FROM ALL OVER THE MARITIME PROVINCES

CHATHAM
Chatham, Feb. 7.—The monthly meeting of the town council was held last evening. The claim of W. L. T. Weldon for $630 damages, caused by his property in consequence of the town's employees cutting down a tree which he alleged interfered with the electric light wires, was considered, and a motion to offer him $30 in settlement was voted down, and it was resolved to offer to pay him the actual cost of removing the tree and the value of a platform moved away. Failing his acceptance of this offer, the council decided to defend the suit.

RICHIBUCTO
Richibucto, Feb. 6.—Melvin Dickson, the four year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Penny Dickson, was quite badly burned on Thursday. The day was very cold and most of the household were sitting near the fire. Little Melvin was sitting on a chair in front of the stove with his feet on the range; his aunt, Miss Jennie Irving, was shelling some peanuts. The little fellow, no doubt, interested in the proceedings, caught his feet forward and fell against the stove, which was very hot.

NORTON
Norton, N. B., Feb. 6.—Mr. and Mrs. John Hensworth were called to Waterford today on account of the sudden death of Mrs. Hensworth's father, Hugh McKenna.

HOPEWELL HILL
Hopewell Hill, Feb. 6.—The funeral of Simon F. Rose, who died on Saturday, took place from his late residence at Hopewell Cape this afternoon, and was largely attended. Rev. Mr. McCully, of Hillsboro, officiated at the service. Mr. Rose, who was 81 years of age, was one of the best known residents of the shiretown, and was highly respected. He had been ailing for some years. He is survived by his wife and sons—Hurdman, of Brewer (Me.); Rupert, of Hopewell Cape; Abner, of Lower Hillsboro, and Otto, of Hillsboro, and two daughters—Mrs. George Vail, of Arlington (Mass.), and Mrs. Fairweather, of St. John.

ST. MARTINS
St. Martins, N. B., Feb. 6.—Thomas Lawrence, who has been living alone at Little Beach, was found dead on Saturday morning by one of his neighbors, William Black. Mr. Lawrence went to his house with a load of wood. Not seeing any one, he entered the house and found him dead. He was about sixty years of age and had not been in very good health for some time.

WOMEN AND POULTRY PROFITS
How large a place poultry is gaining in the agricultural life of the west was shown at the poultry show held recently at Calgary, the mayor-elect, Mr. Mitchell, presiding. The exhibits outnumbered those of last year by 300, the total number of birds exhibited amounting to 120,000. The exhibitors were made from points outside the Calgary district—some from as far east as Winnipeg, and others coming from points in British Columbia. The show of birds was large, embracing Wyandottes, Rocks and Orpingtons, in addition to a large number of other varieties of fowl. Edmonton sent an exhibit of Equine chickens, also a number of prize turkeys and geese. For the encouragement of Englishwomen of the educated classes, who are thinking of Canada in increasing numbers, it should be noted that amongst the prize winners was Miss Trench, formerly in charge of the poultry department of the Canadian Pacific Railway Demonstration Farm at Strathmore, who, in company with her sister, since severing her connection with the railway, has been poultry farming at a point near Alton, on the Lacombe branch of the C. P. R. Miss Trench carried off two firsts and two seconds—four prizes out of four entries. Exhibitors were of a high class, and demonstrate that Alberta is rapidly obtaining a reputation as a poultry centre.

THE OLD TOWN OF STORMONT
During the struggle that ended in the separate establishment of the United States, the last royal governor of North Carolina, Sir Charles Grenville Montagu (to whose memory there is, by the way, a tablet in St. Paul's church, Halifax), formed a regiment—the King's Rangers—of volunteers and volunteers persuaded. He found his men in the colony of which they were to be sent, and perhaps fought through the war, and perhaps a treaty was finally made of course disbanded. But to those who had composed any comfortable settlement with the new authorities who were founding the great republic, New homes were therefore the question, and these were offered in Nova Scotia, an unconsidered place to them hitherto, unfamiliar to their minds in every way.

Patriotism
The stomach is a larger factor in "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness" than most people are aware. Patriotism can withstand hunger but not dyspepsia. The confirmed dyspeptic is a danger to his country. The man who goes to the front for his country with a weak stomach will be a weak soldier and a fault finder.

Thinking of Building a Silo?
Better Build it of Concrete

The construction of a Silo affords an excellent example of what the farmer can do with Concrete—and of the superiority of Concrete over all other material for various structural work about the farm.

The usual wooden silo, besides being expensive, is far from satisfactory. In the first place, it does not endure; and, more important still—being far from weather-proof—it constantly becomes water-logged—producing an unsanitary condition.

A Silo built of Concrete, on the other hand, is practically everlasting—it is proof against heat, cold and moisture—and it has the merit of comparative economy.

This economy feature is further explained in our free book—"What the Farmer Can Do With Concrete," which tells how to mix and use Concrete for the making of silos and other buildings on the farm.

You may send me a copy of book entitled "What the Farmer Can Do With Concrete."

New York, Feb. 7.—Helen, daughter of George J. Gould, one of the wealthiest and most families in America, was married to Bartholomew's Episcopal church, son avenue shortly after 4 o'clock afternoon to Lord Decies, an English nobleman, who is forty-four.

The church was packed with assemblage, representing the city's social and professional circles, and a sprinkling of the aristocrats and friends of the groom.

The ceremony was performed by David H. Greer, of the Episcop of New York, and the Rev. Dr. Parks, rector of St. Bartholomew's, gave his daughter in marriage to Edith Gould, the bride's next, was maid of honor. Lord Graham, R. N., a son of the Montrose, was best man.

The church was profusely decorated in the color scheme was green and white, in directions and established through which only the chosen vehicles traffic was diverted parallel thoroughfares, and the which run down Madison avenue, Bartholomew's whizzed through without a stop. Dozens of pers for the Grand Central station—in a hurry, they said, as they were the police lines to scramble the streets to the station.

Groom in Full Uniform.

The guests began to assemble an hour before the wedding. An admitted, but through a lot of arrangements, more than 100 and the church and the entire quarter of an hour. At 3:15 P. M. arrived, nearly an hour before ceremony stopped at the curb. He was in his uniform of the Sea, a silver with service medals, a gold braid. He carried a plume in the crook of his arm and with a lady, they said, as they were the crowd should jostle the bride on her arrival. The police men had been planned cars carrying the bride and there was a moment later the wedding party, Miss Edith Gould, as maid of honor, immediately preceding the bride's father.

The ceremony was over in ten minutes, and Lord and Lady Decies for a moment for a battery, before their car whisked them to the reception at the Gold in Fifth avenue.

The only unusual incident at the wedding occurred when drawing Mrs. J. M. Kisseloff, grandmother, stood as an aunt, Kingdon, already verging upon the same greatly excited and had left home by servants.

The guests began to assemble an hour before the wedding. An admitted, but through a lot of arrangements, more than 100 and the church and the entire quarter of an hour. At 3:15 P. M. arrived, nearly an hour before ceremony stopped at the curb. He was in his uniform of the Sea, a silver with service medals, a gold braid. He carried a plume in the crook of his arm and with a lady, they said, as they were the crowd should jostle the bride on her arrival. The police men had been planned cars carrying the bride and there was a moment later the wedding party, Miss Edith Gould, as maid of honor, immediately preceding the bride's father.

The ceremony was over in ten minutes, and Lord and Lady Decies for a moment for a battery, before their car whisked them to the reception at the Gold in Fifth avenue.

The only unusual incident at the wedding occurred when drawing Mrs. J. M. Kisseloff, grandmother, stood as an aunt, Kingdon, already verging upon the same greatly excited and had left home by servants.

GENERAL

LABOR ON THE FARM

Ways in Which Economy Can Be Exercised.

As life is short enough at the longest, and a farmer can easily so manage as to wear himself out by the time he reaches middle age, it is not right as well as a duty that he owes to himself and family, that he should study and use methods by which to save labor, and at the same time conduct his farm so as to make it profitable. The trouble with most of our work is in the habit of doing our work to a certain way, and do not take time to stop and think or study whether there is a better way of doing it. In the days of a man to go tramping behind a team over plowed ground day after day, no matter what the harvesting machine, the driver can ride instead of walking. If two horses cannot easily draw the driver, it is better to have a pair of mules. There is no use of a farmer making a driver of himself in this age, if he will only take a little time to study out the quickest and easiest method of doing many different kinds of work. By this I do not mean he can save time and labor by half fitting the ground, or half putting in the crop or cutting the weeds, but that he would be poor policy and a losing proposition. There is such a thing as being too particular as well as not particular enough.

A GOOD WHITEWASH

Having worked at the painting and paper hanging trade for more than twenty-five years, I feel qualified to give a recipe for making whitewash that is second to none, and is equal, if not better, than any ready made kalsomine, alabaster, or any other kind of whitewash.

To four pounds of stone lime, add two quarts of boiling water. Cover with an old piece of burlap, or any old piece of carpet. Watch it, and in a few minutes the same quantity of water, and a few more. Add more water, but do not get in too much. Continue until it is a little thinner than heavy pudding. Add one pound of ocher, dry form, Venetian red, for gray, lamp black, for lavender, a bit of lamp black with the pink shade. These tints must be added before the whitewash is ready for use. Separate the whitewash into the required consistency. Separate into the best for use for this purpose. This can be used out of doors to good advantage. On canvas, outbuildings or fences, it is fine.

For cleaning woodwork, wash with little soap in the water, so it sets the dirt and makes it harder to clean.—R. T. Morgan.

THE FARM TEAM

Its Influence in Holding the Interest of the Farm Boy.

The man who wrote the following may not be a practical farmer, but he knows the horse and the plow. The horse and the plow are the two things that hold the attention of a boy more than any other thing on the farm. Sometimes it may be difficult to get a boy to do his work, but if you take a load of produce to market with a poor team with dilapidated harness and wagon. He has a high sense of pride and he will be injured when caught in possession of such an outfit. We feel that if he is driving a worthless team people will take him to be a worthless boy.

THE LOCAL GOVERNMENT AND THE CARLETON COUNTY FRUIT GROWERS

To The Editor of The Telegraph:

Sir: That there may be no public misapprehension of the immediate cause for organizing the Carleton County Fruit Growers Association on Feb. 3rd, let me say that the publication of the following leading statement in the Maritime Farmer, Jan. 24th, signed "A. G. Turney, Provincial Horticulturist," and entitled "Outlook For Apple Growing in New Brunswick—Prospects Second to None," and copiously illustrated by photographs of apple orchards at St. John, has done much to bring to the attention of the public the fact that the Carleton County fruit growers are not only producing a surplus of 5,000 to 15,000 barrels a year for the past three years, but that they are also producing a surplus of 5,000 to 15,000 barrels a year for the past three years.

The Carleton County Grievance

FARMER
USES ALL BY FIRE

This sheep raising is an immensely profitable branch of farm industry and that outlook for establishing it in New Brunswick is bright was the expressed opinion of all those who spoke at the meeting in the Medley Memorial hall, Sussex, Tuesday evening, the object of the meeting was to meet W. A. Dryden and W. T. Rich, the federal commissioners who were appointed to inquire into the sheep raising industry in Canada and other countries. The commission is a society, probably next summer some one may be appointed in connection with the subject. Considering the nature of the weather there was a large attendance and most of those present were representative of the sheep raising interest in this province. Mr. Campbell, president of the Sussex and St. John's Agricultural Society, was in the chair and introduced the commissioners.

NO REASON WHY SHEEP FARMING SHOULD NOT PAY IN NEW BRUNSWICK

This is the Opinion Strongly Expressed at Meeting in Sussex Tuesday Night, When W. A. Dryden and W. T. Rich, Federal Commissioners, were Present—The Statements of Kings County Farmers—Quality of Wool and Prices Received—More Attention Should Be Paid to the Industry—The Soil Helped.

They had spent the previous week in Nova Scotia, and would spend this week in New Brunswick, before going to Quebec and the west.

lamb in September and then put them into a field of clover. He had tried Shropshire and found them unsatisfactory and preferred Cheviots.

Little Attention to Breeding. A. Freese, of Penebouché, said that he believed there were now more sheep in the parish of Cardwell than there were some years ago. One reason, he thought, for the present prosperity, he considered, unsatisfactory, was that little attention was paid to breeding. He did not know of anyone who had a speciality of breeding sheep, but his opinion there were just as profitable as cows if proper care was taken of them.

Mr. Dryden here asked Mr. McAuley if the abandoned farms he spoke of were all cleared and proved to be good land. He was greatly interested in sheep raising and did not doubt that some of the best land in the province was being made a start only three years ago.

Mr. McAuley said that he had not bought any wool for the last twenty years but that was twelvemonth. There were too many farms that he had bought that were a very bad state. This was bad for the merchant as well as bad for the manufacturer. He was of the opinion that if the wool was washed and packed better, the conditions the average farmer could not keep sheep at a profit. The chances for a market were good here as in any part of the Dominion. The whole question was the farmers willing to take a hold of the thing? If so he did not think there was any question of the success of sheep raising in New Brunswick. Wool prices here were quite as good as anywhere else.

the highlands were capable of producing grass upon which they would thrive. He knew of what he spoke, as he had been over a great part of the maritime province. He was of the opinion that the sheep would do better here than in either Nova Scotia or Prince Edward Island. Southdowns in his opinion the best for New Brunswick, as they were hardier than either the Leicester or Cheviot. A cross between the Leicester and Southdown made an excellent strain of sheep.

WHAT HAS BEEN DONE IN ADIRONDACKS

Robert Connelly Returns from Instructive Trip to United States, Where He Saw Profitable Results of Tree Planting and Became Acquainted With Modern Methods of Protecting Forests from Fire-Of Great Importance to N. B.

Robert Connelly, manager of the Pejeepscot Pulp and Paper Company, returned on Tuesday from an extended trip which included Washington, Albany, the Adirondacks, Yale University and other places...

Mr. Connelly, under the guidance of experts in this line of work, made a thorough examination of the forestry work of New York state and of Yale University...

Mr. Connelly, a fortnight ago, attended the annual meeting of the Pejeepscot Company at Pejeepscot (Me.) and after that, spending his time in the Adirondacks, he returned to St. John, N. B., on Tuesday...

He was in the city yesterday and was interviewed by a Telegraph reporter. Trees planted from the seed.

After talking with the forestry men at the New York state capital, and witnessing a portion of the existing struggle here over the selection of a United States agent, Connelly and his wife went to the Adirondacks to inspect the New York state forests.

The state has in the Adirondacks about 1,000,000 acres of land, the greater part of which has been planted, or is being, with pine and spruce of different varieties, including the Scotch spruce and the Norway spruce.

He was greatly impressed by the thoroughness and success of the work he saw. He was convinced that the same system could be applied to an immense area in New Brunswick.

It is noteworthy that the New York state forestry officials say that their work has cost about $500,000 a year. The work is very simple and can be done successfully by any class of ordinary intelligence.

DOUBLE TRAGEDY AT PEJEPSCOT

City Laborer Slays His Neighbor and Then Suicides - Both Men Were Bachelors and Lived in Adjoining Cabins

Vanover, B. C. Feb. 10 - For a reason yet unexplained, J. Follett, a city laborer, living in a cabin in Fairview, this morning shot and killed Sam Norris, a well known carpenter, in a rooming house.

Both men were bachelors and lived in adjoining cabins. Follett, who was alone in the rooming house, shot Norris, who was sitting at a table eating breakfast.

When called, he fled to the street and hid in a nearby building. Police arrived to find Norris lying on the floor with a fatal wound in his head.

Follett was taken to the hospital, where he was found to have committed suicide. The police are investigating the circumstances surrounding the double tragedy.

CENTRAL FIGURES IN THE DECIES-GOULD WEDDING

New York, Feb. 7-The old story of American wealth and a foreign title meeting at the altar re-staged today in the marriage of Miss Helen Vivien Gould, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Jay Gould, and Lord Decies of England...

The full Episcopal service was performed by the Rev. Leighton Parks, rector of St. Bartholomew's church, before an audience that represented American and English aristocracy. The eighteen-year-old bride and her fiancée, 44 years, were wedded this afternoon.

As is usually the case in international alliances of such prominence, today's wedding again demonstrated the modern curbing of the public and thousands of persons crowded about old St. Bartholomew's to get a glimpse of the bride and the notable in attendance.

The bridesmaids were Miss Hope Hamilton, Miss Edith Gould, sister of the bride, and Miss Beatrice Clavin. The groom's bridesmaids were Miss Louisa Cromwell, of Washington; Miss Louise Holmes and Miss Beatrice Clavin. Lord Alastair Graham, a cousin of Lord Decies, was best man.

The ceremony was held at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine. The Soloist for the occasion was Ricardo Martin, of the Metropolitan Opera Company. In attendance, the wedding rivaled that of the bride's older sister, Marjorie, who at the same altar was married to Anthony B. French less than two months ago.

Miss Gould's attendants were her sister, Miss Edith Gould, her maid of honor, Miss Marion Gould, Miss Hope Hamilton, and Miss Dawn Dalziel and flower girls, while the bridesmaids were Miss Hope Hamilton, the bride's cousin, Miss Hannah Radford, Miss Louise Cromwell, of Washington; Miss Louise Holmes and Miss Beatrice Clavin.
