day last. Never have troops been called on for more heroic self-sacrifice than have the Germans in Flanders, and never have men responded to the call more promptly or died more gloriously in a hopeless cause. The columns of picked Prussians participating in the assaults have been literally decimated; correspondents who have viewed the battle ground describe it as a shambles, and the execution among the Germans as a "bloody massacre." The defence of the allies is only less brilliant than the advance of the foe. French, British and Belgian troops have suffered terribly, withstanding attacks almost unrivaled for ferocity in the history of warfare. Apparently neither side is asking for giving quarter. And out of all the terrible business stands one fact—the allied lines hold.

SCENE HAS SHIFTED.

The scene of the fighting shifted slightly today. Instead of the Germans continuing to direct their main assaults on the line between Nieuport and Dixmude, they essayed a major operation further east, between Ypres and Dixmude. Two French columns operating from the west met the brunt of this new movement, and not only stopped the Germans, but actually gained considerable ground. One column advanced east and the other directly north, the latter meeting the sternest resistance. A bayonet charge finally dislodged the Germans from several lines of trenches.

The fire of the French and British warships has effectively prevented the Germans from operations along the coast line of Flanders, but it now appears that a new phase of the campaign is setting in as the heavy artillery of the invaders is being brought into position. At Zeebrugge, just east of Ostend, five trainloads of artillery are reported to have arrived. A hurried movement is under way to fortify the whole Belgian coast line from Heyt to Knocke. With their usual efficiency the Germans are turning to account every sand dune, wall and village commanded by their forces, and it is certain that any attempt of the allies to penetrate toward Ostend will result in a heavy loss of life. Judging from present reports, the kaiser's leaders intend to contest every foot of the ground which the allied tacticians deemed impossible of defence.

OSTEND HARBOR MINED.

It is reported that mines will be set adrift in large numbers at the mouth of the Ostend harbor. Several of these have drifted ashore, and the allied fleet is carefully guarding against accidents from this quarter.

In a battle for control of the line of canals leading from La Bassée to the sea, the French and British today won a most important victory. The engagement opened with an onslaught by the Germans, which was frustrated and followed up with a counter attack of the allied forces. This action came as the culmination of ten days' fighting, in which the Germans strove to win La Bassée. They met progress for several days, but have now lost that advantage and been compelled to retreat toward Arras.

Between Roulers and Ypres fierce combats have taken place during Tuesday and Wednesday. The advantage rests with allies. Roulers has been taken and retaken many times, and the latest manoeuvre of the Germans comprehended an advance westward.

The correspondent of The Evening News, writing from "Northern France," says: "The Germans are falling back all along the line from La Bassée to the North Sea."

ALL REPORTS FAVOR ALLIES.

From all sources reports favorable to the allies reached here today. Evidently the attempt of the French to drive the crown prince's army out of St. Mihiel is about to reach a successful issue. On both sides of the town new ground was won as the result of Tuesday night's and Wednesday's operations. Between Apremont and St. Mihiel the Germans lost several miles, and the French gained positions on high ground, which are expected to be of immense value to their artillery. In the forest of Le Pretre, in the same zone, the crown prince's command likewise ceded ground.

In the region of Craonne, on the right bank of the Aisne, the kaiser's forces have shown renewed activity. A long artillery duel was followed by a charge of German infantry. This was met with French reinforcements and turned back after great loss to the foe.

On the heights of Chemin Des Dames, also on the centre, another attack in force was thrown back by the French.

All fears of the numerical strength of the allies being insufficient to check the invaders are set at rest by a statement of General Cherfile, who says that France still has in reserve more than 1,000,000 men who have not been under fire. He declares that the number of volunteers is so large that there is no immediate use for all of those who wish to enlist. It is known that every drill sergeant who can be spared from the fighting line is hammering such of these volunteers as are accepted into fighting units. Great concentration camps are located at many points in southern France. In the meanwhile, Earl Kitchener is going ahead with his new "a million strong."

ALLIES' BLOW LANDED FIRST.

The success of the French on Tuesday, when all Germans around Nancy, and between that town and the German frontier, were literally thrust over the border, recalls a remark of General Castelnau, made some weeks ago, in reference to the German attack on Nancy: "We will perhaps receive a blow in the stomach, but we are sure to return it."

Evidently the counter stroke landed before the expected German lead.

RUSSIAN ADVANCE ALARMS BERLIN

An Official Announcement Shows That Seriousness of Situation is Realized.

BERLIN, Oct. 28.—Austro-German officials from the eastern theatre of the war indicate that severe battles are raging along the Vistula and San Rivers. The Germans apparently are engaging numerically superior Russian forces and the battle is attracting equal attention with the struggle in France and Belgium.

Further Russian corps, whose crossing of the Vistula River north of Ivanorod has been mentioned in the earlier German reports, seem accorded to Major Morath, military correspondent of The Berliner Tagblatt, to be directed against the German army.

"It is to be hoped," Major Morath says, "that the leaders of the allied Austrian and German armies will be able to co-operate fully against this Russian movement. The bravery of the allied troops gives ground for the expectation that the advance against the Russian positions on the Vistula will be renewed."

William Thornbury, 123 Jarvis street, was arrested last night on a charge of assaulting George Nesbitt of East Toronto. Later Nesbitt and his two companions were stopped on Jarvis street by Thornbury, who invited them to join in a gambling game. One of the trio had about $100 on his person. When the request was refused an argument was started and Thornbury and Nesbitt commenced to fight.

CECIL FANNING'S CONCERT.

As the date of the appearance of Cecil Fanning, in Massey Hall, gets closer, the more interest is being taken in the recital to be given by the eminent baritone, on the evening of Nov. 6. The engagement here promises not only to be an artistic surprise, but will also be an important social event, as well as the indications are that the hall will be packed with a brilliant and fashionable audience of music lovers. The announcement that a portion of the relief fund will be donated to the Toronto Relief Society has met with much favor and has induced a number of prominent ladies to take an interest in Mr. Fanning's visit. The newspapers are the tour of the songs interpreted as a triumph everywhere. Mail orders are now being received by Mr. Norman Witkov, manager of Massey Hall.

WHERE GERMANY'S ARMY AND NAVY GUNS ARE MADE

Scene in the Krupp Gun Works, where 30,000 men are employed turning out thousands of big guns every year.

If British Guns Were Outranged?

When it is announced from Ostend that the Germans have mounted heavy artillery on the sand dunes and that the vessels of the British navy had to withdraw, the most ominous note of the war yet heard was sounded. The heaviest guns have generally been a deciding factor in warfare. There is a possibility that the surprise which the Germans have been promising the allies has been slipping monster guns with a range equal to that of the mortars and "Black Marias" which had such devastating effects on the various forts on which they were brought to bear.

The situation might assume a very serious aspect. Suppose the German navy could mount one such gun on each of their battleships and come out to sea, they could permit the British and if their gunners proved accurate, could annihilate the British vessels before the British guns could find their target. The long-range gun would be an unresponsible spot would put the unresponsible super-dreadnought out of business. No doubt all these possibilities have been considered by the naval authorities, but in a war it must not be forgotten anything might happen. This is one of the things we must hope will not be permitted to occur.

discates that the Russians are following last week before Warsaw. After retirement from here the Germans fell back to the Sochaczew-Lowicz-Siedlce line and just escaped a strong flanking movement. The Germans had to meet vigorous attacks on their new line with the result that on Saturday they abandoned Lowicz.

Germans Badly Defeated.

"There was another fight on Sunday and the Germans were compelled to retire further. There was also a desperate fight on Sunday at Rawa, from which the Germans were driven by the Russians. The fighting around Ivanogorod terminated several days in the retirement of the Germans. Their failure to retain their positions on the Vistula was an extremely severe blow to their program.

"The opinion here is that Germany has definitely lost her opportunity in Poland. There is much indignation here against them, especially among the foreign population, because of the wholesale dropping of bombs by German aeroplanes between Oct. 16 and 23.

"Fourteen persons were killed by these bombs and between twenty and thirty wounded. Practically all the victims were innocent civilians."

task performed by the native troops during the night along the Belgian coast. They surprised and destroyed a German ammunition park, thus putting out of action several German batteries which had caused great annoyance to the allies, who could not reach them by their artillery.

In absolute darkness several natives crept up stealthily, and killed the German sentries. They then set fire to a thickly wooded area, and the ammunition wagons were shattered, causing all the shells to explode.

The German lines have been visibly thinned to the south of Lille and St. Quentin. There is a steady diversion leading to the eastern front, in the neighborhood of Craonne and Berry au Bac, on the Aisne, where Gen. Von Kluck is commanding. The German forces are in great strength.

It is believed that the German troops who captured Antwerp are now massed in divisions and that additional ones have been brought from the front. The whole siege has progressed for so many weeks.

A recurrence of the German offensive was expected near Craonne, where Gen. Von Kluck started a steady diversion to test the strength of the allied lines, and Argonne region and on the front of Oct. 17, in the Bethel Mission, King William street, was last evening found to have murdered, Justice Kelly will deliver judgment on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

The prisoner, who sat in his dock and silently listened to the evidence of the murder, displayed no concern when the verdict was made known and was immediately taken to the jail to await sentencing.

The evidence showed that Robinson, who is an habitual drinker, had drank three bottles of whiskey on the day of the murder, and that he was subject to periodic states of delirium tremens, and of Dr. English, superintendent of the asylum, that he was suffering from the effects of liquor when he committed the crime, and that he was not aware of what he was doing.

Knew Not What He Did.

When given an opportunity to speak on his own behalf, Robinson stated that he did not know what had happened on the evening of his crime unless it be woken in the cells the next morning that he was informed by other prisoners that he was charged with slaying Richardson.

The witnesses of the murder told of the argument over the cigar which was Robinson's habit, and of the threat with a razor. The majority of the witnesses stated that in their opinion Robinson did not know what he was doing.

The submitting of evidence lasted until 2:30 in the afternoon, and then was re-examination, counsel for Robinson, Col. Gwynn, K.C., crown prosecutor, and Mr. Justice Kelly addressed the jury until 3:45, when the jury retired. Just two hours later they returned and made their verdict known.

HAMILTON, Thursday morning, Oct. 28.—James Robinson, alias Thos. General Lessorad and his staff made their annual inspection of the 51st regiment, which turned out over strength, manoeuvres and drills, and made a splendid showing. The morning was complimented the officers of the regiment on the efficiency of the men and on the number who had volunteered for active service.

It was announced that so many men applied to enlist for the second contingent that the recruiting had to be discontinued. This morning those who have been accepted will commence drilling at the armories, preparatory to leaving for Stanley Barracks, Toronto, where they will be further instructed in military work.

Ten Assessment Cuts.

The court of revision to consider the appeals of the assessments throughout the city opened in the council chambers before J. Kavanagh, chairman, Thos. Lewis and Sheriff Middleton. Eighty-six appeals for Ward One were heard during the afternoon, and evening, 40 of which were allowed, and 10 of the appeals of cases only small reductions were allowed. The total reductions for the ward amounted to $2,770, which is a very low figure.

That there is very little truth in the stories of several citizens that many Austrians are in possession of firearms and have been drilling for some time in the east end of the city is evident from the fact that the police found no arms in a rigid search of their homes. In many instances cases of extreme poverty were discovered and will be brought to the attention of the relief committee.

Special to The Toronto World.
NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—Germany will not invade Canada. She will not try to seize any territory in either of the Americas, no matter what may happen on the other side.
Such was the opinion of Count Von Bernstorff today, German ambassador to the United States, who said:
"I don't want any mistake made as to Germany's attitude. Germany has no desire to come over here, no matter what may be the outcome of the war. There is no reason for this country to become disturbed on that end. Germany's intentions are the best concerning the United States."

"On the heights of the Highway des Dames it is estimated that the number of killed and wounded Germans is about 2000, although ours only reached about 100 men killed or wounded."

NEWS OF SPECIAL INTEREST TO WOMEN

What About the Men Who Won't Be Fathers?

By WINIFRED BLACK

(Copyright, 1914, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.)

A MAN who was very cross with me the other day called me a dreadful name. He said I was a feminist.

"What is a feminist?" said I to the man. "A feminist," said the man to me, "is a woman who marches in processions and carries banners and hates men and—er—escapes the duty of motherhood."

"I don't think a woman knows a thing about her own happiness until she has held her own children in her arms. To give more for one look into my little boy's clear eyes or one funny, impetuous little squeeze from my girl's arms than I would to be made chairman of the greatest convention in the world and so would any woman who knows what happiness really means!"

"The man who was cross with me yesterday," I think, "than he was yesterday, I thought it was better not to—er—go on still very cross. A little crosser, I think, than he was yesterday, I think, that I wasn't a feminist, and that I couldn't possibly be one, according to his definition, even if I were a feminist."

BAR OUT THE ENEMY!
Editor World: I heartily agree with all you say under the heading of "A Newspaper Enemy to be Barred." I have taken "The Literary Digest" for a number of years, and my subscription does not expire for a few months yet. I am writing the Funk paper to discontinue sending the paper to me any longer, as I am an Englishman and hate anyone who professes friendship for our cause, tries to poison our minds with its venomous and yet so carefully guarded accounts of the war. To my mind it is in league with Germany, and I look upon it as an enemy to our empire and as such would like to see it barred out of Canada. W. H.

THE PERPLEXING PROBLEM OF A NEW BEAUTY BOX

GOOD-BY, girls," said Suzanne. "I'll be back Monday." We were all grouped about the fire sewing when she began to put on her wraps. Everyone jumped up and began to tease her.

"So it's a three days' house party," said Suzanne. "Now be sure to fill your little beauty box with brass buttons before you return," began Amy.

"I saw another box I liked better than Suzanne's," confided Marie, "and it didn't cost half what hers did. The box was shaped like a kodak and covered with snakeskin. The front opens like a door and the rounded cover has a little compartment behind the mirror which will hold powder. The fittings were in silverplate and it held a vinaigrette, a hairpin case, a lip stick, rouge, a nail file and a comb."

in the apartment if you're going to clutter the place up—with children. But how about the husband? How many men do you know today who are worrying because there are no children in the family? And after all, it certainly is a man's own affair, isn't it? I know there are many women who don't want children—for a while. They want to dance and motor and swim. They don't like the idea of retiring from society long enough to get acquainted with a little child; and, besides, the landlord won't let you stay

Secrets of Health and Happiness

Why Tattoo Marks Often Bring Diseases

By Dr. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG
A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins)

THOSE mendacious mechanics of the needle and indelible links of many colors, who ply their nefarious trade called "tattooing," usually leave behind them a lingering train of regrets and penitence.

Tattooing is a strange custom, which had its origin in various ways. Altho indelible ink has been used, vermillion, Indian red, and such materials are more commonly "vacuinated" in. There was a day when this practice was used in India and other parts of Asia to mark the skin with the iris-colored spectrum of the peacock's tail.

Some African tribes as well as South Sea Islanders tattoo with religious ornaments. Figures of dogs, men, stars, crescents, circles, squares and all sorts of oddities are tattooed upon children as they come of age.

Opposition to Public Ownership

Whatever other considerations may have entered into the failure of the negotiations to purchase the street railway system by the city, there can be no doubt that every opportunity was taken by the enemies of public ownership to upset the attempt to apply the principle in Toronto in this particular utility.

The adroitness with which friends of the principle are used against their own cause should not be forgotten in the struggle which is drawing nearer every year for the subordination of public to private interests in this city, and more especially in connection with the expiration of the street railway franchise in 1921.

The Chicago Electric Review has a laudatory article on "public ownership," called forth by the work of Congressman Samuel E. Winslow of Massachusetts, who has lately performed a service by submitting a clear-cut adverse report upon the municipal ownership propaganda which for some time has been threatening the District of Columbia street railways.

The report of course shows that the plan for public ownership would be impossible, and would involve a loss, and that lower fares and higher wages would also be impossible. The usual technical arguments are used, and the issue appears to turn on the price which the commission might place upon the property.

The Winnipeg Telegram, the leading Conservative paper of the west and generally credited with reflecting the political and personal views of Hon. Robert Rogers, discusses the persistent claims of The Manitoba Free Press that the minister of public works is busy preparing for a Dominion election.

In the first place, the Telegram says that it is for the government and not for the opposition to decide when there shall be an appeal to the country. If parliament is dissolved it will be upon the advice of Sir Robert Borden and his colleagues; they, and they alone, will be responsible. If the people resent such action on their part, that resentment might inure to the benefit of the opposition, but the opposition have no more right, in the opinion of The Telegram, to say there must not be an election in the winter of 1914-15, than they had to insist upon having an election in the spring of 1912.

If this proposition can be at all successfully disputed it must be upon the ground that, during the war, a political truce exists and political differences are to be forgotten. The Telegram denies that any agreement of the kind was made between the government and the opposition.

The Telegram thinks, are quite willing to discuss that historic incident and to record their opinion of it by the way they vote in a general election. The Telegram then goes on to say that the irresponsible senate of Canada has over and over again defied the government of the day and the majority of the people by throwing out bills passed by the house of commons elected in 1911.

In concluding an editorial in Saturday's issue, The Telegram thus sizes up the issue and the situation: If today Canada is in the humiliating position of enjoying security within its borders, it is because of the British taxpayer, it is because a moribund senate was able to stifle the free will of the Canadian people, and without an addition of three Canadian super-dreadnoughts from the imperial fleet. The same moribund senate would today refuse to submit to government by grace of an irresponsible and unrepresentative senate of aged and feeble gentlemen.

The war has imposed other duties on Canada than the providing of troops to fight in the battle lines of Europe. The war has created unusual conditions within our borders. Enormous expenditures will have to be undertaken. Provision will have to be made to meet unprecedented domestic conditions arising out of the war.

Every failure and trouble is blamed on the war and for many of them the war is of course responsible. A good many enterprises which might have scratched thru in normal times could not withstand the strain of unusual conditions. In stageland we learn that the season of 1914-15 will be reckoned the worst in history.

The New York World is inclined to think that the war has been too much blamed. Nearly every year recently the stage has complained of something; the movies, the tango, and now the war. The World thinks that meretricious productions are doing all right and that only mediocre productions, intended to get by in a time of carelessness prosperity, are now strangled by the pinch of hard times.
