CANADA'S RESPONSIBILITY.

A question which confronts us at the present moment is the policy Canada will adopt in regard to the suggestion, or rather demand, recently made by Great Britain that this country should assume some share of the expense of maintaining the Imperial navy. We take it for granted that there is unanimity of opinion throughout the country in favor of the general principle of making all the colonies contributors to an Imperial defence fund. The controversy, if there is any, will centre around (1) the amount that Canada should be called on to contribute, and (2) the application of the money so contributed. As to the question of amount, that will probably for the time being be left for Canada to determine, but it cannot be long before some permanent and national agreement between Canada and Great Britain will have to be reached. The factors determining that agreement will include such considerations as population, shipping, wealth, revenue and general interests involved. If we were to go by population alone, Canada's share would be one-tenth, or at least ten million dollars a year. If we base Canada's proportion on the shipping done by the two countries, and on the capital protected, our share would be a great deal less than one-tenth, but just how much less would be a matter of considerable calculation. But in the meantime it will probably be left to our own judgment to determine what sum we will contribute yearly towards the Imperial navy. To begin with, the C.P.R.'s proposed line between Parry Sound and Sudbury. This deal appears to have been another of the many transactions that were rushed through during the past session without due consideration. Public opinion is becoming stronger and stronger in favor of the route to James Bay. The World has given some forcible reasons why this route is much more in Toronto's interests than any of the other three that have been suggested. But we find, alas! the Legislature has adjourned, that this route, known as the Nipissing and James Bay railway, has been deprived of its bonus. As a matter of fact, no route north of the C.P.R. now has a bonus from the Ontario Legislature. Whatever aid has been promised is for the West India route, and the C.P.R. is the main line. The question naturally arises why the Toronto-Sudbury promoters should have had the bonus transferred from the Nipissing and James Bay Railway. It looks now as if this were part of a scheme for sidetracking the line.

SCIENCE TRIMMING THE LAMP OF LIFE.

In 1881 the lecturer first showed the Niagara River was not ancient, for in preglacial days the Erie basin was occupied, not by the Niagara River, but by the Ontario valley. In subsequent years the lecturer found that in the early history of the Falls the descent was much less than at present. A more important discovery was made when he found that the waters of the Erie basin did not formerly empty into the northeast of Georgian Bay, again, the height of the Falls was considerably greater than at present, during a comparatively short period, as discovered by Prof. Gilbert, but the water found that they were subsequently reduced to even a less height than now, before the final lowering of the Falls. These changing phenomena in the lake history have thus varied the descent of the Falls, and the lecturer, to even a quarter of the present amount, with a corresponding increase of time required to reach the sea.

tem," but that it will be very generous. The incident gains reference to is estimated at two millions sterling annually, and is supposed to be obtained from the continental nations by their supplying sugar to the United Kingdom at rates considerably under cost. In 1893 England's imports of beet sugar amounted to 405,000 tons of raw and 738,000 refined. Assuming that these quantities represent in all one million tons of refined sugar and that Mr. Lubbock's estimate of the advantage to Great Britain of "only a farthing a pound" is correct, it seems that the annual bill to England for importing the sugar of the West Indies amounts to $2,225,000. Her Government, believing that the country is "generous and just enough to remedy this crying injustice," although it has callously permitted it during the last ten years, now proposes to refund over a large part of the bill to the suffering West Indians. The remedy of countervailing duties is described as "a drastic measure," and instead of standing up in defence of free trade principles, systematically set at defiance by the continental powers, the English Government adheres to "a system of doling" as it is called by the Times, which, instead of fostering independence and self-reliance on the part of West Indian communities, is much more likely to lead to their pauperization.

THE NORTH BAY DISPATCH APPREHENDS.

The North Bay Dispatch apprehends that the transfer of a similar bonus that was given by the Dominion Government to the same company. It therefore proposes that a big deputation be formed to go to Ottawa and press upon the Government the inadvisability of interfering with the bonus until the matter is more fully discussed. Referring to the matter of hasty legislation during the past session, the Dispatch says: "That the Toronto promoters of this new scheme pressed its passage through the Ontario House before the latter had fully time to thoroughly understand the situation is a matter of regret. It is to be regretted that the matter might be revoked."

When Niagara Will No Longer Flow.

From discussing the history of the land is rising at the rate of a foot and a quarter or a foot and a half a century in that district more than two feet northeast of Georgian Bay, and over four feet a century at the outlet of Lake Ontario. This northward elevation of the land is causing the waters of the lakes to overflow the low country about their southwestern extremities. This inundation continuing, it is estimated that in 400 or 500 years Lake Erie will be on the same level as Lake Huron; in 1000 or 1200 years, all the upper lakes will have two outlets, by way of Niagara River and also by way of Chicago into the Mississippi. In 2000 years Niagara Falls will no longer flow, as by that time the waters of the upper lakes will be emptying into the Chicago canal, which is now being built, will greatly hasten the change of drainage, but save the low country about Chicago from being submerged. This upward tilting of the outlets of the lake basin will also raise the waters of the lakes to overflow the low country about their southwestern extremities. This inundation continuing, it is estimated that in 400 or 500 years Lake Erie will be on the same level as Lake Huron; in 1000 or 1200 years, all the upper lakes will have two outlets, by way of Niagara River and also by way of Chicago into the Mississippi. Biography of Prince of Wales. The First Complete History of the Hereditary

London, Jan. 22.—The desire of the English people to know all the details of the official and private life of their royal family will be partially appeased by the publication in London of the first complete biography of the Prince of Wales.

Singularly enough, no complete career of the heir to the throne has been given by the press before.

The authorship of the new book is connected with the name of the late Mr. J. H. Cross, who was a member of the House of Commons and was a close friend of the Prince. The book is written in a simple and unassuming style, and is full of interesting details.
