King Edward Successfully Operated on for Appendicitis Enjoys Refreshing Sleep at Midnight Last Night Keeps Up Strength, Has Less Pain, Takes Nourishment

NOT OUT OF DANGER YET WHOLE WORLD EXPECTANT

Royal Physicians Say It Will Be Days Before the Glad News Can Be Issued—Coronation is Indefinitely Postponed—How London Feels.

London, June 25.—(4.45 a.m.)—Sir Frederick Treves, Sir Francis Lister, and Sir Thomas Barlow remained at Buckingham Palace all night. The Associated Press learns that the king's condition is as good as could be expected after so serious an operation. His strength is maintained, there is less pain and his Majesty has taken a little nourishment.

London, June 25.—(4.50 a.m.)—At 20 minutes past four o'clock this morning the officer of the guard at Buckingham Palace informed a reporter of the Associated Press that he understood that there were no new developments in the king's condition. At that hour the Palace was everywhere closed and there were no signs of life about the building, except sentries outside and a small lot of messengers and reporters awaiting a possible bulletin.

London, June 24.—The following bulletin was issued at 11.10 p.m.: "His Majesty's condition is as good as could be expected after so serious an operation. His strength is maintained, there is less pain and his Majesty has taken a little nourishment. It will be some days before it will be possible to say that the king is out of danger." (Signed) LISTER, LAKING, BARLOW.

London, June 24.—The following bulletin was posted at Buckingham Palace at 6 o'clock this evening: "His Majesty continues to make a satisfactory recovery and has been much relieved by the operation." (Signed) LISTER, LAKING, BARLOW.

London, June 24.—(3.10 p.m.)—Sir Francis Knollys informed a representative of the Associated Press at 3.30 p.m. that there had been practically no change since the operation. "His Majesty," he said, "continues to sleep well and is progressing satisfactorily. There is no question, however, that the king's condition is extremely critical."

London, June 24.—(2.48 p.m.)—The following bulletin has been posted at Buckingham Palace: "The operation has been successfully performed. A large abscess has been evacuated. The king has borne the operation well, and is in a satisfactory condition."

London, June 24.—(12.48 p.m.)—Sir Francis Knollys, the king's private secretary, has issued the official medical announcement: "The king is suffering from perityphlitis. His condition on Saturday was so satisfactory that it was hoped that with care his Majesty would be able to go through the ceremony. On Monday evening a recurrence became manifest, rendering a surgical operation necessary to-day." (Signed) LISTER, LAKING, BARLOW, TREVES.

London, June 24.—(12.20 p.m.)—The coronation has been postponed indefinitely on account of the indisposition of King Edward.

Treves is Sir Frederick Treves, surgeon to the king, and was surgeon extraordinary to the late Queen Victoria. Lister is Lord Lister, surgeon in ordinary to King Edward, famous for the discovery of antiseptic treatment in surgery. Smith is Sir Thomas Smith, surgeon to the king, and late vice-president of the Royal College of Surgeons.

Laking is Sir Francis Laking, physician in ordinary and surgeon apothecary to the king.

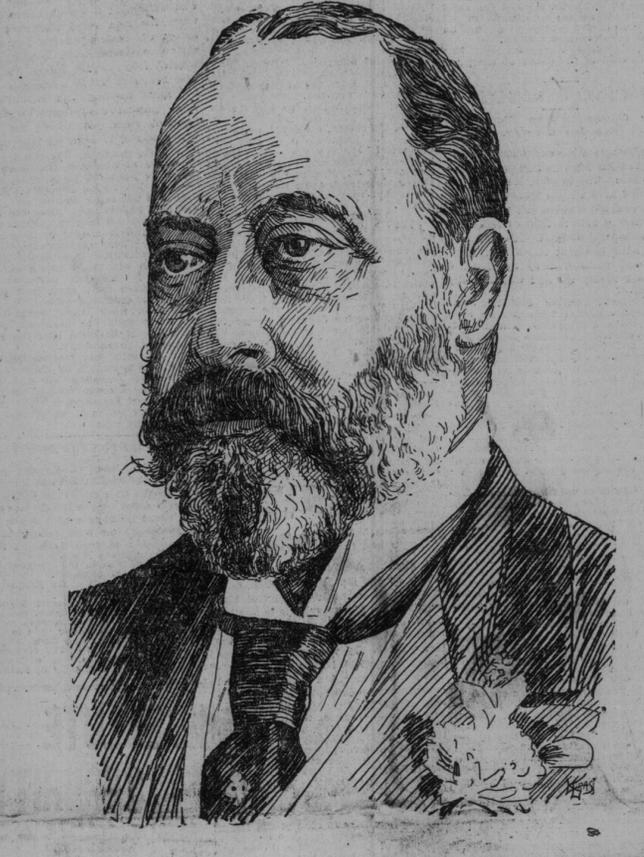

Barlow is Sir Thomas Barlow, physician to his Majesty's household, and professor of clinical medicine and physician to the University College Hospital.

WHERE THE KING SLEEPS.
In a Room in Buckingham Palace, Facing Beautiful Gardens.

London, June 24.—With dramatic suddenness the king has been stricken down upon the eve of his coronation. To-night he lies in a critical state at Buckingham Palace.

In spite of the intensity of this tragic interruption, the lower elements of London are "making" thru the flag-decked streets, and a portion of society, in coronation gowns and jewels, has gathered at what is called a gala coronation dinner at one of the fashionable hotels. Even at the gates of Buckingham Palace, within which the ablest surgeons and physicians constantly remain in the hope of saving the sovereign's life, the tooling of horns and the sound of other revels can be plainly heard. That slim gathering which still remains beneath the flaring palace lights is now more bent on celebrating than on sympathizing.

referred to the king's recent presence in the cathedral in the thanksgiving as a sad contrast to to-day's circumstance, and asked his congregation to pray for his Majesty, the royal family, the king's physicians, and to learn to hope. Then followed a solemn pause, while the vast congregation knelt reverently in solemn prayer. A short service of intercession followed. Many Americans were present at St. Paul's. A service similar to the one held there was also held in St. George's chapel by the Dean of Windsor.

Coronation Postponed.
A brief notice has been published in The Gazette, as a result of which the entire state, social and business arrangements thruout the country are paralyzed. The order is dated from the Earl Marshal's office, and reads as follows: "I have to announce that the solemnity of the coronation of His Majesty, King Edward and Queen Alexandra, is postponed for the 26th to a date hereafter to be determined."

Special Intercessions.
In striking contrast to the happy anticipation with which the day opened is an order issued tonight by the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Most Rev. Frederick Temple, and the Archbishop of York, the Most Rev. William D. MacLagan, appointing special forms for the intercession services to be held next Thursday.

Coronation Honors.
Among the hundreds of postponements caused by the sudden illness of the king is that of the publication of the list of coronation honors.

Portsmouth is perhaps the keenest sufferer among those who financially expected to reap from the naval review which will now be lost to the city.

HIS CAREER IN BRIEF.

King Edward was born in Buckingham Palace November 9, 1841, being the second child and the eldest son of Queen Victoria.

He was created Prince of Wales and Earl of Chester on December 4, 1841, and baptised at St. George's Chapel, Windsor Castle January 20, 1842.

He was educated at Christ Church, Oxford, Trinity College, Cambridge, and the University of Edinburgh, receiving the degree of D.L.L. and LL.D. at those universities. He also received honorary degrees at Dublin in 1868 and Calcutta in 1874.

He was admitted to the Middle Temple, called to the bar and to the bench of that society October 31, 1861. In 1864 he was elected Grand Master of the United Grand Lodge of Free Masons of England, a position he relinquished when he ascended the throne last year.

When Prince of Wales he married Her Royal Highness Princess Alexandra, daughter of King Christian IX. of Denmark, and sister of the Dowager Empress of Russia and King of Greece on March 10, 1863. It was three years previous to his marriage that he visited Canada. He visited the Holy Land in 1862 and India in 1874. In company with the Princess he visited Ireland in 1888 and met with a cordial reception.

While staying with his family at his country seat, Sandringham, Norfolk, the Prince was stricken with typhoid fever, but after several weeks' prostration he recovered, and on February 27, 1872, attended a public thanksgiving service in St. Paul's Cathedral.

As Prince of Wales he took a keen delight in the sport of racing, and in 1896 won the Derby and St. Leger Stakes. He was of unparalleled enthusiasm at Epsom. Lately he has not participated as an owner in the blue ribbon events of the English turf, but his interest in the sport has remained as keen as ever and it was his failure to attend the races at Ascot owing to fatigue, caused by the greatest disappointment of his life, the death of his only son, Prince Albert Victor, Duke of Clarence and St. Andrew, on the night of the coronation, which was the cause of his illness.

The children of King Albert and Queen Victoria were: George, Prince of Wales; Louise, Victoria, Maud and Alexander (deceased).

Proclamation Issued Cancelling the National Holiday for June 26—Military and Other Demonstrations Will Not Be Held in Toronto or Elsewhere.

Ottawa, June 24.—The Secretary of State has telegraphed all parties concerned that the public holiday has been cancelled.

Sir Richard Cartwright received the following cable from Sir Wilfrid Laurier to-day:

London, June 24, 1902.—Have to report very sad intelligence of His Majesty's serious illness. Had to undergo operation this afternoon. Coronation ceremony indefinitely postponed.

THE PROCLAMATION.
The following proclamation has been prepared and will be issued at Ottawa:

To all whom these presents shall come, or whom the same may in any way concern, Greeting:

Proclamation.

Acting Deputy Minister of Justice, Canada.

Whereas by our proclamation dated the 24th day of May last, Thursday, the 26th day of June, next, being the day fixed for the coronation of His Majesty King Edward the Seventh, was appointed and set apart a public holiday to both serve a day of public thanksgiving and rejoicing thruout our Dominion of Canada;

And whereas, owing to the deeply to be regretted illness of His Majesty, the coronation has indefinitely been postponed;

Now, therefore, know ye that we have thought fit, by and with the advice of our Privy Council of Canada, to withdraw the said proclamation, and to revoke and cancel the same.

Of all which our loving subjects and all others whom these presents may concern are hereby required to take notice and to govern themselves accordingly.

In consequence of the postponement of the coronation, all military parades and celebrations fixed for June 26 will be called off. A militia order is issued this afternoon cancelling the order for the firing of a royal salute on Thursday.

GRAVE RUMORS AFLOAT.

That Operation Was Misdirected—Appendix Was Healthy.

London, June 25.—Rumors are afloat this morning that altho the necessity of surgery in His Majesty's case was obvious, the actual operation was misdirected. The symptoms of great pain and high temperature pointed to appendicitis, but when the appendix was revealed it proved to be healthy, and the unexpected existence of a large abscess in the caecum was discovered.

Whether or not there is any foundation for these rumors the bulletins have seemed to indicate that the surgeons were satisfied in the first instance with the evacuation of the abscess, and that they made no attempt to remove the appendix or other structures which might contain the germs of future danger, probably preferring to defer such operation for a radical cure to some future period.

Queen Alexandra exerted herself to appear cheerful, and to devise means to lessen the king's grief and disappointment, altho she was evidently greatly distressed.

The idea was mooted in some influential quarters to-day that with a view of preventing the disappointment of the public, Queen Alexandra should be crowned alone next Thursday, and the king should be crowned in a comparatively private manner upon his recovery. This idea was discussed, but it was rejected as a procedure calculated to mislead the public mind as to the purely relative importance of the Queen Consort.

KING EDWARD'S ILLNESS

All over Canada, as through the rest of the vast British Empire, profound regret is felt at the news of the King's illness. As the sometimes neglected colony of the Mother Country, Canada was loyal to England, but, since the recent marked development of Imperial sentiment, the Dominion as an important unit in the British federation of nations seems to have drawn into a closer relationship with the occupant of the throne.

THE SHAME OF IT

Toronto blushes to-day, and the blush is one of shame. Heretofore the conscious among her sister cities of the Empire has always carried her head high. But the disorders of the past few days have humiliated her, and especially she is ashamed of the reasonless riots of Monday night, when rowdies went about the streets terrorizing the defenceless stranger within our gates and destroying his property.

Editor World: A citizen, in your issue of today, attributed the trouble chiefly to the Mayor. It is well to let it be known that there are many citizens who do not agree with his views on this point, and on the whole situation as presented in "A Citizen's Letter." It is cause for deep regret that sober, right-thinking persons, that there has been so much sympathy shown for the strikers, and also for the "lawless element of the city," to which he refers. That liberty has been interfered with is deplorable. It seems to be admitted that force is being used to employ, and successfully employed, to prevent men from earning a livelihood, and also from getting their money.

City May Be Seized.

It is not altogether improbable that the city will be forced to defend itself against a mob.

The International organization has a very thorough system in this particular, and each step in the calling of the strike and the settlement must be fully recorded and a copy sent to the head office of the organization.

Union Was Busy.

The union initiated fifty-one members during the mass meeting at which the strike was called, and during the strike, many of the men coming in during Saturday and Sunday. They began to desert the company on the first day of mob violence. The union refused to take in any persons brought here by the company to replace regular men. Forty men were tried to get in, but were refused. The extra men in training on the cars were accorded memberships whenever requested. The union is now 1008 strong.
