

LONDON WOMAN ENDED LIFE DROWNED HERSELF IN HAMILTON WAS ON HUNT FOR HUSBAND

Tragic Suicide Carried Out by Mrs. Charles Lancaster, Despite the Fact That a Couple of Men Attempted to Prevent It.

"NO ONE CARES FOR ME, I'LL END IT ALL"

Said She Had Come From London to Seek Her Husband—Man Is Said To Be Living in Toronto Now, But Couple at One Time Resided in This City.

[G. N. W. Dispatch.]

Hamilton, Ont., Sept. 23.—The young woman who committed suicide this morning by jumping off the revetment wall was Mrs. Lancaster, of London, Ontario. Her body was identified by J. Pritchard, John street north, who said she was his housekeeper.

The dead woman is supposed to be the wife of Charles Lancaster, otherwise known as "Sloppy" Lancaster among his associates in the city.

She was known in police court circles, having appeared against her husband on several occasions when he was charged with non-support and unseemable crimes against her. They lived a very unhappy life, and disagreements and quarrels were frequent. A little over a year ago, Mrs. Lancaster went to Hamilton, where she has since resided. Nothing is known of her life there. Lancaster has also left the city. He was seen here during the Fair, and worked on the grounds. Since then he has disappeared, and it is not known at the present time where he is.

Mrs. Lancaster's maiden name was Powell, and she came to London from Woodstock. She has a sister, it is understood, residing on Brick street.

The Lancasters lived on Dundas and Ridout streets when they were in London.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Hamilton, Sept. 23.—On a slab in the morgue at the city hospital lies the body of an unidentified woman, 27 years of age, whose home, the police believe, is in Toronto, and whose husband is supposed to be in Toronto, though both are said to have lived in London.

They fished her body out of the bay at 3 o'clock this morning from the same spot where two other young girls, chums for years, suicided within the past three weeks.

Chief Smith detailed detectives to make a searching inquiry into some peculiar features of the case, and the London police were asked the first thing this morning to try and establish the woman's identity.

Nothing was found to indicate her name.

Thomas Donatasa and Thomas Stafford, engineers on the Turbina, which runs from Hamilton to Toronto, were on their way to the boat at midnight, when a good-looking and neatly-dressed woman approached them. She seemed to be in great trouble, and inquired her way to the water. She walked as far as the boat with them, and when she came in view of the bay, declared she was going to end her life. She told a pathetic story.

Came From London.

After being married a short time she said her husband, who was a London man, deserted her, and went to Toronto.

"I came from London today to look for him," she added. "I have had more trouble than I can bear, and I am going to end it all; no one cares for me."

The men tried to persuade her to return uptown, but she seemed determined to kill herself.

Donaldson and his friend took her by the arm and were searching her up from the wharf, when she suddenly broke loose, and racing down the revetment wall, plunged to death before they could interfere.

Body Recovered.

They never saw her after she struck the water. The police grappled for three hours before recovering the body. The dead woman had brown hair, wore a white blouse, black skirt, black slippers and a black belt.

A brooch found on the body may lead to her identity. She had a purse with 78 cents in it.

At first it was supposed she might be a friend of Beatrice Stoker and Cherry Cole, the other girls who suicided at that spot.

Beatrice Stoker ended her life after her employer reminded her, yesterday, Cole, haunted by visions of her dead friend's face and coffin, suicided a week later.

Friends of both girls failed to identify the body at the morgue today.

HAMILTON MAY TRY CONTROLLER SYSTEM

Alderman May Move for Abolition of City Council.

[G. N. W. Dispatch.]

Hamilton, Sept. 23.—Ald. Clark, chairman of the fire and police committee, announced this morning that he might move in the city council for the submission to the ratepayers of a resolution authorizing the abolition of the city council. Ald. Clark fears that judging by this year's exhibition, the future boards of control and city councils can never agree. He favors the city being run by seven controllers, without any women at all.

WOMAN FROM GLENCOE KILLED AT DETROIT

Miss Catherine Leitch Run Down by a Street Car.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 22.—Miss Catherine Leitch, of Glencoe, Ontario, was run down and killed by a Woodward avenue car here today. She ran in front of an automobile just behind a northbound car, without seeing the approach of a southbound car, which ran over her. Death was instantaneous. She was 25 years of age.

Coroner Burgess has notified her relatives at Glencoe.

BISHOP FALLON EXPLODES WIDESPREAD FICTION AS TO THE SCHOOL QUESTION

In regard to the assertions made by the press of the country and by some public men concerning his attitude towards the French language and the interests of the French-Canadian people, the Rt. Rev. Bishop Fallon requests the publication of the following statement:

"This agitation in as far as my name is connected with it was begun by the publication of a dispatch in the Detroit Free Press on June 5th last, when I was not yet quite five weeks Bishop of London. This article was a falsehood on its face, for while, for evident reasons, purporting to come from Ottawa, it was really concocted in Toronto by two gentlemen, one of whom occupies a position in the Ontario civil service, and the other is on the staff of a Toronto morning newspaper.

The assertions in this article were not only false but malicious, and the treachery of its fabricators was discovered and privately exposed at the time. An equally false and libellous article appeared in a Toronto paper last Sunday morning, and a course commenced in Ottawa and language leads to the conclusion that it received its inspiration from the same source.

"I have never been by word or deed, by intent or desire, unfriendly to the interests of the French-Canadian people, and I never shall be unfriendly to them at any time or place, no matter what the provocation. A number of them live within the limits of my own diocese, and I am as solicitous for their welfare, whether spiritual or temporal, as I am for that of any other portion of the flock confided to my care.

"I have never issued nor caused to be issued, directly or indirectly, verbally, by writing, or in any other way, any order or mandate or even expression of opinion concerning the teaching of French or of any other language in the Separate schools, or in any other schools in the Diocese of London or anywhere else.

"I have not, and I never have, had any objection to the teaching of French, or of any other language in accordance with the laws of the province of Ontario, and the regulations of the provincial department of education.

"This whole agitation, therefore, as far as I am concerned, is not only utterly baseless, but is also supremely unjust.

"M. F. FALLON, Bishop of London."

DOES GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY INTEND TO RUSH THE WORK ON LONDON IMPROVEMENTS?

Oit-Repeated Story Is Once Again to the Fore and Reasons Are Given For Its Resurrection—Location of the New Depot Appears To Be Matter of Big Interest to the Traction Companies.

There is said to be a probability that the Grand Trunk Railway Company is contemplating going ahead with certain improvements in London very shortly. The story is an old one, and Londoners have practically lost faith in any rumor of the kind, but a certain prominent businessman stated to The Advertiser today that in conversation with an official of the company recently, he was told that the long-looked-for improvements in London are not as far off as many of the citizens believe.

In the first place, the recent strike on the G. T. R. threw a tremendous amount of business into the hands of the Canadian Pacific Railway in London, and that wide-awake corporation is leaving no stone unturned to keep this business. Ample evidence of this may be had in the improvements which are to be carried out by the C. P. R. in East London.

The Grand Trunk wants this business back, and is going after it by every means in its power. Labor Is Easier. In the second place, it is pointed out that the labor market is easier than it is likely to be in a year or so, and that with plenty of laborers available, there is no reason why the Grand Trunk Railway should not take advantage of the situation, and save money on its London improvements.

In this connection, it is pointed out, that only the other day, Mr. John Continued on Page Eleven.

LONDON DISTRICT TROOPS WILL ENGAGE IN BIG SHAM BATTLE

Toronto Dispatch Says Field Will Be Located Between Hamilton and the Queen City, But London Men Say Col. Hodgins Will Hold a Military Fight Near London.

A dispatch from Toronto says: Over 4,000 troops of the Western Ontario command will engage in what is officially designated "tactical field exercise," but is popularly known as a sham fight, on Thanksgiving Day, Oct. 31.

The location of this modern battle-field is not known, for the orders issued are that the probable location of the fight will be disclosed only to the officer of each force, so that if the present arrangement holds good, the troops will march out as if they were starting on a real expedition with the enemy's location indefinite.

The chances are, however, that the battle will eventually be made of it. In addition to the infantry, there will be forces of field artillery and cavalry, in which the Sixth Field Battery and the First Hussars will be prominent.

IF NOBODY ELSE WANTS STONE CHAIRMAN TANCOCK WANTS IT

Some of the Material Out of the Trenches for the Underground Wires on Dundas Street Is Now Stored in the Yard of the Chairman of the Board of Works.

There may be some further difficulty regarding the broken stone taken out of the trenches for the underground work.

The company have stored a considerable amount of it. A large number of loads are stored in Patterson's coal yards in the east end, and half a dozen or more loads are in the yards of Ald. Tancock, chairman of the board of works.

At the meeting of the committee last night, it was thought that some pertinent questions would be asked about this broken stone, but no trouble followed.

Some thought that Ald. Tancock, as chairman of the committee, should not have the stone on his premises, as there would likely be some misunderstanding about it.

"I have six or seven loads on my property," said Ald. Tancock to The Advertiser. "It is only stored there by disposition in going to be made of it. If the city or the contractor does not want the broken stone I do."

The rest of it is stored in the east end, and has not been disposed of.

FIVE HUNDRED G. T. MEN LAID OFF ONE DAY A WEEK

[Special to The Advertiser.] Toronto, Sept. 23.—G. T. R. officials started their employees this morning by issuing a general order, cutting down operating expenses. The method applied is not a direct cut in wages, but the men will be laid off one day each week, which means that men in shops will lose from $5 to $8 per month. The order applies to shopmen, car repairers, car tappers, in fact all hands save trainmen. It effects 500 men.

THE TORONTO M. H. O. QUILTS THE SERVICE

Smarting Under Criticism, Dr. Sheard Resigns His Position.

Toronto, Sept. 23.—Dr. Charles Sheard, medical health officer, surprised the board of control yesterday by again tendering his resignation, which he asks shall take effect immediately the isolation hospital inquiry is over.

When the doctor resigned in March last great efforts were made to retain his services for the city. He was relieved of the management of the street cleaning department and given a month's holiday to recuperate.

During his absence from the city many attempts were made by the board of control to find a suitable man as his successor. Dr. J. A. Amyot, Dr. A. R. Pyne, Dr. Goodchild and others were nominated, but none could get the support of a majority of the board. Finally the city council took the matter in hand and increased his salary to $6,000 a year. The doctor resumed the management of the department. Adverse criticism by some members of the council and city newspapers on the management of the isolation hospital and in regard to the water supply of the city caused the doctor much irritation, as he considered he was being unfairly assailed. For that reason he made up his mind to quit the city's service.

LONDON POWER STATION MAY NOT BE READY BY DECEMBER 1

It Is Said That the Street Lighting System Will Be Ready by That Time But Sale of Power May Be Delayed.

The hydro-electric plant for the sale of power here may not be ready by Dec. 1. A number of things have happened to cause delay, and some are pessimistic enough to declare that the city end of the hydro-electric business will not be ready by the first of next year.

The machinery has not arrived in as large quantities as anticipated, and the building has not proceeded with the rapidity that was desirable. Consequently, there is some doubt that it will be ready in time to receive power when it comes, if the Niagara power commission knows what it is talking about in regard to when power will be here.

No definite announcement was made yesterday as to the date when the energy would be turned on here. The original date set, Oct. 15, may be correct, although some of the engineers in charge give themselves a little leeway, and say from Oct. 15 to Nov. 1.

The Pumping Machinery. It will be necessary to have the building complete at that time. Engineer Glaubitz stated to The Advertiser that the pumping machinery would be installed complete by Oct. 1. The motors will not arrive for some days, but they will be ready and in place by Nov. 1. The city will then be able to utilize some of the power at that time in any event.

The building has about ready to receive the electrical machinery. Mr. Glaubitz also stated that the city could go ahead and install as much machinery as they could obtain any time now.

Oh! For Van Cleave! "We are hurrying as fast as we can," said Manager Dark. "We have so much to do in the whole concern that we have scarcely time to turn about. If Mr. Van Cleave were here we could get ahead more rapidly as it would relieve me of much responsibility, and work, and enable us to go ahead at a good rate. We will try and be ready when a power comes."

The outside construction work is nearing completion. More than 800 reflectors are in position, and the rest will be placed in two weeks' time. It will not take many days to place the globes.

There is every surety that the street lighting, including the downtown ornamental system will be ready by Dec. 1, when the contract with the London Electric expires.

INSPECTOR EDWARDS WANTED BY OTTAWA SCHOOL BOARD

Asked to Put in an Application for the Position of Schools Inspector of the Capital But Londoner Refused the Overtures.

The Ottawa Free Press says: While the trustees are quite reticent in revealing their choice, Mr. J. H. Putman, B. A., of the Normal School, the Free Press understands will be appointed public school inspector to succeed Dr. Glashan, who has retired.

"Yes, chances are very bright for him," admitted one trustee who was interviewed. Just at present Mr. R. Putman's strongest opponent is Inspector Edwards, of London, who has some warm supporters, but the board as a whole does not feel inclined to go outside Ottawa if a competent man can be secured here, and Mr. Putman is considered eminently qualified.

"I favor Mr. Putman because his appointment will not disturb existing conditions among our principals and will provoke no jealousy," stated a prominent trustee. "It also knows the schools here better than an outside man."

Some of the other applicants who are considered strong contenders are Principal McArthur, Principal Spence, and Inspector Cowley, provincial inspector of continuation classes.

Mr. Edwards when seen by The Advertiser admitted that he had been approached in the matter, and had been asked to put in an application, but he had not done so.

It is a well-known fact that the high standard and general advancement of London's schools has attracted much attention not only in Ontario, but throughout Canada. Mr. Edwards' name is widely known in educational circles. His place would be very hard to fill, and the board of education is to be congratulated upon the fact that he declined to consent to become an applicant.

It is said the salary is very tempting, and the retiring inspector is receiving an allowance of $1,500 per year.

STRATHROY MERCHANT MAKES BIG CLEAN-UP

Puts Through Deal in Western Land That Nets Him $49,000.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Winnipeg, Sept. 23.—Chas. T. Wright, hardware merchant here, from Strathroy, returned from Saskatchewan, where at Lemberg, on the C. P. R., and Birmingham, on the G. T. R., he disposed of 7,300 acres of prairie land for $70,000, realizing a profit of $49,000.

Mr. Wright and Col. T. B. Welch, Strathroy, who accompanied him, are owners of the town of Birmingham, Saskatchewan, which is situated six miles from the town of Melville.

BODY OF YATES BROUGHT TO CANADA

Millionaire Suicide Will Be Buried at Brantford.

Cleveland, Sept. 23.—The body of R. W. Yates, wealthy Detroit businessman, who was killed in a fall from a bridge in a roadhouse at Rocky River, and committed suicide an hour after he had been arrested and confined in the county jail, was taken to Brantford, Ont., his boyhood home, by his son, A. W. Yates, today.

The condition of Mrs. Singer is unchanged. She is expected to recover. The dead man's sons, A. W. Yates, a Michigan University man, and H. H. Yates, a Princeton student, reached this city last night and identified the suicide as their father. Both were extremely reticent, refusing any information as to the movements of Yates, Sen., prior to coming to Cleveland, or plans for the burial.

CHANLER REVOKES POWER GIVEN DIVA

Annuls Her Authority To Collect Income From His Estate.

New York, Sept. 22.—Robert Winthrop Chanler has revoked the power of attorney he gave Lina Cavallieri to collect the income from his estate under their ante-nuptial agreement. This statement was made today by Sidney Harris, Chanler's attorney, who said that notice of the revocation had been served on trustees of the estate. No other action is needed, Mr. Harris declares, to give effect to the revocation, and it will not be filed in an office of record. This move is intended to make it impossible for Cavallieri to obtain the income from the three trust funds set aside for Chanler.

Within two or three days Mr. Harris intends to answer the summons and complaint filed by attorneys for Mrs. Julia Chamberlain Chanler, the artist's first wife, which questions the legality of his agreement with his bride. Mr. Harris would not indicate, however, what will be the nature of his reply.

At Louveciennes there is a memorial which commemorates the ascent of the first Montgolfier balloon. The brothers Montgolfier were on friendly terms with the celebrated statesman, Bossy d'Anglais, and they offered to make their first experiment in his park. Harvard's oldest three living graduates, according to the new university directory, are the Rev. James I. T. Coolidge, of Cambridge, Mass.; Rev. Edward A. Renouf, of Keene, N. H.; and Dr. James L. OVER DEAD MAN TO REACH THE BAR

Had to Step Across Murdered Man to Get Drinks, But Nobody Cared.

New York, Sept. 23.—In the Harbor Bar, on the ground floor of 12 South street, whither sea-scarred men from all over the world drift in these days, when the cost of drinking is high, a sailor man without a ship, Pat Donahue, from Ireland originally, but latterly from almost anywhere, was shot dead yesterday by John Johnson, a South street watchman, Scandinavian by birth, who once followed the sea himself. Most drinks in the Harbor Bar are 5 cents, including gin, Jamaica rum, whiskey and brandy, but they have a superior quality of brandy for 10 cents which is occasionally sampled by transients. The beer comes in schooners.

Since he gave up seafaring Johnson, who is 67 years old, has been employed by Hoosen & Bros., night watchmen, of 687 South street. On his way to cover his job on a pier he dropped into the Harbor Bar. He found gathered there a group of 5-cent drinkers. He smoked an old pipe between the period of his contribution to the sustenance of the proprietor of the Harbor Bar, Isidor Gerschelit.

How the Row Started. Donahue lounged in and added to his internal combustion some of the fine old stock of the Harbor Bar. He was a man of middle age, apparently, and a countenance that fitted the Harbor Bar environment. The police say he wanted to sell some clothing to the Scandinavian, and that the latter told him to leave him alone. Men in the saloon, who had only a dim memory of what happened, said that there was an "argument" between Donahue and the night watch that ended in Donahue striking him on the left eye, sending him reeling along the bar-rail.

The watchman pulled his gun and blazed away, hitting Donahue in the side eye. The bullet went through the sailor's brain and he fell at the head of the bar across the doorway. The Harbor Bar customers looked at one another and went on drinking. The barkeep came out, made a few remarks, condemnatory of the habits of night watchmen who killed persons in a respectable place, and proceeded to lay newspapers over the body.

The customers who were in were made to stay by Policeman Guy E. Sager, of traffic squad A, who had heard the shot and had run into the saloon. A few others in search of 5-cent refreshment walked over the body and lined up for their. Lieut. Hoffman, of traffic squad A, and several men under him, came along, and practically closed the place before it could realize any more profit on the incident.

A NEW CONTINENT IN THE MAKING

Further Upheaval of No Great Relative Importance Would Mark Birth of Continent.

London, Sept. 22.—Among the most interesting features of the annual meeting of the British Association, still sitting at Sheffield, is the report of the committee on earthquake investigations. The committee has completed down to 1900 a catalogue of all the destructive earthquakes recorded in history. They date from A. D. 1 and they number more than 4,000. The record refers to one hundred earthquakes which have been accompanied by destruction or by changes of the earth's surface or which have extended over large areas. In many instances these disturbances have resulted in adjustments in the earth's crust of geological importance. The sources from which materials have been drawn include Japanese and Chinese catalogues.

The report says that although the periods of seismic activity in Italy and Japan were separated by irregular intervals of time, the years in which there had been marked activity in one of these countries closely corresponded with the years when there had been marked activity in the other. Should further analysis confirm this conclusion, the suggestion is that the relief of seismic strain in one part of the world brings about relief in some other part, or that relief is governed by some general internal or external agency.

The most startling features of the report is the suggestion that at the present time a new continent is in the making. It is pointed out that the most pronounced seat of earthquake activity today is along a band running from the southern extremity of the Philippine Islands and Java, in an east-southeast direction toward the middle of the Pacific. In the islands which stud this area with their intervening troughs are seen the outcrops of mountain ranges of Himalayan proportions. A further upheaval of no great relative importance would mark the birth of a continent.

One of the accomplishments of the committee on behalf of the association during the last year has been the installation of improved instruments for earthquake recording upon islands and in all parts of the world. Complete word records of the earth's spasms and tremors will be available to science forthwith.

Peter the Great, Russia's famous czar, when he was staying in England had a particular liking for the companionship of Halley, after whom the comet is named. C. P. R. AT WINDSOR.

Windsor, Sept. 22.—General Superintendent Osborne, Toronto, and district Superintendent McNeillie, London, of the C. P. R., were here yesterday afternoon to discuss the plans of switching line, tapping the factory district recently acquired by the city. They said that if the company's plans were approved by the city council, work, involving the expenditure of several thousand dollars, would be started within a short time. The C. P. R. is the third railway which has applied for the right to build such a line. It is another practical endorsement of Windsor's industrial development in purchasing the factory site property and in addition makes it a certainty that a switching line will be secured within a very short time. Peanut cake seems to be supplanting cottonseed cake as the preferred food for Swedish cattle.

But today there were two developments of interest. In the first place there was much open talk for Mr. Gaynor among district leaders who gathered at Tammany Hall, and those who heard it could only account for it on the supposition that it had warrant from those higher in the councils of the society.

In the second place, Charles E. Murphy, the taciturn leader of Tammany, publicly admitted the strength of the movement toward Mr. Gaynor, while carefully reserving any declaration of his own attitude, Mr. Murphy said: "The sentiment of the state seems to favor the nomination of Mayor Gaynor for governor."

Many See Willingness. By many Tammany men this declaration was taken to mean that Mr. Murphy had brought away from his recent visits to the mayor at St. James some intimation of his attitude toward a nomination, and that the mayor's own action in permitting the publication of his long letter to his sister in Utica, relating his personal recollections of the attempt to assassinate him, had been correctly interpreted as equivalent to an announcement of his willingness to run.

Mr. Murphy's declaration was made in the presence of a delegation of physicians who went to Tammany Hall on an errand quite unconnected with Mr. Gaynor. They called, in fact, to urge the claims of Rep. William Sulzer, whose boom has been most actively put forward.

The Sulzer boomers eagerly spread the report of their conversation on account of what Mr. Murphy said further. "Sulzer is also much talked about," he continued, "I have had men going through the state and they report that the people seem to want the person nominated, with Sulzer as second choice."

MANUFACTURERS ELECT HULL MAN AS HEAD Mr. W. H. Rowley Was Made President by Convention at Vancouver.

Vancouver, Sept. 23.—At the Canadian Manufacturers' Association convention here yesterday, the question of reciprocity was avoided directly. However, the following resolution, which touches the subject indirectly, was passed: "Resolved, that the representatives of Canada at the imperial conference urge the desirability of reciprocity, in preference within the empire, believing that thereby the bonds of the empire will be strengthened by largely decreased dependence for supplies on foreign countries."

A resolution was passed urging steps towards reciprocity with Australia. The officers elected are: President—W. H. Rowley, Hull, P. Q. Vice-President—Nathaniel Currie, Montreal.

BEATEN TO DEATH Body of Woman Exhumed and Man Is in Asylum.

Quebec, Sept. 22.—After lying in the village cemetery for over two months, the body of Mrs. Paul Poirrier, of Beaufort, in the county of Bellechasse, was exhumed yesterday, and by direction of the Attorney-General Dr. Vallee is today making the autopsy of the body.

The deceased is the wife of a man who is now detained in the Beauport Asylum, and rumors were circulated after the woman's death that she had succumbed to injuries caused by her husband. The latter had once been confined in a lunatic asylum, and had later recovered, but it appears jealousy unbalanced his mind lately, with the result that he beat his wife to death with a hammer.

Conductor Lacey and Brakeman Graham May Have Been Responsible.

Lansing, Mich., Sept. 22.—"If the tail lights on train No. 14 were so dim that they could not be easily distinguished, and the torpedo was placed only 500 feet from the rear of the standing train, then Conductor Lacey and Brakeman Graham were largely to blame for the Durand wreck," was the statement made to the state railway commission Thursday afternoon by Acting General Superintendent W. J. Ehrke, of Detroit, in reply to a question put to him by Commissioner James Scully of the Grand Trunk investigation.

Mr. Ehrke also stated that in case the testimony showed the lights were plain and that the torpedo was 500 feet back of the standing train, then all three, Graham, Lacey and Engineer Spencer were to blame. But according to the testimony taken at the Battle Creek investigation, he said, Engineer Spencer was held partly responsible, because he had himself asserted the tail lights were lighted and could have been seen.

TWO MORE COMPANIES FOR TWENTY-FOUR The Crack Kent Regiment To Be Eight Companies Strong.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Chatham, Sept. 23.—Four new companies may be added to the Twenty-fourth Kent Regiment making the regiment eight companies strong. It is proposed to recruit the extra companies from surrounding towns.

Wallaceburg has expressed its willingness to supply two companies, and two others can easily be recruited from Tilbury, Blenheim, Thamesville and Ridgeway. These outside companies will be brought here for drills, and the whole regiment will make regular visits to the outside towns. Each company will have officers from its own town.

If the scheme is carried out, a large rifle range will be a necessity. The efficiency of the regiment will also be greatly increased. The plan is favored by all the officers.

LONDON, FRIDAY, SEPT. 23.

THE BRITISH CONSTITUTIONAL CONFLICT.

Four Liberal and four Unionist leaders have been meeting at intervals for months in an attempt to take the constitutional issue out of the party arena. They must make known the result of their labors not later than November, when Parliament reassembles, but they are pledged to secrecy until they have agreed or absolutely failed to agree.

Conjecture as to the course of the negotiations is naturally rife. Every political student seems to be a constitution-maker for the time being. From several influential quarters comes a proposal for supplanting the House of Lords by a resort to the Privy Council. The Privy Council, which dates back to the reign of Henry the Third, is a peculiarly British institution. It is constituted of distinguished persons appointed by the crown (upon the advice of responsible ministers) with no limit as to numbers, and no special organization. The judicial committee of the privy council is the supreme court of appeal for the Empire. Why not create a legislative committee with strictly defined powers to replace the present Upper House, which exists for the avowed object of frustrating the legislation of one party? Writing in the Nation, Mr. Laurence Gomme outlines such a chamber. It would consist of the members of the existing cabinet, the members of the last cabinet of the Opposition, the law lords, and such other members of the Privy Council as might be recommended by the prime minister. Mr. Gomme claims this merit for the plan:

"The action of the legislative committee would be a powerful stimulus to good and consistent legislation, and a powerful corrective to bad draughtsmanship or bad legislation. A report from such a committee against the clauses of a bill, or against a whole bill, or in favor of fresh legislation, would be before the country, and the constituencies would consider such a report in the shape almost of a referendum without the difficulties of a referendum. Every bill passed by the House of Commons would be submitted to the committee, and ordinary bills would be reported to the House quite simply. Draughting amendments would be reported in order to get them accepted or rejected by the House of Commons. Serious and important amendments or objections would be reported at length, with arguments and facts in support of the committee's proposals. But the ultimate authority would rest with the House of Commons, and the committee would possess no powers of its own to amend or reject a bill which had received the sanction of the House.

"The House of Commons, representing the nation at large, would thus be supreme, as it should, and the legislative committee of the Privy Council would act in a useful and powerful way without the power of doing mischief or hindering legislation."

Such a scheme would be acceptable to the bulk of the Liberal party, but it would be fought by the Unionists, backed by the whole power of the aristocracy. The peers would prefer the extinction of their absolute veto power, proposed by the Government before the conference was mooted, to the extinction of the House of Lords. It is likely that they would consent to surrender the former to save the latter, or even to prevent an appeal to the country on the constitutional issue. If they again lost an election they would be in danger of losing everything.

POINTS FOR FRUIT EXPORTERS.

According to a report recently received by the Government from the Canadian trade commissioner at Birmingham, it is now quite evident that fruit crops in England are a partial, if not a complete, failure. The outlook for imported fruit would, therefore, seem attractive, but the statement should be taken with some qualification. No doubt there will be a strong and continuous demand, sufficient to absorb all or more than all the good fruit which is likely to be available in this country for the English market, but Canadian shippers should avoid the mistake, too frequently made by them, of deducing from general scarcity the conclusion that all kinds and qualities of fruit will meet with a ready sale at satisfactory prices. Even when the quality shipped has been fair individual exporters have again and again had cause to complain that while their No. 1 apples sold to advantage, the No. 2 yielded them little or no return—possibly enough to pay for the barrels and packing, but leaving nothing over for the fruit. The commissioner, therefore, takes occasion to strongly emphasize the warning that while England wants practically unlimited quantities of sound, mature apples of standard varieties in good condition, the markets are quickly demoralized by shipments of under-sized, immature or damaged fruit, while they can assimilate only moderate quantities of passable No. 2 apples. As a general rule, says the commissioner, nothing but disappointment awaits the exporter who attempts in a year of scarcity to make a profit by shipping inferior fruit some thousands of miles by land and sea, to be offered at auction in England. Far better to consign such fruit to the evaporator or dispose of it at what it will bring in the local market.

TAKING IN DETROIT.

Representatives of municipalities connected with the Niagara power scheme yesterday agreed to a proposal to allow the city of Windsor to purchase 15,000 horsepower, of which 12,000 or 13,000 horsepower will be exported to the city of Detroit.

Some of the delegates objected to the export of power "on principle," but assented to Windsor's request on the ground that the sale of so large a block of power would reduce the cost to Ontario municipalities. There is another side to the question. The promoters of the Niagara project have contended that it would place this portion of Ontario in a favored position with respect to industrial development, as compared with other parts of the country, and with the neighboring states. If these benefits materialize, they are to be shared with the city of Detroit, which is in a very real sense a competitor of Western Ontario municipalities.

There is another disadvantage. London has been hitherto the municipal remotest from the Falls to be embraced in the undertaking, and has had to pay the penalty of distance. The sale of a large quantity of power in Detroit will enable Windsor and other municipalities west of London to overcome the handicap of distance to a much greater extent than this city. Against these drawbacks must be placed, of course, a saving of two or three dollars per horsepower on the price quoted by the commission.

It is easy to see why the hydro-electric commission favors the exportation of power at Detroit, although Mr. Beck has "viewed with alarm" the exportation of power at the Niagara frontier by private companies. The cost of power to the consumers will, in any event, be much greater than they were led to believe when the scheme was launched, and any reduction will enable the Government to make a better showing, although it will be obtained by permitting a great industrial centre in the United States to partake of benefits which we were told would be reserved for Western Ontario. The city of Detroit takes no risks; these fall upon the Canadian municipalities. If Niagara power will do all that is claimed for it the slight diminution in the price will not compensate Ontario cities for accommodating Detroit; but it will suit the temporary purposes of the Government when the scheme is under discussion at the next election.

The Republican Old Guard of New York State has been caught off its guard by the irrepressible Teddy. There is a growing impression that he will be returned to the White House to "finish his work." He is just now engaged in finishing his opponents.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell is touring the west at the age of 57. He is physically a marvel. In declaring against any trade arrangement whatever with the United States, the veteran shows his ideas are equally well-preserved. They have undergone no change with time or circumstances.

The London Daily Mail accuses the British free traders of trying to bring about reciprocity between Canada and the United States. If the British free traders think that closer commercial relations between Canada and the United States would not impair British sentiment in this country they are much more sensible than the tariff reformers who profess to think that it would.

"Great Britain's wealth is estimated at the astounding figures of $5,000,000,000. Surely enough and to spare, to place on a self-providing and self-respecting basis the million paupers within its borders, could the magical process be discovered."—Hamilton Spectator.

Great Britain's wealth is much greater. The taxable annual income alone is $5,000,000,000, and the total wealth must be many times that. Pauperism in the face of such riches is a reproach to civilization; but earnest men and women are trying to wipe it out.

Bishop Fallon unequivocally denies the story that he has tried to banish French from the schools of his diocese. If there are any children in this province or country who are not being taught English properly, a great injustice is being done them, and a remedy should be applied. In the English-speaking provinces particularly English should not be subordinated to French, as is the case, it is alleged, in many communities. At the same time, it would conduce to national unity if more Canadians of English-speaking race would acquire the beautiful French tongue.

A LITTLE ROOM.

[Baltimore Sun.] A little room is all one needs to plow in and to sow. A little room is all one needs to bloom in and to grow. A little room for love and cheer and tender word and deed. A little room for song and smile is all, sweetheart, we need.

A little room to sing and laugh, and go with smiling face. A little room to do His will and share His tender grace. A little room to toll and dance, to wander and to rest. A little room to feel the joy that fills a sweetheart's breast.

A little room is all one needs, in country or in town. A little room to keep the clock of life from running down. A little room to play one's part, in fine or gloomy weather. Sweethearts within a sweetheart's land, with loved hands clasped together!

A little room for grief and care, for gladness and for light. A little room for dawn's sweet glow and for the starry night. A little room for peace and strife, for battle and for love. With green fields underneath the feet and blue skies up above.

A LABOR SCARCITY.

[Montreal Herald.] So long as people do not get to feeling bitter about it, this little theological treatise is quite enjoyable. Sailing on placid waters is agreeable to the indolent, but an occasional breeze livens things up most pleasantly. If the controversialists will be careful not to let the sun go down upon their anger it will be all right.

NO CAUSE FOR BITTERNESS.

[Victoria Colonist.] The announcement of Mr. Hays that the Grand Trunk Pacific will no further contract for the present because of the shortage of labor is somewhat disquieting, because there is a very general desire that the line shall be completed at the earliest possible day. It is only fair to say that the company has nothing to do with the hiring of men. That responsibility rests upon the contractors.

SHOULD BE "FINED."

[Ottawa Citizen-Conservative.] An Ontario inspector of asylums, who has been summing with his family near Orillia, is accused of sending his soiled linen to be laundered at a private laundry. If the charge is true, Mr. Inspector should get his walking-ticket. There has been enough of washing soiled linen in connection with the Ontario asylums within the past few weeks.

HELD UP.

[Philadelphia Record.] "Hands up!" exclaimed the western train robber. "Hands up!" replied the tourist. "Too late," replied the tourist. "I get off at the next station and I've already tipped the porter."

QUEER LOYALTY.

[Ottawa Free Press.] Our Conservative friends are very fond of preaching loyalty, but when it comes to the practical proof of that loyalty by giving trade concessions to Great Britain, they balk at the prospect. Yet they are enthusiastic supporters, in principle, at any rate, of the campaign to impose duties upon Canadian products. Or, in other words, they demand that "something must be done" to save the empire or "something will happen." When, however, the proposal is made to "do something" which will really increase Canadian trade with Britain, they raise objections.

"THESE FURRINERS' TUNES."

[Manchester Guardian.] We sat in the square in a Flemish town listening to a strange, hurdy-gurdy. Its melodies were strange to the ears of my neighbor, a Yorkshire wool comber, and repeating a criticism he had made before, and with some truth about the "bock," he remarked that "these furriners' tunes" didn't seem "to har' much in him." But soon the organ struck up some stirring strains which he recognized and he bounded on an old friend. "That's a bit of English, anyhow, aw reckon," he exclaimed presently, and called for another "bock" on the strength of it. It was "La Marseillaise."

PREFERENTIAL TRADING.

[Toronto Star.] The fundamental truth about preferential trading between Great Britain and the colonies is this: that it can be promoted only by a willingness to buy each other's products. It will not be sufficient to exclude or discount the products of foreign producers. If Canadians desire to help the United Kingdom its industrial struggle with foreign countries, they must be willing to buy Canadian manufactured goods, and the tariff must be low enough to allow of the importation of these goods in large quantities. Otherwise the pretence of favoring imperial trade is mere hypocrisy.

THE CITY.

[Frederick Arnold Krummer, in Collier's.] Distorted mass of stone and steel up-reared. Upon a warren burrowed in the rock, Titanic, cloud-crowned feet with fire seared, Thou art to God and man alike a mock. Deep in a labyrinthine-web, far flung, Thy tolling victims clutch the bang of gold. The blood of youth has kept thee ever young, The sins of age shall keep thee ever old.

The Golden Calf within thy roaring marts, A million worshippers may see each day. At morn the winneps fills with human hearts, At night the river sweeps the lees away. From east and west and north and south they come. To make thee great they bring their puny lives. Their hopes, built in thy granite walls, are dumb. They give their all—thy fame alone survives.

Within the gloomy canyons of thy streets Forgotten churches hide in sombre dread. While the clang of bell or shriek of whistle greets The tortured slumbers of their restless dead. A golden froth upon a seething pot, A purple robe upon a painted jade, A fruit with velvet skin and heart of rot, A hungry beast, in front of brass arrayed. A grave of broken dreams, forgotten goals. A mad, fantastic dance by day or night. A roaring torrent filled with human souls, A Queen, crowned with a diadem of light.

Thou buldest up, with mad, insensate might Thy Babel towers. 'Neath thy scourging rod. No man his neighbor understands aright. Go forth, O foals, into the light of God!

Readiness of the Tongue and Mind

"Readiness," says the Rev. S. Baring Gould, writing in the Guardian, "demands great agility of mind, quickness of apprehension, and promptness of resolve; and it is this quality that is not largely developed in Englishmen. Their maxim is slow and sure, and their motto is stand on the river bank too often they for the water to run away waiting for the water to run away before venturing to cross over. In conversation it is readiness that gives sparkle. In modern novels the dialogue is full of vivacity and repartee. But in real life there is little of that. The author lays aside his pen and thinks, and as a result of thought sets down a witticism in the conversation he is giving. Actually, how often we lie awake at night thinking what a bon mot we might have said when the occasion offered, but we have heard the promptitude to bring it out. Our wit is so deep down that it takes time to rise to the surface, and when it is up the chance of giving it vent is gone. Readiness enables us to extricate ourselves from difficult positions. The fifth Earl of Berkeley often declared that he would never yield to a single highwayman, though he did not profess that he could hold his own against numbers. One night, when crossing Hounslow Heath, his travelling carriage was stopped by a horseman, who put his head in at the window, and said, 'I believe you are Lord Berkeley.' 'I am.' 'I have heard that you have boasted that you would never surrender to a single highwayman?' 'I have.' 'Well—presenting a pistol—I am a single highwayman, and I say, 'Your money or your life.' 'You cowardly hound,' said Lord Berkeley; 'do you think I can't see your confederate skulking behind you?' The highwayman, who actually was alone, looked hurriedly round, and Lord Berkeley shot him through the head. That was readiness. An Irishman and a Frenchman have much more agile brains than the ordinary Englishman; they are able to make a compliment or turn aside anger with a happy remark, where an English or a Scotch man would be dumb. The other day a man carrying on his shoulder a grandfather's clock ran against a Frenchman as he turned a corner and knocked him down. The Frenchman picked himself up and said, 'Monsieur, next time you do walk the streets, put your watch in your pocket.' An Englishman would have stormed.

"A couple of Jews were in a railway accident. Some time afterwards they met. 'Well,' said one, 'what did you make out of that accident? I got a hundred pounds damages.' 'I replied the other, 'I made a thousand pounds by it.' 'Why, how did you manage that, Nathan?' 'Oh, Samuel, I had the presence of mind to jump on my wife Rachel's face.' 'I recall another and very different instance of readiness in the pulpit. I was at St. Eustache, Paris, on Sunday morning. The preacher was pleading for contributions for an orphanage or a creche, I forget which. The church was packed. While he was discoursing, a babe in the arms of a poor mother began to cry. She tried in vain to still it, and could not readily make her way out through the throng. The preacher raised his voice, then paused for the sobs to cease, then tried again. At last he exclaimed: 'There is no place here for two preachers. There is a little voice yonder proclaiming to you what are the sorrows of a poor child—before the eloquence of those tears I am silent.' 'Whatsoever is done unto one of the least of Christ's brethren,' said he, 'ye have done it unto Me.' And he quitted the pulpit. Readiness could have gone no better."

Just think of the time that this perfect system of flue construction will save for you when you're hurrying to get a big dinner ready. Just think how much fuel the Pandora will save for you by doing the baking and cooking at the same time. And remember, no other range has this perfect system of flue-construction. Send for the Pandora booklet. It tells of other conveniences designed by our brainy stove experts.

RAG DOLLS A Little Editorial For Our Little Girl Readers

This is a heart-to-heart talk between the editor and little girls, in which the grown-ups at your house may take part, if they wish, and which they need not listen to if they do not find it interesting. It is a private talk between the writer and the little girls who sometimes wonder why they were placed on earth, and why they always do the things they should not do; who are puzzled to find a useful outlet for their energies.

First of all, the editor has a good deal of sympathy with little girls, who don't know about you, would make a mighty interesting book, but he has tried to understand you—and having said that, he hopes that he has your kind wishes. For it cannot be said that very many people really try to see things as you see them.

The writer never kicked a rag doll, nor threw one out of his way, for instance. He tries to see it as you see it; that a rag doll is made of a baby, and he is sure that a little girl who loves rag dolls also loves pink babies that breathe and cry.

The love of little girls for rag dolls shows the mother who is in them—and this is why most little girls help their mothers all they can. Mother, too, was once a little girl, who loved rag dolls; but the very fact that she has passed that age, and now has to care for little girls, should make little girls take good care of mother.

It works both ways. Mother helps the little girl. The little girl helps mother. It should be, and generally is, a pleasure for them to help each other. Many little girls believe they should be allowed to give parties—just the same as mother. And many mothers believe that little girls should do part of the work preparing for those parties—just the same as mother.

And let us hope that many mothers understand that it is natural for little girls to want to play—just the same as mother. That is, that the little girls, when they romp, and play with dolls, and swing from a limb in the apple orchard, are enjoying life in just the same measure that mother enjoys (with, perhaps, the dishes still unashed), a chat with a neighbor. Both are relaxing, easing up, the little girl from her duties and lessons, the mother from her duties and worries.

Again, if little girls only knew how much pleasure they could give their mothers, they would give them more. Peach Butter. Select ripe peaches. If not very soft boil them in a little water till slightly broken. Then strain them through a colander, and to every pound of pulp add three-quarters of a pound of sugar. In a tiny bag place some spices, such as cinnamon, cloves and nutmeg, and mix them up. Drop it into the boiling fruit mixture, or else drop it into a little hot water, and boil it until the water is well spiced, and then add the spiced water to the "butter." Let the butter cook until it is thoroughly done, and ready to seal up. If the peaches are very ripe and soft they can be pressed together through the colander beforehand. This recipe, which is an old family one, comes from an experienced housewife, who has found it excellent.

WHEN PEACHES ARE RIPE
Peach Leather. Weigh, after peeling and stoning, some fine, tart peaches. For every pound weigh out as much sugar and lay it aside. Boil the peaches with the stones in a little water till quite tender, remove the stones and pass the pulp through a sieve. Let the mixture boil gently for one hour, stirring it frequently to prevent burning. Then add the sugar. Boil one minute and pour the mixture into shallow earthen plates. Spread the paste out so that it is not over a quarter of an inch in thickness. Let the mixture dry slowly in an oven.

A board, well greased, may be used instead of the plates. Sometimes the board with the peach leather is put outdoors in the sunshine to dry. If not dry enough in one day it is taken in at night, and the next day put back into the sunshine again. It should be allowed to dry until it has ceased to be sticky, when it can be rolled up like leather. If put in a cool, dry place it is said to keep perfectly from one season to another. A quarter of a pound of granulated sugar instead of half a pound is sometimes used for every pound of fruit. When desired for luncheon or tea it is cut in thin slices from the end of the roll. Quince leather may be made in the same manner. These fruit leathers are said to be popular throughout Virginia and Maryland. They are used as accompaniments to wafers for luncheon or tea.

Another on such occasions by quietly slipping away and washing the dishes. Such mothers and little girls grow fonder of each other—if this were possible. It isn't pleasant for a person who is friendly with all little people to find fault with them, and the editor acknowledges with considerable sadness that he knows girls who will let rag dolls actually fall to pieces rather than fasten legs and arms, and seeing to it that somebody's head does not fall off. Many people blame mother for this, claiming that she has not set a good example. But be that as it may, the fact remains that little mothers who do not take good care of rag babies, are not the ones to be trusted too far with crying pink babies.

Perhaps, of course, some little girls were not intended to use rag dolls—AND THIS IS NO EXCUSE FOR LAZINESS—but were intended to sing and laugh and make mother happy in other ways than by keeping rag dolls and other things neat and well-mended. It is a fact that some girls who are quite careless about such matters are very almost grown up, later turn out very well indeed, once they find their right place and start in a path which seems made especially for them.

You see, there is a road for each of us, if we can only find it. Finally, little girls—and now we are very much in earnest, and this is strictly between us—mother is your best friend and adviser. She knows! Mother used to be a little girl, she had rag dolls, and she knows best whether she should have sewed on legs and arms, or whether her neglect was justified by future events. Mother went through all your trials and troubles. She had to go to school when she did not want to go to school. She wanted to give parties when she was not allowed to do so. She wanted a blue dress when her mother bought her a yellow dress.

And mother grew up to womanhood, and you see her every day, don't you, working for you and taking care of a household, and her little girls may grow up bright and strong and happy. So it is the wisest policy, after all, for you to try to follow mother's advice—and on the other side, for a man who, while he likes little girls, knows very little about them as compared to what your mother and grandmother know.

When a Man Marries
By Mary Roberts Rinehart.
Copyright, 1909, The Bobbs-Merrill Co.

"I have no reason to think that Mr. Harbison cares one way or the other about me," I said to myself. "You don't think he's in love with me, do you?" I had watched him out of the corner of my eye, but he only looked at me as if he were looking at a piece of furniture.

"In love with you?" he repeated. "Why, bless your little heart, no! He thinks you're a married woman. I'm the principle of the thing he's fighting for. If I had as much sense as he has, I'd—I'd put it out at interest."

Max interrupted us just then, and asked if we knew where Mr. Harbison was. "Can't find him," he said. "I got the telephone together and have enough left over to buy a new pair of shoes. Suppose Harbison hides away in the working with a corkcrew and two paltry knives."

I heard nothing more of the trouble that night. Max went to Jim about it, and Jim said angrily that only a fool would interfere with a man who was working with a corkcrew and two paltry knives. I had no more to say about it. I heard nothing more of the trouble that night. Max went to Jim about it, and Jim said angrily that only a fool would interfere with a man who was working with a corkcrew and two paltry knives.

shrewdly. "Let me down; I can walk perfectly well on my feet." He hesitated. Then he slid me slowly to my feet, but he did not open the door at once. "Are you afraid to let me carry you down those stairs, after—Tuesday night?" he asked, very low. "You still think I did that?" "I had never been less sure of it than at that moment, but an imp of perversity made me retort, 'Yes.'" He hardly seemed to hear me. He stood looking down at me as I leaned against the door-frame.

"Good Lord!" he groaned. "To think that I might have killed you!" And then—he stooped and suddenly kissed me. The next moment the door was open, and he was leading me down into the house. At the foot of the staircase he paused, still holding my hand, and faced me in the darkness. "I'm not sorry," he said steadily. "I suppose I ought to be, but I'm not. Only—I want you to know that I was not guilty—before. I didn't intend to now. I am almost as much surprised as you are."

I was quite unable to speak, but I reached my hand loose of his and stepped back to let me pass, and I went down the hall alone.

CHAPTER XVIII.
It's All My Fault.
I didn't go to the drawing-room again. I went into my own room and sat in the dark, and tried to be furiously angry, and I succeeded in being so queer and tingling. One thing was absolutely certain: not the same man, but two different men had kissed me on the stairs to-night. It sounds rather horrid and discriminating, but there was all the difference in the world.

But then—who had? And for whom had Mr. Harbison been waiting on the roof? He had been waiting for me, and I had choked you to death a few minutes ago? Then he rather expected to finish somebody in that way! What? Jim, perhaps? It was strange, too, but suddenly I realized that no matter how many suspicious glances he cast at me, he was still foolishly trying to break quarantine and create one of the sensations he so dearly loves. This was a new idea, and some things upheld it, but Max had been playing bridge when still left that ridiculous incident of the roof.

Bella came up after I had gone to bed and turned on the light to brush her hair.

Cured Stomach Trouble
Mr. Jas. P. Stansel made sound and well after several years of suffering from indigestion. Read what Mr. Stansel says: "I had stomach trouble for several years and began using Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. In a short time I was sound and well. I had recommended your medicine to others and know many have used it to great advantage."—Jas. P. Stansel, 165 1/2 N. Market street, Columbus, Miss.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey
when taken in medicinal doses, just before a meal, stimulates the mucous surfaces, and little glands of the stomach to a healthy action, causing a sufficient flow of the gastric juice to digest the food. If continued it will cure the disease or weaken it before it reaches a dangerous stage. It also excites the flow of saliva for the digestion of starchy food, preventing fermentation in the stomach and bowels.

SOLD IN SEALED BOTTLES ONLY by all druggists and chemists. Beware of cheap imitations, or direct, $1.25 a large bottle. Medical booklet and doctor's advice free. The Duffy Malt Whiskey Company, Rochester, N. Y.

RADICAL REFORMS BEGUN IN TURKEY
Members Without Experience
Enact Laws in a Creditable Manner.

Constantinople, Sept. 22.—The Turkish Parliament has done remarkably well for a body of men entirely without legislative experience, and composed of representatives of seven or eight different races and religions, which have hitherto been in active conflict. The recent session adjourned in July, after having made a record that would have been creditable to the British House of Commons, which is undoubtedly the most intelligent and the most rational legislative body in the world. The docket of the Turkish Chamber of Deputies shows that 118 bills were introduced; 65 were passed, approved by the Sultan, and became laws; 12 were rejected, either in committee or in the chamber; 18 are pending with favorable reports from committees, leaving 21 measures unacted upon or still in the committee stage—which is an extraordinary record under the circumstances, and much better than that of the Russian Duma, which has had three years of experience. And what is still better, the Turkish Parliament has shown itself very conservative, where the Russians and Persians were very radical. It has commanded more respect than was expected. It has forced publicity upon the acts of the Government, and has made impossible the mystery which enveloped everything done under the old regime. It has shown a sense of responsibility that has guarded the conduct of almost every member; it has scrutinized every act of the ministry, and the members have taken a broad and comprehensive view of their public duties that is surprising.

MAY FORFEIT FORTUNE BY ENTERING NAVY

Youth Enters Government Service at $22 a Month.

Chicago, Sept. 23.—The yearning of 22-year-old Horace Logan Keelor, of Richmond, Ind., for life on a United States man-of-war, combined with his love for the embalming profession, may cost him $1,500,000.

The youth, a son of Harry C. Keelor, of Richmond, enlisted at the naval recruiting station, 22 Fifth avenue, on Sept. 7. Yesterday lawyers representing his grandfather's estate arrived in Chicago after a three months' trail which led them all over the west, only to find that the young man had enlisted in the medical branch of the navy, and now is at Norfolk, Va. By the terms of the grandfather's will property valued at $1,500,000 is bequeathed to young Keelor, provided he earns not less than an average of $75 a month while between 21 and 25 years of age.

Pay is $22 a Month. Young Keelor enlisted as a medical apprentice for four years and will receive $22 a month for his services. At the end of six months, he may pass a first-class apprentice examination and receive $33 a month. In addition he will have free board and medical attention. According to naval officers here $33 a month and the cost of food and medical attention will approximate $75 a month. Therefore it will be up to Keelor to pass the examination in

THRILLING LOVE DRAMA IN RAILWAY STATION

Parisian Baker's Vengeance On Faithless Wife and Lover.

London, Sept. 22.—An extraordinary drama of love and murder was enacted at the Northern station in Paris on Monday afternoon.

The affair was the tragic sequel to a wife's visit to Paris, an Italian named Victor Facenda fatally shooting his wife's lover, and inflicting injury on his wife.

The victim is Philippo Bocta, also an Italian, and all three have been living in Glasgow, where Facenda carried on a confectionery business. Before going to Glasgow, Facenda is said to have lived at Brighton. Bocta is a journeyman confectioner, aged twenty-one, and had not long been in Glasgow. When he arrived there he made the acquaintance of Mr. and Mrs. Facenda, at whose house he became a frequent visitor. He is said to have paid marked attention to Mrs. Facenda, who was much younger than her husband.

The husband had spoken to her many times about Bocta, and there had been scenes between them, but she had assured her husband that the friendship was quite devoid of all harm. Three weeks ago the wife left her husband's roof, whether intending to remain away permanently or not is uncertain. She announced her intention of going to Paris and of visiting her parents in Italy. Arriving in Paris she took lodgings near the Northern station.

A week after her departure, young Bocta took it into his head to visit the continent, and one morning he disappeared from Glasgow. The husband heard of his departure, soon afterwards, and that Bocta and Mrs. Facenda had been seen together in Paris.

Corsets Save Wife. The husband, infuriated with Bocta, and suspecting his wife, at once set out for Paris, in search of him. For four days he searched in vain. He suspected that the couple, either singly or together, would soon return to England, and so for a couple of days he hung about the Northern station, keeping a sharp eye on the passengers travelling by the boat trains.

At two o'clock on Monday afternoon his hunt was successful. He arrived at the station fifteen minutes before the departure of a boat train for Boulogne. After a glance at the people on the platform, he went to a waiting-room, and on putting his head inside he was just in time to see his wife and Bocta leaving by another door, and making for the waiting train.

Following them hurriedly, he drew a revolver and, as he afterwards explained, feeling that it would be an act of cowardice to attack his rival from behind, he swung Bocta around with his left hand and at once shot him with the revolver he held in the other.

Bocta, grievously wounded in the chest, ran shrieking to the station-master's office, and hid behind a desk. He ran out on to the platform after a few seconds, and dashed towards Facenda, but his strength was gone, and he dropped dead on the platform. Facenda, meanwhile, had turned upon his wife, and had fired at her. The bullet, however, struck her stays and glanced off, inflicting only a surface wound.

Police seized him at once, and bore him away. He behaved with remarkable coolness, and only expressed regret when he heard that after all his wife was not dead. He made no resistance. When examined by a magistrate, he frankly admitted the crime. "Do what you will," he said, "there is nothing I am sorry for, and it is that the woman is not dead."

KNOCKED FROM CAB TRAIN RUNS WILD

Fireman Shuts Off Just in Time To Avert Disaster.

New York, Sept. 23.—The Philadelphia and Reading fast freight bound for Jersey City crossed the Morris Canal bridge at Bayonne yesterday afternoon at a speed that caused Fireman Herman Sohner to look over the arch of the "camel back" locomotive to see whether or not Engineer Henry Olin had gone mad.

The fireman's heart nearly stopped beating when he saw nothing but a vacant seat—the engineer was gone and the train was running wild. Another moment and the train, which was approaching 60 miles an hour and gaining headway, probably would jump the track or run into something ahead. The fireman vaulted the arch and gripped the lever. He pulled it all the way back and brought the train to a standstill with a suddenness that knocked the train crew from their feet.

Jersey City and reported the engineer missing. Scouts were sent out along the track, and Olin's hat was found on the other side of the bridge. Then some blood spots were found and tracked to the canal embankment and down into the canal.

While the men were still searching word came from Jersey City that Olin had been found under strange circumstances. Injured as he was, he had evidently crawled from the Morris Canal bridge to Ocean avenue, Jersey City, a distance of nearly a mile. There he had fallen unconscious and was picked up by the police and sent to the Jersey City Hospital.

PARIS TO NEW YORK

Fashion Artists of America Hear Good News at Annual Talkfest.

New York, Sept. 23.—Paris at last has bent the knee to us," said President Greau, of the Ladies' Tailor Association, which is now in session at the Hotel Astor. For the first time an American tailor has received an order from a Paris shop for some of our new fall tailored suits. This is the first step. They have had to come to us for something. "Absolute originality, not a stitch copied from the other side is to be our future motto," said he, "American women do not want such extreme styles as those of Paris."

Our coming exhibition will make the Parisian products look like dime museum freaks. Skirts are to be tight-fitting, but not hobbled. The very smartest costumes are to be made of a new rich-looking, tough American material called "jungle" cloth in honor of Col. Roosevelt. Coats are three-quarter length, with only such lines as a tailor can produce. The Norfolk suit will be revived, but on more attractive lines, Europe is showing sombre effects owing to the King's death, but a season of brilliant coloring is hoped for here. Indian coloring and pretty Indian designs are to be the thing.

NURSE SUES CROWN

Blames I. C. R. for Breaking Two Legs When Alighting From Train.

Ottawa, Sept. 22.—A. Audette, registrar of the exchequer court, leaves this afternoon for Montreal to take evidence in an interesting action against the crown, arising out of an accident on the Intercolonial. A Miss Hamilton, a trained nurse, was some time since summoned to attend a case section, and having boarded the train asked that she be put off at a way station in the early morning. When the time came for her to leave the car the train stopped, but Miss Hamilton fell from the car and broke both her legs, and is now walking with the aid of artificial limbs. She claims that she was not notified that there was no platform at the point where the train stopped, and that the Government is liable for the negligence of its conductor in not taking precautions to protect her. Both sides will be heard in the equete at Montreal tomorrow.

Y., Sept. 22.—For the first time, so far as is known, the waters at the foot of the American falls, which usually suck downward and long hold in deep-lying whirlpools whatever comes to them, eventually releasing it far down the river, last night cast upon the shore near the base of the falls the body of a man. ALWAYS AILING!

How many women there are to whom these words apply exactly! They are not quite "sick in bed", but they almost wish, as they struggle through each day, that they were. Frequent headaches, loss of energy, loss of appetite, depression and attacks of biliousness and indigestion make life a dragging misery.

In nearly every case the cause of it all is chronic constipation, that trouble so often made light of, but which brings about so much suffering. As a result of it the whole system is filled with impurities and almost everything, including the special functions of womanhood, goes wrong.

Hundreds of thousands of women have had reason to thank Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills for relief from all this chain of miseries, and for restoration to health and happiness. For over fifty years, and in every part of the world, these Pills have been tested and proved a great female medicine.

Being purely vegetable, they are not harsh like salts and so many other purgatives, nor do they weaken, sicken or gripe.

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills are a perfect blood purifier, and a sure cure for biliousness, indigestion, headache, sallow complexion, liver and kidney troubles, piles, pimples, boils and other ailments that arise from the sluggish action of bowels, liver or kidneys. By purifying the blood and invigorating every organ in the whole body they relieve and cure female ailments and restore normal, healthy conditions.

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills are, in truth, a blessing to women, as Mrs. Harrison, of Richmond, Va., found. She writes:

"About six weeks ago I first used Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills, and I must state that I found them a most superior medicine. My complaint was peculiar to women, languor, debility, and bilious attacks, which combined to make my days thoroughly wretched. Indeed, there were spells when I used to wonder in the morning how I could manage to get through my household duties, and was forced to struggle through the day when I should have been in bed. Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills have made me vigorous and well. I noticed the change from the very first dose."

WOMAN SOCIALIST WONT KEEP STILL

Insists On Speaking Double Her Allotted Time, Throws Congress Into Uproar.

Magdeburg, Sept. 22.—There was a lively incident during yesterday's session of the Social Democratic congress, when the most radical woman member of the party, Rosa Luxemburg, refused to quit speaking when her allotted ten minutes had expired.

Even while leaving the tribune, she turned back to taunt the Wurtemberg delegates with being backers of the Badenese. Pandemonium ensued, many members trying to speak at once.

Arguments were put forward to show that the action of the South German deputies in voting for the granting of the budget is a tactical measure in order to gain practical advantages. One of these advantages which was cited, and which was gained recently by the socialists joining with the Liberals, resulted in the establishment of an insurance fund against unemployment.

The quarrel between the North and South German socialists is of special import in view of the general elections in 1911, for if the South Germans are driven from the party, as is proposed by some of the resolutions introduced in the congress, they will go to swell the ranks of the Liberals and bourgeois parties in the Reichstag, and by so much diminish the socialist triumph in Germany.

TO FORM ALLIANCE AGAINST UNCLE SAM

Brazil, Argentine Republic, and Chile to Get Together.

Hamburg, Sept. 23.—Cable advices received this morning from Rio Janeiro say that an alliance between Brazil, Argentine Republic, and Chile, to check the increasing influence of the United States in South America, is imminent. Jealousy between Brazil and the Argentine Republic has heretofore prevented the consummation of such an alliance, the cables say, but new administrations in both countries have brought about amicable relations. Chile is understood to have favored such an alliance for years.

SOLD PRINTS OF CAR

New Precedent in Automobile Law Established by Detroit Court.

Detroit, Sept. 22.—A new precedent in automobile law was made when Judge Donovan fined Julius Haltzenberger $2,000 for offering to sell to the Jules Motor Company, of Toronto, prints of the King car. The judge laid particular stress on the effect of such conduct in Detroit's automobile industry. Haltzenberger, who was employed by O. J. Mulford and Charles B. King, made copies of the designs jointly produced by King and himself, told Attorney Atkinson, that he owned them, and he was advised that he had the right to sell them. Atkinson, Charles M. Preston and Arthur J. Greenway, co-defendants with Haltzenberger, on a conspiracy charge, were freed for lack of proof.

Chicago, Sept. 22.—Harry W. and Max Chotiner, of Pittsburg, members of a wholesale tobacco firm, reported to the police last night that they had been held up and robbed of $10,000 in currency and a $500 diamond pin while searching for a friend's home on the west side.

The Chotiner brothers told the police that they were on the way to Janesville, Wis., where they expected to purchase tobacco. They said they attempted to detour the car to a Chicago bank, but were refused permission because they were not known to the bank's officers.

SAYS CHARLTON SLEW IN EPILEPTIC FIT

Report of Specialists Tells of "Peculiarities" of Prisoner's Ancestors.

New York, Sept. 22.—The report of the specialists who examined Porter Charlton, self-confessed slayer of his wife at Lake Como, Italy, last June, has been made public at Jersey City, where Charlton is confined. Judge Blair, of the Hudson County court, yesterday declined to receive the report on the ground that he had no jurisdiction as a committing court to consider such a plea.

The alienists who examined the prisoner were Dr. Allan McLane Hamilton, Dr. Edward D. Fisher and Dr. W. J. Arkitz, laymen, besides the alienists.

They declare that Charlton is "of defective mental organization" and is a victim of what is known to medical students of mental diseases as "constitutional inferiority." The alienists investigated the personal antecedents of the prisoner and found that his grandfather was a paranoiac, that a first cousin was an epileptic, and that a maternal uncle "was a man of stubborn and brutal nature and eccentric, immoral and vagabond tendencies." A young brother accidentally shot and killed a playmate but showed no subsequent remorse.

On one occasion young Charlton raised a chair to strike his mother and on another vented his blind rage on a horse. He was fanciful, wrote verse and was delicate, and a degree of timidity, the report finds.

Almost from the time of his meeting with his wife, the report states, Charlton underwent a change. "He became greatly detached, aloof, and indifferent, at times, violent. On the day of the crime it appears that Charlton kept his temper up to a certain point when, suddenly he seized a mallet. After the killing, he immediately lay down beside the body and slept until morning. He does not seem to have been agitated or worried. Placing the corpse in an empty trunk, he slept most of the day in their bedroom, near the trunk, and afterwards left the place. He made no serious attempt to destroy the evidence of his crime. His attempts at concealing his identity were silly.

"He should be taken to a hospital for the insane, and kept there indefinitely, for he is likely at any time to be a menace to society."

MUST NOT RELY ON THE SHIPPERS' PURSE

Railways Told Should Adjust Economic Difficulties Themselves.

Chicago, Sept. 22.—Railroads must adjust their economic difficulties by some other means than by asking shippers to contribute the funds therefor, in the opinion of Interstate Commerce Commissioner Franklin K. Lane, expressed during the hearing today of the western railroads that seek to obtain a general increase in freight rates.

Railroad officers had declared that there were only two factors in economically perfect railroad management, namely, the amount of rates charged and the methods of capitalization and financing.

The elimination of the rate question by the commissioner aroused considerable interest among the railroad men and attorneys present. They sought to learn if the commissioner thereby implied there must be readjustment of the method of financing big carrier systems, but Mr. Lane ignored the efforts and continued to ask the witness, to whom he had directed his remarks, pointed questions on the amount and disposition of earnings of the railroad in question, the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul, and the Great Western.

The witness was William Ellis, commerce counsel for the St. Paul. Mr. Ellis had testified that his company was suffering from too much business, that the increase had meant an increase in the unit of cost which grew faster than the unit of income, thereby threatening the yearly surplus of earnings above payment of dividends, cost of operation and of maintenance.

"As the country develops there will be more and more freight delivered to you, and as conditions are now the rates constantly must be increased, according to the argument of railroad officials.

"I regard it as a serious menace to the western country if the rates constantly are to be increased. We must work out this problem on lines other than by the proposed method of raising the tariffs. If not there is no time when we can say the maximum has been reached."

This development came as a result of the inquiry into the St. Paul's profits, particularly from the Puget Sound extension. Mr. Ellis denied the commissioner's suggestion that the road's earnings when it built the extension had turned to pessimism.

CIGARETTES GET BOOST IN PRICE

Official Says Trust Will Make Smokers Pay Revenue Tax.

Washington, Sept. 22.—Packages of all American cigarettes and tobaccos are being reduced in size by the manufacturer to make up for the increased revenue taxes imposed by the tariff.

Packages of several well known brands which used to contain 20 cigarettes and sold for 5 cents, now contain only 15 and sell for a nickel. The first of the smaller size packages have appeared in Washington and the internal revenue bureau has unofficial information that the so-called tobacco trust intends cutting the sizes of all its package goods in every city in the country. Packages of cigarettes which formerly contained ten hereafter contain eight.

Pocket pouches of tobacco which have been made in the favorite size of one and two-thirds ounces and sold for 5 cents, will be reduced to one and a quarter ounces, it is understood.

London---City of Homes and Opportunities

YOU'RE proud you live in London, aren't you? You right well should be. Look at some of its record—right here. London is growing like a weed. This may be a bit of news for you, but it is a fact. Listen: 1870—15,000, 1880—20,000, 1890—30,000, 1900—40,000, 1910—50,000, and 1920 look for 75,000. It now has over 50,000, and with the healthy impetus it has, an increase of 50 per cent in ten years is by no means an idle dream. It is the hub of a population of over a million people—the third distributing centre of the Dominion—a thriving, throbbing, hustling centre of trade in the midst of the richest agricultural district of Canada. It is the fourth city in population in Ontario, and is about to enter with giant strides in the race toward third place. It is the fifth city in all Canada as a manufacturing centre, with its factories numbering over 228, covering 72 separate and distinct lines. It has transportation facilities unexcelled in any part of Canada, with its 127 passenger and freight trains daily, and its lake connections through its outlet at Port Stanley. London is already big—husky and important—bigger than some people think—and owing to the additions and extensions of the C. P. R.'s facilities and equipment is on the verge of the biggest business boom in its history. In the very near future all eyes will be on London. Are you going to take advantage of it? Or is the other fellow going to reap all the advantage? We are offering you a chance early in the game—read it thoroughly—acquaint yourself with particulars—and act.

Office on property.

It is only a few minutes' walk from the street cars on Dundas street, and only seven minutes on the cars to the heart of the business district.

As soon as the C. P. R. improvements are under way—and they will begin immediately—it is understood that the street railway will be extended up Quebec street to the C. P. R. tracks, right to the property.

Hillcrest is well wooded, the lots are high and dry, lying on a gentle slope, commanding from every point a good view of the entire city.

But Hillcrest may now be inspected and plans and full particulars be obtained from our representatives at the office on the grounds, which will be open every day from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., or at our downtown office, in London Loan Building, corner of Dundas and Clarence streets. REMEMBER THE OPENING DAY.

The lots will be sold at prices ranging from as low as $5.00 up to none higher than $10.00 per foot, even for the choicest corner lot, making the prices of the lots range from $150 to $300, as they are in 30-foot frontages. TERMS—Small payment down, and small payment monthly, with liberal discount for cash.

A home site in a healthy, beautiful section at low prices, where values are sure to rapidly increase. In other words, a nice home for the present, and a big investment for the future.

To the Investor

A means of making money grow with great rapidity—absolute security and positive certainty.

To the Farmer

How to See the Property

Take cars to corner of Dundas and Quebec streets, opposite the Western Fair Grounds, walk north on Quebec until the Hillcrest sign meets your eye, or take Hillcrest automobiles, which will run to and from the property all day from the corner of Dundas street.

Fortunes in Real Estate

REAL ESTATE is the basis of most big fortunes

It is the only unchangeable—staple investment.

It can neither dry up and blow away—nor is it affected in value by panics or hard times.

Look at the rich men in your own city or in any city in Canada or America and you will find that their real estate holdings are a big and valued part of their fortunes.

Ownership of the land is a patent of respectability—marks you as a desirable citizen and, no matter how small the start, will be the beginning of your prosperity.

If you don't own a home—stop paying rent—buy a lot at Hillcrest and build a home. If you already have one—buy a lot at Hillcrest for investment. In either case you can then grasp this opportunity as it is passing—and have a part of the profits that are sure to come in this new section.

The C. P. R.'s Big Move at Quebec Street

HAVE you any conception what the new big move of the C. P. R. means to London?—and to you? You have heard that this enterprising railroad has secured a big block of property at Quebec street for the purpose of building big new shops, big new offices and a new station.

Do You Know What That Means?

Has its importance occurred to you?

They have spent over $100,000 for the property—they will without doubt spend the balance of $500,000 (a round half million) in buildings, machinery and equipment.

They will give employment to many skilled hands—and annually expend thousands of dollars in wages. They will bring many people to this section of the city, all of whom must be provided with homes and food and clothes, and the necessaries and luxuries of life.

Business will follow, and mercantile establishments to cater to their wants will locate near this new and vital artery of trade and business.

Homes will be required in the close proximity, and real estate values will shoot skyward.

Do You Know How This Will Affect You?

JUST THIS WAY—If you are wise you will invest in real estate in this vicinity—you will get in on the ground floor and secure all you can carry—develop it and live on it while it is steadily and surely rising in value, and in a few short years have the satisfaction of seeing your investment increased many times.

MAY HAVE POWER

ion against Windsor selling power to Detroit, and using the profits to reduce the cost of their own power as well as keep down the tax rate, to the disadvantage of other cities.

Mayor Geary summed up the problem in a sentence: "Will the profits be given to Windsor or to the crowd?" The delegates emphatically stated that they should belong to the crowd.

Exportation of Power.
"A criticism has been offered regarding the exportation of power," said Mr. Beck. "We have been accused of desiring to place on your shoulders the responsibility for this. We have no such idea at all. We will assume all the responsibility. The Government will have something to say shortly on this question."

The chairman of the commission then dealt at some length with the whole scheme. He stated that it was the first intention to build a 60,000-volt line, but upon mature consideration they decided to have a 110,000-volt line. A great deal of criticism had been offered on that score, but severe tests had been made, and it was a demonstrated fact that power could be carried cheaper to the municipalities by this method than before.

Mr. Beck reviewed the success of the scheme in Ottawa, where the city had been supplied with 4,000-horsepower. In Port Arthur they would soon press the button and allow the citizens to use power there. He then read the formal application of Windsor to the Dominion government.

The Scheme.
The chairman of the power commission then dealt at some length with the whole scheme. He stated that it was the first intention to build a 60,000-volt line, but upon mature consideration they decided to have a 110,000-volt line. A great deal of criticism had been offered on that score, but severe tests had been made, and it was a demonstrated fact that power could be carried cheaper to the municipalities by this method than before.

Mr. Beck reviewed the success of the scheme in Ottawa, where the city had been supplied with 4,000-horsepower. In Port Arthur they would soon press the button and allow the citizens to use power there. He then read the formal application of Windsor to the Dominion government.

Windsor's Request.
"We are ready and willing to assume all responsibility in connection with the matter," said Mr. Hanna. "We will purchase the power for that amount of power. It will benefit the rest of you. It will reduce the cost of your power some $2 or $3 per horsepower. All will benefit by the sale of power to Windsor. We intend to export the power. We do not deny that. What difference does that make? You profit by the sale of power to us, and we profit by the sale of power to you. It looks like a reasonable proposition."

Mayor Hanna further explained that the Falls were capable of developing 6,000-horsepower, of which half belonged to Canada. They should be developed in the interest of the country. Every municipality should be allowed to share in the project.

"We cannot take any less than 15,000-horsepower," said Mr. Hanna. "If we can't have that, we can't take any. It will cost us $28 per horsepower to get the power, considerably more than any of you will pay. Will you cut West? On the hydro-electric map? I don't think so."

Ald. Shepherd, of Windsor, backed up Mayor Hanna's arguments. Windsor wanted 10,000-horsepower or more. There was no reason why objection should be made to the exportation of power. It was done at the Falls. It is exported to Detroit. All the municipalities in the zone would have the cost of power reduced, and a revenue would accrue.

Ald. Bedford, of Windsor, showed that the Windsor family was not united by objecting to the vote, and declaring it to be illegal. He suggested that the city of Windsor advertise the sale of 15,000-horsepower, in order to get the money and a market.

"You had better wait until you get the power before you advertise," said Mr. Beck.

Ald. Bedford continued to discuss the vote when Mayor Hanna reprimanded him.

Washing Dirty Linen.
"Windsor is here to ask for power, not to wash its dirty linen," he declared. "The power is not to be sold. Mr. Wood also endeavored to get in the argument, but was quickly ruled out of order."

Then the debate started in earnest. Mayor Geary, of Toronto, thought the question of the profits should be disposed of. According to the reports furnished, Windsor was to sell a distributing company, who would in turn supply Detroit customers. Windsor would not have to build its powerhouse, nor assume any responsibility along that line, as have other cities, the profits all being turned into the municipality to be used probably in bonusing factories, or other purposes.

The Question.
"It resolves itself into this question: Shall the profits of the export of power go to Windsor or to the crowd?" declared Mayor Geary. "Shall it be a partnership, or will the individual profit? I am opposed to the exportation of power, but under the circumstances I would waive my objections if the other municipalities are protected."

Up To Commission.
Mayor Hanna, of Berlin, took the same ground. He opposed Windsor being allowed to keep the profits. The commission, he considered, should pay a current rate for the power used by themselves.

Mayor Beattie and Ald. Stevenson, of London, spoke on the question, and also objected to any special privilege being given to Windsor.

"Windsor came in after the other municipalities had assumed a heavy burden," said Mayor Beattie. "Now that it looks a success, they want to come in on special terms. That would not be fair. I will not oppose Windsor's application on the same basis as the others, but I do object to special privileges."

Mayor Dingman, of Stratford, and Mayor Armstrong, of Paris, and others, spoke along the same line. Mayor Austin, of Chatham, also opposed the request on the terms mentioned. Chatham was prepared to take 600-horsepower, but they wanted to be treated on the same basis as other municipalities. Windsor should not be given special treatment.

After some desultory discussion, Controller Spence moved the resolution above referred to. Mayor Geary, of St. Thomas, seconded it, and it carried unanimously.

The Situation.
Hon. Adam Beck then briefly reviewed the situation. He pointed out that the reduction in the cost of power to the municipalities in the power zone, as a result of Windsor's application, would be from 10 to 15 per cent. A portion of the cost of the line from the Falls to London must be borne by Windsor and the other municipalities to the west of London.

A municipality was entitled to profits on the sale of power. London, or any other city or town, might sell to radials or other big customers at a profit, and the other municipalities could not object. However, in this case, Windsor was selling to a foreign country, and the objection of the other municipalities was valid.

Mr. Beck agreed that the commission should have the sole power to annul the contract on reasonable notice, and should have the power to make the contract. Perhaps much of it would be used in the city in developing industries, and in that case no objection could be made to it.

Mr. Beck doubted that there would be such enormous profits out of the sale of power as some of the delegates suggested. The chairman also objected to the use of the term sectional in discussing the question. All the municipalities would benefit by the scheme, not one or two.

System of Accounting.
Mr. Beck stated that City Auditor Jewell, of London, had been named chairman of the audit committee and would explain the system of accounting to be adopted by the municipalities.

His last words to the convention were that he would not be a party to the exportation of power unless the contract could be terminated in one year's notice.

MILLIONAIRE SHOT A GIRL AND TOOK HIS OWN LIFE

B. W. Yates, Reported To Be Forcibly of Brantford With Relations at Montreal, Commits Suicide at Cleveland.

Cleveland, Ohio, Sept. 22.—A man, who has been almost positively identified as B. W. Yates, a prosperous business man of Detroit, hanged himself in the "bull pen" of the county jail today within two hours after shooting his companion, Mrs. Fred Singer, of Cleveland, during a quarrel, in White's roadhouse, near the western outskirts of the city.

The clothes worn by the suicide were made by J. Kirschbaum, a Detroit tailor, who described them so accurately over the long-distance telephone that the police believe there is no longer any doubt as to his identity.

Mrs. Singer, who recently separated from her husband, is in a critical condition at Lakeside Hospital. The woman was shot once through the back and twice in the legs.

Chased Across Street.
The fatal quarrel marked the end of an all-night "joy ride." About three o'clock this morning the couple drove up to Silverthorn's roadhouse in Lakewood. An hour later Officer Timmerman saw the woman run across the street, followed by Yates, who seemed desperate in his efforts to overtake her. The woman had hardly reached the telephone booth in White's tavern when Yates dragged her to the middle of the floor and demanded that she return to Silverthorn's. Hot words followed, and Eddie Schneider, the waiter, dropped under the table as Yates drew a revolver. Five shots were fired, and when Officer Timmerman entered the woman was crawling across the floor, leaving a trail of blood. Yates was calmly ejecting the shells from his revolver.

An automobile was summoned and the woman carried to the hospital, while Yates was taken to the county jail, and while a cell was being prepared he was placed in the "bull pen." When the officers returned Yates' body was found hanging by a linen handkerchief attached to a rod near the ceiling.

About Fifty-Five Years Old.
The initials "B. W. Y." on his haberdashery and the trademark of the hat or gave the first clue to his identity.

He was about fifty-five years of age. According to Attorney Frank Billman, who was called to Mrs. Singer's bedside, the woman had been visiting in Detroit since her separation from her husband, until about three weeks ago. Yates, it is said, followed her here three days ago.

"Out of the City."
Detroit, Mich., Sept. 22.—At the home of B. W. Yates, chairman of the Business Men's Publishing Company, in the fashionable Alexandrine avenue section, this afternoon, it was stated that "Mr. Yates was out of the city."

Yates was about 45 years of age, and very wealthy. He was one of the principal stockholders and chairman of the board of the Business Men's Publishing Company, and owner and manager of the Point Aux Barques Hotel. He has lived at the hotel during the summer.

Yates' family consisted of his wife and two sons, one of whom is a recent graduate of the University of Michigan. His brother is a former mayor of Montreal, and a prominent physician of that city. The family has been prominent in Detroit society, and Yates' wealth is estimated at not less than $1,000,000.

Many Canadian Interests.
Brantford, Sept. 22.—A dispatch received here this morning from Detroit announces the sudden death of Mr. Wynne Yates, a millionaire resident of that city, and formerly of Brantford, who had many Canadian interests. Mr. Yates was a son of Mr. Henry Yates, the first chief engineer of the Grand Trunk Railway. Dr. Yates, of Montreal, is a brother.

Toronto, Sept. 22.—A man named B. W. Yates, who lives in Detroit, is well known in Toronto. He is a brother of Dr. H. B. Yates, of Montreal, and a brother-in-law of Chris. Bunting, ticket agent at the King Edward Hotel. Dr. Yates, however, who is in the city today, says that the man who took his life at Cleveland cannot be his brother, for he left him only on Tuesday in Brantford, Pa., and that he then was going to London, Petrolea, and other Ontario points.

GOLD FIND IN B. C.
Nelson, B. C., Sept. 22.—Cresten is wildly excited by the reported discovery of placer gold in Goat River by Ira Bean, an old-time prospector. He came to Cresten last Thursday with fine specimens of coarse gold, and the news came out that he had located two claims just above the canon in Goat River.

A rush then occurred in the vicinity of the find, and up to the present eighteen claims having been staked. A meeting of claim holders will be held this week for the purpose of forming a syndicate to carry out necessary fluming and tunnelling to enable the gold to be taken from the bed of the stream and bed rock. The syndicate will be known as the Indiana group, all the owners of various claims being local men.

It is believed that the money necessary to exploit the properties can be easily raised. The claim holders are anxious to avoid anything like a stampede from the outside, and it is difficult to get facts as to the real value of the find.

BOTHA MAY RESIGN.
London, Sept. 22.—After all it is probable that Botha will resign the premiership. Mr. Hull refuses to resign in office, and unless a strong substitute other than Merriman can be found, Botha will retire. A majority of the members of the cabinet will likely go with him, and only the more recalcitrant members would stay with Merriman, who is expected to be asked to form a Government if necessary.

FORMER LONDONER'S TIMELY PUBLICATION

Mr. E. R. Cameron, K. C., Issues Work On the Life, Accident and Guarantee Insurance in Canada.

A new work just issued on "The Law of Life Insurance in Canada, Accident and Guarantee Insurance," by a former well-known Londoner, E. R. Cameron, K. C., now registrar of the supreme court of Canada. The recent insurance act has made it a very timely and necessary work. It is the first attempt yet made to treat the subject from the standpoint of comparative legislation. It is a companion volume to the author's book on "The Law of Fire Insurance in Canada."

Life insurance in all the provinces of Canada had its source in "The act to secure wives and children the benefit of insurance on the lives of their husbands and parents." Like all other laws, the law of life insurance has been altered and amended from time to time. Prior to the passing of the insurance act at the last session of the Dominion Parliament, the law was in a fairly well-settled condition. It is believed, however, that the new act is an improvement on the old act. Of course, it, too, will from time to time be amended and altered. In the meantime the act as produced the result of much care and study on the part of those having charge of the legislation. None in Canada is better qualified than Mr. E. R. Cameron to produce a work that will assist in the proper carrying out of the act in every respect. There is so much similarity in the legislation of all the provinces on life insurance that the decision of the courts on the statute law of any of the provinces is likely to be very useful in construing a similar statute in force in any other province.

The Parliament of Canada has dealt with the whole subject in a manner intended to be the Windsor family in its nature is incapable of being factually treated by any act of Parliament which can be regarded as a dominion and provincial powers of legislation which is likely to come up for settlement at an early date. As Mr. Cameron says in the preface of his work: "The new insurance act of Canada has made some very radical changes in the old law, not only in matters relating to the internal organization and management of insurance companies, but also with respect to the conditions which hereafter may be attached to their contracts by companies governed by that act. The present work contains the new act, indicates in different types the amendments and alterations made, points out the extent to which the report of the commissioners has been felt, and discusses the legal questions which arise by reason of the special provision of the statute with reference to the standard clauses that become part of all policies of life insurance issued after the first of January, 1911."

The work will be a very useful addition to the authorities on life insurance. It has evidently been written with great care and thoroughness.

KILLED BY ARC LAMP.
Pittsburg, Pa., Sept. 23.—Steve Stuper, aged 19, employed at the Homestead steel works, was instantly killed early today while fooling with an arc lamp. His hand came in contact with a live wire, and 4,800 volts of electricity passed through him. His right shoe was torn off by the current.
