

TRUE DETECTIVE STORIES.

THE LOVE OF A BAD MAN'S WIFE.

How bad must a man be before the woman who has sworn to cherish him will give him up?

Since the occurrence of the events I am about to narrate I must confess my inability to answer this question. I can set no bounds to woman's devotion because I have seen one of her kind turn traitor to her lifelong friends for the sake of the man she loved. And I cannot tell what strain will snap a woman's heartstrings because this man had committed a crime against the United States government for which he was serving a ten years' term in prison.

Early in December, 1873, I was summoned from New York to Washington by the chief of the secret service. He gave me a letter to Allan Pinkerton and told me he wanted me to undertake what might become a long and dangerous mission. Wisconsin and Illinois were infested with counterfeiters. Mr. Pinkerton knew a woman who was willing to betray the Wisconsin band. Her name was Mrs. Napoleon-Bonaparte Latta. She herself was the wife of a counterfeiter and a convict. And her home was in the little village of Monroe.

Two days later I was in Mr. Pinkerton's office in Chicago. He read the letter I brought him from the chief of the secret service and then looked up at me.

"Mrs. Latta tells me," he said, "that she has a great deal of information regarding the counterfeiters who are operating in Wisconsin. She is eager to give this information to the government. Her husband is a federal prisoner, you know. She wants to apply for his pardon, and she thinks if she can do something for the government from time to time that a white mark will be set down for 'Bone' as she calls her husband. In other words she wants to enforce her plea for his pardon by a showing of services performed for the government by herself. I know nothing of what she may have to tell, but I will give you a letter to her."

He did so, and I left for Monroe the same night. The next morning I looked up Mrs. Latta and found her living in a forlorn little cottage at the edge of the town. She herself came to the door and I handed her the letter of introduction from Mr. Pinkerton which she read while I stood on the doorstep.

I shall never forget the impression she made upon me. She was a good type of the tall, angular, raw boned frontier woman of forty years ago. She was perhaps forty five years old. Her black hair was only just beginning to be streaked with gray but her eyes told the story of her anxieties, her sorrows and her disappointments. Yet there was a world of patience in them. Something in their glance however, told me she could not always be patient, that there were times when her placidity became transformed into the fury that rends and spurs not. And so it proved.

After she had read the letter she invited me in. The room into which I stepped was low and dark. As far as I could discover it was the only room in the house except the bed rooms. In the centre was a big wood burning heating stove, the red sides of which modified, though they did not make comfortable the cold blasts of the Wisconsin winter that blew in through the innumerable crevices. And beside the stove sat two men, one a youth of twenty, who I was told was her son Frank and the other her nephew Clayton Robinson, who was perhaps thirty years old.

Before entering upon the discussion of the subject that I had come to investigate she sent her son out of the room, explaining to me afterwards that she did not want him to hear what was to be said. Then she told me her nephew—"Clate" as she called him—would tell me everything I wanted to know.

I turned to him and asked him what he could tell me.

"I can tell you," he said "where you can find some rolls with which counterfeit plates are made, and perhaps the bedpieces of the press."

"Can you tell me where I can find the plates from which the notes are printed?"

"No; never saw them."

"Who owns the rolls and the bed pieces of the press?"

"I don't know."

I knew he was lying, but I kept at him. He clung as persistently to his statement, supplementing it only to the extent of saying that the rolls were buried in the woods. Finally I said to him:

"You and your aunt want to do something to help your uncle who is in prison. It would do him absolutely no good to turn these things over to me without telling me who owns them. In fact if you were to tell me where the rolls are buried without revealing the name of their owner, I should be compelled to arrest you. The government would take ground that any man who knew where counterfeit material was secreted also knew to whom they belonged. What I want to get is not so much things as persons. I want the men who are making counterfeiting money."

We threshed the matter over for hours. Mrs. Latta sometimes joining in the conversation, but the best I could get out of Clate was a promise that he would try to find out that night who owned the rolls. And as evening had drawn on, I made an appointment for eleven o'clock the next morning and returned to my hotel.

When I went to the house the next day Mrs. Latta was greatly agitated. "I don't know what has become of Clate," she said. "He got up at five o'clock this morning and drove away. He didn't tell me he was going, and I don't know where he has gone."

She suspected however, that he had gone to the little town of Boscobel, where he had relatives. If he did not come home by night she said she would go to Boscobel and see if he had been there.

Matters looked bad. Mrs. Latta insisted that she herself knew nothing of the men I sought. So I told her I would go to Chicago, where I had some work to do, she promising meantime to do some investigating on her own account and to keep me informed of whatever she might learn.

Only Medicine That Did Any Good

After Suffering Tortures For Years, This Lady Found Happy Relief in "Fruit-a-tives".

Frankville, Ont., June 11th, 1908.

"I have received most wonderful benefit from taking 'Fruit-a-tives.' I suffered for years from headaches and pain in the back, and I consulted doctors and took every remedy obtainable without any relief. Then I began taking 'Fruit-a-tives' and this was the only medicine that ever did me any real good. I took several boxes altogether, and now I am entirely well of all my dreadful headaches and backaches."

MRS. FRANK EATON

I take "Fruit-a-tives" occasionally still, but I am quite cured of a trouble that was said to be incurable. I give this testimony voluntarily, in order that others who suffer as I suffered may try this wonderful medicine and be cured."

(Signed) MRS. FRANK EATON.

"Fruit-a-tives" are sold by all dealers at 50c a box, 6 for $2.50 or trial box, 25c—sent post-paid on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

But I didn't go to Chicago just then. I went to the nearby town of Janesville and the next morning took the same train to Boscobel that I knew Mrs. Latta would take if she kept her word to see where Clate Robinson had gone. She was on the train. I rode in the most distant coach from her and got off on one side while she alighted on the other. I also shadowed her to the house in which Robinson's relatives lived, and rode back with her on the same train without her seeing me.

During the next three weeks I kept up my correspondence with Mrs. Latta and on January 15 I received a letter from her asking me to visit her at once.

The next day I was at her house in Monroe. She said she had formulated a plan to catch Tom Streeter, a farmer, thirty two years old who lived in the township of Gratiot, twenty six miles distant. Streeter was a counterfeiter and had in his possession so Mrs. Latta was informed $5,000 in spurious notes.

Mr. Latta suggested that I visit Streeter, ostensibly as a dealer in counterfeit money, and try to buy his stock. She said Streeter had a boy hood friend in New Orleans named Will Hanchett whom he had not seen in eighteen years. I could pretend to be Hanchett who when a lad had moved away from Gratiot township and become a wholesale dealer in fad money.

I asked Mrs. Latta if she was sure that Streeter would not recognize me as an imposter. She replied there was no danger. Hanchett had married a crook, felt a little ashamed of it and had never gone North to visit. So I wrote out the following letter to Mr. Streeter, which Mrs. Latta copied and signed:—

Monroe, Wis. Jan. 18 1874
Mr. Thomas Streeter—
Dear Sir—Excuse me for writing on this delicate subject but Will Hanchett whom you all know very well is here from New Orleans. He is not passing by his own name and does not want to be recognized. He seems of account of that woman he married, to be ashamed of himself. He came here thinking I might have something buried belonging to Bone for I told him every piece of counterfeit I had was gone long ago; that I only wished I had some, for God knows I need the money bad enough.

He then asked me about you, and I told him you were the same old friend to me you had always been to Bone, and all of a sudden it came to my mind what you told Frank one day not long ago that you wished you had a good customer for 5,000 of stuff. As Hanchett wants 5,000 and is willing to pay cash I told him I would send Frank out to see if you would let him have it. I can give it to Hanchett and come out myself with the money.

Please let Frank have it or send an answer by him as to what you are willing to do. Frank does not know who Hanchett is and thinks his name is Johnson. If you give it to Frank do it up well and don't let him know what it is, for I don't want the poor boy to follow in his father's footsteps and at present he knows nothing about the business.

Yours respectfully,

MRS. LATTA
Counterfeiters do not sell goods on credit or send them to market by boys and I knew Streeter would not do so. He wrote back that if Hanchett wanted to do business with him he must come out to Gratiot. That was what I wanted—an invitation to visit him—because to have gone without some word from him might have made him suspicious.

The next day I hired a livery team and Frank and I started for the home of the counterfeiter, twenty six miles away. The mercury stood at six degrees below zero and the roads were bad. About two o'clock we drew up before a little log house in the centre of a clearing. Before I could knock Streeter came out the door. I handed him a letter of introduction from Mrs. Latta and then looked aside for an instant to give to Frank an opportunity to slip into his hand the following letter which I had drawn up for Mrs. Latta to copy and sign.

Mr. Streeter—
Dear Sir—Hanchett has decided to go if I let Frank go with him. He has promised to give Frank a hundred of stuff for me. I hope you will do as well if you make the dicker. You must not let Hanchett know you recognize him. Call him Johnson, for he seems to be very touchy about his identity. Respectfully,

MRS. LATTA

Streeter who was a tall, raw boned farmer weighing about 210 pounds, stepped into the house a moment to read the letter.

"Well what's new?" he said.

"Nothing," said I, except that this Northern winter is pretty near freezing me."

"Come into the house."

I followed him in. Like Mrs. Latta's place this house had only one room. I sat in a chair by the stove. The rest of the family stood up. In the room were Tom's father and mother, a brother and two sisters. The whole six ranged themselves around the walls, behind and beside me—none in front. I knew what they were doing. Tom had brought me in to see if they recognized me as Will Hanchett.

It was a ticklish position for me. I didn't know what Hanchett looked like. If they discovered me to be an imposter it meant a fight.

"Let's go out to the barn," said Tom after a few minutes.

After a few inconsequential remarks we began to talk business. I told him I understood he had $5,000 in counterfeit and that I would like to buy it. He said he did not believe there was $300 worth of stuff in the State.

All the while he was talking he was jabbing corncobs and cornstalks on a long pronged pitchfork. Finally he said:—

"It isn't safe to have any counterfeit out here now. Don't you know Mrs. Latta has gone over to the secret service? She has told the government all about us out here and a man named Drummond is now out in Wisconsin looking for us. 'Clate' Robinson saw him at Mrs. Latta's early in December and came out here the next day to warn us."

I pretended to be astounded.

"I see it all now," I said, "Mrs. Latta sent me out here to buy your stuff for the purpose of having Drummond arrest me the moment I got it."

And then I denounced Mrs. Latta and Drummond to the best of my ability.

LIFE'S OUTLOOK FOR YOUNG GIRLS

Nature Makes Demands Upon Them
Which Only Such a Tonic as Dr. Williams' Pink PILLS Can Supply.

The girl of today is the woman of to-morrow, and until that to-morrow oft-times she suffers a weariness and loss of strength and brightness. These woes, with pallid cheeks, shortness of breath and persistent headaches, tell plainer than words that she needs assistance in the form of new, rich red blood.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are just the medicine growing girls need. Every dose helps to make new, rich blood, thus helping languid despondent girls on to the full bloom of womanhood, making them robust cheerful and attractive. Mrs. Albert Putnam, Port Robinson, Ont., says: A couple of years ago my daughter Hattie, now fifteen was in declining health. She complained of severe headaches, had no appetite, was very pale, and exhausted at the least exertion. As time passed on she was hardly able to drag herself about, notwithstanding that she was under medical treatment and continuously taking medicine. At this juncture a neighbor strongly advised me to give Hattie Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I decided to do so. After she had taken three boxes some improvement was noticed; the headaches were not so frequent, nor so severe, and her appetite was much improved. This was indeed cheering and she continued taking the Pills until she had used three boxes, when she was as well as ever she had been in her life, and since that time she has been as robust as any girl could wish to be. I would strongly urge all mothers of growing girls to keep their health fortified through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills can be had from any medicine dealer or by mail from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville Ont., at 40 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50.

Between Good Flour and Flour That's Good Enough

THE DIFFERENCE between good and bad, Madam?

Just as great as between eggs fresh from the "cackle" and others of more ancient vintage; between "all-wool" and "art and art." Might add that good flour and poor flour are divided by a price difference and, incidentally, a baking difference.

Which explains why you would gladly pay just a little more to get FIVE ROSES certainly. Because it's worth more, and practically all cheap flours are faithless flours.

FIVE ROSES, Madam, is worth the money. We are convinced that nothing so rich in the dear-to-the-taste flavor of the ripe, red Manitoba spring wheat berry, so entirely different has ever been offered to discriminating housewives.

A pound goes farther—its strength and absorption powers would make its use economical at much above the price your grocer asks.

Even if all other millers knew where to get the same plump, sun-ripened, wholesome berries.

And even if they had the same facilities to prevent possible spoiling before the grain reaches the rolls.

And they had mills as perfect as the Keewatin Pure-Food plant to grind this prime grain—

Yet their product would not begin to compare with FIVE ROSES.

Because FIVE ROSES, Madam, is all of these plus the scientific know-how, expert skill and long-continued care which no other flour contains.

You must pay for something more than raw material. This explains partly why many prudent housewives are irrevocably wedded to the FIVE ROSES habit.

They declare it the only flour really "good enough" for them and the hungry faces around the board.

It is a fact known to connoisseurs that once FIVE ROSES enters a home, the family is forever spoiled for any other flour.

Your own folks, Madam, no matter how hard to please, will all like FIVE ROSES.

You know how hard to please your own folks are, Madam.

They'll all like FIVE ROSES.

UNION BLEND TEA

the Tea that satisfies

YOU are the best judge of how much Union Blend Tea is worth—but you can't pass an opinion until you have tried it. You are in no position to say—as I say—that it's worth 40c. a pound because it goes easily half as far again as any 80c. tea. You don't know the truth of that until you use it for yourself.

But that's a fact. Sixteen ounces of Union Blend will make as much tea as twenty-four ounces of any ordinary kind. And not only as much tea, but better tea—tea that is more fragrant, that has more aroma, more snack to it.

There is only one way for you to prove this—buy a pound and try it. Or if you are in doubt, let a half pound packet tell the story. Your own teacup will convince you if you will give it the opportunity. Look for my picture on the end of the packet.

Union Blend one pound packets—the pound packets only—contain coupons that are worth money to you. But this is only an advertisement—its value itself is worth the price, July.

I Take all the Risk

THERE would be no sense in my spending thousands of dollars in advertising if I couldn't back up what I say. If you try Union Blend and don't like it, I am worse off than before, for I can never get you to try again. To make money, I've got to make satisfied customers—and I do. Of all who once buy Union Blend ninety-five per cent. continue to use it. You know what that means, don't you? What will your decision be?

RYAN-HOWE

The marriage of Clement Ryan of Newcastle and Miss Margaret Emma, daughter of Mr and Mrs. John Howe, of Redbank, took place in Redbank Roman Catholic church on the 20th, Rev. Father Duffy tying the nuptial knot. The couple were attended by William McLunis of Newcastle and Miss Julia Howe, sister of the bride.

UNITED SERVICES

The services which have been held in the United Baptist Church by the Revs. Dr. Phillips and Dr. Cousins during the past week will be brought to a close to-morrow (Wednesday) evening by an United Service in which the other churches of the town will join. The meetings throughout have been well attended and much appreciated. On Thursday and Friday evenings of this week Revs. Dr. Phillips and Dr. Cousins will hold special services in the Lower Derby Baptist Church, and it is hoped that Dr. Phillips will remain at Derby over next Sunday.

NEW COMET VISIBLE

The appearance of a comet low down in the southwestern sky attracted much attention in the city about six o'clock Thursday evening, and was taken by many for Halley's comet, which, however, is not yet visible in these latitudes. The celestial visitor which appeared for a brief hour last evening, was discovered in South Africa two or three days ago. It is brighter than the planet Venus and for the next few evenings the nucleus and tail brilliant objects in the southwest immediately after sunset. At present it lies in the constellation Capricornus, very low in the southwest. It is just above the sun and moving east. The tail of the comet, which always points away from the sun, is pointed directly up.—St. John Standard. This comet has been seen here several evenings. Crowds witnessed it on Thursday, Friday and Sunday nights between 6 and 7 o'clock.

MAKES ASTONISHING CURES

Mi-o-na Tablets Cure Dyspepsia by Promptly Removing the Cause or Money Back.

There is just one way to cure dyspepsia and stomach disorders, trivial or serious and that is to tone up or put energy into the stomach walls, so that they will be able to properly mix or churn the food.

Mi-o-na tablets quickly arouse the stomach from its inaction and in a short time it is able to do its work properly. Harry Dodd of Bridge Street, Hastings, Ont., says: "For seven years I had suffered and spent much money doctoring, but all to no avail. I could eat but very little, as the food would ferment and sour, making gas, which caused serious heart oppression. I was in constant misery, sour gas would belch from my stomach, I was languid and weak and had no ambition. I did not feel like going anywhere or seeing anyone. There was a constant dull pain in the pit of my stomach. I was unable to sleep, was nervous, restless and would awake more tired than on going to bed. I tried Mi-o-na and soon found relief, and in less than six weeks Mi-o-na had completely cured me. J. D. Durick the druggist, sells Mi-o-na tablets at 50 cents a large box, under a rigid guarantee to do all that is claimed for them or money back."

COUNTY COURT

The county court opened here this morning, His Honor Judge McLatchy presiding. The following Grand Jury was sworn in:—Joseph McKnight, Foreman, R. H. M. Gilker, H. McLellan, R. H. Armsstrong, C. C. Hayward, Philip Barry, H. Kethro, P. Russell, John Irving, James Vanstone, Thos. Russell, H. R. Moody, Jas. Johnstone, H. Carvell, William Russell, J. Ken, Breaux John Vanderbeck, Jas. Stables, Gilmour Stothart, L. B. McMurdo, W. H. Belyea. The grand jury found a true bill in the case of The King vs. Howard Warman for procuring money and goods under false pretense. They also found a true bill in King vs. Johnston on second count namely; common assault also a true bill in the C. J. Thompson case.

Howard Warman was the first case to come up. After being arraigned Warman pleaded guilty. Mr. Hutchison of Richibucto appeared for the prisoner. He presented a petition to His Honor from the people of Kent Co. asking him to be as lenient as possible in this case as the young man had always borne a good reputation previous to this trouble. His Honor asked that the prisoner be remanded as he wished some time to consider the matter before giving him sentence. The case of the King vs. Johnston is now occupying the attention of the Court.

The grand jury presented the following address to His Honor Judge McLatchy.

To His Honor Judge McLatchy: The grand jury further beg to address your Honor in reference to the necessity of a new Court House for this County. The jurors are in full accord with the opinions expressed by your Honor.

The court room itself is ill ventilated, has no proper provision for heating and none for lighting, and the premises themselves are entirely unprovided with the ordinary provisions for convenience and decency.

The jurors are of the opinion that it is not right nor safe that the public should in obedience to the summons of the law be obliged to assemble and attend our Courts in a building so completely without proper provision as for the purpose.

Northumberland County Council

WEDNESDAY.

Ald. Cassidy took his seat in the Council as a representative of the town of Chatham, in place of Ald. Tweedie, absent.

On motion of Coun. Gillis the Northesk road account passed; $900 was ordered to be assessed for roads.

Coun. Swin reported from the Committee on petitions.

It was considered section by section. The first section said it appeared that Wm. Danery had bought a lease of Shelldrake Island at auction, that he had not signed and returned it or paid the rent, and authorized the sec.-treasurer to enforce payment. Adopted.

The 2nd section recommended paying dues to the Union of Municipalities and sending a delegate. Adopted.

Coun. Connors moved that the Warden be the delegate. Carried.

The 3rd section recommended placing a telephone in the jail. Adopted.

The 4th, recommending that Judge Landry's suggestions in favor of a central plate of execution for Canada be carried out. This was ruled out as ultra vires the powers of the Council. Coun. Vanderbeck asked for the balance sheet. The sec.-treasurer read it showing $9177.47 on hand.

Coun. Benson moved that the Chatham highway board's returns pass. Carried. It showed $297.03 on hand. He moved that $1,000 be assessed on the parish for roads. Carried.

Coun. Miller said the Drummond Co., about to establish shipping point at Newcastle, had written him that freight cost 10 per cent. extra unless steamers of 25ft. draft could be employed. He moved that a committee be appointed to prepare a resolution asking the Government to dredge the bar and middle ground to that depth. Hon. Mr. Pugsley had written that he had every reason to believe that there was sufficient money in the general estimates for all the dredging, but it might be well to make a special effort for this purpose. It might help materially. Adopted. Committee—Miller, Allain, and Fleet.

Coun. Pond moved that constables in Municipal elections be paid $1.50 a day. Carried.

EASE FOR PILES!

"I Used to Suffer, but—"

This is the experience of a lady who used to suffer from this terrible ailment, but found a cure. The writer is Mrs. E. B. B. of 97 Scott St., St. Thomas. She says: "I consider it my duty to write of the benefits derived from using Zam-Buk. For some months I was a constant sufferer from bleeding piles. I used a great many ointments, but got no relief until I tried Zam-Buk. It cured me, and I have had no return of the trouble. Since my cure I have advised several others suffering from piles to use Zam-Buk, and in each instance have had satisfactory results."

If you suffer from this ailment apply Zam-Buk at night before retiring, and you will be satisfied with the trial! A contributory cause of piles is often constipation, and a mild laxative will greatly aid the operation of Zam-Buk. For fistula, inflamed patches, an sore pue to blood poisoning, etc., Zam-Buk is equally effective. It is a soothing, cooling balm, which stimulates the cells beneath the epidermis an epithelium to natural action. It relieves the tension which in the case of piles causes such acute agony, and in all respects will be found eminently satisfactory.

Zam-Buk is also a cure for eczema, ulcers, cuts, burns, bruises, rashes, chapped hands, frost bite, cold sores, bad leg, etc. All druggists and stores sell at 50c. a box, or post free for price from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto.

Rural Phones

Solve These Every-Day Problems

Problem I. Bad Roads:—
The old way was to curse nature and idly wait sun's return. The new way is to telephone for what you want, and smile because you get the information in a thousand part of the time.

Problem II. Weather Forecasts:—
The old way was to work on belated information, and to excuse the losses with "that's what the farmer has to put up with." The new way is to telephone every morning to the weather man and overcome much of the needless bustle and bustle of the old way.

Problem III. Prices Current:—
The old way was to ask a neighbor or trust to the newspapers. The new way is to get information in the nick of time over the phone, thus knowing when to sell and when to hold.

Problem IV. Emergencies:—
The old way of procedure when some one took sick, was to harness up the "driver" and make all haste for the doctor. Effort in this direction often procured as its only result the information: "doctor is out." The new way is to call up the doctor on the phone, and know instantly what can be done pending the medical man's arrival.

Problem V. Help:—
The old way was to allow men to go on boys' errands—waste half a morning walking to Smith's only to find that his harrow was already loaded. The new way is to make the phone your errand boy—buy, borrow, begot by means of the "silent partner."

We have prepared a Booklet describing fully a rural phone system. Hadn't you better instruct us to send you this interesting bit of information, seeing it costs you nothing. Ask for Booklet 3116.

DELICATE LITTLE BABIES.

Every delicate baby starts life with a serious handicap. Even a trivial illness may end fatally and the mother is kept in a state of constant dread. Baby's Own Tablets have done more than any other medicine to make sickly babies well and strong. They give mothers a feeling of security, as through their use she sees her delicate child developing healthily. Mrs. Theodore Mordon, Bala, Ont., says: "I can say with confidence that Baby's Own Tablets saved my baby's life. I did not know what it was to have a good night's rest until I started using the Tablets, but they have made him a strong, healthy child." Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

MISS MINA LEACH

The death of Miss Mina, third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Leach of Cassilis, occurred under very sad circumstances Saturday morning. Deceased, who was not in robust health, had picked the head of a little pimple on her face on the 15th instant. It began immediately to swell up, and pulticing made it worse and on Tuesday the doctor was sent for but it was then too late. Blood poisoning and erysipelas had set in, and death could not be averted. Deceased was a very lovable child and a very clever and hardworking student. She was 15 years of age. She is survived by her parents, and by the following sisters and brother: Laura, at Newcastle; John, William, Melissa and Ella at home. The funeral took place on the 24th instant, at Rebank Roman Catholic church, Rev. Father Duffy conducting the services.

"Do you know," said he, after a moment's silence, "that if it were not for your beard you would answer the description of Drummond to a T?"

I inwardly thanked my lucky stars that I had grown whiskers since Clate Robinson saw me and then replied: "I never saw Drummond."

We talked a little while longer and then Streeter said, "Wait a minute!" He then sprinted up a ladder to the hay loft and in a moment came down with $250 in counterfeit. Exposing the roll to me, he said:—"That's every dollar of stuff there is in the State. You can have it if you want it."

I asked him the price. He said thirty cents on the dollar, but I told him I wouldn't take it at any price. I did not want Mrs. Latta and Drummond to catch me.

Then he became persistent. There was no danger, I could make an excuse to get on to the stage on the way home, bury the roll under a stump some back the next morning, and be gone.

I persisted in my refusal and the more he pressed the more he insisted. Finally he said:—"Give me thirty cents on the dollar for it, and you can have it."

"I ought not to do this," I said, "I ought not to do this but I will take a chance to do this for you."

And with that I pulled a roll of bills out of my pocket worth three hundred dollars of which was counterfeit and one hundred dollars genuine, and began to count off eighty dollars.

"The fifty seven Bill," I handed him fifty seven dollars, on the back of which was a blue check mark made by a bank cashier.

"I don't want that," said Streeter, handing it back to me.

"What's the matter with it?" said I. "It's marked. If you were a secret service man out here trying to catch me you would not just as you are getting. You would give me marked money and then send somebody to arrest me."

"Tom," said I, "take back your stuff. I don't want it. You are afraid of me and I am afraid of you. No harm has been done; let things stand as they are."

He looked at me a minute and then thrust the roll of counterfeit back in to my hand.

"I'll take the bill," he said. "Even if you are Drummond I can get away from you if I can get half an hour's start."

But I refused; it was too risky. Besides I must be getting back to Monroe. It would cost me an extra dollar.
