Why Canada Needs More Money

UP to date the war has cost Canada about $700,000,000.

Canada has spent in Canada over $400,000,000 on her own account.

Canada has spent in Canada on behalf of Great Britain over $300,000,000.

What Canada spends for Great Britain is really loaned to Great Britain and will be repaid or credited to Canada later on.

Great Britain needs so much ready cash to finance her own expenditures at home for herself and for our Allies that she must buy on credit from Canada, and from every other country where she can get credit.

Of course Great Britain's credit is so good that other countries, in order to get her trade, are quite as willing to give her credit as we are in Canada.

Canada wants to help Great Britain not only because Canada wants Britain's trade but because we are Canada and she is Great Britain—both members of the same great Empire, kin of our kin, our motherland.

For Canada it is both a filial and patriotic duty to supply Great Britain's war needs and remember, her needs are our needs. Also it is in Canada's self-interest to supply those needs and thus keep open a market for our products.

Now, Britain needs our wheat, our cheese, cattle, hogs, and many manufactured articles.

Canada also needs many of these things—between the two it amounts to more than a million dollars a day in cash.

And the producers must be paid in cash.

Neither Canada nor Great Britain could go to a Canadian farmer and buy his wheat or his cattle on credit.

The farmer and all other producers might be ever so willing to give their country credit but they could not do it because they have to pay cash for wages, for rent, materials, etc. They must be paid in cash, or its equivalent.

So Canada says to Great Britain:—"I will lend you the money so that you can pay cash to Canada's producers for what you want.

"I will borrow this money from our own people just as you borrow money from your people.

"I will also borrow from the people of Canada money to pay cash for all the products that Canada, as well as Great Britain, needs in Canada."

That is Canada's practical, patriotic part in helping to win the war.

Without this credit the Canadian producer could not sell to Great Britain, and without these Canadian products the war would be prolonged.

So it is necessary for Canada to give to Great Britain the credit in order that Canada's own producers, who need a market, will have one; and in order that Great Britain which needs the products to win the war, will get them.

Now how does Canada get the money by which both Canada and Britain can pay cash for Canada's products?

By borrowing it from the people of Canada through the sale of Canada's Victory Bonds to be offered in November.

That is why Canada's Victory Bonds are offered to the people—to raise money to help to finish the war.

"Canada must keep her shoulder to the wheel even though it be a chariot of fire," and the way for Canada to keep her shoulder to the wheel is by buying

Lambton Corn, Grain and Seed Exhibition Petrolia, January 23rd, 24th, 25th, 1918

The Directors of the Lambton County Corn Grower's Association met in the Agricultural Office, Petrolia, on Saturday, October 27th, and made arrangements for holding a Corn Show again this year. The Directors from some of the townships reported that they expected more exhibits than ever before, but that the total amount of seed corn in the township was away below the average of former years. Other township directors were as enthusiastic as ever, reporting that they had not any more, and in many cases not enough seed corn in the township to supply local needs, but all those having corn were going to exhibit.

It was unanimously decided by the directors that a department be added to the prize list for seed grains and clover seeds. This is a feature that has been under consideration for some years. By the number of requests that have been received that this feature be introduced a large exhibit is expected. This is a feature which deserves every encouragement, more especially now in these times of stress and increased production. Good seed is one of the essential factors relative to good crops. Farmers having choice seed of all grains will be given special advertising by the Association at the time of the Corn Show.

The Association again warns all those saving seed corn this year to see that their corn is properly dried before the winter frosts set in. The growing season of corn in Western Ontario was shortened this fall two weeks by the early frost, together with the damp, cool weather during the harvesting season and corn cobs have an excessive amount of moisture. Corn should be quickly and thoroughly dried to reduce the moisture content before the frost sets in. Frost destroys or weakens the germ of all corn holding excessive moisture. Germination depends upon the strength of the germ. Crops depend greatly upon the germinating power of the seed. Apply a little artificial heat very gradually to your seed corn and prepare now for a bumper crop in 1918.

"I DON'T SUFFER ANY MORE"

"Feel Like a New Person," says Mrs. Hamilton.

New Castle, Ind.—"From the time I was eleven years old until I was seventeen I suffered each month so I had to be in bed. I had headache, backache and such pains I would cramp double every month. I did not know what it was to be easy a minute. My health was all run down and the doctors did not do me any good. A neighbor told my mother about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I took it, and now I feel like a new person. I don't suffer any more and I am regular every month."—Mrs. HAZEL HAMILTON, 822 South 15th St.

When a remedy has lived for forty years, steadily growing in popularity and influence, and thousands upon thousands of women declare they owe their health to it, is it not reasonable to believe that it is an article of great merit?

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

Even the Bible Did Not Save Him

There have been some very peculiar reasons given for claiming exemption from the draft in the United States, but the best must be awarded one of the New York claimants. This man has been recently married, and he based his claim for exemption on the 24th Chapter of Deuteronomy, which in one verse, says: "When a man hath taken a new wife he shall not go out to war, neither shall he be charged with any business; but he shall be free at home for one year and shall cheer up his wife which he hath taken." An examiner asked about the second injunction in the verse and inquired if the unwilling candidate in case he was freed from war service would close his tailor shop and compel his wife to give up her work as a trouser maker. The replies showed there was no likelihood of either move being made, whereupon the board determined that he had better go into the army.

"Afraid of Zeppelins"

An Englishman was run down and the doctor told him he needed a tonic, recommending a glass of stout after each meal. The patient said he had a barrel of it in his cellar, but, unfortunately, his wife insisted on all members of the household being teetotalers during the war. "Since your health is concerned you must find some way to overcome her prejudices," said the doctor, and the patient departed. A few days afterward the doctor received a visit from the man's wife. "Doctor," she said, "I'm so worried about my husband. I'm afraid he's going to have a nervous breakdown. He's developed a perfect dread of Zeppelins lately and keeps running down and hiding in the cellar."

The Hun Must Go Now and Forever

(The Greenville, S. C., News)
If the war were ended before German autocracy is annihilated, the nations of the world would have to sleep on their arms forever, fearful lest the Teutonic monster, fully recuperated, might fall upon them. It may mean millions more of lives upon the altar, but the great embattled free peoples of the earth are willing to suffer that cost if only they can make the world safe against the menace of the Hun. The decisive defeat of a people can be accomplished without filling them with hatred that will inevitably cause them again to war against the conqueror. If the Allies smash the German military machine to fragments as they eventually will, why should not the vanquished accept the arbitrament of arms as did the people of the Confederate States of America? Civilization must be saved from the scaffold. Barbarism must not ascend the throne. There can be no compromise with Hell, no pact of peace with the Prince of Darkness upon this earth. The nations that have poured out their blood for their salvation will not now sell their future freedom to serve the hour. Theirs is the invincible resolve that for all the ages to come "this agony must not be gone through with again."

On the Farm

By Walt Mason

The farmer gladly toils all day producing things we need, and in the fall he'll thresh his hay and sell his nutmeg seed. The farmer's hogs are fine as silk, and they're acquiring lard; his cows are all producing milk and butter by the yard. The farmer's hens are laying shells, with golden yolks inside; the farmer's steers are wearing bells, each with its glossy hide. The farmer asks a decent price for products of the earth, he doesn't think to charge us twice as much as they are worth. If we could to the farmer go, for things he has to sell, we wouldn't grumble, in our woe, beneath H. C. of L. But speculators come between the farmer and the crowd, and so we pay the good long green and growl and swear aloud. I like to see the farmer get high prices when he can; he earns his coin in toil and sweat, he is an honest man. But 'twixt the farmer and the push, the speculator stands—a robber reaching for the cash with both his greedy hands. And though the land with plenty teems, there's famine all around; by speculators and their schemes our weary souls are ground.

What is Wealth?

By Stephen Leacock

A bank deposit is in its essence a mere statement or promise to the effect that the bank will give John Smith a certain amount of wealth if and when he asks for it. The promise may or may not be made good. But, in and of itself, it is no more wealth than an order for a million dollars written by an idiot on a piece of blotting paper. Similarly a check is not wealth, but only a demand or order on someone to produce and hand over some wealth to someone else. In the same way a farm is wealth, but a mortgage is not. True, the village money-lender who owns a deskfull of mortgages is accounted a wealthy man. But this, on analysis, merely means that he owns, in a contingent way, certain farms. If mortgages and promissory notes and such were wealth we could all get rich with a few merry strokes of the pen.

Mothers can easily know when their children are troubled with worms, and they lose no time in applying the best of remedies—Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator.

Will Class One Provide The One Hundred Thousand Men?

It will be greatly to the advantage of Canada if the entire quota of 100,000 men to be raised under the Military Service Act can be secured from the first class; that is, from the men between the ages of 20 and 34 who were unmarried or widowers without children on July 6th, 1917.

This is almost self-evident for the following reasons:

It is admitted that, between the ages of 20 and 34, the average man is at the height of his physical strength and is most adaptable to the change of conditions from civilian life; the military service of unmarried men and widowers without children would occasion less distress than that of most others, since they are largely without dependents. Also, it would entail less financial burden for Canada, through separation allowances, etc.

Authorities estimate that, after all proper exemptions have been allowed, Canada should be able to produce from the first class 100,000 men fit for service, so the drain upon the man power of the country will not be severe.

Members of Class One will be well advised to present themselves for examination immediately to the Medical Board in their district. Upon examination as to their physical fitness, they will be placed in one of the following categories:

- Category A—if fit for service in overseas fighting units.
- Category B—if fit for service overseas in Army Medical Corps, Forestry Battalion, etc.
- Category C—if fit for service in Canada only.
- Category E—if unfit for military service of any nature.

If not placed in Category A, the applicant will know that he is not liable for immediate service, but will go to the Post Office and send in a claim for exemption with his Medical Certificate attached, when he will receive in due course a certificate of exemption until those in his medical category are summoned for service.

Where a man, who is placed in category A, feels that exemption should be allowed, an application form can be secured from the postmaster. This form, when filled in, will be forwarded by the postmaster to the registrar of the district, and the applicant will be informed by mail as to the time and place for the consideration of his application by the Exemption Board.

Issued by The Military Service Council.

Coal Dealers Profits Limited, Retailer's Profits Cut

Regulations are being framed by C. A. Magrath, Fuel Controller, for the fixing of profits on the sale of coal by brokers, wholesalers and retailers throughout Canada. It is understood that retail profits will be limited to fifty cents a ton, and wholesale dealers and brokers' profits will be on a still lower scale. It is also likely that provision will be made to restrict undue accumulation of coal in the hands of consumers. Complete machinery will be provided for the prosecution of any infractions of the regulations which are said to be very drastic in their scope. The Fuel Controller in his new regulations is following closely the precedent established in fixing the price of coal in Great Britain, which deals with restrictions of profits of middlemen rather than cost of production. At any rate this policy is forced upon the Fuel Controller by the fact that the largest part of the coal consumed in Canada is mined in the United States and is beyond his control.

There are visions—now and then—in business and industry.

The Maxwell motor car is a wonderful vision that has become real.

The fixed purpose of the Maxwell builders was in the beginning, and is now, to produce a car which would be, in the highest sense, efficient, durable, economical, comfortable and standard in equipment.

Many years experience in production on a vast scale has taught the Maxwell manufacturers two things.

One is that such a car as they have always made their aim—a car in which efficiency, durability, economy, comfort, beauty and standard equipment are all present—cannot be built for less than $1045 with materials at their present prices.

The other lesson is that, for more than $1045, they could not give you anything more than the Maxwell now has—except greater size or luxuries, pure and simple.

In other words they are convinced—and they have convinced us—that they have found the great MIDDLE LINE where you get dollar for dollar in ABSOLUTE VALUE.

THRIFT IN EARLY LIFE.

That Was the Start of the Fortunes of Our Greatest Financiers.

The early life of the great builders, the self made financiers of this country, shows the early cultivation of the saving habit.

With few exceptions our Rockefeller, Hills, Harrimans, are men who endured great privations to save their first few hundreds or thousands of dollars.

But in the use of these savings these great men of business seemed most reckless.

Each in turn staked his all on a little known and decidedly shaky proposition and stuck with it until he won out.

Rockefeller put his few hundreds, saved from a bookkeeper's salary, into making a start in the oil business, a business so unknown at that time, so full of failures, that it was with the utmost difficulty he was able to borrow any additional funds when in desperate need.

James J. Hill staked his few savings, scraped together from his work as a dock laborer and clerk, on a well nigh bankrupt railroad, on which the experienced financiers of his day would scarcely lend a penny.

Ford staked his own savings on building a gas engine and a small car, of which it was the motive power. When he was ready to build his first cars there is no record of the banks or the big financiers of his day offering to furnish the funds to gather together the organization and build the necessary factory to make and market his product. On the contrary, his enterprise was so poor a risk that the few thousands necessary to get his first start came from wage earners and small business men, the class who no doubt were considered "plunkers," investing in a business which, had the so called financial authorities paid any attention to it at all, they would have pronounced highly speculative.

Yet these and the hundreds of other successful enterprises that have built immense corporations and made millions and millions are the kind of investments that appeal most to the optimistic progressiveness of the American investor.

TASKS OF MIDDLE AGE.

Work to Keep Youthful and to Insure Future Happiness.

In Woman's Home Companion Margaret Deland gives useful advice on how to meet middle age in such a manner as to insure future happiness:

"To hold on to our appreciation of nature we must spur our dull and lagging memory of beauty; to keep our appreciation of human nature we must refuse to be laid on the shelf; we must keep up with the procession of human thought. Only so can we see the sweat, the tears and smiles of our fellow creatures.

"These are the two tasks of middle age. If we perform them worthily our souls will never grow old. And plainly it is 'up to us,' as these slangy youngsters of ours express it—it is up to us to keep young; to make sure that our inner vision is open to beauty and to the joy and sorrow, the squalor and glory of our fellows. If we do this the 'compensation' is immediate.

"So what difference does it make if the body is rheumatic and nearsighted—and a little deaf when it comes to the song sparrow? What do such things matter if the eyes of the soul still see that crater mirroring the sky, if the ears of the spirit hear the bird's note in dawn and dew?

"Nor does it matter that the body declines a game of tennis and shudders at a plunge in the surf when the thermometer registers only 55 degrees if the body's tenant is able to say to the young people: 'Go ahead! Have a good time! But take my word for it—' "The best is yet to be!"

Why Poliseimai Was Arrested.

An American friend of mine in Port au Prince had a very useful house servant by the name of Poliseimai, who earned the notable sum of 5 gourdes ($1 gold) a week and found. The federal authorities kept arresting Poliseimai for military service and his employer got tired of going to headquarters about once a week to pry him loose from the army. He found that the continual arresting was due to the fact that several officers wanted Poliseimai's job.—George Marvin in World's Work.

Dreaded Two Things.

Nicholas Romanoff, late czar of Russia, dreaded two things—assassination and revolution—and neither was a vain fear. Since 1891, when he was assaulted and wounded by a Japanese named Sangō and escaped death only by the prompt action of Prince George of Greece, up to his abdication, there were thirteen attempts to assassinate him.

THEY SOOTHE EXCITED NERVES.—Nervous affections are usually attributable to defective digestion, as the stomach dominates the nerve centres. A course of Farnlee's Vegetable Pills will still all disturbances of this character, and by restoring the stomach to normal action relieve the nerves from irritation. There is no sedative like them and in the correction of irregularities of the digestive processes, no preparation has done so effective work, as can be testified to by thousands.

TORPEDO BOAT DESTROYERS.

They Are Unarmored and Are Helpless Against Gunfire.

Every one is familiar, of course, with the ordinary torpedo boat, a swift vessel of from 400 to 600 tons in displacement, carrying no defensive armor, but armed with tubes for discharging the deadly torpedoes.

To counteract these wasps of the sea, according to the Popular Science Monthly, a type of vessel was designed of about double the size of torpedo boats, a little greater speed and in addition to torpedo tubes, armed with rapid fire six to twelve pounder guns, for the avowed purpose of destroying torpedo boats. Lately all the great nations have stopped building torpedo boats as originally designated and are building torpedo boat destroyers.

Recent engagements have developed the fact that torpedo boat destroyers are used almost wholly as torpedo boats. So they are really battleship destroyers. To defend the capital ships from torpedo attack the dreadnaughts and battle cruisers are armed with secondary batteries of rapid fire guns from four to six inches in diameter. One well placed shell from a gun of that size will ordinarily put a destroyer out of business, as the destroyers have no defensive armor whatever.

HARRIS & CO. PROPRIETORS.
WATFORD, NOVEMBER 2, 1917
Good as the Wheat

"Good as the wheat" is an old motto, about as much the last word in meaning as "Safe as the Bank of England." A bag of No. 1 Northern clean as a whistle of cockle and fox-tail, was a symbol of sure value long before gold was known in the world. Wheat has been found in the Pyramids. The Egyptians just about worshipped wheat. The Bible calls it corn; so do the English. But when we say "good as the wheat" we refer to the bushel of brown, hard kernels worth by Government fixture this year, $2.20. In the memory of living man when did "good as the wheat" mean more than it does now? Never. A bag of wheat weighing two bushels and a peck tops up in 1917 to just about the value of a five-dollar gold piece. But of course no man wants gold for his wheat. All he gets is a check made out in his favor on some bank and signed by the manager of some elevator company or milling concern. The check is converted into bills or goes on deposit. Good wheat; good paper; nobody asks any questions. Because the company is O.K. and the bank is sound. If any wheat-seller had any doubt of either he would at once demand something else.

"I sold good wheat," he would say. "I want something as good in exchange."

What made the wheat good? The good farmer behind it. A poor farmer can make good seed into poor wheat.

What makes the paper money good? The security of the corporation whose name it bears. The sounder the corporation, the nearer the paper comes to being as good as the wheat. But even a big company may go "broke." Back of the corporation is a concern whose guarantee on a piece of paper is better than either. The pledge of the Dominion of Canada to pay any man money for value received is as good as the wheat and as safe as the Bank of England.

The best pledge of the Dominion of Canada to pay is a Canadian Victory Bond; better than checks or bills—AS GOOD AS WHEAT! Suppose you change that twenty bags of wheat on your wagon, not into a check or notes or even gold; but into Canadian Victory Bonds of $50 each, bearing interest at five and one-half per cent. per annum and as negotiable on the market as the best check or the best load of wheat you ever saw. It's worth considering.

BROOKE

The 13th anniversary of the services of the opening of the new St. James' Church, Brooke, will be held on Sunday next, Nov. 4th. There will be services at 10.45 in the morning and 7.30 in the evening. The Rev. A. L. Beverley, rector of St. Mark's Church, London, will be the special preacher at both services. All welcome.

The October meeting of the Women's Institute was held on Thursday, Oct. 18, at the home of Mrs. Geo. Campbell. Roll call was well responded to by "A Cure for the Blues." Miss Mabel McGugan gave an instructive paper on "Canadian Fiction." Excellent papers on "Thanksgiving" were read by Misses Mary Fisher and Romelda Clark. The meeting closed by singing the National Anthem and lunch was served by the hostess. The next meeting will be held Nov. 8th at the home of Mrs. R. Searson. Visitors always welcome.

The annual meeting of the Invariable Red Cross Circle was held on Wednesday, October 17th, at the home of Mrs. Jas. Moffatt. A splendid number of workers and visitors were present to help make the meeting a success and to show their interest in this important branch of the work. After the selection of officers a short program was rendered including instrumentals by Miss Amy Moffatt, recitations by Mrs. Sisson and Mrs. Leach and Misses Pearl Moffatt, Reta Palmer and Nettie Shea and a solo by Miss Reta Higgins. Short addresses were given by Rev. Irwin and Rev. Fortner. The collection for the day amounted to $14.70. During the year the Society has raised over $400 and has forwarded to Hyman Hall the following articles:—day socks 252 pair, bed socks 6 pair, helpies shirts 15, grey flannel shirts 41, pyjama suits 65, hospital towels 54, trench towels 96, handkerchiefs 72, kit bags 6, pillow slips 79, mouthwipes 17, wristlets 1, binders 2, hospital suit 1. A dainty lunch was served at the close of the meeting. The officers for the ensuing year are:—President—Mrs. Russell Hayward; Vice-President—Mrs. Wesley Hoskin; Treasurer—Mrs. Robert King; Secretary—Mrs. Joseph Acton.

PERSONAL

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Mitchell, Parkhill, spent Sunday at T. G. Mitchell's.

Mr. Anderson Smith is visiting relatives in Alvinston.

Mrs. J. A. Tanner is visiting her daughters at St. Thomas.

Mrs. George Gibson, of Detroit, is the guest of her cousin, Miss Aitken.

Mr. John Rogers, of Ludington, Mich., was here on Monday calling on relatives and many old friends. All were pleased to see him and to know that the world was using him well.

The Late Colin Campbell

The death of the late Colin Campbell took place at his home on the 4th concession of Enniskillen on Friday, Oct. 5, 1917. The deceased had been in poor health for about two months prior to his demise and his sudden death came as a great shock to the whole community who knew and loved him.

Colin Campbell was born on New Year's Day, 1862, being in his 56th year at the time of his death. He was the seventh son of the late Robert Campbell, of Warwick, and was born in that township. In the early days of Brooke and Enniskillen, when the big elms stood a mighty host, he and many other young men invaded the country and converted the great forest into the excellent farming district that it is today. He first settled in Brooke but after a few years sold out and took up his residence on the place where his death occurred.

He married, about the time of moving to Enniskillen; Miss Sarah Chalk, of Warwick, and this happy union was blessed with three children, Hugh, Joseph and Agnes, who, with his widow survive. The deceased was a life-long member of the Baptist Church and a most highly respected member of the community. The funeral was held from the family residence on Monday, Oct. 7th, and a large number of friends gathered to pay a last tribute to a man much beloved. Interment was made in Alvinston cemetery.

CHOP STUFF

Pte. Stanley J. Smith, of Sarnia, has been reported wounded.

Wild ducks are reported more plentiful this season than for many years.

Mrs. Albert E. McGill, of Strathroy, died suddenly in Toronto on Monday, while on a visit.

Geo. Wilcox, proprietor of the Dominion Hotel, St. Thomas, is dead. He was a native of Strathroy.

The King Edward Hotel, Toronto, the Tecumseh House, London, and the Hotel Connaught, Hamilton, will come under one management.

A storekeeper at Peace River, Alberta, has a display of potatoes in his shop window that average over two pounds apiece. They were grown in his garden there.

Ill health and despondency led Wm. R. Davidson, of Princeton, to hang himself in his father's barn last week. He had recently returned from the North-west.

A number of Sarnia citizens are contemplating shipping in potatoes into that city, and are confident they can bring in the spuds, pay freight and sell cheaper than prevailing prices.

James Long, a well-known farmer of Ops Township, was killed by a train, when he caught his foot in a rail. He had been driving some cattle across the track, and was caught just as a train came along, being unable to extricate himself.

War Notes

Canadians, who had for weeks been before Lens, are now on the Ypres front where they are fighting while waist-deep in mud.

The Coldstream Guards, the oldest regular regiment in the British Army, has been wiped out and reconstituted twenty-one times since the war began.

Every Australian man without wife or children, who is between the ages of 21 and 45, must pay to the Commonwealth of Australia ten per cent. of his taxable income in addition to all other taxes, unless he is serving in the army.

PERHAPS some young men in this district will try and evade the Military Service Act by not registering. The penalty is very severe in such cases. HALLOWE'EN passed off about as usual. The little tots had a good time with tic-tacks and other harmless sports and the older people were pleased to see them enjoy themselves. The big boys later on amused themselves with moving signs, closets, lawn benches, etc., and we suppose they enjoyed the job. However, little damage was done and the annoyance will pass away with flight of a few hours.

NEXT SUNDAY is the regular Quarterly Meeting Service in the Methodist church when the sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be administered. IT is compulsory for all class one men who have been medically examined to go to the postoffice and fill in the form for "Report for Service" or for "Claim for Exemption," no matter whether they were placed in medical category A, B, C, D or E. The fact that they have been examined does not relieve them from the duty of making their report or claim under the Military Service Act.

S. at 2 p. m.; the school will render the program for Reformation day; public worship at 3 p. m.; Watford S. S. at 2.30, public worship at 7 p. m. Sacrament of the Lord's supper will be observed at all the appointments.

THE October number of "The Teller," the official organ of the Sterling Bank of Canada, is just out and contains some very interesting articles, among which might be noted a timely symposium on one of the questions of the day: "Will girls attain executive positions in banks?" It also states that arrangements are to be made to send Christmas parcels to members of the staff at the front within the next three weeks.

Other articles of interest are: "Why should bank branches be inspected?" and "Two hundred miles from the end of steel." "The Teller" is edited by the staff of the bank.

THE GUIDE-ADVOCATE does not allow commercial advertising to break the make-up of its first page. On a few special occasions since the war began patriotic announcements have been given this privileged position. This week and while the Victory Loan advertising is running, the press of Canada is, by special request, giving this privileged service to the Government. This accounts for the change of make-up this week on page one of the Guide-Advocate.

HON. W. J. HANNA, food controller, has issued a bulletin urging the people not to hoard sugar, and acknowledges that there is 'shortage. He says if people will economize on it, and the dealers will not raise the price, the situation ought to be met until the new crop is ready for the market. If the public will not do this voluntarily then legislation will have to force them. With the arrival of the new crop there will be ample and the supply for 1918 need not cause any alarm.

Miss Margaret Cooper, daughter of Mr. James Cooper, con. 3, S. E. R., Warwick, passed away at the Strathroy hospital on Saturday night, aged 42 years, 8 months, 26 days. She had been in declining health all summer and a few weeks ago went to the hospital so as to receive all the attention possible, but her disease had made such headway that improvement was not looked for and death came as a happy relief to her suffering. Her father visited her during the week she died, and when he returned her demise was daily expected. She leaves two brothers, John of Warwick, and Josiah of Adelaide. The funeral took place from the home, lot 17, con. 3, on Tuesday afternoon, the service being conducted by Rev. R. M. Stevenson, pastor of the Congregational church. The remains were interred in Arkona cemetery.

A very pleasant time was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. Smith, Maple Grove House, Warwick Village, on the evening of Oct. 25th, when they reopened their house which has been greatly renovated this summer. The reopening took the form of a social evening for the Red Cross. Mr. C. Hawkins made a splendid chairman and the following took part in the program:—Mr. R. and Miss McGillicuddy, Mr. Routly, Miss G. Sewell, Miss A. Corney and Master Harold Barnes, gave some very excellent selections, and Rev. W. M. Shore, Mr. D. Brodie and Mr. B. B. Dunn, gave some very good speeches. The ladies of the Patriotic League assisted the genial hostess in serving a dainty lunch. Great praise was given Mr. and Mrs. Smith for the improvement in the house. The proceeds amounted to $36.25.

Very successful anniversary services were held in Bethel church last Sunday when Rev. Mr. Dickie, a retired Methodist minister now residing in Michigan and a former pastor of Bethel church forty years ago, conducted the services morning and evening. Good congregations were present and listened most attentively to the inspiring discourses delivered by Rev. Dickie, who is in his eighty-first year. He retired briefly to his labors here of former years when

Deep Impression Made on Country

Ottawa, Oct. 31st—Conched in the stately language of British officialdom, the Governor-General's proclamation calling out the first class under the Military Service Act, published in all the daily newspapers on October 13, has made a deep impression on the country. It has served notice from coast to coast that all those in the first-class must report for service on or before November 10, if application for exemption has not been made in their behalf by that date. The first class includes all male British subjects between the ages of 20 and 34 inclusive who were unmarried on July 6, 1917, or are widowers without children. For some time the way has been prepared for speedy response to the call by the sessions of Medical Boards throughout the country.

Mrs. Martyn Dead

Mrs. Martyn, mother of Dr. J. B. Martyn, M. P. P. for East Lambton, died at her home in Alvinston on Tuesday morning. The funeral will be held on Friday at 2 p. m.

SATISFIED MOTHERS

Once a mother has used Baby's Own Tablets for her little ones she will use nothing else. The satisfaction she derives from their use is wonderful. They are easy to give the baby; their action is prompt and thorough and above all they are absolutely harmless. Concerning them Mrs. Jean Dechaie, Lacordaire, Sask., writes:—"I am well satisfied with Baby's Own Tablets. I had no trouble in giving them to my baby and they have promptly cured her of constipation." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Sudden Death of Mrs. Fred Watson

The death occurred very suddenly in St. Ignace, Montana, on Sunday, Oct. 21st, of Lizzie McClesney, beloved wife of Fred Watson and youngest daughter of Mrs. David McClesney and niece of Julius and Fred Shields, of Strathroy.

The remains, accompanied by her husband and little daughter, arrived in Strathroy on Thursday and the funeral, which was very largely attended, took place from the home of her mother on Rapley St. on Friday, Oct. 26th, to Strathroy cemetery. The service was conducted by Rev. J. A. Shaver, Presbyterian minister of Strathroy.

She is survived by her sorrowing husband and one little daughter, Kathleen, two years of age; also her mother, of Strathroy, and one brother, William, of Adelaide, and three sisters, Mrs. D. G. Parker, of Leamington, Mrs. J. M. Brown, of Adelaide, and Mrs. N. L. Burnette, of Toronto, all of whom have the sincere sympathy of a host of friends.

The pallbearers, who were old friends of deceased in Adelaide, were Messrs. George Hawkins, George Macintosh, Loftus Wilson, Wilfred Wilson, Walter Wilson, Bert Herrington.

There were many beautiful floral tributes, several coming from friends in Montana.

Her Adventurous Night

It Had an Important Result

By AGNES G. BROGAN

Miss Pauline Chester, art student and would be illustrator, stood at the curb of the busy street awaiting a home bound car. Home! She smiled derisively in the semi-darkness at the meaning of the word. Surely the big, bare room, half studio, half housekeeping apartment, was a poor substitute for home. And it was all she now possessed.

She thought as she stood there aside, yet in the very midst of things—alone, yet crushing her way through the throng to the car, how typical it all was of her present life. Even in the brightly lighted apartment, as she passed down the corridor that led to her room, not one of those whom she met each day might speak a welcome because she had not been properly introduced.

Polly was not sure she would care to know them if she had. They were all such silly, chattering women, overdressed and indifferent; such rude, staring men—all but one. Polly thought of "him" gratefully. Something perhaps in the grave kindness of his expression, his deferential yet unobtrusive courtesy, brought back the old days in Brookfield.

Each morning he raised his hat as simultaneously they appeared in the corridor locking their doors for the day's absence. Always Polly smiled and nodded, but the man vouchsafed no word. She was glad, and she was sorry—glad that he was so very much the man she wanted him to be, sorry that one so alone as she might not have the comfort of an understanding friend.

In despair Polly had added to the cheerless furnishings of her studio the companionship of a cat. He had followed her, this big yellow cat, from some darkened area the night she had bought the fish. After his coveted meal had become a thing of the past Patsy, as she called him, still declined to remain her friend.

He had, she discovered, certain embarrassing and stubborn tendencies, one of which was to pry into the affairs of his neighbors, so that twice the nice young man across the way had been obliged to lift Patsy gently and place him outside his door.

Both times Miss Chester apologized; both times the young man bowed silently and pleasantly and withdrew. Polly found herself making little sketches of the grave faced man and the yellow cat during times of intermission at the art school.

"You poor thing," she mocked herself one day as she hastily destroyed her drawings, "filling up your head with a man and a yellow cat just because they've been a little human."

It seemed impossible to make a presentable sketch at home, the boys in the fraternity room overhead were so very noisy, while a player piano banged away below. She wondered as she sat through endless evenings just what it would be like to mingle with the gay throng outside, to be with one who could sympathize and understand.

"He" was lonely too. She was sure of that. Among them all he seemed to live apart. At those times when she had rescued Patsy from before his door she had caught a glimpse within of an open book, a half smoked cigar. So he, too, sat each night alone. His eyes, she fancied, were strangely wistful. Or was it fancy? Polly sighed impatiently.

"Always," she rebuked herself, "your thoughts go back to that man."
It was all very ridiculous, so she fell to drawing in earnest. No better subject at hand, she drew painstakingly the yellow cat lying stretched before the fire.

This accomplished, Polly studied reflectively an opposite vacant chair, then with a sudden dimpling smile she bent again over the drawing board. She was so absorbed she failed to notice the cessation of the player piano and a gradual growing silence settling over the building.

Raising at last a flushed face, she regarded with much satisfaction her work. The figure pictured in the chair opposite her own was remarkably true to life. The "man's" open book lay upon the table beside him, his half smoked cigar in his hand, Patsy comfortably stretched at his feet.

"Twelve," chimed the little clock in sharp, even strokes. "Mercy!" exclaimed the girl, and jumped to her feet. There was something the matter with the lock as she attempted to fasten her door for the night, so she thrust it wide open, intending thus to close it securely. A mysterious rustling sound, as of some person or persons stealthily moving farther back among the shadows, caused Polly's heart to flutter uncomfortably.

Not long ago there had been a robbery in this very apartment. She wished that she were not alone. No light showed from beneath the opposite door, no evidence of "his" presence. In trepidation she reached for the door handle to close herself in when, apparently from nowhere, a man's figure confronted her. A rather good looking young man he appeared to be, though fantastically dressed. Polly's apprehension grew at sight of his close buttoned red sweater and the bandanna handkerchief knotted about his throat. The man snatched a yellow checked cap from his head and bowed. In spite of her fear Polly's face flushed angrily at his assurance.

"If you please," he said, "I'd like to talk with you. No"—as she ventured to withdraw into the room—"I won't keep you long, and I'll say it here."

"My first subject is art. I wish to give you a little dissertation on art!"
With rapidly beating heart Polly waited. It was impossible to follow the excited rapidity of the outrageous young man's flowing talk. Of one thing she was sure, he was insane.

Insane, and she alone on the deserted floor of an apartment building, at midnight. What should she do?
To call out or startle a maniac, Polly remembered, might bring on a dangerous climax. What should she do?

Again, very cautiously, she moved toward the shelter of her room.
"Wait!" cried the young man sharply. "I have more to say to you than this, much more."

In the momentary silence that followed she feared he would hear her frightened breathing.

"I love you," burst out the young man at last. "I love you. For long days have I watched you stealthily, adoringly. All my future is built on hope of winning you. Your love can raise me to the highest paradise, your refusal sends me to the lowest depths of despair. Weigh well, then, lovely maid, your answer—lest I destroy myself in your presence; take care."

Faintly the girl leaned against the doorway. Surely she had fallen asleep over her sketching, and this was but part of a troubled dream. From down the hall came a low, confused murmur.

"I love you," cried the young man again—"I love you." His voice ended in a wall. "Say yes, or I destroy myself."

REAL VALUE

is based, not on the price paid for a commodity, but on the benefit derived. That is why Zam-Buk is the cheapest skin healer on the market—because the benefit derived is 95% greater than can be got from ordinary ointments. This is due to the fact that Zam-Buk is all medicine—100%. Ordinary ointments are 5% medicine and the balance animal fat.

The superiority of Zam-Buk is proved by the many cases of chronic skin trouble and old sores which yield to the power of Zam-Buk after all other treatments have failed.

The unusual power of penetration which Zam-Buk possesses enables it to reach the underlying tissues, where skin troubles have their "root." Then the germicidal properties in Zam-Buk destroy all germs. Until this is done healing can never be thorough. The reason why sores that have been treated with ordinary ointments break out again is because the remedy has never got to the seat of the trouble, but has only healed over the outer skin. Zam-Buk, on the contrary, uproots skin disease, and the cure is complete and permanent.

Zam-Buk should always be used for eczema, ringworm, scalp sores, pimples, abscesses, ulcers, blood-poisoning, bad leg, piles, cuts, burns and scalds. All dealers or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto. 50c. box, 3 for $1.25.

With a sudden flash of light the door opposite was thrown open; for an instant "he" stood there, perplexed, uncertain—he, the one wise, kind soul in all this dreadful city. Polly never hesitated. "Oh, please!" she murmured, and rushed toward him. The man of the opposite room put her aside gently while he caught the wild youth by the collar. "Now," he asked sharply, "what is the meaning of all this?"

Up from the shadows of the long corridor came slowly and silently in their sneaker shoes a dozen men, young men Polly's startled eyes discerned them to be, and for the most part they were laughing or covering their mouths to smother their laughter. Her tormentor of a moment ago was grinning, too, grinning rather sheepishly, as the one man's stern gaze was bent upon him.

"Explain," commanded her protector, "or shall I call the police?"

"Oh, Mr. Lawrence," said a voice, "let us down easy. Maybe we did overdo it a little tonight, but we got pretty gay. It's the fraternity initiation, you know. Bayes, here, was ordered to do a few stunts, had to travel around town all night in that rig and end up with a proposal to the prettiest girl in the building. We picked Miss Chester out as she came in tonight and stipulated the art talk when we'd learned her profession. He had to do it. Don't blame Bayes."

The spokesman's repentant eyes met those of the enlightened Miss Chester.

"Awfully sorry," he said remorsefully. "Any way in the world we can apologize, jointly or singly, we'll do it." His solemn face changed convulsively. "Gee," he laughed, "but it was funny." Polly drew a long breath, and her champion, still holding the victim of initiation by his sweater collar, looked back at her.

"What do you say, Miss Chester?" he asked. "Shall we have these disturbers of the peace jailed, as we could, locked up for the common idiots they are, or—"

It was very comforting to have a protector. Also it was because of these very idiots that "he" was now her protector.

"We will let them go free," she said, humbly objecting. The initiation committee shuffled away. Amused understanding sparkled suddenly in the eyes Polly turned upon her companion. "It must have been funny for them," she said. But Mr. Lawrence was regarding her intently. There seemed to be in his gaze more concern than such short acquaintance warranted.

"You should not be living here alone," he said abruptly. "A girl like you ought to be cared for in her own home by her own people." The sparkle left Polly's eyes.

"That," she motioned to the bare studio, "is my only home"—she smiled tremulously—"and Patsy all my family." Patsy, seeing at that moment a chance for a neighborly call, darted across the hall, clutching the girl's grasp. It was the man who after a hasty chase brought him back to her bedside, and there, forgotten, face upturned, in plain view, lay Polly's clever sketch.

For long vibrant moments they looked from the drawing back again into each other's eyes, the girl's pale, startled, his glowing with some new emotion, deep, unreadable. Then impulsively he caught up her pencil and with swift steady strokes drew opposite the chair which was his own a slender girlish figure. Fascinated, Polly watched him, and if his pencil was not as skilled as her own the likeness to herself was too true to be mistaken.

Again he raised his glowing tender eyes to hers, then wrote beneath the sketch one word—"Home!" And when the door of his apartment closed behind him Polly caught up the yellow cat. "Of course, Patsy," she said, "it is all a part of my unreal adventurous night. Tomorrow it will not be true."

Patsy narrowed his inscrutable golden eyes and purred contentedly, for the "Home" picture was to come true, and Polly would be lonely no more.

CZAR AND KAISER.

Both Titles Mean the Same and Are Derived From Caesar.

It seems strange that two words so different in sound and spelling as czar and kaiser are the same. Both are but changes made in the course of nearly 2,000 years in the word caesar.

All the Roman emperors took their title from the first emperor—our old friend of schoolboy days—Julius Caesar. When Charlemagne founded the holy Roman empire and was crowned emperor, he took the name caesar or, in the frankish form, kaiser. When the modern German empire was established in 1871 the German emperor, William I, grandfather of the present kaiser, took the same title—kaiser.

Similarly the rulers of the eastern empire at Constantinople, successors to the old Roman empire, called themselves caesar. Every petty chieftain or prince in the territory surrounding the eastern empire copied the custom and called himself caesar or czar. In the course of time, however, the greatest of these, the czar of Muscovy, conquered the other czars until he was the sole or practically the sole ruler called czar. However, the king of Bulgaria, when a few years ago he had himself crowned as king, took the title of czar.

The Gordian Knot.

As the old legend goes, the father of the Greek King Midas, once king of Phrygia, was originally a poor peasant. The people of Phrygia being much disturbed, an oracle had informed them that a wagon would bring them a king who would put an end to all their troubles. Not long after this saying, Gordius (Midas' father), suddenly arrived in the midst of an assembly of the people, riding in his wagon. At once, to the great surprise of Gordius, they made him king. In his gratitude Gordius dedicated the wagon to the god Zeus, and it was placed in the acropolis at Gordium. The pole of the wagon was tied to the yoke by a knot of bark, and a second oracle declared that whoever untied that knot should reign over all Asia. It was Alexander who untied the knot by cutting it with his sword, thus assuming himself to be the man referred to by the oracle.

THE DAIRY INDUSTRY.

Interesting Figures Regarding Production of Butter and Cheese.

In a press bulletin issued from Ottawa the census and statistics office reports on the total production of butter and cheese in the creameries and cheese factories of Canada for the year 1916, as compared with 1915, the report being based upon returns collected from the dairying branches of the provincial departments of agriculture. The figures for 1915 represent approximate estimates, as the returns for that year are not quite complete. The total number of creameries and cheese factories operating in 1916 is reported as 3,446, including 993 creameries, 1,813 cheese factories, 624 combined factories (cheese and butter), and 16 condensed milk factories. The total number of patrons contributing to creameries and cheese factories during the year 1916 was 221,192, the deliveries of milk amounting to 2,600,542,987 lbs. and of cream to 157,620,636 lbs. The two chief dairying provinces of the Dominion are Ontario and Quebec. Both manufacture cheese and butter; in Ontario more cheese is made than butter; in Quebec more butter is made than cheese. In Ontario the total number of establishments operating in 1916 was 1,165, and the patrons numbered 87,325, whilst in Quebec the establishments numbered 1,984 and the patrons 79,145; so that the average number of patrons per establishment was 75 in Ontario and 40 in Quebec.

The total production of creamery butter in Canada in 1916 is returned as $2,564,130 lbs. of the value of $26,966,357, as compared with 83,824,176 lbs. of the value of $24,368,636 in 1915. Comparing the relative production of the provinces, the production in 1916 is highest in Quebec with 34,323,275 lbs. of the value of $11,516,148, as compared with 24,680,109 lbs. of the value of $8,031,998 in Ontario. These two provinces together produce about 70 per cent. of the total creamery butter of Canada. Of the other provinces the production and value of creamery butter in 1916 were in relative order as follows: Alberta 8,521,784 lbs., value $2,819,248; Manitoba 6,574,510 lbs., value $2,038,109; Saskatchewan 4,310,669, value $1,338,180; Nova Scotia 1,586,679 lbs., value $505,000; British Columbia 1,243,292, value $497,316; New Brunswick 709,932 lbs., value $236,194; and Prince Edward Island 613,880 lbs., value $184,164. The average price per lb. of creamery butter for all Canada works out to 33 cents in 1916, as compared with 30 cents in 1915. By provinces in 1916 the highest price was in British Columbia 42 cents and the lowest in Prince Edward Island 30 cents. In the other provinces the price per lb. for 1916 was as follows: Nova Scotia, 32 cents; New Brunswick, 33 cents; Quebec, 34 cents; Ontario, 33 cents; the prairie provinces 31 cents.

The total production of factory cheese in 1916 was 192,968,597 lbs., of the value of $35,512,530, as compared with 183,878,898 lbs. of the value of $27,587,775 in 1915. By provinces the lead in production is taken by Ontario with a total quantity in 1916 of 126,015,870 lbs. of the value of $23,312,935, Quebec being second with 51,906,750 lbs. of the value of $11,245,104. These two provinces together account for 98 per cent. of the total production of factory cheese. The production and value of factory cheese in the other provinces in 1916 were as follows: Prince Edward Island, 2,121,736 lbs., value $499,495; New Brunswick, 1,181,664 lbs., value $210,692; Manitoba, 850,728 lbs., value $158,931; Alberta, 745,122 lbs., value $154,454; Nova Scotia, 34,727 lbs., value $16,959, and British Columbia, 18,00 lbs., value $3,960. The average price per pound of factory cheese for all Canada works out to 21 cents in 1916 as compared with 17 cents in 1915. In 1916 the average price is highest in British Columbia, 25 cents. In Quebec and Ontario the average price is 18 cents, and in Alberta it is 21 cents.

SURGERY FOR AUTO TIRES.

Be Sure There Are No "Broken Bones" Before Mending the Surface.

Surgery for a tire, in so far as it affects only the tread or skin, is simple, but after a rupture of the surface you should make certain that no "bones have been broken" before proceeding with the treatment. It must be remembered that the layers of canvas cemented together—in a fabric tire—or the individual layers of cord—in a cord tire—form the main supporting skeleton, or framework. The rubber tread merely protects this framework from wear, as the tough skin on the ends of the fingers protects the bones and delicate nerves.

It often happens that a cut from a sharp stone or piece of glass is sufficiently severe to penetrate the entire thickness of rubber covering on the tire and to extend through to one or two layers of canvas. If under these conditions only the surface is vulcanized, or "healed," but little will be accomplished, for the supporting fabric will be weakened at this point through the separation of the one or two layers, and a blowout will eventually result, even though the tire, so far as its external appearances are concerned, is perfect at this point.

A cure of this nature requires the services of an experienced tire surgeon. For a new section of fabric must be applied and vulcanized into place, or the broken ends of the cord must be fastened together in a manner requiring more or less expert work.

The same result as a broken bone may be obtained by what is known in tireology as a stone bruise. This is caused by a sudden impact against a blunt object, such as a curved or round corner of a stone, which in itself is not sufficient actually to cut the thread of the tire, but which imparts so severe a strain to the fabric, or carcass, that several of the layers of canvas may be broken or bruised. This is a frequent cause of mysterious blowouts, which seem to come from within a tire having its surface in perfect condition.

TRAINING THE CHILD.

The Most Essential Factor is In Having a Normal Home.

A student of sociology recently said in a public address that the most essential thing in the training of a child was a normal home. This sort of home ought to be common. Yet investigations show that a large number of homes must be considered abnormal. Such are poverty stricken, overcrowded homes, and such are the servant filled homes of the wealthy. It is the large well to do middle class who should and who do supply most of the so called normal homes.

It has been found that many homes which might be normal are not so and that the parents usually are to blame. Parents are quarrelsome, a favored child is allowed to bully the household, the mother is indifferent to the home, the father is ugly, discipline is too lax, the children are ignored, parents reverse each other's decisions—these are some of the defects in the abnormal home. They are defects which are singled out because they betray no gross weakness in the parents and could be eliminated by a little patience and thoughtful effort.

The environment of a child in its early years undoubtedly has a good deal to do with forming its character. It seems as if parents ought to heed this fact and to exercise such self denial and self control as may be necessary to make the home a place where the child can be sure of finding peace and just treatment. There are many homes that for familiar reasons are entirely without the scope of these considerations.

But the observations noted apply with reasonable pertinence to the numerous American homes in which the parents are well behaved and self respecting, but who are too selfish or too thoughtless to give due attention to the very important matter of providing a tranquil and helpful home for the little ones.

A REAL ASTHMA RELIEF. Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy has never been advertised by extravagant statements. Its claims are conservative indeed, when judged by the cures which it performs. Expect real relief and permanent benefit when you buy this remedy and you will not have cause for disappointment. It gives permanent relief in many cases where other so called remedies have utterly failed.

KEEP YOUR HOLIDAY HEALTH

Make it your business to always look and feel as well as you do at the end of your vacation. Sunshine, fresh air and exercise are nature's great restorers and the health gained during a holiday should carry you well along to the next vacation.

It is most important that the blood be kept cleared of impurities. This is the business of the Kidneys. One hour's incapacity on the part of the Kidneys and the blood begins to get clogged with poisons which are carried to all parts of the body—giving rise to one or more of the following symptoms:—

Rheumatism follows the crystallizing of uric acid in the muscle tissues and joints. Uric acid poisons should be eliminated by the Kidneys.

Swollen joints and ankles indicate the immediate need for Gin Pills. Pains in the sides and back and through the groins, constant headaches, restless nights, derangements of the urinary system, stone and gravel, puffiness under the eyes and frequent chills—all these should be taken as warnings and a treatment with Gin Pills taken at once.

Ottawa Expects the 100,000 Reinforcements to be Made Up From Those First Called

Ottawa, Oct. 31.—Preparations have been rushed to take care of the first men called up under the Military Service Act, since all indications point to a heavy response at the very first. It requires a huge organization, throughout the country, to take care of the operation of the Act.

The Governor-General's Proclamation was printed in all the newspapers of the country on October 13, calling up the first class. This includes all male British subjects between the ages of 20 and 34 who were unmarried on July 6, 1917, or are widowers without children. All such men must report for service on or before November 10th next, if application for exemption has not been made in their behalf before that date.

Since, by this time, the country has been fully informed as to each man's duty under the Military Service Act, and knows the severe penalties provided for those who try to evade the law, a speedy formation of the required reinforcements to the number of 100,000 is expected from the first class called.

NERVOUS AILMENTS

Few people realize that nervous ailments often arise from digestive troubles. The stomach fails, for some reason, to digest food properly. Then the system languishes and the nerves become exhausted in striving to continue their work. Impure blood also causes nerve troubles, but frequently it is in the stomach where the mischief starts. As the nourishment is carried to the nerves by the blood, it will be seen what an important connection exists between the stomach, the nerves and the blood, and how such troubles as nervous headaches, nervous dyspepsia and insomnia may begin.

In such cases relief is easily obtainable by means of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills replenish the blood with the food elements on which the nerves thrive; at the same time they exercise a tonic influence on the digestive organs, enabling the system to derive nourishment from the food taken. By this perfectly natural process nervous ills are steadily dispelled by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. If you are suffering from nerves, or require a blood-making tonic, give these pills a fair trial, and see how speedily the best of health will be yours.

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The Price of Sugar

The following is the copy of a letter received by merchants from a wholesale house in regard to the sugar market, which shows that there is a scarcity of that article, and that consumers should be discreet in the use of their stocks:—"Dear Sir,—We are sorry that we were compelled to reduce your order for sugar. The situation is very bad, and it will be necessary to use great care in distributing, or someone will be entirely without sugar. We can only get granulated with yellow, and that in very limited quantities. You should notify your customers to be careful in using it, and sell them only in small quantities."

Former Watford Boy Appointed a J. P.

The Oshawa Vindicator in a recent issue notes the appointment of Mr. Bert Mitchell, of Oshawa, son of Mr. and Mrs. Angus Mitchell of Watford, to the office of Justice of the Peace. The highly complimentary article says:—

Mr. Thos. B. Mitchell, the well-known druggist, of Simcoe Street North, has been appointed a Justice of the Peace for the County of Ontario, his appointment dating from August 10, 1917. The new magistrate is one of the best-known citizens of Oshawa, and the news of his appointment will be received with pleasure by a large circle of friends and acquaintances.

Mr. Mitchell has been in business in Oshawa for twenty years. He is a prominent member and worker in the Anglican church, was warden in the church and a very successful chairman in the A. Y. P. A. He has had much to do with and handled very satisfactorily the Patriotic and Separation Allowance Funds.

Mr. Mitchell has also been much interested in public affairs. He was President of the Board of Trade, Reeve of Oshawa, and as Reeve has had experience on the Bench. Always courteous, believing it better to help a citizen before he falls than to punish him after he has fallen. He takes an interest in clean sports, and is a great golf enthusiast. The new magistrate is a favorite with all classes, and is one of the fine types of men that make a country great. His appointment is sure to be a very popular one.

Theford curlers have organized for the season with N. J. Kearney president, and W. N. Ironside, secretary.

Owing to the high prices of meat and the increase in expenses of running business, Parkhill butchers will not deliver parcels of meat after Nov. 1st, but they will keep their shops open evenings for the convenience of the public.

A farmer took 15 little pigs only 7 weeks old to the market in Guelph recently and there was a wild scramble among the speculators, butchers and others to purchase them. He was on the market about three minutes before he had disposed of the lot for $115.
