MAN JUMPS ON MOTOR AND CAUSES ACCIDENT

Dr. S. N. Best and Family
Have Narrow Escape From Death.

WOMAN INJURED

Smart Alec Trick of Gang Is Believed To Be Responsible.

Dr. S. N. Best, 341 Simcoe street, a member of the staff of the London Institute of Public Health, his wife and three children, aged 3, 6, and 8, had a narrow escape from death last night, when the auto Dr. Best was driving turned over at Talbotville in a steep ditch. Mrs. Best had her arm crushed and bruised, and the children were badly shaken up. Dr. Best escaped practically unhurt.

The accident was the result of what appears to have been a smart, aleck trick of one of a gang of young men who were standing at the garage on the corner of the old Talbot road and the Lambeth-St. Thomas highway, known in the township of Westminster as North street. Just as Dr. Best and his family drove up about 9 o'clock a youth ran into the roadway and sprang on the running board.

In the suddenness of the attack Dr. Best and his family thought it was a holdup, and as the man tried to wrench open the door, the doctor's attention was diverted from the driving of the machine, and in an instant it had left the road and was tilted up in the ditch.

The youth ran away, but a number of other people ran to the assistance of the five persons who were entangled in the wreckage. All were hastily extricated, and the auto was required so that Dr. Best was able to return with his family to London.

A citizen at Talbotville gave Dr. Best the name of the man alleged to have caused the accident through jumping on the running board, and the name was given to Provincial Officer Stratton, who is now working on the case.

FIRST BATTALION REUNION PROMISES TO BE SUCCESS

That the First Canadian Battalion Reunion to be held in Chatham on Dominion Day, July 1, is going to be a success is vouched for by Capt. D. E. Douglas, secretary of the Veterans Association, in a letter to Assessment Commissioner Bennett.

He says that Col. George Wilkinson of Windsor, and the commander of the battalion, and that a large number of old members of the regiment are coming in from other parts of the province.

The Canadian First Battalion was the outgrowth of London's Own, the Seventh Fusiliers, and the commander, together with Major Chester Butler, local secretary, that the members from the home town of the regiment will turn out in force for the occasion. The Chatham Old Boys' Week will be in progress at the time, and will help to make the day a festive one.

FAMOUS BISHOP COMING TO CITY

Bishop A. C. Headlam of Gloucester Accepts Invitation To Attend Synod.

The Anglican General Synod in September is bringing to London one of the foremost clergymen in the British empire. Bishop A. C. Headlam of Gloucester, has accepted an invitation to deliver the synod sermon on Sept. 24, and it is expected that his visit here will include several other public occasions, and possibly a course of lectures for the members of synod and visiting clergy.

Bishop Headlam will also take part in the ceremonies attendant to the opening of the new buildings of the University of Western Ontario. He has been asked to speak at the formal opening of the new Convocation Hall on the Sunday following, Sept. 28.

Upon Bishop Headlam there rests a large share of responsibility for the widespread discussion of the reunion of the church, following the last Lambeth Conference. It was he who delivered the Brampton series of lectures on Christian reunion at Oxford, which so greatly influenced the bishops at the conference. Bishop Headlam was formerly one of the regius professors of divinity at Oxford. He is the author of a widely known commentary on the Epistle to the Romans, and has recently published a book on the life and teachings of Christ.

The department intends putting in curbing at the corner entrances in the fall and preparing flower beds, so that permanent barriers will be made.

Merchant Outlines Cause For Men Clinging to Old Clothes.

HAVE TWO SUITS

One For Warm Weather and Other When Chilly
Winds Blow.

In the shade of a man's politics, he may be either Liberal or Conservative, but in the shade of his necktie he is always conservative. This much may be learnt from a tour of men's shops to find out what the men are wearing this season. It appears very strongly that the men are wearing this year just what they wore last year. Just as spring wears gently into summer, and summer fades gradually into the autumn, so do the styles of men's clothes ease gently from the past-top effect they wore before the war, to the simple, English cut of the present day mode. Between the change in style from season to season, there is only the imperceptible difference that there is in seasons from day to day of the year.

Asked point blank the reason for this situation, one merchant responded in just as prompt a manner: "Men can't afford it."

Martyrs of Wives.—So it appears that men are forever the martyrs to their wives' extravagances. While madam may have extensive changes of gown, the chap can have but one, the inevitable law of averages taking a hand.

While most women would be moved to wail loudly if told they could only have two dresses, one for hot weather and one for cold, men accept such a situation without demur, that is, the average man. The few fortune possessors hunting togs, and riding togs, and evening togs, and all sort of togs. The majority have a Sunday suit, but this usually degenerates after a while into the two for warm and cold weather.

Every attic can boast a few discarded polka dot ties. Every spring house cleaning sees a couple thrown out. Yet a new assortment of neckties recently from New York disclosed the same old order of polka dots.

Earlier in the season a consignment of slightly more striking effect, with a few patches of bizarre color such as orange and red. They were very new and the feminine world would consider them very attractive—but they were still on the counter, while the polka dots were going fast. Apparently the moss-green old joke about the sort of ties one's wife buys for Christmas has some foundation in fact. The only buyers for the new ties were the feminine sex, but it was suggested that some of these might have made their purchase for millinery adornment.

Not Wide Appeal.

One enterprising shopkeeper ordered some very new and snappy silk handkerchiefs. He can sell them for nothing, but he has no customers, who are disposed to regard them as only fit for "sheiks."

Stores for women are full of novelties—things new and chic and "just what New York is wearing." Things for men may be well cut and of good style, but whether all the women are wearing them doesn't signify, although it usually happens they emerge from closets dressed with the similarity of green peas in a pod.

Fancy doesn't run in a group of women doing the same thing. Two dresses cut from the same pattern and sold in the same town will as likely as not run to a lawsuit.

On the whole, clothiers admit that men are more steady buyers and less easily bamboozled than their wives.

DEPORTATION PROBABLE FOR DETROIT YOUTHS

Sam Barber and Harry Gaisline, two Detroit youths, who were remanded last week on vagrancy charges were again sent back to jail for another week, when they appeared before Magistrate Graydon this morning, the court intimating that they would both be deported unless they heard from their parents in that time.

Barber stated he had written to his mother, but had not heard from her possibly owing to the postal strike.

"Apparently he doesn't want to have anything to do with you," stated Mr. Graydon. "I can have you loafing round here. You better be deported. I'll remand you a week and report your case to the emigration authorities."

MONEY FOR FUNERAL SOUGHT BY FATHER

Youthful War Veteran Dies of Tuberculosis and Funds Lacking.

The G. W. V. A. has been asked to aid in an attempt to obtain the funeral expenses of a young man who died in Connecticut, Ohio, while confined to a sanatorium there with tuberculosis, caused by service overseas in the C. E. F. His father, who lives in Stratford, had the body shipped home for burial but has not the money to meet the expense.

The boy enlisted at the age of 15, and his father made an attempt to stop him from going overseas, but he came to London and swearing out an affidavit as to the boy's age. An attempt was made to bring him back to London, but he had already started across the ocean and could not be stopped.

He was in perfect health before going in the army, but when he returned he was in the first stages of tuberculosis. He was granted a pension, and had received the money up till March, 1923, when it was stopped. He died in March, 1924, and his father wants to know why the money was stopped before his death. George Turner is going to make every effort to obtain this money, because, he says, it is an injustice if the money is not turned over in such a needy case as this.

SECOND CRASH VICTIM ON ROAD TO RECOVERY

Ernest Brown, Ottawa avenue, who was injured in the auto-motorcycle accident that caused the death of Charles Lane is progressing very favorably according to a report from Victoria Hospital this morning.

Both men were on a motorcycle proceeding north on Waterloo street when Lane, driving south on Waterloo, is alleged to have cut the corner at Hill street and crashed into the motorcycle. Both men had their legs broken and gangrene set in in Lane's leg and this plus the shock of the accident caused his death.

OLIVER REGIME CAN HOLD POWER

Members of British Columbia Cabinet Discuss Future of Government.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Victoria, B. C., June 24.—With members of the cabinet assembling here to discuss the government's future with Premier Oliver and W. J. Bowser, K.C., Conservative leader, planning an immediate conference of his supporters to decide what action he should take in view of his defeat in Vancouver, the political situation in British Columbia is still in a state of flux.

That the Oliver government has a sufficient majority to enable it to meet the legislature and to carry it through any ordinary crisis was the only tangible fact that stood out clearly after the premier had talked matters over with the members of his cabinet. The premier himself refused to discuss the government's future or his own.

WESTMINSTER TOWNSHIP WILL PAY SAME PRICE

Ald. Douglass, chairman of the finance committee had an interview with Reeve Laidlaw of Westminster Township yesterday, when the reeve agreed that the township would pay the same fee for the use of the fire department attending fires in the township as is paid by London Township.

Some time ago Westminster Township asked the city council that some arrangements be made whereby the city fire department could attend fires in the township. The meeting was the outcome of the request.

Parliament May Close Next Week

Question of Prorogation Is Discussed at Caucus
Today.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Ottawa, June 24.—The possibility of proroguing parliament the end of next week is understood to have been discussed at a caucus of the Conservative senators and members of the house this morning. The session program was under consideration and in this connection the date of the end of the session came up.

Opinions continue to grow in favor of bringing proceedings to a close by the date mentioned. It is believed, however, that this would mean the dropping of several important pieces of legislation, including redistribution and the new civil service superannuation bill.

BUREAU REPORTS 109 WERE PLACED DURING LAST WEEK

Superintendent J. C. Spencer of the employment service reports that there were 109 placements made last week by the bureau. Of these 22 were experienced men, who were placed out on farms in the vicinity.

The fact that 22 men were placed on farms shows that there is still a persistent demand for experienced farm help. Mr. Spencer remarked. The wages paid vary from $25 to $35 per month with board.

In case of premeditated aggression by Germany," he said, "I have the assurance of a defensive pact that would bind France, England and Belgium. I have the most formal promise that now, as in 1914, a German attack would find England standing with France and Belgium."

RESIDENTS COMPLAIN WHEN GRASS REMOVED

Residents of Maitland street, between Horton and Simcoe streets, and of Grey street, between Maitland and William streets, are appealing to the city council and Horticultural Society to restrain a board of works from which has been busy during the past couple of weeks taking out all grass on the narrow strips between gutters and sidewalks.

On the west side of Maitland street a strip three feet wide in good condition, that ornamented the street for many years, was cleared off and converted into what the property owners describe as a disfigured slum area. The grass was taken out and the root and will not grow again without replanting. The complaining property owners claim that the purpose of the change is not discernible.

ALL MAILS MOVING

Toronto and Windsor Only
Two Cities To Be Seriously Affected.

Montreal, June 24.—The executives of the Letter Carriers' Association and the Postal Clerks' Association are concerned. Every effort is being made to get the postal strikers back to work. A fight between strikers and non-strikers is being fought. Mr. Gaudet promised to consider the case of each man individually having regard to his ability and to financial considerations.

TWO CITIES STILL OUT

Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, June 24.—What was intended to be a Dominion-wide strike of Canadian postal employees has become a fight between strikers and non-strikers in Montreal, Toronto and Windsor and the federal government.

At all other points in the country the service is functioning normally, while in Montreal it is expected that the mail will be handled efficiently in a few days.

In the two Ontario cities the service is seriously disrupted and the situation, as far as business houses are concerned, is assuming grave proportions. Every effort is being made to provide service, hundreds of substitute workers have been employed, and a system of mail delivery at a special rate has been put into operation, but it will be some time before the problem of dealing with the tremendous accumulation of mail is solved.

It was reported yesterday that two firms had decided to close down, and they will be followed by others unless movement of the mails is speedily accomplished.

Government officials are firm in their stand that as far as they are concerned, no further negotiations will be conducted with the striking employees, and no postmaster has received instructions to bring the strikers to full strength by the employment of new men.

Efforts of the strikers to bring Hamilton postal workers out again have been futile. A meeting held there last night was poorly attended and a full staff is now on duty.

A crisis has been reached at Windsor and last night Hon. Charles Stewart, acting postmaster-general, wired the mayor of the Western Ontario city asking for a definite reply as to the intent and power of the authorities to afford protection to those engaged in the strike, or of the mail. If necessary, the government will send police to Windsor to guarantee delivery of mail.

WILL DELIVER TODAY

Canadian Press Despatch.
Ottawa, June 24.—All mail for banks and large commercial concerns in Toronto will be delivered today, it was stated at the postoffice department last night.

REEVE PROMISES HELP IN SEWER CONSTRUCTION

Altermen Douglass and Anderson and the city engineer held a consultation yesterday with the reeve of Westminster Township to see what could be done by the township in the way of paying part of the cost of the London South storm sewer, which is used largely to carry off water from the city property, which comes from the township lands.

This has been a source of some debate in the city council this year and the city has been building a sewer for the benefit of citizens in London South, whose land has been flooded. Reeve Laidlaw promised that the township would pay a part of the cost of construction of the storm sewer in view of the facts of the case.

LEVEL CROSSINGS AID EXPECTED FROM THORNTON

When Sir Henry Thornton is in the city next week, as he hopes to be, he will go over the question of London's level crossings with the mayor and council. When he was in the city in December he promised that the road would do what he could to carry the way of alleviating conditions.

The total cost of putting in elevated tracks at that time was stated to be in the neighborhood of $8,000,000 by the C. R. R. engineers.

London Professor Given Two Degrees By Oxford

Rev. Frank Anderson of Huron College Receives B.D. and D.D.

OXFORD GRADUATE

Oxford has conferred the degrees of B.D. and D.D. upon Rev. Professor Frank Anderson, M.A., B.D., professor of church history at Huron College. Word to this effect was received in the city by cable yesterday, the degrees having been conferred at a congregation held last Thursday.

Dr. Anderson, who is a graduate of Oxford, received word last September that the theses which he had presented to the regius professor of divinity on "The Greek Apologists of the First Two Centuries" had been accepted as amply sufficient to qualify him for receiving these degrees in course.

For the purpose of taking them in person at Oxford, Dr. Anderson had expected to sail next Friday for England. About a month ago, however, he learnt that unless he could reach Oxford before the end of the term on July 5, there were difficulties in the way of doing this, but that an application to have them conferred "in absentia" would be in order.

REV. FRANK ANDERSON, D.D., professor of church history at Huron College, who has been honored by Oxford.

LABOR IS AGAIN BEATEN IN HOUSE

Conservative-Liberal Combination Defeats Macdonald Regime on Motion.

Associated Press Despatch.

London, June 24.—The Labor government sustained another defeat in the House of Commons last night by the substantial vote of 315 against 175, in consequence of a Conservative-Liberal combination in favor of referring a motion dealing with the financial provisions of the housing bill to a committee of the whole House instead of to a special committee which the government sought to impose. The defeat, however, was one of procedure and not of principle. No political significance therefore was attached to it and the other business of the House proceeded.

Prior to this incident the bill which embodies the financial resolutions had already passed its second reading after a motion presented by the opposition for its rejection had met with defeat by a vote of 269 to 206. The opposition argued that the bill was unsound in theory and practice and that its financing was thoroughly bad. The Liberals also expressed their discontent, and it was a motion of C. F. Masterman (Liberal, Rushmore) which resulted in the government's discomfiture.

STUDENTS TO CONTROL SCHOOL TENNIS COURTS

Playing Plans Are Being Drawn Up at Central Collegiate.

The students' council at the Central Collegiate Institute is arranging for the use of the tennis courts at that school during the vacation period. The student body will govern the use of the courts from 9 o'clock in the morning until 6 in the evening. The splendid courts have just been furnished with new backstops and are in good shape for play.

Outdoors have applied for the use of the courts, applicants including the young people's division at Central Methodist Church. However, it is expected that the students of the college will use them for the greater part of the time, and if the courts are not in use during the evenings special arrangements may be made. Plans for use of the court after tea cannot be completed until the students make their arrangements.

FORMER LONDONER, E. C. BOWKER, DIES

Manager of Dominion Bank in City For Two Years.

E. Clarke Bowker, former branch manager of the Dominion Bank in London, died in Toronto on Saturday at the General Hospital. Mr. Bowker had endured an illness of six weeks, from which no hope was held out for his recovery.

Shortly before his illness, Mr. Bowker received word of his appointment as the New York agent for the Dominion Bank, and with his wife and family had taken up residence there. He left London two years ago, on his appointment as assistant manager of the Toronto branch of the Dominion Bank, establishing his home in Toronto.

Entering on leaving school, Mr. Bowker had been in the service of the Dominion Bank for 33 years. He had served as branch manager in London, in Brandon, Man., and in Edmonton, Alta.

Mr. Bowker was formerly a member of the London Rotary Club and flowers were sent from the London delegation attending the Toronto convention recently. It was announced at the Rotary Club meeting yesterday that no hopes were held for his recovery.

The widow, Mrs. Kathleen Bowker, was formerly a member of the London Women's Press Club. Mrs. Bowker contributes frequently to magazines and is the literary editor of the Canadian Bookman, and while in London contributed many articles to The Advertiser.

In Canada's Parliament

Canadian Press Despatch.

Ottawa, June 24.—Today in parliament:
The Senate will sit.
The church union bill is the first order in the House of Commons and after that comes the lake freight resolution and a resolution to amend the British North America act.

Yesterday in parliament:
In the Senate, Senator Robertson opposed the excise tax on cigarettes, on the ground that it encouraged wholesale smuggling, which resulted in a loss of revenue, loss to industry and an increase in unemployment.

In the House of Commons, Hon. Charles Stewart, acting postmaster-general, said that the government could not consider arbitration with its employees. A bill amending the juvenile delinquents act was given third reading.

There was a long discussion on the vote for the Wembley Exhibition, E. J. Garland (Progressive, Bow River) moving to reduce the vote by $20,000 as a protest against a proposal to send a party of parliamentarians to the exhibition. The amendment was defeated by 86 to 48, Liberals voting against it, and Progressives dividing.

COUNTS 546 MOTORS ON RETURN TO PORT

Citizen Believes Sunday Evening Location of Londoners Revealed.

"I came into London on Sunday night and went to church," remarked a London businessman, who dwells at Port Stanley in the summer months. After church the city about 8:30 and had to drive at a moderate rate because there were so many cars with bad headlights. We did not go all the way into the village, but turned on a side road about three miles to this side. How many cars do you suppose we met in that stretch, about 22 miles in all?"

"Oh, just as a guess, I'll say 400," returned the reporter.

"More than that. We met 546, and, of course, that would be only a portion of them, as many had come home before and many more would come in later. So I guess the preacher who had only 136 people in his church on Sunday night, was not far from being right when he said they were all at Port Stanley."

Map Showing Various Routes Taken by British, French, American and Portuguese Aviators In Their Flights to Encircle Globe

KEEP THIS MAP.

Progress of the British and American aviators in their round-the-world flight may be followed on this map as future despatches tell of their arrivals at the points marked. At the present time the American fliers have a slight advantage, due partially to the wrecking of MacLaren's plane. The latter, however, has resumed his flight, and the Americans are now being delayed by the illness of their commander.

OH TO BE MARRIED, NOW THAT SUMMER IS HERE

June Is Popular Month For Matrimonial Leap, City Clerk Relates.

GOOD REVENUE

One Solitary Iron Man Is All the City Gains From Little Scripts.

With the coming of June and the urge of matrimony in the hearts of Londoners, the city clerk is kept busy issuing marriage licenses, and has been paying in about $100 a week to the city treasurer's department as revenue from this source for some time now. From the beginning of May he has collected something like $450 in this way, and expects to make a good showing in July as well. The city does not benefit to any great extent by these licenses as the provincial department in Toronto takes $4 for each license and the city's profit dwindles to a mere solitary iron man per license.

The periodicity of marriage, via the license route is interesting. It seems to come in more or less regular seasons. The city clerk's records show that he is busy with couples who ask his aid in getting away to a good start on the adventure trail, in June and July, in September and October, and for a couple of weeks around Christmas. At other times it is a very rare occurrence indeed to have anyone come in for a marriage license.

He blames the weather for the four months mentioned, and of course the habit that fashion has made imperative for all smart affairs. As for Christmas that is different. It may be that generous firms give some of their employees a raise then, or that the couple are above the pettiness of dame fashion, and refuse to say her the respect of waiting until June or as a civic in the city hall, it may be the overflow of the Christmas spirit, and its message of "Peace on earth," that is responsible.

Web-Footed Dog Is Placed In Zoo

Special to The Advertiser. New York, June 24.—A web-footed wild dog from the wilds of the Amazon Valley is the latest addition to the Washington Zoological Park. It has thick ears, cauliflower shape, and a long nose like the South American anteater. It has the build of a dachshund, with long, silky hair trailing almost to the ground. The strange animal was brought here yesterday on the return of William Schurz, attaché to the United States embassy at Buenos Aires. Mr. Schurz has given the wild dog to the Washington zoo.

TWO PICNICS PLANNED BY CITY ROTARIANS

Two Hundred Children From Orphanages To Be Entertained at Frolic.

The London Rotary Club is this year for its annual outing arranging two picnics instead of one. In addition to their wives and families, the members are to entertain some 200 or more children from the various local orphanages. The special picnic committee is working on the suggestion that the children's picnic be held on the day immediately following the club picnic, with equal attention to a good program of sports for each occasion. The committee has under consideration the advisability of following this suggestion or of holding the two picnics simultaneously.

The Rotarians are reviving the custom this year of holding the annual picnic on private picnic grounds or in the country. They have accepted an invitation to the country home of Rotarian Ray Lawson.

C. N. R. WORKERS HOLIDAY.

T. R. Hodgins, assistant accountant, and A. Jackson, record clerk, of the C. N. R. superintendent's office, and Reginald Martin of the freight shed office, are on their holidays at present. So large is the staff of employees in the station and freight sheds offices that the holiday schedule runs from May 1 until the end of September.

CIVIC PEONY SHOW TO BE RARE TREAT

Thirty-Seven Classes Will Be Shown at Event This Week.

Due prominence is to be accorded London's civic flower—the peony—this week by the second peony show to be held on Thursday and Friday of this week in the Armories. The strange animal was brought here yesterday on the return of William Schurz, attaché to the United States embassy at Buenos Aires. Mr. Schurz has given the wild dog to the Washington zoo.

On account of the peony blooms not having come on to a sufficient degree owing to tardiness on the part of Dame Nature, the show has been postponed from today and tomorrow until Thursday and Friday of this week. In all there are 37 classes to be shown. Every preparation is being made by officials in charge of the show to accommodate an exceedingly large number of blooms. The prizes are of sufficient value to attract exhibitors from points outside of London even. No amateur grower of peonies need feel timid about showing even two or three bouquets, however, since the prize list is arranged with a view to interesting this very type of florist-gardener. Such is only part of the scheme of the London Horticultural Society, under whose auspices the show is being put on, to increase the already large number of citizens growing London's civic flower.

Outside the rare beauty of the scene to be presented by the wealth of bloom in the Armories is the fact that the show will itself be in the nature of an education for people wishing to secure peony bulbs, since they will be able to make their choice from having seen the finished product.

Firemen Make Ideal Husbands

Push Wicked Brush Around Central Hall.

Fire Chief Aitken has not been able to make a statement on any of the firemen, but he certainly is making them ideal family men. This morning all the doors of the fire hall were receiving a good scrubbing from top to bottom. Somebody said that they would be a great help to their wives, and one fireman said that he had done all the washing after he went home last night.

HYDRO CONSUMPTION INCREASED BY OVENS

Firm Purchases As Much Power As the Street Railway.

A big increase in hydro consumption here has just been made possible by the installation of electrical ovens at the plant of the Battle Creek Corn Flakes Company. The new ovens will require wiring equipment for 40,000 horsepower and will consume as much power as the London Street Railway in daily operations.

FORMER LONDONER, NOW OF CALIFORNIA, VISITS CITY

Dave Rose, formerly owner of the Metropolitan Suit and Skirt Company, and lately of Los Angeles, Cal., is visiting friends in this city. Tins in California are reported by Mr. Rose as being quiet, due to election and disease among cattle, which depressed farm stocks at an alarming rate. Climatic conditions are ideal, but Mr. Rose says Canadians are not he congratulated on having a wonderful climate, also the invigorating winter being particularly healthy.

PLAY SUPERVISORS ARE NOT POLICEMEN

Responsibility of the Officials Ofttimes Overrated, Utilities Manager Declares.

"Supervisors are not policemen; we don't want them to be policemen," said General Manager E. V. Buchanan of the public utilities commission this afternoon. "They are there to teach the children, to show them the way to better citizenship," Mr. Buchanan stated in explaining the duties of the playground officials. "They are chosen because of their ability as child leaders, and are trying to instruct children in morals and citizenship." Responsibility of supervisors at playgrounds and swimming pools is oftentimes overrated, it is pointed out. While erring children are once in a while expelled, an honor system of conduct keeping is usually observed. Parents are asked to co-operate, even to the extent of coming to the playgrounds with their children. Mothers could come in the afternoon and dads in the evening. In this way greater interest and cooperation could be insured. They could help with instruction in many ways.

DIRECTOR OF ST. PETER'S CHOR TO VISIT ABROAD

Dr. Louis Balogh, director of St. Peter's Cathedral choir, has received a three months leave of absence and will sail at an early date for Europe. He intends to visit his old home in Hungary. Paul Marky, friend of Dr. Balogh, who recently appeared here in recital, will remain in London until his second American tour in the autumn, and will substitute as organist and choir leader at the cathedral.

RAILWAY'S FIELD OPENS WITH LARGE ATTENDANCE

There was an attendance of nearly 300 people at the opening ceremonies of the C. N. R. athletic park on Egerton street last night. The occasion was a most auspicious one, marking as it did the initial bow of London's latest sporting organization, the C. N. R. A. A., which association has been recently organized to control and promote all branches of sport among the employees of the C. N. R. in the city and running out of the city. The success and enthusiasm which attended the opening last night augured well for the continued and ultimate success of the association.

CHURCH CORNERSTONE TO BE LAID TOMORROW

At 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon the official laying of the cornerstone of the new Church of Christ Disciples will take place at the corner of Dundas and Elizabeth streets. EMPRESS AVENUE Y. P. L.

The Citizenship Department took charge of the regular meeting of the Empress Avenue Young People's League last evening. The subject taken up was "Immigration," and was cleverly taken by Mr. Will Parsons. The Bible lesson was read by Miss Albert Smeltzer, and piano solos by Miss Hilda Grieve and a vocal duet by Misses Grace Bignell and Elsie Lucas were greatly enjoyed. It was decided that the members of the League would attend the summer school at Alma College, St. Thomas, the evening of July 7.

DEMOCRATS OPEN BIG CONVENTION

New York Gathering Called To Find Presidential Nominee.

Associated Press Despatch. New York, June 24.—The Democratic national convention set out today to lay down a platform and find a presidential nominee. The opening program, beginning at noon, daylight saving time, gave light indication of the seething undercurrents of clashing ambitions and opinions that have bedeviled the delegates for days and are likely to rock the convention for many more days after disposal of the formalities of temporary and permanent organization. The high notes of today's formal prelude to the impending spectacle in Madison Square Garden were the keynote address of Senator Harrison of Mississippi, as temporary chairman, appointment of the resolutions, credentials and other committees, sundry speeches and action on a resolution in respect in memory of Woodrow Wilson.

BUYERS OF LOCAL MOTOR PLANT STILL UNKNOWN

John S. Moore, general manager of the London and Western Trusts, receiver of the Ruggles Motor Company here, is unaware of the buyers of the plant, for whom J. A. Kent, insurance broker of 38 King street, Toronto, is acting and whose tender for something more than $50,000 was recently accepted by Mr. Moore for the plant.

S. of Southern Congregational Church, Miss Eunice Hilton presided, and the Scripture reading was given by Miss Alma Gillies. TERM IN PRISON GIVEN FOR FRAUD

Court Refuses To Believe the Elaborate Tale of Thomas James.

Thomas James, 25, who on two previous occasions has been given the benefit of the doubt on charges of false pretences, "took the count" this morning on his third appearance, and was sentenced to the Ontario reformatory for not less than three months and not more than two years less one day. James gave Claude Stevens two different checks amounting to $24 for two automobile tires, knowing that he had only $2 in the bank, and also represented himself as the owner of a truck. In passing sentence, Magistrate Graydon declared he had more reason to believe that James was a speculator for a burglar than for a penitentiary. "It was a contemptible, cowardly thing to do," declared the court. "You were very lucky in not going to penitentiary."

COUNTY FROLIC WILL BE REAL LIVE EVENT

Councillor Bill Boler Likely To Do Mound Duty in Ball Tussle.

Middlesex municipal authorities from the waratah road foremen are preparing for the best picnic of the year at Springbank yesterday afternoon. Although the affair is primarily for municipal officials, a cordial invitation is extended to every person in the county to be present. The baseball game between municipal officers and the county council promises to be "the" game of not only the year but the century. Councillor Bill Boler of Byron, who will likely do the heaving for the councillors, has spent the last week, driving a team of horses with the "heaves" and promising one will be in great shape to fan out the county clerk and Capt. Tom Robson. There will also be a ball game for the ladies, with ex-Warden John S. Cousins as umpire. The umpire is an attraction in himself and the game will draw a large "congregation."

ROBINSON MEMORIAL LEAGUE.

The Young People's League of Robinson Memorial Church held a jolly picnic at Springbank yesterday. About twenty-five guests were present, and following a baseball game and a splendid program of sports, a picnic supper was served. Miss Sutton was refractory one, and E. O. Hall was in charge of the sports.

TO BE COMPLETEDHousing Commission Will Hire Unemployed in City
To Do Work.In view of the large number of men at present out of work in the city the London Housing Commission last night decided to buy lumber which is needed in fencing in some of the Pine Lawn houses, and pay some of the unemployed in that district to do the work. The only regret of the commission was that so few men could be accommodated in this way.Chairman Ashton, having read the tenders for this fencing, which had been called for by the commissioners and which resulted in three offers, one for 58 cents a running foot and the other two for 60 cents a running foot, made the suggestion that the commission buy the lumber and material and set the work done by men who are out of work. This was readily agreed to by Commissioners Ernie Dennis and Rud Hessel.The amount of fencing to be done is about 1,000 feet. Building Inspector Piper will be in charge of the work, and was instructed to pay the same wages as the city is paying for other laboring work at the present time."At a time like this even two weeks of work is a very welcome gift for a man out of work," declared Commissioner Dennis, and Mr. Hessel stated that he knew several good carpenters who were walking the streets, unable to find jobs.PT. STANLEY ODDFELLOWS

Pupils Approved by Committee.Due to likely congestion of secondary school classes two rooms of the Victoria public school may be pressed into service for collegiate accommodation, commencing in September. The matter was accompanied by Principal E. A. Miller of the Central Collegiate at the postponed session of the collegiate committee last night. With only one dissenting voice, the scheme was indorsed and passed on to the Board of Education for approval.Collegiate accommodation was the headline on the agenda of the committee. The committee was notified of the relocation of their building proposals to the city council. They were also informed that there would be increases in enrolment at the south and east colleges. In South London the increase would amount to at least 60 students. Trustee Mrs. J.
I. A. Hunt opposed the scheme of annexing the library room at Victoria school and another room for collegiate purposes. It wasn't fair to the public school students to crowd them out.
At the same time Mrs. Hunt opposed the scheme of permitting collegiate students to remain in such buildings as they were now accommodated.Broaches Platoon System.Here Mrs. Hunt broached the platoon system for high school pupils.
"Send some to school at 8 o'clock in the morning and have them study
until a quarter to one," she offered.
"Send the other half of the students to school in the afternoon."On the grounds that the efficiency and health of the individual pupils would be more greatly impaired than under present conditions, Chairman Dr. Grant and other trustees opposed the move. A four or five hour stretch was too great for any pupil to stand, even admitting "spare" period which Mrs. Hunt pointed to. Health would be handicapped and brain fog would make it difficult to concentrate late in the study period.

Asked for an opinion, Mr. E. A.

DR. LEE K. FRANKEL.Outstanding Jewish philanthropist of New York, who will be honored by Canadian charity organizations while attending the social service conference at Toronto.Miller advocated a continuance of the healthy competition in sports, studies and literary competition which now existed amongst the secondary schools of the city. Teaching staffs and student bodies were giving good work now and the primary organization for a unit system of collegiates was available. The same "school-spirit" could not be invoked by morning and afternoon classes at the Central Collegiate Institute.Parents Would Object.Parents would kick strenuously against changes in meal hours. Without approving of the present system as anything like ideal, Mr. Miller nevertheless held out for its continuance as against the double platoon idea."We have done our full duty as a board in fighting for better accommodation," declared Trustee Rev. C. G.
Warner. "The responsibility for not having provided better accommodation is not ours."Trustees George Copeland pointed out that he had just conferred with School Inspector Greer and had beenassured that no serious crowding would be caused at Victoria School.
There would be no necessity to send public school pupils from this institution to Wortley road or Riverview schools, as had been hinted. A slight rearrangement of classes would leave a room vacant, and the library room could be used for the other. No serious effects of having public and secondary school pupils under the same roof were feared.Recommendation Indorsed.The recommendation of Mr. Miller was indorsed by the committee on the motion of Trustees Warner. It was to have been considered by No.
2 committee, but was not broached at the last meeting of that body and therefore will likely come up as it now stands before the July meeting of the board.Announcements of outsiders for the use of the Central Collegiate tennis courts and softball grounds were left in abeyance. The matter of securing a public hall license for the Central Collegiate was left over for Principal Miller to report on.Principal Miller brought in a report on the evening matriculation classes conducted last winter. In these classes 117 students had enrolled, paying fees of $9 each. He recommended that the fees be increased to $18 if the classes were to be continued. Even this would still leave a considerable portion of the tuition cost to be borne by the city and trustees asked that Chairman Grant and Trustee Copeland investigate the situation before any drastic change was made.PHONOFILM HELD

Ottawa, June 23.—An account of who acted for the Canadian National Railway in the purchase of the Hotel Scribe and the company, was given by Major Graham Bell, deputy minister of railways, before the House of Commons committee examining the accounts of the national lines today.The sum of $4,110,000 francs was paid above the actual purchase price for the securing of the deed and the registration of the mortgage. Sir Henry Thornton agreed to procure the figure of the final settlement with Aronovici when the company took over the title from him.Under examination by Sir Henry Drayton, Major Bell gave the circumstances leading up to Aronovici's leaving the company. Aronovici had a plan to make a profit to himself by the exploitation of the building in rents. Major Bell believed that if Aronovici could make money out of it, the company could do the same.

Aronovici was informed that there would be no place for him in the re-

Major Bell was informed that the Scribe building would probably yield

FACES AMERICANSWalter W. Price Gives Warning At Convention of N.
Y. State Bankers.Canadian Press Despatch.
Montreal, June 23.—The great issue before the American public today is the control of government and industry by private money. For a generation the people have struggled patiently in the face of repeated betrayals by successive administrations to free themselves from this intolerable power which has been undermining representative government. Through control of government, monopoly has steadily extended its absolute dominion to every basic industry. In violation of law, monopoly has crushed competition,
stifled private initiative and independent enterprises, and without fear of punishment now exacts extortion-ate profits from every necessity of life. The equality of opportunity proclaimed by the Declaration of Independence, and asserted and defended by Jefferson and Lincoln, as the heritage of every American citizen, has been displaced by special privilege for a few.These declarations were made by Walter W. Price, New York, at the opening session this morning of the convention of New York State Bankers' Association here. Referring to the trials of the present period, he said:
"We are in full possession of the knowledge of the depression whichtime, but when we take into consideration the fact that all classes of people in our vast population are better off than they have ever been before, that they are living in more comfort and in possession of more advantages than previously, that unemployment is comparatively limited, and is at striking variance with conditions that existed only two years ago, that the figures of savings bank deposits are staggering, and that in its own natural wealth and its enormous accumulation of visible wealth in the last ten years, it is the most prosperous country on the face of the earth, not only today, but prospectively, we must be moved to the conclusion that the apprehension, which is so generally felt is a state of mind predicated upon sentiment rather than upon logical grounds."
Twelve hundred delegates are registered at the convention, and 800
more are expected.CORPUS CHRISTI SERVICES

Lieut. Russel Maughan Successfully Completes Dawn To Dusk Flight.

GREAT RECEPTION

Airman Wins On Third Attempt To Cross Continent by Daylight.

Associated Press Despatch. San Francisco, June 23.—Lieut. Russell L. Maughan, army flier, successfully completed his daylight-to-dusk flight from New York to San Francisco when he landed at Crissy Field at 9:48 p.m. He arrived in San Francisco at 9:44 p.m.

As soon as the plane landed newspapermen broke through police lines holding back a huge crowd lining the field, and greeted the flier. A few seconds later the mammoth throng of spectators, cheering and shouting, and while automobile sirens shrieked in a bedlam of noise, surged over the landing field and surrounded the plane.

Associated Press Despatch. Mitchell Field, N. Y., June 23.—Lieut. Russell Maughan's transcontinental flight today was his third attempt to cross the continent between dawn and dusk.

Today's flight was made in a 275-horsepower, 12-cylinder Curtiss pursuit plane. From Mitchell Field, N. Y., to Crissy Field at San Francisco is 2,670 miles, but the flight called for a slightly longer distance.

Fred Temple of Belleville Is Victim of Self-Poisoning.

Canadian Press Despatch. Belleville, June 23.—Fred Temple, 14, Marchmont Home boy, and living for the last three years on the farm of F. H. Bedell, close to the city and within half a mile of Marchmont Home, died today at the General Hospital here from poisoning. He had taken Paris green. Discovered soon afterwards by Mr. Bedell, medical aid was summoned and everything possible was done to save his life. Officials of the home and of the Children's Aid Society have failed to find any motive except the problematical one that having failed in his entrance examinations he worried about that. A sister and a brother of the lad were with him for some hours on Sunday morning, and he appeared to be in good spirits. He had been four years in this country.

Muskegon, Michigan.—"After doctoring for eight or nine years with different physicians without any relief at all, they said at last that medicine would not reach my case and I should have an operation. I had heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and often saw it advertised in different papers where some women had suffered just as I did and got well and strong again by taking the Vegetable Compound. I decided to see what it would do for me, and before I had finished the fourth bottle I was much better, the weakness stopped and the severe pains in my sides left me. I am now much stronger and do my own work and in the factory besides. I am still taking the Vegetable Compound and give it all the praise."

Mrs. Quillon, 17 Morris St., Muskegon, Mich.

Women should heed such warning symptoms as bearing-down pains and weakness, for they indicate some female trouble, and a persistent and faithful use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will seldom fail to help.

FUNNY FAT MAN STARS AT LOEW'S

Walter Hiers Demonstrates His Unusual Versatility in "Fair Week."

TURNS ACROBAT

Fair Week itself could give no more thrills than the picture of the same name, a feature of the program at Loew's for the commencement of the week.

Walter Hiers, the funny fat man of the screen, is featured more prominently than any other player. His abilities, amply demonstrated in this picture, are not confined to comedy, but can run to a good deal of genuine "emotion," and even to the extent of a circus acrobat when required. Hiers commences in this picture as the socially obscure but physically prominent bellboy in the Coliseum House of Rome, Mo. He ends as the hero, and the stalwart oak upon which the leading banker's daughter is to lean for the remainder of her days.

Parade means there is a thrilling parachute ascension, a daring descent, a bold hold-up of a speeding express train, a cross-town chase, and finally a battle to death in the deserted church belfry. And here may be added any other adjectives which indicate thrills and speed and excitement galore. Through it all our hero remains as calm, heroic and as romantic as any six-foot Romeo who ever wandered across the screen. Hiers, his bellboy personality temporarily abandoned, accomplishes a sensational rescue from the parachute, prevents the sweet, young thing from eloping with the villain, saves the town bank, and, in short, makes himself an out and out hero, worthy not only of the town of Rome, Mo., but of the world.

With so much interest in the story itself, the usual Paramount attention to the remainder of the cast and to other important details, a picture could scarcely be such a big success, and in this respect "Fair Week" is just what might be expected.

Following last week's program there is a certain sameness about the vaudeville features. There are presented again the comic musical duo, the "Lauder" order, and a comedian. But there are new features in that the two musicians in second place have a versatile and clever performance, and the comedy duo, Donald McAdam, who with the Sullivan Sisters is seen in the headline, is a singer of excellent ability, and his songs are of the laudatory order, especially pleasing. The two girls contribute mightily to the act, with their popular Scotch dances and burlesque. The musical duo, who are the "Lauder" order, are a comedy duo, and their performance does some very good stuff with a great deal of comedy which gives it more zest than the usual "magic."

TO DISCUSS PLAN.

Associated Press Despatch.

London, June 23.—The business of the inter-allied conference will be the Daves report. Mr. MacDonald said today. "As soon as the Daves report is put into operation, as soon as all the machinery is arranged for in order to put the report into operation and is in active operation, obviously we shall proceed to discuss, and I hope to arrange, other outstanding questions between ourselves, including the inter-allied debt, but the question of putting the Daves report into operation."

Ronald McNeill (Unionist) asked whether, in view of the recent correspondence with Canada over the Lausanne treaty, the dominions would be asked to participate in the inter-allied conference.

Premier MacDonald after consulting with J. H. Thomas, colonial secretary, said: "As a matter of fact we are in communication with the dominions now. I think perhaps I had better give this assurance, that without committing myself to details of what is to be done, the dominions will be completely consulted so that they may feel they are partners with us in everything we do. The point I would like to make clear is that in settling the question of putting the Daves report into operation we shall certainly take no responsibility that either this country or the dominions will be mulcted in seeing it carried out."

The premier added that the dominion governments had been fully acquainted with the imperial government's policy with regard to the Daves report and the developments in connection with it and their replies had been satisfactory.

BRITAIN MINTS Russian Coins

British Treasury Begins Contract For 45,000,000 Soviet Coins.

Associated Press Despatch.

London, June 23.—The population of Russia will no longer be handicapped in the matter of coins with which to carry on domestic commerce, provided they can overcome the difficulty of gaining possession of these monetary conveniences. The British treasury has already started on an order to mint 45,000,000 coins for the Soviet government.

The contract for these coins is the first Great Britain has received for the Soviet government since the two countries patched up their diplomatic difficulties. These coins will also be the first Soviet coins ever minted.

The coins are almost two and five rouble pieces. The coin is exceedingly plain, one side carrying the Soviet coat-of-arms and the other the value of the coin and the date.

HOUSE SITS MORNINGS TO SHORTEN SESSION

Premier Announces Steps To Hurray Prorogation—All Business Before House.

Special to The Advertiser.

Ottawa, June 23.—Morning sittings of parliament probably will be held all next week and during prorogation, Premier King informed the House today in answer to questions when such a step would be made to bring the session to an end. The prime minister implied that there would be no Saturday sittings this week, and that no decision has been made about Saturday sittings at all this session.

Right Hon. Arthur Meighen remarked that when some definite agreement had been made between all parties on a definite date for prorogation he would have no objection to morning and Saturday sittings. Some arrangement should be made soon, he thought.

The legislation which the government intends bringing down this session is now before the House, the premier added, in answer to a question of Mr. Meighen.

Chatham, June 23.—The county road committee has decided that concrete pavements can be built as cheaply as macadam. This was indicated by tenders for two permanent road projects. The Paving and Mastie Company made the successful bid for the work, which includes a two-mile stretch of the Dover town line and a similar distance on the base line, Camden township.

THIEVES NERVOUS

Special to The Advertiser.

Chatham police are seeking two nervous thieves. One entered a tent at 4:30 this morning while the residents slept, and emptied the pockets of several articles of clothing. A valuable gold watch was taken. George W. Braddon of Elkins, Chatham Horticultural Society as the thief was leaving. Clad in his pyjamas he chased the night raider for some distance, but gave up because he did not like to continue the sprint through the city streets in his scant attire.

MUCH DAMAGE BY STORM IS REPORTED AT AYLMEY

Special to The Advertiser.

Aylmer, June 23.—During the terrific electrical storm in this district Friday, the home of Frank Ostrander, Caverly road, was struck by lightning and burned to the ground. Six cows in a herd of eight owned by Fred Procunier, a team of horses belonging to Walter Holdards, butcher, and another horse owned by Bert Thomson, were killed by lightning.

The hydro system was also out of commission several hours.

NEW HYDRO RATES IN SUBURBAN ZONE

Reduction of Fifteen Per Cent Affects Nine Hundred Consumers.

Special to The Advertiser.

Nine hundred consumers of hydro-electric power are affected by a new rate which has just been announced from the Toronto office. Superintendent R. E. Hughes of the suburban district hydro zone was informed yesterday by letter that a new rate was to go into effect immediately, this rate to be a reduction of fifteen per cent from the tariff recently announced, and against which there was so much protest.

A special delegation from the Base Line road and Brick street district went to Toronto to wait on department heads. They went to protest the objection of over 100 hydro consumers of their district to the recently announced rates, which were a jump of 100 per cent.

Sign Rate Cards.

At first the delegation believed an headway had been made with acting department heads at Toronto. They returned with reports that little satisfaction had been obtained, and under the impression that they must sign their new rate cards or power would be cut off. Following a meeting of the ratepayers' association, a "Tiz" was made yesterday that the suburbanites would sign under protest.

However, Superintendent Hughes of the suburban hydro system came through with the statement shortly afterwards that the commission had granted a special rate for the London suburban district. He announced a cut from the new rates of fifteen per cent and an additional cut of ten per cent a prompt payment basis. This prompt payment rider, however, had previously existed.

"This is only the beginning of the movement to adjust rates in Ontario," Mr. Hughes declared last night. "London has been especially considered for this new rate, and 300 ratepayers will be affected by it."

Remain Organized.

"That's all right for the present," said P. C. Powell of the Base Line road and Brick street ratepayers' association last night. "I don't want to be taken in by the ratepayers' association, but we must stay organized and meet from time to time to further plans of action. They were signing rate cards, but just the same were merely marking time until an opportune time to take their case before the commission again."

"I've heard tonight that a number of the smaller householders are going to sell out and move into town," Mr. Powell said. "If they do, they will be the excessive rates that have just been put into effect."

GAS IN THE STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

Recommends Daily Use of Magnesia To Overcome Trouble Caused by Fermenting Food and Acid Indigestion.

Gas and wind in the stomach accompanied by that full bloated feeling after eating are almost certain evidence of the presence of excessive hydrochloric acid in the stomach, creating so-called "acid indigestion."

Acid stomachs are dangerous because too much acid irritates the delicate lining of the stomach, often leading to gastritis accompanied by serious stomach ulcers. Food ferments and seizes, creating the distressing gas which distends the stomach and hamp

SIX MONTREAL BANDITS SENTENCED TO BE HANGED

Jury Requires Only Eleven Minutes To Agree On Murder Verdict.

DIE ON OCTOBER 24

Each Man Swears He Is Innocent of Shooting Bank Chauffeur.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Montreal, June 23.—Louis Morel, Giuseppe Serafini, Tony Frank, Mike Valentino, Frank Gambino and Leo Davis will be hanged on October 24 for the murder of Henri Cleroux here April 1, when the Hochelaga Bank collection car was robbed of $142,285, and Cleroux, the chauffeur, and one of the bandits, Harry Stone, were shot dead, unless an appeal of commutation of sentence should intervene before that date.

The jury took exactly eleven minutes to agree on their verdict, which they delivered at 5:30 this afternoon.

Juryman number six spoke for the twelve and replied to the summons of the clerk of the court, "Guilty of murder." This was first in regard to Serafini.

The names of the other five were then called by the clerk, and to each the reply came back in firm tones, "Guilty of murder."

The court, after a fifteen minutes conference between the judge and the lawyers, addressed the formal inquiry to Serafini if he had anything to say why formal sentence should not be passed upon him. The convicted man's lips quivered, his eyes reddened, a few tears welled over his cheeks, and he sighed and shook his head.

Swears Innocence.
The question was then put to Tony Frank, who in a thin, weak voice asked for the help of the official interpreter. While the interpreter was being called, the invitation to speak was passed on to Frank Gambino.

"All I have to say," said Gambino, "is that I don't know anything about it."

The query was put to Mike Valentino. He smiled and merely gesticulated towards his companions on his left and right as if to say: "They've said it all."

"Leo Davis, have you anything to say?" the court asked.

"I had nothing to do with it," replied Davis. "I have not taken any part in that crime."

The interpreter then arrived and took Tony Frank's statement, which ran: "Your lordship, I beg this tribunal to have pity on me. I have a very old father and mother. Further, I have a wife and two children. Thirdly, in regard to this matter here, I know nothing at all about it, and no one here is able to say who I am."

Pleas For Pal.
The turn of Morel, the former city detective, then came. He said: "On the matter of conspiracy, I plead guilty. In regard to the death of Stone, I heard the shooting, but I always understood that it was an accident. I am ready to take any medicine, but I regret to see here at my side a man convicted of murder who had nothing whatever to do with it. No one ever called for the evidence of Constable Prevost, who approached the car when we had trouble with a tire, and who could have said that he saw me and Stone and two others in the car, but Leo Davis was not one. I think it is an injustice to have brought this youngster here into the case who had no connection with the crime whatever."

Mr. Justice Wilson then donned the black cap and pronounced sentence. Serafini struggled to keep back his tears. Tony Frank and Gambino, who had been weeping copiously, and Davis, who had also shed some tears during the proceedings, pulled themselves together and copied the stolid, emotional attitude of Morel, facing

T. H. MURRAY,
London postal inspector stationed at Windsor, who reported to Ottawa that owing to a lack of protection afforded workers by the authorities at Windsor the postal service at the Border Cities was badly crippled.

a sentence of death with a stiff upper lip and dry eyes.

Morel threw out his chest, and, displaying under his loose-fitting shirt those massive pectoral muscles which had made him once the first-class athlete he at one time was, and looked his best to the last.

"It was the only verdict we could bring in in the face of the evidence," said one of the jurors as he watched the judge passing sentence. "There was no question."

Had No Option.
Against the declaration by Davis that he was innocent and Morel's strong statement that in sentencing Davis the court had sentenced an innocent man, a juror stated that, according to the evidence concerning the cars and "the other things," they had no option but to include him with the others in their verdict.

The Hochelaga Bank collection car was held up at 2 o'clock in the afternoon of April 1, in a subway in the eastern section of this city. Six masked men were the chief operators of the holdup, which ended with the rifling of $142,285 from the car, and the death of the chauffeur, Henri Cleroux, and one of the bandits. Both were shot during the mixup. On the same evening, and following on clues found in the pocket of the dead bandit, a house at 57 Coursol street in a western suburb, was raided by detectives and Ciro Negro, Giuseppe Serafini, Mary Serafini, the wife of Giuseppe, and Emma Leboeuf, were arrested. About $32,000 of the loot was recovered at that time, either on the persons of the accused, or in a hiding place in the wall of the house, but the balance of the money has not yet been found.

Subsequently Ciro Negro turned king's evidence, and on his information eleven other arrests were made, of whom Ex-Detective Louis Morel, Mike Valentino, Frank Gambino, Tony Frank and Leo Davis were brought to trial. Salvatore Arena was also under arrest in connection with the crime, but was liberated at the time of the coroner's inquest and has since been sought fruitlessly by the police.

Giuseppe Serafini was tried twice on this charge. In the first trial the jury failed to agree. One man still faces a murder charge in connection with this case, this being Adam Parillo, who fled to Bridgeport, Conn., and was later arrested and extradited to Canada.

STRIKERS CRIPPLE WINDSOR SERVICE

Postoffice Inspector Reports City Refuses To Give Protection.

ONLY FIVE WORKING

Canadian Press Despatch.
Ottawa, June 23.—Disquieting reports of the strike situation at Windsor have been received by the postoffice department. T. H. Murray, postoffice inspector, London, stationed at Windsor, wires that five employees are on duty at the Border City. The strike situation, says Mr. Murray, is not improved. It is impossible to give service to the Windsor public, and the mails for dispatch are being forwarded to London.

The office at Windsor, states the report, are closely picketed. Any employees who want to return are prevented from doing so, and the mayor, continue the reports, has advised the postmaster that if any outside employees are brought in to help to man the service at Windsor he "Will kick up a row."

Lack Protection.
There are also complaints that proper protection is not being given by local authorities to the workers, and that so long as it is not given the postal service in so far as delivery in Windsor is concerned, cannot function.

Directors of the Border Cities Chamber of Commerce have wired Hon. Charles Stewart, acting postmaster-general, a resolution in which they express sympathy with the demands of the men for a higher wage scale, and offer the services of the chamber in securing a thorough investigation by the government of local conditions and the cost of living.

Replying to this message, Mr. Stewart has telegraphed that the wage scale applies to the whole of Canada, and was fixed by the civil service. "Regarding delivery of mail at Border Cities," Mr. Stewart adds in his telegram, "the department has been prepared since the strike started to give an adequate postal service and employed men for adequate protection which only the authorities at Windsor could give. Had that protection been given the postal service at Windsor would now be operation."

START RECRUITING.
Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, June 23.—Postmaster-General of Toronto announced tonight that he would begin tomorrow the examination of about 600 applicants for positions on the Toronto postal staff, and that in accordance with instructions received from Ottawa today, he would recruit the staff to full strength.

Instructions to Mr. Lemon were to use his own judgment in the matter of taking back any former employees who are now on strike, but any who do return, it is declared, will be accepted only as raw recruits. The new applicants will be attached to the various postal substations in the city, and will be subjected to special training.

The normal staff required to handle the postal work of this city is 1,700. The present staff numbers 650. Delivery was made through the postal substations tonight, and it was reported that a considerable quantity of mail was moved.

SERVICE NEAR NORMAL.
Canadian Press Despatch.
Ottawa, June 23.—Conditions in the postal service are normal now except at Toronto and Windsor, said Hon. Charles Stewart today. At Toronto, on Saturday in compliance with the order which he had sent out, a number of the strikers had made an effort to get back to work, but had been unable to do because of the crowds around the postoffice. As he had received definite assurances that certain employees desired to return, the postmasters at Montreal and Toronto had been given the right to exercise their judgment in receiving employees back, provided they came back as new recruits.

Right Hon. Arthur Meighen asked what the postmaster-general meant by saying that conditions were normal at Montreal.

Mr. Stewart replied that mail posted in Ottawa this morning from Montreal would be delivered in that city this afternoon.

"Is the strike over?" asked Mr. Meighen.

"Ah, no," replied Mr. Stewart. "There are 560 employees still out."

Appeals for Men.
Mr. St. Pere renewed his appeal for consideration of the case of the Montreal employees. They had, he said, not received the telegram sent by the minister fixing a time for return to work. He urged that a board of arbitration should be appointed and then this matter could be cleared up. "I do not wish to call these men strikers," he said. "For I consider their cause is just."

Mr. Stewart said that he had no knowledge as to whether the striking employees had received his telegram or not. It had been sent to the headquarters of the Canadian Federation of Postal Workers in Toronto. It had also been sent to the postmasters at Toronto, Kitchener, Montreal and other places where there was trouble with instructions to have it given full publicity. It had also been given publicity through the press. "I took every means in my power," said the minister, "to give the matter publicity."

ORANGEMEN AT CHURCH.
Special to The Advertiser.
Wyoming, June 23.—Members of the Orange Association assembled for divine service in St. James' Church, Wainstead, yesterday afternoon, in large numbers. A good contingent of men from outside points was present. The rector preached on "Divine Deliverance in the Past, Present and Future." He touched upon several points of history peculiarly interesting to his hearers. Mr. P. Bolton sang very effectively "The City Four Square." A short gathering in the lodge room followed, at which the speaker of the day was accorded a hearty vote of thanks for his words.

Hay Grows Green In Eye of Farmer

By HENRY SOMERVILLE.
Special Cable to The Advertiser by Staff Correspondent. Copyright.

London, June 23.—Hayseed blew into a man's eye and caused grass to grow there.

This astonishing fact is vouchsafed for by doctors at the Gloucestershire Royal Infirmary. A farm-worker having something in his eye, which caused pain, went to hospital for an operation, a surgeon made an incision above the eye and found a green blade of grass an inch and a half long. He also found hayseed. Apparently the hayseed had become lodged in the corner of socket and the discharge from the ear duct watered it, and light had reached the seed through the eyeball sufficient to make the grass green.

MUSSOLINI PLANS NEW OFFENSIVE

Fortification of King's Residence Increased Against Blackshirt Attacks.

By HIRAM K. MODERWELL.
Special Cable to The London Advertiser and Chicago Daily News. Copyright.

Rome, June 23.—Premier Mussolini has ordered all ministerial deputies to leave Rome and spread over the provinces to stir up the rank and file of the people. He has decided to launch next week a great offensive in order to paralyze the opposition and frighten the people.

This week is likely to mark the climax of the crisis in Rome, but whatever happens, the question is only one of time, according to prevalent opinion, until Mussolini and Fascism are liquidated.

There are rumors of a possible coup d'état. On Friday night a number of troops suddenly appeared in the streets of Rome and the garrison of the Quirinal, the king's residence, was greatly reinforced, apparently for fear of some attacks by the black-shirts. Nothing happened, however.

ONE MAN IS BADLY HURT IN RIPLEY AUTO SMASH

Ripley, June 23.—Kenneth McLeod

was seriously injured by cuts about the head, when the auto he was driving was in collision with an auto driven by Sam Scott of Huron Township.

The cars came together at the Royal Bank corner about 10 o'clock. Scott's car went through a fence, and McLeod's car was thrown against a gasoline pump, in front of the Commercial Hotel. The pump was torn from its fastenings. McLeod was unconscious when picked up, but later was able to return to his home.

Scott is being detained by the police, pending an investigation.

Indigestion, Gas on Stomach, Pains After Meals

Many people suffer terribly from gas and pains in the stomach after every meal, and are kept in constant misery.

For the past 44 years Burdock Blood Bitters has been bringing hope and joy to thousands suffering from various forms of stomach trouble, helping them to eat three square meals a day—helping them to eat anything they wish without having to suffer for it after.

Mr. Fred Nielson, Moose Jaw, Sask., writes: "All last summer I was troubled with stomach trouble and indigestion, and also gas on the stomach. I could not eat anything except some light food, and even then I would be bothered with pains after each meal. I could not work a whole day without being done out. I had tried everything—doctors, medicines and pills—until I read about Burdock Blood Bitters. I have taken four bottles, and it has nearly, if not completely, restored me to health again."

WOMAN ARRESTED FOLLOWING DEATH

Mrs. G. Gilbertson, Hagersville, Charged With Murder of Her Husband.

SUSPECT POISONING

Canadian Press Despatch.

Hagersville, June 23.—Following the sudden death from convulsions of George Gilbertson, aged 45, at midnight, his wife was this afternoon arrested and later was charged with murder. She was removed to the county jail at Cayuga.

The arrest of Mrs. Gilbertson was made, officials state, on the strength of an ante-mortem statement by the husband just before he lost consciousness. It is alleged that Gilbertson was the victim of strychnine poisoning.

Dr. J. F. McCracken was summoned to the Gilbertson home at 11:15 o'clock. He found Gilbertson in convulsions and life rapidly ebbing. Symptoms of the dying man aroused Dr. McCracken's suspicions. These were supported by statements Gilbertson is credited with having made to the doctor, but which the latter would not divulge tonight.

Coroner Quance of Hagersville has opened an inquest. The viscera of Gilbertson will be forwarded to Toronto for analysis. The inquest will be resumed on June 30.

In the county jail at Cayuga this afternoon it is said that Mrs. Gilbertson's mind collapsed completely. She has been a victim of mental trouble for several years, and was committed to an asylum some time ago by Drs. Quance and McCracken.

Gilbertson is survived by his widow and four children—Earl, 15; Robert, 13; Florence, 11, and Mae, 9.

TWO AUTOS IN COLLISION AT STREET INTERSECTION

Two cars, one driven by A. R. Skelton, 637 Wellington street, and the other by Gordon W. Scott, 112 Elmwood avenue, collided at the corner of Wellington street and Queen's avenue last night about 6:20 o'clock, both cars being slightly damaged.

Mr. Skelton was driving north on Wellington and Mr. Scott west on Queen's, and apparently neither driver saw the other, for they met at the center of the intersection. No one was injured.

"Child's Eyelids Inflamed Stuck Together and Bled"

Mr. E. P. Kimball, Entwistle, Alta., writes:

"Our little girl from birth was troubled with inflamed eyelids and in spite of several remedies, grew worse until at the age of sixteen months her eyes could not be opened after sleep without bleeding, a waxy discharge sticking the lids together and adhering with great tenacity. The child's grandmothers were consulted by mail, and both responded with a little sample box of Dr. Chase's Ointment. These were used as directed, and lasted until we could obtain a further supply from Edmonton. Improvement was very marked from the first application. The waxy discharge was easier removed and did not reappear. Inflammation subsided and has not returned."

The World's Greatest Empire.

A Chicago paper finds recompense for the troubles of the U. S. government by remarking that Britain has more of them.

Of course it has, for the very simple reason that the British Empire is over four times as big as United States and has over four times as many people, 450,000,000 in all.

Without in any sense being boastful it is worth while now and then to take a look over the empire, the greatest political and moral power the world has ever seen.

Its area is 13,500,000 square miles, one-quarter of the land surface of the globe; it is seven times as large as the Roman Empire at the zenith of its power; it would readily make four United States or 65 Germanys. Canada, the premier dominion in the empire, is nearly as large as Europe, including Russia; it is larger than United States; Australia is as great in extent as either Brazil or United States; India covers as much ground as Europe, with Russia excepted.

The British Empire has within its bounds places, the names of some of which have come down to us in Old Testament history, the Holy Land, or Palestine, Judea, Samaria, Galilee; in point of age—Chaldea, Mesopotamia, Moab and Edom. Its mountains include Hor, Nebo, Tabor and Carmel, famous as the place where Elijah challenged the prophets of Baal.

Great sections of the ancient empires of Assyria, Babylonia, Persia, Rome and those of Alexander are within its boundaries.

The Hudson Bay, Canada's great inland sea, is three times the size of the Baltic; in Canada are some of the world's greatest rivers, the St. Lawrence, Mackenzie and the Saskatchewan; in other parts of the empire, the Nile, Niger, Ganges and the Zambezi; in sacred history and tradition, the waters of the Euphrates, Ganges, Jordan and Kishon; the Dead Sea and the Sea of Galilee are on its borders, while Canada has half the fresh water on the earth.

From the standpoint of world vantage, Britain stands at the "gates." She is at Gibraltar, again at Suez, Aden, Singapore and in our own land at Quebec.

The world's greatest wheat market is at Winnipeg, and from the port of Montreal is shipped more wheat than the three chief ports of United States combined.

Britain is the world's greatest wool producer; produces more gold than the rest of the world combined; has the world's richest iron ore mines off Newfoundland, and the greatest tin mines in Malaya.

The world's greatest seaport, at Hong Kong; the greater portion of submarine cables are British.

The sites of the world's most ancient cities, Babylon, the mighty, and Nineveh, are in the British Empire; also Beer-sheba, Hebron, Bethlehem, Nazareth, Capernum.

The empire made the greatest contribution to the cause of the Allies in the world war. Canada having more men enrolled than had Napoleon when he set forth for the invasion of Russia.

Yes, it's a great old empire, so there's no wonder that there are a few problems coming to the front now and then, for John Bull's people live in many strange places all over the world.

He Did What He Could.

"Johnny" Edgar of Forest is dead, and in his passing goes a man who, despite a crippled condition, was able to live and enjoy life, and pass his cheerfulness on to others.

John E. Edgar might very easily have spent a great deal of time talking about his own infirmities. As a boy he might have set his face against his lot because he could not do what other boys did. As a man he might have complained about the physical handicap that was put upon him.

But he did none of these things. He went ahead and did the best he could. His little store in Forest was one of the unique spots that make towns more real than cities.

Mr. Bumble Was Right.

Immigration authorities at New York have succeeded in proving that Mr. Bumble was right when he said "the law is an ass."

Lady Werther arrived at the harbor with her month-old child. Her husband is Sir Derrick Werther, Bart, but the baby was born in Milan, Italy, where the mother was staying at the time.

The mother travels under a British passport, and the father does the same, and they can enter, but the child cannot, because it is classed as a native of Italy.

No doubt, in their anxiety to pay a visit to the land of the free, Sir Derrick and Lady Werther can tell their child to take the next boat back to Italy. It is a month old and can travel alone all right.

B. C. Cities Against Sale By Glass.

People in Ontario, for no good reason, had the idea that the vote in British Columbia for the sale of beer by the glass would show the cities recording a favorable ballot.

The cities of British Columbia did just the opposite—they voted against the proposal in quite a decided way. Vancouver, Victoria, New Westminster and Kamloops all opposed the selling over the bar.

The result may or may not have any bearing on what will take place when Ontario votes. The idea is often expressed that the cities here would show a tendency to go wet, while the rural ridings and the smaller centers would go in the opposite direction.

The view may be based on some of the returns from the last election, but the vote in British Columbia seems to show that residents of cities are not at all keen for anything that looks like a return of the old days of the open bar. The farther they get away from that old institution the less attractive it looks.

Invading the Golf Field.

Arthur Dorman, from a public golf course at Hamilton, came uncomfortably close to taking the senior position in the Ontario golf series at Toronto.

The performance of Dorman is interesting, not simply from his skill as a golfer, but from the surroundings in which he works and plays. He had to leave the golf tournament at Toronto, go back to Hamilton, where he superintends the delivery of milk from a dairy; catch a train at four in the morning and return for the next day's play.

The people who used to stand at one side and regard golf as the sport of the few have jumped over the fence and grabbed the clubs.

They are doing it largely through the municipal golf courses, and have found that it is more fun playing the game than wondering how it was done.

London is doing this very thing on its municipal golf links. The beginners are not only gouging great holes in the turf, but they are now and then taking a mighty swat at the elusive but very lively little ball. It will not be long before we are growing our own Dorman out at Springbank.

No Question of Annexation.

The Hamilton Herald takes W. J. Wilson, M.L.A., to task for his address to a Conservative gathering last week, in which he stated that "Annexation versus Canadianism will be the issue in the next election."

The Herald puts the case well when it states that "a Canadian who advocates free trade or revenue policy may be as soundly patriotic, as ardent an upholder of Canadian nationality as the most extreme protectionist." The Herald adds that the idea of the failure of any fiscal policy in Canada being considered as sufficient reason to send us running to knock for admission on the door of United States is little short of an insult to the Canadian people, a reflection on their patriotism, their independence and their self-respect.

The Hamilton paper concludes: "If our people find that a fiscal policy does not produce satisfactory results, they will discard it and try something else; they will not decide to destroy the political edifice which they have built."

The political campaign of 1911 was the greatest flag-flapping spectacle the Canadian people have ever witnessed. The real merits of the reciprocity issue were seldom discussed by Conservative campaigners. Their policy was spoken in great billboards all over the country, on which were the flags of Britain and United States, with the miserable and mischievous question, "Under Which Flag?"

It was not good national ethics nor good political manners, but it served the purpose.

Surely Canadian people can discuss tariff matters or anything else, and cast their votes upon them without the cry being raised that we are hastening down the path at the end of which United States waits to gobble us up.

There must be a large element in the Conservative ranks to whom this form of political campaigning is repulsive. They would much rather rely on the merits of their case, and argue it on that basis as reasonable men should.

Mr. Wilson's talk of the next election being fought on the basis of "Annexation versus Canadianism" is the cheapest sort of political claptrap, and it marks Mr. Wilson as a tub-thumper of a school that should be extinct.

Note and Comment.

The west had a snowfall the other day, just to even up for those chinooks they have in the winter.

Constables and reporters went out Sunday night looking for "petting parties," and found none. Of course all the folks were at church Sunday night.

Market note says that old potatoes continue to show weakness. Their strength has gone into the prices of the new tribe.

City engineer says there are 117 kinds of engineers. Then the chap who engineers political conventions makes 118.

The Vancouver Province believes that if the Canadian National Railways are to be kept out of politics, a strong arm and some high-powered boots will be necessary.

If Hon. John Oliver quits public life following his defeat in Victoria, British Columbia stands to lose one of the cleanest men who ever offered his services to the people.

British papers are outspoken in blaming the course followed by their government in not recognizing the Mexican government. The same government has been in power there for a year at least, so with such a record Britain might well recognize the veteran.

The federal government has spent $6,699,745 for relief to unemployed in Montreal, Vancouver, Toronto, Hamilton and Winnipeg. The larger centers are no more entitled to consideration than the smaller places that have the same problem. A fair system would treat all applicants the same.

Mabel Normand's chauffeur, who faced a murder charge for the shooting of Courtland S. Dines, has been acquitted. That is about all the wires from U. S. had to say. When this crime first stirred Hollywood there were columns sent out about it. Evidently there is more interest in the crime and its effect on Hollywood life than in seeing that justice is done to the criminal.

OTHERING YOURSELF

John M. Siddall, who edited the American Magazine, was a success.

He built up the circulation of his publication to an amazing figure, even in these days of big figures.

And he did it by having and hanging on to one idea, even as a dog hangs on to a bone.

One idea is enough, if it is right. Some men have but one idea and that is wrong. Siddall's idea was this: "Only one thing interests all human beings always, and that is the human being himself."

In other words, the one most absorbing topic of interest in the world, overshadowing all others, is ME.

That this is true is proved by the admirable rule of William James: That Truth is What Will Work.

This has worked. Siddall made money out of it for his paper.

The curious phase of this, however, is that it is simply The Golden Rule, in "Other Yourself!"

The rule, in substance, is "Other Yourself!" and succeed, "other" here being a verb, imperative mood.

And that rule, scientifically speaking, amounts to this: "Use your imagination."

So doing, you picture to yourself the mind and feelings of the other, fellow, and in proportion as you do this you "get" him and hold and interest him.

We lose our grip on another because we fail to see rightly whether he is straying. Hence we cannot follow.

The Salesman does not "sell" his customer because he cannot become his customer.

The Parent and Teacher fail with the child because they cannot "become as little children."

The Speaker does not interest his audience because he cannot get out of his own mind over into theirs.

For the same kind of reason the Lawyer does not convince his jury, the Novelist his readers, and the newspaper its public.

We mistake when we suppose any truth is true in religion, but not elsewhere.

Othering yourself is not only the way to get to heaven; it is the way to sell goods, to get elected, to make your girl love you, to get along with your neighbors, to manage workers and to keep peace in the family.

England and Ireland are in trouble because neither can other itself over to the point of view of the other.

Labor and Capital clash when each indulges in thinking about itself and not trying to understand the other.

The most enlightened selfishness is unselfishness. I wrote all this once, in a fine article (I know it was fine, because I wrote it myself), and sent it to a magazine, and the editor didn't like it because he said it was "preaching."

It was. It is. But nothing in the world is so interesting to read as preaching, providing it is to me and I am over me, or about the tale of Fatmos or the Armenian Controversy, or something else I care nothing about.

This Golden Rule runs everywhere. Forget your health, and get well. Quit thinking about yourself is the only way to come to think well of yourself.

He that loseth his life shall save it. Of the man that saved more people than any other man it was said:

"He saved Others; Himself He could not save."

Why All the Rush?

Just readin' of the man who tried to fly the country in a day, a-stoppin' just for gas and gears when pettin' on his westward way.

It used to take folks weeks and months to travel from the east to west, they plodded with the oxen then at gaits that pleased the critters best.

Then came a train of cars one day and rails of steel to travel on, and folks they only took three days to land 'em out in Oregon.

And now this chap he comes along a-sailin' high above the dust, a-tellin' how he'll make the trip in one day's light or else he'll bust.

Of course it's awful fine for folks who like to follow up these things, or for poetic men who write 'bout how he travels on light's wings.

Of course they'd laugh to see a man a-startin' out with oxen now, they'd rush him to the funny house, and sink a tube beneath his brow.

Yet all the same it seems to me I'd like to ask this man of air, just what he's figurin' for to do when he gets landed way out there.

Of course he'll be ten weeks ahead of what the ox car ever did, but in that time will he enrich the brains what's restin' 'neath his lid?

We're livin' in an age where speed is what the folks are hankerin' for, they want to do the thing by moon what used to take 'em until four.

It's just the same thing all around, folks chasin' in an awful stew, a-sweatin' for to do their work in half the time they used to do.

I'd like to get these busy folks and stand 'em up against the wall, and make 'em come beneath my eye, just as they'd hear me shout and call: I'd like to take them by the neck, and ask 'em when and where and how, they're doin' with all the feetin' time what they're a-savin' up just now.—ARK.

Turn On the Music

To complete the wonder of the Empire Stadium, at Wembley, the biggest portable organ in the world has been erected in the center of the stand opposite the royal box.

The organ, which cost $50,000, weighs 30 tons, and contains over 3,000 pipes, the largest of which is 32 feet in height and the smallest three-quarters inch. It is a five manual instrument with 75 stops, and over 55 miles of electric wire have been used in the action, which is electro-pneumatic throughout.

The work of erecting the organ was fraught with many difficulties. It had to be hauled up an incline 200 feet long, to a height of 80 feet. Two hundredweight of 4-inch nails were used in the construction of the platform on which it stands, and twelve gross of 4-inch screws. There are 5,000 electric contacts.

JOHN CRAIG—You would oblige me greatly if you'd give me your version of that nursery rhyme about "Twinkle, twinkle, little star."

Dear Jack—It's now been taken from the nursery into the photoplay room, and reads like this:

Twinkle, twinkle, movie star,
How I wonder what you are;
An angel child, as you claim to be
Or the vamp you play so perfectly.

DOROTHY DEJAVERS—Can you tell me the gist of the poem beginning: "Where are snows of yesteryear?"

Dear Dottie—We offer a little lyric which is "gist" what you are looking for.

Where are snows of yesteryear?
This may disquiet the highbrows.
But what I'd like to know my dear,
Is where are your last year's eyebrows?

"Corsets and hairpins."

Kisses in the Dark.
By O. ASSBURY.
For ev'ry shooting star he claimed a kiss;
She, seeming coy, at first demurred to this.
But he, persisting, would not be denied
When soon a flying meteor he espied.
And so, as darkness grew apace,
Their eyes
Of scanned the glitt'ring aspect of the skies.
And when a darting star caught either's sight
Sands of kissing broke upon the night!

And so it came to pass, anon, that she Looked for shooting stars quite as much as he.
Nay, if by chance a star escaped his view,
She called his wand'ring fancy to it, too.
When intervals seemed long between each buzz,
She hailed with glee a passing lightning-buzz.

But, soon taxing her ingenious mind,
Her ready wit enabled her to find
More shooting stars in three short, fleeting hours
Than would compose whole heavenly bowers.
But when she did her last pretext exhaust
And was about to yield her cause as lost,
She saw a switchman's lantern swing,
And zot the youth down to a steady thing!

EUGENE LEPAGE GIVES TANLAC FULL CREDIT

Stomach Trouble Vanishes and Montreal Man Gains 14 Lbs. on Four Bottles.

"Since I began taking this wonderful Tanlac I seem to be getting younger every day. I have gained 14 pounds on four bottles, and everybody sneaks about how well I look."

The above statement was made recently by Eugene LePage, proprietor Prince of Wales Hotel bar-ber shop, Montreal, Canada, one of the most exclusive tenebrous parlors in this city. Mr. LePage further said:

"Stomach trouble had almost completely wrecked my health. I was a mere shadow of my former self, and so run down and nervous I thought I would have to give up my work."

"Tanlac soon had me eating everything, feeling like a lot at night and feeling as fine as one could ask to feel. My only regret is that I did not learn about Tanlac long before I did."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

SOUTH WATERLOO ELECTS HOMUTH

Unseated Labor Candidate Defeats Strongly-Backed Conservative by 2,665.

WINS WHOLE RIDING

Special to The Advertiser
by a Staff Correspondent.

Galt, June 23.—Karl K. Homuth, the young Labor representative of South Waterloo in the Provincial Legislature during the regime of the Drury administration, today scored the greatest triumph of his political career, when he defeated the government candidate, W. S. Shaw, a prominent farmer of Waterloo Township, by the decisive majority of 2,665.

On June 23, last year, Homuth was elected by a majority of 13, which was increased by a recount secured by the Conservatives, to 15. But later Mr. Homuth was unseated when the Conservatives won a protest on the grounds of irregularities, with the result that this constituency was without representation at the recent session.

In 1919, Mr. Homuth first entered the political arena, and was sent to Toronto with a majority of over 4,000. In 1923, the vote was much smaller, and while the public had been apathetic in the present campaign, nevertheless, the voter made use of their franchise, 1,998 more votes being cast today than a year ago, and the great majority came out this afternoon, as this morning's polling was light.

Re-seat Tactics.
Mr. Homuth's victory can be attributed to many things, but public resentment over the protest proceedings of last year probably played the greatest part.

In a speech here tonight, when he was given a great ovation, Mr. Homuth said the result demonstrated the fair mindedness of the people of the riding, and was a definite answer to the tactics used by his opponents.

He said that what made his victory sweeter were the facts that he and his followers had beaten the greatest political machine that South Waterloo has known. Government representatives and government cars were here and that last-minute "roor-bachs" were used against him in vain.

Mr. Homuth fought the fight practically single-handed, the only assistance he had from outside the riding in his campaign being that of R. L. Brackin, M.L.A. of Windsor, who addressed a couple of meetings last week in his behalf. The Conservatives claimed that they had the best organization that year that they had had in years, outside help being secured to round this into shape.

Mr. Homuth tonight appealed in all the places he visited for his opponents to forget the past and all unite in the interests of the riding.

Non-Confidence Vote.
The result of today's voting is considered by some as a vote of non-confidence in the government, since Hon. J. S. Martin in a speech at the Conservative official nomination meeting declared that Premier Ferguson would consider the South Waterloo byelection the first since his government took power, as a vote of confidence or non-confidence.

Today's voting was a complete slide, every section of the riding turning in a majority for Mr. Homuth. Galt, which gave A. W. Mercer a majority of 1,006 in 1923, today gave Mr. Homuth a majority of 237.

Even Mr. Shaw's own poll in Waterloo Township defeated him 252 to 93. The northern townships of the riding, Waterloo and Wilmet, in which it was charged most of the irregularities occurred last year, gave a decisive answer today in support of Mr. Homuth.

The vote summarized was:
Galt—Homuth 2,500; Shaw 2,303.
Preston—Homuth 1,584; Shaw 325.
Hespeler—Homuth 761; Shaw 591.
New Hamburg—Homuth 245; Shaw 234.

Wilmet Township—Homuth 593; Shaw 225.
Waterloo Township—Homuth 953; Shaw 306.
North Dumfries Township—Homuth 679; Shaw 161.

Totals—Homuth 7,417; Shaw 4,752.
Majority for Homuth 2,665.

12,000 SEEKING JOBS THROUGH ONE M. P.

Long List of Applicants Is Received As Strike Threatens.

Special to The Advertiser.
Ottawa, June 23.—There is always a silver lining in every cloud. Ottawa has still the postal strike on its hands, but the senate strike against the C.N.R. branch lines is all but extinguished.

What looked at first like a real filibuster has become passive, even if unwilling acquiescence. The major part of the Canadian National extension program has been approved.

The postal strike looks like a forest fire which has been kept from spreading throughout the whole of Canada. It seems to be isolated in two inflammable areas, Toronto and Montreal, with some sparks falling in Hamilton. The site of a burned-out area usually gives a spectator an acute saddening sense of irreparable loss. Square miles of blackened stumps make one doubt the recuperative power of nature. But it is far different with the civil service. The path of government employment is crowded with long queues of job-seekers. One Ottawa M.P. has in his desk a list of 12,000 applications for any employment.

Metagama's Boat Still Missing

Small Boat Put Off From the Liner After Collision.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Halifax, June 23.—No trace has yet been found of the missing boat containing one seaman, one fireman and one passenger, which put off from the steamer Metagama following the collision with the S.S. Claru Camus on Thursday of last week, according to a report from the U. S. cutter Modoc, which arrived in port last night, being forced to give up the search owing to shortage of fuel oil. It is presumed that the boat was either picked up by a passing vessel or is still adrift.

PROVINCIAL OFFICERS WILL ESCORT TOURISTS

SOCIAL WORKERS AWAIT SESSION

National Conference Will Open in Toronto On July 25.

MAYOR WELCOMES

Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, June 23.—Kindred groups convening in Toronto for the annual meeting, and to take part in the national conference of social workers which opens June 25, are now in session. The 18-year-old national probation association with 500 representatives from many parts of the continent was given official welcome by Mayor W. W. Hiltz this morning.

Juvenile delinquency and probation as applied to adult courts with particular attention to the most desirable standards of juvenile court legislation will be studied. The social workers of the American Episcopal Church and the Church of England in Canada held a reception on Saturday, and on Sunday were addressed by Dr. Iddings Bell of St. Stephen's College, Allendale, N. Y.

Among subjects discussed today will be activities, parochial, diocesan and national; the church and new-comer, diocesan social service on $200 a year. Miss Mildred Carpenter of New York, and Miss Amy Cleaver, New York, will be among the speakers.

Jewish Social workers, 350 in number, met in Holy Blossom Synagogue, and in an address by Rabbi Brickner, it was pointed out that to avoid slum conditions was one of the main objects of their work. Regret was expressed at the ban placed on Jewish immigration by the United States.

The yacht of James A. Rand, Jun., of Tonawanda, N. Y., now in Toronto harbor, has been placed at the disposal of members of the conference during the days in which the conference will be in Toronto.

DUNLOP BALLOON TIRES

—FOR ALL CARS—

Dunlop makes two types of Balloon Tires—

INTERCHANGEABLE and SMALL WHEEL

All car owners can enjoy the greater comfort, added safety, and pleasure of Dunlop Balloon Tires right now.

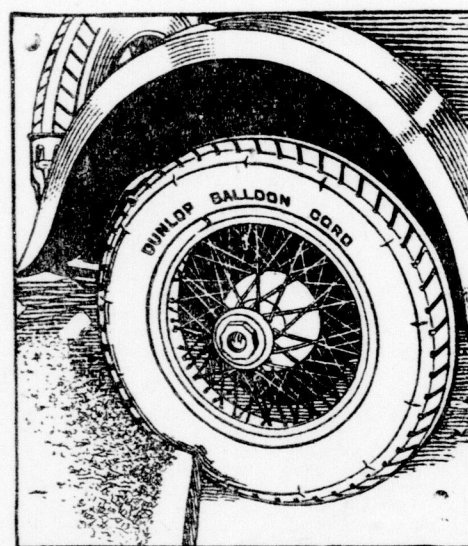

The Interchangeable Balloon Tire is made in various sizes to fit your present wheel and rim equipment without change or additional expense.

The Small Wheel Balloon Tire is made to fit the new small-diameter wheels which can be purchased for your present car or secured as equipment on many new cars.

Whatever your Balloon Tire problem is, DUNLOP can take care of it for you.

The Balloon Tire is the development of the Dunlop idea of Tire Building so as to increase riding comfort and prolong the life of a car.

A recent issue of "India Rubber Review" says: "In reality the balloon tire is not an invention at all. It represents a stage in the process of evolution of the pneumatic tire principle, extending over the past 30 years or more. In principle, and even in application, that which we today call a balloon tire is as old as the first pneumatic tire, and was first employed more than 30 years ago in Great Britain when DUNLOP applied a two-inch 'rag' tire to a bicycle wheel."

Here's something the average car owner does almost every time he takes his car out. It shows how Balloon Tires absorb road shocks. They can do it successfully because they are built for it.

Any Dunlop Branch or Dunlop Tire Depot will gladly furnish you with particulars concerning Dunlop Balloon Tires.

THINKS 'DON'TS' AND 'MUSTS' ENTER INTO CHILD-TRAINING

Boys and Girls Should Learn To Do Things They Do Not Like.

UP TO PARENTS

Should Make Children Understand Why They "Must" Do a Thing.

By JULIA HOYT.
"Thou shalt never say 'don't' to a child," and "Thou shalt avoid the word 'must'; it implies doing a thing against one's will"—these are two more "commandments" in the decalogue of which I have spoken. I agree only in part.
Surely we cannot believe that children are perfect nor can we expect them to know instinctively how to behave. We know that later in life all of us have both "don't" and "must" shouted at us forcibly, both directly and indirectly. It seems to me that it is a little hard on a child to bring it up never having heard the words, and then thrust it on the world to meet them on all sides.
An interesting example of the word "must" used decidedly for the benefit of the child was given to me the other day. A New York woman has a daughter of fifteen who is already showing great talent and promise in an imaginative, rather fantastic way. As would go with that sort of temperament, the child dislikes all practical questions. In discussing her the mother said to me:
"I lay more stress at the moment on my daughter's standing well in her mathematics than in any other study at school, because I realize that her imagination must have the balance of a certain amount of logic and stability. If she achieves this, her imaginative powers will yield far bigger results."

She is right.
As we grow older we attain the realization that in order to become proficient in the thing we want to do we must very often develop our minds and our forces in channels which may seem to have nothing to do with the thing which we really love. We cannot, however, expect children to understand this, and un-

WHITE LINGERIE AGAIN.

FRENCH CENTER DART BOB.
Bobbied Hair.
It is becoming to most women, but it is important to remember that the combing and brushing of long hair actually stimulate the scalp, while with bobbed hair this stimulation is lacking.

If hair is bobbed, frequent massaging of the scalp is absolutely necessary and splendid results are obtained by applying a small quantity of Newbro's Herpicide with each massage.

Pure and clear, without stain or dye, Herpicide may be used with absolute confidence, to stimulate the scalp, prevent dandruff and falling hair, and as an aid to hair-health and beauty.

A single trial will convince you of its merit. On sale at all drug counters.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

A Plea for the Little Newsboys—When "Seventeen" Married "Thirty-Four." Helping the Widower Choose a Wife.

Dear Miss Dix—Won't you put something in the paper about the little boys who deliver the papers to private residences? Won't you tell the people how these little fellows have to go to their houses seven times a week, and how little they make on each customer—only five cents apiece? My little brother has a route, and sometimes he doesn't make enough money to pay for the papers, because the people will not pay their bills. Sometimes he has to go three or four times to a house to collect his money.

At Eastertide he wanted to give my mother a plant with the money he made, but most of the places he went they told him they did not have the change or they were too busy, and did not have time to stop and get the money, or they had company, or something, and to let the bill go for another week. They don't mean not to pay in the end, but they don't realize that sometimes these few cents mean so much to the people at home, and there won't be an end of it, for if Johnny can't collect his paper bill.

I know because I am a little paper boy's

LITTLE SISTER JENNY.

Answer:

I am glad to put your letter in the paper, Jenny, and I hope that it will touch the hearts and consciences and the pocketbooks of a lot of people who don't mean to be unkind, but who are careless about paying little bills, because they have never known from personal experience that a few cents may be the margin between a full stomach or an empty one, between a place to lay your head and being put out on the street.

Certainly there are no braver or more pathetic figures in the world than the little newsboys who have shouldered the burden of life at an age when they should be carefree, and know nothing more strenuous than playtime, and who in the snow and sleet of winter, or under the burning sun of summer, are faithfully on their jobs; who risk their lives a thousand times daily, hanging on to cars and dashing under the wheels of automobiles, while other children of the same age are being coddled and watched over in luxurious homes and scarcely trusted to cross the street alone.

Surely the fortunate mothers and fathers who think of their own darling little lads, safe and warm and guarded, free to spend their time in sports, and who have their birthright in childish joy and play, protected from the dangers, moral and physical, of the street, may well say as they look at every little newsboy, "There, but for the grace of God, is my own child."

And in humble thanksgiving that their own has escaped this hard lot, they might make the newsboy's lot easier by not making him wait for the money that he has earned at the price of his childhood.

So I entreat all who read these lines never to put off paying the little newsboy.

And to this I add the further plea that before you go away for your summer vacation be very careful to pay every little bill you owe. Don't forget the seamstress to whom you owe a dollar or two, nor the shoemaker, nor the ice man, nor the vegetable man, nor any of the dozen people with whom you have little accounts. They do business on a small capital, and the dollar or two you owe them may stand between them and actual want.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—I am 21. For the last four years I have been married to a man twice my age, and am very unhappy. My husband seems to think that I should settle down like an old woman and stay right at home and care for his child, who is eleven years old. The first two years of our married life were very happy. My husband gave me a home and a car, but now he has become indifferent and irritable, and makes everything miserable for me. Do you think that I should sacrifice all for him after giving up most of my girlhood days to make him happy?

D. H.

Answer:

Your plight, D. H., is the almost inevitable fate of those who marry out of their own age class.

When you married a man twice as old as you are what did you expect? That he would be a boy and play around with you? That he would want to do the foolish young things that you would want to do? That he would look at life from your point of view?

And what did he expect? That a child would suddenly become a woman? That a young girl would settle down and be mature? That a young girl would cease to desire to dance, and go to parties, and have a gay time that belongs to her youth?

Both of you expected the impossible. And because no miracle was wrought that made him young, or you old, you are miserable and disappointed, and your husband is irritable.

But when you make a binding contract you have to stand by it, unless the party of the first part breaks his part of the bargain. So long as your husband is good and kind and generous to you, you have no right to divorce him, and so the only thing you can do in honor is to try to make yourself contented with your lot.

After all, it is not such a bad one, and you can do much to help yourself to become reconciled if you will just quit thinking about the fun you are missing in being married and tied down to an old husband, and center your thoughts on how lucky you are to have a good home and a husband who is able to provide for you.

And be just to your husband. You married him just as much as he married you, you know.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—I am a widower of about sixty years of age, and am a successful businessman. I have five children, from fourteen to three years of age. I need a companion, and my children need a mother. There is an unmarried woman of about forty years of age, and a widow with six children, either one of whom I think I can marry. Which one should I choose?

Answer:

The unmarried one. To marry a widower with six children and introduce them into your home where you have already five children would be suicidal folly.

It would turn your home into an earthly purgatory, for no two sets of children could possibly get along together in peace, and no mother could be a just stepmother. She would favor her own children at every turn.

But look well into the character of the woman you put over your children. Don't marry any woman who is nervous, delicate in health, or who has a high temper. Such a one is constitutionally incapable of making a good stepmother. Pick out an easy-going, good-natured, common-sense woman, who has a sense of humor and a philosophical temperament.

PRATT-YAKE.

Dereham, June 23.—The home of Mrs. Daniel Yake, Dereham Township, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Wednesday, when her daughter, Florence Meredo, was united in marriage to Arthur Douglas Pratt of Brownville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pratt. The wedding march was played by Mrs. Harry Miners of London, a sister of the groom. The bride was given away by her brother, Chester Yake. She was gown in ivory satin and silk lace and carried roses and ferns. The bridesmaid, Miss Laurette Yake, sister of the bride, carried a bouquet of roses. Jean Fentie, a niece of the bride, acted as flower girl. She wore white georgette, and carried a basket of roses and snowdrops. The groom was attended by Charles Atkins of Springfield, Rev. M. W. Goodrich, B.A., B.D., of Verschoyle, conducted the ceremony. After a very dainty lunch, Mr. and Mrs. Pratt left by motor for Michigan. They will reside in Brownville. Out-of-town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Harry Miners of London, Charles Atkins of Springfield, Rev. and Mrs. Millson of Brownville, Miss Anderson of Shields Crossing.

FLOPPY SHADE HAT.

EXHIBIT DRAWS MANY TO ABERDEEN SCHOOL

Excellent Workmanship of the Pupils Demonstrated in Display Yesterday.

One of the finest of school exhibits was that held yesterday at the Aberdeen School by the household science and manual training departments of the Aberdeen and Simcoe schools. Miss Grace Graham, director of household science, and Edmond Greizer, director of manual training, were in charge, showing off the very excellent workmanship of the boys and girls to their many visitors, who came to see it.

In the household science display there were quantities of neat and pretty made undergarments, knitted suits and children's clothes, gingham dresses in plain but attractive designs, aprons and household linens. The boys had made strong sewing stands, box ends, tables and other simple articles of furniture, which were greatly admired.

During the afternoon, the girls of the domestic science department, clad in white middie, served tea to the guests of the day.

Paris, June 24.—There is a demure simplicity about some of the present day missummer frocks. They are of orange or dotted swiss, with gathered skirts, a flounce or two, and a wide, youthful collar of Victorian cut.

LACE FRILLS POPULAR.

Paris, June 24.—Narrow frills of lace are almost universal at present. They edge hats and the rosettes of ribbon tulle; they add a pleasant fluffiness to lingerie, and they adorn both gloves and wrist bands.

WHITE HOSIERY.

London, June 24.—White hosiery has come in with the summer weather. But it is less favored with either white or black shoes than hosiery in blonde shades, in skin, sunset, peach and the faintly rosy tint known as shell.

ABOUT RIDING SUITS.

London, June 24.—Gray riding suits are neck and neck with tan in popularity this season. The breeches are a lighter shade of gray or white. Felt sports hats are being selected in preference to hard hats.

EMERALDS IN STYLE.

New York, June 24.—The vogue of emeralds is reflected today in the less expensive bits of jewelry. Excellent imitation emeralds in lozenge, pear or square shapes are set in heavy carved silver, as bracelets, brooches and earrings.

SCARF FOR DANCE FROCK.

New York, June 24.—With the summer dance frock nothing is prettier than one of the new scarves in gold or silver tissue. Such a scarf supplies the correct touch where often a scarf in some brilliant hue would be out of place. In spite of their metallic surface these scarves are as light in weight as chiffon.

As Smooth as a Table Top

Over fifty thousand homes are served by Moffats Ranges because of their wonderful cooking abilities, their surety of service and perfection even to the smaller details.

For example, the range top on a Moffat Electric is made in one piece, electric porcelain enameled, of course, and as smooth and clean as a table top. That smooth, one-piece top, free of screws, bolts or cracks, can be wiped clean in a jiffy.

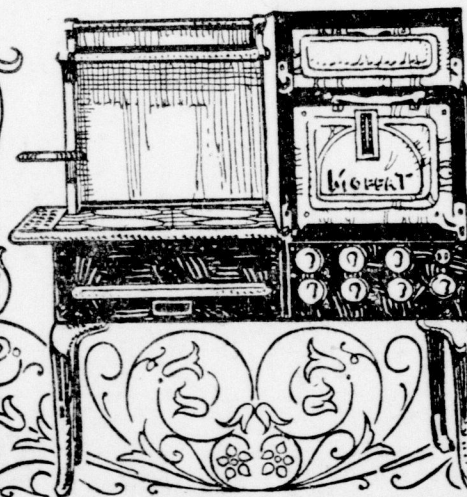

Then, it is exactly at the right height for comfort, not too low, nor too high. It saves a woman from backstrain or tiredness.

Easily cleaned? Decidedly so. In fact, you can clean the whole range in the length of time it takes to clean the oven in an ordinary range.

Note: Be sure to see the new Moffat one-piece oven. It gives you better cooking with less shrinkage or wastage of food. It is the most scientifically accurate oven on the market.

Buy a Moffat Electric Range and you get, admittedly, the best electric range manufactured at a very moderate price. Any Moffat dealer will gladly demonstrate Moffats Electric Ranges to you. Write for free booklet and full details to Moffats, Limited, Weston, Ontario.

PLAY SMART BALL

Special to The Advertiser.
Kalamazoo, Mich., June 23.—London evened up the series with Kalamazoo Monday afternoon by making better use of the hits obtained and at the finish had the Kazoos downed 7 to 4.

Zeke Snyder, a new pitcher from the Texas League, worked for the locals, but the visitors were able to secure blows at critical times, while Fields, Buffington, Huber and Hinderling, who pitched for London, was more fortunate. Twice the locals had two men on base and Snyder, playing the chucker was able to head off rallies. Errors by Manager Becker, playing short in place of Page who is laid up, also contributed toward the defeat by two errors.

The visitors got the jump on the Kazoos when Baker, who had singled, and Beatty, who had walked, were sacrificed. Buffington walked, Fields crashed over a single, sending Tice and Stimpson over, and Sandquist hit the homer, which enabled Effert to score from third. In the ninth the Londoners put over a final pair of runs, right, which enabled Effert to score from third. Got Three Here.
Three runs were produced in the sixth, when Tice opened with a single, Stimpson was safe on Becker's bobble, Gehring moved the runners up with a sacrifice, Buffington walked, Fields crashed over a single, sending Tice and Stimpson over, and Sandquist hit the homer, which enabled Effert to score from third. It was not until the seventh that the locals secured a run. In that inning Buffington, Huber and Hinderling, who pitched for London, was more fortunate. Twice the locals had two men on base and Snyder, playing the chucker was able to head off rallies. Errors by Manager Becker, playing short in place of Page who is laid up, also contributed toward the defeat by two errors.

Two more rallies were secured in the eighth on Wason's hit and blow by Buffington and Huber. Pierce, first up in the ninth, lifted the ball over the left field fence for the circuit.

Diamond Dust

The fact that London lost the Sabbath game to Kalamazoo would take some of the sting for Flint fans out of the series which closed Saturday here.

There, you see, Flint had to drop some games, and London just happened along.

London will "happen along" with considerable frequency from now on.

What has happened here isn't quite clear. All he's done lately is to "spot" the opposition a lot of runs which took some straining.

There wasn't going consistently, though in some of the games the support was none too steady. Then, too, it was cold weather.

There is better pitching being shown every day now that the summer has arrived. The cold weather all was rather winking at by some of the cynics, who pointed to the fact that some pitchers could get out and do their stuff even when throwing icicle balls.

However, the same pitchers that were making use of the cold weather all were now turning in good games.

Some of the old timers are attributing the better pitching this year to the use of the ball. When in use several innings, the surface of the ball becomes rough, and the advantage is all to the batter.

Bob Kuhn has been released outright by Buzz Wetzel. The fellow was on the injured list, too. Kuhn had a hard time playing into any kind of form in London. His awkwardness on ground balls seemed to overshadow his hitting, which was the same.

Wetzel, however, kept the fellow at his work and one year in Hamilton first, then in Kalamazoo, and then in London. Kuhn was a poor fielding first sacker, but he was a great major league player. Now he's hitting nothing but the slide.

Wetzel has still failed to report to Kalamazoo. The southern flash on the outfield limit.

Bill Regan, formerly with Kitchener as a second baseman, seems to be filling in for Kuhn nicely for the time being. They were a big pair to fill, but according to Flint enthusiasts they fit him nicely. Regan is justifying the faith Harry Tolton, former president of the Kitchener Club, always had in the boy.

Fans in St. Louis have no use for leers. They are beginning to find fault with the performances of the Cardinals and Browns and are sparing no words in their criticism.

Branch Rickey and George Sisler are receiving an unmerciful panning, also. The recent visit of the Red Sox to the Mount City started things.

St. Louis hasn't boasted of a championship team since Comiskey's Browns won the pennant in the American Association more than thirty-five years ago. Maybe the recklessness of the fans in that city is to blame!

The fact that Slater's team had lost to the Cardinals through accidents, made no difference. The followers of the Browns cheered Fohl and scored his success.

Rickey has been a target for hostile attacks and abuse since his team's defeat. Two years ago Rickey was a hero in Missouri when his team, for a while, looked like a pennant winner.

On the Side Lines

With C. S. G.

FROM LITTLE ACORNS.

Nason's home-run hitting undoubtedly stirred the faintly-beating baseball pulse of London, and now it looks as if the Englishman, the young rookie fork-hander, has arrived in time to stimulate the pulse back into its normal strong beating. The youngster's personality, as much as his pitching, has apparently caught the fancy of local fans, for seldom has a kid hurler got the encouragement the youth received Saturday.

The Englishman appears to have everything a baseball pitcher needs. He has one of the most natural cross-fires ever shown by a young southpaw in this league; he has everything on the ball apparently, and above all, and most important in a youngster—courage.

But all his cross-fire delivery, accurate and baffling as it proved in two games, all his versatility in the art of fingering, and all his courage won't prevent his losing the odd game now and again in the face of the breaks that his own team and the opposing team make against him. He has a world of experience to gain, because if he has weaknesses they soon find it out in professional baseball, even in Class B leagues. That's what makes professional baseball so hard to stick with. And one consistent weakness has been known to blast careers.

The fans may expect a lot from the youngster, but they must not expect too much. He'll probably get a real test this week again if he gets into the series which London plays at Flint. If the Flint batters do not find his weakness the next time out, then the youngster must be given credit for having all he appeared to have in two games here.

OULD IRELAND FOR EVER.

A lot of good Irish stew will lose their taste when it becomes generally known that Kid Sullivan, who knocked Johnny Dundee under his crown last week, is registered as Stephen Tricamo in the Brooklyn registry offices. Tricamo is a printer by trade. Frankie Mason, who several years ago was recognized as the flyweight champion of the world, was also a printer.

MORE FEMINISM.

Mrs. Ross Tenney, widow of Ross Tenney, for years sport editor and baseball writer for the Cleveland Press, is travelling with the Indians, handling the ball games, taking the place left vacant by the recent death of her husband. Mrs. Tenney is the only woman baseball writer in the major leagues, and she makes a good job of it. She travelled much with her late husband on his baseball trips and absorbed much knowledge of the game, which she sets down with grace and facility.

THE ISLAND OF DEATH

A Weird Tragedy of a Man Who Called Himself
"Monsieur the Devil."

By H. BEDFORD JONES.

INSTALLMENT II.
THE LEADING CHARACTERS:
BERANGERE DES GAUCHONS,
beautiful daughter of JEAN DES GAUCHONS, wealthy French colonist who dwells with Berangere on an island paradise in the South Seas.
A MYSTERIOUS STRANGER,
who is lurking about Des Gauchon's premises.

CHAPTER III.
A Game of Cards.
At sight of his daughter, Des Gauchons struggled to his feet and bowed. He kissed her cheeks, and the two young men trembled. She dutifully kissed his cheeks and the two secretaries turned pale. They bowed profoundly as she directed smiling greetings toward them.
"Mon pere," she said, allowing Des Gauchons to repeat himself and draw upon his knee. "I must go to Saigon again, at once."

The big man's brows uplifted in Gallic astonishment.
"So soon, Berangere? So soon, when we have just returned to our charming home after spending the entire season of the rains in this little Paris?" "Exactly," said the girl.
"You see, all six of those frocks I had made, are absolutely impossible!
I ordered the sleeves very short, to conform with the newest modes—after cabling to Paris in the matter, too!
—and that assassin of a modiste has made them too long! So I must go and attend to it."

Des Gauchons grimaced uncomfortably.
"But my tender little shepherd-girl," he said, lingering on the diminutive of her name, "but Berangere, you perceive that I must finish this paper—"

Her shoulders lifted in a shrug.
"Tiens, done! I am not going to interfere, mon pere. I shall take old Paul, who keeps your fleet in order,
and we may have the small cruiser, is it not? Three days, and we shall be in Saigon. A week there, and we return."

"Oh, if you insist! I shall have to refuse to permit it! Am I a child, then? Am I a silly little thing?"

"The good God knows you are not!" Des Gauchons stifled a sigh.
"But—"

"Never mind the rest." The girl stooped and planted a swift kiss upon his cheek. "Then we shall leave tonight—"

"If you wait but two days," said Des Gauchons, with the air of one who is resigned to the inevitable, "I shall have this paper completed, ready for you to mail from Saigon. It must reach the Revue Archeologique at the earliest date, for it completely refutes certain theories of the great peilott
in the Bulletin de—"

"Very well," cut in the girl. "Very well." In three days, to give you an extra day of grace! Now I shall not interfere further with your work.

She withdrew. Des Gauchons exchanged a look with another of his heavy eyelids. The two secretaries echoed the sigh.

"Should she go thus, unaccompanied?" ventured one of them. A mournful hope in his voice. Des Gauchons darted a look at the speaker, then smiled drily.

"Mon brave, when you can take care of yourself as well as this girl—nom d'un nom! I would like to see the man who can handle her! Heaven knows I cannot. Now, where did we leave off with those quotations—"

He resumed his work.

Berangere, meantime, followed a certain walk that led from the house amid its bowers of green; she descended this walk to its precipitous end. She came out upon the small terrace directly below her, at some 30 feet, was a small, perfectly inclosed harbor. At the edge of this harbor were boat-houses. Anchored in the little port were a large motor cruiser, a smaller and faster model exactly like it, a schooner, tiny in size but perfect in detail. On the sand were a number of whalebacks.

The girl touched a lever at the edge of the cliff, and brought into view an escalier which was moved by an ingenious arrangement of counterbalance weights. She stepped on to this and set it in motion. It deposited her on the shore beneath,
and from the boat-houses appeared an old man wearing a Breton cap, who saluted her respectfully. Berangere danced up to him and kissed his brown cheek.

"In three days, Paul, we go to Saigon, you and I—with the little cruiser."

"Ciel!" exclaimed the old seaman.
"Pas un mot, Paul!" exclaimed the girl. "Not a word! And listen; you know that papa was expecting a consignment of brandies from America? We shall bring them back as a surprise!"

"Heaven knows," said Paul with the grumbling air of one who is privileged; "there is a cellar full of liquor up above now! An army could not drink it all!"

"Bah! If it pleases Papa, why not? He says that when all the world has gone dry, this island shall be an as-sum for the next thousand years! In three days, remember!"

Paul nodded.

Neither the old Breton nor the girl perceived a slight movement upon the crest of the cliff above, nor the imperceptible glitter of a flashing eye.

Upon the following day, old Paul reported that one of the whalebacks had vanished from the lagoon. No one was missing from the island. The thing was inexplicable, unless the boat had been laid up too low on the shore, and had washed out with the tide. So, they concluded, it must have done.

Saigon is a city consciously modelled, in general plan, buildings, streets and customs upon Paris—that is to say, upon the Paris of a generation ago. One may find much in Saigon that is supposedly forgotten
in Paris—even to very bad French.

For example, there is a certain Cabaret du Chat Gris, located in the lower part of the city, convenient to the wharves and railroads and the Arroyo Chinois. Here, for a few cents, one may drink from divers fountains of evil. Here, for a few dollars, one may disappear forever.
The cents largely predominate, naturally.

Five men were sitting about a table in the Gray Cat, fingering a greasy deck of cards and drinking execrable red wine. Le Brisetout was a huge, uncouth monster of hair and flesh,
who worked in the nearby abattoir.

L'Etoile, a fiery little devil of a man,
wore a green patch over one eye;
the other orb blazed like a star of green fire. Le Morpion was a human bulldog, bulging of brow and chin, a retired seaman whose hands were knotted and lumpy, and whose glittering little eyes were extremely dangerous.

The fourth man was different. He had come of a finer strain; even in his poverty and dirt he retained a certain grace, a certain debonnaire scoundrelism. His beard was somewhat trimmed, and one conjectured that he might have been a gentleman.

CHAPTER IV.
Struggle.

The fifth man was dissimilar to all these four. Like them, he was ragged, unkempt, prone to vicious words. His unshaven features were bony and rugged, his gray eyes were bloodshot. Unlike these others, he was neither French nor of mixed blood, but an American. He had drifted

as a laborer at the Quai Francois Garnier.

Aside from these five at the table,
two other persons were in the room.
One was the proprietor, who was reading a newspaper across the bar.
The other was a man with a dirty handkerchief about his jaw. He had entered, demanding wine and "de quot ecire," and sat at a table in a dark corner. Here, however, he wrote only briefly.

"Now, as for me," said L'Etoile in crisp argot, "I have been at honest work for six months—laugh, fools, laugh! But it is true. When they took M. le Diable, and sent him to Noumea, I swore that I would turn to honest work until he escaped."

"Bah! said Cured, he who might once have been a gentleman. "One does not escape from Noumea."

"Exactly," Le Brisetout reached out hairy paws for the cards. "One does not! I know, for I have been there, me!"

There was a laugh. Smith, the American, looked up.
"Who is this M. le Diable? I've heard you speak of him, but—"

"Yes," Le Brisetout mouthed an oath. "Who is he, you? We know him not, in Saigon. He is the Morpion.
Between these two men passed a glance of singular meaning. It was Le Mor-pion who answered, as though in that glance he had read a command.

"Monsieur the Devil? Why, he is Monsieur the Devil—that is all! He is the king of all good rascals and honest thieves. They say that he is an artist, a man of talent, and that something happened to him. You know the crazy artists who lived on the Tahiti for years? Something like that. At all events, one night in Shanghai—Croule! And they had him. They brought him down here for trial and sent him to Noumea for life, the dogs! It was a betrayal."

"Yes," said L'Etoile with a certain mournful satisfaction. "It was a betrayal. But the man who betrayed us—
I mean the man who betrayed us—
him—confound this wine, it thickens
the tongue!—Well, that man died
very suddenly the next day."

"Good enough," put in Cured languidly. "I hope this M. le Diable escapes. I have heard of him. I would like to meet him. I think that he might break the monotony of life's facts."

Le Brisetout glared at the speaker
in scorn.
"Escape? Bah!" he roared. "No
one can escape from Noumea. All around in the hills are brown devils,
armed with clubs shaped like—like—well, you know what, you! When one escapes, they beat him nearly death, then drag him back. And, besides, one cannot swim a hundred miles!"

"Ah! But M. le Diable can," said
L'Etoile with conviction.
"Certainly he can," said the American. "I can myself. At least, if it were a question of escape from that hell, Noumea."

The eyes of the bandaged man in the corner dwelt curiously on the face of Smith.

The cards were dealt. The five men fell to their game. Presently it was over, and Cured gathered up the money. Le Brisetout stretched out one hairy, mammoth paw.

"A hundred miles!" he said, as though recollecting the former train of speech. "Ah! That is clearly impossible, M. Smith."

Cured's voice cut in, a bit dreamily.
"I should like to meet this M. le Diable," he reflected aloud. "Decidedly, the monotony of life is a fearful thing. The facts of life—you apprehend!
One desires to get away from facts. How pleasant to be a bolshevik and abolish all fact!"

L'Etoile, adjusting his green patch, laughed softly. That laugh was like the snicker of steel on steel.

"If you ever meet M. le Diable," he responded, "you will have no more monotony, my gentleman! As for your facts of life, I know nothing about them. You should have known our M. le Diable—a true artist! No gutter pickings for him. Cre nom!"

"He was an Apache, perhaps?"
queried Cured, dealing.

"Devil take me, if I know," said L'Etoile frankly. He spoke all tongues, had been all places. He thought at times he might be American or English. One hardly asks him questions.

"I wish to hell he'd show up here,
then," said Smith roughly. "If I could get away from this cursed town I'd bury myself to the devil man to question."

Suddenly the voice of Le Brisetout boomed forth upon them.
"Yes," said L'Etoile with a certain
mournful satisfaction. "It was a betrayal. But the man who betrayed us—
I mean the man who betrayed us—
him—confound this wine, it thickens
the tongue!—Well, that man died
very suddenly the next day."

"Good enough," put in Cured lan-
guidly. "I hope this M. le Diable
escapes. I have heard of him. I would like to meet him. I think that he might break the monotony of life's facts."

Le Brisetout glared at the speaker
in scorn.
"Escape? Bah!" he roared. "No
one can escape from Noumea. All

SEAPLANE RIDES FEATURE AT PORT

Gigantic Martin Accommodates Six Passengers—Stunt Plane To Perform.

SMOKE WRITING

Visitors in Port Stanley today are scheduled to receive one of the greatest thrills in the history of the resort with the arrival of a gigantic Martin seaplane, equipped with an enclosed cabin accommodating six passengers, and also a "Jenny" Curtiss stunting land plane, equipped for all of the tricks of the modern birdman, including the new eighth wonder of smoke writing on the sky.

The London & Port Stanley Railway has closed a contract with the American and British Aviation Corporation to bring the machines to Port Stanley for an indefinite engagement. The ships are scheduled to be in action at the lakeside resort
as an added attraction for the big Masonic picnic to be held tomorrow.

The ships are in charge of Capt. J.
C. Davis and Lieut. Jean Laverne, both of whom served with distinction
during the world war, the latter as a member of the famous international LaFayette Esquadille organized by Americans who sought to repay the debt of the United States to France from the days of General LaFayette.

The Second Ship.

The arrival of the seaplane marks
the second appearance of a ship of this type on the Canadian side of Lake Erie. Last summer when the late-fate American balloon fell into the lake off Port Stanley the U. S. government despatched seaplanes from Cleveland, one of which crossed the lake in the sensational speed of 55 minutes. This great flying boat will have its match in the big Martin.

This machine is really built for long distance cruises as a bomber, but has been equipped with the six-passenger cabin. She has been in service in Miami, Key West, and more recently at the fashionable resorts of Chesapeake Bay, in New York harbor, at Belle Isle and Chicago.

Scores of Londoners in recent years have enjoyed the rides given by land machines capable of carrying one passenger with the pilot. During its stay in Port Stanley, however, the Martin seaplane will carry passengers on fifteen-minute flights around Port Stanley at $5 a passenger. The first passenger trips are scheduled to be made on Wednesday during the Masonic picnic and flights will also be carried on daily thereafter until further notice.

The giant Martin machine is equipped with Liberty 12 motors of great power. The machine, however, is used purely for passenger service and never for stunt exhibitions. Passenger tickets will be on sale at the L. & P. S. Cafe.

Stunt Flying.

Capt. Davis and Lieut. Laverne are bringing another aeroplane, a "Jenny" Curtiss, capable of terrific speed, for use in stunt flights that are a feature all of the big occasions in the near future in Port Stanley, commencing with the Masonic picnic and including such events as the Dominion Day celebrations. The Curtiss is a land machine that will take off from the baseball diamond at the foot of In-vererie Heights. It is a high speed, fast-climbing machine that is booked to add great thrills to the Masonic program, when Capt. Davis will give a demonstration over the lake of looping the loop, back falls, spinning nose dives, turns, slides and all the other death-defying features. The machine is also equipped for the newest in stunt flights that are a feature of a world sensation—smoke writing on the sky. If conditions are favorable, Capt. Davis intends to write a message for the Masonic pic-nicners against the sunset sky.

The Masons have arranged for a big sports program with events open to everybody, a splendid basketball game at Invererie Heights in the afternoon and in the evening a community sing song with massed gave a sudden heave of his shoulders and arms.

THREE OF FAMILY DIE INSIDE OF SIX WEEKS

T. Rutherford of Tillsonburg Dies From Shock After Wife's Funeral.

Special to The Advertiser.

Tillsonburg, June 23.—Death visited the home of the Thomas Rutherford family this evening for the third time in six weeks, and twice within seven days, when the father, Thomas Rutherford, aged 74 years, died from shock. A week ago Sunday his wife was buried, her death occurring after a few days' illness. He was taken ill suddenly after the funeral services and never left his bed since then. Six weeks ago Mrs. Roy Rutherford dropped dead. The youngest daughter, Maude, is confined to her bed.

For the greater portion of his life
the late Mr. Rutherford resided in the vicinity of Delmer, and was a very successful farmer. The last seven years he has lived retired in Tillson-burg.

The funeral will be held on Thursday afternoon with interment at Delmer. Three daughters and five sons survive: Mrs. Edna E. Charlton, Windsor; Maude E. Brooks, Picton; Maude E. at home; Dr. T. Duncan of Burford; Roy S. Delmer; Harry B. Ella Lake; John S. Blenheim, and Dr. Scott E. of Windsor.

MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER.

Special to The Advertiser.

Embryo, June 23.—A great many friends and neighbors of Miss Sarah McCorquodale met at her home on Wednesday night. Alex. Sutherland was appointed chairman. Roy Sutherland and Alvin McKay played a violin duet. Arthur McPherson read a suitable and well-worded address to Miss McCorquodale, and Misses Ina and Lettie McPherson tendered her a miscellaneous shower, which included china, cut glass, silverware, towels, linens, fancy work, etc. Several impromptu speeches followed. Music on the violin was given by Mrs. Alex. Campbell, Roy Sutherland, Alvin McKay, Burns McCorquodale, and on the piano by Misses Anna McKay, Edna McCor-quodale and Mrs. James Hossack.

THE WATER ROUTE TO THE WEST.

For those who this summer are intent upon seeing the glories of Jasper National Park, the Canadian Rockies or the Pacific Coast, travelling part of the way by water makes a delightful break in the long journey.

By rail to Sarnia—thence to Port Arthur aboard the luxurious steamers of the Northern Navigation Company,
the traveller loses very little time,
and is amply repaid by the change of scene, cool lake breezes and social life aboard.

There is dancing every evening, concerts, sing-songs and promenadeing, not to mention the quiet hours reclining in a comfortable deck chair with a book or magazine. The cuisine is excellent and the staterooms rival
the comfort of the great ocean liners.

Any agent of the Canadian National Railways or Northern Navigation Company will gladly give full particulars or illustrated booklet.—Ad-

in favor of Embro.

SUFFERING GREAT PAINJohnny Burch Is Hit by Angry
Youth at Thames Park Pool.Johnny Burch, 8-year-old son of J. H. Burch, 199 Central avenue, who was hit on the head by a stone while in bathing at Thames Park last evening is suffering considerable pain.
He lost quite a lot of blood before the doctor could close the wound and this has made him very weak.
The only reason that can be given for the throwing of the stone was that Johnny, who is not able to swim, was splashing along the side of the pool and splashed water on the boy.
The boy, becoming angry at this and seeing how much smaller Johnny was than himself, threw the stone.
A description of the lad has been given to the police and Mr. Burch says that he will not prevent them from prosecuting him.LONDON'S LEVEL CROSSING PROBLEM TO BE DISCUSSEDIn view of the statement issued by the Ontario Safety League that the Dominion government will likely assist in the elimination of the deadly level crossings in the country, the question of London's crossings will be again brought up at the next meeting of the finance committee.
Chairman Douglass of this committee says:
"If the Dominion government is ready to assist the railroads financially in this matter, there is no reason why London should not be freed of the level crossing menace soon.
"We should lose no time in placing the situation as it exists here before the powers at Ottawa to show them
the necessity for immediate action.
It would be possible to construct subways at several points in the city to provide for safe thoroughfares between the districts north and south of the railway tracks. If the government bears a portion of the cost of this, the city would be willing to bear its share of the expense."
