THE NEW GENERAL MANAGER OF

THE GRAND TRUNK RAIL-

WAY.

the "Advertiser" from St. Louis on Saturday, to the effect that a change in the general managership of the Grand Trunk Railway will soon take place, is confirmed in a telegram from Montreal. Nothing definitely will be fixed till after confirmation by the coming shareholders' meeting, but there seems no reason for doubt that the recommendations of Sir Charles Rivers-Wilson, as outlined, will be carried out. The retiring general manager-Mr. Seargeant-will, we understand, be appointed to an advisory position in connection with the system. At his own request he has been relieved of the onerous duties pertaining to the general oversight of the road, but the new president has urged him to continue his valuable services in another capacity, and it is probable that he will do so. Mr. Seargeant has been general manager of the line since the retirement of Sir Joseph Hickson, but before that he did good service for the railway man, who has been asked to accept the position of general manager in succession to Mr. Seargeant, is a man in the prime of life, but of great experience in railway management.

Like Sir William Van Horne, who will in future be his principal rival, the new G. T. R. manager is a native of the United States, and a Westerner, having been born May 16, 1856, at Rock Island, Ill. He entered railway service Nov. 10, 1873. From that date to Jan. 2, 1874, he was engaged in the passenger department of the Atlantic and Pacific road at St. Louis. Next he was transferred to the auditor's office for a short time, and from March 9, 1874, to Jan. 1, 1877, he was clerk in the general superintendent's office of the same road. From Jan. 1, 1877, to April 1, 1884, he was secretary to the cific Railway. From April. 1, 1884.

till Oct. 1, 1886, he was secretary to the then promoted to be assistant general manager of the same road, which position he held till July 1, 1889. Since that time, until the tempting offer from the Grand Trunk president, which he has accepted, reached him, Mr. Hayes has been general manager of the Wabash

Railway, successor to the Wabash Wes-president of the consolidation. Mr.

Hayes, it is understood, will have a

AGAINST HEALEY.

London, Oct. 14.—The London branches of the Irish League held a meeting Saturday night to demand the expulsion from the party of Timothy Healey and his followers. The objection has the support of the bulk of the sections of the league throughout Great Britain. Should the first conference of the Irish Parliamentary party decide to wipe out the Healeyites it will find general approval among the anti Parnellites. The xpulsion would lessen Mr. Healey's power to harm the party, but will not extinguish

A GREAT STRIKE THREATENED. London, Oct. 14.-The threatened shipping strike will be a big affair unless the trouble is soon averted. The seat of the trouble is at Belfast, where the engineers salutes he received. are striking for higher wages in view of improved trade. Some 3,000 men in the Harland and Wolff and other yards at Belfast have struck, and it is expected that 20,000 A 14 Year-Old Girl Elepes Afoot With a men will shortly be idle. If the Clyde yards close, as expected, over 100,000 workmen will be out of work, and it is estimated that work will be suspended on 105 vessels now building in the Clyde yards, with an aggregate tonnage of 230,000. Much anxiety prevails about the Tynside and northeast coast, where a stoppage of work would mean the dismissal of 120,000 engineers.

BRITISH CABINET SUMMONED. London, Oct. 14.—The leading members of the Cabinet have been summoned by Prime Minister Salisbury to a conference in London. Mr. Goschen's hurried arrival from Switzerland and his long subsequent stay at the Admiralty created the impression that dangerous developments are impending, involving action on the part of the British Mediterranean squadron. Reliable Foreign Office opinion is, however, that it is not the Turkish Government but that of China which is urgently engaging the attention of the British Government. Viceroy Chang Chow Tung, undaunted by the demonstration made lately by the British fleet in the Min River and the Yang-Tse-Kiang, has curtly refused to be used as a medium to convey to the Pekin Government the demands for a full inquiry into the Ku-Cheng massacre and reparation therefor. It is not believed that Great Britain will remain content with the action she has already taken. It is generally expected that another ultimatum will be sent simultaneously to Chang Chow Tung and the Government at Pekin within the next few

> NORTH BRUCE-THE ANNUAL. North Bruce.—The annual exhibition of the North Bruce Union Society, at Port Elgin, was a success in every respect. About 2,500 were on the grounds Friday, despite threatened rain. Hon. John Dryden, M. P. P., Minister of Agriculture for Ontario, was present. Reeve Chapman, on behalf of the Cor-poration of Port Elgin, read an address of welcome to the Minister, and Mr. R. Monroe, secretary of the union ex-hibition, presented him with a most eulogistic address from the north riding of Bruce and Saugeen societies and the Port Elgin Horticultural Society. Mr. Dryden, in reply, gave an excellent speech from the balcony of the Agricultural Hall. He was listened to with marked respect and was heartily applauded at the close. In sheep, swine and poultry the exhibits were larger than in any previous year. Much to the surprise of many the exhibits in fruit were wonderfully full and good. The roots, garden vegetables and dairy products were said by competent judges to be equal to, if not superior to, ex-hibits of Toronto and London. #### LAURIER'S HANDSHAKE.

A Remarkable Scene at the Brockville Moeting.

The concluding portion of the Ottawa Journal report of the great demonstration in honor of Hon. Wilfrid Laurier, says:

A WILD SCENE. Just as when Mr. Laurier took the platform there was a wild scene. Men stood and cheered again and again, and when the meeting finally closed there was a still wilder outbreak. Men and women alike jostled and pushed each other in attempts to reach the platform to shake hands with Mr. Laurier. They climbed over seats and benches, and it was an hour or more before the hall was finally cleared. He wanted to shake hands with everybody and told them so. He stood in a position where the audience could pass him and he met almost every-body. Laurier makes friends firmer

LAURIER'S HAND-SHAKE. He has a peculiar way of doing it, and generally takes the proffered hand in his own two with a warm pressure. The streets were lined, and Mr. Laurier had his head uncovered almost continually by reason of the Condemn the Color Line Restrictions of Florida in Regard to Missionary Work-Church Union.

Syracuse, N. Y., Oct. 14.—Church unity, and protection of missionaries were among the subjects considered by the National Council of Congregational Churches of the United States in their fourth day's session. Rev. Robert R. Meredith, of Brooklyn, presented the resolution, which was unaninously adopted by a rising vote, condemning the law of Florida, which makes it a criminal offense for missionary teachers to instruct in schools white and colored pupils without caste distinction and for anyone to patronize such schools. The resolution pledges the council to "unwaveringly and courageously resist this wicked enactment in all lawful ways, and to exhaust all legal measures to defend these guaranteed rights and privileges and carry, if necessary, this case to the Supreme Court of the United States for adjudication."

The joint committee, taking the place of the New Jersey memorial and Christian unity committees, submitted their reports. the main features of which, were adopted as follows. We propose to other Protestant evangelical churches a union based on:

Cereals Measure 100,000,000 Bushels Less Than Last Year.

The Reports Prom Europe-Less Being Fed to Stock.

Washington, Oct. 14.-The estimates of this season's wheat crop in the United Kingdom vary from 23 to 27 bushels an acre. Both in Great Britain and on the continent the wheat was harvested in such favorable condition as to assure a high percentage of flour. Reports from outside countries are:

France-Official estimates for 1895: Wheat, 337,500,000 bushels; rye and maslin, 81,360,000 bushels; barley, 49,-500,000 busels; oats, 263,000,000 bushels, All of the other crops are suffering from protracted drought.

Germany-The wheat crop is estimated at 104,000,000 bushels, a reduction from last year of nearly 7,000,000 bushels. The potato crop is believed to be over average. As England has nearl an average crop of very high quality, the market there is glutted and prices are as low as $10 a ton. These conditions are worth nothing, in view of our large crop this year. It is unlikely that we shall be able to dispose of any of our surplus in Eur-

Italy-The wneat crop is officially estimated at 103,200,000 bushels, against 118,400,000 bushels last year. The barley crop is officially estimated at 7,-000,000 bushels. That of last ear, an unusually heavy crop, measured 8,000,-000 bushels. A poor medium corn crop is expected.

Spain-The wheat harvest is official-I reported at 92,000,000 bushels, against 105,600,000 bushels last year. It is not a prime crop.

Bulgaria-Persistent drought is reported to have done great injury to the corn crops, which in some districts is said to have been totally destroyed. Hungary-Corn crop irregular, but satisfactory.

Roumania—The wheat crop is exceptionally abundant. Greece-The wheat crop is unexpectedly short. A decrease of 30 per cent is expected. Russia-An average wheat crop is expected. The rye crop is fine and heavy. The general conclusion in the British cereal trade is that the harvest of the world for 1895 is about 100,000,000 bushels less than that of 1894. The report adds: It is known, however, that a greatly reduced quantity is being fed to stock, leaving about the same quantity for human beings.

STUDY CRAZED HIM.

Hamilton, Oct. 14.-The man who caused a stir at the assizes the other day, and was placed in jail as an insane person, has been identified. He is Isaac Judson Metcaire, of Plattsville, about 20 miles west of Woodstock. A Toronto friend saw the notice of his detention in a morning paper, and went to the jail and identified him. Metcalfe for some time taught school, but later he studied at McMaster Hall for the ministry. Study proved too much for him, and he went wrong mentally. His friends say this is the second time Metcalfe has become in-sane. He will be sent to the asylum. HON. MR. LAURIER'S MOVE-

How Millions of Public Money Have Been Misspent.

Why Canadians Have Not Been so Prosperous as They Ought to Have Been.

Hon Geo. W. Ross on the Record of High Taxation.

Brockville, Oct. 12.-Hon. Geo. W. Ross was one of the speakers at the great mass meeting in honor of Hon. Wilfrid Laurier in Brockville on Thursday night. The opera house was jammed and hundreds were unable to gain admission.

Hon. G. W. Ross was warmly greeted on rising to address the meeting. He congratuated those present on the magnificent demonstration, and the Young Liberals on their good fortune in having on the platform such an admirable specimen of a live, talented and energetic young Canadian as Attorney-General Longley. One reason why he (Mr. Ross) had accepted the invitation to be present was a desire to stand within the constituency that had given to the Legislative Assembly of America one of the purest-minded and most exalted statesmen that ever held a seat in a Canadian Parliament, Another reason why he did come to Brockville was that he had much in common with his leader, Mr. Laurier. They were born in the same year, and entered Parliament the same year. Though Mr. Laurier had been born a Frenchman and he a Scotchman, for which both were entirely irresponsible, they were both good Canadians and both were of the same political faith. The Government was not representative of the Conservative party. It was a conglomeration—a band of heterogeneous materials-bound together from a common desire to keep office and enjoy the fruits thereof. The Government dld not represent the people, and what the people wanted was a Premier and a Government that did represent them. He believed the people of Canada were more in earnest about the next election than about any previous election. There seemed to be an awakening and a breaking-up of the old political ties. Politics had been regarded as largely a matter of sentiment, as it was at the last election, when an appeal was made to support the old man, the old flag and the old policy, but he considered politics rather a matter of business. It was the duty of the people to find out what the Government took from them and to see that it was properly expended. Ontario had no debt, but a surplus of $6,000,000. How was it with the Dominion? Since the Government had come into power it had added $100,000,000 to the in question Mr. Pengelly proceeded to all unwisely spent, but it was necessary for a business people to consider debt. He did not say that that was how much they could bear. Canada's credit was good, but was it a wise thing for 5,000,000 people to be carrying a debt of $252,000,000 and to be adding to it? No less than $6,000,000 though the United States went land, after pouring out millions in $84 a head. Canada's debt was $50 a head. Our annual interest account amounted to $10,000,000 a year, or $30,-000 a day or $1,000 an hour. The Province of Ontario had investments that brought to the people $1,000 of interest every day. Although the people paid $38,000,000 into the treasury last year there was a deficit of $4,-000,000. In the last few years the Government had borrowed $17,000,000 to make up deficits. There had been a large increase in the expenditure for civil government. While the population had increased 25 per cent since Mr. Mackenzie's time the cost to $482,000; Indian affairs from $421,000 to $956,000; militia and defense from $618,000 to $1,419,000; superannuation from $106,000 to $263,000. GOVERNMENT CORRUPTION. He did not know any more luxurious position than to be a pensioner on the bounty of the Government. It was an outrage upon the taxpayers of the country that they should be called upon to support this pension system. There were pensions that might be defended, but men who reservice had no claim upon this bounwas not consistent with democratic institutions. Mr. Vankoughnet, superintendent of Indian Affairs, who was 57 years of age, and who received a salary of $3,200, was super-$2,115. A successor was fisheries had increased from $93,000 - annuated last year with a pension of appointed, who received a salary of $3,200. The late Deputy Minister of Public Works received a pension of $3,900 a year. Civil servants were supposed to pay into the treasury a portion of their salaries by way of drawback, and to receive pensions in proportion to what they had paid in. Thomas Hewitt had paid in $322 and drawn out $18,282. W. H. McRae had paid in $722 and drawn out $11,112. A. G. Reid had paid in $14 and drawn out $8,931. F. B. Rubidge had paid in $482 and drawn out $39,916, and a man named Patrick had paid in nothing and drawn out $27,668. There had been a large increase in the number of clerks in the civil service, and, while there were a Minister of Justice and a Solicitor-General receiving salaries to attend to the law business of the Dominion, the Government had in eight years paid $927,000 in lawyers' fees. In six years there had been paid out for advertising in the public press and elsewhere 2,037,000. He did not believe the Government of Sir Oliver Mowat coud stand two weeks in the face of an indignant public opinion if it were shown that that there had been such rascally business management in Ontario as the transactions he had pointed out. The erection of the new Parliament buildings at Toronto had been accomplished by good business management within the estimate. The Curran bridge, which had been estimated to cost $123,000, had cost twice that amount, After Mr. Haggart's attention had been called to the fact that there was something wrong in the management of the work he had paid Mr. St. Louis checks aggregating $120,000. Then he turned around and sued Mr. St. Louis for $170,000, whereas it would have been a wiser thing to have stopped the payment of the money when he learned that things were not right. Mr. Ross went into the details of the disgraceful transaction, and showed how shamefully the peope's money was wasted. The Tay Canal, ran to Mr. Haggart's mill, had been estimated to cost $132,000. It had cost $476,000, and produced an annual revenue of $58. The Little Rapids Canal, estimated to cost $44,000, had cost $300,-

000; the Galops channel, estimated to cost $300,000, had cost $900,000. The Harris property in St. John, which was purchased by the Government, was assessed at $66,000. Mr. Harris swore that it was worth $93,401, whereas the Government for some inexplicable reason had paid $200,000 for FRUITS OF THE N. P. Turning to the trade question, Mr. Ross condemned the National Policy because it had not kept the Canadian people at home. There were 1,000,000 of them in the United States at the present time. Last year, despite the National Policy, the failures in bustness aggregated $17,000,000. It had not lightened the burdens of taxation, nor had it kept up the price of farm products. In Mr. Mackenzie's time the average price of wheat was $1 11 a bushel. What was it now? The National Policy reduced our for-eign trade, and it had driven our commerce from the sea and sent our sailors to man the ships of other countries. It discriminated against British goods, the average duty on goods coming from Great Britain being 30 per cent, while on goods comwas added to the debt last year. Al- ing from the United States it was 27 per cent. The National Policy did not though a tremendous war, it had a improve business; it created com-debt of only $16 per head, while Eng-bines, it discriminated against the poor in favor of the rich, it discriminated against the farmer.

There was an outburst of applause when Mr. Ross concluded his powerful speech.

IN THE TREATY PORTS. A Canadian Product Finds Favor in the Land of Confucius. Vancouver (Special) Oct. 14 .- A passenger by the last vessel from China stated the other day that among other Canadian products which are fast coming into favor in the Chinese treaty ports, is the Canadian specific remedy for kidney diseases of all kinds known as Dodd's Kidney Pills. The of the civil service had increased 70 per cent, or from $800,000 to $1,367,000; medicine was first introduced by Canadians and the increase in its use both by Europeans and natives is attributed first to the accounts of its success in the Canadian and American newspapers many of which are received in Shanghai and other ports, and later to its established efficacy in curing all kinds of kidney diseases which are very prevalent in the country.

The Serap Bag.

Here's a good story on a proofreader. It's a true story, too. He had just made the asquaintance of a charming young lady who rode a bicycle, and they were taking a little afternoon spin out the Fort Lee road. They stopped to rest under the spreading branches of an old oak tree, and he had plucked a few wild flowers for her, They were speaking of the language of flowers, a subject upon which he appeared to be well versed. He held up a pink blossom, and moved a little nearer to his fair companion. In doing so, he sat right down on an old dry thistle. he effect was magical. He forgot the lady's presence, and jumping up, indulged in a few choice proofroom exclamations. The young lady was shocked, and, drawing herself up, said, "If that is the language of the flowers, I do not care to hold any further conversation with them," and they rode away in silence.-Union

An exchange reports a colloquy between the father and mother of a lazy son, who had given up one position after another, and seemed to believe that working between meals was injurious to his health.

"So George is going to give up his place again, is he? What is the trouble this time?" asked the father.

Opening of the Arts Course of the Western University.

The Hopes of Its Promoters at Last Realized.

A Great Thing for London and a Boon to Western Ontario.

Pupils Already Coming to the City-The Classes Rapidly Growing-A Great Seat of Learning Some Day-The Faculty.

This has been a year of almost revolutionary enterprise in London, and not the least important step in the path of progress is the formal opening of the arts department of the Western University, which will be celebrated tomorrow. The ceremony begins at 2:30 p.m., at the University building, and among the speakers will be: Hon. G. W. Ross, the Minister of Education; Dr. Johnston, vice-principal of McGill University, Montreal; Rev. Provost Welch, of Trinity College, Toronto; Provost B. Watkins, M.A., of the Western University; Mayor Little, the Bishop of Huron, and perhaps Principal Grant, of Queen's University, Kingston.

This is an event far more significant than a good many citizens imagine. The inauguration of the arts course means that London has now a fullfledged university, a seat of learning that promises to become some day a power in the land; which will enormously increase the educational prestige of the city, and (a more interesting announcement to some) will in time be of utilitarian value by reason of the influx of students who would otherwise go to Toronto and Kingsalready being proven; a number of ladies and gentlemen from other places have taken up their residence in the city to avail themselves of the arts course. The business center of the most populous and progressive section of the Province, there is no reason why London should not be the educational center also. To Western Ontario pupils who wish to graduate either in arts, medicine or divinity, it is a great inducement to be able to realize their ambitions so near their homes; while for those who cannot leave them the extra-mural course is open, through correspondence, personal attendance being necessary at examinations only. The medical department, founded in 1882, has proven a gratifying success, and has attracted many students to the city. time when higher education in the "He complains that the hours are professions is becoming more necessary (in divinity it is becoming comthe addition of the arts course is peculiarly appropriate, and to a completeness which has long been the aim of its founders and promoters.

Though the arts department will be formally opened tomorrow, the classes have been organized and at work for two weeks. The beginning has been very auspicious. "Before I came said Principal Watkins the me that if I had ten pupils I would be doing better than McGill, for that was the number he had at his first doubled, and is growing daily. pleasant feature is the large number of ladies entering. To studiously in-clined citizens of London, who cannot leave their vocations to take a complete course, the arts department is a veritable boon. They may engage in any special subject or subjects in the curriculum by attending a lecture or two a week and studying at home. For instance, large Winnipeg, Brandon and Portage lo classes in English literature, classics, Prairie, I am told, is this season formed by local people of both sexes, including professional and business men, who have not much time at their They can thus secure a thorough training in the subjects they prefer, by making use of their leisure hours. They have also the privilege of trying the examinations to indicate their progress.

It was the original intention of the faculty to teach only the first and second year courses, but the attendance has been so gratifying that third year classes will be added. Subjects for the first year are: English, Latin; any two of the following languages, viz., Greek, French, German, Hebrew; ancient history, mathematics, physics or biology. The second year subjects: English, Latin; any two of the following languages, viz., Greek, French, ierman, Hebrew; medieval history, logic, psychology, chemistry or geol-The third year: English, Latin; that happy, innocent girlhood is sug- and two of the following languages, viz., Greek, French, German, Hebrew; modern history, English constitutional history, ethics, physics.

In the choice of the faculty, the Senate have been fortunate. The princeived his early education at famous Rugby, and was afterwards a distinguished scholar of Jesus College, Cambridge, of which university he was an honor graduate. He has been for some years professor of classics at Bishop's College, Lenoxville, Que., and comes with the highest testimonials from English and Canadian universities. Principal Watkins unites ripe scholarship and ability as a teacher with other qualities which are bound to render him popular with the students. In manner he is genial and unreserved. He enters upon his work full of enthusiasm over the prospects of his new charge. Prof. Watkins will also fill the chair of divinity in Huron College, which is affiliated with the Western University—a chair endowed by Dr. Peache. of England, for $25,000.

Prof. F. W. Sykes. M.A. Ph.D., instructor of English literature and history is an honor graduate of Toronto University, and a doctor of philosophy of Johns Hopkins University. He has had large experience in the collegiate institutes of Ontario, and for six years was teacher of English and moderns in Parkdale. In recommending him, Mr. John Seath, Provincial inspector of high schools, writes: "I regard Prof. Sykes as one of the very ablest English scholars and teachers in this Province." Rev. Prof. Burgess, M.A., professor of mathematics is an honor graduate of Queen's, and has been a valuable member of Huron College staff for a fessor of modern languages, Rev. C. B. Guillemont, B.A., Academy of Paris, University of France; lecturer in physics, F. W. Merchant, M.A., honor graduate of Victoria University; lecturer in chemistry, W. T. McClement, M.A., honor graduate of Queen's University; lecturer in analytical chemistry, F. T. Harrison, Phm.D., Government analyst; lecturer in zoology, A. Hotson, M.D., graduate of Western University; lecturer in botany, J. Dearness, I.P.S., inspector for Middlesex; lecturer in geology, S. Woolverton, L.D.S., chairman Geological Association. The Western University lies off George street, between St. James and Grosvenor. The site comprises fourteen acres of land, beautifully situ-The principal, who takes a healthy interest in athletics, is delighted with the ample playgrounds, and hopes the students will cultivate body as well as mind, by making full use of the fields. A gymnasium is being provided, and a football club is or-ganizing. The University building is large enough to meet requirements for years to come. The internal arrangements are admirable; there are far more lecture rooms than are at present needed. It is announced that scholarships will be awarded by the Provost and the Senate. Prosperity to London's new Uni-

Asphalt Pavement in Great Favor in Progressive Western Cities.

"It was our good fortune to miss the storms both going up and coming down the lakes," said Mr. William Thompson, Dorchester township, to one of the "Advertiser" staff on reaching the city from a visit to Minnesota, via Duluth. "Capt. Robertson, of the Beattie steamship Monarch, a very prudent skipper, lay in at Detour, Mich., for the night on the down trip, and so avoided the gale that I notice wrought considerable havoc to shipping on Monday night."

"How is the lake traffic now?"
"Very brisk, I should judge, as the end of the season draws near. There has been less Manitoba wheat coming down to the Fort William elevator than last year. Farmers were holding it for higher prices and securing advances from the banks. Of course, the siderable moving for all that, besides great quantities of other freight. I understood from the captain that he had still some 400,000 bushels of Manitario, which is a rather new line of agricultural export from that country The tourist business practically ended several weeks ago.

"The new lock at the Canadian 'Soo" is now regularly in use and is giving the boat people satisfaction, greatly facilitating traffic through that crowd-

"A few new houses are going up at Port Arthur, but neither there nor at Fort William is any great progress apparent; there seemed to be very little doing at either harbor when we called, though it happened to be Sunday on each occasion. However, I saw no other boats there but the one A Popular and Fashion-

"Yes, Duluth bids fair to be the great city of Lake Superior, having already some 60,000 people, with every evidence of commercial progress and general thriftiness. Immense mining, milling and general shipping interests are centering there, and it has a magnificent harbor. It is expected that the railway to Winnipeg will be completed ere long, which will drain vast quantities of Manitoba and Northwest grain through that part east-The Northern Pacific Railway, carrying several mullion bushels of wheat to Duluth. There is talk of double tracking the C. P. R. from Winnipeg to Fort William, but I heard they would also have a controling interest in this Winnipeg and Duluth Railway, which seems rather significant. I noticed enormous quantitles of iron ore from the mines northward of Duluth being deposited near the docks. The harbor is skirted with elevators, flour and saw-mills, acres of lumber and coal. "I looked through their high school building, said to be one of, if not the finest of the sort in the world, costing half a million dollars. London has not touched high water mark in that respect yet. The Duluth high shood has an attendance of about 1,000 pupils.

"To one accustomed to the superb agricultural districts of Canada, much of the rocky, forest stripped land immediately southward from Duluth does not present an inviting appearance, but judging from the vegetables I saw the available soil must be pro-

"Did you go far into the State?" "To the twin cities of St. Paul and Minneapolis, which now have a combined population of over 330,000, the being about 50,000 in the lead. A combined city and county building and court house is now being completed in Minneapolis, at a cost of a couple of million dollars.

"By the way, I noticed that asphalt is coming into general use on the principal streets in these two progressive cities, paving being under way now in St. Paul similar to what is being done on Dundas and Richmond streets here. I drove over some brick pavement in St. Paul, but it does not seem to have grown in favor as a result of actual use. The bricks chip, and it is less smooth. Summit avenue, the most beautiful residential street in St. Paul, where Jim Hall and all the wealthy nabobs live, is asphalt paved. On some of the old streets near the freight depots, flagstone pavements are still in use.

"For sidewalks the popular material is artificial stone, made of cement and sand moulded in various sizes, from one to three feet square, or diagonal, and two or three inches thick, sometimes colored to add to the appearance. It appears to be superced-ing all other styles of walk. "Yes, there are thousands of Canadians in these Northwestern cities, occupying with honor to their native land various positions of importance in professional life and otherwise."

Gravity of the Eastern Situation-Refuge to be Provided for Broken-Down Landscape Painters-A Reform Wave Agitating London-The French Victory in Madagascar-Big British Fleet in Turkish Waters.

London, Oct. 14.-Londoners, it appears are expected to flock to a new at-Araction a floating chamber of horrors exhibition which promises to rival the chamber of horrors at Mme. Tussaud's famous wax works exhibition. This floating exhibition of terrible happenings of the past is an old convict hulk, the Success, which recently arrived here from Australia after a voyage of five months duration, and which is moored at Blackwall, while being prepared to receive the public. The Sucsess has been used for exhibition purposes in Australian waters for years past; but just as she was on the point of being demolished she was purchased from the Government by speculators and brought to this country. The hulk is over 100 years old and is the only one remaining of the terrible floating orisons established by the Government of the colony of Victoria from 1850 to 1855 as a result of the discovery of the gold fields of Bendigo and Ballarat, and the subsequent rush to the colony of, among others, many thousands of idesperate, lawless men of nearly all nationalities. Every side of convict life in the old days on board the hulk will be acted upon as governing all the foreign policy of the United States. And what is more serious, is that it is not the Monroe doctrine pure and simple, but that doctrine with developments. Her action means that the weaker States of American can count upon be depicted upon the Success, especially the different modes of punishment, and the speculators who have purchas-

The fever has, however, by no means been cured, and Saturday's market indicated that it had started in again with greater intensity than ever. One or two stocks put upon the market a week ago are today at 100 per cent premium. But there are some signs that the public is beginning to exercise wiser discrimination between the good and bad ventures in the mad gamble.

REFUGE FOR UNFORTUNATE

PAINTERS. Following upon the purchase for use as a museum, of the house formerly occupied by the late Thomas Carlyle at Chelsea, and the successful accomplishment of that undertaking, it has been proposed to purchase the house formerly occupied by Turner, the great English painter, which is also located at Chelsea. The first idea was to convert the Turner house into a museum, but that proposition, well under way, was suddenly killed by the fact that some person wrote to the Times throwing doubt upon the statements that the house was really occupied by Turner, and hinting that if he did stay there for a time, it was for purposes other than art. The price asked for the property was $7,500, and a lady had also guaranteed to pay this sum for the property in order that it might be converted into a Turner museum; but the intimation conveyed in the communication to the Times was more than the lady referred to could be expect-

**** NEW ATTRACTIONS FOR LONDON. | Iv withdrew her offer to supply the funds for the purchase of the house. Since then, however, it has been definitely established that the house at Chelsea was really Turner's residence, and steps are again being taken to purchase the house and convent it with others adjoining into refuges or homes for unfortunate landscape painters. There seems to be a prospect that the latter plan may be adopted. UNCLE SAM'S FOREIGN POLICY. The Speaker on Saturday published a long article dealing with the evolution of the foreign policy of the United States, citing, as examples, the Venezuelan and Cuban questions, in the course of which it says: "The United States, a great power, is coming into forefor relition and to coming the foreign politics and is coming to stay.

The process of evolution of American foreign policy has been gradual but unmistakable, and in the last few weeks we have had indications of the experience of aspirations which may at perience of aspirations which may at any moment lead to the active participation of America, in a foreign war. Her intervention in Venezuelan dispute is not warranted by any treaty or precedent in international law, and can only be defended on the ground that the Monroe doctrine henceforth, will be acted upon as groupping all the the assistance of the United States in frontier disputes with any European colony. The present action undoubtedly does not go any further than the friendly suggestion that we refer the question to arbitration; but it is backed and supported by claims which logically point to a declaation that interference with the frontier claimed by Venezuela would be regarded in Wash-

The article sums up the situation by saying that "Europe must understand that the people of the United States are decided, first of all, to prohibit, if necessary, with the bayonet and rifle, any extension of European domination; seen yet by the American citizen, who blunders blindfold but headlong along what used to be called the path or manifest destiny."

CURIOUS COURT INTRIGUE. One of those curious court intrigues and squabbles of which, as a rule, only posterity hears the details through the publication of some statesman's memcessor to Admiral James Drummond, Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod. Dignity and nice emoluments attach to this office; the woork is, to put it mildly, not laborious, consisting of oc-casionally knocking at the door of the House of Commons to summon the faithful Commoners to the House of Lords to hear the royal assent given to bills. Even this exhausting labor need not be undergone, for there is a yeoman usher, who is paid a fourth of the salary of a gentleman usher, and who can always be called upon to do all the work. The late Admiral Drummond, who was over 80 years old when he died, had drawn his $10,000 classes of the public and gratuitous a year salary for a long time past withschools maintained by the city of Paris. out doing any work whatsoever. In out doing any work whatsoever. In nent garrison will probably remain addition to this handsome salary, the in the capital, but with moderation in Black Rod has quarters in Westminster Palace, consisting of no fewer than 30 fine rooms and furniture, coal, water and gas, all provided at the country's cost, so that he has no occasion to go to the expense of keeping up a private town house. The peculiarity of the present situation is that when in Opposition, Mr. Hanbury, now Secretary of State for the Treasury, tain in perpetuity of my name, Albani, in one of the hospitals of the city of Paris, two beds (or more if the sum should permit) which shall be set apart constantly denounced this sinecure and always voted against the Black Rod's salary. He is a man who prides himself upon the possession of consistency, and it is not unlikely that he will make a fight against the court m-fluence. The struggle will be a severe one. for the Queen has plenty of favorites to provide for, and she is very jealous of Ministerial interference, but oil, by Perignon, to the Carnavalet museum. I bequeath to the city of Paris 26,000 francs, of which my husif Mr. Hanbury will be firm he probably will be able at least to compel a com-promise by which the Black Rod's salary will be reduced to $5,000 a year, without an official residence in Westtions and added: "It is by singing and minster Palace. by following that supreme and above all others, consoling art, that I have accurred all the fortune which I possess

A GRAVE TURN OF EVENTS. The eastern question reached quite a crisis when the envoys of the six powers presented what seems to have very much like an ultimatum to the Porte, in the shape of an identical note; and when the Turkish Governmen, by one wriggle or another, failed to reply, it looked very much as if the British fleet of nineteen warships peacefully rocking and pitching at its anchorage off the Island of Lemnos, convenient distance of the mouth of the Dardanelles, would be called upon to still further impress upon the Turkish mind that Europe was in earnest in demanding reforms for Armenia and protection for the Christian subjects of the Porte. If there is any doubt as to the grave turn of events which affairs in the east glided into during the week, it may be promptly dispelled by the statement that the situation was serious enough to call for the sudden re-Britain, who was enjoying the autumn breezes at his estate near that seaport, and in the equally hurried return from Switzerland of the Right Hon. Geo. J. Goschen, First Lord of Admiralty, and the call for a Cabinet Council, which is to be held early this

AN IMMENSE FLEET. The British Mediterranean squadron has been off the island of Lemnos, not far from the entrance of the Straits of the Dardaneijes, for two weeks past. The ordinary cruise of the fieet, it is true, would have brought the British warships to this island; but the cruise would have been continued, and no prolonged stop would, under ordinary circumstances, have been made so near the Dardanelles. refore it is not surprising that even the Turks have become con-vinced of the fact that the ships of Gibraltar now off the island of Lemnos are there under direct instructions from the British Government.

The British warships now near the Dardanelles are: The Ramillies, flag ship of the Mediterranean squadron, a first-class battleship of 14,150 tons displacement, 14 guns; the Hood battle ship, 14,150 tons, 14 guns; the Tratle ship, 14,150 tons, 14 guns; the Tra-falgar battle ship, 11,940 tons, 10 guns; the Nile battle ship, 11,940 tons, 10 guns; the Anson battle ship, 10,800 tons, 10 guns; the Barfleur battle ship, 10,500 tons, 14 guns; Howe, battle ship, 10,300 tons, 10 guns; Rodney battle ship, 10,300 tons, 10 guns; Collingwood, battle ship, 8,500 tons, 10 guns; Hawk. battle ship, 8,500 tons, 10 guns; Hawk, cruiser, 7,350 tons, 12 guns; Cambrian, cruiser, 4,360 tons, 10 guns; Arethusa, cruiser, 4,300 tons, 10 guns; Vulcan, torpedo depot ship, 6,620 tons, 8 guns; Sybille, cruiser, 3,400 tons, 8 guns; Barham, cruiser, 1,830 tons, 6 guns; Surprise, dispatch vessel, 1,650 tons, 4 guns; Dryad, gunboat, 1,070 tons, 2 guns; Ship Jack, gunboat, 735 tons, 2 guns, and the Ardent, torpedo boat destroyer, 6 guns.

THE ATTITUDE OF FRANCE. Although it outwardly seems as if there is perfect accord between the six powers in regard to the eastern question, the position of France is exciting some uneasiness in certain circles, and the question whether France will attempt to go to war is occupying many minds in England as well as in Germany, the general opinion being that she would be guided in this as well as in many other matters by

A REFORM WAVE. A reform wave is rising to sweep over the iniquitous part of the city of London. Reputable residents of Piccadilly and Regent street, tradesmen and others who resent the li-cense the police allow the disreputable women who swarm in the district, have organized a movement to effect a reform. This has resulted in the appointment of a committee to try to sweep out the corrupt police who are paid weekly to patronize disorderly houses and to protect such of their female inmates as will submit to be blackmailed. The committee is also charged with the duty of warning the landlords not to rent their houses to this class of tenants and to prosecute offenders. A conference has been summoned with the object of making the movement general to suppress the existing system of fla-grant immorality at which the police have long connived. The Social Purity Party is preparing to contest the licensing committee of the London County Council in the matter of music

MRS. LANGTRY'S LAWSUIT. The suit of Mrs. Langtry for the order from the Union Bank promises not only to be a noted society case, but to result in settling the question whether the bank is responsible when it receives no consideration for valuables deposited with it. All the English banks thus receive the valuables of their rich and aristocratic clients when the latter find occasion to leave town or country house. The Union Bank has retained Sir Edward Clarke and two other famous London coun-Asquith, the late Home and also the late Attorney-General.

FRANCE AND MADAGASCAR. The French are rejoicing over the fall of Antananarivo and the negotiation of peace in Madagascar. Gen. Duchesne has conquered nature rather than the Hovas, for they are a cowardly race, who have not fought with time properly belonging to their most any spirit for their Queen. The French flying column had to battle mainly trackless forests and feverbreeding swamps, the work was brilliant and creditable to the staff and to the rank and file. It meets with immediate recognition from a grateful Government and country. Honors are showered upon the officers, and the public buildings are illuminated in many cities. The expedition has been so costly in life and treasure that the protectorate, in order to satisfy the French, will have to be so complete as to be virtually identical with annexation. A permain the capital, but with moderation in dealing with the conquered race and sovereign the staff ought not to have further trouble with the natives. This military success has rescued the Ministry from immediate downfall. Medals are distributed and paeans are sounded, and the mortality in the swamps and the bad management of the expedition will soon be forgotten.

BOUNDARY DISPUTE. Trouble has arisen between Great Britain and France over the Burmese-Chinese frontier. Under the Chinese convention France acquired a large area of territory in the State of Kaing Hung. Great Britain denies the right of China to cede this territory, which is part of the buffer state between the French and British possessions in that part of the world. If France declines to give up the territory in question British troops will occupy that portion of it which is claimed to be part of Burmah, which is to all intents and purposes British

THE SULTAN IN HOT WATER. The situation in Turkey and Southeastern Europe continues to be disquieting, and it is now clear that the Armenian question is by no means the greatest of the Sultan's difficulties. The danger of anarchy throughout the Turkish Empire has become acute, and all the powers realize that it is impossible to rely upon the well-meaning but weak monarch in his present state of almost personal terror. Every effort is now being made by the representatives of the powers in Constantinople to prevent the Sultan from resorting some rash, impulsive action which will upset the equilibrium of the whole European situation. It is represented that Abdul-Hamid has been particularly nervous during the past fortnight. He is guarded at the immense palace Yildis Kiosk by two regiments of Nubian blacks and Albanian whites, who hate each other ferociously. This turn from Dieppe, France, of the Mar-quis of Salisbury, Premier of Great der their protection. The Nubians are more fierce than the Albanians, but less rapacious. The two corps are really a gang of scoundrels of the worst type. They are all fine-looking men, splendidly dressed, living almost in luxury, and practically allowed to do as they please so long as they attend to their duties. These regiments are extravagantly and regularly paid, the fact being that the Sultan tries to bribe and indulge them into loyalty. LATEST LETTER BY MR. "Hawarden Castle, Chester." ROYALTY ALMOST MOBBED AT INVERNESS.

It is not often that royalty gets mobbed in this country, but the Duke and Duchess of York had that unpleasant experience at the Inverness railway station on Tuesday. The Duke had been visiting the Duke of Sutherland, and on his way south he, as the Earl of Inverness, which is one of his subtitles, agreed to receive a loyal address from the provost and burgesses of the town of Inverness. Any other second-rate English town would, as a matter of routine, on such occasions have taken elaborate measures for keeping back common persons from the royal presence. The Inverness not-ables trusted in Providence, and, as they did not also help themselves, the result was disastrous.

The mob took possesion of the station platform, swept the privileged aristocrats from their places of vantage, hustled the provost, and nearly swept the royal Duke and Duchess underneath the wheels of the railway carriages. Irreverent youths climbed up to the roof of the royal saloon car and punctuated the reading of the local address with jibes; and the Duke's reply to the address was rendered inaudible beyond a few feet distant, owing to the disloyal howls and hisses of grownup malcontents. The whole ceremony did not last more than five minutes, but that short period was probably the warmest five minutes the Duke and Duchess of York ever experienced. If the provost dreamed of getting a value of her jewels taken on a forged knighthood for organizing this presentation, he knows better now. The Duke of York left his titular town ragingly indignant, and there is no doubt that he took care forthwith to inform his royal grandmother.

"TOMMY ATKINS" STIRRED UP.

Some agitation prevails among the rank and file of the British army owing to the issue of a sont of new sumptuary regulation by the retiring commanderin-chief, who, it seems, during his fareand two other famous London counsel, and Mrs. Langtry, who seems to be in America, has engaged Herbert the late. To the old Duke of Cambridge's critical eye it was evident that the dry rot of effeminate luxury had set in among the inmates of the barrack rooms. The younger men not only curled their hair and anointed it liberally with oil, which of itself must take up a good deal of gracious sovereign, but the curls were allowed to stray half an inch and even more in front of the forage caps, and its vic- which, of course, is conducive to all not without honor. It manner of military excesses. Morenot as showy an exploit over, the forage caps themselves were, the Chitral campaign, but in too many cases, cocked at an irregular angle, for no other purpose, apparently, than to give the curls a good show. A general order has now been issued calling attention to the Queen's regulations, which prescribe the manner in which the hair shall be worn by private soldiers and the way forage caps should be kept on the head. The order does not specify the exact punshment for contumacy, but doubtless this is also provided for by the Queen's regulations, which, indeed, regulate everything in the British army, to the number of buttons on the tunics and the material of the shoe-laces. Strange to say, this sort of pa-ternal despotism, which is quite characteristic of the Duke of Cambridge, has never interfered with his popularity among the rank and file, and this order, although it hits Tommy Atkins in one of his tenderest feelings, has not prevented the soldiers from enthusiastically cheering their old chief at his farewell reviews. In fact, this enthusiasm has been so marked as to displease the permanent bureaucrats at the War Department, who see in it the probable establishment of a dangerous precedent. It has therefore been conveyed to the Duke "that although cheers from the troops are not irregular when given to him as a member of the royal family, yet in his military capacity they are against the regulations of the service."

FRANKLIN MCLEAY IN ENGLAND

A copy of the Yorkshireman, a paper devoted to the doings of that English county, has been received by the "Advertiser." The front page contained a picture of the clever young Canadian in the character of Nero, and the following sketch was adorned with his pic-ture in the characterization of The Bat "With this number we present our readers with portraits of Mr. Frank-lin McLeay, one in his habit as he now, in his 29th year, lives, the others in the two parts in which he has most impressed himself upon the public, namely as the Bat in 'Pharpoh,' and as Nero in 'The Sign of the Cross.' Of the weird power and pathos of the former we need not remind our readers, his creation, the Bat, was pronounced one of the most wonderful characters ever seen on the stage, and more than one critic declared that no other actor could so well play the part. Mr. McLeay's Nero is scarcely less startling—it is essentially untra-ditional, unexpected, but it grips and thrills, and each stroke in his delineation of the actor-emperor, the vain-glorious monarch who alienated the sympathies of his people as much by his lack of dignity as by his cruelty, is based on history.

Mr. McLeay is a Canadian, and few have had so thorough an equipment for dramatic work as he. Before meeting Mr. Barrett he was one of the best authorities on English literature in Canada, and had lectured for a season in Boston on Shakespeare. Since joining Mr. Barrett he has played about 40 parts, conspicuous among them are Iago, the Bishop and the Deemster in "Ben-my-Chree." the Tetrarch in 'Claudian,' the Ghost in 'Hamlet.' Denbadus and Appius Claudius in

'Virginius,' Father Christmas in 'The Silver King,' the Bat in 'Pharaoh,' and Nero in 'The Sign of the Cross.' During the past season Mr. McLeay signed a contract to star in America in 'A Modern Mephisto,' under one of the most excellent New York managements, but was permitted to withdraw in order to play Nero and re-main yet longer with Mr. Barrett, whom he considers one of the greatest figures of the stage. Indeed, Mr Mc-Leay's admiration for his chief is almost unbounded. He believes that no one has done more for the English drama than Mr. Barrett, and no one upon it has ever combined to so eminent a degree so many talents. Mr.

Barrett's company he thinks one of the San Antonio, Texas, Oct. 14 -Corbett has received the following telegram from W. A. Brady at Hot Springs: "Come at once. Everything fixed all right; protection guaranteed." Corbett will leave for London Scotchmen Getting Ready for Winter Action.

The St. Andrew's Society Will Not Join with the Charity Organization Society.

The quarterly meeting of the Lon-

It was arranged that the annual Maspeth, L. I., Oct. 14.—The long-postponed fight between Young Griffo meeting for the election of officers should be held during the last week of October-the date to be duly advertised. Not only those who have hitherto been members, but every citizen of Scottish birth and extraction will be invited to participate in this meeting, as well as in the anniversary dinner a month later. Mr. John G. Jones, treasurer of the demonstration at Port Stanley, reported that the affair was a great success and that a substantial sum was added to the benevolent fund after all expenses had been met.

The president submitted the proposed constitution of "the Charity Organization Society of London," which had been forwarded to him. He also reported that he had attended a meeting or the new society, the object of which he explained.

An interesting discussion foliowed. The general opinion was that, while there might be a find for the new organization in London, the work of St. Andrew's Society, in lending a helping hand, as occasion arose, to needly citizens of Scottish birth and origin, does not call for outside aid further than is now open to the so-ciety. A motion to this effect was moved by Mr. Robert Reid and seconded by Cot. John Macbeth. The St. Andrew's Society will not, therefore, affiliate in any way with the Charity Organization Society.

DOING A GRAND WORK.

The Annual Meeting of the Y. W. C. A. Increasing Membership-Encouraging Reports-Officers Elected.

The annual meeting of the Y. W. C. T. U. was held Thursday evening in their Hodgins. rooms, Spencer Block. The meeting was opened by singing "He Leadeth Me," and prayer by Rev. Mr. Rigsby. The president, John Atkins, for $4,500. Mr. Hilborn has Miss M. Trebilcock, occupied the chair, and in a few well chosen remarks explained the object of the meeting, which was to interest the ladies of London in the work done by indebted to the health some $125. In McAlpine was arested in Ektoric or the meeting, which was to interest erworth at the instance of the Traders' Bank at Glencoe. McAlpine is indebted to the health some $125. the ladies of London in the work done by the Young Woman's Christian Association of the city, the Y. W. C. T. U. being the managing board of that association. Not leave with the Middlesex fall assizes amounted to $120.40. The petit jurors carried away is the control of the middlesex fall assizes amounted to $120.40. The petit jurors carried away is the control of the middlesex fall assizes amounted to $120.40. long ago it had been asked "Why London $458 10. The small grand jury pay is had no Y. W. C. A.?" so it was deemed due to the reduction of the jury from time to let all know that this much-needed 24 to 13 members. player, it is a coincidence for which I am work has been carried on for several years, and now has a membership of over 200. The president then called for the reports of the different departments of work, which would the W. F. M. Society was held in the cess at the Grand on Saturday night, met by the association.

The recording secretary, Miss Rigsby, reported sixteen business meetings held during the year, all of which were well attended, and at each of which a Bible reading was given by one of the members.

The general secretary's report was very encouraging. The total attendance at the rooms during the year has been 14,500, of which 8,823 attended during the day, 5,677 so necessary for the success of light in the evening and 4,189 were present at the lunch hour. The increased attendance Wm. C. Andrews, in the title role of at the latter is most encouraging, the total Jack Luster, had a part eminently attendance being 1,000 in excess of that of work of H. Rees Davies, as Jackson last year. The rest and change of scene, with the privilege of a cup of hot tea or Luster, a stormy, eccentric, and fussy other beverage, and the use of the piano, the ladies of the congregation, the aslibrary and magazine table, cannot but what of an eccentric, took his part with a refreshing originality of conattest that this branch of the work is greatly Albert Livingstone, as Ned appreciated. The treasurer reported $537 raised, with an expenditure of $530 23, leaving a bal-Ponsby very cleverly. She has a good ance of $6 77 on hand. The report of the press department stated that a report of the meetings had been sent to the "Advertiser," Free Press, Echo and Home Journal, which have all very kindly aided in bringing the cause before the pub-

The evangelistic department gave an outline of the subjects taken up for Bible study and the great benefit derived therefrom.

The most important report of the evening was then given by Miss Kirkpatrick, that of the Y, W. C. A. To throw around the young women of the city influences which will develop a higher and nobler womanhood has been the object of this department, and the bright homelike rooms, the evening classes, literary evenings, helpful talks, King's Daughter meetings and devotional exercises have done much to attain that object. New members are being constantly added, 80 in all during the year. The Bible class held its meetings on Tuesday evening throughout the year and much good has been accomplished. Educational classes in reading, grammar, arithmetic and bookkeeping were held during the first part of the season. In May, through the kindness of Mr. Colt, of the London Shorthand school, who generously offered tuition free to members, a class in shorthand was formed and has continued up to the present time.

Thursday evening a class in club swinging and drill met for physical exercise and recreation, after which the art class assembled who have, under the supervision of Mr. Jas. Davidson, of the London, England, Art School, executed some creditable work. A choral class conducted by Miss Walker (late of the Toronto Conservatory of Music) was formed in April and its meetings were a source of much pleasure to the members. Cooking lessons were given by ladies proficient in the culinary art at several Friday evenings during the winter. They were of a very practical nature and were much enjoyed. Literary evenings have been held monthly to give the members a taste for good reading and to bring them in contact with the lives and works of the great writers. Beside this the members have been priviledged to listen to interesting and helpful talks by ladies prominent in educational and philanthropic work. A temperance evening and a reception have been held monthly. The King's Daughters Circle in connection with the association has done good work, both to the spiritual lives of the members and in helping the needy. Summerholm, the outing home of the association at Port Stanley, has had a season of marked success. During July and August 85 young women enjoyed a delightful outing under sheltered and homelike conditions and returned to their duties physically benefited by the rest and change.

The reports were then adopted and the president requested those present to give strongest, resident or traveling, from whom Mr. Barrett seeks always to their aid by telling to others the work that is being done, that the people of London may know that their support and sympathy is needed, for the fields of usefulness are C. LONDON. London, Saturday, Oct. 12.-Business on the London Cheese Board today was brisker than it had been for many weeks. There was a good at-tendance of both buyers and sellers, but low prices prevailed. From 7 1-2c to 8 1-2c was freely bid, but holders in all cases except three preferred to wait for higher figures. Bryanston sold at 7 13-16c, Murray's at 8 1-2c, and Kerwood at 7 3-4c. The factories Thamesford ...... 260 Bryanston ...... 165

Up to and including the meeting of Saturday, the total cheese offered this season on the London board amounted to 125,823 boxes, and of this quantity only 24,017 boxes were sold. The offerings on May 11, the opening day, were the smallest on the list, reaching only 1,259 boxes, while July 13 leads with 10,818 boxes boarded. The amount sold on the market is very small, but it cannot be inferred from it that the factorymen have the balance on their hands. On every day of the week, excepting Saturday and Sunday, the majority of the buy-The low prices which have prevailed e remembered, too, that throughout last season high prices were readily paid, the old country market was over-stocked, and considerable money dropped. MORE PROOF AGAINST HOLMES.

Detective Gayer Secures Witness in Irvington Ind Indianapolis, Oct. 14.-Interest in the H. H. Holmes case was revived here yesterday by the reappearance of Detective Geyer, of Philadelphia. He turned up unexpectedly in Irvington, going to the house where Howard Pietzel was murdered and his body burned. Geyer fitted a key from his pocket in the front door night latch. It worked perfectly. The key had been found on the person of Holmes after his arrest in Philadelphia. Dr. Thompson, who lived in the house before Holmes occupied it, recognized he key as the one he had himself carried for two years. Geyer arranged to take Dr. Thompson, Dr. Bryem and other witnesses from Irvington to Philadelphia on Oct. 26. He will take with him the remains of the Pietzel boy, including the teeth, mounted. He will also take the clothes identified by the family.

CHAPTER VII. - UNDER THE

Mr. Warren held up the lantern while Dr. Nason examined the animal "Of course, this is no practical joke," ne said half absently, with his face urned toward Will. "Good gracious, no!" cried Will.

"Elsie and I--" "Tut, tut," interrupted the doctor. "I knew you hadn't anything to do with it. I was thinking out loud. Somebody has borrowed Rob for a ride and a hard one, but he seems to have brought him back in good condition. I wonder who it could be?"

Elsie tugged gently at Will's sleeve. The tramps on the mountain," she "Wait a while," whispered Will, softly. 'I thought of them, too. When I get a chance I'll ask your father all about the matter, and I'll tell him about those two."

Mr. Warren said nothing in reply to the doctor's question. He felt certain that this episode was in some way connected with the tragedy on Baker Mountain, but be had no suggestion to make regarding it. He was greatly given under all circumstances to keeping his own counsel, and at present he was wipolly convinced that wisdom and safety dictated silence.

The doctor unhitched the horse and led him to the barn. "It's the oddest case of horse stealing I ever knew," he said; 'there are just two points about it that are certain: First, that the horse was ridden hard; and second, that he went to the north and not toward the village. But who did it, and why? It's no use to speculate without a clew either to motive

Mr. Warren had gone to the barn with the doctor, and was neighbor rub Rob down, when he suddenly remembered the article that he had dropped into the catch-all in the spare room. He had not looked at it, he had never seen a diamond in his life at close enough range to know what it was like, but he had read how such jewels sparkle. There was a vague impresion in his mind, too, that diamonds sometimes shone with their own light. What if the eyes of his wife or Golding should be attracted by a flash from that commonplace eatch-all branging beside the old-fashioned bureau? It would be the same if his wife saw it, for she would innocently remark upon it, and then Golding would know.
"Doctor," said Mr. Warren, "I think I'd better step in and see how Martha's getting on. You don't need me, do you?"

"Certainy not. Go on. I'll join you in a few minutes."

Mr. Warren hung the lantern on a peg and hurried from the barn to

"It ain't at all likely to be a dia-mond," he thought, trying to fortify himself against disappointment, "but whatever it is that man Golding shan't have it if I can help it. I don't believe he has any right to Freeman Dutton's property, and if Freeman gets well and that proves to be diamond-I'll give it to him, of Elste and Will were in the sitting room and Mr. Warren looked in to see if Golding were with them.

"I want to speak to you when you get a chance, Nick," said Will. "All right, hang around a while longer," he responded, and hastened to the spare room.

Golding sat in the chair near the window. Mrs. Warren was nearer the hed. Neither had said a word since Mrs. Warren had rejected Golding's

Mr. Warren entered rather abruptly, and both glanced at him with inquiry in their eyes. "Nothing's happened, I s'pose," he said, glancing furtively at the red and white catch-all. "The doctor is going to stay here tonight."

"I'm glad to hear that," said Gold-ing; "and at the same time I suppose It means that Freeman's condition is

"He hasn't told me anything defin-ite about the case," responded War-ren, wondering when Golding would leave, and how he could be made to go without further trouble. There was no gleam from the wall beside the bureau. Whatever Mr. Warren had dropped there had not been discovered, and his fingers itched to take it forth and examine it, while in his heart he kept repeating that in all probability the article was some trifle of no value. A diamond loose in a vest pocket! It was absurd, of course, and yet he must satisfy himself.

Golding did not stir, and Mr. Warren sat down. The minutes passed in silence until Dr. Nason returned. Then Golding rose and approached him.

"I understand you are going to remain through the night," he said. "Is there any chance that the patient will be conscious before morning?" "I don't like to say no," replied the

"Is he likely to be delirious and talk unconsciously?"

"I won't say that it is likely, but he might drop into unconsciousness or delirium is likely to be of the greatest importance to me. Couldn't you let me know if he begins to rave? I shall be at Mr. Newcombe's house, and I would come up at once. If Freeman were conscious I should ask him one question only, and he would answer me, I know he would. Matters of the greatest consequence both to myself and him might be revealed in his delirium. Won't you send for me his delirium. Won't you send for me if he falls to talking?"

When Golding was about midway in this appeal Mrs. Warren cautiously plucked the doctor's sleeve. He did not turn, or give any other indication that he was aware of her touch, but he had felt it and thought he understood it.

"If the patient were delirious," he answered, "there might be danger of exciting him, and if he were conscious ask the doctor where he had thrown your question might be just calculated to disturb him. As a physician

I must look after the physical needs of my patients first."
"But I wouldn't get in the way," urged Golding. "I'd simply stand here and listen.

Again Mrs. Warren plucked the docpatient. What he already knew of the affair on Baker Mountain was sufficient to show that a dark mystery hung about this man, and in Mr. Warren's relation of the discovery that murder had been attempted, there was enough to suggest the possibility of serious trouble for the family. There was no telling how Golding might distort any delirious utterances of the patient into state-ments that it would be difficult, perhaps impossible, for Mr. Warren to meet. And yet, if he himself were present, what harm could follow? It was only plain that Mrs. Warren did not want Golding to remain by the patient's bedside.

"I will bear your request in mind," said the doctor. "I cannot make any more definite promise than that." Golding looked as if he would like to argue the matter, but he refrained and slowly left the room. Warren started toward the bureau, but the doctor had taken his station there and was working over his medicine case. So Mr. Warren followed Golding to the door, glad to be assured that his troublesome visitor was going at last. "You seem to have got an ally in that doctor," said Golding, before the door closed upon him; "but things will come my way, Mr. Warren. I don't make any threats. I merely suggest that after you've slept on it you make up your mind to deal confidently and frankly with me."

"I don't see any call for being confidential with you," responded Warren; "and when you've got any business with me you'll find me square." Golding scowled discontentedly and

"Nick," called Will, from the sitting room, "don't you want to hear something that may be a clew to this mystery?" "Mystery? What mystery?" asked Warren uneasily, as he entered the room and shut the door behind him. "Why, the assault on your-your I suppose he is, even if you friend. did point a gun at him, and the borrowing of the doctor's horse.' "Oh," said Mr. Warren, with an appearance of relief. "That, eh? Well, what's your clew?" "Elsie and I saw two men who looked like tramps on the mountain this evening when we came down. One was colored. I never saw either of them hereabout before."

"Is that all?" "Yes, and I admit it isn't much; but doesn't the fact that two strange characters were lurking about suggest an explanation of what happened at the cabin? I don't know much about it, you know. All I know is what the folks down the street got from Turner and King." It seemed best to Warren that Will should be informed as to so much of the story as had become public, so he told him about finding Dutton on the floor, bound, strangled, apparently dead, and of the later events wherein Mrs. Warren posed as res-

"This Mr. Golding has been all-fired excited about the thing this evening. I don't suppose he's to be blamed, but he has said some pretty harsh things. I won't repeat 'em because he'll likely think differently in the morning. I guess the doctor expects to pull Dutton through all right."

It was clear enough to Will how a stranger like this traveler might suspect Mr. Warren of the foulest crime, and he thought how much stronger that suspicion would be if the little episode of Dutton's call at the house were known, but Will kept these reflections to himself. Warren evidently had confidence in him to say nothing that might alarm Elsie or stimulate damaging rumor. As soon as his conversation with Will was at an end Mr. Warren returned to the sick room. Only his wife was present with the unconscious invalid, the doctor having gone to the sink in the kitchen to prepare some part of his remedies. Mrs. Warren, following the doctor's instructions, was busy tearing up some sheeting. Her husband went straight across the room to the bureau and extended his hand toward the catch-all. Then he stopped abruptly and drew back. The catch-all was empty. Mr. Warren repressed the exclamation that leaped to his lips, and, moving as if he were but half awake, put his fingers into the flimsy little receptacle and felt all about it. "Martha," he said, in tones that quavered in spite of himself, "wherewhen—I mean, what did you do with He raised the catch-all from the nail and held it in his hand as he spoke. Warren gave an indifferent Mrs.

glance at the article and answered: "The doctor thought it would be handy for something or other about his work.

"Yes, but-it's empty, Martha." "Of course, Nicholas; whatever makes you-She checked herself in the middle

I must stev by the had."

"All right," said Mr. Warren, turning away to conceal his agitation; "it's of no consequence."
Dr. Nason came in just then, his grave face showing no evidence of having anything but his professional duties in his mind. Mr. Warren looked searchingly at him as he passed on to the bureau. the contents of the catch-all, but Mr. Warren could not ask it. Why? He asked himself this question, and his answer appalled him by its revelation of the complex situation in which he was involved. Golding had said that no man could resist the temptation of Dutton's diator's sleeve. He frowned severely. The Warrens were his friends, and the silent man on the bed was his ticle that he had taken from Dutton's diameter's sleeve. He frowned severely. The Warrens were his friends, and the months were his friends, and the had taken from Dutton's ticle that he had taken from Dutton's top the had taken from Dutton's top the had taken from Dutton's diameter to be a severely. pocket and dropped into the catch-all were the "President," the most valuable jewel, doubtless, in the collection. Suppose Dr. Nason had seen it, was it not inevitable that he should yield to the temptation of sight, when himself, Warren, was all of a fever with desire for what he had not seen to keep it from Golding and for Dutton, he hastily added to himself.

On the other hand, suppose the doctor had tossed it out without noticing it. Questions would raise others that Mr. Warren shrank from discussing. The one thing ne wanted above all, excepting unlimited diamonds, not was that no inquiry should be made into the past of this unconscious sufferer in the spare room. One question would be likely to lead to another until the whole truth would have to be told or avoided by a series of falsehoods that the gold district. would bring perhaps greater evils than the truth.

He would seek for the diamond, for such he was now persuaded that it secretly, for it did not seem possible that Dr. Nason could have possessed himself of it without showing some sign.

Before morning another though came to Mr. Warren, as he tossed restlessly in bed. Little sleep had visited him, and he felt as day drew near that he cared nothing for it. Just as it was growing light he rose and cautiously left the house.

He took the road up Baker Mountain that led to the site of Sam Springer's cabin. It would doubtless be found now a mere heap of cold ashes. Who could tell what a search there might not bring forth? Mr. Warren took along a rake and a spade, and he hurried as if again a human life depended upon his prompt arrival at the scene. In the gray light of morning one glance was sufficient to show him that he had The cabin was, indeed, a mere ash neap, but the flaky ruins had already been pulled over, and swept up, and raked, and redistributed, until it was patent that not a square inch of the surface on which the cabin had stood had been left uninspected. What sounded like a scornful chuckle came from the thicket at his right. Mr. Warren turned toward the sound, but saw nothing there. Approaching footsteps caused him to turn further about, and then he saw Golding hurrying up the path, he, too, armed with rake and spade. Warren waited for him without stirring, and without a word of greeting. Golding stared at the ash heap. "So you've got ahead of me!" he eried, with a horrible oath. "No!" answered Warren, raising his spade to defend himself. "That's as

He said that the teacher should read some other work than the authorized text-book, and advocated that the teacher should use the ordinary mishaps of the school play-ground as practical instances to supplement the text. He would teach the pupils certain medical prefixes, etc., which occur so frequently as hema-blood; itis-inflammation; epi, hypo, infra, supra, etc. He explained at length the parts of the keen appreciation of our efforts in brain, the nerves, the muscles controlled by them, and the blood-vessels that supply are pleased. -Mr. Hodson, superintendent of Farmers Institutes in Ontario, was in the city over Sunday. The institutes are well organized for winter work, he says. -Critics agree that Walker Whiteside, the tragedian who will play an engagement in this city, Thursday, Oct. 17, is the most finished elocutionist that the stage has produced in recent years. -Rev. Mr. Hunter, a South American missionary, occupied the pulpit of the Centennial Methodist Church yesterday, when special collections and subscriptions were taken during the day for missions. -The play which Otis Skinner will pre-Grand tonight Villon, the Vagabond." It is the story of an incident in the life of Francois Villion, the father of French poetry, the man who did for the poetic literature of France what Chaucer did for our own literature. The play is beautifully staged and mounted, all of the costumes and the scenery used having been made from designs taken from the great paintings of the times. -Rev. W. J. Clark announced from the pulpit yesterday that the anniversary services of the First Presbyterian Church would be held on Sunday, Jan. 19, and that Rev. L. J. Jordan, of St. James' Square Church, Toronto, would preach at both services. Mr. Clark hoped to see the church debt greatly reduced by the special col-lections on that day. "It is a long way ahead," he said, "but I considered it my duty to give abundant notice.' -Mayor Little and Engineer Graydon, of London, were here Friday, and inspected the work on the two new Port Stan ev Railway bridges. The stone abutments and piers for the structure over Kettle Creek are completed, and all the stone work on Mr. Lang explained how the helioterra the mill creek bridge is finished except the north abutment. A soft spot in the clay was met with there, and considerable trouble is being experienced in finding a suitable foundation. - St. Thomas Journal. -Detroit Kews: "To avoid the expense of an assignment, Mayor Mason of Windsor has turned over to T. B. Escott, of London, for the benefit of his creditors, the chattel mortgages and notes given him by W. J, Brett and Thompson Bros. for his groce: y and brick yard. Mr. Mason's in- in our own work, but the work of load he has had to carry in building and running the brickyard in Windsor. He was making brick in Sandwich, but decided to move to Windsor and try some experiments which did not pan out as expected." -Postmaster Adam Brown, of Hamilton, father of Mrs. E. B. Smith, city, has received a letter from Mrs. Brown, who with her daughter was a passenger on the steamer Mariposa, which was wrecked in the Straits of Belle Isle on September 23. Mrs. Brown says nothing regarding the alleged piratical actions of the inhabitants on the coast, but, on the contrary, praises the manner in which they assisted the wrecked passengers and served them with provisions. After being landed on the rocks by means of a chair swung on a hawser, the passengers had to walk six miles to Forteau bay, where they were taken on board the Sardinian, and conveyed to England.

IMPORTANT TO METHODISTS. The Court of Appeal of the Methodist Church of Canada has decided that the actions and rulings of the Rev. Dr. Galbraith in connection with the troubles in the Elm Street Methodist Church, Toronto. were in perfect harmony with the law of the church. The pastor gave rulings with reference to the trustees' relation to the matter of hiring musicians, holding that he must be consulted as to the engagement of musicians and that the usage of the church is that he and the trust board shall hold the power to engage and dismiss musicians. The attempt to restrain the pastor and trustees has therefore failed.

THE MASTER'S "AT HOME."

Mr. Adam Beck, master, tendered an "At Home" to the London Hunt Club and friends at Glenmore on Saturday afternoon, which was attended by almost the entire club membership and nearly 100 outsiders. The affair proved as thoroughly enjoyable as the "At Homes" previously given this autumn by various members. The guests were received by Mrs. George C. Gibbons, Mrs. H. E. Gates and Mrs. Freer. After the party had asembled, the huntsmen mounted, and with the pack of hounds took a cross country run of from ten to twelve miles. It began Adelaide street to the Breen farm. Hounds and horses were rested for a few minutes there, and the run was continued northward to Geary's cheese factory. The huntsmen were followed by a large number in carriages. The return to the kennels was made by way of the road in rear of the college, across which runs a small creek. Mr. Helm, one of the riders, was crossing at the side of the road instead of by the bridge, when his horse stumbled and fell, throwing him into the water, but fortunately inflicting no injuries. Refreshments were served at the kennels and the company dis-

Four London Lodges Attend Divine Service at St. George's.

Sermon by Rev. T. A. Wright, of Brantford-His Remarks to the Brethren.

The annual divine service of the four subordinate London lodges of the Ancient Order of United Workmen was held in St. George's Church, London West, yesterday afternoon. Rev. Bro. T. A. Wright, of Brantford, preached to the brethren.

The Workmen assembled at the Al-

bion block, Richmond street, Star, London, Fidelity and Woodbine Lodges being represented to the number of over 400. Headed by the band of the Seventh Battalion, they marched to the church via Dundas and Center streets, and the Wharncliffe road, Rev. Mr. Wright's address was very suitable to the occasion. "It gives me a great deal of pleasure," he said, "to be present and look into the faces of so many members. I rejoice to know that the order has such a good standing and is so strong in this city of yours. I rejoice likewise to know that there are 35,000 who have suffi-cient unselfishness of heart and sufficient of the love of Jesus Christ in their hearts to follow out the divine injunction to help bear one another's burdens. There is not much done in this world by any of us but what has got some selfish seed at the bottom of it, but the work this organization undertakes is one which is entirely void of any such seed. The law of cooperative burden bearing in the sense in which it was viewed by Workmen had no selfishness in it whatever. Not for one single farthing of the money spent in this cause will you ever directly or indirectly receive any return, therefore I would impress upon your minds that this is work which meets with divine approval and the sanction of the Lord Jesus Christ. I do not intend to give you a batch of figures to burden your minds. I came here with just one thought in my mind. It strikes me very forcibly that there are a great many Workmen who had been paying their money in with not a very good grace, thinking they were receiving no benefit whatever. To arrest such thoughts is my desire, and there is one remedy, and only one, which I consider will arrest this difficulty, and that is the deep sense that we are standing side by side and shoulder to shoulder, not ability to continue business is due to the one no less man, the Lord of life and glory, and this must cause every Christian man to pay his assessments more freely." Mr. Wright dwelt for some time on the works of Christ and his lifting up of Peter's mother from a bed of sickness, and drew beautiful lessons therefrom. further spoke of the work of the order, warned the brethren not to become disheartened at any attempts at persecution, and eulogized the society for its building up of persons morally. After the service, in which Rev.

Canon Smith assisted, the procession reformed and returned to the meeting place, where the usual thanks were

THE APPAREL AND THE MAN.

A Washington tailor says that a man should dress as well as he can afford, and that he will not lose by so doing. many a man can afford the suit better than he can afford the time to pick it. But it doesn't take long when a man has an idea of the flabric he wishes, the style and the price. It is the business of the advertisement to help the busy man with hints upon these points; and it is doing great business in that way this month.-Philadelphia Record.

The Age of Niagara Falls.

The savants are having a very interesting time in determining the age of Niagara Falls, and from the most recent papers on the subject it is quite evident that great diversity of opinion exists among those who have made it a matter of investigation. Life is full of problems. The diversity of our common nature suggests equally interesting questions. Why are thing so? Why not otherwise? Now for instance the minor ailments that afflict us. Why should toe ache not be agreeable instead of painful? Why should so many fraudulent and flesh. eating substitutes for Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor be imposed upon the people? Putnam's is sure. Putnam's is safe and painless. Putnam's makes no sore spots. Use Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor.
