TOWN COUNCIL HOLD MEETING ON TUESDAY

Short Session of Council Deal Mostly With Reports of Committee

A meeting of the Town Council was held in the Council Chambers on Tuesday evening. His Worship Mayor Andrew presiding. There were also present at opening of session, Councillors Miller, Lunan, Ellsworth, Alexander and Quinn.

The minutes of the previous evening were read and confirmed, during the reading of which Councillor Ferguson entered the meeting.

Communication from Mr. H. P. Doyle for license for cab, was referred to Police and License Committee.

Communication read from W. O. Chamberlain resigning his position as town policeman. Resignation accepted.

Communication read from James Adams making application for the position of policeman. Letter referred to Police and License Committee.

Communication read from Medical Superintendent of Provincial Hospital, St. John, calling attention to the act which empowers the hospital authorities to charge municipalities for the up-keep of patients who are not paid for by relatives. An account was enclosed charging the town with the up-keep of five persons at the rate of $1.00 per week, and in the course of discussion it was pointed out that one of the patients, Peterson, was chargeable to the county, not the town.

After further discussion on the matter, the town clerk was instructed to write to Frederickson for copies of the last settlement which took place shortly before July, 1910.

The following reports of committees recommending payment of accounts were then received and adopted.

Finance, $161.66
 Water and Sewerage, $289.28
 Fire Protection, $319.82
 Public Property and Streets, $45.97

The report of the Electric Light Committee which was presented in the absence of the chairman, by Councillor Alexander, was held over after discussion on the accounts. In relation to this, Councillor Miller thought some of the accounts of departments had been running wild, and no check could be put on them until all the ordering of requirements was done through the clerk.

Councillor Lunan said if his memory served him right, that the council had come out very strongly on this matter, and instructions had been issued that all orders had to be issued from the town clerk.

The Town Clerk stated that all the heads of the departments had been notified of the council's instructions, but no notice in many cases had been taken.

The clerk was again instructed to inform the departments that all goods must be ordered through the town clerk, and merchants supplying goods to the town without his official order, were liable to be held up in the payment of such accounts.

Councillor Alexander stated that the County Council would meet at Dalhousie on the 20th of January, and as it was probable that matters relating to the town would come up, he asked that the town solicitor attend to watch the interests of the town. Instructions for the solicitor to attend were then given.

Councillor Lunan brought up the matter of compelling occupants of houses to connect with the sewer. This he Dr. stated was more important than the removal of shacks, and if the council had the power to enforce owners to connect with the sewer, they should use it. He had brought this matter to the notice of the council last year, and since then many complaints had been made to him. As a matter of fact, Councillor Lunan said, if an epidemic of typhoid broke out now, he was not sure but what the people could have room for an action of damages against the town. This matter should be looked into and be ready for action in the spring, and whether it came under the scope of the Board of Health or the Town Council, it must be attended to, as it was most important for the health of the town. After discussion it was arranged that if the Board of Health would not act, the council would take steps to take it up.

With regard to the publishing of the names of defaulters of taxes, Councillor Miller said that there was nothing in the opinion of the town solicitor to prevent the town doing this, and it was resolved to authorize the Town Treasurer to insert a notice in the newspaper that on or about the 1st of February, the list of defaulters would be published.

No report having been received from the Electric Light Committee, a special committee consisting of Councillors Alexander, Lunan and Miller, was appointed to carry out the wishes of the council with regard to electric light matters under resolutions of November 4th, 1913.

After some discussion regarding the Gerra property on Lansdowne street, the council adjourned.

DEATH WELL KNOWN LUMBER OPERATOR

Mr. David Richards Passes Away on Wednesday Morning

It was with feelings of deep regret that the news of the death of Mr. David Richards was received on Wednesday morning, by all classes in the town. He had not been in the best of health for some considerable time, and on Monday he was seized with apoplexy, from which he never regained consciousness, and passed away at an early hour on Wednesday.

The late Mr. Richards, who was in his 73rd year, was born in Hampton, York Co., and spent his early years there, engaged in farming. About thirty years ago, he entered the lumbering business, becoming a member of the firm of the Wm. Richards Co., with head offices at Boiestown, their first lumbering operations being carried out on the Miramichi. He later removed to Campbellton, to become the manager of the branch here, which under his careful guidance and forethought, increased considerably, the company having now three large mills in operation, giving employment to a large number of workmen.

He took a deep interest in all the affairs of the town and at the time of the fire set an example which was being followed by other moneyed men in assisting those who were rebuilding their homes.

He was a member of the Baptist church, and assisted very materially when the new church was built, presenting the congregation with the bell and one of the beautiful stained glass windows.

The deceased gentleman who had a large circle of friends, is sincerely mourned for he was a man of large heart, of ready and kindly sympathy, a man whose word was his bond, and who with ready tact and smiling humor, made his way pleasantly among his fellows.

His leaves to mourn his loss, three sons, Daniel, John and William, and four daughters, Mrs. James Evans, Mrs. Max Moore, Mrs. Frank Dennison and Miss Beatrice at home.

The funeral will be held on Friday, services being conducted at the late home of the deceased on Ritchie street at 2 p.m., and the funeral procession will leave at 2.30.

The Graphic in common with all his friends extends sympathy to the sorrowing family, and feels the loss keenly of a kindly neighbor.

ICE RACING HERE ON WEDNESDAY

Yesterday, in rather soft weather, was held the first ice racing of the season, and a big crowd of spectators turned out to view what promised to be a good meeting. Only two classes were driven, owing to the death of Mr. David Richards, some of the horses entered were withdrawn. In the 2.17 class, there were only two horses faced the starter, and Walter H. Gray's Nellie-Be-Sure, driven by the owner, took two firsts from Henry Cormier's Candy Girl, driven by owner.

In the 2.30 class, Bessie K., driven by Hojner, and Lucky Jack, driven by Shirley, fought it out between them, Bessie K. taking two firsts. Only two heats were run in each event, the meeting being curtailed out of respect to the late David Richards.

It is understood that a big meeting will be held next week, and arrangements are on foot to get a large entry of outside horses, and lovers of the sport are looking forward to having something special in the way of racing here.

OPENING OF THE HOCKEY SEASON

Campbellton Trims Truro by Large Score in Hollow Fashion

The hockey season opened on Wednesday evening, when the Victoria were opposed by the Truro hockey team. The rink was well filled with enthusiasts there to cheer on the purple and white, but the Campbellton boys were never seriously tested and won out easily.

The Teams

Truro: Guinan, Goal; McLean, Point; Armstrong, Cover; McDonald, Flyer; Bryson, R. Wing; Wall, Centre; McDermaid, L. Wing; McDermaid, Referee; Watling, Goal Judges; Hefferman, W. H. Luke; Time Keepers, P. O'Neill, Mowat; Penalty Time Keepers, B. Keith, O. McDonald.

Three periods of twenty minutes each were played, and the game started sharp at 8.15. It soon became evident that the visitors were out of class, play being for the most part confined to their territory. When they did manage to break away, poor shooting on the one hand and the work of McLean in the home nets, kept them from scoring. After nine minutes play, Coles scored the first goal for Campbellton, and it was followed two minutes later by one from Fowler. Matthews scored No. 3 and Fowler No. 4, before the end of the first period.

The second spasm started off with Matthews and Wall decorating the penalty bench. Play continued pretty much a repetition of the first, being in the main confined to the Truro end.

From a break away the visitors managed to land the puck in the net, but the whistle had already gone, the score did not count. Fraser then scored the first goal for Campbellton, and it was followed two minutes later by one from Fowler. Matthews scored No. 3 and Fowler No. 4, before the end of the first period.

Third period. Worse and more of it. Coles got possession of centre ice, and after working his way through, scored No. 7. Fraser after a run behind the net, scored No. 8, Matthews, No. 9, Fowler, No. 10, Coles, No. 11, and Fraser No. 12.

The Truro players were handicapped for want of practice, having only been together twice, and then in the open. Watling had good control of the game, and handed out the penalties impartially.

Penalties

Matthews, 2 2 5
 Wall, 2 2 2
 Fraser, 2 2 2
 Coles, 2 2 1
 Bryson, 2 2 4
 Delaney, 2 2 2
 Fowler, 1 1 5
 McLean, 5

SEEKING FORTUNE

Julius Svensen, mentioned in a despatch to the Telegraph published in December, stating that he was heir to a small fortune left by a relative in the old country, was in Campbellton, yesterday looking for information in reference to this matter. Svensen has been up on the Kedgewick, cooking in James Connacher's lumber camp, and was informed of the news by Sheriff Stewart, who recently visited that camp. Personally he has had no word of his fortune, but naturally is interested. Anyone having authentic information is requested to address Julius Svensen, care Graphic, Campbellton, N.B., where the communication will be forwarded.

DR. WEIR MITCHELL

NOTED AUTHOR DEAD

Philadelphia, Jan. 5.—Dr. S. Weir Mitchell, the noted novelist and physician, died at his home here on Sunday morning, after a short illness, from influenza.

Silas Weir Mitchell was born in Philadelphia, on February 15, 1829. He graduated at Jefferson Medical College, and established practice in Philadelphia. He won fame as one of the world's leading physiologists and neurologists, and treated thousands of the wealthiest of Americans for nervous diseases. To his offices in Philadelphia came patients from all over America, and it is related that European specialists at times sent back to him patients from the western hemisphere, who had thought that they could best trust themselves to the doctors of the old world.

As a novelist, Dr. Mitchell's best known book is "Hugh Wynne Quaker." Other books are "Westways," "John Sherwood, Ironmaster," "The Adventures of Francois," "Francois Villon," "Francis Drake," "A Madeira Party," and "Dr. North and His Friends."

Dr. Mitchell was given honorary degrees by European universities, and the University of Toronto, while the degrees of LL.D. was bestowed upon him by Harvard, Princeton, and other institutions in his own country. He held membership in societies in many parts of the world, including the French Academy of Medicine, the British Medical Society, the Royal Society of Great Britain, American Neurological Association, and many others.

Dr. Mitchell was an advocate of the "rest cure" in the treatment of nervous diseases, and it has been said that this had much to do with making his reputation as a neurologist. Among his best known medical works were "The Evolution of the Rest Treatment," "Rest in the Treatment of Disease," and "Rest Treatment and Psychic Medicine."

(The late Dr. Mitchell, above referred to, was well known to the residents of Matapedia and other settlements along the Restigouche river, where nearly every summer for the past 35 or 40 years he spent a few weeks angling for the sporty salmon, with his tried and trusty friend, Mr. Dennis Fitzgerald as his right hand guide and special manager.)

RACES ON ICE
SPEEDWAY NEW YEAR

Large Crowd Congregated and
Races Were Fast And Exciting

(From Gloucester Northern Light)
The races on the Bathurst Ice Speedway, New Year's afternoon aroused a great deal of interest, not only among the lovers of the sport, but among the citizens generally, great crowds viewing the different events in hundreds of teams along the course, and at different vantage points on the shore.

In the Free-for-all, three fast record racers faced the starter. Hal L. 2:11 3/4, Candy Girl, 2:17 3/4, and Major Wilkes, 2:17 3/4. Candy Girl drew the pole, Major Wilkes took second and Hal L. came on the outside. On the second lap down the work was given. It was a pretty race for the first quarter between the three horses. Then Hal L. drew away and won the heat quite handily. Time 1:15. There was a bad spill between Candy Girl and Major Wilkes shortly before the quarter was reached. Major Wilkes going to a break, caused Driver Cormier who was coming close behind, to go into a snowbank alongside the track, and unseating him, the mare finishing the course almost out alone. Mr. Cormier's sulky was put out of commission by having a shaft broken. No protest was made to the judges, as the accident was considered unavoidable on account of the narrowness of the track. The second heat was won by Hal L. in faster time, 1:08 3/4, Candy Girl winning out from Major Wilkes by a length. At the start of the third heat, Major Wilkes and Candy Girl stood even for third money, and owing to Candy Girl's overdraw breaking on first score, considerable delay was caused, so that when Starter Dunlop gave the word dusk had fallen. Hal L. won the heat in 1:09, Candy Girl taking second place and second money by a close drive. Hal L. was driven by his owner, Mr. W. G. Fenwick, Major Wilkes by Mr. E. R. Shirley and Candy Girl by Henry Cormier.

In the three minute Trot and Pace, purse $400, three well known pacers faced the wire.

Northern Jack, owned by Mr. Bruce McBeath of Campbellton.
Dolly, owned by Mr. Charles Miller of Bathurst.

John, owned by Secretary Landry of Bathurst.

Northern Jack won the race in three straight heats, Dolly forcing him to go the fast half in 1:10, and taking second place in each heat.

3:00 Trot and Pace, purse $400.

Northern Jack 1 1 1
Dolly 2 2 2
John 3 3 3

Time 1:12, 1:10, 1:14.

Free-for-all Trot and Pace, Purse, $100.00.

Hal L. 1 1 1
Candy Girl 2 2 2
Major Wilkes 3 3 3

Time, 1:15, 1:08 3/4, 1:09.

Starter, Mr. J. H. Dunlop.

Judges, Messrs. Rolt, Godfrey of Chatham; J. Underhill, of Campbellton; A. T. Hinton of Bathurst.

Timers, Messrs. A. O'Donnell and F. Thibodeau.

The races were made possible by the generosity of Messrs. A. Landry and W. G. Fenwick, who personally donated the cash necessary for the purses.

On account of the heavy storms of late, the ice track cost something over twenty dollars to make and keep in shape, only fifteen dollars of which was secured from parties besides the above named gentlemen. In view of these circumstances, it would seem that the general public had an opportunity to enjoy a splendid afternoon's sport, for which their thanks are entirely due to the public spirit and sportsmanship of Messrs. Landry and Fenwick. Judging from the keen interest taken in these races, it is hardly likely that it will ever again be necessary for two private citizens to shoulder between them the entire expenses for a public affair of this kind.

MARRIED IN ST. JOHN

(From Gloucester Northern Light)
Mr. Chesley G. Eddy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Eddy of this town, and one of the county's most enterprising young men, was one of the principals in a particularly interesting event that took place in St. John, New Year's Day. At the home of Capt. and Mrs. J. F. Cheyne, of Dredge No. 3, for the past three years working in Bathurst harbor, 101 Elliott Row, their daughter, Miss Grace A., became the bride of the well known Bathurst man. At the same time and at the same place, Harold J., son of Mr. and Mrs. Cheyne, was married to Miss Katherine Howard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Howard of Toronto.

The double ceremony was performed in the drawing room which was appropriately decorated for the occasion, by Rev. Wilfred Gatz, pastor of the Queen Square Methodist Church. Both brides were dressed alike, wearing white silk with bridal trains and bridal veils, and carrying bouquets of white roses and chrysanthemums. Miss Violet Wood, niece of Capt. and Mrs. Cheyne, acted as flower girl, and was dressed in white, and carried roses and chrysanthemums. Only immediate relatives and friends were present at the ceremony, and at its conclusion an elaborate wedding supper was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Eddy are to spend a honeymoon in the Maritime Provinces, and will then take up their residence in the splendid new house just completed for them, at the corner of Andrews and Murray Sts. The Northern Light extends best wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Eddy.

The Sable Lorcha

By Horace Hazelton.

"Miss Clement has never seen one of them," Evelyn continued, "but some of the Chinese have told her of them, and of the wonders that they perform. She says the chemical, whatever it is, is very expensive and so they are seldom used, but that in China, especially in secret government enterprises, they are employed on occasion. The effect is seemingly to make invisible the person who uses them. Really, they don't do anything of the sort; for they are nothing more than a thin, transparent, and with a peculiarly acting, anesthetic, an anesthetic so quick and powerful in its action that the victim falls into unconsciousness without warning, and emerges, after an interval of ten or twelve minutes, without knowing that he has been unconscious or that more than a single second has elapsed."

"The idea seems ingenious," I returned. "I was interested, surely, but very far from convinced. 'But,' I objected, 'how is it that the anesthetic is not used to anesthetize himself?' 'Oh, he doesn't break the pearls under his own nose,' Evelyn explained. 'He casts them. The slightest concussion fractures the shell, and every one within a certain radius drops instantly into a temporary trance.'"

"And the swine before whom the pearls are cast, do they drop to the ground to rise again when the tea or twelve minutes are concluded?" I ridiculed.

"Oh, not at all. Your muscles are not relaxed. You stand or sit as if turned suddenly to stone. If your arm is extended, for instance, it remains in that position until the effect ceases." She was very much in earnest, and tried to persuade me that, aided by these pearls, it would be a very easy matter to commit all three of the deprecatory acts which had so amazed and shocked us.

I am the last man to regard anything as impossible in this day of wonders, yet I was by no means willing to accept such a solution merely on the hearsay evidence of a woman who had spent a decade and a half amongst the Chinese of New York City. "Yes, Evelyn," I said, tolerantly, "it is worth considering, and at the first opportunity I shall look into it. But just now there must be more important matters for you and me to discuss. Did Miss Clement, by any chance, see Yip Sing?"

At the question the girl's pale cheeks flushed to her temples and her violet eyes blazed.

"I asked her to see him, and she did," was her answer. "I thought I might learn from him when and where you parted, and what led up to the plight in which you were found. But he told her that you had failed to keep an engagement with him. He intimated that you had come to Chinatown intent upon making trouble, and upon declaring that he had no time to devote to answering the conundrums of such a harebrained American as you had proved yourself. Did you ever hear of such impertinence? I wanted Miss Clement to take me to him—that I might tell him what I thought of his outrageous conduct, but she refused. She says he stands very high amongst his people, and that it is not well to antagonize him."

I smiled at her indignation. "After all," I said, "he isn't so much to blame. I must have cut a rather undignified figure chasing Mr. Johnson through Doyers street, and then falling down cellar stairs. When I am able to get out again, I shall go to Mr. Yip and apologize."

But before I was able to get out again, I changed my mind. To be quite definite I changed it that same evening, when, in reading the reports of O'Hara, the detective who for nearly two weeks had been shadowing the red giant, Philatus Murphy, I came upon this entry:

CHAPTER XVI.

A Slump in Crystal Consolidated. The week of my convalescence was not eventful. Evelyn and Mrs. Lancaster called daily, and the reports from O'Hara came each morning with unvarying regularity and equally unvarying lack of import. The artist, after his visit to Yip Sing, had returned to his Cos Cob hermitage, accompanied by a successor to his former unfortunate Chinese servant, and now rarely left his own grounds. Gravid with suggestion as his appearance in Chinatown had seemed at first, I now came to realize that it might possibly bear no more vital significance than that altogether commonplace proceeding, the quest of a cook. And in the absence of any confirmatory evidence to the contrary, and with the knowledge gleaned from Miss Clement that Yip Sing, as he was called, had to his regular business of man-handling that of an employment agent, I saw no reason to attach an undue importance to the incident. Nevertheless I relinquished none of my suspicions regarding Murphy, but continued the detective's surveillance with a fresh impetus to vigilance. A part of her day's work in her chosen field, and that her day's work was her passion. And yet it was this part of our interview which gave me my strongest insight into her exceptional worth as a character. Absolutely unselfish, she joyed in a life that even a religious fanatic might well have qualified before; finding flowers in mud heaps and jewels amid tinsel.

In five minutes, too, I glimpsed her abounding optimism, the moving agent in that rare efficiency which was part and parcel of her. Later, I learned of the weight of her influence among the dwellers in the Chinese colony; not from any direct narrative of what she had accomplished—for she was chary of speaking of herself—but by deduction, purely. Moreover, my watch, a few trinkets and a little money, taken from me that night by Doyers street, had all been returned through Miss Clement's good offices; and if, thus far, she had afforded us no real clue in our absorbing exigency, I felt that ultimately her knowledge, coupled with her resourcefulness, would prove to us of unbounded value. And, as events shaped themselves, I was not wrong.

It was now nearly four weeks since Cameron's disappearance, and a fear that he had met death in some desolate form at the hands of his abductors had come to be with me very nearly an obsession. The care I exercised in hiding my real state of mind from Evelyn could not well be exaggerated. When I appeared to her most hopeful I was actually most despairing. With Miss Clement, however, I had no reason to dissemble. With all frankness I told her of my despair; and when, instead of trying to comfort me with empty words of encouragement she agreed with me that the chances of her seeing Cameron again were very small, I liked her the better for being straightforward.

"I sometimes feel," I said to her, "making full confession, 'that we made a terrible mistake in not at once notifying the authorities. Even now I am loath to lay the matter before them. Anything would be better than uncertainty. A few arrests and the third degree might work wonders.'"

"Where would you start?" she asked in a blunt, logical way that reminded me of Evelyn's faculty of going to the root of things. "You see, you know so little. The story about the portrait and the mirror, the police would regard as more amusing than convincing. And besides, you haven't any proof. Yip Sing, you tell me, has the only original letter, and by this time he may have lost it or have forgotten that he ever had it. If you had seen as much of the Chinese as I have, you would appreciate how wily they are. My belief is that the police would conclude that Mr. Cameron fell overboard from his yacht and was drowned. Indeed it would be fortunate if they did not take the view that he jumped overboard and committed suicide. Or, worse still, it would not be beyond them, Mr. Clyde, to charge that you pushed him over. The yellow papers would almost certainly intimate such a possibility." Had some one else voiced this suggestion I should probably have resented it, but I understood Miss Clement. She was as kind as her eyes indicated; and that is speaking very strongly.

"Nevertheless," I said, with growing determination, "I shall make the case public. It is my duty, and I am willing to run all the risks you point out. I shall start by making a complaint against Peter Johnson. We'll have him arrested, get his record, and follow along that trail until we turn up the other conspirators. If poor Cameron's shares fall in the market, they'll have to fall. If the notoriety precipitates a delayed fatality of which Cameron is the victim, it cannot be helped. I simply will not longer shoulder the responsibility of silence."

The way she had of silent deliberation was almost masculine. I can see her, even now, as she sat there that afternoon, her hair the same shade of gray as her cloth gown, her fresh clear complexion lined in thought, her kindly eyes half closed. For the better part of a minute she pondered. Then, suddenly, her face awoke, and she asked me:

"Will you wait three days longer? That is all. I have channels of information that are closed to the police, even. There are men in Chinatown, and women too, who would lay down their lives for me. I think some of them would even betray their friends, which is still a greater assurance. Wait three days, Mr. Clyde, and if at the end of that time I have not learned for you what you want to know, go on with your publicity idea."

So Mr. And I myself possessed a certain degree of faith in feminine intuition. Aside from that, though, Miss Clement had demonstrated that she wielded a certain power in her ball-wick—was not my watch, at that moment, in my pocket?—and her whole personality proclaimed inherent capacity for accomplishment.

"Very well, Miss Clement," I agreed. "I will wait three days. It is now Saturday, November 14. If by this time Tuesday afternoon we are not, at least, on the track of something tangible, I shall be on my way to Mulberry street."

Sunday was with me a day of impotence. I fretted now at confinement, for my ankle was quite strong again, and I was perfectly well in other respects, too. But my physician had set Monday for my first day out, and he refused to concede even a quick lunch restaurant, with white painted bulk window, beneath which a pair of cellar doors spread invitingly, one of them resting against a conventional American milk can. On the theater's right was a laundry, dim and evil-looking, two pipe-smoking celestials decorating its low step. And beyond this was the wide opening to a basement, above which, in white Roman lettering on a black ground, I read the legend: "His Sing Tong."

Again and again my gaze persisted in returning to this sign and the dimly lighted caverns beneath it. The place held for me the inexpressible, faithless shams of the mysterious, beside which the haphazard racket of the theater across the way, the sinister aspect of the dismal laundry and its pair of pipe-smoking guardians, even the constantly changing procession of varied types in roadway and on sidewalks, seemed but meager allure.

From time to time dark, silent figures glided vaguely into view only to disappear within this maze of mystery. Once, while I stood, I had seen a figure issue forth to be lost again instantly in the distant gloom of the curving street. Now, reverting once more to this magnet, after a moment's truanancy, my eyes were rewarded by sight of three slowly emerging forms, silhouetted nebulously against the dusk.

At the head of the steps I paused, uncertainly, and then, instead of gliding swiftly away in the direction of Peel street as did the others, I stepped in my direction, passing almost at once into the comparatively glowing radius of the street lamp opposite.

I saw then that it was a man, thin to emaciation, round-shouldered, and crooked limbed. Whether some one startled him, or a voice from the roadway startled him, I don't know. But for some reason he turned his head suddenly, and the light from the lamp fell full upon a face, stubble-bearded, disheveled, and repellent, the face not of a Chinaman but of a white man; a face into which I had looked but twice, and then but for a brief moment; yet a face as indelibly fixed in my memory as were the grim fronts of the buildings now behind it—the face of Peter Johnson, the pretended mastaway.

I think I must have had it in mind to pick him up bodily and carry him away with me that night by inequitable tortuous wrings from his companion. Otherwise I should have adopted a less eager and more subtle method of bringing the miscreant to book than that which I rashly attempted. Before I considered the situation I was across the street and at his heels. My finger tips, indeed, were at his shoulder. In the fraction of a second I should have had him gripped and have been hustling him through the crowd as my prisoner. But at the instant of seeming success, he eluded me. In some strange way he caught alarm and, shrinking beneath my hand, darted sinuously off, between this pedestrian and that, with the flashing speed of a lizard.

But, though he escaped my clutch, my eyes were more nimble. With them I followed him until I saw him drop beneath the cellar doors which gaped beneath the white bulk window of the quick lunch room. And where my eyes went, I went after. Another brief moment and, without thought or heed, I was plunging in pursuit down that short, steep flight of steps—plunging from a lighted, peopled, noisy public street into the coiled gloom and dead silence of a low underground basement.

And, as misfortune would have it, I must needs catch my heel on the edge of one of the treads, and go sprawling on my hands and knees; while a poignant pain shooting cruelly through my ankle told me that a sprain was added to my mishap.

SEVEN SOLDIERS KILLED.

TWELVE BADLY WOUNDED. METEY, Germany, Jan. 3.—Seven soldiers were killed, twelve badly wounded and twelve slightly injured yesterday at Wolpitz station, when a fast express telegraphed a military train, returning to Metz, with men who had been on furlough for the Christmas holidays.

As illustrating that old customs still survive in the old land, it is interesting to notice that from France alone, Great Britain imported $300,000 of minkettes for Christmas.

NEW CANCER CURES

"A GIGANTIC SWINDLE"

German Professor Describes Them as "Madness"

Berlin, Jan. 2.—"A gigantic swindle" is vigorously described by Professor Ernest Schwenninger of Munich to the theory prevalent throughout the world that radium and mesothorium are the long sought cures for cancer. Professor Schwenninger, who is famed as the private physician to Bismarck, airs his views in the January number of Neuerundschau. He declares that the much vaunted radio-active substances are the panacea that medical men have been hunting for generations. He protests that the hue and cry from serious-minded members of his profession have been sent up in regard to the miraculous value of radium and mesothorium for cancer treatment are "highly unworthy of genuine medical ethics."

HAIR HINTS

Worthy the Attention of People Who Wish to Preserve The Hair

Always have your own brush and comb at home or at hair dresser's. Never use a brush or comb found in public places, they are usually covered with dandruff germs.

Wash your hair brush weekly with soap and warm water to which may be added an antiseptic.

Shampoo the hair every week or so with pure soap and water.

Use Parisian Sage every day, rubbing thoroughly into the scalp. Parisian Sage, which comes in a large 50 cent bottle, is guaranteed by Thos. Wran to destroy dandruff germs and abolish dandruff—to stop hair from falling and scalp from itching, or money refunded.

To put life and beauty into dull, dry or faded hair and make it soft and fluffy, surely use Parisian Sage—it is one of the quickest acting hair tonics known.

WOMAN COULD NOT WALK

She Was So Ill—Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Pentwater, Mich.—"A year ago I was very weak and the doctor said I had a serious displacement. I had backache and bearing down pains so bad that I could not sit in a chair or walk across the floor and I was in severe pain all the time. I felt discouraged everything I could think of and was no better. I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and now I am strong and healthy."—Mrs. ALICE DARLING, R.F.D. No. 2, Box 77, Pentwater, Mich.

Read What Another Woman says: Peoria, Ill.—"I had such backaches that I could hardly stand on my feet. I would feel like crying out lots of times, and had such a heavy feeling in my right side. I had such terrible dull headaches every day and they would make me feel so drowsy and sleepy all the time, yet I could not sleep at night."

"After I had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a week I began to improve. My backache was less and that heavy feeling in my side went away. I continued to take the Compound and am cured."

"You may publish this if you wish."—Miss CLARA L. GAUWITZ, R.R. No. 4, Box 62, Peoria, Ill.

Such letters prove the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for woman's ills. Why don't you try it?

Suffered Ten Years Until "Fruit-a-lives" Cured Him

ST. THOMAS, ONT., May 22nd, 1913. "I was troubled for ten years with the most distressing Constipation and Indigestion of the worst form. No one could have been worse with these troubles than I was for this long time."

The pain from indigestion was so severe that many times, I had to stop work and lie down until the acute spasms passed away.

I took a lot of medicine—in fact, I guess I took about everything that was advertised—and gave them all a fair test—but got no relief. About a year ago, however, I was advised to try "Fruit-a-lives". I am mighty glad I did so for they seem to be made exactly for me.

They gave results in a very short time and I am now free from those diseases and enjoying perfect health.

My wife also used "Fruit-a-lives" and we both think they are the best medicine ever made."

THOMAS BAILLIE'S

BODY RECOVERED

Dalhousie, N. B., Jan. 7th.—A drowning accident, which cast a gloom over the inhabitants on both sides of the Restigouche river, occurred opposite Dalhousie on Saturday evening. Young Jack Baillie, 16 years of age, son of a most respected Scotch family of Fleurant's Point, Bonaventure county, Que., after helping his father hauling salmon pickets went skating on the river about 5 o'clock. As he did not return home, parties searched all night on the ice, having found his rubber boots on the bank opposite his home. On Sunday morning about four o'clock, his father arrived at Dalhousie, thinking perhaps that his son had skated across the river to visit his relatives, the McNeills, but no trace of him was found here. On Tuesday morning a searching party, consisting of Alderman Alexander Wallace, Havelock McNeill, Lighthouse keeper, Alexander Wafer, (Dalhousie Junction), Harry Wafer, Schurman Dickie of Fleurant's Point, Thomas Baillie and Claud Baillie, the two latter, father and son of the late Jack Baillie, with grappling apparatus furnished by Dalhousie Pilots, were successful in finding the young man's body at ten o'clock in the forenoon in about thirty feet of water. The accident happened on the New Brunswick side of the channel, about one and a quarter miles from Dalhousie's public wharf. The marks on the young man's face, the fact that his watch, pocket-book and matches were found on the ice near the opening where he met his death, go to prove the terrible struggle and hardship young Baillie must have endured. It would appear that when he first fell in the water, he managed to extricate himself and place the articles mentioned on the ice to mark the spot of his misfortune. The remains were brought to the home of Mr. Havelock McNeill, and afterwards taken to the old home at Fleurant's Point. Undertaker J. F. LeGruille of Dalhousie, having prepared the body for burial. The funeral will take place at the Presbyterian cemetery of Escuminac, P. Q., on Thursday afternoon, Jan. 8th, at 2 o'clock. The funeral will be held here for the parents of young Baillie, in their bereavement this week, as they received news to-day of the serious illness of one of their sons who is in the West.

THE ROYAL BANK OF CANADA.

The report of the Royal Bank of Canada for the year ending 29th November last will be found elsewhere in this issue, and will probably be regarded by those interested in the Bank's affairs, as very satisfactory. It shows the Bank to be in an unusually strong position, with the earnings for the year equivalent to rather more than 18 1/2 per cent. on the capital stock, a new high level. The year's business has been characterized by a steady growth in all departments, with every indication that a continued increase may reasonably be expected. The total assets of the Bank exceed $180,000,000, of which no less a sum than $21,000,000 is held in reserve, while the amount on deposit with the Bank reaches the large figure of $138,000,000. The liquid assets of the Bank are equivalent to almost 47 per cent. of the total liabilities, and the proportion of actual cash reserves reaches a high water mark of 13.83 per cent. The Bank's statement should be of the greatest benefit to the Canadian situation in London, as it will afford English interests a striking proof of the strong position in which our leading financial institutions are holding themselves.
