with me for a time I made him my first mate. He was a good sailor. Bob was good natural and even tempered, but once in a while he cleaned up every body in sight.

"He was about five feet ten one-half inches tall and weighed 185 pounds. His brother Bill was over six feet tall and weighed 220 pounds. He was a fighter, too. He was the strongest man I ever saw, and the most symmetrical built. He was like an old Greek bronze statue, everything in fine proportion. He could do things that no other man could touch at all. For instance, when we were load- ing he used to stand flat-footed on a deck, turn and pick up a big barrel of beer, give it a swing and toss it no to the wharf above his head. He used to take pride in feats of strength. I knew Sam's mother, too. She was broad-shouldered and short and stocky. I guess Sam inherited his build from her, but he seems to have his father's style of fight- ing."

Gave Nelson Betting. "Young" Saylor of Indianapolis gave "Buddy" Nelson the former fighter's champion a bad beating in 12 rounds of interesting boxing at the Armory Athletic Association at Boston, Tuesday night. Nelson met a man who was superior to him- self at his own game of in-fighting and a far better boxer.

In the first three rounds the men were in a constant clash with Nelson working his body punches to good effect. Saylor was equally effective and had in addition a peculiar long arm swing with which he delivered a kidney blow and a stomach punch in quick succession. After the third

MISS DOROTHY CAMPBELL TO DEFEND TITLE

It is reported that Miss Dorothy Camp- bell of Hamilton, Ont., champion woman golfer of the United States and Great Britain, will be an entrant in the women's amateur championship of the United States to be played at Baltusore G. C. the week of October 9-14.

Miss Campbell has written to friends in Boston that she intends to defend her title. The only setback that Miss Campbell has experienced as one of the greatest women players in the history of golf, has met with during her several visits to the United States was right here in Boston, where she played in the women's tournament at the Country club, Brookline. In this event she was defeated by Miss Curtis in the semi-final, and one of the sisters Curtis, both former champions, was the winner of the championship last year, so formidable was the entry.

Miss Dorothy Campbell, who won the British women's golf championship at Portrush in 1909, has captured more titles than any other woman in the history of the sport. Playing as a representative of the Hamilton Golf club of Hamilton, she fought her way through one of the most repre- sentative fields that ever contested for the British title, defeated two title holders and came through with flying colors. Her driving which is an essential feature of her marvellous game, was very poor until the day the championship opened. Then it came back. In not one of her matches did her opponents force her hand.

Miss Campbell in 1909 played the Merion Cricket club, Philadelphia. Her play throughout was a fine exhibition and it culminated in her defeat of Mrs. Ronald Barlow in the final. She won the British title for the first time in 1909 and the same year was runner-up in 1908 and a semi-finalist in 1904, 1905 and 1906. In addition, she won the Scotch title in 1905, 1906 and 1908, and was runner-up in 1907. Last year she added another title, winning the Canadian championship.

In successfully defending her American title last year she played for Hamilton, Canada. For years she represented the North Berwick Club of Scotland, and in the Scotch championship will represent her home club, as the event is closed to Scotch players.

During the women's championships at the Homewood Country Club, Chicago, the wonderful player not only led in the qual- ifying round, but in her second match won the course in 78, a mark that was accepted by the critics in attendance as the most wonderful golf ever displayed by a woman player in the country.

There are women players who can get greater distance from the tee than does Miss Campbell, but they are not always on the line of play as is the champion and with the iron clubs Miss Campbell plays as skillfully as any leading male golfer of the country. She very rarely takes a full shot, however, with the driver or the iron club, but as has been stated she is always in the line, this being the principal tri- bute that makes her the champion woman golfer of the world.

The fact that Miss Campbell has entered, along with Miss Florence Harvey, runner-up to Miss Campbell in the recent Can- adian tournament, to say nothing of Miss Lillian H. Hyde of the South Shore Field Club, of the metropolitan area, and Mrs. R. H. Barlow, the Merion player, who enjoys a similar distinction in the women's Eastern Golf Association, insures a high class field.

The first pair will tee up at 10 o'clock on Monday morning, and thereafter the couples will leave at five minute intervals. Miss Campbell and Miss Georgianna M. Bishop of Brooklyn, a former national and metropolitan champion will be the third pair away.

Mrs. Mary Sanders of Gibsonburg, O., has a can of gooseberries which she pre- served 20 years ago and it is said they are still in excellent condition.

The reply was a guarantee of $5,000 with a privilege of 40 per cent of the gate receipts.

MATT WELLS KNOCKS OUT BILLY DONOVAN

Toronto, Ont., Oct. 6.—In a bout sched- uled to go ten rounds at the Lyric The- atre last night, Matt Wells, the English champion, in the fifth round, knocked out Billy Donovan of Passaic, N. J.

The letter is a tall rangy fellow, but no match for the Englishman, Wells just playing with him for four rounds, while the Irish he slipped over the right with a short corker twist for the laymaker. Donovan took the count, although the blow did not look a hard one.

Cochran's entry, was thrown at the first jump and lay unconscious on the track while the maddened horse dashed among a crowd of spectators. Mrs. Susan Sul- livan was trampled upon and rendered un- conscious, while Mrs. W. W. Hoppe and Mrs. Frances Bayton of Ashbourne, Pa., were knocked down.

Mrs. Sullivan and Roberts were re- moved to a hospital and were still un- conscious at a late hour tonight. Physi- cians there say the woman will probably recover but that the jockey is probably fatally injured.
