Mr. Ross did not answer for answer. Mr. Ross did not answer for answer. Mr. Ross did not answer for answer.

Dr. Hart's Plea. The candidate, Dr. Hart, spoke for some time on local issues, claiming that the government had done well for Muskoka and should be encouraged to build up Ontario.

Ganev, M.L.A., and Smythe, M.L.A., and to place the concern on a sound financial basis.

He was run over, but he was not killed. He was picked up, but died early this morning.

Marques de Provence in the New York Tribune says: Lord Alverstone has now taken the third step in his important international career. He has been instructed to disregard the regulations of the port of New York.

For over fifty years England did not recognize the interpretation proclaimed by the United States and America that the boundary of the Alaskan "panhandle" was a straight line. It was not until 1887 that England agreed to the right of interpretation of the treaty which Canada is the upper portion of virtually all the territory between the Yukon and the Alaskan coast.

These years ago the tension between the Canadian and American governments became such that the United States sent troops to Dixon and Skagway, and Canada had mounted police in both places. In order to avert a conflict, a modus vivendi was agreed to, which followed the precedent established by Secretary Evenden in 1878 in agreeing on a temporary boundary on the Skikine River in Alaska.

DISPUTE OF LONG STANDING.

MRS. NATION TAKEN FOR A RIDE

BUT SHE WAS CARRIED OFF

The Chicago Record-Herald gives a history of the case, which will have to be read with a grain of salt by Canadians, but it shows how one-sided a Yankee paper can be. The history follows: For years the boundary line between Alaska and Canada has been disputed. The main question was whether it ran across the numerous inlet and arms of the sea of the territory or whether it ran round them. Canada contended that the line cut across these inlets, leaving the United States nothing but a waste track of rocky, isolated promontories.

The controversy centered on Canada's effort to acquire an outlet to the sea, the assertion being that the Russo-British treaty of 1825 fixed the boundary line in her favor. Canada also said all inlets less than six miles wide in the disputed territory belonged to her. The Portland Canal, or channel, is given to Canada for what reason the Lord only knows.

It is at the southernmost end of the "panhandle" where there is a factory and a Canadian settlement. The boundary line is simply moved across the inlet, and the factory is carried off into two channels by Pease Island, which is a tiny piece of land of no particular value. The eastern channel has all along been conceded to Canada, which now merely obtains the western channel of the other waterway or western channel which is absolutely worthless.

It was the contention of the United States that the boundary line as established by the treaty recognized her sovereignty over a strip of land which included the territory around the inlet and behind the canal for some miles. When the Alaska was purchased from Russia, in 1867, it was the claim of our commissioners that the title reverted in full to this country. England contended that by negotiating with Russia between the years 1825 and 1830, the sovereignty held by Russia was invalidated, but the question was never given serious consideration until 1894, after the discovery of gold in the Klondike.

The United States is possessed of control of the Lynn Canal, concession of which was chiefly derived by England because of the rich mining town of Dyea, the port of entry; Skagway, White Pass and Lake Bennett, situated along its banks and within easy access of the sea. It is in and about this section that the rich gold deposits are located and by their indisputable acquisition the States has gained an important victory.

For the United States: Commissioners: Senator Lodge, Senator Tamm, Secretary of War, Post, Attorney, J. D. McKim, Daniel T. Watson. For Canada: Commissioners: Lord Alverstone, Sir Louis A. Jetté, Allan E. Aylesworth. How firmly the American authorities were determined to stand on what they considered their rights was shown in the course of their reply to the British assertion that Canada's claim to control the head of the Lynn Canal was well known to the United States government as long ago as 1858.

"If the Canadian government," said the document, "had instructed British vessels to disregard American regulations there would have been a grave danger of a serious collision as if they had been instructed to disregard the regulations of the port of New York." The American contentions were not generally regarded as diplomatically irrefutable. For the smallest part of the evidence of non-aggression by Canada, which required the greatest tact and diplomacy on the part of Sir Michael Herbert to overcome.

For over fifty years England did not recognize the interpretation proclaimed by the United States and America that the boundary of the Alaskan "panhandle" was a straight line. It was not until 1887 that England agreed to the right of interpretation of the treaty which Canada is the upper portion of virtually all the territory between the Yukon and the Alaskan coast.

These years ago the tension between the Canadian and American governments became such that the United States sent troops to Dixon and Skagway, and Canada had mounted police in both places. LORD ALVERSTONE HAMLET.

To will, or not to will—that is the question. Whether 'tis better for the eub to suffer New outrage from its beautiful neighbor...

And by opposing them, end them? To fight, disarm, No more; and, by a stroke, to say we end The regime, and the thousand naked shafts That direct a horde to 'tis a consummation...

Jump from the frying pan into the fire? Better that we should bear the ill we have Than that to others that we know not of! Experience thus makes cowards of us all; And thus the glorious hue of Resolution Is stickled o'er by the ease of Worldly Wisdom.

With this regard, their currents turn awry, And lose the cream of Honor. —J. B. MacKenzie.

LESSONS FROM THE AWARD.

Editor World: It is not the loss of territory which stirs the indignation of Canadians in the Alaska award, but the absolute conviction that the diet was loaded against them from the beginning...

If the British government had played fair with Canada, if it had been limited to us what is undoubtedly a fact, that United States in no wise consent to forego any part of her territory...

Looking to the future, the injustice of this award will work out to the advantage of Canada. It will teach her the virtue of self-reliance and will help to foster and develop the sentiment of Canadian nationality...

As to the United States, she loses the glowing good-will of a great people with whom her statesmen are desirous of having reciprocal relations...

CERTAINLY A DIFFERENCE

Now, Why Did Canadian Government Change its Attitude? Montreal, Oct. 21.—(Special.)—The ex-Minister of Public Works is still in fighting form.

How do you account for the change in the policy of the government since the year 1898? he was asked. "The only explanation I can give," said Mr. Tarte, "is that the free trade element, which used to control the destinies and the policy of the Liberal party in bygone days, has the opportunity once more."

GOVERNMENT WILL BUILD INDUSTRIAL SCHOOLS

Land and Money Grant to Pay for Boys Sent as Result of Reformatory Closing.

At the meeting of the Toronto Industrial School board yesterday, Hamilton Caldwell reported an interview with Hon. Mr. Stratton about the law passed in the legislature, but never proclaimed, to the effect that the Penitentiary Reformatory would be closed. The police magistrate throughout the country, however, have been acting on it and sending boys from the police courts to the Victoria Industrial School, thus giving the superintendent the care of boys over whom he has no legal control. In the industrial school now the government are only paying 70 cents a week for each boy's maintenance and the municipalities pay $2.

WILL SAVE BRITAIN

An Honorable in Chicago to Washington for Mr. Chamberlain.

Chicago, Oct. 21.—The Tribune says today: As representative of Joseph Chamberlain, for whom he is investigating the results of the protective tariff in the United States, Ernest Augustus Hamlyn of the Honorable Artillery Company of London reached Chicago last night. Mr. Hamlyn summarized his report to Mr. Chamberlain as follows: "Your protective tariff policy will be the salvation to England. The manufacturer and tradesman I have seen during 4000 miles of travel, while visiting the trade centres in this country, have to admit that the English tariff will be a detriment to the continued industrial prosperity of America."

IMPROVING FIRE APPARATUS

The Waterous engine at Bay Street station was returned from Brampton on Thursday to Jarvis, and extensive repairs. Work has also been commenced toward repairing Lombard Street from Church to Jarvis, an improvement that the firemen at the central station will greatly appreciate.

"He Won't Die"

Of consumption is a remark made of a fleshy man. The remark expresses the popular recognition of the fact that the sign of consumption is emaciation, loss of flesh. On the other hand, a gain in flesh is a sure sign that weakness and wasting diseases are being cured. Emaciated people with obstinate coughs, bleeding lungs, night sweats, and weakness, have been perfectly cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. The several steps of the cure were recorded in ounces and pounds of increasing weight. When there is gain in flesh the wasting disease is being surely cured.

Money Trouble. In Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 21.—Samuel F. Morse, editor and proprietor of the Indianapolis Sentinel, fell from a third story of the Sentinel building today and lived but fifteen minutes. Physical troubles have been worrying him recently.

Troops Will Demobilize. Constantinople, Oct. 21.—Orders have been issued to commence the demobilization of 20,000 troops in Anatolia, in accordance with the Turco-Bulgarian understanding on the subject.

CITY HALL HAPPENINGS

That Fleeting Letter Still Causes Worry to Certain Few.

Comptroller Richardson is not yet satisfied with the action of the Council in dealing with Commissioner Fleming's letter, asking to be relieved of his duties in the Property Department. He is evidently endeavoring to bait the Commissioner into another angry moment, so that he may repeat the action. His conclusions in the matter are entirely wrong, however, according to the well-informed members of the Council. It is believed that the Commissioner has stood past several months in the letter, and considers that it is not his next move, and it is now up to the controller. Mr. Richardson has written the letter, and considers that it is not his next move, and it is now up to the controller. Mr. Richardson has written the letter, and considers that it is not his next move, and it is now up to the controller.

The members of the City Council and the heads of departments have been notified to meet at the City Hall, at 2 o'clock, and the carriage will leave promptly at 2:15 p.m. It is expected that a large number of citizens will be present, but it is improbable that they will be very unlikely to attend the funeral.

The Black Number System

Dr. Harrison occupied the Mayor's seat yesterday, and devoted his leisure time to explaining the intricacies of his black number system for numbering the streets of the city. It will come up before the Works Committee on Friday on behalf of the Mayor, Commissioner of Property and City Treasurer. The case brings the number on hand in the annual report to the Council.

To Defend the Market Case

The City Solicitor yesterday filed an appearance in the action of E. King Dodds, regarding the cattle market, on behalf of the Mayor, Commissioner of Property and City Treasurer. The case brings the number on hand in the annual report to the Council.

Waterworks Subcommittee

The waterworks subcommittee will meet today to consider the question of a meter for the City Cattle Market which came up. It appears there are six meters leading to the market, and must be joined before the meter can be installed, for there is no chance of the Council passing an appropriation for six meters.

TAKE IT COOLLY

London Evening Papers Criticize Attitude of Canadians.

London, Oct. 21.—(C.A.P.)—The Liverpool Mercury today says that Canada had evidently the weaker case, and it could not prevail. The Manchester Courier says: "Having appealed to Caesar, it is to be hoped that Canada will be content to abide by Caesar's decision. Lord Alverstone is not the man to sacrifice Canadian interests unless he is absolutely convinced that his contention was not legally sound."

COWS ATE DYNAMITE

Boys Falls, Mich., Oct. 21.—W. F. Harmon of Springfield, near here, was the possessor of two cows, which had lived after a strange experience, would no doubt have been a valuable acquisition to the anarchists. These cows accidentally happened on some choice sticks of dynamite. Sniffing it, they proceeded to eat it with a relish. Their grinding down of it off, but on the following day they left this world. Their owner was afraid to sell their carcasses to the tannery and could not induce himself to take off the hides, for fear of raising himself as well as their skins, so they were buried in a deep hole, and buried there they made an explosion of the doubly-inferred dynamite.

TWO CENTS A MILE

Lindley G. Long, Democratic candidate for representative in the Ohio State Legislature, writing to The Dayton, O., News, says: Everybody interested in railroad rates. The public is more interested in a just rate than in a low rate. The people would not intentionally fix a rate of fare that would work an injustice to the railroad companies. On the other hand, they have a right to expect that the railroads will not build up systems of fares that will work an injustice to the people. Not high rates, but discrimination in rates often by the people is entirely for complaint. The public is entitled to a uniform rate, which will apply to all the people, and will seriously claim that the present method of fixing rates by railroads can be called a just rate. "This Long Expected, Eagerly Awaited Work,"

NOW READY

MORLEY'S LIFE OF GLADSTONE

In three octavo volumes, illustrated with portraits, etc. Cloth, $10.50 net

A telegram to the New York Herald says that wonder at its long delay will pass in view of the tremendous labor involved, since Mr. Morley was obliged to examine personally about 50,000 documents of value in Mr. Gladstone's collection, something like 150,000 letters written by the great statesman, and in addition all of the applicable Government documents. It is certain to be one of the most important books dealing with the nineteenth century, and intensely interesting.

THE DAILY CHRONICLE, London, quotes Mr. Morley as having said that two men made him, and adds that he "repays the debt to one of the great statesmen of the world, the result of several years' strenuous labor."

THE TIMES assigns it even greater value as history than as biography, since it tells the true story of Gladstone's life, and as they have never before been related.

In short, the London forecast of the coming publishing season is: "First and foremost is Morley's 'Life of Gladstone,' which alone should serve to mark the winter season of 1903 above all others of recent years."

Parisian Walking Hats

Reduced Thirty-five Per Cent.

We have a lot of fifty-seven Paris and New York Pattern Hats in our showrooms which we desire to see gracing the heads of Toronto ladies. To bring this about we're going to put them within tempting reach by a cut of thirty-five per cent. off the regular price. These are what are called winter hats, to be worn with your heavy walking coat or fur jacket. Don't confound them with the class shown during the Exhibition.

In the lot there are several large picture hats—some with mink underlining—some all mink—others in large brims with seal trimmings.
