HORSEMEN SAY NO KICK IS COMING

Supt. Brown Produces Signed Statement.

Denies That Undue Pressure Was Exerted to Obtain It.

No. 1 Committee Decides Charges Are Not Excessive at the Western Fair Stables.

A last night's meeting of the finance committee of the city council the question of the stabling charges made to horsemen using the stables at the Western Fair grounds for horses sold to the British Government was discussed at length. The matter was brought up by a memo. from the council asking the committee to investigate the matter. Ald. Jolly had said in council that he had been told that the rent charged was so excessive that there was a prospect of the remount station being located elsewhere on that account.

Superintendent James H. Brown and Secretary J. A. Nelles, of the Western Fair board, were on hand to lay the board's side of the matter before the committee. Superintendent Brown produced the following document, which he thought ought to be conclusive proof that the horsemen were not dissatisfied:

"London, Oct. 15, 1901.

"To all whom it may concern:

"We, the undersigned horsemen, buying horses at the exhibition grounds in the city of London, for the Imperial Government, hereby declare, that notwithstanding the articles which appeared in the daily papers on the 8th inst., we have been treated, and are now being treated, in a most liberal manner by the Western Fair board, they having charge us a very low rent indeed, considering the spacious grounds and buildings we occupy. The stables have every accommodation the most particular horseman could desire, and, in fact, it is without exception the most convenient, one of the largest, and the best equipped remount station in the Dominion; therefore we have no complaints whatever to make, and are perfectly satisfied with the privileges we now enjoy. (Signed)

"JAMES McCARTNEY,
"JAMES McGREGOR,
"CHARLES FRASER,
"GEORGE SIMPSON,
"C. S. TAMLIN, V.S."

Mr. Brown proceeded to explain that the rental charged is only 50 cents per stall per month for 305 stalls. This is only paid for horses awaiting inspection by the army buyers. After they are accepted by the government, they are removed to the lower stables, where the horsemen use 374 stalls for which no rental whatever is charged. During this time the dealers are receiving 40 cents per head per day for fodder from the government, and nearly one-half of this is clear profit to the dealers. With 300 or 400 head of horses, the dealers receive $150 or $160 per day from the government; while the fodder will cost them less than $100.

Ald. Beattie inquired if there was any truth in the statement that the letter produced had been signed under pressure. He had been told that the water commissioners or Mr. J. W. Little had told the horsemen that if they did not sign they would be charged for the water used at the stables.

"It is not true," said Mr. Brown. "Mr. J. W. Little or the commissioners had nothing whatever to do in the matter. I myself suggested to Mr. McCartney that the horsemen had better not raise the point of excessive charges, as it might direct the attention of the water commissioners to the fact that the water was being used free of charge, and they might then charge the horsemen for it. It was not meant as a threat, and I do not think it was taken as such."

Mr. Brown added that Mr. McCartney was the last dealer who should complain, as he had received free use of more stalls than all the other dealers and he had made more money, having handled 20 horses to each 1 handled by the other dealers. Buildings had cost the city $285,000, and there should be some slight charge made to cover wear and tear. Before the opening of the fair it had cost considerable to repair and disinfect the stables after they had been used by the horsemen. Each horseman should deposit $100, but only one had done so. The matter was a private enterprise, not a government one, and dealers made private sales as well as those to the army. From the stall which cost the dealer 50c per month he might make $50 or more. Each horse brought in by a farmer means $5 or $10 in the dealer's pocket. Whether the farmer got his fair price or not, the dealer made on the transaction.

Ald. Cronyn asked if there was any possibility of the remount station being removed from London.

Mr. Brown said there was not a place west of Toronto where the same facilities could be obtained. At London 1,000 horses can be stabled with ease, in St. Thomas they cannot stable 100. The shipping facilities here are unsurpassable, the tracks being alongside the sheds. Last week 21 cars of horses were loaded in one hour. The government buyer was much pleased with the premises here, which are excellent for examining, training and exercising the horses. In St. Thomas the examination had to be held on the main street. No remount station would be established elsewhere, unless enormous stables were erected for it, and small municipalities would not do this. Col. Dent, the British army buyer, will not go to small outside places to examine horses. The rental charged per stall would not average more than 3 cents per head.

Mayor Rumball could not see why these private dealers should be given free stabling. Any horse owner in the city might demand the same from the city.

Ald. Greenlees thought that the rental charged was too small. If the horsemen were such ninnyhammers, jackasses and puttyheads as to be so easily forced into signing a string of lies, they deserved nothing. If they had a grievance they should be men enough to stand out and say what it is.

Ald. Cronyn moved that in view of the letter produced and the explanation made by Supt. Brown, the committee report to the council that no cause of complaint existed with regard to the Western Fair board.

The general question of securing a permanent remount station here was laid over until a reply was received from Ottawa to the city's enquiry as to what initial steps should be taken in the matter.

Ald. Beattie's proposed bylaw to reggulate bicycles, the correspondence re the bylaw prohibiting trading stamps, the extension of the street railway along South street, and the mayor's reference in his inaugural to the interchange of railway cars were all laid over.

Joseph Young wrote complaining that he had been assessed for 62 feet when his frontage was only 60 feet. The matter was referred to the engineer for report.

A request was received for the use of the city hall on Thanksgiving Day and three following days for the holding of a religious conference, by the Christians, whose meeting-place is at the corner of Horton and Colborne streets.

The committee will recommend that the request be granted, with the exception of Saturday afternoon, when the cheese market uses the hall.

The reception committee's recommendation, that official insignia and a robe of office be procured for the mayor to wear at the reception to the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall, was filed for references.

S. S. Glass, formerly engineer at Victoria Hospital, protested against payment of income tax, as he has neither position nor salary. The committee remited the income tax.

A bill for $13 was put in from the 7th Regiment Band, it being balance due for the last public band concert given. The matter was laid over.

The members present were: Ald. Greenlees (in the chair), Cronyn and Beattie, Mayor Rumball and Secretary Bell.

Consumptive People

Can Secure Renewed Health and Strength.

The Rich, Red Blood Made by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Gives New Strength to Every Nerve, Fibre and Organ of the Body.

[From the Budget, Shelburne, N. S.]

Among the young ladies of Shelburne there is none today who more fully bears the impress of perfect health than Miss Lilian Durfee. Unfortunately, this was not always the case, as a few years ago Miss Durfee became ill, and her friends feared that she was going into decline. A doctor was called in and prescribed, but his medicines did not have the desired effect. Her strength gradually left her, her appetite failed, she had frequent headaches, was very pale, and finally grew so weak that a walk of a few rods would completely fatigue her. The young lady's family sorrowfully observed that she was steadily failing, and feared that consumption would claim her as a victim. One day a friend urged that she should give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial, but the idea at first was not favorably entertained; it seemed hopeless to expect that any medicine would help her after the doctor's treatment had failed. However, this good friend still urged, and finally prevailed. By the time the third box was used, there was an unmistakable improvement in Miss Durfee's condition. Cheered by this, the pills were continued, and in the course of a few weeks the former invalid, whose strength was taxed by the slightest exertion, was almost restored to health. The use of the pills was still continued and a few weeks more found Miss Durfee again enjoying perfect health.

To a reporter who interviewed her, she said: "I believe that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills saved my life, and I earnestly recommend them to all who fear that consumption has laid its grasp upon them."

That the facts related above are not in any way exaggerated, is borne out by the following statement from Robt. G. Irwin, Esq., the well known stipendiary magistrate for the municipality, who says: "I distinctly remember the pale face of Miss Lilian Durfee and the regrets of friends as they expressed their conviction that she would soon be compelled to say farewell to earth. Miss Durfee, however, carries the unmistakable credentials of good health, and frequently expresses her indebtedness to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

Pale and anaemic girls, or young people with consumptive tendencies, will find renewed health and bodily vigor through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills are an unfailing cure for all diseases due to a watery condition of the blood or shattered nerves. Sold by all dealers in medicine or sent postpaid on receipt of 50 cents a box, or $2 50 for six boxes, by addressing the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont.

THAT ROYAL OAK MYSTERY.

The Dead Woman Evidently Is Mrs. Huss

And Not the Ontario Girl Who Was Missing From Appin.

Detroit, Oct. 19.—The Royal Oak (Mich.) murder mystery is being cleared up, and as additional facts come to light, the circumstantial evidence points more conclusively to the certainty that the dead woman is not from Appin, Ont., but is a Mrs. Huss, and that Convict Henry Wiseman is the party who last saw Mrs. Huss alive.

Mrs. Huss disappeared the last week in September, 1900, her husband coming from Chicago, and taking the two children and the household goods away. Her alleged cousin, Robert Hale, an umbrella mender escaped from Berrien county jail, came to Royal Oak and lived with Mrs. Huss. After her disappearance he was taken back to Berrien county to serve out the sentence. He is now supposed to be in Windsor, Ont., which he claims as his home. He is colored.

Mrs. Huss was last seen by Frank Marvin, Wiseman's father-in-law, and Convict Wiseman. On the night she disappeared, she asked them where she could buy some wood. Marvin declares Wiseman offered to show her, and walked with her towards the woods. Some time elapsed, and Marvin, after missing a car, returned home.

Convict Wiseman at first denied knowledge of the incident, but later admitted the details, with the exception that he says he did not accompany the woman. He contradicted himself in several important particulars, and intimated strongly that Marvin and his wife were liars.

When last seen Mrs. Huss wore tan shoes. The dead woman had no shoes. A pair of tan shoes were found by Mrs. Wiseman in the house just before they moved to Wayne, which her husband said belonged to Ida Williams, who had been living with the Wisemans. The shoes, it is alleged, were too small for Ida Williams, being 3½ size, but fitted Mrs. Wiseman, who wore them out. Mrs. Wiseman also had a ring, which her husband claimed to have found on the west boulevard in Detroit, but he said nothing of his find for two weeks until he lost it one day while working in a sawmill at Grass Lake. The ring was found and returned to him. This was two weeks after Mrs. Huss had disappeared.

Mrs. Edward Tremper, a neighbor of the Huss family a year ago, declares she would swear on the witness stand that Mrs. Huss wore a ring similar to the one which Wiseman had. There was no ring on the fingers of the dead woman's hand.

On the body of the woman was found a peculiarly made pin with small red stones in it. This pin Mrs. Tremper described as one of the articles of jewelry worn by Mrs. Huss.

Prosecutor K. P. Rockwell, of Pontiac, is satisfied that there is enough evidence on hand to justify him in asking for a warrant for Wiseman's arrest. The prisoner at Jackson could be pardoned and rearrested on the charge of murder.

Mrs. James Lawson and Mrs. John Stewart, both residents of Sodus, and sisters of the supposed dead woman, stated, when interviewed, that when Mrs. Huss left town she had in her possession a gold band wedding ring. They could not recall whether any initials of any kind were engraved on the inside.

WARRANT FOR WISEMAN'S ARREST.

Pontiac, Mich., Oct. 18.—Justice of the Peace Harry H. Snowdon yesterday issued a warrant, charging Henry Wiseman with having murdered Mrs. Ellen Huss, in the woods, one and one-half miles north of Royal Oak, on the afternoon of Sept. 20, 1900.

THE COMPLAINING WITNESS.

Detroit, Oct. 19.—Christopher Huss, complaining witness in the Wiseman murder case, has returned to his home in South Bend, Ind. Before going he visited Gilbert Williams, the Windsor drayman who is holding Hale's household effects in trust. Huss said that all the goods were his and he arranged with Williams that if Hale failed to turn up within a reasonable time he himself would pay the charges against the furniture and take possession of it. Huss described a great part of the possessions and said that among other things there were a pair of low tan shoes belonging to his wife, his wedding certificate and a small photograph album.

"That's right; those things were all there," declared Williams, "but this afternoon Detective Campeau and a little old man wearing glasses came over and went through the stuff and took those things away. They said it was in the name of the law."

Drs. J. B. Kennedy and Angus McLean together examined the remains of the woman whose murdered body was found in the woods near Royal Oak, for the purpose of seeing whether Dr. McLean would agree with the findings of Dr. Kennedy. Dr. Kennedy's opinion was confirmed by that of Dr. McLean when the two had concluded their investigation. The knife wound and the contents of the stomach were carefully examined.

Prosecutor Rockwell is determined to sift every bit of evidence adduced.

HENSALL.

Hensall, Oct. 18.—Rev. Messrs. Hunter, Crossley, Henderson, Long and Dr. Sellery attended the London reception of the duke and duchess last Saturday.

The government inspector of electric lights was here last Saturday to examine the service in this town. In doing so he stated that the electric light service being given to the residents of Hensall was much above the average.

The revival meetings still continue, and as they do so they increase in power and many are being made to see the error of their way. Large crowds attend regularly every night.

Thos. Young, who has been spending a month with Jas. McDougall and other friends in Tuckersmith, has returned to Manitoba to fill his government position as land warden or inspector.

Miss Sarah Cadmore, of Kippen, daughter of Mr. Wm. Cadmore, left on a trip to Victoria, B. C., on Wednesday of last week. She will be greatly missed by the family and a large circle of friends, as she was a general favorite.

Mr. J. P. Tisdale, of Clinton, has been appointed liquidator of the Coleman estate, Seaforth, which at one time was estimated to be worth $200,000.

Frank Gamish, of Tuckersmith, suffered the penalty of the law to the extent of $13 and costs, amounting in all to $21, in a case tried at Clinton last week. It seems Mr. Nott and his sister were driving home from attending services in Turner's Church, when the defendant, Gamish, deliberately frightened the horse by blowing sparks from a cigar in its face. The animal bolted, and both occupants were thrown out of the buggy, but with no serious result.

Mr. T. W. Elgie, of Stanley, recently delivered in Clinton, three six-months hogs which had a total weight of 685 pounds.

The council met last week and decided that it was necessary to lay cement crossings at the corner opposite the Commercial Hotel, at the post-office corner and at the corner of Carmel Church. They also honored some other petitions from residents of certain streets to lay cement walks.

Mr. G. N. Babcock, our popular druggist, has moved into his residence over his store.

W. J. Millar, blacksmith, has commenced to build his new blacksmith shop. It is to be built of cement, and is the finest of its kind in this section. Mr. Millar is deserving of great credit for his push and enterprise.

Mr. Ruse, of Toronto, has been engaged as precentor in Carmel Church. Mr. Ruse will no doubt be quite an addition to Hensall's musical circle.

Mr. Frand Blatchford, of Bethesda, was presented with the veterans' medal at the meeting of the I.O.O.F. last Friday evening, and we understand that Mr. Petty was presented with one resently. Both these gentlemen have been members for 25 years, and are charter members of the lodge of this town.

PAIN IS A PUNISHMENT.—Pain is a protest of nature against neglect of the bodily health, against carelessness regarding the physical condition. It steals in at the first opportunity, and takes up its abode in a man, and it is sometimes difficult to eject it. Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil will drive it out in short order. Pain cannot stay where it is used, but immediately flees away.

GHASTLY TROPHY!

Head of the Murderer of Baron Von Ketteler Brought From China---Duke of Orleans Is to Visit King Edward Soon---Anarchy in Macedonia.

Berlin, Oct. 19.—A story is printed here to the effect that officers of the German field hospital in China, who have arrived at Wilhelmshaven, brought with them the head of the Chinaman who murdered Baron von Ketteler, the German minister, and who was executed in Pekin for the crime. It is added that the head has been sent to Berlin.

VICTORIA FORGAVE HIM.

London, Oct. 19.—The Copenhagen correspondent of the Times says he is authorized to state that the Duc d'Orleans, who is now traveling in the south, intends later to visit King Edward and Queen Alexandra. The correspondent says he learns that after the duke wrote a letter of apology to Queen Victoria for the unfortunate incident last year (when he congratulated the artist who made a number of caricatures of her majesty in a Paris paper) he received a touching reply, assuring him that the misunderstanding was at an end. Queen Victoria's letter was written a short time before her death.

REVOLUTION IN GREECE.

A big sensation has been caused at Athens by the statement that King George intends suspending the present constitution and to institute one less democratisc, which would greatly increase the royal prerogative. The Democrats are preparing to oppose the project. They say its trial would lead to a revolution.

A FRENCH REVERSE.

Paris, Oct. 19.—Le Drapeau, the organ of Paul Deroulede, a bitter opponent of the Waldeck-Rousseau cabinet, says a letter recently received from the ivory coast, West Africa, mentions a report that Gen. Combes, the French commander there, lost 70 killed and 200 wounded in engagements with rebels, and that the government has not replied to his request for reinforcement. This report is used by Le Drapeau as the basis of an attack upon the government.

There is no confirmation of the story, which is of such dubious authority that no other paper reproduces it.

CAN'T FIND MISS STONE.

The Samokov correspondent of the New York Journal and Advertiser cables as follows:

The Rev. J. W. Baird, of the Samokov Mission, has returned from Bonsoon and Diurayer without having found the slightest trace of the brigands or Miss Stone, although he went thither with the request of the Turkish minister, in the hope of opening negotiations with the captors. A Turkish agent was also present in the hope of diminishing the brigands' demands.

LIVED TO BE 160.

A dispatch to the London Daily Mail from Athens records the death at Khuti, Albania, of Ismail Hudjo, who claimed to be the oldest man in the world. It is said that he was 160 years old. His faculties were unimpaired, and he had all his teeth when he died. He leaves 200 descendants.

TWO RESIGNATIONS.

The (London) Evening Standard says Right Hon. Sir Archibald Levin Smith, master of the rolls since 1900, has resigned. Sir John Charles Day, who has been judge of the king's bench division of the High Court of Justice since 1882, has resigned. Justice Day's legal nickname was "Judgment Day."

THANKS FROM THE KING.

"In obedience to commands received from his majesty the King," says a letter received by the mayor of Toronto, "his excellency the governor-general desires me to convey to your worship, and the citizens of Toronto, his majesty's sincere thanks for your kind message of sympathy on the occasion of the death of Empress Frederick."

LORD MINTO'S UNPOPULARITY.

The Countess of Aberdeen, wife of the former governor-general of Canada, speaking at a gathering in Dundee (Scotland) said that Great Britain had squandered her sons and her money in Africa, while she allowed the Americans to buy up commercial interests here and in Canada. Commenting upon a letter re the Earl of Minto's unpopularity, from a correspondent in Montreal, the London Daily Chronicle says that Canada's present governor-general is too much of a grand seigneur to be popular in a democratic country.

A KING EDWARD VESSEL.

The British admiralty has sent instructions to Devenport to prepare for the construction of a battleship larger than any now existing, her displacement will be 16,500 tons, and her length 425 feet. She will be the first vessel of the King Edward class.

ANARCHY IN MACEDONIA.

The Balkan States correspondent of the London Times reports a condition of chronic anarchy in Macedonia, owing to the lawlessness of the Albanians, whose attitude toward the Christian populations is worse than that of the Khurds toward the Armenians. The Macedonian brigand Mafiu, leader of the assassins of Stamuloff, has been caught commanding a murderous band, and been beheaded by the Turks.

CABLE NOTES.

The gun sights and other fittings of the British first-class battleship Magnificent, flagship of Rear Admiral Sir William Ackland, second in command of the channel squadron, have been thrown into the sea off Beechhaven, Ireland, by members of the crew, to bring about the righting of grievances which the crew complain of.

The Simla correspondent of the Times confirms the previous announcement that after taking the oath as ameer, at a great durbar in Cabul, Oct. 9, Habib Ullah announced the appointment of his brothers to various offices.

THE SARNIA SENSATION!

Close of the Now Notorious Breach of Promise Case.

The Last Day's Proceedings—Summary of the Evidence—Verdict for Plaintiff for $5,000.

Sarnia, Ont., Oct. 18.—The trial of Miss Victoria Middleton's suit against Dr. F. G. Wilkinson, Sarnia, for breach of promise, for $15,000 damages, was ended here today. The jury awarded Miss Middleton $5,000 damages. Both the parties live in Sarnia.

Miss Middleton, who is a handsome woman, 38 years of age, claimed that Dr. Wilkinson, who is 44 years old, and highly respected, engaged himself some time ago to marry her. On his advice she underwent two critical operations. Dr. Wilkinson, she alleges, abused his privilege as a family physician, and subsequently repudiated his engagement to her. Under pressure from her brother, G. T. Middleton, of Winnipeg, Dr. Wilkinson finally acknowledged his engagement, and promised to marry her at the end of six months. When that time arrived, however, the doctor denied having made any promise or engagement to make her his wife. Dr. Wilkinson, under examination, declared that he had never engaged to marry Miss Middleton, and asserted that the whole affair was a conspiracy.

During the trial Miss Middleton produced a note, which she said had been sent to her by Dr. Wilkinson's late wife ten days before her death, in which the writer expressed the wish that on Mrs. Wilkinson's demise, Miss Middleton would become the wife of Dr. Wilkinson. This document Dr. Wilkinson declared to be a forgery.

THE CHARGE OF FORGERY.

The question of authorship of the note signed by the late Mrs. Wilkinson, recommending the plaintiff to marry her husband on her death, and also of many anonymous letters, was the issue with which the counsel wrestled. These letters were read in court, and created a sensation, as the names of many of the most prominent people in Sarnia were mentioned in one way or another. The tenor of the letters was always to the effect that Dr. Wilkinson was a dangerous man, etc., and the parties to whom they were directed include the family of the defendant's fiancee and friends of the defendant, and Miss Middleton herself.

The defense essayed to prove that these letters were in the handwriting of plaintiff, with the possible exception of those sent to the plaintiff herself. In support of this opinion, Mr. J. C. Winlow, manager of the Traders' Bank, Sarnia; A. D. McLean, manager of the local branch of the Bank of Commerce; J. C. Douglas, manager of the Huron and Lambton Loan Company, all gave positive opinion that Miss Middleton was the writer.

The plaintiff's counsel succeeded in confusing the handwriting expert, A. S. Osborne, of Rochester, whose evidence had been given the day previous, detracting from the positiveness of his testimony for the defense, and tried to show that friendship for the defendant had influenced the other witness, Mr. Winlow and he having been boyhood friends in Strathroy.

Miss McCallum, sister of Dr. McCallum, of Sarnia, and matron of the Sarnia general hospital, testified that plaintiff was addicted to morphine.

Miss Detamatter, a nurse testified that on March 24 Miss Middleton had told her of anonymous letters concerning Dr. Wilkinson. The latter had testified that he never mentioned his receiving letters to anyone until March 31.

EXPERTS DIFFER.

In rebuttal the plaintiff's counsel produced F. H. McPherson, of Windsor, and Mr. Stanton, of Toroneto, who gave positive opinion that the letters were not in plaintiff's handwriting, and that none of the letters, or the note signed by the late Mrs. Wilkinson, could have been written by plaintiff.

Miss Middleton and Mrs. Middleton were recalled, and gave evidence on points regarding the letters.

At 4 o'clock Mr. Riddell began to address the jury for the defence, closing at 6:05 o'clock. He was followed by Mr. Aylesworth, for the plaintiff.

The jury, as above stated, gave a verdict for plaintiff.

CHEESE CHAMPIONS

Handsome Trophy Won at Toronto's Exposition by the Trowbridge Factory.

Listowel, Ont., Oct. 19.—At the close of the cheese fair yesterday, A. F. McLaren, M.P., on behalf of the Toronto Industrial Exhibition, presented to R. H. Green, of Trowbridge factory, Elma township, the challenge trophy for the best cheese exhibited at Toronto. The trophy is a handsome silver tankard, 20 inches high, beautifully designed and engraved. It is given for annual competition for best cheese to be owned by any maker winning it three times.

It is a noteworthy fact that prizes have been taken by cheese made in this district, wherever shown. The Misses Morrisen, of New Era factory, Elma township, won the gold medal for the best cheese shown at Ottawa, and Walter Hamilton, of Wallace factory, Wallace township, a silver medal for best cheese shown at London. Mr. Hamilton's cheese also scored the highest number of points in the separate competition for August cheese at the Pan-American, in competition with the cheese from all over the United States and Canada; three factories thus winning four of the highest awards. These Dairymen are all within four miles of Listowel. Short congratulatory addresses were made.

NEXT MEETING AT GLENCOE.

Annual Convention of the County W. C. T. U. Concluded.

The Old Board of Officers Re-Elected —Interesting Address of Mr. J. S. Leckie.

The annual convention of the Middlesex County Women's Christian Temperance Union was concluded last evening. It was in many respects the most successful held in recent years. The final meeting last evening was held in St. Andrew's Church, Mrs. May R. Thornley presiding. The opening services were conducted by Rev. Dr. Johnston and Rev. E. Holmes. The principal addresses were delivered by Mr. J. S. Leckie, missionary to lumbermen, and Mr. Beal, of Peterboro, who spoke on "Purity."

Mr. Leckie gave an address of thrilling interest, describing the conditions in the lumber camp and the methods of his work in reaching men. Since his first entry into the camps he has established a circuit embracing 600 camps and 14,000 men. Many of the men are from 35 to 50 years of age, and have spent most of their lives under the uncultured influence of the lumber camps without a thought as to their spiritual welfare. Churches are not accessible, and even if they were the average lumberman would scarcely attend, the only way to reach him being to go into his little shack on Saturday or in the evenings when he is resting from the hard work in which he is engaged. The men are all well fed and well cared for, although the drink evil has found its way into the most remote of the camps.

Mr. Beale's address was of much interest. He dwelt upon the duties of parents in relation to children in saving them from the temptations that assailed them in school and wherever children congregated.

At yesterday afternoon's session, reports on systematic giving and the plan of work were received, and the new executive submitted a list of the departmental superintendents (which was approved of), as follows: Systematic giving, Mrs. Tennent, London; temperance in Sunday schools, Mrs. Dunlop, Napier; fair work, Mrs. Sands, Strathroy; narcotics, Mrs. McDermid, London; flower mission, Miss Henderson, Strathroy; press work, Mrs. French, Glencoe; Women's Journal, Mrs. Ray, London; mothers' meetings, Mrs. Hopkins, Glencoe; lumbermen's work, Mrs. Patterson, London; unfermented wine, Mrs. S. Higgins, London; evangelistic work, Mrs. Barter, London; franchise, Mrs. Heard, Strathroy; parlor meetings, Mrs. Ashplant, London. The appointment of a superintendent for juvenile work will be made later. Up to two years ago not one of the superintendents resided in the city. At the present time 50 per cent are Londoners. The change, it is claimed, enables more effective work to be done.

The election of officers resulted in the re-election of the old board as follows:

President—Mrs. W. Heaman, London.

Vice-President—Mrs. Dunlop, Napier.

Corresponding Secretary—Mrs. (Dr.) Weekes, London.

Recording Secretary—Miss Henderson, Strathroy.

Treasurer—Mrs. Darch, London.

The next annual meeting will be held at Glencoe.

Middlesex.

A very pretty home wedding was solemnized on the evening of Wednesday, Oct. 16, by Rev. John Hosie, at the residence of the bride's mother, con. 8, Caradoc, when her elder daughter, Kate A. McNeill, was married to Mr. Wm. McIver, of Lobo. The bride, attended by her little niece, Lily, made a charming picture as they took their places on the veranda, where, owing to the large number of guests, the ceremony was performed. Among the many beautiful and useful presents received by the bride was a beautiful gold hunting-case watch and chain, presented with an address by the congregation of N. Caradoc as a token of esteem and appreciation of long and faithful services as organist and leader of psalmody. A most delightful evening's enjoyment was then entered upon by the friends and guests, who numbered nearly one hundred.

A very pleasant and enjoyable time was spent at the Ilderton Presbyterian Church Thursday evening, it being the occasion of the presentation of a beautiful silver tea set by the congregation to their organist, Miss Cicely Charlton, showing the high esteem in which Miss Charlton is held. The address was read by Miss Mary McRae, and the presentation was made by Miss Maggie Telfer, after which Miss Charlton made a touching and brief response. Addresses were also given by Messrs. McRae and Ironside, and a very eloquent and humorous speech by Mr. Madden. Music was furnished by the choir, after which the ladies always true to their nature, furnished a dainty repast. After singing "God Be With You Till We Meet Again," the crowd dispersed, leaving Miss Charlton to take with her to her beautiful new home the best wishes of the people.

The success of this publication is atopic of discussion throughout the reading world. Not only in the United States, but in England, on the Continent, and in Australia, The Smart Set has attained a prestige unprecedented in the history of American magazines. There must be a reason for this, and it is not far to find—its 160 pages are filled with the contributions of the smartest and cleverest of the world's writers, selected with a view to entertainment, and entertainment only.

The American and the English press have united in acclaiming this unique periodical. From thousands of notices the following may be quoted as indicative of

That was really a funny blunder of the compositor who, intending to speak of the rank and file of the Ontario Opposition, made it rank and vile.

Principal Grant is a good lively patient. What with receiving Dukes and Duchesses and otherwise, he seems to get as much fun out of hospital life as other people do outside.

Consumption causes many more deaths than smallpox, yet very little alarm is exhibited at its ravages. The reason is because consumption is prevalent always; smallpox comes and goes.

Botha is about as clever at dodging as Sixteen-String-Jack, the old-time English highwayman, used to be. But Sixteen-String-Jack was brought to bay at last, and so will be brother Botha.

Everybody in Canada will regret to hear of Goldwin Smith's illness, of bronchitis, at Ithaca, New York, whither he had gone to give university lectures. Goldwin Smith has been a high-minded, independent, benevolent citizen, and Canada's greatest man of letters.

Toronto assessors, six months after the census was taken, find 1,900 fewer inhabitants that the census men found. The foolish indignation about the discrimination against Toronto indulged in by the sworn census takers is therefore found to be utterly without foundation.

Frequently argument arises in court as to what is prima-facie evidence. The late Lord Morris, of Ireland, gave a happy illustration, which will not be readily forgotten. "If," he said to a jury, "you saw a man coming out of a public house wiping his mouth, that would be prima-facie evidance that he had been having a drink."

New South Wales Legislature has before it a Government proposition to make the salary of the governor equivalent to our lieutenant-governors of provinces—$25,000 a year. Our lieutenant-governors get no higher than $10,000 a year; some of the smaller and newer provinces receive but $7,000. New South Wales must be flush of funds.

The General Conference of the Canadian Methodist Church will meet in Winnipeg in September, 1902. The decision illustrates the growth of Canada. Who would have thought the humble Fort Garry of a few years ago would be ready in 1902 to entertain so important and numerous an ecclesiastical body?

Official Canada will breathe a sigh of relief when the Duke and Duchess of York and Cornwall set sail. Not that everybody is not delighted that the future King and Queen should have seen Canada; but the responsibility and anxiety, in these days of anarchists, is tremendous; and nobody would desire that anything untoward should happen on Canadian soil. In time long gone, "the grand tour," as it was called, was considered a part of every well-to-do English boy's education. Very few of them, however, had a grand tour on the scale of that now nearly completed by the Yorks. It will do them, Canada, and the Empire good untold.

Berating Edward Rex.

The Church Times, a very high ritualistic journal of England, vents its hot displeasure on King Edward for attending the services of the Crathie Presbyterian Parish Church. The Church Times admits that Queen Victoria attended the Crathie Church, but says that was because of her "Jacobite sympathies," and that the King "ought to know better than to follow her example." The King will not become less popular in Scotland because of the action complained of, and we do not think he will lose any serious supporter in England. These Presbyterians may not be such a bad lot, after all. Queen Victoria found them backing her with their lives on many a well-fought battlefield. Hath not a Presbyterian "hands organs, dimensions, senses, affections, passions?" Is he not about as good as any other subject, so long as he pays his taxes, and does his duty to God, and King, and country? The Church Times has been speaking unadvisedly with its lips.

Premier Ross at New Hamburg.

The first public address delivered since his return from Britain by the Premier of Ontario, Hon. George W. Ross, took place at New Hamburg, in the constituency of South Waterloo, on Thursday. The First Minister of the banner Province was in admirable form, justifying one of the mottoes in the hall, "Ross, Ontario's Most Distinguished Son." Other mottoes were as follows: "The Swing of Victory is in the Air," "Remember Ross," "Laurier, Ross and Victory," "Nova Scotia Came Our Way; So Will Ontario."

The Premier was given a magnificent reception, and, after a charming little girl had presented him with roses, Mr. Ross at once entered upon his interesting address. Mr. Ross spoke of his position as a Canadian and a Liberal, pointing with pride to the record of the party in its broad lines of policy, contending that no class in Ontario had any substantial grievance against the Liberal party. Speaking of Ontario in its agricultural capacity, he cited Ontario's stand at the Pan-American Exposition, where, out of 21 medals for horses, cattle, sheep, swine and cheese, Ontario secured 16. The only gold medal awarded for cheese was taken by the Province of Ontario. We had 4,000,000 cattle, the United States 44,000,000. We went into competition with these immense herds and this was the result. Mr. Ross continued:

"If we, with a population of two millions, could secure these prizes, gold, silver and bronze medals, money prizes and honorable mention, it showed that somebody in these 30 years had been active. The Government did not take all the credit. They had intelligent people to deal with. If we had won no award, some people would say that the Government were to blame for not promoting industrial education, but in horses, cattle, sheep, swine, butter and cheese Ontario took the leading position. He congratulated the people of Ontario on this; he congratulated the agriculturists on the splendid honors they had won for Ontario. It would be an advertisement for us in the old land, and would give us more confidence in ourselves and our methods. If the Conservatives were in power they would certainly have mentioned these things."

Mr. Ross next inquired whether those engaged in manufacturing industries had any grievances, and quoted the Conservative organizer, Mr. Wright, who had said that the Ontario labor laws are the best in the world. He had no complaint against any factory laws or laws for the protection of the working men, women and girls, or against the administration of these laws. Mr. Ross claimed that the most intelligent class of workingmen in the world were to be found right here in Ontario. He said this because when the laborers of Canada came into competition with these other lands, they won awards. "Look," he said, "at Glasgow and at Paris. In proportion to our population, we took far more prizes for the excellency of our workmanship than any other country. That showed the intelligence of the workingmen of Canada. It showed, too, that the public schools, where these workmen received the foundation of their education, had done their work with liberal efficiency, because you could not make the fingers move deftly unless the brain was educated, and the superiority of the German workmen was due to the education they received in the schools before entering the workshops."

Referring to Canada's educational position, he asked, had the people any serious grievance in this regard, and instanced the prizes taken in Chicago and Paris on school exhibits. Within twenty years circulating libraries had increased from 250,000 to 3,000,000 volumes—four times as many libraries, and ten times as many volumes. Complaint had been made about the number of examinations, but they were now only about one-half the number of examinations Dr. Ryerson had. When Mr. Ross came into the Ontario Government, there were in the public schools as many as 53 text-books, whereas now the number has been reduced to about one-third of the number mentioned.

The premier mentioned that he had received a letter from Mayor Dent, in which that officer said he had purchased in Canada 6,311 horses; of this number Ontario provided 4,005.

Naturally one of the most interesting and inspiring portions of the Premier's address was that setting forth the great part the Government had taken in the development of the province by the bonusing of railways and the building of colonization roads, laying special stress on the increasing population in New Ontario, which had practically saved Ontario from a net loss of population during the past census decade. Mr. Ross made the important reminder that this was all in a territory that had been saved to Ontario by the heroic efforts of Sir Oliver Mowat. Had it not been so secured, it would have gone to the Dominion, and before the present Government came into power would probably all have been given away to speculators. Alluding to the chairman's remark that there was no room for any policy except one of expansion, the Premier broke into the following eloquent sentences:

"Expansion had been the keynote of British policy from the time when Blake and Magellan went off to the southern sea to plant the British flag on new lands. At the beginning of this century the British Empire had an area of five million square miles; today it was between eleven and twelve million square miles, and would be much larger when the war in South Africa was over. The United States had pursued the same policy. They acquired Louisiana and Florida, captured New Mexico, took possession of Texas, purchased Alaska; now they were securing the Philippines. It was always that great idea of taking possession of what was rightly theirs. Were we a breed of lilliputians, knee high, or were we of that same stock that fought at Talavera and Waterloo, held Gibraltar against all attacks and took Quebec? If we were of the same blood, Teutonic and Saxon and Gaelic, we would fill up the waste places of this country and make the wilderness bloom and blossom as the rose."

Suicide of Nicholas Flood Davin.

The news we publish of the death, by suicide, at Winnipeg, of Nicholas Flood Davin, M.P., will come as a shock to thousands in Canada. The particulars appear elsewhere.

We may take occasion to refer at another time to the career and characteristics of Mr. Davin. If it be true, as the first reports state, that poor, kindly Davin hurried, unbidden, into the presence of his Maker, because of either temporary or permanent troubles, he took an entirely wrong view of the right way to face troubles. In the first place, it can never be the right way to meet troubles, to leave one's wife and family to meet alone the difficulties of an unfeeling world. Nor is it the manly way. Whenever a man is doing his best, when he feels himself to have right on his side, he should, if he takes merely a world-view, meet his enemies in the gate, fight them man-fashion, and return shot for shot and gun for gun. But above all, instead of committing suicide, any man who is fighting "against a sea of troubles," as Hamlet puts it, would be wiser to put his trust in that Providence in whose hands all destinies lie. There never was a wiser motto than the old maxim, "Trust in God and keep your powder dry."

The Outlook for Cattle.

Complaints are coming from Toronto owing to the poor quality of cattle that are being offered on the Toronto market. The offerings consisted principally of feeding bulls and common to inferior butcher's cattle. A noteworthy characteristic is the preponderance of grade cattle offered. The market report in the Farming World a few days ago stated that choice, well-bred steers were very scarce. A great many ill-bred bulls are offered daily on the Toronto markets.

This may or may not speak well for the outlook of the Ontario live stock trade. If one may look upon the large number of scrubby bulls that are being placed on the market as an indication that the farmers are anxious to rid themselves of such stock to replace it by thoroughbreds, then we may entertain hopes for the better. A great number of cattle, including Shorthorn, Galloway, Polled Angus and Hereford breeds, have been imported, and the advantage in breeding thoroughbred stock is becoming generally recognized. The thoroughbred stock is at present for the most part retained for breeding purposes, and the influence of our importations on common stock is not as marked as is desirable. Where there are so many inferior bulls a considerable time is necessary before the effect of pure breeds will become at all marked.

The mongrel stockers and feeders, according to authentic reports, are not worth from fifty cents to one dollar per hundredweight of what choice well-bred ones would bring. The farmers of the Province will do well to eliminate all scrub cattle from their breeds as speedily as possible, and an effort should be put forth to use better bulls in their breeding stock. Of course, it is evident that other things must be considered as well as the mere raising of good breeds of cattle. Good stabling is an item quite as important as good feed. Stock barns are yearly becoming more numerous, and with the general failure of the wheat crop, doubtless farmers will be induced to make more of a specialty of raising cattle that will meet the demands of the markets.

A Little Sunshine.

Hard to Identify—"That is Jimmy's hair," said the Football Player, laying out his trophies after the game, "and this is Billy's nose, and this is Tom's ear, and this eyebrow belongs to young Rusher,' but I can't identify this finger to save me."—Baltimore American.

A Suggestion—"No, I'm not very well impressed with the house," said the prospective tenant. "The yard is frightfully small; there's hardly room for a single flower bed." "Think so?" replied the agent; "but—er—mightn't you use folding flower beds?"—Philadelphia Press.

Helpful Suggestion — Borus—"Naggus, I'm writing a story I would like a name for. It's somewhat on the plan of 'Ships that Pass in the Night,' but I want the title to be as different from that as possible." Naggus—"How would 'Elevators that Pass in the Daytime' do?"—Chicago Tribune.

Her One Request—"Charley, dear," said young Mrs. Torkins, "there is one favor I want to ask you. I hope you will realize it is for your own good and not get angry." "What is it?" "I want you to solemnly promise me that you will never bet on a horse that isn't going to win."—Washington Star.

FAREWELL TO ST. JOHN, N. B.

The Royal Visitors En Route to Halifax.

Elaborate Preparations Made to Entertain Their Royal Highnesses.

St. John, N. B., Oct. 18.—The royal visitors were farewelled today at noon as enthusiastically as they were welcomed yesterday. The royal train left at 12:36, and was followed by the train carrying the horses and carriages. This train will pass the royal train, and reach Halifax first. There was a dense throng of people about when their royal highnesses drove to the depot. There was the usual guard drawn up and inspected. Farewells to the lieutenant-governor, mayor, Consul-General Blount, of Boston, and others, and the royal train drew out on its way to Halifax, while the cheers of thousands went up. The royal couple stood on the rear of the car and bowed their acknowledgment.

This morning the Duchess of Cornwall enjoyed a quiet drive, accompanied by her lady-in-waiting and equerry-in-waiting. The barouche was followed by one in which were Canadian detectives. Her royal highness drove to the Suspension bridge, alighted, and viewed the falls. She wore the set of furs presented to her by the St. John women.

AT AMHERST.

The royal train arrived at Amherst about schedule time, and the duke and duchess were given a most enthusiastic greeting by the immense concourse of people, who assembled from far and near. The royal passengers alighted on a profusely decorated platform, and were presented to the mayor and town council, while the Amherst band played the National Anthem. The modest and unassuming manner of the duke and duchess warmed the hearts of all the people, and as they sped on their way a hearty cheer from the vast multitude showed the loyalty of the people of the town. The governor-general's train reached Windsor Junction, 19 miles from here, at 10;45, and the royal train 30 minutes later. They will remain there for the night. The first train will reach Halifax at 9:30 in the morning, and the second one at 10 o'clock.

HALIFAX.

Halifax, N. S., Oct. 18.—Arrangements for the arrival here of the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall are completed. The decorations promise a brilliant scene. The visitors will be met by Lieut.-Governor Jones, the admiral, judges, mayor and council and officials. The militia men have all arrived and gone into quarters, with the exception of the St. John corps. The city is filled with visitors and the hotels are taxed to their limit.

THE BAPTISTS

In Convention at Brantford Deal With Publication Board Reports.

Brantford, Ont., Oct. 18.—This morning's session of the Baptist Union opened with devotional exercises, after which the publication board reports were taken up, showing stock on hand in book department, $5,844; stock purchased during the year, $12,304; total sales, $14,629. Canadian Baptist department, 799 new subscribers on last year, and there were 5,566 paying subscribers on the list. It was suggested that an editor be appointed for the Canadian Baptist. A committee was appointed to consider the question of a uniform hymn book at next convention.

A resolution was also passed extending to the mayor and citizens of Brantford hearty appreciation of the reception extended to delegates by members of the Baptist and other churches.

An invitation was extended to the convention to meet in Montreal next year. The matter was referred to the executive committee.

The vacancies on the publication board were filled by J. R. Scott, K.C., of Toronto; Rev. J. L. Gilmour, of Montreal, and Mr. Cook, of Brantford. Adjourned.

ODILON BOUCHER

A Well-Known French-Canadian Gentleman Writes an Interesting Letter.

The personal experiences of men and women in their own words is almost always very interesting reading, especially when there is something in common between the reader and the writer.

A man who has traveled in China will always read with interest the letters of a Chinese traveler; and in the same way, if anyone writes describing a personal experience, all who have had similar experiences will read his statements with interest.

The letter of Mr. Boucher will therefore be read and appreciated by everyone who has suffered with that distressing and dangerous disease, Dyspepsia. From St. Paul, Montmagny county, Que., Mr. Boucher writes:

"I have had Dyspepsia and all the pains and distress that go with that terrible malady.

"I was not able to eat anything except milk. The suffering I endured was past all description.

"I tried many remedies, but none of them even relieved me. At last I heard of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets and determined to make one more trial. I am very glad that I did so, for I was almost instantly relieved, and continued the treatment until now I am cured and as well as ever I was.

"I used in all eleven boxes. This may have been more than was really necessary, but I wanted to make sure, and I am glad that I did so."

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets will cure any case of Dyspepsia. Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets cured Mr. Boucher, and they will cure any other dyspeptic who gives them a fair trial as he did. Such strong statements from one who has had the personal experience should convince the most skeptical that Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets is a remedy for Dyspepsia and all Stomach troubles, and one that is no experiment but a tried and proven cure.

BRITAIN AND RUSSIA AGREE.

The British and Russian governments have come to a complete agreement regarding the Afghan situation, says a dispatch from St. Petersburg. It is asserted in high diplomatic circles that even should complications arise in Afghanistan, in consequence of the death of Abdur Rhamin and the accession of Habib Ullah, these would not lead to concurrent intervention.

DISASTROUS COLLISION!

Three Trainmen Killed Near Birmingham, Mich.

A Toronto Workman's Fatal Fall—Several Other Casualties.

Birmingham, Mich., Oct. 18.—Three trainmen were crushed to death in a head-on collision today between freight trains on the Detroit, Grand Haven and Milwaukee Railway, at a curve five miles west of here. The dead are: R. Moffat, engineer, Detroit; H. Luce, fireman, Detroit; Otto Neurenberg, brakeman, Clarkston, Mich. Moffat had been in the employ of the road for thirteen years. He belonged to Forest, Ont. Luce had only been with the road four weeks. He was 25 years old, and came from Owosso, Mich. There were two carloads of hogs just behind the engine, and the animals were literally torn to pieces. One of the saddest circumstances in connection with the death of Engineer Richard Moffatt and Fireman H. Luce, was that both men were engaged to be married.

FATAL FALL.

Toronto, Oct. 19.—Andrew Irwin, age 35, while engaged in placing a steel beam in position at the new hotel, fell 100 feet and sustained injuries to his head. He expired at the emergency hospital four hours later. He leaves a wife and one little child.

WHIRLED TO HIS DEATH.

Schenectady, N. Y., Oct. 19.—John Lee, employed by the American Locomotive Works in this city, was yesterday afternoon caught in the belting of a machine and whirled to his death.

HE SHOT HIS SWEETHEART AND HIMSELF.

New York, Oct. 18.—Peter Damato, an Italian stonecutter, who last night shot and killed Stella Mela, his sweetheart, and then turned his revolver upon himself, died today at Fordham Hospital. The girl grew tired of Damato, and went out with other men. He became very jealous, and yesterday morning told her he would kill her before 6 o'clock in the evening. He appeared shortly before 6 o'clock and carried out his word.

DRANK CARBOLIC ACID.

Toronto, Oct. 19.—A middle-aged man, who registered as James Wallace, Morrisburg, Ont., at the Stag Hotel, on Saturday last, was found dead in his room yesterday afternoon with a bottle of carbolic acid beside him. Wallace was alive this forenoon, for when a housemaid went up to arrange the room he shut the door against her. A letter written by Wallace goes to show that brooding over troubles caused self-destruction.

TRAIN DERAILED.

Toronto, Oct. 19.—Sir T. G. Shaughnessey, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and E. B. Angus, one of the directors, arrived in the city this morning from Montreal. The train was three hours late, due to the derailing of a freight train, between Smith's Falls and Montreal. The damage to the freight train was slight.

RUN OVER BY A TRAIN.

Ottawa, Oct. 18.—Patrick Corrigan, living on the Merwale road, was run over by a train and probably fatally injured last night. An empty box car passed over both his legs, and one of them had to be amputated at once. Corrigan is 38 years of age and married.

TRAGEDY IN WINNIPEG

Suicide of Nicholas Flood Davin, Ex-M. P.—Put a Bullet Through His Head.

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 18.—Citizens of Winnipeg were startled and shocked this evening, when it became known that Nicholas Flood Davin, the well-known and popular ex-M.P. for West Assiniboia, had ended his life by shooting himself.

He drove to the Clarendon Hotel, where he was staying, and stated his intention of taking the west train, which leaves shortly after 4 p.m. He went to his room, packed his grip, and sent it down to the office by the porter.

The clerk, noticing that it was time for Mr. Davin to start, sent the porter upstairs to call him. The porter rapped several times at the door, and, not getting any response, became alarmed and called the housekeeper. The door was opened with a pass-key, when a shocking spectacle met their eyes, for there lay the dead body of Mr. Davin. His eyes were closed, and his face looked as calm and peaceful as if he was just asleep. The clothes on his body, however, showed the appalling truth, being soaked with blood.

He had placed the revolver in his mouth, and the bullet passed out through the back of his head. Death must have been instantaneous. The revolver was still in his hand.

An investigation showed that the deceased had gone to his room, locked the door, and, taking out the key, laid it on the dressing table. He must have then laid down on the bed and shot himself.

There was nothing left by him to give any explanation why he did it, and it is generally credited to despondency, caused by financial embarrassment and other troubles. He was aged 58, and leaves a widow.

Nicholas Flood Davin was born at Kilfinane, county of Limerick, Ireland, on June 13, 1843. He married on July 25, 1895, Elizabeth, daughter of James Reid, of Ottawa. He was educated at Queen's University, Ireland, and at a college affiliated with the University of London. He was by profession a barrister, having been called to the bar of Middle Temple, London, in 1868, and was subsequently called to the bar of Ontario. He was also a barrister of the Northwest Territories. He was appointed a Q. C. Oct. 27, 1892. Mr. Davin had been war correspondent for the Dublin Irish Times and the London Standard during the Franco-German war, being wounded at the siege of Montmedy. In March, 1883, he established the Regina Leader. He was the author of several well-known works in prose and verse. He was a candidate for the Commons in Hadilmand in 1878, but was defeated. In 1879 he went to Washington as commissioner to inquire into the system in the United States of educating Indian children. He then visited Indian agencies and reserves, and it was on his report to the government that the present system of educating children in the Northwest was based. In Parliament he advocated the removal of a number of Northwest grievances. On March 11, 1897, he was elected president of the Conservative Association of the Territories. He was first returned to Parliament for West Assiniboia in 1887, and re-elected in 1891 and 1896. At the last general election he was defeated.

A WARNING.

Toronto, Oct. 19.—There is trouble ahead for recalcitrant registrars if they do not be more careful in the matter of returns to the provincial medical health department. Letters were today sent out by the department to the 777 registrars in Ontario, notifying them that unless they forward their monthly reports promptly the crown attorney will be asked to proceed against them for negligence. Most of the registrars are the clerks of the different townships and corporations.

NEAVE'S FOOD

"An excellent Food, admirably adapted to the wants of infants and young persons."

Mrs. A. There is no doubt it is excellent Food, and so easily prepared. Many of my friends have asked me what I give them, and when told Neave's Food, have tried it, and in every instance found it satisfactory."

HON. GEO. W ROSS

Able Address by the Premier to the Electors at New Hamburg---The Government in Full Sympathy With the People.

New Hamburg, Oct. 18.—Yesterday afternoon the Liberals of South Waterloo chose an able candidate to lead them in the coming campaign. At night a rousing campaign meeting was held, when Premier Ross dealt with provincial affairs on broad lines, tracing the influence of governmental action during the past thirty years on the industrial and social life of the community, going back of petty complaints, and demonstrating the sweeping assertion, of which he challenged disproof, that no class of the community has any substantial grievance against the government. He made effective use of the victories won by Canadian agriculturists and manufacturers at Buffalo and other great exhibitions as an evidence of advancement. He clearly set forth his policy of development and expansion in New Ontario, and appealed to the electors to give him an opportunity to carry out the great projects he has inaugurated.

Dr. Thomson, of Galt, the candidate, selected at the convention, proved himself to be an exceedingly good platform speaker, showing a thorough grasp of provincial affairs and an original and convincing manner of expressing his views.

The hall, though a large one, was far too small to accommodate the crowd that came to hear the premier, and on the walls were placed many pertinent mottoes, among them being, "Ross, Ontario's Most Distinguished Son," "The Swing of Victory Is in the Air," "Remember Ross," "Laurier, Ross and Victory," "Nova Scotia Came Our Way—So Will Ontario."

The chair was occupied by Mr. Adam Hallman,and good speeches were made by Mr. John Brown, M.P.P., of North Perth; T. E. Shantz, of Preston; Dr. Cameron, of Galt; Mr.Valentine Stock. Liberal candidate for North Perth, and Dr. Thomson, of Galt, nominee of the convention.

Hon. George W. Ross.

THE LIBERALS UNITED.

When the premier rose to address the meeting he was given a magnificent reception, and Miss Ethel Winn presented him with roses, too, and was suitably rewarded. The premier began by assuring Mr. Valentine Stock of a victory in Perth, a pleasant Valentine. He expressed confidence in the judgment of the Liberal party in selecting a candidate. He was glad there were no differences of opinion or division in the Liberal ranks. The Liberal party had no differences; they lived in peace with all men and women; Sir Mackenzie Bowell spoke of a nest of traitors. There was only one nest of traitors, and it was not in the Liberal party. There were no differences in the cabinet, no differences in the Liberal party, and no occasion for differences. They were agreed as to what was wise for the province, and were one as to how that should be carried out. Mr. Ross spoke of his position as a Canadian and a Liberal, pointing with pride to the record of the party in its broad lines of policy. He asked what man in Ontario had any substantial grievances against the Liberal party. It was true some Liberals might have been disappointed in regard to appointments to office.

FARMERS HAVE NO GRIEVANCES

Had the farmers anything in which to ground a complaint? Had they been negligent in providing education for the farmers' sons? It might be true that they did not found the Agricultural College. Mr. Whitney said that Sir John Carling first suggested a college. Sir John bought a site for a college at Mimico, but before he had as much as laid one stone on another the people withdrew their confidence from his party, and the incoming government sold the site and purchased a new one at Guelph.

Suppose Mr. Carling first conceived the idea of an agricultural college, still it was the party that took it up and brought practical results that were entitled to the credit. If Mr. Whitney wanted for his party the honor of having first thought of the agricultural college let him have the honor. All he said was that in the practical working out of the college the farmer had no cause for complaint. Mr. Ross criticised the course of Mr. Whitney in suggesting that the portfolio of agriculture should be attached to one of the other departments of government. An industry in which there was invested one thousand millions of dollars was of sufficient importance to entitle it to a separate minister of agriculture—it wanted the strength of a whole man and of a capable man, and it had such a man in Mr. Dryden. (Applause.)

PROGRESS OF AGRICULTURE.

The premier quoted the increase in exports of agricultural products as evidence of advancement in agricultural science; he also cited Ontario's standing at the Pan-American Exhibition, where out of 21 medals for horses, cattle, sheep, swine and cheese, Ontario secured 16. The only gold medal awarded for cheese was taken by the Provinnce of Ontario. We had 4,000,000 cattle, the United States 44,000,000. We went into competition with these immense herds, and this was the result. If we, with a population of 2,000,000, could secure these prizes, gold, silver and bronze medals, money prizes and honorable mention, it showed that somebody in these 30 years had been active. The government did not take all the credit. They had intelligent people to deal with. If we had won no awards some people would say that the government were to blame for not promoting industrial education, but in horses, cattle, sheep, swine, butter and cheese Ontario took the leading position. He congratulated the people of Ontario on this; he congratulated the agriculists on the splendid honors they had won for Ontario.

THE MANUFACTURERS.

Had those engaged in manufacturing industries any grievance? The organizer of the Conservative party, Mr. Wright, had said that the labor laws of Ontario were among the best in the world. He had no complaint against our factory laws, or laws for the protection of the working men, women and girls, or against the administration of these laws that was at all serious. The most intelligent class of workingmen in the world were to be found here. He said this for the same reason that he said the agriculturist had no grievance, because when the laborers of Canada came into competition with the laborers of other lands they won awards. Look at the awards for carriages and furniture at Glasgow and at Paris. In proportion to our population we took far more prizes for the excellence of our workmanship than any other country. That showed the intelligence of the workingmen of Canada. It showed, too, that the public schools, where these workmen received the foundation of their education, had done their work with liberal efficiency, because you could not make the fingers move deftly unless the brain was educated, and the superiority of the German workmen was due to the education they received in the schools before entering the workshops.

THE EDUCATIONAL STANDARD.

Had the people any serious grievance in regard to education? He asked this with a full realization of the complaints made by the opposition of too many text books and too many examinations. He wanted them to get back at these complaints many of them baseless, and ask if the aggregate of the educational intelligence of Ontario was not above the average of any other people they knew. If the school system was bad, then that audience was not as intelligent as one of twenty years ago. Were they prepared to say, in the fact of all the complaints made, that they were not as intelligent a people as those of twenty years ago? It could not be done. And they had taken prizes at Chicago and Paris for educational exhibits. Let them not say that school books are too dear, but ask if the people were more intelligent than before.

CIRCULATING LIBRARIES.

Circulating libraries increased in this time from 250,000 to 3,000,000, four times as many libraries and ten times as many volumes. They said there were too many examinations; perhaps there were. There were about one-half the number of examinations Dr. Ryerson had, and he was a most capable man, but was scored by public journals as unfit for his position. There were in the public schools only about eleven or twelve text-books, but when he came in there were 53. He maintained that there was no substantial grievance against the public schools. One of these crushing statements of fact was worth hours of invective and hot wind. Our separate schools were better than when he took office, and were equal to the public schools. The Catholic child was entitled to as good an education as the public school pupil.

CARE OF INSANE.

Then in regard to the care of the insane, there had been improvement. When he entered the government there were two asylums, with 1,100 inmates, with many insane people chained up at their homes or in jails. Today there were 5,150 insane in our asylums, and there was no real grievance that anyone was overlooked. Altogether 43,000 persons were cared for, in whole or in part, by the provincial government,and one-fourth of the revenue of the province went for the care of helpless people. The policy of the Liberal Government of Ontario, so long as the people of Ontario were disposed in the same Christian spirit that animated them today to exercise a kindly disposition to the poor of this province, would be to see that they were treated in a generous way. He did not know where there was any grievance.

DEVELOPMENT OF THE PROVINCE.

Mr.Ross touched upon the great part the government had taken in the development of the province by the bonusing of railways and the building of colonization roads, laying special stress on the increase in population in New Ontario, which had practically saved Ontario from a net loss of population during the past census decade. This was all in a territory that had been saved to Ontario by the heroic efforts of Sir Oliver Mowat. Had it not been so secured it would have gone to the Dominion, and before the present government came into power would probably have been all given away to speculators. Dr. Thomson had said that there was no room for any policy except one of expansion. Expansion had been the keynote of British policy from the time when Blake and Magellan went off to the southern sea to plant the British flag on new lands. At the beginning of this century the British Empire had an area of five million square miles; today it was between eleven and twelve million square miles, and would be much larger when the war in South Africa was over.

A RACE OF STALWARTS.

Were we a breed of liliputians, knee high, or were we of the same stock that fought at Talavera and Waterloo, held Gibraltar against all attacks and took Quebec? If we were of the same blood, Teutonic and Saxon and Gaelic, we would fill up the waste places of this country and make the wilderness bloom and blossom as the rose. When many of those before him came here they brought little money, but they brought a determination to make themselves homes. We did not want immigrants to leave the old land to go into a wilderness, but into a land where they too, could make homes, and to do that they must have roads.

IN NEW ONTARIO.

We had in New Ontario 16,000,000 acres of land as good as that in old Ontario. We had 2,000,000 people on the 12,000,000 acres under cultivation in old Ontario; at the same ratio we could settle 3,000,000 in New Ontario. That would give employment to our manufacturers, more freight to our railways, keep the increase of our own people and bring back many of the million Canadians now in the United States. Mr. Ross pointed out the inconsistency of Mr. Whitney's attitude in connection with railway development in New Ontario, and enlarged upon the inexhaustible supplies of minerals and pulpwood to be found there.

BEET SUGAR INDUSTRY.

Turning to Old Ontario, he said the government was anxious to promote the growth of beet root sugar, and for that purpose had set aside $225,000 of the $2,580,000 surplus for the purpose of securing the establishment of beet sugar factories if they could, thinking it better that the money now spent abroad for beet sugar should be spent in Canada, giving employment to our workmen, profit to our farmers, and keeping our own people in the country. Mr. Whitney claimed this as his policy, but when the bill was brought down you could see the shock of the new idea reflected on his face.

THE REMOUNT STATION.

As to the remount station, the premier stated that he had received a letter from Major Dent in which that officer said he had purchased in Canada 6,311 horses; in Ontario 4,005. This was the result of his suggestions to Lord Strathcona. He also touched upon his plan for the encouragement of the dead meat trade. In view of all that had been undertaken by the government it was certainly not the time for a change. Whether that time would come he could not say, but having done so much and undertaken so much he appealed to them, as one who had put his whole heart into expanding Ontario, to give him an opportunity of working this out to see what could be done.

Resolutions indorsing the Dominion and Provincial Governments were adopted by standing votes amid great applause.

Nurse Asks Board of Health for Daily Bonus.

A Nuisance Complained Off, But No Action Is Taken.

Dr. Hutchinson Recommends Retention of Pest House or Securing of Another.

The board of health yesterday held its first meeting since June last. The session was not a heavy one, the business consisting mainly of the consideration of an alleged nuisance and the request of the male nurse at the pest house during the smallpox outbreak for a bonus for extra service. No action was taken in either.

Those present were: Ald. Campbell (in the chair), H. C. McBride, Chas. Taylor, Wm. Skinner, Assistant Health Inspector Lutman, Medical Health Officer Hutchinson and Secretary Bell.

A complaint was made of the nature of the oil vending business carried on at Bathurst and Maitland streets by A. Keenleyside & Co., it being a nuisance to the residents of the neighborhood.

Medical Health Officer Dr. Hutchinson reported that he had visited the grounds and found that an unpleasant odor was always present, but that the public health was not endangered. The board could therefore take no action in the matter.

Thos. J. M. Dougherty, male nurse at the pest house during the smallpox outbreak, asked for an extra bonus of $2 per day while he was employed by the board. After reciting all the work he had to do and the amount of money he saved to the city, Mr. Dougherty said, in his letter: "I acted as doctor, nurse, cook, washerwoman and general maid of all work. I was the least paid and hardest worked nurse in the province."

The board decided to take no action in the matter. Mr. Dougherty got $3 per day and his board while employed at the pest house.

Dr. Hutchinson reported that a man had been employed to look after the pest house at a salary of $16 per month. The medical health officer recommended that the present building be retained or another procured in order that the board may not be caught unawares by another outbreak of smallpox.

After the transaction of some routine business and the passing of accounts the board adjourned.

Satisfactory Condition of Trade in the Dominion---Good Demand for Goods---Outlook Across the Border.

Toronto, Oct. 18.—Bradstreet's trade review, weekly summary:

The conditions of the wholesale trade at Montreal this week have been satisfactory. The wholesalers report a good distributive demand to sort retail stocks for the fall and winter trade. Payments on the fourth of the month are generally reported as having been good. There were some renewals, but the number of failures have been small; as payments are expected to be better, especially in the Northwest, when the grain delivery gets large. Values of staple goods continue steady to firm.

At Quebec the open weather of the last fortnight has been beneficial to those engaged in outside operations, and buildings in course of construction are being pushed with favorable results. In trade circles, activity is still noticeable, and retailers, as a rule, are satisfied with the volume of trade done. Activity still reigns in shipping circles, and is likely to continue until the close of navigation.

There has been some activity in wholesale trade at Toronto this week. The cooler weather has stimulated the demand for heavy fall and winter goods. The outlook for the balance of the season is very good. The grain movement is increasing. Values of staple goods are well maintained, and the factories are fairly satisfactory.

Business at Hamilton has been fairly active. Travelers are sending in numerous and large orders for the sorting trade. The wholesale trade is busy shipping goods to other points towards the close of navigation, which is causing activity in that respect.

Trade at Winnipeg is showing much activity. The retailers are sending in liberal orders for fall and winter goods to sort stocks, owing to the increase in the demand already experienced, and the increased demand yet looked for. Collections are not what they would be with more favorable weather.

There are encouraging signs of improvement of trade at most of the centers. The jobbing trade is very fair in some departments, the retailers being now anxious to sort stocks for the present season. Values of staple goods are firm.

Business at London has been moderately active. The jobbers have experienced a good demand this week for staple goods for the fall and winter, and have been making large shipments to retailers. The grain delivery has not been very large, owing to the fact that the farmers have been busy getting in their root crops. But the receipts of country produce are expected to begin to increase now, and the effect on country trade will be soon felt. Remittances are fair.

Business at Ottawa has been good this week. Retailers are sending in good sized orders for the fall and winter trade. The outlook for business for the balance of the season is very encouraging.

OVER THE BORDER.

New York, Oct. 18.—Dun's review: Manufacturing industries enjoy exceptional activity, and most jobbers and retailers find no occasion for complaint. Strength without inflation still summarizes the iron and steel situation. Despite two months of interruption during the strike, evidence accumulates that the year will surpass all records in production of finished material, and consequently, in consumption of ore and pig iron. Orders already booked for delivery far into 1902 promise that next year will bring still higher records, and the steadiness of prices makes the outlook especially favorable.

Copper rose in the face of reports that a large reduction in the list price was contemplated by leading producers to reduce stocks.

Footwear factories still have many weeks full employment on heavy-weight goods for winter, and there will be little time between this year for overhauling machinery before commencing work on the large amount of spring contracts already accepted. Supplementary orders for seasonable lines still arrive from eastern jobbers. Prices are not quotably higher, though the rapid rise of leather and hides has taken so much of the profits that shoes must soon deteriorate in quality if better quotations are not forthcoming. Leather has begun to exhibit symptoms of speculation, but buying by the leading manufacturers for actual consumption also reports a large total. Chicago hides have attained the basis of 14 cents for native steers.

Cottons move freely with prices well sustained for all lines, and definite advances in bleached goods. At New England mills there is a steady demand for all standard staples, preventing any accumulation of stocks.

Woolen goods are more quiet; yet shipments of over 5,000,000 pounds from Boston indicate no decrease in the activity at the mills.

Liabilities of failures during the weeks of October were $4,475,268, of which $1,360,648 were in manufacturing and $1,648,882 in trading. Failures for the week numbered 229 in the United States, against 209 last year and 31 in Canada, against 26 last year.

BRADSTREET'S REVIEW.

Bradstreet's report: Among the notable features brought out in trade dispatches this week are the reports of stimulated retail trade, due to cooler settled weather, and advices of continued activity in all leading industrial lines, notably iron and steel, shoes and leather, coal, lumber, jewelry and cotton and woolen goods. A scarcity of cars is complained of at Chicago, Birmingham and Philadelphia. Banks' deposcits show no decrease at Chicago.

The leading markets in the corn belt west of the Mississippi River report business and collections good. Heavy sales of grain are reported from Oregon and Washington interior points.

Advices from Memphis, New Orleans, Savannah and Montgomery are that the cotton crop in sections tributary to those cities will be shorter than last year. Collections are generally behind a year ago and jobbing trade is slower.

Iron and steel consumption continues fully equal to, and in cases in excess of, production.

Tinplate mills are catching up with their orders, and a cut is reported in the price of wire nails.

Railroads are in the market for cars, and one western system has bought 2,000 this week. Export business in iron and steel is not promising.

Hardware continues active and supplies are insufficient to meet orders. Despite predictions of a severe cut in copper prices, the fact remains that lake copper supplies are small and prices are actually higher this week than last at New York, though lower at London.

Cooler weather and fear of frosts, coupled with good reports from the print cloth industry, have stimulated raw cotton, and this in turn is reflected in higher quotations for nearly all leading bleached cottons.

Wool goods are rather quiet as regards new demand, but the mills are busy on heavy spring weights, and when these are out of the way a large volume of orders for spring weights guarantee continued activity.

Wool is steady and firm, with a large consumption progressing. Hides are higher.

Upper leather is firmer at Philadelphia, and here, as in New England, shoe manufacturers have each advanced prices or sold subject to change, the net result being that jobbers must pay more for their shoes than formerly. Eastern shoe shipments are 24 per cent larger for the week, and 13 per cent higher for the season than they were a year ago.

Wheat, including flour, exports for the week aggregate 5,536,073 bushels, as against 4,719,898 bushels last week, and 3,896,643 bushels in this week last year. Wheat exports, July 1 to date (fourteen weeks), aggregate 95,104,251 bushels, as against 54,234,891 bushels last season. Corn exports aggregate 640,033 bushels, as against 678,246 bushels last week, and 2,886,993 bushels last year. July 1 to date, corn exports are 14,945,113 bushels, against 48,889,926 bushels last season.

SAM DESROCHERS EXPLAINS HIS CASE

Interviewed, He States Positively That He Does Not Believe His Life Is in Danger.

An Interesting Case Reported From Quebec City Three Years Ago Is Revived by an Interview With the Principal Witness.

Quebec, Que., Oct. 18.—(Special).—A remarkable example of the wonderful permanency of the cures effected by Dodd's Kidney Pills is the case of Mr. Sam Desrochers, of this city.

For five years preceding May, 1898, this gentleman suffered from Diabetes.

He tried many remedies, but got no help until he heard of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

The first box convinced him that they were helping him, and he continued until he was completely cured.

Many of Mr. Desrochers' friends thought that the cure claimed was not a permanent one and that the Diabetes would return as soon as he stopped taking the medicine, which he did in 1898.

In order to be satisfied on the question Mr. Desrochers was interviewed the other day.

Some three years ago a statement was published saying that you had suffered with Diabetes for over five years previously, and that Dodd's Kidney Pills had cured you. Were you really cured?" was the question asked him.

"Look at me," said he. "Do I look as if I had Diabetes now? I am as well a man as there is in the province and it is all due to Dodd's Kidney Pills. I did have Diabetes, and five boxes cured me and cured me to stay cured. This was in May, 1898, and I have not since had the slightest symptom of Diabetes or any other disease."

"OUR INDIANS" AGAIN.

Reminiscences for The Advertiser by Rev. W. W. Smith.

The Indian, in his natural wild state, is something like the dog Rab, celebrated by the witty Dr. John Brown—"Life is a serious thing to him; he canna just get eneuch o' fechtin!" And indeed it would be hard to tell what we would be like in our natural wild state today, as seen among our Gothic ancestors, two thousand years ago. But the Indian, once tamed and civilized, takes things very seriously, and gives his whole mind to his circumstances. There to get his bread and pork for today engrosses his utmost stretch of attention. A college-bred Indian said to me once—and said it very sadly—"There are very few of us here, who try to do anything in the way of improving ourselves." And I do believe that the poor fellow, who died a year or two afterwards, pined away with disappointed hopes. Poor Charles Keehic! Improvements come, but they have, in most cases, to be forced upon them from without.

An Indian will draw you a good local "map" of any part of the country he has been in; but the course seems all straight to him, which you find very crooked. For instance, fifty years ago, we shall suppose an Indian going in his canoe from the mouth of Niagara River to Toronto. He would call in at "Twelve Mile Creek" (Port Dalhousie, which the Indians reckoned twelve miles from Niagara), and camp a while and have something to eat. Then he would pass the "Fifteen" and the "Twenty" (Jordan), and if he made the "Forty" by night (Grimsby), he had done exceedingly well. So he would keep on, outside the bar at Hamilton, and work on along the northern shore of Ontario to Toronto Bay. But if he made you a map of it, he would have the course all in a straight line! The distances would be all right, and the names he would give you by "word of mouth" all correct. The Indian, perhaps, imagines he is going in a straight course; but it seems impossible, as I have seen when canoeing with them, for an Indian to go straight, as a white man would, from one headland to another. He must follow the trend of the shore; and he never likes to be very far from it.

An Indian knows how to be diplomatic. In company with a missionary, I once had an interview with a dignified old Indian, whose brother was "Second Chief"—vice-president of the small republic to which he belonged. He was just finishing off a batch of three or four canoes (probably for sale). A "two-fathom" canoe is for one man; a "three-fathom" canoe will carry two or three. And they measure them with their outstretched arms, in the original way of "fathoming." The missionary wanted to know of "Green Feather," for that was his name, whether they would not like to have a teacher sent them, so that their children would be taught to read and to know about the Great Spirit. "Yes, he thought that was good; and when his brother and the other Indians returned to camp, he would tell them, and they would hold a council over it, and let us know." Having succeeded so well, the missionary ventured a little farther and asked Green Feather "If he himself would not like to become a Christian, and worship only the Great Spirit?" Here he was diplomatic: "He did not think it was best for him to say anything about that. If his brother, the second chief, was here, he might say something about it; but when his brother was not here, he did not think it was best to say anything about it." These, as near as possible, were his words, as given to us by the young Indian interpreter we had with us.

An Indian has his own idea of politeness. He will not trouble you by knocking at your door, but just walk in with his moccasined feet. He has learned handshaking, and he greets you with his "Bu-zu!" which he thinks—as it is not an Indian word—you ought to understand. The fact is, it is his way of pronouncing the ungrammatical "Bon jour" of the Quebec French, from whom—that is, the French traders—he got the term. I once heard an Indian chief make a missionary speech to a white audience. They soon tired of it, and the Indian saw that, and shouted, "We want shuniah; that's good English; you all understand that." "Shuniah" is their word for silver or specie. Another word in very common use is "squib-bae," which means drunk. And it means the drink that brings drunkenness. It is their way of pronouncing "uisquebaigh" (whisky), which word he got from the Gaelic servants of the old Hudson's Bay Company.

When the present King was in Canada 41 years ago, and was at Collingwood, John Thomas Wahbatick, son of an Ojibway chief, was anxious to present some memorial to the (then) Prince of Wales, complaining of something the Indian Department at Ottawa had done. He was not very sober—he had a weakness that way—and somebody called out to him, "You're squibby." It seemed to startle him a little, but he tried to throw it off by pointing to this one and that one, and saying, "Me not squib-bae! That man squib-bae!" At all which the Prince was greatly amused. Some four years after, I met the old chief, his father, who only spoke English imperfectly. We had a conversation with few words, but a good deal of pantomime. "Where—John Thomas?" "Fergus." "John Thomas — drink?" (Going through the motion of tipping up the little finger), "Oh," said the old man, with unutterable disgust, "Oh, all—time. Ten—year."

A Terrible Case of Eczema

Powley's Liquified Ozone Works Miracles With Vincent O'Neill of Toronto.

He Was Treated in St. Michael's Hospital Without Improvement.

No. 1. Taken February 28, 1901. when suffering from Eczema.

No. 2. Taken June 12, 1901, cured by Powley's Liquified Ozone.

Vincent O'Neill, 108 Mitchell Ave., Toronto, Canada, a lad aged sixteen years, first came to the attention of our Toronto office about February 28, 1901. He was then suffering from an aggravated case of Eczema, (Lupus Erythematosis), involving the entire right side of the face, both eyes and lips. The affected parts were a mass of incrusted matter, discharging profusely, the appearance being so offensive that it was difficult to remain in the room with him. He reported as follows: The discharge began about the spring of 1899, and steadily became worse. He entered St. Michael's Hospital early in October, 1900, and remained there under treatment three months and a half, until January 27, 1901, without improvement, and was then discharged from the hospital. A month later he came to us.

Powley's Liquified Ozone was administered internally and as a local dressing in strength 1-4, gradually increasing to equal parts. The improvement was observed almost at once; the discharge gradually ceased the general health improved, and at the end of twelve weeks, his face was perfectly clear. He is now entirely well. The above photographs tell the tale better than mere words. We refer you to him.

THE PHOTOGRAPHER'S STATEMENT.

That there may be no question that the photos numbered 1 and 2 are genuine and reproduce faithfully O'Neill's features before and after taking Powley's Liquified Ozone we present herewith the solemn declaration of Mr. Fred Micklethwaite, Photographer, 11 King Street, W., Toronto, that they are absolutely as he made them. They have not been retouched in any way and represent one and the same person, namely Vincent O'Neill.

DOMINION OF CANADA, PROVINCE OF ONTARIO, COUNTY OF YORK, } To Wit:

In the matter of the cure of VINCENT O'NEILL 108 Mitchell Ave., Toronto.

I, FRED MICKLETHWAITE, of the City of Toronto, in the county of York, Photographer, do solemnly declare that on or about the 28th day of February, 1901, the boy Vincent O'Neill was brought to my studio, and that photograph No. 1 is a correct portrait of the condition of his face, that photograph No. 2 was taken June 12th, 1901, and is a correct representation of the condition of his face at that time. That both the photos, Nos. 1 and 2 represent the same boy, and are not retouched in any way. I understand that his recovery is due solely to the use of Powley's Liquified Ozone, and I make this solemn declaration conscientiously believing it to be true and knowing that it is of the same force an effect as if made under oath and by virtue of the Canada Evidence Act, 1893.

FRED MICKLETHWAITE.

Declared before me at the City of Toronto, in the County of York, this 27th day of Aug. in the year of our Lord, 1901. {SEAL} JAMES J. WARREN, Commissioner, Etc., Temple Bldg.

WHAT HIS FOREMAN SAYS:

July 12th, 1901.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

Vincent O'Neill is in my employ and is the young man that was cured by Powley's Liquified Ozone. He is well and works every day, and is free from his former serious face trouble.

Signed, W. D. VAREY, Foreman Tin Department, Gurney Foundry Co., Toronto.

Powley's Liquified Ozone is stable oxygen. It supplies the body with this element. It is blood food—purifying and healthening that function. It cures all forms of skin trouble, makes a pure clear complexion. Its life-giving and invigorating action is simply marvelous. The uses of Ozone are as varied as those Nature makes of it. It is the greatest discovery of the age. Ozone is life.

Gossip of the Stage and Platform.

THE STAGE VILLAIN.

The villain of old had the slippery smile
Of a catfish barbed with the blackest mustaches;
His s's he hissed in a venomous style,
And he chewed all his r's and he gnashed all his dashes.
And Oh! do you mind how the aguish fiddle
Would shiver a fit of melodious chills,
And give you a sudden sick fear in your middle,
When he found the last of the old miser's wills?
And, Oh! do you mind the tableau at the close,
When everyone sneered at the villain's last cursing,
As he was led off in a violent pose
By super-policemen who needed rehearsing?

Now a poor cast of mere "moral degenerates,"
Slinking through villainies, plays in his part,
Since the new "gods," whom the realist venerates,
Called for cheap commonplace in exact art—
Called for a whimpering, shame-faced and simpering,
White-livered rogue with a black-and-tan heart.

Musical horrors can't gooseflesh the gallery
In the "dark scenes" of the villain today;
He is a stock exchange gull, whose small salary
Drove him to stealing to cover his play—
Drove him to villainy, though he would fill any
Honest position that promised more pay.

Gone are the villain's last blood-curdling sentences—
Gone when these new psycopatics began—
Quite superseded by fifth-act repentances
After the Ibsenish problem-play plan—
Gone with the masterful dark and disasterful,
Give-you-your-money's-worth, bold, bad man!

—H. J. O'Higgins.

Is it not time that the Opera House orchestras in this city gave the theater patrons something different from the line of music which has been handed out this season, and for that matter for several seasons back, from the orchestra pit? With so much good music in the world, why should those who cannot leave the theater between acts be compelled to listen to what is for the most part the cheapest and most commonplace output of a music-publishing system, which is evidently pandering only to a perverted public appetite for ragtime and similar trash. When Mendelssohn's "Spring Song," Schumann's "Traumerei Reverie," Lange's "Flower Song," and fifty other compositions as sweet and ennobling can be heard with never-failing delight by the cultured audiences of Buffalo and Detroit, not to speak of larger centers, they should be good enough for the enjoyment of London playgoers. Then there are the ever-popular overtures, such as Thomas' "Raymond," Wallace's "Maritana," Rossini's "William Tell," and the well-known operas like "Il Trovatore" and "Caveliera Rusticana," from which to draw. They are all numbers which even the most frequent rendition cannot cause to pall upon the musical palate. Lastly, there is an abundant supply of orchestra material in the selections from light and comic operas which have appeared in London. These cannot fail to catch the popular taste in a city which accords to comic opera an unstinted patronage which it begrudges to other lines of dramatic offerings. At the band concert last month, by the Seventh Regiment Band, no one of the numbers rendered was more enjoyed than the selections from the tuneful "Geisha." This is only one case in point, and it could be multiplied many times. The local orchestras possess both the musicians and the instruments; all they need is the music to give an orchestra service which will be appreciated at its full value by audiences which are as critical and exacting in their musical as in their dramatic tastes.

In this connection it might not be out of place to ask why the musical programme for each evening's performance could not be printed on the playbill. It is done in other cities, it has been done in London, and it was done on the playbill of the opening attraction at the Grand Opera House. It should not be a difficult matter to accomplish, and it would be appreciated by those members of the audience—a considerable portion—who are sufficiently interested in the musical programme to desire to learn the names of compositions unfamiliar to them or to wish to know what of their favorite numbers they may expect to hear during the evening.

If any stagestruck maidens in London gazed with envious eyes upon the beautifully-gowned chorus girls in "Dolly Varden" last week, and wished to change places with them, it might prove a salutary lesson to them to learn from a member of the profession something of the conditions of the life which to the uninitiated appears one of ease and pleasure. In the first place, before obtaining an engagement, the chorus girls may be idle during the summer season anywhere from two weeks to three months. Idleness in New York with a weekly board bill of $6 to $12, is anything but a welcome experience. The coveted engagement secured, there follows four, five or six weeks of the hardest kind of physical exertion, in the shape of daily rehearsals, lasting, in many cases, far longer than the general tale of working hours per day. No pay is given for rehearsals, therefore the board bill is still a disquieting source of expenditure with no counterbalancing revenue. Once on the road the chorus girl enters into the enjoyment of the munificent salary of $18 or $20. Out of this she must pay her daily hotel and traveling expenses. Her railroad ticket is provided her, but sleeping and dining-car expenditures she must foot herself. Add to this the frequent imposition of fines, often owing to caprice or even worse motives on the part of an unscrupulous manager, and it will be seen that the chorus girl is hardly likely to become round-shouldered from carrying an excessive roll of greenbacks around with her. Last of all, should the production fail to please the public the enterprise is abandoned, the chorus girl is once more idle, and there follows the same heart-wrecking experience of engagement-hunting and rehearsing. But the board-bill is not idle for a minute.

The author of the play is of no interest to the average auditor, remarks a writer in Ainslee's Magazine. How many people can recall the name of the author of "Lord and Lady Algy" compared to the number that have doted over Faversham in that comedy? Who knows anything about Robert Marshall, the man that wrote "A Royal Family?" And as for Clyde Fitch, when he had four plays running at one time in New York, all the papers could deliver about him was hysterical gush at the indescribable luxury of the house built from the profits of his plays. And Pinero, whose work has attracted the notice of all European and American critics? How obscure a man is he? Not long ago a certain senator, of national fame, attended a performance of "The Magistrate." The comedy amused him a little, and as the curtain was let down on the second act the senator looked up the name of the playwright on his programme. Then he turned to his companion and inquired quietly, "Who is this man Pinero?"

THEATRICAL TITTLE-TATTLE.

Viola Allen is next season to be seen in a dramatization of Hall Caine's "The Eternal City." Last week she received an autograph copy from the author.

Hope Booth, a former Toronto girl, who in later years has been particularly noted for high art in the way of living pictures, is dissatisfied with wedded life and in a suit for divorce also asks alimony and counsel fees.

Ramsay Morris has written a play of Indiana life entitled "Ninety-and-Nine." The story was suggested by the Ira D. Sankey hymn of the same name. Frank McKee has contracted to produce it in New York, Act. 6, 1902.

Ada Rehan has made plans for a brief tour this season. She will open sometime during the winter and at the conclusion of the tour she will go to San Francisco, where she proposes to play a long engagement as a stock star.

Leslie Stuart, the composer of "Florodora," has come to America and last week had the first opportunity of seeing how Americans enjoy his composition. Stuart is best known in Canada as the composer of the popular "Soldiers of the Queen."

Maude Adams began her tour last Friday night in Toledo, Ohio, in her new play, "Quality Street." It is the work of J. M. Barrie, the author of "The Little Minister." Miss Adams is going to subject it to quite an extensive process of trying it on the dog before taking it to New York.

Realism in the mounting of plays has reached the outer limit. For example, the furniture used in the Kelcey-Shannon play, "Her Lord and Master," or that scene of it representing the drawing-room in the home of Lord Staford, is hand-carved English oak, upholstered in tapestry of the Louis XIV. period.

There has been no cessation of legal complications about "Fedora" and "Cleopatra" since the death of Fanny Davenport. Only last week Melbourne MacDowell, the dead actress' husband, filed an application for an injunction in St. Paul to restrain Clarence M. Bruce from producing the Davenport version of the plays.

Amelia Bingham in seeking a successor to her play, "The Climbers," has uncovered a new play writer in the person of Genevieve Grenville Haines. Mrs. Haines has written a play called "Hearts Aflame," founded upon a short story that appeared in the Smart Set. The new authoress is the wife of Robert Haines, now Mrs. Fiske's leading man.

Nellie O'Neill, the vivacious little acrobatic dancer, seen here in "A Female Drummer," and who was mentioned in connection with a puglist's divorce suit some time ago, was married two weeks ago. The bridegroom was Billy B. Van, the comedian. The happy couple have been associated in "The Devil's Daughter."

Anna Held's new musical comedy, "The Little Duchess," is being subjected to changes by Harry B. Smith and Reginald de Koven, who are responsible for the piece. Miss Hall's role included the impersonation of a Paris gamin, necessitating her appearance in ragged male attire. This portion has been eliminated. The piece is characterized as a hit.

"Joan of the Sword Hand," in spite of its promising title and most alluring adventures, is evidently not for the stage. Blance Walsh, who started out in Toronto two weeks ago with it as her vehicle, has given it up. She now has secured "Nadjezda," a play written by Maurice Barrymore some years ago, and for which Sara Bernhardt secured the European rights.

It was a curious incident that led to the dramatization of the "Foxy Grandpa" pictures. Sydney Rosenfeld was making an attack on the prevailing tendency to adapt novels to the stage. He said someone would eventually be absurd enough to dramatize the "Foxy Grandpa" pictures. Wm. A. Brady and Joseph Hart heard the speech, and the comedy that resulted is now achieving quite a success.

Klaw & Erlanger, after having spent a great deal of time persuading General Lew Wallace to permit the dramatization—if such it can be called—of "Ben Hur" and a great deal of money putting it upon the stage, are not going to let anybody else get any of the benefit, evidently. They have just moved to get an injunction in the Chicago courts to prevent W. S. Cleveland, the minstrel, from burlesquing "Ben Hur."

About as good evidence as one could expect of a star's personal triumph in a poor play is the experience of the No. 2 Company playing "Janice Meredith." This play in its beginning was stamped as a bad piece of dramatic work, relieved by the charm of Miss Mannering's portrayal of the heroine. Frank McKee, on the strength of the success of the Mannering production, started out another company, but has closed it because of unsatisfactory business.

A curious reversal of opinion seems to have taken place in New York regarding "Liberty Belles." Theatergoers who were startled by seminary girls in dormitory scenes have now recovered from the shock given their blase natures to discover that instead of anything objectionable it is just a fetching and delightful bit of frolicsome fun without anything to even suggest a shock. The praises of the piece are now sounding.

Marie Celeste has been engaged by Edwin H. Price to play the title role in "San Toy." Miss Celeste was the original of this character in the American production. Paula Edwards has also been engaged for the part of Dudley. Miss Edwards will sing the latest song introduced in "San Toy" in London, "Cooche-Coo," a character conceit. She is expected to make as great a hit with this number as she did with "'Igh Society," in "The Runaway Girl."

A new and naughty French farce has just been produced at the Palais Royal in Paris, it being called "Bichette." One writer, in a frenzy of adjectives, has characterized it as coarse, vulgar, suggestively silly, noisy and trashy. The theme is the everlasting one. A puritanical husband has a pretty wife in whose virtues he believes implicitly, whereas the matter of fact is that the wife has blinded her husband, and is indulging in all sorts of wicked liberties.

The lovers of dramatic art in Paris are just now in ecstasies over the Japanese "Merchant of Venice" that has just been produced there. The Sada Yacco-Otto Kawakami company, which appeared in this country a year ago, is giving Shakespeare in Japanese. Sada Yacco, in her dainty, queer, deliciously artistic way, is said to play Portia with splendid intellectuality and the inspiration of genius. There has been no small outcry by the better class of theater-goers against those perverted minds that see fit to jest at the clever little woman because she speaks a foreign tongue.

Season after season "Uncle Tom's Cabin" continues to be the most produced play. There are four companies touring now, though managers make a fine boast when they have a modern play which will make profits for two companies. Two companies are playing "Uncle Tom" in one and two-night stands through New York and Pennsylvania, while two others are traveling about the towns of the Middle West. The play is also being given by numberless repertoire companies.

The King and Queen of Roumania have just arranged a remarkable project. In every province of their dominion a theater is to be erected and the peasants given an opportunity of seeing the best plays available as often as twice a week. The first theater to be erected will be at the expense of the crown, and will be maintained by it. The others, which will be used principally for traveling companies, will be erected and maintained partly at the expense of the crown and partly by private subscriptions. It is a praiseworthy work.

Few people can understand the feelings of the pugilist as he is being counted out. He hears the seconds ticked off. He struggles to rise, but struggles in vain. He has lost the fight.

There are some who are making a losing fight for life that can appreciate this; those whose lungs are diseased. With every tick of the watch, they know that they are being counted out.

The great question is how can a quick rally be made to continue the fight against disease? Many who have asked that question have found a satisfactory answer in the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures bronchitis, obstinate, deep-seated coughs, hemorrhage, night-sweats, emaciation, and other conditions which if neglected or unskilfully treated may find a fatal termination in consumption.

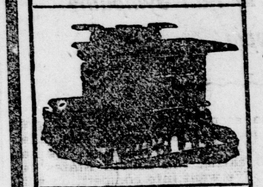

"When I commenced taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery," writes Mr. John T. Reed, of Jefferson, Jefferson Co., Ark., "I was very low with a cough, and would at times spit up blood. I was not able to do any work at all. was weak and my head was dizzy. The first bottle I took did me so much good that I had faith in it and continued until I had taken twelve bottles. Now I do not look like nor feel like the same man as I was a year ago. People were astonished and said they did not think I could live. I can thankfully say that I am entirely cured of a disease from which had it not been for your wonderful 'Discovery' I would have died."

There are cures behind every claim made for the "Discovery," which no "just as good" medicine can show.

THE CONSTANCY OF RELIGION

Honesty, Fidelity, Kindliness and Love Are Unchangeable.

Doctrine of Total Depravity Changed to a Belief in the Sonship With God—Golden Beliefs.

[George H. Hepworth.]

Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid.—St. John, xiv., 27.

The essence of religion is always the same, but theology is subject to constant change.

Honesty, kindliness, fidelity and love are today just what they were to the newly born souls in the Garden of Eden, and resignation, self-sacrifice, faith in God, are just what they were in the Garden of Gethsemane. Time has not altered their complexion, neither has it decreased our appreciation of them. They are the same yesterday, today and forever. Human hearts are what they have always been, but human minds are constantly passing from lower to higher levels of truth, climbing the spiral staircase of greater knowledge and looking out on a wider horizon.

In nothing is this made more clear than in the soul's relation to God. Our fathers feared him, but we have learned to love him. They trembled in his presence, while we rejoice. Their religion was like a sky filled with thunder heads, every now and then a flash of forked lightning shaking the earth with its menace, awful in grandeur, magnificent as an exhibition of power, but rousing a fear for the present and the future which deadened affection. There was a dirgelike element in it which was strangely unattractive.

We admire our fathers for their sterling and stern qualities of character, but it would be impossible for us to kneel by their side and worship the God they so reverently adored. Time has wrought beneficent changes in our spiritual outlook, and what we believe is incomparably more inspiring than anything their theology could furnish. There is something more friendly, more fatherly, more motherly in our conception of Deity, and therefore it is nearer to the truth.

There are two matters in which we have made a decided advance. We have changed the doctrine of total depravity into a belief in our sonship with God. No funeral procession ever moved more willingly to the cemetery where lie our buried errors than we did when we paid our last respects to that dogma. The world was frightened by it while it reigned, and one dared not look toward heaven without expecting to hear the thunders of gloomy Sinai. We were simply a multitude of shipwrecked mariners, whose only deserts were to sink beneath the waves. But light came. The Gospel broke through the clouds on a second reading, and shone with inspiring effulgence. Children and heirs! Loved of the Father with a love not to be expressed! We woke to a new life. Fear fled, and we were drawn upward with a strange feeling that God's invisible hand was downstretched to lift us over our sorrows and sins into penitence and holiness. The heavens were filled with music, and we began the upward march with joy in our hearts. Love flooded the world and wrought a miracle of development and growth. Religion became a perpetual peace and hope and trust, for a year of love will do more for the soul than a cycle of fear. The earth blossomed anew, and as the Christ cried "Let there be light," we bent in a reverent worship never known before. The Bible has become a fresh revelation, and the universal heart is warmed to good deeds and noble endeavor by the consciousness that the Father wants us and we must find our way to the home which awaits us.

And the second change in our thoughts is our conception of the other life. The picturesque and spectacular in the old theology have given way to an immortality which robs death of its black garments and gives it a white robe instead. The harps in the early picture have disappeared, and we look forward to a life of activity; a life in which our affections are left intact; a life so close to God that we shall grow as the wheat grows in the sunshine and dew, and so close to earth that along the well trodden highway we may bring back the sweet influences of the upper world to bless this one withal. There is no high barrier whose gates are bolted, but an open door, through which the thoughts of the living may travel upward and through which the glories of the other life may come to flood our human households with helpfulness.

These beliefs are golden. They are priceless. We live anew, we breathe a purer air and enjoy a larger faith. Our vision takes a wider view, as one who climbs from the narrow valley to the mountain top. Religion becomes a diviner reality than ever. It is easier to bear with resignation the ills of the flesh, for the spirit is unconfined, and soars in its sorrow to the source of all strength and wisdom. The Father was never so near his children as now, and life was never so radiant or so glorious. We have at last looked into the face of the risen Lord, and read his word with lips that have been touched by angel fingers. We can do our work with good cheer, can bow in deeper reverence, and bear with patience, for voices are calling us which we have never heard before, and beyond the tomb is the light of another and a brighter day.

THE POETS.

AVE ATQUE VALE.

Praise we the dead! where once his grave
Received to peace the Saxon King,
Do honor to the wise and brave,
And let the world-wide nation sing
The memory of a thousand years—
Then hush! and think of others' tears!

Beyond the western sea they fall
From eyes that yet with joy behold
The kingly ancestor of all,
The glory of the years of old;
But, o'er th' Atlantic water-ways,
A mist of sorrow dims their gaze.

Again, within his city's bound,
Truth-teller Alfred stands in fane—
Beyond the sea, a mournful sound
Re-echoes to the glad acclaim:
We listen to the passing-bell—
True child of Washington, farewell!

Up with our hearts! and over sea
Swift be the word of friendship sped—
"You praise our hero-king, and we
Lament with you your patriot dead;
In sorrow's name, one boon we crave—
Lay England's wreath upon his grave!"
Winchester, Sept. 30. —E. D. A. M.

OUR IDEALS ARE THE SEEDS OF DESTINY

Each clock-tick tells the world a man is born
To take his place in Time's infinitude;
To start, aglow, his race, in Life's bright morn;
To close his eyes in Death's cold solitude.

O, teach him right, that, when his sands have run,
He may look back upon the paths he trod,
To know they were illumed by Honor's sun,
And consecrated to the will of God.

Riches and honor are what men desire—
Let them be gained by methods well employed!
Rather a humble cot, a plain log fire,
Than wealth unfairly won and ne'er enjoyed!

Meet every man as if he were a brother—
Since Time's first breath, two things have stood like stone:
Compassion for the troubles of another,
And courage in the battles with our own.

Seek not vast lore, but know a little well—
Not many lives, but only one have we;
Let Truth and Wisdom fill its too brief spell
And paint the vision of eternity!

An empty purse is bad, an empty mind
Is worse—but never own an empty heart;
In Perseverance court the favoring wind
That brings contentment in Toil's busy mart.

Eternity ne'er won a moment lost;
He serves the best who true to all will be;
Seek but the truth, whatever be the cost;
The hope of man is opportunity.

Climb not too fast Life's ladder—first of all
Push deep your roots, then you can well sustain
The rays of sunlight that upon you fall,
The hours of toil, the pang of passing pain.

Birth never yet foretokened destiny,
No wind-swept vessel twice the same wake led;
And in the tome of Time we plainly see
The debts of life are owing to the dead.
—Robert Mackay.

AROUND THE LAMP.

OPPORTUNITY.

This I beheld, or dreamed it in a dream:
There spread a cloud of dust along a plain,
And underneath the cloud, or in it, raged
A furious battle, and men yelled, and swords
Shocked upon swords and shields. A prince's banner
Wavered, then staggered backward, hemmed by foes.
A craven hung along the battle's edge,
And thought: "Had I a sword of keener steel—
That blue blade that the king's son bears—but this
Blunt thing!" he snapt and flung it from his hand,
And, lowering, crept away and left the field.
Then came the king's son, wounded, sore bestead,
And weaponless, and saw the broken sword,
Hilt-buried in the dry and trodden sand,
And ran and snatched it, and with battle-shout
Lifted afresh he hewed his enemy down,
And saved a great cause that heroic day.

Plea for Individuality.

[Boston Home Journal.]

Whatever we have to be thankful for in these days no student of history can fail to notice the marked decline in individuality. Of course, there is always danger in comparing one epoch with another that we shall magnify the good of the past and minimize the good of the present. Nevertheless, there are cases in which the facts are fairly clear. Such is the case in the matter of individuality. The concentrated life of the day is against individuality, and we certainly look in vain for a large number of striking characters. All men seem to run in one mold and are slaves to convention. Look about in the various fields of human endeavor. How many will you find in any one calling who stand out from their fellows? Take the newspaper world for example. Not so many years ago such men as Horace Greeley seemed the rule. Their leading articles bore the unmistakable impress of their own minds. With very few exceptions the leading articles in the press today are devoid of personality. Few know who the writers are and even fewer care to know. In almost any walk of life it is the same. Such a situation is by no means desirable, and society inevitably suffers. The individual withers and the certain result must be that the world will wither. We need at the present day men who know their own minds, who are willing and even eager to speak what they believe to be the truth. Men and women are needed who will go into a thing whole souled and not with a lurking suspicion that their neighbors may think them odd sticks. For only as there is individual progress can society progress. There is no other road to the higher civilization of which some dream.

The Blessings of Health.

Health, invaluable treasure!—thou givest fresh lustre to the beams of the sun, and fresh radiance to the skies of heaven! Thou bestowest a more balmy odor on the breath of morning, and deepenest the richness of that tincture which flushes over the rose! Ah! Health, thou prime source of pleasure, and vivifying soul of every felicity beneath the moon! for thee and thy inspiring influence (exclaims the valetudinarian) I would travel, were I assured of meeting thy rewarding smiles, into the heart of the most uncheery and unpeopled climate. With what fervent alacrity doth the sick man leave even his velvet couch and downy pillows, to court those breezes and those vales, however distant and obscure, which thou deignest to frequent. To him, indeed, who has just recovered from the attack of some fierce and withering malady, or whose vital energies have been prostrated by the gradual inroads of a more subtle and insidious disease, nothing that can be said in praise of thee, O Health! will seem extravagant or hyperbolical. In thy train are all the graces, and the gayest assemblage of those enchanting ideas which those graces inspire. Imagination, fancy, ingenious sisters, are thine. They describe, sing, design, paint and regulate their separate arts, each allied to the other, only under thy immediate auspices. The eye acquires a clearer light of its object—the intellect is cleansed of those cloudy films which before obscured it—and the ways of men, their manners and their hearts, are more easily read, and more easily wrought upon.

"Hygeia, hail; I'll drink at thy pure spring,
Where Temperance and Exercise preside;
And while life's dearest boon thy handmaids bring,
Though from the wine-press flow the purple tide;
The tempting goblet from my lips I'll fling—
Scorning the gifts by luxury supplied.
Hail! then, Hygeia, hail! 'thee, goddess, I adore,'
For, blest with health, I'm rich—though scanty be my store."

About Pain-Killers.

When Sir James Simpson first used an anaesthetic, the pious ministers of his time objected that by aiding his sisters in their hour of trial he was setting at naught Genesis, iii., 16. His retort was as happy as it was conclusive. He referred the indignant divines to the previous chapter, to the account of the first surgical operation recorded in Holy Writ. There they found the words: "And the Lord God caused a deep sleep to fall upon Adam." Times have changed since those days. No exposition of narrow dogmatism could long keep us from the greatest boon of the last sixty years. The production of a state of insensibility to external impressions was a practice of great antiquity. Nepenthe was known to Homer. "To Scythians leave those wild excesses," sings Tom Moore in his Anacreontic ode, and those "excesses" were familiar to Herodotus. Hoa-tho, a Celestial of the third century of the Christian era, used hemp before his surgical operations. From Dioscorides and Pliny to Shakespears we hear of the use of the mandrake. In 1844 nitrous oxide, "laughing gas," to wit, was used in dentistry in America. In Boston, sulphuric ether was tested in 1846, and Simpson found its value in midwifery cases at the end of that year. But he did not discover the value of chloroform until late in 1847. From January last to the present month medical circles have been exercised over the report of the anaesthetics committee of the British Medical Association. On the whole that document has been disappointing to those who look for guidance. Certain very striking facts are emphasized in the report. It is clear that of all anaesthetics chloroform is the most dangerous. It is twice as dangerous in man as in woman, and is least harmful after infancy and under 30. The percentages of danger cases in males under chloroform, under ether, under gas and ether, and under the A. C. E. mixture, are as 210, 35, 30 and 42 respectively. In female danger cases the percentage for chloroform was nearly double that for other anaesthetics. With patients in a sound condition one "danger case" occurred in every 133 administrations of chloroform, in every 654 of ether, and in every 834 of gas and ether.—Westminster Gazette.

Joy in Work.

It may be proved with much certainty, that God intends no man to live in his world without working, but it seems to me no less evident that he intends every man to be happy in his work. It is written, "in the breaking of thine heart" thou shall eat bread: and I find that, as on the one hand infinite misery is caused by the idle people, who both fail in doing what was appointed for them to do, and set in motion various springs of mischief in maters in which they should have no concern, so on the other hand, no small misery is caused by overworked and unhappy people, in the dark views which they necessarily take up themselves, and force upon others of work itself. Were it not so, I believe the fact of their being unhappy is in itself a violation of divine law, and a sign of some kind of folly or sin in their way of life. Now in order that people may be happy in their work, these three things are needed: They must be fit for it; they must not do too much of it; and they must have a sense of success in it—not a doubtful sense, such as needs some testimony of other people for its conformation, but a sure sense, or rather knowledge, that so much work has been done well, and faithfully done, whatever the world may say or think about it.—Ruskin.—"On the Old Road."

Be Considerate.

A woman who has the happy faculty of making her guests feel just as comfortable as thought they were at home says that nothing shows a narrow, meager mind worse than inability to comprehend or allow for other people's habits which vary from your own. You may be as sure as you exist that hard beds and no pillows are best for health, and yet it may be just as true that some difference in the circulation of the nerves renders feather bed and high pillows indispensable to the well-being of others. Inquire into these likings of an elderly visitor, or one who is out of health, if you don't wish their stay with you to be a penance. Consult their habits as far as you can as to the hours of rising and retiring and meals.

Social Contrasts in Russia.

While in Russia over 80 per cent are peasant agriculturists, and the rest are city dwellers and the rich, in England 80 per cent are of the town, and the rest are of the country. On their great plains, amid their forests, the Russians are nearer nature than we, and therefore simpler in habit and thought. The opposition of the two classes, rich and poor, oppressors and oppressed, is more readily seen in such a society than in ours, where the middle classes break the contrast. This character of the national life about him has undoubtedly given a certain shape and quality to Tolstoi's work; it has also helped him to that searching simplicity and directness which is more difficult to attain in the greater complication and confusion of our western life.—"Prophets of the Century," by Arthur Rickett.

Ventilation of Bedrooms.

The air we breathe is composed of oxygen and nitrogen, which, passing through the lungs and performing its office of purifying the blood, is changed chemically, so that when given off by respiration it is charged with carbonic acid gas, a heavy gas; but being at this time warm and greatly expanded, it rises above the colder air in the apartment to the ceiling, where, unless means be provided for its immediate escape, it will gradually cool and finally fall, in obedience to the law of gravity, to the floor. This downcast of cold vitiated air usually occurs at the window, the glass of which forms a convenient cooling surface; hence the down draught is always perceptible near the windows of badly ventilated rooms. It becomes apparent, then, that the outlets must be placed as near the ceiling as possible, and the inlets at as low a level as is compatible with comfort. It may be proved that there is a tendency to down-draught at the window, it is well to induce an opposing current at this point, which will tend to keep back the foul air from the glass, and this may be readily done in the manner recommended by Dr. B. W. Richardson. Fix on to the sill at the bottom sash a piece of deal about three inches or four inches deep and the full width of the window; the meeting rails of the upper and lower sashes will thus be caused to overlap one another, and a vertical fresh air inlet is made, effectually preventing cross draught. The simplicity of this method makes it easily applicable to any existing window, though if planning rooms for a new building, with architectural pretensions, a more artistic treatment may be readily devised.

Chemistry of Tears.

[Dietetic and Hygienic Gazette.]

Tears have their functional duty to accomplish, like every other fluid of the body, and the lachrymal gland is not placed behind the eye simply to fill space or to give expression to emotion. The chemical properties of tears consist of phosphate of lime and soda, making them very salty, but never bitter. Their action on the eye is very beneficial, and here consists their prescribed duty to the body, washing thoroughly that sensitive organ, which allows no foreign fluid to do the same work. Nothing cleanses the eye like a good salty shower bath, and medical art has followed nature's law in this respect, advocating the invigorating solution for any distressed condition of the optics. Tears do not weaken the sight, but improve it. They act as a tonic on the muscular vision, keeping the eye soft and limpid, and it will be noticed that women in whose eyes sympathetic tears gather quickly have brighter, tenderer eyes than others. When the pupils are hard and cold the world attributes it to one's disposition, which is a mere figure of speech, implying the lack of balmy tears, that are to the cornea what salve is to the skin or nourishment to the blood.

The reason some weep more easily than others, and all more readily than the sterner sex, has not its difference in the strength of the tear gland, but in the possession of a more delicate nerve system. The nerve fibers about the glands vibrate more easily, causing a downpour from the watery sac. Men are not nearly so sensitive to emotion; their sympathetic nature—the term is used in a medical sense—is less developed, and the eye gland is, therefore, protected from shocks. Consequently, a man should thank the formation of his nerve nature when he contemptuously scorns tears as a woman's practice. Between man and monkey there is this essential difference of tears. An ape cannot weep, not so much because its emotional powers are undeveloped, as the fact that the lachrymal gland was omitted in his optical make-up.

Boiling Water for Tea.

There is but one way of making tea for

Unless the water boiling be
To pour on water spoils the tea.

The teapot itself should be heated very hot before the tea is placed in it and the boiling water poured on. It should be scalding hot water, or the leaves will float to the top.

No less authority than Tung-po, the Chinese poet, is quoted for a recipe for tea-making. He says: "Whenever tea is to be infused, take water from a running stream, and boil it over a lively fire. It is an old custom to use running water, boiled over a lively fire. That from springs in the hills is said to be the best, and river water the next, while well water is the worst. A lively fire is a clear, bright charcoal fire. While making an infusion, do not boil the water too hastily; at first it begins to sparkle like crab's eyes, then somewhat like fish's eyes, and lastly, it boils up like pearls innumerable, springing and waving about. This is the way to boil water."

A teaspoonful of tea for two cups with one for the pot is the rule. China teapots are best for tea, and one with a set-in sieve of china is delightful, but many prefer a metal pot, as it does not break.

Sharp Attack of Lumbago.

Know what Lumbago is? Pain catches you right in the small of the back,—makes stooping over or rising up excruciating agony. Wrong kidney action is the cause of the trouble, and if you let Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets set the kidneys working right you'll be quickly cured.

Here is some evidence:

Mr. James A. Searls, the well and favorably known boot and shoe merchant of Norwich, Ont., made this statement:—"During a recent sharp attack of Lumbago, in which the pain was extremely severe, I took a bottle of Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets. They took the pain out of my back so quickly, and so far as I can see made a cure that is so permanent, that I consider them unequalled for that most prevalent and painful affliction. I am only too pleased to recommend them to other people who may be suffering as I was."

Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets are 50c. a box, at all druggists or by mail, THE DR. ZINA PITCHER CO., Toronto, Ont.

WHEN HE LIKES TO WORK.

I hate to work in winter time,
It's much too cold without;
I'd rather sit around the fire,
With poker deck and stout.
I hate to work in winter time,
When panes are coated thick with rime.

I do not like to work in spring,
Because I'm languid then;
That tired feeling chains me down
And chains me down again.
I do not like to work in spring,
Because—because of everything.

In summer time I do not like
To do a stroke of work;
I'd rather take a jug and seek
The pools where catfish lurk.
In summer time I do not like
To work; I'd rather go on strike.

I do not like to work in fall,
Because the golden day
Is beckoning me with dog and gun
To chase dull care away.
I do not like to work in fall—
I do not like to work at all.

EMPEROR AND BARBER.

Emperor William of Germany has taught his barber a lesson. Very punctual himself, the emperor insists that his servants shall also be punctual, and as he noticed some time ago that his barber was almost always a few minutes late when the time came for shaving him, he presented him with a gold chronometer and urged him to make good use of it.

Much to his surprise the barber continued to be a few minutes late almost every morning, and, after waiting in vain for some signs of improvement, the emperor said to him the other day:

"Have you still the chronometer which I gave you?"

"Yes, your majesty, here it is," replied the barber, taking it from his pocket.

"Give it to me," said the emperor. "It is evidently of no use to you, and you can have this one instead."

With these words he placed the handsome gold chronometer on his dressing table and handed to the amazed barber a nickel-plated watch worth about a dollar.

THE WOOZY AMATEUR AND HOW THEY STRANG HIM.

A Bill Clerk in a Grocery House once took part in a Production by Home Taient. Everyone who bought a Ticket had a Friend in the Cast. The Bill Clerk was a Glisten, but most of the People were wedged in and had to Stick. His Acting was very bazmaraz. When they gave him a Call, he did not know that they were Kidding him. After the Show they came around and pounded him on the Back and told him he was Great. The Paper gave him a Notice better than Coquelin ever got. He had himself photographed in Costume and began to grow a Marguerite Curl in the middle of his Forehead and keep one Hand inside of his Coat. The Mantle of Edwin Booth had fallen on him, but it did not reach to the Small of his Back. All he wanted was a Chance, and he would make Otis Skinner look like a Side Order of Something. He read the Dramatic Papers, and unless he was choked off he arose at Evening Parties and Recited. Then all the Girls told him he had Wonderful Talent, and after he went away they said he was the jakiest piece of Punk they ever saw.

The Bill Clerk began to write Letters of Congratulation to himself and use Powder on his Face. He forsook the low-down Grocery Trade and decided to go on the stage. He changed his name from Wesley Fink to Ormonde Dupont and had "Theater" painted on his Trunk. After that, all he needed, in order to be an Ac-tor, was an Engagement. He packed up and headed for the Rialto, with all the Photographs of himself and the Notice from the Home Paper. The Managers and Agents turned him down and waved him away and kept him sitting in Waiting Roms for hours at a time, but they could not drive Ormonde back to the canned Fruit Business. He was going to Act, whether or no.

So, finally, he signed with a Company presenting a Problem Play entitled "A Wet Dog." In the First Act he played the part of a Man who brought in the Trunk. In the Second Act he had to walk right out in the Glare of the Footlights and ask, "Did you Ring?" In the Third Act he was number four from the Right End. And now all his old Friends in the Grocery Trade can say that they knew some one who is really on the Stage.

HOW POPULAR SONGS OF TODAY SELL COMPARED WITH OLD TIMES.

Time was when the United States of America had few great writers of books, fewer playwrights, and hardly any composers of music," said a well-known publisher the other day. "For several decades Stephen C. Foster and Louis M. Gottschalk seemed the only two Americans who were original enough to be sponsors for a class of music distinct by itself, and as composers their work was individual enough to bear a character distinctively their own.

"Of late, however, a class of writers has arisen whose works place American music on a level with that of some of the best recent English, French and German composers, and whether the universal distribution of music among the masses or the demand for good music has caused it, the fact remains that a tremendous increase in sales of music has lately been recorded by publishers, both for the ephemeral and trashy stuff of the day and for the standard and more classic compositions.

"About thirty years ago the most popular songs in America were "Captain Jinks,' 'Up in a Balloon, Boys,' and 'Down in a Coal Mine.' Subsequently 'Shoo, Fly,' 'Come, Birdie, Come,' 'Molly Darling,' 'Whoa Emma,' 'Johnny Morgan,' and a little later, 'The Mulligan Guards' were ground out by every handorgan on every street corner. Then came 'Little Annie Rooney,' 'Comrades,' 'Daisy Bell,' and others.

"In those days if a song sold to the extent of fifty thousand or one hundred thousand copies it was considered a success. Today unless a song reaches to something like half a million copies it can hardly be considered popular, and many songs have of late run into the million and over.

"This statement is applicable to the handorgan 'wishy-washy,' 'nambypamby' ephemeral rubbish which invariably crops up each season, is whistled and hummed all over the country, and then receives its natural and well-deserved quietus. It is, however, an encouraging augury to musicians and music lovers when the public takes hold of good music, and of late music in a sense popular, but which is always likely to command a sale of its own, still proves as in the case of songs such as 'Annie Laurie,' 'Home, Sweet Home,' 'When Other Lips and Other Hearts,' Kathleen Mavourneen,' etc., that the public prefers the wheat to the chaff, the good to the trash.

"'Papa' Haydn once said that he would rather have written 'Robin Adair' than his great masterpiece 'The Creation,' and whereas a song such as Adams' 'Holy City,' which was originally published in 1892, has within its limited time probably outstripped in popularity any other song published within the last ten years and it is reputed that the author (Mr. Maybrick) has received in royalties almost $100,000, and whereas the late Sir Arthur Sullivan is said to have received almost the same amount for royalties on sales of 'The Lost Chord' in England alone, it is seldom songs of this grade strike the popular fancy. It augurs well, I think, and is a matter of congratulation that as we advance in other respects the taste or demand on behalf of Americans for good music keeps pace with the times, and that a demand exists for a better class of musical compositions than existed twenty or thirty years ago."

QUEEN AT HOME!

Her Life at Sandringham as Princess of Wales---Has Simple Tastes and Fond of Pets---Her Kindness to Tenants---Stories of Tennyson and Beaconsfield---Routine of Entertainments.

[New York Sun.]

Details of the home life of Queen Alexandra are being confided to the world just now by one Sarah Tooley. Whenever a loyal Briton takes his pen in hand to write things about the royal family he dips it in honey. No mere ink will do for that sacred subject. "The King can do no wrong" is a rule which is sometimes allowed to have exceptions, but when it comes to Queen Alexandra the British Isles display a unanimity of admiration which is lovely to behold.

According to Mrs. Tooley, Queen Alexandra does not believe in a mad rush to keep up with the latest fads of fashion. She doesn't go in for crazes. She is not eternally remodeling, redecorating, refurnishing, reeverything. She applies Polonius' advice to her personal belongings and sticks to old friends. When she travels there is a whole collection of objects which travel along with her, and most of them have some tender association in her memory.

She has quantities of flowiers, ferns and palms in her rooms. So, at least, says Mrs. Tooley, and it is quite believable. The same lady is authority for the fact that the Queen "loves to have evidences of life around her."

"For many years," she says, "Cockie, a famous parrot, had his cage in her dressing room, until his conversation became so noisy that he had to be banished. A soft white dove, with ruby eyes, would perch on his mistress' shoulder, while several dogs have passed lives of luxury upon silken cushions in her majesty's rooms. Today the reigning pets are a white and black Japanese spaniel and a quaint little Chinese dog. They travel with the Queen wherever she goes."

The real home life of the Queen has been passed chiefly at Sandringham House, which is a new house, built no longer ago than 1860. As Princess of Wales she spent more than half of each year there. It is a model estate, with picturesque cottages for the work people, a gem of a dairy; in fact, all the modern improvements of big estates. The principal entrance is by the beautiful Norwich gates, a wedding gift from the city of Norwich.

The park contains 300 acres, with a winding lake overlooked from the house by a sunny terrace. The railroad is two and a half miles distant and the accommodating railway company has put up a station there, with special waiting rooms for the Sandringham folks.

There is an ivy-covered technical school for girls in the village hard by. Queen Alexandra founded it for teaching the girls on the estate how to spin, weave and sew. Evidently the Queen believes in the force of example, for she has her own spinning wheel and hand loom, which she occasionally uses.

There is a school for boys, too, where they are taught wood carving and cabinet making and fitted for situations in towns. There are the Queen's stables where, according to the eloquent Mrs. Tooley, "the favorite hacks and carriage horses lead a luxurious existence in spotless stables, lined with white tiles." The King's stables are near by, spotless also possibly, though Mrs. Tooley neglected to be precise on this point. Also at hand are kitchen gardens and forcing houses, covering fourteen acres.

As for the dairy, the description makes one think of poor Marie Antoinette. Her thatched laiterie at the Petit Trianon wasn't much like Queen Alexandra's, but it was a model in its day, and great ladies dabbled about in it then, though more gayly perhaps than the sober English dames and damsels of today. Says Mrs. Tooley:

"Opposite is the Queen's model dairy with a dainty tea room entered from a lovely little garden. When the dairy was first started the Queen took an active interest in its management and introduced the Danish method of butter making. In the time of the old dairy woman, Mrs. Barker, the princess and her young daughter often amused themselves at churning. The appointments are dainty and beautiful, with the blue tiles, brought by the King from India, and the silver cream pans lined with eggshell china, fixed on a marble counter.

"Around the walls are models, in marble, terra cotta, silver and alabaster, of the prize animals bred on the estate. The tea room is a dainty room, literally filled with presents from the Queen's family and friends, noticeable among them being the set of Balmoral china 'presented by the late Queen, each piece being painted with a view from the neighborhood of Balmoral."

There is a clubhouse erected by the King for the use of the men working on the estate, Mrs. Tooley says that there are stringent rules in the club against drinking and gambling. Quite so! as the English people say.

The old church at the next wee village was unfit for worship, so the King had an iron one built for the people. Mrs. Tooley mentions this along with the beneficent doings of their majesties, but an iron church! One has to repeat firmly that the King can do no wrong, otherwise that iron church would be unpardonable.

Sandringham is not a show house like some of the famous old country houses. According to Mrs. Tooley's description it seems to be a purely personal habitation, filled with family portraits, souvenirs of loved ones and models of pet animals deceased." The drawing-room overlooks the terrace and the Queen's boudoir is above with the same outlook. One of the King's rooms is furnished with things from his cabin on the Serapis, the ship on which he went to India.

Formerly there used to be three balls at Sandringham every winter for the tenantry and servants, but these functions came to an end with the death of the Duke of Clarence. The Queen's birthday, Dec. 1, is celebrated by a tea party to the 500 school children on the estate. On this occasion the Queen and her daughters wait upon the children and play games with them. At Christmas there is a gorgeous tree, 30 feet high, with presents for everybody, and on the King's birthday there is a dinner to the laborers.

This anniversary comes on Nov. 9, and there is always a shooting party, with luncheon served in a tent where all the guests of the house come together. Of course, there is the inevitable 5 o'clock tea, which the Queen herself pours. Dinner is at 9 o'clock. Everybody who has stayed at Sandringham, says Mrs. Tooley, pronounces it the pleasantest and most homely of country houses. The Queen personally visits the rooms of her guests to see that nothing is wanting. At least she did so when she was Princess of Wales.

For years it was a family custom to walk around the estate on Sunday afternoons. The Queen petted her horses and fed them carrots and other equine dainties. Then the family party went to the kennels. The head-keeper's wife always had two dainty baskets ready, filled with pieces of bread. The Queen put on a large white apron, opened the kennel doors and distributed the contents of said dainty baskets. And the authority adds that while the dogs won't touch bread when offered by a mere keeper, they will scrupulously devour every crumb coming from the hands of their mistress.

After the dog episode the family party goes to the pheasantry, the bantam rearing ground, the dove house and so on, winding up at the dairy tea room for the indispensable 5 o'clock.

Apropos of bread there is a story of days gone by which Mrs. Tooley tells to illustrate the Queen's ready sympathy. Lord Beaconsfield was once cutting, or trying to cut a refractory dinner roll, but the act, difficult enough anyway, was further aggravated by his turning to make some courtly remark to the Princess of Wales, who sat beside him. The knife slipped and he cut his finger. The princess instantly devoted herself to giving first aid to the injured by binding up the statesman's wound. During the process he bowed and said:

"When I asked for bread they gave me a stone, but I had a princess to bind my wounds."

Another story was about Tennyson, who had written an ode at the time of the princess' arrival in England. The ode left nothing to be desired in the way of praise and glorification. It was several years before the princess met Tennyson and then, wanting to be gracious, and having forgotten just how laudatory the ode had been, she asked him to read it to her. The poet started in all right, but, as he waded deeper and deeper through the honeyed verses, the praised and the praiser went from embarrassment to hilarity and ended with a burst of laughter.

Countless stories are told of the kindness and thoughtfulness of Queen Alexandra. Charity begins at home, and it is worth noticing that the Sandringham people adore their mistress, who is also their Queen. At one little cottage a woman says:

"Yes, I've been able to get about all winter and as soon as the Queen heard I was too ill to attend to myself she sent a nurse to stay with me. She's been here four months and her majesty has been several times to see me."

The only child of the keeper of the kennels was lying at the point of death, but the man seemed to be cheered by a telegram from the Queen at Windsor telling of her anxiety and her sympathy.

"The Queen thought a lot of our little girl," he said, and somenow the Queen has that rare gift of making everybody feel that she thinks a lot of them. Mrs. Tooley visited a neighboring hospital one day and found the place bubbling with excitement because the Queen had just been there in her motor car.

"It was most specially to see me, ma'am; that the Queen came," remarked an old lady who had burned her face by accidentally setting fire to her cap. "You see, I've been gatekeeper for years at one of the lodges and many's the time the dear princess has come into my cottage, and when I stood up respectable-like, she'd say:

"'Now sit down and tell me how you're all going on.'

"And she'd bring the dear children with her. Poor Prince Eddy! He was never far from her side; and Prince George would be running all 'round my place asking about everything. My accident happened when their majesties were much engaged in London; but when the Queen came to Sandringham she said: 'I can't leave without seeing granny,' and she brought me a basket of fruit and flowers, and boxes of chocolates to the other patients. She went 'round all the wards, but, of course, ma'am, it was most especially to see me she came."

There is another hospital nearby; one which was erected in 1877 in thanksgiving for the recovery of the Prince of Wales. The Queen recently gave some new beds to the hospital, and at her first subsequent visit lay down on one of the beds to see if the mattresses and springs were all right. Most of the patients were taking the air at the time of the royal call, but when they came in and found out what had happened, they got what consolation they could by taking turns rolling on the bed where she had lain. Mrs. Tooley very pertinently wonders whether the spring mattress is still in good condition after that test.

To Americans it is almost a surprise that the Prince and Pricess of Wales have had any home life at all. According to the papers they seemed generally to be engaged in a mad round of laying corner-stones, opening hospitals, visiting asylums and similar doings. That this idea is not without foundation is shown by the following extracts, culled haphazard, according to Mrs. Tooley, from the court journal:

July 6—Visit to St. Saviour's Church for Deaf and Dumb.

July 7—Opening of new wing of French Hospital, also Fete Francaise on behalf of French benevolent institutions.

July 8—Laying of foundation stone of new building for Royal Hospital for Incurables.

July 9.—Visit to Royal Normal College for the Blind.

This doesn't sound gay nor calculated to make one pine to be a royal personage. In fact it sounds very much as if the Queen is a working woman, and a hard-working one, too.

Is Your Child in Danger?

Croup, Bronchitis, Whooping Cough and Severe Chest Colds are Threatening.

It is the old story of wet feet, exposure to cold and dampness and chilled bodies. Towards night the hoarseness comes and the hollow, croupy or tight chest cough. Then mother's anxiety, for she knows the danger and the suddenness with which the little ones are sometimes snatched away. When you think of the thousands of times that Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine has saved the lives of the little ones it is scarcely to be wondered at that mothers look upon it with confidence and satisfaction.

Mr. Peter Sidey, 530 Clinton street, Toronto, states:—"Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine is, in my opinion, a splendid remedy for children, being at once soothing and easy to take. It cured my two-year-old girl of a bad cold and croupy cough. It was no trouble to get her to take it, and the relief was remarkably quick."

Mr. D. Graham, 45 Callendar street, Toronto, states:—"My boy, aged six years, was developing all the symptoms of pneumonia, when we commenced giving him this valuable remedy. It very quickly checked the advance of disease, and in a few days he was as well as ever and at school again."

Little do men perceive what solitude is, and how far it extendeth; for a crowd is not company, and faces are but a gallery of pictures, and talk but a tinkling cymbal, where there is no love.—Bacon.

Difficult Digestion

That is dyspepsia.

It makes life miserable.

Its sufferers eat not because they WANT to—but simply because they MUST.

They complain of a bad taste in the mouth, a tenderness at the pit of the stomach, a feeling of puffy fulness, headache, heartburn and what not.

Hood's Sarsaparilla cured Joseph F. Laine, Flanagan, Ky., who writes: "I was troubled with dyspepsia for a number of years and took medicine that did me no good. I was advised by friends to try Hood's Sarsaparilla which I did and it put my bowels in perfect condition, gave me strength and energy and made me feel like a new person."

Promises to cure and keeps the promise. Beware of substitutes. Buy Hood's and only Hood's.

FOR HOUSEKEEPERS.

There was a fair-sized attendance of buyers and sellers at the market here this forenoon. Business on the whole was fair, with a very few changes in prices. A number of the farmers who reside in the adjoining townships have asked our opinion regarding the future prices of hay. There is consumed in this city about $50,000 worth of hay in a year, at the present prices paid. It will thus be seen that it forms a very important item for the farmers interested. We might say that after due consideration of the matter we are of the opinion that the prices will range from $7 to $8 per ton during the winter. There was a consideralby larger crop of hay cut this season than last year. There have also been about 400 loads of hay purchased for the horses in the fair grounds, which has helped to maintain the present prices paid.

Butter and Eggs—Butter was in large supply, and prices were a shade easier at 17c to 18c per lb for crocks, and 19c to 21c for lb rolls. Eggs in fair supply and found ready sale at 15c and 16c per doz. by the crate, and 17c to 18c per single doz.

Fruits—Peaches are about at their end. Grapes sold at 20c and 25c per basket. Apples were plentiful at 60c to 90c per bag. A large load of apples of the Baldwin variety were offered in barrels at $1 50. They were a fair sample. A few choice hand-picked apples sold at $2 and $2 25 per barrel. Chestnuts quiet, but selling at $3 to $3 25 per bu; some dealers ask 56 lbs for the bu, others take 60 lbs per bu.

Potatoes and Vegetables—Potatoes were in fair supply. Citizens will begin to lay in their winter supply. We don't think that the prices will be lower than 60c to 60c per bu. Onions sold at 60c to 70c per bu. Other vegetables as quoted.

Poultry—A lot offered; no change in prices from those quoted.

Dressed Hogs—Quite a lot in; selling mostly at $8 per cwt; a few sold at $8 25.

Live Hogs—Mr. D. McIntyre will pay $5 75 per cwt for choice hogs from here on Monday next. Prices are looking weak and may still go lower.

LIVE STOCK MARKETS.

TORONTO, Oct. 18.—There was practically no change in the conditions of the cattle market today, except as to hogs, which have now dropped to the level $6 mark for the best selections, and $5 75 for lights. Export cattle do not seem to be wanted bad enough to stimulate bidding for the poor quality of cattle offered. Very little was sold today over $4 50 to $4 60. Good butcher cattle are inquired for, but the supply of the right kind is still very limited. There is, however, plenty of common butchers and light stockers. Feeders and heavy export bulls sell well. Sheep and lambs sold out. Prospects are steady. The total run for today was 78 loads, with 893 cattle, 1,527 sheep and lambs, 1,937 hogs and 20 calves. Wesley Dunn bought 450 lambs at $3 55; sheep at $3 10; calves at $7 each. T. Halligan bought a load of common butchers and stockers, about 850 lbs, at $2 75; a load of mixed shippers and feeders, about 1,160 lbs, at $4; a lot of 14 butcher calves, 1,050 lbs, at $29 each. Crawford & Hunnisett sold exporters, about 1,250 lbs, at $4 50; butchers' cattle, $3 50 to $3 75; choice, $4. J. Collins bought butcher cattle at $3 to $3 50.

SCHOONER SUNK!

Had $25,000 to $100,000 of Venezuelan Government's Money on Board.

Willemstead, Island of Curacoa, Oct. 18.—A fishing schooner, which arrived here today from Aruba Island, northwest of Curacoa, brings the story that the Arends, a Venezuelan schooner, bound from Laguayara for Maracaibo, carrying a sum of money from the government, destined to pay the troops of the frontier (the amount being variously estimated from $25,000 to $100,000), encountered heavy weather last Sunday night off Aruba Island, and foundered in deep water, the entire sum being lost. The crew, according to the story, reached the island in a boat. Foul play is suspected.

It Is What You Need

Paine's Celery Compound

CURED MR. J. BEECHINOR, OF SHILOH, ONT., OF RHEUMATISM AND SCIATICA.

It Matters Not How Serious Your Troubles Are, the Great Compound Will Permanently Cure You.

Autumn months bring rapid weather changes, disastrous to all who suffer from rheumatism. Pains and tortures increase seven-fold, and death reaps his harvest from the ranks of rheumatics at this season.

If you are a sufferer from any form of rheumatism, cast aside the medicines you have too long experimented with and test the virtues of Paine's Celery Compound, that great specific for rheumatism that has worked such marvelous cures in all parts of our Dominion. Mr. Beechinor, permanently cured after five years of suffering, urges the afflicted to use the remedy that saved his life. He says:

"For five years I suffered from sciatica and rheumatism, at times being so bad that I could not walk or put my hand to my mouth. If I attempted to do any work I would be crippled for weeks. I took medical treatment, patent medicines, Turkish and mineral baths, but all failed to meet my case. I tried Paine's Celery Compound, and after using six bottles I feel like a new man, and can do a hard day's work and feel none the worse for it. I have also gained in weight, and can truly say I am permanently cured."

COAL CARRYING RATES.

Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 19.—At a meeting of the Ohio Coal Traffic Association here, followed by a meeting of the traffic officers of all coal-carrying lines that do shipping to the lakes, it was decided to maintain rates absolutely on fuel coal. The decision was based upon the universal statement that coal traffic is now only limited by transportation facilities.

A Hamilton druggist sells the well known Dyspepsia Remedy.

At McCurdie's Pharmacy, Hamilton, Ont., the young man who had sold a package of Hutch Tablets to a customer, and was asked whether there was much demand for them said:

"There is nothing in the store which sells as well as Hutch Tablets do. The demand is as steady as for anything we carry in stock."

When asked who seemed to be the best patrons for it, he replied that "Young and old, male and female, seem to buy them. In fact they seem to be in general demand. The advertisements seem to create the demand, but their merits back it up. The demand is constant and is constantly increasing. We buy them in hundred dollar lots, and a hundred dollars worth only lasts a short time." Hutch is sold by all druggists or 200 sent for $1 by The Woodward Chemical Company, Buffalo and Toronto.

FREE AND EASY expectoration immediately relieves and frees the throat and lungs from viscid phlegm, and a medicine that promotes this is the best medicine for coughs, colds, inflammation of the lungs and all affections of the throat and chest. This is precisely what Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup is a specific for, and wherever used it has given unbounded satisfaction. Children like it because it is pleasant, adults like it because it relieves and cures the disease.

BASE FOR BOERS

O'Beirne Thinks Delagoa Bay May Yet Be Secured—British Trying to Hem In Burgher Invaders of Cape Colony.

Washington, Oct. 18.—Gen. Jas. R. O'Beirne, of New York, special representative of the Boer Government in this country, was one of the president's caller's today, but did not speak to him about the Boer situation. He will seek, however, to go over the situation informally with the secretary of state in the hope that some steps may be taken on the part of the United States either by a tender of good offices or by an expression of a desire that hostilities cease, to bring about a settlement of the war in South Africa. Gen. O'Beirne says his latest advices indicate that the Boers may be able to secure Delagoa Bay and make it a base of operations.

CANADIAN CASUALTIES.

Ottawa, Oct. 18.—The militia department has received a cable from Hon. Joseph Chamberlain stating that Richard Douglas Muir was wounded in the arm at Reitpont, on Oct. 10, and Frank Nott was dangerously ill of enteric fever at Elandsfontein, Oct. 12. Muir is from MacGregor, Manitoba, and Nott is from Port Perry, Ont.

The following dispatch was received by the governor-general from Joseph Chamberlain: "London, Oct. 18.—Please inform H. Tunstead, 698 St. Patrick street, Ottawa, that H. Tunstead is reported missing—Jagersfontein Drift, 12th Oct. (Signed) Chamberlain." Henry Tunstead, of Ottawa, enlisted in the South African constabulary in February last, and has been serving in the field. His father, Henry Tunstead, of St. Patrick street, has been notified by the militia department, in accordance with the colonial secretary's request.

BRITISH SUCCESSES.

Pretoria, Oct. 18.—Several British successes are reported in the Orange River Colony. Gen. DeLisle, who is north of Harrismith, took fifteen prisoners and a large number of cattle. Twenty prisoners and 200 refugees have been brought to Clerksdorp. They were gathered during a march from Kroonstad.

Generals Remington and Rawlinson are working in conjunction near Villiersdorp. Gen. Rawlinson attacked the Westhuizen commando, and the Boers, in retiring, ran into General Remington's command. Three of the burghers were killed and thirteen captured. Thirty rifles, a number of wagons and carts, and much live stock were also captured. General Rawlinson captured a few wagons and a considerable number of cattle.

A number of British columns are operating in all the districts of the Orange River Colony. They are giving the Boers no rest, and are gathering in stock and grain and a few prisoners. Reconnoitering parties are continually sent in all directions. They occasionally locate a few Boers, who gallop off when discovered. They then hide and snipe the British as they are returning from their hard marches. The columns are passing through a difficult country in the southeastern part of the colony. They have found that the Boers have deserted their farms, taking everything possible with them, and are hiding in the mountains.

Five extra trucks weekly have been allotted to bring frozen meat to Bloemfontein.

THE CAPITAL SURPRISED

Citizens of Ottawa Have Never Seen Anything to Equal the Case of Sam Cassidy.

Ottawa, Ont., Oct. 14.—(Special.)—Samuel A. Cassidy, a well-known citizen of this city, had Stone in the Kidney, and the pain he has endured would drive most men crazy. Words cannot describe it.

He tried everything in his efforts to get relief, but nothing seemed to have the slightest effect until he used Dodd's Kidney Pills. They cured him completely, and he is so grateful that he has written and published in the Ottawa Citizen a letter of thanks to Dodd's Kidney Pills, in which he says: "I feel the greatest gratitude to Dodd's Kidney Pills, for they have cured me of this dreadful disease. This is the first year in a great many years that I have not been confined to my bed."

THEY NEVER KNEW FAILURE.—Careful observation of the effects of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills has shown that they act immediately upon the diseased organs of the system, and stimulate them to healthy action. There may be cases in which the disease has been long seated and does not easily yield to medicine, but even in these cases these pills have been known to bring relief when all other so-called remedies have failed. These assertions can be substantiated by many who have used the pills, and medical men speak highly of their qualities.

Letters to the Editor

CAN THE BOGUS PETITION BE RATIFIED.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

With your kind permission, I would like to call the attention of the 75 property owners on King street, who are interested in the proposed tar-macadam roadway and who signed the petition asking that the bylaw be not passed this year, to the scant justice accorded that petition by the board whom we elect, supposedly, to carry out the wishes of the electors. However, one good result came out of the discussion of the petition, which was that the council decided, before finally committing themselves to passing the bylaw, to get a written opinion from the city solicitor as to the validity of the original petition. Some of the aldermen did not wish to pass the bylaw on the verbal report of the chairman of No. 2 committee on what the city solicitor said about the legality of the first petition with the bogus names on it. It seems rather strange that the aldermen did not notice that Ald. Winnett, in his zeal for his pet scheme of tar-macadam, exceeded his instructions, which were to find out from the solicitor "where they were at" as to the first petition. When he learned from the solicitor that the first petition was no good, he induced our legal representative to concoct a document legalizing the bogus names, without any instructions from the council. We can hardly call this a disinterested piece of work on the part of the solicitor and the alderman concerned. What I want to call attention to, particularly, is the forthcoming written report of the solicitor on the original petition, to be read at next Monday's meeting of the council. There will be some side wind raised, probably, for the solicitor knows that the five bogus names cannot be ratified, when, in the words of the bylaw, "they raise a duty for others." If Ald. Winnett's document, with the five signatures only, implicated the signers, it would be legal, but as the legalizing of that instrument implicates all the rest of us, it is void—that is common sense as well as law. Thus, we think, that Mr. Meredith will not put in black and white for the council an opinion that he knows would be so easily upset in any court of law. Yours truly,

J. H. McMECHAN.

POPULAR CONCERT COURSE.

The sixth annual popular concert course at the Auditorium will undoubtedly prove once more as good as its name, and be one of the most popular lines of entertainment in the city this season. The public are assured of the excellence of the entertainers who will appear before them, as the Central Lyceum Bureau, which books the attractions of the courses, has made a reputation for supplying only the best and most refined representatives in their respective lines. The course opens on Friday evening next, Oct. 25, with the Bostelmann string quartet, a rare combination of artists, whose work is second to no other quartet in America. The second number will appear on Friday, Nov. 8, when the Johnson Swiss Bell Ringers, and the Asetcean trio will furnish a programme rarely equaled here for attractiveness. On Friday, Nov. 29, W. J. Clarke, of New York, will lecture on modern scientific wonders, accompanying it with demonstrations of the properties and possibilities of wireless telegraphy, liquid air and other marvels of recent discovery. Melvin Robinson, character impersonator, will appear on Friday, Dec. 13, and himself present an entire play, impersonating from six to twelve different and widely diverse characters. The attraction for New Year's Day is the Hungarian Gipsy Orchestra, an assemblage of nine musicians, who cannot fail to delight lovers of orchestral music. The Wilson-Frye Combination, in a new and novel costumed entertainment, "Our Friends from the Country," will appear on Friday night, Jan. 31. Ritchie's unique entertainment will furnish an evening of magic, mirth and music on Friday, Feb. 14, including Ritchie's exposition of levitation, a wonderful illusion in which a human being is suspended in midair with absolutely no apparent support. The Wesleyan Male Quartet, whose repertoire includes over 100 quartets and songs, are the attraction for Monday night, Feb. 24. One of the numbers of the course which will attract wide attention is the engagement for Friday evening, March 14, of Mr. Elbert Hubbard "Fra Elbertus"), editor of "The Philistine," and chief of the Roycrofters, of East Aurora, N. Y. Mr. Hubbard will lecture on "The Work of the Roycrofters," and the interest in them aroused by Mr. Hubbard's writings, as well as his much-discussed personality, should prove a strong drawing-card. The course will close on Friday, April 4, with the presentation of the Grand Concert Company, composed of Miss Sibyl Sammis, soprano, Mr. Edwin M. Shonert, pianist, and Mr. George H. Downing, baritone, all artists who have made names for themselves in the musical world. The tickets for the course are now being issued, and the indications are that the sale will be as large this year as last, when every ticket was taken.

TONIGHT AT THE LONDON.

"The American Girl," which plays a return engagement at the London Opera House tonight, will be remembered by those who witnessed it last year as a most entertaining comedy-drama. While Geo. F. Hall, one of its principals, is one of the best comedians who ever stepped on the stage of the London Opera House, associated with him is Miss Frankie St. John, in a fetching soubrette role. Other members of the capable company who will interpret the play are little Missses Gracie Russell and Daisy Stampe, clever children, who will prove their ability to carry a large portion of the evening's entertainment on their tiny shoulders.

THE DEEMSTER.

Hall Caine's first writings for the public were done in the Isle of Man, at the age of 16, where he had gone to recruit his health at the house of his uncle, the schoolmaster at Kirk Maughold. From small beginning in journalism he has reached high eminance as a novelist and dramatist, and among his greatest successes must be regarded "The Deemster" which will receive its initial production in this city at the New Grand on Tuesday evening, the 22nd inst. The company is said to be a most capable one, and great things are promised in the way of scenery, etc.

"HEART AND SWORD."

Mr. Walker Whiteside, in his great romantic comedy success, "Heart and Sword," under direction of Shipman Bros., is to be seen in this city at the New Grand on Thursday, Oct. 24, and a performance possessing many elements of rare worth will be given. Nothing which might be done to make this production one of the very best of the season has been left undone, and the result will be an enjoyable creation. Mr. Whiteside will be seen as Prince Victor and Miss Lelia Wolstan will be seen in the leading female role, Princess Sylvia. The other parts are in the keeping of capable actors.

"THE CHAPERONS" IS MUSICAL.

At the New Grand for one night, Monday, Oct. 28, will be given the latest operatic success, "The Chaperons," under the direction of Frank L. Perley. The company is one of the largest en route, numbering nearly 100 people, and carrying its own orchestra and scenery. "The Chaperons" has an atmosphere of Bohemia, and the papers of the cities in which it has been produced say it is among the brightest of all the modern musical comedies. It breathes the air of the Parisian Latin Quarter, where art students from all parts of the world live in a little Bohemia of their own. The story is a fascinating narrative of the doings of a party of American girls who are traveling abroad without a chaperon. The subject permits of a charming musical setting, which Isidore Witmark, the composer, has furnished in his bright, tuneful numbers.

AN INTERNAL REMEDY.

A Pleasant Tasting Tablet; Simple Convenient; Cures Every Form of Catarrh.

The use of inhalers, douches, sprays, salves and powders for catarrh is a nuisance and inconvenience at the best, and cannot compare with antiseptic remedies in tablet form for internal use.

Internal remedies are the only ones which can really reach the seat of the disease which is in the blood and local applications can no more cure catarrh than rheumatism or kidney trouble, the excessive secretion in nose and throat being local manifestations of a deep-seated poison in the blood.

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, the most successful of the various internal remedies, is composed principally of highly concentrated antiseptics, which destroy the catarrh germs in the blood and causes them to be eliminated through the natural channels.

Progressive physicians use and advise Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, because they contain no cocaine, no opiate, no enervating drug whatever, but are composed of Guaiacol, Hydrastin, Red Gum and similar catarrh antiseptics, and are so safe and pleasant that even little children my use them with excellent results.

Catarrh sufferers who have wasted time and money on local applications should not dispair of a radical cure until a trial of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets has been made.

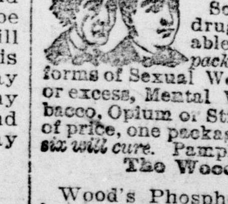

A complete treatment may be purchased at any drug store for 50 cents.

AS IN LONDON'S CASE

Ruling of Mr. Justice Street Re Toronto School Board's Financial Action.

Toronto, Oct. 19.—Mr. Justice Street this morning handed out judgment in the notable case in which the public school board sought to force the city council to supply funds to pay the salaries of 550 teachers at an increased rate. He decided that the resolution of the school board of March last, making special salary increases is invalid. The net result is that of $63,000 claimed by the board and disallowed by council, the judge grants only $24,000.

The judgment is similar to that in the London case last summer.

A prominent official on the L. E. and D. R. R. gives it as his opinion that Wigle got into fast company in Detroit, and when unable to meet his obligations, gathered up all the money he could lay hands on and departed. Wigle is said to be in Chicago.

A BASTARD'S DEED.

Hamilton, Oct. 19.—At the fall assizes Thursday afternoon Chief Justice Falconbridge and a jury heard the details of a pitiable seduction case. Carnegie vs. Wilson was the action, and the defendant, James Wilson, was conspicuous by his absence. The victim of the defendant's wiles is Jennie Carnegie, and the unfortunate young woman, although pretty, is totally deaf and almost totally blind. She first met Wilson in July, 1899, and has a child as the result of her acquaintance with him. Wilson was arrested on a charge of criminal assault some months ago, but on his case reaching the grand jury it was thrown out then the seduction suit was begun. The jury returned a verdict for the plaintiff for $1,000. No defense was offered. In commenting on the case his lordship said it was one of the saddest in his experience.

LITTLE BOY DIES FROM A FALL.

Chatham, Oct. 18.—Last night a number of boys were playing hide-an-seek around some lumber piles. David Boyce, the young son of Alfred Knott, superintendent for Wm. Gray & Sons, was with them, and in climbing along a pile he fell, striking his side on one plank and his head on the corner of another. He fell about eight feet, but got up and started for home, crying. He seemed all right until about 8:30, when he took convulsions and died about 10:30. The child, who was only 7 years old, had just recovered from eight weeks' illness with typhoid.

RUFFIANISM IN CHICAGO.

The Chicago Journal gives the following details of the assault on Mrs. L. L. Somers (nee Eva Brodlique, formerly of this city) which was referred to in yesterday's Advertiser: Before Mrs. L. L. Somers, wife of a mining engineer of Denver, had walked 100 feet from an Indiana avenue car at 7 o'clock last night she was choked, beaten and robbed by a negro in Twenty-first street. Her purse, containing $60, was taken from her, and she is in a state of nervous collapse as a result of the assault. Mrs. Somers was on her way to the residence of Mrs. Anna M. White, 2,101 Calumet avenue, where she was to take dinner. As she started east on Twenty-first street the negro sprang from the weeds, grabbing her by the neck and threatened to kill her if she made an outcry. Despite this threat she tried to call for help, when the ruffian placed his knee on her chest and wrested her pocketbook from her grasp. Leaving her almost unconscious the negro made his escape. Mrs. Somers dragged herself to the house of her friend, but collapsed on the steps. Half an hour after she was found there by Mrs. White, who called a cab and had her taken to the Newbury Hotel, where Mrs. Somers is staying with friends. The police were notified of the case immediately, but they did not respond until eleven o'clock, when an officer called, asked some questions, and left. The assailant has not been arrested.

CITY MAY DONATE CUP OR CASH GRANT

To the Prize List of the 7th Regiment Rifle Association.

Ald. Cronyn last night discussed informally with the members of No. 1 committee the donation by the city of a cup to be competed for at the annual match of the 7th Regiment Rifle Association, or a small money grant to be added to the prize list. The members present were not unfavorable to the suggestion, and it will probably be mentioned in council. At present about $400 is raised each year to be given in prizes, being made up of the government grant, the members' entry fees, cash donations by the officers, and donations in goods and cash by friends of the regiment. The officers and members of the association hardly like to appeal to the general public for funds, but they think that if the council should make a small grant of $50 or $100 the citizens would not object, and the members of the regiment would be greatly encouraged.

CASHMERE DAM IS BEING REMOVED

Face of the Dam Taken Away and Filling Is Being Lifted.

Fishery Overseer Frank McVean, who has just returned from an inspection trip down the river, says that the famous Cashmere dam will soon be a thing of the past. The wooden face of the dam has been removed, and the filling of brush, logs and bark which extends back several hundred feet, is being taken away. Doram Everingham, owner of the dam, is evidently reluctant to see the last of it, but he will not receive the government's purchase money until it has been totally removed.

IMPRESSIVE SCENES!

Arrival of the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall at Halifax—A Brilliant Reception.

Halifax, N. S., Oct. 19.—Amid the booming of hundreds of guns on war ships, forts and citadel, Prince George Duke of Cornwall and his royal consort entered the military city of Halifax today. The scene was brilliant and impressive. The weather was perfect. The governor-general's train arrived sharp on time, as did the royal train. The royal party was met by Lieut.-Governor Jones McIntyre, of Prince Edward Island, Mayor Hamilton, Mayor Warbarton, of Charlottetown, Col. Biscoe, Lieut.-Col. Irving, Admiral Bedford, and other notabies, and escorted to a stand in front of the station, where addresses were presented. The firing of a royal salute fairly made the old town shake. It was the first time in its history that the guns of twelve warships and the forts and batteries were working at the same time. The procession was magnificent and the crowds were very enthusiastic. The duke laid the cornerstone of the soldiers' monument at the provincial building. The big review will take place this afternoon.

LIKE UNTO THAT OF THE DUCHESS

An Upright Piano Similar to That on the Royal Train Goes to Rossland, B.C.

Mr. J. B. Johnson, of Rossland, B.C., one of the successful men of the West when in Toronto a fortnight ago purchased from the old firm of Heintzman & Co. a beautiful upright piano, in blistered walnut and classic design. This instrument is similar in style to the piano on the royal train, specially made for the duke and duchess by this well-known firm. It is made with bent back and tonal chambers, that is now a feature of the high-class uprights made by Heintzman & Co. The back of the case, in place of being of solid wood, is built up of different thin layers of wood, and making one continuous whole, after the style of the grand pianos. The help this is to the acoustic properties of the piano is appreciated by every musician, giving the pianos a beautiful clear tone, and fine singing quality, void of any harshness, refined, and yet of very great power. This piano is on the Heintzman & Co. lists at $1,050, and is believed to be the finest upright piano sent into Rossland. It is for Mr. Johnston's personal use, in his beautiful home. London warerooms of Heintzman & Co. are at 217 Dundas street.

Perfect Cure for Bronchitis

This disease can be treated only by a remedy carried to the affected parts along with the air breathed, for nature intended these organs for the passage of air alone, and sprays, atomizers and internal medicines utterly fail. But Catarrhozone doesn't fail, for it goes wherever the air breathed goes, and its healing, antiseptic vapor is sure to reach every affected part. Catarrhozone is inhaled at the mouth, and after passing through every air cell of the breathing organs is slowly exhaled through the nostrils. Catarrhozone protects and heals the inflamed surfaces, relieves congestion, allays inflammation, and perfectly cures all bronchial affections. Price, $1; small size, 25c. ELSIE.

"Don't talk to me," she said, "about earning money. "How is a girl to learn? Teach? Bah! I don't know anything except French, and how much should I earn, I wonder, if I began to teach that? A hundred a year, perhaps, if I taught it from morning till night. Have I a gift of any sort? I can't sing, and I can't act; if you can sing or act, of course you can earn as much—almost as much—as if you have luck at rouge et noir. But you have to work precious hard, and I hate hard work. I have no voice; and as for acting, I like to see a good play, but I could never act in one. How do you mean to make a fortune, eh? Do you mean to marry a rich man—a lord or something—like that horrible Pauline? I suppose you think yourself pretty enough to do that, but, bless you, somebody will prevent it. First a mother, then a guardian, then the rich young man changes his mind. It's happened half a dozen times with Pauline. She nearly caught a Russian count once, rich enough, she said, to buy up an English county town. He was ugly and savage; wouldn't have minded getting a woman or man stoned to death if they had displeased him. Pauline lost him through an actress just as he had asked Miss Bracegirdle what color she would like her wedding dress to be of. He had brutal taste and wished her to be married in crimson velvet spangled with gold. Well, just as she had told him in her decietful, smiling way, that she liked ivory satin and real ivy leaves with white clematis, and he had stared and growled, he took her to the theater—this was in Vienna—(we have lived everywhere), and there was a Pole—a girl—acting. She had wonderful eyes or something—I don't know what it was—but her acting or her eyes turned his head, and he went straight after that girl and asked her to marry him, and she did, though she was engaged to a young Italian musician, and he went away and leaped into the Danube and was drowned; but the Polish girl married Pauline's rich count. He sent her a couple of hundred pounds and a great pearl necklace with a diamond clasp. Have you seen it?"

"Yes," Elsie answered, shortly. She well remembered the tale Pauline had told the countess of the necklace having been given to her by a Russian princess.

"Well, you see," pursued Clara, "she didn't get him. However handsome you may be," continued this very philosophical young lady, "there is certain to be somebody still handsomer, so it's of no use; and I am quite contented to be an ugly girl. I am never disappointed. I never expect men to smirk at me or talk nonsense to me as if I were a baby. When I marry it will be to some young fellow like myself, with no nonsense about him and lots of cash. Some day I shall meet him—I am positive I shall; and he will like me—shabby gloves and all. Look here!" and she held a pair of verry ragged gloves towards Elsie, who felt too indignant with Clara and her connections to laugh or even smile.

Mrs. Bracegirdle had not been able to keep up with the young girls' swift steps. They had entered the gardens of the Tuileries and were walking between the beds already aglow with lovely spring flowers. Golden and purple crocuses, blue and white hyacinths and scarlet and yellow tulips made the borders brilliant. The sun shone; the little tame sparrows came in flocks upon the paths, begging in their fashion for bread-crumbs. Children with their dolls, and hoops, and balls—dark-eyed French children, attended by their bonnes—were to be seen on all sides.

Clara glanced aresund contemptuously. "This is supposed to be sufficient amusement for me and for my mother to come here and watch these sparrows and these babies. When Pauline is at home her father hires a carriage and takes her to drive in the Bois; and at night a theater, unless she sits in the room where he and his friends play; and before they begin they have delightful little suppers. Tell me honestly, do you think Pauline will marry this English lord, or is it all a trick to make her father send her money and dresses?"

"I don't know, Miss Clara. I can't tell what your sister will do. I only wish I could learn the truth about my father, and get away to him or to England."

Clara shrugged her shoulders.

"I don't know if they are telling you the truth or not," she said. "I have never seen your father. Of course he may have gone to the other address which Captain Bracegirdle has in the Rue Montmartre, and he may have been ill there, but I don't believe it much."

"Then," said Elsie, "for goodness sake give me a franc, that I may buy paper, envelope, pen and ink, and also have enough to buy a stamp; then I will write to Miss Phillipson, my governess, and ask her to send me a little money to pay for my return to England."

"You had better wait," said Clara. "Something will be sure to turn up. Something always does turn up if one waits."

Just then Elsie caught sight of a face that she knew well—a tall, distinguished-looking man, wearing a suit of English tweed, who was pacing along by the side of the flower-beds as if he waiting for somebody. Elsie pushed away the arm of Clara, which that young lady had linked within her own, and rushed toward the stranger eagerly.

"No stranger to her it seems," said sharp Miss Clara to herself.

As for Elsie, she stood in the pathway right in front of the gentleman, who seemed lost in reverie. He started at sight of her.

"Good heavens! Miss Carew. I was told that you were married and had gone to America!"

"You see that I am here, Mr. Byrne. And I wonder whom I am married to? I have not spoken to anyone but the Bracegirdles since I have been in Paris."

"The Bracegirdles!" echoed Basil.

He looked up astounded, for there stood shabby young Clara, defiant and authoritative, close to Elsie's side. She supposed that she must prevent her from talking to strangers, she hardly knew why.

"I want to get away," said Elsie, speaking in loud, excited tones; "and, now that I have met you, I know you will lend me money, Mr. Byrne, to return to England to Miss Phillipson. I have had to lend every farthing of my money to Mrs. Bracegirdle, so that I could not get a stamp, a sheet of paper, or an envelope to write to anyone."

"You can't leave us like this, Miss Carew," said Clara. "Your father will be fearfully angry."

CHAPTER XXIV.

"This young lady's father," said Basil, alluding to Elsie, and taking off his hat with a half-ironical politeness to Clara, "is in New York. I only heard from him yesterday. He is in profound ignorance of the proceedings of his daughter."

"You may say that," cried Clara, defiant and half afraid at the same time, "but I don't believe you! Mr. Carew is at Fontainebleau, at the Hotel Roi des Indes."

"There is no hotel there of that name, young lady," replied Basil. "I can prove that Mr. Carew is in New York. And now tell me, Miss Carew, how is it I find you living with people against your will?"

"You were at Charteris," she said, in breathless eagerness, "the night that a telegram came calling me to Paris to attend the deathbed of my father."

"Yes, I was at Charteris, and I remember being struck with the peculiarity of the news, because I had heard only the day before from New York from a friend, who mentioned having met Cornelius Carew at a dinner party in Fifth avenue. I did not hear that you were gone until quite late in the evening, for I daresay you remember that there was a great crowd of visitors at Charteris. When I heard it I said: 'That is odd! Her father was in New York a fortnight ago.' And then the very next day I was summoned off to London on business, and I have not been near Charteris since. However, I had a letter from the countess only the day before yesterday. In this she says 'Little Miss Carew, who looked so young and childish, is married to an American gentleman and has sailed for New York.'"

"Oh, take me away, Mr. Byrne! there is a plot—a cruel plot! These people tell me that my father is at Fontainebleau, living under an alias for political reasons. He never sent the telegram summoning me to his dying bed. There was no dying bed; he was well and alive in New York, and I have been held here a prisoner for weeks and weeks."

Elsie's eyes were full of tears; there was a bright pink spot on each of her cheeks. She looked pretty enough to make a man do and dare a great deal for her sake.

"Be content, Miss Carew. I have friends in Paris; I will place you with them, and you shall return to England in a day or two."

By this time Mrs. Bracegirdle had arrived on the scene. She was as pale as ashes, her eyes wide opened in amaze. She was almost breathless, and she gasped with excitement. She dreaded to return to her husband and tell him that she had allowed Elsie to be carried off.

"It is quite impossible," she said. "I will not allow you, a gentleman and a stranger, to take this young lady from under my care! It is a most improper proceeding."

Basil Byrne hesitated; he had not thought of the proprieties until this moment.

"Certainly," he said, "that might look improper until it was explained; but you shall come also. You shall not give up the care of Miss Carew until you place her in the charge of a lady. Come, if you please. I am quite determined, and so is Miss Carew, that she will not remain under your roof. You have deceived her about her father, and you have sent her a false telegram. You know what your motives were, but you had better allow her to return to England without making any fuss."

GOLF.

TRAVIS A GREAT PLAYER.

New York, Oct. 19.—Walter Travis, the amateur golf champion, once more demonstrated yesterday at the Westbrook golf club that he was on the top of his game. A gale swept across the links and made record golfing impossibility. His opponent in the semi-finals was John M. Ward, of the Foxhill golf club, and formerly famous in professional baseball. They halved three holes; then Ward, by a lucky drive, stole the fourth hole of 145 yards in 2 to 4. This aroused Travis, and to the end he played out in nearly an average of four. To be exact, in three strokes over four. This was a champion's rate of progress, and Ward, after his lucky fluke, was not able to win a single hole. Travis won by 6 up and 4 to play. The other contestants were Louis Livingston, the club champion, and Charles H. Seeley, of Weeburn, who defeated Travis at Apawamis. Seeley beat Livingston 2 up.

EVIDENCE OF PHYSICIANS

The Value of Medical Testimony Under Discussion.

Dr. MacKinnon, of Guelph, Writes of the Sifton Trial—Mr. E. F. B. Johnston's Opinion.

In a letter addressed to the Toronto Globe, Dr. A. MacKinnon, of Guelph, thus discusses the question of medical evidence in court, his remarks having been suggested by the Sifton case:

"The comments of the press on this subject, almost without exception, are not as fair and reasonable as they should be. If the judge before whom the case was tried is correctly reported, he also dismissed the evidence of the medical men, some of whom are men of culture and ability, by no means inferior to the members of the bar or bench, as worthless.

"If the evidence given was worthless then there must be a serious fault in the way such evidence is obtained. These men are capable, and I believe their motives were pure in every case. It think it may be assumed they wanted to speak only the words of earnest truth. Under existing conditions, are they allowed to do so? They are compelled to answer the questions of the counsel for the crown and for the defense. Clever barristers of long experience in court can frame and do frame questions so that the answers, no matter how honestly or truthfully given, will aid their case. It is not the real opinion of the witness the lawyer wants, but an answer so worded as will bolster up his theory. The present method may be all right so long as the medical man is merely relating facts that are known to him professionally, but when an expert opinion is required it is in the last degree useless.

"Neither the crown nor the defense should be allowed to summon medical men to give expert opinion. A wiser plan would be, out of a number of medical men of good standing and recognized ability, the judge in any case requiring it could call to his assistance one or more, with whom he could confer. In this way, justice might receive real assistance from professional opinion.

"Yet, after all, in this trial, was the medical evidence furnished by the crown and by the defense so very contradictory? In one very important particular they all agreed, viz., that if the evidence given by Herbert were true the skull would have been smashed in on all sides. As the skull was found not so crushed, and only fractured, it proved conclusively that in this part of his evidence at least Herbert gave false evidence.

"Had these medical men seen the head the day the injuries were received, and had they seen the place where the fall is alleged to have occurred, they could then say with some degree of certainty whether by such a fall these injuries could have been produced. None but Dr. McNeil had that opportunity. It has become quite the fashion for the press to speak of doctors contradicting each other in evidence. I will venture this assertion: Let any twenty editors or twenty judges or barristers or clerical gentlemen, be compelled, to appear in an open court to give their opinions in answer to the questions of clever barristers, and I am sure the result will show that contradictory opinions do not by any means belong exclusively to the medical profession."

MR. JOHNSTON'S OPINION.

Toronto Globe: The value of medical expert testimony has been a fruitful source of discussion among medical practitioners since the trial of the Sifton case at London, and since the great battle of medical evidence many expressions have been pressed pro and con, regarding the stand taken by several Toronto doctors in the case.

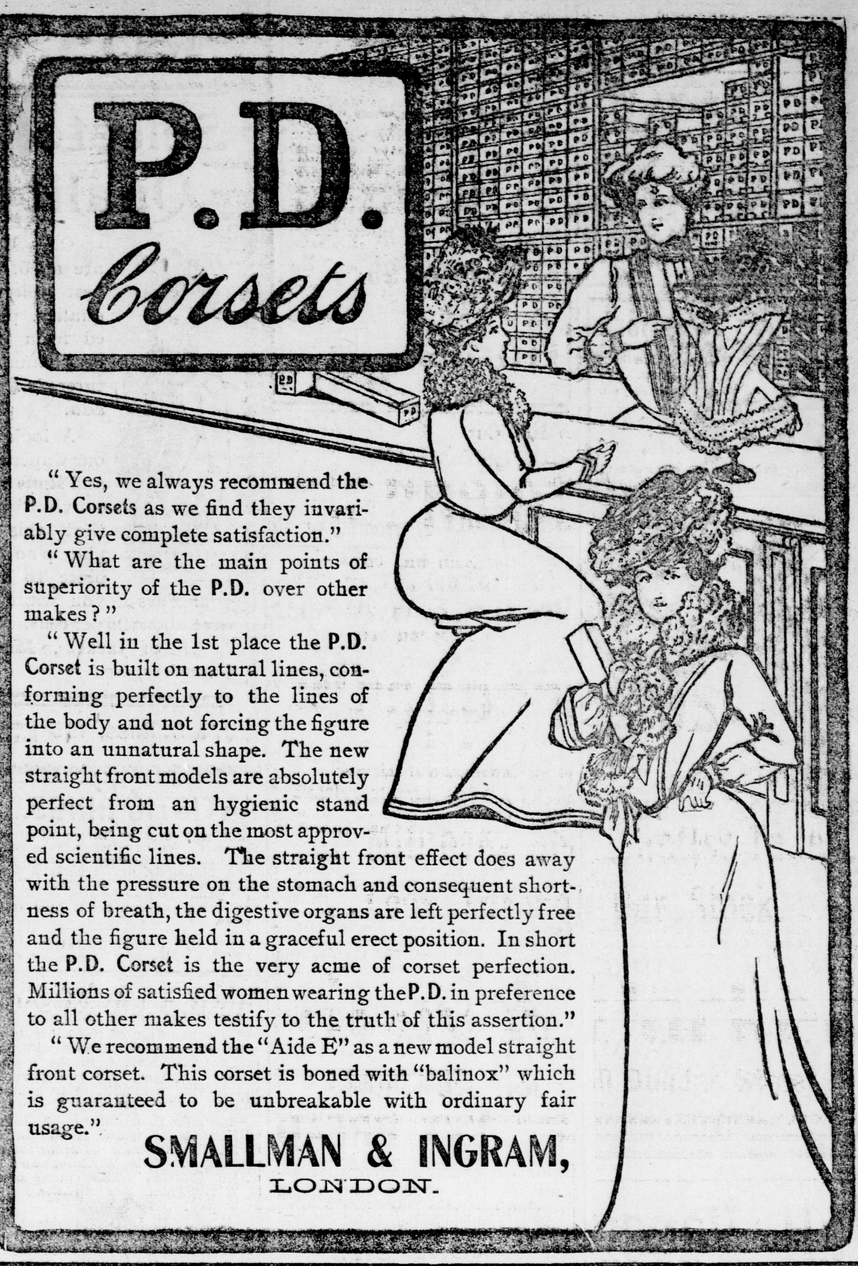

Mr. E. F. B. Johnston, K.C., leading counsel for the defense in the Sifton case, said yesterday that an explanation ought to be given in justice to the medical expert witnesses called for the crown as well as for the defense. "It seems singular," said Mr. Johnston, "that writers should not comment upon other expert testimony. What about handwriting? What about the commonest kind of expert testimony, namely, whether a machine is properly guarded or whether it is defective? You find honest and competent mechanical experts every day giving evidence and differing amongst themselves with regard to these points and upon a state of facts which ought to furnish a much better ground for united opinion than the condition which is usually presented to the medical expert. However, I do not wish to argue the question of medical testimony, but I think you ought to correct the general impression that, in the Sifton case, his lordship, Mr. Justice MacMahon, told the jury they could throw out the whole medical testimony and pay no attention to it. His lordship neither meant nor said any such thing, and I am sure he has too high a regard for the medical profession, and is too able and careful a judge to make any such sweeping statement with the innuendo attached to it by the press. What his lordship did say to the jury was: 'If you are satisfied in your own mind, beyond reasonable doubt, that Herbert struck the first blow with the axe, then the medical testimony is of no consequence, and you need pay no attention to the medical witnesses called for either side.'

"This changes the whole character of the statement," continued Mr. Johnston, "because if Herbert struck the first blow, there was guilt, and no opinion evidence could be of value against the fact if proved. His lordship was particularly clear upon this point."

A GIFT OF 500 ACRES

Would be no temptation to Mr. Beemer in exchange for Dr. Agnew's Ointment. Itching Piles of seven years standing took to themselves wings after a few applications.

Mr. M. Beemer, of Knotmaul, Mich., says in a letter of recent date:—"I have had Itching Piles for seven years. I have tried most everything that was ever recommended as a cure but never got the least bit of relief until I used Dr. Agnew's Ointment, and I haven't words to express the thankfulness I feel for the great cure. I would rather have the wonderful cure than 500 acres of land. 35 cents. 23

P.D. Corsets

"Yes, we always recommend the P.D. Corsets as we find they invariably give complete satisfaction."

"What are the main points of superiority of the P.D. over other makes?"

"Well in the 1st place the P.D. Corset is built on natural lines, conforming perfectly to the lines of the body and not forcing the figure into an unnatural shape. The new straight front models are absolutely perfect from an hygienic stand point, being cut on the most approved scientific lines. The straight front effect does away with the pressure on the stomach and consequent shortness of breath, the digestive organs are left perfectly free and the figure held in a graceful erect position. In short the P.D. Corset is the very acme of corset perfection. Millions of satisfied women wearing the P.D. in preference to all other makes testify to the truth of this assertion."

"We recommend the "Aide E" as a new model straight front corset. This corset is boned with "balinox" which is guaranteed to be unbreakable with ordinary fair usage."

Skirt binding economy should interest every woman—mere cheapness in price without actual value in quality is not economy.

S. H. & M. skirt bindings may cost a little more in the beginning, but there is a sense of contentment and satisfaction in the knowledge that you have the best, and in the end they are the cheapest of all bindings.

The difference in price is small compared with the annoyance and value of time required to replace ordinary bindings several times during the life of the skirt. S. H. & M. skirt bindings will not need replacing, being so durable as to outwear the skirt. In future buy one of the S. H. & M. make.

METHODIST COURT OF APPEAL.

The Methodist court of appeal met at Toronto on Thursday, with Rev. Dr. Carman in the chair. The matters brought up were an appeal from the Manitoba Conference concerning the legality of meetings called by trustees there, which did not come up in time for consideration; one from London, where the question was raised, whether evangelists and college professors are engaged in "active work," which was dismissed; one from Nova Scotia with regard to the ordination of local preachers, which was dismissed, and one from New Brunswick, which came in too late for argument.

Y. W. C. A. HAPPENINGS.

The past week has been a busy one at the Y. W. C. A. rooms, as this is the beginning time of the year, particularly in the educational department.

Each class opened with an interested circle of young women, and the efforts of the varloos instructors are greatly appreciated. It is believed the enrollment will steadily increase during the coming week.

The Sunday afternoon Gospel service will be in charge of Miss Little at 4:15 p.m. All young women will be most welcome.

The committee is planning something especially interesting for Hallowe'en.

TO REMAIN FOURTH YEAR.

Wingham Advance: A special meeting of the official board of Wingham Methodist Church was held on Wednesday evening to consider the question of supply for the year beginning June, 1902. It was unanimously decided (by ballot) to invite Rev. R. Hobbs (formerly of Askin Street Methodist Church) to remain a fourth year. It was felt that in view of the work he had accomplished, and the present condition of church affairs it would be unwise to change pastors next conference, and the salary for the year commencing June next, was advonced from $1,000 to $1,200. Mr. Hobbs had other invitations, hence the special meeting. The invitation of the board was accepted, subject, of course, to the conference stationing committee."

FOOD CURE.

Results in Change of Diet Are Wonderful.

"Good food, properly selected, will, in my opinion, cure almost any ordinary disease. I want to tell you my experience and my recovery by the selection of the proper diet. I am a businesswoman, very closely confined indoors, with considerable care and anxiety. Some time ago I had a severe case of the grip and after recovering from it, had a serious time following, as many people do.

"I was unable to get well until I changed my diet, leaving off Mocha and Java coffee and using the Postum Food Coffee in its place, and taking up Grape-Nuts Breakfast Food. This winter I have given both a fair and continued trial and the results are suberb. I am restored to perfect health and strength, and as you claim, I have a 'reserve force' bodily and mentally, that carries me through many hard places.

"I cannot praise the food too much, for it will, if used steadily, cure all disturbances of the system caused by the congestions la grippe is answerable for. A dish that contains the most powerful rebuilding elements, can be made as follows: Hot milk brought to a boil, break in two fresh eggs and as soon as the eggs set, pour the boiling milk and eggs over some Grape-Nuts in a soup dish. No breakfast of meat can be so good.

"I use Grape-Nuts in this way every morning and have no sense of lack of food all day. I have kept well and remarkably free from colds all winter, which I attribute to a fine condition of health, brought about by the use of the famous food and of Postum Food Coffee." (Grape-Nuts are perfectly cooked at factory and are usually served cold, with a little cream or milk.) Mrs. C. S. Woodward, 24 Grenada street, St. Augustine, Fla.

HOSPITAL REPORT FOR PAST YEAR

Gratifying Record of Victoria Hospital.

Interesting Extracts From Dr. Balfour's Statistics.

No Quorum Yesterday at Hospital Trust Meeting, Which Adjourns for Three Weeks.

A meeting of the hospital trust was called for yesterday afternoon, but no quorum was obtainable, Mayor Rumball, Mr. T. H. Purdom, K. C., and Mr. James Gilmour, M. P., being absent from the city. Messrs. McCormick and Beck and Superintendent Balfour discussed informally several matters in connection with the hospital and its management. The board will meet on Friday, Nov. 8, unless a special meeting is found necessary in the meantime.

Superintendent Balfour presented his annual report for the year ending Sept. 30, 1901. A perusal of the report will show that it is a most gratifying one. The increases shown are in those particulars where increase was either desirable or uncontrollable, while the same is true of the decreases.

The report shows that the total income for the year just ended is $19,144 95, made up as follows: From the Ontario Government, $3,642 68; from Middlesex county, $3,090 78; from paying patients, $11,973 92; interest on endowment, $437 57. Last year's total was $12,307 73, the items being respectively $2,707 69, $1,776 46, $7,421 16, and $402 42. The excess of income this year over last year is thus $6,837 22.

Maintenance account this year totaled $30,630 06, as against $27,207 48 last year. This increase, however, was accompanied by a corresponding increase in the number of patients, 1,344 being treated this year as compared with 1,119 last year. Of this year's patients, 656 were males, 688 were females. The aggregate stay of patients was 32,570 days this year, while for last year the total was 28,208 days. A decrease of 2 cents per day is noticed in the per diem cost of each patient, this year's figures being 94 cents per day, as against 96 cents last year. The average length of each patient's stay was this year 24.23 days, while last year it was 25.2.

The city contribution to the maintenance account was $12,428 66, but of this amount $1,667 76 was applied to capital account.

Capital expenditure amounted to $1,667 76, made up of $1,480 48 for alterations, additions and repairs to buildings; and $187 30 house furnishings and furniture.

The city of London furnished 521 male and 576 female patients; from Middlesex county 87 males and 54 females; from other counties in Ontario, 41 males and 53 females; from the United States, 4 of each sex, and from all other countries 3 males and 1 female.

The religions of this year's patients are classified as follows: Protestants, 568 males and 637 females; Roman Catholics, 67 males and 41 females; other religions, 21 males and 10 females.

As might be expected the range of diseases and disorders treated was great, embracing every portion of the human body. There were 3 dislocations and 37 fractures of the limbs. Five cases of lead poisoning were treated. Sixty-eight patients were given treatment for bronchitis, while phthisis claimed 29 as its victims. Sixty-two females were treated for diseases and disorders peculiar to women. Of this number there were 22 abortions and 44 cases of parturition. Twenty-four suffered from appendicitis, and there was one case of gunshot wound, the patient being a female.
