FINE MEETING IN WEST END

Carleton City Hall Held
Enthusiastic Audience
Last Night.

Dr. Daniel, W. Frank
Hatheway, M. P. P., and
Hon. Robert Maxwell,
Heard in Excellent Addresses -- West End in Line Against Reciprocity

A meeting of the West End electors was held in the City Hall, Carleton, last evening when a large audience assembled to hear the views of Dr. Daniel, W. Frank Hatheway, M. P. P., and Hon. Mr. Maxwell on the issues of the election campaign.

J. E. Cowan, who presided introduced Dr. Daniel as the first speaker, with the statement that he was sure the residents of Carleton would be glad to hear him. That the people of Carleton were, was demonstrated by the prolonged burst of applause that greeted Dr. Daniel as he rose.

Dr. Daniel confined his remarks chiefly to the reciprocity question. "Never," said he, "was so important an issue placed before the people of Canada, affecting, as it did, not only the trade, but the political future of the Dominion. Under the policy in vogue since the Conservative party in 1878, business has seen a phenomenal growth in Canada. This policy of moderate protection for our manufacturers, supplying a means for procuring ample revenue for the conduct of the country's affairs, was strenuously opposed by the Liberals of the day. When, however, they were in a majority in the House, they did not see fit to introduce the changes which they had promised. But in 1911, without one word of warning to any private member of the House, a radical change in the fiscal policy of the country was introduced by Messrs. Fielding and Patterson, with the evident intention of rushing it through. The secrecy which had prevailed during the negotiations, made it necessary for the House to examine the clauses of the proposed agreement with some minuteness, which appeared to be very far from what the government desired. The Opposition therefore, expressed the willingness to allow the government to have what money was required to conduct the business of the country until September 1st, when, if the government was unwilling to submit the proposals to the people, no further supplies would be allowed to pass. This is the course of proceedings which has been described as an attempt to obstruct the business of the country (Applause).

The East and West Trade.

"The effects of the present agreement should be introduced, will be far-reaching. The citizens of St. John have spent money in building up transportation facilities. Both political parties while in power have so far acted in accordance with the policy of building up transportation through Canadian ports. The C. P. R. was the pioneer line built with this object in view, with the support of the Conservative government. When the management of the Grand Trunk Railway was transferred to the Liberal government, Sir Wilfrid Laurier thought he saw an opportunity to erect a monument to himself in the form of a national transcontinental railway, and accordingly undertook to construct the line, terminating at Moncton which should be at the disposal of the Grand Trunk Pacific for a term of years free of charge, after which they should lease it at 3 per cent. of its value annually. The agreement was made and the work commenced upon

MR. BORDEN AND HIS POLICY ON BRANCH LINES

Canada's Next Premier
Declares Himself in Favor of Taking Over of Branch
Lines by I. C. R.

Special to The Standard.
Harvey Corner, N. B., Sept. 8.—George W. Fowler addressed a large meeting in the public hall at Harvey Corner tonight. The speaker spoke about the railway situation in Albert county. He stated that after traveling through the province of New Brunswick, R. L. Borden was convinced that the branch line ought to be taken over and made part of the later colonial system, and then he read the following telegram received at Hillsboro, N. B., Sept. 8, 1911, from Summerside, P. E. I., via Sussex.

To Geo. W. Fowler:
I am convinced that interest of Intercolonial Railway demand acquisition of branch line railway as feeders, and we propose to acquire them upon reasonable terms if returned to power.
(Signed) R. L. BORDEN.

The reading of the telegram was received with rounds of applause and Mr. Fowler showed his audience that the branch lines were solid and to have the hopes coming as it did from a statement with the honesty and integrity of Mr. Borden.

The meeting, which was presided over by Captain George A. Coonan, was held in No. 3 district hall, an old Conservative stronghold in old Harvey.

the line. The disaster to the Quebec bridge delayed the construction and with work on this part of the line not yet begun, it cannot possibly be completed for about five years. If the reciprocity is made, will the Grand Trunk Pacific consent to make the agreement? With the trade from east to west badly hampered, will they be able to operate the line on a paying basis? WILL ST. JOHN EVER SEE THE PROMISED TERMINAL FACILITIES IN COURTENAY BAY? THE LATTER PROJECT HAS RECEIVED A DISTINCT SETBACK BY THE RECIPROCITY PROPOSALS.

When Sir Wilfrid Laurier was in St. John recently, he carefully avoided reference to Courtenay Bay. His message to the voters of St. John was "Pass this agreement and you will see your trade flowing south like water through a mill race."

"During the recent celebration in honor of Mr. Borden, which I believe to have been the greatest and most enthusiastic ever witnessed in St. John my friend, Mr. Lowell, observed transparently bearing the device, What Has Mr. Lowell Done For St. John?"

What Dr. Daniel Has Done

At a meeting in the Queen's Rink on Wednesday evening Mr. Lowell is reported to have said that the question might better have been asked "What has Dr. Daniel done for St. John?" Unlike some of my friends of the Liberal party I prefer to allow deeds to speak rather than words, but in reply to Mr. Lowell I would ask him to refer to the report of the Royal Commission on Transportation in 1908. Among other recommendations incorporated in this report is the nationalization of the port of St. John; the removal of harbor dues is advocated. This recommendation if acted upon would give an immense impetus to shipping through this port. I took the report to the Minister of Public Works, who agreed that the harbor facilities should be increased. Dredging contracts were advertised and awarded to Mr. Mayes. This was the beginning of the dredging in St. John harbor, for which Mr. Pugsley takes so much credit to himself and was inaugurated by myself and the late Dr. A. A. Stockton.

STRONG CONDEMNATION FOR PUGSLEY'S TACTICS

The Standard's exposure of Mr. Pugsley's despicable tactics in having Mr. Powell's speech in 1896 on Remedial Legislation sent broadcast over the city in the vain hope that it might discredit him with a section of the electorate was the subject of much discussion yesterday, and Mr. Pugsley's action was strongly condemned.

Had the Conservatives desired to resort to this indefensible style of political warfare they might have republished a speech of Mr. Pugsley's at Musquash in the campaign of 1896 and circulated it among a large section of the Liberals. The Conservative party does not believe in race and creed cries. The vital issue in this election is the maintenance of trade within the Empire. On this question loyal Canadians, without any distinction, are standing shoulder to shoulder, firm in their support of the great policy of British Connection.

TO THE NATIVE BORN

A BATTLE SONG.

"Our heart's where they rocked our cradle,
Our love where we spent our toil,
And our faith and our hope and our honour
We pledge to our Native Soil." —Kipling.

Have ye heard the bugle calling,
Have ye felt your pulses beat?
Does it stir the man within you
Like the throb of tramping feet?
For the menace is upon you
And liberty is sweet—
Your flag, it flies for you.

They are opening up a market
For their profit and your loss;
They are sapping your allegiance
With the lure of shining dress;
They would crucify Canadians
To a gilded foreign cross—
Your flag, it calls to you.

From the seed that they are sowing
Springs the crop that they will reap;
Are ye Northmen in name only
To be trafficked in like sheep?
What they could not take by conquest
Will ye let them purchase cheap?
Your flag, it floats for you.

Who has nursed you from the cradle
Through long years of fear and hate?
Who has guarded and preserved you
From a weaker people's fate?
O be swift to heed the warning,
For the foe is at the gate—
The flag, it stands for you.

By the dust of your dead fathers,
By their own great sacrifice,
By your women, homes, and children,
By their honour that ye prize,
Stand by the flag that stood by you,
The strongest flag that flies!
Grip tight—it beckons you.

—Baldwin Mackenzie.

WARM WELCOME TO MR. BORDEN

THEY CAUGHT THE MAYOR IN BRIBERY CASE

Mayor Knotts of Gary, Ind.,
And One of His Councilmen
Arrested on Charges of Bribe Taking.

Gary, Ind., Sept. 8.—Thomas E. Knotts, mayor of Gary, and Walter Gibson, councilman, were arrested today by Deputy Sheriffs on charges of accepting and soliciting bribes for a heating franchise.

Mayor Knotts was arrested in the city hall just after T. B. Dean, who signed the affidavit, came from the executive office with the heating franchise in his pocket. Dean alleges he paid the mayor $5,000.

Before entering the mayor's office, Dean had himself searched by four persons as a proof that he had the $5,000 on his person when he entered Mayor Knotts' office. When he left the room he had himself searched again. He told the deputies to serve the warrant and they would find the money in an envelope in a pigeon hole in Mayor Knotts' desk. The warrant was served and Mayor Knotts was released on $5,000 bonds furnished by his brother, A. F. Knott, former mayor of Hammond, Ind.

Following the mayor's arrest the deputy sheriffs obtained an automobile and said they were going to arrest another city official. As they started they met Walter Gibson, a councilman, and served him with a warrant charging him with soliciting a $500 bribe in connection with the heating franchise.

T. B. Dean who received the heating franchise and filed the affidavit, came here from Richmond, Ky., to obtain the heating franchise six months ago. In speaking of the arrests he said that after consulting a Chicago lawyer, a plan was made to obtain evidence, when he found that the franchise would cost him money. He stated that dictagraphs had been connected in his room at the hotel and also that one had been installed even in the mayor's private office. Other arrests of city officials are expected.

MR. HARTT SOLID IN CHARLOTTE CO.

Fine Meeting at St. George
Last Night Showed That Town to be Strongly Opposed to Reciprocity.

Special to The Standard.
St. George, Sept. 8.—Not in the annals of this town has a political rally excited such enthusiasm as marked the meeting held here this evening in the interest of the Conservative candidate, T. A. Hartt. The meeting which was held in Court's hall, was attended by a record crowd. Long before the hour for the speakers of the evening to appear, the hall was crowded, and every available seat was taken and when the meeting opened even standing space was at a premium.

Previous to the meeting the brass band of St. George marched to the hotel and escorted the speakers to the place of meeting. As the procession wended its way to the hall, Mr. Hartt was greeted with prolonged cheering.

E. D. Harvey presided over the meeting which was addressed by Mr. Hartt, H. A. Powell and G. W. Ganong.

Mr. Hartt the first speaker was given

Demonstrations in Summerside, Souris and Charlottetown -- Three Great Meetings Held--
Crowds Took Horses
From Carriage.

Special to The Standard.
Charlottetown, Sept. 8.—In Souris this afternoon the greatest political demonstration ever held in Kings Co. took place. Mr. Borden and Premier Hazen were met there by a great body of electors who formed in procession and headed by a band conducted them through the town amidst scenes of greatest enthusiasm. No hall in town could hold the immense throng assembled and the great meeting was held in the open air. It was addressed by Mr. Borden, Premier Hazen J. McLean and Mr. Mathieson, every one of whom received the closest attention of the audience.

Charlottetown, Sept. 8.—R. L. Borden arrived in Charlottetown tonight amidst intense excitement. He was met at the station by a large delegation of leading Conservatives and escorted to the opera house to the music of two bands, a torchlight procession and accompanied by thousands of citizens.

The horses were taken from Mr. Borden's carriage and the crowd drew it. The streets were gaily decorated and lighted by fireworks, the entire way. Mr. Borden was presented with an address of welcome. There were two meetings. Premier Hazen first spoke in the opera house and Mr. Borden in Market hall and then reversed so that all could hear both speakers.

In Souris this afternoon and in Summerside the meetings were thronged. The speakers dealt principally with reciprocity from the farmers' standpoint. The audience sang "Rule Britannia," and there was a scene of great enthusiasm. Mr. Borden in the course of his address spoke of a transportation system connecting this province with the mainland, the short haul freight rates prevailing and the tunnel question.

The first two mentioned he characterized as of vital importance not only to Prince Edward Island, but in the interests of the Dominion.

Concerning all three he promised that the Conservatives when elected would take steps to alleviate the conditions prevailing in freight rates and communication with the mainland. Of the tunnel he said it would be the Conservatives first duty to demonstrate its feasibility by a survey and if feasible to construct it.

en a great ovation.

H. A. Powell dealt at length with reciprocity as it will affect the fishing industry. The National Policy and the loss that this section will incur should reciprocity pass, were referred to by the speaker, who in closing made a strong appeal to his hearers to remain true to the ideals that they have fostered in the past and not to barter their privileges as part of the great British Empire for the ostensible gains which the Liberal party profess will result from reciprocity.

SIR WILLIAM VAN HORNE TO SPEAK IN ST. JOHN

Additional interest is given to the public meeting to be held in the Queen's Rink on Monday evening by the announcement that Sir William Van Horne will be one of the speakers. His recent clear and forcible address at Mr. Borden's meeting at St. Andrew's in opposition to Reciprocity has attracted widespread attention. He has perhaps larger interests in Canada than any other citizen, operating one of the largest farms in Manitoba in addition to a large stock farm at St. Andrew's.

Sir William Van Horne has never before been known to take part in an election campaign, but in this election he is appearing on the public platform feeling that the great interests of the country require that every man should speak out and do his utmost to defeat Reciprocity, and promote closer relations with the Mother Country and the Empire.

THE CAMPAIGN IN NEW BRUNSWICK.

When Parliament was dissolved the Liberal party throughout Canada were confident that the Government would be returned to power with a largely increased majority. They started in to make Reciprocity their main issue of the campaign. It was to cover all their sins of omission and commission during the past four years. It was evident for months before the dissolution that the Liberal party believed that Reciprocity would prove a taking policy and that the Government would be returned to power for another term.

In New Brunswick the people at first did not give the question very much consideration. They were not interested in it to the same extent as other communities further West. This led the ministers from this section of the country to believe that when the question came up for final disposition they would have a comparatively easy time in explaining what the policy of the Government meant, and in convincing them that such a policy would prove highly beneficial to the country at large and to the Maritime Provinces in particular.

At the opening of the campaign the Liberal party in this province boasted that they would sweep every seat into the Liberal basket and that there would be no Conservatives left from the Gulf shore to the Maine boundary, or from the Bay of Fundy to the Restigouche. There could be no other result than the one they had in view. Today the situation has become so desperate for the Liberals that Mr. Pugsley is compelled to hurry from one constituency to another, and is adjusting, will bring sure defeat to the Liberal party. Instead of being united the forces of the Liberals have been disrupted and in many constituencies one element is openly antagonistic to another. Notwithstanding the assertions of the newspapers there is not a single constituency in the Province where things are moving smoothly with the Liberals. Where they expected victory a few weeks ago they see nothing before them now and recognize that their defeat is due to their mistake in gauging public opinion on the question of Reciprocity.

When the true meaning of the Taft-Fielding compact was seen by the people of this Province, a sentiment was awakened, the immediate result of which was to unite every section of the Conservative party in opposition to a policy that they recognized meant, not only ruin to every interest of the country, but which also affects our national existence as well. They realized that if Sir Wilfrid Laurier were permitted to carry out his policy of Reciprocity a condition of commercial chaos would be brought about in every interest in the country be prejudicially affected.

From the very beginning of Confederation, the object of all the legislators of the country was to open up the Great North West, thereby creating a trade that would flow from East to West and from West to East. This was the purpose that the Fathers of Confederation had in view when the Intercolonial Railway was built to connect the Maritime Provinces with Upper and Lower Canada. It was the same object which carried the construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway from ocean to ocean. There was neither thought nor talk of a North and South trade in Canada while these great works were in progress. The men who originated this policy thought only of welding together more firmly the constituent part of British North America.

The creation of the Dominion of Canada was a great political experiment and it has turned out well because the men at the head of affairs always advocated the development of Canada irrespective of the effect on any other nation. At first our American neighbors smiled at the experiment, but when they found that the railroad building in Canada was having the effect its promoters expected, they sought to stay the progress of this country by rearing a tariff wall which they thought impregnable against our trade. By doing this they expected to force Canada to seek political union with the States, but the unexpected happened. Shut out of the American markets the Canadians were successful in entering the British market and other fields, and in a few years have built up a foreign trade three times as great per capita as that of the United States. By continuing to pursue a policy of seeking out new markets and at the same time developing the home market, Canada has become the most prosperous nation on earth. In the past decade there have been numerous commercial panics in the United States, but Canada has avoided them all, increasing in prosperity year after year.

It was the policy of the Conservative party which brought into existence the National policy, under which many industries, new to the country, were fostered and industrial development given a forward start. It was also the Conservative party, despite Liberal opposition, that carried the Canadian Pacific Railway scheme through Parliament and opened up the Canadian North West for settlement.

In 1878 Canada was in a desperate condition. Most of its industries were either closed altogether or working half time. The era of prosperity which dawned with the advent of the Conservative party to power has continued ever since. The tariff under which the country became prosperous was not materially altered by the Liberals after 1896, and industrial growth was not retarded as it would have been had the Liberal Free trade policy been adopted. When Sir Wilfrid Laurier proposed the construction of a second trans-continental railway, he was simply following out the Conservative policy of twenty years before.

His first departure from the policy which was inaugurated by the Conservatives was when he introduced the Reciprocity Agreement in January of this year under which the trade of the country is to flow North and South "as water through a millrace." When men of common sense looked into the proposition of Sir Wilfrid they saw nothing in it but disaster for Canada, the undoing of all that had been done for the development of the whole country.

It is not surprising, under the circumstances, that there should be a revolt in the Liberal party against such a revolutionary measure as Sir Wilfrid Laurier proposed, and that many of the best men, who hitherto had called themselves Liberals, should openly leave the party and Sir Wilfrid to an inevitable fate. There has been an outcry made in certain quarters because it has been said that Reciprocity would lead to annexation. The men who are howling out so loudly about this, forget that there are thousands of people in Canada who have grave doubts of the loyalty of Sir Wilfrid Laurier to the British Empire, and who regard his views on continental free trade as dangerous to British Connection. They have not forgotten the "veiled treason" of the campaign of 1901.

The people of New Brunswick are loyal to the core. They have no use for anyone tainted with annexation. They believe, as their fathers believed, that it is better to be a British subject than a citizen of any other country. They believe in good laws, and respect and observe them, and at the same time know and realize that there is greater freedom in Canada than anywhere else in the world, and that law and order prevail to a far greater extent in this country than in the Republic to the South.

The free and full discussion which has taken place on the question of Reciprocity has weakened the hold of the Liberal candidates on the electors of New Brunswick to such a degree that there are grave doubts in every constituency as to the result of the vote on September 21, and it is an admitted fact everywhere that there is not a single seat now held by them in the Province where victory is certain. They have tampered with the feelings of the people, they have sought to deceive them and as a consequence their influence has been weakened.

The Minister of Public Works had hoped to win his election and carry his colleague with him by the expenditure of large sums of public money and by alluring promises of still greater expenditure if he were returned to power. His efforts have proved futile, as the people know that, no matter what happens to Mr. Pugsley on election day, the development of St. John will not in any way be interfered with. They heard his promises in 1908 and they know he has not fulfilled them. They have no confidence in the stereotyped view of wharves, warehouses and dry docks in Parliament to carry them out.

Mr. Pugsley was all as yet prolific in promises but slow in performance. In three years he has managed to construct one wharf and dig a hole for another, whereby some political friends have considerably enriched themselves, but from which the people as a whole have derived but little gain. When Mr. Pugsley depends for his election on the promises he has made he is leaning upon a broken reed which will surely fall him on election day. His tortuous course has brought about his downfall in the estimation of the people, his failure to make good his promises is likely to cause his defeat.

The Conservative party today are stronger in New Brunswick than they ever were before. The feeling throughout Canada is that the Government will be defeated, and that the history of 1878 will repeat itself in 1911. There are many reasons for this, altogether outside of the question of Reciprocity. The Government has grown more corrupt than any we have ever had in Canada. It has become indifferent to the wishes of the people and more autocratic every year. There is a feeling abroad in the land that it is time for a change, and that change will most certainly take place on the 21st of this month.

WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST.

The most notorious of the "yellow" journalists of the United States has entered the Canadian field and his paper, the Boston American, is being distributed free all over the Maritime Provinces and in the English speaking sections of the province of Quebec. The father of Hearst was a man who made many millions in the early days of California, which his son has inherited with the capital he obtained from his father, he has been exploiting journalism in many cities and is quite a newspaper trust in himself.

He is insanely ambitious to be president of the United States, but his aspirations in this direction have so far been curbed by the votes of the people. He is a defeated candidate for the mayoralty of New York City and also for Governor of the State of New York. His journalistic methods are without precedent and the worst ever employed in any country. There is nothing to base for Hearst to do. He has been accused of the death of President McKinley because of incendiary articles in his New York paper. He boasts that he brought about the Spanish-American war by which the colonies of Spain were purloined by the United States. He favors Reciprocity because he says it is certain to bring about annexation to the United States. Now he issues a "Canadian edition" of his vile rag in the hope that he will convince Canadians that Reciprocity will benefit them.

"Canadian" has prospered quite well without the assistance of this anti-British braggart; this creature of the slums who would descend to any level that his ambition might be gratified. If Sir Wilfrid Laurier is returned to power again, Hearst will boast that it was he who did it, and in glaring headlines will announce that Canada is now ready for annexation. Sir Wilfrid Laurier accepted American money in 1901 to help him carry on his Unrestricted Reciprocity campaign. He now accepts the help of the most notorious anti-British agitator in the United States in his campaign of 1911, and permits him to distribute tons of his vile sheet in the cities and towns of Canada in the hope of deceiving the people on the question of Reciprocity. A more disgraceful union than that between Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Hearst cannot be imagined. It will be resented by every true born Canadian and prove a boomerang to the Knight of the White Plume.

Hearst's methods, whether in his newspaper or in politics, are despised in the United States. In Canada they will arouse a sentiment that will deprive Sir Wilfrid and his candidates of the support of Liberals who regard decency in politics as an essential to success. We are capable of managing our own affairs and do not desire advice from a creature whose course in the past has been misrepresentation and slander of the British nation and the Canadian people.

Mr. Pugsley has referred to the Central Railway, but he has yet to explain why he loaded this unprofitable asset on the Province charging therefor nearly a million dollars. The property is not worth half that sum and if the graft that someone got was fully explained, Mr. Pugsley would have to account for a much larger sum than the Commission discovered to be due from the manipulation of the property by himself and his fellow conspirators. One thing is certain, whoever benefited from the purchase of the Central Railway and the deals which preceded and followed that purchase, it was not the Province of New Brunswick, which is now paying the bills.

According to the Telegraph Mr. Pugsley makes the assertion that Sir William Van Horne has resigned from the presidency of the Grand Falls Power Company because he has lost faith in the Hazen Government. This statement is ridiculously untrue and when Sir William addresses a St. John audience on Monday night, he will pull the hole in after him. If he chooses there are many things that Sir William can say about the Grand Falls Power Company which will not be pleasant reading to the other William.

THE TELEGRAPH STILL UP TO ITS OLD TRICKS

Another Case Where the Grit Campaign Liar is Working Overtone to Deceive the Public.

To the Editor of The Standard.
Sir—In the Daily Telegraph's report of a meeting held on Monday evening, 4th inst., at Scotch Colony, (Lower Kincardine property), under Liberal auspices, in their issue of 6th inst. appears in big head lines: "Another Case Where the Grit Campaign Liar is Working Overtone to Deceive the Public."

Having been at said meeting, I wish to give some facts which the Telegraph failed to give. Mr. Tweeddale spoke first but had no convincing arguments. He told the farmers that Mr. Carvell moved, and he seconded the motion, that a barrel of potatoes by law was to be 150 pounds. That is something he has done for them. He wanted them to give reciprocity a chance. If it did not work it could be cancelled at any time.

Mr. Tweeddale spoke at great length, he being the orator of the evening. In course of time he started to abuse the Conservatives as men, but was promptly pulled by the Grit mark from the minister of the district, that they were just as good as his party. Mr. Tweeddale was asked if he thought prices in the United States would continue to be the same after the duty was removed. He dodged the question by replying "If you have anything to say take the platform."

Judson Manzer told of being a Conservative candidate at one time, but he was in favor of reciprocity which accounted for his presence tonight. Mr. Manzer invited anyone to ask him any questions they wanted explained, so some took him to his word and ere long had him muddled. He cited a case of a gentleman living across the river, naming him, who in the States would continue to be the same after the duty was removed. He dodged the question by replying "If you have anything to say take the platform."

A voice—and that same gentleman today told me he was going to vote against reciprocity. Mr. Manzer tried to leave the impression with the audience that it was in prospect of reciprocity. Next day he asked him to the man named. The offer of $1,000 was made alright by Mr. Manzer himself, who is in the notes, but it was worth $1000 to Mr. Manzer, it was worth that amount to him. The gentleman named which turned out 190 barrels, which at the same rate would be almost 1100 barrels for the field; after one or two accidents, he only offered him a little over 90 cents per barrel, although the price of potatoes was $1.50 per barrel the day the statement was made.

When the duty on potatoes would not be removed in the Cuban market, he replied it would not, but they could ship to Cuba or to Cuba to Cuba as U. S. products, which he said had a preference in duty of 12 cents per barrel. He said that he had more than used up in extra freight and cartage, and he had to claim he could get a rate via Boston one cent per barrel cheaper than via the St. John route, and this with the gentleman named which turned out 190 barrels, which at the same rate would be almost 1100 barrels for the field; after one or two accidents, he only offered him a little over 90 cents per barrel, although the price of potatoes was $1.50 per barrel the day the statement was made.

Mr. Porter, of the day mentioned, spoke at great length, but was very tiresome, as most of his time was taken up with subjects not bearing on the issue.

There was another speaker, a Mr. Baxter, who I understand, has a government job either at Perth or Antigonish. He was a smooth, gentlemanly speaker, pleasant to listen to, although he was in favor of reciprocity, he commended each man according to the way he thought best.

A party numbering about a dozen came from Perth in two autos, and some of them were there evidently for the purpose of starting applause, which for the greater part of the time they had to make all themselves. I want to give you a fairer report than given in the Telegraph, and if you see fit to publish any part of this letter you may I am dear Sir, Yours sincerely,

THE CENTREVILLE MEETING.

To the Editor of The Standard:
Sir—Anticipating the report that the Telegraph will publish today about the meeting held here, in the interests of the Liberal party by Messrs. Copp, Paisley and Upham, I wish to give you a few facts concerning the same. The audience consisted of 138 Liberal voters, 42 women and children and 35 Conservative voters. Mr. Paisley made a brief summary of the advantages of reciprocity. Mr. Copp for over an hour dwelt on the fact that the Conservatives were the first to want reciprocity and therefore the Liberals were favoring both parties by granting this. He also gave a brief history of Sir John McDonald, Sir John Thompson, Hon. Cliffordifton, J. K. Flemming, M. P., and B. F. Smith.

As the hour was late, Mr. Upham excused himself after making a few remarks about J. K. Flemming. Yours truly, CITIZEN, Centreville, N. B., Sept. 7.

RESTLESS TONE IN THE STOCK MARKET

New York, N. Y., Sept. 8.—Trading that was unsettled and at times feverish, resulted in sharp fluctuations today on the stock exchange. The drift was downward although there were several sharp rallies which temporarily reduced losses. Several issues including Missouri Pacific, Baltimore and Ohio, Denver and Rio Grande Pfd. and Anaconda Copper fell to new low points for the year and at the same time the price of wheat advanced virtually the entire gain made during the recent recovery was lost. The active list sinking back to the bottom level of the long August decline. Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Reading, U. S. Steel, Northern Pacific, Lehigh Valley, New York Central and American Smelting came within fractions of the year's low. Losses ranged from 1 to 2 points with a partial recovery at the end.

The nervous erratic movements were apparently due to the maneuvering of the professional traders whose operations were the principal factor in the market. Selling covered largely on Reading and U. S. Steel, the evidence of New York selling in the London market which was depressed before the opening prices. London sold about 15,000 shares on balance chiefly U. S. Steel and Union Pacific.

Operations were governed to some extent by the crop report, the cotton ginning report and the copper producers' statement. The heaviest selling of the day followed publication of the crop figures. The slight improvement in the condition of corn was no more than looked for, while the fall-off in spring wheat of more than three points was unexpectedly favorable to the bear party. The report of the cotton ginning, the first of the season, was exceptionally favorable, disclosing the largest amount on record and it put early in the day was followed by a rally in stocks. Copper shares sold off before publication of the report and later rallied. The report was considered favorable. While the price of copper was expressed at the increase of more than 13,500,000 pounds in production in August as compared with July, domestic deliveries and exports surpassed expectations. The decrease in stocks brings up the total shrinkage in the last three months to 22,554,000 pounds.

In connection with the heavy selling of U. S. Steel and the obviously bearish attitude of many traders to-day the first slight falling off in steel mill operations compared with the average during August. The U. S. Steel Corporation was reported to be at present operating about 75 per cent of its capacity, a decline of about 3 per cent. The call of the comptroller of the currency for reports of national banks as of Sept. 1, disclosed the fact that large New York banks did reduce their holdings of stock during the August decline as greatly as might have been believed. Notwithstanding the heavy liquidation of stocks, the reports of seven of the largest national banks show a total decrease in holdings of securities between June 7, the date of the previous report and Sept. 1, of only about $3,400,000. An increase of more than $43,000,000 since Sept. 1, 1910 is shown the result of the heavy output of bonds during the year in conjunction with easy money conditions.

The bond market was heavy. Total sales per value, $1,822,000. U. S. government bonds were unchanged on call.

OUTLOOK IN UPPER KENT.

Upper Kent, Car. Co., Sept. 6.—The prospect in this vicinity and in fact all of the surrounding districts is bright so bright in fact there is not enough vitality left for the dying snake of Liberalism to wriggle its tail. The reciprocity scheme has proved a valuable asset. Instead of a "vote catcher" it has turned out to be a boomerang. Wonderful stories of Liberal enthusiasm in Carleton County are read in the Telegraph and Carleton Sentinel. These may help, in a slight degree to bolster up the defective spirit of the Liberal remnant in Carleton. They may smile a wan smile but they see now that the deluge is at hand.

NO INQUEST WILL BE NECESSARY TO DETERMINE HOW THE PARTY MET ITS DEATH BLOW.

THE CAMPAIGN IN CARLETON COUNTY

For Every Conservative who Has Turned Liberal, Five Liberals Have Joined Conservatives on Reciprocity.

Woodstock, Sept. 6.—"The Carleton county campaign," said J. N. W. Winslow, of Woodstock, "is going with the swing of victory. For every one member of our party who has joined the Liberal ranks on this question of reciprocity, there are five members of the opposite party who will line up with Carleton county's best on the 21st of Sept. and vote against the reciprocity act."

"The question of vital importance to our farmers," Mr. Winslow went on to say, "is that we have to give the American farmer the chance he has looked for so long, namely, that of lowering the prices on our produce and thus controlling with reciprocity the markets of New Brunswick."

"We dare not," said Mr. Winslow, "even make a trial of this great question, the particulars of which we cannot understand or learn in the short time in which we have to decide. Uncle Sam has shown his hand therefore let Canada beware. That which the nation sows that shall it reap. If on 21st of Sept. Canada sows the seed of reciprocity, then shall Canada in the after years reap the bitter harvest of commercial, if not political, annexation with the United States."

"The nervous erratic movements were apparently due to the maneuvering of the professional traders whose operations were the principal factor in the market. Selling covered largely on Reading and U. S. Steel, the evidence of New York selling in the London market which was depressed before the opening prices. London sold about 15,000 shares on balance chiefly U. S. Steel and Union Pacific.

From the time of John Allen, forty years ago, when Oliver Dyer made famous as "the Wickededest Man in New York," there has been a long succession of semi-outlaws who have distinguished themselves by their bold opinion and sauntering close to the limits of outlawry, but Billy McGrody was in many respects a new type...

Some cynics there are who urge that all children are liars by instinct; even observers of mellow disposition concede that at least a considerable percentage are born to be untruthful. "What a limit!" asked Blaisdell, and Mr. Thompson said, "How much do you bet on these cards?" "We use always bets all we like," drawled Winterbottom, "an' I reckon it ain't no law agin' yo' to do the same."

Sudden illness and pains come in every family—to parents and children alike. But if you have looked ahead and have right in your home, ready for immediate use, a bottle of Polson's Nerviline—there isn't much to worry over. If it's a sore throat or contracted chest, apply Nerviline and put on a Nerviline oProus Plaster. If it's colic, cramps or any stomach disorder, just administer a few drops of Nerviline in hot water. No family medicines are more useful or more depended upon in emergencies than Nerviline and oProus Plaster.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Athletes in Training or the Reflections of Young Daniel.

The S. S. Lesson by Evangeline. Sept. 10th, Daniel 1:8-20. What an easy victory! Our men behaved like fools! Drunkenness and licentiousness did its worst! They made no resistance worth speaking of. They were simply powerless. What a fire! How the burning city and temple lighted up the heavens of heaven! I wonder what became of father! Poor mother, when last I saw her she was wringing her hands! She has one thing to comfort her. She knows that her boy will stick to his colors whatever happens. Thanks to God and to Jeremiah, His Prophet! Had it not been for his preaching I would probably never have come out and out for God. Poor old man, he is the witness of the satisfaction of seeing his predictions come true.

What a journey! I thought we would never reach Babylon. How my arms ached with those heavy handcuffs! How my feet ached and smarted! How my head ached! How my heart ached! What a city. Its walls must be three hundred feet high. They say that there is five hundred million square feet of solid masonry in them and that they enclose a square of fourteen miles each way or a circumference of fifty-six miles and that it has a population of nearly four million. Nebuchadnezzar certainly is a genius. However, he contrived to have such things constructed as these immense buildings—hanging gardens—a tunnel fifteen feet wide and half a mile long under the river—an artificial lake one hundred and forty miles in circumference and two hundred feet deep, fountains and breakwaters. Is beyond my comprehension. He has even restored the tower of Babel.

SULTAN TAKES HAREM WITH HIM ON HIS TRAVELS.

TRAVELING HAREM OF THE SULTAN OF MOROCCO FROM THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS

When the Sultan of Morocco travels it is his custom to choose two or three harem women to accompany him. The ladies usually ride mules in desert districts they are carried in litter on camels. Their own camp is always pitched in the center of the main camp and is surrounded by a high wall of canvas, by a ring of "toilettes" and by a covered "pavilion." To the harem square are admitted none but the harem's master, attendants, slaves and other servants and eunuchs. The harem tents are about fourteen feet high in the center and about twenty feet in diameter.

FASTEST MOTOR BOAT IN COUNTRY TO DEFEND BRITISH TROPHY

THE DIXIE IV ON THE LAST ROUND. In a stiff northeast wind and lumpy sea over the international course on Huntington Bay, Long Island, the Dixie IV, one of the defenders of the British international trophy, flying the burgee of the Motor Boat Club of America, covered an irregular course of twenty-two knots in 33m. 7s. in the opening race of the American elimination trial races. This was at the rate of 33.96 nautical or 45.9 land miles an hour, the fastest speed that has yet been shown by a gas-engine driven craft in this country and the best that has yet been made in competition anywhere in the world. The races take place on Huntington Harbor on September 4, 5 and 6. The Dixie IV is one of three boats selected by America to defend the trophy.

CLOSING STOCK LETTER.

By direct private wires to J. C. Macintosh & Co. New York, Sept. 8.—Without particular explanation in news or general developments the average price of stocks today established new low records for the year. The decline was helped somewhat no doubt by newspaper reports that a strike was very probable on the Illinois Central next week and by anticipation of an unfavorable government report in the afternoon. The government figures published indicated a slight improvement in the condition of crop bringing the probable total yield up to 2,736,000 bushels, or about 300,000 bushels less than last year. The other crops showed further deterioration and promise is for an aggregate cereal yield considerably below last year. The bureau figures also indicated that the hay crop, which is one of the most valuable, is far below last year. Withal the showing while hardly disappointing in view of the widespread knowledge of the deterioration that has occurred was nevertheless very dispiriting to holders of stocks. There was a continued absence of investment demand or of support from any substantial source while many leading stocks reflected a resumption of liquidation in as large volume as the market would absorb. The market at the close looked as discouraged as at any period during the recent decline, although the low level to which prices have already fallen must be considered in reckoning the probabilities of a further pronounced decline. "STEVE" EVANS, THE STAR COMEDIAN OF ST. LOUIS TEAM

EVANS, ST. LOUIS RIGHT FIELDER. Members of the St. Louis team say that there isn't a man living who can get the better of "Steve" Evans, the genius right fielder of the Cardinals, in a "kidding" match. They have tried to jolly Evans, both individually and collectively, and have failed, and doubt any one else's ability to get Evans "going." As an entertainer Evans is the prince of the National League. His fellow players have often advised him to seek an engagement on the vaudeville stage as a monologist, but Evans scoffs at the idea.

USING KID GLOVE TOPS

HAVE you ever thought of utilizing the kid tops of your discarded evening gloves? With very little trouble they can be made up into many useful things that, as girls, will delight the heart of many women. First of the dainty booties for the new baby are lovely when made of the sort kid cut from the top of light-colored gloves. One pair of glove tops make two pairs of booties; or one top can be used in that way and a dainty bag for buttons fashioned from the other. Rip the tops where they are joined to the fingers. A good pattern can be bought for 15 cents and a few yards of narrow ribbon completes the booties at small cost. After cutting the kid, attach the edges together on the sewing machine and bind the tops with ribbon. Make small elastic bands an inch from the top and run them through with ribbon, so they can be tied around the little ankles. If you are making a bag for buttons or one for the girls at small cost, attach the edges together on the sewing machine and bind it with ribbon. With a ticket punch make small holes 1/4 inch from the edge and run through with ribbon twice, so it can be drawn up when both ends are pulled. Glove tops also make pretty covers for books or engagement calendars. Embroider or paint a monogram on the center of these. Sewed pads for handkerchiefs or glove cases are also among the useful ways in which odd pieces of kid can be used. These tops also make convenient means of applying powder to the face, neck and arms in place of chamolice. If the glove top is worn so that it cannot be used in any other way, the top can be pulled up and the kid with it after they have been washed in the usual way.

USING KID GLOVE TOPS

HAVE you ever thought of utilizing the kid tops of your discarded evening gloves? With very little trouble they can be made up into many useful things that, as gifts, will delight the heart of many women.

First of all, handy booties for the new baby are lovely when made of the soft kid cut from the top of light-colored gloves. One pair of glove tops make two pairs of booties; or one top can be used in that way as a dainty bag for buttons fashioned from the other.

Rip the tops where they are joined together. A good pattern can be bought for 10 cents, and a few yards of narrow ribbon completes the gifts at small cost. After cutting the kid, stitch the edges together on the sewing machine and bind the tops with ribbon. Make small eyes in holes and run them through with ribbon, so they can be tied around the little ankles.

If you are making a bag for buttons or one to hold your sewing implements, cut a circle in the glove top as large as it will allow and sink the edges and bind it with ribbon.

With a ticket punch make small holes 1/2 inch from the edge and run through with ribbon twice, so it can be drawn up when both ends are pulled.

Glove tops also make pretty covers for books or engagement calendars. Embroider or paint a monogram on the center of these.

Recent pairs of handkerchiefs and glove cases are also among the useful ways in which odd pieces of kid can be used.

These tops also make convenient means of applying powder to the face, neck and arms in place of camellia.

If the glove top is worn so that it cannot be used in any other way, then keep it to polish your windows and mirrors with after they have been washed in the usual way.

PINCUSHIONS

THE craft of making pincushions is rapidly developing into an artistic industry, supplying employment to many clever and ingenious home workers.

The field is a wide one, since it gives scope to the turning to account of numerous odds and ends of lace, ribbon, silks, satins and trimmings in which individual skill in decoration can have full sway.

Basket and weaving work, embroidery, spangles, beading, painting, stenciling, ribbon work, etc., are all included in the possibilities of the artistic pincushion.

The pincushion that hangs up must be separated by a sharp line from those that are designed to repose upon the bureau, to rest in the sewing basket or to be a part of the "nacheur's friend." Again, almost all household utensils, fruits and flowers, vegetables, animals, birds, butterflies, fish and leaves have been represented by the pincushion caterer, without omitting the gallery of national costumes composed of native dolls dressed from original sketches, and keeping company with a legion of fanciful conceits bought in quaint toy shops abroad.

An up-to-date fancy is a small doll in a Welsh milkmaid's dress bearing the yoke and pails, which are filled with a solid yet soft cushion having a blue velvet top. Bright-topped pins stuck in these cushions reflect the light much in the same manner as does milk in the "reality truly" pails.

The striped hat stands also for a cushion in which pins are arranged to simulate trimming. A full-blown rose of rich red satin has its petals tinted in such wise that one is tempted to look for the perfume of the perfect flower. Directly in the center is a small cushion of satin covered with gold fillet, and stuck in it are gilded pins which resemble the stamens in real flowers.

Suspended from a brown twig is a luscious-looking ripe pear, with one side rosy with a kiss from the sun. On close examination you discover this to be a pretty pincushion. The pear is a piece of velvet which has been closely stretched about a sawdust foundation and then tinted with carmine on one side. The stem and twig from which it hangs are but small pieces of heavy wire, wrapped first with cotton and then with brown raffia or wood fiber. One of the easiest cushions to make is the ripe red tomato.

This, of a bit of scarlet satin or silk covering a cushion the proper shape, has thread silk drawn tightly from the center of the top to the center of the under part, where it is concealed by a small embroidered spot of silk. On the "blissom" end is sewed a disk having five shaggy petals cut from rich green silk, and from its center is a short loop of green floss which represents the stem.

Old little baskets have sawdust-filled cushions with coverings of bright silks, satins, ribbons or lace. The handles are ribbon, trimmed, or are done away with altogether if the cushion is to be set upon a stand. A volume could be written upon the various styles and ways to make attractive cushion covers, but the clever needlewoman will not need explicit directions in order to fashion delightful examples of this fascinating art of cushion making. If you are wondering how to make a little mouse to help out with household expenses, why not devote your spare time to covering pincushions for the holiday trade? Uncovered cushions of all sizes and shapes can be bought for a very small sum and, when decorated with otherwise useless bits of fancy, will bring a splendid price if sold to your friends or marketed through the medium of some exclusive little shop that caters to the fancy of the rich.

TO TRANSFER

HERE are suggestions for transferring the pattern before you to any material before working.

Perhaps the easiest way is the "window-pane" method. This is successful when the material is thin, like linen, batiste, etc. Pin the sheet of paper and the material together and hold them up against the glass of a window. With a sharp pencil draw on the material the design, which can be easily seen through the goods. If one-half of the design only be given, unpin the paper and turn the other side to the fabric. The strong light behind will make it plain.

If you have carbon paper, you should place the sheet between your fabric and the newspaper. This latter is on top. With a sharp pencil go over the outline of the design. The impression will be left in fine lines and will last until worked. This method is successful on heavy material.

Surely the way is easy.

PATCHWORK AGAIN

PATCHWORK, the joy of our great-grandmothers, has come into its own again. Perhaps it had best be called "modernized" patchwork, this product of the up-to-date needlewoman, for, although it is literally "patch-work," it resembles the old-fashioned patch quilts in not the slightest degree.

Following the process of evolution, the modern patchwork is a thing of artistic beauty and not only a clever mingling of colored bits of cloth or silk in conventional designs.

Oh, no; this new patchwork is made to represent all sorts of objects: flowers, birds, ships, animals or anything that the fancy dictates. It is exceedingly interesting work and gives a ample opportunity for busy fingers and the active brain to evolve many beautiful things. For instance, a scarf for the library table has a border of books on each end. The books are pieces of cloth the size of an actual bookcover, stamped in gilt with the name of your favorite author and applied as a patch on the end of the scarf, which can be of linen, cretonne, denim or burlesk. The scarf finishes with a deep hem or fringe.

Very beautiful pillow tops are fashioned by applying patches cut to resemble various flowers, in their natural colors. On a square yard of pale-green gingham a tulip design is worked out by making the blossoms of yellow gingham and the stems and leaves of a paler shade of green. First cut a paper pattern the desired size of a tulip blossom. Cut the yellow gingham flowers a dozen in all—a little larger than the pattern. Turn in all edges neatly and press them flat with a warm iron. Cut eight long, curved leaves from the light-green gingham and eight slightly curved stems; also four straight stems. Turn in the edges and press.

Now mark the center of the square to be used for the cushion top and divide it into four equal parts by creasing. This will give you definite lines to work on. Lay the material out flat on a table and apply the patches in the following manner, fastening them in place as you go along: From the center of each edge apply two of the long leaves curving toward opposite corners; then three stems, having two curved stems on each side and a straight one in the center. On top of the stems put a tulip flower, and repeat the direction on all four sides of the material. This will give you a very pretty design applied in a conventional manner. With fine cotton and very fine stitches sew around the edges of the flowers and leaves as you would to apply a patch to anything; then with a fine stitch outline the petals of the flowers and the veins in the leaves. Three straight or slightly curved lines of stitching are then made from each center flower to the next, forming a "quilted" effect in the center of the cushion. The work is then carefully pressed on the wrong side, stitched to the underneath portion of the cushion cover, which has an opening across the center of the back and buttons on, and the cover is ready to be slipped over the pillow.

This is one of the simplest and easiest of the patchwork cushion tops. Any amount of elaboration can be put upon the work, and it can be done with a wide variety of materials and colors.

Linon tops with patches of colored linen are washable and wear well. Silk tops with silk or velvet patches afford many beautiful combinations of color and design.

This new idea in patchwork can be carried out on anything that would otherwise be embroidered or decorated with stencil designs. It is especially adapted to the finishing of summer draperies, table covers, scarves and bedspreads.

It is a delightful occupation for a summer afternoon, new and quite as fascinating as the old-fashioned "crazy-quilt" work was to our ancestors.

Cross-Stitch Work

FASCINATING indeed is the old-fashioned cross-stitch work that has been revived and has become so popular with women who enjoy needlework.

It is exceedingly easy to do and requires little thought, which makes it an ideal pastime for the idle summer hours on the hotel piazza.

Any material with a square weave can be employed for this work. The larger and looser the weave the easier it is to embroider.

Scrim, voile, buck, heavy linen, burlesk and monk's cloth are among the favored materials, which are made up into all sorts of articles, including sofa cushions, table covers, scarves, pin cushion tops, hairier bibs, aprons, curtain borders and the marking of initials on towels, bed and table linen. The stitch is simply crossing one thread over another inside a small square.

It can be done in silk floss, cotton or wool thread, and in some cases, where several small squares of the weave are used to make one large one, the stitch is made of narrow ribbon.

Patterns should be chosen having straight lines and angles. Never attempt to make good-looking curves in this work—that is impossible. Conventional designs or figures that lend themselves to straight lines are all right, but avoid any elaborate design with numerous colors and "solid" filling in, if you would make a success of your work.

Try first on some simple design on a small article, say, a leaf, a duck or a rabbit on a child's bib. Work it in deep blue or some pretty, bright color that will please the little one's eye.

In working other designs on covers, etc., in solid colors, a few touches of black give it character and improve the appearance wonderfully.

In working on cream-colored materials, two or three of the pastel shades can be effectively combined. On dark-colored materials use bright, glistening colors of shining mercerized thread or silk. Cross-stitch embroidery on lingerie houses is a pleasing change from the regularly accepted stitches.

Motifs of this work can be quite elaborate, with insets of coarse linen lace. These can be made of differently tinted material from that used in the blouse and applied with an outline of the cross-stitch.

The mode of embroidery is used in the same way as other fancy stitches, but is much simpler and easier to do.

Nearly every one of our mothers has an old "samplers" tucked away somewhere, which her mother or grandmother taught her to do when she was a little girl. These were all done in cross-stitch, as hard through the old chest and trunk stores in the attic bring from their hiding places these first pieces of embroidery worked by your mother's hands, and copy the designs thereon to beautify something for your own home.

A Handy Gift

AN INEXPENSIVE gift for the woman who sews or embroiders is a book made of stiff cardboard backs, four by ten inches, and covered with heavy silk or an art linen in dainty colors.

Embroider across the upper face the cover. Run this in a diagonal direction, and put a little sprig of flowers around it.

HAIR RIBBON CASE

A PRETTY case to hold the school-girl's hair ribbons is made by covering two strips of cardboard, eighteen inches long and six inches wide, first with a layer of cotton wadding, which is sprinkled with a sweet sachet, and then with flowered silk or cretonne.

Whip the outer covering on with small stitches and lay the two finished strips side by side. Now sew inch-wide ribbon along the edge of the two strips, to serve as a sort of hinge, like the backing of a book, and on the other sides pieces of ribbon with which the case can be tied together. Lay the ribbons, smoothed-out flat, in this little case when you take them off for the night, and you will notice how much longer they last than if you pull them off and throw them on the bureau until needed again.

They, too, will be delicately scented and will be a real pleasure to wear.
