Killed Her Child at Order of Brute

Pitiful Story of Mary Dolan, Sentenced to Hang—McNulty; Father of Child, Who Treated Her Brutally, To Hang Also.

Toronto, Saturday—Mary Dolan and Thomas McNulty were sentenced at the Barrie assizes Friday to be hanged on Wednesday Dec. 14th. for the murder of their illegitimate child.

Barrie, Friday—Probably never in the history of Canadian courts has a more pitiful story been unfolded than was brought out today during the trial of Mary Dolan, charged with the murder of her infant child. Although the jury returned a verdict of murder against her, it was accompanied by a strong recommendation to mercy, which Justice Britton said would be respected.

Several times the prisoner broke down, and once she sobbed aloud: "My heart is broken." The painful impression in the court was intensified by the fainting of Constable Wright in the witness box.

Terrible Explosion In Los Angeles

More Than $100,000 Reward Offered For Capture and Conviction of Those Who May Have Blewn it up With Dynamite.

Los Angeles, Oct. 2—A large force of workmen, after digging for thirty hours into debris of the Times building, wrecked by an explosion Saturday morning, have unearthed five of the nineteen bodies buried in the ruins. The men are still at work aided by a huge railway crane and derrick, which is lifting out the masses of heavy steel.

In the meantime the police are guarding the home of General Harrison Gray Otis, proprietor of the Times, and that of General Manager Harry G. Chandler. Guards are also watching over the plants of several concerns recently involved in strikes. Three arrests have been made since the explosion. One of the suspects is an alleged anarchist, Martin Eagan. In the hope of obtaining information as to the perpetrator of the outrage Mayor Alexander increased the city's offer of reward yesterday to $10,000. The County today voted $45,000 for every man captured and convicted.

BIG REWARDS

This, together with the offers of local newspapers and labor organizations, whose leaders have announced a determination to assist in the search for the criminals, raises the total amount of rewards to over $100,000.00.

The city's offer is intended to tempt any one having knowledge of a dynamite conspiracy to divulge the secret. There are no conditions.

Mrs. Churchill Harvey Elder wife of the night editor, who died of his burns and injuries Sunday, arrived here from San Francisco and shortly afterward collapsed from the strain under which she had labored since learning of the catastrophe. She is in a serious condition.

John Howard, jr., son of one of the linotype operators, whose body is believed to be in the ruins, also collapsed. Since the explosion he had been watching the ruins and waiting for the shovel men to work their way to the body.

The inquest will be held Tuesday. At that time the committee of dynamite experts and engineers appointed by Chief of Police Galloway to investigate the wreckage in an effort to learn the character of the explosive used will report their findings. Little in the way of evidence that might lead to the discovery of clues has been found. Detectives have spent hours investigating at the home of F. J. Zechender, secretary of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association, near whose home a bomb was found, but nothing tangible has been discovered.

Roosevelt Gets Cheap Trips

Tours of Roosevelt Charged to Advertising; Protest Made By One of the Stockholders Who Objects to Such Doings.

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 26—In spite of the public agitation that has been going on for years, headed by the trust-busting Roosevelt "to curb the trusts" and eliminate "corrupt political practices," it now develops, in a letter from John H. Devine of Philadelphia to President James McCrea of the Pennsylvania railroad, that Theodore Roosevelt himself was the largest recipient of railroad passes from the Pennsylvania railroad.

The letter is from a stockholder to the president of the Pennsylvania railroad, requesting explicit information concerning certain semi-official rumors that the railroad has an unpaid account against Theodore Roosevelt amounting to $100,000.

FOR PRIVATE USE

This unpaid account is for special trains which were furnished for President Roosevelt's hunts, for his social engagements, his home goings and comings, and for the transportation of his friends, his servants, his horses and goods.

OFFICIAL COURTESY

The officials of the Pennsylvania do not admit that Mr. Roosevelt owes the corporation anything. Transportation was furnished as a matter of course without any expectation of payment.

The letter of Mr. Devine is as follows:

TEDDY OWES $100,000

"Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 22, 1910—Mr. James McCrea, president Pennsylvania Railroad company Philadelphia. Dear sir:

"As a stockholder of the Pennsylvania railroad I have been greatly surprised to learn there is an account, long overdue, for transportation furnished by it to Theodore Roosevelt. It is a matter of quite general knowledge so I learn, that this account to more than $100,000.

"Whether the person owing such account be a president or a former president, or whoever he may be, the interests of the Pennsylvania railroad it seems to me, demand that there be a settlement.

"Will you advise me if I am correctly informed, and if so, is there any reason why this debt should not be paid?"

"Will you also kindly inform me what steps have been taken, if any, in behalf of the company to collect the amount due and what prospect there is, if any, of its settlement?"

"Very truly yours—John H. DEVINE"

The Southern railroad's "advertising account" against Theodore Roosevelt is said to be $60,000. The New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad and the Northern and Union Pacific also were generously patronized. These advertising accounts enter into the "increased cost of maintenance" upon which the railroads base their plea for a general increase in freight rates all over the country, before the Interstate Commerce Commission which is now hearing the evidence both in New York and Chicago, trying to determine the justice and reasonableness of these increases.

The golden anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. George Chambers of Chelmsford was observed on Tuesday. The event was fitly celebrated and many were the good wishes extended. Their home was the scene of gaiety on the evening of the occasion. About six o'clock some forty invited guests sat down to an excellent repast. The dining room was tastefully decorated.

Ritchie's mercantile staff, and Miss Mabel Russell, daughter of Mrs. Charity Russell of Nordin. The couple were unattended. The bride was handsomely dressed in a brown suit with hat to match. After the ceremony a wedding supper attended by a large number of guests, was given at the residence of the bride's mother. The staff of D. & J. Ritchie's store presented the bride with an elegant Morris chair, from Mrs. Leslie and sons she received a valuable hall-rack, from Mrs. S. A. Demers a handsome toilet set, from Mr. and Mrs. O. Nicholson a fine set of silver fruit knives and many very handsome and costly gifts of silver, china, etc. from others. Mr. and Mrs. Leslie preparatory to setting up house keeping in Newcastle, will reside in Nordin for the present. The Advocate joins in wishing the couple future happiness.

WOMAN'S HEALTH WHEN FORTY-FIVE

A Critical Period When Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a Real Blessing.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are absolutely the finest medicine that ever a woman took. At special periods a woman needs a medicine to regulate her blood supply or her life will be a round of pain and suffering. It is at such times that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are worth their weight in gold, for they make new, rich blood, that banish the secret symptoms of distress that only women and growing girls know. They strengthen every vital organ for its special task, and bring rosy cheeks and shapely forms that tell of womanly health and happiness. Mrs. Richard Lobb, Red Deer, Alta., says: "At that critical period in my life known as the change I suffered so much that I hardly hoped to pull through. I doctored for months, but did not get any relief, and I grew so weak that I could hardly walk about, and it was impossible for me to do my housework. Only women who have suffered similarly can tell how much I endured—the constant misery, the dragged out feeling and the terrible backaches that beset me. No woman could have been in a more wretched condition than I was at this time and it was then that my attention was directed to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I got a half dozen boxes and before they were all gone there was a good improvement in my condition. Then I got six more boxes and before I had used them all I felt like a new woman and was enjoying better health than I had done for years. Not only have Dr. Williams' Pink Pills proved a blessing to me, but they also worked a great change in the case of my daughter, who was in a very miserable condition after childbirth. I know also of two young girls who I believe would have been in their graves now but for the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Considering what they have done for me and what I have seen them do for others, I am justified in my enthusiasm for this medicine and I never lose an opportunity to recommend it."

Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Many Mourn for Governor Fraser

All Glasses at the Funeral—Prominent Men Pay Last Tribute of Respect—Twenty-Five Clergymen, Politicians and Business Men at Ceremony.

New Glasgow, Sept. 29—Slowly through the streets of his native town, which mourns the death of its distinguished son, the body of the late Duncan C. Fraser, Lieut. Governor of Nova Scotia, was conveyed this afternoon to its last resting place in the family lot at Riverside cemetery.

New Glasgow mourns deeply for the departed governor and the long procession through the streets this afternoon will long be remembered by those who thronged the route of the cortege. The funeral of Governor Fraser was the largest ever seen in New Glasgow, representative of the masses as well as the classes. In the cortege were men from every branch of life. As early as yesterday distinguished men of the province arrived in New Glasgow to pay their last respects to the dead governor. The spacious residence of the late Harvey Graham, brother-in-law of Governor Fraser, where the body lay, was the centre of the thoughts of New Glasgow citizens and visitors, and hundreds of friends viewed the body that lay encased in the simple black coffin in the large drawing room.

The funeral services were conducted by the Rev. W. McMillan, of St. Matthew's church, Halifax, assisted by the Rev. Ernest Forbes, New Glasgow; Rev. Dr. Poole, and Rev. E. A. McCurdy.

Immediately after the service those who wished to see the governor's face passed through the drawing room to the coffin. When the hearse having the body of Governor Fraser had passed the top of Provost street, the carriages in the procession had not all left the Harvey Graham residence, a quarter of a mile distant. In the procession were twenty-five clergymen, representing the various churches and denominations of the province, followed by representatives of the grand lodge of Free Masons of Nova Scotia. Following the Masons were members of the local legislature. The dominion parliament was represented by William Chisholm, M. P., Antigonish; Senator Ross, Halifax; Senator McSweeney, Moncton, and D. D. McKenzie. Following were the judges of the supreme court, including Chief Justice Townsend, ex-Chief Justice Sir Robert Wetherbee, Judge Drydale and Judge Meagher of the county court. General Drury, of Halifax, represented the governor of Quebec being represented by Col. Fages; Commissioner Coombes, of the Salvation Army, was represented by Staff Capt. Jennings.

The Man From Brodneys

By GEORGE BARR M'CUTCHEON

Copyright, 1908, by Dodd, Mead & Co.

A handsome young soldier of fortune, a princess of enchanting beauty, two eccentric adventurers who leave wills disposing of the island of Japat and its ruby mines, two heirs who must marry within a year to inherit the property despite the fact that they are already married, a shrewd American lawyer, a scheming British solicitor, a pretty stenographer, a prince who is musical and profligate and a horde of fanatical Moslems who will inherit the riches of Japat provided the heirs do not marry each other—these are the leading characters in a romance which for genuine novelty, thrilling and unusual situations, live American humor and the paths of a great but apparently hopeless love has rarely been equaled and never surpassed.

CHAPTER I

THE LATE MR. SKAGGS.

THE death of Taswell Skaggs was stimulating, to say the least, in applicable though the expression may seem. He attained the end of a hale old age by tumbling aimlessly into the mouth of a crater on the island of Japat, somewhere in the mysterious south seas. The world had quite thoroughly forgotten him during the twenty odd years immediately preceding his death. It was, however, noticeably worth while to remember him at this particular time. He left a last will and testament that bade fair to distress as well as startle a great many people on both sides of the Atlantic.

In Boston the law firm of Bowen & Hare was puzzling itself beyond reason in the effort to anticipate and circumvent the plans of the firm of Bosworth, Newnes & Grapevine, London, E. C., while on the other side of the Atlantic Messrs. Bosworth, Newnes & Grapevine were blindly struggling to do precisely the same thing in relation to Messrs. Bowen & Hare.

Without seeking to further involve myself I shall at once conduct the reader to the nearest of these law offices.

"Pretty badly tangled, I declare," said Mr. Hare, staring helplessly at his senior partner.

"Hopefully," agreed Mr. Bowen, very much as if he had at first intended to groan.

Before them on the table lay the contents of a bulky envelope, a long and stupendous letter from their London correspondents and with it a copy of Taswell Skaggs' will. Mr. Bowen recently had been named as joint executor of the will, together with Sir John Allencrombie of London, W. C., one time neighbor of the late Mr. Skaggs. A long and exasperating cablegram had touched somewhat irresolutely upon the terms of the will, besides notifying him that one of the heirs resided in Boston. He was instructed to apprise this young man of his good fortune.

There was one very important, perhaps imposing, feature in connection with the old gentleman's will—he was decidedly sound of mind and body when it was uttered.

When such estate lawyers as Bowen & Hare give up to amazement, the usual frequency of construction, it is high time to regard the case as startling.

"Read it again, Bowen."

"The will?"

"No, the letter."

"Without Mr. Bowen again read aloud the letter, from Bosworth, Newnes & Grapevine, this time slowly."

"I am much upset by the contents," he observed reflectively.

"Of affairs, I mean."

"To do about the will, I mean."

"I don't know," he said, looking at the letter.

"I dare say you don't," he said, looking at the letter.

"I dare say you don't," he said, looking at the letter.

"I dare say you don't," he said, looking at the letter.

"I dare say you don't," he said, looking at the letter.

"I dare say you don't," he said, looking at the letter.

"I dare say you don't," he said, looking at the letter.

don't see how anything short of Providence can alter the situation."

"Thank heaven, Bowen, he names you as executor, not me."

"I shall decline to serve. It's an impossible situation, Hare. In the first place, Skaggs was not an intimate friend of mine. I met him in Constantinople five years ago and afterward handled some business for him in New York. He had no right to impose upon me as if—"

"But what should you hesitate? You have only to wait for the year to roll by and then turn your troubles over to the natives. Young Browne can't marry Miss Ruthven inside of a year simply because there is no Miss Ruthven. She's Lady-Lady—what's the name?"

"Deppingham."

"And Browne already has one Mrs. Browne to his credit, don't you see. Well, that settles it, I'd say. It's hardly probable that Browne will murder or divorce his wife, nor is it likely that her ladyship would have the courage to dispose of her incumbency in either way on such short notice."

"But it means millions to them, Hare."

"That's their unfortunate lookout. You are to act as an executor, not as a matrimonial agent."

"But, man, it's an outrage to give all of it to those wretched islanders. Bosworth says that rubies and sapphires grow there like mushrooms."

"Bosworth also says that the islanders are thrifty, intelligent and will fight for their rights. There are lawyers among them, he says, as well as jewel diggers and fishermen."

"Skaggs and Lady Deppingham's grandfather were the only white men who ever lived there long enough to find out what the island had stored up for civilization. That's why they bought it outright, but I'm hanged if I can see why he wants to give it back to the natives."

"Perhaps he owes it to them. He doubtless bought it for a song, and, contrary to all human belief, he may have resurrected a conscience. Anyhow, there remains a chance for the heirs to break the will."

"It can't be done, Hare; it can't be done. It's as clean as an instrument as ever survived a man."

It is by this time safe for the reader to assume that Mr. Taswell Skaggs had been a rich man and therefore privileged to be eccentric. He came of a sound old country family in upper England, but seems to have married a bit above his station. His wife was serving as governess in the home of a certain earl when Taswell won her heart and dragged her from the exalted position of minding other people's children into the less conspicuous one of caring for her own.

His only son was killed by a runaway horse when he was twenty, and their daughter became the wife of an American named Browne when she was scarcely out of her teens. It was then that Mr. Skaggs, practically childless, determined to make himself wifeless as well.

He magnanimously deeded the unentailed farm to his wife, turned his securities into cash and then set forth upon a voyage of exploration. It is common history that upon one dark, still night in December he said goodby forever to the farm and its mistress, but it is doubtful if either of them heard him.

To be "jolly well even" with him Mrs. Skaggs did a most priggish thing. She died six months later, but before doing so she made a will in which she left the entire estate to her daughter, effectually depriving the absent husband of any chance to reclaim his own.

Taswell Skaggs was in Shanghai when he heard the news. It was on a Friday. His informant was that erstwhile friend Jack Wyckholme. Naturally Skaggs felt deeply aggrieved with the fate which permitted him to capitulate when unconditional surrender was so close at hand. His language for one brief quarter of an hour did more to upset the progress of Christiana's voyage to the far east than all the "I'm hanged" in the Chinese empire.

"I'll be in England for me," he said, "and I'll sell the bloody farm to you. She's an American, God bless her, and I dare say if I could get her to like my farm better than she does, I'd never buy it for that sort of money. I'd boot me off the island."

records of the inebriate's asylum as to be credited. His wife, after enduring him for sixteen years, secured a divorce. Accepting the world as his home, he ventured forth to visit every nook and cranny of it. In course of time he came upon his old time neighbor and boyhood friend, Taswell Skaggs, in the city of Shanghai. Neither of them had seen the British isles in two years or more.

"Ow do you know?" demanded Taswell.

"Haven't I been there, old chap? A year or more? It's a rotten big place where gentlemen aspire to sell gloves and hankerchiefs and needlework over the shop counters. You know, Tazzy, I could well afford to starve, and I wouldn't sell things, so I came away. But it's no island."

"Well, that's neither here nor there, Jackie. I haven't a 'ome, and you haven't a 'ome, and we're wanderers on the face of the earth. My wife played me a beauty trick, dyin' like that. I say marriage is a bloom'n' nuisance."

"Marriage, my boy, is the convalescence from a love affair. One wants to get out the worst way, but has to stay in till he's jolly well cured. For my part, I'm never going back to England."

"Nor I. It would be just like me, Jackie, to 'ave a relapse and never get out again."

The old friends took an inventory. Jack Wyckholme, gentleman's son and ne'er-do-well, possessed £9 and a fraction, an appetite and excellent spirits, while Taswell Skaggs exhibited a balance of £1,000 in a Shanghai bank, a fairly successful trade in Celestial necessities and an unbounded eagerness to change his luck.

"I have a proposition to make to you, Tazzy," said Mr. Wyckholme late in the night.

"I think I'll listen to it, Jackie," replied Mr. Skaggs, quite soberly.

As the outcome of this midnight proposition Taswell Skaggs and John Wyckholme arrived two months later at the tiny island of Japat, somewhere south of the Arabian sea, there to remain until their dying days and there to accumulate the wealth which gave the first named a chance to make an extraordinary will. For thirty years they lived on the island of Japat.

Wyckholme preceded Skaggs to the grave by two winters, and he willed his share of everything to his partner of thirty year standing. But there was a proviso in Wyckholme's bequest, just as there was in that of Skaggs. Each had made his will some fifteen years or more before death, and each had bequeathed his fortune to the survivor. At the death of the survivor the entire property was to go to the grandchild of each testator, with certain reservations to be mentioned later on, each having by investigation discovered that he possessed a single grandchild.

The island of Japat had been the home of a Mohammedan race, the outgrowth of Arabian adventurers who had fared far from home many years before Wyckholme happened upon the island by accident. It was a British possession, and there were two or three thousand inhabitants, all Mohammedans. Skaggs and Wyckholme purchased the land from the natives, protected and eased their rights with the government and proceeded to realize on what the natives had unwittingly prepared for them. In course of time the natives repented of the deal which gave the Englishmen the right to pick and sell the rubies and other precious stones that they had been trading for such trifles as silks, gewgaws and wares. A revolution was inaugurated, whereupon the natives organized the entire population in a great company, retaining for a fifth of the property themselves. They seemed to have a satisfactory arrangement, determined that some of the more adventurous were to go to appraise the island's resources, and that they were to be allowed to trade with the natives in the island's produce.

SHEEP RAISING.

The Secretary of Agriculture, W. W. Hubbard, writing in the July number of "the Busy East" says: "The law for protection of sheep from dogs permits the shooting of all wandering dogs, without liability to the owner of the dog." We are afraid this, like the Attorney General's opinion on Sec. 18 of the Act for protection of sheep as given to the Committee of Northumberland County Council, "IT IS OPEN TO ARGUMENT". The present government is responsible for only one piece of Legislation in the interest of sheep. It is as follows:

"Any person may kill (a) any dog which he sees pursuing, worrying or wounding any sheep or lamb; or (b) any dog giving tongue and terrifying any sheep or lamb on any farm; or (c) any dog which any person finds straying upon his or her property at any time; provided always, that no dog so straying, either when securely muzzled or accompanied by any person owning or possessing or having the charge or care of said dog, shall be so killed, unless there is reasonable apprehension that such dog if not killed is likely to pursue, worry or terrify sheep or lambs then on said farm."

The original section reads thus: "Any person may kill (a) any dog which he sees pursuing, worrying or wounding any sheep or lamb, or (b) any dog giving tongue and terrifying any sheep or lamb on any farm, or (c) any dog which any person finds straying between sunset and sunrise on any farm whereon sheep are kept. Provided always, that no dog so straying, and which belongs to or is kept or harbored by the occupant of any premises next adjoining the said farm or next adjoining that part of any highway or lane which abuts on said farm, nor any dog so straying either when securely muzzled or accompanied by or being within reasonable call or control of any person owning or possessing or having the charge or care of said dog, shall be so killed unless there is reasonable apprehension that such dog if not killed is likely to pursue, worry, wound or terrify sheep or lambs then on said farm."

Is there any improvement, we ask, and fear the answer must come, in the language of the Attorney General. "IT IS OPEN TO ARGUMENT." But the worst part of the situation is that while the Premier cannot or will not venture an opinion, he makes no move to fix it so it would not be open to argument. There is nothing like being able to make a convenient answer.

The County Council here last winter passed a resolution expressing its opinion that all dogs should be kennelled or chained from sunset to sunrise, but the government have neither acted on the resolution nor given the municipality power to make it law—Consistency! Consistency! Consistency! Can a farmer afford to sit by his sheep all night with a gun or house them, and make sheep raising pay? The town and village owners of useless mongrels prefer to keep their pets and growl about the high cost of living to doing without them or housing them at night and be able to buy a quarter of good lamb at a reasonable price within a few miles of their homes; and unless the law interposes in favor of the sheep it is useless to prate and write about sheep raising or for the government to spend the people's money on men to write and talk on the subject. We learn that the Dominion Agriculture Department has taken up the cause, with a view to lowering the sheep industry; but to our regret its first step is a commission of enquiry. We fear lest this is another case of the farmers' money going for the "White Collars" and "Silk Gloves" to have a good time, devising means to create more offices for the unprovided of their kind, while the farmers will stand back as in the past trying to see (through the wall pulled over their faces.) when their share of the benefit will come.

AFTER SUFFERING TEN YEARS

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

MARLTON, N. J.—I feel that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has given me new life. I suffered for ten years with serious female troubles, inflammation, ulceration, indigestion, nervousness, and could not sleep. Doctors gave me up, as they said my troubles were chronic. I was in despair, and did not care whether I lived or died, when I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; so I began to take it, and am well again and relieved of all my suffering.—Mrs. Exonor Jorxy, Box 40, Marlton, N. J.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotics or harmful drugs, and to-day holds the record for the largest number of actual cures of female diseases we know of, and thousands of voluntary testimonials are on file in the Pinkham laboratory at Lynn, Mass., from women who have been cured from almost every form of female complaints, inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion and nervous prostration. Every suffering woman owes it to herself to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial.

If you would like special advice about your case write a confidential letter to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address P. J. DR. PIERCE'S GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY makes the stomach strong, promotes the flow of digestive juices, restores the lost appetite, makes assimilation perfect, invigorates the liver and purifies and enriches the blood. This "Discovery" is a pure, glyceric extract of American medical roots, absolutely free from alcohol and all injurious, habit-forming drugs. All its ingredients are printed on its wrappers. It has no relationship with secret nostrums. Its every ingredient is endorsed by the leaders in all the schools of medicine. Don't accept a secret nostrum as a substitute for this time-proven remedy of known composition. Ask your neighbors. They must know of many cures made by it during past 40 years, right in your own neighborhood. World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R.V. Pierce, Pres., Buffalo, N. Y.

THE MAIL ORDER EVIL.

A timely article on the mail order business and its harmfulness to the maritime provinces appears in September's number of the Busy East.

Nearly $2,000,000 went out of this province alone last year to swell the pockets of the Upper Canadian millionaire and he spends not a penny towards the support of New Brunswick's industries. Your home merchant does and you should endeavor to help him along.

Again, your money helps to increase the business of the Toronto and Montreal mail order houses to such an extent that they must have larger quarters. This increases the real estate value of those cities. But is your real estate in Montreal or in Chatham, and where would it be to your advantage to have this increase cold?

The local merchant carefully stocks his store with the more staple lines in his business and if he does not carry the particular article you wish to get, give him a chance to get it for you. In nine cases out of ten he is enterprising and only too willing to get out of the beaten track to meet your wish if you give him a chance. Then, remember that point the next time and give him the chance.

Why will the mail-order patron buy a "pig in a poke" when they have the privilege of inspection and selection at the local store, asks the Busy East? This is where the home merchants fail; the mail-order house is certainly at a disadvantage; yet this is overcome by up-to-date advertising, by attractively displaying their bargains in type, and making them appear so tempting that when the catalogue is brought into the family circle they forget the home merchant and fall into the method of trading by mail. The best way for the merchant to overcome this is to use the same methods, advertise, and advertise to get returns; have your name and bargains enter the home circle, feature your sales so they will be talked about; always having something new and novel to arouse curiosity, then the people will beat a path to your store and the grass will never grow on your door-step. Advertise copiously, with judgment, and see how many salesmen you have, entering the homes of your people, presenting tempting bargains to them and inviting them to your store.—Chatham Gazette.

ARRESTED FOR THEFT AND FORGERY

Three Boys in Jail at Dalhousie Who Claim They Belong to Moncton.

Dalhousie, N. B., Sept. 26.—Willard Price, Robert Hicks, and Roy Heath have been arrested here and placed in the county jail charged with theft and forgery. They were working with the Dalhousie Lumber Co., on the Southwest, and when they left, a valuable revolver, a safety razor and several articles of clothing were missed. They were followed to Charlo, where they were placed under arrest but were not searched. When lodged in jail yesterday, Officer Geo. Seely took each aside, but got nothing but denials. He placed them in other cells and after a search found the articles under the floor in the cellar of the jail. Besides the theft they forged an order on the Dalhousie Lumber Co. for $61. They confessed to the theft. They said they came from Moncton, having been sent here by an agent of the Dalhousie Lumber Co.

Chief of Police Rideout, when asked about the above report, said he knew nothing about the affair, and does not know of any boys from Moncton giving the names mentioned above.

LEVIS TO GET $1,000,000 HOTEL

Quebec, Sept. 23.—A million dollar hotel for the town of Levis is the latest good fortune which has befallen that municipality. It is said that the construction of the new hotel will be started next spring and the building will contain between six and seven hundred rooms.

Mr. Charles Murray Colmeij, of New York, the promoter of the project, having petitioned the council of Levis, asking that the town grant Shaw Park as the site for the new hostelry, the question came up at a meeting of the council last night, when every alderman present showed himself favorable.

Mr. Colmeij explains in his letter that the Quebec Central and Grand Trunk Railroads are interested in the construction of the new hotel. Shaw Park is on the heights and is a magnificent location.

One Barrel of Flour Instead of Two

YES, in the old way there was one kind of flour for bread and another for pastry.

Now, OGILVIE'S ROYAL HOUSEHOLD FLOUR is an all-around flour. It makes not only the very best bread but also the very best cakes, pies, biscuits, rolls, muffins, pop-overs, pancakes, dumplings, anything that you want to make or bake from flour.

"ROYAL HOUSEHOLD" saves money and trouble. Instead of having two barrels of flour in the house you can get along much better with one. And you can be certain that it is always uniform—will always come out right whether for Bread or Pastry.

ROYAL HOUSEHOLD is made from the finest grade of wheat in the world, Manitoba Red Fyfe wheat, and milled by the very finest machinery, in mills that are a model of cleanliness.

"ROYAL HOUSEHOLD" costs a trifle more by the barrel than ordinary flour but this trifle extra proves real economy when the loaves are counted. For "ROYAL HOUSEHOLD" goes farther than ordinary flour—farther in actual quantity of baked product.

Even if "ROYAL HOUSEHOLD" cost a great deal more than ordinary flour it would be well worth it for it is more nourishing.

You can't afford to buy impoverished flour at any price. You can't afford to skimp on health. And you do skimp on health when you buy flour just because it costs less than "ROYAL HOUSEHOLD".

CHAPTER II. AN EXTRAORDINARY DOCUMENT.

It appears that the Messrs. Skaggs and Wyckholme as their dual career drew to a close set about to learn what had become of their daughters. Investigation proved that Wyckholme's daughter had married a London artist named Ruthven. The Ruthvens in turn had one child, a daughter. Wyckholme's wife and his daughter died when this grandchild was eight or ten years old. By last report the grandchild was living with her father-in-law in London. She was a pretty young woman, with scores of admirers on her hands and a very level head on her shoulders.

Wyckholme held to his agreement with Skaggs by bequeathing his share of the property to him, but it was definitely set forth that at the death of his partner it was to go to Agnes Ruthven, the grandchild—with reservations. Skaggs found that his daughter, who married Brown, the American, likewise had died, but that she had left behind a son and heir. This son, Robert Brown, was in school when the joint will was designed, and he was to have Skaggs' fortune at the death of Wyckholme in case that worthy survived.

In order to keep the business and the property intact and under the perpetual control of one partnership, the granddaughters of Wyckholme were to marry the grandson of Skaggs within the year after the death of the surviving partner. The penalty to be imposed upon them if the conditions were not complied with, neither to be excusable for the defection of the other, lay in the provision that the whole industry and its accumulated fortune, including the land (and they owned practically the entire island), were to go to the islanders. Wyckholme named Sir John Allencrombie as one executor, and Skaggs selected Alfred Bowen of Boston as the other. As Wyckholme was the first to die, Skaggs became sole owner of the island and its treasures, and it was he who made the final will in accordance with the original plans.

The island of Japat, with its jewels and its ancient chateau, of modern construction, represented several million pounds sterling. Wyckholme's dream of erecting an exact replica of a famous old chateau found response in the equally whimsical Skaggs, who constantly bemoaned the fact that it was impossible to spend money. For five years after its completion the two old men, with an army of Arabian retainers and Nubian slaves, lived like oriental potentates in the huge structure on the highlands overlooking the sea.

Skaggs seldom went from one part of his home to another without a guide. It was so vast and so labyrinthine that he feared he might become lost forever. The dungeon below the chateau and the moat with its bridges were the especial delight of these lonely, romantic old chaps. One of the builders of this rare pile was now sleeping peacefully in the sarcophagus beneath the chapel; the other was lying dead and undiscovered in the very heart of his possessions.

The magnificent plans of the partners would have been a glorious tribute to romance had it not been for one fatal obstacle. The trouble was that young Miss Ruthven and young Mr. Brown did not know that their grandfathers lived, much less that they owned an island in the south seas. Therefore it is quite natural that they could not have known they were expected to marry each other.

Miss Ruthven, from motives peculiar to the head and not to the heart, set about to earn a title for herself. Three months before the death of Mr. Skaggs she was married to Lord Deppingham, who possessed a title and a country place that rightfully belonged to his creditors. Mr. Brown, just out of college, hung out his shingle as a physician and surgeon and forthwith, with all the confidence his profession is supposed to inspire, proceeded to marry the daughter of a brokerage banker in Boston and at once found himself struggling with the difficulties of Back Bay society.

A clause in the will, letter of instruction attached, demanded that the two grandchildren should take up their residence in the chateau within six months after the death of the testator, there to remain through the compulsory days of courtship, up to and including the wedding day. Four months had already passed. It was also stipulated that the executors should receive £10,000 each at the expiration of their year of servitude, provided it was shown in court that they had carried out the wishes of the testator or in failing had made the most diligent effort within human power.

"It is very explicit," murmured Mr. Hare for the third time. "I suppose the first step is to notify young Mr. Brown of his misfortune. His lordship has the task of breaking the news to Lady Deppingham."

"You are assuming that I intend to act under this ridiculous will." "Certainly. It means about $50,000 to you at the end of the year, with nothing to do but to notify two persons of the terms in the will. If they're not divorced and married again at the end of the year you and Sir John simply turn everything over to the Malays, or whatever they are. I think it's easy leading for you."

"Consult an attorney, advised Mr. Bowen promptly. "I'll do it!" shouted Bobby Brown, one time halfback on his college team. "Break the will for me, Mr. Bowen, and I'll give"—

"I can't break it, Bobby. I'm its executor."

"Good Lord! Well, then, who is the best will-breaker you know, please? Something has to be done right away."

"I'm afraid you don't grasp the situation. Now, if you were not married I would"—

"I wouldn't give up my wife for all the islands in the universe. That's settled. You don't know how happy we are. She's the best"—

"Yes, yes, I know," interrupted the wily Mr. Bowen. "Don't tell me about it. Go and see Judge Garrett, over in the K. building. They say he expects to come back from the grave to break his own will."

Ten minutes later an excited young man rushed into an office in the K. building. "You will have to fight it jointly," said Judge Garrett after extracting the wheat from the chaff of Brown's remarks. "You can't take hers away

"It's as sound as the rock of Gibraltar," from her, and she can't get yours. We must combine, against the natives. Come back tomorrow at 2."

Promptly at 2 Brown appeared, eager eyed and nervous. He had left behind him at home a miserable young woman with red eyes and choking conviction that she stood between him and fortune.

"But, hang it all, dearest, I wouldn't marry that girl if I had the chance. I'd marry you all over again today if I could," he had cried out to her, but she wondered all afternoon if he really meant it. It never entered her head to wonder if Lady Deppingham was old or young, pretty or ugly, bright or dull. Judge Garrett had a copy of the will in his hand. He looked dubious, even dismayed.

"It's as sound as the rock of Gibraltar," he announced dolefully. "You don't mean it!" gasped Bobby Brown, mopping his fine Harvard brow, his six feet of manhood shrinking perceptibly as he looked about for a chair in which to collapse. "Can't it be smashed?"

"It might be an easy matter to prove either of those old gentlemen to have been insane, but the two of them together make it out of the question."

"Darned unreasonable!" "What do you mean, sir?" indignantly.

"I mean—oh, you know what I mean—the conditions and all that. Why, the old chumps must have been trying to prove their grandchildren insane when they made that will. Nobody but imbeciles would marry people they'd never seen. I"—

"But the will provides for a six months' courtship, Mr. Brown. I'm sorry to say. You ought to learn to love a person in less time and still retain your mental balance, you know, especially if she were pretty and an heiress to half your own fortune. I dare say that is what they were thinking about."

"Thinking? They weren't thinking of anything at all. They weren't capable. Why didn't they consider the possibility that things might turn out just as they have?"

RAILWAY OFFICIAL LAUDS DOUKHOBORS

Can. North. Freight Agent Astonished at Progressiveness Displayed by Veregin Colony.

Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 27.—George Stephen, general freight agent of the Canadian Northern Railway, who has returned from a visit to the Doukhobor colony at Veregin, is very enthusiastic over those much-abused people.

"While I always understood that the Doukhobors were progressive," said Mr. Stephen, "I was simply astonished at their progressiveness and modern methods. Threshing operations commenced last week, and no less than forty threshing outfits, owned outright and manned by the Doukhobors themselves, commenced work with instructions to operate in two shifts of twelve hours each, that is day and night, until all the grain has been threshed. This year's crop of grain, particularly in oats, is the largest harvested by the Doukhobors since they came to Canada, and it is expected that threshing operations will continue well into November."

"In addition to the raising of grain the Doukhobors are engaged in horse raising. They have also an up-to-date flour mill with a capacity of 200 barrels per day. Then, too, they manufacture brick on a reasonably large scale and find a ready market for all they can produce."

"While Veregin is the headquarters of the Doukhobor society, the people, who number about 7,000 are distributed throughout the territory occupied by them into forty-one villages, each of which has a population of from 100 to 200."

"Another feature indicating the progressiveness of the Doukhobors is their private long distance telephone system of some 100 miles. I believe that the Doukhobors are an acquisition to Western Canada. They are producers in the fullest meaning of the word."

ITALY'S KING HAS NARROW SCAPE

Threw Himself to the Ground in Time to Escape Being Struck by Aeroplane

Milan, Sept. 28.—King Victor Emmanuel and his cousin, the Count of Turin, had a narrow escape from a serious accident today, while inspecting the aeroplanes at the Aerodrome here. The aviator, Simon, failed to observe that the king and the count were walking directly in front of him, and started his machine. It swept toward them at full speed. There were loud cries from the alarmed spectators, and a warning call to lie down. The sovereign and the count threw themselves to the ground and the machine just cleared them.
