"ROGERISM" FOR CANADA? NEVER! SAY S. BRUCE LIBS.

Resolution Condemns Holding Election, But Determines on Action If One Is Held—R. E. Truax Acclaimed Candidate.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
FORMOSA, May 4.—J. A. Mickle, of Chesley, expressed the sentiment of the South Bruce today at the South Bruce convention. "We've got the leaders, we've got the man, R. E. Truax, and we've got the platform."
It was the most enthusiastic of the convention ever held in South Bruce. Every polling subdivision was represented and every delegate was full of fire.
There was but one man mentioned, and no one else thought of, and that was R. E. Truax, the present member.
Archibald McColl, M.P., for Kent, went right at the core of the matter, showed up the acts of the present Government, referred to the speech of "Dole" Rogers, had the Senate not amended the bill to give the soldiers votes it would have given every latitude to corruption. The Liberals had given the Government every support in voting through the $150,000,000.

The Horse Scandal.
Mr. McColl went into detail into the militia department's method of buying army horses. He said that $1,200 to buy these horses and not a cent was to show how he expended the money. It was found there were 172 horses not accounted for. The speaker appealed to the audience to support Sir Wilfrid Laurier and an honest Government.

Truax Deplores Election.
Mr. Truax, who was cheered and cheered on rising, said that although they deplored an election being brought on now while the part of the country was torn with grief the Government would find the Liberals ready, and South Bruce would speak with no uncertain sound.

The Candidate's Record.
Mr. Truax started his political life in 1887 when he was defeated by the late Henry Carling, who had subsequently

SUFFERED FROM BILIOUS HEADACHE At Times Thought She Would Go Mad.

Headaches are one of the most aggravating troubles a person can have. They are many and varying; but when the headache starts you may be sure that there is some other chief cause of this most painful difficulty. The stomach may go wrong, the bowels become constipated, the blood may not circulate properly, but the presence of the headache clearly shows that there is some other baneful disease which is liable to assert itself unless the cause of the headache is removed. Bilious headache, and has also proved itself to be a remedy that cures where all others fail. It does this by removing the cause of the trouble.

Miss Mary A. Roberts, Hampton, N. B., writes: "For about two years I have suffered from bilious headache. At times I thought I would really go mad. Not long ago a friend advised me to try Burdock Blood Bitters, which I did, and after taking three bottles I have never been troubled with any kind of a headache. I think that B.B.B. is one of the wonders of that world. I can easily recommend it to all who suffer from bilious headache."

Burdock Blood Bitters is the oldest and the best-known blood medicine on the market today, and is manufactured only by The T. Milburn Company, Limited, Toronto, Ont.

A STRENGTH, FLESH AND BODY BUILDER FOR SPRING

Run Down, Underweight People Put On Ten to Twenty Pounds of Healthy Flesh.

Most people show a tendency to lose weight in winter. The fat making material in the foods they eat, which at other seasons keep flesh and weight at normal, is partially diverted in cold weather, and, instead of being used to furnish heat for the body, then most of it goes to the liver and easily lost. It is a splendid body builder and flesh producer. It is found in a preparation known as Sargol, which can be found at drug stores everywhere, and which seldom fails to give the user a weight increase of from ten to twenty pounds within a few weeks. Sargol does not cause constipation. It is a small tablet which readily dissolves in the stomach, and, mixing with the fat, produces a soft mass of the food they eat, prepares these flesh-making materials into a form where the blood can easily absorb and distribute them throughout the body. It is really amazing how quickly and easily lost flesh and weight return when Sargol is used with your meals. With returning normal weight comes the return of health, vitality, and you soon feel your old self again. Leading druggists everywhere sell and recommend Sargol, and every package contains a guarantee of weight increase or money back.

Caution.—While Sargol is also widely used for overcoming nervous dyspepsia and general stomach troubles, its action in increasing weight is so practically certain its use is not recommended to those who are not willing to put on ten or more pounds of flesh.

CHINA FORTIFIES PEKIN, CAPITAL

Military Preparations Being Made for Defence of Peking.

FEAR JAP AGGRESSION

Officials Expect Demands Will Be Increased If Campaign Succeeds.

LONDON, May 4.—(10:30 p.m.)—The correspondent of the Central News at Tokyo says in a dispatch received to-night:

"I learn that the cabinet in special session has decided to send an ultimatum to China. The ultimatum will accord a brief time limit for China's compliance with the Japanese demands."

(Canadian Press.)

PEKIN, May 4.—Military preparations are being made for the defence of Peking. According to Chinese officials, whose statements have been corroborated in other circles, the Government is making no preparations elsewhere than at the capital for defence, considering that the Chinese will be unable to oppose the Japanese should they make an attack.
It is asserted in high quarters that 100,000 troops have been concentrated in the environs of Peking, but with sufficient ammunition for only a brief resistance.
Special police and military precautions have been taken throughout the city, especially around the winter palace, where Yuan Shi Kai resides. The officials declare that they are suspicious that the Japanese may attempt a repetition of the Korean coup d'état.

Japs Are Leaving.

The Japanese legation, it is said, notified the Japanese residents yesterday to prepare to leave Peking, and many women and children are reported to be getting ready to depart.
Reports received here from Mukden say the Japanese bank and postoffice there have suspended business, that the Japanese residents have been called to the colors, and that other civilians are concentrating in the railway zone.

It is contended that the Chinese have conceded virtually all the articles contained in the eleven demands made upon them, and enumerated to the Japanese military party, which they profess to believe welcomes the present crisis, will increase the Japanese demands should a successful campaign follow.

On the other hand, it is considered here that Yuan Shi Kai faces calamitous consequences in China if he yields to the Japanese demands. High members of his own Government are said already to have voiced the suspicion that he may accept an alleged offer from Japan of military support and protection for himself against foreign nations and his own people, in return for conceding control of the country, in fact, although not nominally, to Japan.

Britain Considers Retaliatory Acts

H. J. Tennant Intimates Use of Gas May Bring Reward.

LONDON, May 4.—Speaking in the House of Commons this afternoon, H. J. Tennant, parliamentary secretary of the war office, said Great Britain had under consideration the question of employing similar expedients against the use by German troops on the battlefield of asphyxiating gases.
The speaker admitted that as far back as April 6, the officer who is writing from the British front under the pen-name of "Eye-witness" had said the Germans were preparing for this method of attack, but notwithstanding such rumors the British authorities had found it hard to believe that any signatory to the Hague convention would resort to the use of such tactics.
There has been given out in London a report on the use of asphyxiating gases by the Germans from Sir John French, commander-in-chief of the British expeditionary forces on the continent, which reads as follows:
"The gases employed by the Germans have been ejected from pipes laid into trenches. It has been produced also by the explosion of shells especially manufactured for this purpose. German troops who attacked under cover of these gases were provided with especially designed respirators, which were issued in sealed packages to all points on the line. This shows methodical preparation on a large scale."
"A week before the Germans first used this method they announced in their reports that they were making use of asphyxiating gases. At that time, there appeared to be no reason for this astounding falsehood. Now it is obvious that it was part of a scheme, and it is further proof of the deliberate nature of the introduction by the Germans of this new and illegal weapon into the war."
"The effect of this poison is not merely disabling or painlessly fatal, as has been suggested in the German press. Those victims who do not succumb on the field and who can be brought into captivity suffer acutely, and a large proportion of the cases die a painful and lingering death."

POPE CONTRIBUTES TO FRENCH RELIEF FUND

PARIS, May 4.—(7:20 p.m.)—Cardinal Amette, archbishop of Paris, today received a letter from Cardinal Gasparri, the papal secretary of state, announcing a gift of 40,000 francs ($8,000) to the fund for the relief of the invaded departments of the north of France. Cardinal Gasparri, in his letter, after recalling the painful impression which the war has made upon Pope Benedict, adds in part:

"It is natural that the solicitude of the common father turns towards those of his sons manifesting the greatest respect and affection. Among those deserving of particular attention are the sons of France, which always has been called the eldest daughter of the church."

WILL NOT INQUIRE BEYOND CITIZENSHIP

MONTREAL, May 4.—The Grand Trunk Railway Company today issued the following statement:

"The American consul at Kingston, Canada, has received assurance from the Canadian Commissioner of Immigration, Ottawa, that Canadian inspectors have been instructed along the American border that citizens of the United States will not be disturbed, that persons of German extraction will find no difficulty entering Canada, and the sons of France, which always has been called the eldest daughter of the church."

GERMANS CAPTURED IN BALTIC PROVINCES

RIGA, RUSSIA, via London, May 4.—(9:55 p.m.)—Three German officers and 25 men, with one gun and two machine guns, and accompanied by two guides, were brought here today. They evidently are a part of the German force which has raided the Baltic provinces.

Palace of Justice In Madrid Built In 1750 Burned

Judge Overcome and Perishes
While Saving Court Records.

MADRID (via Paris), May 4.—(11:40 p.m.)—Fire broke out in the Palace of Justice this evening, starting in the supreme court room. Owing to the failure of the water pressure the flames spread rapidly and the entire edifice, which was erected in 1758, was ablaze. Judge Aranda, of the court of cassation, was overcome by smoke and perished while endeavoring to save the court records. Many firemen were injured while fighting the fire.

CANADIANS FORCED TO QUIT TRENCHES

In Desperate Fight Germans
Again Use Poisonous Gas Clouds.

(Special Cable to The Advertiser.)

LONDON, Eng., May 4.—Reports received from Dunkirk via Amsterdam, state that the Canadians have again been in action, and that on Friday last they had to surrender their trenches.

"On Friday morning," says the message, "the Germans began an attack aided by a northeasterly gale and the use of gas clouds. Although the Canadians gallantly fought with bayonets the Germans finally took possession of the trenches, but only at the price of very heavy losses."

"Six German airmen supported their artillery. Two of them were brought down early in the morning, and Lieut. Weber and a soldier-aviator named Kreuz were made prisoners."
"The whole district from Zuidschere through Ypres to Wytschaete has been evacuated by the civil population."

RUSS FORCES HOLD LIBAU AND MITAU IN HEAVY STRUGGLE

Germans Are Passive After a Desperate Onslaught.

PETROGRAD, May 4, via London, May 5.—(2:50 a.m.)—The Russian war office this evening issued the following official communication:

"The enemy threatening Libau and Mitau remained passive yesterday. Both places are held by our troops."

"Near Rossien, about 45 miles northwest of Kovno there have been skirmishes."
"On the left bank of the Niemen, north of the Bobr and Narew Rivers, and on the left bank of the Vistula as far as the Pilica, there has been no important change. After the day we occupied several villages between the Netta and Egriena, to the north of the Great Marsh."

Abandoned Wounded.
"The Germans attacked our position on the right bank of the Omulew on a somewhat wide front, but were forced to retreat in disorder by our fire. They abandoned their dead and wounded in front of our positions."

"Further to the south of the Pilica, the enemy hurled a battery of strong artillery fire, made several attacks, and near Lopusicko the enemy's infantry on the second approach to within two hundred paces of our trenches, but during the following night our counter-attack dislodged them with heavy losses from the entrenchments which they had constructed and which we rendered useless."

"At certain points the enemy attempted to cross the Nida River but our counter-attack compelled him to evacuate the left bank altogether."

Annihilated Foes' Troops.
"On the Vistula, near Krasneff, the enemy, who had concentrated near our positions, hurriedly and stubbornly threw up entrenchments, but during the night of May 2-3, we attacked with the bayonet and annihilated the troops occupying them. We took 400 prisoners, including nine officers."

"In Galicia, from the Vistula to the Carpathians, a succession of battles developed during the night of May 2 and 3. Enemy detachments succeeded in crossing to the right bank of the Dunajec, but our fire prevented them from advancing further than the bank."

"The fighting was particularly desperate in the region of Tuchow and Bieck, where the enemy artillery poured forth an extraordinary volume of fire. In the course of our counter-attacks we took several hundred prisoners."

"We confirmed the presence at this point of German active army elements, who were making their first appearance on our Carpathian front."

Fierce Battle of Str.
"In the direction of Str., in the region of Golovetz, a most fierce battle continued. Here one hill changed hands the three times. We finally captured it yesterday morning. During the day we took a fresh batch of 1,200 prisoners, with five officers, and also captured three machine-guns."

"At the source of the River Svitza an enemy attempt to envelop our flank failed completely. At this point also we took prisoners and forced the enemy to fall back in great disorder."

"Our Black Sea Fleet yesterday bombarded the fortifications on the right bank of the Tschirka position, and a post on the Kara-Burnu Littoral."

GERMANS CAPTURED IN BALTIC PROVINCES

RIGA, RUSSIA, via London, May 4.—(9:55 p.m.)—Three German officers and 25 men, with one gun and two machine guns, and accompanied by two guides, were brought here today. They evidently are a part of the German force which has raided the Baltic provinces.

82,000 SURRENDER TO RUSS WITHOUT FIRING ONE SHOT

GENEVA, May 4.—(Via Paris, 1:57 p.m.)—The Tribune de Geneve publishes statistics to the effect that a total of 82,000 officers and men of the Austro-Hungarian army have surrendered to the Russians and to the Serbians, since the beginning of hostilities, without firing a single shot. The newspaper declares that all of these men are fully equipped.

Archduke Eugene had a conference in Vienna yesterday with the Austro-Hungarian minister of war, according to this same newspaper, concerning a new campaign against Serbia, in case Italy continues her neutrality.

A third item of news appearing in the Tribune de Geneve is a statement to the effect that two German submarines, in sections, passed through Munich yesterday by rail, on their way to Pola, the Austrian naval base in the Adriatic.

LIBAU AND RAID UNIMPORTANT

Russians Still Hold Towns and Are in Communication With Them.

TURKS BEATEN IN PERSIA

Muscovites Gain Partial Revenge For Defeat in West Galicia.

[Canadian Press.] May 5.—The Daily Telegraph's correspondent at Petrograd writes:

"Apparently no unfavorable inferences should be drawn from the fact that the latest general staff communiqué omits all mention of the German raids through the Kovno Government in the direction of Libau and Mitau. It is assumed on the best authority that these towns are still in Russian hands, as a proof of which it is added that a telegram was received from the former place late Sunday afternoon."

No Lasting Importance

"In any event, this raid move by the enemy can have no lasting strategic significance. Its aims are evidently plunder and destruction, to the annoyance of Russia and to the edification of public opinion in Germany, rather than for any influence on the main campaign."

"The Russians have had at least a partial revenge for the defeat inflicted upon them in Western Galicia by the Austrians and Germans by badly beating the Turks who had invaded Persia. The defeat took place in a three-day battle near the frontier, and Petrograd reports that the Russians inflicted heavy losses on the Ottomans."

Persia Might Be Fried

"If the success of the Muscovites has been followed up, military observers declare that Persia would be freed of her uninvited guests."

This Battle, however, was a small affair when compared with what Germany and Austria assert they have done to the Russians in Galicia. Their reports state that 30,000 Russians were captured, and that a large number of guns were taken.

VETERAN NEWSBOY

BRUTALLY ASSAULTED

Tom McCullough Victim of Soldier's Ire—Arrest Made.

John Murphy, a private in the 23rd Battalion, was taken into custody at noon today by Patrolman Smith on a charge of assaulting Tom McCullough, London's veteran newsboy, whose nose was broken and whose face was badly lacerated as the result of an attack made on him by a soldier on King street, said by bystanders to have been the man arrested.

When arrested in the Richmond Hotel bar, Murphy was loud in his denial of having attacked McCullough, but McCullough pointed him out to the officer as the man who struck him, and he was taken to police headquarters, where he was booked on a charge of assault. According to witnesses of the affair, the assault was most brutal. A soldier, who had been drinking, was in the act of passing the newsboy when for no apparent reason he punched the lad in the nose, knocking him down. When McCullough attempted to get up, the soldier seized two more blows, and when apparently satisfied, walked away.

BRITISH IN NOT CORNER

The statement issued today at the headquarters follows:

"Western theatre of war: The British continue their retreat, with heavy losses, in the direction of the bridge-head situated in the east of Ypres. The Van Heule and Ekesterne farms, the castle ground of Herentha, and the St. Pappote farm were taken by us."

"Between the Meuse and the Mopelle there is again great activity in the forest of La Pette. Northwest of Pont-à-Mousson, the French attacked yesterday with strong forces. Notwithstanding a long preparatory bombardment by artillery, their attack broke down under our fire with heavy losses to the enemy. On the other hand we began attacks in the forest of Ally and to the east thereof, which made good progress. Up to the present we have here taken ten officers and 150 men."

Russians Taken Prisoner

"Eastern theatre of war: Attacks from Rostov, on the Don, have been repulsed. The enemy is being pursued at Kalmyk, also northeast of Rostov and east of Augustovka. Numerous Russian troops have been captured. Four hundred Russians in all were taken prisoner."

"On the remainder of the front there were a few fights at close quarters, all of which were decided in our favor."

"South-eastern theatre of war: An attack by the allies in the north of the wooded Carpathians pierced through the third fortified line of the Russians, who yesterday were defeated along the line of the retreat toward the Wisloka River. The magnitude of the victory may be seen from the fact that, owing to the percussive effect of the enemy's blows, the Russians are beginning to evacuate their protected positions, on their northern flank, in the wooded Carpathians west of Doka."

"The rapidity with which our successes have been achieved makes it impossible to give an idea in figures of the booty taken in this victory. According to reports at hand, the number of prisoners taken up to the present amounts to over 30,000."

THE WAR SITUATION

A German submarine has sunk three more British ships, all trawlers. The crews were brought safely to Hull, but it is feared other vessels were lost, as the Germans are said to have opened fire on fishing ships with rifles and artillery.

The correspondence of a Berlin newspaper has credited to German submarines a victory in Western Galicia broke down the Russian front for a distance of twenty-four miles. He states the Russians abandoned not only their first line, but the villages in their rear. The Russian war office admits the Germans and Austrians succeeded in crossing the Danube, but states they were prevented from making further advance. Desperate fighting is in progress further east on the Carpathian front. In the region of Stry it is said one hill changed hands three times in a single battle, and that 1,200 more Austrians were captured by the Russians.

Relations between Turkey and Bulgaria apparently have become more uncertain. Turkey is sending troops hastily to the neighborhood of Adrianople, after having withdrawn them for use on the Gallipoli Peninsula.

Austria's answer to Italy's minimum demands is expected tomorrow, and it is believed Rome's character will determine the course of Italy. Notwithstanding the King's decision to remain active in the campaign, the Garibaldi memorial day, it is now believed in Rome that there has been no essential modification of the situation.

NINE TRAWLERS IN PATS' CASUALTIES

SUBMARINE'S BAG

Result of Enemy's Activity in the North Sea On Monday.

[Canadian Press.] London, May 5.—Nine trawlers are the latest victims of German submarines on Monday of this week in a message received here from Hull. In addition to the Iolanthe, the Hero and Northward, the victims belonging in Hull include the Hector, Progress, Conquette and Bob White, while the Ruby and the Exbridge, owned in Grimsby, met a similar fate.

So far as is known, no lives were lost in these encounters. According to the crews of the vessels, the submarine was seen in the vicinity of the new type. She has an iron cross painted on her conning tower. She ran among the fishing fleet on Monday and sank seven trawlers in quick succession. The crews were given time to escape, but in some cases the small boats drifted for hours before they were picked up. Each man coming ashore is exhibiting a huge lump of black bread, given him by the crew of the submarine which sent his boat down.

These pieces of bread are souvenirs.

CREWS LANDED

[Canadian Press.] Hull, Eng., May 5.—At 11 a.m. Three more British trawlers have been added to the list of those blown up by German submarines in the North Sea on Monday, and it is feared other vessels were lost, as they were shelled and fired upon by the crew of a submarine. The crews of the trawlers Iolanthe, Hero and Northward have landed here, reporting the destruction of their boats. No lives were lost about any of the three.

Ordered To Stop

A Copenhagen dispatch states that the crew of a German submarine appeared and ordered them to stop. The crews then took to their boats and rowed away, after which the trawlers were blown up by boarding parties from the submarine. After rowing about for some time the Hero and Northward, aided by burning articles of clothing which had been attached to oars.

Tried To Escape

The trawler Hero tried to escape, but after an exciting chase, it was captured. The crew of the Hero was taken on board the submarine, whereupon the skipper of the fisherman stopped and the crew took to the small boats.

TRAWLER WINS RACE

Hull, May 5.—The trawler Fortia has reached Hull after an exciting chase, in which she managed to elude the submarine, which was after her.

COMMISSIONS PAID

TO BARNES' COMPANY

Witness in Roosevelt Libel Action Testifies On Stand.

[Canadian Press.] Syracuse, N. Y., May 5.—Charles M. Winchester, general manager of the J. B. Lynch Company, of Albany, testified in the Roosevelt libel suit in the Supreme court here today that his concern had paid commissions upon all orders for public printing received from the Roosevelt libel suit.

"Between the Meuse and the Mopelle there is again great activity in the forest of La Pette. Northwest of Pont-à-Mousson, the French attacked yesterday with strong forces. Notwithstanding a long preparatory bombardment by artillery, their attack broke down under our fire with heavy losses to the enemy. On the other hand we began attacks in the forest of Ally and to the east thereof, which made good progress. Up to the present we have here taken ten officers and 150 men."

Russians Taken Prisoner

"Eastern theatre of war: Attacks from Rostov, on the Don, have been repulsed. The enemy is being pursued at Kalmyk, also northeast of Rostov and east of Augustovka. Numerous Russian troops have been captured. Four hundred Russians in all were taken prisoner."

"On the remainder of the front there were a few fights at close quarters, all of which were decided in our favor."

"South-eastern theatre of war: An attack by the allies in the north of the wooded Carpathians pierced through the third fortified line of the Russians, who yesterday were defeated along the line of the retreat toward the Wisloka River. The magnitude of the victory may be seen from the fact that, owing to the percussive effect of the enemy's blows, the Russians are beginning to evacuate their protected positions, on their northern flank, in the wooded Carpathians west of Doka."

"The rapidity with which our successes have been achieved makes it impossible to give an idea in figures of the booty taken in this victory. According to reports at hand, the number of prisoners taken up to the present amounts to over 30,000."

Armenians in Danger of Massacre At Hands of the Young Turks.

[Special Cable to The Advertiser.] London, May 5.—Replying to Donald MacMaster in the Commons today, the Secretary of State said that the situation in connection with the Garibaldi memorial day, it is now believed in Rome that there has been no essential modification of the situation.

Relations between Turkey and Bulgaria apparently have become more uncertain. Turkey is sending troops hastily to the neighborhood of Adrianople, after having withdrawn them for use on the Gallipoli Peninsula.

THE TELEGRAM.

THE Bishop of London spoke of what has been in the hearts of all when he recently said: "What about the women at home, who wait for the footfall of the telegraph boy, who may bring the dreaded telegram?" The local messenger boys are busy, and have been busy each night for many nights, with their sad mission. Each day London and other places in Western Ontario have had their share of yellow sheets, that read, "We regret to inform you," etc.

We asked one of the boys how the mothers and wives of men at the front took the sudden summons to the door, the ring or knock that causes a fluttering of hearts whenever it occurs. He was an English boy, and he replied: "They take it without making no scene, sir."

Yet these casualty lists are the most tragic news ever published. We must read them with solemn eyes and think that even though we have no personal interest in most of the names, somewhere there is a willing sorrow for each line of type.

The tribute of the bishop and his advice to those whose sons are fighting is as follows:

"I cannot tell you how I feel for these mothers and wives and sisters, I do what I can for them. They come to see me and I go to see them. What those women want is fortitude; nothing but that which will carry them through. And think of the mothers who have had the faithful telegram. In one day I saw six each of whom had lost a bright young son. Two women came to me one afternoon, each of whom had lost husband, brother and son. On my way to one of my Lent services I called on a lady who in twelve months had lost husband, daughter, and three sons."

IN 1852 AND 1915.

"These wretched colonies will all be independent in a few years, and are a millstone around our necks."

—Disraeli, August 13, 1852.
 GREAT as Disraeli may have been, his vision did not extend to the twentieth century. His shade may have blushed when it heard that the governor-general of each overseas dominion had received the following from Mr. Harcourt:

"Will you at the same time inform your prime minister that it is the intention of His Majesty's Government to consult him most fully when the time arrives, and, if possible, personally, when the time arrives to discuss the terms of peace."

Less than a century ago, Canada and the rest of the colonies were the "ugly ducklings" of the Empire; at least, in the eyes of Beaconsfield. A few months or a year or more, and Premier Borden, or whoever else may be premier, will be throwing the weight of Canadian opinion in the conference that proposes peace. Until this time, Canada's service to the empire has been a matter of course, though anything but unappreciated.

Tomorrow brings us a power into the European council of nations. We shall have something to say, much to say, for anything to say will be much, in the disposition of Germany and the future of the world. And whether it is Premier Borden or someone else, we feel that the message he carries to the most notable peace-making of the world will be a fearless and a frank statement, the strong conviction of a young nation that has poured its blood for humanity. We hope that it will be an influence for world peace, the voice that Canada is to have. It should be the prayer of this nation that a counsel of wisdom and humanity will be given the man who carries Canada's responsibility to that epoch-making event.

REPUDIATION.

IT is estimated that the cost of the first year of war to Great Britain will be about six billions of dollars, counting direct expenditure, loss of production and loss of human life. Lloyd George is now asking for further huge amounts which may last only six months. Germany's bill for the first year is placed at some 14 billions; France's at 8, Austria's at 7½, Russia's at 7, the Belgian loss at 2½ to 3 billions. The grand total for these powers comes to over 45 billions of dollars. If the war goes on for three years at this rate, the total cost to Europe will amount to about twice the total wealth of the British Isles.

An article in the New York Outlook suggests as a possibility that the European states will repudiate their debts. The load may be almost or quite beyond mortal endurance to carry. If Noah held a mortgage of one of his sons on a piece of Babylonian property whose value the flood had wiped out, he was not likely ever to realize on it. This war may turn out to be something like Noah's flood, or worse, wiping out many millions of earth's finest flower (where, we are told, they were all scum and refuse in that earlier liquidation) and generally submerging values.

In the 1790's, the old French Republic of the revolution practically repudiated a debt of over a billion dollars. Before this war began, the French national debt was already 6½ billions of dollars, Russia's 4½ billions, Germany's 4, Austria's nearly 4, Great Britain's 3½ billions (since the large reductions effected by seven years of Lloyd George finance). When these debts have risen to 20, 25, 40, 35 and about 20 billions, respectively, after three years of colossal conflict, what is going to happen? Italy also will probably be in the same fix as the rest.

One thing is certain. When the Allies have put the Teuton plates finally down and out, if they haven't all poisoned themselves with their own gas by that time, they will be presented with a bill of damages that will make their own debt "look like thirty cents." Germany and Austria will have no chance to repudiate this bill. It will be collected year in and year out at the bayonet's point, until the whole monstrous crime is expiated, so far as money can do it. The chant of hate may go on, if it will lighten their labors, and total abstinence will help in all countries towards cleaning the national slates.

VOICE OF PROTEST.

The action of the London Presbytery in expressing its opposition to a general election while Canada and the Empire are at war with Germany, is just another instance of the demand from all parts of the Dominion that the country shall not be plunged into a political strife while the Empire is battling for its life. Commercial and financial life, the professions, labor, in fact, all sections of the community, setting aside their political leanings, are opposed to the outrage of an election at this time. Just so long as this country is head and heels in an election fight, it will be a handicap to Asquith, Kitchener, Lloyd George and French. Every bit of the national energy should be concentrated on helping and upholding those who are conducting the war. We cannot afford to waste any of it on a side issue.

SMASHING THROUGH THE STRAITS.

FIGHTING has not, the Allies are making excellent progress by land and water in the subjugation of the Dardanelles, and the clearing of the way to Constantinople. On the peninsula side of the straits are the British forces, and on the Asiatic side the French, both armies endeavoring to keep abreast of one another. Between them the allied fleets are battering away at the fortifications. About midway between the mouth of the straits and the outlet to the Sea of Marmara are the Narrows, and the news that both the allied fleets and land batteries are shelling the fortifications at this point show how rapid has been the advance since the landing of troops last week. Beginning at the tip of the peninsula, the British have carried one defence after another, and appear to have worsted the Turk at every encounter. This is no small achievement, as the Turks, under the expert guidance of German officers, have for months been preparing the most elaborate defences. Barbed wire entanglements, masked pits, trenches filled with machine guns, have been unable to halt the British. The Australian and New Zealand divisions, especially, have shown dash and determination, and have won their way to a dominating position in the mountains above Port Nagara, which has been the hardest nut the Allies have had to crack.

Once more the Queen Elizabeth, mightiest of the battleships, is hurling her devastating shells at the fortifications, well up the Dardanelles. This means that the waters have been swept clear of the mines that proved so disastrous to the allied fleet in its first attempt to get through, permitting a co-operation between the land and sea forces that will in time batter down all the defences.

However they may have blundered in the first attack, that stern lesson seems to have been well learned. There is no longer any under-estimation of the enemy's strength and resources, but a powerful force is converging steadily from three directions on the most strongly fortified points between the Allies and the Sultan's capital. Once these fall, it would not be surprising were Turkey to throw up the sponge. That would be an excellent thing for the Allies, as it would at once steady down the Balkans to undoubted neutrality, or bring them actively into the field against the Teutonic alliance. Also, with Turkey out of the reckoning, Russia could greatly add to the strength of her armies combatting the Germans. Without doubt the Allies will push the Dardanelles campaign with all the vigor they possess.

Proud of Her Neighbors

[Rochester Post-Express.]
 As even combatants may pay tribute to the bravery of their opponents, it can be no breach of neutrality to notice the magnificent conduct of the Canadian contingent of the field of battle. The official records have it that "their gallantry and determination undoubtedly saved the situation," and "their conduct was magnificent throughout." These men who are giving their lives to the mother country are our neighbors, more like us than any other soldiers in the war, and it is natural that we should take pride in them.

the late John Bunney's face was his fortune, as much as any of the stage or professional beauties of history, ancient or modern.

The Toronto World says that an election is necessary so that the Canadian people can decide whether to send more contingents or not. This is an insult to the Canadian people.

Again, Doc Cook breaks into print, this time by declaring that he is going to startle the world once more by doing something quite unexpected. Must intend to admit he didn't reach the Pole.

Both the Eltel Friedrich and the Kron Prinz took on large cargoes of coal just before internecine. The world would not be surprised any morning to hear that they had decamped, "Germany's necessity" would be sufficient excuse. If Uncle Sam is wise he will dismantle them completely and at once.

SELFISH AS A GOVERNMENT.

[Exchange.]
 "The naive, frank selfishness of various nations makes me think of the beggar," said Andrew Carnegie at a luncheon in New York.

"A beggar, muscular and well-fed, asked a lady for a nickel. 'I'm afraid you are not overfond of work,' the lady said. 'No, ma'am, I ain't,' the beggar asked. 'How could I be? Work's what killed my wife.'"

THE BELLE ISLE BRIDGE.

[Exchange.]
 The path that led to play is gone. The bridge 'twixt care and rest is down. No more shall toilers travel on its planks to shun the busy town. Still is the tramp of eager feet. The march to happiness is o'er. How distant now the garden sweet! That yesterday was at our door!

But yesterday the children ran Across its kindly boards in droves, And many a tired, soul-weary man Sought comfort in the shady groves.

That waited, scarce a mile away, And gloried in the charms of spring.

But now the bridge 'twixt care and play Appears a charred and twisted thing. In vain the tulips come to bloom, But few the blossoming trees shall see. Or sense the May flowers' sweet perfume.

Beneath the elm and maple tree, Where groups of happy children played, 'Unbroken solitude must reign. Elsewhere must lover woo his maid. Until the bridge shall rise again.

The thousands owned the joys of life. By reason of each span of steel; There was a breathing spell from strife.

An ownership that they could feel. By virtue of the bridge they knew The squirrel tenant of each tree. The bird whose nest the violets grew, And always was their title free.

But now the all-consuming flames Have robbed them of their garden sweet. The children may not play their games Away from dangers of the street. Now distant is the spot so fondly loved. That yesterday was close to town! The bridge from weariness and care To rest and happiness is down.

A FACTOR IN POLITICS.
 (Ottawa Citizen's (Conservative) Comment on Change in New Liquor License Act.)

Already there has been a serious alteration in the original act which called into being the new Ontario liquor license commission. According to dispatches, the daily press, clause 12 of the new act, which invested the commission with the powers previously exercised by the Provincial Secretary has been deleted from the proclamation and will not, therefore, be effective. Under this change the commission will have no control over the granting of licenses to breweries, distilleries or wholesalers, or over the 5 per cent bar proceeds.

These changes will be viewed with misgiving. If there is any concentrated power of a political sort in the hands of the liquor interests it surely will be most evident in the case of the wealthy and influential body of men who constitute the distillers and brewers of the province. The change puts this group of men in a particularly strong position as a factor in provincial elections.

The system may, of course, work out for the benefit of the people, and the interests of honest and upright government. Nevertheless, it possesses now immense potentialities for evil and must be regarded as a dangerous tool in the hands of unskilled or unprincipled workmen on the legislative staff.

THE LITTLE CARPET TACK.
 [Exchange.]
 A little tack was in the way. Oh, and and sorry juncture, I did not see it where it lay. And so I got a puncture.

The language that I thought of then Was harsh; I don't defend it. I faced my task, as other men, And undertook to mend it.

I labored in the burning sun With iron rods and wrenches, I toiled as Britisher or Hun In Europe's cruel trenches.

"It is an easy thing to do," I said that in the colder. I shortly wore the grimy hue That typifies a molder.

I broke two finger nails and tore Much pigment from my knuckles; I'd never fixed a tire before. It was no time for chuckles.

To get the tire back on again I had to pound and thump it. Nor was my work completed then. 'Twas still my chore to pump it.

'Twas just one little carpet tack, But, oh, the time it lost me. And, oh, the weary aching back, And, oh, the pain it cost me!

Copyright, The Frank A. Munsey Co. THEY SELDOM RETURN

By Charles E. Van Loan.
 A man sat on the porch of a summer hotel in Connecticut, endeavoring to hypnotize himself into the belief that he enjoyed the stiff, hobby-horse motion of a rocking-chair. The man's age might have been forty-five, and that was exactly his waist measure—a fact which a competent tailor had been at some pains to conceal.

While this lone sojourner was solemnly examining the landscape and wondering what was happening in his office, a second victim of judicious advertising emerged from the interior of the hotel.

The second man was in the thirties, nervous, sandy, and forty, and he was puffing a goodly cloud of smoke from a cigarette.

He, too, sat down in a rocking-chair and began to wonder what was happening in a furnishing-store in New Haven.

You may have noticed that a nervous, sandy man who smokes black cigars cannot keep still very long.

"You may have noticed that a nervous, sandy man who smokes black cigars cannot keep still very long," said, without looking at the other.

"Oh, I don't know, sir," said the man with the chins, in a queer, rambling voice. "It's a lot warmer in town."

At the sound of the voice the thin man started slightly, and turned in his chair until he could see the other's face. His eyes narrowed a bit and took on the faraway look of one who tries hard to remember.

"You long to get home, don't you?" the long sandy man puffed like a volcano. The other, dimly conscious of the keen scrutiny, stirred uneasily in his chair, and his left hand fell at his side.

The thin man made a clicking noise with his tongue. "It's been—let me see—fifteen years this summer—yes, it's been fifteen years—but you're Marty Finn, for a thousand dollars!"

The fat man fairly bounced in his chair. It was now his turn to study features.

"You don't remember me," said the sandy man. "Well, I don't blame you. I joined the team only a few weeks before you quit."

The dignified Mr. Finn smote the arm of his rocking-chair with a sudden ejaculation.

"You must be the kid from Eau Claire—that shortstop. I remember you now. You went to Boston afterward."

"Yes," said the thin man, offering his hand, "you've got me now. I'm Jimmy Powers."

And then, of course, both said it was wonderful, and did not know how they had thought it—two members of the old Chicago baseball team meeting on the porch of a summer hotel in Connecticut after fifteen years.

At nine o'clock that evening, after a generous meal, the reunion continued in Finn's room, and a cadaverous waiter responded to the electric signal of distress. He was laboring under some severe mental strain, and several times he opened his mouth as if about to speak, but what he said was:

"Is that all, sir?"
 "For the present," said Finn. The waiter backed toward the door, where he paused and took his courage in both hands.

"Excuse me, sir," he said, "but I believe you mentioned Mike Farson—used to play centre field for New York, sir?"

"Did you know he was here, sir?" asked the waiter.

"Here?" ejaculated Powers. "Mike Farson here?"

"Yes, sir. He's the barber at this hotel, sir."

"The barber?" said Finn. "Yes, sir. I took the liberty of mentioning to him that Mr. Finn and Mr. Powers were in the house, sir, and he's been all upset ever since, sir."

"Old Mike Farson!" said Powers. "Finn, do you remember how you used to talk to him when he came to bat, and let's go so mad that he couldn't see the ball? Say? We ought to have Mike up here tonight!"

"You see, sir," said the waiter, "a little delicate about intruding himself."

"Pshaw," said Powers heartily. "No need for that at all—oh, Finn? Ask him to come right up!"

By eleven o'clock the reunion had warmed up to such an extent that they had found three additional players, including Cullen, the proprietor, and the waiter, Shannon; this latter it seems having been a semi-professional pitcher.

It was quite a respectable gathering. Messrs. Finn, Farson, Powers, Tanner, Cullen and Shannon.

"If you really wanted a game, gentlemen," said the cadaverous waiter eagerly, "there's a fine chance to-morrow afternoon. The local club—but I'm afraid you wouldn't consider it."

"Consider what?" demanded Powers. "The local club had a game scheduled to-morrow afternoon," said Shadow Shannon, "but it has been called off by the visitors. That makes an open date. Now, if it could be arranged."

"Of course it can be arranged," cried Tanner. "Just the thing! We'll challenge the town team!"

"With six players?" asked Finn. "Impossible!"

"I beg pardon, sir," said the cadaverous waiter. "But the hostler used to be a semi-professional, sir. He could do anything. He's got a pair of bell-boys could take second, and then all we should need, sir, would be an outfielder. I think I may say, sir, that we could cut out the team very easily without going outside of the hotel."

"Why not?" urged Tanner. "Just for the fun of the thing! It would be a good sport! What do you say?"

It was a motley aggregation which took the field against the town team—an aggregation clad, for the most part, in borrowed sweaters and flannel, with only one pair of spiked shoes in the entire gathering.

After a very short preliminary practice the teams took the field with the Miffits, as they were at once christened, first at bat.

thumb and profanely urging Shannon to get 'em over with something on 'em beside the cover.

"Right here goes your old ball game!" taunted the heaviest hitter.

He swung on a weak offering with fell intent and a mushroom bat. Out over centre field he went the ball, mounting higher and higher, Mike Farson, gasping like a fish, in vain pursuit.

His short, fat legs were stumbling under him as the ball struck the ground ten feet in front, and mercifully bounding into the long grass.

The last expiring effort of the greatest "wing" of the old New York outfield, Farson threw toward the diamond. Jimmy Powers ran forward, made the catch, and whirled to throw to Finn at the plate.

The hitter was between third and home, and the umpire was racing forward to judge the play.

Finn, standing well down the baseline and blocking the plate with both legs, took the throw perfectly. At the same instant the heaviest hitter launched himself at the human obstacle, feet foremost. Down went Finn with a crash, making a blind attempt to tag the spikes.

Thunderbolt as he fell. From the cloud of dust which hung over the plate came the umpire with both palms spread downward.

"Finn rose from the ground with the sort of an enraged rhinoceros. He seized the umpire by the coat-collar and flung him to the ground.

"He's out!" bellowed Finn hoarsely. "I got him a city block!"

"Hah!" sneered the heaviest hitter, crawling away from the plate. "You missed me a mile, you big stiff!"

"Yes," said the umpire eagerly. "You missed him. Leggo my coat, or—woor!"

Marty Finn of the old days, Scrappy Mart, whose very name was a terror to umpires, fighting Finn of the Chicago—this man forgot that he was a brother with an office on Broad street, and a side-whiskered broad.

He stepped back fifteen years in the twinkling of an eye, at the same time stepping forward with a pile-driving right-hander, which crashed under the third button of the manager's white shirt.

The unfortunate judge of play as it struck by lightning.

The heaviest hitter rushed to the rescue. Scrappy Mart met him most cordially with a well-timed right swing, and the heaviest hitter joined the umpire in dreamland.

Immediately thereafter competition increased rapidly, and the situation became somewhat mixed, not to say involved. The local players, who might not have fought for the sake of the umpire, saw the heaviest hitter twirling upon the ground, and charged valiantly with yells of rage.

The Miffits rallied to Finn's support. It was a noble battle while it lasted, but the odds were against age, experience and four-five-inch waist-lines. Further complicating matters the local fans hurled themselves upon the outskirts of the gathering, snatching every alien head as it appeared.

One by one the Miffits went down and out. Cullen alone escaped. He found a hole in the right field fence.

There is one whirling motion-picture which must forever remain fixed in the minds of those who witnessed the final distressing scene of carnage and riot—a picture with a fat man as its central figure—a fat man who stood out of the midst of the turmoil like a rock from the surf, his arms flying like pistons, a fringe of Scottish plaid waving gallantly from his wrist. On last rush, a whirl of arms, the flash of a high-flung bat—and the picture fades.

Seven men claimed the honor of that knockout.

Mr. Finn is back in his Broad street office. His right eye is slightly puffed, and there is a new gold tooth behind his unsmiling lips. Mr. Finn is listening politely to the inconsequential remarks of an aged gentleman with white side-whiskers and the profile of a rabbit.

"Mr. Finn—er—my son informs me that you were here on ball play."

"Mr. Finn looks up suspiciously, glances out of the window, and rumbles assent."

"My son says the client, y son—er—my son says he has often 'er—er—perform."

Deep silence from Mr. Finn. "Should like to know, do you ever—er—feel any inclination to engage in athletic sports? Say, for instance, to play another game of ball?"

"Never," says Mr. Finn grimly. "Ah!" says the client. "I presume you—er—stick to golf and all that sort of thing?"

"Yes," says Mr. Finn. "And," pursues the rabbitlike old gentleman, "what becomes of the old ball players?"

"They never come back," says Mr. Finn.

"Eh?" says the client.

RICHES.
 [Detroit Free Press.]
 A pair of 'em to play with. When the busy day is done, To laugh your care away with fun. And end your tasks with fun. A girl with fond caresses To make each evening sweet, A boy that madly messes Your clothing with his feet. Old Croesus, count your riches, And hoard your coins of gold, But here's a fortune which is Beyond your power to hold.

A pair of 'em to scamper Each evening down the street, To fondle you and kiss you sweet. With tender love and sweet. Though slow or swift your pace is, In merry mood or grim, They show with smug faces They're glad to see you come. Oh, where in money only Is any real delight, If you are sad and lonely When you get home at night?

A pair of 'em to stray with When the holidays are here. To stroll along the way with At the laughter time of year. A boy and girl to talk with Of birds and flowers and trees, And hand in hand to walk with. What joys can rival these? Oh, I have seen the yearning In many a rich man's eye, That spoke of envy burning When such a brood passed by.

HALF-MILLION TONS OF HOST-AGES.
 [New York Tribune.]
 There are interned today in our ports 55 German and 11 Austro-Hungarian merchant ships, with a total tonnage of 518,796. The value of these ships is many times the value of American merchantmen likely to be impounded in the German ports. Here is a situation which should have a very calming effect on German opinion.

 They claim that animals like mirth, and likewise merriment. That melody has lots of worth in keeping them content.

They say that music cheers a cow. We promptly took the cue, Put in a graphophone, and now Our milk is never low.

Tommy and Jean Fast Friends.

[Toronto World.]

The comic endeavors of German papers like the Frankfurt Gazette to persuade the French that "England is the common enemy of France and Germany among French people and merrily, M. Leon Daudet, the son of Alphonse Daudet, is the writer who treats the subject most amusingly.

"These imbecilities, of course, have not the slightest importance. Franco-English friendship is strong because it rests upon the common necessity of saving what is equally dear to both of us—western civilization. The land of Bacon and Shakespeare and the land of Descartes and Racine know what the threat of German fury means. English loyalty and French loyalty have signed a contract which will not cease. Among the men at the front Franco-English friendship is stronger than ever."

The Difference Between.
 "One wondered at first how this association would work, of thousands of men who say 'Coquettish' when the crook crows, and thousands of others who say 'Cock-a-doodle-do'—thousands of men who drink wine and thousands of others who drink tea; thousands of men who never catch cold after a cold bath, and thousands of others who always do; thousands of men who get to the station at one minute to 12 for the 12 o'clock train and thousands of others who get there at 11 for the same train; thousands of men who cut up a leg of fowl with a knife and fork and thousands of others who suck the bone, thousands of others who eat very little bread, and only in pieces, and thousands of others who devour chunks; thousands of men who are ashamed of their most natural feelings and thousands of others who delight in explaining themselves. Well, it has all gone off as happily as possible."

They Are Chums.
 Dumanet murders "Tipperary," and Tommy murders the "Marseillaise." Tommy gives Dumanet his hand, Dumanet, in his zeal, even takes to tea, and Tommy, at the end of the war, will have learned to distinguish between Burgundy and claret, which is no small matter. When we came to the officers, I know a young lieutenant of hussars who cannot cease praising the unassuming gallantry of the English.

Another told me: "We love to see them land in their hundreds of thousands, not only because we shall be more numerous against the Boches, but because the Franco-English alliance is a unique and imperishable thing in the world."

"When all this will be judged in the time to come it will dazzle everyone. I fancy I hear the ghosts of Westminster Abbey whispering together about it. What new laurels, indeed, the glorious island will wear. I have not said all, but I have said enough to show the Boches how ridiculous their attempts are, and of it were they, I should try to think of something else."

THE SEA IS ENGLAND'S GLORY.

(Sent by "Perennial.")
The sea is England's glory.
The bounding wave her throne.
For ages bright in story.
The ocean is her own.
In war, the first, the fearless,
Her banner leads the brave.
In peace she reigns as peerless,
The empress of the wave.

The sea is England's splendor.
Her wealth the mighty main.
She is the world's defender.
The feeble to sustain.
Her gallant sons in story
Shine bravest of the brave.
Oh! England's strength and glory
Are on the ocean wave!

Thou loveliest land of beauty,
Where dwells domestic worth,
Where loyalty and duty
Entwine each heart and hearth:
Thy rock is freedom's pillow.
The rampart of the brave—
Oh! long as rolls the billow
Shall England rule the wave!

WITH THE I. O. D. E.

The members of the 7th Regiment chapter were patronesses at a little dance given on Friday evening last in the St. John's club rooms by the collegiate cadets and their friends. The affair was a most enjoyable one. Principal and Mrs. Rogers, of the Collegiate, and Mr. and Mrs. White, of the Normal School, were also guests during the evening.

In the list of soldier's comfort acknowledgments appearing in Monday's issue, a contribution of thirty sheets was omitted from the work donated by the Lord Roberts chapter.

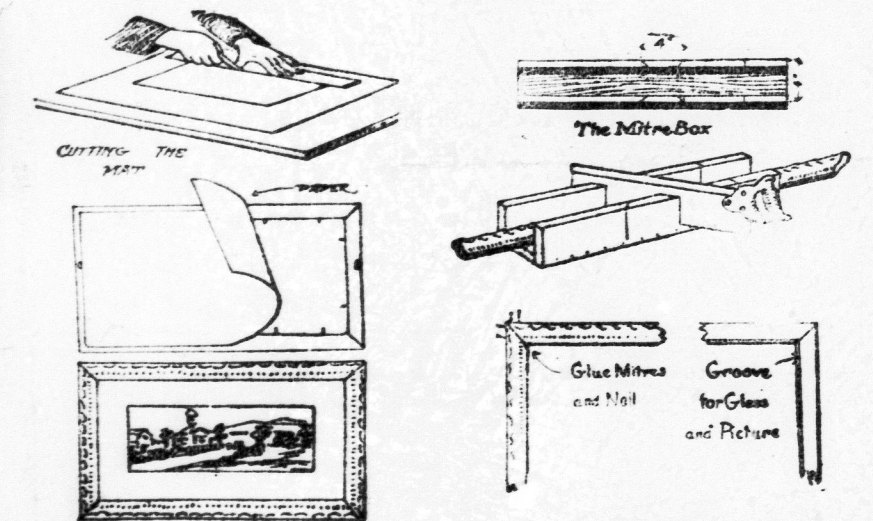

Women's Canadian Club. The annual meeting of the Women's Canadian Club, is being held in the Normal School at 415 this afternoon. Election of officers, presentation of the year's reports, and an address by Miss Elizabeth Stover, field secretary for the Society of Friends, will occupy the session.

Housecleaning time, moving time! In the upheaval some pictures will be thrown away. Other pretty ones, worth hanging, will be uncovered. It's always a cheerful change to freshen up the walls of your room or den with new and different pictures.
So here, boys—and girls, too—is a little dissertation on how to frame pictures. It begins with the theory that you can find, in attic or basement, an old picture frame to make over, and that you have several fresh pictures to frame, or can cut them from an illustrated magazine or calendar.
You will need also a mitre box for sawing places at an angle of 45 degrees. The mitre box and the manner of using it is shown in the drawing. Mark the length of your places carefully and you will have accurate work. Fasten the

Her Mother Objects.

Dear Miss Grey.—As my little sister was writing you a letter, I also thought I might write and ask you to answer a few questions for me.

I am 20 years old. I keep company with a young man of 26 years. Do you think him too old for me? My mother thinks he is. My mother does not like him, and would not let me bring him to the house; but now she says that I can have him and bring him to the house; but she still dislikes him. Would you advise me to still keep him away? He does not work home, but comes home one in a while. Before closing, one more question: What would be nice for a lunch, just for us two, to take to a park for an afternoon?

Hoping I have not asked you too much, and to see this in print soon, yours,
J. K. C.

Ans.—I never care to advise a girl to go contrary to her mother's wishes, yet I think one point has to be considered before you break your friendship. It is this—whether your mother has any good reasons for her objection, or if she simply dislikes him. If the former is the case, I believe you should follow her advice and guarding; if the latter, that would not really warrant your giving him up if you are sincerely interested in him, and feel that he is in you. A mere prejudice can very often be overcome by closer acquaintance. One thing more, however: don't make the error some girls do of imagining themselves fond of a man solely because the intimacy is frowned on at home. I have known girls who cared very little for a man once they found parental opposition removed. However, if you like this man, perhaps in time your mother's dislike may be overcome. No, I do not think the difference in years too great.

2. You will want sandwiches, of course, as nothing else seems quite to take their place. Egg sandwiches carry well when packed in box or basket, and few folks tire of ham sandwiches. A rather good way for the latter is to mince the ham in the meat chopper, mix with a little India relish, and spread. Sweet pickles may be carried in a small glass, tucked away in a corner; then include a couple of tarts and a square of nicely-baked cake. A juicy orange is a welcome addition to such a lunch.

For Iliderton Reader.

Dear Miss Grey.—In the paper of the 20th inst. an Iliderton reader wishes to know if Easter Sunday came on April 4 between 1887 and 1915.

Easter Sunday came on April 4 in 1888, and will come on April 4 again in 1920 and 1936. If the war, etc., does not go far enough to change the date, Easter Sunday came on April 5 in 1883, 1874, 1885 and 1896.

I hope that this may be of some assistance to Iliderton reader. X. Y. Z.

Ans.—It is exceedingly good of X. Y. Z. to send this information for Iliderton Reader. Am glad to pass it on to her.

Candle for Bedbugs.

Dear Miss Grey.—This is my first time to visit your Mail Box, although I enjoy your corner very much, and get lots of helpful hints out of it. Now for just one more bit of help. Would you mind inquiring through your corner of the lady who some time last winter sent a remedy for bedbugs. It was something about burning a candle in the room. I thought I saved that remedy, but when I come to look for it I cannot find it; would she help me out? Would she please tell me how many to burn in a good-sized room, and is it just an ordinary candle? I am bothered with them in the walls. Would be pleased to see this in print soon, also the answer. Thanking you both in advance.

ance. Please print this in the evening edition.
WORRIED.
Ans.—I think the candle spoken of by the reader was a formaldehyde. I may have overlooked them. Don't you think they sound quite modern in view of what our brave volunteers have already done and suffered in this fierce European war and the ever-tightening grip England's sea power is taking on the chief aggressor and destroyer, for a time, of the world's peace and liberty? Although we are thousands of miles from the scene of the great conflict, yet our hearts and our interests are there, and the rhythmic words still ring true. "Our coats are guarded by our gallant volunteers," and in this great national crisis "She (England) is the world's defender, the feeble to sustain."

PERENNIAL.
Ans.—Your letter is fine, "Perennial," and so are the songs. They certainly do seem to fit right in to the present situation. Many thanks, friend.

Few May Festivals.

Dear Miss Grey.—I have been for a long time a silent reader of your interesting column.

I am 14 years; in this vicinity is a boy about 16 years who tries to go with me. What can I do to prevent him, as I think I am too young?

2. Will white embroidery volles be worn much this summer? If not, what would be suitable?

3. Do you think entrance pupils will have to write on the present war?

4. I am 14 years; how long should my summer dress be?

5. Are white button canvas shoes going to be worn this summer, also tan?

6. Judging from this, what do you think of my grammar, also writing?

TRIPLET.
Ans.—I, I quite agree with you that you are too young. You will need to pay very attention to study this year, and not give the boys a thought. If you shun the youth in every possible manner, do not go out alone, and tell him frankly that you cannot accept his invitations, as you are too young, he should cease to bother you.

2. Yes, this is a very popular fabric for "best" dresses.

3. I should not wonder if a number of questions regarding the conflict were asked.

4. Have it come to within an inch of your shoe tops.

5. Yes; the tan is not so popular for women as black, this year.

6. Both are fairly good.

Patriotic "Perennial."

Dear Miss Grey.—I am sending you two fine old patriotic songs, "The Volunteers" and "The Sea is England's Glory."

We used to learn many such pieces at our public school in the long ago. I have not seen them reproduced in your interesting page as yet, though I may have overlooked them. Don't you think they sound quite modern in view of what our brave volunteers have already done and suffered in this fierce European war and the ever-tightening grip England's sea power is taking on the chief aggressor and destroyer, for a time, of the world's peace and liberty? Although we are thousands of miles from the scene of the great conflict, yet our hearts and our interests are there, and the rhythmic words still ring true. "Our coats are guarded by our gallant volunteers," and in this great national crisis "She (England) is the world's defender, the feeble to sustain."

PERENNIAL.
Ans.—Your letter is fine, "Perennial," and so are the songs. They certainly do seem to fit right in to the present situation. Many thanks, friend.

Few May Festivals.

Dear Miss Grey.—I have been for a long time a silent reader of your interesting column.

I am 14 years; in this vicinity is a boy about 16 years who tries to go with me. What can I do to prevent him, as I think I am too young?

2. Will white embroidery volles be worn much this summer? If not, what would be suitable?

3. Do you think entrance pupils will have to write on the present war?

4. I am 14 years; how long should my summer dress be?

5. Are white button canvas shoes going to be worn this summer, also tan?

6. Judging from this, what do you think of my grammar, also writing?

TRIPLET.
Ans.—I, I quite agree with you that you are too young. You will need to pay very attention to study this year, and not give the boys a thought. If you shun the youth in every possible manner, do not go out alone, and tell him frankly that you cannot accept his invitations, as you are too young, he should cease to bother you.

2. Yes, this is a very popular fabric for "best" dresses.

3. I should not wonder if a number of questions regarding the conflict were asked.

4. Have it come to within an inch of your shoe tops.

5. Yes; the tan is not so popular for women as black, this year.

6. Both are fairly good.

Patriotic "Perennial."

Dear Miss Grey.—I am sending you two fine old patriotic songs, "The Volunteers" and "The Sea is England's Glory."

Many have found witch hazel a fine thing to remedy a red nose, and also to correct large pores. Dab it on with a sort of rag several times a day. This is also good: Eau de Cologne, 15 grams; boracic acid, 11 grams; water, 5 grams.

2. Alas, no! Being a member of the staff, am not eligible to enter the contest. It will indeed be a wonderful trip. Your recipe I have placed under the cook book heading.

THE BACKYARD GARDEN

CHAPTER XX. FIGHTING CROP EVILS.

[BY PROF. SPADE.]

If the reader tackles his backyard garden with shirt-sleeved determination and has read this series of articles seriously he needs no further guarantee of success even though he possesses no other knowledge of farming.

The chances are he will become a gardener as soon as the first plants appear above the surface, and if his fervor serves to make him delight in caring for the plant the family is going to be well supplied with green vegetables all summer long and until a yield that will last far into autumn and winter. The first hot week usually spells success or failure to the household's garden, and if he expects any crop at all he must step in with the determination to eradicate the army of weeds that suddenly spring up.

In harvesting, it is advisable to pick vegetables with the dew on, as they are superior to those picked under a hot sun. Beans are an exception. They may be picked dry. Handling the vines or fruit when wet invites rust. String beans, carrots, beets, corn, cucumbers, peas, radishes and squash are better when picked before full-sized. Never allow seed to ripen on the plants or they will stop bearing.

Here are some of the important diseases of vegetables and their remedies:

Beans—Rust; use Bordeaux mixture.

Lima Beans—Blight; Bordeaux mixture.

Beets—Leaf spot; Bordeaux mixture.

Cabbage—Club root; lime is a partial remedy.

Corn—Smut; cut out and burn.

Potatoes—Blight; Bordeaux mixture.

Peas—Mildew; Bordeaux mixture.

Lettuce—Mildew; fumes of sulphur.

Opening of Season Only 2 Weeks Away

Manager Reising Expected In Today—Club Owners Are Rearranging Schedule At Toronto and It Will Be Issued At End of Week.

[BY BERT PERRY.]

Up until noon today, Manager Reising had not arrived in the city. He is expected to get here, though, before evening. The London club manager was in Detroit last night, according to one of the directors of the local club, so he likely left there early this morning to motor here.

The recent rains halted the work on Tecumseh Park, but they have done the ground a lot of good. The diamond was quite hard from the warm weather of last week, and the big roller made little impression on it. The soaking of the past two days will make it easier to roll, and it should be in splendid shape for the practices next week.

The Canadian League season will open two weeks from today. The club owners are gathered at Toronto this afternoon arranging the schedule.

Brantford will, in all probability, open the season here. The Hamilton club is making an effort open here or have London open in Hamilton, but it is hardly likely the change will be made. The Guelph club has a real kick coming, as the schedule previously drafted did not give that team an opening date away from home. Ottawa opens in the Royal City, and the schedule should also provide for Guelph opening in Ottawa, but Brantford has been given this date, letting the Brantford club in on three opening dates. According to the schedule, London opens the season at Brantford on May 19 and then Brantford comes here for the opening game on May 20. The Brants are then supposed to jump to Ottawa.

President A. E. Somerville and Director Sam Stevely are attending the Canadian League meeting at Toronto today. Director George O'Neill, of the local club, is also there.

And They Didn't Have to Wire for Old Josh Reilly

Josh Reilly once was second baseman of the Chicago club, a good fellow and comical. Jimmy Connor replaced him and, although Josh hated to leave the team he liked Connor and wished him well. The team was starting on an eastern trip and Reilly was bidding farewell to his old team mates.

"Jimmie," he remarked confidentially to Connor, "if ever you get into a tight hole, if ever you are up there in the ninth with the bases loaded, two out, and two strikes called—stop the game and wire for Reilly to come and make that hit."

Everyone laughed. At the Polo grounds a week or ten days later that exact situation arose. Three were on bases, two out, it was the first of the night, Connor at bat. Two strikes were called, then someone on the bench yelled:

"Stop the game and send for Reilly!"

Connor braced, swung at the next ball, drove a hit over first base and won the game.

"I had to do it," he said that evening. "I was hitting for old Josh in the pinch—and I had to make that hit for him."

GLEANINGS FROM THE BOX SCORES

BRANCH RICKEY, OF THE BROWNS, pulled some more of his eccentric stuff yesterday when he announced Hamilton as his pitcher, and after the southpaw had pitched to one batter, yanked him and put in Bill James. James was wild and walked Vitti and Cobb on eight successive balls. A bad miff by Shotton resulted in these two scoring. This practically won the game, as the Browns could only score once off Boland.

WALTER JOHNSON WAS BUMPED again yesterday. This is the second time this season for Walter. His teammates could not hit Foster, who was brilliantly supported.

TWO TRIPLES PAVED THE WAY for Johnson's defeat. Speaker and Lewis were the hitters. Both of them counted in the scoring.

Chicago Boy Put Sleep Punch Over on Boston Lad in Seventh.

BOSTON, May 4.—Charlie White, of Chicago, knocked out Eddie Murphy, of this city, in the seventh round of a scheduled twelve-round bout tonight. The men are lightweights.

CLABBY OUTPOINTED MCCOY.
NEW YORK, May 4.—Jimmy Clabby, of Hammond, Ind., outpointed Al McCoy, of Brooklyn, claimant of the middleweight title, in every round of a ten-round bout in Brooklyn tonight. Clabby, however, was occasionally puzzled by McCoy's awkward style of fighting. The weights were: Clabby, 154; McCoy, 157½ pounds.

ERTLE BEAT EDDIE COULON.
MILWAUKEE, May 4.—John Ertle, of St. Paul, outpointed Eddie Coulon, of New Orleans, in a ten-round bout here tonight, in the opinion of newspapermen at the ringside. The two fighters are bantamweights.

Parkhill Boy Plays With Jackson, Mich. Lad, in Ten Rounds at Saginaw.

SAGINAW, May 4.—Alex McDonald, of Parkhill, Ont., all but scored a knockout in his fight with Artie Kauffman, of Jackson, before Billy St. Mary's Club here tonight. In all of the ten rounds except the eighth, McDonald played with Kauffman, jabbing him as he pleased. Wicked left hooks seemed to be the Canadian champion's favorite method, and he pummeled the Jackson lad all over the ring. In the eighth, Kauffman made a desperate effort at a knockout, but McDonald's defense was impenetrable, apparently, and the right swings either fell short or glanced off McDonald's glove. McDonald left the ring at the end of the fight showing hardly a mark.

NEW YORK, May 4.—Catcher Pickering, of the New York American League baseball club, was released today to the Richmond club, of the International League, under an optional agreement.

HAMPTON DAME DOES BEST MILE TUESDAY

Light Rain Fell, But Woodbine Track Was Fast.

HENDRIE PLATERS—GOOD

Southern Maid Displayed the Best Form of Davies' Stable.

TORONTO, May 4.—A cold, raw wind from the east, accompanied by a light rain, swept across the course at Woodbine Park this morning, making it disagreeable for training purposes. The track was fast, however, and some interesting moves were witnessed, as it was work day for the majority of the King's Platers.

The fastest work of the Plate candidates was that of Wm. Krausman's Hampton Dame, which put in a mile in 1:46 4-5, the first 1-2 in 51 2-5 and the 2-4 in 1:18. This was accomplished rather handsomely.

The Hendrie Platers, Last Spark, Splutter and Geo. M. Hendrie's Red Fire, together, were rated 1-2 in 51, 3-4 in 1:18, the mile in 1:47 4-5, and galloped out to the 1-4 miles in 2:16 3-5. Last Spark was showing the way by half a length in front of Splutter, both well in hand, but Red Fire was beaten off and pulled up a little lame. It was a nice move considering the conditions.

Harry Bassett II, the Giddings' reliance for the Guineas, showed improvement today, when he put in a mile in 1:48 2-5, the first six furlongs in 1:15 1-5. He was accompanied by Ondramon the last five furlongs.

The Newell Plater, Revencourt, covered his mile in 1:45, as usual showing plenty of foot in the early stages. Maiden Bradley, another Plate eligible, owned by M. Leiby, but a doubtful starter, put in 3-4 in 1:21.

Privet Petal, from the Hendrie stable, galloped as easy as a breeze in 1:45 and a half in 1:48 2-5, and pulled up five-eighths in 1:02. Revencourt was accompanied by Splutter, in 1:45 1-5. Knights Differ's 2-4 was in 1:21, and Starcross, with Max in Beale, covered 3-4 in 1:15 2-5, a reliable performance. Moving Picture with King Hamburg went together a mile in 1:45 2-5. Thorndiffe, the Corporation Stake candidate, with Early Peep breezed three furlongs in 37 2-5.

Hearts of Oak displayed some of his old-time speed when he stepped a 1-2 in 49 2-5, 1-3 in 1:02, 2-4 in 1:17 4-5 and the mile in 1:49 galloping. Amphion was easy mile in 1:45, and in 1:17 4-5 and a half in 1:49 galloping. Amphion was easy mile in 1:45, and in 1:17 4-5 and a half in 1:49 galloping. Amphion was easy mile in 1:45, and in 1:17 4-5 and a half in 1:49 galloping.

Ban Johnson Would Withdraw All Suits

American League President Willing To Take All Baseball Cases Out of Court, But Other League Officials Are Not Strong for the Idea — Feds Won't Agree.

BOSTON, May 4.—Baneroff E. Johnson, president of the American League, today declared himself in favor of withdrawing from the court's suits between organized baseball and the Federal League. A suggestion to this effect from Philip Ball, president of the St. Louis Club of the Federal League, he said, met with his approval.

Mr. Johnson explained that in an earlier statement to the effect that he was willing to have the suit in the Illinois Federal Court, now awaiting a decision by Judge Kenesaw M. Landis, withdrawn, he did not refer to this case in particular.

The suggestion, and my acceptance of it," said Johnson, "referred to suits generally. Baseball should have been kept out of the courts, and it is not now too late to reach an agreement outside of the courtrooms, I believe."

President Johnson read dispatches from various sections of the country, in which court baseball league officials said they knew nothing of the proposal to withdraw the suits, but he declined to make any comment.

Mr. Johnson expressed the opinion that the national pastime as professionalized, "would be bettered by the trials it is undergoing. He asserted that the court today, Judge Landis is not the court of the future."

TENER DOES NOT KNOW IT.
NEW YORK, May 4.—President John K. Tener, of the National League, when informed of Ban Johnson's statement relative to withdrawing the baseball suits, said he did not know it.

[Canadian Press.]
New York, May 5.—The oral or memoranda system of recording bets at the race tracks, which has been practiced in New York State since the anti-gambling law went into effect, will be tested by the test hope to be able to substitute for the present system a method calling for a deposit of cash with a stakeholder.

Two men who made a cash bet at the meeting of the Rockaway Hunting Club a few days ago and a stakeholder who held the money were selected for the test of the law, it was learned today. All three have been held for the grand jury at Cedarhurst, Long Island. This was intended as a preliminary to an appeal to the supreme court for a writ of habeas corpus, in which it will be contended that the cash bet was not a violation of the law.

MEETING AT INGERSOLL TO DISCUSS BASEBALL

INGERSOLL, May 4.—A meeting to discuss the baseball outlook will be held tomorrow night, at which it is expected there will be a representative attendance of all interested in the game. At the meeting the whole situation will be fully gone into from the standpoint of both intermediate and junior teams. From the interest that has been manifested in past seasons it is believed that there will be enough material to warrant the forming of a strong league with proper classification for the players.

Greatest Interest All Over the City in Advertiser Trip Contest.

WHO CONTESTANTS ARE Many Musical Young Ladies—Enthusiasm Rampant Among All.

A little hand shot up in the air. A little voice piped: "Please teacher, Miss — got the pin-money prize." From all parts of the room came chuckles. "Goody, goody, goody."

"Would you like to clap because Miss — got the ten dollars in gold?" asked teacher.

"Yes, yes, yes," came an eager response, followed by a clapping of hands that left no doubt in regard to the interest taken in the Panama-Pacific trip contest by the pupils in a certain room of a certain city school.

These little people have been clipping ballots from home papers, oh, so neatly, and bringing them to teacher for her to add to the pile. They feel very sure that they will win the coveted prize, and now they are determined to work valiantly and win for her the coveted prize as well.

All over the city, contest enthusiasm has spread like wildfire, and just as there are candidates, so there are supporting forces.

The boys and girls, wherever their sympathies lie, are allies with whom to be reckoned, and there are very few of the young people of school age who are not taking an active and practical interest in some particular contestant.

Grown-Ups Enthusiastic, Too. The grown-up people are as spontaneously enthusiastic as their juniors, though they have required more rousing. As the contest progresses in its second attack, those who looked on in a disinterested manner in the beginning are awakening to the importance of helping their favorite. Pin-money contests of last week not only tested the candidates themselves but also the prowess of well-wishers who had to be won over.

Reference has already been made to the number of musical girls who have entered as candidates. Miss Elsie Anderson, who until the last few weeks has been associated with the office staff of the London Foundry, is a member of the Memorial Church choir. The centennial Methodist choir occupies the proud position of having two members in the contest. Miss Blanche Ball and Miss Leonarda Coughlin. Miss Ball has many warm friends and well-wishers, who are giving her all the aid in their power. Miss Coughlin was late in entering the campaign, and only last week began actual work, revealing her ability in raising her score to fifty-three thousand votes.

Miss Coughlin is enthusiastically championed by the Marconi Club, is herself a capable young teacher of the piano and an ardent music lover.

Well-Known Musician. No musician of London is more widely and favorably known than Miss Elsie Anderson, who was nominated by the Women's Music Club. Askin Street Methodist choir nominated Miss Elsie Anderson, who is standing loyally by her. Miss Edna Weston, who leads in number three district this week, though losing the pin-money prize to an opponent, is the popular soprano soloist of the First Presbyterian choir. In number four district, though four candidates are entered, the next for first honors has resolved itself into a triangular one between Miss Pearl Crawford, to whose standard the employees of the McCormack Manufacturing Company have rallied in full force. Mrs. F. Jones, whose campaign has been watched with especially sympathetic interest by the Grocery Association, and Miss Emma Alder, who has behind her a strong array of fighting as well as musical talent in the First Methodist choir.

Miss Annie Page, of South London, is the one representative in that district of the Anglican Church. Miss Winnifred Hicks, a "runner-up" in the contest, is a member of the Western Realty Company staff. Miss Carrie Brighton, the daughter of a prominent business man of the city, has many avenues of support from which to draw.

Assured of Warm Support. Mrs. Lily F. Real, wife of Sergeant Real, of the 15th Battalion, is assured of warm support not only from military people, but also from Daughters of the Empire and others, who feel it a privilege to lend a little assistance in winning.

CITY FARMING MAKES MONEY AND MEN

By Rev. Madison C. Peters.

There is a small group of men in Philadelphia who believe in the precedence of human rights over all property investment, and for eighteen years Philadelphia, through its vacant lots cultivation movement, has not only led in practical results, but has served as a source of inspiration for the founding of similar movements in France, England and Germany.

The association prepares the idle land which is loaned to them (subject to disposition when the owner wants it) for cultivation by plowing, etc., then dividing it into gardens about one-sixth of an acre. Fertilizers and sufficient rich seed to insure a successful start are furnished the gardeners, which cost the association about $5 a garden. For these they charge $1 for the first season, $2 for the second season, and so on until the family pay the full cost of that which the association furnishes free. The families spread the fertilizer, plant the seeds, cultivate the growing crops, gather the produce, and, after supplying their family needs, they sell the surplus that remains.

Last summer 603 families were allotted plots covering 81½ acres. These diminutive farms on city land, which otherwise would have produced nothing but weeds and rubbish piles, and, in addition to being disfigurements, would have been breeders of disease, have provided about 2,000 men, women and children with a most healthful exercise, an instructive form of occupation, and materially aided in reducing the high cost of living.

The cost of cultivating these lands was $7,852, the food produced was valued at $22,000—$1 for every $1 invested—and all the profits went to the workers, who earned the help given them. This back-to-the-land movement is the best form of progressive education, and the most practical and profitable education and real happiness.

The largest profits of this non-pecuniary plan cannot be figured. It is not a charity; it is social justice—an opportunity for those in need to help themselves by their own work.

"The greatest value our little garden brought us," said a Frenchwoman shortly after a Philadelphia had introduced the plan in France, "has not been in the fine vegetables it yielded all summer, or the good times that I and the children have had in the open air, but in the glasses of beer and abstinent my husband hasn't taken."

"Quite right, mother," said a man standing near by. "No one can ever know the evil one men don't do while we're busy in our gardens."

The total number of vacant parcels of land in the city of New York for 1914 was 182,000; the total for Brooklyn was 50,391. These parcels are often more than an ordinary building lot, and sometimes comprise several acres. It is safe to say that there are upward of 250,000 idle acres within our city limits. These could produce, if the same returns were made in New York as in Philadelphia, $400 an acre, which would mean $100,000,000, and a net profit of $75,000,000. Thus, to use these vacant lots, which are now eyesores and nuisances, would not only be making something out of nothing, but give to thousands of families the relief—the opportunity to help themselves to procure a livelihood.

The charlatans of charity hate vacant lot cultivation, not because it won't work, but because it will. If $100,000 were set aside for the relief of 20,000 families, and the dispensing of the relief were gratuitously managed, even then each family would receive only $5 worth of food; but these families on gardens would result in making available $100,000 worth of food, an average for each of 20,000 families of about $50.

These facts should appeal to practical people who are sincerely in earnest for self-support, better habits, practical education, and the present need in the best possible way.

Another illustration of the value of the relief of the poor is the case of the Irish National Volunteers. The Irish National Volunteers, who are now serving in the British army, are a fine body of men from the north of Ireland.

CHILDREN ARE DOING SHARE, TOO, FOR THE EMPIRE

Also For Humanity and Right—Deny Themselves That Soldiers May Benefit.

REAL SELF-SACRIFICE Many of Youngsters Keep Identity Secret As They Donate To Funds.

Toronto, May 4.—While the men of Canada are fighting on the battlefield or training for the battle yet to be fought, and while the women of Canada are working with a will in almost every town and village of the Dominion for the relief of those who suffer and the comfort of those who bear the brunt of this colossal conflict, the children are likewise doing their share for the cause of humanity and right. To the children of Canada much credit is due, and in the years to come they will be able to look back to the days when they did something in the great struggle of the nations.

Not a few instances have come to the notice of the society where children, some of tender years, have denied themselves something that a child enjoys, in order that they may do something for the sake of their country and empire, of which they will later become active citizens. Many of them have fathers and brothers at the front, and in the contingents that have to follow, and while they enjoy the skating rink and the toboggan slide they still have time to devote to more serious matters in a serious period of our national life.

Splendid Self-Sacrifice. For many weeks a little boy, aged nine years, used to come regularly every Saturday afternoon to the head office of the Red Cross Society in this city, and leave $3 cents with the treasurer. On more than one occasion he was asked to give his name, but he never would say who he was or even the school that he attended. This is the only child who has been named for the soldiers' fund.

Here is another example of what our children are doing for their country. In Montreal there is a little orphan girl named Elaine, who has a very real conception of her duty towards her compatriots who are fighting at the front. It found expression in a pair of wooden wristlets which were forwarded to the militia department with a simple little letter explaining that the donor was an orphan in Montreal with no means of support, but that she wished to have her contribution forwarded to some deserving soldier.

The militia department upon the advice of Captain Dupont, French Government agent in Canada, has sent the wristlets to General de Lamoignon, Paris, with the request that the little girl's desire be fulfilled. The militia department has made every effort to trace the little Miss Elaine, but failing this, wishes to make this a public acknowledgment of her gift.

In Lucknow, Ont., seven little children have been working for the soldiers. They are not old enough to knit socks or knee caps but they have each made a wash cloth, a very useful article, and one that is used a great deal in the hospitals at the present time. The names of these little workers are: Dora Mitchell, aged 9; Gordon Thompson, aged 10; Willie Thompson, aged 8; Eva Johnston, aged 9; Mary Smith, aged 8; Alex. Murdie, aged 10; and Irene Rathwell, aged 10.

Doing Good Work. These little children are doing a good work for their country, and for the empire, and they are setting a splendid example to many who have not yet realized the seriousness of the present crisis, and have so far done nothing for the soldiers. While the proportion of those who are doing nothing for their country at the present time is small, there are some who do not seem to know that a war is in progress. The little children of Lucknow, Ont., have, by their example, shown that there are not too small to do their share for the soldiers, and they should inspire some to fall in line and join the great work.

A good work is being done by the Boy Scouts and Girl Guides of Canada, and only a few days ago Mrs. Plumptre received a letter from the Guide captain of Chatham, Ont., saying she was shipping six dozen pneumonia jackets to the head office as well as surgical sponges, scarves, handkerchiefs, etc. When it is considered that our soldiers are standing in water up to their waists for hours at a time in the trenches it will readily be understood that such a gift as a pneumonia jacket will be deeply appreciated by the men who are fighting for us.

Another Girl Guide, who lives in this city, and is 15 years of age, wrote to Mrs. Plumptre in the following terms: "I do not think I am doing enough in aid of my King and country. I know how to bandage, and would like very much to go away as a nurse or for scouting. I am not afraid of anything. I have a girl friend who wishes to go, too."

That is the spirit that should emanate from every young boy and girl in Canada today. That girl guide felt that she was not doing enough for her King and country, and she wanted to go and country, and would like very much to go away as a nurse or for scouting. I am not afraid of anything. I have a girl friend who wishes to go, too."

SOCIALISTS OPPOSE GERMAN WAR CREDITS

Twenty-three Vote Against Giving Whole Amount Government Asked.

[Canadian Press.] London, May 5.—A considerable minority of the Socialist party in the German Reichstag opposed the voting of the first war credits demanded by the German Government, according to last Saturday's Berlin Vossische Zeitung, a copy of which has been received here. The newspaper explains that at a meeting of the Socialist party before the session of the Reichstag on March 20, which voted the credits, a series of votes were taken. In these 23 Socialists are declared to have opposed the granting of credits for $2,500,000,000, but the newspaper asserts that it was decided by 63 votes to 39 that the party should support the budget as a whole. The newspaper adds that a motion that it should be expressly stated that only a majority of the Socialist party support the estimate was rejected against a minority vote of 23.

NEARLY TWO HUNDRED NAMES IN CANADIAN CASUALTY LIST; FOURTEENTH IS HIT HEAVILY

[Canadian Press.]
OTTAWA, May 5.—Another casualty list containing the names of nearly two hundred members of the first Canadian divisional, killed, wounded, died of wounds and gas poisoning, and suffering from the effects of the German gas, was issued from the British War Department this morning. Heavy losses among the 4th, 10th, 14th and 15th battalions are recorded, the list of killed in the 14th being the most extensive in any one battalion list so far received, as a result of the fierce battles around Lensensmarcke and St. Julien.

The list of killed in the 14th are mostly of English addresses, such casualties being given out immediately after received. It is expected a heavy list of members with Canadian addresses will probably be given out tonight when confirmation of notification of "next of kin" has been received by the casualty office.

That the Princess Patricia have again been in a heavy action is evidenced by the heavy list of wounded among this corps, which has been doing great work in the trenches about Elnel. Losses among the artillery batteries are beginning to come in. The name of Lieut.-Col. Watt, of No. 3 Field Ambulance, which was severely injured, appears in this morning's list.

Doctor Said Only Hope Was in an Operation

Was Skeptical When He Began the Use of Dr. Chase's Ointment—Relief Came Quickly.

Here is a plain, honest statement in regard to Dr. Chase's Ointment. Between the lines of this letter you can read the gratitude which its writer feels. One does not suffer from anything distressing piles for ten years without appreciating a cure when it is obtained.

Almost every mail brings the report of someone who has been cured of piles by the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment. Such statements are never used without the permission of the writer, and until we are satisfied that the cure is genuine and the writer a person of responsibility.

You may believe in operations for piles, and think there is no other cure. Write to Mr. Ingles, inclosing stamp, and he will gladly verify his statement. He will tell you that the pain, the expense, the risk of an operation are quite unnecessary. That relief and cure come with the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Mr. Ernest W. Ingles, Penitentiary, B. C., writes: "I suffered from piles for ten years, and though I tried all kinds of ointments and injections I really had no permanent relief until I used Dr. Chase's Ointment. When I began this treatment I had absolutely no faith in it, for I had been examined by a well-known physician in Vancouver, and he said that an operation was the only thing that would benefit me. It was surprising relief I obtained from the very first box, and now after using four boxes I am practically cured. My case was so exceptionally bad that I received no relief day or night, and for this reason the results are wonderful."

You can obtain Dr. Chase's Ointment from any dealer at 60 cents a box. If you do not want to risk this much send a two-cent stamp to pay postage, and mention this paper, and we shall send you a sample box free. We are so certain that any sufferer from piles will obtain relief by using this ointment that we do not hesitate to make you this offer. Edman-son, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.
