NORTH POLE DISCOVERED BY DR. FREDERICK A. COOK OF BROOKLYN

The American Explorer Reached the Pole on April 21, 1908, and on His Way to Denmark He Fleeced the First News of His Success to His Wife--Land Discovered, Big Game Haunts Located, and a Triangle of Thirty Thousand Square Miles Has Been Cut Out of the Territorial Unknown--Success of Fight Against Famine and Frost

DERWICK, Shetland Islands, Sept. --After a prolonged fight against famine and frost we have at last succeeded in reaching the North Pole.

COOKS DASH FOR THE POLE The yacht Bradley arrived at the limits of navigation in Smith Sound late in August 1907. Here conditions were found favorable to launch a venture for the Pole.

ENDURED GREAT SUFFERING The gloom of the long night was relieved by only a few hours of daylight. The chill of winter was felt at its worst.

IN THE POLAR SEA In this march we procured 101 musk oxen, seven bears and 335 hares, and then we pushed out into the Polar Sea from the southern point of Heberg Island.

THE FINAL DASH Itukishook and Aswelah, the two best men and twenty-six dogs were packed for the final dash. There was before us an unknown line of 460 miles to our goal.

The British Immigrant

What is there about the British immigrant that makes his presence distasteful to a large class of the average Canadian?

It has been the custom of the Canadian press generally to gibe over these British immigrants and to deny them the same advantages given now and then to the English papers.

For a time it appeared that the Canadians were the only kickers, that we on the northern half of the North American continent were faultfinders extraordinary.

What was the particular trouble with this group of Australian immigrants? It would be interesting to obtain a statement of their deficiencies from Premier Moore, but lacking this one must draw his own conclusions.

This idiosyncrasy which is unquestionably the view point of many immigrants who should know better, is well exemplified in the old story of the two late arrivals in the shelter house.

The old-time English notion that the colonies were excellent places wherein to lose scapegrace sons has about run its course, and probably no future English judge will condemn his prisoners to go to Canada as an alternative to taking a term in jail.

MRS. J. D. MCNUTT Mrs. J. D. McNutt (see page 1) wife of second prize, Danish Navigation S. Joan Sun contest. Mrs. McNutt was one of the first to reach the coast, she received 1,787,139 votes.

PIERCED BOREAL CENTRE Etukashook and Aswelah were told that we had reached the "Neig Nail," and they sought to celebrate by an advance of savage joys.

NO LIFE, NO LAND Though overjoyed with the successful result of conquest, our spirits began to descend on the following day after all observations had been taken with a careful study on the local conditions, a sense of intense loneliness came with the further scrutiny of the horizon.

THE RETURN TRIP Some advance was made nearly every day, but the cost of the desperate effort pressed life to the verge of extinction.

GREETED BY FRIENDS Here we were greeted by Harry Whitney and an anxious group of Eskimo friends.

THE GRANITE TOWN GREETINGS

Don't Cough! It's Dangerous!

"Father Morrissey's No. 10" will stop the Cough and Cure the Cold

Are you one of those who say, "Oh, it's only a little cold," and let the cough hang on, doing nothing for it?

If you are, just think a minute.

It is true that most colds, if left to themselves, will leave you after a while—but they leave you with the delicate lining of throat and in its weakness an easy prey to the next cold. Every cold you neglect makes it easier to catch the next one, and harder to get rid of it, and it doesn't take many such colds to give you Catarrh or some serious lung trouble.

"Father Morrissey's No. 10"—Cough Cure and Lung Tonic—is a preparation of roots, bark and Balsams that will prevent all this. It promptly clears away the mucus, removes the irritation and inflammation that causes the coughing, and heals and strengthens the delicate membranes. Besides, it tones up the whole system and gives you strength to resist the next attack.

Trial bottle, 25c. Regular size, 50c.

EDMUND BILLINGS REFORMER, LEADER IN CIVIC UPLIFT

Good Citizenship One of the Best Recommendations to Final Success

(Boston Globe)

Edmund Billings, secretary of the Good Government Association and one of the leaders of the municipal reform movement, is widely recognized as one of the successful men of Boston who have achieved distinction and prominence outside the regular lines of commerce, manufacture and mercantile affairs.

Mr. Billings is best known as a social and political reformer, but a large part of his most successful labors have been in the interest of wage-workers by promoting their welfare through the means of influential organizations.

As head of the Wells Memorial Institute and the People's Institute, two of the largest institutions of the kind in the country, during a period extending over 20 years, his labors are said to equal the efforts of the most noted leaders of the old world.

The Good Government Association is composed of some of the leading men of Boston, and Mr. Billings, as secretary, has a large part of its work to perform. His executive ability is so well recognized that he was chosen by the Governor of the State as secretary of the Chelsea relief committee, and also as secretary of the committee which represented Massachusetts in Italy at the time of the Messina earthquake.

Present day Opportunities

"The opportunities for young men," says Mr. Billings, "to take an active part in the industrial and political life of our city were never more favorable than at the present time. The past few years have witnessed the beginning of some very important movements, the full significance of which should be realized by our young men."

"For example, take the reorganization of the Chamber of Commerce stands for a clearer understanding between wage earners and employers, both in matters industrial and political. The scope of its work and influence has been broadening immensely. It is interested not alone in trade and commercial questions, but in everything that affects the life and interests of our citizens. The active committees of our chamber touch on almost every phase of municipal problems. The membership dues are comparatively small, and any man of good standing in any trade, business or profession is eligible and can find ample opportunity for useful service. It is a good place for young men to learn the needs of the city and how to solve the problems of the times."

"The local improvement associations, some 15 or 20 in number, and representing every district into a central body—those that were weak have been strengthened and some that were dead have been revived. This work has been going on so quietly that comparatively few of our citizens have been aware of it. It has in it great possibilities for aggressive and effective work. It should, among other things, teach its members the necessity for a broad point of view: the wisdom of considering the problems of the city as a whole, and not allowing the needs of one section to blind them to what is sometimes the far more important requirements of some other district."

ive work. It should, among other things, teach its members the necessity for a broad point of view: the wisdom of considering the problems of the city as a whole, and not allowing the needs of one section to blind them to what is sometimes the far more important requirements of some other district."

A CHANCE FOR EVERYBODY

"A sense of the city as a unit, and not as a number of wards or districts whose needs are to be traded off one against the other, is a lesson that some of our administrators might well learn. The idea of obtaining, everything possible for one's own ward or district at the expense of some far more neglected locality, is not good business or good statesmanship, and I question whether in the long run it is even "good politics." There is a chance in this new movement for any young man anxious or willing to serve."

"The Boston—1915, one of the finest cities in the world. This does not mean primarily beautiful boulevards, statues, great buildings and fine docks, but rather an opportunity for every man and woman, no matter how humble their education or ability to earn a living and will enable them to live soberly and decently, under wholesome sanitary conditions, and to rear their families under like conditions, giving them and their children at least a chance to "make good" in the struggle of life. This is an ambitious programme, but I believe it is a part of the vision which the leaders of this movement have, and for which they intend to strive."

"Our young men should learn that it is not economy and a low tax rate, in my judgement that we want, but rather the knowledge that for every one of the millions of dollars which we spend for schools and streets and police institutions and on the various departments of the city's service, we are receiving the value of a full dollar in return. And in the light of the exposures of the past few years, any school boy knows that we have not received 100 cents on the dollar, nor anything like it."

WEALTHY SUFFER THE LEAST

"The effect of this mismanagement (to use a mild term) is shared by all of our citizens, but the greatest part of the burden falls, not on those who are wealthy, but on the wage-earner and the poor man and his family."

"These movements which I have mentioned and others in this city offer an opportunity for every man, be he young or old, rich or poor, busy or idle, to have his part in real constructive work for the benefit of his city and the community."

BEGAN LIFE AS MESSENGER BOY

Edmund Billings was born in the town of St. George, New Brunswick, Jan. 14, 1868, but his parents removed to Boston when he was 5 years old, and he has lived here ever since.

The boy was educated in the public school and his last rudimentary instruction was received in the Brimmer Grammar School. Then he entered service as a telegraph messenger. Later he secured a position in Noyes & Blakeley, a firm which conducted a big art store on Tremont street. He became a trusted employee, and remained with that house until he was twenty years of age. The young man "burned the midnight oil" absorbing knowledge contained in the best books and he became self-educated to such an extent that he was regarded as an authority on leading questions of the day, especially political economy, and perplexing sociological problems. The knowledge thus acquired was supplemented by study at the evening high school and by summer courses at Harvard.

"The mere seeking of elective office which, if gained, sometimes gives only the appearance of power, is not always the post of greatest usefulness or influence. I do not want to be understood as decrying or belittling the importance of having able and honest men willing to stand for public office. I have far greater respect for an active political opponent, whose ways and methods I may not approve, than I have for the man who refuses to mix in the fight for fear of what may be said about him, or because he won't soil his hands with dirty politics. I have spent too many years of my life preaching this doctrine to attempt to minimize the importance of it, but what I want to point out is that willingness to stand for office, is only one part, and perhaps not the most important, in active politics."

Then came a remarkable and unexpected change in the career of Mr. Billings. At the age of twenty he was chosen superintendent of Wells Memorial Institute and two years afterwards he was also made superintendent of the People's Institute, Roxbury, the two largest working men's clubs in the country which are founded on the old and proved English system. He has retained both these offices ever since, although at present, his activity is confined to general oversight of the institutions. At the age of twenty-seven Mr. Billings went abroad, remaining about eight months, most of the time in London, where he studied social and economic conditions.

"Behold the Birds of the Air."

The birds teach us how to live in reference to our future. They do the best that they can in providing for themselves: then they trust in God for their to-morrow. We are bidden not to drag to-morrow into today. We are not to add the burden of to-morrow to the burden of today. And what is to-morrow? Whence comes it? No man can tell. To-morrow is the next thing that we are to come upon; but it is a riddle not to be solved. We cannot see one day before ourselves. Our future belongs to God. No human hands are deft enough to take off the folds that the mystery of to-morrow may be read. One of the wisest and most beneficent provisions which God has made for man inheres in the fact that he cannot see and know what lies beyond the horizon of to-day.

Our imagination is winged; its tendency is to fly into the future. While we should use foresight in reference to the future, we are not to yield self to thoughts of to-morrow that chafe, that rasp, that devour. Such over-anxious thoughts waste our nature, dissipate our nervous energy, and prey upon our vital forces. Such over-anxious thoughts distemper our imagination, bring our mind into a morbid condition, and destroy completely the serenity of our soul. As the gardener seeks to keep weeds out of his garden, so should we seek to keep such thoughts out of our life. As the way to take care of the harvest is to take the best possible care of the seed-time, so the way to take care of to-morrow is to take the best possible care of to-day. God, having shut us up within the limitations of to-day, says: Work well to-day, and when to-morrow comes you will have the strength to meet its problems.

Life comes to us, not in long stretches, but a day at a time. Living day by day in the secret of all true brave, triumphant living. If we live our life according to the doctrine that Jesus teaches, when He says: "Behold the birds of the air," we live day by day. Then in our life reaches our hope brighter, our outlook fairer and heaven seems nearer. Blessed are they who make to-day sweet with consecration to duty, fragrant with the breath of Christian prayer, and holy with work well done in their Master's name; and then for to-morrow trust Him who feeds the birds of the air.

To Taper the Fingers

Most women in trying to make their fingers more taper will stroke them from the base to the tip. A well known manicure has said that the process should be reversed.

Clasp the tip of each finger between the thumb and first finger of opposite hand, and stroke firmly but gently backward from the tip, as when working on a glove.

CROUP stopped in 20 minutes sure with Dr. Sloggy's Croup Remedy. One test will surely prove. No vomiting, no distress. A safe and pleasing syrup—See Druggists.

Make Cooking Easy

HEAVINESS AT PIT OF THE STOMACH

A FEELING OF UNEASINESS BEFORE AND AFTER MEALS IS QUICKLY CURED WITH NERVILINE

Nearly everyone gets at occasional attack of indigestion and knows just what that heavy feeling means in the stomach. "I was subject to stomach derangements and my health was seriously hampered on this account. After meals I belched gas, had a weighty sensation in my stomach and over my left side. The first relief I got was from Nerviline—I used it three times a day and was cured. I continue to use Nerviline occasionally, and find it is a wonderful aid to the stomach and digestive organs."

The above letter comes from Mrs. P. R. Stetson, wife of an important merchant in Brockton, and still further proof of the exceptional power of Nerviline is furnished by A. E. Rosman, the well known upholsterer of Chester, who writes: "Let everyone with a bad stomach use 'Nerviline,' and I am sure there will be few sufferers left, I used to have cramps, rumbling noises, gas on my stomach and severe fits of indigestion. Nerviline was the only remedy that gave me relief, and I found it so entirely satisfactory that I would like to have my letter of recommendation published broadcast in order that others may profit of my experience." You'll find a hundred uses for Nerviline—it's a trusty household remedy that sells to the extent of a million bottles per year—that's the best proof that it must cure and give unlimited satisfaction. Refuse anything offered in place of Nerviline, 25c. per bottle, five for $1. All dealers, or The Catarthoume Co., Kingston, Ont.

The Irish Way of Cooking a Potato

Half the magic lies, as a matter of fact, in the simplicity of the process. The Irishwoman first throws the potatoes—unpeeled—into a pot half full of cold water then place it over a medium fire and brings it to the boil.

Where another cook would continue boiling until the prod with a fork satisfied her that they were ready to serve, the peasant woman is of a different mind. Holding a cupful of cold water in one hand she dashes the contents quickly into the pot, so as to throw the water momentarily off the boil.

This has the effect of casting all the heat inward, so that the centre of the potatoes continue to cook while the outside has ceased to work for the time being, with the result that no danger is run of over-doing the outer portion at the expense of the kernel and the potato is served white, mealy, and floury throughout.

Thoughts Worth Remembering

(By W. Stewart Royce.)
Few things are more foolish than having:
No use to pain comes from murdering.
Many a hart has been left behind without a blow.
The selfish hanger for another to share their trouble.
It is the waste of gifts which makes many live to want them.
There is no need to lodge a good name at the bank for safety.
If we put patience into the will there is certain achievement.
Many have risen to fame on the broken branches of failure.
The most heroic act we can do is to pass through a terrible trial in silence.
What palaces of peace many would occupy if all they had wasted in the past could be expended on the home to-day!

Thoughts for To-day

Time wasted, is existence; used, is life. The greatest men have been able both to see and to do.—F. Meyer.
He who is first in calamity is generally last in valour and merit.—Malespina.
The great are only great because we are on our knees; let us rise up.—Proudhomme.
Many men have lost their lives by accident; no man ever lost his soul by accident.—T. T. Lynch.

Dainty Dishes and Hints for the Home

A PUDDING CLOTH

Made of cheesecloth does not retain the grease and is easily cleaned.

GARISH BOILED MITTON

With beetroot cut in thin slices and a little chopped parsley on each.

WHEN STEWING FRUIT

Add a pinch of salt to every pound, and you will find the flavor greatly improved.

PRESERVE FERNS AND GRASSES

For winter use by laying them in blotting paper under heavy weights for forty-eight hours. Maiden-hair thus treated will be charming for table decoration.

SWEET SAUCE

Put a tablespoonful each of apricot jam and castor sugar in to a sauce-pan with a teaspoonful of water and a squeeze of lemon juice. Stir over the fire till well blended. Useful for light puddings.

A GOOD TOOTH POWDER

Can be made as follows: One ounce of precipitated chalk, half an ounce of carbonate of soda, half an ounce of powdered orris root. Pass all twice through a sieve, and keep in a closely fitting tin or bottle.

MOCK DUCK

Is a dish very trying. Take the remains of a shoulder of mutton and cut the meat into neat pieces. Stew the bones for two hours, adding two onions and a tablespoonful of powdered sage. Then strain and thicken the gravy with flour, season to taste with pepper, salt and a dash of vinegar. Simmer the meat slowly in this for an hour. Serve with green peas.

A BATH

In which a tablespoonful of rock ammonia has been dissolved will prove more invigorating after hard exercise.

TO FIX THE COLORS

Of print dresses, colored shirts, and other similar things, rinse the goods in a little weak brine for the first few washings.

WORCESTERSHIRE SAUCE

Pound half an ounce each of cayenne pepper and shallot, and one-eighth of an ounce of garlic in a mortar, adding gradually one quart of white wine vinegar. Press through a sieve, add a quarter of a pint of Indian soy, and bottle for use.

CUCUMBER

Cut into slices, dredged with flour, and fried makes an excellent accompaniment to chops and steaks.

STUFFING FOR DUCKS

Chop very finely one apple, one onion and one ounce of sage leaves. Add to it six ounces of breadcrumbs, one egg, pepper and salt. Mix with a raw egg.

YORK CREAM

Peel five or six apples, cut in slices, and lay in a pie-dish, cover with a thin layer of apricot jam. Mix one ounce of arrowroot smoothly with one pint of milk, sweeten and add one ounce of butter. Stir over the fire till it thickens then pour slowly over the preserve. Bake a golden color.

ONION SAUCE

Or Soubise sauce as it is often called, is easily made, and should be served with roast shoulder of mutton. Peel, slice, parboil and drain six onions. Boil them in milk till tender, and then rub them through a hair sieve; add pepper, salt and a little milk. Heat and serve.

THE WEEKLY WASH

Is apt to be a nightmare to some people. Shred half a pound of the best yellow soap, and put it in a saucepan with about three quarts of water and two teaspoonfuls of borax. Boil till the soap is dissolved. Pour this into a good sized washpan of cold water and then soak in it the clothes to be washed; press them in tightly. The next day boil them and they will be a splendid color.

A MID-DAY REST

Is a great health-restorer. Indeed, most people, except, perhaps, the quite young are better for a rest after the mid-day meal. It breaks off all strain, and one starts fresh again.

Pink Pain Tablets—Dr. Shoop's—stop headache, womanly pains, any pain anywhere, in 20 minutes sure. Formula on the box. Ask your druggist or doctor about this formula—it's fine.

Great Clearance Sale fancy and staple Crockery, Wedgewood

THE ANNUAL FAIR

The annual fair, which is held in the city of St. George, N. F., is one of the most important events of the year. It is a time when the people of the town and the surrounding country gather together to enjoy a day of recreation and to do some business. The fair is held in the city of St. George, N. F., and is one of the most important events of the year. It is a time when the people of the town and the surrounding country gather together to enjoy a day of recreation and to do some business.

BY THE WAY

Quite a Port!

The fair season.

Charlotte County should be interested in our first big fair.

$4,500 in premiums at the three days in St. Stephen.

Address, Dr. Frederic Cook, North Pole.

Some people have to be compelled to do common sense things.

It costs two dollars to shoot a deer in Charlotte Co. and one dollar to sell the meat.

The fair at St. Stephen Sept. 28, 29 and 30 will be Charlotte County's first big exhibition.

We have the shipping, the mail requirements. Pull together and we shall have an office worthy of the business.

Three, three masted schooners, in the harbor last week. Two thousand tons of pulp shipped and a half a million of lumber. Why not a Port of Entry?

W. S. Stevens St. Stephen is secretary of Agricultural Society No. 88. Write to him for pamphlet containing full information of the "Big Fair" at St. Stephen Sept. 28, 29, 30.

Hit or miss, the man who shoots at another should be severely punished. A would-be criminal should not be allowed to profit by the accident of a bad aim. Kill the pistol or knife carrying habit.

Much was expected of Peary, but little thought was given to Dr. Frederic A. Cook, who has achieved the crowning distinction of discovering the North Pole. It's the unexpected that happened this time.

"The killing of Robins, Swallows and other small Birds of Song (excepting the English Sparrows), and the shooting, wounding, killing or destroying of Song Birds, or the trapping, snaring or taking alive of any of the birds referred to or the taking or removing of the nest or eggs of any such birds shall be unlawful; penalty, $5.00 for each offence."

Human nature likes to be cheered up. The harder the labor the more rollicking the song seems to be the rale as exemplified in railroad construction. Of course there's a reason. Cheerful people usually find some way of diffusing sunshine and even crude vocal efforts are sometimes celestial music to the downhearted and discouraged. If you feel healthy, you feel glad, and feeling glad, you must express it. Happiness is contagious. Cheer up.

Dr. Hale once told of a minister who preached over an hour on the four greater promises, and then, when his expression of emotion had reached its height, he was through with his sermon and a fresh piece of wood was given to the pulpit, said: "We now come to the more complex question of the minor promises. First let us assign to their proper order. Where, brethren, shall we place Hosea?" An irascible old gentleman in a back pew rose, took his hat and stick, and said as he departed: "You may give him my place if you want to, I'm going."

Sad Story

Wanted I went on a picnic to the woods where the big creek runs through.

An' my maw went along an' she jes' set there an' took care of me.

No other feller's maw was there. Mine said she guessed they didn't care And didn't have no hearts, but she— Well, she thought more'n that of me.

The other boys went in to wade; But can't my maw was so afraid, I had to sit an' watch while she Stayed round there an' took care of me.

"Don't take your shoes an' stockin's off."

Maw said, "er else you'll have a cough An' I can't have my nerves upset An' you out there a-gettin' wet."

I have to stand around an' see Then boys a-sniggering at me, Er play of sissy games with girls— I might as well wore skirts and curls.

Maw says boys never 'preciate Their parents till it's all too late; She says I'll thank her lots some day But I can't see it jes' that way.

When I'm a paw an' have a son I'll bet I'll let him have some fun, An' I'll let him go to law He shan't be bothered by his maw.

We are informed that the four vared race, at the fishermen's picnic, was a draw, and the money was divided between the crews. Our report gave the race to the Leavitt crew, which it would appear was an error.

No effort is being spared by the different committees in charge to make the event a memorable one in Charlotte. A large building 100 by 56 feet has been erected, the trotting park has been secured and exhibitors may expect every accommodation.

Labour Day was quiet, most of the stores and granite mills were closed and a large number of people were out of town. Several picnic parties spent the day at the lake and a number of local disciples of Isaac Waltkon succeeded in landing some beautiful trout.

A boxing room and blacksmith shop will also be located north of the present building. It will require 125 horse power to run the plant.

D. Bassen is having his store repaired. Capt. Joseph Bullock is in charge of the work.

A family reunion took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Kennedy on Sunday. All the members of the family were there including Mrs. Kerry McElroy, Otto and Mrs. K. Hickey and children. Mrs. Hickey left for Cambridge, Mass. on Monday.

About forty boys and young men, brown and tanned, left last week for their different homes in the States. They were from "Camp Utopia" and for three months have been luxuriating in the open on the shores of beautiful Lake Utopia. The camp was the outcome of the efforts of Benjamin Brine, Eastern Manager for the great sporting house of Spaulding Bros. and a brother of J. W. Brine, owner of the McCready property at the lake. The camp has been a success and next year over a hundred boys will come. The satisfaction of the young people with their outing and the location of the camp, is one of the most pleasing features of the venture. Every boy was delighted and every boy will do his best to return and bring a friend with him next year. The camp's success means much for the town. The circulation of money makes a town rich and the presence of a great number of strangers at the Lake means money for the town. This year hundreds of dollars were spent, a dozen or more men and boys given a summer's work, not a day passed but a crowd of boys were in town and they spent cash--everything was purchased from our merchants. This was good for trade. May the camp grow and may the hundreds be thousands in the years to come.

In a letter to Postmaster O'Brien the writer, who resides in Lee, Maine, and will be remembered by some of our older citizens, says:

"A portion of the years 1864 and 1865 I was in Magagnadavie and enjoyed myself very much. While there I worked in the shipyard for Ned Billings, Samuel Drake was foreman. I also worked in Johnson's yard at the head of the basin. Of course there has been great changes since then. At that time there were three mills manufacturing lumber, Gilmors, Hibbard and Bradburys. The hotel was kept by Daniel Campbell.

James Moran and his father, Ned Lynott, James Lynott and others were the merchants at that time. If any one left who remember me kindly give them my regards."

Yours truly
C. H. WHITTEN.

 Weak kidneys, every point to weak kidneys. The kidneys, like the heart, and the stomach, and the brain, are the organs that control and guide and coordinate them. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is a medicine specifically prepared to reach these controlling nerves. To doctor the kidneys alone, is futile. It is a waste of time, and of money as well.

JACK McELROY RETIRES
One to the Real Old Timers
Of the Sprague Country
Sells Horses and Cattle and Moves of Town

Mr. McElroy had bought 100 cows and a longer day than those who live in the valley. Sometimes all we need to brighten our day is to rise a little higher. Who is the happiness of men? He who values the merits of others, and in their pleasure takes joy, even as though there were his own.---Goethe.
 Happiness, at least, is not solitary; it depends on us to rise for its existence. the very name and appearance of a happy man breathe of good nature, and help the rest of us to live.---Stevenson.

"The Marvellous English of the Protestant Bible."
 As these words are written by the late Canon Frederic William Faber, who was a convert to the Roman Catholic Faith, no invidious comparison of two versions of the Holy Scripture is, of course, intended. Here are the words of the holy Father:---
 "The uncommon beauty and marvellous English of the Protestant Bible! It lives on the ear like a music that can never be forgotten, like the sound of church-bells which the convert hardly knows how he can forego. Its felicities often seem to be almost things rather than mere words. It is part of the national mind, and the anchor of national seriousness. The memory of the dead passes into it. The potent traditions of childhood are stereotyped in its pages. The power of all the griefs and trials of a man is hidden beneath its words. It is the representative of his best moments; and all that there has been about it of soft and gentle and pure and penitent and good speaks to him forever out of his English Bible."

Jack McElroy and wife have left the ranch and moved to town. The retirement of this sturdy pioneer is worthy of notice. Since 1872 he has called the ranch his home and he knows the Sprague and its history from the beginning. Contrary to general opinion Mr. McElroy was born in Maine and has never claimed the privilege of being shown. He left his new England home at the age of fourteen and has never seen it since. He became a sailor and followed this calling many years. He served in the navy of the North during the war and was on the sloop of war Mississippi of which George Dewey the hero of Manila was first lieutenant. This vessel was sunk in the engagement at Fort Hudson. He also engaged in the naval battles at Jackson F. Phillip, Ship Island and Mobile and has two honorable discharges. His service was from May 5, 61 to July 3, 65.
 In 66 he rounded the Horn as second mate of a ship and landed at San Francisco.
 Pete Myers an old timer of Crab Creek was a ship mate of his and came around the Horn with him. They separated at Frisco and both drifted at the Sprague country, living here two years before they got together. Meyers has been dead ten years.
 When Mr. McElroy settled here in 72 neighbors were scarce. Among his old associates were: John Davies, Geo. Lucas, John Eaton, Pat Connorsky, Joe Carroll, Thomas Turner, Al Hooper, Tom Dury, James Cross, Robt. Green, Steve Devanish, and James Kennedy. Of the list all are dead except the last three. Mr. McElroy describes these old friends as being men, every one of whose word was as good as a bond, men with high courage and indomitable will, whom reverses could not down nor misfortune disconcert.
 They did their trading at Walla Walla. The winter of 80 and 81 was a terrible one for the settlers. Four feet of snow fell and lay on the ground until March 1

Bob of the Furnace

By Willey Turner in London News.

Bob of the furnace stood six feet two inches in stockings and was well proportioned withal. There was nothing of the long and lanky about Bob. We in the office were wont to say that the King had lost a fine life-guard when Bob became a furnace hand.

It was a treat to watch him at his work, his sinewy frame made him so completely master of his business, and often at teeming time when the metal was run into the molds did I find myself within the melting furnace. The whole scene comes up before me as I write, the long shed full of flickering light and shade, the grotesque shadows of the men flung upon the walls, the tongues of clear flame that leapt up from the unperground fires, and the grim from the half-daked giant as he stood with legs astride over one of the uncovered holes.

A straight down thrust of the long tongs and the spluttering crucible was lifted up of its flamed lined groove. For one motion the man would balance it on the iron floor. Then with a deftness which none of his mates could imitate, the long tongs would be brought to the horizontal, and the molten steel would fall into the square mold with the color and lap of new milk poured into a churn. There came a day when the greater fear of Bob fell upon his mates. No one knew rightly the ins and outs of the quarrel. There was a clamor of voices by the furnace door. Bob's raucous tones high above the rest, followed by a sickening thud of a human head in heady contact with the iron system. Then someone shouted for the ambulance, while Bob himself was escorted from the works with three stalwart policemen in close attendance.

A merciful coroner's jury brought in a verdict of "accidental death," but Bob was never the same man afterwards. The snarl passed out of his voice, and a rough attempt at kindness took its place. He went to the cistern to fling water upon the smouldering sacking (with which the furnace men protected their legs from the heat) he looked another way and shuddered.

It was about a fortnight after the inquest that I came into personal touch with Bob. I had just locked up the safes and was about to depart when who should come into the counting house but the giant himself.

"I want to ax yer," he said, as he became calmer, "to take five shillings to Mrs. Jenkins" (Jenkins was the name of the man who was killed in the quarrel) "and tell her it'll p'raps come every week till her lad's owd enow ta keep 'r house going. She mustn't know as it comes fro' me, or like enow she wait be it." He put the money in my hands and was gone. The commission was duly fulfilled, and one day I was able to bring Bob some consolation. "I hear," the widow had said to me on my last visit, "that Bob Jones is terribly cut up about the—job; but I bear him no ill-will, for I know it were just a accident," and then she added, with the characteristic resignation of her class, "What's done mun be put up wi'."

I told this to Bob, and though he said nothing his face visibly cleared. That very evening he burst into the widows cottage with the same abruptness with which he had come into the office. Mrs. Jenkins' he stammered, "I've come to ax yer pardon; I didn't go for to do it, I udn't hurt a worrum; it's my temper as gets 'r better o, me. A golden sovereign was found on the table after he was gone. In this way did Bob of the Furnace try to make amends, and Bob, ladies and gentlemen had 35 shillings a week.

It was quite by accident that I came to know anything of Bob's life at home. It was rumored that the cuckoo could be heard in the Belle Copse, and that there the blue-belles grew thick, so one evening toward the end of May I bent my steps in that direction. About a mile beyond the smoke of the town a venturesome

Emery rod and Towel drier—found Only on Pandora

McClary's Pandora Range

For Sale by Grant & Morin

When a knife is dull a Pandora owner never wastes time hunting for a "steel." She just walks over to the emery rod attachment to Pandora, gives knife six or eight passes over the high-grade emery, which puts on the keenest kind of an edge.

This combined emery rod and towel drier is a patented attachment you cannot secure on any other range. Just one of the many improvements that go to make Pandora the handiest range you can buy.

Don'ts for Girls

Don't ever "mag." If you've to find fault, or speak on any subject that you know will be distasteful say what you have to say and have done with it. There is nothing more exasperating than a continual harking back to an unpleasantness.

Don't be annoyed if someone points out a fault or draws your attention to a mistake that you are making. Very few people in this world care enough about us to tell us of our faults, but those who do should be treated with respect.

Don't idolize your friends. Nothing is a greater hindrance to real friendship. Everybody is human, and, therefore, faulty.

Don't imagine that every man who is ordinarily polite is in love with you; and when you get a lover, don't expect too much from him. Many an engagement is broken off because the girl fancied she had secured an angel, and when she found that her lover was a mere man, after all, felt she couldn't stand it.

Don't boast of your superior possessions to a poorer friend, nor of your knowledge and attainments to anyone who has had less advantages.

Drive Rheumatism out of the Blood with Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy and see how quickly pain will depart. Rheumatism never did reach the real disease Rheumatism isn't in the skin. It's deep down—it's constitutional. Getting rid of the pain is after all what counts. That is why Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy goes by word of mouth from one to another, and herein lies the popularity of this Remedy. It is winning defenders everywhere. Tablets or Liquid. Sold by all Dealers.

Pay as you go

Each one of us is the daily beneficiary of a fund of blessing coming to us from other men and other days, and to which we have in no measure contributed. We are thus laid under a heavy obligation of debt which is growing day by day, and which demands some measure of discharge on our part. We cannot repay those of other days who have sacrificed for us; we can seldom repay even the living to whom we are in debt. There is only one way in which we can discharge the obligation; and that is to render unto others even as it has been rendered unto us. "Freely ye have received, freely give," is the message of Jesus. Nor should we leave till a future time of debt can be paid to-day. We must pay as we go, or the end may overtake us with our obligations unfulfilled.

Skin and Sun

In sunny weather it is fatal to plunge the face into cold water to cool it after exposure to the sun. The sudden change from heat to cold is likely to cause an unbecoming hot flush, due to the inflammation of the skin.

The proper procedure is, after coming indoors, to rub in a little cucumber cream, and then wipe the face gently with a soft handkerchief. A layer of cream is left on the face, which cools and refreshes it, and after fifteen or twenty minutes the face may safely be washed in tepid water, or the cream may be left on and the skin lightly powdered.

A clever, popular Candy Cold Cure Tablet—called Preventics—is being dispensed by druggists everywhere. In a few hours, Preventics are said to break any cold—completely. And Preventics being so safe and toothsome, are very fine for children. No Quinine, no laxative, nothing harsh or sickening. Box of 48—25c. Sold by all Dealers.

New Brunswick and P. E. I. Sunday School Association for Char. Co.

The 24th annual convention of the Charlotte County Sunday School Association was held in the Disciple Church, Lords Cove, Deer Island, Aug. 24th and 25th.

The delegates were met at the wharf by a delegation from the church, and we were taken to the different homes. The first session opened at 1:30 p. m., with devotional exercises after which Rev. W. N. Leonard, pastor of the church gave the address of welcome, which was responded to by Mr. R. T. Hayes, Provincial President.

Although the pleasure it afforded him to be present for we are all one in the Master's service. In the reports of the different departments an increase in membership, with increased interest in each department, was felt all along the line. Miss Boyd, our very efficient statistical Secretary, reported an increase in the membership of the schools. New schools have been organized, and old ones re-organized. She spoke of the great need of all those who had the reports to attend to, of seeing that these were in early.

Rev. A. D. McLeod gave a most interesting address on "The Adult Class as a factor in the Church."

Mrs. Matthews, both in her address on Primary Work and also on Supplemental Work, proved herself a very able speaker and held the close attention of her audience. She spoke of the advantage and the necessity of the cradle-roll in every school.

In the report of the Parish Secretaries, it was to be regretted that many had failed to send in their report, but all the reports received were very satisfactory and encouraging.

The evening session was opened by a song service led by Rev. Mr. Underwood of Milltown.

The president's address was very interesting and was much appreciated by all, as many present knew the good work Mr. Farnham had done in the past year. In the course of his address, he made mention of his successor, but in the discussion which followed Revs. Mr. Underwood, Mr. Sterling and others gave Mr. Farnham to understand that a successor was not to be thought of, at least for another year, if he could possibly be induced to accept the office.

Rev. Mr. Buchanan of St. George gave a splendid address on "The Attitude of the Sunday School to Temperance and Normal Reform." He spoke of the importance of the subject assigned to him and the need of reform along these lines. But alas, how often do we christian workers feel the pang of discouragement as we all our boys and girls surrounded on all sides of temptations of vice and intemperance, but although wrong may prevail for a time if we christian workers are in earnest righteousness will win out in the end.

This address was followed by another very interesting address on "The Sunday School and its part in the Evangelization of the World" by Rev. L. B. Gibson.

On Wednesday morning Mr. P. G. MacFarlane held the close attention of all present by a bright and interesting address on "The Boy and the Bible." The delegates attending the convention numbered eighty-three.

Following is the list of officers for the ensuing year:

President, W. A. Farnham, St. Stephen; Vice-Pres. Percy Smith, Milltown; Rec.-Sec. Alex. Murray, St. Stephen; Statistical Sec. Agnes Boyd, Oak Bay; Treasurer, P. G. MacFarlane, St. Stephen.

Other members of the executive, the clergymen and superintendents of Milltown and St. Stephen.

Primary Supt., Mrs. Estey, Temperance Supt., I. S. Lord, Home Department, Miss Peaks, Teacher, Training, F. O. Sullivan, Adult Bible Class, C. A. Laubman, Parish Vice-Presidents: Alvin B. Christie, Oak Hill, Alex. Moore, Ballie, Howard Beach, St. David, Frank Hunter, Dufferin, Miss Armstrong, St. Croix, Mrs. Geo. Hibbard, St. Andrews, Stanley Wilson, Dumbarton, Mrs. MacMillan, St. Patrick, Elias Bates, Penfield, Mrs. Mawhinney, Lepreau, Grant Dakin, Grand Manan, Edgar Martin, Deer Island, Geo. W. Newman, Campobello, Percy Smith, Milltown.

The Cough of Consumption

Your doctor will tell you that fresh air and good food are the real cures for consumption. But often the cough is very hard. Hence, we suggest that you ask your doctor about your taking Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It controls the tickling, quiets the cough.

One of Ayer's Pills at bedtime will cause an increased flow of bile, and produce a gentle laxative effect the day following. Formula on each box. Show it to your doctor. He will understand at a glance. Dose: 1 pill at bedtime.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly falling to with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proved catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Halls Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from ten drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address: F. J.
