FAMOUS FEATS.

Reynolds' Records World Beaters-His Second Appearance at the Princess Ice Palace.

Earle Reynolds, the skating champion, reappeared at the Princess Rink last night before an audience which was large, considering the weather. Reynolds gave another clever exhibition of fancy skating. His performance of the waltz and two-step on the ice was as graceful as it could well be on any waxed floor. Reynolds' spin at the conclusion of each exhibition was a feature and a feat particularly commented upon, and no doubt many ambitious young amateurs ham, diseased ham, so that even as ham and eggs the opposition policy is top, and drop like many who have attempted it before. Mr. Reynolds was unable, owing to the soft condition of story of a neighbor of his in Illinois record of 1:22, but instead gave several sprints. The Princess Rink is 194 feet long, or 64 yards. Reynolds went from one end to the other, standing start, in seven seconds the first time and 6 seconds the second time. The spectators cheered, and would have been satisfied to watch the performances of the unexcelled skater for hours.

Reynolds will, in all likelihood, appear here again on his return from the west. He leaves New York on Feb. 14 for London, England, where he has been engaged for two weeks at lan, of Toronto, famous in the rowing the Niagara Rink. From there he will chain of Amateur Oarsmen, to urge as follows: 100 yards, 8 2-5 seconds; him to secure United States crews for 220 yards, 16 1-5 seconds; 100 yards, straightaway, flying start, 7 seconds; quarter mile, 33 4-5 seconds; 500 yards, 38 3-5 seconds; half mile, 1:14 4-5. This latter was made in competition with were at this tournament, where he won 32 out of 35 events, and since that time has become famous. Those who failed to see Reynolds have missed the skating event of the season. He has been engaged to appear at the Charles River Park bicycle track at Boston on Decoration Day. Reynolds has posted a guarantee of $500 in the Police Gazette office, New York, to skate any man in the world a series of short sprints or fancy trick skating, dancing to count as points.

There is but little need to remind the medical reader of the far-reaching retwelve years ago, of instruments for intubation of the larynx. Through it he quickly achieved an international reputation; the previous fearful mor-tality from diphtheric croup was greatly reduced by one master-stroke, and thousands of fathers and mothers, whose children were thus snatched from death, arose and called him "blessed." He was permitted to live long enough to witness, not only the marvelous fruits of his painstaking and brilliant labor, but, to quote his own recent views, to see the operation of intubation almost superseded by the anti-toxin treatment. Stories in Illustration of the Hide and-Seek Platforms Adopted by Ontario Conservative Leaders.

That was an instructive and entertaining speech which Mr. J. S. Willison made at the recent Liberal demonstration in Toronto. He said, referring to the Ontario general elections: While we hear the clamor of the battle, it is hard to discover what the war is about. When we hear Sir Richard Cartwright we feel that in the field of federal affairs there are great ssues at stake, and that in the Parliament at Ottawa giants may contend with henor and dignity. But to what plane have the opponents of the government reduced political discussion in Ontario. (Laughter.) The session of the legislature just closed was one long pig-killing. (Laughter.) For ten years we had "no popery"; now it seems we are to have "no piggery." (Applause.) Four years ago we had the Eye-Opener; now I suppose we shall have the sty-opener. Four years ago we had the calf with the cough, and now we have the hog with the cholera, and it is interesting to speculate as to just how long it will take the opposition to get down to the mouse, or, as Emerson said of a New England road, to get into a squirrel track and run up a tree. Then, you will remember that four years ago we had eggs, and now when the eggs have got stale, quite stale, we have The one left is a male. story of a neighbor of his in Illinois who claimed to have discovered a preparation which could transform an old man into a young one, and have enough of the stuff left over to make a yellow dog. But there is not enough of genuine material to make a decent yellow dog in all the batch and bundle of charges that the opposition are leveling against the Liberal Government of Ontario in the contest on which we have just entered. Who can enumto the music of the "Wearing of the Green"; tomorrow keeping step the "Protestant Boys," filling the fife and tormenting the big drum. Yesterday aggressive American Populism, today unbending, petrified Toryism. Mayor W. G. Raymond, on behalf of the citizens, in a very happy style, welcomed the visitors to the city. Mr. W. B. Miller, of New York, gave an address on the "Ideal Association, and Why It Is Needed." The Brantford Y. M. C. A. had erect. ed in front of their hall a large evergreen arch across the street, over which was, "Y. M. C. A., Provincial Convention of Ontario and Quebec."

The weight of sleet and ice on the evergreens was very great, and the large arch collapsed in the morning, bringing with it the trolley wire and trolley pole. This for a short time blocked the street, but the debris was quickly removed. The Woman's Auxiliary of the association met in the basement of the Park Baptist Church. The address of welcome of Mrs. Henry Yeigh was read and responded to by the president, Mrs. Alexander.

Occurred. Toronto, Jan. 21.-In the John Eaton insurance case yesterday evidence was put in by the defense from John Eaton, saying he did not think there was any such amount of stock as was shown in the proofs of loss. Mr. Eaton stated that the days before the erate all the policies that the opposition have had in stock during the last future for him. He said he thought fire he had decided to leave the comthe estimate of stock lost at $278,000 was somewhat too large, but he had depended on the statement of the accountant. Further on Mr. Eaton said, in reference to these figures that he was ashamed to have signed the paper representing these figures as the loss by the fire. "I do not think," he said, "there was any such amount of stock as was shown in the proofs of loss." The case was then adjourned.

TRADES-UNION CASE.

Decided by Law Lords of the British

If a representative of a trades union, by threatening a strike, be instrumental in securing the dischare of employes objectionable to the union, is the union representative liable for damages? This is a question, after years of consideration and reconsideration by various judicial tribunals in England, to which the court of the House employed by the Glengall Iron Company to repair a ship, then lying in one of their docks. The boilermakers' Union thereupon objected, claiming that shipwrights must not work at iron works on an iron ship and that such work could only be done by members of their union. The union sent Allen, its delegate, to the Glengall Company, who told the manager that unless Flood and Taylor were discharged all members of the Boller-makers' Union in the employ of the company would be called out. result was that Flood and Taylor were discharged, and they brought suit for damages against Allen for maliclously procuring their dismissal. "The case was tried before a court and jury, and the latter awarded £20 damages to the plaintiffs, finding that the defendant had maliciousinduced the Glengall Company to discharge them. The case was carried through the various courts of law, Lord Chief Justice Russell himpeals in favor of the plaintiffs, until finally it was brought before the House of Lords. "That tribunal now reverses the decision of the lower courts, the majority of the lords holding that Allen's conduct did not amount to legal coercion and intimidation, and that the Glengall Company, in discharging Flood and Taylor followed the course committee and College Association was most conducive to their own interest. taken up by Mr. H. Smith and Mr. C. Consequently Allen was not liable for damages to the plaintiffs. "This case has been pending for sevself deciding in the high court of aperal years, and, owing to the fact that it raised a question never before determined by the courts, has excited more than usual interest among labor organizations."

ELECTROCUTED!

Instantaneous Death of a "Green" Lineman in Detroit.

Detroit, Jan. 21.-William G. Hillman a lineman, was electrocuted at the corner of Chene and Wight streets by coming in contact with a live wire. The accident occurred shortly after 4 clock while workmen were engaged in transferring a wire from one arm to another. Hillman mounted the pole. He rested on one of the arms, and reached out with his plyers to grasp the wire which was being transferred. His left wrist touched the live wire, and in an instant 1,000 volts of electricity coursed through his body. The shock had done its work so quickly that the wrist was burned half-way through on the inside. Not a drop of blood escaped, so thoroughly had the wound been cauterized. His right hand was badly burned and blistered. Death must have been instantaneous. Edward Haim heard Hillman's piercing scream. Hurriedly drawing on a pair of rubber gloves, he mounted the pole and started to free the victim, who was still breathing. Others came to his assistance with which was fastened around Hillman's body. It took considerable time to lower it to the ground, as three tiers of wires had to be avoided. The man was dead long before he reached the ground.

Lineman Edward Haim explains that Hillman's position on the pole, with the plyers in the right hand fastened to the ground wire he was about to transfer, and his left wrist resting across the live wire, formed a complete circuit, from which there was no escape from the current.

There was only a lad- trade generally will not at presder upon which to chimo to where the ent children lay sleeping. He ascended the fair business profit from the sale of

He grabbed three of the children in his arms and got them out into the cold air before they awoke. He left them there and rushed back for the other two. By the time he got there the bed was on fire and the flames had reached to the ladder surrounding it. He was sure he could not get them both down through without exposing their naked bodies to the flames, so he threw the older of the two out of the window. The other, a little girl of a year and a half old, he rolled in his shirt and

He was descending through the flames, when a burning board from the roof fell upon him, burning his face, neck and arms in a frightful manner, but he clung to his child and managed to get outside, though in doing so his feet and legs were fearfullly roasted. He knew that a short time in this cold weather, which was 28 degrees below zero, would freeze them stiff, so he rushed into the burning house and brought out two old horse blankets He then dug a hole in the snow with his arms, which were smarting from the terrible burns. Laying the blanket down, he huddled the children together, threw the other blanket over them

What an Independent Commission Found Out.

Home Talent Properly Encouraged and the Books Sold at Reasonable Rates is the Verdict.

The report of the commission appointed to inquire into the cost of school books will effectually dispose of the charges that these books are unnecessarily high in price and of small literary and educational value. It will be observed that this latter is a very recent addition to the indictment. The books have been before the public for about twelve years, and it is only now that it is discovered that the books our children have been studying are wholly without merit. The Globe very fairly infers that we are justified in concluding that this is a partisan discovery, and the opinions of the skilled educationists who gave evidence before the commission is more likely to be correct than those of the somewhat blased gentlemen of the opposition. The commission was appointed on the suggestion of the minister of education early in November last, and was composed of Judge Morgan, Mr. James Bain, librarian of the free library, and Mr. C. Blackett Robinson, president of the Westminster Publishing Company. The commissioners were charged to ascertain whether any reduction could be made in the price of school books fixed by the various agreements entered into between the minister of education and the publishers of the text books, having regard to such reasonable profits to the publishers and the trade as are warranted by ordinary business practices. They were also charged to inquire into the matter of royalties. The merits of the various books arose, of course, as abranch of the inquiry as to cost. The report of the commission, which was presented to the legislature at the late session, sets forth the steps taken to fulfill the duty laid on it, as follows: "We have called before us the various publishers under agreement with the government for publication of the text books now authorized for use, and used, in the public and high schools of Ontario, and have examined them and such of their employes having knowledge on the matter, upon oath, touching the several items of expenditure which go to make up the cost of publication of each text book from the time it leaves the author's hands until sold to the trade for retail to the public, which items of expense include the actual original cost in the preparation for and manufacture of the letterpress and illustration plates, map plates plates (this is called capital account, and the accuracy of the information afforded to us by the several publishers as to this item was verified by reference to the books of such publishers), the paper, the presswork, the binding and the cost of handling. We also examined, upon oath, various other expert witnesses, not in any way associated in business with any of the publishers, as to the quality and value of paper used in printing such text books, and as to the reasonable cost of presswork and binding, and the proper percentage to be charged for cost of hand-Thirty witnesses were examined at

These prices ber, firemen's rooms and opera hall, will soon be finished and ready for on with his five motheriess children in a cation when making a new agreement with his five motheriess children in a little two-room, story-and-a-haif house not far from Fort Kent, the mother price of the First Reader was left at with a funnel running up through the readers the commissioners conclude that, having regard to the paper, upstairs and Michaud slept below. One typography, illustrations and binding, "the retail prices now charged for the books is not excessive, and should not be reduced to any lower prices than those to which the minister of education has by the recent agreement reduced them, as the publishers and the prices realize more than a children lay sleeping. He ascended the land business prout from the sale of ladder and found the room filled with these books in connection with the smoke and the roof already burning other school books published by them." As to the literary merits of the textbooks, evidence was given by Prof. Alexander, of Toronto University; Prof. Clark, of Trinity University; Prof. Reynar, of Victoria University, and Chanceilor Wallace, of McMaster University. With respect to the readers, Prof. Clark said: "The readers at present in use are beautiful books, considering the price. . . Don't think there is much room for improvement. Don't think it possible to get a more suitable set of readers, and have based my information on many years' experience." With respect to the Irish readers, for which Col. Matheson has expressed his admiration, Prof. Clark says: "No one would think of using the Irish readers here now." Chancellor Wallace, in his evidence, said: "The public has nothing to complain of."

A similar finding is rendered in the case of almost all the other school books. One exception in the report is the First Latin Book, which now sells for $1. The price that has ruled since it was authorized has not been too high, the commissioners say, but at the close of 1898 the cost of the book should be reduced to 75 cents. Reduction in the price of High School Bookkeeping from 65 to 60 cents, in the Primary Latin Book from $1 to 75 cents, and in the Public School Geography from 75 incurred. In the case of McKay's High School Euclid, it was ascertained that published from imported plates and sold for 50 cents, the same book selling in the United States for $1. With regard to the royalty, it was ascertained that this is a matter of arrangement between the author and the publisher. We may be sure, therefore, that the author's rewards are not ex-It is feared that this child will die, as cessive. The general opinion expressed by witnesses was that a royalty is for various reasons the best way of remunerating the author for his labors. are better qualified than authors in any other country to produce suitable text books and to embody in them Canadian ideals. The development of a Canadian text book literature is a wise and judicious policy, which has been steadily pursued by the education department for many years, with the result that the youth of our schools have in their hands text books of certainly equal literary merit with and greater adaptability to our school needs, because more Canadian in tone than text book literature of outside authorship; an additional editional of literature of outside authorship; an additional advantage being that the large sum in royalties which was annually paid by the publishers to American and English authors is now kept at home, being paid to Canadians and assisting in the development of Canadian authorship and the building up of our own

An interesting portion of the report is that which shows that thirteen of the Ontario school books are used in schools of Manitoba, fourteen in the Northwest Territories, six in British Columbia, four in New Brunswick, seven in Quebec, and one in Nova Scotia. This is an undesigned but sincere tribute to their excellence. A detailed comparison of their cost with those in use in American states shows that without exception prices are greatly lower in Ontario. The following table of comparison with those in use in the state of New York will serve to show what is the universal rule wherever comparisons have been made: New York. Ontario.

The charge that the price of school books in Ontario has been too high is just as baseless as any other of the charges made by the op-

Speech. The Dominion Minister of Trade and ne to refer to the record of the w Government at Ottawa, he was ble to speak with satisfaction of the esults so far attained, and with the rongest hopefulness as to the future. fore the last general election, the atcry of the opponents of Sir Richard and his friends was that Liberal rule in the Dominion would mean ruin our trade-disaster to everyone. Sir lichard thus shows how the preachers "blue ruin" have had their progstications falsified: "For the fiscal year 1896 the exports Canada had attained the largest gure ever known. I find that in the were $109,915,000. In the fiscal year 1897, the first of Liberal administration, these exports had risen from $109,915,-900 to $123,933,000, all our own produce. ers.) The increase in the first year If Liberal rule is, as nearly as possible, 14,000,000, the greatest increase, so far that time ever taken place in the hismy memory serves, that had at ory of our commerce. I have a furstatement to submit, and I prefer hat these statements should speak for s. I have here a statement of the otal exports of our own products for he five months ending Nov. 30, 1897. for those five months our exports in 896-97 amounted to $60,739,000. In the irst five months of this present year our total exports were $74,896,000, being nother increase of $14,000,000 in the space of five months over the five onths of the other year. Liberals ire not greedy, and I think we may out down as an evidence that Liberal rule has not entirely destroyed the rosperity of Canada the fact that in eventeen months our exports had inreased by $28,000,000."

Since the new Administration at Otawa took power, it has been called n to settle questions of great importnce to the people. One that has been scussed is the construction of the row's Nest Pass Railway and the ent has been criticised because of its ections in that regard, and Sir Richted searching inquiry. He does not omplain of the action of those who sufficient reason for the action which has taken. The remarks of Sir ichard are worthy of earnest study: "The attack, I understand, was made on two grounds: First of all, because we added to the expenditure of public money. Next, for proposing that the sum of $3,000,000 should be expended to secure the construction of the Crow's Nest Pass Railway. We had obtained he most ample evidence, I think, that ver was laid before any government the existence of great mineral wealth in that part of the Province of British Columbia. We thought that we promoted this railroad we would dd very largely indeed to the annual he had always contended, that Canada come of the people of Canada. The experience of the construction of the Intercolonial Railway was not of such a nature, nor was it so satisfactory to the people, that they to the people in the Rocky Mountains. It was not clear that if we constructed an acceptance of railway 350 miles olated length of railway 350 miles ong in the Rocky Mountains we would duce a clamor both in the east and the west that we should continue the oad and practically construct a dupli-ate to the C. P. R. (Applause.) To action of miserable jacks in office rather than to the deliberate intention ray is quite enough for the people of canada. (Cheers.) I think the gov-rnment, therefore, had good grounds or aiding the road in the first place, d, secondly, for refusing to construct as a government road. (Applause.) am willing to wait for a few years in • full confidence that the course of tents will completely justify us in sking an expenditure which was like-to benefit the people of Canada at Surely he is an unreasonable man would condemn the Government er reflecting on this straightforward planation of the considerations which to its action.

Then the Dominion Ministers have their policy in regard to the new one critics, Sir Richard points out, he believed, wonderful as these discoveries and events had been, the greatest event was the fact that two-thirds of the English-speaking race found their homes on the continent of benediction.

Cal revolutions and scientific discoveries than occurred perhaps in the whole 2,000 years preceding it, and yet is the property of the property of the coveries and events had been, the greatest event was the fact that two-thirds of the English-speaking race found their homes on the continent of benediction.

Administration because it is striving to obtain a fair return from the great natural wealth of that country to repay the people for the expenditure they have been but to. The Minister of Trade and Commerce clearly shows the extraordinary difficulty of the situation with which the Government was tion with which the Government was of these parties, and what, under confronted. He savs:

"It became clear to us that we were threatened with an inroad of probably not less than 100,000 people from all quarters of the world; it became clear to us that we would have been cowards, that we would have shirked our responsibilities, if we had allowed these people to come into that country without making proper provision for the maintenance of the authority of the Dominion in that region. An attack has been made upon us because we have demanded a share of our own property in return for allowing these people, many of them aliens, whose laws do not afford equal privileges to Canadian miners, to engage in mining in that country. Let me tell you that we do not exact any unrighteous or unreasonable charge; all we ask is that they should pay a certain percentage of their gains into the Canadian treasury. I say that the gold is the property of the people at large. (Hear, hear.) say that a sound and wise system of political economy will insist upon the people of Canada getting a fair share of that gold. This is the entering in of a system which may lead to very good results, and which I hope to see applied further-that these great natural resources shall contribute to the general wealth of the country. (Applause.) Now, so far as the miners are concerned, I believe that they will receive in return a fair equivalent for all that we exact from them. They and their property will be protected by law, and in a region like this such protection is no small boon. They will be able under the regulations which we propose to introduce to escape usurious charges for the transmission of money to any portion of North America or to Great Britain that they may desire to send it, and in any case, if these regulations press unduly hard we will be prepared to modify them if such necessity is shown to exist. But we believe that the people of Canada have a very good right to share in this wealth. They will be put to a large expenditure, as I have said, for the purpose of maintaining their authority and law and order to protect these particular men, under those circumstances we should have entirely shirked our responsibility, that properly devolves upon any government, if we had neglected to take the action that we have taken to assert our authority there."

As to the disputed boundary and the administration of law in the territory of which the ownership is not yet settled, Sir Richard says:

"Whatever may have been the con- tle, the first and the only English coleduction of freight rates on the Canaall the dealings we have had with the the British flag. We are so far spect to this matter, we have found actions in that regard, and Sir Rich-ard says the subject was one that mer-disposed to act in a fair and courteous spirit towards us. Had we or had they listened to the suggestions of selfish attacked the scheme; but he submits troubles might have arisen. The difficulties are great enough as it is. There is no doubt that when we have an unsettled boundary question there is great difficulty in entering that country, but whenever we have come directly in contact with the government at Washington we have found them disposed to meet our suggestions in a fair and hon-

Turning to the consideration of the relations, political and commercial, that should exist between Canada and the United States, Sir Richard called attention to the new responsibilities that Canada has assumed towards the empire at large. He repeated what position in the British empire. He said that he had always contended threw upon Canada the undivided responsibility of maintaining peace and cepted this responsibility, she became In live stock and dead meat, and ham entitled to an active voice in all matters affecting imperial policy throughout North America and elsewhere. At last, the British Government has fully recognized the soundness of the so amply shown by the magnificent reception accorded to our friend and ceeding, Sir Richard says: "As Canadians we are proud of him, but the recognition of these rights and privileges brought with them very grave responsibilities on our part. Great Britain now recognized, as she ought always to have recognized, the important part that Canada had to play in the future of the empire. The people of Canada had it in their power to render very great services to the British empire, or they might without source of great anxiety and danger to the British empire. He did not pretend that there had been just grounds for irritation on the part of the people of Canada as against the people of the United States, or that that country had not sometimes displayed a spirit quite unworthy of so great a nation, of the government at Washington. Sir Richard recalled the circumstance that nearly a quarter of a century ago-in 1874—while discussing the subject with Lord Carnaryon, then secretary state for the colonies, he had said: 'If I were the colonial secretary of Great Britain I would inscribe before my chair the pregnant sentence, that "In 1900 the English-speaking people in North America will muster 80,000,000 strong." Twenty-four years ago that was a mere conjecture; today it is an accomplished fact, and in his judgment it was the greatest fact of the nineteenth century. It was a century which had been distinguished by many great events; it was a century which had witnessed the rise and fall of Napoleon, the downfall of his ne new. the rise of the German empire: / was a century which had witnesse far greater and more important mechanismeatry these circumstances, would I advise my fellow-countrymen to do? I advise them, first, to set to work to disabuse the minds of our Yankee neighbors of two pernicious delusions, first, that Canada cannot get along and prosper without the aid of the United States— (applause)—and secondly, that the peoof Canada are willing to barter their political birthright for any ma-terial advantages whatever. I am only repeating here, in the city of Toronto, the same words identically, verbatim, that I have uttered in cities in the United States-in Boston and New York. I told these gentlemen what I am prepared to repeat now, that Canada is prepared to give a full equivalent, dollar for dollar, for what she re-ceives from the United States, and that any trade arrangement that benefits 5,000,000 Canadians will benefit 10,-000,000 or 15,000,000 Americans quite as much and perhaps more; but one thing I do say, and it is that our people will do well to remember the great responsibility that rests upon them to the British empire, to do all that in them lies by honorable means to produce friendly relations between themselves and the people of the United States.' In a thrilling peroration, Sir Richard referred particularly to Canada's relations with the motherland. He said: "We all desire to be loyal to the mother country. But as a Canadian, I am bound to say, although it is a bit of political heresy, that as I read history, Britain owes quite as much to Canada as Canada owes to Britain. Britain is the greatest colonizing nation of modern times; she has more colonies than any other nation; she has acquired them in every way that it was possible to acquire them; but of all her colonies, we have the one of which It can be truly said that the fathers of that colony came here not seeking to better their condition, but moved and wholly by devotion to the British flag, and that colony is the province over which my honorable friend, Mr. Warburton (Premier of Prince Edward Island, who was present), so worthily presides. Our English friend, Mr. Rudyard Kipling, has perhaps prophesied more truly than he knew in some recent deliverances when he declared that

We had proved our faith in the heritage By more than the word of mouth; They that are wise may follow, Ere the world's war trumpet blows; But we, we are the first in the battle, Said our Lady of the Snows.'

the only British colony to show our faith in the heritage by making a substantial reduction in the duties on British goods, and John Bull has a very keen appreciation of business, and understands thoroughly how to draw the distinction between Tory promises and Liberal performances." (Cheers.)

In New Orleans, the other day, a man inherited a fortune and immediately became insane. We cannot too carefully avoid accepting legacies in a precipitate manner. The heirs of estates tied up in chancery have some advantage after all.

Mr. Whitney, the Opposition leader, has not a very exalted idea of Patrons and other independent electors. A short time since he described them as "a horde of political adventurers let comes too late.

"Canada Threatens the World." Under the above heading the London, England, Daily Mail says:

"It is not only in wheat that Canand bacon, in dairy products, and in fruit, she is steadily forging to the front, and, with her unmeasurable resources in each of these departments, she is obviously destined to take a leading part in the world's produc Considering that Canada has tions. only just begun her development in of these directions, statistics of her achievements are woefully miswill not, perhaps, be without value

Canada has been a trifle slow. She was handicapped for a long time. But, like a giant, she has recently been giving proofs of her strength and disposition to take advantage of it. Under our new preferential tariff, as is inour new preferential tariff, as is indicated by the figures given in our British contemporary, Canada is bound to forge ahead.

The nearly total eclipse of the sun, which is due tomorrow, will be visible over Europe, Asia and Africa. This is a case in which we in the new world in the slightest degree intending it, be a are discriminated against; but modern science has provided that by the agency of the cable we will know all about it within half an hour after its occurrence.

Prof. Dean strongly advocated Guelph as the next place of meeting.

Frank T. Shutt, chemist, experimental farm, Ottawa, spoke on "The farm well and its contents.' Mr. Shutt said that farmers did not realize the supreme importance of this question. Out of hundreds of samples of well water analyzed at Ottawa he found 50 per cent unfit for drinking purposes or for feeding stock. Too many wells were built near closets, pig pens, stables and other contaminating things, and water so tainted acted as a direct poison on the system, causing typhoid and other diseases. One contaminated well would communicate profit. It was to exterminate this causing typhoid and other diseases. One with all the wells in the neighborhood, through the soil. Mr. Gurler spoke on summer and winter creameries, and related a number of his own experiences. He answered a large number of questions very satisfactorily.

Prof. Robertson spoke on cold stor-age. The English, who were the chief buyers of our food products, were the most discriminating purchasers and consumers in the world. No people paid more for the best goods, or less for the poorest. It was necessary to land our goods there in the best condition. The market was the best in the world, taking $600,000,000 worth a tion was of the utmost importance. In conclusion Mr. Robertson read the text of a bill introduced in parliament by Mr. Parmalee, which he said would, f adopted, prevent rash speculation that would result in the maker getting far less for his goods than he should. This bill made it an offense for anyone to buy cheese before it was manufactured, and provided heavy penalties for its violation.

THURSDAY EVENING. A. W. Campbell, the Ontario good roads commissioner, was the first speaker of the evening. He said that want of system and a diversity of opinion among pathmasters existed now, and the roads were retrograding insession by an address on "How milk of statute labor and $3,500,000 of money is secreted and points to be observed were annually spent upon the roads of the province. In the last ten years $35,00,000 had been spent. The speaker hoped the day would come when there said that for this sum he would underwould be no colored cheese at all. By take to macadamize every foot of a proper selection of animals and by roadway in the province. The statute labor system, he said, was absurd. The pioneers, when they grubbed the stumps and graded the roads, did not oring matter. The coloring of milk ask, like the people of today, Where was a dirty practice. The primary will we get the money? The quality sand, which was usually dumped on the roads was condemned by the speaker. In soft weather the wagons churned this into ruts. There were three principles in road making-first, drainage; second, drainage; third, ter. The good roads question was of vital importance to the dairy interthose of any other country. Prof. Robertson spoke in his usual entertaining manner or dairy legislation. He first dwelt on the necessity of branding Canadian cheese so that English consumers would realize what cheese they were eating, and so enhance the reputation of the Canadian product. The speaker said that the middleman, who did his work conscientiously, was as essential a part of commerce as the producer and consumer. He drew a distinction between the legitimate and illegitimate speculator. The former bought cheese already manufactured at a certain price, in the hope of selling it at a higher profit. His whole interest was in raising prices so as to obtain a profit. The illegal specu-lator would offer to sell English firms August cheese in September for, say, 81/2 cents. This speculator put no money into cheese, but his whole interest was in keeping down the price so that he species of speculator that Mr. Parmalee's bill was introduced.

or to get good milk from unhealthy cows. Farmers, he urged, should sevent Canadians from short selling, but Mr. Robert Ballantyne said he did not cure a permanent and ample supply if it did, the short selling would be vent Canadians from short selling, but merely transferred to England. It was impossible to prevent short selling, as the cables could be sent in cipher. Prof. Robertson said the English importer would not buy goods in that manner when he knew the Canadian law was against it. Mr. Ballantyne said the English imimporters sold large quantities of cheese for future deliveries, and did not contract for them on this side at the nolly, Porter's Hill.

contract for them of sale.

Secretary Hately, Brantford, was opposed to the bill. The principle of selling short was just as honorable as the principle of buying and holding for higher prices. More money was lost by holding for higher prices than by selling short.

The speaker of the morning was Mr. In the same rate is steady at $1.0. Tallow is dull and easy. Local dealers are offering 3c for it, and ask-ing of butter from first to last. Some of the points he made were as follows: The quality of butter is decided by its flavor, body or grain, salt and finish. Flavor, which is the most important, is influenced by food period of lactation and bacteria. Even good food, if not wisely bacteria. Even good food, if not wisely fed, will make inferior flavor. Milk exposed in the stables to the odor of foods of strong flavor such as ensilage will absorb bad odors. The butter from cows long in milk is inclined to from cows long in milk is inclined to be tallowy. It is therefore important Leitch, seconded by Jas. Crawford, that farmers should have fresh cows coming in at all seasons.

He referred to the subject of Pasteurized cream and stated that its effect was to give the starter a clean of holding this convention. field for its action. The Pasteurization is almost necessary for winter bacteria. Its effect on the butter is 158 degrees, but if it goes above that it is apt to give a cooked flavor. Without a modern Pasteurizer a good effect may be obtained by heating it a little over 140 and holding it at that for over half an hour. He reviewed exhaustively the subjects of washing, salting and packing, which led to a useful discussion among the members. Some suggestions of practical value were made by Mr. H. B. Gurler, of De Kalb, Ill., who was afterwards interrogated by the members for some time. A lengthy discussion upon the question of how to obtain the proper body of butter for the export trade was in-troduced by Prof. Robertson, who strongly urged that to obtain the right quality the butter should be worked twice. Without this the proper waxiness would not be found in the butter a temperature of 50 degrees, and should drainage; second, drainage; third, drainage. A road required draining as much as any building. He would crown the road just enough to shed the water. The good roads question was of vital importance to the dairy interests. Within ten years, with vigorous application of proper principles, Canadian butter in point of quality ada's roads could be made equal to son also laid stress upon the fact that lish market, and it should take first place. Danish butter there brings 12 or 14 shillings per cwt more than the Canadian product, and the French article is considered worth 16 shillings more. Butter makers here should make an effort to capture this extra price and to do this the butter requires to some frogs (preferably A1 kickers) in improved in two things-waxiness and sweetness of flavor. Mr. Dugald Leach, warden of Middlesex county, said insufficient attention was paid to the kind of grass the cows ate and to the general care of the cows. He vigorously pointed out the necessity of beginning with the farmers to bring about the production of a better class of butter. If cows were good and the grass good, butter would be good; otherwise it would not But the trouble was to induce the farmers to take a proper care of their eattle. While cheese association meetings were of great benefit to the makers, they had no effect on the farmers, who, as a class, would not attend them, and they were the very men that should be reached first. Mr. Leach was warmly applauded.

BROWN CAME BACK.

Well Known Vag Sent Down for . Twenty Days.

Edward Brown apparently has an innate love for police proceedings and prison life. He was brought before Magistrate Parke this merning as a drunken vag, and was remanded until Tuesday next. Brown is the man who, while drunk a short time ago, fell through the plate glass window in Trafford's furniture store. In October, 1893. Brown was convicted of stealing in this city, and sentenced to three menths in the Central Prison. John Campbell, a companion vag, was remanded for a week.

Thomas Murray, an old offender, was sent down to exercise himself at Gov. Boston's wood pile for 20 days in default of a $2 fine. Joseph Mitcheltree, charged with furious driving, failed to appear, and the case was enlarged. F. A. Going was charged with infraction of a city bylaw, but was allowed to go.

were last August sent to the Klondike by the Presbyterian board of home missions. A letter has just been received by Mr. D. J. McMillan, corresponding secretary of the board, from the world, taking $600,000,000 worth a year of products that Canada could grow better than any other country in the world. Canada supplied only $40,-000,000 worth of this. The Americans could not live one year and pay their debts but for the British market. FRIGHTEN D TO DEATH. Room and DI d from Shock, Woodstock, Ont., Jan. 21.-Mrs. Geo. Douglas, an old lady residing at 44 Bexley street, died suddenly and under somewhat peculiar circumstances. The cause of death was congestion of the lungs, produced, the doctor says, by sell. a tright received on Tuesday. On that day Mrs. Douglas was in bed upWest Peterboro, opened his campaign smoke coming into her room. Although in a weak condition she got out of bed, but before proceeding far fell to the floor, where she was found in a helpess condition. Dr. McLay arrived in the meantime, and discovered an incipient blaze in one of the rooms which the domestic had evidently not seen. Mrs. Douglas never rallied from the shock.

HONEST SWEDEN.

In Sweden a crime is an event. Theft particularly is very rare. Honesty is the fundamental quality of the race, is naturally recognized and officially counted upon. In this respect the Stockholmers show a confident carelessness which is always a surprise to strangers and causes them some uneasiness. In theaters and concert halls there are large cloak rooms, where hats and furs are left without the smallest safeguard. The performance over, each one again takes possession of his effects, nor does an "accident" ever accur. The inhabitants are accustomed to expect a reciprocal probity in the transactions of every-day life. nost of the tramways in Stockholm onductors have been dispensed with. The passenger himself deposits ten ore n a till placed at the end of the vehicle, behind the driver.-New York Herald.

THE COLOR OF FLOWERS. Following Darwin, nothing has been held by evolutionists as more conclusively settled, than that the color of flowers is owing to the "survival of the fittest." In other words, the bright-colored flower attracted the fertilizing bee, and so it lived, while others, by natural process, died out. Having become accidentally attractive, they won in the struggle for existence. And now comes the more patient and accurate observer to remind us that the brightest flowers in all the world live far above the range of the bee or its congeners, like the Alpine gentian or the Rocky Mountain forget-me-not. second principle of the evolutionist is that the vigor and variety of flowers is due to their constant cross-fertilization by the flitting of insects from bloom to bloom; but now comes the later student to show that the bee or moth may flit, but each flits from corolla to corolla upon the same stalk before going further. Cross-fertilization, when it takes place, is the rare exception, and not the rule. Some of our half-baked naturalists who have laid their Bibles away had better get them down again. The soundest scholars still spell nature with a small "n" and God with a large "G."-Interior. PERTINENT QUERIES.

-The Central rink hockey club have been granted the use of the rink for a benefit on Friday night for special purposes. -Mrs. W. D. Hodgson, of Fargo, N. D., is spending the winter with her sister, Mrs. Rolston, 420 York street, city. -Albert Joyce, who was seriously hurt in the city hall accident, has been removed home from the hospital. He is still in a critical condition.

-Mr. and Mrs. James Duffield and Mr. and Mrs. R. K. Cowan gave a driving party to their many friends last evening. They went out to St. Johns. -Rev. R. W. Hobbs, of the Askin Street Methodist Church, will address an afternoon and evening meeting of the Epworth League at Woodham today. -Squire McLeod, of Caradoc, gave an interesting lecture at Delaware last night on the "Matrimonial Side of Man," under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid of the Methodist Church.

-Messrs. Robert and George Booth, of Toledo, are in the city, to attend the funeral of their father, the late George Booth, of the G. T. R., who was buried this afternoon. Mrs. Robert Booth is also here.

-Messrs. S. O'Brien, of Fanshawe, John Downing, of Maguire, and J. Graham, of Bellwood, all former students at the London Collegiate Institute, were successful at the recent examinations (final) at the Normal College, Hamilton. -The funeral of the late Mrs. Johns,

53 Clarence street, took place today. Mrs. Johns was an estimable lady, 72 years of age. Her husband predeceased her, and she leaves no family. The relatives will have much sympathy in their double bereavement, the brother of Mrs. Johns, Mr. J. J. Spettigue, having died only a short time ago. -Miss Johnston, city, left on Wednesday for New York, whence she sails

Alliance of New York. Her parents live at Varna, Ont., and she came to this city with a set purpose of securing an opportunity to become a missionary. This she found through the Christian Workers.

-Walter Cook, a young butcher, of Arkona, was arraigned before Judge Edward Elliott this morning on the charge of obtaining $13 from John Robertson, of Strathroy, on Jan. 10. Cook is alleged to have sold three horse hides (which are much heavier and less valuable than cow hides) to Mr. Robertson in the dark, for cow hides. Cook pleaded not guilty, and was remanded until Tuesday for trial.

THE INDUSTRIAL BROTHERHOOD The last meeting of Local Directory, No. 1, Industrial Brotherhood, was largely attended and a large amount of business was transacted. A rearrangement of the dues was voted. Hereafter the monthly payments for members who already belong to trade unions will be 10 cents per month. Other members will pay 15 cents as at present, while members who may be placed at work in co-operative institutions managed by the order will contribute 25 cents per month. The question of the amalgamation of social reform forces was discussed, and it was decided that the local council would support the same. A large number of letters from various localities were read, all favoring the new move. One from the secretary of the Hamilton Trades and Labor Council stated that they had appointed a committee and had been authorized to prepare a circular for submission to the various labor organizations throughout reformers would be present to hear an address from the general secretarytreasurer of the Industrial Brother-A large number of candidates will be initiated at the next meeting. While booming the new movement the brotherhood will not relax its energy n the work of organizing.

+++++++++++++++++++++ CITY HALL NOTES.

Some time ago Ben Johnson, a contractor, was selected by the Conservative aldermen for the position of street commissioner, which Mr. R. Ironside, assistant city engineer, has filled satisfactorily for the past three years. Mr. Ironside is a Conservative, but the complaint against him is that he has not been loud-mouthed and aggressive enough in the party's interests. A committee has also been appointed by the board of works to ascertain if Mr. Ashbridge's services can be dispensed with. Mr. Ashbridge has been assistant engineer on sewerage construction, and is one of the cleverest men in his profession in the province. His work on the city sewerage plans has been perfect, and has amply justified his appointment by the board of health. Whether he is still required is a matter for the committee to de-

Such an old and faithful Conservative as ex-Ald. Skinner hardly deserves the treatment that he has been subjected to by the Conservatives of the council. He has been wounded in the house of his friends. They refused to re-elect him to the board of health, though the Liberal members were unanimously for him. They also declined to reappoint him on the sewerage committee, where, with Dr. Cl. T. Campbell, he did good work last year. The majority of the board of works last night resolved to run the sewerage business themselves, without the aid of expert non-members.

The strong advocacy of a new city hall by Mayor Wilson and some of his colleagues has led to a discussion of plans, sites and other details. Ald. Carrothers suggests Victoria Park as the site, but it is doubtful if people would consent to have their beautiful and popular resort diminished in area and disfigured by a large building—disfigured, because the rear of the hall would necessarily face the park. Another city hall authority thinks the adjoining land now occupied by St. James' Church would be an excellent place-central and pretty. This is contingent upon the willingness of the church managers to sell the property. The corner of Richmond and Fullarton streets, upon which the Western Hotel is built, is also spoken of. The mayor figures out that the new hall could be built without additional taxation. He estimates that the present hall would bring $45,000, and that the county would contribute another $20,000 for the joint use of the new building, though it is known they have ample for China. The young lady will go to to mission work, through the Christian Alliance of New York. Her parents room in their present quarters. A $65, think the present headquarters, properly repaired, are quite sufficient for many years. The city council will likely express an opinion scon; but if taxation is required to build a new hall it will be for the ratepayers to decide.

Ald. Cooper has the wish of his heart a chairmanship. He has been appointed to preside over the sewerage mittee as a solatium for being denied the chairmanship of the board of works, which he expected to get, but which went to Ald. Douglass. In view of this he will probably revoke his decision not to sit under Ald. Douglass, whose right to the position he challenged in the council.

Up to the time of going to press no more employes have been discharged to make room for Conservative hench-Live Stock Markets.

But there were troubles ahead. On the 21st of November, one of the lodgers came home filled with whisky. Although candles were worth $1 50 apiece, he lighted one, and then kicked it over. The building was BURNED TO THE GROUND." The pluck of the missionaries had aroused the enthusiasm of the miners, however, and gold was forthcoming in paying quantities. Mr. Young argued for and won the observance of Sunday in the camp, and the "opera house," which had been used for other purposes on that day, is now the church. The missionaries have started a young people's society of Christian Endeavor and a branch of the Y. M. C. A.

On and on, while the sun slowly neared the water. On and or, until it for three hours at least. set, and Royden breathed a sigh of relief, for the path had reached the shore at last. He paused one moment, and gave a look around him-first over the fading sea; then up the dark, precipitous cliffs, then higher still, beyond the fading sunset streaks. When that moment's pause was over, leaning forward in his saddle, he pressed his knees against his horse's flanks, and dashed along that treacherous road beside the

Once or twice the young horse faltered in his pace; and once or twice he slipped, and would have fallen but for the strong restraining hand upon the rein; but still he made his way bravely under the frowning rocks.

'On, good fellow, on!' Now with caresses, now with strokes, did Royden urge him, while the tide rose and rose. That bay was reached at last of whose danger, at the flowing of the tide, he had told Lady Somerson and Honore, as they stood at that window looking down upon the spot. Ah. It was so near home! It almost felt like having reached home, to have reached this well known spot, on which the windows of the Towers looked. But it was two miles across the bay, and the tide was rising, and a mist gliding northward from the sea, and slowly shrouding horse and rider in its chilling, darkening embrace. But for an instant, just before it reached them, Royden strained his eyes to see the farther limits of the bay, and-ah! yes, the waters lay seething there, falling back a little, and glistening for a moment, then darkly lifting themselves in their power, and swaying broad and deep across the only way which lay before this solitary horseman. Royden's hand fell gently on horse's foaming neck, and for a moment his eyes fell, too, resting from that gaze which had pierced the gathering darkness. There is no passage before us.

cliffs rose precipitous from the beach, and Royden saw that any hope of passing them was vain, while the sound of the waters, nearing the horse's hurrying feet, grew literally deafening in its horrible portent Brave and strenuous efforts did the young horse make as Royden led him backward and forward in this vain and futile search; but the pace grew slower-into a walk at last; while the tide rose and rose. So swiftly waters rushed in at last, sweeping over that wide crescent, hidden in the mist, that in one second, as it seemed, norse and rider stood surrounded in the flood-

Then the frightened animal started wildly on his own career, galloping backward and forward, to left and right, without aim or motive; racing to and fro in the very madness of his panic, as he tried to escape the grasp of the hungry waters; racing to and fro, until at last, quite suddenly, he stopped in his wild gallop, stood trembling for a moment, with his eyes wild and strained, while the waves broke under his raised head, then, with a ery that was almost human in its anguish, he threw his head back, and Royden knew that he alone lived in that rush of rising waters, and that his only chance of safety was to cling to his dead companion. At first the effort to keep his seat engrossed all his energies, but gradually that tension relaxed, while now he held one hand upon the breast of his coat, guarding that lately-won paper in its grip. Dreamily, with a consciousness of utter helplessness, which was almost a relief after his restless, feverish exertion, he floated on the sur-face of the tide, recalling brokenly, as one sometimes recalls a dream, how one man, years ago, carrying an infant in his arms, had been drowned within this bay; languidly wondering over the exact spot, and morbidly trying to imagine the scene. Then there came into his mind—still softly and vaguely—the story of a wreck upon this coast, and, looking out to sea, he tried to guess the spot where the ship had foundered, and wished that he could float far out to sea, and fall just there. One minute he was piercing the misty darkness with his eyes, and calculat-

The Teutonic and Majestic he had fought with his terrible suffering and weakness, when one day the slow afternoon train, passing through Westleigh, deposited at that Leepy little station, two passengers, who had a more engrossed and businesslike air than the generality of people who halted at that rural spot. They gave their tickets to the solitary porter without a glance toward him, and they walked from the station together without a glance beyond the few yards of dusty lane which lay before them. One was a man of middle age, broadly built and well-dressed, but having the air of one who did not too fully comprehend the aim he had in view, or the way in which that aim should be pursued, The other was a small and wiry perbound, and on what mission bent.

Free Trial To Any Honest Man

The Foremost Medical Company in the World in the Cure of Weak Men Makes this Offer.

HEALTH AND ENERGY ASSURED. HAPPY MARRIAGE, GOOD TEMPER, LONG LIFE.

In all the world to-day—in all the history of the world—no doctor nor institution has treated and restored so many men as has the famed ERIE MEDICAL CO. of Buffalo, N. Y.

This is due to the fact that the company controls some inventions and discoveries which have no equal in the whole realm of medical science.

So much deception has been practiced in advertising that this grand old company now for the first time makes this startling offer:

They will send their costly and magically effective appliance and a whole month's course of restorative remedies, positively on trial without expense to any honest and reliable man!

Not a dollar need be advanced—not a penny paid—till results are known to and acknowledged by the patient.

The Eric Medical Company's appliance and remedies have been talked about and written about all over the world, till every man has heard of them.

Remarkable Achievements of the White Star Line.

Famous Vessels That Have Held Sway

on the Atlantic in Its Interest.

[Liverpool Post, Jan. 1.] It has been truly said that "those projects which abridge distance have done most for the civilization and happiness of our race." It is abundantly evident that to the development of railways and steamships, with the elecnication, during the past century, and especially during the second half of it, turbed the sleeping household, and, by bringing widely separated people with hands that were delicate then, if into easy and rapid intercourse, is at-

Great Britain is entitled to a large the world's material prosperity. Watt and Stephenson with railways, Brunell, steamships, Wheatstone and Gooch with land telegraphs and submarine telegraphy, showed the way to the rest of the world.

Liverpool also must not be denied the part she has played in all these enterprises. It was to connect Liverpool with Manchester that the first railway passenger line was constructed, a sad memento of which is preserved in the monument which stands in Canning Place to Mr. Huskisson, one of the directors, who, unfortunately, met with his death by the first train which passed over the line. Liverpool has always been in possession of the largest and swiftest of the ocean steamships of the world, and has led the way in improvements both in accommodation and

In the Oceanic, the pioneer steamden Keith rose from that long and ship of the White Star Line, which comdeath-like swoon, and, neglecting his menced running in 1871, an improvesore need of rest, returned to London ment was introduced by placing the only two days after he had been saloon and first-class passenger quarters amidships, which was so universally approved that all the principal steamship lines of the world have since were designed as the first twin screw mail and passenger steamships for the Atlantic service, and since they came out all the great passenger steamship lines have gone in for building twin screw steamers.

The new Oceanic, now building by Messrs. Harland & Wolff for the White Star Line, will also, no doubt, embody some new ideas. But if for nothing else, she will be remarkable for her exceptional size. This vessel will be by several thousand tons larger than any other steamship either built or building. She will be 704 feet in extreme length (13 feet longer than the Great Eastern), and her tonnage will exceed 17,000 tons.

the White Star Line in 1874, and the Germanic in 1875. The latter, re-engined and re-boilered in 1895, and with passenger quarters remodeled on the plan of the Teutonic and Majestic, has gained both in speed and popularity. The former continues to perform her work with the same regularity which has always characterized her. On her last voyage, which ended with her ar-rival in the Mersey yesterday, after a passage which occupied only seven days and eight hours, despite heavy weather, she completed her 250th round voyage to and from New York, and her 500th passage across the Atlantic. This means that she has traveled a distance of 250 times 6,200 nautical miles, or more than 1,750,000 statute miles, without a renewal of engines or boilers, a performance doubtless without parallel in the history of steam navigation. She has carried 57,400 saloon passengers, and 165,500 steerage passengers; under steam 114,000 hours, and 106,800 hours under weigh. She has consumed 513,-000 tons of coal, and her engines have made 350,000,000 revolutions. So that the Britannic has well done her part in abridging distance and promoting the civilization and happiness of the peoples on both sides of the Atlantic; and it is matter for sincere regret that Sir Edward Harland was not spared to witness the excellent work which con-

Port Pierce, Fla., Jan. 20.-Misstoe, a small hamlet about fifteen miles up the country, is almost depopulated on account of a lot of snakes that visited the place last week. The place had about 50 settlers and did a flourishing trade with the back country. Day before yesterday four families moved here and reported that all the others here and reported that all the others had gone to other places, as the snakes had driven them out entirely. The town is located on narrow ground hetween two narrow grounds between two narrow creeks. Last week the people noticed the presence of many snakes in the streets, and in one day over 50 were killed, including rattlers, black snakes, moccasins and coachwhips. The next day the snakes began increasing, coming in from the river and the lowlands around. They finally got so bad that the people did not care to go out at night.

The second day John King awoke in the morning to find the floor of his kitchen and sitting-room fairly alive with the hissing reptiles. King and his wife jumped out of the window and escaped. They found their neighbors in the same plight, as the snakes were everywhere. The men of the town began shooting at them and fighting with hoes and clubs, but after a day's fight they gave it up. Finally a big bonfire was built in the middle of the town. The tubes passed freely up and down the opening, which convinced the physicians that the thimble could not be in the oesophagus.

this was the passing of a flexible steel tube down the oesophagus. Dr. Black inserted the tube, while Dr. Smith watched it go down from behind the back of the body. At the first experiment the tube seemed to go through the thimble (the thimble being an open top one), but by shifting the body a position was obtained in which the steel tube, it was seen, passed clearly outside the thimble, thus proving that the thimble was not in the oesophagus. The length of the steel tube inserted also determined the distance of the thimble below the mouth. It was located at the bifurcation of the windpipe, about two and a half inches below the larynx. The location was exactly determined by means of the rays and the steel tube experiment. Next morning, at the Charlotte Medical and Surgical Institute, an operation was performed by Dr C enheimer, assisted by Drs. R. L. Gib-

Meeting of the 1898 Board of Works.

Chairman Douglass in Charge of the Committee,

But Ald, Carrothers Virtually Governs-A Busy Session.

Ald. Cooper Made Chairman of the Special Sewer Committee-Inspectors Appointed.

The board of works for 1896 held their first meeting last night, and discussed many matters, consisting chiefly of those referred by last year's council to the new board. There were present all the members: Ald. Douglass (chairman), Carrothers, Belton, Greenlees, and Cooper, the mayor, Engineer Graydon and Secretary Bell.

A communication from the engineer, in reference to the contract for the construction of the Princess avenue sewer by the late Crawford Beckett, informed the committee that with the consent of the chairman and some of the members, he had relieved Mrs. Beckett of liability, and also that the deposit check had been refunded. The letter also stated Mrs. Beckett wished to be relieved of the contract by Beckett & Wade for a relieving wall at the foot of King street. She wishes no responsibility in the matter.

Ald. Cooper and Ald. Greenlees pointed out that such irregular proceedings would have been inexcusable, excepting under the existing circumstances, but on motion of the former, the action of the engineer was confirmed. As to relieving Mrs. Beckett of responsibility in the King street contract by Beckett & Wade, the matter was laid over until Mr. Wade may be nterviewed.

The contract for the Princess avenue sewer was awarded to Messrs. Harding & Leathorn, their figure, $555, and 3 cents for side drains, having been the second lowest tender, and about $30 higher than Mr. Beckett's. Harding & Leathorn were also given the contract for side drains on John street, formerly awarded to Mr. Beckett. The engineer asked that several in-the instruments destroyed, and one trustees, Thomas McDonald, James that was required almost daily. Ald. Cooper suggested that Mr.Graydon buy a new transit for l s in which the fair asked how much it would cost. Mr Graydon replied about $250. The engineer was empowered to procure what instruments and furniture were needed, at the city's expense. The council will be recommended to confirm the action of the city engineer in his demands that the street railway company improve their service on Dundas street.

The recommendation in the mayor's inaugural address that the streets in West London be numbered was referred to the engineer to report upon. Mr. Graydon said it was unfortunate that East London and South London were not properly numbered, and he suggested that the whole city be renumbered. This suggestion did not meet with favor on the part of the commit-

The bylaw introduced last year, providing that all side drains be put in by corporation labor was discussed, but was not favorably considered by the committee and was filed. Ald. Belton contended that the citizens would be unable to tell what a connection would cost if the bylaw were enforced. Mr. W. Anthistle asked for part payment of about $300 on his contract for tiling Carling's Creek, but as the engineer has not inspected the work the request was laid over until the engineer's report is submitted.

The petitions for the opening of Marshall street to Lyle and Evergreen and Riverview avenues to Wharncliffe road, were left over until after the estimates are made for the year. Dr. Hutchinson, the medical health officer, reported that the closets at the rear of the police station were in an unsanitary condition, and could not be repaired. Referred to the police com

Mr. A. Keenleyside complained of two-plank walk on Inkerman street, saying that it was in a dangerous condition. The engineer was instructed to notify the contractors, Messrs. Kernohan, Webster & Ferguson, of the complaint, with a view to having it remedied. A statement in Mr. Keenleyside's letter to the effect that a man could not walk upon a single plank was greeted by the committee with prolonged

Ald. Cooper called attention to the fact that the two men, Bright and Heavey, in charge of the stone crusher, were on the pay roll. He asked the engineer when the crusher had been put away for the winter. The engineer said: 'Some time in November." "Well, what have these men been paid for?" said Ald. Cooper. "Their names have been on the pay roll ever since, and what have they been do-Mr. Graydon replied that the street commissioner had asked to have the men take the crusher apart and clean it, and he (the engineer) had ordered it to be done. No reference was made to the previous pay rolls, nor was it stated when the engineer's orders had been given. It was suggested that a report from the engineer be obtained, and Ald. Cooper moved that the names of the two men be struck off. The Mayor-What's the use of getting a report if they are to be paid? Ald. Cooper-Just to see. It was decided to get a report from the engineer, and after passing the remainder of the accounts the meeting

as the special sewer committee.

THE SEWER COMMITTEE. The minutes of the last meeting in 1897 were read by the secretary, who handed the book to Ald. Douglass, then occupying the chair as chairman of the board of works. "Are the minutes correct?" asked Ald. Douglass. "So far as I know," said Ald. Greenlees, laughingly. Ald. Douglass was about to sign the minute book when Ald. Carrothers moved that Ald. Cooper be appointed chairman. "I second it," said Ald. Dreaney, and Ald. Cooper and Ald. Douglass changed places.

The engineer reported that in 37 gullies connected with the new sewers the pockets were too small, and that they should be changed. The cost would be about $600. Laid over. A communication from Oakley & Holmes, contractors, asked that an extension of time be allowed them. Filed, as the work has been completed. The engineer asked for instructions as to when to notify Contractor Brown to start work on the north branch sewer. Now that Oakley & Holmes had completed the Talbot and Mill hardship on the contractor to order him to start at once. Ald. Greenlees believed in doing justice to both contractor and laboring men.

The engineer was instructed to ascertain from Mr. Brown when he would be willing to start. Ald. Cooper suggested the advisa-bility of cutting down expenses in the engineer's department, and as a result of the discussion that followed, Ald. Belton and the chairman, on motion of Ald. Douglass, were instructed to ascertain whether Engineer Ashbridge's services were longer required or not. Mr. Ashbridge draws $100 a month, and it was said that now that the plans for the new sewers are all out his work would soon be finished. The appointment of two inspectors for the work to be done by Contractor Brown occupied some time. The applicants voted on were Messrs. John Bryan, John Fleming, Charles Buskard, Bryan, John Fleming, Charles Buskard, W. Taylor, W. J. Nutkins, R. Parsons, James Hardey, Henry Kerr, S. Davis, Sam Baker, J. Short, W. Toll and Jas. Wallace. On the last vote the choice was between Messrs. Baker and Buskard, and the former received a majority. If the work should be begun in two sections, which is not at all unlikely, Mr. Buskard will act as inspector on the second.

Objection was made to the accounts of two inspectors who are getting $2 50 a day, and are at present on tile work. The regular price for brickwork is $2 50, and tile work, $2. The engineer was ordered to report. Ben Johnson was appointed inspector of the John street work to be done by Harding & Leathorn, and J. Fleming is inspector for the Princess avenue job. Both jobs will be started at once.
