London welcomed Gen. Sir Arthur Currie at a luncheon tendered by Take Two Held On Murder the Canadian Club in the Masonic Hall today. Sir Arthur said that he regarded their welcome as a tribute to the Canadian forces, and commended a number of Londoners and men of Middlesex who had distinguished themselves. "Now, the war is over, but I won't go so far as to say that the enemy has received a deathblow. The Germans are an unrepentant people, and I believe that there is still a German menace.

"Ninety per cent of the heads of the soviet government of Russia are Germans, and their agents are still active everywhere. There are agents in London, Ontario, whose names I know." Probably no Canadian or representative of any part of the Empire or other nation has been given so enthusiastic a welcome as the commander of Canada's forces was accorded by the city today.

BIG TRADE INCREASES.

London, Sept. S.—The board of trade figures for August show that imports increased £38.552.000, and exports increased £31.251.000. The principal increases in imports were £19.000,000 in good, £5.000,000 in wool, and £30.00. To show you the gallantry of our men, I will tell you of the heroism of our gunners and stretcher-bearers on that occasion. It is impossible for a man laying a gun to see clearly through a gas mask, and when carrying wounded it is difficult to avoid jolting them if one has not the full use of his sight. The gunners and stretcher-bearers therefore worked with their masks off through all that engagement. They took chances of death rather than let down their pals in the front-line trenches. One Thousand Veterans Gather in Front of Toronto City Hall and Demand That They Be Granted $2,000 Gratuity by Government—Some of Men Urge Drastic Measures, Others Counsel Calmness.

Toronto, Sept. 8 .- Demanding $2,000 war service gratuity, about 1.000 returned soldiers gathered in front of the city hall at noon today, following an unsuccessful attempt to see Mayor Church, who is in Lon don. The mass meeting was addressed by a number of returned men who advocated a series of demonstrations with the idea of enlisting the sympathy of the general public.

Protests were directed in the main to the failure of Sir Robert Borden to appoint a commission to co-operate with the G. W. V. A. regarding the matter of war service gratuities. Speakers urged the men to avoid riotous disturbances, but declared that men prominent in political and commercial life should be forced to state their views in regard to the increased sum for returned men. Those who are not in accord with the soldiers will have their names "printed on doors and telegraph posts throughout the town."

Further meetings will be held today, and it is expected that the arena will be secured for a monster demonstration in the near future.

In fact, it is anticipated that the matter will be brought up in the Commons at the earliest opportunity. There was a meeting of the soldier members of the House from both sides this morning, at which there were present members of the Dominion executive, including Col. Purney, president, and Messrs. Maxwell and MacNeil, first vice-president and secretary, respectfully. At this conference the whole matter was threshed out.

The veterans declare that their demands under the circumstances are not unreasonable, so far as they can see. If they are usreasonable they believe it is for an independent commission, divorced from political considerations, to declare them to be so. The financial conditions of the country are advanced as an excuse for refusing further aid, but the returned men declare that the only available statement regarding the real financial conditions of the country is contained in the budget, which is necessarily a party document.

"We bow before the prowess of the Allied nations, but the names of our glorious army and of the victories it won have formed a record which will be remembered forever. But most prominent among those who fought for the cause of freedom and liberty will be the names of the boys who sacrificed their lives. We bow our heads in humblest reverence in memory of those thousands of gallant heroes. They died not only for their King and country, and in the cause of justice and freedom, but also for God. To General Sir Arthur Currie, Sir,-in addressing you, the directors of the Western Fair desire, at the outset, to speak of the honor we esteem it to have secured so distinguished a personage as your good self to open our 1919 exhibition, and lend the influence of your attendance toward making it a success. Yet our pleasure in having you perform this office is only a small part of what we feel today, and would, if possible, express to you. Chief among these is the unbounded admiration of a citizen

CRY DIRECTORS LAWN DANCING

Ancient Pastime On Greensward Is Revived in Old Milwaukee.

Milwaukee, Sept. 6.-Philas, greatest culptor of olden Greece, was tried for mbezzling gold leaf with which he oiled one of his well-known statues. Which was almost unfortunate, but he fact remains that he it was who perpetuated, in marble, the forms divine perpetuated, in marble, the forms divine which flourished during his period of existence and which resulted as an addiction on the part of the Grecian masses to the ancient and honorable Athenian sport of classic dancing.

And lo and behold if modern Milwaukeeans aren't going in for the same sort of exercise. The girls are all tripping the green sward attired in gossamer draperies, and even some of the men have gone in for the innovation.

Just Like That.

Some of those who should know claim that this is a conversation that will be apt to be heard here in the near future. First Tired Businessman—Oh, Hector, did you bring down your tunit this apt to be heard here in the near future. First Tired Businessman—Oh, Hector, did you bring down your tunic this morning? Let's go to the Country Club and have a little dance.

Second Tired Businessman—Yes, I have it, right here in my vest pocket, and, by the by, don't you think the old links make a dandy gamboling green?

It's a good and manly sport, too, this classic dancing. Physicians say so and who should be bester able to decide.

"Why, the other night out at the Blue Mound Country Club," said Dr. George C. Ruhland, commissioner of health, "it struck me, as some dancers were going through their graceful movements, scantily clad and with bare feet, that here was a pastime that should be encouraged, a revival of an ancient art that would make for the development of better physiques and should therefore be accorded dignified, place.

"We are rapidly becoming a race of Mat-footed people, and this would serve as a cure and preventive. Besides the exercises, the exposure of a great part of the body's surface, to the air is fine. It makes for healthy circulation and for a prompt reaction when the skin is subjected to severe climatic changes.

But to get back to the main track-But to get back to the main track—Milwaukee is bowing at the shrine of a new art. It is taking up with a practice that flourished at a time when Greece was in the noblest period of its ultracivilization. It is realizing that in perfection of form lies purity of thought. It is searching out the ideal beauty that lies behind the realittes of nature. How long is it going to practice; how long lies behind the realities of nature. How long is it going to practice; how long is it going to realize; how long is it going to search? Not till decadence overtakes it as in that other dancing town, not Milwaukee, that may be banked on.

But-a young barrister, Robert Evans, proposed to her and was accepted, while she was still 19, in spite of the fact that it is a penal offence to marry a ward in chancery without the court's sanction. The couple were quietly married in a registrar's office; and, though Evans was arrested and tried for the offence, he got a purely nominal term and became quite a hero, for, naturally, no stigma attached to such a sentence or offence.

The marriage was a very happy one, and, though the heiress had to give up her $2,500,000, Evans, who was a briefless barrister at the time of the marriage, succeeded so well that he himself amassed a respectable fortune.

THE trend of automobile engineering points to the 8-cylinder car. And good buying judgment points to Oldsmobile.

We aimed higher than simply pioneering the "eight." We aimed to produce one of moderate price and low maintenance costs,

-that had the flexibility, smoothness and abundance of power inherent in the 8-cylinder car.

-that cost as little to buy and operate as the majority of "sixes" and many "fours."

-that would be smartly distinctive, yet characteristically Oldsmobile.

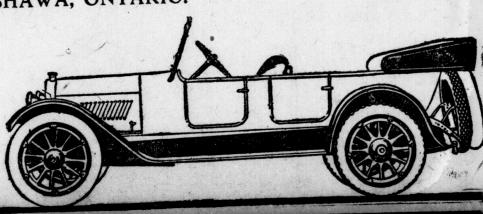

Our aim is attained in the "THOROBRED"the only popular priced "eight" in which mechanical excellence is combined with rare riding comfort and up-to-the-minute body lines. Oldsmobiles have been the historymakers of motordom; the "THOROBRED" is well worthy to perpetuate the name.

Descriptive literature will be sent upon request, or a demonstration gladly arranged.

The plant in reserve must be ample, not only to meet ordinary growth, but to take care of unforeseen development such as the opening of a new car line, the cutting through of a new street, the location of a new ndustry in a given district.

During the war, through scarcity of material and skilled labor, our reserve plant was depleted as never before. Even necessary maintenance work had to be

Our problem now is, while keeping up with the demand for new telephones, moves, etc., to get our reserve plant back where it should be and to overtake vital maintenance and repairs so that service may be at the highest standard.

Installations from January 1st to June 30th were 36,716 instruments, with 20,341 take-outs, a net gain of more than double the same period last year.

The task of getting back to normal while growth is so rapid is a difficult one. Our chief concern is that subscribers should get the best possible service under all conditions and to this end we are doing our ulmost.

The Soldiers Want Justice

There is always suspicion of a colored gentleman somewhere in the woodpile when the Government starts out to make itself a good ngs contain exhibits from the surrounding fellow, and while Canada cannot do too much ountry which would prove an inspiration to for the returned soldiers it is doubtful if the soldiers themselves will applaud the proposal to extend the gratuity for another six months and add another $150,000,000 to the public debt.

The first gratuity was granted in order to give the men an opportunity to rest up after their arduous campaigns, to get their feet firmly under them, so to speak, in whatever calling they proposed to follow, and to give the Government a chance to make permanent arrangements for their welfare. The Government was caught unprepared when the armistice was signed and the granting of another six months' gratuity is acknowledgement that it is still unprepared or else it is a bald bid for the soldiers' support in the elections which are not far off.

Without doubt there are hundreds of soldiers who should receive additional gratuities and increased pensions. There are hundreds of them who are crippled for life, unable to earn a living and who are trying to get along on inadequate pensions. Whatever is done for these and for other deserving men should not be in the form of gratuities, but in the form of permanent assistance.

The soldiers as a body are not satisfied with the way they have been treated. Discarding the framework of the top to the attic, she carefully fastened the mirror, crosswise, to the wall, directly above the chest of drawers which had formed part of the bureau. And with the help of a little furniture polish and some bits of chintz, she soon had an artistic and modern-looking dressing table.

When Mary came home she was delighted, and declared she would fix up. Sister Jean's room in the same way. And as the wood in Jean's furniture is rather shabby, she added the brilliant suggestion that she paint it an lvory shade and put dainty rose hangings on the windows. Mother's ingenuity had only set the ball rolling, and Mary was ten times happier than if the most expensive bedreom suite had been given to her as a present.

NEW SUIT COATS VARY IN LENGTH.

NEW COIFFURES ARE VERY SIMPLE, SAYS LOCAL HAIRDRESSER

Instructive Talk Is Given To Y. W. C. A. Industrial

"The newest coffures are characterized by simplicity," declared Miss Donerty, hair-dresser of the Smallman & Ingiam Store, speaking before a meeting of the Y. W. C. A. Industrial Clubs on Saturday night. "The old earbobs have gone entirely out of fashion, aithough there is yet a tendency to cover the ears in the latest mair-dressing." The speaker showed some of the newst styles of hairdressing as designed by the House of Rickart & Wenzel of Chicago, one of the best establishments on the continent, and gave a practical demonstration of hairdressing and shampoo, using the girls as models.

Origin of Ear-Bobs.

Origin of Ear-Bobs. A day in the shops among the latest suit models would reveal the fact that the skirts are not any fuller, and most of them are plain. So greatly do the coats vary in length that every woman may choose the length that is most becoming, and still very time to the speaker referred to the origin of the well-known ear-bobs, showing a picture of the Hopi Indian lady with very evident bobs. "These bobs," declared the speaker, "proclaim that she is still unmarried. After marrying she will wear her hair down her pack."

lady with very evident bobs. "These bobs," declared the speaker, "proclaim that she is still unmarried. After marrying she will wear her hair down her back."

Referring to the proper way of dressing the hair, Miss Doherty said that a woman with a long face should wear her hair flat on top and built out at the sides, while the round-faced lady could pile it on top.

Knot at Back Becoming.

"Usually the most becoming style for a young girl is one which rolls softly back from the forehead, with part or without, and is caught in a knot at the back of the neck. The girl with straight hair has a greater trial than her curly-headed sister, and often the curling-irons may be used to advantage in the production of soft, wide waves. It must be remembered, however, that some types look best with straight hair, and any attempt to tamper with their hair is not an improvement. When waving hair, the waves should be soft and wide to be most attractive.

A Defective Side?

"Every girl should study her face until she has decided which side is the defective side, and then try to dress her hair so as to lessen that defect. A slight droop of the hair over the forehead on the defective side gives a decidedly better effect than if the hair were dropped over the good side, exposing the other.

"The hair should be brushed twice daily, particularly at night, with a stiff-bristled brush, to remove all the foreign matter from the scalp. To comb the tangles out of the hair, comb from underneath the hair. This will be found less painful than combing from the top.

In waving the hair, the waves directly above the ears should be curled up and those higher up on the head should be curved downwards. When inserting combs in the hair always place them in a bias position to insure a pretty appearance. Hair should be singed at the ends about once in three months, when the ends become dry and split.

Miss Doherty, in putting the hair up, ties it at the back with a small strand of itself, which she leaves out of the big switch for the purpose. Then, speaker, and then use enough of the shampoo liquid to make a good lather. Two soap suds should be used, and three if the hair is very oily. The water with which the head is washed should be slightly warmer than lukewarm, and the rinse water only a little cooler. The hair is nicer if cold water is not used.

Cleanse Scalp Often.

"Every scalp should be cleansed at least once in ten days or two weeks. If the hair is very dry this period between washings may perhaps extend to three weeks or one month, but not longer. Frequent washing will not injure oily hair and tends to keep it free from excess oil. Washing the hair should be done systematically and with a view to keeping the scalp in a healthy condition. In case of illness the hair is one of the first things to suffer, as might be seen in the recent "flu" epidemic."

Unless Matchmaker Al. Werbe is foresighted enough to provide his patrons with shoehorns when Pete Herman and Jack Sharkey meet in the Roller Palace rink under the auspices of the National Sporting club, September 15, it is going to be a task to handle the throns.

Despite the fact that the little boxers are not scheduled to duck under the ropes for nearly a week, the demand for reservations has been so great that it is a foregone conclusion even now that the stadium will be jammed to the limit. There is a reason for it, however. Sharkey's decisive whipping of Jabez White in the opening show, when he won the right to oppose the bantam king, and the fact that a champion will appear in action in Detroit for the first time in 15 years furnish the inspiration.

None Looks for Up-Set.

None looks for the dethronement of the present title-holder, neither does he believe Herman capable of stopping his challenger. But it is agreed that if Sharkey can achieve the same measure of success against Herman that marked his attack on White, Herman might have reason to feel that he was favored by the achieves the match with Herman that he would attest his worth as a serious contender for the laurel wreath of the midget class. KALAMAZOO HAS GOOD PROSPECTS FOR GRID TEAM

Coach Fleugal Possesses Abundance of Material, Combining Speed and Weight on Line.

Kalamazoo, Mich., Sept. 8 .- When Kalamazoo Central high's football outfit is sent up to the front line trenches for the opening battle with Jackson at Jackson, September 20, the White and Maroon cause will be strengthened by the return of a elevens two or three years ago before they joined the colors. The three men, Knight, Tobey Campbell and Fred McAllister, were in the lineup again when the team had its first practice on the local gridiron Monday afternoon.

McAllister, who has just returned from two years' service overseas, is a comeback from the great team of 1916, when it comes to hitting the line and booting the pigskin, he is the equal of Kipke, the Lansing star, while on the defensive he is easily the superior of the capital star, while on the defensive he is easily the superior of the capital city man. Campbell, besides acquiring a croix de guerre in France, took on 30 pounds of avoirdupois, all solid muscle. Knight strayed back from Great Lakes where he attracted the attention of Coach Alcott.

The aggregation returned from a few days' preliminary training at Wall Lake with brighter prospects for lining up a championship eleven than ever. Coach Fleugal has an abundance of speed to mix with his heavy linesmen. Spurgeon and Wheeler look best for the end positions, but they are being crowded by Beerstecher, Morley, Evans and Vanderburg. Ex-captain Rudel Miller is certain to land in his old position at left tackle and the center. The aggregation returned from post has already been given to "Wild Irish" Bill Linihan, but the filling of the guard positions is going to be a puzzler for the teams mentor. Jagers, Polaskey, Westgate and Martin are the likeliest hopefuls, Hugh King, McAllister and Harold Taylor are certainties for the backfield.

The team will fight its first battle on alien soil, going to Jackson. The Coldwater game, which had been scheduled for September 20, will be played in Coldwater on the following Saturday. On October 4 Fleugal's men will invale Lansing.

Ruth got his twenty-sixth four-baser off Thormahlen, in the eighth inning of the first game of a double header, both parts of which were won by the Red Sox, thus aiding Detroit, which was idling, to gain a game on the club that it is being chased by. The hit came with no one on, and was driven into the right field stand.

Ruth Crippled, But Hits.

Scores of the Boston double victory were 3 to 1 and 3 to 6. In the third inning of the first game Ruth crashed into the left field fence in catching a difficult foul from Fewster. The compact knocked him down and injured his right elbow. He was out of the game for five minutes.

Detroit Makes Protest.

Word was received from Ban Johnson that the Detroit club pro-tested the second game of the dou-bleheader on the ground that it was a game transferred to New York from Boston. Under the league con-stitution one team can prevent the transferring of games from one city to another.

New York has no more games scheduled in Boston, where two games were prevented by rain when the Yankees were scheduled to play there last week. Detroit now probably will withdraw its protest, since Strong talk of a city series be-tween the two New York clubs is being made. The idea finds much favor with the Yankee players. The Yankee colonels, Rupert and Huston, are strong for it.

It would be hard to determine which of the clubs is the most disappointed over the loss of the championship. The Ford exhibit in the Automobile Building is creating a great deal of attention on account of the additional features shown on the cars this year. Here you will see the latest models, equipped with electric starting and lighting systems, and other added refinements.

No doubt after you looked at the automobile exhibit last year you said, "Some day I will have a Ford." You know the pleasure and service your Ford=own=ing friends have had from their cars, and, perhaps, you have enjoyed some of it with them.

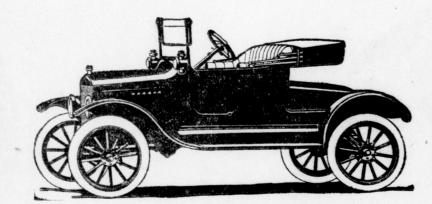

Consciously and unconsciously you have been sizing up motor cars, looking them over, and each year you have noted the line of motor cars in the city has increased, and you have noticed also that the majority of these cars are Fords. Have you wondered why? Well, it is because they meet the requirements of the greatest number of people in both the city and country—that is the answer.

So with its added refinements the Ford car must now appeal to you more strongly than ever. So step into your favorite Ford model at the Fair, try the starter, and we know you will be convinced that the Ford Car is the best buy on the market today.

Examine some of the descriptive literature—take it with you, and, if you wish, our salesmen will very gladly take your order for any car model or truck. Before you buy a car, think of the service you will be able to get on that car in the future. Germany Still a Menace

It is well that statements like that made by Sir Arthur Currie at the Canadian Club luncheon yesterday be given proper publicity that people will not forget too soon the character of the hydra-headed Hun. "The Germans," said General Currie, "are an unrepentant people, and I believe that there is still a German menace. Ninety per cent of the heads of the Soviet Government of Russia are Germans, and their agents are still active everywhere. There are agents in London, Ontario, whose names I know.

That London, Ontario, a small, placid, inland city, should be the scene of operations of German agents, with the war over, with the attention of tion and visions of many years of peace, is startling information which should sink deeply into the intelligence of her citizens. George Etienne Cartier

In the life story of Sir George Etienne Cartier, a monument to whom was unveiled by cable by King George on Saturday, there is a sharp rebuke for Canadians who today are attempting to promote discord between the two dominant races in the country. Cartier was born in 1814. The war prevented the observance of his centennial at the proper time, but coming five years late it is to be hoped that the event may prove an influence in submerging the evil propagnada which has been conducted against French-Canadians during recent months and which for a time threatened to untie the bonds of confederation for which the spansible.

Mr. J. H. Sinclair of Guysboro, speaking in the fluence of Commons, suggested that the mine the first profilerer prosecuted. The federation, leader of the Province of Quebee in confederation and first minister of militia in the united country. His devotion to Canada and the mother country was expressed repeatedly in speeches, excerpts from which are inscribed on the memorial erected on the mountain overlooking Montreal. "We are of different races not for strife, but to work together for the common welfare," appears on the base of the monument. Bronze figures representing the provinces in confederation are linked together by a ribbon hearing the inscription: "The defence of the flags must earn of this group is an extract from a speech dependence of the bases of confederation." The rebellion in which Cartier participated was the militant protest nexation manifesto containing the following:

ourselves urgently bound to protest publicly and solemnly against the opinion enunciated in that document.

At a great banquet in Montreal where he spoke on the issue of confederation he uttered words which showed his sublime faith in the fairmindedness of the people of both Upper and Lower Canada and his willingness to leave all issues to them. He said:

If we present to the legislatures of the provinces and the Imperial Government a project carrying with it the creation of a general government it will be our duty equally to protect all races and to safeguard the interests of each of them. If we succeed we wil I am told that in Lower Canada there exists a strong opposition to this project be cause the English-speaking population will find itself at the mercy of the French population. Why, I answer, should the English born in Lower Canada yield to such arguments? Let them reflect that if the French have a majority in the Provincial Government, they will in their turn be in a large minority in the Federal Government. The French population in confiding their interests to a Federal Government gives proof of confidence in our English English that they should rely on the liberality and the spirit of justice of the French race in the local government? In any case, I do not hesitate to proclaim that I will never suffer as long as I am a minister of the crown an injustice being done under the constitution, or otherwise, to my countrymen, whether English or Catholics.

Without Cartier's influence confederation would have failed. He brought it about by conveying to the people of Quebec his own confidence that they would receive nothing but a square deal from the English-speaking people. Except for the work of a few troublesome agitators and unscrupulous politicians that confidence has not been misplaced. May the unveiling of his method.

WHEN BILLY ITCHED. By Will T. Ames.

"Sanderson says if you'll draw a dia gram of that story on your desk he' have the new high school cub rewrite it. You're sure going strong with the old man, Itchy."

"Oh, you go chase yourself!" Billy Harbury wash't very much stronger on repartee than he was in the construction of his laboriously written news stories. But there was considerable feeling in the glange that he bent on the grinning Jones, the city hall man. There was no need of Jones piling it on. Billy was sensitive enough about his failing, and the blue-penciled message scrawled across the whole first page of the "copy" on his desk—"R-e-w-r-i-t-e!!"—required no interpretation by outsiders.

"Re-ew-r-i-t-e!"—required no interpretation by outsiders.

Harbury's nickname alone would have served to spoil a worse temper than his. "Itchy." Somehow suggestive of indifference to the cleanliness next to godliness, of some kind of personal, physical taint, of a slum origin, it was a deuce of a name, Billy often thought, to have wished onto a fresh-faced, immaculate, daily bathed boy who had been brought up in a good home and never forgotten the ways thereof!

But one day, in the first weeks of his cubdom, Billy had dug up a peach of a story along the docks about a schooner then in port which turned out to have had a most amazing but authentic history of blockade running, gun smuggling and the like. and the like.
Billy wrote the story, and therein he

[Special to The Advertiser.]
TORONTO, Sept. 7.—Five thousand returned soldiers met in the Queen's Park this afternoon to form what will be known as a gratuity league. The meeting was hurriedly arranged on Saturday, when it was learned that the Government had refused to meet a delegation which would lay before it the necessity of an additional gratuity for returned men.

with two exceptions the several speakers were individuals who beconged to none of the existing soldiers' organizations. longed to none of the existing soldiers organizations. At times feeling ran high and the speakers took occasion to warn the public that if riots broke out this winter the Government would be at fault and not the returned soldiers.

J. Harry Flynn, an instructor in the local high school of commerce, was the chief speaker. After advising the returned men to banish all controversies that they might win public sympathy, he told the meeting that "if the appeals are not answered let us take it by force." Mr. Flynn is teaching returned soldiers undergoing training under the D. S. C. R.

"We will proceed to the advertisers and ask them as friends of the returned men to withdraw their advertising. We will boycott the paper. We will stop it's publication," deciared Mr. will stop it's publication," declared Mr. Flynn.

After pointing out that the returned men could not compete with men who had not gone overseas. Flynn declared it was necessary to have the $2,000 that this difference might be made up. It would not bankrupt the country for 560,000 men would be enabled to become producers of wealth, and as for the amount to be returned to the Government it would be only $100 in taxes, according to his estimate.

The Reason Why.

The Reason Why. Then came the attack on the Clobe red the threat. He expressed the minon that the reason why the returned man had not obtained the grant, and that the Government had refused hearing to the delegation was be-

"First let us form an organization, then let us make a peaceful demand, and if it is not answered I say let us take it by force," said Flynn as the meeting chorused its approval.

A large squad of police attended the meeting under Deputy Chief Constable Robert Geddes. The meeting was called through a small placard pasted on a pole at the corner of Queen and Yonge streets on Saturday night.

COBLENZ, Saturday, Sept. 6.—Private Reass Madsen, of Sacramento, Calif., was shot and instantly killed yesterday by German soldiers in the neutral zone about a mile from the boundary of the Coblenz bridehead. ago. Jack McAllister announced at that time that H. R. C. would play. Since then, however, there has been talk of the amalgamation of the oarsmen. This is still indefinite. Parkdale Canoe Club and Capitals paid their fees on Saturday for senior teams. It was decided to call a meeting of the senior clubs for next Thurday night. If Hamilton comes in, a schedule will be made. If Hamilton falls, then Capitals and Parkdale will decide regarding the operation of a two-club circuit.

The matter of taking over the senior clubs of the Toronto City League into the O. R. F. U. junior series was brought up. There was nothing definite from the City League officials, but Mr. Garlick said that meeting had been held, and therefore it would not be said that the league would agree to it. However, the meeting decided that in the event of the transcription being made that the the time that it the league would agree to it.

TORONTO. Sept. 7.—After making changes at the last annual meeting, and having books printed embodying these rules, it has now been found by the O. R. F. TILLSONBURG FLOWER TILLSONBURG, Sept. 7 .- The an ual flower show under the auspices of the local Horticultural Society was held in the council chamber, and was a large success. A magnificent array of flowers were exhibited for competition, and many complimentary remarks were passed by the judge, Dr. E. Bennet, president of the St. Thomas Horticultural Society. The show has become very prominent in the district, drawing large crowds from the neighboring towns and cities. Dr. Bennett donated a most wonderful collection of gladioli, which were sold in the evening, the collection having swept all prizes at Detroit recently, and much of the success locally is due to the energetic secretary. During the war we heard a great deal about shell shock. It differs a little from the emotional, surgical, accidental and physical shock of everyday life. It is a "psychotraumatic" or combined mental, emotional and injury shock not common away from the battlefields or great catastrophes.

The shock, which may result sertously after an operation or an accident, is sometimes occasioned by sudden and severe loss of blood. This may also happen in the cause of malignant infections with the typhoid and tubercle bacilli.

Some Symptoms.

Low blood pressure becomes very pronounced in most instances of surgical shock. The pulse, too, decreases in volume, size and numbers certainly as blushing rations to nook and corner of the human fabric.

But because of her own vanity she had put herself into a position where her name might be coupled with that of Kenneth Stockbridge, although I was sure that in the old homely phrase he had "never looked twice in her direction." But I had myself heard her say with a meaning smile that Milly Stockbridge "has no use for me, you know," and had observed several other indications showing that she was willing to have people believe herself the object of the lealous woman's distike.

WORRIED. Q—What can I do for tuberculosis?

A—Tuberculosis, formerly called consumption, is a germ disease. The parasites which cause it are called tubercle bacilli. Anyone infected with tuberculosis sheds these contagious-infectious bactefia just as plants spread their seed dust, which start the growth of other plants. That is what makes one selfish person with tuberculosis a source of many others. The sneeze, kisses and coughs and the sputum sprayed out in conversation infect loved ones and friends. Medicines and drugs may do harm and fool those who take them. The treatment which has proved best for tuberculosis is dry, outdoor sunlight, high above sea level, greasy foods, fats, meats, eggs, cream, milk and other things you do not always like. Farmers Rush For Tractors, Due To Scarcity of Horses and Feed Costs.

ST. THOMAS, Sept. 7.—The high cost of feed and a scarcity of horses, together with the increased cost of harness and other material necessary, is said to be responsible for the large number of tractors in use in this district. Never in history has the horse been replaced with mechanical devices to such an extent as today.

The various dealers in the city and outlying districts report such a rush in the sale of tractors that it is almost impossible to keep a sufficient number in stock to meet demands. In addition to the difference in cost of operation and upkeep the tractor is said to be meeting favor among the farmers on account of the great deal more work it is capable of accomplishing. As soon as the day's work is completed the tractor can stand in the yard of even in the field and there is no necessity to clean or feed it.

Fall: plowing, which has already begun in several parts of the county, is being done practically entirely with tractors.

Irregularity of the motion, in view of the fact that the inspector was appointed by a bylaw will probably be urged by aldermen who were not in favor of the dismissal. On behalf of the city, Mayor Stevenson extended the freedom of the city to the veterans. G. G. McPherson, K.C., Major Coleman, D.S.O., M.C., of Galt, and Lieut. A. W. Deacon, M.C., of Stratford all spoke briefly expressing the hope that next year would see another such reunion.

Although nothing definite was decided, it is understood that the officers favor Stratford as the place of next year's reunion. A banquet of the officers is to be held at Galt on January 25, at which time some definite decision will likely be reached. Following dinner, the visitors and their lady friends were taken for an auto ride about the city, over one hundred cars being in the procession.

STRATFORD WINS A lacrosse game between Hespeler and Stratford resulted in a win for Stratford by about seven goals. The game was quite interesting, and enjoyed by the soldiers. An exhibition boxing match was staged between Frank Gillette and J. Lewis, both of Preston, two young lads, and this proved interesting.

The general idea of the committee was not to have too much of a set program, but to permit the visitors the areatest possible opportunity to renew those fast friendships made in the training period and later in France. A bright sun lent its warmth to the welcome of the citizens.

A New Agency For the Hupmobile

Owners and buyers of the Hupmobile in London territory will be served from now on by Barton & Rumble.

We feel that we are well equipped in experience and in facilities to give the Hupmobile the worthy representation to which it is entitled.

The car, as you know, is popular, because of its extraordinary performance, its marked economy, the splendid service it gives, and its unusual comfort.

For Hupmobile owners comfort goes beyond the car's unusual riding and driving qualities.

They regard comfort as meaning, also, better performance, better and more continuous service, and greater economy. It is a perfectly logical thing, to them, to expect their cars to outpoint others in performance. They make no exception even of multi-cylinder cars. Economy they enjoy to an extraordinary degree, in unusual gasoline and tire milage, the small amount of oil they use, and their freedom from costly

Having these distinct advantages, owners are loyal to the Hupmobile.

It shall be our purpose, in all our dealings with all Hupmobile owners, to promote this feeling of loyalty still further.

Scene from "The Auction of Souls," a superproduction showing at the Majestic Theatre all next week. This sensational picture will be shown only to persons of 21 years of age and over. "The Auction of Souls" is a production made by the great First National Film Company, picturing in falthful detail the experiences of Aurora Mardiganian, the Armenian princess, during two years of captivity among the wild, roving Kurdish tribesmen, and in the harems of Turkey. Every incident, every amazing practice of barbarism shown was actually forced upon this beautiful maiden and 500,000 other women. Driven across the without food or clothes or water, to fates worse sands of the desert, without food or clothes or water, to fates wors than death in allen savage lands, put up for auction in the public slave markets, they were sold for fifty and seventy cents each to Turkish soldiery, desert tribesmen, and the degenerate nobility of Turkey, the land of mysterious harems.

grips the mind and soul of everyone who sees fit is that it shows, not a drama of fiction or a tragedy of the imagination, but the naked terrible truth concerning the most awful tragedy of massacre and the unspeakable slavery of Christian women the world has ever known. Before the great war we could not actually believe that human beings in our own modern day could possibly be guilty of such devillsh chaelties and fearful deeds, but the war opened our eyes, and we know that nothing is beyond belief. We had heard of the wholesale martyrdom of the Armenians at the hands of the brutal Turks, but paid but little heed to terrible stories coming from that tortured country. But the climax came during the war in 1915 and 1916, and gruesome facts were brought home to all civilized peoples by the official reports of the British commission headed by Viscount Bryce. These gigantic horrors of Armenia-were ended when the British swept the Turks before them and entered Constantinople. The story of this huge and unexampled "Auction of Souls" is pictured so fully matthe at 2:15.

The story of this huge and unexampled "Auction of Souls" is pictured so fully and frankly in this production that it would certainly be very unwise to allow any but adults to witness it. The Ontario Board of Film Censors and the appeal board, after careful consideration, finally approved of it in its entirety for public exhibition on the distinct understanding that no person under 21 years of age should be admitted to the theatre. This limitation will be carried out strictly, and only adults of the full age of 21 can gain admission. The story of this huge and unexamp

This spectacular offering will give amusement lovers opportunity for rumination for "Seven Days' Leave" is not only the first genuine melodrama to be presented at this theatre in a long time, but it brings back a long list of familiar favorite who have been

"Seven Days' Leave' takes its name from the term commonly employed to describe the brief vacation allowed soldiers from the trenches to rest and

The entire action takes place there, with the exception of one on the English Channel, where an American cruiser destroys a lurking German U-boat. CONSTANCETALMADGE IN HER LATEST FILM AT THE GRAND TODAY

'Mrs. Leffingwell's Boots" a Splendd New Vehicle.

A program of undisputable excellence; one of the most entertaining and incidentally, best varied shows of fair week, will be offered at the Grand today and tomorrow. Three all-star vaudeville acts comprise the vaudeville, while the leading film feature presents Constance Talmadge, the beautiful star of screenland in "Mrs. Leffingwell's Boots." A Mack Sennett Keystone comedy, entitled "A Bad Exchange," and the "Grand Pictorial Life" are other photoplay features on the program.

Ladles, beware of "exclusive" designs in boots. You've no idea what a peck of trouble they may cause. Those having any doubts should see Constance Talmadge in "Mrs. Leffingwell's Boots." Then One of the many thrilling scenes shown in "Checkers," the big melodramatic limproduction showing at the Patricia all week. In this scene a fast express train plunges headlong into the river through the opening made in a drawbridge. Mr. Leffingwell knows his wife has a pair of the same kind, so when he looks into the young man's windows and sees someone trying on the slippers, he naturally thinks it is his wife. Trouble follows thick and fast until a house party throws the whole group together, and the complications are explained. Then the whole thing is cleared up, and the boots land in a muddy brook,
