CHILD DRIVES PHOEBAN W.

S. A. Fowler's Little Girl Drives the Well Known Gelding About the Streets of Lewiston, Maine--Will Drive an Exhibition Mile at State Fair.

A Lewiston, Me., despatch has some interesting facts about Phoebe W., the horse which so many provincialists hoped they might own.

LEWISTON, Me., May 24--Every pleasant morning an early pedestrian about the residential part of Lewiston is likely to meet, coming down the road at a spanking pace, a big, handsome seal-brown pacer, and up in the sulky, her curly head scarcely showing above his broad back, is little Bertha L. Fowler, 11 years old, the youngest and most fearless trainer of crack trotting stock anywhere about. She is the daughter of S. A. Fowler, formerly of St. John, but, recently of this city, and the big handsome horse is Phoebe W., 218 1/2.

He is one of a string of four horses which Mr. Fowler has brought here from St. John to train on the fair ground track. His little daughter is a dear lover of horses, and this spring Mr. Fowler took her into the road cart, up behind a little black mare and taught his little daughter how to drive her. Mr. Fowler says that the horses have taken to Bertha as much as he has to them, and now she is allowed, each morning, to take any one of the four and exercise them wherever she will. Her father says that she can do it as well and as safely as he can himself. She is naturally delighted with the privilege and has no hesitation, when a bit of good road exercise is to be had, to get out at a gallop, to let them out at a gallop which most women, and many men, would hesitate to evoke from a horse.

Next fall, at the state fair, Mr. Fowler then owns Phoebe W., he proposes to let little Bertha drive the horse for an exhibition mile at the track. He expects the child to do this in 2 1/2 or less. Bertha has a natural love for horses and is not the least afraid of them. She is used to her picture, as she held Phoebe W. quite a minute, later she was speeding up the road at a 2.30 clip, laughing merrily.

enjoy. He was very cheerful when he bade good-night to his parents. The police have closely examined everything in the studio, where they found numerous photographs. No finger prints could be found. There was no weapon in the place, and nothing else to afford the slightest clue to the perpetrator of the crime. There appears to be no evidence whatever that the doors or windows were forced and the skylight does not appear to have been opened. No drawers or boxes had been tampered with. Nothing was missing. Indeed, nothing was kept in the house that would be likely to tempt thieves. The theory, which is at present held for lack of a more definite one, is that Wakely fell an unintended victim to an attempt to rob the branch of the London and County Bank, which is situated in the house in which his studio was located. Maybe the thief secreted himself on the premises in the daytime or used a duplicate key, prepared to enter the bank by piercing the wall at the end of the passage. If this is so the artist probably heard the thief's movements after undressing and opened the studio door to investigate, surprising the burglar, who secured his own safety by killing the only witness of his intended crime. But why the body was covered with bedclothes or why the witness being killed, the intruder did not execute his supposed purpose to pierce the wall cannot be guessed. Another branch of the London and County Bank on St. James street was robbed by burglars last week. They entered with duplicate keys, after which they pierced the wall of the strong room, leaving nearly $1,000 and got away without leaving a clue. It would be well known that the house in which the studio is located would ordinarily be unoccupied at night and the probability of the foregoing suggested explanation is regarded as strong.

A post mortem examination led to the conclusion that although six serious wounds were inflicted, Wakely was killed by the first one, the others being given after he had fallen to make sure that he was dead. There was no sign of a struggle. It was evident that he had been felled before he was able to attempt to defend himself. Wakely's picture at the current academy exhibition is called "The Sleeping Beauty." It is his greatest success and is hung on the line in the most important room.

To compile a record without the aid of women or typewriters, and effect great economy is the purpose of a system devised by E. E. Betts, car service agent of the Chicago & Northwestern. Betts declares that the saving of $5,000 a year in salaries alone is secured, and without regard to the cost of stationery or other supplies. As upwards of 100 railroads in the country employ women as typewriters, the new system should be universally adopted, would deprive these women of employment.

HELP THE CHILDREN

What to do with the children during the summer vacation period is with many parents a serious problem. Of course those who are able to take the children to the country or make other provisions for the care of them, have no cause for worry; but the hard-working mothers with many little ones around them, find only the street for a playground, look for ward with well-founded apprehension to the weeks of idleness for the children.

REFORM NEEDED

A man who was taken from the jail to the hospital day before yesterday, died last night. He had been in jail for more than a month. Only a week or two since a woman died in the jail. In each case the prisoner's condition had been weakened by liquor. Neither should have been kept in the jail in the physical condition to which they were reduced.

INDUSTRIAL EDUCATION

The Times has already referred to the very valuable report of the Massachusetts Commission on Industrial and Technical Education, on which was based a bill submitted to the state legislature. The following summary of the deductions of the commission as a result of its investigations in forty-three cities and towns in the state is significant as an indication of the change in the views of the people as to what constitutes a proper education for the children of today.

copies the hands for the moment to the operations which have preceded and to those which will follow it—power to take in the whole process, knowledge of materials, ideas of cost, ideas of organization, business sense, and a conscience which recognizes obligations.

At a Methodist district meeting in Winnipeg this week a resolution was adopted asking the general conference to so modify the itinerant pastorate law as to permit the pastor to remain with a congregation as long as his relations with his people are satisfactory to both. It also declared that in view of great services rendered in all departments of the church work by women they should be rendered eligible to election as officers to serve on quarterly boards or in conference.

The revelations made during the last week of the methods by which Standard Oil and the Pennsylvania Railroad met competition and throttled their rivals will further arouse the wrath of the people against the rapacity of the corporations. Both federal and state legislation will be aimed at the commercial buccaners who have made bribery and graft and extortion the means of accomplishing their ends.

The case of Mr. Preston and the affairs of the North Atlantic Trading Co. are exciting much interest in England as well as in Canada. The high position and high character of Lord Strathcona, and the fact that his name has been dragged into the discussion naturally adds to the public interest in the whole subject.

A morning paper pictures the Boys' Industrial Home at Silver Falls as feeding the inmates on cornmeal as an exclusive breakfast food. Needless to say, the statement is promptly contradicted. It should never have been made without enquiry.

The affairs of the fall exhibition are being conducted with a vigor and success that promise a very attractive fair in September. Whatever assistance local exhibitors and other citizens can give should be offered freely.

More suggestions are offered relative to the construction of the new wharf. Mr. George Robertson would split the difference and add 50 feet to each end of the Clark berth. Some course must be decided on, and without delay.

Lady Grey is now officially and authoritatively "Her Excellency." Despite the title she will remain the gentle, cultured, kindly woman who has won the respect and esteem of the Canadian people.

Citizens of St. John are not subjected to the shock of surprise when they ride out of town on any of the country roads. These are said to be so much like the streets of the city that they are able to give jolt for jolt with the latter.

The farmer who makes his cow an object of suspicion, and their milk the subject of bacteriological examination, is doing himself an ill favor. It pays to observe the rules of health.

The fact that a tern schooner was launched at Port Greville, N. S., this week, is worthy of note. The building of schooners is no longer a thriving industry at Bay of Fundy ports.

The board of health is to be commended for the systematic and successful way in which it proceeded to locate the cause of the typhoid fever cases.

Officers of the Federated Metal Trades will meet at Cincinnati, O., June 12, and endeavor to organize all the machinery working trades in the United States.

Freight handlers of the several railroad systems in Boston, Mass., have secured an increase of about 10 per cent. in wages. They now receive from $1.83 to $1.90 a day.

The Australian workers are in earnest in making a move for the six-hour day. At a recent meeting of the Carlton Trades Council a motion prevailed that the American and British labor bodies be invited to join in the six-hour movement.

The workmen of Washington are actively manufacturing much interest in the proposed label campaign to be held there a few months hence. In the meantime the local trades unions are conducting an active campaign in behalf of the union label.

There is nearly $700,000 in the Cigar Makers' International treasury, an increase of $20,000 during the past year. During 1905 there was $162,000 paid in death benefits and in January of this year $19,288.00 was expended for the same purpose.

The General Federation of Labor in France, which stands in the same position to organized labor in that country as does the A. F. of L. in the United States, has set June the first as the day on which all organized workers in that country shall cease work until their demands for an eight-hour day have been conceded.

Sixty thousand dollars a week is the revenue the International Typographical Union has at its command to carry on the contest for the eight-hour day, and in several of the large cities the unions have defrayed the entire cost of the contest without drawing on the International for a penny.

A preventive for labor strikes is furnished by Consul J. Martin to the owners of manufacturers. He reports from Rheims that thousands of men are employed in the great French champagne industry. The employers have discovered a preventive and have demonstrated its practicability. This is a bonus system. Every employe who merits it is paid annually in addition to his wages. It is set in the contract, and can be secured only by good records. This scheme tends to drive the employe, who must come up to certain mark before they receive any bonus.

Josephine Terranova's Husband Testifies For Her

NEW YORK, May 25.—Expressing in halting, broken English his eagerness to aid in freeing his girl bride from the charge of murder, Giuseppe Terranova, Josephine Terranova's husband, took the witness stand in the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court late Monday afternoon and told what he knew of the circumstances leading up to the killing of Gaetano and Concetta Roggio, Josephine's uncle and aunt, whom she admits having slain.

When summoned to testify by former Judge John Palmer, counsel for his girl wife, Terranova was so excited that he could scarcely speak and he trembled as a court attendant led him up the aisle to the witness box. Every eye in the crowded court room was on him, and the accused girl, sitting at her cousin's table, looked up and made a feeble effort to smile.

Terranova said he met Josephine and courted her in the little Bronx bakery, which was later the scene of the double murder. His visits to Josephine were under the constant surveillance of the aunt and uncle until last Christmas eve, when their betrothal was celebrated, transferring always to the defendant as "my wife," Terranova said that until their betrothal on Christmas they had never been alone together. "We never had a chance," he said.

When he took Josephine to the Roggio's for dinner, Terranova testified that she appeared ill at ease and did not eat anything. On leaving Terranova said that going downstairs Josephine felt as if she were "letting her" go. "I was heart-broken. I said I could never take her back again for a wife. She was crying and lying on the floor. Then I left her and did not see her again until I saw her in the Bronx with policemen about her."

James R. Ely, the prosecutor, began a rigid cross-examination, standing close to Terranova, until Mr. Palmer begged him to stand further away. Mr. Ely sought to show that the girl was fully aware of her condition before her marriage, and that she had at first tried to hoodwink her husband.

Despite his halting language and nervousness manifested in twisting and shifting about the witness box, Terranova's testimony made a good impression on the jury. Now and again he would turn and smile on Josephine as he told of incidents of their wooing. At one time as he spoke of the girl's confession he wiped tears from his eyes and Josephine with a sob audible all over the court room buried her head in her arms and cried bitterly.

Unitarians, Congregationalists, Universalists and Quakers Exchange Greetings and Speak of their Work in the Realm of Religion.

(Boston Transcript, Wednesday.)

Rev. Henry W. Poole, of New Orleans, conducted the devotional service which opened a continued business meeting of the American Unitarian Association in Tremont Temple this morning. Rev. Samuel A. Eliot, D. D., presided, and there was a large attendance.

Greetings from representatives of other denominations formed a most important and inspiring part of the session. The first speaker was Rev. William R. Campbell, D. D., president of the Congregational Educational Association, who addressed the audience as "Neighbors, kinsmen and confederates."

Mr. Campbell said he once stood on Beacon Hill when an alien procession was passing. He looked up at the two buildings on opposite sides of the street, occupied by the Congregationalists and Unitarians, and he said to himself, "There are the bookshelves of brethren and allies in any great crisis in the future of church or state."

"I reflected," continued the speaker, "that we might throw an upper archway for communication, but at present we have a good, solid highway on which we could and did pass while waiting for the sky corridor. We are both well buttressed in these central structures, we have a graveyard behind us and you have the church of the New Jerusalem back of you." "We are to teach others," said Dr. Campbell, "much as the inhabitants of the old Swiss towns of Geneva and Lucerne. Our communications are those of people who dwell on both sides of a stream which instead of being a barrier, became a spiritual bond. We have been neighbors with a sense of actual inheritance and ownership in our history and the achievements of our fathers and also in the great pioneers of thought and human progress in this pilgrim land. We are thankful for John Adams and Channing, for Horace Mann and Dr. Hale, as you are for Mark Hopkins and Moody, Bushnell and Beecher.

"In the reform movements you have been leaders and co-workers. In political life you have had more notable leaders than we, but we have pushed out into the spirit of intellectual frontier together, you, perhaps, with fewer dietary orders, and sometimes as rough riders, but we have been brothers in supporting column. We have both come to that high ground where we can behold and enter into covenant with God without any essential rite. We both believe in character making by the divine life through faith. The Catholicism you have which they have come to be classed as her citizens. We, together in our inherited and cultivated freedom, will have one day to effect the rescue of our relative from this foolish choice and fellowship—for I do not believe that English blood and English reason will ultimately consent to become vassal of one who is a self-confessed captive in a realm and age of freedom.

"Another group of general prisoners awaiting our deliverance are those excellent people, the Christian Scientists. Like the oxen they have made their nests on the far tips of over-hanging limbs; they have anticipated their wings in the height of days of health. May it not be that we can recover these friends by a firmer affirmation and warmer faith?"

Dr. Campbell said in closing: "We have sought and have reached a permanent working basis of reality without the aid or hindrance of artificial wrappings in church or creed. There have been various efforts to detach sections of our forces on side issues. You have occupied a subsidence of an extreme section which looked toward too lax moral license. We have successfully prevented and successfully broke between the old and the new theology, and are still one body."

Dr. Eliot next presented one from him called a very dear friend—Dr. William C. Seelick of Providence, R. I., who, with great earnestness, spoke as a Universalist. One hundred years ago, he said, the leaders of that denomination and those of the Unitarian were working side by side, yet history does not show that there was any personal relation or co-operation between them. The speaker said he liked to think of these two households of faith as two streams rising at different parts in a mountain and at length converging into one river of the waters of life. He was thankful for the nearness, and hand-

MEDICINE FOR CHILDREN.

A medicine which keeps babies and children well, or restores their health when they are ill, is a priceless boon to humanity. Such a medicine is Baby's Own Tablets. These Tablets cure all stomach and bowel troubles, allay the pain of teething and give sound, healthy, refreshing sleep. And the mother has the guarantee of a government analysis that this medicine does not contain one particle of the poisonous opiates found in so-called soothing mixtures and most liquid medicines. The Tablets are equally good for the newborn baby or the well grown child. Mrs. Robert Currie Loring, Ontario, says:—"I have found Baby's Own Tablets a splendid medicine for curing constipation and other ills of little ones." You can get these Tablets from any medicine dealer or by mail at 25c. a box by writing The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

"I do, monsieur," answered the other with cool insolence, leaning back in his chair. The light fell directly on his face and proved to me what I had guessed at his first word. The duke's night-vision was Lucas. "Yes," he repeated indifferently, "it has gone badly. In fact, your game is up."

Lucas sprang to his feet, bringing his fist down on the table. "You tell me that?" "Lucas repeated to him with a cold smile, 'Unfortunately, monsieur, I do.'"

"You let him to the duke," Mayenne cried presently. "At the harsh censure of his voice, Lucas rang out with the old defiance."

"You are very young, Paul!" "You are not wrong, Paul," Mayenne declared. "If she did, how long would it last? Souvent femme varie—that is the fixed fact about her, if Lorraine loves more they adore him."

WOMAN IN A BAFFLING AND UNUSUAL MURDER MYSTERY

Mrs. Alberta Jewett Dabney Storrs

Los Angeles, Cal., May 24—Baffling as any mystery ever solved by "Sherlock Holmes," and of added interest because of the high social position of the principals, is the case to be investigated at the hearing here today, at which Mrs. Alberta Jewett Dabney Storrs, a cousin of Mrs. Nannie Langhorne Shaw Astor, will be questioned concerning the death of her husband, Mrs. Storrs is now being detained by the authorities. There are features of the case so contradictory on the surface that up to the present time the best detectives of Los Angeles seem to be at sea. Socially prominent, wealthy and a bride of five months, Mrs. Storrs is lodged in the House of Detention here in connection with the case, which some declare to be that of suicide and others of murder. On the night of Mrs. Storrs' death Mrs. Storrs was found wandering in the streets crying, "I don't know which one of them shot him." She seemed half crazed and did not remember having telephoned Dr. L. N. Wheeler, the family physician, to come to her home. The doctor, according to his story, hurried to the house and found Storrs' body lying fully dressed on the bed. He had been shot through the head and had died instantly. The dead man lay on the outside of the bed covers, and it was evident from the condition of the bed that some one had been lying on the other side from the victim.

LONDON COMMENT ON CANADIAN MATTERS

Montreal, May 25—The Star's London correspondent cables: "Some little sensation was caused at the Empire Day banquet of the Canadian Society last night by Earl Durham, a grandson of Earl Durham, whose famous report laid the foundation of Canadian self-government. The ministry was represented at the banquet by Lord Oxborough and many ministerial members of parliament. Winston Churchill was to have been the chief guest, but was ill with influenza at Blenheim. Earl Durham, who is a staunch supporter of the ministry and who had evidently prepared his speech for delivery in Churchill's presence, dwelt upon the British minister's refusal to his grandfather during his historic mission to Canada and proceeding to make special reference to Churchill's recent innuendo to Lord Milner in the commons. He said: "I hope you will not think I am trying to introduce a spirit of controversy if I remind you that at the very moment another great servant of the state, Lord Milner. We in the British parliament may reduce that great pro-consul if need arises. We may even dismiss them. We ought never to insult the minister of the empire would be shortly vindicated by the publication of his life by Stuart Reid, brother of Sir Wemyss Reid. In introducing Lord Carrington, Hamard Greenwood, who presided, said he hoped Lord Carrington as president of the board of agriculture would soon have, if he had cash prize and must be won two years to become a member's property. William Britt died at 11:20 o'clock last night in the hospital, where he was removed very ill on Thursday last. He was twenty-eight years old and was well known along the water front, for since boyhood he had been connected with the pilot boats.

Federal Control of Coal Roads May Be Asked

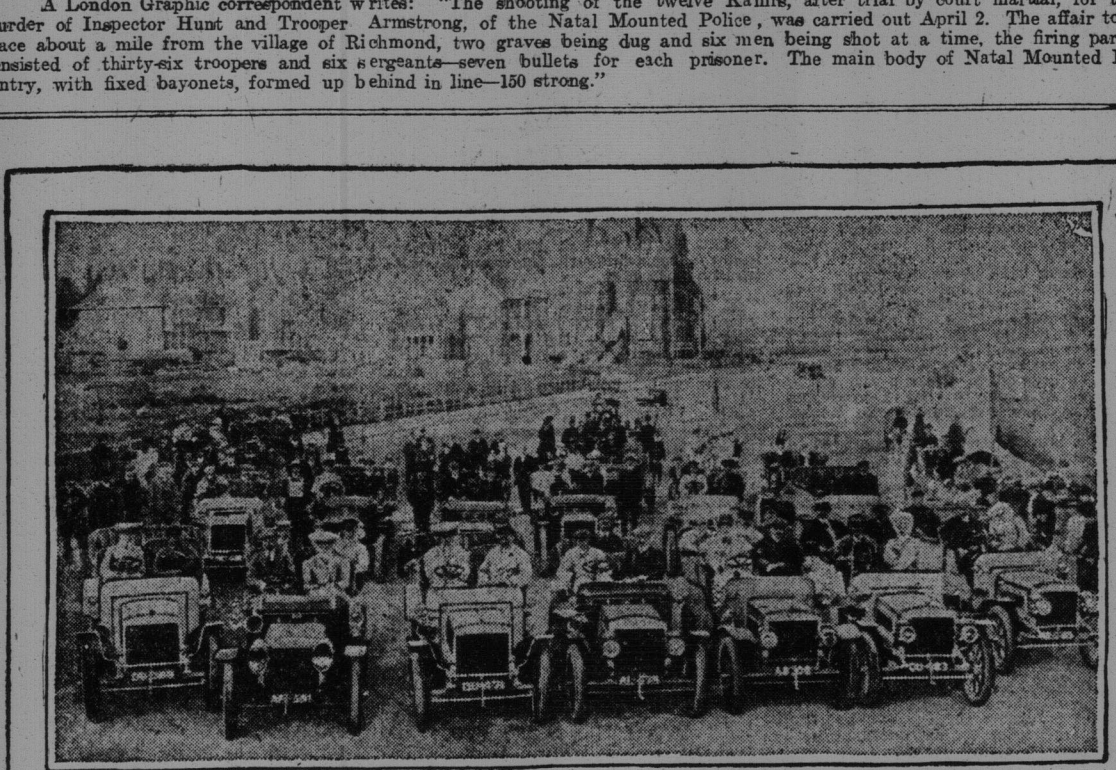

Philadelphia, Pa., May 26—If the investigations of the Interstate Commerce Commission into the railroads were to stop today the recommendations of that body to congress would be, it is declared here tonight, to this effect:— Government supervision of the anthracite coal trade. Draconic national legislation providing penalties and forbidding not only direct or indirect ownership of coal mines by railroad companies, but direct or indirect ownership by officers of railroad companies, and a direct report that the coal carrying railroads have violated Interstate Commerce Commission regulations in the distribution of cars. With this would go a statement that many roads in handling the Standard Oil commerce have violated the provisions of the Sherman law, but with no report regarding individual prosecutions. No draft of any report to congress has yet been made, but the commissioner and the counsel are willing to discuss the subject, but to leave the matter entirely in the hands of counsel appointed by the attorney-general to cover such violations of Sherman and interstate law as may be brought out by the testimony. Counsel having this part of the information in charge will give no hint as to their possible course. The last of the commissioners have now left Philadelphia, although two of them will return Tuesday night to take up the investigation of bituminous coal roads. The other will continue the Standard Oil probe in Cleveland. After that the commission will again become the final object of attention on the part of the commission. William A. Glasgow, jr., counsel for the commission, said that he would not hazard a guess as to when the hearings would be completed. "They will certainly continue," he said, "until the railroads have had every opportunity to explain, if any such a thing is possible, to astonishing evidence of grat that has ever been made public. The commission will insist upon explanations if any can be made, so that their final report to congress will be based upon not only these reports but the railroad companies' explanations of them."

EXECUTION OF NATAL NATIVES FOR MURDER OF POLICE

A London Graphic correspondent writes: "The shooting of the twelve Kafirs, after trial by court martial, for the murder of Inspector Hunt and Trooper Armstrong, of the Natal Mounted Police, was carried out April 2. The affair took place about a mile from the village of Richmond, two graves being dug and six men being shot at a time, the firing party consisted of thirty-two troopers and six sergeants—seven bullets for each prisoner. The main body of Natal Mounted Infantry, with fixed bayonets, formed up behind in line—150 strong."

Cures Rheumatism. I had an attack of Rheumatism—pains near my heart—which increased to such a degree that I became very anxious. I lost my appetite, and an intense itching or heating of the head made life miserable. I asked a druggist, was there nothing he could suggest that would help me, and he replied "Why not try ABBEY'S SALT?" I did so, and can now state positively, and without solicitation that the Rheumatism has disappeared—my appetite is grand—and the itching of my scalp has ceased. I suggested my aged Father and Mother that they should try ABBEY'S SALT for their Rheumatism—and they tell me they have received immense benefit. Abbey's Effervescent Salt. 25c. and 50c. a bottle. At all Druggists.

Nervous? There are many causes of nervousness, but poor blood heads the list. The doctors call it anemia. The blood lacks red corpuscles. At your first opportunity, consult your doctor about taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Ask him if he has anything better for weakness, debility, nervousness, if he has, take it. If not, take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. We have no equal. We publish J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Prince Errant DISCOVERS ALADDIN'S LAMP

Haha, the jester: Well, this is a queer place to find a lamp.
Prince Errant: It's lucky we found it; we can now find our way out of this dark wood.

Prince: Why, it has a name on it, A-L-A-D-D-I-N, Aladdin. ... way, it's the long-lost Aladdin's lamp; I'll rub it and see what happens.

Gani: I am the slave in charge of Aladdin's treasure. ...
Haha: Help! Help! Great Scot! I thought I was asleep on a pile of gold!

Gani: Seven thousand steps north by north-east will bring us to the treasure chamber.
Haha: I'll keep my eye on that bunch of smoke, as I am always suspicious of fellows that want to give away money.

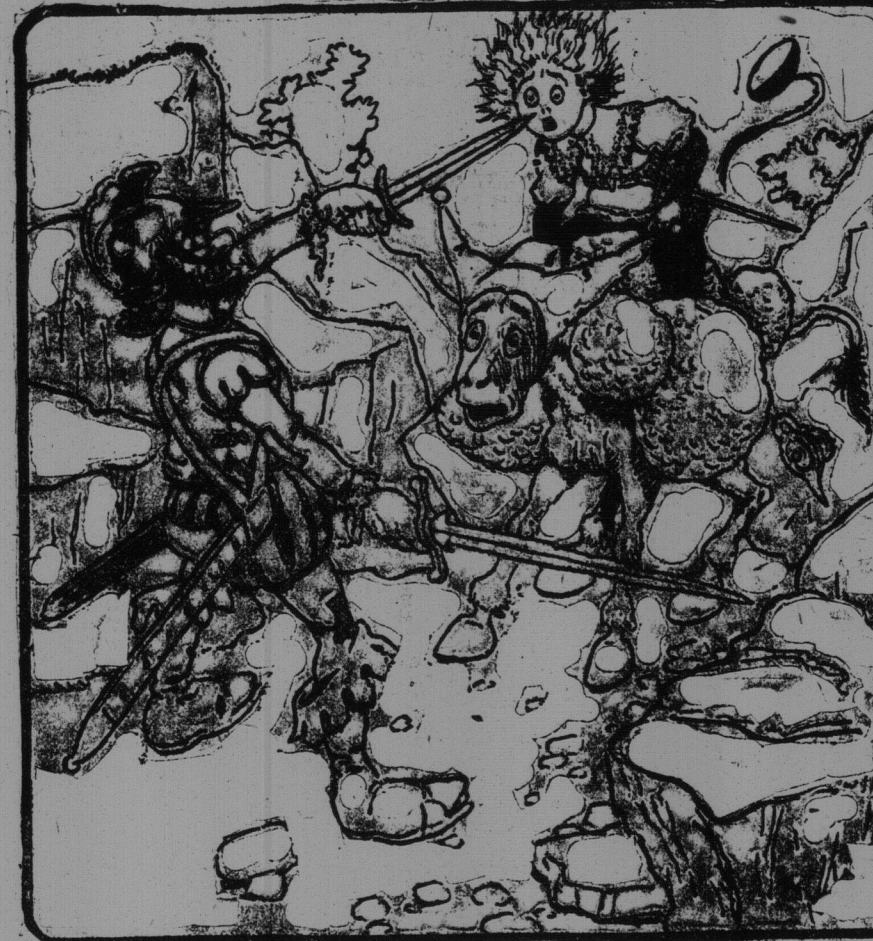

Gani: All is yours; I'll get you sacks, so that you may carry away as much as you desire.
Haha: This must be a dream; I'll pinch myself to see if I am awake.

Haha: Well, this is beyond my fondest dreams; I only wish now that I was a jackass so I could carry the load.
Prince: That was a happy thought; I'll rub the lamp and see what happens.

Prince: There you are, Haha! Now you can carry both our loads and me too. My! but how natural you look!

Brigand: Hands up, my fine friend! Thou art too young to be in charge of so much treasure!

Brigand: Ta, ta, Prince; I'll leave you that old lamp, as I am not in the junk business.
Prince: If I could only reach the lamp!—the lamp!!
Haha: I don't mind being a fool, but when it comes to being a jackass, it's too much.

BOARD OF HEALTH IS LONG ON MILK

Just at Present the Officials have 480 Quarts in Their Care.

The board of health is doing quite a milk business now. Since it has been ascertained that the typhoid epidemic was caused by infected milk, the officers of the board have corralled 60 cans of milk which were sent here from Bloomfield. This morning 24 cans were set aside and held, making a total of 480 quarts of the germ infected fluid now in custody of the health officials. figured at 2 cents a quart, this would amount to $24 worth.

No new cases of the disease were reported today, so that the total number affected to date is 37, two having been reported yesterday. The officials of the board are taking every precaution to guard against a spread of the disease.

KIRK BROWN'S SUCCESS

Company Will Close Their Engagement at the Opera House Tonight.

Kirk Brown and his company will close their very successful engagement at the Opera House tonight, with The Dangers of a Great City. This afternoon they are playing Alone in London.

Kirk Brown came to St. John unheralded by such advance notice as some actors receive, and he goes away with the assurance that the theatre-goers of this city will always be glad to see him again. He has a strong supporting company, and the scenic arrangement of his plays is exceptionally attractive.

Last night Othello was repeated, to a very large house, which followed with absorbing interest the story of the Moor, so splendidly set forth by this fine company. None but a very clever actor could have rendered the part of Othello as it was done by Kirk Brown, while the Iago of David Elyon was a not less striking conception. There was no weak member in the cast, and the audience frequently expressed its approval of the acting of the principals in the great drama.

WATER STREET PRESSURE

Director Murdoch had a portable engine and boiler at work this morning making a test of the water main on Water street. The board of works recently asked that such a test be made before the granite pavement was put down. The boiler used this morning proved too small to get the required pressure on the pipe, and a large one will be put at work this afternoon. The pressure this morning was only about 15 pounds greater than the normal pressure.

Chinaman Charged with Theft from Another Chinaman Freed Yesterday Afternoon.

Yesterday afternoon Hon. H. A. McKewen delivered an able address to the jury, showing that Sam Sing was as about as wealthy as any Chinaman in the province, and that he could have no motive in retaining.

A Lively Entertainment at Harry Lewis' House Last Night.

There was an exceptionally warm time last night in Harry Lewis' home, at the corner of Britain and Pitt streets, and Sergeant Baxter and Campbell, and policemen Howe, Ira Perry and Joe Scott were called at different times to endeavor to restore peace and quietude. A number of dinky people had congregated in Harry's domicile, and there, while the chickens roamed about the cheer, finally the liquor got the best of them, and Harry and Gilbert Loucheur and Charlie Morrison commenced to make things lively. Loucheur had a razor, and with it he, so the police say, threatened to chop a piece out of his brother African, Charlie Morrison.

NO ROWDYISM ON BALL FIELD

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 26—Secretary James O'Rourke said, after the meeting of the Connecticut State Ball League directors here last night, that they had determined to stamp out rowdyism among players. Kennedy and Capt. Fleming of the respective clubs that they have been fined $50 apiece for recent disorders during their games.
