NOTES AND NEWS.

An action at law of novel and thrilling interest is about to be tried at Albion, N. Y. It is all about an old coffee-pot which REQUIAR CARRERS will deliver the paper to Subscribers in the City, at their places of business or residentss, immediately after it is issued.

MAIL SUBSCRIBERS can secure the DAILY TRIBUNE (postage pre-paid) at $6.20, or $5, postage paid at office of delivery.

TI WERKLY TRIBUNE (and has been and heir most lovely coffee-pot in the world; at may have been for some good reason the most lovely coffee-pot in the world; at any rate its bereaved owner reduced to be comforted, and has brought trover, for the tinware. The difficulty in such a case is to get damages high enough to carry costs.

The course of true love never did ru mooth is a maxim universal in its applismooth is a maxim universal in its application. There was a young man in Frisco who pined for a partner in life, and he advertised in the papers to that effect. One of the responses touched his manly bosom, and he spent his time writing letters when he might have been better employed. Photos were exchanged, as were young a faction, and the young lady hinted that her supply of pocket money was limited, and the enamored swain sent her prospective pin money to the amount of $200. Alas for the guile of human nature, that young woman turned out to be a lot of boys, and the generous young man has sent the police on their track to try and get his money back.

Three-card monte is an amusement which seldom brings happiness and contentment to those who indulge in its delights. As a rule, those who put their money on the eagle return to the domestic fireside, poorer and sadder men than when they departed, but Rev. A. D. Williams, of Brainard, Minu., has triumphed. He went for the flats and lot his watch and chain. Therefore his congregation—moved possibly by that felgregation—moved possibly by that re-low feeling which makes us wondrous kind—subscribed and got a new one. The worthy parson rested happy, but when the moute men felt qualms of con-science and returned, him his property, his bliss was unutterable, and now he is looking round for more moute men who carry consciences under their diamond

The Detroit Free Press has come upo a colored man, living in that city, who having long admired a colored widow living insure proper display and accuracy in their advortisements by sending the mannascript to the counting room, 51 Prince William street.

Merchants, Manufacturers and others are respectfully solicited to consider the claims of The Daily Tribune in the distribution of their advertising patronage. The Tribune has already secured a large circulation in the city, while the sales on the afternoon trains, East and West, are not exceeded by any other Daily.

the Tewksbury Reform School, there to stay during his minority. He is only eight years old, and attained his majority in sin and iniquity long ago. When only five years old he broke into a shop and rified the till. After this he achieved a brilliant reputation as a pickpocket. He speedily rose, however, to the dignity of highway robbery; for, meeting a smaller boy on the street who had a little money in his pocket, he with force and arms appropriated the same. For thirteen years his career will now be suspended, and his extraordinary abilities lost to the world. Master Maguire is described by the reporters as "very small of his age, dirty, ragged, and strongly "resembling Whitter's "fittle Bareford Boy." His father is dead, his mother is in prison as a common drunkard, and his elder brother under indictment for burglary, so that it is a question how far he may beconsidered responsible for his melancholy moral eccentricities.

A man was leading a big dog, when some one called him into a saloon to take some one called ilim into a saloon to take a drink. He looked for a place to tie his dog, and being a little excited over the prospect of a treat, the animal was made fast to the hind wheel of a farmer's wagon which was backed up to the curbstone. The dog sat down, and was looking up at the sun with half-closed eyes, and dreaming of city clerks, and dog licenses, and brass collars and beef bones, when the farmer jumped into his wagon and said "glang there." The dog didn't suspect anything until he found himself jerked "sky high" and then slapped on the ground. He gave a howl and made a jump, thinking that another dog had sneaked in on him, and then the spoke went up and he was lifted with it and flopped down again. This fun continued for about five minutes, when the dog came down under the wheel and was killed just as the wagon stopped. The owner came out, saw how 'twas done, and he folded his arms and said, "Well, wasn't that thunder."

SIR FRANCIS HINCKS, Ottawa, Ont.

DEAR SIR, — I have been thinking over the suggestion about the introduction of some of our Canadian capitalists into the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, and thought it proper to write to you for the purpose of having your views upon the matter, and especially to have the names you would suggest. Our American friends have no objection, on the contrary, are surious to meet the reasonable views of yourself for the Government on that point. You will oblige therefore, by Ottawa, 26th July, 1871.

My Dear Sre: I have received your letter of the 24th inst. I note that you had yourself arrived at the conclusion before coming to Ottawa that "the whole matter was disorganized and required complete reconstruction." You mention your intention of proceeding with Mr. Laidlaw to Montreal to see certain parties. Mr. Laidlaw is represented to be a shrewd business man and yet from your account he is about to see persons regarding a scheme, the advantages of which metither he nor you can have the slightest idea of—at least I certainly am wholly ignorant at this moment what aid in land or money the Government will recommend Parliament to grant. How anyone under such circumstances can talk to men of business about being concerned in a scheme I am at a loss to comprehend, and I am persuaded that owing to Mr. Kersteman's premature and most injudicious proceedings, the great universal busy has been done to a great un-

Mrs. Eunice B. Lamberton, of Roche er, N. Y., writes as follows to a friend

We left Bangor on Wednesday morning for St. John: a delightful ride by cars through the woods all day, a part of the road only having been built one year. When we reached the line between the United States and New Brunswick, they called for our keys to examine our trunks. They opened the largest one; fumbled a while; of course found no smuggled goods, concluded they would not open the others, and we went on. We arrived at St. John that evening and of all the queer, dirty looking eities you ever saw, I think this will take the lead. I was continually reminded of Dickens novels and the places he describes. The houses have no paint on them and look as though they had been built two or three hundred years. There are thirty thousand inhabitants, but where the rich live is more than I can determine. But I find upon inquiry that the rich live as thousand inhabitants, but where the rich live is more than I can determine. But I find upon inquiry that the rich live as their fathers and grandfathers lived; in the same houses and in the same lived; in the same houses and in the same old-fashioned ways. They are not a fast people like Americans or they would never look out of windows with panes of glass six by eight and be happy and contented with all.

John to Fredericton. Guittwared farms reaching to the water's edge and extending back as far as the eye can reach. This is a great hay country. One man cuts one thousand tons last year. And the best part of it is, the soil never wants enfeting by artificial means. The river rises at certain seasons; overflows its banks in every direction, enriching the soil. What damage it does at the same time history fails to record—said history taking the form of a Baptist minister with whom we "fell in," and who also gave us the startling information that he had fifteen children. We immediately inquired if they were all on the boat.

pearance and habits of the foreigners at the dinner table as they seemed to be at us and the free and easy manner of our children. They started at us as though we were tigers, and I suppose we did the same. One English It ly on the boat had two children with har, and they scarcely stirred from her side the whole say. If they did, she told them to sit down; and they did, she told them to sit down; and they did, she told them to sit down; and they did, she told them to sit down; and they did, she told them to sit down; and they did, she told them to sit down; and they deep large in they were!) I was an eatigneration if they were!) I was quite amused at the reply of a burly Englishman at the dinner table when the waiter asked him if he would have some salmon. "No," said he, "I a marraid to change my diet so lar from home."

We arrived at this place, Frederickton, about four o'clock, and took rooms at the "Queen Hotel." From our window we have a fine view of the river, and by walking a few rols come to as green lawn on the banks, extending for miles. The children are delighted with the place, and we shall stay here over Suhabitants, but it seems like one of our little New England villages, clean and neat. The nights are cool and we sleep under two heavy blankets.
