Love in a Flour Mill,

OR,

The Romance of Two Loyal Hearts!

CHAPTER IX.

"I should think not," said Dexter Reece, devoutly hoping there was not, and that they would soon get away from it.

"We shall have a splendid view presently, Mr. Reece," she said. "You will see the river winding below and running out by the estuary to the sea; and the great woods on the other side. Why, what's this?" she asked, as she looked at a dark mass which suddenly rose from the brow of the hill. "Oh, it's the old mill! I remember now. It's so long since I was on this part of the moor that I had quite forgotten it. Why, it's going!" she added, with surprise, as they drew near enough to see the great sails revolving against the cloudless sky.

"Ought it not to be going?" asked Dexter Reece.

"Well, it wasn't going when I was here last," she replied; "and I thought that it was not working—that it was unoccupied. Oh, I must go and see!"

"The horses—" muttered Reece; but she did not hear him, and put them to a quicker pace.

The carriage rolled joltingly over some broken ground, and presently they came almost abreast of the mill. The cobs had been staring at it apprehensively for some time; and now, as they approached the terrible thing, they threw up their heads, snorted, began to swerve away, and then stood stock still.

"Oh, go on, dears!" remonstrated Evelyn. "It's only a mill, and won't hurt you."

"Perhaps—or—we had better turn," suggested Dexter Reece, trying to speak carelessly.

"Oh, we mustn't do that," said Evelyn; "or they'd be troublesome whenever they came this way again. You foolish things, it's only a mill for grinding the corn you love so."

She drew the whips across their backs, but they did not respond; and she touched them more sharply, with a firm little "Go on, stupids!" They moved at last, and drew a little nearer; but they were really frightened by the great revolving sails, which seemed to them limbs of some new and altogether horrible kind of animal; they shied violently, reared until they were almost on their haunches; then, receiving a sharp cut, came down on all fours, and, making a half-turn, tried to bolt.

Reece, white as a sheet, clung to the rail, but looked round as if he meditated leaping from the carriage. Evelyn's lips drew straight and her brows came down. She knew that if they did bolt she would not have the slightest chance of checking them down the hillside; and she remembered the wide ditch and high fence which divided the moor from the road. But her pluck did not desert her; she gripped the reins tightly, and, with stern but soothing voice, tried to reassure the scared animals.

But they were beyond soothing, and, with heads down, they strained at their bits. The carriage went over a large stone, and Reece was almost shot into the air, and he was throwing the rug from his knees, preparatory to jumping out, when a strange figure darted from the mill, sprang at the horses' heads, and checked them. A moment later the intervention would have been futile; but the horses were just in that mental state when a new and sudden terror brings about a collapse, and renders action impossible.

Somewhat to Evelyn's surprise, they pulled and strained back in confusion. With her eyes still fixed on them she got them in hand; then she looked with eager gratitude at the person who had so courageously saved them from what might have very easily been a fatal accident. She had to lean on one side, for the figure was half hidden by the horses' heads; and, to her amazement, she saw that the rescuer was a girl. She stared at a beautiful flour-flecked face, into a pair of wonderful grey eyes; she was too amazed to utter a word for a moment or two; and then, when she found her voice, she could only gasp, with mingled astonishment and admiration. "Oh!"

CHAPTER X.

Evelyn recovered from her astonishment in a moment or two.

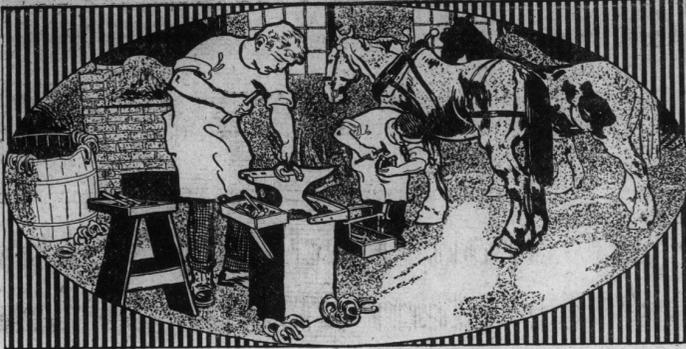

"Will you go to their heads?" she said to Dexter Reece. "They will stand perfectly quiet now."

He obeyed, not too quickly, and stood gingerly holding the reins; and the girl who had checked the horses and the girl who had checked the mill; but Evelyn called after her eagerly.

"Oh, please don't go," she cried. "I want to thank you for coming to our help."

The girl paused irresolutely and stood, with something like a frown, regarding Evelyn, as if she were conscious of the striking contrast they presented. But there was no sullen envy in Cara's regard of Evelyn's delicate, refined beauty and her simple but costly attire; there was just the curiosity and interest which would have been evoked in Cara if she had come across some strange flower or insect of brilliant hues. She was as struck and impressed by Evelyn's appearance as she had been by that of Ronald Desborough on the preceding night; and even at the moment it seemed to her remarkable that these denizens of another and a higher world should, so to speak, have floated into her ken.

"It was awfully brave of you," said

Backache

The artist sketched this picture from life in a Toronto blacksmith shop, in order to get the correct pose of the smith at the anvil and shoeing a horse. Is it any wonder that the blacksmith's greatest troubles are backache and derangements of the kidneys? The constant strain on the muscles of the back and kidneys interferes with the filtering action of these organs. The uric acid poisons left in the blood cause pains and aches, backache and rheumatism, and such serious diseases as Bright's disease and hardening of the arteries result.

But it is not the blacksmith alone who is tortured by backache, for there are many occupations in which the continuous strain on the back leads to much suffering, and also to serious disease.

Blacksmiths have always been strong in their praise of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and by telling others of the good results accomplished by this treatment have added much to its popularity among farmers and horsemen generally.

Being direct and prompt in their action, Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills appeal to the man of action. The liver is awakened, the bowels aroused and the kidneys strengthened by the influence of this medicine. The filtering and excretory organs lose no time in cleansing the system of the poisonous matter which gives rise to pain and disease. Constipation is overcome, kidney derangements corrected, digestion improved, and you feel fine. Put them to the test when you are feeling out of sorts. Let them prove their value. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto.

Evelyn gently but warmly. "You might have been knocked down, hurt, and I am very grateful to you."

Cara nodded a curt and cold acknowledgment, and was turning away; but Evelyn had had time to fully recognize the girl's beauty and grace; she was quite startled by it, and was loath to let her go without further talk.

"I did not know that the mill was working, that anybody lived in it," she said invitingly. She glanced up at the name-board over the door, and she was going to say, "You are the miller's daughter?" but something about the girl, a certain dignity of face and form, caused her to change the question to, "You are Miss Raven?"

Cara nodded again. "Yes; my father owns the mill," she said.

The deep contralto of her voice, its simple composure, affected Evelyn as its owner's face had done, and still further prepossessed her; and the girl's rough clothing, powdered with the flour which flecked the soft black hair, seemed to Evelyn almost cruelly discordant with her beauty and grace.

"Are you living alone with him here?" she asked, as she looked round and listened for signs of other human beings. "Your mother? Have you any brothers and sisters?"

"My mother is dead," replied Cara, as calmly as before. "I haven't any brothers and sisters; and I help father with the mill. I must go now, or the hoppers will be choked."

"Oh, but come out again, please!" pleaded Evelyn.

"Why?" asked Cara gravely. Evelyn was actually a little embarrassed by the steady regard of the beautiful eyes.

"Oh, I want to talk to you," she said. "My name is Desborough; I live in Thorden Hall; over there, you know"—she pointed with her whip. "I don't come up here very often—that is why I had not seen you; and I don't think we have met in the village, have we?"

Cara shook her head.

"I don't know; I don't remember," she said, but she knew that if she had seen Evelyn before this she would have remembered her.

"I am sure we have met; or I should not have forgotten you," said Evelyn. She looked at the moor, grand and impressive in its solitude, and then, with a sense of pity stirring within her, at the girl. "Do you not feel very lonely here sometimes?" she asked.

Cara considered for a moment, then shook her head.

"No," she replied. "Why should I? There is always the work."

"Yes; but you can't always be working," said Evelyn, with a smile; "the mill must stop sometimes, and then— But I suppose you go for a walk, or read, or do needlework?"

Cara appeared to ponder these suggestions before she answered.

"I walk about the moor sometimes; I don't read—I haven't any books; and there is no needlework to do.—I must go now. Good morning."

But she was stopped again; this time by Dexter Reece.

"One moment, please," he said, in quite a different tone to that which Evelyn had used—the tone of a fine gentleman addressing a person very much his inferior.

He was about to make the mistake which Ronald had made last night, and his hand went to his waistcoat-pocket in search of half a sovereign; but Evelyn saw the action, and, shaking her head earnestly, she murmured:

"Oh, no, no!"

He coloured, bit his lip, and shrugged his shoulders, and, raising his hat, said to Cara, in the same tone: "Let me add my thanks to Miss Desborough's. You have behaved very pluckily; and we both appreciate your assistance."

Do you suffer from Nerve Troubles

Our nerves are like an intricate network of telegraph wires. They are controlled and nourished by a portion of the brain known as the nerve centres. The condition of the nerve centres depends upon the condition of the bodily health. When the bodily health is lowered the nerves suffer in sympathy. Then it is that we are tormented with "nerves," headaches, neuralgia and nervous debility. In such cases there is nothing to equal Wingarnis, the "Wine of Life." Wingarnis is a powerful nerve food which acts directly upon the nerve centres and gives them new life and new vitality. The result is wonderful.

"Our Boys" Arrived.

Commencing on Monday afternoon next, at the "Casino Theatre" "Our Boys" "The First Newfoundland Regiment" will pay us a "pictorial visit." This beautiful picture which consists of 4,000 feet, was secured at the instigation of Mr. J. P. Kieley and is controlled by him. It is undoubtedly the greatest film of its description ever taken. Special permission having been granted from the British War Office in order to have this wonderful picture placed upon the screen. Photographically perfect and detailingly excellent, this "portraiture" is absolutely the "last word" in the art of motion photography. "Our Boys"—God Bless them—are to be seen in their "days work" both at Aldershot and Ayr. They have been photographed "to the minute" by one of the most expert operators in Great Britain, the whole being directed by a man whose name is a Household word. Mr. Kieley deserves great credit for his wonderful energy and foresight in being the conceiver and originator of such a "coup." "Our Boys" have been alluded to by one of the leading British Generals as "the coolest bunch" he ever saw under fire. This remark is praise indeed. We unhesitatingly predict crowded houses during the run of this great picture which will naturally appeal to every man, woman and child of our Island Home. In point of fact it is the only picture of its kind ever to have been taken during the progress of which one visits Aldershot, the greatest military camp in the world and the home of Robbie Burns, the world-renowned Scottish poet, in Ayr. It is worthy of special note that the final performance each night will commence at 8.45, to give everybody a chance to see this "homeland feature."

BOOK BORROWERS.

Some folks are rather funny; if they should borrow money, they're sure to pay it back; they're straight, they're never willing to owe a man a shilling, a shotgun or a tack. In all life's common phases they are as prompt as blazes, a debt on their nerves; they are so biased punctilious it fairly makes one bilious to contemplate their curvies. But when they borrow novels, and take them to their novels, to keep nine days or ten, you may be sure the chances are that those fine romances will ne'er come back again. I am a chronic martyr; my set of Old Nick Carter was borrowed long ago; and Laura Libby's volumes, that stood in stately columns, my shelves no more shall know. What are the cherished treasures that gave me un-mixed pleasures in olden golden days? Oh, where is "Bolts and Fetters," and where "The Life and Letters of Rutherford B. Hayes"? To honest friends I lent them—at their request I sent them—and maybe they'll come back some day when pigs are soaring, and pterodactyls, roaring, are roosting on my shack.

Everyday Etiquette.

"What kind of an engagement ring should a man in moderate circumstances give the girl he has asked to become his wife?" queried worried Ned. "A man should not tax his resources to buy even the engagement ring. A ring set with your sweetheart's birthstone or her favorite stone or a plain band ring should be much appreciated by her," replied his uncle.

Gas and Hospitality.

The sound of motor wheels heralding the arrival of unexpected guests has no terrors for the housewife whose menage is run on up-to-date lines. While the visitors are removing the traces of travel, with the hot water which a gas water-heater keeps always "on tap," a match to the gas fire makes the drawing room a place of warmth and pleasantness for their reception; and the children love to "help mother" by toasting the crumpets before the clear and smokeless glow.

Prohibition Act.

The Herald stated last night that the liquor interests had retained Mr. M. W. Furlong in order to attack the validity of the Act passed at the last session. In view of the fact that Mr. Furlong is the Law Clerk of the Legislature and is identified with the drafting of measures which comes before the Legislature, the news gave occasion for thought. The Daily News this morning says: "In view of Mr. Furlong's position as Law Clerk, we were unable to accept the statement at face value, and immediately communicated with him. Mr. Furlong informed us that it was true that he had been retained by the liquor interests, that there were several points to be considered, and amongst them the question of validity." The Daily News questions the propriety of Mr. Furlong's attacking an Act of the Legislature in the Supreme Court, while he remains Law Clerk. The form of the Act is fixed, and it is of little moment who raises any question about it before the Supreme Court. But it is highly probable that it will be necessary to correct certain anomalies in the Act next session, and it will be improper to employ Mr. Furlong to do this, in view of his present retainer by the liquor interests. Last session we took exception to Mr. Furlong's appearance at the table of the House garbed as Solicitor of the Legislature, during the discussion of the Prohibition Bill, as he was one of the Promoters of the Scheme. That seemed to us highly improper and we made objections. Personally, we are not inclined to attach much importance to the liquor dealers' question about the validity of the Act. The bill was assented to by the Governor and has become an Act. Six months have passed and there is no news of any Twillingate Rejoices.

Special Evening Telegram. TWILLINGATE, To-Day. Twillingate rejoices with the city and all other districts in the glorious victory won by the colony for Total Prohibition, which victory was demonstrated here yesterday by a profuse display of bunting throughout the two islands, while in the evening bonfires glowed and the hills re-echoed the sound of cannon and musketry. We feel proud of the noble response made by the electors throughout this district which resulted in a total vote of sixty per cent for Prohibition.

McMurdo's Store News

SATURDAY, Nov. 27. Stockman's Series of Veterinary Remedies includes several good preparations, which together form a pretty complete line of medicines for horses and cattle. Among them we note the Renovator, the Condition Powder, the Worm Powder, the Gall Cure, the Blister, the Lotion Powder, and Kolarbent, the last named a good general purpose antiseptic and disinfectant for use in the stables. We believe these remedies are worthy of the confidence of stock owners.

Gas in the Stomach is Dangerous.

Physicians Recommend the use of Magnesia. Sufferers from indigestion or dyspepsia should remember that the presence of gas or wind in the stomach invariably indicates that the stomach is troubled by excessive acidity. This acid causes the food to ferment and the fermenting food in turn gives rise to noxious gases which distend the stomach, hamper the normal functions of vital internal organs, cause acute headaches, interfere with the action of the heart, and charge the blood stream with deadly poisons, which in time must ruin the health. Physicians say that to quickly dispel a dangerous accumulation of wind in the stomach, and to stop the food fermentation which creates the gas, the acid in the stomach must be neutralized and that for this purpose there is nothing so good as a teaspoonful of pure bisurated magnesia taken in a little water immediately after meals. This instantly neutralizes the acid, thus stopping fermentation and the formation of gas, and enables the inflamed, distended stomach to proceed with its work under natural conditions. Bisurated magnesia is obtainable in powder or tablet form from any druggist; but as there are many different forms of magnesia it is important that the bisurated which the physicians prescribe should be distinctly asked for.

Good Words From Ottawa.

The report just published by the Inland Revenue Department, Ottawa, states that DeGhor's "Perfect Baking Powder" contained 13.7 per cent of carbonic acid gas, which is a higher percentage than claimed for it. The report also states that this is a good powder, pure and unadulterated. Don't pay fancy prices for baking powder when you can get the "Perfect" for 40c. per lb. Two teaspoons full will do the same work as three of other brands, and do it better. nov.26,21.

Well Done, Prohibitionists!

Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir,—Please allow me space in your columns to congratulate these gentlemen who by spontaneous leaping pointed out to the public the golden advantages which will be derived from Prohibition, physically and financially, thus contributing largely to the success of the movement. The numerous votes polled in St. John's proved the grave necessity of Prohibition, for there principally is the keen edge of the sword of drink felt. The anti-prohibitionists who were depending upon the indifference of the outports for their support were sadly disappointed when apprised of the strong prohibition sentiment shown to exist in many of the out harbor districts. Hence the victorious Prohibitionists. Undoubtedly the elapsing of time will prove the fore-seen improvements, namely the reduction of accidents and crime, the future welfare of our young colonists and the restoration of comfort and happiness to the poverty stricken families who had been suffering so long on account of the previous absence of prohibition in our colony. If we turn to St. Mark, 12 chapter, 31st verse, we read "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." There is none other commandment greater than this. This passage alone is ample to justify your cause, for you have conquered the deadliest foe of your neighbors in dear "Old Terra Nova." I shall now close by again congratulating you on your victory achieved despite your clerical opponents and others whose opinions have been ineffectual to the success of your enterprise. Yours respectfully, OUTHARBOR RESIDENT. Nov. 26th, 1915.

Clean Up the Street.

People living in the neighborhood of the King's Bridge are complaining about the wretched condition of affairs that exist in that locality. The drains there are filled with tin cans and all sorts of rubbish, stopping the flowage of water, at a great inconvenience to householders. The City Council's attention is directed to the matter. SAILED FOR BAHAL—The schr. Dorothy Duff sailed for Bahal yesterday, taking a cargo of 3172 quintals of codfish from Baine Johnston & Co.

VICTORY IN MESOPOTAMIA.

LONDON, To-day. A telegram from General Sir John Eccles Nixon, Commander of the British forces in Mesopotamia, under date of the 25th, reports that General Townshend's troops were in possession of the battlefield while the Turks were reported to be retiring in Diarlah, ten miles from Bagdad. General Townshend was engaged in clearing the field of wounded and prisoners. At first it was stated that eight hundred prisoners were taken. It now appears that no less than thirteen hundred have been marched back to Iqal. Our wounded are reported to number about two thousand five hundred, of whom eight hundred were leaving that day by steamer for Hazra. The number of killed has not yet been reported. General Nixon praises the excellent handling of troops by General Townshend, and the splendid spirit shown by them after their severe losses and hardships from water and food.

GENERAL FRENCH'S REPORT.

LONDON, To-day. Official: General French reports our artillery successfully bombarded many positions of the enemy's trenches during the past few days, destroying the wire entanglements reaching their parapets. Bombardments of the enemy made little reply. The enemy artillery, however, has been active north of Albert, north of Loos, north of Fleokstret and east of Ypres. On the evening of the 22nd the enemy made a heavy bomb attack on the mine crater held by our troops south of Bethune, Labasse road, but was repulsed. Mining has been constant on both sides during the past few days. On the 22nd the enemy exploded a mine north of Bethune, Labasse road, and occupied the crater. On the 24th the enemy exploded a mine south of Givenchy, causing some damage to our trenches. Hostile bombing attack against a crater was repulsed. Yesterday the enemy exploded mines near Carnoy and Givenchy. On the 25th twenty-three of our aeroplanes successfully bombarded the German hut encampment at Achiele Grand, north-east of Albert. The enemy replied with a single aeroplane, which dropped bombs near Bray, doing no damage.

CARSON ON THE DUTY OF NEUTRALS.

LONDON, To-day. Speaking as the guest of honor at the American Luncheon Club, yesterday, Sir Edward Carson, former Attorney-General, discussed the duty of neutrals. He said, and I am proud to be an Irishman, but at the same time I am not a hyphenated Britisher. America is the greatest neutral at the present moment. When I mention America as the greatest neutral, naturally I turn to the conduct of neutrals in relation to the mitigation of the horrors of war, and nothing fills me more with dismay, when I think of the horrible period through which we are passing than this fact. I am not blaming anybody. But it is a fact that international law, the peace instincts of all nations, with a view to preventing the interruption of civilization in time of hostilities has, I fear, been entirely abolished or at any rate greatly encroached on by the impotence of the neutrals themselves. Sir Edward then explained that the conventions adopted in time of peace could only be upheld by neutrals. Abolish the power of countries not at war and you abolish international law itself. This war since the start has shown the powerlessness of neutrals. He said the invasion of Belgium shows the futility of guarantees, though they were supported by the great powers of Europe. The necessity for sustaining and supporting of international law brought home to us when we remember that a branch of international law leads to reprisals. You may delude or mystify or fall into a sense of security of your own citizens by speeches. This will not thereby win a war, so in the international sphere you may be diplomatic, notes numerous and strong, may satisfy the consciences of your citizens, but you will not by a mere note maintain the obligations put upon you as parties to international law to prevent breaches of civilization and to mitigate the horrors of war. The speaker then expressed his fear for the future, since if the international law provided fell in this conflict, no reliance could be put in future conventions. There could be only one safeguard for peace, increased armaments and the maintenance of greater armies than in the past. Referring again to the United States he praised the brave and humane efforts made by Briand and White-lock, Minister to Belgium, and Hugh Gibson in the case of Edith Cavill, the English nurse executed in Belgium. America ought to be proud of them, I am sure she is. Sir Edward Carson concluded with the expression of hope that the United States and Britain would be united closer in the interests of civilization and humanity.

The Canadian Loan

From now till November 30th, subscriptions will be received from Canadian investors for the Dominion government $50,000,000 domestic loan. The issue is in the form of 5 per cent bonds in denominations of $100, $500 and $1,000. These are offered to the public at a discount of 2½ per cent. That is, a bond of the par value of $100 may be obtained for $97.50, a $500 bond for $487.50 or a $1,000 bond for $975. Subscriptions for these securities will be received during the next week by any chartered bank with which, at the time of subscription, 10 per cent of the amount of the bond being purchased must be deposited for transmission to the Minister of Finance. Another 7½ per cent is to be similarly paid on January 1st, 1916. The balance of the purchase price is to be paid in instalments of 20 per cent, on the first day of February, March, April and May, 1916. A full half-year's interest will be paid to subscribers, by the government, on June 1st, 1916. The bonds are repayable in 10 years—that is on December 1st, 1925.

These securities offer a remarkably good investment to the public. The interest return to the investor is rather better than 5-3-3 per cent. Such an investment, secured by the credit of the government of the Dominion of Canada, is much more attractive than any government issue which has ever been placed in the foreign money markets of the world. It yields a better return to the bond-holder than the $45,000,000 issue which Mr. White placed in New York a few months ago, and which was fully underwritten by the bankers there on the very day it was thrown open for subscription.

There is no doubt that the loan will be quickly subscribed by the Canadian investing public, both self-interest and patriotism being enlisted in its support.

Breeding.

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

If you had a fairy godmother and could ask her for just one quality, which would you choose? That question came up in an over-the-teacups-chat the other afternoon. "Beauty," said one woman promptly. "Charm," said another. "I'd rather be thoroughly dainty than anything else I can think of," said another. "That's always been my ideal."

The fourth woman was silent. We turned to her inquiringly. "I think," she said, slowly, "that I'd rather have breeding in the best sense of the word than anything else."

Her answer was a key to a situation that has long interested me. For the last two or three years I have noticed a remarkable change in this woman. She has grown so much more thoughtful of others, so much more poised and serene. I have often wondered what was behind the change. I know now. She has a fine ideal.

Don't You Love the Word "Breeding"?

Don't you love the very word "breeding"? I do.

To me it brings with it in a train of association such fine words as "poised," "serene," "courteous," "gracious."

Real breeding, breeding in the "best sense of the word"—could there be a finer ideal to work toward?

And isn't it a wonderful thought that this most desirable quality, this crown of the true aristocrat, is something that any one of us may have—that is if he will want it enough to work for it with all his heart. For the breeding I mean is no mere surface politeness, no formal knowledge of the conventions of polite society. It is something infinitely deeper and broader and more rare than that.

What a Nurse Said About Wealthy Families.

A nurse who is frequently employed in some of the families whose wealth, ancestry and education has given them the reputation of aristocrats told me that they often quarrel in her presence and talk to each other in a disagreeable and even coarse manner.

These are people whom most of us look up to. Just think, if we will, we can place ourselves above them!

For the breeding I mean does not talk quarrelsomely or coarsely even in the privacy of the family.

What the Word Breeding Connotes.

The real breeding includes courtesy within the family circle as well as without, forbearance, patience, a deep respect for the rights and opinions of others, a well-modulated voice, the use of good English, a knowledge of social forms, absolute personal cleanliness, good grooming, a well-informed mind, the self-respect that gives the finest kind of poise—and withal (and perhaps the hardest of all) a genuine sense of humility that will keep one from feeling any pride in one's superiority because one is always so deeply conscious of the heights yet to scale.

If you want breeding sincerely enough, no accident of fortune, no financial deprivation can keep you from acquiring it.

And if you can attain it you will have won that which places you in "Nothing," I've about given up trying to cure it.

Christian Brothers.

To all those who believe that instruction without definite religious teachings was no true education, the notice of the annual collection for the Christian Brothers, will have a sympathetic response and as on every previous occasion of the kind, the pupils of St. Patrick's Hall and Holy Cross Schools, are again enjoined to assist to the full measure of their strength and ability in making Sunday's contribution another record one. It has been the fashion in recent years for the "Old Boys" and the younger ones assisted by the Catholic community and friends to do one better, by increasing the amount of the previous year. At this time when so many of the former pupils are far away at the Dardanelles fighting for the Empire, it is essential the individual offerings should be on a more liberal scale, than on any former occasion. Besides, the obligations and calls on the Brothers are greater, their numbers have increased, and the scope of their activities widened. It is hardly necessary to dwell on how zealously the Brothers have labored in this city during the past 40 years. Their labors have been immensely profitable to all those who have had the privilege of attending the schools and have resulted in untold benefit to the community at large. "The schoolmaster with his heart in his work" is a proper designation to give each member of the Order, properly understood, accounts for the great success achieved in educational endeavor. Dr. Gore, the well known Anglican Bishop of Oxford, in a recent address in reference to India said, amongst other things, the following about the Christian Brothers in that part of the Empire:—"Men have been found in multitudes, who felt they have the vocation to be teachers for Christ's sake, and His little ones, and who without hope or prospect, but their work, and their faith have given themselves for teachers, wanting nothing for it, but their barest living. There is hardly anything in modern Christendom, nobler or more successful in attaining its end, than the institution of the Christian Brothers, and the woman's teaching orders do not fall behind them."

Let each one interested do "his bit" therefore, and make Sunday's collection one fully in keeping with the traditions of our Catholic people.—Com.

YOUR BOYS AND GIRLS.

The desire of children for a bite between meals is generally an indication of nature's requirements, since the digestive processes of the growing youngster are most active, and the stomach being emptied sooner than in the case of an adult and the food promptly absorbed, it is only natural that the little one becomes hungry when rather a long interval elapses between meals.

At such times it is well to allow a light luncheon of some wholesome food. A cup of cocoa, broth or milk, with a slice of bread and butter, is good, a few stewed prunes or an apple baked, a dish of custard or sweetened rice, an orange or, perhaps, a dainty sandwich.

Sandwiches are always popular with children, and many kinds of delicious sandwiches may be made of white, rye, entire wheat, or brown bread, thinly sliced and spread with butter and marmalade or peanut butter.

TWO NERVOUS WOMEN

Made Well By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Philadelphia, Pa.—"I had a severe case of nervous prostration, with palpitation of the heart, constipation, headaches, dizziness, noise in my ears, a timid, nervous, restless feelings and sleeplessness."

"I read in the paper where a young woman had been cured of the same troubles by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound so I threw away the medicine the doctor left me and began taking the Compound. Before I had taken half a bottle I was able to sit up and in a short time I was able to do all my work. Your medicine has proved itself able to do all you say it will and I have recommended it in every household I have visited."—Mrs. MARY JOHNSTON, 210 Siegel Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Another Bad Case.

Ephrata, Pa.—"About a year ago I was down with nervous prostration. I was pale and weak and would have hysterical spells, sick headaches and a bad pain under my shoulder-blade. I was under the care of different doctors but did not improve. I was so weak I could hardly stand long enough to do my dishes."

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has made me well and happy and I have begun to gain in weight and my face looks healthy now."—Mrs. J. W. HORNBERGER, R. No. 2, Ephrata, Pa.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

BRITISH THEATRE.

The four-reel drama "The Magic Note," is a sensational plot dealing with the sorrows and joys of an actress, who rose to popularity and affluence by her superb voice, but whose life was clouded by the mysterious disappearance of her fiancé, who lost his reason after being robbed and dropped into a London sewer. This picture was very favorably received by the British patrons last night. Mrs. Ayre's singing is daily proving a stronger attraction and calls forth

RAMBLING NOTES for 1915.

(I. C. MORRIS.)

CHAPTER V.

For a little while our ramblings let us in the vicinity of Victoria Village, about three miles from Carbon-car. Near this village the power house of the United Towns Electric Lighting Company is situated. This plant is operated under the management of Mr. Cooper, and he being a congenial person, our visit was all the more pleasant. The entire plant, as far as a layman could judge, was running well, and was kept in the best of order. Mr. Cooper is one of our successful young men, and by making good use of his chances he has early gained recognition and promotion. For while he worked here in the city with Mr. McKay, who at that time had charge of the street car service, and also had something to do with the power house at the dock, and is now starting our smelting plant. Mr. Cooper also spent a few years at similar work at Toronto, and when the Carbon-car Plant was established, he received the appointment to his present position, and is giving entire satisfaction in the discharge of his duties.

From Mr. Cooper we learned a lesson which we wish many others would imitate. Near his dwelling, and on the road to it, he pointed out to us a very well cleared piece of land, and he told us that he had cleared it out of the bush, and redeemed it from the marsh, and relieved of the boulders, during his leisure time when off duty. Little by little he accomplished his work, and as a reward of his industry, he is now the possessor in fee simple of a property that should fetch at any time ten or two hundred dollars. This is the sort of man that builds a country up, and like the Spartan old "either finds a way or makes one."

Both Mr. Cooper and his good lady bestowed much kindness upon us, and being curious to know a little of the latter's history, we learned the following: Born in Ireland, she at an early age, began to travel, and in the course of her wanderings, she visited most of the principal cities of the Old World. She dwelt in the land of Pharaohs, and often camped at the base of the Great Pyramid, and looked face to face at that mysterious figure.

23 THE PHARMACY

At the City Hall.

The Chairman, Messrs. Ayre, McNamara, Bradshaw, Mulloy, Morris, Anderson, and Withers were present at last night's meeting of the Civic Commission.

The Colonial Secretary informed the Board that Messrs. C. O'N. Conroy and Arthur Hiscock had been appointed appraisers for the Court of Revision.

H. J. Brownrigg wrote asking if the Board intended to make repairs to the defective sidewalk in front of his building on Water Street. The matter was referred to the Engineer.

J. W. Dewling wrote again re boundary fence. The Board will pay half the cost of the fence which is to be erected under the supervision of the Engineer.

A. E. Hickman complained of the condition of his property near Bannerman Park. The Engineer will consult with Mr. Hickman in the matter.

T. B. Hayward, Plymouth Road, complained of a waste water pipe in front of his house. The Engineer will make enquiries.

Dr. Smith reported on the condition of the horse which the S. P. A. had suggested to be destroyed. Dr. Smith was not of the opinion that the animal could be permanently cured, but thought that with proper treatment it could be kept in the Sanitary service for some time yet.

J. P. Blackwood wrote again re the McLoughlin property, on LeMarchant Road. Consideration was deferred.

Plans of proposed house in Fleming Street were submitted by N. Conner, and approved.

After the report of the Health Officer had been submitted, Mr. Mulloy moved that the officer be asked to report if any ice had been cut last year on any lakes through which sewerage drains. The Health Officer will be so instructed and a report will be submitted at next meeting.

Consulting Engineer Longley then submitted the following report:

FIRE STREAM TESTS ON NEW MAINS.

"A test was made this afternoon with fire streams to show the improvement in conditions along Water Street, after connecting the new mains into the system.

At and before 3.30 p.m., the old system was in use and the old conditions existed, excepting that the 10 inch main on Prescott Street was opened into the 6 inch main on Water Street as is usual in the case of a fire on Water Street to give the best possible pressure there.

The pressure at the hydrant in front of the new Cable Office at 3.30 p.m., was 112 lbs.

Eleven lines of fire hose were laid out from various hydrants extending from Shea's on the East to Job's Cove on the West taking in several hydrants along Water Street, one on Duckworth Street at foot of King's Road, and two on Harvey's wharf. The total length of hose in use in connection with these eleven streams was two thousand four hundred and twenty feet (2450).

Shortly after 3.30 p.m., the water was turned on through these eleven lines of fire hose. From 3.35 to 3.43 p.m., the pressure on Water Street with these eleven stream flowing

"POOR PUNY LITTLE CHILD!"

Is that what neighbors think of your child? Do you ever wonder them "wonder what she feeds the poor little thing?" Listen, Mothers, that heartache and despair isn't necessary. When you've built up that child of yours into the rosiest-checked, roundest, hardest little tyke in the neighborhood you'll look back to these trying days as a nightmare.

Easy! Regulate the diet, have lots of pure air in the bedroom. Keep him outdoors—and feed his poor starved nerve-cells and under-nourished tissues with Zoe-tic—the Greek Tonic and Restorative.

Puny, ill-nurtured children will absorb Zoe-tic and thrive on it like a plant that has been starved for water responds to rain and sunshine.

It will benefit the child the same as the tired, nervous mother and over-worked father.

Start giving Zoe-tic to-day—follow faithfully the directions and if in two weeks' time you can't report real progress toward natural health, return the unused portion of the bottle of Zoe-tic and we will refund your money without question.

Everywhere in Canada at the same price. One Dollar for a Generous Bottle. Compounded from food and tonic essences by The Zoe-tic Company, Montreal. (3-20)

Schr. Swallow Still Missing.

The Bay Roberts schooner Swallow, Capt. Dawson, is still unheard of. The last place she left was Seldom Come By, 20 days ago. The Cabot was unsuccessful in finding any tidings of her, after several days' search. The Swallow is an old craft. Her hull is said to be over fifty years in use and it is nearly thirty years ago since it was last repaired. Though hopes are beginning to be abandoned for the craft and her sixteen lives on board, it may be, and the hope is expressed that she met the same fate as the Blanche, M. Rose and that her crew will turn up all right.

BRITANNIA.

Mine were the sons that in warlike mirth, Wove with their grey bones over the earth Ways for the passing of countless feet Of the pilgrims of liberty, making sweet Hopes that were dying, joys growing grey In hearts of the dark lands far away. With the red, white and blue of my flag unfurled The sons of my lone isle have draped the world.

If I only raise my bugle and blow, From the lands of the sun and the deserts of snow, With a laugh on their lips, Borne on their ships, They will come, my children over the sea.

To the mother they love, to die for me, Sealing a quarter of a century together, Brave and true, I and you What care we for weather? Naught can break us, Naught can shake us, War against us hurled Cannot blind us, Can but bind us All hands round the world. —The Sphere.

GREEK DEMOBILIZATION.

PARIS, To-Day. Demobilization is predicted by the press, says a Hayes despatch from Athens, which declares the Greek General Staff has submitted to the Ministry of War a plan for releasing five of the oldest classes. This proposal will be discussed at the next Cabinet meeting, and it is considered probable the Ministry will agree.

SECURED WATER SUPPLY.

DELHI, To-day. An official despatch received here shows that General Nixon's British forces, having secured a water supply, re-occupied Cstiphon, near Bagdad on the afternoon of the 24th without opposition. Besides prisoners, the British captured a large quantity of arms and ammunition. The British aviators report that the Turks apparently are preparing fresh positions at Dialah.

CAN LAND.

MILAN, To-day. Kitchener obtained permission from the Greek Government for the Allies troops to land at Greek ports, other than Salonika, according to Athens despatches.

BRITISH REINFORCEMENTS LAND.

LONDON, To-day. Allied troops continue to land at Salonika in huge numbers. A Reuters despatch filed yesterday at Salonika, says that important British reinforcements reached that port on Tuesday and were landed. Immediately after the occupation of Pristina by Austrians and Germans, a message says, the main body of Serbians retreated in a southerly direction. The Serbians were unable to maintain their positions in the Katchinak region, owing to greatly superior forces of the invaders.

BULGARIANS RETREAT BEFORE THE FRENCH.

LONDON, To-day. A despatch to the Daily Mail from Salonika, referring to the French counter-attack against the Bulgarians in Serbia, in which the French recaptured most of their lost positions on the Krivolak, Crena and Rajek lines, says the Bulgarians were compelled to retreat because they had attempted to force the French lines with the full strength and had left in the rear no covering troops. There are indications of a possible agreement between the Turks and Bulgarians arising out of the presence of Turkish forces in Thrace. Five Turkish divisions are in Salonika and one division each at Mustafa, Pasha Varna and Curjas.

125,000 TROOPS LANDED AT SALONIKA.

PARIS, To-Day. Press despatches from Athens say that French and British forces landed at Salonika have now obtained important proportions. The Patrie of Athens gives their number at 125,000. These forces are abundantly supplied with arms and ammunition. Some 4,000 or 5,000 more men are said to be on the way to Salonika at which port 4,000 troops are debarking each day.

A British Sea-Captains Style.

After the sinking of the Triumph at the Dardanelles the Admiral transferred his flag to the twenty-year-old Majestic, which was now the only battleship left off Cape Helles. He took me with him.

It was a beautiful night, clear and bright, with the sea as calm as a lake. I went up on the after shelter-deck, which is just above the after-turret, where my bed had been placed, lay down and soon soundly asleep.

It was at 6.40 that someone trod on or stumbled against my chest. This awoke me, and I called out, "What's the matter?" A voice replied from somewhere, "There's a torpedo coming."

I had just time to scramble to my feet when there came a dull, heavy explosion about fifteen feet forward of the shelter-deck, on the port side. I made my way to the quarter deck, was pushed over the side and rebounding into the sea, went under.

I swam to a boat mixed up with a struggling crowd and managed to get into it.

Captain Talbot, of the Majestic, the moment the ship was struck, rushed forward with his yeoman of signals to seize and either save or destroy the confidential sign book. This was accomplished, and then, when the ship went down, he was thrown into the water, but was picked up.

Then, seeing two of his men in danger of drowning, he plunged into the sea again and saved them both.

THE THOUGHTS OF THEOBALD.

RELIGION AND POLITICS.

It has always puzzled me to find out if any great barriers separate men after all in their various occupations. Is there a common base for action? Is there one strong purpose in it all, one objective to which all occupations move, and one motive influencing every action? It seems to me that it should be so, and that underlying every action there should be the one purpose, the one fixed design of "doing good."

The merchant sells his dry goods to clothe his customers; his groceries to feed his customers; the lawyer and the judge seek justice; the carpenter builds houses to protect families; the politician makes laws for the good of the country; and the clergyman preaches to all, to do them good and lead them to right actions in their business and in their work. And the wages, though a due and necessary adjunct, is no more the object of the merchant's business than is his salary the object of the clergyman's life. To go to the very root of things, everyone has a work to do irrespective of salary. If one's business is not service to one's fellows and undertaken in that spirit, then it is worthless, and worse than worthless as an aid to proper citizenship. Thus I fail to see where true politics ends and religion begins. Politics properly should deal with men, their merely material welfare—not that it has anything to do with any one creed of religion—but the basic law of religion—"pure and undefiled" has as much to do with politics as it has to do with churches, and not till we recognize this fact at its true value will politics appear any better than we usually think of it. Burke, philosopher and statesman, says "a state is a partnership in things subservient only to the gross animal existence—a temporary and perishable nature, but a partnership in all science, a partnership in all art, a partnership in every virtue, and in all perfection."

It is plain therefore that we should make a religion of all we do, the religion of work, the doing of work the best we know how, and with the best service of our fellows at heart. Of course this is idealistic, if you like, but when we speak of politics, or anything as a matter of fact, and do not view it in its true meaning and purpose, but also view it in the distorted meaning that man has given it by his ill-usage of the true sense of the term, we help to sanction that which has become a bad habit. A great deal of rottenness in the world is simply there because most people have been satisfied with things "as they are," instead of trying to shape things "as they ought to be." The man that does try this has a hard road to travel, a weary road and oftentimes a breaking road, a martyr's road. Principles have become platitudes, and in these days we need a practical Christianity that will call (to use a vulgarism) "a spade, a spade."

PROHIBITION.

Now that Prohibition has carried, it does not mean less work for those who advocated it. The great work is in front of us, and there is work requiring a good deal of energy. We must not allow any latitude of shibboleths and the illicit bringing in of liquor. We must not rest easy and "wink" at violations of the act. We must prevent unlawful trading at the outset and see that it does not develop into "custom" or "habit."

To a great extent we have to depend on the police for the rigid enforcement against shibboleths and the like, and it is for the Inspector General and his force to see that we do not degenerate to the position of Sydney where hotels run regular bars and are periodically "raided" by a friendly police.

Public opinion must not be content, however, to leave matters to the police, but should be actively interested in the proper carrying out of the law. It is up to us to show that the objections of the Anti-Prohibitionists had no firm foundation—not that infractions of the law will not take place, but to see that they do not take place to the extent that our opponents prophesied.

On the other hand, it might be as well in taking away the saloon, to provide something in the way of a substitute. Several nice rooms where all classes could come and obtain a cup of coffee and a bun at anytime and be at liberty to stay and chat if they felt like it, might be very welcome indeed. There can be no doubt that the saloon has been a nice comfortable place on a cold day for many, and there are not many other places on Water Street where the same "free and easy" half hour can be spent.

THE SPEED OF A MOTOR CAR.

The other day a young chap about six years or more was run over by a motor car, near Shea & Co's, Water Street. He was on the tail of a long car going up town and got off to the side walk, not seeing the motor car, which was coming east. It was on him too swiftly for him to do anything, and but for the extraordinary dexterity of the owner of the car he would now be dead. The driver of the car swerved it on the instant and saved the boy, except from injuries which it is thought are not serious. The owner sent a doctor and did all that could be done for the boy. It is useless to say that in this case the boy was careless, as the accident would have happened if it had been a man who attempted to cross the street, in fact it would have been much worse, because the boy was picked up under the engine of the car and had he been any bigger it would have crushed him. But without discussing probabilities, there is no doubt in my mind that some regulation should be made concerning the speed of motor cars, especially when they are driven on Water Street or on any busy street. No car should be driven so fast that it cannot be brought to a standstill within its own length or less. Safety first should be the watch word. A man's desire for speed should not be indulged in at the risk of accident to another. Children cannot be kept indoors all the time and the street belongs to the walker as well as to the vehicle. Fast driving on Water Street should be stopped and stopped before a serious accident occurs.

Girls! Have Wavy, Thick, Glossy Hair Free From Dandruff

Save your hair! Double its beauty in a few moments—try this!

If you care for heavy hair, that glistens with beauty and is radiant with life; has an incomparable softness and is fluffy and lustrous, try Danderine.

Just one application doubles the beauty of your hair, besides it immediately dissolves every particle of dandruff; you cannot have nice, heavy, healthy hair if you have dandruff. This destructive scurf robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life, and if not overcome it produces a feverishness and itching of the scalp; the hair roots fash, loosen and die; then the hair falls out fast.

If your hair has been neglected and is thin, faded, dry, scraggy or too oily, get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine at any drug store or toilet counter; apply a little as directed and ten minutes after you will say this was the best investment you ever made.

We sincerely believe, regardless of everything else advertised, that if you desire soft, lustrous, beautiful hair and lots of it—no dandruff—no itching scalp and no more falling hair—you must use Knowlton's Danderine. It eventually—why not now?

Goritz Burning After Hurricane of Shells.

Vienna, via Berlin, Amsterdam and London, Nov. 26.—Goritz is burning in many places to-day. The Italians have thrown 3,000 shells into the town. Many of the inhabitants have been killed. The property damaged is enormous.

From a military standpoint however the Italians have accomplished little. The Austrians firmly hold all their original positions and are repulsing attack after attack. The bridgehead in particular has been under an incessant bombardment for many days. Guns of every calibre have been directed against it.

The increased intensity of the renewed Italian assault all along the Isonzo line. Everywhere the Austrians are holding their own.

Flesh pink, used discreetly and in small touches, has an excellent effect with dark blue.

We Know Just How You Feel!

You need an engine for your boat and you are worried almost to death trying to decide which is the best one to buy.

One fellow tells you to buy his machine because it is cheaper than others. Another firm advises you that they have been in the engine business longer than anyone else and therefore their machines are the best.

Then along comes another chap with an engine which he claims is entirely new and better than anything else on the market.

NOW LISTEN.

DON'T buy an engine or any other piece of machinery because it is cheap; probably it has been made cheap.

DON'T experiment with new designs, let the other fellow do that.

DON'T depend too much on what any manufacturer says about his own product. Ask someone who has used it.

We would like to give you names of parties using FERRO Engines.

Write for catalogue with prices and terms, also ask for list of prominent men throughout Newfoundland who are using FERRO Engines. Ask them what they think about the FERRO.
