CHAPTER XIII
FOR FORTUNE AND REVENGE.

Lady Blanche stood watching him with a fascinated interest and curiosity. He played with all the ease and polish of a skilled musician, his long, thin fingers running over the keys with the rapidity of lightning one moment, and then gliding, with a soft touch, into a sweet serenade.

"Where did you learn to play like that?" she asked.

"Oh, I have picked up most accomplishments, Lady Blanche, and yet you see with them all I am but a needy adventurer."

"I will accept you as my music teacher, Signor Paulo," she said, quietly. "It is usual, I think, always to pay the fee in advance"

"As your ladyship pleases. Yes, this usual."

"Wait," she said, and glided silently from the room.

Oscar Raymond gracefully opened the door, and bowed her out, then he closed it, and walked up to the mirror, laughing silently.

"My dear fellow," he murmured to the reflection, "you are in luck at last! Yes, the tide has turned; the corner of the dark lane where you have been tramping so long is rounded at last. Revenge and a fortune at one stroke! It is not every man who has your undoubted talents. My Lord Norman, you called me a cheat, and kicked me like a whipped hound from your presence, and I threatened to cry quits with you! We shall see if I am not as good as my word! Signor Paulo, I salute you!" and he bowed with mock gravity to the mirror.

The door opened and Lady Blanche entered. As he turned, she laid a bank note on the table and pointed to it.

"Take it," she said, in a low voice. "When you need more—"

"I shall not hesitate to ask for it, my lady. Our interests are mutual. No war—even such a little comedy of an affair as this—can be carried on without money."

He took up the note. It was one for fifty pounds, and his eyes glistened.

"Josine must have a large slice of this," he said, musingly. "Good-day, Lady Blanche. You will find that your confidence in me has not been misplaced."

That evening Josine, having received permission to visit "an aged grandmother who was sick," went to spend an hour or two with her friend, the landlady of the "Three Pigeons." She passed through the public or coffee-room with her usual noiseless, quick step, very much like the tread of a self-possessed cat, and entered the little parlor at the farther end.

As she did so she shot a glance toward the compartment nearest the parlor, and a faint smile of satisfaction gleamed in her black eyes as she saw an old white-haired gentleman, with spectacles, seated at a table, diligently perusing a Parisian newspaper.

He looked up as she passed, and raised his hat, sweeping it earthward in the French fashion; and Josine just inclined her head; but, to make up for this curt acknowledgment of his courteous salute, she made a sharp, swift gesture with her long, thin, supple hand.

His quick eyes caught it, and he nodded as he resumed his paper; but after a few minutes he laid it down, and with a slow and listless manner he entered the little parlor in which sat Josine and the landlady, the latter of whom greeted him with a smile and a shrug of the shoulders, as if she were greeting an eccentric but harmless old man with whom it was pleasant to have a chat.

The old gentleman sat down and began to talk about the latest foreign news, speaking in French, Josine listening in silence, the landlady uttering the usual ejaculation. Presently she rose to attend to some customers, and the old gentleman dropped the news of the day abruptly and leaned over to Josine.

"Well, mademoiselle!" he said.

"Speak in English," said Josine.

"There is not one, or few, we understand it."

"True. You are always discreet," he said, with a beautiful French accent. "Have you what I want?"

Josine regarded him with a cunning look in her black eyes, then her head dropped on one side, musingly.

"Have I got what you want? I don't know. Last time we met, you asked me to procure some specimens of handwritings."

"And you have got them?" he said.

"And I have got them," she assented.

"Ah, thanks. A million thanks!" he murmured, holding out his hand.

"Wait a minute," she said, with a short nod, "you have not got them yet."

He looked at her for a moment, then he took some sovereigns from his pocket, counted out ten and laid them on the table, covering them with his hand.

"See!" he said, with a smile. "Exchange is a practice of all races. Give me the letters—I will not say letters, any scrap of paper bearing the handwritings of Lady Pendleton and Miss Carlisle, the two friends I have heard you mention—and this little bagatelle is yours."

"Put five more sovereigns, monsieur, and they are yours," she said.

He added them slowly, and lifted his hand.

Josine pushed the letters across to him with one set of fingers, and clutched the money with the other. He laughed softly at her eagerness, and unfolded the papers. There were three; a scrap of memorandum written by Lady Pendleton, a short note from Lord Norman, containing a few lines accepting an invitation, and a copy of some song verses in Floris's handwriting.

He glanced at them with a face from which every trace of expression had vanished, then he put them in his pocket, and nodded.

"Thanks. I am now satisfied. I shall study these specimens and make my notes."

He stopped, for a broad grin spread itself over Josine's face.

"Oh, do not trouble to play the comedy out, monsieur," she said. "It is of no consequence to me what you want them for. You have them; I have the good money. We are quits—for the present. For the present! Shall I be too rash if I prophesy that it will not be long before monsieur requires my assistance again?"

He looked at her, then he got up and stood silent and smiling.

"Mademoiselle is observant," he said, with a bow. "Yes, it may be; and if I should, mademoiselle will give me her valuable aid?"

"No," said Josine, showing all her teeth. "I will sell it to you, though."

"Ah, but that is the same," he said, and with a sweep of his hat he stole out.

Josine sat and watched him for a moment, then her eyes gleamed.

"Observant! One need not be so exceedingly observant to remark that for an old man, so very white-headed an old man, monsieur has very bright eyes, and hands—bah! hands white and smooth as a man's of five and twenty!"

CHAPTER XIII
"COURTING TIME."

The Lyncches of Ballyfoe were extremely popular people.

Sir Joseph had started in life as an errand boy in a merchant's office; had, by the usual process, developed into a full-blown merchant himself, and, by a happy venture in jute or cotton—some said tallow—had succeeded in making a pile which rumor put at a round million.

Ballyfoe was one of the finest estates in Scotland. The house was a magnificent one, built by a great Scotch lord, and so added to and improved by Sir Joseph that it had become a palace. In addition to a deer forest and trout streams, the Lyncches had a wonderful French cook, and a famous library of books and gallery of pictures, so that the net was constructed to catch and hold all sorts of fish; and no one considered himself happy unless he could look forward to a fortnight in the autumn at Ballyfoe.

This particular party had been organized to meet Lord Bruce, who was a special favorite with Sir Joseph, and comprised some of the best known of the best set—lords and ladies, painters and poets—and the arrival of Lord Bruce's betrothed was looked forward to with the keenest interest.

Bruce, of course, traveled down with them, and after a journey which Floris thought so short as to seem one of a few miles only, they reached the nearest station to Ballyfoe. Here they found a magnificently appointed carriage with an outrider, and a fourgon for the luggage.

After a short drive they arrived at the house. The carriage door was thrown open, and down the lane of servants Sir Joseph marched himself to hand the ladies out.

"I am very delighted to see you," he said, with a stiff bow, and a pleasant smile on his simple yet shrewd face. "Lord Norman, I hope the ladies are not used! Lady Pendleton, it was extremely kind of you to honor me. My wife is very anxious to see you, Miss Carlisle," and with a lady on each side of him, the man who had commenced life by lighting an office fire and dusting desks, led them into the magnificent hall.

Here they were met by Lady Lynch, a pleasant little body, who seemed as homely amid her grand surroundings as if she were in a suburban semi-detached villa.

"And this is Miss Carlisle," she said, looking up at Floris as she held her hand. "My dear, I am very glad to see you. Lord Bruce is a very old friend of my husband's and of mine. I don't think there is any one my husband thinks so highly of, or looks up to more than his lordship, and I hope you will like us. We will do all we can to make your stay with us pleasant to you—oh, yes, for our own sakes, so that we may induce you to come again."

Floris's eyes filled, and she pressed the large hand, which was as soft as its owner's heart.

"I am sure I shall be very happy, Lady Lynch," she said, "and I am very glad to come."

"Thank you, my dear! And now you shall go to your rooms."

From hall to hall and corridor to corridor they were led with almost royal state to their apartments—apartments such as Floris had never even imagined—and were told that they had an hour in which to prepare for dinner.

In the drawing-room Floris and Lady Betty were soon surrounded; it was generally understood that Floris was to be the lady to be specially honored this autumn at Ballyfoe, and the worldlings were eager to pay their homage.

Another girl might have been rendered vain, might have been in danger of having her head turned, by the attention and adulation lavished upon her; but, as usual, Floris received, and often parried it with her simple, unassuming modesty.

Presently from the other end of the room entered Lady Blanche.

She was splendidly dressed, as usual—with greater care perhaps than usual—and as she glided toward them many a glance of admiration was directed toward her.

With a sweet smile, that was almost childlike in its gladness, she came up to the group and kissed Floris.

"I am so glad you have come!" she murmured. "We have all been expecting you so eagerly."

It was not until the dinner—a grand banquet than any that in all past ages had merited the name—had commenced, that Floris noticed that Lady Blanche was not looking so well as when she had seen her for the first time in her box at the opera.

There was a look of thoughtfulness almost amounting to care in the eyes, and a strange, proud smile on the lips that Floris had thought incapable of expressing aught but complete and perfect repose.

Once during the dinner, as she was listening to Lord Norman, who was talking to Lady Glenlocha, Floris looked up and caught Lady Blanche's eyes fixed on her face with a curious expression.

It was not one of dislike exactly, but rather one of close watchfulness. Of course, it instantly changed to a smile, but that the look had actually shone in her dark eyes Floris felt assured.

Austrian Italian Forces Capture of Enormous

WAR REVIEW.

The defeat of the Austrians on the west bank of the Piave is complete. The admission is made by the Austrian war office that the troops of Emperor Charles have been forced to evacuate the Montello Plateau, of which they had hoped to press the way and gain the Venetian plains at some sectors of the positions they retained last on the bank of the River between the Piave and the point where the stream empties into the Adriatic. Bad weather and the rising of the Piave under rain falls are assigned as reasons for the withdrawal but the Rome war office asserts that was impetuous attacks of the Italian that brought about the failure of the operation which was with the intention of crushing the armies of General Diaz and forcing the Italians like the Russians to accept a Teutonic peace. All along the river the Italians have pressed back the invaders of the territory until only small units remain. On the west bank and across the stream King Victor Emmanuel's men are keeping well on the heels of the retreating enemy, who is fleeing in disorder. Again cavalry has been thrown into the fight, and is harassing the enemy, while machine guns from the ground and from the aircraft some of the latter operated by American aviators, are working havoc among the fleeing Austrian columns. The losses to the enemy are described as enormous both in killed and wounded or men made prisoners. An official report from Rome to the Italian Embassy in Washington asserts the Austrians have lost 45,000 in prisoners alone. The Italian war office statement mentions only 40,000 Austrians as having been taken, but it is probable this statement antedates the capture of the Piave. ### WAR REVIEW.

The defeat of the Austrians on the west bank of the Piave is complete. The admission is made by the Austrian war office that the troops of Emperor Charles have been forced to evacuate the Montello Plateau, over which they had hoped to press their way and gain the Venetian plains and some sectors of the positions they attained last on the bank of the River between the Plateau and the point where the stream empties into the Adriatic. Bad weather and the rising of the Piave under rain falls are assigned as reasons for the withdrawal, but the Rome war office asserts that it was impetuous attacks of the Italians that brought about the failure of an operation which was with the intention of crushing the armies of General Diaz and forcing the Italians like the Russians to accept a Teutonic peace. All along the river the Italians have pressed back the invaders of their territory until only small units remain. On the west bank and across the stream King Victor Emmanuel's men are keeping well on the heels of the retreating enemy, who is fleeing in disorder. Again cavalry has been thrown into the fight, and is harassing the enemy, while machine guns from the ground and from the aircraft, some of the latter operated by American aviators, are working havoc among the fleeing Austrian columns. The losses to the enemy are described as enormous both in killed and wounded or men made prisoners. An official report from Rome to the Italian Embassy in Washington asserts the Austrians have lost 45,000 in prisoners alone. The Italian war office statement mentions only 40,000 Austrians as having been taken, but it is probable this statement antedated that sent to the Embassy, and the captures in the hands of the Italians greatly exceeded this figure. So hurried was the retrograde movement of the Austrians at some points they did not take time even to attempt to save their guns and stores, great quantities of which are now in the hands of the Italians. As yet there has been no sign that the enemy is again to renew an early date another move in the mountain regions, notwithstanding the fact that reports coming from Switzerland have said that he was bringing up large reinforcements and great quantities of supplies along the front behind the lines from the Swiss border to the upper reaches of the Piave. That another great drive is expected, and at any moment, has been made known by David Lloyd George, the British Premier, to the House of Commons, where it was to come was not stated, but it was asserted that on the blow the issue of the campaign might depend. Hopefulness was expressed in the statement that the Allies never felt better prepared to meet it. Enough of Americans have arrived to satisfy the Allies and to disappoint and ultimately defeat our foes, the Premier said. On the front in France and Flanders the operations continue of a minor character. The Italians again have defeated the Germans near Bilgny in the Marne sector, inflicting heavy casualties on them and taking a number of prisoners. In the same region last evening the Americans succeeded in clearing the wood north-west of Chateau Thierry of the Germans who had been clinging stubbornly to positions which were regarded as almost impregnable. Prisoners were taken and five machine guns were captured by the Americans. The German official reports that the trenches near Badonvillers, occupied by French and American troops, have been invaded by the Germans, who inflicted heavy casualties on the defenders.

45,000 PRISONERS CAPTURED.

WASHINGTON, June 24. Offensive operations by our troops began Sunday, says the despatch from Rome to the Italian Embassy here. After violent artillery preparations that destroyed all bridges except one, the infantry drove forward with irresistible impetus. The flooded Piave contains thousands of enemy corpses. Divisions which had passed the Piave were decimated by our artillery and infantry. Montello was attacked in three columns. Enemy lines were broken at Cella Della Madonna and Nervosa and recaptured from Maserada to Sordana. The Austrians first resisted our attack desperately, but finally were forced to retire to the left bank. The battle continues fiercely in the Sordana sector. Forty-five thousand prisoners and enormous booty were captured by the Italians. American airmen displayed great bravery in the first encounters. Lieut. Young, attacked by two Austrian chasers, was obliged to land on the lower Piave.

RETREAT HAS BECOME ROUT.

WASHINGTON, June 24. Confidence at Rome that the war may be brought to a victorious close this year if the Allies give the Italians a full measure of support in the offensive which has been launched against the Austrians, is reflected in official wireless dispatches received to-day from the Italian capital. These messages say the Austrian retreat across the Piave, in which the Italians already have taken 45,000 prisoners, has become a veritable rout, but that information from secret sources show that many divisions of German troops have been detached from the front in France and are being rushed to the aid of the Austrian Army.

RETREAT CUT OFF.

LONDON, June 24. All but one of the bridges left for the Austrian retreat across the Piave have been destroyed by the Italian artillery, according to advices received here this afternoon. It is added that enormous booty has been taken by the Italians.

COLLAPSE UNEXPLAINABLE.

LONDON, June 24. Italy's victory is hailed as glorious news, which will be universally felt as the great moment of the war. The report that the enemy was retreating in disorder is regarded as being of great military significance, but experts warn against the assumption that all danger has been averted on the Italian front, as the ability of the Italians to take the offensive must depend upon the magnitude of the Austrian disaster. Nevertheless it is conceded that the victories on the Asiago and the Piave influence the balance of favor for the entente on all fronts. It is only by discrediting the legend of German invincibility, while the effect of the victory on the Italian temperament may evoke a national spirit that must prove irresistible. It is difficult to determine the causes of the dramatic collapse of an offensive planned on so great a scale and backed with such enormous resources.

GERMANS RUSHING TO ASSISTANCE.

WASHINGTON, June 24. The Germans are said to be awake to the probability of a complete collapse of the Austro-Hungarian Government, already struggling with a half-starved and riotous people, in the event of a complete Austrian rout at the hands of the Italians. Realization of this fact, Rome believed, has caused the German General Staff practically to suspend, if not to abandon, its great offensive in France as has been evidenced by the comparative quiet there for the past week. German soldiers are being rushed by rail to the northern end of the Austro-Italian battle lines with the purpose of restoring the Austrian morale and not only checking the Italian counter attack, but by force of numbers breaking through the mountain passes in the plains of Venetia. With such help as the Entente Army can give and immediately supplement as rapidly as transportation can be had by troops directly from America and even more important by ample military supplies and food for the army, the Italian General Staff is said to be convinced that the victorious sweep of the Italian army will traverse the famous Bainsizza Plateau, the scene of the great battles last fall, and will not stop until the Italians have reclaimed all of the country up to the right bank of the Isonzo, which marked the extreme of General Cadorna's advance.

ITALIAN OFFICIAL.

ROME, June 24. (Official.) Yesterday gave us the crowning results of victory. Pushed up against the bank of the Piave in a strip of ground ever becoming narrower, bombarded without pause by our artillery and airplanes, the enemy after having maintained himself desperately for eight days at the price of enormous sacrifices on the right bank of the river, began on the night of June 22-23 his withdrawal to the left bank of the river. The crossing of the river under the fire of our artillery continued yesterday, protected by a strong array of machine guns and covering troops, which, after stubborn resistance, were successfully driven back with our troops at their heels. The Montello and all the right bank of the Piave with the exception of a small portion of the bank at Mutila, where the struggle is continuing, have returned into our hands. So far more than 40,000 prisoners have been counted. A quantity of arms and materials of all kinds has fallen into our hands. An extraordinary number of Austrian dead covers the ground of the struggle. This proves the unfortunate valor and the great defeat of the enemy.

CRUSHING DEFEAT.

LONDON, June 24. The view in military circles to-night is that the defeat of the Austrians is so crushing that it will be impossible for the enemy to repeat his offensive on a serious scale for some weeks. One cause for the Austrian disaster is said to have been faulty judgment in placing the reserves by which they failed to be brought up at a critical moment to meet the clever strategy of the Italians. So strongly is the Piave line held by the Italians, says the military critics, that it will be impossible for the disorganized armies to retake it, and there is not the slightest fear they again will try to cross the river. It is said they staked everything on this offensive and threw all their forces into it. Thirty-seven divisions have been identified as being in the battle.

AUSTRIAN LOSSES.

WASHINGTON, June 24. Austrian losses in the retreat across the Piave included an appalling number of troops killed, more than 40,000 made prisoners and an enormous amount of war booty, said reports from General Diaz, the Italian commander, which was cabled from Rome to-night to the Italian Embassy.

ANXIOUS TIMES.

LONDON, June 24. Premier Lloyd George announced to-day that the next couple of months would be anxious ones. There might be a great blow coming in the next hours he said, and on this blow the issue of the campaign might depend. The Entente allies he added never felt better prepared to meet it. The Premier said the Austro-Hungarians were in full retreat. The question now was whether they would be able to effect a retreat. The Premier who made his announcement in the House of Commons referred to the amazing organization which was bringing American troops to France. Enough of Americans have arrived to satisfy the Allies and to disappoint and ultimately defeat our foes. Mr. Lloyd George said the difficulty and the impossibility of dealing with Russia was her many differing and changing governments. He agreed, however, it would be to the interest of the British people, and also just and equitable if Russia wanted it that Great Britain stand by Russia.

SUCCESSFUL OPERATION.

LONDON, June 24. (Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency.) A despatch from the British headquarters says the operation south of Megeren this morning, which resulted in the killing of at least one hundred Germans, took place in an angle which the enemy thrust into our lines west of Bailleul, having Megeren and Strazeele at each end of the base and Fieffe near the apex. The Germans have been considerably mentioned in this part of the line lately, and any thrust they might contemplate in Flanders would likely be an attempt to advance by this sector on the high ground of Kewale. The enemy has hitherto been unable to gain an inch of ground in the direction of Strazeele. We not only dealt him a heavy blow, but attained an objective that greatly strengthened our line.

GERMAN REPORT.

BERLIN, June 24. German troops in an attack on the trenches in the Badonviller region occupied by the French and Americans, inflicted heavy losses, according to the official statement from headquarters to-day, and brought prisoners.

A HAIG OFFICIAL.

LONDON, June 24. Field Marshal Haig's report from British headquarters in France to-night says, the minor operation carried out last night in the neighborhood of Megeren was completely successful. All our objectives were gained and our line advanced. In addition to the prisoners reported this morning, ten machine guns were taken. A few prisoners were brought in last night in a successful raid by the French troops in the Loire sector.

AMMUNITION SEIZED.

DUBLIN, June 24. The police to-day seized 40,000 pounds of ammunition found in a consignment of grain in the Smithfield market. It is believed the consignment formed a part of a cargo of arms and ammunition landed on the north coast some time ago.

TRANSPORT TORPEDOED.

WASHINGTON, June 24. The sinking of an Allied transport under American charter, on June 18, about 700 miles east of the Delaware Capes, was reported to-day to the Navy Department. The transport had no troops aboard and was westward bound. Reports say that the submarine wasn't seen until after the torpedo struck the ship. The crew took to the boats after the ship settled, and it was futile to use the guns. The U-boat appeared on the surface and fired 19 shots into the ship. In view of the fact that the vessel was attacked far outside the European zone of submarine activities, some officials here think she may have encountered a submarine heading for home after participating in the raid on the American coast. Three boats with about 67 members of the crew are missing. The crew of 148 got away from the ship in seven boats, four of which have been landed. The total rescued so far is given as 81. The two boat loads arrived by steamer at Hampton Roads, and one by sailing vessel at Bermuda.

POSITION IMPROVED.

PARIS, June 24. A local operation enabled us to improve our positions on the plateau north of Le Port, says the war office statement to-night. We took 170 prisoners. An enemy counter attack

The Italian Victory.

The not entirely unexpected news that the first phase of the Austrian offensive against the Italian front had signally failed, will be received with every demonstration of joy in all the allied countries, for without doubt, and as foreshadowed in our War Review a few days ago, and now confirmed by yesterday's late despatches, the main object of this onslaught was to crush quickly the Italian resistance, overwhelm with swift defeat the Italian armies, and then withdraw many divisions of men from this theatre and throw them into a greater offensive against the Allies on the Western front. But the Austrian plans miscarried and far from inflicting defeat on the armies of King Victor Emmanuel, they have been thrown back in disorder and are now retreating from the territory which was captured in the first days of their advance, leaving the Italians and their Allies to take up the pursuit of the retreating columns at leisure. That the defenders have now become the aggressors is evident from the forthcoming intelligence which shows that the enemy is in full retreat from the Monte Plateau to the Adriatic Sea, harassed by the soldiers of Italy. The Austrian retreat across the Piave River is bound to be costly in men, and if we accept literally the statement that this stream is "clogged with dead" we may gain an idea of the terrible mauling which is being administered to the retreating forces. In addition to the weapons of man nature has added her quota of fever to the Italians. The rising of the Piave carried away the most of the pontoon bridges which the Austrian had thrown across, thus reducing his chances of rapid and comparatively safe retirement. The river being in torrent adds to his difficulties and the pounding he is receiving from the defenders' cannon, machine guns and rifles will add numerously to his casualties and will probably have the effect of turning an orderly retreat into a disastrous rout. The advantage is now solely with the Italians. That they will profit by it and inflict such losses on the enemy as will prevent him from attempting to make any definite stand, when the moment comes for the general advance is obvious. In a battle of this nature it is a question of go on or go under, and the Austrians must not be given time to recover from the sledgehammer blows now being dealt him by the Italian armies. It is now or never. The victory must be pressed home with such force that the enemy must be evicted from his positions. Any sentimental feeling now toward the Austro-Hungarians will be fatal, and realising this the Italians are using all the weapons at their disposal to throw death and destruction into the ranks of the retreating foe. They have the defeat of last October to wipe out, and in their desire to redeem their cherished honour, no service will be too great, no effort too dangerous for them to undertake.

The effect of this victory, upon the peoples of the dual Empire may be far greater than appears. The internal conditions are critical and signs are not wanting to show that the unrest which has been simmering for a long period, may now soon reach the boiling point. Food riots in Germany, Austria and Hungary are becoming common lately. These may very suddenly and easily develop into revolution. When that day dawns the houses of Hapsburg and Hohenzollern become things of the past, and of accursed memory.

Notes and Comments

Why not June 24th for our National holiday?
When Newfoundland rounds off the Dominion of Canada, some day, we shall have to celebrate July 1st as "Dominion Day." Why anticipate it?
News is cable from Paris that the transport "Santa Anna" while proceeding from Biscaya to Malta was torpedoed and sunk on the night of May 10-11. Out of two thousand one hundred and fifty souls on board little more than 1,500 were saved. The despatch is dated Paris, June 20.

Von Hindenburg is now reported to be an inmate of a sanitarium. The world (outside the Germans) would be better satisfied if it could be arranged that he occupy a prominent place in a cemetery.
"Lest we forget"—We shall never sheath the sword until Belgium recovers in full measure, all, and more than all, she has sacrificed; until France is adequately secured against the menace of aggression; until the rights of the smaller nationalities of Europe are placed upon an unassailable foundation, and until the military domination of Prussia is wholly and finally destroyed.—Mr. Asquith.

The President of the United States has no official flag, but as C-in-C. of the Army and Navy, his presence is by right by distinct standards. The army flag is red and bears in the centre the official United States Coat of Arms. The President's navy flag is blue with the coat of arms in the centre.

New Steamship Service

Mr. Frank H. Chipman, formerly of the Plant Steamship Line, and now manager of the Nova Scotia Steamships Ltd., of Halifax, of which the Federal Line, Inc. are the agents at New York, arrived in the city Tuesday night and is at Halifax. He will be in Halifax for a few days, and goes hence to St. John's, Nfld., opening offices at both places. The company's New York-Halifax-St. John's service is to begin the latter part of July.—Halifax Chronicle.

Captured Many Germans.

How Sergt. William Grimbaldeston of the King's Own Scottish Borderers, though armed only with one bomb, captured thirty-six Germans with six machine guns and a trench mortar, and thereby won the Victoria Cross, is thus told in an official narrative:
"During the course of an attack, Sergt. Grimbaldeston noticed that the advance of the battalion on his left was being checked by heavy machine-gun fire from a large blockhouse. He at once collected four rifle-grenades, and instructed them to open as rapidly as possible on the block-house, thus assisting one of our trench mortar batteries, which was also concentrating on the same target.
"The ground between him and the block-house was open and entirely devoid of cover. In spite of this he made his way across it in a series of rushes, followed closely by his small band of riflemen.
"Under a hail of bullets from the enemy machine guns, and armed with only one hand grenade, he worked his way round to the entrance at the rear of the block-house. With this solitary weapon he suddenly appeared in the midst of the enemy, and persuaded each gun team in turn to lay down its arms.
"So it happened that thirty-six Germans, with their six machine guns and a trench mortar, surrendered to one British soldier and a bomb. By his bravery and initiative he was thus responsible for the capture of this stronghold with its defenders, and at the same time prevented what threatened to become a critical situation.

Avalon Lodge Installation.

Last night the installation of the Worshipful Master-elect and the investiture of the officers of Avalon Lodge, No. 778, E.C., A.F. and A.M., took place at the Temple. The ceremony was conducted by the Right Worshipful District Grand Master, Bro. J. A. Clift, K.C., assisted by Worshipful Bro. W. J. Edgar, District Grand Secretary, and Right Worshipful Bro. C. R. Duder, D.G.M., S.C. The officers for the ensuing year are as follows:

The usual congratulatory addresses were delivered after the ceremony and a collection was taken up and a handsome amount was handed over to the Teacher Educational Committee. A very pleasing feature of the gathering was the presentation of handsome jewels to the I.E.M., Bro. Geo. E. Taylor, and Bro. E. M. LeMessurier, Hon. Treasurer, both for services given and performed in a faithful and creditable manner during the past several years. During the evening the organist rendered excellent music, thereby adding greatly to the ceremony.

Rev. Dr. Smythe at Gower St. Church.

Under the auspices of the Theological Union of the Methodist Conference of Newfoundland, Dr. Smythe of Wesleyan Theological College, Montreal, delivered a lecture last night in Gower Street Church. The subject of the lecture, "Spiritualism and the Psychic Phenomena," was handled with great ability and yet simplicity. The lecturer had a difficult subject for a popular audience, but did not fail to illuminate it as to make it comprehensible to all. The meeting was under the chairmanship of Rev. W. H. Dotchson; Dr. Saint read the Scriptures; Rev. E. P. Ward led in prayer.

After the lecturer had been introduced to the audience by the chairman, and had given expression to the pleasure which his visit to Newfoundland had given him he said in part:—The fearful sacrifice of life in the present war has produced a widespread revival of interest in the phenomena of occultism and given renewed vigor to the beliefs and practices of spiritualism. This was to be expected. Much sympathy should go out to the feelings of those who craved some positive assurance of a continued personal existence after death. If to faith so called, can be added a reasonable evidence in fact, it would be welcomed with gratitude. There are many difficulties and dangers in certain forms of spiritualism, yet it is quite reasonable to want to know something about the life beyond. The field of investigation is a wide one. The society for psychical research has gathered a great deal of material on the subject. The results of the work of the society, however, have not been convincing to all; yet they have at least immensely relieved the strain on faith and immortality and opened up a hope that some day we may be forced by empirical evidence to believe that when the body dies the soul still survives. Some psychic phenomena cannot be explained by any known law of nature. Many eminent writers agree on this point. Indications of the widespread belief in spiritual practices are found in such Old Testament instances as the Witch of Endor. Several well-known systems of religion were founded on "revelations" received in what would now be regarded as mediumistic trance. The case of Mahomet will immediately be recalled, and in recent times Swedenborg is one of the best examples. Modern spiritualism arose in connection with the Rochester Rappings in 1845. Investigation in spiritualism is being conducted in London, England, and elsewhere. Sir Oliver Lodge's book, "Raymond," has created a wide and tremendous revival of spiritualism. The wealthy women of England are being led into it. The revival is parallel to the witch mania of the seventeenth century.

Do not weary in well doing.

Grubs are beginning to show themselves among the tender garden plants, but not to such an extent that some people would have us believe. This is an old trick to boost prices as evidenced by last year's experience. We know as a positive fact that certain individuals were spreading stories around last year about the young plants being all destroyed whereas the same parties never before produced such quantities of cabbage and turnips. The grub, we know, is a nuisance but in this case is being used to boost prices of early garden produce.

Gentlemen,— I am more than grateful since your wonderful D.D.D. for Eczema. My little girl was troubled with Weeping Eczema. I used everything but to no use and I thought D. D. D. would be of no use either. My girl's head became so bad I had to clip her hair off and keep her from school. She got sores all over her body. I used 3 bottles and I am proud to say she is cured. Not a pimple or rash and her skin is clear and white and all the itching is gone. I will recommend D. D. D. to any one I know who is troubled with Eczema. I am ever so happy and thankful for your wonderful cure.

If the Germans Broke Through.

Think for a moment, what would happen if Germany won this war. Of what value would be your money, your property, yes, even your life itself, and the lives of those you hold dear. What guarantee have you that you would not meet the same fate as the Belgians and others who have fallen into the hands of the Hun? Absolutely none, except the defense you make against the onrush of the German army. And what defense are you making? Have you subscribed to the Victory Loan to ensure that Newfoundland is doing her part in this modern crusade? If not, do so now. That is part of your safeguards against invasion. It is also a grand business investment backed by the best security in the world—the security of your country. And the interest rate is probably the best you have ever obtained for your money—5 1/2 per cent. MONEY WILL WIN THIS WAR—MAKE YOURS DO ITS PART.

The Old Friend Habit.

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

Much has been said of the worth of old friends. To all of which, I say an amen. There's nothing like them. And yet, I think one can become too much addicted to the old friend habit. It is not well to let new friends usurp the place of old. But neither is it well to let old friends altogether usurp the place of new. I have a friend who has what I call the old friend habit. She has several very fine friends, to whom she is splendidly loyal, which is good. But she seems to feel that loyalty to the old includes an unwillingness to learn to know new people, which is bad.

One day last summer I entertained this friend at my home. I had suggested having other people to meet her. She vetoed it emphatically. "We always enjoy you people so much," she said. "Wouldn't outsiders spoil it?"

She Even Asked Them To Visit Her. By a strange coincidence, the very people whom I had thought of inviting came that week end—not to my home, but to a little Tavern near there. By a still stranger chance, there was some misunderstanding about rooms at the Tavern, and we naturally took them in. I rather explored the necessity, because of my old friend's feelings, but I don't believe we ever had a more successful week-end. The two couples proved extremely congenial. My old friend found she had several interests in common with them, and woke to an energy and liveliness I had not seen her display for some time. When she went away, she said with an enthusiasm that was plainly intelligible (how quickly one can tell) "We've had a wonderful time." And before she went she had planned to have the new friends visit her.

New Friends Are Vitalizing. New friends bring into play new facts in one's personality and in one's mental resources. Contact with new friends often sends one back in a condition to enjoy the old more.

Loyalty to old friends may enter into the reluctance to make new, but I think that simple inertia often has more to do with it. And that surely ought to be overcome, rather than yielded to. Old Friends And Old Shoes. One often hears it said that an old friend is like an old shoe. Meaning, I suppose, that one finds the same comfort in both. One should remember that an old shoe is sometimes slovenly as well as comfortable, and beware that the likeness goes no further. As one grows one never makes friends quite so readily, and I have even heard it claimed that one makes no new friends after forty. Heaven forbid. I think I shall have to promise myself to try to make at least one new friend every year until I die.

Your Boys and Girls.

All children should love music for music in children that idealty which is one of the most precious possessions of childhood, and which we would fain keep in after life, which loves flowers and animals, which sees the truth in fairy stories, which believes everything to be good and is alien to everything sinister, which sees the moon and stars, not as objects so many millions of miles from the earth, and parts of a great solar system, but as lanterns being in the heavens. Children who receive many toys often find them an embarrassment of riches. One wise mother has adopted this plan. All the new toys are placed in a large hamper and each night one is selected for each child to play with the next day. This is continued each night, the toy used being given up each night. The plan is successful for two reasons; the children know that the toy selected will not come again for another week, so they make the most of it, and then they have the pleasure of wondering what the morrow will bring.

It is a good plan to have a regular hour for between-meal "snacks" which children never fail to call for and really need. Bread and butter sandwiches can be prepared before leaving the breakfast or lunch table, while the materials are yet on hand. In this way the bits of jam and jelly that are apt to go begging are utilized. The sandwiches may be wrapped in wax paper and put where the children can get them themselves. Promptly at ten and three they are called to have their bite, and the busy housewife may pursue her tasks uninterrupted.

Milady's Boudoir.

BEAUTY CARE FOR THE HOUSEWIFE.

So many women who keep house forget the personal appearance that won the heart of their husband when they were young. The housewife should be just as careful of her hair, skin and working clothes, in a neat practical way, as the blushing bride.

Carelessness in donning the morning waist, kimono or coffee jacket should not be tolerated. Use a little judgment in selecting styles and color and not only neatness and harmony will be the result, but one beauty will be greatly enhanced. No doubt one who has been engaged in cooking or superintending the dinner will have cause to complain of a florid complexion. While this is a natural result of the necessary exertions and one not to be ashamed of, still it is not necessary to appear so at the table. Knowing that heat and exercise will bring not only the color to the face, and in many cases, grease, it is ones duty to remove both for ones good appearance sake, if for none other.

This is best done by wiping the face with a soothing astringent lotion and then applying an even coating of good face powder. Some women object to the use of face powder but there is no harm in using it provided the right sort is used and a good cream put on to clean it off before retiring. Burns on the hands and arms are of frequent occurrence to the housewife and, aside from the pain, they do not add to ones charm. In case of a burn at once apply linseed or sweet oil to the parts affected and then thickly cover with baking powder and bind with a soft linen cloth. In ordinary burns this will relieve the pain.

What saves the kaiser from disgrace? Powder and shot! No man would seek his company. Faith, it is not. Has kindness ever marked his reign? Have flowers blossomed in his train? Has he by any act of worth Brought happiness unto the earth? What has this king of brutes to boast? Great guns of steel? What more can they who praise him boast? Of him reveal? The power to maim, the force to slay The weak and helpless in his way; The shells to strew the field with dead. Is all that of him can be said. Stripped of his guns, what would he be? Scorned by his kind? No man would seek his company. And none so blind To decency that he would share His roof with him. His life is bare Of every kindly thought and deed Which human beings sorely need. Shall any mourn him when he dies? None but the cad! Shall any one his memory prize? None but the bad. Naked of honor, he shall pass Baser than brutes that feed on grass; Shorn of his power, he'll take the grave Without one grace his soul to save.

Everyday Etiquette. "Would it be correct for me as the oldest girl in the family, to have simply Miss Smith on my cards or should I have my full name?" inquired Gladys. "If there are no older unmarried women among your relatives of the same name it would be correct for you to use Miss Smith on your cards," replied her aunt.

A Brilliant Aviator.

Every honor for valor that a British officer can gain has been won by Capt. James Byford McCudden, the star British aviator, who has just been awarded the Victoria Cross. His other distinctions, in the order of their award, include the Distinguished Service, a bar to the D.S.O., the Croix de Guerre, Military Cross, bar to the Military Cross, and the Military Medal. McCudden, who is now 23 years old, entered the British army as a bugler eight years ago. He went to France as a private in the original expeditionary force. Having had some experience in the air he was pressed into service as an observer at Mons and gave valuable information of enemy movements during the retreat. From a sergeant he was promoted to a commissioned rank as an observer and quickly won fame for his handling of a machine gun in aerial fighting. Since he has had more than one hundred flights without ever having sustained a wound. Fifty-four German airplanes have been accounted for by Capt. McCudden. Of these forty-two have been destroyed, nineteen of them on the British side of the lines.

Pigeon Saved Aviator.

Thrilling Experience of Flight Commander Leckie, D.S.O.

How Flight-Commander R. Leckie, D. S. O., again proved his mettle by the rescue of two aviators from a seaplane fifty miles from the North Sea coast, after they had been exposed to the buffeting of waves and weather for no less than four days, is modestly told in a letter received by Mr. Robert Leckie, of Toronto, who is proud to be an uncle of the intrepid young birdman.

After telling of the difficulties experienced in fighting Zepps owing to their ability to rise to extreme altitudes, the letter proceeds: After having been under shell and machine-gun fire for almost an hour, I found myself facing the necessity of making a landing between 50 and 75 miles out at sea to rescue the crew of a land machine which had dropped in the sea through engine trouble. After getting the pilot and passengers aboard my craft, I found it impossible to get off again owing to the rough sea, and the fact that the hull of my "boat" had been struck by shrapnel at a height of 10,000 feet, and was fast making water. "I will not describe the horror of the days that followed, days spent in "watching waiting" and nights in duty watches. No food at all and water at the rate of one eggcupful each day, until the small allowance gave out, then the muck from the engine radiator. All the while the seaplanes gradually broke up. Also we were compelled to bale incessantly to keep afloat. During this time our bassy was quite unaware of our fate, though patrols were sent out searching for use.

"As you may know most long distance patrol seaplanes carry homing pigeons aboard. I had four of them with me, and it is to the splendid endurance of one of these birds that six men-to-day owe their lives. On Wednesday I released a pigeon, carrying a message to the base giving our position and cause of trouble. On Thursday a second bird was released carrying a similar message. On Friday morning a third bird was sent, and knowing that we could not last much longer, our remaining pigeon was released on Friday afternoon carrying an S. O. S. signal.

"The first three pigeons failed to reach England, but the fourth was a winner. He failed to reach his loft, it is true, but reaching the English coast about twenty miles north of our base, almost instinctively it would seem, picked out a coast-guard station and fluttering into the court yard fell dead from exhaustion. The bird's cell of his own life he delivered his message and thus saved ours—we were picked up by H. M. S. — the next day.

Dead Easy.

It would have been dead easy for the Minister of Finance to have raised this Victory Loan in Canada. All he had to do was say the word, and the money was his. But he did not feel like letting others have a big rate of interest when this privilege might be extended to our own people. He did the right thing by his own country. See that you back him up by purchasing Victory Bonds. Buy Bonds, buy more Bonds; Buy Still More Bonds, and keep on buying them until it hurts.

If anyone offers you a substitute for Welch's Grape Juice, accept it and throw it at him. He's trying to "sting" you. June 23, 71, eod

Victory Loan Catechism

Q. What is the Victory Loan?
A. It is a loan of money by the people of Newfoundland to their Government.

Q. Why does the Government of Newfoundland borrow money?
A. Because we must feed, clothe, equip and maintain our soldiers overseas so that they may continue to fight for us, and shoulder with our kinsmen and our allies for the suppression of German tyranny. Also because Great Britain, who has borne the heaviest share of the financial burden of the war, needs the assistance of her Allies and her Dominions' financial power.

Q. When I lend my money to the Newfoundland Government, what do I get in return?
A. You get the signed "promise to pay" of the Government of Newfoundland, bearing interest. This is called a Bond.

Q. What, then, is a Newfoundland Victory Bond?
A. It is the direct and unconditional promise of the Dominion of Newfoundland to pay upon a certain date a specified sum of money in gold, together with interest at a specified rate, payable at specific dates until the bond matures.

Q. In what form is this promise?
A. It is engraved upon distinctive paper used for the securities of Newfoundland and executed by officials of the Department of Finance on behalf of Newfoundland.

Q. When are Bonds of the Victory Loan of 1918 dated?
A. June 1st, 1918, is the date they will bear, because that is the date on which interest begins.

Q. When will these Bonds be paid by the Government; that is, when will they become due?
A. These bonds will become due and payable by the Government on the 30th day of 1925.

Q. Do I get any interest on my money while it is loaned to my Government?
A. Yes. The Government will pay you interest at the rate of 6 1/2 p.c. a year.

Q. Is this a higher rate of interest than the Newfoundland Government Bonds pay in normal times?
A. Yes. Newfoundland under normal conditions pays 3 p.c., 3 1/2 p.c. and 4 p.c. for her money.

Q. How do I collect the interest?
A. Attached to each Bond is an engraved sheet of interest coupons, one for each six months' period. When the interest date arrives, you cut off the interest coupon of that date and take it to any bank, where it may be cashed or deposited.

Professor Falconer Coming.

A distinguished visitor is coming to St. John's this week in the person of Dr. J. W. Falconer, Professor in the Halifax Theological College and Lecturer at Dalhousie University. Professor Falconer is a brother of Sir Robert Falconer, K.C.M.G., President of Toronto University, who as Chairman of the War Lecture Bureau has rendered such a signal service to the country in sustaining the patriotic spirit of the people. Professor Falconer is well known in the literary world as the author of several books. His "Apostle and Priest" and "The Three Crosses" are marked by a delightful literary style which has secured a wide circle of readers. Professor Falconer is a popular lecturer as well as preacher on "Jerusalem Ancient and Modern" for patriotic purposes while he is in the city. On Sunday morning Professor Falconer will take part in the Patriotic Service to be held in St.
Andrew's Church in connection with the commemoration of July 1st, as a Dominion Holiday.

CHANGED HABITS.

The tasks I used to like, alas, to me
no longer make appeal; I do not care to mow the grass, with seven feet of flashing steel. The weeds are growing on my lawn, which once was handsome as a park;
for I begin to talk
at dawn of war,
and keep it up till dark. The cockleburrs are growing dense where once the scarlet rambler grew; decay has marked by picket fence, and all the other things in view.
For I must talk with Neighbor Jones
—that's what my leather lungs are for —explaining in heroic tones, what we should do to win the war. I do not care to swat the flies, although that sport once hit the spot, and early in the day I'd rise, with noble zeal, and swat and swat. Each fly in safety now may soar, and multiply to beat the band; I'm busy at the Blue Front store where allied strategy is planned.
There I'm considered sane and wise, and people hearken to my rede; I have no time to swat the flies, which on the nation's substance feed. I do not care to boil the germs, although our lives may be at stake, for I must tell, in ringing terms, where Kronprinz Willyum made his break. I used to read the bulletins the health board issued once a week, and I would stir my ancient shins, and make my slats and hinges creak; none better knew to swat the flies, or boil the germs, or bat the rats, but now I meet with graybeard guys, and we all gossip through out hats.

New Building at Heart's Content.

The Western Union Cable Co. are erecting a staff house and several dwellings at Heart's Content for the convenience of their employees, which when completed will be a credit to the cable town. The contract for plumb-ing has been awarded Moore & Co., of this city who are now making the necessary arrangements. The buildings will also have electric light and private phone connections. An up-to-date and commodious cable station is also to be erected in the near future, plans for the same are now being drafted by Mr. Jonas Barter, architect.
The buildings are being erected by Messrs. Saunders and Howell, of Carbonar.

C. L. B. Skirmish Drill.

Weather permitting the C. L. B. will meet at their Armory at 2 p.m. and proceed to Three Pond Barrons where skirmishing drill will take place.
About 6 p.m. kettles will be oiled and refreshments partaken of. These are being supplied by the friends of the Brigade. Any friends who would wish to add to the boys' outing can materially help by sending sandwiches, cake, etc., to the Armory between 10 and 11-to-morrow morning.
Headed by the band, under Capt. A.
Morris, who will have some lively music to hand out to the lads, the return to town will be made at 8 p.m.

Hr. Grace Notes.

The funeral of the late Mr. Michael Leary took place yesterday from the residence of his father-in-law, Mr. T.
Griffin, Lady Pond Road.
The schr. Dorothy, E. Taylor master, is now ready to proceed to Labrador with supplies for her owner, Mr. E.
Simmons, and we wish her much success.
The schr. Studland, owned by Mr.
E. Simmons, was repaired at Green's Harbor, T. B. during the winter, and is now here. She is to all appearances an A1 schooner and good for a number of years.

Professor Falconer Coming.

The dredge Priestland is at present engaged under contract deepening the water at the head of the wharf of Messrs. Mann & Co. Our citizens are endeavouring, now that she is here, to get more of our water front cleared of ballast, etc., that have accumulated along the water front. If such can be arranged it will be a great benefit to schooner-owners and seamen generally.

The C. H. E. Exams opened to-day and quite a large number of candidates are sitting. Success to them all.

Mrs. C. Ryan who has been teaching at the C. E. School, Bryant's Cove, for the past term left for her home at Trinity, on Saturday. Miss Ryan's health has given out and she has been advised by the doctor to take at least a year's rest.

Caplin are just striking in here. One man who secured a boat load this morning sold them readily by the bucket at 5 cents, and by the barrel at 50 cents. He made a good day's pay.

Mr. E. Simmons' schooner Minnie Maud sails this afternoon on a trading trip to Labrador.

Mrs. E. B. Spencer and her little daughter, Laura, arrived from Bell Island, on Friday afternoon on a visit to her mother, Mrs. Mark Sellars.

The musical entertainment held here by the ladies of the Mount Allison Quartet, on Friday night, was one of the best it has ever been the privilege of a Harbor Grace audience to attend.
CORRESPONDENT.

Children's Bazaar.

The Children's Bazaar and Garden
Party held at the residence of Mr. J.
C. Pratt, LeMarchant Road, on Saturday last by Misses Jean Forbes, Hilda White, Gerwynth Pratt, Flossie
Rendell, Marjorie Smith and Gladys Squires was a great success. Those attending were very greatly pleased with the efforts of the little ladies who did everything possible to make their guests feel at home. A number of dainty articles of plain and fancy work, some of original design and all from the needles of the young ladies themselves, were offered for sale. The total proceeds amounting to forty-one dollars will be donated to the W. P. A.
Fund. Congratulations.

Now Convalescent.

W. A. Ellis, of St. John's, Newfoundland, who was taken ill when attending the Grand Chapter and Grand Lodge conventions here, is now convalescent and expects to proceed on his journey. Mr. Ellis desires to thank the brethren of Halifax and Nova Scotia generally who attended the convention for their many acts of kindness shown during his recent illness.

Messages Received Last Evening.

AUSTRIAN OFFICIAL.
VIENNA, June 24. (Official.)
Austro-Hungarian troops evacuated Montello and the right bank of the Piave River. A position has arisen by reason of the height of the water and bad weather, which has caused us to evacuate Montello and some sectors of the other positions which we won on the right bank of the Piave. An order given four days ago was carried out in such a way that despite the difficulties connected with changing to the other bank, our movements remained unobserved by the enemy.
Many lines already evacuated were subjected yesterday to strong Italian gun fire, increasing in places to drum fire. The enemy infantry also advanced to attack against the trenches we had abandoned, but were driven back by our long-distance batteries.

TANKS IN ACTION.
BRITISH HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE, June 23. (Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency.)—Last night tanks were used for the first time in raiding operations near Bucquoy and proved satisfactory, penetrating the enemy lines unhindered and returning safely. Their mission was partly to beat down a path for the infantry, in which they were successful. They also aroused considerable machine gun positions. Our progress as a result was restricted to the eastern engine of the Bucquoy cemetery. The enemy heavily shelled the Strazell railway where his attempt to raid our lines failed with considerable losses.

THE PRESENT NOT THE TIME.
LONDON, June 24.
In the House of Commons to-night
Lord Robert Cecil, Minister of Blockade, replying to a question concerning the latest utterance of Baron Bur-lian, the Austro-Hungarian Foreign Minister, said there was no indication at the present time favorable for official negotiations.

FORTIFICATION VOTE.
WASHINGTON, June 24.
The $5,498,000,000 fortifications bill was passed to-day by the House by record vote after only five hours debate. It now goes to the Senate.

ONE BIG DEMOCRACY.
LONDON, June 23.
(Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency.)— Premier Lloyd George speaking at the Welsh Baptist Tabernacle in London, urged that we must prepare for peace. The world must be fit for everybody and all classes to live in.
There should be no room for deforma-ties such as militarism, mammonism and anarchism; all must have a fair share. The future of the Empire has already been committed to democracy, he said. Problems of reconstruction must be arranged in an atmosphere of brotherhood and friendliness. The upper classes, middle class, the lower classes have all passed through the fiery furnace together and it has changed the hearts of the people. Before the war I fought hard to get fair play for the people from whom I sprang, and what I got was by fighting. I am going to try another way this time.

THE NAVY OF BRAZIL.
LONDON, June 23.
(Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency.)—
Admiral Francis Dematters, Chief of the Brazilian Naval Mission to Europe, in an interview, said that the navy of Brazil was already doing patrol work with the Anglo-American fleets guarding the transport of foodstuffs for Brazil. When war broke out, he said, fifty-three German ships were interned in Brazilian ports, of which thirty-three, aggregating 250, tons, had been ceded to France. He predicted victory for the Allies by next year.

V. A. D'S. APPOINTED.—A number of young ladies who left here as V. A.
D's. sometime ago reached England about a fortnight ago and have been appointed to various military hospitals, etc., throughout the Old Country.

TABLEAUX! To-Day's Messages.

On Thursday evening of this week the charming Tableaux arranged by several ladies for Red Cross purposes will be repeated in the Casino. Each tableau will be illustrated with appropriate music. Assisting the ladies in this connection are such well known favourites as Mrs. F. J. King, Miss Herder, Miss Clara Woods, Miss Curtis, Messrs. Bradshaw, Trapnell and Somerville.

A Sextette composed of the ladies who rendered Tennyson's "Lady of Shalott" so beautifully will sing plantation melodies through the evening, and between Part I. and II. a mixed quartette will render old-time songs, familiar and loved by all.

PROGRAMME.

- PART I—TABLEAUX.
1. The greatest mother in the world.
  2. America! I love you.
  3. Canada.
  4. The Long, Long Trail.
  5. Joan who leads the soldiers.
  6. From the land of the sky blue water.
  7. Annie Laurie.
  8. The White Cockade.
  9. Rosebuds.
- Tickets on sale at Gray & Goodland's: Reserved, 50c.; Gallery, 30c.; Pit, 20c. Concert starts 8.30 p.m.

QUITE TRUE.

There are some citizens in this town who so much love baseball that they are willing at times to buy a newspaper to learn how the game came out.

THE UMPIRE.

An Umpire died—and went below, To where the hottest fires glow, "O, what rare bliss," he called in mirth "Compared to what it was on earth."

Magistrate's Court.

A Naval Reservist from the Briton and an ex-naval seaman, who brutally assaulted a Chinaman on Sunday afternoon on New Gower Street, appeared in court this morning and were fined $50 or thirty days in jail. In the event of the fine being paid the Chinaman is to get what is left over after the court expenses are deducted. The Chinaman, who is badly injured, attended court, as did also a number of his countrymen. Both seamen were badly under the influence of Florida water at the time of the assault and pleaded guilty to the charge. His Honor pointed out that a Chinaman had just as much right to use the streets of this city as any other person, provided he conducted himself in an orderly manner. Living under the British flag he was entitled to British justice, and as far as he (the Judge) was concerned he was going to see that a Chinaman or any other law abiding person was not denied that privilege.

A young man who stowed away on a steamer which recently arrived from a foreign port was allowed to go on paying his passage, which amounted to $10.

Reids Boats.

The Argyle left Placentia last night on the Merasheen route. The Clyde left Lewisport at 7.45 p.m. yesterday. The Dundee left Port Blandford at 7.50 a.m. yesterday. The Glencoe left Port aux Basques at 1.10 p.m. yesterday. The Home left Lewisport at 9.15 a.m. yesterday. The Petrel left Clarendville at 9 a.m. yesterday. The Diana was not reported since leaving Bonne Bay. The Neptune arrived from Labrador early this morning. The Fosota is leaving Placentia to-day.

An Entertainment in aid of the St. John Ambulance Brigade will be held in the Casino on Thursday evening, July 4th, at 8.30 o'clock, under the auspices of the W. P. A. The programme will include a selection of War Films, and a number of Patriotic Songs by our best local talent.—June 25, 11

GERMANS ARE TIRED OF WAR.

COPENHAGEN, To-day. The German soldiers generally are tired of the war but the patience of the people as a whole, especially the middle classes, is marvellous in view of the prevalent unfavourable conditions, said Dr. G. F. N. Nicolai, former Professor of Physiology at the University at Berlin when questioned yesterday regarding conditions in Germany. Professor Nicolai was one of the men who escape from Germany last week in an airship, landing in Denmark. In official circles, continued Professor Nicolai, it is expected to last a long time, but among the people the opinion is expressed by many that the present offensive on the western front will be decisive, while the people generally are patient, at the same time they are anxious for peace. The Professor declared. Food conditions in the Empire are extremely bad, Professor Nicolai reported.

AUSTRIANS SURROUNDED.

LONDON, To-day. The extent to which the Italians pursue on the Austrians across the Piave has developed in London here and no detailed reports have been received bringing events up to date. A statement current in London yesterday that the Italians had taken 45,000 prisoners, is said by the morning newspapers to be confirmed by the Italian Embassy. The statement is attributed to Premier Orlando by the Rome correspondent, who quotes the Giornale della Sera as saying that the troops of Arch Duke Joseph and of General Wurm are virtually surrounded and must surrender or be annihilated.

TOTAL TWO HUNDRED THOUSAND.

PARIS, To-day. (Havas Agency.) The Austrian losses according to the Heecolo of Milan. Certain enemy divisions lost two-thirds of their effectives. A dispatch to the Matin from Turin says that the rout of the Austrians is complete and that the Piave has been crossed by Austrian dead. Italian cavalry, it is added, have advanced beyond the eastern bank of the river. The French newspapers continue to acclaim Italian victory. Hope is expressed that General Diaz profiting by the demoralization of the enemy will confine the fighting to local actions but will strike out boldly into an offensive and transform the Austrian retreat to the Piave into a decisive victory. Several newspapers wonder whether the Germans will rush help to the Austrians from the west. The "L'Extrême Libre" believes that such action is scarcely probable, as Emperor or William and Von Hindenburg are convinced they cannot obtain a decision, except on the line from Switzerland to the sea.

RETURN OF FALKLAND ISLANDS.

BUENOS AIRES, To-day. The Argentine League has sent a petition to Congress asking the Government to take steps to secure the return of the Falkland Islands from Great Britain to Argentina. The peace conference, at the end of the war, is expected to deal with the matter.

FIGHTING CONFINED TO LOCAL ACTIONS.

ROME, To-day. In announcing to his victorious army the repulse of the Austrians, General Diaz, the Italian Commander-in-Chief, says the fighting is now confined to local actions. He calls upon the army to prepare for new trials. In an order of the day to his officers and men, General Diaz says: "The enemy, who with furious impetuosity used all means to penetrate our territory, has been repulsed at all points. His losses are very heavy, his pride is broken, glory to all commands all soldiers and all sailors. The country understood at once that the barrier set up by your heroism was unshakable, and that your strength is the source of our inviolable vigor. Our people and our Allies, who have so many glorious representatives amongst us, applaud our success against the stern enemy. The great battle is, for the time being, reduced to local actions. The army has deserved well of the country. We are sure of our right and of the holiness of the cause we are demanding. New trials will undoubtedly wait us, will again show the enemy that we have lost none of her faith, strength and obligation. For Italy, for King, for civilization, let us persevere in our sacred duty."

SPECIAL MILITARY AREA.

DUBLIN, To-day. A proclamation issued last night, declares the scope of the special military area to be a special military area. This means that the same system of martial law has been applied to Tralee as has been enforced in the county of Clare. Permits will be necessary for persons to enter the prescribed district.

SMALL AFFAIRS.

PARIS, To-day. The Germans last night attacked the new French positions in the region of Leperts, north of the Aisne, but were able to make no gains, says the official statement from the War Office to-day. In surprise attacks at place, they were in Lorraine the French captured twenty prisoners.

DEVELOPMENTS EXPECTED.

LONDON, To-day. The seizure of forty thousand rounds of ammunition, in the Smithfield Market in Dublin yesterday, was expected to have developments, according to the Dublin correspondent of the Daily Mail, who says that the seizure was an incident in an attempt to smuggle arms and ammunition into Ireland on a large scale. The trace of a ship, whose name is not divulged, arrived the latter part of last week, bringing a miscellaneous cargo, among which contraband was cleverly distributed. The goods were consigned to various parts of the country. An investigation is proceeding to discover how the cargo reached their destination. It is understood that in addition to the seizure at Dublin, six thousand cartridges were found in Belfast, and other parcels in Dungannon and Portadown. The contraband was hidden in sacks of oats. The consignee is said to be a brother of one of the interned Sinn Feiners.

GREECE NOW LOYAL.

PARIS, To-day. (Havas Agency.) Greece shortly will have more than two hundred thousand men under arms according to a statement given by the Greek legation here to the Matin. Additional troops beyond this number are to be called to the colors soon, it is said. The notable work accomplished by the Hellenic Kingdom since its entrance into the war a year ago this month is received, and the achievement of confidence and effectively guarding the interests of the country, is pointed out.

RETREATING UNDER FIRE.

GENEVA, June 24. The Austrian retreat across the Piave River continues in the greatest disorder under the heaviest fire of the allied artillery, according to news received here this morning. British gunners especially are doing heavy execution in this sector. Hundreds of the enemy, the report states, were drowned in the swollen river into which the Austrians are cast, throwing their Maxim and light cannon. In the meantime the Austrians are rushing up new reserves to fill the breach through the Montello Plateau and the Adriatic in order to avert a disaster. In spite of the heavy despatch from Vienna that the retreat was due entirely to the flood in the Piave River, exact details of the retreat are given by their continuous pressure against the enemy.

Drowning Accidents.

The following messages were received by the Deputy Minister Justice, this morning; copies of which we give verbatim:

"Yesterday morning, at 8 o'clock, two men named Harry Minty, married, and his brother, Arthur Minty, unmarried, belonging to Durrell's farm, left in their motor boat for Spiller's Cove to cast a net. The other boat having secured what they wanted, returned and reported that the Minty men had secured a fish. A violent breeze sprang up nearly a load when they left. The Minty's not having returned at 2 p.m. some parties left to see the cause of their not returning. They found the motor boat near Spiller's Right bottom up with the grape on the bottom; this mooring her. There being a strong breeze it is supposed that these men must have overloaded their boat and when coming out of the cove into the rough water must have taken in a quantity of water and turned over and were drowned. Bodies not recovered yet. Several parties out this morning searching for bodies, but at present it is unknown where Mrs. O. A. Lewis, a victim solo by Miss Dorothy Boyd, a vocal solo by Mrs. Arley, and solo by Mrs. J. J. Johnson. A violin obligato for one of Mrs. Johnston's numbers was played by Miss Boyd. The accompanists of the evening were Miss Desbarres and Miss Jost.—Sydney Post, June 18.

Honors Mrs. Bartlett.

At the home of Mrs. J. A. Young, Dorchester street, on Monday evening, a handsome gold wrist watch was presented to Mrs. J. W. Bartlett by the ladies of Jubilee Methodist Church. The presentation address was made by Miss Dewolfe and the gift feelingly acknowledged by Mrs. Bartlett. During the evening a short programme was rendered. It included a duet by Miss Frances Fletcher and Miss Marion Fletcher, a reading by Mrs. O. A. Lewis, a vocal solo by Miss Dorothy Boyd, a vocal solo by Mrs. Arley, and solo by Mrs. J. J. Johnson. The accompanists of the evening were Miss Desbarres and Miss Jost.—Sydney Post, June 18.

Neptune Back from Labrador.

The s.s. Neptune reached port early this morning from the Labrador mail service having got as far north as Dark Tickle near Emily Hr. Leaving at 10 a.m. on the 14th, the voyage was experienced throughout the voyage. There was, however, considerable ice seen most of which was off the land. The crew report that last winter was the coldest experienced on the coast for many years, and as a consequence the ice was crushed through the ice and the Neptune was forced to butt her way through. During the winter and spring the trappers secured several fine skins and a goodly number of seals. Everyone seems to have done well throughout the long winter. There being not one case of want reported. A few days before the arrival of the ship at Bateau, an Indian accidentally shot himself in the right knee, the gun exploding while he was in the act of lifting it over a rock, while hunting. The poor fellow passed away shortly after, death being due to loss of blood. He was buried on the day the ship arrived. Messengers broken out at several places along the coast and at one harbor 46 cases were reported. Upwards of 40 schooners were seen on the coast while a large number were seen making their way down. There is no sign of fish as yet and prospects are looking poor. The Neptune brought along Capt. George Rendell, of Champneys, T.B., and nine of the crew of the schooner Ferial, which was crushed by the ice and sunk about a week ago. The s.s. Kite was at Dark Tickle when the Neptune arrived. The young ladies of the Cartwright Mission who taught school throughout the winter, were reported to be in good spirits, they were away on a visitation when the Neptune reached that place. They will return to St. John's on the first trip of the Sagona.

Registration of Births in city of St. John's

Whereas the Government of this Dominion and the Municipal Council of the City of St. John's have arranged for the engagement of a Community Nurse for service in the said city during the next three months, especially with reference to the saving of infant life;

And whereas it is necessary that such Nurse should get at once into touch with all newly born infants and their mothers; on recommendation of the Acting Medical Health Officer, it is ordered that in respect of the City of St. John's the provisions of Section 8, Cap. 28, Consolidated Statutes, as amended by Section 4, Cap. 9, 1899, will be enforced. This Act provides that when any birth takes place information of the same shall be furnished or posted within forty-eight hours thereafter to the proper officer appointed to receive the same, under a fine not exceeding $10 for every neglect to do so.

The obligation to furnish such information rests in the first instance upon the father of the child; or, in the case of his death or absence, upon the mother; or, in the case of the inability of both parents, then successively upon any person standing in their place, the nurse in attendance, or the occupier of the house within which the birth occurs.

As the Office of the Registrar General is situated in St. John's, it is ordered that the notification of all births in the City of St. John's from 1st July next shall be furnished or posted within forty-eight hours thereafter to the Registrar General after the following manner:—Births, Marriages and Deaths, 268 Duckworth Street, upon cards which may be procured from any Post Office or Postal Telegraph Office in the City. Such cards when filled in and signed may be mailed free of charge.

It is not intended that the notification of births as set forth above shall interfere with the reporting of births for registration at present carried out by the Clergymen, who will still continue such registration, transmitting a correct copy of the same to the Registrar General as usual.

Washington's Flag in London.

The regiment under the Stars and Stripes marched through the streets of London on Saturday to salute the King of England before Buckingham Palace.

That is one of many tokens—that Allies who have rallied to our side in the cause of right and liberty from the Atlantic are beginning to find their place in the great struggle of the Times. "That they are not a self-abnegation as the soldiers of Germany's army brigaded with our own troops in the fields of Flanders, is the direct consequence of Germany's arrogant defiance of moral law. No lesser cause, no less ideal cause, could have so many Americans to draw the sword. The Kaiser and his advisers have brought together the English-speaking peoples more closely and more intimately than the fondest dreamer dared to hope. Every day, as Germany in man-power, in wealth, in food—and still more the strength of Austria-Hungary and Italy—is gradually abbing away from our side. We have to strike up! They are hurrying up! They are hurrying up!

Take it for all in all, Saturday through London will rank among the most prodigious spectacles the world has ever given us.

The entry of the United States into the war gave a wholly new turn to the development of international politics. It will be seen in days to come some of the great diversions of our history, and there can be nothing any bounds, as yet, to the advance for the world's future. This vast event that was signified by that long column of marching manhood swinging through the streets of our capital, by the salute of American troops to a British flag. The end of the long isolation of the Old World is a fact that concerns our people no less than ourselves. But we in Great Britain have a heartiest interest of our own in the coming of the Americans into sustaining the things of a nation's life worth living. The march through London, the salute paid to King George, the welcome given to the troops of the Old World, signalize the people of London, signalize most plentiful; and the quarry is most plentiful in the English Channel, in the Irish Sea and in the approaches to the French ports. That is the neck of a bottle which represents all the seven seas, and a submarine pirate operating in those waters has ten times as many opportunities to sight an enemy ship as he would have while wandering up and down the two thousand miles of our Atlantic coasts. The question of whether Germany sends over more submarines depends upon another question namely, whether we arm our ships and put them in shape to fight back. The U-boat captain is a sneak fighter and he never comes any closer to real danger than he can possibly help. He has profound respect for a search gun showing its beam snout over the taffrail of an American merchant or passenger ship. So, if he wish to discourage the advent of other submarines, we should do at once what we ought to have done many, many months ago, namely, mount a 5- or 6-inch gun at each end of our large passenger and freight ships, and at least a 6- or 12-pounder on our schooners and smaller trading craft. As to the size of these submarines it is safe to say that they are not nearly as large as reports of passengers and crews of vessels attacked would seem to indicate. Probably a length of 250 feet would be a fairly close guess. A ship of this size could easily cross the Atlantic, carrying enough fuel and supplies for raising operations on this side of the ocean, lasting for several days. An illustration, taken from the Spanish liner, "Infanta Isabel," which showed the submarine that had caused her to heave to, agrees rather closely with the description of the submarines on our coasts furnished by crews of vessels that have been sunk. It is noted that this U-boat when at the surface looks remarkably like an ordinary low-lying surface craft which has been denuded of its masts and deck structures. The two guns appear to be too large for 4-inch, and probably are of the German 5.9-inch standard caliber.—Scientific American.

river connections of Lakes Nyansa and Tanganyika, examined the interesting kingdom of Uganda, laid the foundations of its conversion to Christianity by his conversations with King Misa; proved what were the true sources of the Nile; and then followed the Congo along its immense curve to the sea. "Of this ever-memorable enterprise the 'Dictionary of National Biography' remarks:—
A Great Journey.
"This journey of 1874-7 left an enduring impress upon history; for out of it grew the Congo State and the Anglo-Egyptian dominion of the Upper Nile, and its direct result was to embark the nations of the West upon that 'scramble for Africa' which created new dominions, protectorates, and spheres of influence in the Dark Continent, and new rivalries and alliances in Europe. It has also been justly said that 'science, humanity, and civilisation have reaped and are still reaping ever-increasing advantages from the mission which Henry M. Stanley undertook on behalf of the Daily Telegraph and the New York Herald."
"This is a just tribute," adds the Telegraph. "The world in general has hardly realised, perhaps, that this march across Central Africa from the Indian Ocean to the Atlantic seaboard is the greatest event in geographical history since the discovery of America by Columbus, and the most momentous."
"The finding of Livingstone evoked universal interest because of the men and of the mystery that for years had been overhanging his fate. But if Stanley's work had ended there it would have added little to our knowledge, and had but slight influence on the current of affairs. On the other hand, the second expedition has changed the current of history. It was literally an epoch-making event for humanity and for civilisation."—Public Opinion.

Washington's Flag in London.

A fine regiment under the Stars and Stripes marched through the streets of London on Saturday to the King of England before Buckingham Palace. That is one of many tokens that the cause of right and liberty from the Atlantic are beginning to take their place in the great struggle of the Times. "That they are not; that, with a self-abnegation as it is rare in the history of the world, the soldiers of the Republic are brigaded with our own troops. The troops of France on the blood-soaked fields of Flanders, is the consequence of Germany's arrogant defiance of moral law. No lesser cause, no less ideal cause, could have urged America to draw the sword. The Kaiser and his advisers have sought together the English-speaking peoples more closely and more intimately than the fondest dreamers dared to hope. Every day, as Germans know, the tide of American fighting men in France is gradually rising. Every day the strength of Germany in man-power, in wealth, in food—and still more the length of Austria-Hungary and Italy—is gradually ebbing and falling on our side. We have to 'stick to it' and the Americans have to 'hurry up.' They are 'hurry up' today.
Take it for all in all, Saturday's march of the American three thousand through London will rank among the most prodigious spectacles that the prodigious times have given us," says the Telegraph.
The entry of the United States into the war gave a wholly new turn to the development of international politics. It will be seen in days to come some of the great diversions of the game of history, and there can be setting any bounds, as yet, to its influence for the world's future. Was this vast event that was symbolized by that long column of magnificent manhood swinging through the streets of our capital, by the salute of American troops to a British flag? The end of the long isolation of the United States from the troubled times of the Old World is a fact that turns other peoples no less than ourselves. But we in Great Britain have a heartfelt interest of our own in sustaining the things that sustain a nation's life worth living. The march through London, the salutes paid to King George on the one hand, the splendidly enthusiastic welcome given to the troops by the people of London, signalise the

Germany Brings the War to Our Coast.

after the war the United States would have to face an entirely different economic situation, and when he intimated that the Sherman anti-trust law should be repealed to meet post-bellum conditions he was heartily applauded. "Germany," he said, "has created a socialistic method of buying and selling. The Government is in control of all purchases and selling, both in raw materials and finished products. The Sherman anti-trust law will not be on our statute books in foreign markets after the war or to cope with the new German economic system."
Seize British Navy War Tirlitz Plan.
"Germany is out to make America pay for the war," said ex-Ambassador James W. Gerard, speaking at the monthly meeting of the New York Board of Trade and Transportation. "Von Tirpitz," he declared, "has said that it is the aim of Germany to seize the British Navy, man it with German crews, come to America, and demand from this country the cost of Germany's war. This statement was made a year before I left Germany, but it did not reach you because of the German censor."
"Prussianism must be destroyed," Mr. Gerard continued. "For if Prussian militarism and autocracy are victorious we in America will never have a happy moment, for life here will have to be devoted to preparation for future wars. When Germany goes to war it does so for money. The invasion of Belgium and that valuable part of Northern France tells the story. Everywhere they have gone they have seized property of all kinds, forced the poor people to pay enormous indemnities, ruined their trade, shipped their materials and machinery to Germany, and what they did not use they willfully destroyed."
"Every business man in Germany knows he is ruined unless Germany wins the war, and it is their great dream that by winning the war they can collect a great indemnity from America as well as from the Allies. They hope that by winning the war they will destroy the great carrying trade we now are building up and ruin our foreign trade in South America and other countries."
"They know they will never be able to pay the interest on the obligations incurred during the war, and therefore Germany is determined to make other nations pay her bills. The price of the German mark has been maintained artificially by the Government." Mr. Gerard warned his hearers that

Where do You Think Livingstone Is?

Gordon Bennett's Historic Question to Sir Henry Stanley.
Probably the most important incident in the life of Gordon Bennett, the owner of the New York Herald, who has just died, was his commission to Stanley to discover Livingstone. This is how it came to pass:
"It was said of Sir Humphrey Davy that his greatest discovery was the event of the late Mr. Gordon Bennett's life was the finding of Livingstone, and that might never have happened had Bennett not first found Henry Morton Stanley. How it all came about is a dramatic story," says the Telegraph.
Livingstone Missing.
"In 1866 Dr. Livingstone, having lived as a missionary in the Dark Continent since 1841, was appointed British Consul for Inner Africa. For some years thereafter his movements and his fate were uncertain. More than once he was reported to have been murdered. Such reports as had been received from him of the horrors of the Arab slave trade had aroused great interest, and the Royal Geographical Society decided to send out Lieutenant Dawson to ascertain the facts. The geographers were anticipated. In 1867 Mr. Gordon Bennett accepted the services of H. M. Stanley to accompany Lord Napier's column to Magdala, in Abyssinia. That most illustrious of 'waifs and strays' did his work well, and the proprietor of the Herald appreciated his man.
"On October 16, 1869, Stanley was at Madrid, apropos of the Carlist rising, and 'fresh from the carnage of Valencia,' when he received a telegram from Paris. 'Come at once, on important business.' At three o'clock that same afternoon Stanley was a passenger by the express to Paris.
My Name is Stanley.
"Next morning he was knocking at the door of Mr. Gordon Bennett's bedroom at the Grand Hotel. Invited to enter, his chief, still in bed, asked, 'Who are you?' My name is Stanley.' 'Oh, yes. I have important business for you. Where do you think Livingstone is?' Stanley didn't know. He had been to Egypt 'expecting to meet the missionary doctor, but in vain; not a word of news about the man. 'Do you think he is alive?' He may be, and he may not.' 'Well, I think he is alive, and I want you to find him,' said the chief.
"What," answered Stanley. 'Do you mean me to go to Central Africa?' 'Undoubtedly I mean that you shall go to find him, wherever he is, and perhaps the old man may be in want. Take enough with you to keep him, should he require it. Make your own plans—only find Livingstone.'
"Then ways and means were talked of, and Stanley was told to draw £1,000 to start with, and then another thousand, and another as might be required—only unearth Livingstone. Get what news you can of his discoveries; and if you find he is dead, bring all possible proofs of his death. Good-bye, and God be with you.' True journalism!

When a Soldier is Disabled

It is not always from wounds, a great many men are disabled through foot trouble. Even the bravest man cannot 'carry on' if he is suffering from sore feet. Hence the necessity for Zam-Buk to keep the soldiers' feet in good condition.
"A military authority in 'The War Office Times' says: 'If every man in the service were supplied with a tin of Zam-Buk it would, in my opinion, greatly add to the efficiency of the army.'
"For blisters, cuts, scratches, burns and sores of all kinds Zam-Buk is unequalled. All dealers see box.
