NAVAL MUTINY ADDS TO RUSSIA'S TERROR.

Battleship's Crew in Revolt—Almost Anarchy Throughout Nation—General Strike Begins Saturday.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 26, 1:15 p. m.—Russia is practically isolated today from the rest of the continent of Europe, as the international train service on all the lines has virtually ceased.

At Moscow cabmen have already fought the strikers, whom they charge with taking the bread out of their mouths. In many cities, especially at Moscow, the question of food is becoming extremely serious.

At Ekaterinograd a regular pitched battle between the soldiers and strikers was fought, and the city was left in darkness. But as a rule the revolutionary leaders were keeping their men in hand.

The whole country is becoming alarmed, and in St. Petersburg a panic prevails. The boats and the trams are crowded with people going abroad.

The inhabitants of St. Petersburg awake to find the streets resembling a beleaguered city. The shops in the Vasilievsky district and in all the suburbs are closed.

The prices of food have gone up, and the supply of beef is extremely limited. The emperors and the court at Petersburg are supplied by a warship from the Baltic.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—A special despatch from Odessa says the Russian battleship Catherine II, at Sebastopol, and that four hundred of her crew have been arrested.

WARSAW, Russia, Oct. 25.—Agitation is holding revolutionary meetings in the factory districts, and a general strike is anticipated Oct. 23.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 26, 4 a. m.—Confronted by a situation more crucial than any since the beginning of the political and social upheaval of Russia and which at the time this despatch is filed, shows no signs of abatement.

The general strike on the railroads is complete except in a few border provinces, and St. Petersburg, Moscow and other large cities are almost as closely beleaguered as if they were invested by besieging armies.

The strike is complete in the great factory region on both banks of the Neva above the city, and in several other industrial quarters. Forty thousand men are out, but they are conducting themselves in a most orderly manner.

Lois meetings, mainly of workmen, were held last night in the university and the higher schools, at which the sentiment was unanimous for continuing the strike on the railroads to the bitter end.

LOYALIST CITY'S WELCOME TO PRINCE.

PRINCE LOUIS OF BATTENBERG.

It was exactly 10 o'clock when the huge anchor of the flagship of Rear-Admiral Prince Louis of Battenberg disturbed the mud at the bottom of St. John harbor this morning.

The warships arrived off the harbor at about seven o'clock and were met by the Harbormaster Farris, who went down in his official rig in tow of a tug.

The two big cruisers were soon at anchor, and as the cable ran out boats and launches were lowered and everything was in readiness for the reception of the rear-admiral, who had arrived by rail at an early hour.

Many of the principal business houses and private residences are decorated with flags and bunting, but no big display was attempted.

Prince Louis of Battenberg, Lieut. General Bouverie and two servants arrived in the city this morning from Halifax on No. 9. Quite a number were down at the depot to see the arrival of royalty notwithstanding the early hour but they were disappointed.

At eleven o'clock this morning Lt. Gov. Snowball and staff called upon the Prince at the Royal hotel. The visit was a formal one and was returned fifteen minutes later by the Prince.

Your Serene Highness—The mayor and aldermen of the City of Saint John, on behalf of the citizens, take great pleasure in extending to you a very hearty welcome to our city.

Situated at one of the gateways of the Dominion of Canada, the extent of opportunity of appreciating the terminus of one great transcontinental railway system and soon to be that of another, at the mouth of a noble river not inappropriately called the Rhine of America, Louis of Battenburg and His Warships Arrived Today.

Lieutenant Governor and Mayor Receive Him—Civic Address Presented—Luncheon Tonight's Reception.

A great credit to the steward Edward Wilson. The floral decorations were magnificent, the work of Frederick Enos.

The menu was as follows: Oysters on shell, consommé and French turtle soup, boiled roach and egg sauce; fillet of partridge, larded with bacon, port wine and sauce; mushrooms on toast; roast turkey, cranberry sauce and sausages; tomato and lettuce salad, French dressing; peas and potatoes, cauliflower with white sauce; Roman punch; English snipe on toast; wine jellies and Charlotte Russe; celery, cheese and coffee; fruits—orange, pear, grapes and peaches; confectionery.

On the right of the mayor sat His Serene Highness Prince Louis and to his right Chief Justice Tuck. To the left of the mayor was Lieut. Governor Snowball and to his left Judge McLeod.

Across the table from the mayor sat Dr. Daniel and on his right, Capt. Robertson and Col. White, D. O. C., and to his left, Capt. Dave and Premier Tweedie. The guests numbered fifty-two.

The guests at the luncheon were the following: Prince's Flag Lieut. and Secretary, Captain of H. M. S. Cornwall, Commander of H. M. S. Cornwall, Captain of H. M. S. Berwick, Commander of H. M. S. Berwick, Lt. Gov. Snowball, Col. H. H. McLean, aide de camp to Lieut.-Gov. R. S. Barker, private secretary, Mr. Justice Barker, Mr. Justice McLeod, His Lordship Bishop Casey and Chaplain.

Senator John V. Eyles, Senator James Donville, Dr. A. A. Stockton, M. P., Dr. J. W. Daniel, M. P., Premier Tweedie, Attorney General Pugsley, Police Magistrate R. J. Ritchie, High Sheriff R. R. Ritchie, Rev. O. A. Kuhring, (St. John's Stone Church), Col. White, D. O. C., Lt. Col. Edwards, Lt. Col. Jones, Lt. Col. J. R. Armstrong, Lt. Col. Woodburn, Major McLaren, H. P. Schofield, Pres. Board of Trade, Edward Lantburn, M. P., R. R. Maxwell, M. P., Geo. Robertson, M. P., D. J. Purdy, M. P., Recorder C. N. Skinner, Board of aldermen, Common Clerk Wardroper, Members of the press.

There were only two toasts, His Majesty King Edward and Prince Louis of Battenberg. At the conclusion of the luncheon Mayor White drove his serene highness about the city, pointing out the chief points of interest.

From 4:30 to 6:30 o'clock Lady Tilley will hold a private reception at her residence, Carleton House, Germain street, to which a number of her friends have been invited and probably be the conclusion of his drive around town His Serene Highness will drop in there for a few minutes.

SUN SHRINKING 16 INCHES EVERY 24 HOURS.

Startling Statement by Sir Robert Ball—The Orb Will Not Get Cold for Awhile, However.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—"The sun grows smaller by 16 inches every 24 hours." Such was the startling statement by Sir Robert Ball, the Irish astronomer, to an audience at the Atholgate Institute.

A few moments later he calmed the apprehensions of his hearers by stating that the sun was in no immediate danger of becoming a cold, black blot in the heavens, but would in all probability last for a million years.

Sir Robert spoke of the tremendous prodigality with which the sun dispenses its heat—a useless waste because of the principle that a red hot poker is wider than a cold one.

"Ten million years ago," said Sir Robert, dealing with the period as though it were of an ordinary length, "the sun was nearly a million times wider than it is at present, because of the fact that it is settling closer and because of the principle that a red hot poker is wider than a cold one."

As showing the tremendous combustion that is going on in the sun to keep up its heat, Sir Robert declared that if all the coal in the earth were poured into the sun it would last less than ten thousandth part of a second in that tremendous conflagration.

"Fortunately," said the astronomer, "it is not to combustion alone that the sun's heat is due. In its process of contraction the particles of the gigantic orb produce such a tremendous friction that the heat from this friction is equal to the burning of 800,000 tons of coal."

"Of late," proceeded Sir Robert, "the idea has prevailed that the sun's energy is due to the presence of that mysterious agent—radium. If that is so, and if radium exists in the sun in the same proportion that it exists in the earth, then instead of the paltry 24,000,000 years allowed to the sun because of combustion the present inter-collegiate football as a sport at Harvard, it would last for a billion years."

"most of us will be beyond the reach of solar energy."

ST. JOHN, Oct. 26.—The Advertiser today says: "If any exhibition of brutality or any disposition to 'knock out' players is seen at the Harvard-Yale game next month a proposition will be made in the Harvard corporation to abolish the present inter-collegiate football as a sport at Harvard."

This proposition will probably have the support of President Elliot and three other members of the corporation. That makes a majority of that body which has the right to prohibit any sport which is detrimental to the good name of the University.

No official vote has yet been taken to abolish the sport. It was thought better to wait until the Harvard-Yale game had been played.

FOOTBALL MAY BE ABOLISHED AT HARVARD.

at There is any Brutality in the Harvard-Yale Game—The Corporation May End the Sport.

BOSTON, Oct. 26.—The Advertiser today says: "If any exhibition of brutality or any disposition to 'knock out' players is seen at the Harvard-Yale game next month a proposition will be made in the Harvard corporation to abolish the present inter-collegiate football as a sport at Harvard."

This proposition will probably have the support of President Elliot and three other members of the corporation. That makes a majority of that body which has the right to prohibit any sport which is detrimental to the good name of the University.

No official vote has yet been taken to abolish the sport. It was thought better to wait until the Harvard-Yale game had been played.

The projects of the corporation so far as concerns any absolute prohibition of football are not known to the undergraduates. It has been felt best that any reform if worked out by the undergraduates should come willingly and not as the result of any threat.

Fruit Dealers Complain of Lack of Inspection—Worthless Apples Sold for Number Ones.

There is great dissatisfaction among fruit dealers over the apple trade in this city, both as regards the packing done in Nova Scotia and the inspection here.

E. A. Goodwin, who probably handles more apples for the local trade than any other dealer in the city, when seen by the Sun some time ago that he did not inspect the apples, but that his duty was to inspect the marking.

FUNERAL OF LATE
W. S. A. DOUGLAS

ST. STEPHEN, N. B., Oct. 25.—The funeral services of the late W. S. A.
Douglas were held this afternoon at his home on Elm street, and were conducted by Rev. Geo. M. Young, pastor of the Methodist church, assisted by Rev. A. J. Prosser, grand chaplain of the Orange Order. The procession to the cemetery was one of the largest ever seen here, all classes attending to pay a last tribute of respect.

The Orange Grand Lodge was represented by H. F. McLeod of Fredericton, grand master; N. J. Morrison of St. John, grand secretary; H. G. Woodman of Moncton, grand treasurer; W.
J. Clarke of Moncton, grand director of ceremonies; Rev. A. J. Prosser of St. John, grand chaplain; and R. Mowatt of McAdam, deputy grand secretary.

The procession was formed with the Maple Leaf Band in the lead, followed by Frontier Lodge, Court St. Stephen Orange Lodge, Orange grand officers and a detachment from Sussex lodge.
Over one hundred and fifty men were in line and over sixty trees. The pall-bearers were W. R. Hewitt, Edw.
Billman, Ira Brown, Bert Smith, Jas.
Murray and J. W. Scott. The services at the grave were deeply impressive, those of the Orange Order being conducted by the grand chaplain and grand master.

A RUNAWAY GIRL
The Pullard Lullation Opera Company will present their opening bill on Monday night at the York Theatre the popular musical comedy "A Runaway Girl." This will afford music lovers an opportunity to witness one of the best of London and New York successes ever presented in this line.
Originally produced at the Gaiety Theatre, London, it has since been produced at the Daly Theatre,
New York where it ran for 300 consecutive nights. The talented children are said to be at their best in this delicious comedy. It will be given the first three nights of the week. "The Belle of New York" will fill out the remainder of the week, Wednesday matinee "Billman" will be the bill, Saturday afternoon "The Lady Slave" is the offering.

The sale of seats is now on for the entire week.

INQUEST INTO CAUSE OF MARTIN FOLEY'S DEATH

An inquest was held into the cause of the death of Martin Foley, killed on the
I. C. R. early Sunday morning at Barnaby River, Monday, Thomas Gill being foreman of the jury, while F. J.
Desmond, M. D., conducted the inquiry.

After hearing the evidence of a number of witnesses, the jury retired and after deliberation, returned the following verdict:

"That the said Martin Foley came to his death on the morning of October 2nd, near Barnaby River station, by being struck by engine 313 of the north-going express. The said death being accidental.

"We, the jury, would recommend that more caution be taken to have headlights kept burning on all trains at night. And also that more caution be taken by railway employes in the running of specialties on the track, and only with proper authority from head officials."

The funeral took place from the late home of the deceased at Barnaby River and was largely attended. A special train from Chatham conveyed the C. M.
B. A., of which he was a member, and many citizens.

THANKSGIVING.

"Whereas it hath pleased Almighty God, in His great goodness to vouchsafe this year unto our Dominion of Canada a bountiful harvest and other blessings—"

So begins the vice-regal proclamation setting aside this day as a day of national thanksgiving.

"A bountiful harvest and other blessings!" How inadequate is the stereotyped phrase to describe what Canada has to be thankful for today. Never has the land been so fruitful. For three years neither drought nor flood has come between the fertile and willing earth and the country's capacious barns and granaries, which now are bursting with their rich and varied stores. As a consequence of this agricultural prosperity—the foundation of our wealth—our factories have increased and developed and our trade is growing at a rate unequaled by any other nation. New men have come and are coming, splendid new Canadians from across the Atlantic and from over the southern border in tens of thousands, bringing the material for a greater prosperity, and all who have come are sending back word that will bring hundreds of thousands more of Britons and Norwegians and Germans and Americans to the land which better deserves the name of the land of promise than any other on earth.

And as for "other blessings": No war nor pestilence has crossed our borders; no financial nor industrial panics have threatened our welfare; no great disasters of any kind have made us mourn.
We have seen our Dominion widened by the addition of two great provinces, each larger and richer in natural resources than many countries which rank as world powers. We have seen the signs of a general uprising of public sentiment against graft in high places.
We have witnessed the evidence of an awakening of the public conscience that means far more for Canada than crops and trade returns. And politically we have ground for thankfulness that throughout Canada there are signs of a growing independence, an increase in disregard for party shibboleths. In Ontario Liberals and Conservatives united last January to overthrow a corrupt government, and in the west this month Liberals and Conservatives are fighting shoulder to shoulder in defence of provincial rights. Nothing is more needed to insure good government in Canada than a growth of such an independent spirit among the electorate and for nothing should more fervently thanksgiving arise.

Altogether, whether he has turkey or codfish on his own table today, every Canadian has good reason to be glad that he is a Canadian and that he is living in this year of our Lord.

TOM LAWSON'S CHANGES.

Through Everybody's Magazine and in a circular which he is sending broadcast Thomas W. Lawson is exhorting gleefully and with characteristic Law-sonese self-praise over the recent insurance revelations. In a letter spotted with capital I's like a peacock's tail he claims the whole credit for all that has been done and promises greater things in the near future.

And, though Lawson's style is not that of the ideal reformer, it must be admitted that his self-congratulations are well-founded. It was a year ago, when the odor of sanctity still clung around the private offices of the great insurance companies that Lawson declared that "the officers, trustees, and officials of the 'Big Three' life insurance companies have been and are now squandering their policy-holders' money. They are grafters—mean, contemptible grafters." So extravagant did this and similar assertions seem at the time that the majority of the sober-minded laughed at the man who made them as an irresponsible mouthpiece. But when he backed up his general accusations with specific charges against leading insurance men, charges which if not true were rankly libellous, and when it was seen that the only answer from the accused was a storm of similar vituperation toward the accuser, the public began to think. Then came the quarrel among the Equitable graffers to crystallize the public opinion which Lawson created and the famous investigation followed. And now, besides the extorted confessions of men whose names stood for all that was honorable and reliable in insurance and general finance, what seemed crazily extravagant charges a year ago are seen to have been short of the truth.

Lawson says he has spent a million dollars so far in his campaign against "the system," and is prepared to spend two million dollars more, if necessary to place the grafters where they belong.
His next move, he announces, is to get hold of enough proxies from policyholders to give him control of the New York Life and Mutual Life, so that he may reorganize the companies and punish those who have criminally violated their trust.

What there is in all this for Lawson, dear knows. His previous reputation makes it hard to believe that he is acting, as he claims to be, solely in the public interest. But, whatever his motive, so long as he keeps on in this course, more power to him!

PRINCE AND ADMIRAL.

Besides his rank and his relationship to two of the world's greatest kings Prince Louis of Hattenburg has many claims upon the loyal welcome and cordial hospitality of the city of St.
John. Chief of these is his high position in that many whose protection—though, to our shame, we contribute nothing for its maintenance—we share equally with the rest of the Empire and of whose glorious history no pride is greater than ours. Then the worth of the man himself demands honor, for he is eminent in his profession and has earned his rear-admiral's pennant by hard work and proven ability. And the remembrance that Prince Louis was loved and trusted by Queen Victoria should add to the warmth of his greeting here and everywhere in the Empire he ruled so well.

GIVE THANKS.

O give thanks unto the Lord, for He is good, for His mercy endureth forever.

He turneth the wilderness into standing water and dry ground into water-springs.

And there He maketh the hungry to dwell, that they may prepare a city
for habitation;

He setteth His foot on high from affliction, and maketh him families like a flock.

Who is wise and will observe these things, even they shall understand the lovingkindness of the Lord.

Oh, that men would praise the Lord for His goodness and for His wonderful works to the children of men.

—Psalm 107.

NO MORE HANDSHAKES.

Dr. Valentine Malpasse (unpleasant name, Malpasse), a distinguished Paris physician, says it is dangerous to shake hands. Microbes. This is bitter news, indeed. When the news was spread over the world that in the circumstances might warrant, since the dread pronouncement avert kissing they have grasped each other's hands and tried by
the tightness and the tremor of the
manual squeeze to inspire the same emotions as the more honored salutation. Even in the crowded, amid sterilized air, kissing may have held some sway. But the only thing left for the public day-to-day use was holding hands. And now holding hands is barred.

Every one has noticed, doubtless,
that where people once fell on each other's necks or shoulders, according to their respective heights and imprinted rapturous kisses on each other's lips or foreheads, as the case and the circumstances might warrant, since the dread
pronouncement avert kissing they have
grasped each other's hands and tried by
the tightness and the tremor of the
manual squeeze to inspire the same
emotions as the more honored salutation. Even in the crowded, amid
sterilized air, kissing may have held
for the public day-to-day use was holding
hands. And now holding hands is barred.

DIAMOND ADVICE.

PUT YOUR MONEY INTO DIAMONDS.
Diamonds in your possession represent money—more money than you pay for them after you have worn them a while, for the Diamonds depreciating in value in necessary to choose wisely and pay the right prices when you make

REWARDED FOR SAVING SWANHILDA'S CREW.

Silver Medal for Hero of Heroic Rescue Two Years Ago Today—Presentation Made on the Street

To David Dobbins, of 89 Morris street, East Boston, formerly a member of the fishing schooner Fish Hawk, but now employed as a foreman of one of the gangs of men engaged in abolishing the grade crossings in East Boston, was Tuesday afternoon presented with a valuable silver medal by the British vice-consul at Boston, Mr. Wyndham.

Mr. Dobbins and his crew of workmen were employed yesterday at the Porter and Bremen street crossing of the New York Central railroad tracks, just before one o'clock, as the men were about to begin the afternoon's work.

Two other fishermen, Joseph King and Wm. Mansfield, were associated with Mr. Dobbins in the rescue of the crew of the Swanhilda. The vessel was leaking in the Bay of Fundy when it was rescued.

Brewster's Millions

Copyright, 1904, by Richard S. Stone & Company

By GEORGE BARR M'UTCHEON (RICHARD GREAVES)

SYNOPSIS OF PREVIOUS CHAPTERS.

Young Montgomery Brewster falls heir to $1,000,000, left him by his grandfather, Edwin Peter Brewster. He is confiding his good fortune to Peggy, his mother, with whom he has made his home when he receives word that his uncle James T. Sedgwick, a miserly old man, has died in Montana leaving him $7,000,000 on condition that on his 30th birthday, just one year away, he is absolutely penniless. The money is left in trust of a peculiar character, Swearingen Jones, of Montana, who makes several stipulations as to how the money shall be spent. He must take no one into his confidence, must not be more than ordinarily dissipated, nor give excessively to charity. Brewster starts to spend his money and is worried that he can't get rid of it fast enough.

He seeks the aid of a young society woman, Mrs. Dan DeMille, to help him entertain on a most elaborate scale which makes him the laughing stock of his friends who don't understand his predicament. He is fascinated by and proposes to Barbara Drew who gives him leave to try and win her on whom he lavishes his money. He gambles in stocks but has the ill luck to gain instead of lose and thus gains a reputation as a good business man. Many of his schemes for losing money fail, turning out to be money-makers instead. One bit of luck is the failure of a bank in which he had deposited $100,000. There is a run on the bank of which Barbara Drew's father is president.

Monty saves the situation by depositing a large sum of money. Monty is in the midst of a quarrel with Barbara and she accuses him of trying to buy her and the engagement is broken. A large fancy ball is next on the programme, but before it comes off Monty is seized with an attack of appendicitis and has to be taken to his old room at Mrs. Gray's. On his recovery he is ordered change of air. The last chapter sees him installed with the Grays in a cottage in St. Augustine which he has had fitted up. He has Barbara and her mother have taken rooms in the vicinity, and Peggy Gray tried to induce Monty to patch up the quarrel.

A heavy gloom settled upon Brewster's face, and the girl's heart dropped like lead. She had puzzled over the extravagance and wondered if by any effort of her own things could be set right. At times she had been as much to Monty as he had thought, but down underneath, the fear that he was unhappy seemed the only certain thing in life. She felt that she must make sure. And together with the very human desire to know the way, Monty's face Peggy seemed to read that for her marriage was the only way. Bravely she put it on.

"Monty, I forgot nothing that I really hope. But this is a case in which you are quite wrong. Where is your sporting blood? You have never fought a losing fight before, and you can't do it now. You have lost that nerve, Monty. Don't you see that this is the time for an aggressive campaign? Somehow she was self-asserting things at all as she had planned to say them, and his gloom weighed heavily upon her. "You don't mind, do you, Monty," she asked more softly, "this sort of thing from me? I know I ought not to interfere, but I've known you so long, and I hate to see things twisted by a very little mistake."

But Monty did not answer. He had no desire to talk about the thing anyway, and Peggy's anxiety to marry him off seemed a bit unnecessary. Manifestly her own interest in him was of the coldest. From out of the gloom he looked at her somewhat sullenly. For the moment she was thinking only of his pain, and her face said nothing. "Peggy," he exclaimed finally, "resenting the necessity of answering her, you don't in the least know what you are talking about. It is not at all a serious conviction."

"A conviction which can be changed," the girl broke in.

Peggy threw down her cards and escaped.

And there was much speculation upon the chances for a reconciliation. Monty, however, maintained a strict silence on the subject and refused to satisfy the curiosity of his friends. Mrs. Drew had brought down a small crowd, including two pretty Kentucky girls and a young Chicago millionaire. She lived well and sensibly and with none of the extravagance that characterized the cottage. Yet it was inhabitable that Brewster's guests should see her and join some of their riding parties. Monty pleaded that he was not well enough to be in these excursions, but neither he nor Barbara cared to overemphasize the estrangement.

Peggy Gray was in despair over Monty's attitude. She had been told by the lawyers had heard no complaint from Montana and advised him to continue as he had begun, assuring him as far as they could, that the money would not prove unobtainable. An exchange of telegrams just before his operation had renewed Monty's dread of his eccentric mentor.

New York, Jan. 6, 1905. Swearingen Jones, Butte, Mont., writes Brewster: "I have just received your letter of the 25th. I am glad to hear that you are well. I am sure you will be able to get on your feet again. I am sure you will be able to get on your feet again. I am sure you will be able to get on your feet again."

Barbara's only response was to touch her pony a little too sharply with the whip. Peggy went on as if unconscious of the challenge.

ty." Peggy still lived largely in her ideals. "And you are too fine a thing not to have suffered under this misunderstanding. It seems as if a very unusual word would get you both straight."

Barbara drew herself up and kept her eyes on the road, while white and gleaming in the sun. "I have not the least desire to be set straight," she said. "But it was only a word ago that you were engaged."

"I am sorry," answered Barbara, "that it should have been talked over so much. Mr. Brewster did ask me to marry him, but I never accepted. In fact, it was only his persistence that made me consider the matter at all. I did think about it. I confess that I rather liked him. But it was not long before I found him out."

"What do you mean?" And there was a flash in Peggy's eyes. "What has he done?" "By my certain knowledge he has spent more than $400,000 since last September. That is something, is it not? Miss Drew said in her slow, cool voice, "Peggy's loyalty admitted some justification in the criticism."

"Generosity has ceased to be a virtue," she said contemptuously. "It is sheer idocy. Haven't you heard the things people are saying? 'Naturally anything is preferable to a beggar,' came in Peggy's clear, soft voice."

Barbara hesitated only a moment. "Well, you must admit that Gray, that it shows a shameful lack of character. How could any girl be happy with a man like that? And, after all, one must look out for one's own fate."

"Undoubtedly," replied Peggy, but many thoughts were dashing through her mind.

FORTY YEARS JAIL FOR DRUNKENNESS.

Two-Thirds of the Life of William Sheridan, of Good Now Haven Family, Passed in Prison.

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 24.—In Cell No. 109, in the New Haven County Jail, a grey-haired man of sixty sits at the stone wall of a cell. It was a cheap lithograph, and the artist had crisscrossed the cheeks, poked a saucy dimple in the chin, and added other touches which would exaggerate the impression of youth and beauty. The old man's eyes dwelt on the features until he turned away with just the shadow of a sneer on his face. The girl had been twenty. Twice twenty years, almost, had the old man spent in jail. He had spent through young manhood, and now at sixty could recall practically nothing of the buoyancy, hopes and ambitions of youth.

It is definitely known that since May, 1878, a week is the longest time that he has enjoyed liberty. Usually it has been for only a day or two, and not infrequently only a few hours were spent away from his cell before he was returned.

He has served forty years for drunkenness. That was the most serious charge ever brought against him. Wm. Sheridan is his name, but it is well-nigh forgotten, except to the authorities. William Sheridan in his youth would probably tell you today that he is dead. The chances are he will end his days in Cell No. 109.

Sheridan started out in life with the fairest of chances. Birth, breeding, ample wealth and good association were all his. But because he is weak and would not turn the cup from his lips he has been worse than useless. For forty years of shame have not changed him. He still cherishes the name of his family—one of the best in Connecticut—holds himself somewhat aloof from other prisoners, and scrupulously dusts and sweeps the little cell which has come to be his home.

"Can a man be a drunkard who has spent as many years in jail as I have?" he asked to day. "Thousands of men who use liquor have within two years spent a greater total of days under its influence than I have spent in twenty years."

"They are out there. I am here. I am sentenced to a month, two months, six months, and liquor does not pass my lips. Yet, I am a drunkard. I serve my time, and when I get out I take a drop. Then back I come. It's been so long, and I'm old. I've been so long in the old man, employing the expletive more in characterization of his life than in disparagement of his own."

WHERE HALIBUT IS KING.

A Wonderful Fishing Enterprise on the Pacific Coast—One Company Paid $300,000 in Freight Last Year.

VICTORIA, Oct. 24.—The recent investigations by the Globe into the fish trade of eastern cities and the statements made by the dealers interviewed have a peculiar interest to British Columbians. The merits of British Columbia salmon are well known, and the public do not, therefore, require to be educated to its use. But there are several other fish species which abound in British Columbia waters, which, as the character becomes better known, will be of little less value than the salmon.

One of these varieties was mentioned by the Globe—the halibut. This fish differs from the prevailing varieties of salmon, inasmuch as it is very white, the flesh is dryer than the salmon, but by many it is preferred right above the fish mentioned. Its color is fatal to its use as a canning fish, and as British Columbia is too far from the centres of population to permit of its shipment without artificial means of preservation, it was for long a neglected asset. A few were caught for local consumption, but that was all.

TRAINLOADS OF HALIBUT.

This is now all being changed, owing largely to the activity of the New England Fish Company of Boston. This organization commenced its operations on the coast about six years ago, and have rapidly developed until now they have four steamers running out of Vancouver, which they make their home. The company have a special bonding arrangement with the Dominion government, which, since the profits of the business began to be made known, has been the subject of considerable protest from Canadian fishermen in the same lines. The company does not lead in the local market at all, but leads its own train, which take the fish to the coast of Alaska. However, the steamer do not find it necessary to go so far from their base for the fish, for they about in Hecate Straits and on entrance, off Port Simpson. (Here is an infant industry awaiting the location of the Grand Trunk Pacific terminal.)

WHERE THE FISHERY IS.

The fish frequent the banks or shoals which run out from shore, and hence the three-mile limit usually harbors the best schools. It was reported within this limit that the Keatley seized and confiscated a steam schooner from Seattle only the other day in Quatsno Sound. The grievance of the British Columbians, therefore, is that a foreign company is taking the fish from the coast and depriving same for transportation to a foreign market, and is doing so with charges alone over $200,000 in the year. They claim, moreover, that the New England Company is so strong that it practically stifles the halibut trade. On the other hand, it is argued that it is by no means certain that their catches are taken in Canadian waters, and that if such is not the case the only effect of withholding the bonding privilege would be to drive this fleet of fishing boats to the coast of the purchase of supplies, etc., out of Vancouver to Bellingham or to Fairhaven, British Columbia. There are three varieties, arrow-tooth, Monterey of Bastard, and the common variety, which is most frequently in use. The process of taking the fish is simple, and often as much as 100,000 pounds, which is a ship's load, is obtained in one day.

Nothing but green for Pat. Mrs. Flanagan—Here's an invitation to a pink tea Mrs. Haldie's giving. Sure and we'll have to go. Mr. Flanagan—It'll not a step until she changes the color of it.

THE DONALDSON AND FURNESS BOATS ARRIVE.

The Donaldson Liner Hestia, Captain Ferguson, and the Furness Liner St. John City, Captain Hovey, arrived at port this morning almost at the same time.

The Donaldson Liner has about 3,000 tons of cargo, mostly coal, and among other general cargo is two hundred tons of large iron pipe for the water service. Capt. Ferguson reports a very fine passage out from Glasgow, coming out in eleven days. The ship is docked at the Corporation wharf, where she will discharge.

The St. John City also had a good passage out from London and has on board about 1,500 tons of general cargo. She also docked at the Corporation wharf to discharge cargo.

The two steamers sighted each other off Halifax yesterday afternoon and were not within a couple of miles apart during the remainder of the voyage to Partridge Island. When the St. John City and Hestia came in view of each other the latter was ahead and the ships arrived in the harbor and docked in this manner.

FOTIS STORIS STILL IN JAIL.

There is one man among the fifty prisoners in the county jail who has pleased the court and officials considerably. He is Fotis Storis the demented Greek boot black. Sheriff Ritchie has been keeping the man in jail until he could get enough money to send him home to Greece. The man has been in custody since last June. Sheriff Ritchie has received $35 from the attorney general and $30 which belonged to the Greek. This is all the money he has in his possession for the purpose of deporting the Greek. John Martin another Greek has consented to accompany his fellow countryman home if his expenses are paid and the total cost will be about $175. The sheriff has been expecting that some of the charitable institutions would take care of the matter and add the unfortunate fellow to get back to his native land.

MELOD AND GARDINER MAY MEET.

The principals in the forthcoming Gardiner-Littlejohn bout, which takes place on Monday night, are attracting lots of attention among sporting men these days. Both men are training hard. Littlejohn is said to be getting into fine shape. Gardiner was a pretty fair shape when he came here, and has been training regularly since his arrival. Should Gardiner be successful in putting Littlejohn away on Monday night, it is probable that a match may be made between him and Beth McLeod. McLeod is said to be willing to box at 138 pounds, and Gardiner can make this weight easily.

SUCCESSOR TO MICHAEL KELLY.

At a meeting of the Longshoremen last night the election of Wm. Gillespie to the office of recording secretary in place of Michael J. Kelly, was one of the most important changes made in the election of officers. Mr. Kelly has held the position for some years and has been an efficient officer. Mr. Kelly was not at the meeting last night but he was nominated and defeated 136 votes to 85. The new recording secretary will assume his duties as soon as the next meeting is held a week from next Monday when the new officers will preside and an important feature of this meeting will be that the winter rate of wages will be made.

DE SOTO'S RECORD FOUND AFTER 300 YEARS.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Oct. 26—After more than three centuries record of the De Soto expedition has been found on the slope of Lone Haska, under a huge boulder where it has lain undisturbed. The record written on the skin of an antelope was found by Chester Gray, a farmer living on the shore of Lone Haska, which is the source of the Mississippi river. He will send the record to the Smithsonian Institution in Washington.

The record which is barely legible is dated August 9, 1547, and signed by Ferdinand Villena and Sancho Cuervo, members of the De Soto exploring party who in the letter say they have named the Lake whence arises the great river in which De Soto had been buried six years before. "Lake De Soto."

LOYALIST'S CITY WELCOME TO PRINCE.

rink this evening promises to be one of the most important social events ever held here, commencing at nine o'clock. At the reception the guests will be announced by Lieut. Smith of the 3rd R. C. A.

St. Andrew's rink tonight will probably make one of the handsomest sights ever seen in this city when the civic reception to the prince will take place. The booths from the Fair of Nations still blossom in all their glory and the last two or three days still further decorations have been added to the rink. In all the booths a number of chairs have been placed with cushions and cozy corners are in abundance. The pillars of the building are covered with spruce while the stove in the middle of the room is completely hidden in green. The linen which is 200 feet in length seems to be in splendid condition for dancing. In the Colonial booth, half way down the side of the rink, a pedestal has been arranged where the prince will receive his guests. Over this stand has been arranged a sign in electric lights, "Welcome Prince Louis." Across the hall there and will be stationed in the Domestic Science booth.

A very large number of guests are expected tonight and the rink will probably be thronged. The mayor and Mrs. White with Lieut. Governor Snowball on the right and Mrs. Snowball on the left will receive His Serene Highness. Who upon his arrival will take the centre of the group and receive the citizens of St. John. Upon the conclusion of the reception, dancing will take place.

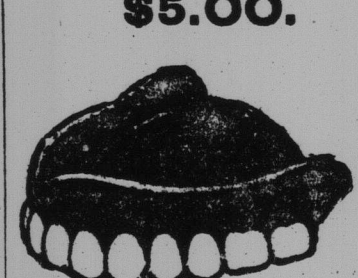

RAFFLES STORIES MADE MAN INSANE.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—"I am the mysterious Mr. Raffles." This has been the declaration made by Wm. Cohen, 37 years old, of 88 Broadway, and the man is so sure that New Yorkers have been searching for him for the past few weeks that his sanity will be inquired into.

Cohen was arraigned in the Manhattan avenue court this morning before Magistrate O'Reilly on a charge of carrying concealed weapons. The complainant against him was his uncle, Simon Munday, a wholesale tobacco dealer, of Mythe avenue and North Second street. Mr. Munday says Cohen threatened to shoot him unless he was given $5,000.

"What's the matter with this prisoner?" asked Magistrate O'Reilly. "He thinks he is the mysterious Mr. Raffles," said Cohen's brother. "His condition has been brought about by his reading accounts of 'Raffles' in an evening newspaper." "That's enough to drive any one insane," said the magistrate, who held Cohen for examination as to his sanity.
