Controllers to Go Into Question Thoroughly at Meeting on Tuesday.

The request of the board of education for debentures amounting to nearly $300,000 to carry out a building program for schools and Collegiate Institutes during this year, formed the chief topic of discussion at the meeting of the board of control this morning.

The discussion did not result in any action being taken, however, and the request will be threshed out again at Tuesday evening's meeting of the board before it is passed on to the city council.

The building program proposed by the board includes the spending of $96,800 for Collegiate purposes, the details being as follows: Site in East London, $10,300; site in South London, $6,500; new Collegiate, East London, $50,000; rejuvenating old Colegiate

For public school purposes the following expenditures are deemed absolutely necessary by the education board: Grand avenue site, $5,500 Grand avenue building, $45,000; River view site, $1,000; Riverview building, $45,000; Charlotte street site, $10,300; Charlotte street building $45,000; St. Nicholas school, $3,000; improving Princess avenue school, $25,000; a total of $189,300, or a grand total of $286,100.

No Way To Evade Expenditure. OFF MOVING TRAIN

Holds Up Clerk, Takes Sacks and Escapes Before Train Reaches South Carolina Station.

[Canadian Press.]

Columbia, S. C., March 6.—The authori ies redoubled their efforts today to capure the bandit who last night held up and robbed the mail car of Southern Railway train No. 11, from Charleston to Columbia just at the train reached the latter place. Aided by the local police, special officers of the railroad company were scouring the country for the robber, but so far no trace of him has been found.

The officers were hampered in their search by the lack of an adequate description of the robber. C. E. Thomas, the mail clerk, could only describe the man as masked and about 5 feet 2 inches tall. Another difficulty was the fact that the bandit, after robbing the train, escap ed some time before the search could be undertaken, although the robbery was reported immediately after the train arrived n-Columbia. Boarding the train just as it entered the city limits, the robber, flourishing a re-volver, ordered Thomas to stand with his face to the wall, and, after quickly securing several sacks of registered mail, jump ed off the train and made off, some time before the train reached the station. Until the records of the Charleston post office could be examined, it will be im possible to ascertain the value of the packages taken. This examination was

Since negotiations for elevated tracks between the City of London and the Grand Trunk Railway were suspended some Church; J. C. Watters, president of the years ago the railway has no doubt saved a large amount on the Dominion Trades and Labor Congress, and cost of the improvements. If it had put away a reasonable sinking fund for the work each year the amount required would have been more than realized by this time. It is true that at the present time the Grand Trunk pays taxes on a large amount of cil instructed the secretaries to write idle property, but it would have had to do so in any event, to the various provincial governments, whether tracks were elevated or not.

EVERYBODY WANTS IT.

It is generally admitted that there is not a citizen of London who would not be willing to pay his share for the removal of level crossings, the demolition of a station of which the railway commission instead of by party patronage, and has been an employee of the Grand officials themselves say they are ashamed, and the eradication of a disgraceful strip of dilapidated buildings and dumps through the heart of the city. While London has decided to spend huge sums on other schemes it has done nothing toward the advancement of Grand Trunk improvements.

WHY WAIT ON TORONTO? The city has been told that it must wait until Toronto and Montreal have secured their improvements. Yet the City of Stratford was able to move in and secure a new station while London sat quietly with folded hands, waiting for Providence to bring the needed improvements.

The conditions existing along the Grand Trunk right of way are a blight upon the city. The worst kind of an impression peratures for the 12 is given to visitors, and so far as can be learned, no public man has made a move to advance a program for better conditions. The city has the opportunity of going to the railway commission, 28 above; lowest, 26 secure the proportion of cost, and HAVE THE WORK ORDER-ED STARTED.

THE GREATEST PROBLEM.

If the public men elected by the people are set upon advancing the city by the expenditure of large amounts of money, the first matter that should have been considered was the Grand Trunk situation. The securing for the city of modern facilities will be a great work, in which all can unite.

Why not make a start now, Mr. Businessman? It will be several years before the work can be under way. It is the duty of the city council, the board of trade, and every body of men that is supposed to represent the people to take the matter up.

Otherwise it will be a matter of ten or even twenty years before the city will have secured these necessary improvements. Here is an opportunity for a broad, non-partisan movement for London. It will cost nothing immediately. It will not add a dollar to the present tax rate. For the next few years the work will be in preparation. Why not begin now? Why not have a Ridout street subway to relieve traffic conditions temporarily?

MOVINGPICTURES

ENATOR LELAND STANFORD, who gave a University to his state, California, "was a breeder of fast horses, and it was through his efforts to obtain a scientific analysis of the motion of a horse's legs that motion pictures came to be invented," and motion pictures are here to stay. The man who first used an Umbrella was mobbed; ditto the man who first appeared in London in a Silk Hat. The inventor of the Stove to burn hard coal was imprisoned because people said it was a fraud, though he demonstrated his stove by using it himself. The man who said burn your Ashes with salt, did not sell out soon enough. Suffragettes get forcible feeding; Salvation Army lassies, until recently, got little better. The girls and boys who dance the Tango, get? and the women who wear Slit Skirts and Peek-a-boo Waists, get "Oh, I say!" A generation ago the men had to get off the sidewalk and open wide the door to let the Hoop Skirt and Bustle and Big Sleeve have room. All a Moving Picture. The world is ruled by sentiment, utility and fashion. We have a few Quakers who dare to keep up their own idea of dress, but the world demands change, and it's the changes that keeps things moving. The London Advertiser Printing Co.,

LONDON, FRIDAY, MARCH 6. Western Ontario is first for hydroradials. The farmers and the labor unions are against the policy of the present Government. How can it withstand such an alliance?

That sphinxlike face doesn't necessarily mask a stupendous secret. He may be trying to recall what his wife told him to fetch home.

Voliva, head of Zion City, says any man who brings tobacco into his camp Is to be condemned to Hades forthwith. There's a doubt whether Zion City will ever be much more bothered by smokers.

The commission on the Transconfinental Railway report great extravasance in its building. And for about eight months' labor the two commislioners get $63,382. If this report were a true one this would be a clear case of the dangers of infection.

Huerta, the nominal president of Mexico, says he will retain office for life. His predecessor, Madero, did that, though the life was not very long. It seems to be the custom of the country. Mexican presidents all do that, unless they leave the country at night.

Mr. Rockefeller is in trouble. The State of Ohio, where he lives, is after him for income tax, and wants $12,-000,000 out of him. He has moved away to New York State, where he says he will not have to pay more than six millions. As his income is only about $300,000 a day, poor men who think they are doing pretty well with 3 a day will all feel sorry for him.

Col. Hughes was quite bold charging Mr. Fisher with graft, but he took care to hide behind "Parliamentary privilege" when he did it. And he still hides there, though Mr. Fisher challenges him to come out where he can be got at. That is no reflection on the colonel's courage, because it is well known that in many cases discretion is the better part of valor. And this is one of the cases.

The C. P. R. is going to spend $80,-000,000 in extensions and improvements on its line-about a third of the cost of a well built through line like the National Transcontinental. And Mr. Gutelius, who condemns the late Government's policy, was a trusted employee of the C. P. R. More than that his connection with the road is only temporarily broken; for the Minister of Railways says he has only been loaned to the Government for two years. But it can be understood why the C. P. R. and its employees should not approve of the building of a rival line as a first-class road. They would like it to be inferior to

It is reported that Father Vaughan, an English divine, has been advising the people of Great Britain to emigrate to the United States instead of Can-He says we have too much cold weather, and too many people out of employment. One farmer, he says, advertised for a plowman, and rereived 2,000 applications. We are disposed to think the reverend gentleman has been misrepresented. He is somewhat of a sensational preacher, and doubtless likes to say startling things. But when he talks about 2,000 answers to a farmer's advertisement, If he did say it, he was clearly talking through his headgear. And why any unprejudiced person who has visited both Canada and the United States, should recommend the former as the preferable place for emigrants, especially from Britain, is a mystery.

THE WORKINGMAN"S FRIEND. R. Verveille, the labor representa-M tive in the House of Commons, introduced a bill providing for an eighthour day on all Government works. By the rules of the House, bills of a the railway commission holds the public nature, introduced by a private key to the situation in its authority member, come up for consideration during the first four Thursdays of the If Parliament opens on a that day has never been counted. If the Government or more, there should be a rousing movethe Speaker thought it advisable to alter the established custom of Parlia- handicap, embracing crossing delays, a ment, fairness to all parties would disgraceful stretch of land through have suggested that due notice should the city, made up of dumps, shacks have been given, and no member and storeyards, a panonama of backtrapped in this way. been one which the Government favored, the usual custom would have been followed, and it would have come up all reproaches upon London. Citifor consideration in due course. But, of course, that was not the case; and the labor representative was turned a consideration of the greatest of all down. The man who is supposed to look after the interests of the working men in the House should have seen to it that the bill had a chance for discussion. That would not have committed the Government to its support, it would only have given Mr. Verveille an opportunity to put his case before the House. But doubtless it was more convenient to have the Speaker rule it out on a technicality than have it discussed.

A GOVERNMENT WITH A PROGRAMME.

WHATEVER fault political partisanship may find with the British Government it certainly cannot be charged with laziness. It is a Government which does things. Its insurance and land legislation would have been enough to justify its existence, and would have been alone a record of important work without a parallel.

Three other important measures, however, have been carried through the House, only to be defeated by the Lords. They will be carried for a third time this year, and will become law. These are Home Rule, Welsh Disestablishment, and the abolition of plural voting.

This by no means exhausts the programme. Here are a few others in hand: reform of the House of Lords; national education: a revenue bill, embracing death duties and licensing; Irish land purchase; prison reform.

Probably the measure of chief importance, inasmuch as it involves a material alteration in the constitution, is that relating to the House of Lords. While the details have not been submitted, the general principles upon which it will be based have already been announced. The Second Chamber, in its reformed shape, will no longer be based on the hereditary principle; it will have a smaller number of members; it will not have coordinate authority with the House of Commons; any veto powers it may have, will only be temporary as regards any measure acted on, and it will no longer be permanently onesided in its partisanship.

The educational reforms proposed will be of a most far-reaching character. In general the whole system will be remodelled and all its parts coordinated. Not only will the most complete and thorough education be provided for all classes, but primary, intermediate, technical and higher grades will all be harmonized. Increased grants from the Government will be made; but municipalities will

That the present administration will be able to carry out its programme may well be doubted. Though the best Government in the interests. of labor that Britain ever had, it is doubtful if it will be able to retain the loyal co-operation of the labor representatives much longer, for the reason that no Government is likely to move forward as fast as the representatives of labor will demand. Then there is the latent conservatism in the English people which will begin to get alarmed if things seem to be moving too fast. After a wave of reform there is certain to be a reaction for a time. The timidity of the average man will be enlisted by the privileged classes and the vested interests, and further reforms may be blocked for a

But whether the present Government be able to do much more or not, it has done enough to give it an imperishable name in British history. And its members will have the additional satisfaction of confidently expecting that the work it initiates will be carried to completion in the future. It may not harvest the full crop of wheat it sows; but the harvest will be gathered in fully by those who come after.

THE BIG PROBLEM.

THE City of London seems afraid 1 to tackle subways or elevated tracks. People of all classes have been demanding relief for years from the conditions imposed by village railway facilities fitted to a growing city. For years the civic authorities have had an opportunity of commencing a great work.

Though no other necessity has been so apparent and no proposal more full of potential improvement to the city in general, London has for some years taken a faint-hearted attitude. It has been loath to grapple with the out I never expected it. How did he problem, leaving it entirely to Providence and the sweet will of the railway authorities. Providence will never give relief, and the Grand Trunk, having once been "turned down," will await its own sweet will. London has been told that it must wait upon Montreal and Toronto, and London has swallowed it. Despite the fact that to order the work started on an equitable basis, no local organization has moved a hand. The attitude has been one of a general hand-folding and continue to live in and look to the The responsibility is not wholly the forced it upon them, however. For ment to remove the city's most serious shape of level crossings. These conditions are antiquated and the worst of zens may talk of progress, but until from their lethargy they are roused to material problems the progress of the city will be retarded.

THE GEORGIAN BAY CANAL.

THE Dominion Government pro-I poses to have a commission report on the feasibility of the Georgian Bay Canal, consisting of two Montreal men and one from the West. Why Ontario is not represented on the commission should be explained. The canal is to be located in this province. More than that, the question of whether or not the Welland Canal will be affected by the new channel of transportation, and what relations the two will bear to each other, are matters in which Ontario has as much interest if not more than the other parts of the Dominion. If there is to be a commission this province should certainly be represented on it. How far a commission is necessary is another question. The whole matter has been discussed for years past; there is very little more information to be gained; and the general concensus of opinion has been that such a canal would be a benefit, and that it must be constructed some time. Whether or not the time has come when Canada, in view of the many large enterprises now in hand, should undertake the great expense of the Georgian Bay Canal is a question of policy on which the Government should be able to form an opinion, and decide, without throwing the onus on a

A QUESTION OF ETHICS. HE discusion of the case of graft I in the Quebec Legislature has raised a question of ethics among some of our contemporaries. On the one hand it is claimed that to tempt a man to commit an offense in order to give opportunity for his detection sadly needed in pulpits and homes unand conviction is rather low down business which does not reflect credit on the promoters of the scheme. And the principal reply seems to be that involved in presenting what is thought to be an analogous case, to which no fessional and lay, who seem never authorities have reason to suspect the eous are as unconscious of religion as which will compel every voter, who is honesty of a letter-carrier, they put liciously infectious health. (Matt. xxiv., do so, even though he may not be a decoy letter in his mail. And it 37-40.) is suggested that if it is proper to rier, it is just as proper to set a themselves and for many in their influthe cases are by no means analogous. A decoy letter in the mail bag is no letter-carrier that there was going to in private.

Is not, indeed, the ideal of Jesus for certain day, with a certain address, and suggested that the carrier should appropriate the letter and divide un appropriate the letter, and divide up past or present? with his informant, the cases would be quite similar, and one would be as good or as bad as the other. We are not disposed to be very particular as to the methods used to detect crime; but we draw the line at persuading or tempting a man to commit a crime which without such persuasion, he would not have committed.

MOTOR COST.

T has been estimated that the number of automobiles now in use in the British Isles is about 255,000, besides the immense number of nearly 200,000 motorcycles. To this total about 1,700 additional motor-vehicles are being added every week. The annual cost of British motoring is placed at half a billion dollars, including the cost of the vehicles, repairs and operation.

Motorcycling is soon to be an especial feature, the good roads of Great Britain inviting the cyclist. While 4,000 more cars are imported than exported, 16,500 motorcycles are exported for 1,400 imported. To be British, then, buy and use an English motorcycle. Of course a large proportion of the annual expense on motoring is made in a commercial way, but the amount spent on pure amusement must be very great. Cost of living in our luxurious days is manysided.

HIGH COST OF LIVING. [Stratford Beacen.]

Here are some facts which throw light on the increased cost of living. In 1912 the acreage of the principal field crops n Canada was 35,575,000, valued at $557,-344.100; in 1913, the acreage was 35, 375,000, valued at $552,771,500. A decreasing product with an increasing population must increase the price.

[St. Thomas Journal.] In a church in Toronto Sunday an extraordinary scene was witnessed. Preaching on temperance the pastor mentioned the name of N. W. Rowell, the Leader of the Ontario Opposition, and the congregation broke into ap-

Mr. Rowell is the one public man in Ontario or in Canada today who is doing the work of the churches in his official capacity and who is devoted and unselfishly in accord with all moral and social reforms that the churches stand for. Nor it is a sign either that politics is creeping into the churches, but rather that the lat-

Can This Be Done?

Dear Miss Grey-May I trouble you with a few questions, and hope you will not think me a nuisance? 1. Can you color cream opaque blinds to a medium dark green and not injure them? I would like to have them green shade, and do not know if it could be done successfully with some

A little thought will show you vastly your own happiness depends on the way other people bear themselves toward you. The looks and tones at breakfast table, the conduct your fellow-workers or employees, the faithful or unreliable men you deal a small oilcan in all crevices and on with, what people say to you on mattress where creases are every three street, the way your cook and housemaid do their work, the letters you get, the friends or foes you meet-these things make up very much of the pleasure or misery of your day. Turn the idea around, and remember that just so much are you adding to the pleasure or the nisery of other people's days. And this is the half of the matter which you can control. Whether any particular day shall bring to you more of happiness or of suffering is largely beyond your power to determine. Whether each ray of your life shall give happiness or suffering rests with yourself.—George S. Merriman.

The final score was 3 to 1, with the Lawson and Jones team leading at half time by the score of 1 to 0. The concensus of opinion of the fans who witnessed the battle is that the best team

In this half Perrin's superiority over the printers was more evident than in the first part of the game. In this period Lawson & Jones only got one shot that Simons was calle upon to stop, while Chapman had the scored from a mix-up in front of the busiest night of his career. Walker's Work Features: The work of Walker, Bettridge and Murray was largely responsible for the vietory. The former played a grand game and teammates supported him well. His rushes were always dangerous and he notched two of the goals. Bettridge played a great defence game and was also great on shooting. Muray's all-round work on left wing and his back-checking was a feature. The whole Perrin team seemed to check back like flends. Carmichae and McKay were also particularly good at this game. They let no one get away from them without a battle. Simons, in goal, was there when called upon and the lone tally the Lawson & Jones team got when Morenz rushed and passed to Schumacker, who scored, was one that no goalkeeper could get.

he St. Louis Americans, and President Charles H. Ebbets, of the Brooklyns.

A meeting was held late today at the Waldorf, attended by President Gilmore, Attorney Gates and Presidents Baker and Gaffney, of the Philadelphia and Boston Nationals, respectively. The conference, which was over the status of players in dispute, was unproductive of any agreement, although Baker said the problem would be left to Governor Tener.
Baker recently wrote to President
Ward, of Brooklyn, informing him that

Pitcher Seaton had accepted his terms before he signed with the Brooklyn Fed erals. Ward raplied that the matter had been referred to President Gilmore. Gilmore said today that if the Phillies want-ed Seaton back they must give up Catch-Killifer. President Gaffney also tried to get Pitcher Quinn back, claiming that Quinn had accepted terms with his club efore signing with the Baltimore Federals.

Serious Matters To Be Discussed, as Well as Welcome Given to Tourists.

New York, March 6 .- Behind the cloak of the welcome being extended today to the returned world-touring Giants and White Sox, more serious matters, having to do with plans for war against the new Federal League, occupied the attention of the men high in the councils of organized baseball.

With the National League meeting, final disposition of the Evers case was expected to be announced during the day. The report that Charles P. Taft, who purchased the holdings of Charles W. Murphy in the Chicago Cubs, was expected to arrive in town during the day to treat with would-be purchasers.

An informal meeting of the National Commission was also said to be one of the chief features of the day. The mempers of the commission-President Tener, of the National League; President Johnson, of the American League, and Garry Herrmann, the chairman-are in the city. The stand taken by Ban Johnson of war to the finish against the Federal League, indicated today that the head of the American League intended to call National League clubowners and officials to account for dickering with the socalled outlaws over players who, it is alleged, have violated contracts or ignored accepted terms. The meeting yesterday of Wm. F. Baker, of the Philadelphia club, and James Gaffney, of the Boston club, with President Gilmore for this purpose, was denounced by President Johnson in no uncertain terms.

They tell us that Walter Johnson is fast, that there never has been another pitcher as speedy. Maybe not, but I fight, have seen Tom Hughes on days when the ball seemed to me to be moving just as rapidly as when Walter hurled it. Yes, and I've seen his curve crack almost at en acute angle.

I saw Hughes the first day he ever broke into fast company. He was a tall, rangy youngster, fresh from the Chicago lots, with scarcely any experience. The day he joined the Chicago team at Philadelphia he was in terrible physical condition, suffering from an injury that would have sent most men to a hospital. He suffered all night, and begged us who roomed around him not to let the manager find out. That afternoon he was sent to pitch against Philadelphia-the hardest hitting team, beyond doubt, ever collected; eight .300 or better hitters in the field every day, sometimes nine, led by Delehanty, Douglas, McFarland, the two Crosses! And the green, raw boy, fit for a hospital, beat them on his nerve, and could scarcely stand when the game

Three days later he was throwing against Baltimore; the McGraw, Jennings, Keeler outfit. McGraw went after him from the start. It was his game to break a young pitcher if possible. Inning after inning he heaped abuse, raillery, everything upon Hughes, and the long fellow kept quiet and pitched, better and better. Late in the game McGraw gave it up. After that inning Hughes passed him and McGraw gave him a final volley of abuse, hoping to break his nerve, and Hughes, glancing steadily at him, said: "Go on, you rat."

McGraw walked over to the bench. "Who is that young fellow?" he asked. "Sand lotter from Chicago," growled "He'll make a great pitcher," said Mc-ing referee and authority. Mr. McBride was forced to undergo an operation for a throat affliction and never recovered. Few sporting writers enjoyed the popularity of Eddie McBride, and his many friends will be deply shocked to learn of his sudden and sad end LANCASTER CUP AGAIN UP FOR COMPETITION

Mr. Whit. Lancaster, of the Westminster Rink, announced last evening that he would put up the Lancaster Cup again this season for competition among the city teams. The rules governing this trophy, which is emblematic of the City nockey championship, are that no O. H. A. players can play on the teams playing for it. In this case, the Perrin team and the Church League winners will be the only ones eligible. Dates will likely be arranged as soon as winners in the Church Leagues are announced.

THE HOLLOW OF HER HAND

By GEORGE BARR McCUTCHEON Author of "Graustark," "Truxton King," Etc.

"No! I cannot. It is impossible, Brandon! If I loved you less than I do, I might say yes, but-no, it is impossible!" His eyes narrowed. A gray shadow rept over his face.

"There can be only one obstacle so erious as all that," he said slowly. "You serious as all that," he said slowly. "You —you are already married."

"No!" she cried, lifting her pathetle eyes to his. "It isn't that. Oh, please, be good to me! Don't ask me to say anything more. Don't make it hard for me, Brandon. I love you—I love you! To be your wife would be the most glorious! No, no! I must not even think of it. I must put you out of my mind. There is a barrier, dearest. We cannot surmount it. Don't ask me to tell you, for I cannot. I—I am so happy in knowing that you still love me after I have told you how mean and shameless I was in deceiving—"

He drew her close and kissed her full on the trembling lips. She gasped and closed her eyes, lying like one in a swoon. Soft, moaning sounds came from her lips. He could not help feeling a vast pity for her, she was so gentle, so miserably hurt by something he could not understand, but knew to be monumental power to oppress. "Listen, dearest," he said, after a long silence; "I understand this much, at east—you can't talk about it now. What-want to make it would find the want to make it would be with the want to would be with the would be with the want to would be with the w ever it is, it hurts, and God knows I don't want to make it worse for you in this hour when I am so selfishly happy. Time will show the way. It can't be insur-mountable. Love always triumphs. I only ask you to repeat those three little words, and I will be content. Say them." "I love you," she murmured.

"There! You are mine! Three little words bind you to me for ever. I will wait until the barrier is down. Then I will take you.' "The barrier grows stronger every day." she said, staring out beyond the tree-tops at the scudding clouds. "It never can be "Some day you will tell me-everything."

She hesitated long. "Yes, before God, Brandon, I will tell you. Not now, but—some day. Then you will see why—why I cannot—." She could not complete the sentence.

"I don't believe there is anything you can tell me that will alter my feelings toward you," he said firmly. "The bar-rier may be insurmountable, but my love is everlasting."
"I can only thank you, dear, and—love you with all my wretched heart."

"You are not pledged to someone else?" "No."
"That's all I want to know," he said, with a deep breath. "I thought it might be—Leslie."
"No, no!" she cried out, and he caught

"I suppose you have heard nothing re"Does—does he know this—this thing you cannot tell me?" he demanded, a harsh note of jealousy in his voice.

"I suppose you have heard nothing recent from poor Lord Murgatroyd?" Mrs. Wrandall was saying to her, in a most sympathetic tone. She looked up at him, hurt by his tone. Hetty scarce 'Sara knows," she said. "There is no one of the remark. "Sara knows," she said. "There is no one else. But you are not to question her. I demand it of you."
"I will wait for you to tell me," he Sara Wrandall Finds the Truth.

Sara had kept the three Wrandalls over for luncheon.
"My dear," said Mrs. Redmond Wrancatching that lovely little something that makes her so—what shall I say?—so mys-terious? Is that what I want? The word is as elusive as the expression. "Subtle is the word you want, mother, said Vivian, standing beside Leslie, tall, slim and aristocratic, her hands behind her back, her manner one of absolute in-difference. Vivian was more than handsome; she was striking. "There isn't anything subtle about Hetty," said Sara, with a laugh. "She's quite ingenuous."

Leslie was pulling at his moustache, and frowning slightly. The sunburn on his nose and forehead had begun to peel off in chappy little flakes. 'Ripping likeness, though," was his "Oh, perfect," said his mother, "Really onderful. It will make Brandon famous."

"She's so healthy-looking," said Vivian, "English," remarked Leslie, as if that overed everything. "Nonsense," cried the elder Mrs. Wrandall, lifting her lorgnette again. "Pure, in honest, unmixed blood, that's what it is. There is birth in that girl's face."

"You're always talking about birth, mother," said her son sourly, as he turned away. "It's a good thing to have," said his mother, with conviction. "It's an easy thing to get in America," said he, pulling out his cigarette case. "Have a cigarette, mother? Sara?"

"Til take one, Les," said Vivian. She selected one and passed the case on to her mother. Sara shook her head. "No, thanks," she said.
Mrs. Redmond Wrandall laid her cigarette down without attempting to light it, a sudden frostliness in her manner. Vivian and Leslie blew long plumes of smoke from the innermost recesses of their "Nerves" asked Vivian mildly.

"I don't like Leslie's brand," explained

Sara. "They're excellent, I think," said Mrs.

They re excellent, I think," said Mrs. Wrandall, and thereupon accepted a light from Leslie.

"Well, let's be off," said he, somewhat irritably. "Tell Miss Castleton we're sorry to have missed her." It was then that Sara prevailed upon them to stop for luncheon. "She always takes these long walks in the morning, and she will be disappointed if she finds you haven't waited.' "Oh, as for that—" began Leslie, and stopped, but he could not have been more lucid if he had uttered the sentence in

"Why didn't you pick her up and bring her home with you?" asked Sara, as they moved off in the direction of the po for his morning exercise," said he surlily. "Far be it from me to— Umph!"

Sara repressed the start of surprise. She Once people get acquainted with the wonderful control which Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine exerts over bronchitis, whooping cough, croup and colds it is not easy to persuade them that anything else is "just as good." This is why the imitators never get very far.

In 1902 Mrs. Eugene Her, King street, Truro, N. S., wrote as follows:

"From an infant one of my children was troubled with bronchitis, and the was troubled with bronchitis, and the least cold would aggravate the trouble. We could not get anything to help him, and were often greatly alarmed. "She will bring him in for luncheon, I suppose," she said carelessly, although here was a slight contraction of the eyethere was a slight contraction of the eyelids. "He is a privileged character."
It was long past the luncheon hour when Hetty came in, flushed and warm. She was alone and she had been walking

"Oh, I am so sorry to be late," she apologized, darting a look of anxiety at Sara. "We grew careless with time. Am Sara. "We grew careless with time. Am I shockingly late?"
She was shaking hands with Mrs. Redmend Wrandali as she spoke. Leslie and Vivian stood by, rigidly awaiting their turn., Neither appeared to be especially cordial.

"What is the passing of an hour, my dear" said the old lady "to one who is "No," said Leslie, breaking in butted in, that's all. How are you?" He clasped her hand and bent over it. She was regarding him with slightly dilated eyes. He misinterpreted the steady scrutiny. "Oh, it will all peel off in a day or the control of tiny. "Oh, it will all peel off in a day or two," he explained, going a shade redder. "When did you return?" she asked. "I thought tomorrow was—""Leslie never has any tomorrows, Miss Castleton," explained Vivian. "He always loes tomorrow's work today. That's why never has any troubles ahead of "What rot!" exclaimed Leslie.

"Where is Mr. Booth?" inquired Sara.
"Wouldn't he come in, Hetty?"

"I-I didn't think to ask him to stop for function," she replied, and then hurried off to her room to make herself present-

"Don't be long," called out Sara.
"We are starving," added Vivian,
"Vivian!" exclaimed her mother, in a shocked voice.
"Well, I am," declared her daughter,

"You know you never eat anything in the middle of the day," said her mother, frowning. As Sara was paying no at-tention to their remarks, Mrs. Wrandall was obliged to deliver the supplemental explanation to Leslie, who hadn't the remetest interest in the matter, "She's so silly about getting fat." Hetty was in a state of nervous excitement during the luncheon. The encounter with Booth had not resulted at all as with Booth had not resulted at all as she had fancied it would. She had betrayed herself in a most disconcerting manner, and now was more deeply involved than ever before. She had been determined at the outset, she had failed, and now he had a claim—an incontestable claim against her. She found it difficult to meet Sara's steady questionize. ficult to meet Sara's steady, questioning gaze. She wanted to be alone.

Hetty scarcely grasped the importance of the remark. She loooked rather blankly at their guest. Sara stepped into the breach. "What do the morning dispatches say, Mrs. Wrandall?"

"He is sinking rapidly, I fear. Of course, his extreme age is against him. How old is he, Miss Castleton?" "I-I haven't the remotest idea, Mrs. Wrandall," said the girl. "He is very Ninety-two, the Sun says," supplied Vivian.

There was an unaccountable silence. suppose there is—ah—really no said Mrs. Redmond Wrandall at

"I fear not," said Hetty composedly. Except for the heirs-at-law. Mrs. Wrandall sat up a little straighter a her chair. "Dear me!" she said. "They've been waiting for a good many "They've been waiting for a good many years," commented Hetty, without emotion. "Of course, Mrs. Wrandall, you understand that I am not one of those who will profit at his death. The estate is entailed. I am quite outside the walls." "I did not know the-ah-"I did not know the—ah—"
"My father may come in for a small interest. He is in England at present on furlough. But there are a great many near relatives to be fed before the bowl of plenty gets to him." "Dear, dear!" murmured Mrs. Wrandall, "Dear, dear" murmured Mrs. Wrandall, quite appalled by her way of putting it. Leslie looked at her and coughed. "What a delicious dressing you have for these alligator pears, Sara," she went on, veering quickly. "You must tell me how it is mode."

After luncheon Leslie drew Sara aside "I must say she doesn't seem especially overjoyed to see me," he growled. "She's as cool as ice."

"What do you expect, Leslie?" she de "What do you expect, Lesne." she de-manded, with some asperity.
"I can't stand this much longer, Sara," he said. "Don't you see how things are going? She's losing her heart to Booth."
"I don't see how we can prevent it." "By gad, I'll have another try at it-tonight. I say, has she said—anything?"

"She pities you," said she, a malicious joy in her soul. "That's akin to something else, you know."
"Confound it all, I don't want to be pitied!

"Then I'd advise you to defer your 'try at it." she remarked.

"I'm mad about her, Sara. I can't sleep, I can't think, I can't—yes, I can eat, but it doesn't taste right to me. I've just got to have it settled. Why, people are beginning to notice the change in me. They say all sorts of things. About my liver, and all that sort of thing. I'm going to settle it tonight. It's been nearly three weeks now. She's surely haft time to think it over: how much better everything will be for her, and all that. She's no fool. Sara. And do you know what Vivian's doing this very instant over there in the corner? She's inviting her to spend "I'm mad about her, Sara. in the corner? She's inviting her to spend a fortnight over at our place—if she comes -well, that means the engagement will be announced at once."

Sara did not marvel at his assurance in the face of what had gone before. She knew him too well. In spite of the original rebuff, he was thoroughly satisfied in his own mind that Hetty Castleton would not be such a fool as to refuse him the "It is barely possible, Leslie," she said. "that she may consider Brandon Booth quite as good a catch as you, and infin-itely better looking at the present mo-

"It's this beastly sunburn," he lamented, rubbing his nose gently, thinking first of his person. An instant later he was thinking of the other half of the declaration. "That's just what I've been afraid of," he said. "I told you what would be that portrait nonsense went on happen if that portrait nonsense went on forever. It's your fault. Sara.'

forever. It's your fault, Sara."

"But I have reason to believe she will not accept him if it goes so far as that. You are quite safe in that direction."

"I'd hate to risk it," he muttered. "I have a feeling she's in love with him."

Vivian approached. "Sara, you must let me have Miss Castleton for the first two weeks in July." she said serenely.

"I can't do it, Vivian," said the other promptly. "I can't bear the thought of being alone in this big barn of a place. Nice of you to want her, but—"

"Oh, don't be selfish, Sara!" cried Vivian.

"You don't know how much I depend on her," said Sara.
"I'd ask you over, too, dear, if there weren't so many others coming. I don't know where we're going to put them. You understand, don't you?"
"Perfectly," said her sister-in-law, smiling.

medicine, and have never known it to fail to bring relief."

Mrs. Her now writes that she has since proven this medicine to be a cure for whooping cough, and would not be without it in the house.

Terrectly, said her sister-in-law, smiling. "But I've been counting on—Hetty." "I say, Sara." broke in Leslie, "you could go up to Bar Harbor with the Williamsons at that time. Tell her about the invitation, Vivie."

Exhumation Unlikely. That the body of Benton may not be exhumed by the Mexican commission is not at all unlikely, for it is believed the commission will be able to learn just what were the facts of his death from eyewitnesses. Meanwhile state department officials are giving their attention to the reported murder of Clemente Vergara, an American citizen. Favorite Old Songs Made New

There's an indescribable fascination about playing the good old standard favorites-those songs of childhood that recall such pleasant memories. And now, science instills a new enthusiasm in those sweet melodies through the medium of the wonderful Gourlay-Angelus.

I This is a player with positively a human touch. Just as the keys of a piano await the touch of the performer and respond to skilful execution, in like manner the marvelous Phrasing Lever of the awaits the delicate pressure of the finger and reproduces the musical temperament of the individual. Thus, one's whole attention may be given to artistic musical effects and the absolute control afforded by the Phrasing Lever makes this possible.

What a cherished possession, therefore, the Gourlay-Angelus becomes! Think of holding complete technical mastery over every kind of music from a simple song to a classical masterpiece.

EASE OF PLAYING

¶ Simply take your seat before a Gourlay-Angelus with the love of music in your soul, and you can play all the music of the world with the deepest musical feeling, although you have had no training whatever.

As for the mechanism of the Gourlay-Angelus, it is scientifically constructed with exclusive inventions to withstand the severest tests of time and wear. Its place in the musical world is without an equal. Call and hear for yourself your own favorite songs played on the wonderful Gourlay-Angelus.

GET INFORMATION DYING BESIDE TRACK

Fatally Injured Near Milton.

Engineer Ashplant's Figures Trainmen Tried to Get Him to Hospital, But He Died on the Train.

> Found lying on the tracks, face downward, in a semi-conscious condition, with his face mangled and his right arm brokpicked up by the crew of the C. P. R. 5:15 flyer, Goderich to Teronto, at Campevening. He was rushed to Toronto, only to expire as the express pulled into the Union station. His body was identified by his brother, Wm. A. Hilbert, of 50 Dennison avenue. Toronto.

Will Be Buried Here.

W. J. Hilbert, a brother, residing in this city, received word of the fatality early this morning, and left for Toronto to take charge of the body, which will be brought here for burial. The surviving members of the family are the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Hilbert; three sisters, Mrs. Learner, Miss Hermenia and Miss Louisa, and two brothers, James, at home, and Otto, of Egerton street.

Was Walking on Track.

Stories regarding the fatality are conflicting, but The Advertiser learned on good authority, that the man had been walking along the track. It is thought that a fast freight which passed over the line a short time previous to the express, ran him down in the darkness.

Dr. Anderson, of Milton, was picked up at that station and accompanied the injured man to Toronto, but could do little for the sufferer, who was breathing with great difficulty and was plainly near his end.

Wired for Help. On discovering Hilbert, the train rew had immediately wired Toronto, and when the train arrived at the station several medical men were on hand together with an ambulance. A hasty examination disclosed that the man was dying and strenuous effort was made to determine his identity. To- repeated questions he finally gasped out, "164 Ann street, London." Nothing further could be learned from him, for he died a moment later. A search of his pockets revealed his name on some correspondence. It was also learned from the same source that a brother, William A. Hilbert, resided at 50 Dennison avenue, Toronto. Railway officials immediately communicated with him and after some delay he was located. Later he identified the body in the morgue as that of his brother.

The Christian Church and Gambling

The following statement has been ssued by the Ministerial Alliance: The sentiment created by the Christian religion is intolerant of gambling The manifest evil character of lotteries raffles and other forms of deliberate and systematic hazard has led the governments of many countries to pass restrictive and prohibit y laws. It is therefore a matter of surprise and reproach that in the statutes of Canada is found lotteries and raffles for "charitable or religious objects." The following is copied from the Revised Statues of Canada, 1906, Chapter 146, Section 236: 1. Everyone is guilty of an indictable offence and liable to two years' imprisonment, and to a fine not exceeding two thousand dollars who: (a) Makes, prints, advertises or publishes, or causes or procures to be made, printed, advertised or for advancing, lending, giving, selling, or in any way disposing fo any property, by lots, cards, tickets, or any mode of chance whatsoever.

2. Everyone is guilty of an offence and liable on summary conviction to a penalty of $20, who buys, takes or receives, any such lot, ticket or other device as aforesaid.

6. This section does not apply to: (a). The division by lot or chance of any property by joint tenants or tenants in common, or persons having joint interests (droits indivis) in any such property, or,

(b). Raffles for prizes of small value at any bazaar held for any charitable or religious object, if permission to hold the same has been obtained from the city or other municipal council, or from the mayor, reeve or other chief officer of the city, town or other municipality, wherein such bazaar is held, and the article raffled for thereat, have first been offered for sale and none of them are of a value exceeding $50.

This subject having been brought before the Ministerial Alliance of this city, it was resolved to publish the objectionparagraph with the following com ments:

Whereas our attention has been diected to the existence of a statute permitting lotteries and raffles for "charitable and religious objects," and Whereas the existence of such a staute misrepresents the spirits and doctrines of the Christian religion, and, Whereas, under cover of this law, lotteries and raffles have been held in this city and our people have been solicited to purchase tickets for this form of evi, therefore, we are resolved to make known our entire disapproval of the existence of this paragraph of special legislation pernitting lotteries and raffles to be held by religious and charitable institutions.

We protest against the existence of this exception to the law prohibiting gambling and would respectfully request our legislators to have it expunged from our statutes. Civil law should conform to moral law. We repudiate the doctrine that "the end justifies the means." Evil cannot be sanctified and should not be ltcensed.

With Christian solicitude we urgently advise our people to abstain from an forms of gambling under whatever name or auspices they may be practiced.

[Canadian Press.] London, March 6 .- It is understood that at the meeting of the British cabinet on Wednesday last, the plan pre-Sir Edward Grey, the foreign secretary, under which the province of Ulster was to be offered a sort of home rule within home rule, was abandoned in favor of a temporary scheme of local option. It is now proposed, according to reports from Government circles, to allow any Irish county by a plebiscite to vote itself out of the operation of the home rule bill for a period of three years. The Irish Nationalists were reluctant to acquiesce in the local option plan, and they have only accepted it subject to ndorsement by their convention, which will be summoned to meet in Dublin after Premier Asquith has made his announcement in the House of Commons of Monday, when the bill comes up for second

This power of a plebiscite by the Irish counties will come into operation immediately after the bill is passed, and before the Dublin parliament actually begins its work.

Will Buy Street Rallway. In eleven years more, said the speaker the people of London would have the chance to acquire the street railway system, and he predicted that when that time arrived, tickets would be sold at ten for a quarter, and the necessary extensions into the suburbs would be made. Mr. Beck then gave estimates on the cost and expected revenues of the projected Toronto, Markham and Port Perry hydro-radial which is expected to serv as the first experiment of radial building by the Ontario commission. The line he said, was estimated to cost $2,470,776 include the asked-for Federal subsidy of $6,400 a mile.

The speaker favored sending a large deputation to Ottawa to show the Government that the hydro-radial scheme was wanted by the whole people and not by a clique of promoters. The Government at Ottawa was there by the sufferance of the people and didn't own the country. COMMENDATIONS FOR GRAND TRUNK.

The convention of the Canadian Hardware Manufacturers' Association of Canada was held this year in the city of Ottawa, from February 16 to 21. In connection with this convertion the Grand Trunk Railway operated special train service from Montreal to Ottawa and from Toronto to Ottawa. The following is a copy of a resolution, passed by the association at their meeting and forwarded to the general passenger department. "The Canadian Hardware Manufacturers wish to express herewith a hearty vote of thanks to the officials representing the Grand Trunk System for the able manner in which the necessities of travel to and from the Canadian Hardware Manufacturers' Convention have been handled without a dissenting voice or complaint from any of the visiting delegates. The easy way, the pleasant way, is to use Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets that quickly restore the appetite and build up the worn-out body by the perfect assimilation of food.

These little digestors are powerful, pleasant, and produce almost immediate digestion of any meal. If you will use them occasionally you will quickly learn what a joy food really is. One cannot hope to help nature by eating food from which a weakened digestion cannot take the ingredients it needs. The only way is to put these in-Then when they are absorbed the system at once starts rebuilding and is enabled to soon perform its proper and perfect functions.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets contain he very essences most demanded and desired by the body to do its work of taking nutrition from food.

As soon as the stomach is enabled to stop food decay and balance its gastric juices, then raw stomach gas, foul breath, catarrh, heartburn, bowel trouble, etc., disappear. The result is always the same. This fact alone is what has made Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets the greatest dyspepsia and stomach remedy ever sold. Mr. Nantel expressed the opinion that the remedy might be found in an increase of the duty on tobacco to give Canadian growers more protection.

The Minister of Inland Revenue asked or $125,000 for administration of the law relating to imported and Canadian tobacco. This is an increase of $5,000. Mr. McCoig, who protested last week in the agricultural committee against the posi-tion of Ontario growers, followed it up today. He wanted to know whether the increase was needed as a result of bringing in more foreign tobacco in competition with the Canadian product throughout the counties of Kent and Essex. He said there was dissatisfaction among farmers; indignation meetings were being held, and co-operative societies organized to help the farmers secure a fair price for tobacco. A meeting of growers was to be held at Blenheim on Saturday next, and he declared that the Govern ment should make a thorough investigation of the farmers' condition. "Is the minister prepared to take action?" asked Mr. McColg. "Certainly," said Hon. Mr. Nantel.

"Is he prepared to take practical accontinued Mr. McColg, adding that he would like to know if the minister was willing to go into the matter in earnest and give the farmers the benefit of the tariff by increasing, if necessary, the tariff against foreign tobacco and at

BROTHER AND SISTER

Waterloo Township Man Lay in Barn, Sister in House-Dead Some Time.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Berlin, March 5 .- Frozen to death, the bodies of Jacob Thomasing, aged 75, and Mary Tohmasing, aged 77, brother and sister, were found at their farm in Waterloo Township, two miles from Bloomingdale, this morning.

The ghastly discovery was made by a neighbor, Mrs. Sublesky, who called at the home to purchase some wood. At the house the woman received no response to her calls, and she then visited the barn, where she found the body of the man. It was lying on the floor, frozen stiff, and apparently had been there for a week or nore. Beside it was a wagon-load of hay, and it is believed the man fell from the wagon. THRIVING BUSINESS

Montreal, March 5.-The proprietor one of the three equine abbatoirs on the south shore stated tonight that at each between 50 and 60 horses are killed in a week, the animals being inspected before and after slaughter ov a veterinary.

The animals are old ones, and are bought for $3 to $5 each. The horseflesh is cut up, treated with a solution of salt and saltpeter and packed dry in barrels containing 500 pounds According to the informant it is then shipped to Sweden. He denied that any of it was sold in Montreal, so far as he knew. In Sweden there was great demand for it.

About 300 pounds of meat were obtained from each animal; the hides fetch $5 to $6, and the bones, fat, blood, hoofs, hair, shoes and intestines (for sausage casings) are all sold, bring a profit of $15 to $20 on each Each of the abattoir companies is capitalized at $100000.

Lorne Avenue Pupils Won Out in One Against Combined Forces of Chesley Avenue and Rectory Street.

An old-fashioned spelling match was the feature of an entertainment in Lorne Avenue Public School yesterday after-It was conducted by Principal James Kirkwood of Empress Avenue School, and the opposing teams were pupils from Lorne Avenue and Chesley Avenue and Rectory Street Schols combined. It was won by Lorne Avenue. The match started with 25 on a side, but such words as "aqueous," "emanci-"insatiable" and "javelin" repator." duced the sides to eight for Lorne Avenue and seven for Rectory and Chesley Of this fifteen, ten were girls and five were boys. A few more "hardones" and the sides stood six to four with only one boy. He appeared to be holding his own, while his side dwindled down to two, one boy and one girl, against six girls on the Lorne Avenue side, but he went nown shortly, leaving five girls for Avenue and one girl, Ruby Parker, of Rectory Street, on the union team. Ruby spelled "rheumatism" correctly, and the opposing side was reduced to three, Grace Norton, Marjorie Taylor and Rhea McRoberts. The next "sticker" was "nauseous," and here was where Ruby failed, and the hopes of Rectory and Chesley flickered out at last, but two others from the Lorne Avenue team went down almost simultaneously, leaving Rhea McRoberts alone on the floor, the word that tripped up the last of companions being "acquiescence." She received a prize of a book. The program included a solo by Miss G. Shortill, a recitation by V. Perry, a song by Mrs. Riach, a recitation by Miss K. Braithwaite, a duet by Mr. and Mrs. Eby, and a song by Teddy Williamson. The entertainment was in aid of a fund to provide pictures for the schoolrooms.

PROPOSED ANNEXATION

People of Yukon Demand Plebiscite Before Any Exchange Is Made.

[Canadian Press.] Dawson City, Y. T., March 6 .- Strong opposition to the proposed annexation of the Yukon to British Columbia developed at an immense mass meeting held here last night under the auspices of the Yukon Territorial Liberal Association, which filled Arctic Brotherhood Hall. Fred T. Congdon, K.C., formerly member of Parliament, in protesting against annexation, objected to giving route to an American railway from Haines, unless the Yukon could secure the whole of the Alaskan Panhandle in exchange for a string of Canadian territory from Haines north, which he believed might yet prove of enormous value. He claimed that British principles would be violated if Canadian territory was exchanged without the consent of citizens occupying that territory, since they would be deprived of the Canadian right of self-government. It would never do to attempt to carry out the suggestion without a plebiscite being taken in the Yukon. Apart from this attitude, all parties in the country are against annexation. The press is
