Dear St. John's—
Just a few words of sincere thanks and appreciation before I go. You've been so kind to me, so extremely kind, that you must realize how sorry I am to leave.
It's all been so wonderful, and oh, I've been so perfectly happy through it all. I really wish I didn't have to say "good-bye", but I'm leaving next Sunday, noon, by private car for Sydney.
Whatever you do please don't forget me, because I promise never to forget you.
With all my love, believe me,
Sincerely yours,
MAE EDWARDS.
P.S.—I thank you; my husband, Chas. T. Smith, thanks you; and so does every member of the Mae Edwards Players.

The Heir of Bayneham

Lady Hutton's Ward.

CHAPTER XV.
At times, in the midst of his happiness, Lord Bayneham paused to wonder why he was so favored—why Heaven and earth seemed to have poured their choicest gifts upon him. He was completely and thoroughly happy, there was not even the shadow of a cloud in his sky.

Lord Bayneham brought his beautiful young wife back to London. The house belonging to Lady Hutton had been sold. The Countess Dowager of Bayneham and Miss Earle accepted Claude's invitation to pass what remained of the season with him in Grosvenor Square.

Nothing annoyed the still brilliant mother of the young earl more than that title of dowager. Half in deference to her prejudice the fair wife who had taken her place was known as "Lady Hilda."

During her son's absence Lady Bayneham had arranged all her plans. She intended to reside at Listoff, a small estate that her husband, the late earl, had settled upon her, and Barbara had no thought of leaving her aunt.

"I cannot hope to keep you long with me," said Lady Bayneham to her niece. "You are sure to marry soon."

Miss Earle smiled and made no reply. Protestations were not much in her line; but she knew many years must elapse ere she could forget that lesson which it had taken her a lifetime to learn. Yet even as she sighed there came to her the memory of Bertie's handsome, eager face, telling its own tale of love and devotion.

The fair and lovely young bride created a marvellous sensation. As Miss Hutton, a simple, beautiful girl, shy and retiring, she had been greatly admired; as Lady Bayneham, a wealthy heiress, wedded to one of the noblest peers in England, she was irresistible. She had lost that half-timid expression that had amused the habitués of the great world. Lady Hilda was as sweet and gracious in her manner as she had ever been, but there was with it a quiet, easy dignity that suited her well. Barbara privately believed that in the solitude of the Swiss mountains Claude had given his wife some lessons in worldly training. Whatever had effected the change, it was for the better; even Lady Bayneham, proud and difficult to please, was charmed by the graceful ease and sweet dignity of her son's wife.

"She has not Barbara's thorough children like it."

"I have asked my mother to return with us to Bayneham," said Claude. "Hilda would be sure to feel nervous with a large party of guests, just at first. Is there any need for the ceremony of asking you to join us, Barbara?"

"Not much," she replied with a smile. "Who goes to Bayneham?"

"I have asked Bertie," he replied; "he has taken to politics. Only imagine, Barbara—two years ago he was the most careless, easy-going man it was possible to meet; now he has taken a kind of fever. He is secretary in some Government office, and if he does get into Parliament, I predict that he will make a sensation."

Barbara's face flushed deeply, she hardly knew why.

"Continue your list," she said hastily.

"My mother has asked Lady Graham; you know her pretty well, I suppose—fat, fair, happy, and forty, with a good jointure, and possessing what she calls the great advantage of belonging to some of the best families in England. She is popularly supposed to be on the lookout for a successor to the late lamented Sir Wilton Graham."

"Let us hope she may find one," said Barbara.

"Then we have a rival beauty in the person of Miss Devereux; the number of graces must be complete you know."

"What a wretched compliment!" said Miss Earle quietly. "You have not the delicate art of saying pretty things."

"It is difficult to satisfy you. We have my old friend Sir Harry Higham, and one or two more eligibles. You will find the party quite large enough, Barbara."

And so Miss Earle discovered, for great as were the resources of Bayneham Castle, they were stretched to the utmost. Every spare room had an occupant, and it was long since so gay and brilliant a crowd had assembled in those old walls.

Lord Bayneham was not quite sure whether his young wife would feel at home in the grey crowd he brought round her. Had he consulted his own wishes he would have taken her to Bayneham alone, but he had two good reasons for inviting so many guests. One was that his mother declared it must be done; another was that he saw quite plainly the haughty dowager did not yet love her daughter-in-law. He hoped that the pleasant duty of entertaining their guests would bring both ladies together, and lessen the distance and coldness existing between them. Lady Bayneham tried hard, but she could not forgive the fair young wife who had usurped Barbara's place. She misjudged her, misunderstood her. She was never unkind to Hilda, but she treated her with a cool, stately reserve, distressing to the gentle girl who had been so fondly loved by Lady Hutton.

"I must win her love," said Hilda; "I must be like a real daughter to her."

It sounded very well in theory, but to put it into practice was very difficult. Lady Bayneham had a quiet way of waiving her gentle attentions. Do what she would, that young girl could find no place in that proud heart. She was not admitted into Lady Bayneham's dressing-room, that little sanctuary where Barbara spent such long hours. Still her patience never tired. Claude never heard one word from his wife except in praise of his mother.

Still her patience never tired. Claude never heard one word from his wife except in praise of his mother.

"It will all come in time," thought the young girl.

With a natural ease and dignity all her own, she fell at once into her place as queen of that brilliant throng. Every one was charmed with the beautiful young hostess, so thoughtful of each one's comfort and amusement.

There was plenty of society at Bayneham; the neighborhood abounded in what the countess called, with great emphasis, "really good families;" and the really good families hastened, one and all, to attend the court and the young queen who had come to reign over them. There were times when ever the dowager herself could not help being charmed by the winning grace and pure loveliness of her son's wife.

Obituary.

JOHN GUNN.
The many friends of Mr. John Gunn, who died this morning at the General Hospital, will be sorry to hear of his passing. Mr. Gunn entered the institution about a month ago, and despite all skilled medical attentions he passed peacefully away this morning. Mr. Gunn had been Steward at the St. Andrew's Club up to the time of his illness, and his kindly smile will be missed by the members. Mr. Gunn who, it will be remembered, was a great horse fancier and was an importer of many thoroughbreds. The funeral takes place on Monday at 2:30 p.m. from his late residence, 18 Bell Street.

Don't forget St. Joseph's Xmas Tree opens at 4 o'clock Monday evening. Mount Cashel Band in attendance. The Tree closes with a grand Dance Tuesday night.

Awarded Certificate of Competency.

It is pleasing to announce that Mr. H. Wareham, formerly passed for second and first mates certificates, has been awarded a Master's Certificate of Competency. Mr. Wareham served as an officer in the R.N.R. during the war and since then has been sailing out of Canada and U.S.A. After spending the Christmas holidays with relatives and friends he returns to New York to resume his duties as chief officer of a large steamship plying between U.S. ports and West Coast of South America. We wish the young master every success. The certificate was granted by Captain English and Major Board of Trade examiners.

GREAT REDUCTION IN PRICES

SOAPS, TALCUMS, PERFUMES and Goods generally sold in a first-class Drug Store at STAFFORD'S, Duckworth Street.

For two weeks only, commencing Saturday, December 9th, we are clearing out a large quantity of goods at a very small margin of profit, some below cost.

Our goods are practically all new stock and a visit will convince you of some of the bargains we have.

As most of the popular lines will sell very quickly, come early and not be disappointed.

STAFFORD'S,
134 Duckworth Street.
Ladies' Curling Club.

OFFICERS ELECTED.
The following officers were elected for the ensuing season at a meeting of the Ladies' Curling Club, held yesterday morning.
President—Mrs. J. C. Baird.
Vice President—Mrs. J. W. McNelly.
Secretary—Mrs. W. H. Duder.
Committee—Mrs. Hickman, Mrs. Alderdice, Mrs. Rogerson, Mrs. Jno. Angel.

CORNS

Lift Off with Fingers

Doesn't hurt a bit! Drop a little "Freezone" on an aching corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then shortly you lift it right off with fingers! Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of "Freezone" for a few cents, sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the calluses, without soreness or irritation.

Model School Holds Annual Prize Distribution.

The pupils of the Model School, Synod Hall, held their annual entertainment and prize distribution in the Synod Building on Thursday night last, a large and appreciative audience of friends and parents of the scholars being present. The programme of 17 items, under the direction of Miss Purchase, the lady principal, was rendered in a most excellent manner, and thoroughly enjoyed by all present. During the evening speeches were made by Dr. W. W. Blackall, who presided, and Rev. Canon Jewes. The speakers referred very encouragingly to the good work so successfully carried out by Miss Purchase, the Principal, and the teaching staff, while a special word of praise was tendered the children for their excellent performance. The entertainment was repeated yesterday afternoon. The proceeds will go towards the school at White Bay, and to send relief to the starving children of Russia.

Sunday Services.

THIRD SUNDAY IN ADVENT.
C. E. Cathedral—8, Holy Communion; 11, Morning Service; 3, C.M.B.C. in Synod Building; 3:15, Children's Service; 6:30, Evening Service.
St. Thomas's—8, Holy Communion; 11, Morning Prayer, Holy Communion and Sermon; 3:15, Children's Service; 6:30, Evening Prayer and Sermon. Preacher, the Rector, subject, "The Coming of the King."
St. Mary the Virgin—8, Holy Communion; 11, Matins; 2:45, Bible Class (ladies); 3, Children's Service. Presentation of Mission Boxes; 4:30, Holy Baptism; 6:30, Evensong.
St. Michael's and All Angels—8, Holy Communion; 11, Holy Eucharist (sund); 3:30, Children's Service; 4:15, Holy Baptism; 6:30, Evensong; 8, Preparation for Holy Communion.

METHODIST.
Gower Street—11, Rev. J. G. Joyce; 6:30, Rev. Hammond Johnson.
George Street—11, Rev. C. H. Johnson; 6:30, Rev. R. E. Fairbairn.
Cochrane Street—11, Rev. R. E. Fairbairn; 6:30, Rev. Dr. Powell of Ford City, Pa.
Wesley—11, Rev. Hammond Johnson; 6:30, Rev. J. G. Joyce.

Congregational (Queen's Road)—11 and 6:30, Rev. B. T. Holden.
St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church—11 and 6:30, Rev. Robert J. Power. Mr. Power will continue his "Intimate Talks" at the Evening Service, speaking to "Mothers-in-Law."

S. A. Citadel (Adelaide Street)—7, Kneel Drill; 11, Holiness Meeting; 3, Free and Easy, Leaders, Adj. and Mrs. Hillier; 7, Salvation Meeting, Leaders, Colonel and Mrs. Martin, assisted by Headquarters Staff.

Adventist (Cookstown Road)—4:45, Evangelist Manuel, subject: "Where will Heaven be? Shall we know each other?"

NOTES.
St. Thomas's—The preacher at the morning service will be the Rev. Canon Hewitt, who is leaving for England in a few days. Forty-seven years ago Canon Hewitt preached his first sermon in the old Parish Church of St. Thomas. Since then he has laboured most faithfully in this diocese, his last charge being Petty Harbour. It is understood the Canon goes to his old home where his declining years will be spent; and probably his last, as well as his first sermon in Newfoundland will be preached at St. Thomas's.

C.M.B.C.—The Cathedral Men's Bible Class will meet to-morrow afternoon in the Synod Building at 3 p.m. Subject: "Continuing Studies in the Epistles to the Seven Churches. Special feature of each Church."

Methodist Churches—White Gift Services will be held at all the Methodist Sunday Schools to-morrow afternoon.
Wesley Church is observing Sunday as a Day of Thanksgiving and special sermons will be preached, dealing with that subject. The Sunday School is also holding its annual Christmas "White Gift" Service at 2:30. Special Programme.

Gower St. Church—Tomorrow is Sunday School Anniversary Day. The scholars of the school will occupy the galleries at both the morning and evening services. Rev. Mr. Joyce will preach in the morning and Miss Mitchell will sing. In the afternoon a special and interesting programme has been prepared. Mrs. Garland and Miss Maude will sing. Rev. Dr. Powell will speak. The gift service will also be held. At night Rev. Hammond Johnson will give a special discourse on the Home. Mr. Alex. Lawrence will sing. Friends will be cordially welcomed.

Cochrane Street—This congregation will have the pleasure of hearing Rev. G. L. Powell, M.A., Ph.D., of Ford City, U.S.A., a talented Newfoundland, at the above named Church to-morrow evening. The Reverend gentleman is a powerful and forceful speaker, and those who have not had the pleasure of hearing him should not miss this opportunity.

Cochrane Street Sunday School holds its Christmas White Gift Service in the Church to-morrow afternoon, to commence at 2:45. An interesting service is anticipated. Short, bright programme.

Shipping.

S.S. Silvia sails for Halifax and New York at noon on Monday. The ship is taking about 5000 barrels freight.
S.S. Manoa leaves Charlottetown on Monday morning for this port with a full general cargo.
S.S. Canadian Gunner, which left here five days ago following the discharge of her cargo, which had caught fire, returned to port last night short of coal. The steamer was proceeding to Halifax, but after sailing from here stormy weather was encountered and she drifted out of her course. As the bunkers were getting low the Captain decided to return here to have them replenished.

PIMPLES ON FACE FOR 3 YEARS

Also On Arms. Very Sore. Cuticura Healed.

"For three years my daughter was troubled with pimples on her face and arms. They were hard, large, and red, and some of them festered and were very sore. Her face was disfigured for a while, and she stayed in nearly all the time. "She tried different remedies but they did not do any good so began to use Cuticura Soap and Ointment and after using three cakes of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment she was healed." (Signed) Mrs. S. F. McDufty, 20 Franklin St., Boston, N. H., Dec. 31, 1920. Give Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Tablets the daily care of your skin. Sample Book Free. Address: "Cuticura," Dept. 988, St. Paul, N. H., U.S.A. "Cuticura" is sold everywhere. Beware of cheap imitations. Cuticura Soap shaves without razor.

Old Glory Sale at New York.

MR. J. JUDGE BUYS FAST HORSES.

We notice by late Canadian papers that at the annual Old Glory sale held recently at New York. Mr. J. Judge has bought several fast horses. The paper that we take the clipping from gives Mr. Judge's address as Halifax, but we understand that it is Mr. Joseph Judge of this city. The item reads:—

MORE HORSES FOR PROVINCES.

"Besides Mollivera, 2.39, and Frisco, Direct, 2.24, bought respectively by Joseph Judge, Halifax, and Hammond Kelly, Charlottetown, as already reported, several other purchases were made at the New York Old Glory Sale. Nova Scotians have been prominent at these sales for years in purchasing the first horse on the catalogue. Jas. D. Keith, New Glasgow, at several sales made such purchases, and at the recent sale Mr. Judge, Halifax, bought the initial offering. Pettilian, 2.18, bay stallion, 11 years old, by Peter the Great, 2.07, dam, Tullian, half sister to Mary Tull, 1.45, Gen. Star, 3.14, by Cecilian, (2) 2.32, by Electioneer. Pettilian trotted a trial in 2:07 1/2 as a four year old. Mr. Judge paid $100 for him.

Mr. Judge also purchased Princess Ambit, chestnut trotting mare, 10 years old, by Robert King, 2.17, dam Ambit, 2.23, by Ambassador, 2.14. She is a full sister to King Ambit, 2.12, but never been trained. She has been broken to single and double and has been driven by a young woman. She was sold for $80."

Hints For Your Home.

Bamboo furniture should be cleaned with warm salt and water, and polished with a soft cloth.

An excellent method of removing onion odours from a knife is to dip the knife two or three times in some earth.

Never keep vinegar in a stone jar. The acid affects the glazing, and renders the vinegar unwholesome. Glass jars are the best.

A few drops of ammonia added to the water when washing flannel and woollen garments will make them soft and help to keep them a good colour.

If gas brackets, owing to their position, corrode and look unsightly, clean them, and then paint with cycle enamel. An alternative is to use aluminium paint.

Obtain a stone ginger-beer bottle, knit a cover for it, or make one out of a bit of flannel; and you have a good foot-warmer for baby's cot or pram. Warm the bottle before filling it.

When you find that the sink is stopped up, turn on the tap until the sink is three-quarters full; then turn it off. Put the palm of your hand flat over the hole, and lift your hand up and down very quickly. This will soon make the water run away.

To save broken buttons and the holes cut by them, take the buttons off the shirt front and in their place make buttonholes. Then stitch the buttons on to a broad piece of tape and slip them through the made buttonholes. They may then be removed for washing, and the one set of buttons will serve for every shirt.

Rinse coloured frocks and blouses in a solution of one ounce of Epsom-salt and two quarts of water.

To remove iron rust from lace, use lemon-juice and salt and expose to the sunshine. If stains will not yield to treatment, a white lace that is spotted may be given an ecoré tint by rinsing in coffee.

Mildew on linens may be removed by rubbing well with soap and scraping a little chalk over it. Spread in the sun to bleach, and as it dries damp it a little. It should be left in the air all day, and then washed.

Blouses or garments which have lost their original brightness or colour may be readily made perfectly white by boiling for twenty minutes in water to which has been added cream of tartar, one teaspoonful to a pail of water.

World's Cleverest Criminals.

RANSACKING A HOUSE WHILE THE FAMILY SLEEPS.

Among certain native castes in India crime is looked upon as one of the arts, and members of the tribes are trained from infancy in all branches of strategy.

Like the ancient Thugs of India, who committed murders in honour of their goddess, these tribes regard crime in the light of a religious observance, and consider manual labour degrading.

There are schools of crime where the young are initiated into all the cunning ruses used when committing robberies, burglaries, or even murders. No crime is too trivial or too big, and from stealing chickens one day they may go the next day to murdering a man for the sake of his money. Driven to Commit Crimes. There is a great deal of system in the training. A child may have no natural inclination to rob or murder, so the parent deprives his offspring of everything he likes and thwarts his every desire. The result is that the youth turns to robbery and violence to obtain whatever he wants. These thieves are fiendishly clever. They have been known to steal the sheets from a bed while the victim was asleep. They are so intelligent that they are able to gauge the nervous system of the sleeper. They tickle him with a feather, and when he rolls over they snatch away the sheets!

A case is on record in which a whole house was stripped of its contents while a heavy trunk remained closed. Three men to move it had been stolen as well.

Sixty Miles of Books.

With its five million old printed volumes, the British Museum Library can claim the distinction of being the largest in the world, so far as the number of its books is concerned. Indeed, over sixty miles of shelves have been called into requisition to accommodate them.

The library was started in 1553, since when it has grown by enormous strides, absorbing vast and wealthy collections of books, such as the Old Royal Library, the King's Library, a magnificent treasury containing 65,250 volumes besides pamphlets, the Grenville Library, and many large special collections, not to mention the multifarious stores of books in paper and inscribed tablets from the ancient libraries of the East.

The catalogue, which is a bare alphabetical list of books, gives one the best means of realizing the stupendous extent of the collection. It consists of 1,600 folio volumes, each as big as one can handle with any facility, which are arranged on both sides of a series of cases describing an arc ninety yards in length.

The Reading Room of the Library, a magnificent circular hall with a dome 106ft. high and 40ft. in diameter, only two feet less than the dome of St. Peter's, Rome, provides accommodation for 500 readers. As the Library enjoys the right to receive a copy of every publication issued in this country, its collection is being added to at the rate of 100,000 volumes a year, and it has had to construct a special repository at Hendon to hold some of its treasures.

History in Hair.

The pigtail, which for hundreds of years has been the distinguished mark of the Chinese, is rapidly passing out of fashion. In a short time it may be a thing of the past.

The latest person to follow Western fashions in the matter of hair-cutting is the young Emperor of China, and his decision will have far-reaching results in the Far East. It means that China has thrown off old habits and that in future the country will adopt Western ideas and reforms. In fact, the cutting of the Emperor's hair will make history.

It is a curious fact that the pigtail was not originally a Chinese habit. About three centuries ago, in 1618, when the Manchus conquered China and made themselves its rulers, the Chinese were forced to shave the front of their heads as a sign of submission, and to grow a pigtail at the back. The present Emperor is the descendant of the first Manchu ruler of China, and it is curious that he should abolish what one of his forefathers introduced. When the fashion of cutting the hair short was introduced, the leaders of the movement were regarded with horror by the majority of the Chinese, who had come to look upon their pig-tails as something like a religious symbol. Now this feeling has passed, and together with many other foreign ideas hair-cutting has been adopted eagerly by the inhabitants of the Celestial Empire.

Short Cut to Wealth.

It is said to be the custom at Monte Carlo to fill the pockets of suicides with bank-notes, so that it may be assumed they did not kill themselves on account of losses.

The story goes that a presumably dead Irishman, knowing this custom, succeeded in getting his pockets filled a short time ago. After losing a small sum at the gaming tables, he suddenly jumped up, exclaimed "I am ruined!" and rushed into the gardens.

Almost immediately afterwards the guards heard a pistol shot and then a cry of pain, and, rushing to the spot, found the Irishman apparently dead.

It was dark, so they filled his pockets with money and left him to be discovered in the morning. They had scarcely gone out of sight, however, before the Irishman was on his feet again and congratulating himself on the success of his clever ruse.

The Methodist Orphanage Christmas Tree will be held at the Orphanage on Thursday, Dec. 28th at 3.30 o'clock. Contributions in money and gifts suitable for a Christmas treat will be gratefully received and acknowledged by Miss Mary Mackay, Sutherland Place, King's Bridge Road, P.O. Eczema Covered Arms of This Healthy Child

Mrs. Alex. Marshall, Sprucedale, Ont., writes:—

Baby Marshall.

"When my little son was three months old he broke out in sores on his chest and arms. We did all we could to heal those terrible sores, but nothing did him much good. Finally I ventured on a box of Dr. Chase's Ointment and kept on using it. At last we were rewarded by the steady healing of the sores, and finally he was completely relieved of them. He is now three years old, and has had no return of the trouble since."

JUST AS GOOD.

I wished to buy Bill Shakespeare's plays, and to the book bazaar I fared. I'd heard some people highly praise the stuff this Shakespeare had prepared. New authors, every day or two, spring up in these exciting times, and it is hard to keep up with their prose and rhymes. I strive so hard to keep in touch with all that's good and up-to-date, and oft I find I've got in dutch, when it is time to pay the freight. I asked for Shakespeare's latest book, and said the clerk, who by me stood, "We're all sold out today, kazook, but here is something just as good." "Perhaps," I said, "the books you show make Shakespeare's cheeks with envy burn, but from your tinhorn store I go, and hevermore shall I return. For long and weary years I've stood the gall of salesmen who assert that they have something just as good when I would buy a hat or shirt. I ask for pills of cottonwood, I ask for spark-plugs for my lyre, and they have something just as good, but not the things that I desire. So I have framed a solemn vow to boycott merchants of that kind; then, with my wreath upon my brow, I left the book bazaar behind.

Wife For Ford Car.

Preferring motoring to matrimony, Mr. Frank Woodruff, of Fulton, in New York State, exchanged his wife for a second-hand Ford car. After the deal had been completed the car was confiscated, because there was a 40 dollar mortgage on it, and Mr. Woodruff has now gone home to mother. It seems that a friend of his, Mr. Grover Coant, had a car but no wife. Mr. Woodruff, on the other hand, had a wife and no car. Each coveted the other's possession, and so the exchange was arranged. Mrs. Woodruff was not consulted, but agreed to it after it was explained to her. All three then signed this document:—"I have assigned my wife to Grover Coant for his Ford touring car, and all the consideration, including one tyre, one pump, and all the tools in the car at the present time. I let all bonds drop on my ex-wife." It was when this deed, duly witnessed, was taken for registration to the office of the County Clerk that the authorities first heard of the matter. By that time Mrs. Woodruff had left Mr. Coant and the latter, having paid the 40 dollars, had got his Ford back. But Mr. Woodruff is still wireless.

The Sheriff's Counsel Plays Hanging.

INQUIRY INTO DOUBLE EXECUTION OF SWIM.

(Standard, Montreal, Nov. 26.)
Slashing condemnation of hangings, above all by counsel for Sheriff Albion B. Foster, under whose direction the execution was performed, was a feature of the recent Woodstock, N. B., inquiry into the double hanging of Bennie Swim, according to reports received here by the Canadian Prisoners' Welfare Association, which was represented by counsel at the inquiry.

After all evidence was in, T. C. L. Ketchum, for the Association, declared that witnesses' testimony showed that no reflection could be cast upon the Sheriff as a result of the revolting occurrence of October 8 last, when Swim twice went to the gallows in expiation for the crime for which he was condemned.

Shock to Public Mind.

"This hanging," said Mr. Ketchum, "has been a shock to the public mind. I sincerely hope that, in some manner, the report of the commissioner on this inquiry will recommend some future course to be pursued in cases of capital punishment that will for ever put an end to such occurrences as that of October 8."

"It seems strange to me that, while the State orders the sentence of the court to be carried out, the State at the same time provides nothing definite as to how and by whom the hanging should be performed."

"In this country, a hangman is obliged to hide his face from his fellow-men, so powerful is public feeling in regard to the practice, yet many persons declare it is the duty of the sheriff to carry out the death sentence. I differ with them. If such a duty was morally the obligation of a sheriff, then we would have to turn to men of the stamp of the hangmen to find our sheriffs, for no self-respecting or respected man would be found to assume such an obligation. The obligation is with the State, and the State should insure that, in cases of capital punishment, the execution should be performed by thoroughly competent officials."

"A classic, and an eloquent one at that," was the comment of the Hon. Wendell P. Jones, K.C., of Woodstock, who represented Sheriff Foster.

"I have listened with the keenest pleasure to what Mr. Ketchum has said," he declared, "and I agree most cordially with his views. Hanging is a barbarous custom. It is a relic of former centuries, when men were strung up at street corners and left there for days to act as the people then thought, as a deterrent to crime."

ASHAMED OF THE CUSTOM.

"The people of Canada, I feel, are a trifle ashamed of this custom. Their true attitude is shown when any hanging happens in cases of capital punishment. While they realize that hanging is only performance of the law's decree, they resent to the last any excess of suffering on the part of the condemned man."

"Are we not to blame for this state of affairs? We have not proceeded as yet to form any change in this custom. The idea that a man of Albion Foster's stamp should be forced to hang a man is preposterous. It is no job of any sheriff—an official looked up to and trusted in every community. Hangmen are looked down upon through all the ages. Canada, at least, should provide a trained man for executions."

"The inquiry into this hanging has been essential in view of the distorted stories that have been current. The inquiry has served its purpose because it has brought the true facts to light. It will go beyond its purpose, yet perform a distinct benefit to the country, if it should prove to be the starting point for some beneficial changes in the Canadian law affecting capital punishment."

'SWIM EXECUTIONS MURDER IN SECOND DEGREE.'

"Was this not murder, at least in the second degree?" is the question advanced by Robert Birkendike, Sen. president of the Canadian Prisoners' Welfare Association, commenting on the execution at the Woodstock prison.

Public executions are advocated by Mr. Birkendike as a sure cure for that section of the public which considers capital punishment just retribution for the murderer. The president of the Association, in addition, puts forth nine reasons for which the organization is battling for a law banishing the gallows.

"Now that the authorities have at last, after four attempts, succeeded in strangling Benny Swim to death," says Mr. Birkendike, "is it not up to some of our clergymen who are in favor of the death penalty to preach and sing the praises of our Christian civilization. When I hear a clergyman preaching forgiveness on Sunday and standing up for the death penalty on Monday, I ask myself the old, old question, 'was it he or his parents who sinned?'"

"When we learn to look upon murderers as very sad and unfortunate persons who are insane, or who were at least temporarily unbalanced, we will abolish capital punishment, and until it is abolished remember that you, I, and everyone in Canada, permit capital punishment to hang by guilty of taking human life.

"As awful as the picture of a man going to his doom, I believe it would be well to have executions in public. That would cause the sicken those who pay no attention to this relic of the Dark Ages. Rappal of the law would follow soon after."

SINKING OFF INTO CORNER.
"But what have we? We see Capital Punishment sinking off into a dark corner at some remote hour of the night, working swiftly and secretly and blindingly. It is such a miserable thing to take a fellow-man's life, why all the secrecy? The answer is that Capital Punishment is afraid of the light. It knows that the true light will discover its weakness and bring up its sorry visage that all may see and shrink therefrom."

"Capital Punishment is the shame of civilization. We shrink from the thought of it, but it is the biggest and most dangerous of all that it steals human life and sets an example to others to follow. It is a crime against the law of God. I am opposed to capital punishment."

"Because the country writes the law on its statute books (They do not kill), and becomes the chief offender. The death penalty is a crime on Christianity and in defiance of teachings of Our Lord and Master. Disgrace to any Christian nation retaining same on its statute books."

"Because the putting of a man to death in the name of the law is murder judicialized, and capital murder is not viewed by common judicial murder. To inflict the death penalty encourages the cruel institutions of society to stigmatize those hated by kindred ties to the victim as he put to death."

"Because the State says: This man is not fit to live and I ask the God if he is not fit to live he fit to die. It is written: 'Who hateth his brother is a murderer,' and who among us have pure hearts? Who, then, shall 'Cast the first stone?'"

"Because the Commandment—'Thou shalt not kill,' is a moral law, and to this law the State is not less amenable than any individual. Capital Punishment is shocking to every man's impulse of pity, therefore, has no part in a civilized man's thought."

"Because laws inflicting the death penalty degrade the dignity of the State which should seek the moral reformation of criminals rather than inflict them with physical suffering. Capital Punishment bears the marks of retaliation and revenge and not of these serve the ends of Justice. They defeat Justice."

INNOCENT MAN SUFFERS.

"Because many an innocent man has suffered the Death Penalty there is no language to express the justice so great as this. Canada stands in the vanguard of humane reforms, and to this end its codes should be purged of every clause that savors of cruelty and sense."

"Because there is no 'Double standard' of morals, one for the State and one for the individual. Whether committed by legal profession or by the hands of an assassin, the execution of the Death Penalty is the stamp of most degradation on every public official who takes a condemned man to the final and irreversible hour of his doom."

"Because Compassion, Pity, and the supreme of noble sentiments, the Capital Punishment strikes all of these down to a single blow."

"Because the One who came into the world to save sinners condemned capital punishment." He said, 'I do not to destroy life, but to save it.' He says an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth, 'but I say, Go, and sin no more.' Is it not poor use to strap a man. To kill him. Why not put to work for the balance of his life?"

WHY NOT ALLOW TO LIVE?

"Now, may I ask you why the weak-minded Benny Swim was allowed to live? He was sentenced death by the law, he was hanged and pronounced dead by the law as represented by the executioner, and in the face of that, what right had anyone to drop a little fellow to the gallows? Was this not murder, at least in the second degree? Does this blot on our boasted Christian civilization? Christianity and capital punishment can no longer go hand in hand."

Microbes Killed by Tylenol

TYLENOL is a good cry... It is a substance which is the medicine's greatest friends.

It has been discovered that Tylenol contains a substance called tylenol which is capable of killing any germ of microbes. If a tiny test-tube is placed in a test-tube with millions of microbes, it will dissolve them all.

The action takes place in less than a second, and one drop of Tylenol will destroy all the germs it comes across. It never gives out.

The discoverer of this remarkable substance is Dr. Alexander Fleming of St. Mary's Hospital, London, who took him six months to find out that it really existed. Every one who has nearly every part of the human body is made up of some of these substances as the tissues of some of the lower animals and certain vegetables such as the turnip.

Obituary.

ARTHUR ROWE. This morning at 11 o'clock the soul of Arthur Rowe winged its way to Him who gave it, and thus another link in the chain of the human family is broken. For years the deceased had been suffering from physical injuries caused by being run over by a yard engine at the Reid Company's premises, a leg having to be amputated, while internal injuries were also sustained. Bearing his troubles with an indomitable spirit, the late Arthur Rowe was never known to complain. Cheerful to the last, he bore with the utmost fortitude the pain and pang of his injuries, which were of such a nature that they cannot be described. A lifelong member of the Society of United Fishermen, Bro. Rowe, previous to his accident, was ever foremost in promoting the interests of the Order. Left to mourn their irreparable loss are a widow and one daughter, Bessie, to whom in this hour of their sudden bereavement, the Telegram tenders every expression of condolence and sympathy. The funeral will take place from the late residence of deceased, Hutchings' Street, at 2.30 p.m. Monday.

Three Ball Trick. Place the red over one middle pocket, the plain white over the other, and the spot white six inches behind the red, all three balls being in a straight line. The trick is to play with the spot white and pocket three balls in one shot in the middle pockets. As you draw back the cue to hit the spot white, knock in the plain white with the butt-end of the cue and follow on the red into the pocket—a six shot.

Spinning the Ball. Rather an amusing trick to get someone with strong fingers, who can spin a ball well, to spin it on the table and then try to stop it dead by placing one finger on top of it. If it is spinning hard it is difficult. It cannot be stopped by placing the side of a cue on it.

Jumping a Ball into a Pool-Basket. Place a pool basket on its side near the top of a table, with its mouth facing baulk. Put a shilling on the table ten inches from the mouth of the basket. Place a ball in baulk in a straight line with the shilling and the mouth of the basket. Take aim at the shilling and hit the ball fairly hard. It should jump right into the mouth of the basket and stay there.

One Ball on Three.

Put three balls together, and try to balance another ball of the same weight on top of them. You will find this very difficult to do, unless you chalk the top ball on the spots where it will rest on the other balls. To chalk it successfully, rub some chalk into the palm of the hand and rub the top ball in it.

The Parable of the Prodigal.

"And not many days after he took his journey into a far country, and there wasted his (country's) substance. And when he had spent all there arose a mighty famine in that land; and he began to be in want. And he went and joined himself to a citizen of that country; and he sent him into the fields to feed swine. And he would fain have filled himself with the husks that the swine did eat; and no man gave unto him. And when he came to himself he said, 'How many hired servants of my father have bread enough and to spare, and I perish with hunger. I will arise and go to my father. . . . and say unto him, make me as one of thy hired servants.'"

The above taken from the Gospel according to St. Luke tells of the adventures of the prodigal son. As a parable it is a gem of incomparability, and has been made the subject of more sermons and paintings than any other in the volume of sacred law. In this case there was but one prodigal. Unfortunately Newfoundland has a plurality of them, all of whom are sons of the country, and politicians who are ever prodigal when the taxpayers foot the bills. The chief of these is the Prime Minister, the bulk of whose time, since he attained office in the year of grace 1919, has been spent in wanderings abroad on all sorts of pretexts, from Hague Conferences to Humber Deals. As a political picnicker, prodigal of expenses charged up to the country, the present Premier is easily first, but different from that wayward son, part of whose story is quoted above he does not feed on the husks. No! Palatial hotels and sumptuous suites of offices are his particular forte. But the country pays. The next prodigal son is the Minister of Justice. He also differs from the character in the gospel story, for instead of wasting his own substance, he prefers to make it charge on the colony, when in pursuit of evasive Labrador boundaries. With the peripatetic Prime Minister he likewise has enjoyed a six months holiday in Britain and on the Continent, for the pleasure of which Mr. Taxpayer has to come across to the tune of seventy per cent. of his earnings. Then we have the greatest prodigal of all, that eminent Knight of the British Empire, Sir Patrick T. McGrath, whose particular idea is to be Vicar of Bray, no matter what King occupies the throne. He too has been enjoying a holiday abroad at the expense of the taxpayers, delving into dusty old records dealing with that lucrative subject for lawyers, the Labrador Boundary. His arrival in the city after some months of absence will be heralded shortly. And so we have the three prodigals who, wasting the substance of the colony, return in Indian file, as it were. Hon. W. R. Warren, Minister of Justice; Sir R. A. Squires, Prime Minister, Colonial Secretary, and Premier Minister of Finance and last but by no means least, Sir Patrick T. McGrath, Knight of the Most Estimable Order of the British Empire and anything else you please. They all arise and go to their father, who invariably foots the bills—the overburdened colony of Newfoundland, Prodigals—Yes.

Anglo-Spanish Trade Treaty.

PREMIER EXPLAINS NEWFOUNDLAND'S PARTICIPATION.

Since his return home on Thursday afternoon Premier Squires has been kept busy attending to many of the matters of Government which had cropped up since he left here six months ago, nevertheless he was able this morning to give the Telegram a brief account of some of his doings on the other side. In connection with the Humber Agreement the Prime Minister reserved what he had to say until a later date, and referred more particularly to the Anglo-Spanish Treaty and Newfoundland's participation therein. Premier Squires returned from Madrid, Spain, on the evening of Thursday, the 14th, having come by the speediest and shortest route. His visit to Madrid was in connection with the application to Newfoundland of a treaty which during the past year has been negotiated by the Imperial Government and the Spanish Government. Under this treaty preference is given to certain goods of British production. The treaty is subject to ratification by the Spanish and Imperial Governments, but came into effect as a modus vivendi on November 6th. The general effect of the treaty is that certain products of Great Britain may enter Spain at a reduced Spanish import duty. The Dominions and Colonies did not get the benefit of the treaty, but they might, within a period of six months come within the scope of the operations of the treaty under certain circumstances. The effect of the treaty was to make certain reductions in the Spanish import duty on British fish. This was immediately availed of by Norway, which has a trade treaty with Spain which includes a most favored nation clause in favour of Norway. Thus on and after the 6th day of November, 1922, British fish and Norwegian fish had entry into the Spanish ports at a Spanish duty of about sixty-two and a half cents per quintal less than the duty payable on Newfoundland fish. At first it appeared that there was no hope of getting an arrangement made whereby Newfoundland could get the benefit of this treaty without special legislative enactment. Premier Squires, however, took the matter up personally with the Colonial Office, the Foreign Office, the British Ambassador to Spain who came to London to bring with him the original signed treaty and discuss matters with the Foreign Office. As a result of these preliminary negotiations Premier Squires went to Madrid to deal direct with the Spanish authorities. Satisfactory arrangements were completed, and the Premier remained in Madrid until the end of the month, the inclusion of Newfoundland within the operations of the treaty was published in the Spanish Official Gazette. He also gave notice of the matter to the House of Commons. The Premier's visit to Madrid was in connection with this matter, and it was vital to the interest of our fishermen that this advantage be immediately secured. This arrangement with Spain meant not only a gain to Newfoundland fishermen of about $150,000 a year, but made possible the satisfactory marketing of about a quarter of a million quintals of Newfoundland codfish in Spain in satisfactory competition with Norwegian fish. A quantity of Newfoundland fish had actually been landed in Spain after the sixth day of November and before the completion of the arrangement. Premier Squires also arranged that any import duty paid on fish landed during that period over and above the amount specified in the treaty will be refunded to the parties interested. The Premier said that the ratification of this arrangement had of necessity to be the subject of Legislative enactment. It would be brought before the Legislature at an early moment during the approaching session. The term of the treaty is three years. The result of these negotiations is that the fishermen of the country get the benefit of $150,000 a year which otherwise would be paid in as revenue to the Spanish Government.

Chinese Murderer Dies on Scaffold.

EXTREME PENALTY OF LAW CARRIED OUT.

Trap Sprung at 8.09 This Morning -- Wo Fen Game Met His End Calmly -- Execution Arrangements Perfect.

The sentence of death passed on Wo Fen Game was carried out at His Majesty's Penitentiary this morning a few minutes after eight o'clock. Shortly before the appointed hour Revs. Fairbairn and Joyce visited the cell of the condemned man, and a number of newspaper representatives assembled in a room overlooking the scaffold. At 7.35 the prison bell began to toll and final preparations for leading the condemned man to the place of execution began. Chief Warden Manning and second Warden Crotty entering the cell, bound the condemned man's hands to his sides with a half dozen turns of tape. At 8 o'clock, all being in readiness, Superintendent Parsons handed the condemned man over to the Sheriff and the procession to the courtyard began. The solemn procession, led by the attending clergymen reciting prayers, proceeded along the corridor, whilst closely following walked Wardens Manning and Crotty, having between them Wo Fen Game. Wardens Hammond, Rose, Stroz, and Gange followed. The condemned man walked with a steady step and never faltered as he mounted the five steps leading to the scaffold.

The place of execution, erected on the North East end of the prison, was reached by four or five paces. After ascending to the platform the condemned man, at the suggestion of Deputy Superintendent T. O. Thompson, turned round and placed his feet within a small black circle painted on the trap. The executioner, who was a tall man, wearing a long black cap, grey pants, rubber overboots, and his features hidden by a black nansen cap, then came forward. The condemned man, wearing a peak cap, white soft collar, shirt and dark coat and trousers, came to tremble as the executioner approached, and a look of horror spread over his otherwise impassive countenance. Meanwhile Warden Manning began to bind the condemned man's legs up to the thighs and the prison bell rang for the executioner to proceed. At 9 minutes after 8 o'clock, a signal from Sheriff Blandford, the trap was sprung, and the doomed man disappeared into the pit below. Except for the slight shock as the body brought up at the end of the rope, all was still, the only sound audible being the doleful toll of the bell.

THE SCAFFOLD. The place of execution was an ordinary platform erected, 12 x 12 feet, built of matched board. It was raised about four feet from the ground, with the sides boarded up, except for a doorway in one side. Underneath, the ground was excavated to a depth of 8 feet. The door in the side was for the purpose of removing the body from the pit. The platform was reached by 5 plank steps and was surrounded by a guard rail of 2 x 4 scantling. At two sides rose two pieces of 4 x 4 studding, on top of which was nailed a stout crossbar somewhat after the style of an ordinary swing. To the centre of this crossbar, a length of one inch Manila rope was securely tied and from its end dangled the noose neatly spliced. The trap, made in two sections, was hinged so as to open downwards, a semicircular piece of iron, serving to hold the double hatched in place. On this piece of iron was welded a short arm, which was used to disengage the bolts. Standing on the top of the platform it was operated by the hangman's foot.

AT THE HANGING. The whole procedure from the time the doomed man left his cell until the fatal trap was sprung, did not occupy more than five minutes. Five minutes before the execution the official prison doctor opened the door beneath the scaffold and pronounced that death had taken place. Dgs. Keegan and Fox were in attendance. About nine o'clock the body was taken out and a post mortem examination held. A declaration as to the particulars of death was then handed Sheriff Blandford. An inquest by Judge Morris followed. At this enquiry witnesses came forward and gave evidence of having viewed the body and signed attestation papers. The Sheriff's declaration and the death sentence had been duly carried out and was then posted on the prison wall.

SHOWS EVERY ATTENTION. Wo Fen Game has paid the penalty of the crime of murder. Three weeks ago he was condemned to death by Chief Justice Herwood, for the murder of three Chinamen in May last. Since his confinement in jail he has been shown every attention by the prison officials and has partaken of his meals regularly. Last midnight he ate several apples and this morning, on being aroused by the Warden, he partook of a breakfast of ham, bread and tea. Last week he was visited by an interpreter, (Kim Lee) Revs. Fairbairn and Joyce, Pastors of George Street and Wesley Methodist Churches but he refused their offers, claiming he was a Confucian. During the last few days, he showed a change of attitude, and yesterday expressed a wish to see Rev. Mr. Joyce, accompanied by Kim Lee the Clergyman visited the

Farewell Performance.

MAE EDWARDS COMPANY. The presentation of "A Cowboy's Romance" by the Mae Edwards Company at the Casino Theatre to-night marks the close of an engagement of four weeks, and it can be said without fear of contradiction that this company is one of the most popular travelling troupes that ever visited St. John's. Their versatility has been exemplified in the wide range of bills presented, and their departure to-morrow will be regretted. However, we hope to have them with us again in the not distant future. Taking the whole cast there is little to choose between their abilities as demonstrated before, perhaps, the most critical audience on this side the Atlantic. It has been a pleasure to make press references to the talent of as nice a company of players as it has been the lot of the reporter to witness. They came to please and they have pleased. In dramatic and musical art they are unequalled, while their vaudeville has been selected with the finest taste. Last night's presentation, "The Path of Folly," was exceedingly well performed. We have already named the various members of the company, and described them in detail. To the whole troupe then, let us take advantage of the last opportunity to wish them God speed and good luck, and that they may enjoy a Merry and Pleasant Christmas in New Glasgow, where they play next. An evener, Mae Edwards, An evener Gallagher and Sheen. An evener Crawford. An evener Gertrude Riess, Marie Fischer, Corbin, Plackney, Smith, Murray and all the rest. May you never meet with a worse reception than that accorded you by the people of the city by the sea, the capital of the Ancient and loyal colony of Newfoundland.

COMING ATTRACTIONS

Concerning Chiropractics.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir.—In your issue of December 14th, page 13, column 1, 2 and 3, you devote considerable space to an article, viz. "Restoring the Dead to Life," presumed to be discovered by a Captain S. L. McLaglen, and copied from the Wide World Magazine. You published this article as information to the citizens of Newfoundland. This man is putting into practice, in a simple form, what Chiropractics, the world over are practicing in a general manner, for the relief of suffering humanity. I could dish up a story like the one you published at any time. It is known generally that Dempsey had the service of a Chiropractor before and during his last fight. A few weeks ago I submitted an article on Chiropractics for publication in your paper, which for some reason was not published. I could have paid for it, but did not want it published as an advertisement. Possibly coming from me, you were afraid of offending the Medical fraternity. A short while back your paper devoted space promoting a campaign called Cancer Week, of which I have nothing to say for or against. I am just one lone Chiropractor in your midst, trying to do what I can for the sufferer, and I want your co-operation in a small way. All I am looking for is a square deal, and I know the Telegram will give it to me. In the latter part of the article published, Captain McLaglen makes note, during the late war many lives could be saved, if any person could be found knowing his system. He said a mouthful. For reasons best known to the Medical Fraternity, Chiropractics are outlawed, their services by the hundred, were denied the right to save human life. Hope you can pick a little intelligence from this.

Very truly yours,
WM. H. MacPHERSON.
Dec. 15, 1922.

(We have already explained to Mr. MacPherson, personally, the reason for the non-publication of his article. The copy was written on both sides of the paper, and the author was informed that if he conformed to the custom of writing on one side of the sheet only, his article would be considered. We are not by any means scared of the medical fraternity, and we trust also that readers will be able to quote Mr. MacPherson's own words, "to pick a little intelligence" from his present contribution.—Editor.)

PROMPT ACTION OF PEDESTRIAN Frightened by the whistle of S. S. Prospero as the ship was about to sail last evening, a teamster's horse, left standing in Bowring's Cove, dashed off at full gallop up Water Street. As the animal was about to take to the sidewalk, it was arrested by Mr. Ben. Squires and brought to a standstill. The prompt action of Squires probably averted a serious accident, as the sidewalk was crowded with shoppers.

Dramatic Scenes.

THE ROMANTIC STORY OF "THE GOLEM."

There are few, if any, romantic photoplays which contain more dramatic scenes than does "The Golem," a remarkable European production, which will be shown at the Majestic Theatre to-day.

The Golem is supposed to be the clay Frankenstein with which the Rabbi Jehudah Loew saved the Jews of the ghetto of Prague in the reign of Rudolph, one of the Hapsburgs. Rabbi Loew, religious leader, prophet, and astrologer combined, reads in the stars a warning that presages disaster to his people in Prague, and prepares for the event by making a huge clay figure which he brings to life with a magic word.

When Rudolph decrees that all Jews shall leave Prague the Rabbi depends on the Golem, to work the miracle that shall save his hounded race. Rudolph is not interested in the Golem until it saves his life from the falling timbers of the castle, which crumbles to ruins by divine agency when the court ridicules Rabbi Loew in his plea for clemency to the Hebrews. In the consequent celebration in the ghetto, the Golem escapes from his master and begins to spread fire and death until a little child plucks the charm from his breast, and he reverts to inert clay.

Crackers Like Father Used to Shoot.

Picture patrons who have seen Bebe Daniels shooting off giant fire-crackers, nearly a foot long to celebrate her birthday in "One Wild Week," now at the Nickel Theatre, may have wondered where the star got them, for a federal statute forbids the manufacture or sale in this country of certain crackers above a certain modest size, and Miss Daniels is showing shooting off crackers, a foot long.

The crackers used in the picture had to be specially made by the property man, who, in the picture game, is supposed to be a specialist in everything, and to obtain or make, on short notice, anything that a writer can suggest or a director demand.

When using an electric iron, slip a piece of asbestos under the iron rest, and the ironing sheet will not become scorched.

Traveller's Association Meets.

WILL HOLD RE-UNION.

Last night in the Board of Trade rooms, The Commercial Traveller's Association of Newfoundland held a special meeting when a large number of the Knights of the Grip attended. The meeting was called for the purpose of nominating officers for the ensuing term, and there was much good natured rivalry and all the offices are being contested. The annual meeting will be held on January 15th when the election will take place. Arrangements are also being made for the holding of the annual re-union.

Nominations For Board of Trade.

The annual notice for the nomination of Board of Trade officers to be elected at the annual meeting has been posted in the Board of Trade rooms. The nominations for the offices of President, 2nd Vice-President and four Councillors may be sent in between the 15th and the 31st inst. The following officers who have served their allotted terms are not eligible for reelection: President A. E. Hickman, Councillors L. C. Outerbridge, J. J. Long, A. W. Piccott, W. Barker, T. Cook and H. M. Stewart. The annual meeting takes place next month.

Collars are becoming important for the three-piece suit. Color is introduced to harmonize with the jacket.

Jackson's Time Corrected.

Editor Evening Telegram,
 Dear Sir:—The following article appeared in a recent issue of the Evening Mail, Halifax:—
 "Laurie Jackson, Halifax distance runner has certainly proven himself a champion, within four days he established two new Newfoundland records, his late feat was the winning of the one and five mile events in the Newfoundland indoor championships. He negotiated the five miles in 28 minutes and 37 and 3/4 seconds, beating the mark hung up by O'Toole by 29 secs."
 I have no desire to detract from the splendid races run by Jackson, but I take exception to this claim of his having broken two Newfoundland records. No such thing occurred. True he made one new record when he ran the ten miles in the Prince's Park on Dec. 4th, which he won in the record time of 56 minutes and 22 seconds, but in justice to O'Toole whose time he is supposed to have beaten by 29 secs, this is where I wish to make a correction, O'Toole's time for five miles over the same course is 28 minutes and 21 and 3/4 seconds and established no later than Nov. 20th, 1922. This, by the way, is the fastest indoor 5 miles (official measure) that has ever been made in this city, Jack Bell holds the 5 mile record for Newfoundland; his time is 18 minutes and 13 seconds, made on St. George's Field in 1921.
 I have waited several days to see this contradicted. It is only right that when any of our athletes achieve anything, the least we can do is to see that they get credit for their achievement.
 Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for publishing the above.
 Yours truly,
 JOHN M. TOBIN.

Editor Evening Telegram,
 Dear Sir:—Please accept the thanks of the younger generation for your leading article of December 15th, with reference to what action the Board of Recreation should take in Bannerman Park. I had fully intended to have taken this matter up, but pressure of business did not permit me to do so yesterday. We were very pleased to read your Editorial. It will be a matter of considerable interest to parents to watch what action the City Council will take in this connection, and no doubt the many parents of the city, and particularly those of the East End, will demand from Mayor Cook and his associates that the proposition of the skating rink and sliding bank for the children be carried to completion, and at once. We look to our new Mayor to live up to his pre-election promise of being "frank, free and fearless."
 Yours truly,
 PARENT.

Coal Development.

MORLEY'S COVE MINE "EXCEPTIONALLY GOOD."

The Trinity Bay Mining and Development Co. Ltd., have resumed work on their property at Morley's Cove T. B. For the past week a crew of men have been working, and report excellent progress. From a gentleman belonging to the city who has had several years experience in coal-mining, and who has just returned from a visit to the property, we learn that, in his opinion, less than three months work should suffice to demonstrate fully the value of the property, and further, he is convinced that they are working on something "exceptionally good" to use his own expression. We wish this Company success, and hope that in the very near future, their fondest hopes may be realized.

Historical.

The First Settlement in Newfoundland From Documentary Evidence.

(H. F. SHORTIS.)

During the past summer I perused an excellent article in the Canadian Magazine, entitled "Canada's First Historical," written by Mr. H. Bedford-Jones. He states this is the first History of Canada ever written, and in some respects the most valuable; but remains to-day at most unknown, and difficult to procure any edition. It is called the "Histoire de L'Amérique Septentrionale." The author is Major de Basqueville de la Potherie, who joined D'Iberville's fleet at Placentia in April, 1672 as Royal Commissioner. This was immediately after D'Iberville's famous raid from Placentia to St. John's, and round Conception Bay in the fall of 1668 and mid-winter of 1669, so graphically described by the Abbe Baudouin, the chaplain who accompanied the French soldiers. La Potherie took an active part in the final voyage of D'Iberville to Hudson's Bay, and remained several years afterwards in Canada with the express object of preparing this History. The history was written in French, and has never been fully translated, and rarely read, except by an accomplished French scholar, well qualified to understand old French, as well as the modern French language and its idioms.

NEWFOUNDLAND FIGURES.

Mr. H. Bedford-Jones is now making a complete translation of this book. In the article published in the Canadian Magazine he mentioned that Chapter IV was entirely devoted to Newfoundland. This interested me at once, and I wrote to Mr. Bedford-Jones asking him to oblige me with a copy of the translation of this chapter, and that I would be pleased to reciprocate with any local information that might assist him. He sent me a copy of the chapter at once, and judge of my surprise to find that I had at last discovered the information that we wished to prove as to the first settlement in Newfoundland. The readers of the Telegram will remember what a controversy took place about twelve years ago. Just previous to the celebration of the Guy Tercentenary, when our friend Mr. Gosling wrote an interesting letter to prove that Cupids was the very first settlement. Our patriotic countrymen, the late lamented Archbishop Howley and Judge Prowse took an active part, and also the late Jas. P. Howley, F. G. S., A. J. W. McNelly and many others. I had to put in a few words on the tradition of my native town, Harbor Grace, and was ably supported by other Harbor Gracians, and we were certainly satisfied with the result; and now comes the documentary proof that the late Mr. Howley demanded, although we pointed out to him that he was our greatest authority on the Beothic tribe of Indians that inhabited this Island, yet they left little or no documentary evidence.

ANNALS OF HARBOR GRACE.

The following is what LaPotherie states: "Harbor Grace which is as considerable in its commerce as Carbonear was now set on fire. This was the first settlement of the English Colony. Three years ago a man died there aged 38, and he had been born there; a fact which shows how long Newfoundland has been inhabited." These facts were obtained from the inhabitants of Harbor Grace in December, 1688--so that this man, who had died three years previously, must have been born in 1610, and there is every reason to suppose that there were others prior to this, as La Potherie's History is emphatic on this point. The only other authentic record of the "first white child" born at Cupids two years after this date as described in John Guy's diary. I was fortunate in securing a copy of Abbe Baudouin's Diary taken from the copy that our illustrious prelate, the late Archbishop Howley, copied with his own hand from the original manuscript in the Canadian Archives. Several attempts have been made to procure a correct translation of this famous old Diary, so often quoted in our histories, but without success, except in a mutilated manner. I sent this copy to Mr. Bedford-Jones, and he writes me that he was surprised to find such valuable information, and it has enabled him to improve his translation of LaPotherie's History, which was very obscure in places, so that he now understands the facts, and had no trouble in making an excellent translation of the obscurities. This, he says, is wonderfully interesting, and fully bears out the statements made by the Missionary Bobe, who also had written in confirmation of this History to M. Randot, who was the Intendant-General of Canada at that time.

ST. JOHN'S A SUMMER RESORT.

Many of our historians, including Judge Prowse, believed that St. John's must have been the first settlement in Newfoundland, as several facts went to prove that, especially our Charter, which dates back to Sir Humphrey Gilbert's visit in 1585, but that the records of this in "Hakluyt's Voyages" states that "St. John's was a popular place during summer, but in winter given over to the fruition of birds and wild animals." It clearly proves that it was a summer station, but deserted during the winter. The following is another extract from Mr. Bedford-Jones' translation, and will prove my assertions beyond all doubt:

"Fresh food abounded here. We ate the cows of Carbonear and Harbor Grace."

"Harbor Grace has 14 settlers and Carbonear 22 all were established--the finest built houses in Newfoundland."

"We found three stores of codfish and bread, but no personal effects."

"These two places furnish the English Colony with all its needs, which draws here a great traffic."

"There were some folks worth 100,000 livres, but they had not left the stuff here. These places are on the North, or North-east of Conception Bay on a pleasant coast."

"In Carbonear he sea wind strikes fully, and it is rather a road than a harbor."

"Harbor Grace is very good, but there are some shallows on the North of the entrance, but the harbor is sheltered from wind."

SPEAKING OF CLOTHES.

A recent fashion magazine has some suggestions for dressing on a small income. It gives schedules on how to spend a penny and various small dress allowances.

These small allowances are two thousand, eighteen hundred, and twelve hundred! Now wouldn't it be terrible to have to dress on as cramped a sum as that? I suppose most of the women who read this article won't think it could actually be done. Seriously, the article goes on to say some things that are worth considering even for the woman who has not had $2,000 to spend on her clothes in the last ten years.

Exact Double Duty. And one of these is,--if you are dressing on a small income it will be a great help to get as many things as possible that are good for both summer and winter. If you can wear a garment two seasons instead of one you get double your money's worth out of it before it goes out of fashion.

Buy good things and fewer of them is another familiar rule but one which is easily lost sight of. There are so many varieties of alluring things in the shops that one lets oneself be tempted to buy variety at the expense of excellence.

Keep to one color scheme is my own favorite preachment. If you keep changing your color scheme you will find either that you will not have the proper accessories or that you will spend a lot getting them. Accessories cost enough anyway even if you do not keep discarding. I know a woman who keeps a budget and plans to spend about $400 a year on her clothes. Last year she spent a portion on such accessories as shoes and stockings and underwear.

How to Make Shoes Last. A penny saved is a penny earned, a piece of wearing apparel kept in good condition by proper care is a piece of wearing apparel added free gratis to one's wardrobe. Everyone knows that stockings will wear twice as long if not allowed to lie with the perspiration in them but rinsed out as soon as taken off. A shoe firm which makes wonderfully fine shoes gives this wonderfully fine advice to its patrons on the care of shoes. "The life of leather is in the oil it contains, as it is important to keep the uppers soft and pliable by frequent polishing with a liquid friction cleaner. If put near the fire or heat when the least damp, leather will steam heat, its fibre will be destroyed and later it will become crisp and brittle. Although you may not notice it the leather, in the same condition you call rotten and it will soon break to pieces. The wearing of two pairs of shoes alternately will add to the wear of each. Shoes

Make Her Xmas Happy.

"Do you remember? How we laughed!! I'm so glad I got a snap of it, aren't you?" "Rather! and I'm hoping to goodness someone gives me a Camera for Xmas. I saw just the one I want at Tooton's, and I'd rather have a Camera for Xmas than anything I know!" Get her Christmas Camera at Tooton's and have happy records of Christmas joy all the year round.

placed in shoe trees when they are damp will lose the deep creases and give increased wear."

A raincoat is always an exasperating thing to buy but it lasts a long while and, if properly used, saves its price in the prolonged life of the rest of your clothes. Rubbers and umbrellas also are stupid disagreeable things but are first aids to the woman who wants to make her clothes allowance accomplish as much as possible.

Know your own style and don't keep making the mistake of buying things that you admire--but that don't admire you. Know a bargain and be able to snap it up when you see it but don't try to get bargains all the time. She who does is apt to get stuck. Don't be afraid to pay a disproportionate sum for a frock if it is just what you want, is bought at a shop that is ahead of the styles and is the kind of a frock that is suitable for many occasions. That is the kind of clothes extravagance that proves to be clothes economy in the end.

TRINITY

Since in my Items of June last, I mentioned the fact that I had mixed Sea Water with paint, and that I had used it on exterior and interior surface, with satisfaction and considerable saving of cost, since then I have received several letters on the subject, some containing enquiries for details, and others conveying the experience of people who had tried it. In every instance, together with the six months trial that I had given it, the results of the experiments were favorable. In the Evening Telegram of December 2nd, there appeared an intelligent article on "Paint and Paint Mixing" by J. Benson, of Bonavista Bay. His letter was inspired by my item of six weeks ago, and in addition to its containing Mr. Benson's experience favorable to the sea water, it also contains other valuable information re paint and paint mixing, the results of his experiments guaranteed by his experience. I thank Mr. Benson for his courteous reference to my items, and I am glad that he wrote to the Evening Telegram about them, instead of to me personally; as there are several suggestions to paint and paint mixing that have now been read, and will, I am sure, be read by the general painting public. To Mr. Benson's questions—"Will common gunpowder dissolve in kerosene oil?" and "Will hard grease (motor) melt in boiling water?" I answer: No; they are chemical impossibilities. Mr. Benson will be glad to know that several people, including myself, have cut out his letter, and placed it on a file for reference during the next painting season.

SHARK SENSE.—A Scotsman who was holiday-making in America thought he would have a swim. He paid the money and joined the bathers. After he had been in the water a few minutes, the spectators on the shore stated that the sharks were coming. Immediately the bathers all left the water except the Scotsman. When a shark came near him, he pushed it away with his foot. After he thought he had been in long enough he left the sea. The spectators at once gathered round him, complimenting him on his bravery. Presently a voice was heard: "How did you manage to escape being masticated?" He said—"Look at the back and front of my bathing costume." The front read—"U.S.A." and the back read—"We won the war." The Scotsman said—"Of course the sharks could not swallow that."—(Presbyterian Witness).

WHERE A FEW OF OUR EARLY SETTLERS CAME FROM.

In addition to the counties of Hants, Devon, Dorset and Somerset, being so well represented amongst the early English immigrants to Trinity, the counties of Cheshire, Lancashire, Leicester, Nottingham and Hereford were represented by at least one person each, as recorded in the old marriage registers of St. Paul's Church, as follows:—

1801—William Smart of Foxton, County of Leicester, married Mary Flynn.

1811—Robert Collingham, of Sutton upon Trent, in the County of Nottingham, married Charlotte Way.

1813—William Kelson of Harewood, in the County of Hereford, married Ann Hyppitch.

1815—James Lannigan, of the County of Lancashire, married Susannah Verge.

PERSONAL.—Mr. Davis, representing the Royal Stores, and Mr. Hutchings, representing McMurdo & Co., came to us from Catalina on Tuesday, 5th, registered at the Garland, called on their customers, and went home for Christmas. Glad to see them.

Mr. Richard Hayter, who, as the representative of Erikson's of Trinity, did a transient but successful dry goods business at Catalina for a month or two, has returned permanently to Trinity, and is now busy with the Staff at Headquarters.

THE PASSING OF THE OLD LIGHT-HOUSE TOWER.

The old tower on the Fort-point, in which the Harbor Light was first operated in 1872, has been dismantled. The height of the tower that was supposed to be for efficiency, when it was built, was found to be the cause of such vibrations during high winds, as to interfere with the revolutions of the machinery around the light. This, together with such defects in the lightkeeper's housing quarters as rendered them more or less useless, resulted in the original structure being condemned, and a much lower structure being placed there within the last two years, and the lantern removed to it, with marked improvements. The old structure has been removed, down to the lower flat, and this part will be retained for storage purposes, etc. At present, that part of the hill where the old light house came into our line of vision as we looked seaward, for so many years, has an unfamiliar appearance; and it will take some little time for us to forget it, and to get accustomed to the smaller structure that has succeeded it. When the first structure was erected, we were base enough to refer to it as "the pepper pot" from its resemblance to that receptacle of table condiment.

OUR CHRISTMAS NUMBER.

The Trinity Items of next Saturday will (with the kind consent of the Editor) be given a little more space than usual, and will be known as "Our Christmas Number." We shall then, not only shine our own little light, but we shall also partake of the brilliancy of the constellation of greater lights, that always appear in the firmament of the Christmas Number of the Evening Telegram. The contents of our Trinity page will be:—

EDITORIAL.—The Holy, Happy, Christmas Day. Keeping Christmas. The History of a Wooden Window. A

Equipment. It was all very well for us to be "smart" at its expense, so long as we viewed it from the land. Since then, however, (and especially before the fogwhistle was placed beside it) several of us, on more than one occasion, were grateful for its guiding light; when, crossing Trinity Bay on a dark, foggy night, we were too sea-sick to make puns at its expense. Sic transit.

Master Willie Gent of King's College School, Windsor, Nova Scotia is due to arrive in St. John's, from Halifax by the S.S. Rosalind on the 21st December. He will be met there by his father, and leave at once for his home in Trinity to spend the Christmas holidays. Willie is deeply interested in the new life that this school has opened up for him; and the results of his first examinations indicate that he is making that life his own. It is a school with a fine record for spiritual, mental and physical development.

Next week, and before our Christmas Number appears, our girls who are at school in St. John's—Miss Mollie White, Miss Marie Erikson and Miss Phyllis Erikson will be home for the Christmas holidays. Others who are always glad to get to Trinity home to come at the same time. "Let 'em all come." We shall be glad, and so will they.

Mrs. Ash was a passenger by the Prospero to St. John's, where she will spend the winter.

Mr. Arthur White spent an enjoyable holiday in St. John's, and returned.

AWAKENED MEMORIES.
the day last week I met a man with over his shoulder and a junk wood under his arm, and it took back to memory to over fifty years when a book-bag over the shoul-and a junk of wood under the arm, up the necessary daily winter ment of every boy and girl who to Mr. Collis' School. In those in addition to fees—the parents at children attending school, had to supply the wood to keep the school warm. They were supposed to send so many sticks of wood to the School House Yard; and then, whilst it lasted, a notice was put up by Mr. Collis, headed:—"Boys to saw six sticks of wood per day during December." (I can shut my eyes and see one now)— 1st week: Aubrey Crocker, William Lockyer; 2nd week: Charles White,

Alfred Hiscock; 3rd week: Nathaniel
Morris, Heber Maidment; 4th week:
William Morris, William Robert
Hart." etc.

The names would be changed every month. If we did not saw it before school, we had to saw it either during recess, or after school; and no Egyptian task-master kept the tale of bricks more strictly, than Mr. Collis kept the number of sticks of wood that we sawed, or did not saw. After we had sawed it off, we carried it into the School House and piled it under the long desks; and then put a junk or two in the big box-stove, when ordered to do so by Mr. Collis. When, however, there was no wood in the yard to saw, then we had to bring a junk every morning from the home stock.

There was no getting away from it, for we had to file past Mr. Collis at the door, and the boy who did not have a junk of wood under his arm, got a hickory stick over his shoulders, or a flat ruler on the palms of his hands.
It was impossible to get clear of the wood in some part of your body, so it was always safer to bring it under your arm. These were times when a friend, but seldom found one, for the parents fully endorsed the actions of the school master—and there was no appeal.

A Serious Loss.—Our heart-felt sympathy goes out to the fishermen of Champneys, and English Harbor, who lost their fall's catch of fish, by the wreck of the schooner that was taking it to St. John's for sale. Owing to the specially large number of shippers from English Harbor, it constitutes the most serious loss to that settlement that it has experienced for many years past.

Captain John Duffitt, who has been in charge of Ryan Bros. schooner "Our Lady" since the opening of navigation, has just brought to a close, a very successful season. He has made some eleven trips between Trinity and St.
John's, together with two or three extra ones to Northern ports. Those trips have all been made with such speed and safety that indicate good judgement and careful-handling of property on the Captain's part. The Captain has now gone to spend Christmas and the winter at his home in Clifton, Smith's Sound, with the best wishes of his employers and the general public.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.
Mrs. Ryan, Baccallen. — Captain John Duffitt reports that you enjoy the Trinity Items. I am glad to know that you find them helpful to pass away a lonely hour, and to take you back in happy thought to the scenes of your girlhood days. I find the following entry in the old Church Register:—
October 9th, 1839. — (Baptized).
Anne, daughter of Thomas and Catherine Fowlow, Trinity.
(Signed) William; Bullock, Priest.

S.S. Teacher.—St. Stephen's Day, St.
John's Day and the Holy Innocent's
Day, are placed next to Christ's Day (Christmas Day in the Church's year for definite reasons. They are representatives of three kinds of martyrdom for Christ:—
St. Stephen was a martyr in will and deed.
St. John was a martyr in will, but not in deed.
The Holy Innocents were martyrs in deed, but not in will.

MOTHER! BREAK CHILD'S COLD

Hurry! Move Little Bowels with
"California Fig Syrup"

No matter what else you give your child to relieve a bad cold, sore throat or congestion, be sure to first open the little one's bowels with "California Fig Syrup" to get rid of the poisons and waste which are causing the cold and congestion. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works the constipation poison, sour bile and waste right out.
Even if you call your family physician he will praise you for having given "California Fig Syrup" as the laxative because it never fails, never cramps or overacts, and even sick children love its pleasant taste.
Ask your druggist for genuine
"California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get the course of a few days to solicit donations. The object set at nought is $5,000 (Five Thousand Dollars) which will cover all the necessary equipment, and make the hospital ready for occupancy. A thorough canvass of the district will be made, and if the Committee finds that they cannot raise the sum required, the "Braehed" property, which has been so kindly donated by the Munn family, to our citizens, to perpetuate the memory of their parents, and to be used as a Hospital, will be handed back to them again, as the Munn family has given the Committee until March to decide whether the Hospital is to be or not to be. Let us hope that a noble response will be made by our townspeople, and the objective reached, so that the much needed hospital will become an actual fact.
