

HENRY BIRKS & SONS
GOLD AND SILVERSMITHS

MESSRS. HENRY BIRKS & SONS have pleasure in placing in the hands of their many friends and patrons their Seventh Annual Catalogue. This book will be found one of the most complete of its kind published and fully represents a stock which is not only the largest in the Dominion but one of the most extensive on the American Continent.

By means of this catalogue and a well organized Mail Order Department, the firm has developed, in the past seven years, a most important branch of their business which now extends from the West Indies to the Yukon. With their extensive manufacturing facilities which include workshops for the manufacture of their fine jewellery, solid silverware, silver plate, cut glass, and stationery, each under the management of an expert in his line and all under the direct supervision of a practical member of the firm, they offer exceptional advantages to buyers desiring high-class goods.

They prepay charges and assume all risk in the shipment of orders. Should there be any disappointment in goods selected, they gladly exchange them or refund money in full as customers may wish.

Those to whom the firm come as strangers, the question as to their responsibility naturally suggests itself. A reference to any banking institution or commercial agency will furnish the required information as to the firm's reliability.

Intending purchasers unfamiliar with the ways of sending orders by mail, will find the desired information on inside of back cover of this book.

FINE GEM RINGS.

All diamond settings are solid 18-carat gold all others solid 15-carat. A card for measuring size of finger will be found at back of book.

High quality has always been our chief aim in the matter of diamonds, and we claim that our regular "first-water" stones, to which grade all those catalogued here belong, are of higher quality than those regularly carried in stock by any other house in Canada.

THE DIAMOND.

The diamond in its purest condition is colorless and transparent, yet at times it is found colored throughout of almost every possible tint, the colors ranging from bright canary yellow to a deep brown and black, and in very rare instances green, blue, pink and red. Diamonds are found occasionally in Sumatra, India, Borneo, Brazil, North America, British Guinea, Australia and the Ural Mountains, but the South African Mines practically supply the world. The following are some of the important characteristics a diamond must possess to be classed as "first water"; it should be absolutely white, that is without the slightest tinge of yellow, free from flaws, and perfectly cut. In speaking of freedom from flaws it must be explained that should a magnifying glass of sufficient power be used, flaws can be found in the most perfect diamond ever discovered. The cutting is a most important feature, frequently overlooked even by dealers, as an improperly cut stone loses much of its fire and brilliancy. In a correctly cut stone, the front, that is the part above the girdle, should be one third, and the back two thirds of the total thickness of the stone. The girdle itself should be sharp and free from the heavy uncut edges seen in many stones.

Composition : Pure Carbon. Specific gravity : 3.52 to 3.53. Hardness : 10.

THE RUBY.

The ruby occupies, among precious stones in general, a position which is unquestionably supreme, and from Old Testament times until to-day it has been regarded as the very type of all that was most precious in the natural world. The true ruby is a variety of the mineral species termed corundum and can be scratched by the diamond but by no other mineral. It is found in many parts of the world, but the localities yielding the rubies of commerce are practically limited to Burmah, Siam and Ceylon. Even of these localities, it is only in Burmah, that the favorite tint, the true pigeon's blood color is found; those of Siam are darker, and those of Ceylon, paler. The price paid for rubies by the Ancients was very high; according to Benvenuto Cellini, in his time, a perfect ruby of a carat weight cost 800 écus d'or, whilst a diamond of like weight cost only 100, the same applies to-day more especially in the larger stones. When a perfect pigeon's blood ruby of five carats is brought into the market, a sum will be offered ten times the price given for a diamond of same weight; but should it reach ten carats or more it is almost invaluable.

Composition : Alumina with traces of Oxide of Iron. Specific gravity : 4. Hardness : 9.

THE EMERALD.

The emerald varies in color from what is called emerald green to grass green, and greenish white, the value depending upon its color and freedom from flaws; but a very fine dark velvety colored stone, free from flaws, is almost never met with. The rise in the price of emeralds within the last year or two, has been most remarkable, a really fine stone being now worth as much as a pigeon's blood ruby. The rise has been caused by the great demand for all green stones, and by the very limited output of the emerald mines. Emeralds are found in the Republic of Columbia, the Ural Mountains and in the mountains of Sahara.

Composition, Silica, Alumina and Glucina. Specific gravity : 2.7. Hardness : 7.5.

THE PEARLS.

These products of nature stand pre-eminent in the ranks of precious gems; so rarely are they found of perfect quality and symmetry however, that they are rapidly increasing in value. The steady demand coupled with the recent closing of some important fisheries, by the Indian government, has resulted in most astonishing advances. For really fine gems, quite twice as much will now be paid, as would have been two years ago, and even when this great increase is paid, they are much more difficult to procure. The characteristics of a fine pearl are: perfection of shape, skin and lustre or brilliancy. The chief localities for pearls are: North Borneo, West Australia, Torres Strait, Gulf of Panama, Ceylon and the Persian Gulf.

THE SAPPHIRE.

The sapphire is a variety of corundum and much, therefore, that was said under the head of ruby will apply to the sapphire. The desired color is velvety "Cornflower" blue; but while this is the typical color of the sapphire, it should be explained that the word "Sapphire" is extended by mineralogists and jewellers to corundums of other colors. Thus we have green sapphires, various shades of yellow, and grey, while others may be entirely destitute of color. The principal sapphire yielding localities are: Siam, Burmah, Cashmere and Ceylon, and of these the Siam stones are at present the finest in the market. Many sapphires are found in Montana, but the stones are mostly of green and other fancy tints, and not deep blue. The value of the sapphire, like the diamond, depends on its purity, color and size. A perfect Oriental sapphire being worth from a third to a half of a diamond of like weight. The imperfections which appear at times in the sapphire, and which lessen its value, are clouds, milky half-opaque spots, white glassy stripes, etc. Doublets are made of the sapphire as well as the ruby and other gems; these consist of thin layers of true stone cemented to a backing of colored glass. They may be distinguished from the genuine stone partly by their color, but more especially by a careful examination of the girdle where the join may usually be readily detected.

FINE GEM AND GOLD RINGS.

Articles are exact size of illustrations. In ordering, it is not necessary to cut the catalogue; mentioning the number and price will be sufficient. A card for measuring size of finger will be found at back of book. All rings shown in this catalogue are of either solid 18-carat or 15-carat gold; are the product of our own workshops, and procurable only from the Montreal and Ottawa stores or direct through our mail order department at Montreal.

THE OLIVINE.

The olivine has a delicate olive-green color, which greatly enhances the beauty of diamonds when the two stones are mounted together, it also combines well with opals, and is much used in jewellery. The colors vary from light straw-yellow to yellowish-green, when the stone receives the name of Chrysolite; and thence to a peculiar soft hue of a deep yellowish-green, when it is called Peridot. It is found in the Levant, Mexico, Brazil and South Africa.

Specific gravity : 3.35.

Hardness : 6.5.

THE TURQUOISE.

The turquoise is a hard opaque gem of sky-blue color, which combines beautifully with diamonds and pearls. It is found principally in Persia and Arizona. Turquoise matrix is the term applied to stones where the brown sand-stone runs through the turquoise, making a rich mottled effect.

Specific gravity : 2.75.

Hardness : 6.

THE AMETHYST.

This term is applied to all the violet and purple crystal of quartz, which are found in nearly all parts of the world. The really fine stones, however, now so much used in jewellery, come from Brazil, Uruguay and Siberia.

Specific gravity : 2.6.

Hardness : 7.

THE GARNET.

The mineralogist includes a great number of stones which present a variety of colors under this name; but among jewellers the name is confined to the deep red variety of the garnet family. The finest garnets are found in Ceylon and Siberia.

Specific gravity : 3.5 to 4.3.

Hardness : 7.

THE ALMANDINE.

The almandine is a very pretty species of garnet found in India. It has a rich petunia color between the purple of the amethyst and deep red of the garnet.

Specific gravity : 3.5 to 4.3.

Hardness : 7.

THE BLOODSTONE.

Bloodstone is a variety of jasper, of a deep green color, interspersed with red spots which resemble small drops of blood, whence its name. Being a hard stone and yet not difficult of manipulation, it is the favorite for seal rings in which monograms and crests are cut.

Specific gravity : 2.6.

Hardness : 7.

THE CARNELIAN.

Carnelian is a clear red variety of chalcedony having the same characteristics as the bloodstone.

Specific gravity : 2.6.

Hardness : 7.

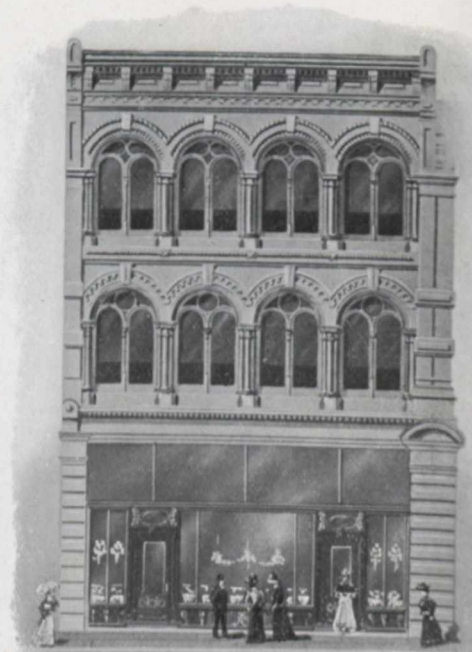

THE OPAL.

Several kinds of opals are known to the mineralogist, but of these the common opal, semi-opal, and Mexican or fire opal, are of little or no value. The precious or noble opal was formerly obtained almost exclusively from Hungary, but of late years large quantities have been found in Queensland and New South Wales, and as the Hungarian mines have been largely worked out, Australia is now the chief source of supply. There are innumerable superstitions attached to the opal. By the Ancients it was thought to bestow every possible good; in the Middle Ages the same belief held, but by a strange freak of fashion, for which Sir Walter Scott's "Anne of Gherstein" was largely answerable, it was for a long time considered unlucky. The pendulum, however, is now swinging the other way, and the opal is again looked upon as a lucky stone.

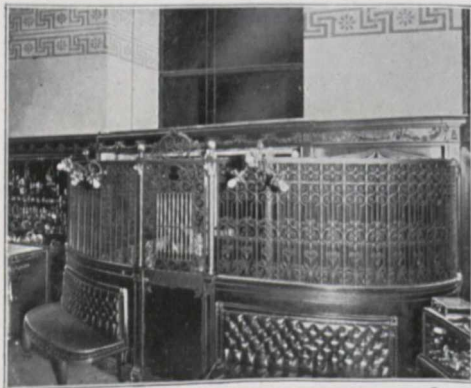

Composition : Silica.

Specific gravity : 2 to 2.2.

Hardness : 5.5 to 6.

Jewellery Workshop.

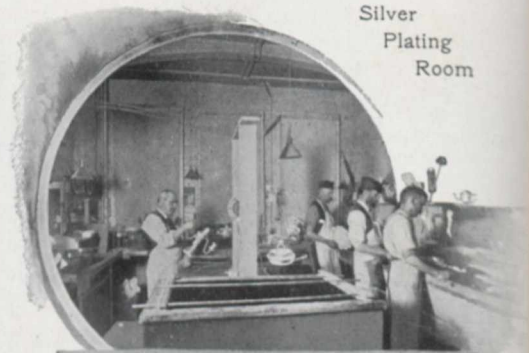

Inspection Invited.

OF THE many visitors to Messrs. HENRY BIRKS & SONS' store a comparative few are aware of the extensive workshops, and the many hands employed direct in its connection.

A visit to their factory will be found most interesting, showing the numerous ways of making, assembling and completing the many varieties of goods which go to comprise an extensive jewellery establishment.

To those who appreciate the fine handiwork of the goldsmith, silversmith or glass cutter, the firm extend a cordial invitation to inspect their workshops.

Illustrations showing the different stages of a Cut Glass Bowl in process of manufacture.

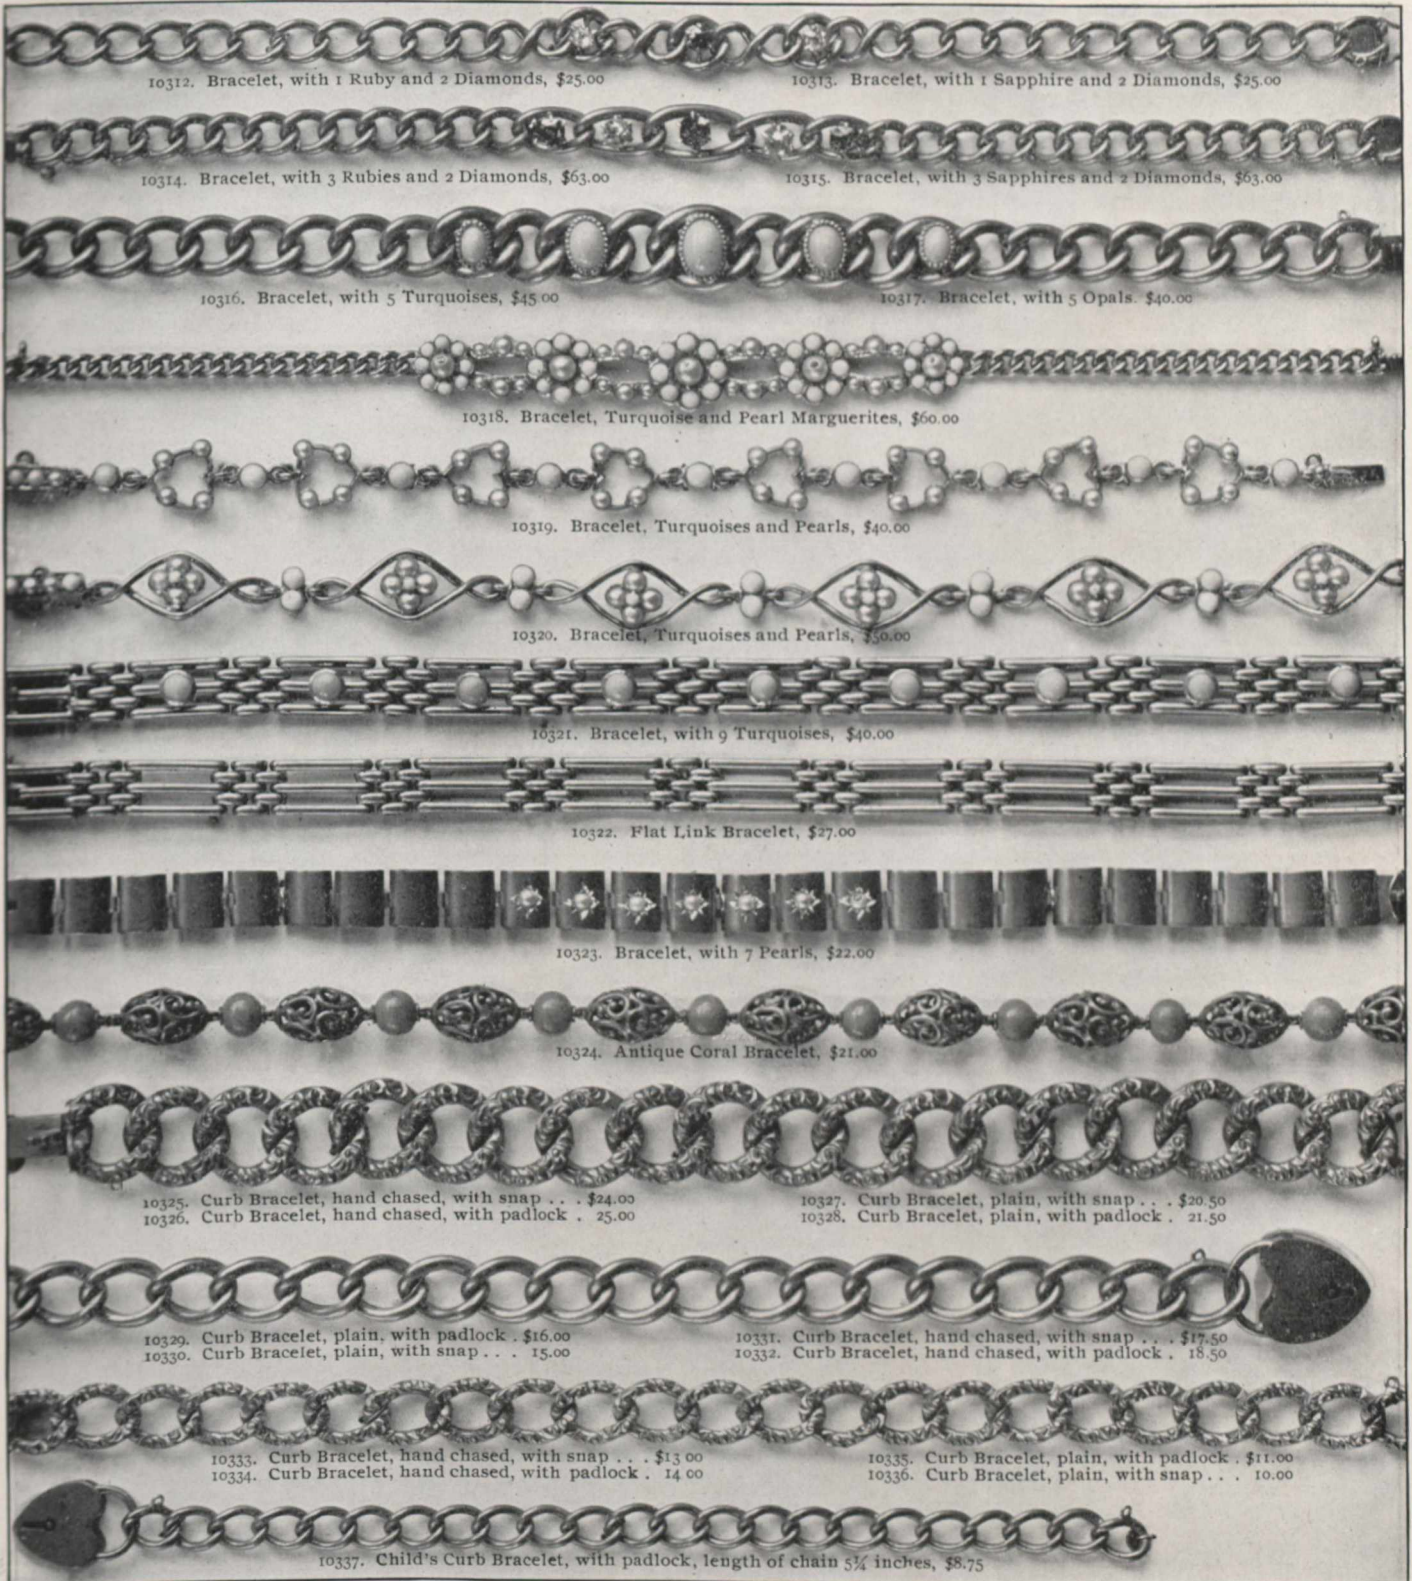

The plain blanks (Fig. I.) are imported from France and the United States. The piece to be cut, first goes to the "rougher" who with brush and red lead paint divides it into even sections (Fig. II.), then on metal wheels, kept always moist with Berkshire sand and water, roughs in the pattern (Fig. III.). When it is remembered that the cutter depends upon his eye and memory for his pattern, and that many days' constant grinding are required for the more intricate designs, the results are little short of marvellous.

Glass Cutting.

From the "rougher" it goes to the "smoother," who works with moist wheels, of fine sandstone, which smooth all roughened places and fill in all the finer cuts. This leaves the article ready for polishing. This is done on a wooden wheel upon which is sprinkled what is known as "putty powder." This completes the article, and the piece is now ready for the buyer, sparkling and beautiful in the extreme.

Henry Birks & Sons' long established reputation for High-grade Watches has only been obtained by years of careful study of the products from the most reliable manufacturers. The utmost care is used in the selection of their movements and every watch sold carries the firm's guarantee. The placing of large orders, direct with the manufacturers for cash, is the sole reason of the very moderate prices at which these watches are sold.

WINDING.—A watch should be wound as nearly as possible at the same time every day. If allowed to run down, the rate of performance is usually altered. No watch should be allowed to go more than two years without being cleaned, as, no matter how tight the case, the oil will have gathered enough foreign matter, in that time, to cut like a file instead of acting as a lubricant.

REGULATING.—A new watch, or one that has been recently repaired, frequently requires a slight alteration of the regulator to adjust it to the wearer's use, the rate of the performance being altered by the transfer from the workman's case to the wearer's pocket. The alteration may be made by moving the regulator towards the words "fast" (engraved on the index) when the watch is losing, or towards "slow" when gaining. This should be done very slightly at a time, and repeated if not sufficient.

REPAIRS.—We desire to direct special attention to the importance of sending us watches requiring repairs or cleaning as irretrievable injury is frequently caused by incompetent workmen. Only the most skilled and rapid watchmakers are employed and no repairs are executed if we consider the movement does not warrant the expense. An estimate will be furnished before commencing the work when requested.

LAUNCELOT PATTERN.—The chasing on this pattern is graceful and bold, contrasting beautifully with the polished centre surface; the design is one of great richness, and is yet in perfect taste. As in all our brushes, only the best bristles are used, mounted in celluloid-faced satin-wood. They are not injured by wetting, and are more cleanly than brushes made in the ordinary way.

Articles are twice the length and width of illustrations and are all solid sterling silver.

POMPADOUR PATTERN.— We consider this pattern of silver brushes a remarkably fine piece of die work. The design is very rich and is brought out with wonderful sharpness. The different pieces are of good weight and are beautifully finished in every respect. Only the best quality of bristles are used, set in satinwood blocks, impervious to water.

NEW QUEEN'S PATTERN.

We desire to call special attention to this pattern of solid silver flatware, in which the designer has followed the precise lines of the famous Old Queen's Pattern, but enriched the ornamentation by much deeper cutting. It surpasses in beauty of form, and strength and dignity of ornament any design of similar character now before the public and is yet sufficiently conventional to appeal to those who appreciate a rich family pattern of such robust character that it will always be in fashion. Owing to the depth of the ornamentation it can only be made in very heavy weights.

THE BEAD PATTERN.

Simplicity of design and graceful outline are the characteristics of this pattern of silver spoons and forks. The bead is sufficient decoration to relieve severe plainness, and the whole effect suggests dignity and refinement. It is the perfect embodiment of the ideal we aim at in all our spoon patterns, namely a design so simple and strong that it will be considered a family pattern worthy of handing down for generations.

THE "GADROON"
PATTERN.

The ornamentation on this pattern came into vogue among the English silversmiths during the reign of the First George, and the refined simplicity of the "Gadroon" border has made it a favorite for nearly two hundred years. Our "Gadroon" is beautifully finished and is a superb production of the die sinker's art. Owing to the high character of its design, we believe it will be as much in favor a generation hence as it is to-day.

THE "OLD ENGLISH"
PATTERN.

Our "Old English" spoons and forks have that beautiful roundness to the handle seen only in the old hand-forged English silver. This is not attempted by any other American manufacturer, and, while adding considerably to the expense of making, this is fully justified by the more graceful appearance of the articles.

TRIÈDER BINOCULARS.

These are the culmination of human skill and invention as applied to binoculars. The recent invention of the Zeiss Jena Glass has made a new application of optical laws possible in the construction of field, marine and opera glasses. By this means a much larger field and greater illumination are obtained with a given magnifying power than has been hitherto possible, while size of glass has been reduced. We would call attention to the low prices at which they are quoted.

FINE SILVER-PLATED WARE.

Particular attention is called to the long wearing qualities we claim for our plated ware, our aim having been to manufacture the finest flatware on the market. The under metal is the finest quality of 18 per cent. nickle-silver which has a color, even before plating, almost equal to silver. The plating of pure silver is twice the thickness of that on the A-1 qualities of the best American and Canadian makes. In the finishing, hand burnishing is used exclusively, a process which gives a finer and more enduring finish than the cheaper machine burnishing, commonly used. These qualities, while adding considerably to the cost of the goods, are more than justified by the extra years of wear gained.

We replate all worn silver-plated articles and will be pleased to quote prices upon receipt of description.

FINEST HARD-METAL PLATED WARE.

Made and guaranteed by Henry Birks & Sons.

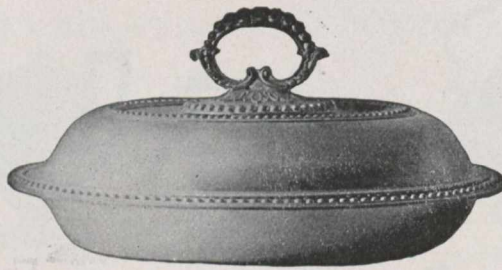

The question is often asked: "What is the difference between hard and soft metal plated ware?" We answer: The basis of hard-metal plated ware of the best grade, like the articles enumerated here, is the finest quality of nickel or german silver, remarkably hard and ringing. Upon this nickel silver is laid, by the electro-process, a very thick coating of pure silver. In every detail the finish is as fine as that of the best sterling silver-ware, which it also equals in wearing qualities, and in fact everything but intrinsic value.

FINEST HARD-METAL PLATED WARE.

Soft-metal plated ware which is largely used in England and almost exclusively by the best American makers of plated ware has for a basis varying qualities of britannia-metal. The basis of our soft-metal plated ware is the finest white britannia-metal or pewter. On this we apply a coating of silver just as heavy as that on the hard-metal ware but owing to the difference of the base the soft metal is not so indestructible as the hard.

ROCK CRYSTAL.

This glassware is made of the very finest English Crystal Glass and takes its name from the resemblance it bears to the rare and valuable Rock Crystal Stone.

It differs from the ordinary cut-glass, in that it is engraved by skilled artists, after which it goes through a special process of polishing, which helps to give it the exceeding rich effect it carries.

It is without doubt the most artistic and highest grade of glassware yet attained. Each piece is a work of art in itself and entails a vast amount of labour and skill.

ARTISTIC PIECES IN KAISER ZINN.

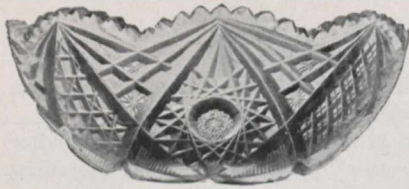

This ware is very much in favor for gifts. Its unique designs, and the fact that it does not tarnish like Sterling Silver, has made it very popular. It is a German production, and consists of an alloy of the purest Tin and Sterling Silver, the same material throughout. In appearance, it has the soft sheen of the Old English Pewter.

CUT-GLASS of our own manufacture.

Cut-glass is one of the most difficult wares to reproduce in illustration.

These are from photographs taken direct from the original pieces, and while they show the shape, style of cutting, etc., they cannot show the real beauty, brilliancy and fine work, which is so characteristic of our cut-glass.

Its popularity for gifts has been evidenced by an unusually large sale during the past year, both from catalogue orders and in our stores.

No matter where you live, should you order, we guarantee its safe delivery.

TERMS OF BUSINESS.

THE PRICES IN THIS CATALOGUE are net cash with order, being the store prices after the cash discount has been deducted. We quote in this way to simplify matters for our mail customers.

No further discount will be allowed to the trade.

GOODS ARE CHARGED ONLY to those known to the firm or who send a Montreal reference, or a letter from a local bank manager, and are then booked at the store prices which are 10% higher than those quoted in the catalogue, but are subject to that discount if paid within thirty days. Where correspondents are unknown in Montreal, a letter from a local bank manager will be sufficient.

SELECTIONS will be sent for inspection, except during the fortnight preceding Christmas, during which time only single articles can be spared. Correspondents unknown to the firm, desiring goods on approval, must send either a Montreal reference or deposit.

DELIVERY.—All orders are sent prepaid to destination, except selected parcels on approval, in which case we pay the return charges, and in the case of a few articles listed on pages 83, 92 and 103, in each instance full particulars being given. Parcels too large or too heavy to send by post are expressed to the nearest express office, and customer is notified. The firm assumes all risk in forwarding orders of $1.00 and upwards. Orders of less than $1.00 must be accompanied with 5 cents additional to ensure safe delivery. Our agreement to return the money will be faithfully kept, so please do not request small orders sent C. O. D., as it causes both you and us extra expense.

HOW TO ORDER.

Fill out the order blank to be found at back of catalogue, simply stating page and number, name and price of article. Do not cut the catalogue.

Money may be sent safely by Express Order, Post Office Order, Canadian Postal Notes or marked cheque. All cheques must be payable at par in Montreal.

FOREIGN ORDERS.—Unless otherwise mentioned, we prepay all orders of $5.00 and over to the following countries: Great Britain, Newfoundland, West Indies and Bermuda. Orders for a less amount we charge 15 cents for additional postage.

All packages sent us should have your name and address on the wrapper or inside of parcel.

ORDER EARLY for the Christmas season, as, notwithstanding our best efforts, we may run out of certain articles.

ENGRAVING.—Prices in this catalogue do not include engraving, except in the case of one dozen or more solid silver spoons and forks, on which we engrave one letter free of charge. For prices of engraving, see page 103. To avoid mistakes, always print the letters to be engraved. We employ only expert and therefore highly-paid engravers capable of doing the finest work. No engraving can be executed between December 15th and 25th.

OLD JEWELLERY.—We make a special feature in re-making, repairing and purchasing old jewellery of all kinds. Owing to our factory facilities we are able to offer exceptional advantages to customers in this department of our business. Valuations and estimates are always submitted for customer's approval.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

In many cases time and expense may be saved by sending us the address and any cards you wish enclosed, and we will forward the articles prepaid to the parties for whom they are intended. Such orders will receive our most careful and prompt attention.
