

SMALL PARTIES DECISIVE DURING MODEL PARLIAMENT

Last weekend on Friday night and all day Saturday saw the annual Model Parliament. This year the number of parties was increased to five with the addition of the New Party under the leadership of Mike Denny and the Maritime Monarchists under the leadership of Charles Daughney.

Following is a report of the three sessions of the Model Parliament:

Friday Night

With a gallery of over seventy people, Model Parliament got off to a lively start on Friday night. In the gallery were C. B. Sherwood, N.B. opposition leader; Dr. Everett Chalmers, President of the N.B. Progressive Conservative Association and President Colin B. Mackay. The Speech from the Throne was read by UNB Vice-President (Academic) F. J. Toole as Governor-General. As the Governor-General left the chambers, Professor K.B. Sayeed took the chair as Speaker of the House and debate began. Clerk of the House was Brian Gunter and the Sergeant-at-arms was Ian McClure, attired in Army dress blues.

Debate commenced with a discussion of the Speech from the Throne and comments on UNB politics. Heated discussion took place as some of the speakers launched vicious personal attacks on their opponents across the floor. Midway through the session, Miss Alwida Bonner was escorted to a seat on the floor of the House and the members paused in their debate to allow her to address the Parliament. Miss Bonner's remarks were in praise of the UNB students and administration, and she expressed a fear that New Brunswick's new ministry of Youth and Welfare would be used to corrupt the minds of the young in the manner of Nazism.

Following the debate, the PC Speech from the Throne was accepted by the House and a question period of the government ministers was begun. Few of the questions were serious, but they raised much mirth from the members. As the session adjourned, the Liberal delegation was piped from the Chambers by kilted Terry O'Neill to the tune of "Road to the Isles". Commenting upon the session, Prof. Sayeed said that there was not as much serious and well-prepared debate as he would have liked to have seen.

Saturday Morning

Saturday morning's sitting began with another question period, during which the Conservative government was subjected to loaded questions from many opposition members. Some of these questions were quite serious (the Minister of Justice, for example, was queried on application of legal principles to an incident involving the death of an Eskimo); others were light-hearted (as when Hon. R. B. Harley, Minister of External Affairs, was asked whether a student's tutor could affect his manner of speech).

Two Bills were debated; one introduced by the Government calling for lowering of the voting age to 18, and Parliamentary representation for certain universities.

Hon. Douglas Somerville, Minister of Public Works, introduced the government's Bill. He cited the advantages of extending the franchise, citing the ability of eighteen-year-olds to drive automobiles and to serve in the armed forces as evidence of their maturity.

The Bill was attacked by opposition members on the grounds of being discriminatory, hypocritical, and an application of the gerrymander. The extension of the franchise to those in the 18-21 age group was felt to be a gerrymander, with the logical result that every effort would be made to pressure these young voters into supporting the Conservatives in the next election.

Although the New Party supported the Government's proposal to lower the age limit, it opposed the granting of representation to universities. When put to the question, the bill was defeated by the House.

Opposition Leader Hon. Terry McCluskey introduced a Bill to incorporate the Trans-Canada Sewer Company. The Christian Atheist head pointed out that the project would benefit the entire nation.

BLOOD CLINIC GETS 500 PINTS

During the 3-day Blood Clinic held here last week approximately 500 staunch bleeders found the time to pass through the ping-pong room of the gym and contribute to a worthy cause. Though the 500 pints fell short of the objective which had been set at 700, Pre-Med President John McMullen felt the response was "quite good" considering there was no concentrated drive. Last fall UNB supplied the Red Cross with 900 bottles.

The objective set by the Red Cross for each clinic is based on the need of the N.B. hospitals at the time.

Next fall the UNB Blood Donor competitions will be recontinued with trophies up for grabs in the faculty and residence divisions. Decisions will be made solely on the fall clinic; not on the average of the two yearly clinics as before.

In the past the fall campaign has always produced the best results. However the quota has not been substantial to gain recognition for the Corpuscule Cup, awarded annually to the campus showing the highest percentage of student body participation in the fall drives. Will such an achievement lie beyond the grasp of UNB's bloodless wonders next November?

The Bill was supported by speakers from some other parties, but was opposed by one member as being impractical. When the question was put, this Bill was defeated, lacking support from Progressive Conservatives and Maritime Monarchists. Proceedings resumed following an adjournment for lunch.

Saturday Afternoon

The afternoon session was spotted with farsical behavior, but on the whole provided comparatively tedious debate. Just before the beginning of the sitting, the CA's paraded through the chamber with a portion of

UNB'S IGNORANCE

Most students on the campus will admit that they are ignorant. Some blame the fact on our education system, claiming we are not guided into a sincere keenness. We live from one day to the next without being concerned about anything except that which affects us directly.

Tomorrow night, in the Oak-room at 7:00, John Porter is going to question a panel composed of Prof. Hugh Whalen, Prof. Bosnitch, Ed Bell and Andrews Pianim, regarding the problem: Are Canadian Students Ignorant?

their trans-Canada sewer. The hose stretched from the CA's side to the PC's. 'It was a smelly affair', said Roger Harley.

The Liberals had three proposals in their Bill; to repeal the Bill of Rights, as an unnecessary piece of legislation; automatic commutation of capital punishment for minors; and abolition of the use of the lash as a form of corporal punishment. The Bill was defeated.

Next came the New Party Bill, which contained the following platforms: nuclear arms not to be financed in Canada; withdrawal from NORAD; specialization of the Armed services in their particular field; a Canadian Peace Corps; and termination of 4 o'clock tea in the Armed Forces. Debate was sparked somewhat by the assassination of Terry McCluskey, the leader of the CA Party who had stepped out after the CA's Bill had been defeated. The shots from the anti-chamber were rather disrupting.

The New Party Bill was the only one to be passed. (Fortunately the Speaker of the House had the foresight to vote in favour of the Bill and it carried by one vote).

With only forty-five minutes of debate left the Maritime Monarchists introduced an unsuccessful Bill to unite the Atlantic Provinces.

The House adjourned following the vote.

LETTERS UNB Doubles Aid to Job Hunters

Sir: With all this furor on campus, we humbly submit our unbiased views on "shafting". First, we maintain that most co-eds use the male-female ratio to great advantage. Secondly, ninety-five percent of the co-eds in this university would have to take "pot luck" in a larger institution of learning. And finally, if the gentlemen on this campus are taken to the cleaners by Miss Co-ed, they should cry in their beer privately and not disgrace the men of UNB by publicizing their "faux-pas".

Every University across Canada has a Placement Service. The University of New Brunswick has two. One general office in the basement of the old Arts Building, the other for summer employment in the APEC hut, Room 5.

The general office, under the direction of Mrs. Mona MacMillan, is the one to which the various companies write when inquiring about interviewing seniors and undergraduate students with the intention of sending representatives to this campus. Appointments are made for a specific date and time and the students are expected to fulfil their obligation by presenting themselves on time. It is not only when a representative will be sent that companies inquire about likely students. In this case, notices are posted on bulletin boards of faculties most concerned with the positions offered, further information being available at the Placement Office. Notice of all companies planning to visit the campus are posted on all bulletin boards, if possible.

After each visit is completed the interviewers notify Mrs. MacMillan of the names of students to whom offers of employment have been made and later of job acceptances.

The second office, the Undergraduates' Summer Employment, is subsidized by NFCUS. The main function of this office is fulfilled in making inquiries of various prospective employers and making the results known to students.

Over 300 organizations have been contacted. These include industry, engineering and construction, and various organizations which mainly function in the summer, i.e., golf clubs, resort hotels, parks, etc.

At the present time, returns have been rather light from those requiring technically educated students. However, several good offers have been received from golf clubs and resorts. These require waitresses, waiters, bartenders, life-guards, caddy-masters and administrative help. Returns though are by no means complete, and it is hoped that more requests for technical students will be made.

Because the Undergraduate Summer Employment Service is run by students, office hours are irregular. It is hoped that the office will soon be open each afternoon. Mrs. MacMillan's office is open from 9 - 5:30 each week day.

Students who require summer employment would be well advised to contact the two offices for full particulars of the jobs available at the present. A list of likely employers is available from the University Summer Employment Service.

Notice To Singers

President Ray Zerr has called an emergency meeting of the Choral Society. This gathering will be held behind closed doors in the Student Centre lounge, on Friday, March 17 at 2:00 p.m. For their own good, all members should be present.

VIEWPOINTS

"What do you think the Model Parliament accomplished?"

This question was asked of representatives of the five political parties that participated in Model Parliament last weekend. Five, more-or-less, different answers were received.

Joanne MacArthur, leader of the government formed by the Progressive Conservatives told the Brunswickan: "It was the first time in four or five years that a government managed to stay in power throughout the session. Both the debate and procedure were on a much higher level than in the previous two years. For once, some serious legislation was passed in the form of the New Party's Armed Forces Act. It now appears that the New Party and Maritime Monarchists are established on the campus."

Terry McCluskey, leader of the Opposition and head of the Christian Atheists didn't think much of this year's session. He said, "The presence of the small made quite a difference and nothing really constructive could be done." The bearded CA leader thought that the highlight of the day and a half session was the observance of good parliamentary procedure.

Liberal leader Ed Bell had some grim comments concerning the Parliament. In his opinion, the quality of debate was inferior to last year's, too many parties were involved causing confusion, and perhaps most grievous of all, "The factor which contributed most to a poor Model Parliament, if indeed it was a "model", was the interplay of personal attack."

New Party chieftan, Mike Denny, was quite happy about the whole show calling it "a great success." The only bill passed, out of five presented, belonged to the New Party and the reason for this according to Mike was, "Its success was due to the various party leaders allowing their members to vote by conscience rather than by party line. He also thought that, "the two new parties had a great deal of success in causing the Parliament to be model rather than mock."

The modest Maritime Monarchists, through spokesman Doug Paton declared, "In no small way, we feel that our presence enhanced the quality of the sessions and we look to the present SRC with admiration for their ability to detect the serious undertones of our actions in the removal of the ballot boxes. There appeared to be, at this year's Model Parliament, a satisfactory balance of serious and humorous debate which served to maintain our deep interest in the proceedings."

Several conclusions can be arrived at after close study of the foregoing viewpoints. The Maritime Monarchists are an accepted organization on this campus, the Christian Atheists and the Liberals are still sore about being unable to get the Tories booted out on a vote of non-confidence and most important; the publicity provided this event by the Brunswickan and Radio UNB should provide the groundwork for a bigger and better Model Parliament next year.

Mr. Editor:

During one of our recent Math tutorials, the entire class was asked to fill out a questionnaire which had been made up by the Psychology Department. The questions required the students to give their personal opinions and feelings on several questions (62 to be exact). Some students protested about signing their names as there were personal opinions and it was nobody's d--- business who wrote each questionnaire. As a member of the class, and in my interest and mine, I would like to know what this quiz was for. Would some member of the Psychology Department like to write a letter in answer to mine?

SHAFTED..... A SURVEY

Since the article on "shafting" appeared in the Brunswickan last Tuesday, there has been a considerable variation of reaction from the males and the females. From some there has been an outcry against the article and from some (mostly males) there has been a lot of noise which has amounted to self-pity.

The first disputable question is the meaning of the word "shafting". Everyone seems to have a different definition. The average definition sounds something like this; boy takes girl out four or five times, boy calls girl again, she has another date, boy screams shaft! shaft! shaft! There develops a general follow-up reaction by the friends of the boy who crucify the girl whenever they get the chance and spread the word that said girl is a gambler — using the boys for chips.

Meanwhile, back at the Barn (or some equivalent means of shelter) the girl and her cohorts are agreeing on two points — (1) the boy and girl weren't going steady, so why feel obligated to one guy (sounds reasonable to me); (2) why should he think that he's the only guy in the world.

A whirlwind tour of the residences brought to light the opinions of individual girls who up until now had been content to stew in their anger.

Foster House was the first stop. The following were the individual opinions...

- this is absolutely foolish.
- the boys have jumped to conclusions.
- shows definite immaturity on the part of the boys.
- a boy should keep his date interested (not just in his opinion) or he can expect to be dropped.
- girls should tell boys just where they stand — FOOOOEY to etiquette.

- there are just certain girls who are shafters and you'll find them anywhere.

Con Is Not The End

Last week a notice in the Brunswickan stated that the "Con" was the last social event of the season. Don't be deceived! The ultimate is yet to come — the Ski Club's Sugar Derby. The race is open to all students under any influence so long as they have skis, unusual dress, a knapsack containing multiples of six, and 25c entrance fee. The Sugar Derby trophy is at stake, and rumour has it that there will be a prize for the best-dressed person on the hill, whether spectator or racer.

Revising an old tradition, the Sugar Derby will be the Saturday after the Con (i.e. March 18) and will start at 1:00 p.m. The festivities preceding the race may begin early in the morning, so why not take your skis to the Formal?

Canadians Counter Quakes

Two Canadians will attend an international work camp in Chile March 15 to April 15 to carry out a plan initiated by NFCUS to help rebuild a town ruined by earthquakes last spring.

Jacques Dufresne of Laval and Michael Phillips NFCUS Associate Secretary will help construct a community welfare centre on the outskirts of Concepcion. The project—suggested by NFCUS at the International Student Conference in August—is sponsored by Cosec and the Union de Federaciones Universitarias de Chile (UFUCH) in direct co-operation with Concepcion University.

Dufresne and Phillips will receive travel grants from Cosec which is the administrative secretariat of the International Student Conference. They will join students from North, Central and South America and the Caribbean as well as six students with technical experience from Asia, Africa and Europe.

This is the second international work camp. The first was in the village of Sakiet Sidi-Yous-

THE VOICE OF UNB

That's right... and no one has heard about it. The IT referred to is the UNB Radio Club... VEIRK.

This organization got underway in 1947 in the faculty of Electrical Engineering. Up to this point the club has been aided by the engineering faculty and it is on their continued support that the future of the organization depends. However, VEIRK is open to anyone interested in amateur radio. That means it is not restricted to Engineers... anyone can join, even girls — (shafted or not). Members are only too eager to assist those who wish to get their amateur radio license. This club is not to be confused with the UNB Radio Society which performs an entirely different service to the campus.

The UNB Radio Club is truly the VOICE OF UNB. Through their "ham" broadcasts, UNB's existence is now known in 120 countries and on every continent. The facilities of the club enable the members to contact the HOT SPOTS in the world — RUSSIA, CUBA and the CONGO.

There are no limits to the expansion possibilities of the club. To illustrate this point — next year, new projects will include — SATELLITE TRACKING, RADIO TELETYPE, and if there are enough members, AMATEUR TELEVISION. The general atmosphere of the Radio Club is one of pure enjoyment.

If you're interested in any way, drop up to Room 134 of the E. E. building tomorrow evening at 7:30 — satisfaction guaranteed.

Curlers Unsuccessful

Last Thursday was the first day of the MIAU Curling Bonspiel at the Halifax Curling Club. Seven colleges, Dalhousie, St. Mary's, Nova Scotia Tech., King's, Acadia, Mount A. and UNB, were represented. UNB drew the first bye and had to watch the first round. It was obvious that no team would be easily beaten as two of the games were settled in the last end, while the third was spotted with good shots by both sides. The second round saw UNB meet Dalhousie. The game was tied at the end of the fifth end, and then Dalhousie clinched the game in the last few ends as a result of skip Don Breen's fine curling.

In the final draw of the day saw Saint Mary's upset the UNB team and leave them on the bottom at the end of the day.

Friday was a day for upsets as every team but Dalhousie faltered at least once. The UNB team, after dropping to Mt. A., went on to win against Acadia (10-5), King's (9-6), and N.S. Tech (4-1) in four ends.

The fact that UNB curlers have this year, and in past years, had their losses in the first games, and won the last in the series is not coincidence. The winning team of this type of round-robin tournament must have played together against good competition and quite often in order to get this experience the University should enter its team in at least one of the provincial men's spiels. The Dalhousie rink did this and it paid dividends as they won for the fourth straight time. UNB ended up in a four-way tie for second place, with King's and Tech trailing.

As hosts for the 'spiel Dalhousie is to be commended. The team players were most pleased with the way the playdowns were organized, as well as with the hospitality of the Halifax Curling Club.

Last Wednesday night the basketball game between the UNB Jayvees and the York Structural Steel Juniors saw the Juniors come out on top after 40 minutes of hard-fought ball.

The Juniors led throughout the game as they over-powered the Jayvees on both backboards and gave the slick offence of the Jayvees a hard time with a pressing man to man defence.

The Jayvees and the Juniors both go into playoffs this weekend.

The Juniors meet the St. John Juniors in Canadian playdowns while the Jayvees meet St. John Flyers here this weekend for the New Brunswick Senior B competition.

The Juniors led 32-29 at half time and 65-62 at the final whistle as the hard-pressed Jayvees fought back to hold the second half to a 33-33 tie.

The UNB girls JV basketball team made their way to the finals of the Maritime Tournament, but in their final game, a close and exciting one all through, they lost 31-29 to Mount St. Bernard. The tournament, held at Acadia University, was composed of seven teams, divided into two leagues. UNB, Mount St. Vincent and Dal made up one league; Acadia, Mount A., Mount St. Bernard and King's, the other. UNB won both games in their league, thus gaining the right to play the winner of the other league for the championship!

The game against Mount St. Bernard was a hard game to lose, especially since the outcome was in doubt until the final moment. But even so, the girls should be congratulated for a very fine showing throughout the tournament.

NOTICE!

The UNB Curling Club will hold its last meeting of the year, Tuesday, March 14th, 7:15 p.m. in the All-purpose Room of the Student's Centre. Election of officers will be held. C. C. Glasses will be distributed to the winning teams. All members are urged to attend.

John is a native of Sussex, N.B. and is a junior science student. Possessing a fine knowledge of badminton John has won both the intercollegiate and senior singles titles for the past few years.

Jack Brownell — 1957-58 Maritime Intercollegiate Single Champion and co-holder of the Intercollegiate doubles title for the past two years. This year Jack has teamed up with Charlie Ramier to add the one-two punch needed to cop the doubles title this year. Born in Montreal, Que., Jack now makes his home in Amherst, N. S. and is senior physical education student. Brownell is also ranked at the top of Maritime senior circles.

Charlie Ramier — Charlie, making his debut on the UNB team, is expected to add a lot of punch this year. He possesses a fine smashing game and coupled with his years of experience thus should be more than enough to complete the other half of the doubles team. Charlie has won numerous titles around his native Jonquier, Quebec. He is now in his third year of Bus. Ad.

GIRL'S TEAM

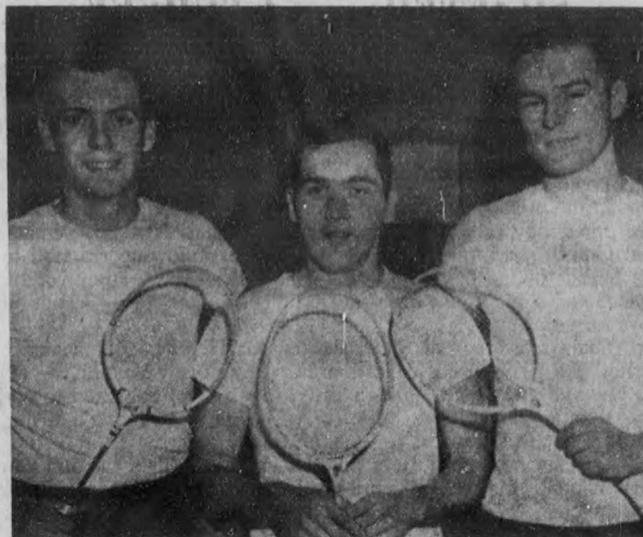

Diane Johnstone — Diane brings to UNB their greatest hopes for a ladies singles title in a number of years. She has a strong singles game and lacks any weak points. She has experience, a number of strong varieties of shot endurance and a smooth running game. These attributes should ensure UNB of a strong contender for the singles championship. Diane hails from Moncton, N. B. and is a junior phys. ed. student.

Pam Keirstead — Pam is playing her second year of varsity badminton and last year was on the team which tied for first place with Mount Allison. She possesses a strong back court game and plays a mainly strong, smashing game. Pam is from Toronto and is in her sophomore year in the Faculty of Arts.

Mary Jean McNichol — This year will be the third consecutive year that Mary Jean has played varsity badminton. In 1958-59 Mary Jean played singles and last year teamed up to play doubles. She possesses a fine net game and has a variety of fine shots through hard work and determination.

Mary Jean is a Fredericton native and is a third-year arts student.

Above are summaries of the members of the 1960-61 Badminton team on who the hopes of UNB rest in the coming Maritime Intercollegiate Badminton Championships on March 23. This year's tournament, hosted by St. Mary's of Halifax, will see such Maritime colleges as Mt. Allison, King's College, Nova Scotia Tech, Dalhousie, Acadia, St. F.
