BRITAIN TIGHTENS STRANGLE HOLD ON HUNS

NEW EMBARGO ON NEUTRAL POWERS TIGHTENS HOLD ON HUN THROAT

Washington Approves New British Regulations Which Cuts Off Supplies To Central Powers Through Scandinavian Nations and Holland—Increases Pressure On Strangle Grip Held By the Allies.

Washington, Oct. 3.—Great Britain's new embargo on shipments of practically everything to Sweden, Norway, Denmark and the Netherlands is regarded here as a most important move in strengthening the cordon which slowly but surely is killing the military power of Germany.

Coming close on the export embargo of the United States which is being administered to keep from the European neutrals everything that might supply the Central Powers, Great Britain's action is regarded as one of the most important of the war.

As the British embargo excludes everything except printed matter, about the only thing that will be permitted to go the German people by way of the neutrals will be expressions of world opinion that they should reorganize their system of government to do away with the military autocracy.

In a figurative sense Great Britain holds one end of the rope and the United States holds the other. Gradually but surely as it is being drawn taut the military power of Germany is being strangled because the embargo cuts off the supplies she has been receiving through the adjacent neutrals.

PS HARD HIT GREAT STORM ND TIDAL WAVE

Thousands of Buildings Are Destroyed by Typhoon and Flood.

40,000 ARE HOMELESS

Three-Million-Dollar Damage Done at Tokio—Scores Killed.

BY RALPH H. TURNER.
(Special Cable to The Advertiser).

Tokio, Oct. 3.—The most destructive typhoon and flood in twenty years today had destroyed thousands of buildings, rendered forty thousand homeless, paralyzed railroads and shipping and done three million dollars damage in the city of Tokio alone. At least eighty are dead.

Storm Broke Monday.

The storm broke Monday. It struck first in the vicinity of Tokio Bay and over the eastern Pacific. The whole shore line was inundated. A small tidal wave accompanied the wind and rain. At Yokohama Harbor four cargo boats were swept under by this wave of water.

Eighty Dead in Tokio.

A complete estimate of the damage or of the loss of life will be impossible for several days. The official estimate is at least eighty dead in Tokio alone. Newspapers predict this figure will be doubled.

The telegraph system is utterly demoralized and reports of loss of life or damage in other parts of the empire are lacking. The Sumida River is still rising, and it was predicted today that 20,000 additional homes will be flooded in the Tokio district.

Roofs Stripped Off.

The hurricane stripped roofs off buildings, whipped ships from their moorings and beat the downpour of rain into a veritable flood of water in the streets. The imperial palace buildings suffered considerably. So did many other beautiful structures in the city. Train service is practically at a standstill. The stock exchange was closed all day today.

General Hodgins To Aid Demobilization; Left For England

Selected As a Member of the Imperial Joint Committee.

Ottawa, Oct. 3.—Gen. Hodgins, formerly adjutant-general of the Canadian forces, left Ottawa yesterday on his way to London, England, to take up his duties as a member of the joint committee on demobilization. The committee was formed under the chairmanship of Sir Hugh Allan, to deal with difficulties in the way of a speedy repatriation of the overseas forces, and to formulate plans for demobilization when peace is declared. Formal request was made here for the appointment of a Canadian representative on the committee, and Gen. Hodgins was chosen. Gen. Hodgins will be accompanied overseas by Mrs. Hodgins.

NO PROPOSALS MADE FOR SEPARATE PEACE IS GERMAN DENIAL

Foreign Secretary Replies to Statement of Russ War Minister.

Amsterdam, Oct. 3.—Germany has made no proposals whatever for a separate peace either to France or Great Britain. Dr. von Kuehlmann, the German foreign secretary, makes this announcement, according to an official statement received here from Berlin, in answering the speech made by Gen. Verkhovsky, the Rusian minister of war, before the Democratic Congress in Petrograd. The statement reads:

"The Russian war minister, Gen. Verkhovsky, asserted at the Petrograd Democratic Congress that the imperial chancellor (Dr. Michaelis) had stated among other things at Stuttgart that Germany was ready to return Alsace-Lorraine to France. The imperial chancellor's utterances at Stuttgar are generally known, and the assertion of the Russian war minister is an invention.

"Gen. Verkhovsky further stated that it was Germany's intention to make a separate peace with Great Britain and France at the cost of Russia, and that Great Britain and France had informed the Russian Government that they would not be parties to any such proposal.

"I herewith state that Germany has made no proposals whatever for a separate peace either to France or Great Britain."

Last month reports were circulated in Russia that France and Great Britain had received offers from Germany to make peace at the expense of Russia. They became so insistent that the Russian Government obtained from France and Great Britain formal denials that they would make peace with Germany to the detriment of Russia. Gen. Verkhovsky made this announcement before the Democratic Congress in Petrograd on September 28. The reported statement of Gen. Verkhovsky as regards Alsace-Lorarine has not been received previously in this country.

THE WAR SITUATION

"We shall bomb Germany with compound interest," Premier Lloyd George is quoted in the London press as declaring to a London crowd in promising that Great Britain would soon launch reprisals for the many German air raids on England.

The French reprisals, already under way, were continued last night. French airmen dropped bombs on the town of Baden, some 55 miles beyond the French frontier. More than seven tons of bombs also were dropped on various military objectives in German-held territory.

Along the French front the artillery duels were vigorous at many points. The activity was especially marked north of Verdun, where the French are apparently preparing an attack to recover a few trench elements which the crown prince's troops retained when their main attacking force was thrown back north of Hill 344 yesterday. A German attempt to attack east of Rheims was broken up by the French artillery.

FRENCH BOMB BADEN CITY IN REPRISAL

Republic Fliers Continue To Pay Enemy Back In Their Own Coin.

Paris, Oct. 3.—Continuing their reprisals for attacks of German airmen on French cities, French aviators last night dropped bombs on the German town of Baden, the war office announces. The statement follows:

"On the night of October 1-2 and during the day of October 2 our aviators bombarded the railway stations at Fribourg, factories at Volkelgen and Hoftenbach and railway stations at Brieulles, Longuyon, Metz-Woippy, Arnaville, Mezieres-les-Metz, Thionville and Sarrebourg. In the course of these various expeditions, projectiles to the amount of 7,000 kilograms (15,400 pounds) were dropped."

The town of Baden, in the Grand Duchy of the same name, is one of the most famous and beautiful watering places of Europe, best known for its medicinal baths. It is a town of some 16,000, about 55 miles from the French border.

AMERICAN DESTROYER AND BRITISH VESSEL COLLIDE IN A STORM

British Take Off U. S. Crew and Tow Damaged Ship to Port.

Washington, Oct. 3.—The following official statement was issued today:

"An American destroyer, operating in European waters, was severely damaged in a night collision with a British naval vessel. After the accident the British ship stood by, took off a part of the destroyer's crew and towed her into port. No one aboard either ship was injured, and the destroyer has since been repaired and returned to active service.

"An investigating board of naval officers found that the accident was due to the fact that the destroyer suddenly emerged from a heavy rainstorm, which made her invisible almost up to the moment of the collision. It was, therefore, decided that no blame attached to either vessel."

HAIG'S REPORT ONLY OF BATTERY ACTION IN FLANDERS WAR

Artillery Activity Continued on Both Sides in Flanders.

London, Oct. 3.—"The artillery activity continued on both sides during the night in the region east of Ypres," says today's war office statement on the Franco-Belgian front operations.

"Otherwise there is nothing to report."

ARTILLERY FIGHTING ALONG VERDUN LINE

Heavy Engagements During Night Reported by French.

Paris, Oct. 3.—Violent artillery fighting continues on the Verdun front, says today's official announcement. No important infantry operations occurred during the night. The statement follows:

"East of Rheims our artillery effectively shelled the German batteries and broke up preparations in the enemy trenches for an attack.

"West of Navarin, French detachments penetrated the enemy lines and blew up several shelters, bringing back prisoners.

"On the Verdun front the night was marked by violent artillery fighting on both banks of the Meuse, particularly in the region north of Hill 344, where spirited patrol engagements also occurred.

"An incursion into the enemy lines in the region of the Casque gave us good results.

"Everywhere else the night was quiet."

HOLLAND SAYS COUNTRY NOT A DUMPING GROUND FOR HUN-BOUND GOODS

The Hague, Oct. 3.—The reported statements by members of the American cabinet to the effect that they had come to the conclusion that Holland was the dumping ground for contreband bound for Germany were made the subject of a question in the second chamber yesterday by Deputy van Leeuwen. Dr. John Loudon, the foreign minister, replied that instructions had been sent to Minister van Rappard at Washington to make a protest against such unfounded conclusions of the American officials if they were reported correctly.

GERMANY WILL BE BOMBARDED WITH COMPOUND INTEREST, SAYS LLOYD GEORGE TO LONDON POOR

While Visiting Damaged Distr ict, British Premier Promises Germany Will Be paid Back Soon For the Recent Raids—Western German Points Prepared For Attacks.

[Special Cable to The Advertiser.]

London, Oct. 3.—England has about decided today that once again it must fight the Germans with the Boches' own weapons of frightfulness. The public demand for reprisals over German cities for the work of German airmen over London and coast counties, had approached the point of a nationwide cry. Authoritative reports today had it that the Government was practically ready, awaiting only the decision of the military authorities to put a formidable reprisal program into force. In the meantime London awaits each night with the belief that the raiders will again come on their baby-killing expeditions. The city confidently expected a raid last night. The streets were almost deserted, and cellars had been made ready for occupancy. But the Germans did not appear.

London, Oct. 3.—A crowd of poor people in the southwest district of London yesterday appealed to Premier Lloyd George, says the Daily Mail, for reprisals against Germany for the air raids on London. The premier shouted to the crowd:

"We will give it all back to them, and we will give it to them soon. We shall bomb Germany with compound interest."

The crowd cheered the premier's promise wildly. The premier had just completed a tour of the area damaged in the raids with Viscount French, commander of the home forces.

RAIDS IN WEST GERMANY.

Amsterdam, Oct. 3.—The German military authorities have issued orders that all lights in the governmental district of Duesseldorf and a great portion of Westphalia must be darkened at night, according to the general Anzeiger of Essen. Similar precautions against air raids are being taken at other places in Western Germany.

TO COUNTERACT RAID.

London, Oct. 3.—That the British Government contemplates some new and effective steps to counteract German air raids on England is borne out in speeches made by Major-Gen. Sir Francis Lloyd, director of the defences of London, and Dr. Christopher Addison, former minister of munitions, at a meeting in the London district last night called to discuss the recent raids.

NATURALIZED AMERICANS THREATENED WITH FAMINE IN TURKISH PROVINCES

Stockholm, Oct. 3.—The matter of relief for naturalized Americans is becoming most acute in Syria and Palestine, according to reports received by United States Minister Morris. The reports say that more than two hundred Americans are threatened with death by starvation unless aid comes quickly.

Condition in Smyrna are better, although there are also some there who need aid. Smyrna College reopened on October 1 and other American colleges resumed their sessions.

Robert College has 300 students, and the Girls' College has an attendance up to its full capacity.

PLUCKY FRENCH BEAT OFF SUB

Paris, Oct. 3.—The minister of marine had commended in navy orders the French sailing vessel Kleber of 277 tons, which on September 7 stood up to a big German submarine off the coast south of Brittany and plied a single gun so well that her opponent retreated discomfited after three hours of stirring battle.

Pierre Monnier, the boatswain, who fought the ship after the captain of the Kleber was killed, has been decorated with the Legion of Honor, while the twelve men of the crew, several of whom were wounded, have been given war crosses. Seven members of the crew who particularly distinguished themselves, also received the Military Medal in addition to the War Cross.

LETTS AND LITHUANIANS ASK WILSON'S AID FOR INDEPENDENCE PROGRAM

Stockholm, Oct. 3.—Dr. John Nzlupas, who has been in consultation with Lithuanians and Letts in various parts of Russia, arrived yesterday in Stockholm and requested American Minister Morris to transmit to President Wilson a memorial setting forth the national program of these peoples and begging him to support it.

They demand complete independence, the right to establish their own government and representation in the eventual peace conference. Their territorial program includes the reestablishment of a greater part of the territory lost in 1795, which would take in a population of 12,000,000 Lithuanians, Letts and other races.

ROYAL FLYING CORPS DOES NOT LOSE STATUS OVER THE SERVICE ACT

Vancouver, Oct. 3.—That the status of the Royal Flying Corps, which is a branch of the Imperial service, will not be altered by the enforcement of the military service act, and that it will be authorized to enlist recruits in Canada for an indefinite period is indicated by the news that reached here yesterday that Toronto headquarters will shortly augment the recruiting staffs at present engaged in Pacific coast cities.

SENATE CONSIDERS THE EXPULSION OF LAFOLETTE

Washington, Oct. 3. — Preliminary consideration of numerous petitions seeking expulsion from the Senate of Senator Lafolette and several other senators for their attitude toward the war, was begun today by the Senate privileges and elections committee, but no action was taken and another meeting will be held tomorrow.

NO FOUNDATION TO STATEMENT THAT LAURIER HAD RETIRED; PARTY OPPOSED TO A CHANGE

Rumor Set Abroad at Ottawa This Morning Emphatically Denied By Mr. Carvell and Leader's Secretary—No Such Statement By the Member For Carleton, N. B.

Ottawa, Oct. 3.—Considerable excitement was caused in Government and political circles at the capital this morning by the report that Sir Wilfrid Laurier has definitely decided to retire from the leadership of the Liberal party. The statement that the Liberal leader proposed to drop out of political life was credited by rumor to F. B. Carvell, member for Carleton, N. B., who has frequently of late been mentioned as Sir Wilfrid's successor.

When seen by a representative of the Canadian Press, Mr. Carvell emphatically denied that he had made any such statement. Mr. Carvell intimated that he understood the retirement of Sir Wilfrid had been under discussion a couple of months ago, but the proposal met with strong opposition from members of the party.

Denial of the report that Sir Wilfrid had retired was also made by Sir Wilfrid's private secretary, who stated that there was no truth in the story.

It is generally understood that the possibility or otherwise of the retirement of the Liberal leader in the near future is largely a matter of Sir Wilfrid's health and his ability to bear the rigor of a winter campaign.

The impression is growing, however, that Sir Wilfrid's retirement, owing to conditions of health, will not be long delayed. Sir Wilfrid, it is understood, leaves again for Montreal today, where the whole position will be discussed. In the event of Sir Wilfrid's retirement the question of a successor will be left, it is said, to the party. Sir Wilfrid, it is understood, prefers to make no designation as to who shall follow him as leader.

BALLANTYNE IS MADE MINISTER OF PUBLIC WORK

Ottawa, Oct. 3.—C. C. Ballantyne of Montreal has accepted the portfolio of minister of public works and was sworn in this afternoon.

U. S. TREASURER SAYS PACIFISTS HAMPER THE SOLDIERS IN FRANCE BY IDIOTIC SPEECHES

McAdoo Pays Respects to the Peace Crowd—Liberty Loan a Success.

Chicago, Oct. 3.—Secretary of the Treasury William G. McAdoo today went to Madison, Wis., to continue his campaign in behalf of the Liberty Loan. In an address before a large audience here last night he urged the purchase of the Liberty bonds, because they are the "safest investment in the world."

Mr. McAdoo digressed briefly from his talk on the Liberty loan to speak of peace propagandists.

"There is not a soldier in France," he said, "whose life is not more than ever imperilled by this idiotic peace talk. Let us not give aid and comfort to the enemy by letting him think we don't mean to fight. We do mean to fight, and the quicker they realize it the better. There is not a man in khaki who is not willing to face German bullets, and is it not cowardly to attempt to stab him in the back with peace talk by traitors?"

Among the subscriptions to the Liberty loan yesterday was one of $50,000 by Grace Episcopal Church. This sum represented the building fund, which had been raised to rebuild the church burned two years ago. It was decided to defer construction until the end of the war and to invest the fund in Liberty bonds.

SUCCESS ASSURED.

Washington, Oct. 3.—The big drive for the three billion dollar second Liberty loan is in its third day with reports continuing to reach the treasury department in large volume telling of the public's enthusiastic response to the national appeal for subscriptions. Although no figures were at hand today, treasury officials predicted the success of the new bond issue. They based their prediction on the oversubscription of $400,000,000 issue of federal certificates of indebtedness. This is the biggest issue of short-time certificates of indebtedness ever put out by the Government.

ANTI-CONSCRIPTIONIST TO OPPOSE LA POINTE

Montreal, Oct. 2.—Alphonse Bernier, one of the anti-conscriptionist orators awaiting trial on a charge of treason, was chosen tonight by the Papineau Lafontaine Labor Club of the Federation of Labor Clubs of Montreal, to be a candidate in St. James division against L. A. La Pointe, M. P., in the coming general elections.

HINDY'S BIRTHDAY

Amsterdam, Oct. 3.—The celebration of the birthday of Field Marshal von Hindenburg at German headquarters yesterday began with a visit from Emperor William, who presented the field marshal with a marble bust of the "all highest war lord."

The route from Hindenburg's house to main headquarters was lined with children who strewed flowers in his path, while airmen dropped flowers and laurel wreaths.

At headquarters the field marshal was received by Gen. von Ludendorff and the other officers of the general staff. Gen. Ludendorff greeted his chief as "the personification of the glorious development of the German fatherland."

DR. FORBES DEAD.

Rochester, N. Y., Oct. 3.—Dr. Charles Forbes, inventor of individual communion cups, died here yesterday aged 73 years. The invention came out in 1893, and was adopted by most Protestant churches at once. One English paper at that time declared it to be the most important innovation in the church ritual since the reformation.

HINDY'S MOTTO

London, Oct. 3.—"Let us gnash our teeth and not say a word about peace until the bloody work is done and victory is ours," is what Field Marshal Hindenburg replied to a telegram of congratulations on his 70th birthday, according to an Exchange Telegraph Amsterdam dispatch today.

"This must be the motto of the whole German people," the German commander asserted.

KERENSKY IS STRONGEST AT THE CONGRESS

Vote Was in Favor of His Proposal for a Coalition Government.

Petrograd, Oct. 3.—The Democratic Congress, by a vote of 766 to 688, today declared in favor of a coalition government.

(Special To The Advertiser.)

Petrograd, Oct. 3.—Premier Kerensky was victorious in the All-Russian Democratic Congress yesterday when that body voted 766 to 688 in favor of a Coalition Government for Russia.

The decision in favor of coalition government eliminates for the time being all danger of civil strife between the revolutionary factions and will make possible the establishment of a new government in which Socialists and the Democratic Bourgeoise parties will participate. The Bolsehviki, however, will not be given representation.

PESTILENCE AND FAMINE AFTER CHINESE FLOODS

Peking, Oct. 2.—The overflow of the Hoang River, which has wrought great destruction at Tien Tsin and other places, is subsiding slightly. Intense suffering has been caused in the central portion of the Province of Chili as a result of the inroads of the water. The Peking Government is sending carloads of bread to the destitute people. Pestilence is feared as a result of the flood.

SWEDISH KING SEEKS A COALITION CABINET

Stockholm, Oct. 3.—After the resignation of the cabinet yesterday, King Gustav summoned the leaders of the chief parties in the Rikadag to urge them to use their best efforts to form a coalition cabinet. Those summoned by the king were Admiral Lindman and M. Trigger of the Right; M. Eden and M. Kvarmelius of the Liberals, and Hjalmar Branting and M. Thereon of the Socialists.

AN IMAGINARY PLOT.

Regina, Oct. 3.—As expected, complete investigation of the alleged "plot" to blow up the parliament buildings has proven the whole case was in the imagination of a very sick woman at the General Hospital.

LACK OF MARINE TONNAGE MAY CURTAIL TRANSPORTATION OF U.S. TROOPS FOR THE FIGHTING LINE

BY CARL D. GROAT.
[Special to The Advertiser.]

Washington, Oct. 3.—Shipping experts here are more than ever convinced that America will face a dearth of tonnage the coming year, so serious as to prevent movement of more than 800,000 to 1,000,000 men by the end of 1918.

Joint warnings of Sir Joseph McLay, British shipping controller, and Lord Northcliffe, publicist, that there must be six million tons' new shipping annually are not unheeded here. American Government heads say they realize that the submarine situation was and is serious.

But, such men as Secretary of Navy Daniels and Admiral Benson, declare that there is no occasion for becoming hysterical and that the submarine situation is "more satisfactory." One-half of one per cent of convoyed ships are being lost. Practically all ships are under the new convoy system.

However, as the United Press stated on September 29: "American troop transportation to Europe the next six months may be greatly curtailed."

The war department has submitted to the shipping board an estimate that ten to fifteen tons of shipping space must be available at all times for every soldier sent to Europe. The Government's official estimate is that by the end of 1918 America will have 3,200,000 tons of shipping available.

CANADA AND U.S. WILL EXCHANGE THE SLACKERS

Negotiations Started To Bring Them Under Scope of the Law.

ENFORCEMENT SOON NOW

Families Who Have Members at Front Will Come Under Exemption.

Ottawa, Oct. 3.—Preparation for the enforcement of the military service act in Canada are nearing completion.

Negotiations are under way, it is understood, between Ottawa and Washington with a view to bringing Americans of military age, resident in Canada, within the scope of the draft law. Canadians resident in the United States would similarly be affected under the American law.

Special Consideration.

Families which have lost several members in the war will receive special consideration when drafts are called under the military service act. A definite regulation on the point has not been laid down. But military representatives will be instructed not to oppose a claim for exemption made to a local tribunal on such grounds. No doubt is felt further that tribunals will recognize the validity of a bona fide claim of this nature.

Men of alien birth and still retaining their foreign citizenship will not be required either to report for service or to claim exemption when the first call is issued. But every naturalized British subject, no matter where or how naturalized, must report or claim exemption—that is if he comes within the class called out by proclamation. Men of alien enemy birth naturalized since 1912 are disfranchised under the war time elections act, and under the same act are given exemption from military service. The exemption must, however, be claimed by filling in a claim in the ordinary way.

AMERICAN MED. OFFICERS TO SPEND THE WINTER IN STUDYING WAR DISEASES

American Training Camp in France, Oct. 3—(By the Associated Press).—American medical officers will devote the coming winter to a special study of the diseases peculiar to this war and war conditions, in addition to their work at the forward casualty clearing stations on the British and French fronts.

At the casualty stations they will get all the experience they desire in the marvellous war surgery which has made such rapid strides in the past three years. They will be trained in all the medical phases of their work in the field at special schools. The first of these schools will be established this month at the hospital taken over by the Johns Hopkins Hospital units after the first contingent of American troops landed in France.

ASKS FOR CLOSER TIES WITH UNITED STATES

Justice Riddell Arouses Great Enthusiasm at Rochester.

Rochester, Oct. 3.—Justice William R. Riddell of the supreme court of Ontario evoked great enthusiasm when in a speech at the dedication of the new chamber of commerce building last night he made a plea for closer union between the United States and Canada. Among the other speakers were Lord Northcliffe and David Jayne Hill.

Lord Northcliffe told his audience that America's great task in the war will be to solve the submarine problem. "We have learned how to harry them," he said; "and we have devised ways of disguising our ships so that they often escape detection. But we have as yet found no machine that was able to sink a submarine. Our inventive genius and yours must be devoted to this vital problem."

When you have read these letters look these people up and inquire into their case. Everyone of them is glad of an opportunity to help others suffering as they did.

Mrs. J. Peters, 548½ Richmond street, London, Ont., writes:

"For some time, I felt a little rundown, and suffered from loss of appetite. I did not relish my meals, and most of the time had a tired, languid feeling. I tried a treatment of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and they certainly did me a great deal of good. They strengthened and built up my system, I got rid of that tired feeling, and am now able to eat my meals with relish."

Mrs. W. Singer, 12 Wilson street, London, Ont., says:

"I was a victim of nervous headaches for about a year, and my nervous system generally was not what it should be. I began a treatment with Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and am pleased to say that by the time I had used a few boxes the headaches had disappeared, my nerves were strong and steady and I felt entirely different."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, a full treatment of six boxes for $2.75, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto. Do not be talked into accepting a substitute. Imitations only disappoint.—Advt.

$3,000 DAMAGE TO WAREHOUSE STOCK BY A SMALL BLAZE

Smoke, Fire and Water Responsible for Loss.

FIREMEN ARE OVERCOME

Burning Piles of Cloth Send Out Dense Clouds of Smoke.

Fire, water and smoke resulted in damage estimated today at close to $3,000 at the factory of Greene-Swift & Co., Talbot and Carling street, Tuesday evening.

A general alarm was turned in at 7:46 o'clock, and all the apparatus in the city responded.

The blaze originated in a cloakroom among some papers, and had gained considerable headway before smoke issuing from the room attracted attention.

The theory held by members of the firm is that someone, after lighting a match in the cloakroom, carelessly threw it among the papers, where it smoldered for some time before the blaze broke out.

The fire worked into several piles of clothing, and from these smoke of such density poured forth that the firemen were able to get at the blaze only with the utmost difficulty. Several of the firemen were overcome by the smoke before they donned smoke helmets and got to the centre of the shipping-room, where the blaze was at its worst.

The building is of fireproof construction, consequently no difficulty was experienced in confining the blaze to the shipping room.

The apparatus from all the stations except central arrived at the scene about the same time. Exceptionally fast time was made considering the wet and slippery condition of the pavements.

The firm will make a thorough investigation in order, if possible, to ascertain the exact cause.

AD CLUB RECEPTION PLEASING TO VISITORS

Prominent Speakers Who Attended Express Appreciation of Local Efforts.

The banquet given to President D'Arcy, F. W. Stewart of Montreal and W. G. Rook, vice-president, last Thursday evening by the London Advertising Club has evidently greatly pleased the delegation, as T. H. Yull received the following communication from Mr. Rook:

Toronto, Canada, Sept. 28, 1917.

Mr. T. H. Yull, Federal Advertising Service, London, Ont.:

Dear Mr. Yull,—I wish you would convey to Mr. T. P. Elliott, president of the London Advertising Club, the executive, and members of the club, my appreciation of the manner in which they received Mr. D'Arcy, Mr. Stewart and myself during our recent visit to your city.

The manner in which your meeting was conducted, the enthusiasm demonstrated, and the evidence of absolute co-operation in your club, are a revelation, and an excellent example for clubs much older than yours.

Mr. D'Arcy expressed himself to me, when leaving on the train, as being indeed pleased to have visited London, and noted the evidence of activity in your city. He carried away with him the desire of having the privilege of again visiting your city and speaking to the businessmen at some future date.

Trusting you will convey to your club members our deepest appreciation, and again thanking you for the courtesies extended, believe me to be, sincerely yours,

(Signed) W. G. ROOK,
Vice-President.

TRAIN CHINESE GIRL AS MEDICAL MISSIONARY

Presbyterian Women's Missionary Society Picks Her as First Student.

Mrs. J. M. McEvoy, who has just returned home from Toronto after attending a meeting of the Ontario board of the Women's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church, states that an interesting announcement was made to the board by the president of the general council, Mrs. Steele, to the effect that the first student to be educated by the Presbyterian Women's Missionary Society of the dominion for a medical missionary, is a brilliant young Chinese girl of Vancouver, who has recently matriculated with first-class honors.

After her five years of training, she will go to work among her own people in Canton, China. A young woman who attended the summer school in connection with the Toronto presbytery this year was so inspired by the missionary course that she has entered the Deaconess Training School in Toronto.

A feature of the board meeting was a memorial service for two members of the board who have died within the past few months, Mrs. Kenneth McLean of Guelph and Mrs. George Hay of Ottawa, the latter a daughter of the late Rev. Dr. Sutherland of Fingal.

Miss Hannah Little, formerly of London, and now of Guelph, was appointed to fill the vacancy on the Ontario board caused by the death of Mrs. McLean.

JOINT CAMPAIGN IS POSTPONED FOR BRITISH RED CROSS

The campaign which the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. had planned to secure funds for the increased work which both organizations are undertaking, has been postponed. Arrangements had been made to bring the needs of these associations before the citizens of London on October 15. D. Burr Jones, a leader of national reputation, was engaged to organize the campaign. On Monday announcement was made that the British Red Cross had sent out a call for a national financial campaign for Trafalgar Day, October 18.

At a meeting of representatives of the two associations yesterday it was unanimously decided to withdraw the campaign, so as to leave the field clear for the British Red Cross.

The week of November 5 has been fixed as the date for the campaign for the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A.

Going Back to Land Profitable Move of Ex-London Teacher

Wheat Farming Pays Double What Kindergarten Teaching Did.

Miss Jean R. Laidlaw, formerly supervisor of kindergartens in this city, is an enthusiastic advocate of "back to the land," for city dwellers and farming for women. Her own experience has been such as to justify this attitude. Wheat farming near Pincher Creek, Alberta, her net gain each year for the past two years has been about double the income she formerly received here for a strenuous year's work.

After resigning her position on the public school staff here some six or seven years ago, Miss Laidlaw obeyed the call of the West, took up land in Southern Alberta, and signed up to teach in a public school for a year.

From the first she found the life most interesting, and enjoyed immensely her trips from her boardinghouse to school on a pony. So successful has she been that she has given up teaching altogether and is devoting all her time to her farm.

Miss Laidlaw, who took an active part in all educational movement while in London, has many warm friends here who will be interested to hear of her success. It was during her term of office that the Mothers' Club got their start in the schools, and she was prominently identified with the organization of these.

MUNICIPAL DEPOT FOR SELLING FISH BEING PASSED UP

Dealers Will Handle Big Consignment Tomorrow.

PRICE FIXED AT 15 CENTS

No Higher Charge Will Be Permitted, Declares Chairman of Committee.

London's municipal fish stall or depot is apparently not going to materialize. The announcement has been officially made that the ton and a half consignment of Lake Nipigon fish, which will arrive in the city tonight, will be handled through dealers already in business.

Ald. S. R. Manness, chairman of the city's high cost of living committee, declared today that the fish would be handled by dealers but that a price regulation had been agreed on. The maximum price permitted will be 15 cents a pound for the white fish and salmon trout.

He had previously reported that the price would be 12½c per pound. The fact that the salmon trout weigh from 12 to 20 pounds each, too large for the average family, is responsible for the higher price, as the extra has been added for the fish dealers for selling by the pound instead of by the fish. The present price of the salmon trout and white fish in London is from 20 to 22 cents a pound.

"We will distribute this fish to the dealers," declared Ald. Manness. "The fishmen are working on a very small margin of profit now, and by fixing the minimum price at 15 cents we will be able to save the citizens considerable. Under the circumstances I do not think a municipal fish depot would be justified."

A semi-official announcement from Toronto declares that a considerable portion of sturgeon is included in London's first consignment of the Ontario Government fish. Present prices for this fish are from 40 to 60 cents per pound, but the government sturgeon will be retailed at 25c by the pound or 22 cents a pound by the fish.

DUNDAS CENTRE CHOIR PLEASES LUCAN AUDIENCE

Members Made First Out-of-Town Trip on Tuesday and Were Well Received.

The Dundas Centre Methodist Church choir, which stands well in the forefront of local musical organizations, filled the first of its several out-of-town engagements this fall by motoring to Lucan last night, in spite of the inclement weather. It was greeted by a large and appreciative audience in the Lucan Methodist Church.

A full musical program of choruses, solos, duets, etc., was rendered by the choir and soloists, after which they were royally entertained by the ladies of the church to a fowl supper.

The choir expressed its regret for its inability to accept all of the many invitations that came to it for out-of-town concerts this fall, but has arranged for several trips similar to this one within the next few weeks.

THREE-YEAR COURSE NOW FOR TEACHERS OF SUNDAY SCHOOLS

City Workers Invited to Meeting to Discuss New Project.

An entirely new three-year course in teacher training has been planned by the Sunday School Council of this continent, which embraces thirty denominations. The first year of this course is now available for use. It comprises four books: "The Pupil," "The Teacher," "The Life of Christ," "The School." It is proposed to have a series of institutes in the city this winter for the purpose of studying these books and thus training our teachers for more effective work.

A meeting to discuss this project will be held in Cronyn Hall, St. Paul's Cathedral at the call of the teachers' training Sunday School Association. The meeting will be held on Friday evening of this week, October 5, and will be addressed by H. W. Brown of Oakwood Collegiate Institute, Toronto.

To this meeting every teacher in every church in every denomination in the city is cordially invited. It is earnestly hoped the attendance will be large, as plans for the winter institute will be discussed.

CHECKING UP PRODUCE FROM CIVIC GARDENS

H. C. of L. Committee Wants All Records Turned In.

Ald. S. R. Manness, chairman of the city's high cost of living committee, has made the request that all those who had or worked any of the civic garden plots during the present year, compile a record of the produce secured from these gardens. This record is to be used for showing the amount of foodstuffs grown on what would otherwise have been waste land in London.

The gardeners are asked to furnish either Ald. Manness or City Clerk S. Baker with the particulars in order that the record for the whole city may be as complete as possible.

UNDER CANVAS IN BRITISH CAMPS IS FAR FROM PLEASANT

Old Jup. Pluvius Has Been Having His Inning This Year.

NEW QUARTERS SECURED

Elements Have Forced Striking of Tents, Writes Pte. Fred Young.

Another cheery letter has just been received from Pte. Fred Young of the 18th Battalion, the poet-historian of the famous Western Ontario unit. The same cheery optimism which has marked his other contributions characterizes this latest letter which follows:

Seaford, Sussex, Sept. 17, 1917.

With all due respect to our motto about "a fellow isn't beaten, etc.," we are going to admit that Jupiter Pluvius has done his best this summer to give our training camp a knock-out blow. "Week in, week out, from morn till night," and oftentimes all night too, our open-air roof leaked continuously, until the powers that be decided to abandon Camp Canvas and transfer us to more congenial environments.

To folks walking the hot pavements of a city, in sultry August, the idea of being under canvas may possess a fascination. But the fact that distance lends enchantment to the view, would have been fully realized if you could have seen the boys crawling from under wind-wrecked tents one morning recently in the cold, grey light of dawn, and trying to pull on their slacks in a pouring rain. It needs a strong sense of humor to take comfort from the knowledge that there is no danger of sunstroke under those conditions.

There was an animated scene this a.m. as the boys answered the bugle's call to "fall in" to move off. We have been relegated to the "rearguard" to strike tents, etc., so we paraded as onlookers. Headed by the band, 40 strong, blithely playing "A Little Bit Off the Top," the boys moved out of camp at early dawn, and as they neared the railway station a favorable breeze carried back to camp the strains of that good old British tune, "The Girl I Left Behind Me."

Pessimists may emphasize the fact that the war is dragging its tragic course through the fourth year, but red-blooded optimists who have staked their all in the cause of freedom, can see, through the night of sorrow, the dawning of the "new glory" that shall shine in our faces when Prussianism is overthrown.

Faithful to our British birthright, paths of sacrifice we'll tread,
Till Freedom's banner waves victorious, and "Kultur's" numbered with the dead.

You have probably read the story in English history of King Alfred, who, when a fugitive taking rest in a cottage, and brooding over his troubles, allowed the cakes to burn, that the housewife had intrusted him to watch. A recent visit to Alfreston, the little village mentioned in a previous letter, revealed the fact that it was in that village, formerly called King Alfred's Town, that the incident occurred. We took tea one evening on that historic spot, and as we paid the score, we figured that if the cakes were as expensive in King Alfred's time as they are at the present day, the old housewife was fully justified in calling the King to account for his negligence.

Our future destination is still in the lap if the war office, with Shorncliffe, the dropping-off place for France, looming strong in the probabilities.

There has been a hitch in the delivery of the home town paper for the past two or three weeks, and we are again anxiously looking forward for home news. The Russian situation is occupying the centre of the stage in the British newspapers, with Sweden a close second.

Great things are looked for from America in the near future, and he must indeed be a pro-German who fails to see that British determination to win through to victory is stronger than ever. The bull-dog breed has asserted itself.

Our cause is just, in God we trust, let the cost be what it may,
We'll win the fight for Freedom, if we fight till judgment day.

Yours as ever,
FRED YOUNG.

CHEERFUL DESPITE FACT THAT SPINE IS "FIGURE EIGHT"

Lieut. Boyd Little Writes Optimistically From British War Hospital.

A letter received in the city from Lieut. Boyd Little, son of Dr. R. A. Little and Mrs. Little of Vancouver, states that he is progressing as favorably as could be expected in a military hospital in London, England. His chief injury is to his spine, which, he says, is doing "a kind of a figure eight."

In any case, his escape is considered little short of miraculous. He was buried in a concrete dugout which was shelled by the Germans, and suffered from severe contusions, in addition to the hurt to his spine.

He writes in a most cheerful tone, notwithstanding the painful nature of his injuries.

SUNDAY SCHOOL OFFICERS HAVE ENTHUSIASTIC RALLY

Teachers and Staff of St. Andrew's Church Meet on Tuesday Evening.

A large and enthusiastic rally of the teachers and officers of St. Andrew's Sunday school was held on Tuesday evening in St. Andrew's Hall, when the members of two of the senior Bible classes, those of Miss Cannell and Miss McColl and the girl students of the normal school were also included.

An address was delivered by Rev. W. J. Knox of the First Presbyterian Church on "The Essential Qualification of the Sunday School," in the course of which he explained the teachers' training course to be organized in the city in the near future and urged the importance of increasing efficiency through participation in this opportunity offered.

Solos were rendered by Miss Shoebottom and Miss McGuffin and a recitation by little Vera McMaster. Several reproductions of masterpieces were shown on the screen during the evening by Superintendent G. W. Hoffered. Welcome was extended by the minister, Rev. D. C. MacGregor.

At the conclusion of the program, Miss McColl and Miss Cannell served refreshments.

IF BACK HURTS USE SALTS FOR KIDNEYS

Eat Less Meat If Kidneys Feel Like Lead or Bladde Bothers.

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water, before breakfast, for a few days, and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity. It also neutralizes the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is harmless; inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everybody should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean, thus avoiding serious complications.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

THUMB PRINTS FOR DRAFT EXAMINATION NOT NEEDED LOCALLY

No thumb prints of men examined by the medical boards here are being taken as no orders authorizing such action have been issued in this district. A Calgary dispatch states that the system is being employed there as the result of several attempts of misrepresentation under the Military Service Act.

Officers here think that the presence of a larger proportion of foreign born in western cities may necessitate the taking of thumb prints. They do not think there is any pressing need for the system here as no cases of misrepresentation have been discovered. The prints eliminate all possibility of a man hiding his identity as he may do with safety under the present system as he is not under oath when he signs the paper with details of his medical examination.

TORONTO DRUG STORES TO FOLLOW LONDON LEAD

Agitation for Early Closing Now Being Waged in Queen City.

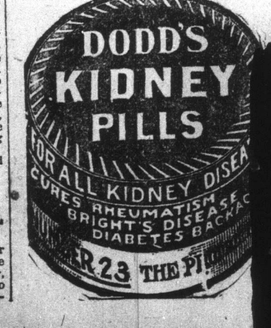

Toronto drug stores are expected to follow the lead set in London and inaugurate early closing there. The agitation in the Queen City has been started by the clerks, and an organization meeting is being held on Thursday night to secure the desired early closing. It is reported that many of the proprietors are in favor of the move.

Unlike London, however, the Toronto scheme calls for one store in each district to remain open after 9 p.m. The stores in the district will, it is planned, take it in turn to keep open, and the others will display signs directing customers to the night stand.

The London closing is 8 p.m., and the entire city is affected.

NO REDUCTION OF FLOUR EXPECTED IN MONTREAL

MONTREAL, Oct. 2.—No lower prices prices are looked for in the market here for winter wheat flour, notwithstanding that the Toronto Board of Trade has issued a statement that prices will be reduced 40c a barrel. According to prominent commission merchants in this city, there is considerable difficulty in obtaining shipment of supplies from Ontario, and premiums over and above the current market price frequently are paid to obtain prompt delivery.

ONLY 11 MEN OF 600 ELIGIBLES HAVE ENLISTED

Recruiting Officers at Local Mobilization Centre Make This Report.

OTHER RECRUITS SIGN ON

These, However, Came to the Armories With Intention of Donning Khaki.

Only 11 of the eligibles examined here under the military service act have volunteered, officers state. Other recruits, although examined by the same boards, came to the armories with the intention of enlisting and did not take an examination under the act.

Seven of the staff of the District Training School enlisted for overseas service on Tuesday. It is likely that they will be attached to the Western Ontario Regiment. They were: J. L. Webster, who was born in Brazil; W. H. Walsh, who was born in Madras; F. T. Marsh, J. A. Mann, W. W. Graham, and H. Stevens, who were born in England. Webster qualified in class C; Walsh in class B2, and Stevens in class C. The others qualified in class A1.

Six U. S. Recruits.

Six recruits who were accepted on Tuesday were from the United States, being sent here by the British recruiting mission. They were: H. D. Bellerose, a Canadian, who has been living in El Paso; Cowrie, a Scotsman, who has been residing in Cleveland; G. Lawson, also Scot and a Clevelander; T. K. Dover, who was born in Sweden and later emigrated to Cleveland; G. R. Turnbull and W. H. Reise, Englishmen, who resided in Cleveland. Bellerose qualified in class A2, and signed up with the C. A. S. C.; Cowrie went to the same unit. Lawson and Dover enlisted with the 7th Overseas Company; Turnbull, a class B2 man, enlisted with the Forestry Depot. Reise joined the C. A. S. C.

Other recruits were: J. R. Steele, Canada, London, class A2, C. A. M. C.; A. Laing, England, St. Thomas, class B2, Forestry Depot; S. J. Branton, Canada, London, C. A. M. C., class A2.

Seventy Men Examined.

In additon to these recruits nearly seventy men were examined by the two medical boards under the military service act. Board No. 1 examined 22 men, declaring ten of them fit for overseas service, and one fit for overseas service with a non-combatant unit. It rejected ten. The status of one was doubtful.

Board No. 2 examined 46 men. It declared seventeen fit for overseas service, ten fit for service with a non-combatant unit overseas, and two fit for service in Canada. It declared seventeen unfit.

"SPEED UP" CRY IS SOUNDED FOR RED CROSS WORK

Quantity for Past Month Has Not Been Standard.

Reports for the month of September presented at the meeting of the Red Cross Council today (formerly called the executive), revealed the fact that the work shipped in from the London district has not been up to the usual quantity during the past month. The hope was expressed that the various circles and other organizations which ship through London would make an effort to "speed up" as soon as possible after the vacation falling off, owing to the imperative need overseas.

The domestic science classes of the public schools have canned 1,743 quart jars of fruit for the local military hospitals. Any further fruit sent in will be done by the technical school.

The visiting committee for the military hospitals made an appeal for magazines which will be good reading for the patients in the military hospitals. This is being passed along to the public with the announcement that magazines will be called for if a request from donors is telephoned to Hyman Hall. The word passed to The Advertiser is "Wanted, up to date, good literature for men. No women's fashion magazines or antique church reports need apply."

241ST MAN KILLED

Young Highland Recruit, Whose Sister Lives Here, Died in France.

One of the first members of the 241st Battalion to have been killed in action is Pte. Clare McPhee, brother of Mrs. George Brazill of 693 Elias street.

The official report of his death was received by his mother at West Lorne today. She telephoned Mrs. Brazill that she had been officially advised that Pte. McPhee had been killed on Sept. 23. The young soldier enlisted at Windsor and had only been in the trenches for the past three weeks.

OBJECTS TO SCHOOLBOYS JOINING MILITIA UNITS

Montreal, Oct. 3.—A protest against high school youths being allowed to join militia regiments was made last night by Principal R. E. Howe of Westmount.

The principal said many members of the school had joined local militia units since the war had begun.

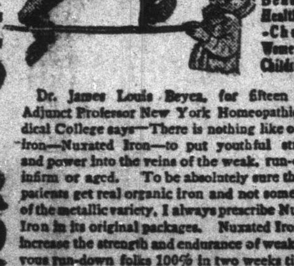

"This," he said, "districts attention from the school work, and the frequent drill periods and consequent late hours send the boys to school in neither mental nor physical condition to undertake serious study. The association of boys with older men results in the acquisition of habits of thought, speech and action which form an influence tending to lower the general tone of the school."

ENTERTAINS STAFF

Retiring Member of City Engineer's Department Hostess at Pleasant Evening.

Miss L. Stein, who has resigned her position in the city engineer's department after four years' service, entertained the staff and their friends at her home last evening. She was presented with a handsome Persian ivory toilet set by the city officials. The evening was pleasantly spent in music and cards.

BELIEVE PRISONER, HELD IN ATLANTA, WANTED LOCALLY

Backers of Patricia Dance Hall Interested in Story.

INITIALS ARE SIMILAR

Man Arrested Suspected of Being Manager Who Skipped With Funds and Jewels.

Similarity of initials leads men, who were interested in the Patricia dance hall, which occupied the building now used by the Patricia Theatre, to the belief that Rolf P. McQuellan, who has been arrested at Atlanta, Ga., for impersonating an American army officer, is none other than the missing and much-sought-for R. P. McQuellan, one time manager of the dance hall. McQuellan disappeared from London with certain cash receipts from the dance hall and with certain valuable pieces of jewelry secured by fraud.

An Associated Press dispatch concerning the "R. P. McQuellan" says:

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 2.—Rolf P. McQuellan, alias "Capt." Wilson, Hamilton, Ont., arrested Saturday on charges of impersonating a U. S. army officer, was held yesterday in default of $5,000 bond by a U. S. commissioner.

A young woman whom federal agents say they believe is Mrs. Walter D. Marx, Chicago, was held in bond of $2,500 as an alleged accomplice. She was here in company with McQuellan, officers said.

Those who were stung by McQuellan's operations here are taking a keen interest in the Atlanta case, and it is probable that some action will be taken if the investigations, already started, prove the Atlanta prisoner to be the man sought for in this city.

"See McQuellan" was the one-time whilom manager's pet advertising phrases, and the directors subscribe the sentiment unanimously. Businessmen and others also agree with the wish.

NEW TRAFFIC UNIFORM.—The traffic officer at Richmond and Dundas streets, appeared last evening for the first time in his new white rubber regalia. The same was worn again today and created considerable interest on the part of citizens. The consensus of opinion is that the white coat on rainy days is a decided improvement over the dark uniform, the advantage being that the officer is distinguishable by motorists at a much greater distance. The idea was adopted upon the advice of Mayor Stevenson, who secured information from the larger American cities, where the idea is generally adopted.

DEAD EX-MANITOBA MEMBER NATIVE OF MIDDLESEX COUNTY

Man Found Unconscious in Strange House Born Here.

According to a special dispatch to The Advertiser from Winnipeg, D. D. McDonald, the ex-Manitoba M. L. A., who was found dead in a Winnipeg home on Monday, is a former Middlesex man. He was born in this county 45 years ago.

The circumstances under which the body was discovered were most unusual. When the family of Harold Keene returned home they found their house full of gas and the body of Mr. McDonald lying unconscious on the floor. He was rushed to the hospital, but died last evening.

McDonald is the former member for Swan River in the Manitoba Legislature and had been speculating in grain heavily during the last year. His age was 45 years.

What he was doing in the house is a mystery, as he lived some blocks away, but it is supposed to be a case of suicide.

HEAT REGULATION WILL SAVE MONEY AND HEALTH, TOO

Even Temperature Scheme for City Schools.

INSPECTOR IS OPTIMISTIC

Has Taken Up Question With M. O. H. and Expects Better Results.

The suggestion of Inspector C. B. Edwards that the heating fans be regulated to reduce the temperature in the school rooms to 65 degrees is meeting with much favor. His experience is that the rooms are heated too much, with the result that there is a waste of coal and much sickness in addition.

"I have gone into the matter very carefully, and I find we can regulate the heat to the proper temperature," said Mr. Edwards. "We can give a steady heat at 65 degrees, sufficient for all purposes, and save a great deal of coal, and afford much better protection for the children. I took the matter up with Dr. Hill, and he agreed with me. He stated that this was a matter that he had given much thought to, and he had decided that the suggestions I had made were perfectly right and proper. I will try the scheme out as soon as the furnaces are going properly and I am of the opinion that we will be able to save the citizens some money."

PUBLIC SCHOOLS OF CITY OVERCROWDED; MORE ROOM NEEDED

Increased Accommodation Must Be Secured Shortly.

REGULATIONS EXCEEDED

Classes in Many Schools Far Too Large for Present Buildings.

The question of increasing the school accommodation of the city is one that will demand attention from the board of education shortly. Already some of the schools are greatly crowded.

For instance, Chesley avenue school has 652 pupils, which is about 75 more than can be properly accommodated. There are two first grades. This section is growing rapidly, and there should be another school there. Simcoe street is seriously overcrowded, there being 535 pupils enrolled or 55 more than should be accommodated there. Wortley road has 373, or 50 more than the regulations call for. Riverview has shown the largest growth, there being 60 pupils more this year than last. An extra room has been opened there. Aberdeen, Lorne avenue, St. Georges, Empress and one or two others have capacity.

The board will look into the situation shortly.

MAY USE HYDRO TO SHOCK PLANTS AS CROP BOOSTER

Manager Wants To Experiment With Electric Agriculture.

General-Manager E. V. Buchanan has been receiving some data on increasing crops by electricity. The scheme is being worked in Great Britain with great success. He received some data from Sir Henry Lodge, showing that by the use of electricity the grain crops had been increased 50 per cent, and the straw 88 per cent. The electric plants cost $100 for one-acre plots, and from $1,500 to $2,000 for 100-acre lots. The consumption of electricity is small.

"I am considering asking the commission to allow me to experiment with an acre of land at Springbank with one of the machines," said Mr. Buchanan. "There are many possibilities in the scheme, and I think we should do something along these lines."

TAKING CENSUS OF EMPLOYEES FOR EXEMPTION

Manufacturers Preparing Information On Men They Desire To Keep.

ELIGIBLES KEYSTONES

In One Plant Loss of Four Men, Liable to Call, Would Cut Production in Half.

Many employees of labor, particularly the manufacturers, are taking a census of their staffs at the present time, in order to prepare information for the exemption boards which will commence work in a short time. There are about 10 or 15 per cent of the men employed in business houses and manufacturing establishments eligible for service, it is estimated, and the manufacturers are making notes as to the importance of these men to the output of the factory.

For instance, one firm has four men available for the first draft. To take these four men would cut the production of this concern from 50 to 60 per cent. The exemption board will be asked to allow these men to continue in their employment.

In another office, there are possibly eight or ten men who might be taken. The work of the institution is largely technical, and men of this calibre are almost impossible to obtain. The exemption boards will be asked to allow them to continue their work.

It is impossible to get the manufacturers to say what would be done. In every case, skilled mechanics will be held by the manufacturers if it is possible to hold them. The banking institutions will also ask that the more efficient and skilled accountants be retained. Insurance companies will request that men engaged in actuarial work be retained. Blacksmiths will be held where possible.

"We are making a census of our men," said a prominent manufacturer today. "We have been drained of mechanics, particularly skilled mechanics, and we will ask the board to allow us to retain all these men. They are a greater asset to Canada in our shops than they will be as soldiers, important as that is."

So far as can be learned, there is no concerted action among the manufacturers to outline a policy for presentation to the board, but the individuals will appear with specific statements regarding specific men.

The civil servants have all been ordered to report to the medical boards for examination. It cannot be learned what policy the Government will pursue in regard to these men. It is expected that all eligible men will be asked to enlist.

"We are just getting the details in shape," said Mr. Philip. "We have been accorded sympathetic support, and are expecting to have a successful campaign."

ISSUES WARNING TO OIL HEATER USERS

Fire Chief Cautions Them to See Burners Are Clean.

A warning is issued by Fire Chief John Aitken to citizens who use coal-oil heaters at this season of the year. Explosions of coaloil stoves, he says, are due in almost every instance to corrosion on the burners. This prevents the proper air currents circulating through the burner, and the result is an explosion.

At this season of the year before furnaces are brought into constant use, oil heaters are frequently used to remove the chill from certain rooms, and in view of this the fire chief cautions persons using them to see that the burners are free from corrosion.

The first coaloil heater to explode in the city this fall resulted in $50 damage at the home of R. H. Pring, 90 Linwood street, Tuesday afternoon.

COAL BYLAW VOTE PREPARATIONS NOW COMPLETED BY CLERK

Deputy Returning Officers Being Instructed Tomorrow.

WHO PAYS SCRUTINEERS?

No Provision in Statutes For Any Money, and Inquiry Starts.

Preparations for taking the vote on the coal bylaw on Saturday have been completed by City Clerk Baker. The ballot boxes have been filled, and at a meeting of the deputy-returning officers in the city hall, will be handed over to those authorities to receive them. The men will be instructed this evening in their work.

A meeting of scrutineers has been called for tomorrow evening. Some doubt has arisen as to the status of scrutineers. It has been the custom to appoint a number of them, but City Clerk Baker stated today that he could find no authority in the statute books for payment of these men.

The question will be looked into at once.

PAPER-MAKERS MAKE HANDSOME PROFIT BY SELLING IN TRE STATES

Ottawa, Oct. 3.—At the newsprint inquiry this morning the statements of the Abitibi Power and Paper Company and the Spanish River Pulp and Paper Company were considered, and the figures submitted showed that although they were compelled to supply newsprint for home consumption at the fixed price of the Government, the loss was more than overcome by the substantial price received in the United States.

The Abitibi Company manufactured paper in June last at a cost of $39.93 per ton, while sales were made in the United States at $63 per ton, leaving a very handsome profit. In the first quarter of this year the same company hold newsprint manufactured at a cost of $36 for $62. The Spanish River Company made newsprint in June last for $39.17, exclusive of interest, and R. P. Wilson, treasurer of the company, testified this morning that as high as $70 per ton was obtained in the United States. His claim that the interest charges per ton of newsprint made at this plant aggregated $13.48, caused the commissioner to ask a number of questions, especially in view of the fact that Geoffrey Clarkson, the commission's accountant, said the interest allowed the other plants per ton of newsprint was only from $5.50 to $7 per ton.

RUSH OF MEN TO FARMS IS MARKED, SAYS INSPECTOR

Eligibles Applying Every Day, According to Official.

PASSPORTS HELD UP

Men of Military Age Can Get No Permits To Cross Line Here.

"Young men eligible for military service are coming to me every day to be placed on farms. They put up such strong arguments that it takes a careful scrutiny of their cases to decide whether they should be made farmers or not." This was the reply of Immigration Inspector Riggs in answer to the question today as to whether many men are seeking to avoid military service by securing work on farms.

The inspector said that many young men claim to be expert farm hands when applying to him for positions, and a great many are sent to the employment bureau on the strength of their assertions. He does not think that the eligible men who have suddenly responded to the call of "Back to the land," following the announcement that the military service act would be enforced, will avoid compulsory service. He believes that they will all be located and forced into the army if necessary, but that the Government will experience some difficulty in finding them and determining whether or not they intentionally abandoned the city for the farm to escape the trenches.

Determined efforts are made by some young men to secure permits to cross the border and invariably the reasons advanced by them seem most logical. Every case is inquired into minutely, however, before passports are issued.

The inspector stated that he had received no official word from the Government prohibiting the issuing of permits to men of class A standing, but for months he has refused permits to men of military age even when the arguments advanced by them seem reasonable and their departure justified.

7TH NON-COM IS SECOND COUSIN OF NEW LORD MAYOR

Relative of Charles A. Hanson Sergeant of Details.

Sergt. R. J. Hanson of the 7th Regiment Details here is a second cousin of Charles A. Hanson, who recently became lord mayor of London. He was born in Fowey, Cornwall, which was also the lord mayor's birthplace, and until he came to this country six years ago, saw him frequently. Charles Hanson, when he returned from Canada, erected a magnificent country home at Fowey, the sergeant states, and it is now known as Fowey Hill. Built on a hill, it can be seen from every part of the small seaport, and is the pride of the district. Sergt. Hanson states that although his cousin's business necessitated his presence in London a greater part of the time, he often spent a week in his old home. His work, however, prevented him from establishing the same intimate relations which had prevailed when he left for Canada as a young man. He was always regarded as an exceptionally clever man by his fellow townsmen.

Sergt. Hanson, although he had been in the city six years, first as an employee of the waterworks department, and later as a fireman, he did not learn that his cousin had at one time resided here until press accounts mentioned the fact when his cousin became lord mayor.

Charles Hanson returned to England about sixteen years ago, and some time later became M. P. for southeast Cornwall.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

EPIDEMIC IN SCHOOL.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

When the measles broke out in our union school, the trustees notified the local health officer, and he refused to act, and now about half the children are either at home or at school with the measles.

The trustees being very popular, having so many pet friends, sit with their hands folded, and anything the village doctor orders seems to be taken as a joke. The principal encourages the children to come to school, measles and all.

Now, have the common people any protection for their children? If so, what? A SUBSCRIBER.

PEOPLE, PROTECTED BY FUEL CONTROLLER, WILL REFUSE TO INVEST IN SOFT COAL YARD

Mayor Church, of Toronto, Leading Public Ownership Exponent, Declares That Proper Course Is To Secure Protection Through Fixing of Prices, Not by Squandering of Taxes On Hopeless Project.

Having failed to secure a supply of hard coal with which to maintain a municipal fuel yard, Toronto has concluded that the best and only adequate means of providing protection for the domestic consumer is that which requires no investment on the part of the taxpayer—action on the part of the Canadian Government fuel controller. This is the information conveyed in a message received in this city yesterday.

Mayor Thomas L. Church of the Queen City, who has been one of the foremost public ownership workers in the country, and who has come to this city repeatedly to join the festivities of the followers of Sir Adam Beck, declares that it is now his opinion that "PRICES SHOULD BE FIXED BY THE FUEL CONTROLLER."

Mayor Church was asked if Toronto had been able to secure a supply of hard coal for municipal yards, and if he believed that London would have any success in such an undertaking. His reply is that, notwithstanding the efforts that have been put forward in that city, and the heavy expenditure that has been involved in these efforts, "Toronto has bought coal only for its OWN CIVIC PURPOSES, AND HAS NOT OPENED MUNICIPAL YARDS."

COAL DIFFICULTY IS A TRANSPORTATION PROBLEM.

Moreover, Mayor Church's study of the question as it affects not only his own city, but the whole of this territory, is that "THE FUEL QUESTION IS LARGELY A TRANSPORTATION PROBLEM."

Toronto sent a deputation of her purchasing commissioners and her council representatives to the mines of the anthracite field, and found that it was absolutely impossible to buy one pound of coal for a municipal yard.

That is what the Canadian Fuel Controller meant when he told Stratford that there was nothing that a city could do that would result either in increasing the supply or reducing the price. Stratford considered the establishment of a municipal yard, and went to the man whose business it is to advise the people in their coal problems. And on his advice, STRATFORD DROPPED THE MUNICIPAL FUEL YARD SCHEME.

London sent a so-called investigator to the mines to bring back contracts for a supply of hard coal, and he brought back none. Those who are fathering the scheme admit that they must fail, as Toronto has failed, but they seek to persuade the people to spend their $25,000 of borrowed money anyway, and to stock the yard with soft coal. Wherein can such a scheme benefit the householder in his domestic fuel difficulties is the question that has been given no answer.

$25,000 CAN BUY ONLY SOFT COAL YARD.

The only coal offered to London thus far is "pea" coal—but not hard pea coal. It is soft coal, and its use forced the directors of a local institution to equip their boilers with smoke consumers. The ring of the coal mine operators in the United States has flatly refused to sell to any municipality, and London is in the same boat with the rest. But such a situation does not concern the spenders who seek only the chance to handle more of the taxpayers' money, even in face of the fact that there are now TWO MILLION DOLLARS WORTH OF UNSOLD CITY OF LONDON DEBENTURES on the hands of the city treasurer, a drag on the property-owner and a source of alarm to those who have looked into the latest statement of the city's financial condition. Though the tax rate is the highest in the history of the municipality, it threatens to go still higher, and the rueful prophecy is made at the city hall that a FORTY-MILL TAX RATE NEXT YEAR is not beyond the bounds of possibility.

"Certainly," declared one of London's leading real estate owners, "half-baked schemes like this soft coal yard enterprise are the kind that make the people who have to meet the tax bills sweat blood."

CIVIC FUEL YARD LOST MONEY BEFORE.

Those who have gone into the situation point to London's experience in a previous undertaking of the kind, for it is not many years ago since the council launched into a fuel yard scheme, and dropped $1,800 of the taxpayers' money in a few months. That yard was a small proposition compared with the undertaking that the job-hunters and self-seeking politicians who are interested in the present scheme have in view, and the risk of loss is correspondingly greater now.

The most suspicious fact to those who have looked at the scheme in no other light is that those who are behind the project are in the main men who are absolutely without standing in the community, and who have never accomplished anything in the interests of the people. On the other hand, the real leaders of the people, those whose judgment has been followed in some of the greatest enterprises into which London has ever launched, have not a word of commendation for the plan. The declaration is even made that the situation is clear that "TORONTO CAN NOT GET HARD COAL, AND NEITHER CAN LONDON. IF THE PEOPLE ARE PREPARED TO TRY TO BURN SOFT COAL IN THEIR HOMES, THERE MAY BE SOME JUSTIFICATION FOR SUPPORTING THE COAL YARD BYLAW."

But the people of London have never yet been reduced to burning soft coal, and that they should be forced to make use of fuel that is intended only for use in high-pressure steam boilers, equipped with smoke consumers, is beyond the bounds of possibility.

FUEL CONTROLLER GUARANTEES PROTECTION.

Fuel Controller Magrath has pledged his word that he will use the authority which the Government has vested in him to protect the people from profiteering if the retail dealers attempt it.

"THE PEOPLE LOOK TO ME FOR PROTECTION, AND PROTECTION THEY SHALL HAVE," was his ultimatum to the London dealers when he conducted an inquiry into conditions in this city a few weeks since.

He has issued an order that rates must not be advanced without his sanction, and already he has brought down the big stick where the people were not fairly treated. He has fixed the price of coal in Vancouver, and will take similar action wherever it is needed. A complaint addressed to him in the simplest communication will bring results without the expenditure of a penny.

In the face of such conditions, the property-owners of London will undoubtedly kill the soft coal yard bylaw when it comes to a vote on Saturday next.—Advertisement.

TIME TO TAKE REFERENDUM HAS BEEN FRITTERED AWAY AT OTTAWA

WHEN Sir Wilfrid Laurier declared himself opposed to conscription of the manpower of Canada without an opportunity, in the form of a referendum, being given the people to declare their attitude upon the question, his stand was condemned on the ground that a referendum would take too much time when every second's delay was serious. Sir Robert Borden and his followers refused to consider the proposal of the leader of the Opposition, and they were supported by many Liberals and Conservatives, who were misled into believing that the Government plan would be quicker and that help would be forthcoming for the boys at the front in much shorter time without a referendum.

Time has shown Sir Wilfrid Laurier right and the Government absolutely insincere. Had those Liberals and loyal Conservatives dreamed that so much time would be frittered away by Sir Robert without anything being accomplished, they would have declared for a referendum in the first place, and really saved the precious days and weeks. They did not wish to deny the electorate a chance to state its mind; they only wanted haste, and they have been disappointed, bitterly disappointed.

Sir Alan Aylesworth points this out in his powerful letter, announcing that Sir Wilfrid Laurier has his whole-hearted support. He says, speaking of the referendum: "But it was argued this would never do—there is not time. The months which have already passed since then have shown that there was time."

On May 18, Sir Robert Borden announced in the House that he would introduce the conscription bill. Shortly after that he carried out his promise. On October 3 practically nothing has been done to supply those reserves which the Canadians in France so sorely need. Nearly five months have gone, and the local tribunals have not yet been completed; not for another month at least will the formation of the new army be begun.

But, some will say, the Government has tried to hurry, as witness the application of the closure. Has it? Did this passion for haste manifest itself when the conscription act was temporarily laid aside in order that the C. N. R. purchase steal might make headway? Was not the Government more anxious for time-saving in the case of the bill which might provide election campaign funds than in that of the act which was to bring help to the heroes who battled in Flanders and in France? The closure was applied in order that the falseness of the Government should not be too loudly proclaimed.

The bill was passed at length, and became law. Now came Premier Borden's great opportunity to push along organization and enlistment. But he failed to seize it, as he has failed so often. Delay succeeded delay; his old failing of procrastination was emphasized. Now the elections draw near, and the country is informed by the Tory Government and press that there is only one issue, that the electorate must not consider anything but conscription. No time for a referendum, but time five or six or seven months later for an election on the same question!

Has this delay been merely the result of lack of that driving power, for which a former cabinet minister lauded himself, or has it had a sinister purpose, which now appears for all to see? The election must be fought on conscription, say the Conservatives. Why? Because if fought on the Government's record, the C. N. R. purchase, the gerrymander of recent date, etc., etc., the Government is doomed. If the people are permitted to remember these things, they will turn in loathing from the Borden Government and protect themselves from similar iniquitous legislation in the future. Therefore conscription must be kept to the front as an election issue, and every effort must be made to eliminate every other consideration. The fact that, being the law of the land, it can no longer be an issue is ignored. Why, says Sir Robert, trouble about facts when fiction is so valuable to us?

The Borden Government refused at the beginning to trust in the people. It feared to place the decision concerning compulsory military service in the hands of those who were to be affected. It did not frankly say this but urged the need for haste, and on this false cry it gained support. The people have witnessed the manner in which President Wilson moved towards raising an army; they have seen him set in motion all necessary machinery, draft his soldiers and put them in training within a few weeks. They have contrasted this with Borden's methods, and the growl of disapproval has been heard in Ottawa. The premier and his colleagues realize their mistake now. They have no record on which they dare face the people, so they must find an "issue." They will insist that they are now asking the people to vote, not on party lines or on anything else except on conscription. "Did we do well to pass the conscription act? If you think we did, support us and forget all besides; if you do not think our way right, support us and have it nullified." That is the kind of appeal that is made.

It is apparent that under Sir Wilfrid's plan the people could have been consulted, the tribunals formed and thousands of men could have been in training by this time. The delay has been caused by this "hurrying" cabinet of talkers. Tory pretence cannot blind an intelligent nation any longer.

THE PROBLEM OF THE BOYS.

THE son of a certain rich man was in the garden of his father. The boy was just budding into that stage between babyhood and adolescence which might best be called interrogative. He was a human question mark. He wanted to find out things, things apart from parlors and libraries. But he was a very much governess-ed and supervised little boy. It was a mistake that he was in the garden talking to the gardener.

"Let me have your shovel?" he asked the gardener.

"Sure I will, laddie, but that's a spade and not a shovel," said the gardener. And then the gardener went on to explain the difference. And the boy asked other questions, and the gardener found rich comfort in opening up the mysteries of nature and the workaday world to the little cross-examiner. Just then his mother came to the door. "Come on to your lesson this minute," she called. And the boy went inside. And the door closed. And the governess took him in hand. The process of making the natural product of God into a first-class prig was under way again. The gardener went on with his work.

The other boy down the street was hanging around a barn where delivery boys congregated. He was the same age as the protected boy. The other boy was smoking at the butt of a cigarette, and he had mastered the difficulties of the "inhale." The air was filled with the coarseness that soon corrodes and hardens the fine fibres. A sister came to tell this second boy to come home and do some honest chores around his mother's house. But this boy "ducked" behind the side of a stall, and the other lads grinned and told the sister they had not seen him.

Neither of these boys has much of a chance to "come through clean," and anyone who believes the boy is not father of the man need only turn his thoughts inwardly. The one is a petted, guarded, restrained, shut-in little creature, and the other is doomed to a life of misunderstanding and being misunderstood. Too much liberty and not enough liberty sums it up. The one bursts bonds eventually and the other twig is inclined with such great pressure of companion influence that the warp can never be entirely straightened. That is why the pulpits ring with denunciations of vice. Private schools and no schools at all. No regulation or nothing but regulation. When the time comes for the people of Canada to dwell upon matters such as were discussed by Dr. Beal before the Rotary Club on Monday they must get back to original sources, and all children must be given the chance to learn, to learn intelligently. In the schools lies the hope of the future, and for that reason let it be hoped the great profession of teaching soon begins to assume its proper function and to be given its proper valuation by the people.

NICKLE AND BENNETT RETIRE.

THE two Conservative members of Parliament who stood alone among their fellow-members against the C. N. R. swindle are now out of politics. They are W. F. Nickle of Kingston and R. B. Bennett of Calgary. It is possible that their retirement, after the cramming through of the purchase, that will probably cause the country to spend or assume the sum of $653,000,000, had no connection with their decision to step out of the coming election. At any rate, they are the only two who opposed the deal, and they are withdrawing, although both are known as strong candidates of value to any administration.

It is a good omen in Canadian public life that men withdraw from party when party, in their opinion, has been false to its duty. And it is highly significant that the disintegration of any government is usually preceded by such defections as those of Messrs. Nickle and Bennett. Liberalism may not secure their assistance in setting forth the nefarious character of the C. N. R. legislation, but the sound old maxim that "actions speak louder than words" will not be lost on the country at this time.

Wilson's definition of pacifists, "those who love every country but their own," should go down to posterity.

Nothing, even in the deeds of food profiteers, could be meaner than robbing the poor on pretence of giving them cheap coal.

Montreal Board of Trade wants city government by commission, and from a distant view of that city's council doings no one will blame it.

Ald. Copp shows judgment when he inquires if the assurance that the Government would build a military hospital on the Odell farm is sufficient to warrant purchase of the site, or if it is on a par with the assurance regarding the federal square. That last is not forgotten.

A dispatch states the kaiser has placed many valuable jewels at the disposal of the Reichbank, with instructions to use them to lessen Germany's obligations in foreign countries. Very fine, but he has many valuable estates and stocks in foreign lands which he retains in case of eventualities. What does he own in Canada, for instance?

PUBLICITY IN DIPLOMACY.

[London Daily Telegraph.]

Let us have much greater frankness in foreign policy. Frankness will doubtless create new difficulties, but these cannot be so fraught with peril as a system of secrecy, which practically committed Great Britain to participation in the next European war without her being aware of it and without the necessary preparations being made. It is for the Government to find the best means of taking the public into their confidence, so that it shall never again be possible for an ex-minister like Lord Haldane to say, after the event, that he and the Government had long known that war was inevitable, while before the event those who shared that opinion were denounced as scaremongers.

A DIVINE PURPOSE IN HISTORY

First of a Series of Extracts From a Notable Article by the Late Hon. David Mills, K.C., P.C.

A DIVINE PURPOSE.

In April, 1895, when the late Honorable David Mills, K.C., P.C., was editor in charge of The London Advertiser, he wrote an article referring to a future great war. That article was published in The London Advertiser and the Canadian Magazine.

The references Mr. Mills then made make interesting reading today. The Advertiser will reproduce five extracts from that article.

No. 1.—A Divine Purpose in History.
No. 2.—Why a Nation Leads.
No. 3.—Why England Still Leads.
No. 4.—United States' Future Bound Up With England.
No. 5.—England's danger and summary of benefits of Anglo-Saxon Unity.

Mr. Mills had a mind well stored with knowledge. He had an extraordinary memory. He was very thoughtful and reasoned accurately on all questions. His comments made over twenty years ago will be found interesting today. We publish the first extract in today's issue.

"A DIVINE PURPOSE IN HISTORY."

Extract No. 1, from magazine article on the future great war, written by the late Honorable David Mills, K.C., P.C., in April, 1895. "A Divine Purpose in History.":

It is a common observation that nations, like persons, have their periods of growth, maturity and decay. But Burke wisely observes that nations are not physical, but moral persons. They do not belong to the same sphere of existence as individuals, and it is altogether a false analogy to suppose that they are necessarily subject to the same vicissitudes of being. The fact, however, remains, that hitherto there has been a succession of leading states, each of which rose to greatness, held the first place for a time, and then declined. The subject, then, which we are called upon to consider, is one of great importance to us. At this hour we belong to the dominant race, and whether or not we are to have more than our brief hour upon the stage of history is a question which must be, for our race, of the very deepest interest.

I say that the whole history of the world shows that there has been a succession of dominant races, and of nations, each of which has served to carry humanity forward a certain distance, to spread itself abroad by force of arms, to impose its thoughts and opinions upon a considerable portion of mankind, to exhaust its energies in the operation, and, after a period of some confusion, to sink into a subordinate position, and to have its place wrested from it by some other nation of another race.

The history of nations can have no other foundation than human nature. This, though everywhere the same is everywhere modified by the varying strength of the elements of which it is composed. These variations are due to the character of the national environments. Some men are nations in miniature. We can point out individuals who are representative men of their times—of their nation—types of their race; and its whole history is exhibited in their lives. Psychology, for this reason, finds its most perfect expression in history. There we see the virtues and the vices, the intellectual weakness of a people. The acts of the rulers, the political constitution of the state, and the aims of the public policy, are but expressions of the strength and the weakness of the moral and intellectual character of the people.

I assure that there is a divine purpose in history, and that the life of the state is dependent mainly on the moral stamina of its people. I assume that no state has perished that deserved to survive. In order to comprehend the status of a nation we ask ourselves for what purpose it exists? What special contribution is it making, or is it likely to make, to the progress of humanity? If it does not represent some specific idea and purpose? If it is not holding a large space in the well-being of mankind, its existence, as a leading state, would be unintelligible. The events by which it is developed would promote no common purpose and could contribute to no common end. Its national life would be without unity of design, and could lead up to no definite result.

STUDENT HELP.

By Jane Osborn.

Ursula had watched the principal guest of the evening with interest. It was the new instructor of physchology, Jerrold Greig, who was being considered for the vacancy in Prof. Judson's department at Brompton College. He had come from one of the larger eastern colleges and brought with him, and very obviously showed in his manner and bearing, considerably more of urbanity than was possessed by most members of the Brompton College faculty. At the head of the table sat Prof. Judson and at the other end Mrs. Judson, presiding over the teacups for Brompton families still drank tea with their evening meal, and had the tea service spread before the mistress of the house in as stately array as the meat platter and carving things were spread at the other end of the table before the host. The rule of etiquette that directs the hostess to seat her man guest of honor at her right and the woman guest of honor at the host's right apparently did not trouble the Judsons, for Mr. Jerrold Greig sat where it was most convenient for the professor to talk with him at his own right, and Mr. Greig's elder sister—for this sister, who, in the event that Mr. Greig received the appointment, would be the head of his household, had come with him—sat at Mrs. Judson's left. Grandfather and Grandmother Judson had their usual places on the other side of the tables, and Rodney Judson, Prof. Judson's eldest son, who had but recently graduated from Brompton, sat between the young aspirant and his sister.

So there were a good many dishes for one small pair of hands to wash unaided and a good many pots and pans had had to be used in preparation for the meal, and in Mrs. Judson's household pots and pans however stubbornly they had resisted the first ablutions, were never left "to soak" till the next day.

So Ursula was still at her work when the clock on the kitchen shelf pointed to 9 o'clock. She heard a creaking sound toward the back stairs and wished that the light of the solitary oil lamp shed a more far-reaching glow. Then a door distinctly opened. Yes, it was the back stairs door, and a man's figure that was neither that of Prof. Judson nor his son came out of the shadow. It was the young eastern professor, and he stepped toward Ursula with a degree of embarrassment that was not in very good keeping with the appearance of perfect self-possession and poise that he had shown at dinner.

"I just thought maybe you would give me a glass of water," he began as Ursula leveled her eyes at him in unfeigned surprise. "Mrs. Judson, I guess, forgot to put any in my room, and I didn't want to bother any of the people upstairs," he fabricated, and then more truthfully: "These country college folk certainly go to bed with the chickens."

"They always drink the spigot water," Ursula commented with a voice that marked no inflection. Even from the shadow in which Mr. Greig was standing she could see that he was watching her with an interest that was not entirely necessary.

She moved toward the tray, where stood a neat array of perfectly shining glasses, and took one.

"Too bad to have to use a clean one," objected the professor. "I remember when we were youngsters the cook at home used to make us drink out of a tin cup—hated to have to polish extra tumblers, you know."

Ursula made no comment, filled a glass and handed it to the intruder.

"But, then, that cook was very cross," said the man, trying to make his voice sound perfectly self-possessed, but not succeeding, "and this cook isn't cross, is she?"

Still Ursula made no comment.

Jerrold Greig drank the water, for which he had no thirst, and then watched Ursula intently as she continued her task at the sink.

"I used to help that cook of ours dry dishes," he prevaricated, "and I don't see why I shouldn't help you. Every one has gone to bed and I am supposed to be in my room—no one will know." He had taken a towel from the rack and had begun to dry one of the pans that Ursula had just washed. "Do you know," he ventured, encouraged because Ursula had not repulsed his effort at helpfulness, "do you know, you are the most extraordinarily pretty girl I've seen in a long time. I noticed you the first thing we went into the dining-room—couldn't keep my eyes off from you, and I fancy I made a jumble of what I said to the professor just because I was so intent on watching you."

"You seemed perfectly self-possessed," commented the girl, without a smile. "I should judge that you are one of the sort that usually does keep a good deal of self-possession."

A pause followed, and then Greig, taking another pan from the draining rack, got back to his first track. "You are really too pretty. A girl as pretty as you are has no place in a kitchen. In the place I come from she wouldn't stay in a hole like this for a minute. Hands like yours weren't made for this sort of thing." Then, as the next pan was transferred from the soapy dish water to the draining rack, he tried to seize the slim white hand that held it, but, thanks to the soap and water, it slid easily from his grasp back into the suds.

Then there was a silence broken only by the splashing of the water in Ursula's dishpan; and Ursula's deep blue eyes, as she washed pots and pans with unwelcome assistant at her side, penetrated deep through the dish water into the regions of brown study beyond.

"A penny for your thoughts," was the way the young professor broke the silence.

"I was wondering whether you knew anything about the girls in the college out here. You know it is a coeducational place."

"I'm not especially anxious to meet them," sighed Greig. "A man doesn't care much for that sort of girl—brains don't count for much in women—not half so much as a pretty face like yours." He was looking intently at Ursula who for one fleeting second was tempted to rub the self-satisfied smile from his face with one swoop of her soapy dish cloth. Instead she looked at the kitchen clock. The hands pointed to a quarter after nine. She knew Rodney would be back from his call on the college president in a few minutes and until that time she could manage the professor-elect alone.

She assumed a yielding smile of coquetry. "Oh, some of the girls aren't so bad looking," she said. "Some of the poor farmers' daughters take places in the professors' families. In return for working three or four hours a day they get their board and keep and they eat with the families—all except when there is extra company. They call them 'student helps.'"

For a moment the young man looked alarmed. "You don't happen to be one of those girls?" he asked hurriedly. To flirt with a girl who might later be a student in one of his classes and who possessed the dignity of being a candidate for a college degree was quite another thing from passing a few otherwise dull moments with a forlorn little kitchen maid, whose youthful charms happened to take his fancy.

"I don't look it, do I?" asked Ursula in a way that dispelled the instructor's anxieties.

"Of course, you don't," he assured her. "When I get this job out here in the fall I'm going to manage somehow to see more of you. Perhaps my sister will get you to work for her instead of the Judsons. No one need know that I arranged it, and somehow we can manage to have a few good times together. I see you aren't going to be cross with me, are you?"

"Then you are really going to get the appointment?" Ursula asked with feigned enthusiasm over the prospect.

"Surely. Did you hear me pulling the wool over the old man's eyes? I did manage to make a good impression, even if you, you little beauty, were doing your best to rattle me. The only person standing in the way of me, I understand, was that son of the professor's, Rodney Judson. And, of course, he wouldn't stand any show against me, even with his own father."

Young Mr. Greig had abandoned the task of assistant and stood very close to the girl's side, where he could see every gradation in the coral tints that came and went in her cheeks under his gaze.

"Good-night, Mr. Greig," she said as she heard the first footfall of Rodney Judson outside.

"You won't send me away without a better good-night than that—" that was what the young instructor intended to say, but he never said it, for before he could say more than two syllables Rodney Judson stood before him in the kitchen. He made a badly-calculated step toward the backstairs.

"Don't hurry away," said Ursula very sweetly, turning to the professor's son, who was in the kitchen by this time. "Rodney, Mr. Greig has been down to get a glass of water. Mr. Greig, it will do no harm to tell you that Mr. Judson and I are engaged—though as yet we have not told even Rodney's parents. I am sure we can depend on your confidence. I was just telling Mr. Grieg about our system of student helps, and I was going to explain to him that if it were not for that system I would never have had a chance of coming to college or of meeting you, Rodney."

"Splendid idea," stammered Mr. Grieg. "By all means, you can trust me," and then, seizing the empty tumbler, he hurried up the backstairs.

"Good news," said Rodney when they were alone. "The president decided against Grieg when he saw him this afternoon. Wouldn't give his reasons. And he called me over tonight to tell me he would give me the appointment instead. Too bad for poor Grieg, but it means we won't have to wait many months more. Of course, they'll pay Grieg's expenses out here, but I am sorry for him. He didn't seem like a bad sort, did you think so?"

"I don't believe he would ever have fitted in here at Brompton," Ursula commented. "He wasn't just exactly our sort." And being wiser than her years, Ursula never had another comment to make on the rejected instructor.

LOST APPETITE POOR BLOOD

C. E. Sapper Says Dr. Cassell's Tablets Best Tonic Anyone Can Take For Weakness.

Sapper A. Hartley, Canadian Engineers (home address, 906 Trafalgar street, London, Ont.), says: "I used Dr. Cassell's Tablets when I was in the South African War and, finding benefit, have taken them since whenever I felt rundown. In my opinion they are the best tonic anyone can take for loss of appetite, poorness of the blood, and general weakness of the system. A Drop On a Touchy Corn Instant relief! Then corn or callus lifts off with fingers.

Just think! You can lift off any corn or callous without one twinge of pain.

A Cincinnati man discovered this ether compound and named it freezone. Any druggist will sell a tiny bottle of freezone for very little cost. You apply a few drops directly upon a tender corn or callous. Instantly the soreness disappears, then shortly you will find the corn or callous so loose that you can lift it right off.

Freezone is wonderful. It dries instantly. It doesn't eat away the corn or callous, but shrivels it up without even irritating the skin.

Hard corns, soft corns, or corns between the toes, as well as painful callouses, lift right off. There is no pain before or afterwards. No soreness or smarting. Women should keep a tiny bottle on the dresser and never let a corn ache twice.

PAINS SHARP AND STABBING

Woman Thought She Would Die. Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Ogdensburg, Wis.—"I suffered from female troubles which caused piercing pains like a knife through my back and side. I finally lost all my strength so I had to go to bed. The doctor advised an operation, but I would not listen to it. I thought of what I had read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and tried it. The first bottle brought great relief and six bottles have entirely cured me. All women who have female trouble of any kind should try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. Etta Dorion, Ogdensburg, Wis.

Physicians undoubtedly did their best, battled with this case steadily and could do no more, but often the most scientific treatment is surpassed by the medicinal properties of the good old-fashioned roots and herbs contained in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If any complication exists it pays to write the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Company, Lynn, Mass., for special free advice.

McDonald, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. C. H. Westman of Windsor, Rev. J. T. Marshall officiating. The marriage was performed in the presence of only the immediate relatives of the contracting parties. The bride was prettily attired in a traveling suit of blue broadcloth, with seal cape, and large picture hat to match, and carried a bouquet of bridal roses. Following the ceremony a buffet luncheon was served, the tea-room artistically decorated with pink and white flowers. KEEP A RECORD

The attempt to hold in the memory the endless details of numbers of yards and widths and possible methods of piecings, for the garments at home for one's family needs, is as poor efficiency as the effort to "swallow the cook-book whole." Either burdens the brain sells unnecessarily, and so pushes out far more vital things that ought to be given their precedence over such mere mechanical data.

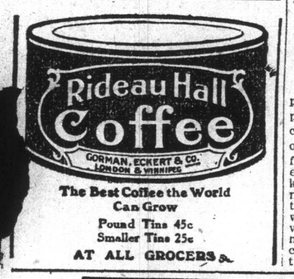

And yet—one has to know which pattern was used for those little petticoats, made in the spring of last year, and how much edging was used for them, and which rolls of white cambric contains the odd pieces from them, for letting down and refacing the hems. There are so many small rolls of white cambric and nainsook in one's piece trunk—and no two exactly of the same weave. And if the Mother Person could only remember the number of the embroidery cotton used for the little eyelet embroidering on Big Sister's smock, that kept its tint so well—so that more of the same color and weight could be purchased out certainty, for Lassie's pretty afternoon frocks.

Patterns get mislaid, or the fragile tissue paper is torn and crumpled. A year may go by without a call for the especial one held so essential—and then —where is it? And what was its number? And how many yards was it found to need? How many inches saved by just that one piecing down the back? And will the remnant one runs across unexpectedly be enough for the blouse for Boy John?

The answer to all these things lies in keeping, for constant record, a "sewing-room book," in which a journal of materials bought can be kept, as well as one of the patterns bought, with number and name of publisher, and particulars of cutting out, that will often save several yards when a second batch of garments is to be cut from the same pattern. This record should be made at the time of cutting out and sewing, while all the details of making, widths and qualities are fresh in the mind. If there is a way by which economy in cutting can be gained, it should be put down, without delay. And the roll of pieces should be labelled to correspond with the page in the book, where the record of the garments made from that particular fabric is to be found.

One page of this journal should be given to the measurements of each grown-up in the family. Glove and stocking sizes should be kept here; chest and waist measures, skirt lengths and shoe numbers; collar sizes and hat measurements. The children's records may well be allowed more room, as they vary through the months. When these are set down, the date should be noted, so that allowance for growth may be made, and each new measurement should be recorded without fail. This record has an especial and occult value —around Christmas time, or when birthdays loom ahead. To be able to know for certain just what size gloves or silk socks or shirtwaists will fit some one dear member of the family, without having to lead up to the subject and find out by casual accident, will often solve quite troublesome problems for young, as well as older gift-givers.

Now if the Mother Person will make out for herself a memorandum in her shopping book of the amounts of material needed for the average garment for each member of the family, and of the hosiery and glove numbers fitting each one of them, and make this list an occupant of her hand-bag, she will always be ready to take advantage of real bargain sales (and they do exist), knowing definitely that this length of chambray can be made into a smock for Jean, that remnant of embroidery be entirely adequate for Lassie's aprons, and that the pairs of stout stockings will be the right number for Boy John —without having had to load her brain with endless figures, in order to shop as shopping should be done.

Gingered Apples and Apple Jelly.

Two and one-half pounds apples, pared, cored and chopped fine, add 2½ pounds sugar, grated yellow rind, and chopped pulp of one large lemon (none of the white part), one level teaspoonful of ground ginger. Cook slowly several hours till apple is clear. Keep the kettle covered and stir often. The skins may be used for jelly made with gelatine. Cook the skins in one pint of water, strain and pour hot on one envelope of phosphated gelatine, which has soaked five minutes in one cup of cold water, add half-cup of sugar, stir till sugar is dissolved. A little pink coloring may be used. Served cold with cream.

Apple-Rice Pudding.

Boil one-quarter cup rice in two cups of water, and one-quarter teaspoonful of salt, till water is absorbed and rice tender. Then add half-cup of brown or maple sugar, and pour over three medium-sized cooking apples, which have been pared, cored, quartered and put in a buttered baking dish. Bake (covered) till apples are tender (about one hour). Serve warm with cream or butter.

* * *

Apple Corncake.

Beat two eggs, add one cup milk, one cup fine cornmeal, one cup white flour (pastry), four level teaspoons baking powder, half-teaspoonful salt, 3 tablespoons melted butter. Put in shallow baking pan and over the top put apples, pared, cored, quartered, pressing the narrow edge into the dough enough to cover the top of dough; mix half-cup sugar with half-teaspoonful cinnamon and sprinkle over apples, dot with bits of butter and bake till apples are done and the cake a nice golden brown. Serve warm with butter as a tea-cake, or with cream for a dessert. Also good cold. Halved peaches may be used instead of apples.

* * *

Escalloped Apple.

Two cups apple which have been pared, and either cut in small pieces of chopped; one cup bread crumbs passed through chopper; melt half-cup butter and pour over the crumbs, allowing them to absorb all possible. Butter the baking dish, put in a layer of crumbs, one of apple, just a dash of sugar and cinnamon. Use up apples and crumbs. Cover at first and bake slowly. Delicious with maple syrup or caramel sauce.

Sauce—Half-cup brown sugar, one teaspoonful butter, half-cup boiling water. Allow to simmer. Flavor with lemon or cinnamon.

Cynthia Grey's Mail-Box

A Canadian Girl.

Dear Cynthia Grey,—May I ask a question or two?

1. Are little hats and wide-brimmed hats going to be worn this fall and winter?

2. What do the following names mean? Marguerite, Nora, Mary, George, Vernon, Varna and Bessie. Will sign myself A CANADIAN GIRL.

Ans.—I asked at a well-known local hat shop the other day which was the leading greatest vogue, small or large hats. The lady in charge promptly said "Small. We sell a great many small hats this year, toques with feather mounts, velvet tam o' shanter effects, and small-rimmed sailors. But, of course, the large, wide-brimmed hat always comes in for a share of popularity. And we sell many to town women, who seem to consider them smarter than the small hat for afternoon street wear."

2. Marguerite means "a pearl, or precious"; Nora, a contraction of Honoria, which means "honor." Mary —did you not see the letter from "Extorris" in issue of Thursday last? George, "a landowner"; Vernon and Verna, probably derived from "vernal," or another meaning for Verna is "true woman"; Bessie (Elizabeth), "consecrated."

Of Course We Remember.

Sussex, England.

Dear Friends,—It's so long ago since I've written to you that perhaps you've forgotten me, but here I am again, quite a distance away from the place I wrote from last. You'll notice the address is "Blighty," but I wish it were "Canada," and so do the rest of the boys over here.

How is the Page coming on now? I wonder if I'd ever recognize any of the names of those writing now. I'm sure none would hardly remember mine.

Well, England is some place all right, although I like Scotland better. I had my leave for six days there, and there's only one place I would have enjoyed better, and you all know where that is. The scenery is certainly grand, hills and valleys all the way, just the kind you read about, but very seldom see.

I received a letter from "Reta Romaine" just lately, and you can thank her for this letter—that is, if you count it a pleasure, because at the time I was too busy to write anyone. I must say, Miss Grey, that you have some very nice girls who write to you. Believe me, I enjoy their letters, especially "Reta Romaine's" and "Silver Bell's," and I hope they see this and write more.

Well, I must say good-bye now and get to work. I'll write more again when I have the chance, and in the meantime I wish the Mail-Box all success and prosperity. Couldn't you write me a letter yourself, Miss Grey? I'm sure I'd be delighted to get one, and to see you sign your right name, although I think I know it now. There's one secret gone. I wonder if I'll ever be able to keep anything to myself? Well, au revoir. Best regards. One of Cynthia's soldier boys. LAURIE.

September 10, 1917.

Ans.—It WAS a pleasure to get your letter "Laurie," I assure you, and "Reta R." should have a vote of thanks for reminding you to write. "Silver Bell" is evidently a deserter, it's so long since she wrote us. But we still have some of the old friends with us, and no doubt many of the silent ones will recollect "Laurie."

Someone Must Plow.

Dear Cynthia,—Do they call you Cynthia in their first letters, or should I say Miss Grey? If so I hope you will forgive me, I have been reading the letters for so long that "Cynthia" seems the most appropriate. Don't criticize my writing, please. I am sure you won't when I tell you that I have a 24-pound, four-months-old baby boy on my knee, snatching and grabbing at the pen. I have another dear little curly-headed boy of two. He is out with his daddy helping(?) to hitch up the horses. His daddy is not in khaki, and let me say that neither is he a shirker. He is a FARMER, and he is just as necessary to the country as the man in khaki. Someone said in your column the other day that the conscripts should all (did she say labelled or marked, or what word did she use?) Does she think there are not as brave men here in Canada as in France or England just because it fell to their lot to do their duty in some other way than by fighting? There will be just as brave men among the conscripts as ever crossed the water. I don't deny that it takes more courage to fight than it does to plow, but somebody has to plow or the fighting man will starve.

I was looking over the war menus last night, and thought how nice it would be if we could only have some of those delicious things mentioned. That apple sauce for supper—oh that apple sauce! And fresh fruit for breakfast. My! We have the strawberry vine, raspberry bushes and apple trees, but nix the fruit. And those two meatless days they talk about. Say, Cynthia, some of us would be very glad if we could have two meat days in a week (nuff sed?). May I ask what has become of Mutt and Jeff. Have they really and truly for sure gone to the war, or has Bud himself gone? I imagine I see the W. P. B. So good-bye, Cynthia. With love and good wishes to all.

MIS CELLANEOUS.

Ans.—What a boy that twenty-four pounder must be! Would be a grand advertisement for Blank's Food, or do you just rear him on common sense?

It is interesting to hear various comments on these war menus. In some households they will be considered fairly simple; in others decidedly the opposite. Certainly this year the once despised apple sauce is a rare dish and one to be coveted. Mr. Fisher should soon return from his vacation; then watch for the reappearance of Mutt and Jeff ere long.

A Plea for Modesty.

Dear Miss Grey,—I am inclosing $2 for the poor prisoners of war. How we do pray for the war to cease. I love to read the letters where the mothers take an interest in teaching their little ones in the way of truth. One can't begin too soon to start their little feet in the way of life. If mothers would be modest, and teach their girls to be modest, in many ways the world would be better. The time has come when man looks at a woman with suspicion if she is a stranger. If she is modest, no harm will come to her. I think ministers ought to preach on such things more than they do. Miss Grey I want to send something to help the comforts for the soldiers. Please let me know where to send it. I will sign,

A MOTHER OF A SOLDIER BOY.

Ans.—I'm glad to hear somebody putting in a plea for modesty. Somehow it's a word we hear used less and less in this age of peek-a-boo blouses and abbreviated skirts—even on the grandmas! By comforts for the soldiers, I don't just know if you mean for the overseas lads or for those at Byron, and if it is money or dainties you wish to send. Fruit, eggs, etc., may be sent to Hyman Hall, London; money donations to Red Cross treasurer, at the same address. Your gift to our prisoners' fund acknowledged with thanks.

A Contrast.

Dear Miss Grey,—If you resent my arrival at the Mail-Box so soon again, you may just fasten the door and keep me out, or if I happen to slip in unbeknownst to ye, please shove me out the window.

A letter written by "Blabskite" re the London sideshows has caused my hasty return. I also was a visitor of the fair, and about the first thing we ran up against was a SHOW, no doubt, the same one that "B." refers to. Its exterior allurements were extremely disgusting, to say the least. The whole thing was nothing but a great big BLOT, and its presence on the grounds a proof of the laxity of London's police. I would just love to have seen those sickening, painted creatures horsewhipped off the grounds, and those husky, sensual-looking managers prodded clean to the firing lines. That's just an outburst of righteous indignation. Soon after passing this obnoxious place, we came to a large tent, from which issued strains of gospel singing. A gentleman stepped out and invited us in to rest and I thought how refreshing it was after the other scene.

Has that other "Rose" purchased her fall hat yet, "O. L."? If she has, I feel sure that it is most becoming, and the embodiment of perfect judgment on the part of its owner. I agree with "Boss' Wife," that a great many of the printed stories are insipid. If a writer once gets his or her name up, they can pass any old stuff along for publication and it will be considered O. K.

Well, say! Here's where I get off at right now, with best wishes for all the writers and our editress. I am still

ROSE OF SHARON.

Ans.—Since you ring the bell, "Rose," we'll have to let you out—no, no, not by the window—but next time take a longer ride, and let us have a more lengthy chat. Your "study in contrasts" is well worth thinking about.

No Mother to Send.

Dear Miss Grey,—I am sending in a lonely soldier's address. He has been in the trenches for a long time and is very deserving of a letter, also a box once in a while. His parents are dead, so he has no mother to send him dainties. I send what I can, but I have several to send to, so he gets less than I would like to send him.

Yes, dear, I got rid of the ants. Yours, ANT-HATER.

Ans.—I saw a photograph of Mary Pickford, the well-known movie actress, the other day, with two "stacks" of letters much higher than her pretty head. They were requests from hundreds of her admirers for a signed photo of her fair self. This may seem apropos of nothing, but it brings to mind the large number of applications I am likely to receive for your "lonely's" address! "Fairly swamped" will describe it, I know. But how nice to think of that lad getting a shower of letters and packages after the postman passing him by so often!

And, dear "Ant-Hater," which of the remedies did you use to drive 'em away? Do tell me, for the general benefit of the Cynthians.

Husband and Friend.

Dear Miss Grey,—I have at last decided to enter your already long list of correspondents, and so hope you will not mind one more.

My purpose of writing to you is to ask you if I might have the great pleasure of adopting "Pte. A. P. Fighting Eighteenth," and also another real lonely Canadian lad. Now, if you will be so kind as to send me those two addresses I will do all in my power to make life more cheery for them. I have a girl chum just 21, whose husband has just made the supreme sacrifice at the front, and also in the same week I received the same word of my friend at the front; therefore, I think that by writing and sending parcels to these other brave soldier boys it might help to fill up their awful loneliness we both now feel, that we may find some relief in helping others who have no one to send them letters.

Will sign myself KHAKI KID.

Ans.—I am more sorry for you and your friend than I can tell you, but believe that in trying to forget your sorrow in cheering others you are finding the best possible way to healing and courage.

Mushroom Growing.

Dear Miss Grey,—Can you tell me where I can obtain information re the culture of mushrooms? Also, have you any recipes handy for preserving quince, and for grap jelly or jam? Thanking you, I remain,

HANK'S FOOD CONTROLLER.

Ans.—On first thought I felt like referring you to the editor of the "Wait a Minute" column, who is said to have recently become an authority on the subject. But also you might write the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, for a bulletin on their culture; and any bookstore would order for you W. Falconer's volume (considered one of the best) "Mushrooms, How To Grow Them."

Here are several recipes, all pronounced "good" by Mail-Box readers:

Quince Honey—Eight quinces grated, 2 quarts of granulated sugar, 1 quart of water; boil sugar and water 30 minutes, add grated quinces and boil 20 minutes longer, or until thick. It is delicious.

Quince Jam—Cook the quince in water until soft, pour off the water and put fruit through a sieve until smooth; add ten ounces sugar to one pound of fruit, let boil twenty minutes, remove from fire and place in sealers.

Grape Conserve — Five pounds of grapes, 3 pounds of sugar, 2 pounds of raisins, 1 pound shelled walnuts. Pulp grapes 10 minutes and then put through colander to remove seeds. Cook skins, pulp and above recipe three-quarters of an hour and fill into sterilized jars.

Grape Marmalade—Pulp the grapes, but put the skins and pulp together into a preserving kettle and let boil. When the skins are tender, let cool until you can work the mass through a fine colander. Wash the kettle and return the strained grapes, set over the fire, and add the same measure of sugar as there is of the grapes. Let boil five minutes and put hot into jelly tumblers. If grapes are not quite ripe, the marmalade will be more firm.

Grape Jam—Three-quarters of pound sugar to one pound grapes; squeeze the pulp from the skins. Boil the pulp a few minutes. Remove the seeds by putting through a sieve, then add the skins and sugar. Boil until it thickens, and put up like other jams.

Blight on Geranium.

Miss Cynthia Grey,—Can you please tell me a remedy for this blight on ivy geraniums? I find it is pretty general all through the country. Every plant that I have examined is afflicted. We have tried nicotine, but that is useless. Also please send me "A. P.'s" address (of the fighting 18th).

Gratefully yours, C. S.

Ans.—Sorry, but I could find no remedy advised for this blight, and appeal to readers for aid.

The leaf inclosed by "C. S." has several dry brownish patches thereon, which looks as though all the life had been drawn out. Has anybody had a similar trouble and found a remedy?

To Knit a Scarf.

Dear Miss Grey,—Some time ago I got two good directions for knitting from your column, but lost them. Will Miss Grey please ask someone to send in to your Mail-Box the brioche stitch and the crow-foot stitch, as I want to knit a scarf, and oblige.

AN OLD SUBSCRIBER.

Ans.—Fortunately I had saved these clippings, and you will note the directions reproduced as follows:

Brioche Knitting—Cast on any number of stitches that can be divided by three. First, make one by bringing the yarn forward; slip one, knit two together. Every row is the same.

Crow's Foot Stitch—Cast on the same as brioche stitches. First row, purl; second row, make one, slip one, knit two, pull the slipped stitch over the two knitted stitches and repeat. Cast off after doing a purl row. Nice for scarfs.

Soap Is Pink.

Dear Miss Grey,—I have just made some soap by the recipe that was given to "Olive." Now, after I cut it in bars, I notice that the grease all seems to have risen to the top. It is all hard, but what looks to be the grease is white, and the other has a pink color. I boiled it the hour. Now, as I want to make some more right away, I would like to know if that is right or not. I never made or saw soap made before.

I have noticed in your paper where the debt for the war is ninety billions, and in figures, it is placed at ninety thousand million (90,000,000,000). As I learned in the old country there are hundreds of millions, thousands of millions, and millions of millions, and then come the billions, so if ninety billions, it is 90,000,000,000,000,000,000!

I will inclose a very nice recipe for ginger cake, without sugar or milk. I will sign myself, CAN YOU TELL ME.

Ginger Bread—One lb. flour, 1 pint molasses, 2 ozs. lard, 1 egg, 2 teaspoons carbonate of soda, 2 teaspoons ginger. Melt lard with molasses, add soda, ginger, egg and flour, and mix all together.

Ans.—As you fail to give me either your name or address, it is difficult to trace up your order for pattern. However, I have asked the Pattern Department to look into the matter and duplicate the order.

Hope some reader can give you information re soap-making. The recipe was highly vouched for, but as I have not tried it personally, cannot say if it should have the pink tinge or not.

3. I think the confusion in the billions arises from the fact that in America a billion is one thousand millions (1,000,000,000); and in England, a million millions (1,000,000,000,000).

She's Lonely, Too.

Dear Miss Grey,—As this is my first time of writing you, will try not to make my speech too long. Dear Miss Grey, I would very much like to get some addresses of lonelies, as I am sure there are some poor lads that would like to get mail from Canada. Yours truly,

A LONESOME COUNTRY GIRL.

Ans.—A name or two is being sent with pleasure, and are you really truly "lonesome"? To a busy woman like—well, like me, for instance!—one wonders how there can be any people with enough spare time to get lonesome. Now, of course, I mean outside of those whose "dearest and best" are overseas.

An Honored Guest.

Dear Miss Grey,—My sister and myself tried the carrot jam, and we used oranges with lemons for it. We all like it very mueh. It would be difficult to tell it from orange marmalade if it were eaten in the dark.

I am sending recipes for two cakes that I am sure your readers will find very nice. Now, Miss Grey, I must not take up more of your time, so I will write those recipes, then close.

Economy Cake.—One cup brown sugar, shortening size of an egg, 1 cup sour milk, 2 cups flour, 2 cups bran, 1 cup raisins or mixed fruit, 1 teaspoon soda, pinch of salt, ½ of nutmeg grated. Bake in moderate oven.

Belfast Cake.—One egg, 1 cup brown sugar, 1 cup stoned raisins, 1 cup sour milk, ½ cup butter, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, ½ of a grated nutmeg and 2 cups of graham flour.

These are both good, so I hope your readers will try them. May I come again? Best wishes from MELBA.

Ans.—To think that such a gifted lady as a prima donna visits our column and comes around with two economy recipes! Madame, the doors of the Box are wide open whenever you choose to honor us with your presence, but next time we may insist on your "singin' a chune."

YOUNG FELLOW MY LAD.

Where are you going, young fellow my lad,
On this glittering morning of May?
I'm going to join the colors, dad;
They're looking for men, they say,
But you're only a boy, young fellow my lad;
You aren't obliged to go,
I'm seventeen and a quarter, dad,
And ever so strong, you know.

So you're off to France, young fellow my lad,
And you're looking so fit and bright,
I'm terribly sorry to leave you, dad,
But I feel that I'm doing right.
God bless you and keep you, young fellow my lad,
You're all of my life, you know,
"Don't worry, I'll soon be back, dear dad,
And I'm awfully proud to go.

Why don't you write, young fellow my lad?
I watch for the post each day;
And I miss you so and I'm awfully sad
And it's months since you went away.
And I've had the fire in the parlor lit,
And I'm keeping it burning bright
Till my boy comes home, and here I sit
Into the quiet night.

What is the matter, young fellow my lad?
No letter again today.
Why did the postman look so sad,
And sigh as he turned away?
I hear them tell that we've gained new ground,
But a terrible price we've paid;
God grant, my boy, that you're safe and sound,
But, oh, I'm afraid, afraid.

They've told me the truth, young fellow my lad;
You'll never come back again;
(Oh God! the dreams and the dreams I've had
And the hopes I've nursed in vain!)
For you passed in the night, young fellow my lad;
And you proved in the cruel test
Of the screaming shell and the battle hell
That my boy was one of the best.

So you'll live, you'll live, young fellow my lad,
In the gleam of the evening star,
In the wood-note wild and the laugh of the child,
In all sweet things that are.
And you'll never die, my wonderful boy,
While life is noble and true;
For all our beauty and hope and joy
We will owe to our lads like you.

"The Letter Edged in Black."

"A Soldier's Wife" has asked for the printing of an old song, "The Letter Edged in Black":

I was standing by my window yestermorning,
Without a thought of worry or of care,
When I saw the postman coming down the pathway,
With such a happy smile and jaunty air.
Oh, he rang the bell and whistled while he waited,
And then he said, "Good-morning to you, Jack,"
But he little knew the sorrow that he brought me,
When he handed me a letter edged in black.

Refrain—
As I heard the postman whistling yester-morning,
Coming down the pathway with his pack,
Oh, he little knew the sorrow that he brought me,
When he handed me a letter edged in black.

Then with trembling hands I took the letter from him,
I broke the seal, and this is what it said:
"Come home, my boy; your poor old father wants you;
Come home, my boy, your mother dear is dead.

Your mother's words—the last she ever uttered—
Were, "Tell my boy I want him to come back."
My eyes are blurred, my poor old heart is breaking,
While I'm writing you this letter edged in black."

Oh, I bow my head in sadness and in sorrow,
The sunlight of my life it now has fled,
Since the postman brought that letter yester-morning,
Saying, "Come home, my boy, your mother dear is dead."
"Oh," it said, "forgive the angry words 'twere spoken,
You know I never meant them, don't you Jack?
The angels bear me witness I am asking
Your forgiveness in this letter edged in black."

THISTLES LOSE ROBINSON CHALLENGE TROPHY TO ROWING CLUB

THE SPORT-LIGHT

By Grantland Rice.

RUBAIYAT OF THE WORLD SERIES.

I.

Wake! For the dope now heaped in massive store
Has put you next—I hope this doesn't bore?
There's nothing left except the game itself—
The minor detail of the final score.

II.

Day after day a line of eager clients
Has sought to know which had the greater science;
Whereat I counter boldly with this hunch:
"I rather think the Sox have—or the Giants."

III.

Day after day some poor nut, standing by,
Asks, "Who will win?" Until, with bloodshot eye,
I seek some lonely tavern off the beat
To drown my sorrow in the flowing rye.

IV.

When Zim, the mighty, takes a husky swing
I wonder if he'll tear off See-cot's wing?
Or will he lift a puny pop to third
The while he growls, "That guy ain't got a thing?"

V.

For I've a hunch that Zim will somehow be
The stormy petrel of the jubilee;
He'll either be The-Boy-That-Busts-It-Up
Or else the Goat, without a friendly plea.

VI.

Think, in this batter's caravanserai,
Whose portals are eternal fight and play,
How Tycobb after Tycobb, with his pomp,
Abode his destined hour and went his way!

VII.

The wan fan says where Cicotte crowns the frame,
"I do not ask if he will win his game;
I do not ask what stuff he has to shoot;
But howinell does he pronounce his name?"

VIII.

Myself for days did eagerly frequent
Expert and bug, and heard great argument
About it and about; but evermore
I left still knowing less than when I went.

IX.

For one would say with muttered curse or scowl,
"Joe Jackson's bat will make them Giants howl!"
Whereat another murmured, "That big dub!
That guy'll be lucky if he gets a foul!"

X.

And as another horned into the mill;
"Just wait'll Collins leans against that pill!
He'll drive this Schupp across the Barren Lands!"
A dull voice countered, "Yes, likely will!"

XI.

The Moving Finger writes, and, having writ,
Moves on; nor all your dope can change a hit,
Nor check one error on the field of play,
Nor all your bets upset a part of it.

XII.

For, after all, old Omar had the dope,
The inside stuff for which the millions grope;
And I shall give it to you word for word,
Nor change one letter in its metric slope—

XIII.

"The ball no question makes of eyes and noes,
But here or there as strikes the player goes;
And he that toss'd you down into the field,
He knows about it all—he knows—HE KNOWS!"

Yesterday's Results—Infantry 0, A. S. C. 0.

Today's Game—Engineers vs. Cyclists.

The Infantry and the Army Service Corps, leaders in the Military Football League at Carling Heights battled for an hour on Tuesday evening without either side scoring. The Depot Battalion boys top the standing, having two points over the A. S. C. Had the Army Service team won they would have tied the Infantry for first place. The game was an exceedingly fast one all the way through and the spectators didn't have a chance to get tired. Both teams showed great determination in their play and the general opinion among the crowds on the side lines was that the boys are pretty evenly matched. This no-score game gives promise of a most exciting finish in the play for the trophy donated by Major Fairbanks of the headquarters' staff.

Kicking off for the Depot, Daniels led the Infantrymen in a very determined fashion towards the Service goal, but the defence prevailed. Shaking down to a steady game the play was very steady, though fast. A lot of pep was introduced by a new recruit, playing at inside right for the A. S. C. named Coubrough. Though lacking in inches his tackling was good and many times he appeared dangerous. The finishing of the forwards was very indifferent, however, and the interval arrived without score.

The second half opened with another rush by the Depot, Latham giving James a nice pass, which was nicely centred by the little Welshman. Time and again the ball was returned to the goal mouth, but Cowperthwaite finally relieved by a big kick up the field. This enabled the A S. C. to attack, and Pontin looked all over a scorer, but the ball was just a little too high to count.

Williams played a sterling game for the Army Service Corps, and Neath at full back for the Infantry put up a steady defence.

Stars of the World's Series

LEWIS G. McCARTY,
New York Giants.

John McGraw and a million or so other Giant rooters opine that Lurid Lew McCarty carries the class of the National League backstops when he dons his wind-pad and shin-guards. But 'twas not always thus.

Five years ago the Newark bugs wanted McCarty sold, traded or canned; they didn't care which. That was because big Mac wasn't hitting the ball. He finished the season with a clouting mark of only .182 for 62 games. The same fans, however, changed their opinions the following year. For Lew pasted the old onion for an average of .359, and they called him the best catcher this side of Mars, and to prove it the management sold him to Brooklyn.

If McCarty's showing last year is a sample of his real form, then the Giants have one of the best catchers who ever busted a finger. He hit .239 in 80 games, handled both the Brooklyn and Giant twirlers with rare judgment and skill, turned back a flock of speed merchants on the bases, and by his masterly all-round backstop work looked like a million dollars.

This big receiver first attracted attention when he played semi-professional ball with Danville, Pa., in 1909. He was rated then as an average catcher, with a good whip and an unusually long hitter. In 1910 the Lancaster club signed him, and McCarty continued his slugging to such an extent that the rattle of his war club was heard 'way over in Newark. He started with the latter club in 1911, was sold to Brooklyn in 1913, and last year, during the heat of the pennant race, the Dodgers traded him to New York for Merkle.

The only excuse for the act, from Brooklyn's viewpoint, lay in the fact that Daubert was injured, and it was imperative that the Dodgers get an experienced first-sacker immediately.

As far as baseball value is concerned, the trade was a crime. Merkle was a slipping player, and McCarty was coming like a house-afire. If McGraw could make a trade like that every day, he'd soon own the National League, including the umpires and peanut privileges.

McCarty is a Giant in fact as well as in name. He is 5 feet 11½ inches tall, weighs 190 pounds, and hasn't an ounce of superflous flesh on his large frame. After being out of a great part of the season with a fractured ankle, he returned to the game recently in apparently good shape, which, if true, is welcome news to the Giant rooters.

RAYMOND W. SCHALK,
Chicago White Sox.

He isn't very big—only 5 feet 9 inches tall, and he scales barely 160 pounds—yet he's called the greatest catcher in the business.

Schalk has everything a catcher needs excepting beef, and he gets along very nicely without that, thank you, because with his speed, aggressiveness, brains and grit, he has a pretty complete backstopping equipment as it is.

Jimmy Callahan, then manager of the Sox, found out that this kid was the real thing in the catching line the day Ray joined the Sox, back in 1912. Comisky had purchased him from the Milwaukee club for the fancy price of $17,000, in cash and players, and he came to the Windy City with a great minor league "rep."

"We'll see what he's got," said Callahan, and stuck him behind the plate to catch Ed Walsh. And although Walsh was one of the hardest pitchers to hold, with his spitter and tremendous speed, this kid recruit not only caught and handled the great Ed in perfect style, but did it after the second inning without signals, because Walsh had trouble in getting the signs from his new backstop.

That performance made Schalk solid with the entire Sox club, and within two weeks the big leaguers knew that this Schalk bird was some catcher.

Ray's judgment is remarkable, his throwing arm unusually accurate, and his "baseball sense" in sizing up and executing plays is almost uncanny. He is a good deal of a crab on the playing field, and keeps after the batters continually with his chatter.

On the bases, when the average catcher is usually like a truckhorse, this little live wire is a comparative speed merchant. He stole 30 satchels last year, playing in 129 games, and batting only .232. Some stealing, even for a base-running star, what? You said it. His hitting isn't his strong point, but he stings the ball frequently in the pinches, and has averaged .248 with the Sox up to the present season.

Harvels, Ill., is the birthplace of this little whirlwind. He was born there August 12, 1892, and attended the grammar school and spent two years in high school there, leaving to learn the printer's trade. Ray played semi-pro ball for $2 per game until Taylorville gave him his first professional baseball contract in 1911. Milwaukee bought him the same year, and sold him to the Sox a year later.

The Sox pitchers were lucky to have the "greatest catcher in the game" to work with this year.

While McCarty is a really high-class backstop, Schalk has it on him in defensive work. The latter is much faster, has as good a throwing arm, and is a quick thinker. In attack, however, McCarty is greatly superior. He will outhit Ray over 30 points through a season's play.

JACK BARRY READY TO REBUILD RED SOX CLUB

Manager of Boston Americans Has Big Hopes For Next Season—Several Departments Need New Blood, Though, Before Team Can Shine Again.

Having failed to drive his way into an American League pennant on his first trial as a big league manager, Jack Barry, leader of the Red Sox, may be depended upon to begin an immediate rebuilding of his team.

Starting in with his veterans, many men who have helped send hopes of the opposition toppling probably will feel the axe.

It would not be at all surprising to see at once a shakeup that will involve the outfield and parts of the infield. The great pitching staff that has labored for Boston in past years is practically intact, so much so that tampering with it would be sufficient to raise a storm among Hub fans.

Barry started the year under a greater handicap than most followers of the game have appreciated. They have been able to see only the fact that a championship baseball club, finely molded as a playing unit, was turned over to him. They neglected to note that one of the strongest points in the playing scheme of the Boston club departed when Bill Carrigan severed his connection as manager.

Carrigan's Departure Hurts.

Only one competent catcher was left when Carrigan decided to go into some other line of endeavor. Agnew was left to shoulder the burden. His work has been of the best sort, but the assistance he has been given by Thomas and Cady has been rather ragged.

Carrigan, although he never was given entire credit for it, was one of the best receiving and throwing catchers the American League ever has seen. Even in the last days he spent in the league his work was far ahead of the average big leaguer, even in an organization boasting of its Schalks, Walters and others.

It was generally stated that Hub Leonard's full effectiveness never was attained save when Carrigan was working with him. Leonard has disputed the assertion, but there is no denying the fact that Leonard's effectiveness hasn't been near so pronounced since Carrigan left the club.

Barry, then, was handicapped in this most important part of his structure. Weakened there, the team was unable to supply the punch in other departments necessary to carry it over the catching deficiency. Catchers are going to be searched for by Boston scouts as never before. It is almost a certainty that Thomas or Cady will have to go.

Foundation Remains.

Barry has the foundation around which another championship club can easily be built. In Scott he has one of the game's best shortstops. Harry, himself, classes with the best of the second basemen, and he has a capable understudy in Harold Janvrin. The rest of the infield may be said to be ready to move over for younger material.

The outfield possesses two veterans in Harry Hooper and Duffy Lewis, men who have not reached the length of their careers yet. Walker and Shorten are youngsters.

Despite their worth, it may be that a trade will be arranged for Hooper and Lewis. A shakeup Barry might consider the best thing for that section of his team.

Barry's pitching staff still scintillates in a league of scintillation. Babe Ruth is far and away the game's best left-hander. Shore is doing wonderful work, and Carl Mays has had one of his best years. Herb Pennock is beginning to indicate the judgment of Connie Mack, who once predicted he would be a star southpaw. George Foster is showing signs of returning consistent effectiveness.

Rebuilding will not count Barry out. He has several pennant fights left in the old club.

ROWING CLUB TAKES ROBINSON TROPHY FROM THE THISTLES

North-End Bowlers Lose the Challenge Cup After Hard-Fought Game Played Under Adverse Conditions.

The Thistle Club gave up the Robinson trophy to the Rowing Club bowlers on Tuesday afternoon after a fine game, in which some crack play was shown. The score stood 23 to 20 at the end. The greens were not in very good shape, and bad weather affected the play.

The Thistles led the scoring, making it 11 to 3 at the fifth end. Then the Rowing Club quartet got busy, and chalked up twelve tallies in the next four ends. The Thistles played hard to overcome this lead, but couldn't do it. Skip Allen did his best in the last end to keep the silverware from going over the river, but failed.

The next challenger in line is the Harrietsville Club, which may possibly play against the Rowing Club on Friday. After them, the Elmwoods have next go at it; then the Ingersoll club, which became greatly attached to the trophy in the brief time they held it, and would like very much to have it gleaming on the club's mantelpiece. The Thistles will likely send in another challenge, but it will be some time before their rink again battles for the trophy.

That will wind up their preliminary work.

The White Sox complete their course with an exhibition game with the Cleveland Indians at Comiskey Park today.

A feature of the big series, which most critics as well as baseball men, appear to have overlooked in their pre-world series impression is that no one actually can tell how the Giants will act when hard pressed. This really is the big question mark of the series. It is easily the most important psychological factor, says the Sun.

Johnny Evers, smart ball player that he is, recognized this when he said a few days ago: "The Giants have never been put to the actual test. I believe they can show even better ability in the world series than during the regular season."

There never was a time this season that the team was forced to let itself out to the last notch. Despite the fact that the Phillies look fairly close to the Giants now in the standing, the 1917 race was one of the easiest to win in the entire history of the National League.

Clarence Rowland, manager of the White Sox, says he feels his team will win because he knows just what they can do when they have to win. In discussing the series, he said:

"We just knew we had to win and did win."

Rowland referred to a time in August when after a series of setbacks Boston passed the Chicago team. Then the White Sox launched a drive which netted them fifteen out of sixteen games, and so left the Red Sox far behind. He also calls attention to the fact that practically every series between Chicago and the Red Sox this season was for blood, all advertised as crucial series. At a time when Boston was supposed to start its great fall drive the White Sox won four out of five. He thinks the White Sox gathered enough impetus during that pennant drive to carry them through the series the same as the Boston Braves drives in 1914 enabled the Braves to sweep up the mighty Athletics in four straight games.

CHICAGO PREPARES FOR WORLD'S SERIES

Stages Practice Game With Cleveland Indians to Keep in Shape.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 2.—Chicago defeated Cleveland, 8 to 5, in the first of a series of two games to prepare the American League champions for the world's series. Cleveland played listlessly in the field, and Chicago's run-getting was made easy. Joe Benz did the best work of the three pitchers used by the White Sox. A rally by Cleveland netted four runs in the ninth.

LEADING GOLFERS TO AID BUILDING FUND OF RETURNED MEN

Professionals Will Play on London Links on Thanksgiving Day.

Four of the leading golf players in Canada have patriotically offered their services absolutely free of charge in aid of the building fund of the Great War Veterans' Association.

G. S. Lyon, eight times amateur champion of Canada, winner of the Olympic championship in St. Louis in 1904, defeating the then amateur champion of the United States.

George Cumming, professional of the Toronto Club, an ex-champion of Canada, and one of the finest players in Canada.

William Freeman, professional of the Lambton Club, and, perhaps, the longest driver in Canada.

H. W. Eve, professional of the London Club and a player of great ability and finished style, will compete in a 36-hole golf match on the London links on Thanksgiving Day, October 8, 1917, morning and afternoon.

This will be one of the finest golf events ever held in Canada, and should attract all golfers. It will be a splendid opportunity for those who have never seen the game to witness a very perfect exemplification of it.

Admission tickets at $1 can be had from any member of the Great War Veterans' Association or from J. W. Cahill, secretary of the London Hunt Club, or from any member of the golf committee.

This is purely a patriotic event, and should be well patronized.

The new links of the London Golf Club are the finest and, perhaps, the most picturesque in the country, and this match will afford an opportunity to anyone not a member to see them.

The Great War Veterans' Association are grateful to the London Hunt and Country Club for this opportunity to increase their funds for the new club.

CONNIE MACK WON'T PREDICT WINNER

Manager of Athletics Says It Will Be a Hard Fight.

New York, Oct. 2.—Connie Mack, creator of the great Athletic team, world's champions of other days, in conversation with a correspondent this afternoon, declined to be pinned down to a definite expression of opinion as to the outcome of the world's series of 1917, but conveyed the impression that he believed the Giants and the White Sox to be more evenly matched in playing strength than any of the contenders of recent years. "The Giants are unusually strong, particularly in batting," said Manager Mack, "and it will take some great pitching by Cicotte, Faber, Russell and Williams to hold them down.

"Cicotte is a first-class pitcher, in spite of the 'shine ball,' which he has been using all season. He could get the same results without it. But the 'shine ball' is just as legal as the 'spit ball,' so there should be no kick about it.

"I'm not in the habit of picking winners, but being an American League man, I'd be glad to see the White Sox come out on top. They'll have to play harder than ever to whip the Giants, however, and for that reason I think the coming series will be one of the best in the history of baseball."

ST. THOMAS C. I. HAS STRONG TEAM TO PLAY LOCALS

Will Give L. C. Hard Fight on Friday at Tecumseh Park—Lots of Rooters Coming Along.

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 2.—The St. Thomas collegiate institute rugby team comes to London on Friday confident of a decisive win over the L. C. I. crew. For the first time in a good many years the London boys put it over the St. Thomas team last year, and to sustain their old-time reputation as a hard team to down the locals have been working hard to be in the best condition possible. What confidence the school has in their team will be shown by the crowd of rooters who will go to London for the game.

The St. Thomas team to meet the London boys will likely be as follows:

Left wing—Ferguson, inside; Dyer, middle; Lumley, end.

Right wing—Lane, inside; Worden, middle; Slawson, end.

Back division—Ayearst, left; Jewitt, (mgr.), centre; Ellwood, right; Baldwin (cap.), quarter; Cooper, flying wing.

Spares—Lewis, Smith, Lockwood, Avery, Wright, Norsworthy.

DROPWOOD ANNEXES MONROE 2:16 PACE

Fine Racing Offered in Shortship Event—Winner Had Easy Time.

MONROE, Mich., Oct. 2.—While only two events were raced today, they were contests of the sort that help keep sportsmen warm on cold days. Better racing has not been seen this season than that seen here during the last two days, and the outlook for the rest of the week is excellent.

Next week the same horses and some others will wind up the Michigan season at Dexter Park.

The 2:16 pace went to the favorite, Dropwood, after Nelly Chimes had grabbed the opening heat. In the second Nelly broke before the quarter, and Glenwood went into her. Dropwood cleared the wreck and had the track to herself. Nelly Chimes was lapped on Dropwood, at the half in the third; then faded away. Hazel Pointer began to dig in at the three-quarters, and finished alongside the leader.

The fourth heat saw Dropwood always first. Hazel Pointer and Maid Mariam fought it out for second, Hazel winning by an eyelash. Dropwood won at Saginaw and appears to be a pretty fair pacer in her class.

The 2:12 trot was a hard fight. Farmer Spears, the favorite, did not stand for money after the fourth heat, and went to the barn. John G. won the first and second heats, but broke on the turn in the third, which was won by Josie B. They will finish it tomorrow.

FIRST FOOTBALL FATALITY

Player Breaks Neck While Pratcicing Tackling at Cambridge, Mass.

CAMBRIDGE, Oct. 2.—The first fatality of the football season occurred here today, when Francis Burns was killed during a practice game between teams made up of members of the Rindge Technical High School football squad. Burns' neck was broken when he tackled a player.

REAL LADY WINS $14,000 FUTURITY, LOWERING RECORD

World's Champion Filly Distanced in Second Heat.

WAS HEAVY FAVORITE

Winner Comes Within Quarter of a Second of Stake Record.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 2.—The Real Lady, driven by Murphy, won the $14,000 Kentucky Futurity, the blue ribbon of the trotting turf, in convincing style here today. Miss Bertha Dillon, world's champion three-year-old filly, was a heavy favorite in the race, but was distanced in the second heat. In the third heat The Real Lady reduced her record of 2:04¼ to 2:03¾, which is also the fastest third heat for a three-year-old filly, and within a quarter of a second of the stake record. The first heat was the closest of the meeting, in which the judges' eyes caught The Real Lady first, a nose ahead of Miss Bertha Dillon.

TICKETS FOR OPENING GAMES OUT THURSDAY

Result of Contest Between Comiskey and Scalpers Known Then.

Chicago, Oct. 3.—Tangible results in the contest between President C. A. Comiskey of the Chicago Americans and the national commission on one side and Chicago scalpers on the other are expected tomorrow when the delivery of world series tickets to successful applicants is made. Notices have been sent to the fortunate ones asking them to call at the south side park and receive their reservations.

Scalpers, too, have informed their patrons that they will be able to deliver tickets tomorrow, but their high prices indicate an inadequacy of supply.

One box seat for three games is quoted at $50 by the scalpers. The face value of such a reservation is only $15 for three games. Grandstand seats for three games which cost $4.50 at the box office are quoted at $15 by the speculators.

A meeting of the national commission is to be held here Saturday morning at which details of the world series games will be disposed of.

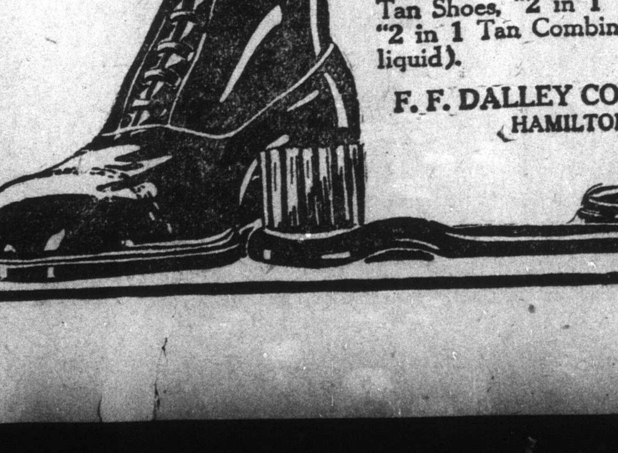

GAME CANCELLED

Chicago, Oct. 3.—Rain today caused the cancellation of the exhibition game between the Cleveland Americans and the Chicago American League champions. The Cleveland club left for Cincinnati to start a series for the championship of Ohio.

UNIFORMED CANADIANS ALLOWED TO VISIT U. S.

OTTAWA, Oct. 2.—The entry of the United States into the war has caused an alteration in the regulations with regard to the wearing of uniforms by Canadian officers and men when in that country.

Canadian soldiers are now allowed to visit the United States in uniform, whether on duty, leave or furlough, as long as they have first secured a permit, signed by their district officer commanding, or another officer in authority. The list of names of those to whom such permit has been granted must be on record at district headquarters, and in the cases of officers, the names must be referred to by wire to militia headquarters here. Soldiers of the United States army are allowed to enter Canada in uniform.

Few People Know This

Large doses of pills for the liver are not as efficient as small doses.

The big dose purges its way through the system fast, but does not cleanse thoroughly.

The small dose (if right) acts gently on the liver, and gives it just the slight help it needs to do its own work, and do it well.

Take one pill regularly, until you know you are all right.

LOOK AT CHILD'S TONGUE IF SICK, CROSS, FEVERISH

Hurry, Mother! Remove poisons from little stomach, liver, bowels.

'California Syrup of Figs' at once if bilious or constipated.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, it is a sure sign that your little one's stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

When peevish, cross, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, doesn't eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad; has stomach-ache, sore throat, diarrhoea, full of cold, give a spoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of its little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

You needn't coax sick children to take this harmless "fruit laxative"; they love its delicious taste, and it always makes them feel splendid.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. To be sure you get the genuine, ask to see that it is made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

Try Making Your Own Cough Remedy

You can save about $2, and have a better remedy than the ready-made kind. Easily done.

If you combined the curative properties of every known "ready-made" cough remedy, you would hardly have in them all the curative power that lies in this simple "home-made" cough syrup which takes only a few minutes to prepare.

Get from any druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth), pour it into a 16-oz. bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. The total cost is about 55 cents and gives you 16 ounces of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for $2.50. Tastes pleasant and never spoils.

This Pinex and sugar syrup preparation gets right at the cause of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the phlegm, stops nasty throat tickle and heals the inflamed membranes that line the throat, chest and bronchial tubes, so prompt and easily that it is really surprising. A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough and for bronchitis, croup, whooping cough and bronchial asthma, it is splendid.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract and has been used for generations to break up severe coughs. To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

GUTHRIE DEFENDS HIS ATTITUDE IN TWO-HOUR ADDRESS

Says He Felt It His Duty to Indorse Conscription.

C. N. R. DEAL NECESSARY

Deplores Election; Approves the Election Act; Regrets Failure of Coalition.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

GUELPH, Oct. 2.—In a two-hour speech before an audience which filled the city hall, Hugh Guthrie, M.P., tonight defended his position to the electors of South Wellington with regard to the stand which he took in the House of Commons during the last session of Parliament, when he broke away from his party and supported Sir Robert Borden on the military service act, the C. N. R. bill, closure, etc. The audience was a representative one, members of both the Liberal and Conservative parties from all sections of the riding being present. He made an eloquent address. At the close he was congratulated by many who attended. He declared that so far as he was concerned all party lines were completely obliterated until such time as the war is won.

Quotes Former Leader.

At the beginning of his address he quoted from the address of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, delivered in 1914, when the leader of the Liberal party declared that he would put no obstacle in the way of the Government, in its efforts to assist the mother country to win the war. Mr. Guthrie declared that if the situation at that time was a critical one, it was much more so now, for since then Rumania had entered the war and been wiped out, Russia had collapsed and the submarine menace was much greater and doing more damage.

He deplored an election at this time, and gave this as his reason for breaking with his party on the question of the extension of Parliament.

Reference was made to Sir Robert Borden's visit to France the first time, his pledge to raise half a million men, and his announcement on returning from a second visit that the Canadian troops at the front were badly in need of reinforcements, and that the voluntary system was not providing the men fast enough, which was followed by the introduction of the conscription bill in the House of Commons. Mr. Guthrie declared that he had felt it his duty to follow Sir Robert Borden in this matter, and would continue to do so. It was on this question that he parted with Sir Wilfrid Laurier, to whom he paid a glowing tribute. He also referred to the efforts to form a coalition government, to the failure because Sir Wilfrid refused assent to the conscription bill, and declared that had Sir Wilfrid accepted this offer he would have done a splendid thing for Canada.

Says C. N. R. Deal Necessary.

In dealing with his attitude toward the C. N. R. bill, Mr. Guthrie pointed out that in every other occasion since he had been a member of the House he had opposed the granting of more subsidies and large grants, notwithstanding the fact that he had been accused, even in Guelph, of favoring them, and for a consideration. He declared that the taking over of this railroad system by the Government at this time was an absolute necessity in order to protect the country, and hoped that it would become a paying proposition in due time.

He then gave his reasons for supporting the war-time elections act, and why he had voted for the closure. "If a man, no matter whether he is 21 years of age or not, is good enough to fight for Canada at the front, he is good enough to vote for Canada," declared the speaker. "But there are 32,000 of them lying under wooden crosses who will not be able to vote, and many more thousands whose minds are unbalanced because of the terrible German gas and from other causes, who cannot vote, and will anyone say that their female next-of-kin here in Canada is not entitled to vote for them?"

His other reason for supporting this act was on account of the 35,000 aliens in Canada, whom he declared had certainly no right to vote. Their hearts were still with the fatherland, and they would vote as their hearts dictated to them, as would be only human for them. "Would you allow these 35,000 aliens in Canada to vote when there are 32,000 Canadians under the sod in France?" asked Mr. Guthrie. "I voted in the House of Commons for this bill, and, if it is the last vote I ever cast there, then I am prepared to stand or fall by it."

Jibes French-Canadians.

He dealt briefly with the conscription of wealth, the business tax, the income tax, and the conditions of the Canadian troops at the front, whom he declared must be supported at all hazards. He also took a fling at the French-Canadians, and stated that he was disgusted at the stand they were taking.

"Shall we in Canada be the first to quit this war?" asked Mr. Guthrie. "I don't believe anyone in Wellington County can say such a thing. Then what is my own position?" said Mr. Guthrie. "They accuse me of turning my coat, which has always been a Liberal coat. I have taken off my coat, and I will keep it off until this war is won."

He then closed with the following statement:

"And now a word with reference to the position which I intend to take if I am again returned to Parliament, in respect of measures pertaining to the present war. I intend to give wholehearted and unqualified support to any government which may be formed and which will undertake to prosecute the war to the full extent of Canada's power in men, money and resources.

Wants Union Government.

"It matters not to me whether such a government is called coalition, union of national. I believe in a union at the present time of all political forces for the prosecution of the war, irrespective of all political parties. It is united action which is needed at the present time, and matters of mere party politics should be buried until victory is won. In the past I have been looked upon as a strong party man, but since May last I have publicly and privately advocated a cessation of party strife, and I intend to continue in this course until the end of the war. I do not know whether a union government will be formed by Sir Robert Borden at the present time, or after the general election, if he be returned to power. I am certain, from the public statements which the prime minister has made, that it is his intention to form a union government of the best men available, either now or later on, and if a union government is formed, and I am returned to Parliament for this riding, I shall give it my utmost support.

Principles Not Changed.

"It must not, however, be supposed that by pursuing this course that I have changed my Liberal principles. I have not done so. Liberal principles which I have advocated for many years I still adhere to, but in my judgment all political questions which are now before the public must take a secondary place to the one supreme question of Canada's participation in the war to the fullest extent. I place this first and foremost in the political situation in Canada today, and I believe that whatever shall be required of Canada in connection with the war, and which is within Canada's power to do, should be done, even if other matters of great importance, under normal conditions, must wait until some future time for adjustment. Win the war first, and fight out political battles afterwards, is the basic principle upon which my political action shall be framed until the war is over, and the most desirable thing at the present moment, in my judgment, in the political affairs of this country, is a union government, and if such a government is formed I shall certainly support it to the utmost of my ability."

The meeting was brought to a close with three hearty cheers for the King, for the Canadian troops, and for Mr. Guthrie.

Think They Sighted Raider Off Brazil

AN ATLANTIC PORT, Oct. 2. — Officers of an American steamer arriving here today reported sighting what they believed to be a German raider off the Brazilian coast recently.

When first seen the ship appeared to be a three-masted schooner in distress, but as the American boat approached she made off under auxiliary power, the officers said. They declared the strange ship flew no flag, had her decks piled high with lumber with an odd deckhouse aft, which they thought concealed guns. They said the vessel also had a dummy funnel.

BIG CONCERT AT NIGHT

Hundreds From London and District Motored Out to Exhibition.

BY STAFF REPORTER.

MELBOURNE, Oct. 2.—Three fast races featured the program at Melbourne's fine fair today, and kept the crowd enthusiastic. The fair itself was one of the best ever held here, and among the splendid entries were some of the finest horses and cattle of the district. The ladies' work was good, and there was a fine display of fruit, vegetables, and dairy produce.

There was a good attendance, fully 4,000 people being on the grounds. Scores came in autos from London, St. Thomas and other points and the whole countryside turned out as well.

FRENCH RECAPTURE ADVANCED ELEMENTS ENEMY HAD GAINED

Assaulting Detachments of Germans Fail to Penetrate.

PARIS, Oct. 2.—The official statement issued by the war office tonight reads:

"In Belgium and at various points along the Aisne front the artillery action was quite violent.

"On the right bank of the Meuse, after an intense bombardment reported this morning, the Germans delivered a strong attack between Hill 344 and Samogneux. The enemy assaulting detachments, under the violence of our fire, were able to reach our lines only at one point, north of Hill 344. After a stubborn combat we recaptured the greater part of the advance elements where the enemy had gained a foothold.

"Last night enemy airplanes bombed the town of Toul, causing several casualties.

FATAL TROLLEY CRASH.

SASKATOON, Oct. 2.—Motorman W. E. Armsden was seriously injured internally and several passengers hurt here today when two Mayfair street cars telescoped at the corner of Avenue A and 25th street, with a crash that could be heard for blocks. Both cars were filled with passengers.

IF YOUR EARS RING WITH HEAD NOISES

If you have Catarrhal Deafness or head noises go to your druggist and get one ounce of Parmint (double strength) and add to it one-quarter pint of hot water and four ounces of granulated sugar. Take one tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Any one who has Catarrhal Deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial.—Advt.

MILITARY EXERCISES WARMLY APPLAUDED AT INGERSOLL FAIR

Five Thousand Attend Best Show in Society's History.

MANY FINE DAIRY HERDS

Keen Competition Among Horses—Civic Welcome to War Veterans.

INGERSOLL, Oct. 2.—With an attendance estimated at close to 5,000, the Ingersoll Fair closed today under the most pleasing circumstances in the history of the society. The attendance was the largest ever recorded and the program eclipsed anything ever previously attempted. For this, unstinted praise is due to Major Osborne and his splendid cavalry troops, who presented the musical ride and other features, including hurdle jumping, races and wrestling on horseback. The rounds of applause they received was ample evidence of universal appreciation.

At 1:30 o'clock an imposing parade was held from the market square, headed by Mayor Buchanan, members of the society, citizens in automobiles, the 1st Hussars band of London, the cavalrymen and the War Veterans Association. At the grounds a civic welcome was tendered the cavalrymen by Mayor Buchanan. For two hours the ticket-takers experienced the greatest rush of their career and the grounds presented a typical big fair scene, with its midway and many refreshment booths. There was a large showing of horses and the competition was keen.

Fine Dairy Herds.

There also was a representative showing from Oxford's fine dairy herds. The specials for best dairy herds were won as follows: 1 J. G. Currie & Son, Ingersoll; 2 E. H. Harris, Mount Elgin; 3 Peter Cuthbert, Ingersoll.

J. G. Currie & Son also won the prize for the best Holstein herd.

The winners of specials in the horse classes were:

Best heavy draught, C. W. Kent, Embro; best agricultural, George Innes, Woodstock; best general purpose, R. Nancekivell, Jr., Ingersoll; best carriage, C. W. Kent, Embro; best roadster, R. I. Dickie, Beachville; best single turnout by farmer, C. W. Kent; best lady driver, A. Woolley, Brownsville.

The consensus of opinion was that the fair has developed to the stage where it is one of the best in Western Ontario. This evening a most successful concert was held in the town hall under the auspices of the Agricultural Society.

Only One Race.

Only one race, the free-for-all, was run off at the fair today. The results were:

Bonar Law, L. Tolhurst, Tillsonburg	1	1	1
Wilkes McEwen, Parsons, Beachville	3	2	2
Dr. Uhlan, George Franklin, Ingersoll	2	3	3
Dolly M., Floyd Little, Verschoyle	4	4	4

Starter—B. McCarty, Thamesford. Judges—Dr. J. G. Murray, James Keyes.

MANY FINE EXHIBITS AT BOSANQUET FAIR

THEDFORD, Oct. 2.—Bosanquet school fair, held here yesterday, was most successful in every way. The pupils got together an exceptionally fine lot of exhibits, and warm praise was bestowed upon them by the judges and all who attended the show. The sports were keenly contested.

Many sales of farms have occurred recently. John Fleming has disposed of the Lacy place, on the second concession, to Arthur Doan of Sarnia. I. Bailey sold his farm of 50 acres, on the fourth concession of Bosanquet, to Archie Jamieson, and James Borthwick has sold his farm on the second concession to John Fleming.

AVIATOR LOST WAY.

KINCARDINE, Oct. 2.—Aviator Justin Burwash lost his way today while flying from Toronto to Camp Borden, and after spending many hours trying to find it landed this evening in the field of Colin McDougall, concession 8, of Bruce Township. He is spending the night there, and after getting a fresh supply of gasoline will resume his flight Wednesday morning.

"WHY WOMEN CANNOT SLEEP"

The highly organized, finely strung nervous system of women subjects them to terrors of nervous apprehension which no man can ever appreciate.

The peace of mind, the mental poise and calmness under difficulties, which are necessary for happy womanhood, are only possible when the sensitive organism is in a perfectly healthy condition. If there be any derangement in this respect no remedy in the world so completely restores womanly health as the wonderful "Favorite Prescription" invented by Dr. R. V. Pierce.

Chatham, Ont.—"A few years ago I suffered a general breakdown and got very weak and thin. I was in an awful state. I was very much discouraged and at times thought I would lose my mind. I knew of Dr. Pierce's medicines so I got his 'Favorite Prescription.' It gave me immediate relief, and completely cured me in a very short time. My sister used it with good results also. She was in a very delicate condition. I got her to take it and two bottles cured her completely.

"I take great pleasure in recommending Dr. Pierce's medicines; they are all that is recommended of them."—Mrs. Margaret Bryant, 87 Park avenue, Chatham, Ont.

CANADIANS REPULSE ATTEMPTED RAID IN THE AVION SECTOR

Germans Retire When Casualties Mount Up.

EXPLOSIVES DIMINISHING

Prisoners Tell of the Growing Scarcity of Essential War Materials.

CANADIAN HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE, via London, Oct. 2.—(By Stewart Lyon, special correspondent of the Canadian Press, Limited.)—The enemy early this (Tuesday) morning attempted to raid our lines in the Avion sector, but was discovered before he got to close quarters and driven off, after sustaining a number of casualties. The infantry activity is generally less than normal, but the sound of guns never ceases. The Germans are attempting more by way of destructive shoots on our battery positions than they did earlier in the season, but even in this respect they are still far behind the British and Canadian gunners on this part of the front, especially in effectiveness.

There has been a marked increase in the use of long range, high velocity guns by the Germans, and this is still proceeding. The results as seen here assuredly do not justify the free use of these guns.

The enemy also increases the proportion of gas shells to the total number sent over and he sends us many varieties of gas. This possibly may indicate that the chemicals from which the poison gas is made are available in greater quantities than those required for high explosives.

All the prisoners of good education now speak of the growing scarcity of war materials, particularly of articles such as rubber, cotton and copper, which can neither be produced at home nor secured from Germany's European neighbors. One of the prisoners taken in yesterday's outpost affair said that Germany could not be conquered in the field, but she would be forced to make peace because of her failure to obtain essential supplies.

The weather is excellent and the men in the trenches are in good health and fine spirits. The casualties continued extremely small.

OTTAWA, Oct. 2. — The pollution of international waterways and the remedy—a question which has been standing for years—is to be finally considered by the international joint commission, which began here today its semi-annual meeting.

FARMER SAYS HE IS NOW FEELING 20 YEARS YOUNGER

Tried All Kinds of Medicines Without Relief.

SUFFERED TEN YEARS

"Tanlac Practically Made a New Man of Me," Says Edward Seely.

"I have not only gotten complete relief from my many years of suffering by taking Tanlac, but I really feel twenty years younger." Edward Seely, who made this statement, resides on Rural Delivery No. 1, Weston, and is one of the best-known farmers in this section.

"For over ten years now," continued Mr. Seely, "that is until Tanlac straightened me up, my kidneys have been all out of order, and I have suffered with a mean, nagging stomach trouble. There was a hurting in the small of my back all the time, and when I stooped over to pick up anything a pain would catch me and I could hardly get up straight again. My stomach gave me all kinds of trouble. I didn't have much appetite and what little I did eat gave me indigestion, caused gas to form and made me miserable for hours. My general health was very bad, too. I was out of sorts, felt tired and worn-out and hardly had strength and energy to look after my work on the farm. I would get up in the mornings feeling like I would rather take a beating than try to do anything. I have taken all kinds of kidney medicines and stomach preparations, but nothing did me any good.

"I am now seventy years old and, as I couldn't get any relief, I had about come to the conclusion that my troubles were largely due to my age. But I have found out since I took Tanlac that I simply needed something to tone up my system and help me to throw off my physical ailments. Well, Tanlac has practically made a new man of me, and I'm feeling stronger and better all over. The pains have disappeared from my back entirely, and my kidneys never bother me now at all. My appetite is fine, and I can eat anything I want without being bothered by gas or other signs of indigestion. Why, I can eat corn and cucumbers without them hurting me, and that's something I couldn't do when I was a boy. My tired, worn-out feelings are gone, and I'm full of vim and energy like I was years ago. I have recommended Tanlac to several of my neighbors, and it's a pleasure for me to indorse such a worthy medicine."

Tanlac is sold in London by Standard Drug, Limited, under the direction of a special representative, and by an established agency in every town.—Advt.

HAIG DELIVERS STINGING BLOW TO GERMANS

Five Desperate Attacks by Prince Rupprecht Are Disastrous.

LONDON, Oct. 2.—The very meagre official statement from Field Marshal Haig tonight on the operations in France and Belgium reads:

"Beyond artillery activity on both sides of the battlefront there is nothing of special interest to report."

The text of today's early statement reads:

"The latest reports show that yesterday and last night five separate attacks were made or attempted by the enemy, with fresh troops, upon the portion of our new front between the Ypres-Menin road and the northwest corner of Polygon Wood. Another attack was made without success south of the Ypres-Roulers railway against the positions at Zonnebeke.

"Except for the loss of the two small advanced posts, already reported, all six attacks ended in complete failure. The enemy suffered severely in these attacks and gained no advantage.

"A hostile raiding party was repulsed with loss during the night south of Lens."

DAZED PRISONERS TELL OF TRAGEDY IN LIVES.

BRITISH HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE AND BELGIUM, Oct. 2.—By the Associated Press.—The badly-punished German troops east of Ypres today were largely resting on their arms, after reverses suffered yesterday, when they attempted in a series of fierce counter-attacks to drive the British back. Possibly the designation, "resting," is a misnomer, for the enemy was sitting under a terrific bombardment from hundreds of big guns, which were deluging his back and forward areas with high explosives and turning the fastness into twisted masses of debris, which formed the graves of the defenders.

Any of the nerve-racked, half-stunned German prisoners who have lived under these bombardments can tell of the tragedy now being enacted along the German front in this section of Belgium. Thanks to the German counter-attacks there has been hardly a moment's cessation of the intense artillery work of the British since last Wednesday, when Field Marshal Haig's troops executed their latest offensive.

Great Demoralization.

Captured Germans say their forward defenses have been greatly demoralized by this ceaseless pounding. Relief and ration parties venture out, to be turned back or to make their miserable way forward by circuitous routes to the men holding the advanced shell holes, who have often been compelled to hold out without water or food. Badly needed ammunition frequently has never reached its destination.

Every approach to the German lines is covered by British guns, making the movement of enemy infantry an arduous process. Naturally the question arises what effect all this is having on the morale of the German troops. It is generally admitted among the prisoners that the morale of their men has deteriorated since the beginning of the battles in Flanders. Divisions which have been through one siege in the German front lines some times resent being used a second time in this position. This marks a striking change from the former attitude of the German troops, who have worked as unthinking machines to carry out unquestioned orders issued by their officers.

LOW AVERAGE YIELD IN BEAN CROP FOR ONTARIO; ALL CEREALS EXCELLENT

Toronto, Oct. 2.—Early frost, coupled with slow growth in early spring, will cause a low average yield in beans in Ontario this year. The acreage is, however, a long way above the average and the total yield should be well above that of 1916.

This week's report of the department of agriculture states that the threshing operations continue to show a good return for all classes of cereals. Prospects for next year are promising, too, as a large acreage of fall wheat has been got in despite the fact that the land has been so dry and hard. What has come looks well, and there is a fair prospect of the crop meeting the winter in good condition. Winter rye is still being sown.

Potatoes are turning out at least an average yield and are of good quality.

PRISONERS OF AUSTRIANS TAKEN BY SUBMARINES IN THE CAMPS OF GERMANY

Halifax, Oct. 3.—That prisoners taken by Austrian submarines from steamers sunk in the Mediterranean are not kept in Austria, but are sent to German prison camps, is shown by a card received today from James Jones, chief engineer of the steamer Tremorvah. The captain and chief engineer were taken prisoners and landed at Cattaro. They were sent into Germany, and after brief stops at two other camps were finally landed at Wahmbeck, on the Weser. Here they found three other captains and three other chief engineers of the same line to which the Tremorvah belonged.

Eighteen of these steamers have been sunk within the past year.

DIRECT TAXATION FOR PATRIOTIC FUND IS UNDER CONSIDERATION

A resolution to this effect will be presented before the central executive of the fund for the Dominion, which meets tomorrow.

A Sure Cure for Rheumatism.

Who is it knocks and does not boost it?

Sure, it is the man who has not used it, for William Lovelock, the well-known painter in St. Thomas, 14 Station street, for over twelve years, says: "I was all in with inflammatory rheumatism. I went to bed in September, 1911, and the first work I was able to do was on the 17th of March, 1913.

"I was swollen from head to foot; in fact, my limbs were twice the ordinary size, and I was in intense pain for three weeks. I was unable to feed myself, and was suffering more each day. My physicians told me plainly to prepare for the worst, as about ten days was my limit. A friend of mine, who was trying to cheer me up a bit, after the physician had left, remarked: 'Why not try Parker's Oil?' I sent to Small's drug store and purchased a bottle, and, after the first application, received relief, and in three days the pain was gone and swelling reduced greatly. I used seven bottles, and here I am today, willing to testify and give praise to Parker's Black Oil, the sure cure for rheumatism, as I found it.

WILLIAM LOVELOCK.

If your dealer does not keep Parker's Oil, send us his name, together with 25c, 50c or $1 for a bottle, according to the size you want, and we'll ship it to you. Wm. Parker & Sons, 10 Mandamin street, St. Thomas. 71-tf

ARCHBISHOP WORRELL DEPLORES PARTISAN STRIFE IN CANADA

Says Profiteering No Worse Than Political Aspiring.

WANTS NATIONAL GOVT.

Address Before the Anglican Synod of Province of Canada.

MONTREAL, Oct. 2.—The Most Rev. Dr. Worrell, archbishop of Nova Scotia, and metropolitan of the ecclesiastical province of Canada, at the opening of the 22nd annual meeting of the Anglican synod of the province of Canada this afternoon, delivered a stirring address, in which he expressed the hope that the best citizens of Canada would look with broad vision upon the needs of the hour, and sink all party and selfish aspirations. He said:

"It is grotesquely absurd, in the face of the realities of the terrible war in which we are engaged and from which we cannot withdraw until we have won a victory for the cause of right and justice and freedom, to assert that a Conservative or Liberal as such is the better qualified to carry on that war. In the midst of a war which demands prompt and fearless action, the country is handicapped by the indecent struggle of politicians seeking for personal advantage.

Shameful Profiteering.

"There has been profiteering of which Canadians are ashamed, but I can see very little difference between the men who take advantage of war conditions to line their pockets and the man who uses the same conditions to advance his party interests. All honor to those who fearlessly and patriotically have cast their party allegiance to the winds and have sought to give the country a national government composed of patriotic men who can put the war first and unite in working out the best plans for the winning of the war. We have made great sacrifices, and many of our best and noblest sons are lying in graves in foreign lands. It is now our task to see that these sacrifices have not been in vain. We must back up those who are so splendidly doing their part in the face of fearful odds, and we must aid in any measures that may be devised for that purpose."

Would Invite Newfoundland.

The archbishop suggested that it might be advisable to reduce the number of representatives from each diocese, and that overtures might be made to Newfoundland to join the synod of the province of Canada. His grace also suggested that a change of name from "province of Canada" might be advisable, as the present name is anomalous and confusion. He advised that the church prepare for the return of the soldiers at the conclusion of the war, when there will be a very great work to be done.

The House of Bishops elected Rev. Mr. Clare, secretary of the upper and lower house, and elected Very Rev. Dean Evans prolocutor; Rev. J. Abbot Smith, clerical secretary, and A. P. Tippett, treasurer.

The treasurer's report showed a balance of $343.99.

Revision of Prayer Book.

The question of the revision of the prayer book will come up tomorrow, when a lively discussion is anticipated. Dean Shrieve, of Quebec, gave notice today that he would move to defer the resolution to a later date on account of the present disturbed condition as a result of the war.

The sermon in connection with the meeting of the synod was preached in Christ Church cathedral this morning by Bishop Williams of Huron, who referred to the Christian principles which had actuated Great Britain in entering the war, and expressed a hope that the ultimate end of the world conflict would be to strengthen religion and vindicate the establishment of the law of Christ as the law of nations.

JAPAN LEAVES TSING TAU UNDER CIVIL AUTHORITY

Finds No Need of Keeping Military in Control.

TOKIO, Sunday, Sept. 30.—Delayed.—An official communication issued today announces that the Japanese military administration at Tsing Tau, the former German concession, has been abolished. During the three years it has been in effect, it is pointed out, order has been established in the territory. The civil administration now substituted for it, the statement says, is designed to improve the administration of the territory in general, and of the railways and mines, protect the welfare of the inhabitants, while bringing about more friendly relations.

It is significant, the statement notes, that during the occupation the status quo of the territory has not been changed.

The strike order affects 8,000 general-ware and china potters in the United States and Canada. The men asked for a general increase of 25 per cent, and the operators submitted a scale averaging 25 per cent for all departments, which was turned down in the referendum.

Great as was the Italian victory on the plateau, the battle there is by no means finished, according to today's dispatch. POORER QUALITY OF POTATOES BRING 90c

Sell at That Figure on Local Market —Drop Expected.

Unfavorable weather hindered trading on the market today, purchasers being few and the offerings much below the usual standard. Live hogs, oats and grain were the only products to be bought, selling at unchanged prices.

Vegetables could not be obtained. Prices are remaining unchanged in all varieties. Potatoes sell at $1 to $1.10 a bushel, some of the poorer quality selling at 90c. No advance in the price of tubers is expected. In fact present indications point to a slight decrease. Tomatoes are firmer at 40c to 50c a basket. No decline from the present values of tomatoes will be shown, according to farmers. Had there been a longer period of warm weather substantial drops would have taken place in the price of this vegetable.

Fruit men state that this week is the banner period for peaches. During the first part of the week the demand for peaches was of the best, but because of the poor weather prevailing in the last two days this demand has fallen off considerably, and before peaches regain their popularity a decline in price is anticipated. Peaches are selling at 75c to $1.10 per basket, which is a slight decrease under the values of Tuesday.

The season for plums is just about over. A few plums are yet to be seen among the fruit offerings, but the demand is not good and the quality is daily depreciating.

A decline was registered in the price of oats when an unusually large number of loads made an appearance on Tuesday, and sold at $1.75 to $1.90 per cwt. Further drops in this grain will be recorded shortly, according to farmers, a value as low as $1.50 being predicted. Hay is selling briskly. A few loads were offered today and the present comparatively high price remained unchanged. As soon as the present busy period of harvesting and sowing is concluded an influx of fodder is anticipated.

It is said that the price paid for fodder in this district is the lowest or as low as any other place on the continent. New York is paying $22 for hay, and other American cities are purchasing the fodder at practically similar prices.

Wheat and barley remain stationary. The offerings of these grains have been exceptionally light since the beginning of the season. Grapes are popular with the housewife at this time of the season. The offering of grapes has been large and despite a good demand the price declined Tuesday to 30c a basket.

Poultry is scarce because of the high price of eggs. Dairy products remain unchanged, and in good demand.

There was a very good demand experienced in every line, and the whole market was cleaned out. GRAIN.

Chicago, Oct. 3.—Opening: Corn—December, $1 19½@1 19¾; May, $1 16⅝@1 16¾.

Oats—December, 59¼@59⅛c; May, 61⅝@61⅝c.

Chicago, Oct. 3.—Warmer weather and a prospect that no unseasonable cold would be experienced for several days had a moderate bearish influence today on corn. Virtual certainty that a big crop was now safe, and that there would be an ample supply of sound, matured commercial quality, seemed to be generally assumed. Estimates, however, that the yield was 60,000,000 bushels less than was expected a month ago, led to a rally from early weakness.

Opening quotations, which ranged from ⅛c off to a like advance, at $1 19¾@1 19½ for December and $1 16¼@1 15⅝ for May, were followed by a general down-turn and then a reaction to slightly above yesterday's finish.

Winnipeg, Oct. 3.—Oats opened ⅛c stronger, with October at 68¼c and December at 64¾c.

Flax was unchanged, with November at $3 04.

Barley was not quoted up to 9:45 a.m.

COTTON MARKET SENSATION.

New York, Oct. 3.—The country's prospective short cotton crop, as indicated by the Government's estimate, caused a further sensation in prices at the cotton market here today. The December contract advanced $6 a bale, making a total of $12 a bale since the estimate was issued in Washington yesterday morenoon.

A broadening general demand noted in the market this morning was attributed largely to foreign and domestic trade interests.

WALL STREET.

New York, Oct. 3—Wall Street, 10:30 a.m.—Railway stocks were again a drag on the general list at the opening of today's market. St. Paul fell 1⅛ to the new low record of 49½, Delaware and Hudson lost almost 2 points, and large fractional recessions were made by Union Pacific, Canadian Pacific, Reading and New York Central. Industrials yielded at the outset with coppers, oils and motors, but were inclined to harden. Further bullish activity was noted in various specialties.

Noon.—The further heaviness of rails was in part ascribed to the ruling of the commerce commission suspending transcontinental rate increases, which were to become effective October 15. Low-grade issues, like Colorado, Southern, and New Orleans, Texas and Mexico, also lost 1 to 2 points, but New Haven was conspicuous for its gain of 2¼. Steels rallied from their irregularity, and shippings and motors also recovered. Changes otherwise were unimportant, though mainly upward.

1:30 p.m.—Rails sagged again during the very light trading in the early afternoon, Baltimore and Ohio, St. Paul and Delaware and Hudson making extreme declines of 1½ to 3½ points. Steels were steady, but utilities, notably Western Union Telegraph, lost 1 to 2 points.

GOVERNMENT BUYS ALL OF OFFERING

Takes Practically Everything at Winnipeg.

Winnipeg, Oct. 2.—In the cash grain market today practically everything was going to the Government. They took even rejected grains. Ontario millers wanted a very limited amount of export stuff and the tough wheats were wanted by the milling houses in far larger quantities than were offered. The oats situation was undoubtedly influenced by the strike at the head of the lakes and shorts were seeking cover, with offerings very light. There has been no export trade in oats for weeks, nor is there likely to be so long as our prices are so much higher than the American. Demand for barley was off, and prices were 2c lower.

There was very light trading in flax and No. 1 N.W.C. was at 3c premium on October.

If the strike at the lake head continues for any length of time the buying at country points will be affected, as already elevators are filling rapidly, and with no unloading at terminals there can be no empties returned to the country.

Oats closed at ⅝c to 1⅛c higher in Winnipeg future market. Barley was unchanged and flax dropped 5¼c for October, 5c for November, and 7½c for December from the previous close.

Oats—October, 66¾c to 68c; November, 66⅝c to 67c; December, 63⅝c to 64⅝c; May, 67c to 67¼c.

Barley—October close, $1.21.

Flax—October, $3.12@3.07¾. November, $3.10@3.04; December, $3.06@2.99.

Winnipeg cash grain:

Oats—No. 2 C.W., 68c; No. 3 C.W., 65c; extra No. 1 feed, 65c; No. 1 feed, 64c; No. 2 feed, 63c.

Barley—No. 3 C.W., $1.21; No. 4 do., $1.17; rejected and feed, $1.10.

Flax—No. 1 N.W.C., $3.10¾; No. 2 C.W., $3.04¾; No. 3 C.W., $2.93¾.

Oats—Canada western, No. 2, 68c, in store, Fort William; Ontario, No. 2 white, 62c, outside; No. 3 white, 61c, nominal, outside.

Rye—No. 2, $1.75.

Barley—$1.18@1.20, outside for malting.

MONTREAL.

Montreal, Oct. 2.—A fair amount of business continues to be done in grain for local account, and sales of some lots were made, including 10,000 bushels of extra No. 1 feed oats, and 10,000 bushels No. 2 feed for shipment from Fort William, in addition to a number of carlots on spot.

The tone of the market was stronger in sympathy with the strength in Winnipeg, and prices were advanced ¾c per bushel.

Corn—American, No. 2 yellow, $2.15@2.20.

Oats—Canadian western, No. 2, 77¼c; Canadian western, No. 3, 75¾c; extra No. 1 feed, 75¾c; No. 2 local white, 71c; No. 3 local white, 70c.

JUDGMENT RESERVED IN NON-JURY CASE

Judge to Consider Decision in Suit Over Building Contract.

The case of Rae vs. Finch was the only one heard at the morning session of the second day of the non-jury sittings of the county court before Judge Macbeth today. Judgment was reserved.

William H. Rae, a building contractor, is suing Mrs. Eliza Finch for $100, which he claims as the balance due on a $500 contract, which he claims he completed as agreed. Mrs. Finch held back $100 on the contract on the grounds that the contract was not completed as agreed upon.

Judgment was reserved by Judge Macbeth in the case of Farrow Bros. of Springfield vs. Royal Bank and E. Matthews, the only action to be heard at Tuesday's sitting.

Farrow Bros. are suing the bank to recover $356, the amount of a note given to them by Matthews, and then turned over to the bank for collection. The bank claims that the note was never paid, but Matthews claims that it was, and as evidence of his claim produces the note.

FIRE MARSHAL SAYS EX-LONDONER NEVER APPOINTED DEPUTY

Denies Story of Ex-Chief Howard of Peterboro.

DENIAL IS CONTRADICTED

Former London Fireman Declares He Had Position Now Denied Him.

Notwithstanding a statement from Provincial Fire Marshal E. P. Heaton to the effect that ex-Fire Chief William Howard of Peterboro, and formerly of this city, had not been appointed as a deputy provincial fire marshal, Mr. Howard still maintains that he did receive the appointment. If the appointment has been cancelled, it is hinted that it might be due to political influences after the appointment was announced.

Following the announcement, made last Saturday, that the ex-Peterboro chief had been appointed a deputy fire marshal, the Peterboro Examiner telegraphed to Fire Marshal Heaton. That official absolutely denied that he had any knowledge of the appointment. Ex-Chief Howard was again asked if the statement of his appointment had been correct and replied in the affirmative.

For some time the ex-London fireman has been the storm centre in municipal affairs in the eastern city. Charges were made against him, and an official probe into his conduct and into the management of the fire department was ordered. Just as the special meeting of the council to hear these charges was convened the resignation of the chief was placed before it, and the probe was dropped. The council, however, insisted that the resignation take effect at once.

This surprise-resignation was followed by the announcement of Mr. Howard's appointment to the provincial department at a salary of $3,600 a year, or $2,000 more than he received in Peterboro. This announcement in turn has been followed by the official denials of the ex-Londoner's appointment. Belief is expressed in Peterboro that the ex-chief really had a line on the position, but that his announcement of securing it was premature, with the result that political opponents were able to "spike his guns."

HARRY WALSH WAS SERIOUSLY INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Front Wheel Passed Over Chest, Crushing Him.

Harry Walsh of 583 Hill street was seriously hurt at Richmond and Dundas streets about 11 o'clock last night by being knocked down and run over by an auto driven by Lieut. G. W. Lang of the Foresters Battalion.

Walsh was riding along on a bicycle when the car struck him. He was hurled to the pavement and the front wheel of the auto went over his chest. His face was badly cut. Just how seriously Walsh is injured will not be known for several days. He was taken home in the police ambulance and attended by Dr. W. J. Stevenson.

At 2 o'clock today Walsh was reported to be doing as well as could be expected, although suffering considerable pain from his injuries. Unless injured internally his recovery is anticipated.

FALL CAMPAIGN OF SALVATION ARMY

Special Efforts To Be Started by Big Sunday Rally.

While the Salvation Army is not in the habit of relaxing efforts, during even the summer months, at the same time, a certain acceleration of activities takes place in the autumn when the organization of effort is in progress for the fall and winter campaign. This is the order of the day locally, and in this connection, Brigadier Abby is being brought from Toronto for the week-end to conduct rally day services on Sunday.

Announcement of plans in connection with the building of the new Rescue Home will be made in the course of a few days.

MAKING CHANGES IN HOSPITAL HEATING

At the meeting of the board of works last evening, it was decided to recommend that the Bell Telephone Company be allowed to string certain wires on the East End Town Hall, the city to be paid $1 a year as rental.

The board also decided to recommend that a curb and gutter be laid at Ardavon Place. A curb and gutter will also be laid on Lorne avenue, the necessary bylaw having been prepared.

R. Angus made a report on certain changes necessary to get better results from the heating plant at Victoria Hospital, and these will be made at once.

The recommendations of Mayor Stevenson regarding improvements and changes at the paving plant were sent to City Engineer Brazier to report on.

Some minor business was disposed of.

WARM WELCOME FOR FORTY-EIGHT RETURNED HEROES

Many From District in Large Party Just Home.

TELL OF FIERCE FIGHTS

Hand-to-Hand Bayonet Battles Cleared Trenches of Huns.

Forty-eight wounded and invalided soldiers, including twelve London men, arrived in the city Tuesday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock, via Grand Trunk.

The men were welcomed home by a large crowd of relatives and friends, the reception being one of the most enthusiastic yet tendered to a party returning.

Headed by the 7th Regiment Band, the men, in motor cars loaned by public-spirited citizens, were taken to the Military Convalescent Hospital and Wolseley Barracks.

Two of the men, Ptes. S. Leach of Woodstock and G. Stonefish of Thamesville, were members of the 1st Battalion, each enlisting on August 6, 1914, two days after England had issued her declaration of war.

Pte. Leach was in the majority of the encounters in which the Canadians participated until April 9 of this year, when he was wounded at Vimy Ridge during the terrific fighting at that place.

In Fierce Fights.

Pte. Stonefish, of Indian parentage, saw his duty at the very outbreak, and he, like Pte. Leach, passed through the greatest battles of the war up until Century Wood, June, 1916, when he was wounded as a party of Canadians were charging a German front line trench. He related hand-to-hand encounters with the enemy, in which the proficient bayonet training they had received proved its worth.

Sergt. J. Hodgins, 110th Battalion, whose home is in Stratford, was wounded at Folkestone, a coast town in England, during a zeppelin raid over the place. He was struck by a flying timber torn from a building shattered by an aerial bomb.

The London men who returned were: Sergt. E. Faulkner, Ptes. E. Abey, J. Watt, J. Wilson, S. Tempieton, J. Shoebottom, T. O'Brien, W. Johnson, J. Hill, J. Green, H. Gallop and L. Easdown.

Wounded at Somme.

Quite a number were wounded at the Somme offensive last autumn and this spring, and others were invalided home because of illness or over age. A large percentage of the out-of-town men who arrived were invalided home on account of illness or because of injuries sustained during service in either France or England.

Several of those whose homes are in Western Ontario towns and received wounds bore the scars of battle received in engagements at Ypres or on the Somme.

Those Who Returned.

The following is a list of the out-of-town men who returned:

J. Fulcher, C. McCormick, W. Wheeler, T. Sutherland, J. Hawkins, J. Glover, St. Thomas.

F. Sowray, W. Shepherd, J. Cronin, J. Cedar, Windsor.

Sergt. W. Hodgins, Ptes. N. Zimmer, W. Sillifant, A. Hoare, Stratford.

J. Maguire, S. Leach, H. Colyer, Woodstock.

C. S. M. S. Law, Corp. W. Montgomery, Ptes. H. Watson, W. Adair, J. Clarke, W. Payne, Galt.

C. Q. M. S. A. Mersey, Pte. W. Watson, Kitchener.

Sergts. D. Bell, Port Elgin; T. Lund, Guelph; Corps. G. Miller, Bothwell; C. Fraser, Goderich; J. Kinnaird, Blenheim; Ptes. J. Kennedy, Chatham; W. Bell, Hespeler; E. Wright, Ingersoll; J. Marshall, Walkerton; R. Lee, Perth; G. Stonefish, Thamesville; H. Coutts, Wingham; H. Cross, Fergus; J. Dellaway, Oxford; E. Freeborn, Millbank; P. Fulmer, Kingsville; G. Jones, Elora; C. Welch, Leamington; G. Glover, Belton; H. Vanwyck, Hillsburg; B. Morris, St. Marys; G. Steers, Vienna; W. Parker, Leamington.

After supper at the Convalescent Hospital, E. R. Wilson, of the Y.M.C.A., presided over a program which included addresses by Rev. Dr. Barber, Col. A. A. Campbell, Secretary Ed Lance, Pte. Tirard and Sergt.-Major Harry Edwards.

MAJESTIC.

"WOLF LOWRY" STARS WILLIAM S. HART.

"Wolf Lowry" is the title of the new Triangle-Ince play, starring William S. Hart, at the Majestic Theatre today and Thursday. It is produced under the supervision of Thomas H. Ince, and was written by Charles Turner Dazey.

As "Wolf" Lowry Hart turns from the grim, warrior-like ranchman to a man of softer nature. This great change in his life is brought about by meeting Mary Davis, who he thinks is a settler taking a claim in the midst of his domain. His friendship for her develops into love, and he becomes her champion.

Buck Fanning, a designing real estate agent, visits her and makes coarse and violent love. Lowry, on his way to see Mary, arrives in time to save her and gives Buck one minute to live, but she persuades "Wolf" not to kill him.

Margery Wilson appears as the girl who enters the somber life of "Wolf" Lowry. Aaron Edwards as Buck Fanning, the real estate agent and former gambler, and Carl Ullman as Owen Thorpe are among those in the supporting cast.

William S. Hart in "Wolf Lowry," Showing at the Majestic Today and Thursday.

UNIQUE.

A delightfully breezy story of the love of a young American for an heiress. The girl's mother interferes and practically forces her to marry a count. She learns of the perfidy of her husband and quits him in Paris. Returning home, she goes to her aunt's lodge in the Adirondacks. Her former sweetheart meets her there, while on a hunting trip. Follows a series of thrilling adventures, in which the count, who has followed his wife to extort money from her, tries to compromise her. He is outwitted by the American, who forces the count to agree to a divorce. Comes a promise of happier days for the true lovers. At the Unique today and Thursday.

Six screen stars all playing extras in one comedy is the unusual treat afforded in "When Women Go On the Warpath," the Favorite Film feature, which will be the attraction in the Unique Theatre on Friday and Saturday. Here they are: Rose Tapley, James Lackaye, Flora Finch, James Young, Kate Price and William Shea. And in the leads are Clara Kimball Young and Sidney Drew. Such a combination never was seen before in one picture, and in this particular they add lustre to James Oliver Curwood's screaming comedy wherein the women of Jonesville buy and confiscate every pair of trousers in Jonesville, and by thus keeping the men folks from the polls, carry the town "dry" at a most remarkable election.

Fred Burns, who takes an heroic role in "The Fighting Trail," Greater Vitagraph's serial of the adventure and the great outdoors, where he is superintendent of Lost Mine and right-hand man to William Duncan, is seen to advantage in "How States Are Made," the Favorite Film feature, which will be the attraction at the Unique Theatre on Friday and Saturday. Burns is always at his best where there is action, and lots of it, riding, shooting or fighting. He is a big man in every way, counted one of the best horsemen in the far west and handy with rifle or six-shooter. In "How States Are Made," he takes the title role, and on the day before the race at the opening of government land in Oklahoma is shot in the shoulder, but his plucky wife takes his place and wins the choicest piece of land. With him in the picture are Anne Schaeffer and Robert Thornby.

CAN'T FIND COPIES OF CONTRACTS FOR TECHNICAL SCHOOL

Another Mix-Up Unearthed by Board of Education.

WHERE IS THE ORIGINAL?

Nobody Seems To Know Just What Was in Specifications.

A rather interesting condition of affairs was discovered at the meeting of the board of education yesterday afternoon, when it was announced that no copies of the contracts between John Putherbough and the board, regarding the construction of the technical school, no plans, and no specifications were in the hands of the officers of the board.

The announcement was brought out when there was a dispute about the construction of certain walls in the first story. It was the original intention to construct folding doors in this room, in order that it might be used for an assembly room. This idea was changed, and later it was decided to have solid walls. The architect, Victor Blackwell, ordered the walls in, but the contractor stated that there was nothing in the contract or the specifications covering this.

Nobody Knows.

Then the trustees looked for the contracts and the specifications, but found none. Secretary McElheran wrote to A. E. Nutter, who was dismissed from the job, and the latter forwarded a copy of the contract. The board ordered the walls in at a cost of $585. It is found that the original contract calls for the walls, the contractor must pay. Nobody seemed to know what was in the original contract. Changes were ordered in the lavatories which will cost about $200 to put in.

The board passed a resolution agreeing to an equal division of assessments between separate and public schools in all companies not governed by law. This is the agreement arrived at when the two boards conferred some days ago.

The Russian priest urged that a school to teach Russians the English language be established in his house in the southern part of the city, and the matter was referred to No. 1 committee. These men are very anxious to learn, and something may be done for them.

Want Swimming Pool.

The Y. W. C. A. asked for the use of the swimming pool in Lord Roberts school. The association also asked for the use of the Wortley road school for teaching physical culture to the women of that section. These requests were referred to No. 2 committee.

T. P. Parkinson and a deputation from the local Life Underwriters' Association asked for the privilege of teaching the principles of life insurance to the higher grade students in the schools. This was not a scheme to advertise any particular company, but simply an effort by the insurance men to acquaint the boys and girls with the principles underlying insurance. The matter was referred to No. 3 committee.

O. R. Pengelly, a manual training teacher in the public schools, wrote a letter to the department of education finding fault with the qualifications of the supervisor, W. A. Adams, in charge of the work of the collegiate institute, and also finding fault with the board of education regarding appointments. He thought that the department should investigate the local board in order to remove politics, pull, and the rest of it.

"We should dismiss this young man at once," said Dr. Shoebotham.

However, Mr. Pengelly will be asked to attend the meeting of No. 1 committee and explain his actions.

C. Colley, a returned soldier, was recommended as night janitor of the technical school at $12 a week.

May Be Divided.

There was some debate relative to the apportionment of $60,000 in fire insurance on the technical school. The tariff companies quoted a 40-cent rate, while the non-tariff organizations quoted a 35-cent rate. The matter was sent back to the industrial advisory committee to deal with. There was a disposition to divide the insurance among the tariff companies, but some of the members would not agree to that. The committee has full power to dispose of the matter.

The annual field day of the collegiate institute students will be held on Friday, October 5, probably in Tecumseh Park. The public school students will disport themselves on Friday, October 12. The board will furnish bands for the occasions.

Principal Rogers of the collegiate institute reported that the enrollment in the day classes was 978, with an average attendance of 892. There were 90 pupils in the night classes, 68 taking commercial work and 22 matriculation work. He reported that J. F. Calvert, science master, had spent his holidays in taking up agriculture and horticulture at Guelph, and had started a class at the collegiate with 30 pupils. The Government had made a grant of $100 to the work, and would give an annual grant of $125. Mr. Calvert asked for the use of a portion of ground in South London for demonstration classes next spring. No. 3 committee will look into the matter of supplying equipment, etc.

Principal Rogers also recommended that the children of soldiers who are on active service overseas, and of widows who have lost their husbands in the war, be charged no fees for attendance at the collegiate. This was also referred to No. 3 committee.

7,860 in Schools.

Inspector Edwards reported that the enrollment in the public schools was 7,860, an increase of 331, and the average attendance 7,085, an increase of 416. There were 917 boys in the manual training classes, and 998 girls in the household science classes, with an average attendance of 842 boys and 920 girls.

The nurses made 2,225 inspections during September, finding 133 with defective breathing, 16 with defective vision, and had excluded 32 pupils. There were 14 who had tonsils and adenoids removed. The dental inspector had performed 233 operations during the month.

Principal Beal of the technical school reported that there were 83 pupils enrolled in the day classes at the school, with an average attendance of 74.

Some minor business was disposed of.

WILL RENT QUARTERS IF PRICE IS RIGHT

A committee of the board of education, composed of Chairman Thomas Rowe, A. E. Silverwood, Dr. W. M. Shoebotham and Dr. P. J. Mugan, will meet the utilities commission this week to open negotiations for the renting of the hydro shop for school offices.

The members of the board are favorable to the transaction, provided reasonable terms can be arrived at.

The deal will be closed in all probability before the next meeting of the board.

MAYOR DECLARES CAN GET COAL IF BYLAW IS PASSED

Big Meeting at Pottersburg to Discuss the Question.

DEALERS AGAIN ABSENT

Asked to Come to Platform, But No One Volunteered.

Municipal coal yards will be almost unanimously indorsed by residents of the annexed district if the feeling at a meeting in the Pottersburg public school last night is any indication. The attendance was the largest at any meeting yet held for the discussion of coal yards, and advocates of the scheme had it all their own way. If champions of the coal dealers' cause were present they snuggled deep into their seats and secure in the gloom of the room lighted only by oil lamps and lanterns remained silent.

Mayor Stevenson, who acted as chairman; Ald. H. B. Ashplant and George Terry were the principal speakers.

"I believe that I can positively say that if you give me the power to act I'll get you the coal," said the mayor in opening the meeting. "When we are permanently in the market the jobbers will be only too willing to sell to us. Individual merchants may go out of business, but we would be in it for good, and it would be to their advantage to let us have the coal. It proved that way with hydro. It was claimed that we would be unable to get fixtures and other accessories, but once we were established the firms were ready enough to quote us reasonable prices.

Will Get the Coal.

"If you vote 'yes' on this proposition next Saturday we'll get the coal," he asserted. "I can state that $25,000 has already been pledged to buy the debentures, and that should answer the claim that there would be no market for them. We won't need to pay stock brokers commission or go outside the city.

"If we can't get hard coal this winter we'll get Pocahontas coal, which is smokeless and almost as good. Everything we have put up for the benefit of the city has been opposed by an intrenched ring. Come with me to the city hall for a few weeks if you want to realize that. I'm trying to make the citizen supreme. We may not use this winter the power you give us, but if we don't it will be because the other fellows are trying to beat us out. There isn't a coal company in town has $25,000 invested and you can be sure we won't use nearly that amount."

Ald. Ashplant invited opponents of the scheme to state their claims, but none volunteered, although one citizen to open the discussion asked "Is it fair to take the living of the coal merchants away?" His question was replied to by another citizen who asserted that the scheme would not take a living away from any man, but would merely break up a combination.

Attacks the Ads.

Ald. Ashplant attacked the advertisements of coal dealers in the local press. Early in the week, he said, these most unfairly used the name of Adam Beck in saying that Toronto was only able to obtain soft coal. Advertisements printed the same week said that Toronto had secured hard coal, but at a stiff price. He pointed out that Toronto never submitted a bylaw on the coal question to the people and that the situation in that city could not therefore be compared to that here. The difference, he asserted, was what was scaring the coalmen here.

Dealing with the financial side of the question, he said that if the city were to purchase $25,000 worth of coal, f.o.b., the tracks here, and then offer it to the citizens merely for the cost of cartage, the total burden on the taxpayer would be 8 cents on every $1,000. The assessed value of the city in round figures was $40,000,000. The proposed issue of debentures, $25,000. These were spread over a period of ten years, necessitating raising each year somewhere in the neighborhood of $2,500, which would require a tax of less than 3 cents on every $1,000.

Sell at Cost.

The assumption of giving away the coal was absurd, but even if it were carried out, that would be the total cost. The coalyards, however, would sell the product at cost and not give it away. It was merely a question of which way the people wanted to be taxed, a small amount on their property or more than 50 cents on each ton of coal. The load would not fall on the workingman, but merely on those individuals who were fortunate enough to own a thousand dollars' worth of property.

Comparison of the scheme with the garbage system, he claimed, was manifestly unfair. What it should be compared with was hydro and the L. and P. S. R. "It has nothing to do with the garbage system," he said. "The coal dealers' advertisements have a certain affinity for the garbage end, and their arguments are more or less decayed matter, but that is the only connection."

The best interests of the taxpayers would be served, he said, by a vote in favor of the bylaw.

Presents Figures.

George Terry presented some figures to the taxpayers. They could realize the situation by comparing the price which they paid in 1917 with those he quoted. Prices at the mine plus freight were, he said, in January, $6.44; in February, $6.66; March, $6.49; April, $6.04; May, $6.31; June, $6.40.

London, he said, was the first city to suggest municipal coal yards, and was also largely responsible for the agitation against the high cost of living.

An interesting climax to the meeting ensued when several present charged Ald. Ashplant with trying to throw out the annex agreement. The debate was heated for a few moment, several rising to their feet. As a result it was difficult to catch the drift of the conversation, but the citizens finally resumed their seats in a manner which indicated they were thoroughly disgusted with the matter. Instructions from several parts of the room for Ald. Ashplant to sit down and rest himself brought cries of "Order" from others present, and Mayor Stevenson seized the opportunity to bring the meeting to a close.

"We're behind you on the coal proposition," was the final assurance given him as they reiterated their disgust at the way in which the assessment had been managed.

TWO SMALL FIRES

The explosion of a coal oil stove in one case and neglect to turn off the current in an electric iron left on a wooden table in the other, resulted in calling out the firemen to the homes of John Geary, 128 Waterloo street, and R. H. Pring, 90 Linwood street, Tuesday.

The call to the home of Mr. Geary was turned in at 11:17 o'clock. The electric iron had been left on the kitchen table while those in the house were in another room.

The iron burned through the table and ignited materials underneath. Damage to the extent of $25 resulted.

The coal oil stove at the home of Pring exploded at 12:15 o'clock. The cause, firemen stated, was due to corrosion on the burner. Damage to the extent of $50 was done before the fire was extinguished.

MUST COMPLETE KIT

Officers Instructed to See Men Going to Hospital Fully Equipped.

A full complement of clothing is to be sent to the hospital and a transfer clothing statement passed to the officer commanding when members of units report sick just before embarking for overseas. It has come to the attention of military authorities, say camp orders, that this rule has not always been obeyed and that many men have gone to hospitals without their full kit of clothing and necessaries. Hereafter, in a case of neglect to comply with these instructions, the clothing of the individual concerned will be completed and a cash debit voucher pas against the responsible officer.
