DELEGATES TO THE NINTH CONGRESS OF CHAMBERS OF COMMERCE OF THE EMPIRE IN TORONTO

RADICALS OSE U. M. W. CONTEST

Fail to Get Majority of Nominations for Officers

Lewis Is Re-Nominated and Murray Wins for Vice-President — Help From Outside, Says Statement.

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 22—The radical element in the United Mine Workers of America has failed in its efforts to win the majority of the nominations for national officers of the organization, so it was announced at the offices of the union here last night. The board of international officers announced that President John I. Lewis, conservative, had been re-nominated by a vote of 526 to 484 over Robert H. Harlan, of Washington, for international president. Vice-President Philip Murray of Pennsylvania defeated Alexander Howard of Kansas for the nomination for international vice-president 667 to 470. William Green, international secretary and treasurer, was re-nominated without opposition, receiving the endorsement of 1246 local unions. Each of the nearly 4,000 local unions of the organization has the right to make nominations, and the announcement. The fight of Lewis and Murray was bitter, it was said, and especially that in behalf of Howard. The radicals inside the organization, "said the statement" were assisted by extreme radicals from the outside in the hope that control of the United Mine Workers might be seized by the radical element.

MORE CHEERFUL AS TO OUR COAL

Hon. F. B. Carvell Said to Think Much of the Worrying Is Needed.

Ottawa, Sept. 22—(Canadian Press)—Much of the worrying which is being done with regard to Canada's coal supply for the coming winter is needless. That is the view of Hon. F. B. Carvell, chairman of the board of railway commissioners, under whose control coal imports and exports were placed by the dominion government during the last session. During the period from April 1 to Sept. 18, 1920, eastern Canada imported 118,988 fewer tons of anthracite, but 1,892,065 more tons of bituminous coal than in the same period of last year, and as conditions on the other side of the international boundary are improving, so the imports of coal are increasing.

SOLDIER FARMERS SHARE GOOD TIMES

Paying Back Loans in Advance — Much Damage to B. C. Oats.

Edmonton, Alta., Sept. 22—So large a share of the general prosperity in Alberta this year is coming to the soldier farmers that some of them are already paying back their stock and equipment loans in advance of the crop.

PROTEST ARMED U. S. CRUISER IN ST. LAWRENCE

Is Being Used to Suppress Illegal Liquor Traffic.

Kingston, Ont., Sept. 22—"A cruiser in the River St. Lawrence mounting guns is a direct violation of the treaty between the United States and Great Britain and should not be tolerated," is the form of a protest being made by the state department at Ottawa by Veterans, who object to the United States' armed cruiser Chillicothe being used in the St. Lawrence river, with Ogdenburg as its base, for the purpose of suppressing violations of the United States liquor laws.

Two who were prominently mentioned as possible candidates, Leon Bourgeois and Raoul Peret, declined.

SINN FEIN JUDGE SLAIN IN ROOM OF A DUBLIN HOTEL

Night Invasion by Men Announced as Military

Varying Versions of Affair Which Excites Dublin — The Situation in Balbriggan — Mayor MacSwiney's Condition.

Dublin, Sept. 22—County Councilor Lynch, a prominent Limerick manufacturer, was shot dead this morning in his hotel apartment in the heart of Dublin. His assailants are alleged to have been "black and tan" police. The murder took place at three o'clock this morning, according to the Press. Lynch's account, when informed men entered the hotel, the Royal Exchange hotel, and going straight to the room of the intended victim, shot him dead. The varying versions of the affair leave it surrounded with considerable mystery. It appears, however, that at 3 o'clock after violent knocking on the door of the porter admitted a dozen men who said they belonged to the military. They searched the register, discovered the name of Lynch and rushed upstairs, leaving some of their number to guard the porter with revolvers. After five minutes had elapsed the name of what had occurred, believing it to be one of the usual raids for arms. Fifteen minutes later the police arrived, saying they had been instructed by the military to take charge of the body in room No. 6 which was reported to be full of arms. Lynch, a member of the Limerick county council, and alleged to be a judge of a Sinn Fein court. The police this morning were still entering the room, to which no one was admitted, while the streets nearby were full of excited crowds and a detachment of the military was parading outside the hotel. The guests in rooms 4 and 7 of the hotel, nearby the chamber of commerce, Lynch, said they heard no unusual noise during the night.

In Balbriggan. Dublin, Sept. 22—With only a remnant of the population remaining in town, Balbriggan last night was reported to be quiet. According to information received in Dublin the "Black and Tans" entered Balbriggan yesterday afternoon at the very moment when a delegation of the towns, composed of clergymen and prominent citizens was being received at Dublin Castle to ask for further protection from depredations. It is said that the "Black and Tans" drove through the streets of Balbriggan in motor lorries, throwing bombs and firing rifles. So far as is known there were no further casualties. The only persons in the street at the time were a few Dublin newspaper men and photographers, who sought cover when the lorries approached. It has been ascertained that the local Irish Constabulary had no share in the attempts to wreck the town and succeeded after vigorous efforts in protecting the Smyth hosiery factory. Gibbons, one of the men killed, was secretary of the local Sinn Fein Society. Larles had displayed Sinn Fein propaganda in his shop window. There was intense excitement in Dublin last night.

The 41st Day. London, Sept. 22—Terence MacSwiney, lord mayor of Cork today began the 41st day of his hunger strike at Brixton prison. There was no change in his condition yesterday, according to the report of the physician of Brixton prison to the home office. No reference was made in the report to the prisoner either accepting or refusing nourishment.

The morning bulletin issued by the Irish Self-Determination League said that the lord mayor slept well during the night, and that, as a consequence, he was somewhat refreshed this morning. The lord mayor's condition was said to have been somewhat relieved. The league's midday bulletin, however, said: "The lord mayor's condition has suffered a setback. His sister Mary, who has just visited him, says he is very weak, almost as prostrate as he was yesterday."

DEATH WARNING SENT TO MAYOR PETERS OF BOSTON

He Does Not Regard Matter Seriously

New York Police Fail to Find Those Guilty of Wall Street Outrage — Precautions in London.

Boston, Sept. 22—A letter scrawled in red ink and warning Mayor Peters of a "bomb" was received by the mayor yesterday. He treated it as a joke, but said he would turn it over to the police today. This is the third threatening letter received by Mayor Peters in a year.

A drawing of a skull and cross-bones was labeled "was meant for you first." The letter accused Mayor Peters of administering "the blackest and yellowest" municipal government in the United States.

"Quite a colorful speech" the mayor commented. New Bedford, Mass., Sept. 22—An anonymous warning that bombs would be exploded in the city halls in this city and Fall River are planned for Thursday, has been received by Mayor J. P. Kay, Fall River.

The warning was contained in a communication which said that simultaneous attacks would be made on the city halls, banks and mills in each city. Police officials have been notified.

New York, Sept. 21—Department of justice and police officials admitted last night that five and one half days of investigation had failed to solve the mystery of the explosion in Wall street which cost the lives of thirty-five victims and property damage running into millions.

London, Sept. 22—The authorities here are taking precautions against bomb outrages similar to those at New York and Genoa. The stock exchange yesterday issued a notice that parcels must be deposited at a nearby cloak room. One of the exchange exits also has been closed.

COME DAMAGE EARLY BY GALE

Fringe of It on New Orleans Coast

Texas Relieved as Hurricane Takes Curve to Sea — Warning Has Given Time for Preparation.

New Orleans, Sept. 22—The tropical storm reported to be sweeping slowly toward the Gulf coast had struck the mainland in this vicinity early today. Weather bureau indications were that the greatest force of the hurricane would be felt on the coast east of the Mississippi River, probably during the day.

No loss to shipping has thus far been reported here. Traffic on the Louisville and Nashville Railroad, however, was at a standstill, one bridge having been washed out near here, while the tracks were reported under water at several points.

Trees were uprooted, windows were broken and signs were blown down by the wind here. One unidentified man was killed by a falling power wire. Considerable damage from the high winds and the tides was reported from coast points east of here.

A Sweep to Sea. Galveston, Texas, Sept. 22—Texas coast cities breathed somewhat easier today in the belief that the tropical hurricane which roared its way up the Gulf of Mexico from Yucatan and threatened to smite a wide strip of territory between Galveston and Corpus Christi had recurred at sea and swung eastward.

Victims of previous hurricanes, however, are fully aware of the fickleness of such storms, both cities this morning continue to take all possible precautionary measures.

The authorities said that in the event the storm should strike the Texas coast and the elaborate precautions taken and the elaborate warnings sent out would minimize the loss of property.

Inland Again. Washington, Sept. 22—The centre of the tropical storm passed inland west of the Mississippi River during last night and today in the belief that the tropical weather bureau announced early today. The bureau said the storm would diminish in intensity.

Warnings on the Gulf coast were ordered down at 9:30 a. m.

THE LIMELIGHT FOR EX-KAISER

Central Figure of Gala Week in Doorn and Amerongen.

Hohen, Holland, Sept. 22—William of Hohen, former German emperor, promises to be the central figure of the gala week which began today in this city and in Amerongen, for more than a year was the home of the former monarch. He has given 1,000 guilders to the committee in charge of the national Orange celebration at Amerongen, where the streets have been decorated with the proceeds of his gift.

The climax of the celebration will be the formal turning over by William to the president of the Order of the Knights of St. John of a hospital at Amerongen, which was built and furnished by the former emperor as a memento of his stay there. This will be followed in a few days by the wedding of Elizabeth, daughter of Count Von Bentinck, who was William's host at Amerongen, to Captain Hensmann.

Preparations for the reception of Prince Henry of Prussia, who will arrive here soon to spend ten days with his brother.

MAKE CHARGE OF SEDITIOUS CONSPIRACY

Evidence in Trial of A. F. A. Coyne, Edmonton Oil Promoter.

Edmonton, Alta., Sept. 22—A. F. A. Coyne, an Edmonton oil promoter, is on trial here charged with seditious conspiracy. Fred W. Dick, a witness from Toronto, testified yesterday that in 1918 Coyne said he was going to start a revolution in Canada, adding that the government was "rotten."

The witness quoted Coyne as saying he "was the same in Canada as Trotsky and the revolutionary leaders in Russia."

"I said," continued Dick, "that's an awful way for a man like you to talk," and he replied, "to hell with the King."

Other witnesses told of plans which had been discussed for formation of an "army" of returned men which was to seize a couple of down-town office buildings at headquarters and to march on the parliament buildings to demand "their rights."

Special to The Times. Fredericton, N. B., Sept. 22—The George street Baptist church will celebrate its seventy-fifth anniversary by a service on Sunday. Rev. A. A. Rideout, pastor of the church, will be the speaker at three services on that day. On Sunday afternoon a memorial tablet will be unveiled. Monday night will be his regular night, with Dr. W. C. THE N. S. MINES DIFFICULTIES

Glace Bay, N. S., Sept. 22—(Canadian Press)—Numbers 9 and 11 collieries local, held last night, endorsed the stand taken by the district executives regarding the objectionable clause in the contract. It is regarded as probable that all the locals will take the same stand. The operators are to be invited to negotiate with the mine workers.

District Secretary J. B. MacLachlan said yesterday that the miners were prepared to accept the report providing the companies cut out the sliding scale clause.

TARIFF OPINIONS

Vancouver, B. C., Sept. 22—(By Canadian Press)—British Columbia farmers engaged in dairying are firmly opposed to any reduction in the present tariff wall, according to a statement yesterday by J. W. Berry of the Fraser Valley Milk Producers Association.

H. A. Stone, for the wholesale dry-goods merchants, declared that any policy embracing the principles of free trade would result in the closing up of the woolen and textile industries which would be generally supported by the resources of British Columbia forests, mines, fisheries and agriculture, which would be shipped out of the country and returned with the costs of manufacturing and distributing added.

The commission heard the views of other branches of the industry which favored making no change in the present policy. Today, and possibly tomorrow, hearings will be held in Victoria.

will be taken to St. Andrews by auto. The convention will close tomorrow evening.

Brooklyn's Fee for World Series Games

The Betting on the Fredericton Races—Today's Grand Circuit Card — Investigating the Charge of Game-Throwing.

New York, Sept. 22—Confident the Brooklyn club's lead in the National League pennant race will not be overcome, President Charles P. Ebbets has announced admission prices ranging from $1 to $6 to the world's series games at Ebbets field.

Fredericton Races. Fredericton, N. B., Sept. 22—Lady Gratias, 2:09 1/2, will probably be the favorite in the free-for-all tomorrow, and it is believed that Fern Hill, 2:05 3/4, and Tom Q., 2:07 1/4, will both be generous by back, while Peter Farren, 2:07 1/2, a St. John pacer, is back after two weeks' rest at the track where he admittedly shows at his best.

There were some surprises in the betting on today's races. Tour, 2:18 1/4, was a top-heavy favorite against the field as high as two to one in some auctions on the 2:14 trot and pace, but the St. John pacer is likely to find Peter Setzer, 2:13 1/4, an Arnootook entry, a tough customer. In the 2:20 trot, The Manner, 2:21 1/4, was an even money favorite against the field.

Sharon, 2:11 1/4, sold for $100 to $30 to beat the field of pacers in the 2:16 trot and pace, and with the trotters barred the favorite was Northern Mac, 2:15 1/4, W. Carey of Presque Isle.

Grand Circuit. Columbus, Ohio, Sept. 22—Two feature events are on today's card of Grand Circuit racing here. The Horse Review Futurity, for three-year-old pacers, purse $2,000, will bring together Rife Grande and Trampsale, the two outstanding colts of the year, and the field will include Establene, Jane Forbes and Frisco. The other big event is the 2:11 pace, the Hartman Hotel stake, purse $3,000.

Welling and John Henry, among other well known pacers, are eligible. The 2:15 class trot and the 2:18 class pace complete the programme.

Because of the size of the field, the 2:18 class pace will be run off in two divisions. One heat of yesterday's 2:07 pace remains to be raced.

U. S. WILL NOT BACK CAPTAIN

Skipper Takes the Panhandle State to Queenstown at His Own Risk.

Washington, Sept. 22—(By Canadian Press)—Captain Clarence M. Stone, master of the U. S. passenger freight liner Panhandle State, who sailed from New York declaring he would land at Queenstown, Ireland, despite orders of the British government that ships from the United States must not stop there on the eastward passage, will get no help from the United States state department if he comes to grief in an attempt to carry out his threats.

It is generally recognized that any government has the right to close one of its ports against ships of all nations in time of stress. For example, the United States could, in an emergency, close the port of New York if some local condition developed which might close the port of New York.

"And I really do not know where to look for the greater sum to make a definite trip to the moon."

London, Sept. 22—(Canadian Press)—The loneliest people in the world, the inhabitants of the little island of Tristan da Cunha, in the South Atlantic, will shortly learn something of the big movements of the outside world when the annual mail reaches them. Two mail bags contain letters and other packages addressed to the settlers on the island are now on their way to Cape Colony. These they will be conveyed by H. M. S. Dartmouth from Simonsdown to Tristan da Cunha direct. Many of the settlers are descendants of the crew of the Bounty, who landed on that lonely coast but eventually grew to like the place. But Capt. Bernard Discovered Sod Houses of Great Antiquity. Nome, Alaska, Sept. 22—Captain Joe Bernard and A. Anderson arrived here last week with their vessel, the Teddy Bear, after four years spent in the Arctic, during twenty-five months of which time they were locked at Taylor Island in Victoria Strait, near King William Land. Captain Bernard brought with him a native of the land of Stefansson's famous blonde Eskimos, but declared that after two years' search of that district he was unable to locate any properly fitted glasses, so that they were evidently of great age, in East Carnation Gulf, he said, and brought back pieces of old ivory and other curios uncovered in the ruins.

ALLEGED CLERK GAMBLLED $7,000

Police Asked to Take Steps Against Gambling Dens.

(Montreal Star.) Saying that a bank clerk who had been frequenting a certain "gambling den" in St. Catherine East, had gone away with $7,000 in the last two days, and that a commercial traveler, had gambled $2,000 belonging to his employers at the same place, a letter was sent to E. R. Decary, chairman of the Administrative Commission by the St. Lawrence Broom and Brush Company, per Rodrigue Langlois this morning, asking that something be done to put an end to the gambling dens that exist in different parts of the city.

The letter states that there are several shops in the city where young men lose all their money and often the money of their employers, the result being that they often resorted to theft elsewhere in order to try and recoup their losses. Complaint is also made of money lost in horse racing through the agency of bookmakers in certain stores in the city, and Mr. Langlois wants to know why the police do not take action, promising that if they wanted a complainant he is at their disposal. He further suggests that the matter is one which the new director of public safety could, with advantage take up, and earn the thanks of parents and employers alike.

BRITISH YOUTH DEMORALIZATION. (From Topics of the Times in New York Times.) A correspondent of The London Post, whose letter is signed "A Bewildered Parent," fills a column of that paper with lamentations, evidently heartfelt, over what he—or perhaps it is she—thinks a dreadful change that has taken place in British youth, both young men and maidens since the war. According to this frightened observer, it is not the socialism of Lenin and Trotsky that endangers the world, but a revolt of the young against the old. No longer is respect paid to gray hairs, and the wearers thereof, instead of getting credit for the superior wisdom that once was admitted to be the fruit of experience, are treated with a cold indifference when they prefer advice or attempt to establish rules and regulations for their offspring. It is the quiet ignoring of age's counsel that seems most to have hurt the feelings of the bewildered parent—to be worse than would have been open defiance. The old and the young hierarchy of the home and family has been swept aside, and the young men who went through the war have "settled down to the dull and unchangeable consistency of granite." They have awakened from dreams to a cold reality and they are not to be caught napping again. They have become silent scoffers. And when they do speak and we twist them for their cynicism and their measured wordiness, they turn around and with amused impartiality laugh at themselves. The young men are held to be no better, for though they resent the attitude of the young men, their reaction is a determination to marry elderly men—"one who will do much more for me," as one of them good time, whatever the price."

A RECORD. London, Ont., Sept. 22—What is thought to be a world's record for organized baseball was discovered by Statistician E. J. Stein of the Michigan Ontario League in closing up the averages for 1920. Outfielder F. Wetzel of the Flint club, who was sold to St. Louis Americans, secured 22 hits in 23 times at bat in eight consecutive games, starting with two games on September 6 and ending with the close of the season September 12. Wetzel's 22 hits included eight doubles, seven triples and two home runs, for a total of 50 bases, and his average for the eight games was .957. This spurt will make him leader of the league with an average of .870.

KANAZAWA JAPS
MAKE BIG HIT AT OPERA HOUSE

All Three Are Clever Acrobats and Equilibrists—Other Vaudeville Numbers Also Enjoyed.

Large crowds in attendance at the Opera House yesterday afternoon and evening. The clever work of the three Kanazawa japs was a feature and made one of the biggest hits of the season. They are expert acrobats and equilibrists and their balancing and spinning of a barrel on their feet won prolonged applause. They interspersed considerable comedy, which undoubtedly made the act more interesting to the members held the attention of all while he gave a clever demonstration of balancing a large ball. Their act is one of the features of the new mid-week bill.

Another act which made a hit was that of Asala Fontaine. Her dancing and singing performed contortion feats and then gave a thrilling demonstration of acrobatic work in mid-air during which she kept singing. She received well merited applause. Lewis and Manning amused the audience with comic songs, chatter, dancing, etc. The antics of Lewis created considerable merriment, and he was tendered considerable applause.

Billy Conroy was well received in his offering which consisted of songs and funny stories. His singing of a popular song in French was enjoyed. He has a pleasing style and a forceful manner which tend to hold the attention of all. Jolly and Wild and Chas. Woody won hearty applause in a comedy singing and talking skit entitled "Who's Your Tailor?"

The episode of the popular motion picture serial "The Silent Avenger" which is featuring William Duncan, was as usual teeming with exciting scenes and continues to hold the interest of all. This performance will be repeated tonight and tomorrow afternoon and evening.

LEAGUE MEETING AT FREDERICTON

Inter-scholastic Rugby Rules May Be Changed—High School Team Under Coach Bert Cochrane. (Fredericton Mail.) The Fredericton High School Rugby squad is at work steadily preparing for the Inter-scholastic League fixtures. Bert Cochrane, the Y. M. C. A. physical director, who has been mentioned as a possibility in the coaching line at U. N. B., has been out with the High School team for a number of days and has shown them a number of things. Yellow and black has been heavier at various times in the history of the school, but worse material has been made up into teams. A meeting of the Inter-scholastic League is to be held this year in Fredericton. The date is not yet known, but will be early. Dates will be selected for the games and rules discussed. Fredericton High will press for a regulation regarding grounds as St. John's for some years past has had very poor fields for match games. The playing of masters by Rothery Collegiate School also will be protested. Rothery has claimed the right to play masters on its teams from the time of the introduction of the Rugby game in the maritime provinces. Up to the present time the High School has worked out at the College field, but with the University squad starting its practices, will have to shift. Queen's square probably will be used. This ground is rough but the turf has formed on it better than had been expected. Another season will see it a fair field. More work should be done upon it by the city, however.

USE OF ALCOHOL FOR MOTOR FUEL

British Scientist Will Report on His Important Research Work. (London Times.) Professor Harold B. Dixon, F. R. S., will present the results of his research work on alcohol motor fuel at a lecture in the Great Gallery of the Royal Automobile Club in London on Monday, October 18, at 9 p. m. Walter Long will preside as chairman of the Motor Fuel conference then to be in progress as part of the programme of the Motor Transport Council's sessions during the Commercial Motor exhibition at Olympia.

The Royal Automobile Club and the Commercial Motor Users' Association undertook jointly to make financial provision for research at Manchester University, under the direction of Professor Dixon, who undertook responsibility for the work at the request of the Alcohol Motor Fuel committee appointed by Mr. Long in November, 1918. Professor Dixon, in conversation with a representative of The Times, said that the supplies of petrol and coal were limited, and unless some other source of power were adapted to industrial needs he foresaw a grave position arising in the course of a few years. The consumption of petrol had increased so tremendously that America was already talking about substituting satisfactory alcohol fuel for petrol. It had this advantage—that as it is grown there was no danger of the supply becoming exhausted. The researches undertaken in Professor Dixon's laboratories relate to the physical properties of alcohol mixtures with air and oxygen as compared with explosive mixtures of air with petrol, pure pentane, benzol, and ether. The ignition points of the various vapours are being determined in two ways—first, by heating the vapours and air separately at atmospheric pressure and bringing the two together out of direct contact; secondly, by suddenly compressing the vapours mixed with air or oxygen and measuring the contraction necessary to fire the mixture by heat of compression. It has been shown that alcohol vapour can be compressed much more highly than other vapours, and experiments are now being made with alcohol to which other vapours are added in order to discover the mixture which is sufficiently volatile to give an explosion at ordinary temperatures and yet will stand a high degree of compression without premature ignition. For instance," said Professor Dixon, "mixtures of alcohol and ether, such as naphthalene, have been used in motor cars. It has been discovered that such mixtures are highly volatile and more compressible than naphthalene. Mixtures of alcohol and benzol can be safely compressed, and form a good explosive vapor. Alcohol and light petrol may also be used together. Attempts are being made to analyze by photography the flames produced by the different mixtures, so as to follow each successive phase of the explosion. With a slower burning mixture it may be longer run, that is to employ a longer piston stroke. This is the most difficult of the experiments which are being carried out, as the explosions have to be made in glass vessels." Professor Dixon said that it had been demonstrated that alcohol could be used to drive motor cars. He did not think it would supersede petrol, the latter having advantages for high speed engines such as those used in aeroplanes, which alcohol did not possess. It is, however, for ordinary commercial purposes would certainly tend to bring down the price of petrol.

To Regain a Healthy, Girlish Complexion

If you would have a clear, fresh, girlish complexion, one ounce of ordinary mercurized wax will aid you in this direction more than shelves full of cosmetics. It produces a natural beauty. This wax, procurable at any drugstore, completely absorbs a bad complexion, revealing the healthy young skin underneath. Its work is done so gradually, day by day, that no inconvenience is caused. The wax is applied at night, like cold cream, and removed in the morning with soap and water. Another valuable rejuvenating treatment—this for wrinkles—is to bathe your face in a solution of powdered saxolite, one ounce, dissolved in a half pint of witch hazel. This has a remarkable action in smoothing out the lines and "firming up" the loose tissue.

GIFTS FOR STUDENTS.

A party of friends of Harry Coleman and Harold Alexander gathered at the home of H. H. McCurdy last night to give them a hearty send-off as they leave today to take up their studies in the second year of their course at Wycliffe Theological College, Toronto. Both young men are members of St. Mary's church and they were each presented by Rev. R. Taylor McKim, the rector, with a well filled purse, the gift of friends in the congregation. The evening was spent very pleasantly with games and music and refreshments were served. The gathering broke up shortly after midnight, the two students having been wished all success through the coming year at college.

DIOCESAN W. A. The executive of the Diocesan W. A. met yesterday afternoon in the Church of England Institute with the president, Mrs. George F. Smith, in the chair. The meeting was chiefly occupied with details in connection with the departure of the delegates to the annual meeting of the Dominion W. A., which is to be held in Winnipeg in October. Mrs. G. A. Kahring and Miss Portia Mackenzie have been appointed as delegates to represent the Fredericton diocese, and Mrs. Kahring left this morning for Montreal, as she will make several visits en route to Winnipeg. Miss Mackenzie will go on to Winnipeg later. Mrs. McInnes, a missionary returned from China, was present at the meeting and gave a very interesting account of her work in the foreign field. When the business of the meeting had been disposed of, the members of the executive were the guests of Mrs. George F. Smith at tea at the Club. The meeting was a most delightful social hour.

CHAIN OF STORES TO LOCATE IN ST. JOHN

"Walk Upstairs and Save Ten," Is the Slogan of Robinson's Upstairs Clothes Shops.

The original "Walk Upstairs and Save Ten" will shortly make its appearance in Union Street. This slogan, which has become a byword in all the larger cities of Canada, is a principle of the Robinson's Upstairs Clothes Shops, which will shortly open up their new premises at 188 Union Street. The McPherson building is now in the hands of the contractor and will be thoroughly renovated. The Robinson's business has been built on the policy of giving values $10 to $20 cheaper than the downstairs clothes. This is possible through the extensive buying and the low upstairs operating cost of the Robinson chain. Mr. Robinson himself is looking to the securing the latest fabrics and styles to give St. John a large assortment in suits and overcoats, so that the opening of the store should prove from an exhibition standpoint and well worth seeing. Many of the exclusive styles and patterns shown on opening day will be entirely exclusive to the pattern and style in Winnipeg in October. The Robinson stores have lived up to their slogan of "Walk Upstairs and Save Ten." No more striking example of this can be had than the verdict given their by a judge of the supreme court of Winnipeg. This verdict not only substantiated Robinson's claims, but went even further and gave far larger margin than $10 to $20 to the extra value to be had a Robinson suit or overcoat. Opening date will be announced later. 9-22

"No Smoking." (Manchester Guardian.) Another war-time secret is out. When the Leviathan was making her first voyage as an American troopship some of her crew betook themselves to a lower hidden delight for only a few minutes when they were caught in the act and punished by a round of extra duty. The mystery has now been revealed by a former officer of the vessel. There had been installed on the Leviathan a fire-detection system consisting of a series of pipes to the holds, through which a suction fan was continually drawing samples of air to the wheelhouse. Thus the officer on duty noticed the curling wisps of smoke coming out of the pipe from one of the lower holds, and, sniffing the smoke, detected the familiar odor of nicotine.

THE HIGHWAYS

When the Foster government came into power the roads and bridges of the province were in a wretched condition. Today there are long stretches of good roads with good bridges, and all the important roads show improvement. When Hon. P. J. Veniot became the minister of public works all the roads were so bad that for the first year he had largely to content himself with repairing the very worst places. He did more than that, however, for he went over the roads himself, had them carefully surveyed by his engineers, and laid plans for real and permanent construction work. Obviously it could not all be done at once, nor could the long needed repair work of a more or less temporary nature be wholly abandoned. The minister realized, however, that a beginning must be made, and certain much-travelled sections of road were set down for complete re-construction during his second year in office. That policy has been continued. Any man who now travels by highway from St. John to the Nova Scotia border, or from St. John to Fredericton and Woodstock, or through the northern counties, and knows what is being done on the road from St. John to St. Stephen, will gladly testify to the great improvement made in three years. When the federal parliament apportioned a grant to the provinces for highway work, Hon. Mr. Veniot made this province the first to qualify, and when the federal road engineers came down to survey the road for which the grant was asked they gave it their unstinted approval and the grant was received. It follows from what has been said that if Hon. Mr. Veniot is continued in office the work of improvement will go on until all the roads of the province are in good condition. In so bad condition were they that it took some years to accomplish the work, but a splendid beginning has been made, and today it is freely admitted that the roads of New Brunswick are in better condition than those of Nova Scotia. If it be asserted that too much money is being spent annually the objector is invited to consider the case of Nova Scotia, which this year decided to expend $13,000,000 in five years upon the roads, with a determination to make them as good as any in Canada. This province may not be able to spend so freely, but it cannot afford to be without good roads. Apart from the advantage to farmers and the increased value of land, the tourist traffic in summer will bring a very large aggregate amount of money into the province. In Nova Scotia our minister has been described as "Good Roads Veniot." That is the credit of the province as well as the minister. Mr. Veniot has not spared himself. Not even his engineers have a better knowledge of the roads than he, as he has become familiar with the relative needs of each locality. All cannot be dealt with at once, and if any locality is disposed to feel that it is being neglected it should bear in mind that the most urgent work must first be done, and that in due time every stretch of highway will have its turn. Those who are disposed to be reasonable, and are not blinded by partisanship, rejoice at what has already been done and will vote for the continuance in office of a minister and a government who have taken up the work with courage and intelligence. The great task of giving the province a system of good roads. We quote from a recent article on the subject of good roads the following:—"The highways of a country are one of a nation's most important assets and play a large part in colonization and land settlement. The construction of good, serviceable highways, next to the building of railroads, is probably the chief factor in increasing the prices of land, while adequate marketing facilities, in the way of good roads, is an inevitable part of agricultural progress and prosperity. A high grade of public thoroughfare, with a progressive and wide-spread policy of maintenance and extension, has a decided bearing on immigration, and the lack of these facilities in the eyes of intending farming settlers, seriously detracts from the aggregation of many inducements. Again, it must be remembered, that Canada's tourist traffic is an important and extensive feature of national wealth, and constitutes the fourth principal source of the country's revenue. As a great part of this touring is done by automobile and this mode of travelling is increasing yearly, it is readily seen that the provision of good trunk roads is necessary in order to keep up the traffic and further encourage it."

EVERYBODY'S BUSINESS

The men and women of New Brunswick will select on October 9, those who are to administer the affairs of the province for the ensuing legislative term. The matter is of sufficient importance to warrant every elector in taking an active personal interest in the choice of representatives. It is especially desirable that all the candidates be persons who will command public confidence. The women voters, who are less hardened politicians than the men, should take particular care to have persons nominated who can be depended on to guard the public interest. It has too often happened in the past that vote-catching considerations took precedence of merit in the selection. The first consideration with any party should be the nomination of those who would make worthy members of the legislative body. But there is also the choice between parties, and as there will be very many new voters on October 9 it becomes their duty as well as their privilege to consider the record as well as the policy of each party before making a decision. When all the people show a lively interest in a political campaign, and are ready to put the public interest first, the result is much more satisfactory than when the whole matter is left to the politicians. After all the people get as good government as they deserve, for they choose the men who make the laws and conduct the affairs of the province. Let us hope that on Oct. 9 a full vote will be polled and a legislature of strong men chosen.

IN LIGHTER VEIN

The vocational training board in Fredericton is preparing for more classes and more students than those of last winter, when some three hundred persons took one course or another. The subjects include shorthand, and typewriting, industrial stitching as done in making footwear, blue-print reading, electricity, commercial arithmetic, millinery, sewing, dress-making and cooking, and there will be a class for older persons who need elementary teaching in school subjects. St. John should be able to have at least as many classes as Fredericton, and a very much larger number of students. The addresses delivered at the Rotary Club on Monday should arouse a keener general interest in the subject which is of such great importance to the community.

"Not too good—thanks to some dishonest rascals who are selling goods at reasonable prices."—Le Journal Amusant (Paris).

A WELCOME VISIT

The visit of President Hanna and the directors of the C. N. R. to St. John has cleared the atmosphere and given the citizens a new outlook. They have made it clear that St. John harbor figures in their plans of development, and that a programme has been prepared which when carried to completion will provide this port with much needed facilities. President Hanna points out that the government already has a large fleet of steamers, and will soon have a larger one and there are only two winter ports on the Atlantic. These ports must be equipped for the business. All the citizens can fairly ask is that the C. N. R. programme be carried out as speedily as possible. The city will be glad to co-operate. With a representative of St. John in the government it should not be difficult to advance the work. Those who met Mr. Hanna and his associates were impressed by their evident desire to have the port properly equipped for the business of the national railways and steamships. It may be hoped that such arrangements may be made in accordance with their plans as will provide some additional space for ocean steamers at city wharves during the coming winter. Their visit should give a new inspiration to any citizen who may have become despondent and ready to adopt almost any expedient in hope of securing harbor development. The really important fact demonstrated by this visit is the hearty recognition of the relation of this port to the national transportation system by land and sea. It remains for the citizens to continue to impress upon the government and the country the congested condition prevailing in the harbor in winter, that the work of improvement may not be delayed. No citizen of St. John need worry about the future of the port if it is given a square deal, and the outlook is decidedly improved. The city is fortunate in having on the railway board a representative who thoroughly appreciates the situation, and who may be relied on to make the strongest possible representation of the case for this national port.

WHAT WILL THEY SAY TO ME?

(By Dr. Byron Stauffer.)
What will men say of me when I am dead?
Oh, they will say: "He was a funny chap;
He had his faults; he often lost his head;
He blundered much; he made some big mistakes;
And wasted strength in many a useless scrap."
I fear all that is true—all that and more—
And little I can do to alter it.
But may none say that, losing, I felt sore;
Or that in fighting I had fouled a foe;
Or for the truth I failed to do my bit.
Oh, may men say of me when I am dead
That I at least was fair in every fight;
And that my faults were not of heart,
but head.
That, though too often I was harsh in word,
When thus I erred I set the matter right.
If they will say that I stood by the weak,
Never forgetting him whom fate brought
That 'twas my habit chide words to speak,
And when I saw one crushed by sin and shame,
Felt sorry for the man and told him so—
If they will say that little children came
And showed me all their playthings
Without fear;
That father in burdens spoke about the same
With open hearts, believing I would hear,
Perhaps the Lord will count my record clear.

THE BALD EAGLE

(Manchester Guardian.)
Reuter says that the bald eagle, adopted emblem of the U. S. A., is pronounced to be in danger of extinction. This is sad news, but it may be some time before the prophecy is fulfilled. Nevertheless, extinction, when it does arrive, may be very sudden. It is said that a negro contented and at the last brood of captured petrels. The final sanctuary of the great auk was destroyed by a volcanic eruption; and, as America well remembers the last representative of the famous passenger pigeons died in Cincinnati, zoo. In 1910 the passenger pigeon, as a wild bird, was certified as extinct; but a female caught in 1899 lived in captivity for fourteen years, its last days being kinematographed and its voice recorded on the gramophone. An eagle in a cage can be trusted to last half a century, and perhaps more in America.
The U. S. A. was not well advised to choose a real bird for their emblem. Such wild fowl as the phoenix or the double-headed eagle are safe from the pot-hunter, and nobody worries about the necessity for protecting the unicorn in its native forests. Of course there is the British lion. When this goes the "dode road" heralds can say with truth that it never was a lion at all. Once the fashion was to call our beast a leopard, and in the early days of the Tower menagerie the Blackpool leopards were kept as emblems of the reigning king. Even then it was doubtful—like the mysterious "liver" of Liverpool or the "lilies" of London—how long they would last. To exterminate a creature if you do not know its name and address, and new States should avoid zoologists when choosing their coat armor.

HOW THE CHIPMUNK DIGS

(Wm. J. Long in Harper's Magazine.)
For years our naturalists have soberly debated the mystery of the chipmunk's den, how he can construct a tunnel without leaving any fresh earth to betray him; but when it was a boy almost any farmer's lad in the whole country could have given instant explanation. "How does the chipmunk dig a hole without leaving any earth at the entrance? Why, very simply; he begins at the other end." And though the answer is true, beyond cavil or guessing, some low-

DISEASES AND REMEDIES

I've tried all kinds of remedies which are supposed to cure disease, and there are some which give relief from anguish, fatness, pain and grief. Some pill will drive away the pain, and leave you feeling safe and sane, but only for a while, be sure! There is relief, but there's no cure. The dark green pains will all come back and make you weary, sinews crack, and smoking, slide along your bones until you fill the night with groans. Beware the pills, whatever their hue, the green, the purple of the blue, which lull you for a little while, and seem to urge a hopeful smile. For when the aches come back again, as they will come to pliffed men, they'll climb your tendons and your thews, and they'll have spikes upon their shoes. There's but one cure for fleshly ills, and that cure's not disguised as pills. The Good Book tells of an old gent who 'neath his maladies was bent; he often to the doctors stept, "and with his fathers then he slept." And that's the only cure I know for all life's misery and woe; just cast away the juice of gulls, the porous plasters and the pills, the trusses and the liver pads, and go and slumber with your dads.

CANADA—EAST AND WEST

Domestic Happenings of Other Days

ANTIGOSTL

The Island of Anticosti is Canada's unknown land for, although the island lies in the River St. Lawrence estuary, point where that stream widens out to something like 100 miles, less is known about the place than almost any other part of the dominions on this side of the ocean. Unlike the provinces it is the private possession of M. Menier, the chocolate King of France, and almost every year that gentleman pays a visit to his American territory.
It is a kingdom within itself. Possessing about 800 miles of coastline with a width of 140 miles and a breadth averaging twenty-seven miles, it is a possession in which the wild life of the continent thrives where the finest pulp timber can be obtained and along the shores there is a wealth of the finest fish of the St. Lawrence.
It was in 1855 that Jacques Cartier, the intrepid French explorer, first saw the land but it was not until almost 160 years later that the title to it was given by the French monarch. Then it was presented to Sieur Louis Joliet for his services to the crown.
Joliet, however, did not think much of his reward and a critic of the time declared he would much have preferred a small land in France almost anywhere to the wild territory presented by the king. But the adventurer made the best he could of his lot and built a fort there to protect his people from the Indians. His tasks, however, were many and arduous and presaged the checkered fate of the islands after his death. It was not until the land came into the hands of M. Menier in 1869 that the territory was in any way developed systematically and thoroughly. He spent much money on it and then sought revenue in the form of pulp wood and the quickest return so he has developed that trade until it is a huge one now.

THE FAMOUS "LUCK"

(Manchester Guardian.)
After an ownership of 460 years, the stately mansion and estates of Eden Hall, Cumberland, are to pass from the Musgrave family. Sir Richard Musgrave has not lived at Eden Hall for about twenty years, and nearly two decades ago it was stated that he had decided to sell the ancestral home, following the disposal of the manors of Kirk Oswald and Lazonby, in Cumberland, Musgrave and Kirby Stephen, in Westmorland, and some of the estates in County Durham. Legal difficulties arose, but Chancery permission now has been given to the proposed change by reason of the famous Luck of Eden Hall which has for centuries been associated with north country traditions. The "Luck" is a goblet of Venetian glass, reputed to be of the early fourteenth century, and believed to have been for a period used for sacramental purposes. The legend is that one night when the seneschal of the Musgraves went across the lawn to St. Guthbert's Well he surprised a party of fairies dancing round the well in a glass vessel, which he secured and refused to return. Thereupon the queen of the fairies repeated the well-known prophecy:
If e'er this cup shall break or fall,
Farwell the luck of Eden Hall.

OLD TIME SONGS

(From the Omaha Bee.)
Here are some lines for the Old Boys—not the veal youngsters who hum "Dardanella," the "Links of London Dreams," or "You'd Be Surprised," but a song of the seventies. Those were the days when ballads had the real kick, the days of "Captain Links of London Marines," of "Shoo Fly" and "Whoo, Emma." Only those who know those songs are qualified to recall the plangency of "My Pathetic Melody of 'The Man on the Flying Trapeze.'"
Divers "Old Tops" of the sportive generation that began to sit up, and take notice of the girls and touching songs that were popular from 1871 to 1881, will thank us for refreshing their memory with the lines that follow:
Once I was happy, but now I'm forlorn,
Like an old coat that's all tattered and worn;
Left in this wide world to fret and to mourn,
Bereft of a maid in her teens.
The girl that I loved, she was handsome and true,
I tried all I could her to please;
But I could not please her one-quarter so well
As that man on the flying trapeze.
He'd fly through the air with the great-est of ease—
That daring young man on the flying trapeze.
His movements were graceful—all girls he could please,
And my love he perjured away.

STRANGLER NEAR GRAVE OF HER SON

Posses of Veterans Seek Mrs. Grembowicz's Murderer in South Amboy, N. J.

New York, Sept. 22—Posses made up largely of members of the American Legion searched all thickets and woods near South Amboy, N. J., for a man who is believed to have slain Mrs. Mary Grembowicz, 66 years old, on Friday while she was leaving the grave of her son in Ernston Cemetery on the outskirts of the town. Mrs. Grembowicz had been missing from her home since early Friday and her son did not find her body until late Saturday afternoon.

Death was caused by strangulation after a terrible struggle, according to the autopsy report made public by Medical Examiner William Suyden of South Amboy, who expressed the opinion that the aged woman was attacked by a powerful man. The throat had heavy finger marks upon it, and the physicians said that death appeared to have followed the pressure on the neck with more than usual quickness, showing that her assailant must have been unusual powerful.

The motive for the murder is believed by the police to have been robbery, because fiction had been passed around among the neighbors of the Grembowicz family that Mrs. Grembowicz had been in the habit of carrying around large amounts in cash and Liberty bonds. Her husband, Michael, who is 74 years old, denied at the family home at 235 Cedar street, South Amboy, that she ever had more than a few dollars with her.

Her sons, Michael and George, led the posses searching for the murderer. They said that their mother had been in the habit of visiting the cemetery almost daily since their brother died in the influenza epidemic two years ago. Hardly a week passed that she did not place a wreath upon his grave.

The spot where the body was found is close to the tracks of the Camden and Amboy Railroad, three-quarters of a mile from South Amboy and near the cemetery. There her sons came upon the body after an all night search in the vicinity. When she failed to return to dinner on Friday her husband and sons became alarmed and organized a posse to search for her. They found no trace of her until a little before noon on Saturday.

Assistant Prosecutor Coan instructed County Detective Peltier to investigate.

RECENT DEATHS

Moncton, N. B., Sept. 21—The death of Mrs. John MacNevin occurred at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Laughlin MacKinnon, 22 Maple street, at 10 o'clock this morning at the advanced age of eighty-five years and eleven months. Deceased had been in fairly good health until a few weeks ago, when she became ill. Her husband, John MacNevin, died about seventeen years ago. She is survived by three daughters and two sons. The daughters are Mrs. L. MacKinnon, with whom she resided; Mrs. Herbert Savage and Miss Maggie MacNevin, Leonistier (Mass.). The sons are Thomas of this city and Dennis, South Boston. Also twenty-three grand children and six great grand children. One sister, Mrs. Catherine Gaudet, of Ottawa, also survives.

St. Stephen, N. B., Sept. 21—This community is stunned tonight by announcement of the death, soon after the supper hour of Charles W. Young, who had been about town all day and in his usual cheerful spirits. The final summons came to him in his home "Dover Hill," and was due to hemorrhage of the brain. Mr. Young was a son of the late Benjamin Young of Calais, and was united in marriage with Miss Adeline Todd, daughter of the late Freeman H. Todd of St. Stephen, who survives him, with two sons Fred, K. and Kenneth, and three daughters, Vera, Rhoda and Georgia, all being married. For more than thirty years, Mr. Young was president of the St. Croix Soap Mfg. Co. of this town, up till the time of its incorporation, with the Lever Bros. interests a few years ago. He resided in the winter months in Winchester, Mass., but retained his summer residence here in the old F. H. Todd homestead.

Mr. Young was sixty-two years of age.

FIND STOWAWAY DEAD.

Man, Evidently a German, Asphyxiated During Voyage from Danzig.

New York, Sept. 22—A stowaway, about twenty-six years old, believed to have been a German, was found dead in the forward hold of the American steamship Susquehanna when the hatches were taken off at her New River pier at foot of West Thirty-fourth street. The ship's doctor said that death was due to asphyxiation, as the hatches had not been taken off for two weeks during the voyage from Danzig.

The man was five feet ten inches tall, weighed 157 pounds, had light hair and blue eyes and wore a dark suit issued by the German government in 1909 according to a tag on the coat.

DOCTOR REFUSES TO SEE PATIENTS

Can Diagnose Their Case Better by Studying Hand-writing.

A doctor who refuses personal consultations because he can arrive at a better opinion of the patient's maladies and state of health by merely studying his hand-writing, has been discovered in Paris in the person of Dr. Jean Pitou, member of the Academy of Medicine. The discoverer is M. Duparchy-Jeanes. "Persons who write habitually in lines sloping downward across the pages," says the author, "are suffering from stomach trouble or dyspepsia. If on the other hand your writing is upward, that is if you commence a line low and end it higher, your liver is out of order."

"If you have both stomach and liver trouble your writing will be both up and down and will present a sort of switch-back appearance."

"A hilly, stuttering handwriting invariably indicates heart trouble. A person who brings the tail of her 'e's' sharply to the left below the line of writing may usually be proved to be suffering from a disease of the uterus."

"Large capital letters, out of all proportion to the rest of the hand, mean that the writer is subject to hysteria. Hypochondriasis is indicated by capital 'M's' made with a large loop, resembling a capital U."

"Beware of how you do business with a man who writes his accents or apostrophes in all probability either a lunatic or will soon become one."

WARNS AGAINST PLAGUE MENACE

Surgeon General Cummings Fears Europe's Epidemics Will Obtain Foothold in U. S.

San Francisco, Sept. 19.—Surgeon-General H. S. Cummings, in charge of the United States Public Health Service, in an interview today said there was considerable danger to America at the present time because of contagious diseases rampant in Middle Europe which might be brought here through the emigration of peasants and other refugees who have been exposed to these maladies.
General Cummings has had a notable career during the last three years. In 1917 he was adviser in sanitation to the navy department. In the following year he was sent to Europe to look after the sanitation of troops and ports. This trip led him among other places to southern Russia, where he spent many weeks, acting as sanitary adviser. He then represented the government at the International Sanitary Convention of Rome and also helped to draft the sanitary clauses of the League of Nations covenant which he says has since been adopted.
"Seven million people are trying to get here from that part of Europe which is at present a hotbed of typhus and yellow fever," said General Cummings. "The United States therefore is in considerable danger. The large majority of these would-be emigrants are trying to come from Asia Minor and the Black Sea districts of Russia through the ports of Danzig, Bremen and Rotterdam. We are therefore trying to reconcentrate them in Greek and Italian ports for transportation to the United States. In addition to typhus, bubonic plague is present in all Mediterranean ports. Several outbreaks have occurred and recently I hear there have been twenty cases in Paris, which means that the disease evidently reached other ports and so the cases found their way to the capital."
"This is outrageous, for while one can well understand that with the unsanitary conditions prevailing in uncivilized or dirtier southern localities these diseases are frequent, in the north they are almost unheard of."
"To lessen the danger this country is subjected to from these sources the United States Public Health Service has medical officers stationed at Danzig and at Dutch and Belgian ports, as well as at the more important Greek ports, to inspect all vessels and see that proper precautions are taken in the case of the emigrants. For many years we have had this service in operation in Italian ports. Recently, however, and without any formal notice, the Rome government has raised objections to United States medical officers being stationed in Italian ports, basing its position upon an old treaty which was dug up from goodness knows where. We can therefore do nothing except prevent vessels from infected ports entering United States waters. I believe this measure will cause Italy to change her unreasonable attitude."

"In Mexico both plague and yellow fever are rampant as well as in Guatemala and Salvador. We are taking precautions there and have agents aboard American steamships plying to those places."
"In the United States we are represented at all quarantine stations and our agents are boarding incoming foreign vessels in order to fumigate them and destroy every rat aboard. This is the only way to keep the bubonic plague out of America."
"It is high time that the people and government awake to a realization of the fact that Europe's plagues will obtain a foothold here ere many months go by unless we keep close watch upon all immigrants newly arrived in this country. I cannot emphasize too strongly that the public health service wishes the people themselves would aid us with full information of any suspicious cases occurring so that prompt assistance can be rendered and precautions taken."

IMMIGRATION LAWS.

Drastic Regulations for Entry into Palestine.

London, Sept. 22.—(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)—The conditions which will govern the entry of immigrants into Palestine, just made public by the administration of the district, are contained in despatches from Jerusalem. Each immigrant must possess a passport visa by the British consul of his city, ample proof that he will be able to sustain himself for at least a year and a certificate as to his physical fitness.
All ports of entry into Palestine will be supervised strictly by immigration officials already appointed and every immigrant admitted into the country will have to register with the local police within fifteen days from the date of landing. ### KILLS 1, INJURES 3 LEARNING TO DRIVE

Man Is Held on Homicide Charge After Sideswiping Another Car.

New York, Sept. 22.—While he was learning to drive a new automobile under the instruction of a licensed chauffeur, George Blanchard of 2032 Richmond Terrace, S. I., sideswiped another heavy touring car at Amboy road and Bossville avenue, Princess Bay, S. I. One person was killed and four injured in the crash.
A. P. Gillies, manager of the American Ice Company at Catskill, N. Y., was so severely injured that he died in an ambulance on the way to the Memorial Hospital. Mrs. Gillies and another woman passenger in the wrecked car, Mrs. Winnie Davis, also of Catskill, are in the Memorial Hospital in a serious condition, both with possible fractures of the skull and internal injuries.
Less serious injuries were suffered by Mrs. Winifred Travis, wife of E. R. Travis of Catskill, who was taking the party to Asbury Park, N. J., in his car. Travis was not injured, although the other car cleaved his car almost in half directly behind the driver's seat occupied by him.
Police of the Tottenville Station held Blanchard on a charge of homicide and driving a car without a driver's license. He was accompanied by a licensed chauffeur, David Price, of 1619 Richmond Terrace, Port Richmond. The police said that Blanchard bought the car two weeks ago.
Mrs. Elizabeth Keelan, the widowed mother of nine children, was run down and killed near her home at 2298 Washington avenue, the Bronx. Her companion, Mrs. Charles Smeed, of 2194 Morris avenue, the Bronx, was taken to Fordham Hospital with serious injuries.
Romance After 57 Years.
New York, Sept. 22.—The wedding here last week of Mrs. Elizabeth Blottnow, widow of Morris Blottnow, and Edward Remsen Teller, of Montvale, N. J., was the culmination of a romance that began when each was about fifteen years old. Fifty-seven years ago when both attained their eighteenth year, their engagement was announced. Then a venenous letter writer caused a quarrel and the marriage was cancelled. Twenty years later they learned the facts. Two years ago Teller became a widower and Mrs. Blottnow's first husband died a year ago.

PERFECTING HER TRADE MACHINERY

Britain Determined to Recover Commerce Taken by Germany Before War.

New York, Sept. 22.—(By Canadian Press)—Never before in her commercial history has Great Britain possessed such wonderfully perfect machinery for the expansion of her international trade as that through which she is now, through governmental and private organization, seeking to strengthen her hold on foreign markets.
That is the gist of a report by P. Harvey Middleton, assistant manager of the foreign trade bureau of the Guarantee Trust Company of New York, who has just returned from Europe where he made an extensive study of British trade organization.
British business men, Mr. Middleton's report sets forth, are not only determined to win back all of the trade taken from them in pre-war days by Germany, but to establish British commerce so firmly in every part of the world that other nations will be hard put to maintain their trade.
One of the mediums through which British overseas trade is destined to expand, the report says, is the British Trade Corporation, incorporated in 1917, with an authorized capital of 10,000,000 pounds sterling. Although designed to assist the small exporter, the policies of this mammoth corporation have been made freely available to the largest manufacturers of the empire, and it is only one of the numerous agencies at present facilitating the expansion of trade.
In addition to the elaborate commercial undertakings through which the trade interest of the empire will be cared for, an intelligence bureau is maintained to provide up-to-date and reliable information concerning conditions in foreign countries where trade may be sought. This bureau is being fostered through the British Overseas Bank, an institution formed by several English banks in March to develop overseas trade along specialized lines.

HEAVY LOSS BY EXPLOSION

(Canadian Press Despatch.)
Ottawa, Sept. 21.—A special despatch to the Ottawa Journal from Brockville (Ont.), says:

A terrific explosion which blew out the front of the shoe store of George Fox, in the Galla Building on King street, followed by a fire which burned for several hours, wrought damage to property and contents estimated at between $40,000 and $50,000.
The fire is supposed to have started from spontaneous combustion and spread to a quantity of gasoline or benzine said to be on the premises which caused the explosion.
CONVENTION PLANS.
Discussion of plans for the coming provincial and dominion conventions occupied much of the time of the meeting of the W. C. T. U. yesterday. The provincial convention meets in Dorchester early next month and immediately afterwards the dominion convention will be held in Windsor (N. S.). The president was in the chair and led the opening devotions, aided by Mrs. I. M. Hoare, Letters from the provincial president, Mrs. Perry, of Summerside (P. E. I.), and the provincial secretary, Mrs. Gerard, of Campbellton, regarding the programme and arrangements for the provincial convention were read with interest. A letter from Mrs. O'Neill, president of the Dorchester local union, gave full particulars of preparations being made to receive delegates. The treasurer, Mrs. Hoare, gave information as to tickets for both conventions. Michael Kelly was present and gave an address on temperance subjects. Many members who had been absent for the summer were welcomed once more at the meeting.

GREAT BRITAIN'S SHARE OF ANGLO-FRENCH LOAN

New York, Sept. 22.—(By Canadian Press)—The Wall Street Journal states that it is generally understood among leading New York bankers that Great Britain's share of the Anglo-French loan is practically provided for, and that when the date of maturity arrives, on October 15, no financial arrangements will be necessary except the actual redemption of the bonds at the office of J. P. Morgan & Company.
"No details are available," says the paper, "as the matter is confidential between the British Treasury and its agents in this country, but the bankers in close touch with British financial dealings, assert that in addition to accumulation of credits on this side, England has been making continuous large purchases of Anglo-French bonds in the open market for several months past. What the aggregate of such credits and purchases are is not known, but it is believed to be well over $200,000,000. Much of the weakness in sterling lately has been due to the purchase of dollars on the other side by the British Treasury for this purpose. In addition, Great Britain shipped gold earlier in the year which was generally understood to be to strengthen her Anglo-French loan funds here."
"Not only has Great Britain provided for her share of the loan but it is being said in banking circles that the French government obtained some assistance from her ally across the English channel in getting together the $150,000,000 which France has, or will have, to meet as her share of the obligation."

SAYS BOYS AND GIRLS LEAD AS DRUG USERS

Investigator Reports at Indianapolis that 75 Per Cent. of Narcotic Addicts are Young.

Indianapolis, Sept. 22.—More than 75 per cent. of the narcotic drug addicts in the United States are boys and girls, approximately sixteen years of age, Albert Weber of New York, chairman of the committee on Narcotic Drugs and Crime of the American Institute of Criminal Law and Criminology, declared in his report to the annual meeting of the institute here. He said that the only hope of effective relief was through congressional legislation.
The relation between mentality and crime, the effect of narcotic drugs, various methods of dealing with criminals and the Chicago Crime Commission were among the topics for discussion.
The report of the committee on Narcotic Drugs and Crime quoted "an unbiased authority" as stating that Japan is now virtually utilizing Shanghai province as "a gateway and medium for shipping tremendous quantities of opium and other narcotic drugs into China."
Whitney O. Dunham, of West St. John, has announced the engagement of his daughter, Margaret Ponsford, to Francis Arthur Scott, of this city, the marriage to take place early in October.

When buying a watch think first of quality

THE first cost of an inferior watch is a long way from being its last cost. Instances are by no means uncommon where the cost of repairing such a watch exceeds its original price.
Watchmakers nowadays receive high wages. Their bills are apt to be very large for time spent in trying to repair low grade watches. Especially is this true of the cheaper imported movements for which repair parts are often unobtainable and must be made by hand.
It is far better to buy a Waltham.
This gives you a high grade watch at a reasonable price consistent with quality.
Apart from accidents and the general overhauling every second year which good watch mechanism deserves, the good service you get from your Waltham means a real cash saving over the low grade watch.
The longer you carry a Waltham—the less it costs you. Divide its price into the years of service it gives, and you'll find its price is very low indeed.

FORMER NEW BRUNSWICK MAN IN TORONTO CASE

Charged With Kidnapping Six-Year-Old Girl - Said to Be Shell-Shocked Soldier.

(Toronto Globe)

Six-year-old Irene McKinnon, who had been missing from her home, 398A Queen street east, since last Thursday morning, was found about 8 o'clock Sunday morning in the bush on the Humber River bank about two miles northwest of Weston. In an improvised shack built of fence rails a posse of twenty detectives and plain clothes men found Albert Peters, aged about 35, who disappeared with the child. Peters offered no resistance to arrest on a charge of kidnaping.

Medical examination of the little girl disclosed that she had suffered no other injuries than those resulting from exposure to the chill night air while but lightly clad, hunger and practically total exhaustion from crying. She was taken to the Children's Shelter and given proper food and rest.

Angry Demonstration. According to the police there were certain murmurings indicating a desire to inflict summary punishment on Peters among the comparatively few Weston people who were aware of the search and discovery, but there was no demonstration whatever when Peters and the child were removed in motor cars.

Peters is a shell-shocked soldier, suffering it is believed from certain hallucinations. The police look upon him as nothing worse than a man mentally unbalanced.

Peters' answers to questions put to him were of the vaguest character, according to Police Inspector William Wallace, who led the search party. The little girl, with eyes already red and swollen from crying, was playing about the river bank when Detectives Alexander and Silverthorne first came upon her. When the officers picked her up she broke into sobs and she wanted her mother and declared she had often wanted to go home, but that Peters would not allow her to leave.

Started For a Show. From questioning the little girl the police officers learned that she and the man had reached the lonely spot near the Griffith farm Thursday afternoon, apparently but a few hours after their disappearance. They left their Queen street home about 11 o'clock Thursday morning, ostensibly to go to the picture show. On Friday assistance of the police was enlisted in searching for them, and on Saturday, as a result of the publishing in the newspapers of a description of the man, Sgt. Massey of the West Toronto division, received a telephone message from Mrs. Mary Scott, 186 Main street, Weston, storekeeper, to the effect that a man and a child answering the description had attempted to buy milk and bread on credit. Saturday evening Detective Hazelwood went out to Weston to investigate and found that others in the town had seen a man answering to the published description.

Prepared to scour the whole country-side a posse of twenty officers left for Weston in motor cars about 7 o'clock Sunday morning.

In Parties of Two. On the outskirts of Weston they broke up into parties of two, each of which was to strike out at a different angle. Three revolver shots were heard from one of the parties, and one shot was to be the answer from the other searchers. Detectives Silverthorne and Alexander came upon the girl on one of the parties.

When the officers entered the hut Peters was lying down on a bed of dry grass. Lying right at the entrance of the hut which was between two trees, lay a tin can and a pitchfork. Whether Peters had procured these for self-defense or other purposes the police are not prepared to say.

He was given an opportunity to offer resistance, and attempted to offer none. In the hut were a small quantity of bread, some tea, condensed milk and outside. Blackened embers on the ground outside indicated that Peters had lighted a fire with which to get warm. Little Irene, hatless and scantily clad, declared Peters would not let her sleep in the hut on the chill Saturday night but had made her sleep outside. Peters explained this by saying he wanted her to sleep near the fire.

Gold-hunting Observation. Peters, who was brought up in New Brunswick and has had some mining experiences, is believed to have been obsessed with a gold-hunting fever. With him in the shack the police found an old work dealing with the supposed discovery of gold along the Humber River banks. He did not say definitely to the police that he had gone there to hunt gold. Among his possessions are a number of quartz samples, and on other occasions he has told of ownership of half a dozen gold mines and expressed the conviction that some day he would be rich. His sole comment on having the little girl with him was: "Everybody makes a mistake in their lives, and I guess this is my mistake."

When he had attempted to buy provisions at Mrs. Scott's store he said, in reply to the woman's question, that the little McKinnon girl was all he had in the world.

Besides the kidnaping charge Peters is held on a charge of stealing the suit of clothes he wore from the father of the child who was with him in the bush.

GIRL'S 'KIDNAPPING' THRILLS ALL PARIS

Declares Three Women Bound Her, Then Took Her From City - Has Police Guessing.

Paris, Sept. 22.—Mlle. Yvonne Quillery, a pretty, brown-eyed stenographer of 18, probably is about to learn that Paris Police Commissioners do not fall for thrilling melodrama anywhere than on the stage or moving picture screen. The police believe there is a clerk in one of the Paris department stores who will demolish Mlle. Yvonne's dramatic story that she was kidnaped by three masked women and robbed of her savings and $20 entrusted to her by her father.

The satin cape which Mlle. Yvonne produces as that with which a taxicab driver bound her legs and arms in a taxicab may prove to be her undoing if the department store clerk declares she herself bought the cape from him when she is confronted by him. And that is the denouement the police anticipate. Meanwhile Mlle. Yvonne's story fills columns in the Paris newspapers.

She Has Police Guessing. And the police are guessing whether they have to do with a girl whose head is turned by too much reading of detective stories and movie scenarios or with a romance in real life.

The pretty stenographer's thriller story runs thus: Soon after one o'clock a day or two ago, when she was on the way to her employer's office, she was approached by a tall woman wearing a thick veil over her eyes who entered into conversation with her. They walked together a little distance, when a taxi stopped at the curb next to them. Of a sudden, the tall woman seized Mlle. Yvonne and threw her into the taxi, where were seated two other women masked with veils.

They blindfolded Mlle. Yvonne and bound her hands and legs with a black satin coat while the taxi dashed to a destination unknown to the girl.

While they slept she crept from the taxi. She was alone in the street. It was after dark when they arrived at a wheeled hut, which stood in the midst of lonely fields. She was compelled to enter the hut, where one of the women, a big peroxide blonde, stuck a revolver to her head and warned her that the least outcry meant death for her. Another of the women possessed herself of all the girl's money whereupon all three partook of a hearty meal and later went to sleep.

While they slept she crept from the hut. Mlle. Yvonne says, and ran across fields and through woods until she entered one of the city's gates—she cannot say which one. Finally, she reached the heart of the city with the satin cape, some hairpins, which she says belonged to the kidnapers, and $4. Her first thought, she told the police, was to send an urgent message to her mother.

KINGS COUNTY MAN RAISING FOXES OUT IN ALASKA. Capt. A. B. Somerville, Formerly of Hatfield's Point, Speaks of Success Achieved.

That fertile garden of the Gulf of St. Lawrence, Prince Edward Island, is not the only successful breeding ground of the fur industry, according to Captain Alfred B. Somerville, a former New Brunswick man who is now doing a flourishing business in blue pelts in Alaska. Captain Somerville is a son of Mrs. Julia Somerville, of Hatfield's Point, Springfield, Kings county. The captain says he has cleaned up more than $40,000 during the last season as his half of the proceeds from an Alaska fur farm which he and another man own.

Captain Somerville followed the sea for years and is not unacquainted in St. John. He says that the Alaska fur farm where he is now located was started by the Russians, and therefore the industry there is older than it is on Prince Edward Island. When the Russians occupied Alaska the Aleuts foxes were taken to various islands for propagation. That explains the origin of the valuable blue fox, the skins of which are valued at $200 each.

The blue fox was originally the Arctic white fox which, when taken to the warmer climate of southern Alaska, turned a soft blue color. The white fox in the Arctic has a slight blue tinge to its fur in summer, but turns a deeper blue when taken to a warmer climate.

"It is the continual fog belt around the Aleutian Islands that makes the fur of the blue fox of such high quality," explained Captain Somerville, who maintains his headquarters at Attu Island, the farthest island of the Aleutian group. The nearest post office is at Unalaska, 600 miles distant, and this is the distance he must travel to mail a letter or receive one. Five Islands, near Attu, were stocked with foxes eight years ago and from animals originally placed on Attu Island by the Russians. From a group of fewer than fifty foxes on the five islands eight years ago Captain Somerville and J. W. Walker, his partner, now realize a tidy fortune every year. "It is impossible to estimate the number of foxes on the five islands, for the animals are very timid and never in sight," said Captain Somerville. "From November to March each year we send foxes to this island to trap the foxes, natives to this island to collect in our fifty-ton schooner Emma."

The collecting of the skins is a hazardous task, for it means a 400 mile journey in the schooner during the last weather period. A few years ago Captain Somerville, while making his regular voyage to St. Louis, where he is expected shortly, Captain Somerville is on his way to St. Louis, where he is expected shortly. St. Louis is now a big fur market of the United States.

Captain Somerville has made a fortune in Alaska, wholly by breeding foxes and selling the pelts. He sells no stock and has nothing to do with that branch of the business which has been prominent in New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island.

LADY ROBERTS CHAPTER. The Lady Roberts Chapter of the I. O. O. F. held its first meeting of the season at the residence of the regent, Helen Wilson, Queen square, last night with Miss Wilson presiding. With her as members, Miss Margaret Dunlop, Miss Angela Magee, were received and accepted. It was decided that a pantry sale in the Imperial lobby should be arranged for and held in the near future and the following were appointed a committee to take charge of it: Miss Elsie Armstrong, Miss Hortense Marr and Miss Mary Armstrong. There was much discussion as to the possibility of presenting a play at a later date in the building and the members favored the suggestion. Tentative plans were made and the matter will be considered again at the next meeting.

In their drag net to catch the man who drove an automobile which struck and killed Miss McInnes, a young woman at North Sydney, the police have taken James McAndrews, who says he is a native of St. John. McAndrews is held as a material witness and it is thought he will be released soon. McAndrews has been living in the vicinity of the Sydney for several months. He was arrested at Malinaden.

GREAT BRITAIN'S ADMINISTRATION IN HOLY LAND

Administrators to Be Picked from Natives With Few British Officers in Charge.

Jerusalem, Aug. 23.—(Associated Press Correspondence)—British administration has been extended to a considerable part of trans-Jordan territory, of which Es Salt, a town of about 12,000 inhabitants, situated some twenty miles east of the Dead Sea, is the chief center.

Sir Herbert Samuel, British high commissioner for Palestine, has just returned from a journey to the new territory, where 600 representative Beduin sheikhs and notable received with enthusiasm the high commissioner's assurance that "Great Britain did not propose to bring their country within the present system of administration of Palestine, but would establish a separate administration that would assist the people to govern themselves."

Sir Herbert motored through Jericho to Allenby bridge on the Jordan, where he was met by Majid Pasha, ex-general of the Sherehan army, and by the son of Sheik Sultan, the most influential chieftain of the territory. The Turkish military road through the Shalb valley was alrpy, and riding along the precipices was extremely dangerous at times owing to landslides, but the party, headed by 200 Beduin horsemen, reached Es Salt without mishap.

The Arabs extended a cordial welcome to the British High Commissioner whom they entertained lavishly in oriental style. In an address, Sir Herbert explained to the chief that since the French had fully established their influence in Damascus, it would be necessary to separate the Arab's district from the Damascus administration. Great Britain, he said, would help them to organize defense against attack from outside. Sir Herbert developed a programme of road improvement, the building of schools, and the provision of medical aid.

There would be, he promised, complete freedom of trade with Palestine, and the people across the Jordan would be supplied with petroleum, rice, sugar and other commodities on the same footing as the peoples of Palestine. Moreover, facilities would be given them for the marketing of the produce they might wish to sell. A bank would be established to assist commerce, and postal communications would be opened.

Announcement was made by the high commissioner that as many as possible of the future administrators of the new territory would be drawn from the people of that district under the direction of a small number of British officers. He also gave assurance that it was not contemplated to establish any system of compulsory military service, nor to introduce disarmament.

An amnesty was readily granted, at a prominent chief's request, to two fugitive Arabs who had been charged with instigating the Easter riots in Jerusalem. Many Sheikhs affixed their seals to the official document expressing a desire for British rule.

GOVERNMENT PRIMARIES IN THE CITY TOMORROW

Electors Will Meet Here to Choose Ward Officials and Delegates to City Convention.

A centre of interest tomorrow evening in the city will be the local government primaries at which ward chairmen, vice-chairmen, secretaries and delegates will be elected to nominate the candidates to contest St. John city in the coming election. A call has been issued and is published in the Times today inviting all electors, male and female, favorable to the government, to attend. Those from Wellington, Prince and Victoria wards are to meet at Moose Hall, 12 Coburg street; from Queens, Sydney, Dukes and Kings wards at what was formerly known as the Furlough building, 35 Charlotte street; from Lorne, Stanley and Lansdowne wards at Temple Hall, Main street; from Dufferin ward at Young's Hall, corner of Mill and Main streets, and from Guys and Brooks wards at Oddfellows Hall, Market Place. It is expected that the primaries will be largely attended as there is reason to believe that the electors are keenly interested in all that the Foster government is doing to advance the welfare of the province. Conventions have already been called in several other constituencies to nominate candidates in support of the government, and this week should see most of the government standard-bearers in the field. The government supporters in Restigouche county at their convention yesterday nominated A. T. LeBlanc, M. P. P., who represented this county for the last four years and John C. McLean of Charlo. The Albert and Charlotte conventions are to be held today, those in Kings, Carleton and Sunbury tomorrow, and the Queen's county convention on Friday.

Since the announcement of the election date there has been much favorable comment on the government's progressive policies in connection with the agricultural department, the crown lands, water power development, the highways, the public health, the provincial finances and other matters of vital interest to the people.

C. N. R. HEAD IMPRESSED WITH ST. JOHN

Natural Outlet for C. N. R.'s Western Business—More About Depot Plans.

That St. John is the natural outlet for the western business of the Canadian government railways was the way in which D. B. Hanna summed up this port's position after his tour of the railway terminals yesterday morning, so Mayor Schofield told a Times reporter this morning. The mayor said that many of the things talked over with the C. N. R. officials yesterday were not in shape for publication at the present time.

Regarding the new Union station here, however, he said that the proposed building would be a credit to the city. In doing away with the level crossing at Mill street, it was proposed to build an overhead viaduct from the corner of Pond street, ascending by five per cent grade to a level about 22 feet above the tram tracks, and descending again near the corner of Main and Mill streets. In front of the station a large area will be prepared where people may await the arrival of passengers without having to descend the stairs to the station level.

The bride, who was attended by Miss Monica Kelly, sister of the groom, looked charming in a navy blue travelling suit with hat to correspond, and a shade squirrel scarf and carried a bouquet of American beauty roses. The groom was supported by John English. Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents, after which Mr. and Mrs. Kelly left on the steamship Governor Dingley for a trip to Boston and New York. On their return they will reside at 81 Somerset street. They were the recipients of many beautiful presents, among which were a substantial check from the groom's father, and a beautiful leather chair from the staff of T. H. Estabrook Co., Ltd., with whom the bride was employed. The groom's present to the bridesmaid was an onyx ring, and to the groomsmen a set of gold cuff links.

GOVERNMENT
DESERVES WELL
OF THE PEOPLE

Hon. Dr. E. A. Smith Speaks on Retirement
His Whole-Hearted Support for Government Policy in Coming Election — Proud of Splendid Record Made.

(Special to The Times.)
Fredericton, N. B., Sept. 22.—I believe that the territorial revenue of the province this year will be more than $1,000,000, said Hon. E. A. Smith, former minister of lands and mines, to a representative of The Times last evening.

"During the last year of the old government it was $845,000, you see, but there has been a very substantial increase."
Hon. Dr. Smith, who lately resigned his portfolio in the government, arrived here yesterday to clean up his private correspondence and say farewell to the officials of the department over which he has presided for the last three and one-half years.

To a reporter he said he wished to give an emphatic denial to a statement which had appeared in the opposition press to the effect that he disagreed with his colleagues in the cabinet over the stumpage rate fixed for the ensuing year. He said:

"I wish to give a most emphatic denial to the statement that I stood out for a seven dollar stumpage rate and was overruled by my colleagues in the government. That statement was manufactured out of whole cloth. As a matter of fact, the rate of $5 a thousand was fixed for this year on my recommendation. I made the recommendation after a thorough investigation into the facts and figures, and it is based on the actual cost of production. Being personally interested in the lumbering business I know what it actually costs to get out a thousand feet of logs. The condition of the lumber market was also taken into consideration by me in making the recommendation."

"I wish to take this opportunity of saying that I have been in complete accord with every action taken by the government. Never since the first meeting in April, 1917, has there been the slightest difference between myself and my colleagues on a question of policy. I joined the administration determined to do my best in the interests of the province and believe the same motives actuated all my colleagues. I am proud of the splendid record made by the government and I think I can take credit to myself a share of the credit, particularly in connection with the department of lands and mines."

"In collecting the stumpage I believe we have come as close to the 100 per cent. scale as it is possible. The territorial revenue was $544,000 when we took office and I believe that it will run above $1,000,000 this year. I think it can be pardoned for feeling a deep sense of pride in the showing that has been made."

Asked in regard to his plans for the future, the ex-minister said that he had mapped out nothing definite for himself. He went on to say that his private business had suffered greatly during the last three years and would need considerable attention. "I want it understood," he said in conclusion, "that I am in complete accord with the general policy of the government and will give my whole-hearted support during the coming election. This government deserves well of the people of New Brunswick."

This morning, prior to Dr. Smith's departure, the office of all whom expressed regret that he had seen to terminate his connection with the office of minister of lands and mines.

GOOD THINGS COMING TO THEATRES OF
ST. JOHN

FROM LONDON TO
ST. JOHN COMPLETE

"The Maid of the Mountains" a Big Undertaking But All Canada Is Eagerly Waiting for It — Quebec and Halifax Start the Ball a Rolling. Direct from its record breaking run of five years (1882 performances) at Daly's Theatre, London, England, the greatest musical comedy of all time, "The Maid of the Mountains" is now on a limited tour of Canada prior to a full degree of the elements which are essential in musical plays—story, music and spectacle. These are splendidly balanced in this piece.

The settings are beyond compare. The first act showing the bandit's retreat in the mountains is a rare landscape gem. The second setting is that of the courtyard of the governor's palace, where all is regal gorgeousness. The final act is laid on a lonely bay on Devil's Island, giving a wonderful marine view from the rugged coast. Here the beautiful heroine, half Carmen and all Maid, is again re-united with her lover, whom she has betrayed in a fit of jealous anger.

Viva Baron as the Maid of the Mountains.

The music of "The Maid of the Mountains" is almost operatic in its brilliance and is familiar to many thousands through the medium of home pianos, orchestral concerts, gramophones and soloists. It is the music hit of a decade and leaves tender memories wherever heard.

The engagement in Halifax now on is nothing short of a romance and is being seen at the Star Theatre tonight in one of her latest Paramount pictures, "The Love of Letty."

The title of this picture might suggest a very tame story, but that is not so, as "The Love of Letty" gives Miss Frederick all the necessary possibilities and opportunities to display her wonderful talents and still hold her place among the great screen artists of the day.

PAULINE FREDERICK AT STAR THEATRE
Pauline Frederick, who is perhaps the greatest emotional actress on the screen, will be seen at the Star Theatre tonight in one of her latest Paramount pictures, "The Love of Letty."

FINAL NIGHT FOR "WHY CHANGE YOUR WIFE" AT THE IMPERIAL
The success that attended the truly splendid "Why Change Your Wife" at the Imperial Monday was repeated yesterday. This attractive interest feature will conclude its run tonight, with shows at 7 and 8.45. The special prices will prevail for tonight only. Tomorrow the Imperial returns to its usual row.

RICHARD HARDING DAVIS MASTERPIECE AT IMPERIAL TOMORROW
"Soldiers of Fortune" is perhaps the best example of consistent photoplays of the highly exciting type converted from a well-known novel. It is a delightful love yarn to begin with and splendidly set in a southern clime in a turesquely set in a southern clime in keeping with the book. But when it comes to the fighting—Central American revolutionists against the engineers and their workmen, all former captives at such realism are dwarfed. The Imperial staff—hard-boiled picture critics—consider this the grand climax, the most enthralling film to date.

NOTICE TO PATRONS OF THE EMPRESS
For those of our patrons who missed Episode 12 of the "Invisible Hand," we have arranged that it will be shown Wednesday and Thursday nights along with the regular show instead of on Saturday only, as previously announced.

TO MONTREAL

London, Sept. 22.—A Teheran, Persia despatch to the Daily Mail reports that the Bolsheviks have completely evacuated the important Caspian sea port of Baku.

All parties met and agreed to place the authority in the hands of the Soviet administration. The Azerbaijan Republic was thereupon recognized by the Bolsheviks and a body of Red troops entered Baku.

REV. H. A. CODY'S NEW BOOK.
In his new book, Glen of the High North, now on sale at the bookstores, Rev. H. A. Cody takes his readers back to the Yukon trails. There, amid the lonely peaks, the wooded valleys and rushing streams, the lakes and wild opening scene is in Vancouver, whose action takes place in the high north, and whose closing scene is the deck of a Pacific liner, the rare sunset of a perfect day. This is a book of stirring adventure, with the golden threads of a delightful love story running through it. Miners, good and bad, Indians, mounted police, and one dominating personality, apart from the heroine and her soldier, in turn command attention; while the reader is continually conscious of the strong stage-setting, familiar only to those who know the trails of the gold country that lies under the Alaskan sky.

To the latter the book is dedicated by the author. Man hunting, as well as big game hunting, are the features of the story, with the chief interest lies in the quest of the young soldier back from the plains in a crowded street, through a lone series of strange adventures until both gold and a woman's love are his reward, along with the nation of the mystery of a man's strange disappearance.

Glen of the High North is in complete contrast with Mr. Cody's book of last year, The Touch of Abner; but there and the reader's interest never flags. To the great and growing number of people who have Mr. Cody's books upon their shelves this latest offering will be very welcome.

SAY CLOTHING FOR MEN CHEAPER IN THE SPRING
Chicago, Sept. 22.—Good news was brought to Chicago today by the 2,000 delegates to the annual convention of the Retail Clothiers Association of America. Men's clothes are slated for a decrease of 33-1-8 per cent or more in price next spring.

In some instances, the slashing of woolen prices will be even greater, according to Fred Volland, of Topeka, Kansas, national director of the association.

"There is bound to be a decided reduction in prices by spring," he said, "if the American public keeps up the plan which it has instituted against the high cost of living, that is, not to buy the higher priced wools. These are not being bought now and are accumulating in the warehouses. The price of woolen surplus reaches a certain figure, prices are bound to drop."

PROVINCIAL APPOINTMENTS

(Special to Times)
Fredericton, Sept. 22.—Rev. George M. Young of the Fredericton Methodist church officiated at a quiet home wedding on Tuesday afternoon when the bride was Miss Grace Agnes Kierstead, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kierstead of Devon and Mrs. Donald McDonald, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hubbard McDonald, of Lunenburg. They declare they were given a diet of bread which they declared, looked like pea, and contained chaff and unground grain. They are frankly jubilant over their escape from the "Bolshevistic paradise."

GIRL ATTACKED IN RIVERSIDE PARK

While proceeding to her home in Marble Cove on last Sunday night a girl fifteen years of age is said to have been attacked by an as yet unknown man. She had been to church and was taking a short cut to her home through Riverside Park when a man sprang out from the bushes and seized her. She screamed for help, and struggled to break away, and evidently fearing that her cries had been heard the man made off. The girl's clothing was torn and it is said the prints of the man's fingers were discernible on her throat. When she reached her home and told her story the father is said to have started out in search of her assailant with a shot gun, but he failed to find any trace of him.

LOCAL NEWS
Winnipeg, Sept. 22.—Col. J. G. Ratray, chief of the Manitoba Provincial Police, gave orders yesterday to send six men to aid in a bandit hunt. He received an official report from the Saskatchewan provincial police stating that nine men were injured in a gun fight with five bandits.

The bandits raided a poker game in a shack at Barrow's on Sunday morning at 3.30, escaping with $1,000, which they took from the players. They were all masked and armed. One of the bandits has been wounded by a posse.

The posse now has eight and the bandits rounded up five miles west of Roscoe close to the Canadian National tracks, three of the bandits being on one side of the track and two on the other surrounded by police and armed citizens. Their escape seems impossible.

IN WALL STREET.
New York, Sept. 22.—Motor shares and kindred issues were again singled out for pressure at the opening of today's stock market, presumably in consequence of doubtful trade conditions.

Among rail price changes were uncertain, nominal losses in Canadian Pacific, Missouri Pacific, Wheeling and Lake Erie preferred, Colorado Southern, Bear River, and Erie, rose one and a half points. Tobacco rose one and a half points. Crude oil was inclined to advance, but other staples continued reactionary. Local supplies of oil money at seven per cent were augmented by out-of-town offerings. Exchange rates on London and Paris were lower.

NOON REPORT.
Trading was fairly active during the morning on more extensive offerings of Montreal oils, equipments and coppers. Shippings, leathers and rubbers also made further recessions, but secondary rails, notably the Pennsylvania, Wheeling and Lake Erie preferred, Colorado Southern, Bear River, and Erie, rose one and a half points. Tobacco rose one and a half points. Crude oil was inclined to advance, but other staples continued reactionary. Local supplies of oil money at seven per cent were augmented by out-of-town offerings. Exchange rates on London and Paris were lower.

WHEAT AND OATS
Chicago, Sept. 22.—Fresh declines in the price of wheat took place today owing to down turns in other commodities, but subsequently news of big exports of wheat caused a rally. Selling was of only a scattered sort. The opening which varied from unchanged figures to 2 cents lower, with December $2.31 to $2.32 and March $2.24 1/2 to $2.26, were followed by a general sag and then a decided reaction.

New low price levels for the season were reached in the corn market. Sentiment was bearish owing to continued fine weather. After opening unchanged to 1 cent lower, with December $1.04 1/2 to $1.04 3/4, the market broke all around, but then recovered somewhat.

Data like corn dropped to lowest quotations yet on the crop starting unchanged to 5-8 cent off, and continuing to weaken. Sethacks in the price of wheat and corn had a depressing effect on provisions.

SOME CAN TAKE A Chance and Get Away With It

Some people are born harm-proof, others, through their world experience, acquire the faculty of steering clear of danger, but the chap who was seen filling his gasoline tank in Mill street, must have had angels watching over him, or else there was a well defined and highly insulated neutral zone separating him from danger. A citizen on the way home saw the car stopped alongside the curb and while one man poured highly inflammable gasoline into the tank from a can, another held aloft a lighted match by which his friend guided the stream.

Said citizen being of the safety first type had to undergo a momentary contest in the safety of distance started a heated controversy with the motorists, but to no avail. The can emptied, the match end was thrown into the gutter and the pair entered the car and sped away while the citizen continued his way home, marvelling at the way in which some people get away with it.

Joseph Murphy, who was put up arrested in the house last night, put up a deposit of $50, but did not appear this morning.

A case against Steve Prokovich, on a charge of breaking and entering the store of A. B. Gilmore, 68 King street, and stealing cloth, was resumed. Aileen Morris, butler in the employ of A. B. Gilmore, identical cloth produced in court as that belonging to the store, and said he would place the value of it at about $425.

He said his prisoner had a key which they afterwards discovered would open McInerney's tailor shop in Dock street. He also told of robbing the store. Detective Saunders gave corroborative evidence and the case was postponed until tomorrow. Philip Butler, charged with assaulting his wife, was resumed, and Margaret Hector gave evidence. The accused was fined $20 or over months in jail. One man charged with drunkenness pleaded guilty and was fined $8 or two months in jail.

PECULIAR SECT
IN MESOPOTAMIA

Are Known as Yesedi, Number 60,000 Souls and Live Across Tigris at Mosul.

According to a writer in the Pioneer there exist a community in Mesopotamia which worship the devil.

They are known as the "Yesedi" and are a semi-barbarous race of mixed Arab origin—Arab and Kurdish. They number some 60,000 souls, the majority of whom dwell in the Jebel Sinjar Hills, opposite to Mosul, east of the River Tigris. In smaller numbers they are to be found in Aleppo, Diarbakr, Tifis and Teheran.

They speak a dialect a Kurdish, are industrious, very abstemious, courageous and hospitable, and are steeped in ignorance. Is this any wonder, when their religion forbids the study of letters? Their numbers have been considerably diminished by persecution, and only a few years ago the Turks (in 1892) massacred some thousands of them.

Their religion is really a survival of primitive superstition overlaid with elements of Christianity, Judaism and Mohammedanism. They believe there are two great spirits "Melek Taus," the devil, and "Malek Isa," Jesus. Each of these spirits are to reign 10,000 years; but as the devil is, they say, at present supreme, he is accorded the highest place.

Four thousand years of his reign are now over and when the remaining 6,000 years pass away then Jesus will appear and drive the devil into hell, where he will weep so copiously that the fires of hell will be extinguished by his tears. He will then be pardoned and restored to his former position as Caliph of Archangels.

The reason for placing Jesus in the sacred category is that his reign is not yet, and being merciful, good and slow in anger, and of great kindness He is not therefore, to be dreaded or feared.

At their great feasts one sheep is sacrificed to Jesus and seven to the devil, because the latter is a jealous and exacting god. They believe in the incarnation and passion of Jesus, but not His death on the Cross. His first coming was, they consider, a failure, because He was unable to break the power of sin.

They respect the Sign of the Cross, reverence the sun and moon, and daily kiss the ground where the sun's rays first strikes the ground. They believe in a Supreme Being but do not worship Him as being Lord of Heaven; he takes no account of the earth or the things that dwell therein. Mahomed is regarded as a prophet, and Mecca is looked upon as a holy place. Though there is no actual evidence that they worship serpents, the walls of their temples are adorned with images of high black serpents. It is considered very impious to spit into fire. Lamps are also continuously kept burning in front of the ark in which the images of the devil are kept.

The Story of The Creation.

The Yesedis believe they were created from Adam and Eve, but that there are 71 Adams and Eves from whom all the rest of the world were created—each of these Adams and Eves are created to have lived 10,000 years each. It is said that in the beginning Adam and Eve had a dispute as to which of them possessed creative powers. To settle this dispute they spat into separate vases, which were then sealed for nine months. When opened at the end of this period, in Eve's vase were found reptiles and worms, etc.; while in Adam's vase were two very lovely children—a girl and a boy—from whom the Yesedi sprang. Eve was so incensed at the result that she refused to suckle the children, but

GRASS LOSSES "PEP", BONES AND ASHES ARE FED TO COWS

Even grass is not as good as it used to be. Farmers at the annual meeting of the Toronto and York Milk Producers' last week learned that their cows might eat as much grass as they did twenty years ago, but they would not give as much milk. The cows are not to blame, Prof. H. H. Dean told the farmers. It is the grass.

Soll has been used for so long in Ontario, the professor said, that some of the minerals necessary to produce the lactic fluid in large quantities had been exhausted. But scientists had discovered means to remedy the defect in the grass. By adding finely ground bones and wood ashes to the cow's daily menu the milk yield had been increased as much as twenty-five per cent.

The farmers went home rejoicing for on nearly every farm is yet to be found a wood-lot and bones can be obtained much more easily in the country than in the city.

LORD BURNHAM SAYS FAREWELL TO THE DOMINION

Head of Imperial Press Conference Makes Strong Plea For National Stability in Canada and in the Empire.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

Quebec, Sept. 21.—Viscount Burnham, who acted as president of the Imperial Press Conference, and was head of the great mission of newspaper men during their entire stay in the country, was the guest of honor, at a luncheon offered by the Quebec Press Club at the Chateau Frontenac at noon today. Lord Burnham made his adieu to the province of Quebec, and this city in particular, and to Canada in general, expressing his delight at his visit to the Dominion with the press delegates and saying he sincerely hoped he would soon again be given the opportunity of returning to Canada and the great and generous hospitality its people had offered the Imperial Pressmen.

Lord Burnham said that he wished to emphasize strongly the need of national stability here and everywhere because it was stability the Empire stood in need of today. I don't say, "let us rest and be thankful," said Lord Burnham in concluding his address.

Lord Burnham also spoke of the development of trade relations between Canada and the other parts of the Empire, and his address was greeted with loud applause by all those who were present at the luncheon.

SEARCHING THE ATLANTIC FOR SPAWNING EELS

Cardiff, Wales, Sept. 2.—Dr. Johannes Schmidt, a Danish scientist, is searching the Atlantic between the Azores and the West Indies for spawning fresh water eels, which the eye of man has never seen.

This announcement was made by Dr. W. A. Herdman, professor of oceanography at Liverpool University, in his presidential address before the annual conference of the British Association. "All the eels of the streams and lakes of northwestern Europe," Dr. Herdman said, "live and feed and grow under our eyes without repeating their kind; no spawning eel has ever been seen. After living for years in immaturity, it migrates to the end of their lives, the large male and female yellow eels undergo change in appearance and in nature. They acquire a silvery color and their eyes enlarge, and in this bright attire they commence the long journey which ends in maturity, reproduction and death."

The migrate in the autumn to the coast, from the inshore seas to the open ocean and still westward and south to the mid-Atlantic and we know not how far. The eels are probably not long hatched. Now Dr. Schmidt is traversing the Atlantic in the hope of finding the missing link in the chain, the actual spawning fresh water eel, in the intermediate waters somewhere above the abysses of the open ocean.

NEW MAMMOTH OF OLDEN DAYS

The curators of the Launceston and Tasmanian Museums have presented to the Royal Society of Tasmania the preliminary account of a nearly complete skeleton of a gigantic extinct monster, recently discovered in the pleistocene beds of Tasmania. The animal, as large as the largest existing rhinoceros, was first described from a few bones by the late Sir Richard Owen at the meeting of the British Association in York in 1844. He named it Nototherium mitchelli, and recognized that it belonged to the marsupials or pouched animals, but had too scanty material to give a full description. It has generally been supposed to be a relative of the wombat or marsupial bear, but the new discovery shows clearly that it was a rhinoceros-like animal, with skull built for aggressive warfare, and at least one powerful horn on the snout. Evidence of the gigantic battles in which the animal engaged is to be found in the complete smashing and partial mending of the collar-bone, and in the crushing and subsequent repair of the bones of the nose and snout.

This most interesting find adds to the knowledge of the peculiar parallel development found among the pouched animals of Australasia. All these marsupial animals represent a lower grade of evolution than the familiar animals of the rest of the world, and appear to have developed along lines of their own, shut off from the general stream of mammalian evolution. None the less they mimic in a striking way the orders into which the higher mammals have become divided. There are small marsupial rats and mice, rabbits and kangaroos, and herbivora of all sizes from the small wallabies to large kangaroos, carnivorous forms like the Tasmanian devil and the wolf or thylacine, pouched flying squirrels, pouched ground bears and tree bears. Many large extinct marsupials are known, and opinion is coming round to the original description of Owen's Thylacine as a carnivore.

It is to be remembered that these marsupials are entirely independent developments of the mammalian life; there is no suggestion, for example, that the marsupial rhinoceros is related, except in shape and habits, to the true rhinoceros.

An investigation is being held as to what caused the death of Miss Winnifred Hamm, of Mahone, N. S., who died recently in Montreal. An inquest was held in Mahone recently and a verdict returned to the effect that the young lady died from unnatural causes and not from heart failure as stated in the medical certificate. HYDRO-ELECTRIC COMMISSION MEETS IN MONCTON

Moncton, N.B., Sept. 21.—C. O. Foss, chief engineer of the New Brunswick Electric Power Commission, and Mr. Mitchell of Montreal, consulting engineer, were in town today attending a meeting of the commission. It is understood that surveys and plans for the Musquash and Shegomec power schemes are practically completed and the engineers estimate the cost of power at these sites is reasonable and that it will be possible to supply power to municipalities at from one cent to two cents per kilowatt hour according to the length of the transmission line.

The work of development is to proceed with all reasonable despatch and Mr. Foss, the chief engineer, has referred all plans to Mr. Helgate of Montreal.

Mitchell Brothers of Montreal, who are consulting engineers in connection with the Nova Scotia development have been engaged to supervise the New Brunswick development as well. The well known firm of Toombs & Son have disposed of its business to a company comprised of local and outside parties who will take charge of the business on Monday next. Toombs & Son have conducted a successful wholesale grocery and feed business in Moncton for the last twenty-five years, the business being started by the present manager, former Mayor John B. Toombs.

Bull Fighting vs. Baseball.

Madrid, Sept. 22.—Bull-fighting, from the spectators' point of view, is becoming almost as strenuous as baseball. Bull-fight "fans" at Haro, displeased with the work of the terro, assailed him with a volley of stones. He was obliged to seek police protection. "Pop" bottles are not available at Spanish bullfights, and spectators are therefore obliged to fall back upon stones as ammunition when they feel impelled to demonstrate their disapproval.

TORONTO FOLKS
LAY IN WINTER
COAL SUPPLY

Only 60 Per Cent. of All Coal in the City Said to Be in the Hands of Dealers.

(Toronto Telegram.)

"Though there is a great deal of anthracite coal in Toronto at present," stated Fuel Controller Harrington this morning, there is very little of it in the hands of the coal dealers. This shows that the people have been wise enough to get in their winter's supply when it was possible, but as far as the coal dealers' supply goes, they have no stock ahead. There is, however, no cause for a panic," he stated. The situation is this: There are at present some forty per cent. of the anthracite coal mines in the Pennsylvania district closed down by the strike. The other sixty per cent. are working more or less in the usual way.

"The strike is not centralized, but is scattered over different sections of the coal district. Some of the coal dealers in Toronto have shut down, even some of the larger firms, and cannot get a single ton of coal. These men have been dealing directly with those sections which have been closed down. There are others, however, who can get coal because the mines which supply them are still working in full blast."

Getting 60 Per Cent.

"In Toronto we should ordinarily get some 150 carloads of coal a day. Before the strike commenced two weeks ago we were receiving by rail some 120 to 130 carloads a day. At the present time we are not getting that owing to the strike, but we are still receiving around sixty per cent., or an average of seventy to seventy-five carloads a day. This is immediately grabbed up and dealt out to the consumers, so that the dealers simply supply their patrons from the coal coming in."

"What do you think of the Trades and Labor delegates' opinion that the coal dealers should lower their prices?" was asked.

"I don't see how it would be possible for them to do so and continue in business. Recently the Jacques & Dary firm assigned, simply because they could not get coal, and could not get enough profit to run the business on. They used to handle a large business of some 25,000 tons a week, and now they have turned over some 16,000 tons for me to dispose of. It would be out of the question to supply Toronto people direct from the Pennsylvania mines."

Some of the local retailers say their last ton on hand will be delivered by the end of the week. Others are getting a partial supply.

C. Marshall, of the Standard Fuel Co., stated that at present they were getting in about forty per cent., or about 800 tons a day, almost entirely by water from Oswego.

"We are supplying only our own customers," he stated, "and have so far supplied about forty per cent. of them. We have none at all on hand, but have been able to get in a fairly steady supply by the boats alone, receiving scarcely any by rail."

None on Hand.

The Conger coal officers stated that there was no coal on hand at present at all and that none was expected for a week at least. They are taking no orders and cannot say definitely when there will be any taken.

The Elias Rogers Co. is taking no orders, but is supplying those orders which have already been laid.

"The coal is coming very slowly, and we have scarcely any on hand," was their report.

The Connell Coal Co. have none on hand at all, are taking no orders and are expecting some to arrive next week. "We are still taking orders, although I do not know exactly how much we have on hand," said Mr. Burns of P. Burns & Co. The coal is coming and going all the time. We have no great stock on hand now."

"We are just dealing in a hand-to-mouth way," stated Mr. Milnes, "and are supplying our customers just as it comes in. We have no stock on hand."

Coal By Water.

Receipts for coal, according to the harbor master's statistics, give for August and September up to date, 16,835 tons, as compared with 19,221 for the same period last year, a deficit of 2,386 tons. Altogether some 60,000 tons have been received since the beginning of navigation this year.

"If there were lots of coal we would not bother about water transport," stated the fuel controller. "There is one advantage in hauling it by water in that it allows the coal cars to get back to the mines even before the coal is delivered in Toronto, whereas there is considerable hold-up with switchings, cun-berns, etc., when railways are used. However, it costs $6.20 per ton by boat for shipment and only $5.84 by train. That makes a decided difference."

NEW YORK'S FOOD FILLS MANY TRAINS

Receipts of Eight Leading Fruits and Vegetables Require 50,000 Cars a Year.

(New York Times)

According to figures just compiled by the United States Bureau of Markets, the 7,000,000 consumers who live in this city and suburbs and depend on the New York wholesale markets require each year nearly 50,000 cars of the eight leading fruits and vegetables. Such a number of cars would make a train 370 miles long or would extend from New York City across the State to Rochester. In the eight commodities are apples, potatoes, cabbage, onions, tomatoes, strawberries, cantaloupes and peaches. The receipts in this city of these commodities are about 15 per cent. of the total quantity reported shipped each year.

For the four years of 1916, 1917, 1918 and 1919 a total of 148,254 cars of the eight products were received in New York's terminals a yearly average of 48,888. Receipts were heaviest in 1916, when about 60,100 cars were received, and unloaded, as compared with 48,280 in 1917, with 49,150 in 1918 and with 47,700 in 1919.

"Approximately 29,900 cars of potatoes, onions, cabbage and tomatoes were received for consumption yearly, as compared with a yearly average of 19,000 cars of apples, peaches, melons and cantaloupes," says a statement from the Bureau of Markets. "In 1919 about 28,400 cars of these vegetables were received for consumption, as compared with 29,900 in 1918, with 30,600 in 1917, and with 30,560 in 1916. Receipts of these fruits were 19,200 cars in 1919 as compared with 19,250 in 1918, with 17,750 in 1917 and with 19,500 in 1916.

"The total shipments reported of potatoes, onions, cabbage and tomatoes for the four-year period were 823,000 cars, or a yearly average of about 205,750 cars; the four leading fruits filled 471,750 cars, or a yearly average of about 118,000 cars. Thus New York's annual consumption of the vegetables mentioned represent about 14 per cent. of all shipments of these vegetables while the demand for apples, peaches, melons and cantaloupes represents about 16 per cent. of the total shipments of these fruits.

"The yearly receipts of apples comprise about 52 per cent. of all cars of these four lines of fruits received for consumption at New York each year.

"As in other cities the quantity of boxed apples received for consumption at New York has gained each year during the four-year period. The growing demand probably is in part, due to increased production and to intensive marketing campaigns.

"The yearly receipts of onions at New York were about twice those of cabbage. Approximately 4,700 cars of onions enter into consumption at this market each year, as compared with about 2,300 cars of cabbage. Receipts of peaches exceed those of cantaloupes by about 300 cars annually.

"Tomato receipts were fairly constant for the four years, while those of strawberries showed a heavy decrease in 1919 and 1918. This decrease is in harmony with the reduced production.

"Practically 85 per cent. of New York City's supply of barreled apples came from New York, New Jersey and Virginia, while Washington and Oregon contributed about 80 per cent. of the boxed apples. California and Idaho were fairly heavy contributors to New York's boxed apple supplies also, but practically none was received from Colorado, Montana and Utah.

"Car lot receipts of apples are heaviest in October, November and December; lightest during January and February; and in April, May and June, and peak in June, while receipts of tomatoes are heaviest during May, June, July and August."

FIGHT TO DEATH

Max Cohen of Chicago Chokes Rival in Half Hour Combat.

Chicago, Sept. 22—A hand-to-hand fight for thirty minutes between two men, rivals for the affections of a woman, ended only when the more powerful choked the other to death.

The tragedy, which occurred in the apartment of Mrs. Jean Lawrence, 4221 Grand Boulevard, resulted in the arrest of Max Cohen, 5490 Prairie avenue, son of a wealthy jeweler, charged with strangling to death David Buckley Slavin, 83, a salesman living at 4218 Sheridan road.

Mrs. Lawrence, a divorcee, for whose affections the two men fought, and who, it is said, watched the death struggle, was held by the police as a material witness.

Both Mrs. Lawrence and Cohen were found in the apartment with the body of an hour after Slavin died. Cohen made a confession to the police which was corroborated by Mrs. Lawrence.

TO UTILIZE BUFFALO WOOL. Winter Clothing to be Made for Yellowstone Park Rangers.

That original American, the bison, is going to be asked to pay his board, says the New York Times. Supported in royal idleness for many years by the government, the buffalo, once king of the plains, must now bow to the changing times and become a producer instead of remaining a mere ornament.

Each member of the buffalo family produces annually much fine wool, which in these days of high prices makes them desirable citizens in the best sense of the term. Furthermore, unlike those sheep that are used to adorn the once useful nickel.

Refuse to Allow Bout. Boston, Sept. 21—The State boxing commission again today refused to authorize a bout in which Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion, was to be one of the contenders. Members of the commission said that Dempsey would be allowed to fight in Massachusetts only against a logical contender for his title. The proposed bout which was turned down today was one between Bill Brennan and Dempsey which was sought to transfer here after the New York boxing commission refused to issue a license for it within its jurisdiction at the present time.

Tariff Commissioners Not Committed to Any Theory

Though Appointed by a Protectionist Premier They Are Likely to Move Towards a Lower Rather Than a Higher Tariff—Glimpse of Personalities and Politics.

By M. GRATTAN O'LEARY
The Ministerial commission enters upon its task of ascertaining economic facts necessary to enable it to advise what must be done to produce a scientific tariff, it is interesting to glance at the personalities and personalities of the men upon whose findings much of the future fiscal policy of the Government will depend.

Sir H. L. Drayton

Sir Henry Drayton, to begin with, the commission chairman, is a politician who may be termed a realist in politics. The product of an environment where efficiency is far higher than political practicality, Sir Henry is of that type of practical, positive mind which cares little for shibboleths and form—like, but believes that problems and issues must be met and solved by application of remedies suitable to their needs. The extreme partisan, whether Liberal or Conservative, is frequently liable to have his freedom of action manacled by a firm devotion to principles and traditions, and to changing problems will often apply theories and policies which, however efficacious in their time, may be entirely unsuited to the hard realities of to-day. Sir Henry Drayton is the very antithesis of this type. Watching him in the House of Commons and noting his career since coming to Ottawa, one doubts whether he the role of a mediator in the Cabinet for the maximum of free trade, or whether he will take advantage of this last opportunity to return to his former friends, time only can tell.

Hon. J. Calder

care in the slightest degree for either Protection or Free Trade, as such. On the contrary, his speeches give the impression of a man who regards such things not as political principles, nor as creeds, but as means to an end, to be adopted or rejected as, in his judgment, the needs of the country demand. Mr. Meighen and Sir George Foster, while not bigoted Protectionists in the sense that Mr. Cockfield is, will speak of the N. P. with reverential respect, as a sort of Ark of the Covenant upon which no Agrarian must lay unholy hands; and Dr. Michael Clark's voice falls almost into whistled area when he speaks of Richard Golden. Sir Henry Drayton is as free as the air from such loyalty to tradition. His speeches may be searched in vain for any of the high-sounding phrases about the "glorious old N. P."—so inappreciable from the fiscal orators of many Ministers' leaders—while, on the other hand, his budget address of last year, notably that part of it which exposed the folly of placing dead assets against the public debt, disclosed a mind not afraid to break new ground and anxious to deal with realities.

Policy Already Set.
AND so, insofar as the clearly defined limitations of the tariff policy of the Government will permit, it must be remembered that the Ministry is not depending upon this inquiry to give it a fiscal policy, that policy having already been incorporated into the National Liberal & Conservative Party platform—the country can pretty safely depend that Sir Henry Drayton's conclusions from the testimony to be presented will not be warped by any bigoted devotion to either Protection or Free Trade. One may doubt whether the Minister of Finance will make recommendations calculated to do violence to the Ministry's real principles, but, on the other hand, judging solely from Sir Henry's political record in Parliament and in the Cabinet there seems little reason for fearing that he will err on the side of any particular policy or class without regard for the country as a whole.

About Mr. Calder it is less easy to be sure. The silent man from the Plains remains one of the enigmas of Canadian politics. There are some who hold that Mr. Calder is the champion of Canadian Liberalism, that he has definitely crossed the tulle into the enemy's camp, and that from being a militant champion of free trade he has become the friend of plutocracy and protection. But there are many who take issue with such a view. Liberals who hold that Mr. Calder has not burned all his bridges behind him, that such a captain must not be lightly surrendered to the foe, and from time to time Ottawa witnesses his efforts to work with the Finance and policy of his colleagues there is hardly a doubt but that the followers of Mr. Calder would receive him with open arms. This far, however, he has not spoken a word or visible that might even be taken as a hint as to what his course may be. On the budget of last session (the same fact was confirmed as significant) he intended to announce such a tariff as the fiscal policy of the National party platform demands, retaining content to play the role of a mediator in the Cabinet for the maximum of free trade, or whether he will take advantage of this last opportunity to return to his former friends, time only can tell.

Labors Representative.
SENATOR GIBSON ROBERTSON, who, it may be stated, for granted, represents Labor on the commission, has, so far as is known, given no indication of any decided leaning towards either Protection or Free Trade. He is commonly assumed, however, that he believes in a moderate tariff, and will use whatever influence he may have toward that end. Robertson, however, is more of a politician than is commonly supposed, and his attitude may largely depend upon the representation which the workers may make before the commission.

Far less complex is the mind and character of Mr. Tolmie, Minister of Agriculture, and the fourth and last member of the Commission. Mr. Tolmie is a plain man whose processes of thought are direct and simple, a politician utterly without guile or pretension to political infallibility. He is no manner of mystic, a Free Trader, and probably proud of the fact that he has never read a line of Adam Smith. Mr. Tolmie is first and foremost an agriculturist, intensely interested in the work of his department, and by no means to be reckoned in the ranks of those who bow down before the tall chimney. In other words, Mr. Tolmie may be correctly described as one who, although not a high protectionist, and believing that protection has frequently been used for the benefit of a few, yet holds that a tariff is necessary for the safety and development of the country. Taken all in all, it cannot be charged that Mr. Tolmie has selected a Protectionist commission. Indeed, if it errs on one side at all, it is on the side of lower tariff.

COULDN'T BE DONE
MAJOR-GEN. DUNSTERVILLE, author of "The Adventures of Dunsterforce," is fond of telling the story of a retired colonel, a friend of his, who, as he discreetly phrases it, "is one of the best fellows and by no means a bigoted teetotaler." One day, says Major-Gen. Dunsterforce, my friend was strolling down the village street, meditating on the high price of whiskey, and other things, when he met the rector. "Ah by the way, colonel," said the good man, "I wanted a word with you regarding that soldier prisoner of yours."

"You mean my old orderly, Corp. Adams?"
"Yes, I am afraid—I am very greatly afraid—that he is—ahem!—addicted to drink."
"What?" roared the colonel. "On a measly allowance of a quid a week, and with beer—and such beer!—at its present price?"
The rector nodded gravely.
"Impossible, my dear sir! It can't be done. I must raise the amount to thirty bob."

Son of Late E. H. Harriman, Railroad Wizard, Is on the Way to Fanie

AS MARINE OPERATOR

Not Yet Thirty, Brings Off Coup Which Makes Him Head of Big Line.

By B. C. FORBES.
HARRIMAN the Second has arisen. Although not yet 30, he has brought off a coup that puts him at the head of what is described as the greatest steamship line in the world. The Harriman Line is to succeed the famous Hamburg-American Steamship Co. and will serve all the ports formerly reached by the Germans. The public will soon know him as "The Steamship King."

Averill Harriman

By CHESTER J. FROWDE.
IT was a well-advised move on the part of the Drury Government to select Mrs. Adam Shortt of Ottawa to act on the Mothers' Pensions Allowances Board, now well launched in its praiseworthy work.

Mrs. Shortt's career has been one of unswerving activity on behalf of the cause of women and social service work. It is not generally known that she is a fully qualified woman physician. In fact, one of the first women in Canada to obtain her degree of M.D.

Born in the little town of Winona, Ontario, on January 13, 1859, Mrs. Shortt, whose maiden name is Elizabeth Smith, received a private education first, then attending Hamilton Collegiate Institute and later, on Royal Medical College, Kingston, Ont. She received her degree of M.D. at the age of twenty-five. In 1888 she was married to Prof. Adam Shortt, now in charge of the Historical Publications at the Public Archives, Ottawa, and one of the most noted educationists in the Dominion. Mrs. Shortt was instrumental in having a separate course for women instituted at Kingston leading to the establishment of the Women's Medical College there. She was engaged to lecture on medical jurisprudence and sanitary science from 1887 to 1889. Her boundless energies found an outlet in other activities of the institution and she was for a time president of the Ladies' Musical Club there, and Co., Inc., which deals in marine securities of all kinds.

But building ships owning ships and transporting freight did not complete the dream of this ambitious son of an ambitious father. He had not intended the passenger fleet. He had not intended to build a yard, acquire a large site at Bristol, Pa., for the Emergency Fleet Corporation. From building ships he graduated to operating ships. Early in 1913 he became heavily interested in the American-Hawaiian Steamship Line, and later became its active head. He also joined forces with William H. Blander and a partner in the Shawmut Steamship Co., who owned a number of ships and were having two more built by Harriman.

Underwrites His Ships
THE original Harriman learned the important part finance plays in large-scale business operations. The lesson was passed on to the son. Having become extensively interested in both the building of ships and the operating of ships, young Harriman diagnosed that he must properly attend to financing his ambitious projects. Accordingly, he formed W. A. Harriman and Co., Inc., which deals in marine securities of all kinds. But building ships owning ships and transporting freight did not complete the dream of this ambitious son of an ambitious father. He had not intended the passenger fleet. He had not intended to build a yard, acquire a large site at Bristol, Pa., for the Emergency Fleet Corporation. He also joined forces with William H. Blander and a partner in the Shawmut Steamship Co., who owned a number of ships and were having two more built by Harriman.

What happened is told in this paragraph of an official statement: "Subject to agreement on minor details, an agreement has been signed whereby, for a period of at least twenty years, the Harriman interests have agreed to supply sufficient tonnage flying the American flag, to promptly reopen the most important of the old Hamburg-American trade routes, and eventually many more of them. In this connection it is interesting to recall that before the great war Hamburg-American was the largest steamship company in the world. Unlike his father, young Harriman is a giant in height. He is a serious-minded fellow. Notwithstanding all his vast business responsibilities, he feels very keenly that he owes certain duties to the world because of the possession into which he was born. The original Harriman's favorite hobby was a boys' club he founded in a poor section of New York. The son is carrying on this work with vigor and enthusiasm. No business or social engagement is permitted to prevent him from attending the Boys' Club meetings. Also, he is an active member of the Interstate Palisade Park Commission, on both the New York and New Jersey sides. These meetings also take precedence over business calls.

The career of W. Averill Harriman will be worth following. Those who know him intimately declare that he is likely to accomplish even bigger things than his father accomplished before being stricken down in the heyday of his power, just after passing sixty.

LITVINOFF IS MOST BITTER BOLSHEVIK

Extreme Revolutionary Far in Advance of Main Body of Bolshevism.

A FRENZIED ORATOR

Story of How Barefoot Boy Became Scholarly, Radical, and Powerful.

WITH Maxim Litvinoff—assuming that to be his real name—we come down from the divan to the heroes of Bolshevism—Litvinoff—a hundred per cent. Bolshevist every hour of the twenty-four, as one admirer puts it—has sacrificed more for the cause than anyone else in the way of arrest, the risking of his life in reckless escapades, the baiting of the bourgeoisie in its own strongholds, and in perilous propaganda. The personal aspect of Litvinoff, to say nothing of his vocabulary, is so extraordinary that he would draw a crowd anywhere and that fact makes him a good missionary. He has the misfortune to seem an extremist to his own circle—even to Radok, who once openly reproved Litvinoff, the Naples Avanti says, for being so far in advance of the main body of Bolshevism.

Maxim Litvinoff

Litvinoff, although a Jew, champions the primitive communism of the early Christians in the days of the apostles. He beholds an enemy in society, the Frankfurter Zeitung fears, in any head that lifts itself even slightly above the level of the mob. His equality and his communism are passions and his oratory looks now and then like epileptic frenzy. He loves Bolshevism because there is nothing more extreme in fact, whatever may be said about theory. He does not live in the shadow, like Lenin. He affects no mystery, after the fashion of Trotsky. Nevertheless he is a lonely figure, whose one kindred spirit is the aristocrat Bucharin, another champion of primitive communism whom Lenin deprecates as too revolutionary for the times.

It would be too difficult now to determine whether his real name is Isaac Finkelstein, as the Debata suspects, or Mordecai Strauss, as another legend has it. He seems to have been born some five years ago at Bielostok where his birth was registered as Meyer Valishok, or Valichok. His father is said to have lived by peddling laces in the streets, by working as a journeyman tailor and by carrying bundles from the railway station when arriving travelers would let him. The little boy began to run barefoot through the streets as soon as he could use his feet. He grew up in an environment of poverty and hardship, and he knows, at least the French dailies do not, how he acquired his respectable linguistic accomplishments. His fluent style as a writer of pamphlets, and his ability to sew, to cook and to use tools as well as to resolve. His scholarship is said to have been derived from a rabbi in the Jewish quarter of his native town.

Young at Revolution
LITVINOFF was not much past twenty when he found his place among the higher grades of the revolutionary world. Litvinoff, of course, had to fly and, like Lenin, like Zinoviev, like all the others, he went to Switzerland and thence to France. With his ample supplies of funds, he had the hope for the future of the revolution and his fertility in devising conspiracies. Litvinoff, as he now definitely called himself, made a great hit among the comrades at Paris. That tendency to the flamboyant in costume, observes the Matin, which seems a manifestation of some 'ing Oriental in his nature, now asserted itself. He had yellow waistcoats and long rolled collars from which flowed the ends of a vivid red necktie. When he ate he thrived on huge silks, handkerchiefs under his chin. His hats had enormous brims and his shoes took on strange hues like very dark green. He showed great fondness for the piety at a certain famous but expensive restaurant and he wanted his champagne dry and very cold. His appetite was prodigious. He invited the hungriest comrades to dinner and he paid everybody's bill almost without looking at it. His apartment off the Rue Pascal was filled with revolutionary literature and he stuck the pictures of Bakunin, Marx and Lassalle on the walls.

During his period of exile in Paris, Litvinoff maintained an apartment at Berlin, where he carried on a correspondence with Lenin, then in Gailis, and with Tchicherin, then at his home in Moscow. Upon Litvinoff fell the duty of financing these stages of the revolution and his success was as brilliant as the French newspaper, as it was mysterious. He made flying trips from Paris to Geneva and from Geneva to Berlin, scattering money among the excited revolutionaries. His career was checked one day when he stepped off a train in Paris by the action of the police, who seized him at the Gare d'Est. He had in his wallet hundreds of thousands of francs, the proceeds of a series of highway robberies and bank burglaries in places as far apart as Tilsit and Kieff.

Married English Girl
EXILED from France, driven out of Germany, Litvinoff, if his sources of income evidently dried up, took refuge in England. He was for some few years a clerk in a London bookseller's shop, sleeping for a time, it is said, in a packing case in a back yard, and subsisting upon the scraps from hotels. He took pains at this period to perfect himself in the English language, which he speaks with a decided accent but which he reads easily and writes with facility. He married the daughter of a distinguished English critic. He kept up his correspondence with Lenin and when he was in very reduced circumstances he received financial assistance from the generous Tchicherin. However serious the allegations against his personal character, says the Debata, Litvinoff never forfeited his place among the Bolshevists of the inner circle. He retains the confidence of the Lenins and the Bakets because of his genius for expedients in hours of crisis. In the black night of revolution when Tchicherin wrings his hands and even Lenin thinks of packing his valises for Switzerland, Litvinoff seems inspired. It was he who planned the train robbery near Tiflis that has the cause upon its feet with funds from the Czar's treasury when bankruptcy seemed inevitable.

The successes of Litvinoff are distinguished by his fiascos, of which the French newspapers make the most. His spectacular collapse was due to the capacity of Soviet Ambassador to the Court of St. James, to which post Tchicherin duly appointed him.

Peasant Premier Who Makes 'Em Work
STAMBULSKI, the Premier of Bulgaria, who has introduced a Bill by which every man or woman may be called on to work for his country, comes of the peasant yeoman stock for which the Agrarians, his party, speak. Outside his door on the corridor of the Ministry of War the peasants wait all day to tell him their little worries. A swarthy Bulgarian of early middle age, with heavy face and body, no suavity in costume or address, a shade suspicious, he speaks practically only his native tongue. When he had set about his education, to continue it he married the village schoolmistress of more than his own age. He is not without argumentative subtlety and the wisdom of compromise. He told the communists that he will fight them a outpost, but he guaranteed their deputies freedom of speech. Then he dissolved the Chamber, and he arrested the Bolshevists as they left the door, for by dissolution they ceased to be deputies.

When he talks of his Rumanian neighbors you can see his willingness to compromise on the Dobrudja. But with the Greeks in Thrace, no, no. That is the old Balkan feud. Depts. of feeling, however, seemed to be stirred only when he arraigned the Bolshevists. His eyes never gleamed—nor did they smile all the time it was with him—but his mouth worked grimly and his words flowed with the innate hostility of the peasant to the townsmen, to the false teachings and corruptions of city life. At bottom it is the latent belief that work on the land is the only honest work.

The Stambulski Bill for universal national service really emerges from that conception. Every adult man or woman, man give his arms, woman give her State without wage, receiving food for the time like a soldier. He will work on the land, on roads, railways, on building, just as is needed. The professional man will give his services gratis for the same time, or do manual work. If there is more vital, married women, it is now said, will be exempt, and other changes are likely.

The Bill, if passed, is a bold effort at reconstruction, and as 75 or 80 per cent. of the Bulgarians are peasant owners, the total effect might be to set the whole country afoot financially in the near future, to pay off the Allies, and start a new career of prosperity.

SURPRISED KITCHENER
GENERAL SIR RICHARD WINGATE, one of the recent barons, is fond of telling this story of the late Lord Kitchener, whose Chief Intelligence Officer he was for so many years in the Sudan.
"On K. of K.'s staff out there," he says, "was a very young officer, who one day applied for leave in order to go to England to be married."
"Kitchener, who was averse to his officers getting married, frowned, then said:
"Lieutenant Blank, you're not yet twenty-five. Wait a year. If then you still desire to do this thing you shall have leave."
"The anticipated period passed. The officer once more proffered his request."
"After thinking it over for twelve months you still wish to marry?" said Kitchener.
"Yes, sir."
"Very well, you shall have your furlough. And frankly, my boy, I scarcely thought there was so much constancy in the masculine world."
"The subaltern marched to the door, but turned to say as he was leaving:
"Thank you, sir. Only it's not the same girl."

WHAT HE MISSED
A GOOD story, told by Sir Thomas Lipton, is going the rounds of the London clubs. It concerns a Scotsman who went to a horse race for the "at" time in his life. The old fellow was rather feeble-minded, and his companions who took him to the race meeting presently persuaded him to stake a sixpence in the third race on a forty-to-one shot.

By some miracle this outsider won. When the bookmaker gave the old man his winnings he could hardly believe his eyes. "Do you mean to tell me," he said, "that I get all this for my sixpence?"
"You do," answered the bookmaker.
"Ma conscience," muttered the Scotsman. "Tell me, mon, how long has this been going on?"
