OUR OWN ADVERTISEMENT.

The Woodstock Journal is a large eight-page weekly, devoted to the advancement of the industrial, commercial, and moral interests of New Brunswick.
 The primary objects at which it aims in the present circumstances of our Province are:—

1. The promotion of immigration, and the settlement of the wild lands.
2. The opening of the country, and the facilitation of intercourse, by the improvement of the means of intercommunication.
3. An increase in the Representation in the House of Assembly.
4. A system of Free Education for all,—schools of all grades, from the Parish school to the Provincial University, being open to all without money and without price, to be supported by Direct Taxation.

While the Journal labors for these primary objects it does not neglect many others. It labors to introduce in the areas of politics a generous, sound and manly tone of discussion—to promote sympathy, good feeling and harmony among all classes, creeds, conditions and parties—to establish a system of frank yet genial criticism of men and their words and deeds—to encourage freedom of thought and speech—to develop in our people a sentiment of manly self reliance—and to inculcate the doctrines of the New Philosophy.

The Woodstock Journal is published every Thursday morning at Woodstock, N. B., for Wm Edgar, Proprietor

TO READERS.

NOW that the reading season has come the proprietor of the
JOURNAL READING ROOM calls attention to the opportunity which that Room affords all who desire to keep themselves posted up in the news of the day, or have an hour or two a day to devote to reading. The Room is furnished with all the New Brunswick papers, with a number from Nova Scotia, with leading papers, with a number from Montreal, Toronto, and other Canadian papers, and with a selection of the best United States papers, including the New York Daily Tribune, the New York Times, the Spirit of the Times, and Albion. Recently there have been added to the list of files the Illustrated London News, Willimer's and Smith's European Times (Liverpool), and the London Punch. Other newspapers and magazines will be added as the increase to the subscription list renders it justifiable. Now is a good time to subscribe, as a quarter commenced with Sept. 27th. Terms, one dollar a quarter.
 Woodstock, Oct. 11th, 1860.

Literature.

THE PHANTOM.

Again I sit within the mansion, In the old familiar seat;
 And shade and sunshine chase each other, O'er the carpet at my feet.

But the sweetbrier's arms have wrestled upwards In the summers that are past, And the willow trails its branches lower Than when I saw them last.

They strive to shut the sunshine wholly From out the haunted room;
 To fill the house, that once was joyful, With silence and with gloom.

And many kind remembered faces Within the doorway come—Voices that wake the sweeter music Of one that now is dumb.

They sing, in tones as glad as ever,
 The songs she loved to hear;
 They braid the rose in summer garlands, Whose flowers to her were dear.

And still her footsteps in the passage,
 Her blushes at the door,
 Her timid words of maiden welcome, Come back to me once more.

And, all forgetful of my sorrow, Unmindful of my pain,
 I think she has but newly left me,
 And soon will come again.

She stays without perhaps a moment,
 To dress her dark brown hair;
 I hear the rustle of her garments—Her light step on the stair.

O fluttering heart! control thy tumult, Lest eyes profane should see My cheeks betray the rush of rapture Her coming brings to me!

She tarries long; but lo! a whisper Beyond the open door,
 And gliding through the quiet sunshine A shadow on the floor.

Ah! 'tis the whispering pine that calls me,
 The vine whose shadow strays;
 And my patient heart must still await her, Nor chide her long delays.

But my heart grows sick with weary waiting,
 As many a time before:
 Her foot is ever at the threshold, Yet never passes o'er.

—Bayard Taylor.

HUNTING AND FIGHTING.

BY ZIG-ZAG.

England is a good deal envied more than admired by our friends over the water, whether of Gallic or Teutonic or Anglo-Saxon race. Nothing less than a visit from the Prince of Wales could induce our American cousins to abandon the flash tailoring of Paris—the velvet and satin operatic style for the rougher, looser, quieter fashions of London. Frenchmen declare that our women, although lovely in form, features and complexion, have neither grace, nor taste, nor heart, and the genuine opinion of the Germans was expressed by the refugee professor, who described us as "giant-ants in politics, savages in cookery and children in religion." But there is one of the utilities and luxuries combined, of England—one of the occupations and amusements—which foreigners of all ranks, of every opinion and country agree in regarding with amazement and admiration—our horses, our horsemen, and our horsewomen: our horses in speed, beauty, and strength unmatched —our riders (of both sexes) unequalled in numbers and daring in any country where horsemanship is not the business of life.

Of the thorough-bred—the "fountain" and source" of improvement of every other variety of the horse tribe—this country has the monopoly.
 Of horsemen and horsewomen no civilized country has so many in proportion to its population.
 The backwoodsman and prairie traveller of the American, no longer the "United States" rider, but as a matter of business, tremendous distances; but the young men of fortune, dwelling in cities, and surrounding themselves with every European luxury that money can buy, prefer driving one of these famous living trotting machines, to any form of idle horsemanship. On the great plains of Southern America the people are true Centaurs, carried by a boy nurse on the saddle pommel before they are weaned, and riding before they can walk; but there, that is the established, only possible mode of locomotion, just as on the sandy landes of France, the natives consider a pair of stilts as essential as a pair of shoes for visiting a neighbor: or as on the Chinese rivers, babies learn to swim secured with a short line and a hollow gourd to the stern of the maternal duck boat. On the continent of Europe, excepting in horse-loving Hungary, riding is, if not a matter of business, as much a matter of state and display as a costume quadrille or an exhibition of the Skating Club.

It is the universality of the passion and the practice in England that astonishes foreigners—the way in which the taste extends from mere children to aged judges and solemn bishops; from the highest aristocracy, who from choice pass more hours on horse-back than horse soldiers, to butchers' boys, small tradesmen, commercial travellers, thriving publicans, country barones, fashionable physicians, leading barristers, and the daughters and wives of every class that can afford a horse, a habit and a leisure hour for an evening canter.

For my own part, having sounded the depths of continental tastes, and seen and ridden, as a spectator, with armies to be numbered in tens of thousands, I do not care to take an intelligent and nationally-zealous foreigner to a Hyde Park inspection, an Aldershot or any review, unless it be of Volunteers. Numbers are wanting in England, to produce an effect on the mind of a critic accustomed to see twenty, or thirty thousand regular troops, of all arms, reviewed twenty times a year.
 The guard-mounting at St. Petersburg brings out more men every morning than one of our Royal birthday parades. No! I take him to Brighton, and show him Paterfamilias and his brood on ponyback, and the tagrag-and-bobtail that crowd the parade and dot the Downs at half-a-crown an hour, and the stream that daily, in season, dashes down the steep valleys, after the Brookside beauties and the Brighton Scratchpaek.
 The average quality of Brightonian horses and horseriders is not very grand; but the quantity and the fire and the universal enthusiasm make up for the screws and the tailors; the foreigner feels that such a collection could only belong to a nation of centaurs.

Then, in the full height of the season, I take him to Hyde Park, at three times of the day—early in the morning; at mid-day when the dandies pant under the trees; and in the afternoon, when all the world and his wife alternate between listening to the band and pacing or cantering or trotting up and down that modern fops' alley—Rotten-row! the flow of exercise, of display, of gossip, of flirtation; where political combinations are commenced and financial operations concluded. And then I tell him, "These are not all mildreds and mildadis," or even millionaires.— There, to be sure, is Baron Bullion on his pacing cob, and Viscount Featherstone on the son of a Derby winner, trotting ten miles an hour to a Cabinet council; and all halts are off to His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, and dukes' daughters dash past, chattering like happy birds; but there is also Grigg, the stockbroker, and Tom Anvils, an engineer in first class practice, who worked at the bench at thirty shillings a week a dozen years ago, and now gives £200 for something handsome and steady; and there's the Lara of the Thunderer, on his thorough-bred, looking as much disgusted with human nature as if he had been born to ten thousand a year; and close following Mr. Timothy O'Regan, "our own correspondent," who has made a hit in his letters from the Fejee Islands, and is practising on a bit of blood, the art he learned twenty years ago, following the Bally-Mullingar hounds on a bare-backed colt with a halter. And there's Mr.
 Smiler, the fashionable dentist; and Zawkie, Q.
 C., the light weight, and Bolker, Q.C., the heavy weight, beloved of juries, and feared by witnesses on the wrong-side. There's the Bishop of Smooth-leigh, great in the saddle as in the pulpit, a match for horse-dealers, though not a match for hunting parsons; and there Mr. Stearine, the great Regent-street wax-chandler, in close confabulation with Mr. Saint Buttercup, who combines attor-neyism and horsemanship, not unprofitably; and there the Honorable Frank Fastman condescendingly bowing to Mr. Wool, the schneider, whom young swells consult on more material questions than the build of their coats, or the color of their neckties. In fact, our foreign friend discovers that the difficulty is not to say who is here, but what class, outside the mechanical, is not represented in the equestrian order of Hyde Park.

But if I can have my own way I don't stop in London or in Brighton; I conduct my inquiring stranger to the country, and between the acts, after showing the mines and the factories, and the farms that have grown a small island into a great empire, I put him into a dog-cart, or on a quiet cob, according to the condition of his education, and take him to one of the great meets of the season at Crick or Badminton Park, or set him on a hill over against a sure find in the Har-borough country, let him see first four-hundred through the lawn before the house or hall, where open hospitality commences the day, and then a hundred good men, with perhaps two or three amazons not far from the first flight, go racing up and down the undulating pasture fields, flying brook, rail, and bull-finch, as if they loved danger.

And I find that if my foreign friend knows a horse from a cow, these scenes of active English real horsemanship beat him more than any other display of wealth, or skill, or learning; and if he is, or has been a soldier, he asks, and wonders while he asks, "Why have you not the finest cavalry in the world?"

I think—I had long before suspected it—I found the reason out last season in a single horseman, whom I take now, as Sterne took his single captive, for easy illustration.

It was in the Harborough country, where, like Mr. Sawyer, I had never been before, and fairly mounted for any other country but the Harbor-ough, that I had the luck to find myself well started in what turned out to be a very pretty thing. Where we found, or where we killed, is no matter; that is not my story to-day. But for my mark in a strange country I took a long-legged grey-whiskered gentleman, on a stallion of a rare stamp, who took a locked gate out of a bridleroad in a style, that made me set him down as a combination of experience and pluck; one who could ride—one who knew every inch of the country, and meant to be as near the Talley beauties as he could. It was a sight to see how he

Sat down in his saddle and put his head straight; and making at a bullfinch, wide water-brook on the far side, held his galloping horse to a measured pace until he came within fifty yards, then rushed at it forty miles an hour, with a halloo that 'did your heart good to hear.' It was as much as I could do to keep him in sight, so for twenty minutes I never got a look at his face; then a short check allowed my little nag to get up, and to my astonishment I recognized in my thrusting leader Lieutenant Colonel Lord Sticher of the Royal Mavre Hussars, the pink and model of a cavalry officer of the old school. Often had I watched him reviewing his regiment on Wormwood Scrubs, with a muff like a chimney-pot on his head, his breast padded, his waist pinched in, his faultless jacket and his overalls without a wrinkle; his toes touching, not pressing his stirrup, as he elegantly balanced himself in such a manner to make the least possible use of the parts provided by nature for holding fast to a saddle. A fine man, a fine horseman, on a perfectly broken charger, smoothly bounding in regulated caprioles and curvets, Lord Sticher presented an elegant and even imposing sight, representing as he did very exactly the style in which his ancestor Sir Guy Sticher rode in full armour at tournaments held by Henry VIII., before he took to religious discussion and wife slaughter.

FACTS TO BE REMEMBERED.

To take time by the forelock in everything which relates to gardening, and never omit what ought and can be done to-day, till to-morrow.
 It is hard to catch up in gardening when once behind.

To choose the best seeds to be had, and if possible to obtain them from responsible seedsmen.

Never to buy cheap seeds, because they cost less. They may be the dearest in the end.

To select the best implements, brand them with your name and never let them get rusty.

To stir the soil often during drought to prepare it more readily to receive and retain moisture from the atmosphere, and to prevent the plants from being stunted in growth.

Never to work the ground when it is wet and heavy. It renders it compact and lumpy during the whole season.

To perform everything in the best manner, and to complete one operation before commencing another.

TAKE CARE OF YOUR CATTLE AND MEADOWS.
 —At this season of the year, when the grass is young and tender, do not yield to the temptation to let your sheep and cattle go on your meadows and fields while you are giving them hay and other dry food; all they can get for some time to come will only scour and weaken them, as well as cause them to dislike and spoil their good food.
 Besides this, they will seriously injure the soil by trampling on it while wet. Moreover, they will bite out the very heart of the young plant, and thereby not only keeps back its growth, but materially lessen the quantity of the future crop.

The Woodstock Journal. Thursday, May 9, 1861.

THE NEWS.

The world at the present time is in very great commotion, even those portions which are not actually the scene of war or disturbance giving tokens of agitation which seem to portend that stirring events are in the mould of time.

The news, therefore, of the week and of the day is in great request. Besides these foreign embroilments New Brunswickers have their own little, and to them important, occurrences to attract and occupy their attention.

The election does not seem to create as much excitement as elections have of late years. One reason may be the uncertainty as to the time at which it will take place.

Nothing special from South. martial law has been proclaimed in Washington. Troops are concentrating on both sides Baltimore, probably soon to throw a strong force into that city, an advance is being made towards Harper's Ferry.

ILLUSTRATED SKETCHES OF NEW BRUNSWICK. By E. J. RUSSELL.—Beautifully illuminated with Painted Lithographs, from Drawings and Photographs by the Author.

THE Subscribers would respectfully announce that they have removed to the Store formerly occupied by MRS. CROZIER, in MR. McCOY'S BRICK BUILDING, King Street.

eight thousand dollars voted last session for that purpose would not be wisely applied in sending a number of copies of this work to the mother country, to be distributed there in such a manner as to attract the most attention from those whose attention will be most valuable for the Province.

MORE BOATS.—The Bonnie Doon, repaired and improved, has made her appearance, as has the Gazelle, a new boat from the Penobscot. We have now five boats on this route.

REMOVAL JOURNAL OFFICE.—Journal Printing Office removed to Kelly's new Brick Building, King Street, nearly opposite Blanchard & Co's. Store, and beside W. T. Baird's Drug Store.

RESIGNATION OF DR. HEA.—We learn from Frederickton, that Dr. Hea has resigned the Presidency of the University.

REMOVAL.—Vanwart & Stevenson have removed their store to Mr. McCoy's new Brick Building King Street, nearly opposite Blanchard & Co's.

United States.

BY TELEGRAPH TO JOURNAL READING ROOM.

New York, May 6. Nothing special from South. martial law has been proclaimed in Washington. Troops are concentrating on both sides Baltimore, probably soon to throw a strong force into that city, an advance is being made towards Harper's Ferry.

Boston, May 7. Federal troops continue to concentrate in the vicinity of Baltimore. Unionists in Maryland are strongly gaining ground.

Dispatch from the South says proposed attack on Fort Pickens will soon be abandoned, on pretence that troops are wanted further north.

Boston, May 8. Southern dispatches warlike. Forty thousand Federal troops to be immediately concentrated in Washington. Rebels have a force of twenty-five thousand in Virginia, including regiments from Louisiana, Arkansas, Alabama and Tennessee.

Northern States are tendering immense forces to Government. War Department has offers of two hundred and fifty thousand from States west of the Alleghany Mountains. Troops are now volunteering for three years, or during the war.

The Woodstock Journal is a large eight-page devoted to the advancement of the industrial, civil and moral interests of New Brunswick. The primary objects at which it aims in its circulation are: 1. The promotion of immigration, and the wild lands. 2. The opening of the country, and the improvement of the means of communication. 3. An increase in the Representation in the Assembly. 4. A system of Free Education for all, from the Parish school to the University, being open to all without money and without favor, and being supported by Direct Taxation. While the Journal labors for these primary objects not neglecting any other. It labors to the areas of politics to a generous sound and of discussion—to promote sympathy, good harmony among all classes, creeds, conditions—to establish a system of frank yet generous men and their words and deeds—to extend the area of thought and speech—to develop in the sentiment of manly self reliance—and to the doctrines of the New Philosophy. The Woodstock Journal is published every morning at Woodstock, N. B., for Wm Edg...
