The first conference between the grievances committee of the emplovees of the Grand Trunk Railway and the officials of the road under the new president, E. J. Chamberlin, who succeeded Charles M. Hays, one of the victims of the great Titanic disaster, is scheduled to commence today in Montread, and among the matters to be brought to the attention of Mr. Chamberlin will be a proposal to reinstate all those who took part in the strike of the trainmen Juring 1910, and who were never permitted to resume after a settlement had been arrived at.

Mr Martin R. Pabst. a vardman has left this city for Montreal to represent London members of the brotherhood, and all other lodges on the system will send delegates. Assistant Superintendent W. R. Davidson, of this city, also left for Montreal Sunday night to take part in the conference.

The meeting is looked upon as being of the greatest importance by the men in that the attitude of the new management toward the employees will now be learned. The late president, Charles M. Hays, had the reputation of guarding the interests of the company very strongly without particular interest for what the men claimed to be their rights, and in view of this fact the Montreal conference is being closely watched for the purpose of learning the attitude of the new president.

proprietors of an East London livery.

A Six-Year-Old Mare. The animal, a fine six-year-old black mare, known as "Nora," which was purchased in June at a cost of $200, died of exhaustion vesterday as a re-suit of her hard usage. According to the information in the hands of both the police and the Humane Society, a man called at Ross' livery on Friday, and giving the name of Dockstader took "Nora" away, ex-plaining that he was going to Dorchester and that he intended to purchase a horse there.

It developed, it is alleged, that "Dockstader" was Harry Walsh, a London bartender. An hour later the police received a number of telephone calls from different citizens who had seen the horse being whipped and galloped over the pavements with the tehrmometer registering over 90

After proceeding along King street with a couple of other men, all in their shirt sleeves, the driver galloped the horse out Hamilton road, where he was observed by a merchant, who re-cognizedw them, and several other people.

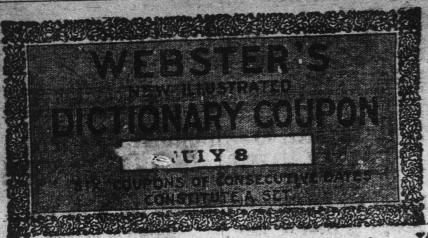

A Vicious Act. Later it has been learned they took the horse out of its harness and rode bare-backed along the Holden road in the vicinity of Vauxhall bridge for a couple of hours. During that time Emerson Brooks, one of the party, was thrown to the road and the horse escaped, it is claimed. Walsh, however, offered an East End resident named Ollson a dollar to capture the mare and return her to him. Ollson did as he was requested, according to the story he has told the couty police, but on his return was set upon by the men, who endeavored to take the money back. As e result Emerson Brooks is now under arrest, and will be tried before Squire Chittick on a charge of assault. Started for Home, Before returning to London the men made a trip to Graham's Hotel, on the Hamilton road, it is alleged, and on their way back continued to unmercifully beat the mare, which was then almost exhausted. However, in her galloping, the buggy slewed in the heavy ruts, and striking a telegraph pole, threw the oc-cupants to the roadway. The horse then broke free from the vehicle and started for the Ross livery, near the corner of Dundas and Adelaide streets. However, at the corner of Hamilton road and Adelaide she collided with Dr. Campbell's buggy, and on Dundas street staggered into an Ottaway street car.

A veterinary who conducted an examination is of the belief that neither of the accidents would have caused death, and that Nora's career was closed when she was driven to exhaustion

All Bordered Cotton Dress Voiles to be Cleared Tomorrow at Half Price

About 600 Yards 50c to $1.50, Sale Price 25c to 75c Yard

Our rule in merchandising is that goods must be sold during the season they are bought for, if possible. If too large quantities are bought in some lines to supply the demand, then radical treatment must follow. No matter how carefully selections are made, each season finds many lines which have to be repeated to meet the demand. Other lines, in order to buy in best market, may be in too long lengths. Never can this be adjusted that a buyer can anticipate the market exactly and buy the exact quantities to supply the demand. If such were the case storekeeping would become too dull, and we would not have these lines to stir up a little excitement and bargains to share with our customers.

Amongst these Bordered Voiles are the season's prettiest colorings, suitable for ladies' and children's dresses, and the summer has just begun. The very newest materials. BUY ON TUESDAY AT HALF PRICE.

Crex Carpets and Rugs for the Verandah and Summer Home

The great prairies of Wisconsin and Minnesota yield a tall, tough grass of same time permit perfect circulation of the summer breeze. Widths: 4, 6, 8 and 10 pred round stalks, which grew for years in its beauty, undisturbed and unrecogcolored round stalks, which grew for years in its beauty, undisturbed and unrecognized for any use until quite recently. This wonderful grass—the world's most beautiful harvest—was to be manufactured into a floor covering and ultimately serve its purpose in homes all over the world. Crex is a floor covering for everybody. It adapts itself to all surroundings, and can be used the year 'round for library, dining-room, bedrooms or halls, and for summer use it is the only correct floor covering for porches and cottages.

BISHOP AND PRIESTS IN SERIOUS CLASH

Trouble Leads to Reading of Pastoral Letter By Archbishop Bruchesi.

Montreal, July 7.—Serious trouble between the College of St. Marie, which removed to St. Johns, Que., following the disastrous fire at Marieville, and the Bishop of Ste. Hyacinthe reached an acute stage today by the reading of a pastoral letter in all the Lemieux and his colleagues to again open the college at St. John's; forbidding parents to send their children to the institution in question, and declaring that if the priests and others interested in what is designated as a revolt against the decision of the Holy See persist in their insubor-dination it will be treated as a grievous sin by the episcopal authorities.

The pastoral letter read today is couched in the severest manner, and is very definite in its denunciation of the priests who have disobeyed the mandates of the Bishop of Ste. Hyacinthe. It indorsed the Holy See.

> Try Cuticura Soap and Ointment Free

Mgr. Bruchesi presides, but the epis-copal document read in the churches this morning is ample proof that his grace of Montreal did not hesitate an instant when it became known that his episcopal brother at Ste. Hyacinthe was antagonistic to the change and that his lordship's stand had re-ceived the approval of the Vatican.

Two reasons are given by the oil men for the increase: The first, the rules of the Port of London authority, which prohibit the storage of large quantities of the spirit in London, thereby increasing the cost of handling it, and secondly, that the steadily increasing demand for refined spirit has left a large quantity of heavier oits on hand, which is a dead loss to the oil companies unless a market can be found

Voigt has been living peacefully in Luxemburg on an income received from an anonymous Berlin widow as a token of her admiration of his success in fooling the Koepenick officials.

He was travelling from Luxemburg to Lauscha, in Thuringia, when he read the report of his death in the train. He got out at Coburg, and taking his stand in the market place started selling picture postcards of himself, shouting: "Here is the world-famous Captain of Koepenick. I am not dead, but still alive and kicking."

But there were no damped spirits among these daughters of the regiment. A "miss" or "five o'clock outer" had more terrors for them than wet hair and sodden boots. The In-ter-County team competition, in which six counties will be represented, is being anticipated with a certain grim eagerness. The events have taken place strict accordance with Bisley bylaws. The ranges are 25, 50 and 100 yards—seven shots to be fired at each range, no "sighter" being allowed. BASEBALL AND THE FRENCH LANGUAGE.

Some of the speakers at the French Language Congress made caustic remarks on the adulteration of the ancestral speech by the admixture of mere English. The French language, they would urge, must have no truck or trade with English, much as they may respect each other at a careful distance. The voice of the schoolmaster purist, no stranger amongst ourselves either, was raised.

But what is the use of talking? Base ball is a game which appeals to French and English alike, its genial abandon It is true that Mr. Borden has promissweeps away all snarls and national crustiness. Its language lays hold of the French-Canadian under the glamor of the sport. Some of the finest players are French-Canadian. Is it any surprise to find the French papers of Montreal and Quebec recounting the daily games in a dialect that would all those French language congressmen with pain? If Montreal had only a winning team instead of a tail-ender, there is no knowing what would happen to the language of Jacques Cartier In the baseball column.

"Sommaire-Buts sur erreurs, Montreal I, Jersey City 1. 2 buts, Breen, Thoney. Sacrifice hits, Demmitt, Pierce. Sacrifice files, Yeager, Bransfield, But vole, Breen, Laisses sur les buts, Jersey City 6, Montreal 5. Double jeu, Delninger et Janvrin. Buts sur 4 balles, Carroll 2. Struck out, Carroll 3, Smith 5. Umpires, Kelly et Nallin, Temps, 1:30."

The words "score," "wild throw," "inhing," "hit," "sacrifice flies." "struck out," "umpires," appearing here and in the story of the game preceding the summary quoted, are noteworthy. Even more amusing are the literal translations into French, such as "equipe," "lesmoments critiques." It seemed impossible, however, to translate directly into French the important information that "Carroll did good work." "Carroll a bien joue" seemed to the French reporter a more natural expression; "work" is the word of the nation which takes its pleasures sadly. The Frenchman can hardly, perhaps, conceive of the "lanceur" (pitcher) as

But English words and idioms creep in from the baseball world. What does the Montreal crowd call peanuts? or bleachers? or grandstand play? It appears that Le Devoir, Mr. Bourassa's paper tries to stem the tide by printing Its baseball news in a pure French adaptation.

The very names of the ball players are a popularization of the English the caller asked. language, largely with an Irish accent. Such names as Casey, Thoney, Kelly and Breen must be simply irresistible to any ear but a Castor's, especially calls 'mischief' and what they call when borne in such apparently good French company as that of Janvrin. This last should be the decoy to attract even Mr. Bourassa. Hon. Col. Sam Hughes advised the Nationalist leader to improve himself with a little riding and shooting; his mind might be more peacefully broadened by attendance at the baseball games and efitering into their spirit and patois. It is an influence that Mr. Bourassa and the French Congress may deprecate but can no more hold back than Canute could confine the ocean tide. One source of strength to the English language has been its readiness to borlow from others and to annex its borsowings. The French in Europe are now importing the language of English sport with a kind of furore. Le fight, le knock-out, le heat, le foot-ball are becoming household phrases in Paris. Why not a similar hospitality on the dollars."

part of Canadian French? ROOSEVELT BURNS HIS BRIDGES.

Mr. Roosevelt, through his campaign manager, has given the signal for the launching of a new party. It needs no gift of prophecy to foretell the nomination of Mr. Roosevelt for the presidency. For what other purpose would he call a convention? The manifesto, signed by forty of his followers, was written by Mr. Roosevelt himself, The reference to Mount Sinai reveals his hand, Everyone knows that Mr. Roose-Nelt some years ago rediscovered the ten commandments. He has gone a step further and names himself the new Moses of his country.

The nomination of so progressive, able and high-minded a man as Woodrow Wilson gave Mr. Roosevelt an opportunity to show that he was not actuated by motives of personal ambition in bolting the Chicago convention. Thanks in a large measure to Bryan, the Democratic platform is ferring to the reciprocity campaign. It more advanced than any upon which either of the great parties has ever stood. Both the candidate and the platform could be consistently supported When Henry Irving was making one of his last tours of the country he found himself with an open date in machine element which contrived his renomination. Woodrow Wilson as an Author [By Special Arrangement With the Winnipeg Telegram.]

The nomination of Mr. Woodrow Wilson as Democratic candidate for the presidency of the United States will induce many people to read his best known work, "A History of the American people." His book was published by Harper and Brothers in 1902. It consists of five volumes, beautifully illustrated and handsomely printed and bound, Dr. Wilson wrote this ambitions work when he was president of Princeton University, but he commands style that is so clear, so vivid, so entertaining, that the average reader would not suspect the author of being an academic dignitary. It is just the kind of book that the plain-going reader likes, and the professional historian abhors. Your scientific historian asks for facts sifted with care from heaps and heaps of musty documents; he is suspicious of any piece of writing that is interesting; the drier it is the more valuable in his eyes. But the reader who loves his country and admires her great men and revels in the color and action of the past wants to get impressions, opinions, bird's-eye views. He wants the author to plough through the dust heaps and bring out the nuggets he has found there. Macaulay once said that "facts are the mere dross of history"; Woodrow Wilson warns the reader against approaching his book for "mere information." He will get that, it is true, but he will also get what is better, a brillant essay, givng a broad outline of the history of the United States, sweeping generalizations, keen judgments and forceful comments.

if a reader classes Woodrow Wilson with such an historian as Bancroft. Nothing has ever given me such a tired feeling as to run my eyes over look heavy; they feel heavy; they are heavy. But Wilson belongs not to this ponderous alcove in the library; he ranks with such historians as Macaulay and John Richard Green, occupying, I should say, a midway position between the two. His history contains only about two-thirds as many words as Green's "Short History of the English People." Like Green, Wilson is tremendously interested in the common people; he loves to paint the progress of democracy, the betterment of social conditions, and the establishment of more beneficial legislation. A most interesting feature of his work, and one which shows that he has risen superior to a narrowness of outlook that has marked many an American historian, is his emphasis on the inseparable connection between European and American history. His handling of the causes of the American revolution, always a source of special interest to Canadian readers, is broad and firm, much more liberal than the general position adopted by his fellow historians of the United States. In his treatment of modern events he displays a freedom from idolatry and prejudice. He does not believe, for instance, that all those who fought in the late war with Spain

It will be altogether a false notion were heroes. In order that I may give my readers a sample of Wilson's clear style in treating a rather abstract subject, let me quote a characteristic utterance from an essay on "The Declaration of Independence," contributed to "The North American Review." Dr. Wilson is, of course, well known as a writer careless in failing to have his men ready, of essays and reviews on political and governmental conditions in the United States. This passage shows that he has a hearty respect for the law and would avoid the folly of extremes:-"There is no longer any need to debate what liberty is. The question has been tried out again and again, both in theory and in practice-in the council chamber and on the field of battle, when the air was calm and when it thrilled with passion-and by no race more thoroughly than by that from which we derive our law; and we may say that we know. Affairs swing this way and that, sometimes with revolutionary force as interests wage their war for advantage, but we know where the mid-point of perfect poise lies, and seek constantly to turn our lines of policy towards it. Liberty consists in the best possible adjustment between the power of the government and the privilege of the individual; and only law can affect that adjustment. Where liberty is there must be perfect understanding be-tween the individual and those who control him; and if either we or they can disregard the understanding, there is license or anarchy. It was in that knowledge that the of our government loved the law." This seems to be a very wise and moderate statement, but it has wide possibilities of interpretation. How to adjust the relations between the

London Club May Land Mike Maurer If Agreement Can Be Made With Flint Team.

Shortstop Gilhooly, who was purchased by the London Canadian League Club last week from the Canton, O-P League team, reported to the local management late last evening, and was taken to Guelph with the team this morning. It is not known whether he will play in today's games or not, as Manager Bowerman has not yet announced where he intends to play his latest addition to the infield. However, it is not unlikely that Fox will be on the bench in today's double-header and Gilhooly will play third base. Gilhooly is a short, stocky little fellow, and he should be a wel-come addition to the club. He is a good hitter and a fast base-runner, while his fielding borders on the sen-sational. His work with the Canton team this season was attracting attention from some of the bigger clubs, and London was lucky to get him. If he continues his good work it is not improbable that he will be drafted at Manager Bowerman went from Detroit direct to Guelph this morning and did not stop off in London. It is not yet known whether he signed any new men while in the Michigan city or not. The local club may sign up Mike Maurer, the Detroit pitcher, providing a deal can be put through with the Flint, South Michigan League, team. Maurer was released by Saginaw a few days ago and later signed with Flint. His arm has been bothering him lately and as he had a pretty strenuous session with the Detroit Tigers on their spring training trip, he needs a rest. It is said he is making an effort to break away from the South Michigan League, which is about on its last legs, owing to disputes between the club owners and the officials of the league.

The greatest cosmetic known is pure air. One has but to look at the The greatest cosmetic known is pure air. One has but to look at the pallor of the men or women who are long in close confinement, as in our penitentiaries, to realize this. The body, as well as the lungs, needs air, and it would be impossible for anyone to live if he were encased in an airtight covering, even though he could breathe through his nose. It is a matter of history that one of the choir boys at the Vatican was covered with gold foil to represent an angel in one of their ecclesiastical pageants, and at the end he was found to be dead.

However, in your desire for fresh air, do not overdo it and become sunburned and tanned.

The senseless habit which so many girls have of taring their hands and lder and turning in the neck of their shirtwaists and allowing their skin to become tanned and burned, is very reprehensible. skin never is as fine again after being burned, and it is needless, from a health standpoint, to become sunburned. The girl who exercises much in the open air should wear a large hat or a veil as a protection to her face, and long sleeves and large gloves for her hands and arms. when she begins to go to parties, she will find that her skin will be all the

Be sure and sleep with all your windows open, and do not be afraid of the night air, as it is usually purer than the air in the day

It is also foolish to think too much of our grandmother's bugbear 'drafts." One does not take cold from a draft. Cold is contracted from a germ, and the only way a draft can give it to you is by stirring up the germs that have congregated in an unused or dirty room.

Learn to think of fresh air as one of your greatest blessings, and use all you can of it on all occasions, and you will find that you will soon possessed of a splendid lung capacity, which will add years to your life, besides giving you a wholesome, clean complexion that will be good to look upon. You will also find that if you take long breaths of pure air every day, it will in some way clear out the cobwebs from your brain. Living habitually in an atmosphere of fresh air will make your thoughts and ideas have a freshness and enthusiasm never attained by those who breathe in a vitiated

If the world seems to you full of cruelty and coldness and selfishness and vice, go about your business and show it how beautiful are kindness, warmth, sympathy and virtue.

That is the most effective and practical and prompt way to interest the public in your ideals of better living. Give it a sample. You can never improve anything or anybody by making yourself disagreeable and obnoxious in manner, speech and conduct.

A fault-finding and over-critical and carping manner is all of those things. No matter if you are finding fault with great evils, and great drawbacks progress, and great flaws in our civilization; yet, if you carry a "grouchy' face, an aggressive manner and an irritating voice with you, then you are disagreeable and obnoxious; and you are making the world worse instead of You are becoming a public nuisance.

Many reformers are that. And they repel, instead of attract, those who might be won over to their views of equity and justice if they went about their reform work with a happy face and magnetic personality. One of the greatest and most humane-hearted reformers the world has

Mr. Bowerman's gold medal heaver, in the person of "Big Matt' Hynes, the pride of Palmerston, where he is called Matthew by the ladies and "Heinie" by the kiddies, was the cause of much annoyance on the part of Mr. Amby Kane's Kanines on Saturday afternoen. Said peevishness was due to the fact that Mr. Hynes was delivering a fresh consignment of his fifty-seven varieties of unhittable slings and charging it up to Mr. Kane's account in Jim Fitzgerald's pennant scramble. Of course, all this was very much resented by the pikers from dykeville, and, although they succeeded in drawing up even to Mr. Bowerman's Beauties at one stage of the proceedings, the thin end of a 5-to-3 score was tacked off on to them when the game came to an end.

A CHANGE FOR THE BETTER, by the ladies and "Helnie" by the kiddies, A CHANGE FOR THE BETTER.

It was really lovely pastime after what the Indians have been palming off on to the home folks this short while back, and as a result Mr. Bowerman's bread-winners are viewing the pennant struggle from a loftier posttion than when they entered the contest.

position than when they entered the contest.

As mentioned before, Mr. Hynes was the genuine pickle in the froile, and he had that bunch of red-shafted truck-pushers from Brantford trying to hit the ball with their guidance of the "old boy" himself, and there was not much more to the game after the fifth inning than Messrs. Hynes and Bowerman.

It was not one of those intensely thrilling affairs, where the fans are forced to stop munching peanuts in order that they may yell the louder and roast the umpire harder. But it was sprinkled with excitement all the way through, and it was a real interesting performance to watch. Pitted against Mr. Hynes was that eminent slab artist, Mr. Navajo Coose, the lad who has been gaining a reputation at the expense of the other clubs in the league as an all-round artist with a frequent tendency to break up games with home runs when no other remedy is available. He trifles with the water-soaked delivery at times, and is real effective at other times. Just to show him up at the beginning, the Indians went in during the opening stanza and pried a couple of runs from his choice assortment. Mr. Lindeburn stanza and pried a couple of runs from his choice assortment. Mr. Blake's grounder long enough for both runners to reach safety. Mr. Blerbauer poled a grounder long enough for both runners to reach safety. Mr. Blerbauer poled a beauty to left for two pillows, while Mr. Blake wiped his feet on the mat at home plate. The other three battres went to the morgue.

Fox's error gave Reardon a life, and Lindeburn's error helped him along, while Elcock was safe at first. Clarke forced Elcock was safe at first. Clarke forced Elcock at second by hitting to Brant, but Lamond's fly to Blake was dropped by that gentleman, owing to the fact that 26 was experimenting with sun-glasses and had not got used to the plaguer things. (He has since discarded them for good).

In the fourth, however, the Indians added another, when Courtney's error allowed Cocash to score. This bingle to right enabled Cocash to score. In the fifth the red-hosieryed gents made a bid for the game by scoring two runs and tieling the score. This was Mr. Hynes' real careless inning and it was excusable. Novak was given a pass, but Courtney filed out. Kane leaned on one to deep right, which went for three

THE SECOND GAME.
The second game was one of the best at Queen's park this season. Hyman's and Ramblers, the two teams struggling for the leadership of the league, came together, and it was a battle royal before the Hyman's finally won out by the score of 5 to 0. Both Heathfield and Gillies pitched masterly ball. For five innings the tannery men could only solve Heathfield's choice assortment for one lone hit, this coming in the first inning and being responsible for a run. On the other hand, Gillies was letting the Ramblers down with only three hits, which were so widely scattered that no runs came in. In the sixth inning, however, after Gillies had gone out, Jeffries laid down a bunt and beat it out. Parkinson followed with a hot one to Farley, which the latter booted, both runners being safe. Doherty then combed a two-cushion drive to the outfield and Phelan and Legg followed with singles, four runs coming in before the side was retired. GOULDING WINS HIS HEAT IN 10,000 METRES EVENT

England—Other Results.

[Canadian Press.] Stockholm, July 8 .- The third day's programme in the athletic section of the Olympic games was very full and 0 x-8 greatly varied in character. It included the trial heats of the 10,000 metres walking race, the running high jump, the standing broad jump, trial heats in the 400 metres relay race, swimming, wrestling, fencing, gymnastics, and part of the modern Pentathlon. Final heats of the 100 metres swimming are to be contested again with the United States representatives participating. The American delegation protested against yesterday's race on the ground that the absence of their swimmers was due to a misunderstanding, and the Olympic committee met this morning and decided that the heat should be re-swam probably at the end of the meet.

Otto Wahle, who is managing the swimming team, declares that the directorate of the meeting informed him that the semi-final would be aban-

Samuel Schwartz, were both entirely outclassed. Goulding won by 50 yards. The first five in each heat of the event are qualified to walk in the final. In the 400 metres relay race majority of the teams were scratched in the preliminary heats, consequently Canada, Great Britain, the United States and Sweden had walkovers owing to the absence of their opponents who had been drawn against them. SKEETERS PROTEST GAME.

Jersey City, July 7.—By taking the final set-to, the Grays forced the Skeeters to an even break, with two wins each way. Today's game was played under protest, Manager Schaffy taking exception to a ruling of both umpires on a pitched ball by Lafitte in the eighth inning, with Kelly at bat, the ball sticking to Lafitte's fingers and shooting at right angles from the plate. The umpires decided it was an excusable error, while Schaffy claimed the ball on the pitcher, which wou'd have enabled Kelly to reach his base instead of retiring on an infield out. The score: R. H. Amateur

The Greene-Swifts met their Waterloo at the hands of McCormicks Saturday afternoon at Springbank. When Umpire O'Hagan called time the score stood 10 runs to 1 in favor of the fac-tory team. In Armstrong the McCormicks have a great pitcher, making no fewer than 15 of his opponents whist the zone, and though 10 hits were made off his delivery they came miles apart. The youngster's pitching and two difficult catches by Draper in left field featured the game. Score:

RALPH CRAIG, OF MICHIGAN, WON HUNDRED METRES DASH

American Runner Wins Notable | with the individual competition, gave | Sweden first place England second and the United States third. The Swedes had the advantage of familiarity with the tortupus track Victory at Stockholm-Canadians Showing Up Well.

Stockholm, July 7.—The American athletes won two notable victories at the Olympic games today, R. C. Craig, of the Detroit Y. M. C. A., captured the final of the 100 metres dash, while Jas. Thorp, of the Carlisle Indian School, won the Pentathlon, a series of five events. Three Canaseries of five events. Three Canadians, Jos. Keeper, of Winnipeg; C. M. Brock, of Toronto, and Frank Lukeman, of Montreal, figured creditably in the various events.

Three flag staffs are erected in the Stockholm Stadium, where the colors of the different nations scoring first, second and third in the final contest of each event are hoisted. When the 166 metres sprints—the event most honored on athletic fields everywhere -- had finished, the American flag went up on the first stag, on the second and on the third. Craig, A. T. Meyer, Irish-Canadian A. C., and D. F. Lippincott, University of Pennsylvania, were the men they represented. Craig's time, 10 4-5 seconds, equals the Olympic record. Howard, the Canadian sprinter, who won his heat on Saturday, was an also ran. Only one other number on the programme was concluded today, that being the Pentathlon, which was intended to be a test of all-round prowess. When this event was included in the Olympic games, conservative oldtimers, both English and Americans, who heretofore had dominated the field sports, regarded it with suspicion as a trick of the new-comers to gain points which were not contemplated in the original pro-

The United States got the lion's share of the glory from that also. At its conclusion the first and third staffs floated American flags, and the second Norway's. Thorp Wins, The Indian, Thorp, by his victory, won his position as the legitimate successor of Martin J. Sheridan as an all-round athlete. Of those who cuiered this competition, the four Americans, Thorp, Brundage, Donoghue and Menaul, started in all the events, and stayed to the end with the Norwegian, Bie; the Canadian, Lukeman, and the Swede, Wieslander.

The semi-final heats of the 800 meters and the tryouts for the run-metres and the tryouts for the running high jump put the Americans in the postion of practically owning these events, six representatives of the United States qualifying for the finals in both competitions. The 10the United States qualifying for the finals in both competitions. The 10,000 metres race was less satisfactory, but was not entirely disappointing. Louis Tewanima, of the Carlisle Indian School; Joseph Keeper, of Winnipeg; Louis Scott, of South Pater son, and U. F. McGuire, of North Attleboro, Mass., qualifying for the final. One of the surprises of the day was the running of the little Finn, T. Kolenmainen, who defeated the great Kolenmainen, who defeated the great Englishman, W. Scott, in the 10,000 metres. The two Scotts, British and

The Bicycle Race Finish.

The compatriots of the men who finished sent up a yell of welcome when the national colors appeared. Some of the riders were glad to tumble from their wheels into the arms of their handlers; others put on a proud spurt when they got into the livelight of the Stadium.

The performance in the Stadium began promptly at 9 o'clock in the moraing, and continued until 7 in the evening. In the meantime the riding competitions were being carried on in a suburban park. The swimming began after lunch, and finished late tonight.

American swimmers also performed vallantly, though there is a chance that a misunderstanding will keep them out of the final competition without an opportunity to measure their speed with the foreigners. The heats of the second round were run off this afternoon, and Duke Kanhanoka, who made a record for the 100 metres yesterday, won his trial, beating two Germans. In the third heat Kenneth Huszach, of the Chicago A. A., won, and Perry McGillivray, of the Illinois A. C., was second. Nine men came safely through the second round, and in addition to the three from the United States, Germany and Australia, each qualified three.

Germany and Australia, each qualified three.

Americans Crowded Out.

After the second round was over the Swedish committee announced to the American competitors that owing to the smallness of the field there would be no semi-finals, but that all the men would be allowed to compete in the final tomorrow. Then, without notifying the Americans, the officials changed their plans and ran off the semi-finals this evening. The American swimmers, of course, were not present to compete. When their absence was noticed, the Swedes wanted to defer the races, but the German swimmers saw an opportunity of scoring in the absence of the Yankee cracks, and insisted on running the trials off. As they had called the Germans out for the semi-finals, the officials finally consented to let them swim, the result being a bloodless victory for the Germans.

the result being a bloodless victory for the Germans.

Manager Halpin, of the American team, was immediately notified of the conditions under which Kaharoka, McGillivray and Huszach had been eliminated, and he immediately made an appeal to the general committee. This committee is composed of the representatives of the different nations entered in the games, and has jurisdiction in such cases. There is a belief that the matter will be straightened out when the committee has heard the circumstances, and the semifinals swam over again, or that all the second round swimmers will be allowed to start in the finals, as first announced by the Swedish committee.

WOLGAST WILL MEET JOE RIVERS AGAIN

Ad. Claims Rivers Was Not Game in Fight on Fourth of July.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 6.-Ad Wolgast broke silence today in a published statement, saying he was willing to again meet Joe Rivers and decide the championship question, which was left open by the freakish ending of the Fourth of July fight at Vernon. He suggested Labor Day for the return, and declared he was willing to fight anywhere, providing a fat purse

Wolgast maintained that he was was put up. not helped to his feet by Referes Jack Welch, while Rivers lay on the floor being counted out, and asserted that Rivers was knocked out and glad to quit, "He was not game; that let's him out," said the champion. Wolgast said his winnings, counting his $15,000 purse, and the bets he gathered, totalled close to $40,000.

On Labor Day.

Ad Wolgast and Joe Rivers will box again, probably on Labor Day in the Vernon arena, it was practically decided upon today. Both principals and their managers and Tom McCarey, manager of the club, were of one mind on this subject. All agreed that another meeting was imperative, all agreed to meet again and all agreed that Labor Day was the most logical date. The question of finances alone separated them. The selection of referee was not mentioned.

"I will do anything to get Rivers in the ring again," said Jones.
"I will give Wolgast all of the purse, if necessary to get him in the ring once more," sald Manager Levy, for Rivers.

ecret Service By Cyrus Townsend Brady

The game appeared to be up this time.

Mr. Arreisford held all the winning cards, thought Thorne, and he was playing them skillfully. He ground his teethr-at the thought that another moment and the order would have been sent, probably beyond recall. Fate had played him a scurvy trick, it had thwarted him at the last move, and Arreisford had so contrived that his treachery had been before the woman he loved. Under other circumstances the wound in his wrist would have given him exquisite pain; as it was he scarcely realized at the time that he had been hurt.

Arreisford still stood by the window, glancing out on the square, but keeping. Thorne under close observation. The evil look in his eyes and the malicious sneer on his lips well seconded the expression of triumph on his face. He had the man he hated where he wanted him. It was a splendid piece of work that he had performed, and in the performance he sated his private vengeance and carried out his public duty.

On his part, Thorne was absolutely helpless. There was that in the bearing public duty.

On his part, Thorne was absolutely helpless. There was that in the bearing of the woman he loved that prevented him from approaching her. He shot a myte look of appeal to her which she revived with marble face, apparently absolutely indifferent to his presence, yet she was suffering scarcely less than he. In her anguish she turned desperately to Arreisford.

"Too late," said Arrelsford triumph antly, "you can't go now, the guard is

Edith could hear the approaching Edith could hear the approaching soldiers as well as anybody. The way was barred, she realized instantly. Well, if she could not escape, at least she could get out of sight. She turned and opened the nearest window and stepped out. Arrelsford knew that she could not go far, and that he could produce her whenever he wanted her. He made no objection to her departure that way, therefore. Instead he looked at Thorne.

"I have you just where I want you at last," he said mockingly, as the trampling feet came nearer. "You thought you were mighty smart, but you will find that I can match your trick every time."

Outside in the hall the men came to a sudden halt before the door. One of them knocked loudly upon it.

"What's the matter here?" cried the Sergeant of the Guard without.

The handle was tried and the door was shoved violently, but the brass bolt held.

"Let us in!" he cried angrily.

Quick as a flash of lightning an idea came to Thorne.

"Sergeant" he shouted in a powerful voice. "Sergeant of the Guard!"

"Sir!"

But Arreisford recovered himself a little and again presented his revolver.

"Stand where you are," he cried, but Thorne by this time had reached the door.

"Smash it down, Sergeant!" he cried.

"What are you waiting for? Batter it down!"

The next moment the door gave way with a crash, and into the room poured the guard. The grizzled old Sergeant had scarcely stepped inside the room when Thorne shouted in tones of the fiercest authority, pointing at Arrelsford:

"Arrest that man!"

Before the dazed Secret Service Agent could say a word or press the trigger the soldiers were upon him.

"He got in here with a revolver," continued Thorne more quietly, "and is playing hell with it. Hold him fast!"

CHAPTER XIV.

The Call of the Key. This astonishing denouement fairly paralyzed Arrelsford. With a daring and ability for which he had not given Thorne credit, and which was totally unexpected, although what he had learned of his previous career might have given him some warning, the tables had been turned upon

This was too much for Arrelsford, and he made a desperate plunge forward to get at Thorne, who shook his wounded wrist in the Secret Service Agent's face. The soldiers held him tightly, however,

The soldiers held him tightly, however, and Thorne continued hotly:

"Get his gun away, Sergeant; he'll hurt somebody."

While the soldiers—who appeared to entertain no doubt and to have no hesitency whatever about obeying Thorne's orders, the latter evidently the military man of the two and his voice bearing, to say nothing of his uniform, telling heavily against a civilian like Arrelsford—were against a civilian like Arrelsford—were taking the revolver out of his hands, Thorne once more turned to the telegraph table. His blood was up and he would

One of the many good features of Na Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets is that they are so pleasant and easy to take. The relief they give from heartburn, flathlence, biliousness and dyspepsia is prompt and permanent. Try one after each meal—they'll make you feel like

Arrelsford burst out in a last vain attempt to stop him:

"That'il do," gruffly said the Sergeant of the Guard, shaking his fist in Arrelsford's face, "what is it all about, Captain?"

"All about? I haven't the slightest idea. He says he comes from some office or other. I was sending off some important official dispatches here and he began by letting off his gun at me. Crazy lunatic, I think."

"It's a lie!" said the Sergeant of the Guard, "that'll do now. What shall I do with him, Captain?"

"Present arms!" cried the Sergeant of the Guard as General Randolph appeared the Guard as General Randolph appeared in the doorway.

The humiliation and indignation had vanished from her bearing which was one of unmitigated triumph. She threw a glance at Arrelsford which bode ill for that young man. The General entered the room and stopped before the Secret Service Agent, who stood in front of the guard, although he had been released by the men.
"What's all this about?" he asked peremptorily.

WISCONSIN MYSTERY

"Toronto Jim" Said To Be One of a Former Murderous Gang.

Racine, Wis., July 7.—The mystery surrounding the nurder in 1899 of John Fulls, night watchman at the Finde Brewery, Burlington, may be cleared as a result of a story told to District Attorney W. W. Storms by P. VERY LARGE FUNERAL

Miller, Chicago, who says that while he was conducting a saloon in the Alhambra Theatre, Milwaukee, three men arranged for the blowing open of the brewing company's saloon, open of the brewing company's saloon, the brewing company's saloon, open of the brewing company's saloon, and while doing so were discovered by Fulis, who was killed by the yeggs. The yeggmen went to Janesville, and then to Chicago. One of them is serving a term in the Minnesota State Prison, another is an Ontario crook under arrest in Milwaukee, the third is somewhere in Wisconsin, while the fourth is dead.

A man giving the name of James Wood, alleged to be "Toronto Jim," is in the jail on a charge of burglary. He was arrested May 4 by Sheriff Fred G. Schloemer, Washington County, in company with two other men, on a charge of having robbed Andrew Albrecht, a saloonkeeper of Barton, Wisconsin, of three thousand dollars, and he is believed to be one of the above gang.

Alsace Babies Sold in France

Berlin, July 7.—A new Alsace-Lorraine sensation has been turned up in the alleged discovery that the mid-wives of the conquered provinces are engaged in selling illegitimate babies to orphan asylums in France. Fifty such children are said to have been traced from Stras urg to Paris. The women are said to receive fees not only from the persons seeking to get rid of the babies, but also from the French asylums, which are anxious to counteract race suicide in France by bringing up the German to counteract race suicide in France by bringing up the German children as soldiers of France. The Prussian Kreuz-Zeitung has alled on the Government to stop this baby traffic immediately. The traffic is said to have been going on since 1870.

Youngsters.

Placed on the Refractory Boys and Girls.

London, July 8.—The founding in Viterbo, Italy, July 8.—It is believed England of a self-governing community for refractory boys and girls, that the Camorra trial, which has been on the lines of the George Junior Re- going on for two years, will come to public of America, was discussed yes a conclusion today, and great exciteterday at Sunderland House, placed at ment prevails all over the town. Reinthe disposal of the promoters of the forcements of troops and mounted poborough.

audience were the Dowager Countess of Dunmore, the Countess of Cromer, Lady Meyer, the Earl of Sandwich and expected. A body of 300 police has Admiral the Hon. Victor Montagu.

Will Reform Present System. It is the intention of a group of philanthropists to revolutionize the present reformatory system, and to give delinquent boys and girls the chance of developing into desirable citizens. The worse the boy the better pleased will be his rescuers, and the super-scallywag will be put in a position of supreme authority in the juvenile republic. He will be president, and will himself select the cabinet and legal ministers by whom the republic will be governed.

Girls will not be tied down to housework, but will have opportunities of learning suitable trades. The Earl of Sandwich has granted a farm, rent free in Dorsetshire, where it is hoped that a colony of ten pioneers will set up a self-governing community next October.

Give Children Responsibility.

"We want to introduce the element of responsibility into the life of these reformatory children," said George Montagu, chairman of the committee. "That is the only method by which bad boys may be turned into good citizens. Loyal citizens working for their daily wage will have no sympathy with shirkers, and the lawless newcomer will soon learn the truth of the maxim, 'If any will not work, neither shall he eat."

"We hope that the existing farmhouse, which we have called Flowers Farm, will become the nucleus of a small village.

"The home office is already interested, and all we need now is financial support. A capital sum of $60,000 is required, and the upkeep will rfom $15,000 to $20,000 a day.

LITTLE GIRL TORTURED BY MURDEROUS MANIAC

Hideous Crime Revealed By Finding of Is, ing Child in New York Suburb.

New York, July 7.-Julia Connors, a little girl who disappeared in daylight from one of the most crowded streets in the Bronx last Saturday to spend the night in discussion of light from one of the most crowded evening, was found this morning on their verdict. It is believed that this an ash heap in a vacant lot half a will take seven hours. block from her home, at 3782 Third avenue, naked, covered with stab DETECTIVE OVER 30 YEARS wounds and dying.

Her life went out while men bent over her trying desperately to revive the child long enough for her to name or describe the man who had maltreated her so. Detectives found the house into which Julia had been enticed, and the apartment in which she this city twenty years ago. had been battered with fists and gashed with a knife until her frail Mr. F. B. Clark, of this city, is very network of cuts.

The house is at 3968 Third avenue. On the third floor in an unoccupied apartment, whose kitchen windows overlook the rocky, treeless ground where the little girl's body was found, the detectives found plain evidences of a maniac's crime. The bathroom was smeared and spotted with blood. The tub was reddened. Some of the caused such serious damage to the child's hair was there, adhering to the bars and other tools. The police were tub or scattered on the floor, and Lieutenant Wines picked up a braid comb of hard rubber which Julia's mother dentified at once as the comb she had done up her daughter's hair with when Julia started on Saturday afternoon to go to confession at the Church of Our Lady of Victory, in Webster ave-

But there wasn't a thing in the bare apartment that might be used as a clue toward capturing the man or men who has held the child prisoner through the night.

Whoever it was that persuaded the child to enter the apartment house and then tortured her with a knife until a stab wound in the heart made death imminent, ran away dawn after putting the body in a small box and carrying Julia's clothrom the basement of the house.

New York, July 8 .- G. Greci, who owns a coal and wood cellar near the vacant lot where 12-year-old Julia Connors was found yesterday, dying, with forty stab wounds in her body. was arrested early today and locked up, charged with homicide. F. Molz, who identified Greci as one of the men she says lured Julia and another girl into a cellar, was sent to the children's society to be held as a material witness. The child tells conflicting stories, however, and the police are far from a solution of the crime.

AFRAID TO RISK.

Winnipeg, July 8.—"The great diffi-culty about the Hudson Bay route is the insurance," said Sir Montague Al-lan, K.B., C.V.O., president of the Merchants' Bank, who is in Winnipeg. "Insurance companies," he continued, "are afraid to take the risk, and if they did their rates would be too high to make it worth while. Whether the Hudson Straits will be navigable not it is hard to say yet."

A number of relations of the accused, comprising wives, sisters and mothers, arrived here this morning, bringing a votive offering of wax candles as a present to the Madonna, while others brought gifts for St. Rosa, the patron of Viterbo. Many of them took up their positions early today in the church facing the court house, where they remained kneeling, beating their breasts and imploring mercy for their beloved ones.

The presiding judge resumed his summing up of the evidence with fresh vigor today, taking the greatest pains to explain to the jury the exact position of each of the accused, and the significance of each of the 144 questions which the jury must answer.

Accused Are Calm.

All the accused maintain an abso-lutely calm demeanor. As most of them: are veterans, they seem better able to conceal their anxiety. Only Ciro Vitozzi, the priest known as the "Guardian Angel of the Camorra" displayed any kind of shame at being forced to enter the iron cage with the other prisoners. He mutters all the time saying: "I'm in the hands of God and of the jurors." Erricone, the principal

The story of the affair as told by body was a mass of bruises and a interesting. For a week or more before the robbery in the office of Mr Cark's father, three men who were stepping at the old Gustin House on Dundas street, were looked upon as suspicious characters. The suspicions of the police were finally partially confirmed when one of the employees of the staff discovered that the men were in possession of a very complete burglars' kit of drills, pinch given notice and watched their men closely.

An Oldtime Robbery.

On a Saturday night in November the men paid up at the Gustin House and stated that they were leaving the city. However, on Sunday morn ing the office of Mr. Clark on Richmond street, where his son now conducts a steamship ticket business, was entered by the burglars and the side of the vault torn out. The bricks were torn away from about the door and the steel lining penetrated by preans of the drills and crowbars. Nearly fifteen hundred dollars was aken, but the detectives soon learnof the operations of the burglars and started in pursuit. The three thugs proceeded to the Grand Trunk depot to take an early morning train, but unfortunately for them the train was late. One of the men who had three hundred dollars in silver in his charge remained in the waiting room where he was quietly arrested and locked up while the other two had gone for a walk around the block. Rider, who was working with Phair and Murphy, started after the others and came upon men on Richmond street, near Bathurst. A Desperate Struggle.

As the detective approached to place he men under arrest, one of them, White by name, pulled a revolver, while his mate took to his heels. An exchange of shots followed, in which neither officer nor thug was injured, but after a bitter fight White was handcuffed and held securely. However, as he passed along the street in the darkness of the November morning, he slipped something from his pocket and threw it over the fence. Later the police returned to the and found $1,100 in bills. All of the money was recovered, and two of the three prisoners, Allen and White, were

New Pastor of Centennial Methodist Church Occupied Pulpit Sunday.

Despite the hot weather of yesterday large congregations attended both services at Centennial Methodist Church to greet the new pastor, Rev. H. A. Graham, late of Wellington Street Church in the morning, Rev. Mr. Graham said that he would be unworthy of the min-istry if he did not feel the responsibilities of his position, and that he felt sur that the same sense was felt by each and every member of the congregation. The church could only accomplish its purpose when its leader and people were alike faithful. He stated that he came with a faith in the old gospel that prom-ised salvation to all. Men's need for the gospel is just as great today as it ever was, and the same forces that op-posed the disciples of Christ are work-ing today. To successfully combat these forces all Christians must look upon themselves as members of a great army and not as a society. This method alone will win victories for our Great Coming to the People. Rev. R. Whiting preached last night to large congregation on "The Old Paths." A path is a road by means of which we keep up our social intercourse and friendships, and when people wanted Intercourse with God there were paths that had been well defined and ofter frequented by our fathers and mothers In this age of changes we are apt to neglect these paths because they are eld and did not seem up to date. But we should be very careful because it takes a long time to make a good good, much lenger to make a spiritual road than a physical one, as there are no modern inventions to help. physical world today is far ahead of the physical world of our forefathers' time, there is not a very great difference in the spiritual world. We should be very careful about abandoning our beliefs, and should be certain that we have procured some thing better before doing so. If a man wants to spend Sunday he should first decide that it was better than the o'd way. It is very foolish to drop one thing before deciding upon something else that will take its place to better purpose. The Chinese in Mott street, New York, last week tore down their joss house, but said that they were not Christians, although they were no longer Buddh'sts. That was a great mistake. Rev. Whiting said that he would rather see a man a Buddhist than nothing at all.

The best sort of religion was a character full of love to God and men, and every church, whether Catholic or Protestant, that produces this kind of character is doing God's work, and re-maining on the old paths. All new truths had to be fermented before they become ripe and mature, and men are very fool-ish to accept a new religion before it has been thoroughly tried.

Army Advancing to Frontier Blocked By the Federal Forces.

[Canadian Press.]

Lisbon, July 8 .- The long expected royalist movement began yesterday, but according to official information it has been checked. The outbreaks were confined for the most part to some small districts in the north. Telegraphic communication, which was cut at Villa Real and Braganza, has been restored and the railroads have been cleared of obstructions.

It appears that Captain Counciere, the royalist leader, with the bulk of his forces, well armed, is encamped near Montalegre, but the Government has troops along the frontier capable, it is announced, of exterminating the r valists if they show fight.

An official note says that the gar-rison at Montalegre has been reinforced, and has stopped the advance of 400 royalists under Counciere. Another small band, however, is advancing along the road from Verina and a column has been sent to Chaves to engage it.

Arrests continue in various parts of the country and the royalists are offering little or no resistance. THOMAS LEWIS FELL

PREFERRED DIVIDENDS ACCRUE FROM July 1st, 1912.

The Tuckett Tobacco Company, Limited, has taken over the business formerly carried on by the three firms known as The Geo. E. Tuckett & Son Company, Limited, Hamilton; The Tuckett Cigar Co., Limited, Hamilton; Tucketts, Limited, Hamilton;

HISTORY OF PROPERTIES.

The business was first carried on under the name H Tuckett & Billings, who commenced operations in the year 1845, afterwards being known as Geo. E. Tuckett & Son. Both these firms for many years manufactured T. & P. Plug Tobacco and T. & B. Myrtle Navy Cut Tobacco. It was, and is, the pride of the Company that the names of these brands have been household words in Canada for more than two generations.

The business was incorporated in 1892 as the Geo. E. Tuckett The business was incorporated in 1892 as the Geo. E. Tuckett & Son Co., Limited; in the year 1900 a Company was formed to operate a Cigar Branch under the name of the Tuckett Cigar Company, Limited. The cigar company manufactures the well-known brands of "Marguerite" and "Tuckett Club Special," the sales of which have increased yearly, until in 1911 they exceeded twenty millions, and for many years have had without question the largest sale of any cigars in Canada.

Recently a cigarette department has been installed and the Recently a cigarette department has been installed, and the reception of the various brands has been most gratifying, and the sales have exceeded expectations.

All the leaf tobacco used in the various brands manufactured by both companies is purchased under the most favorable conditions in the first markets.

C. Meredith & Co., Limited, have purchased the three Companies, and incorporated a new Company under the name of the Tuckett Tobacco Company, Limited, with a capitalization of $2,000,000 7% cumulative preferred stock and $2,500,000 of common. MANAGEMENT. There will be no change whatever in the Management of the Company, the old officers all remaining and taking very substantial interests in the new organization, thus assuring the continued success of the business.

The controlling interest, since the death of the late Mr. Geo. E. Tuckett, has been vested in the trustees of his estate, who are not permitted to increase their investment in the companies or to take any part in the necessary extensions, and it is for this reison that their holdings are being converted into statutory frust Nearly all the present shareholders have re-invested in the new company shares. PROPERTIES.

The properties of the Company consist of:
Head Office Building, Tobacco Factory, Cigar Factory and Cigarette Factory, also Sterage Houses, in Hamilton, Ont. Cigar Factory at London, Ont. Cigar Factory at Montreal, P.Q. These Factories are all in excellent shape, modern in every way, and well located. ATTRACTIVENESS OF SECURITIES. The 7% Preferred Stock now offered is a high-class investment with substantial security behind it. As may be seen from the statement of Price, Waterhouse & Co., the assets of the Company show a surplus of $2,000,000 over all the liabilities of the concern. The common stock, not given as a bonus as is ofttimes the case, would appear to have an excellent future before it, owing to the fact that the earnings of the Company for the past two years leave sufficient, after the 7% is paid on the preferred, to pay a dividend of 6% on the common and still leave a small surplus. PROFITS. The average net profits shown by Messrs. Price, Waterhouse & Co., for the past two years, after paying 7% dividend on Preferred stock, shows over 6% on Common. It is anticipated that larger profits will be shown during the present year.

The fire department responded to five alarms in ten hours yesterday afternoon and evening, four of then coming during the intense heat of the day. The first alarm was struck from box at 12:30 noon, when a bottle of liniment left on a gas plate at the resi-dence of Mr. T. Donohue, of Syden-ham street, exploded, setting fire to the wall. The blaze was extinguished without difficulty, the loss being

At 1:05 the brigade was summoned to the rear of 493 Pall Mall street, where sparks from a passing C. P. R. locomotive had set fire to grass. Five minutes later, the men of No. 3 station in South London were called to the corner of Evergreen avenue and the Wharncliffe road for no reason. Some person, looking down the G. T.
R. tracks, had seen smoke from a grass fire near the Cove bridge, outside the city limits; and premptly pulled a box. This was listed as a false alarm.

Ottawa, Ont., July 8.—The hundred dollars for each of the Fenian Raid veterans is to be a joy deferred. There is no money. The Government put through a bill last session, but failed to isk Parliament to vote the money. There are now forty thousand appli-cations, and if these were granted an expenditure of four hundred thousand dellars would be required. It is found that there is no authority to make a a governor-general's warrant to cover such an expenditure. Therefore, there can be no distribution until Parliament meets and votes the meney. If the veterans increase at the presen rate the Government may change its mind and not make any grant at all.

Jogging Laziness into Activity

The merchant whose business lags in the summer has himself to thank.

To slacken the selling pace in the hot season—to lessen Advertising activity-indicates a resignation which has no place in modern business.

If we think we cannot keep our business booming in summer time, we surely will not.

What a jolt it must have been to the fur trade, when the first mid-summer fur advertisement was run in a daily paper! Now many fur stores are following the example of that progressive fur man who dared to believe that fur sales need not go down as the mercury goes up.

Energy, linked with Advertising, has turned the month of January into the biggest selling season for white goods. Advertisements of a high stimulative power, combined with a disregard of "seasons," have opened up automobile selling two months earlier than was once thought possible. Advertising has started Christmas shopping early in October instead of the middle of December.

Advertising rises superior to seasons and thermometers. The right kind of Advertising strikes a responsive cord in human nature—and human nature is the same in August as in December.

DIVINE SERVICE

Matthew's Church on Sunday Afternoon.

THE PASTOR'S SERMON Rev. Mr. Appleyard Told Brethren

That Union Jack Should Be as Sacred as the Cross to Them. Dresden, July 8.—Miss Ruth Shaw visited friends near Botany recently.

Mrs. E. S. Walker has left for a tended divine service Sunday afternoon in St. Matthew's Church conducted by the rector, Rev. Bro. E. Appleyard, B.A., past county chaplain.

Rev. Mr. Appleyard chose his text from the first six verses of Psalm 78. He told them that in their lodgerooms they discussed lodge topics, but in the church they were going to discuss spiritual topics. He reviewed in con-Fowler's first service in the Disciples' Church here, and a special anniversary service was held by him in honor of the event. Two fine sermons were preached to large congregations. In the evening the choir from West Lorne the evening the choir from West Lorne to keep and to hope the preached to large congregations. In the evening the choir from West Lorne to maintain our tast Saturday. The Union Jack.

One of the emblems of their order was the Union Jack, and the three crosses of St. George, St. Patrick and St. Andrew, should be as sacred to them as the cross of Calvary was to them as the cross of Calvary was to the children of Israel.

In concluding, the minister exhorted his hearers to read the Scriptures diligently, and practice readily what they are told there; to have sincere love for the Holy Father and a steadfast faith in Jesus Christ; to trust to the sanctifying power of the holy spirit and be-lieve in the Holy Ghost; to attend church every Sabbath and to keep the day holy. He trusted in the coming celebration they would all carry them-selves as true Orangemen, and they would eradicate all such bitter cries as "To hell with the Pope." No true Orangemen would use such language, knowing that the Creator made all me
