Geneva, Dec. 16.—Canada's delegates took a prominent part in today's session of the assembly of the League of Nations, at which four new nations, Bulgaria, Costa Rica, Finland and Luxemburg, were admitted to membership. The Canadian delegates voted for the admission of all four, but Australia and France abstained from voting when the admission of Bulgaria was before the assembly.

It had been stated before the voting took place that France had no objection to Bulgaria in particular, but would not vote because there was some analogy between the cases of Bulgaria and Germany. It was asserted the delegation desired to maintain a consistent attitude on questions relative to qualifications of applicants for admission.

After the bill had been sent to the Upper House of Parliament, and that body was found bent on making material alterations in the measure, intimations were given that any amendments made by the Lords would be stricken out by Commons, but there appeared to be sentiment in some quarters in favor of going as far as possible to meet any objections which might develop during the debate of the bill by the House of Lords. There seemed to be a probability that the reappearance of the home rule bill might be made an occasion for a debate on the Irish situation generally. Major-Gen. Sir Edward Strickland is head of the commission, and it seems the work of arriving at a verdict has been more difficult than was at first expected.

Eamonn De Valera, who bears the title of "president of the Irish republic," is rumored to be on his way to Ireland from America, where he has been for nearly eighteen months. Then the city declined or falled to pay its share of the cost of improving the suburban roads, and the county was obliged to start litigation in the matter. RELIEF. IS PROMISED

London. Dec. 16.—Unemployment in Great Britain, which has been steadily growing, has created a serious problem, which during the last few days has become more urgent owing to the advent of severe weather. There is general anxiety over the situation, as nearly every trade in the country is affected. Unemployment is common among clerks and middle class occupations, as well as among manual laborers. Labor circles declare the number of men out of employment is fully 1,000,000. Upon a majority of these there are dependents, and the total number of persons suffering from the present conditions is placed at from 3,000,000 to 4,000,000 a large

Relying on Government.

There is a general tendency on the part of trades unions and local authorities to rely upon the government to solve the problem, but in several places municipalities and other organizations have begun improvement works, the cost of which will be paid out of local taxes. The national executive of the labor party yesterday passed a resolution declaring the present scandal of innocent persons starving cannot be allowed to continue, and calling upon the government to maintain persons for whom no work is available. The government is asked to pay each man 40 shillings per week and each woman 25 shillings, with additional allowances for dependents. This, it is asserted, could be done for "the modest sum of £5.000,000."

In explanation of the above signed statement, Mr. Fuller told The Advertiser that he did not tip the police off to Strong's hiding place, although he caught Strong in the act of carrying away a lot of silverware wrapped in a blanket, from the house of a prominent citizen, whose furnace Mr. Fuller tends. The employer saw him bring the silverware back and questioned him as to the man who had been carrying it away. He told his employer that he did not know who the man was, and the employer, who apparently had looked out just in time to see him stop Strong, said to him: "I believe you, Fred. I saw him. You're all right."

Then Mr. Fuller followed Strong downtown, and Strong spoke to him when he was posting a letter, which Mr. Fuller understood was the letter to the jail officials, telling of his intentions to go voluntarily unaccompanied to Kingston. This was about 1 o'clock in the morning.

FIGHT IN LIVERY STABLE

Attracted Constable and Arrest Quickly Follows.

Tell-tale fingermarks in blood on the label of a bottle which otherwise read "Irish Whiskey" was the conclusive evidence which convicted William McDougail of this city in police court today of having liquor Wednesday night in a place other than a private residence contrary to Section 41 of the O. T. A. McDougall was fined $200 and costs, with the option of three months in jail. A companion was fined $10 and costs when he pleaded guilty to a charge of being intoxicated.

Although McDougall tried to "kill" the bottle of Irish, the blood did not come from that source. He had been fighting with a friend named Higgins, and in the battle friend and foe became covered with a friend named Higgins, and in the battle friend and foe became covered with blood.

The noise of the fight, which took place in a livery stable on Wellington street, attracted Constable Berryman. When the constable entered the building, McDougall pulled away from the clasp of Higgins, and ran lightly up a score of steps in a stairway, in about 25 wobbly steps, and then, according to the constable, pulled something from an inside pocket and showed it into some inside pocket and shoved it into some inside pocket and shoved it into some cut straw.

Constable Berryman was not far behind and, imitating McDougall, he put his hand into the straw. He pulled out a gory bottle one-quarter full of whiskey.

Although Higgins claimed that McDougall was the owner of the bottle when the constable brought it downstairs, he developed a wonderfully poor mamory when he was put into the witmemory when he was put into the wit-ness-box by the prosecution. He re-membered nothing but that he took three drinks of whiskey, which had been three drinks of whiskey, which had been given him by a man named Lewis in two local poolrooms. He could remember nothing which had happened in the stable.

McDougall stoutly declared that he did not have the bottle, and that he was not drunk. He claimed that he had had two drinks, but that it took more than two to affect him. He said that he had been told the bottle was upstairs and that he went to get it when the policeman came in the door. The constable, however, beat him to it, he admitted sadly. The magistrate accepted the constable's story, hence the fine.

The pipe at present being laid is six-inch, but part of the line will be constructed of 10-inch pipe.

When the fire was discovered at 2:40, the interior was a mass of flames, and aid was called from Worcester, as the Unitarian Church, on the opposite side of the street, was endangered. Mayor Little thanked the committee and its chairman for the manner in which it had assisted him. He had always had the full confidence and sup-port of the council throughout the year, he said. According to Mr. Price, there is a surplus of 500 G. T. R. box-cars on the Ontario lines at the present time. This being the case, he did not believe that the foreign cars should be used wherever it could be avoided, unless they were loaded for return to their home lines. He pointed out the fact that for every day a foreign car is kept away from its home a per diem charges of $1 a day must be paid.

Mr. Price declared that the Ontario lines of the G. T. R. were paying at least $1,000 a day for per diem charges. This was in the face of the fact that there is a surplus of approximately G. T. R. box cars. He felt sure that many of these cars were being loaded and moved in the opposite direction from their home.

The disolution of the monasteries in the sixteenth century brought chaos and 300 years of decay for the nursing profession. Ludger Grison, also known as George Graham, who was arrested in Toront Wednesday on information supplied by the London police, pleaded guilty to the London police, pleaded guilty to stealing nine cases of eggs from C. ## CHILDREN OF LONDON RECEIVE NO TRASHY FICTION AT LIBRARY

Read Exciting Stories, But They Are by Standard Authors.

Highly colored and impossible fiction is not suitable for juvenile reading, according to Miss Hazel Tanner, librarian of the children's department of the London Public Library, but she caunot corroborate the statement of a Boston librarian that young girls are reading trashy fletion, and do not appreciate good books. Books dealing with important subjects of the day, the boys and girls pass up altogether, the Boston librarian is credited with declaring.

"Many boys and girls do demand trashy fiction," admitted Miss Tanner, while disclaiming partly the experience of the librarian in the New England centre of intellectual culture. They ask for exciting stories, but the books supplied by the juvenile department of the London Public Library are by standard authors.

Trashy fiction is not tolerated in the children's department of the London library. Such fiction is harmful in that boys and girls after reading a number of such stories form their views of life, and it is hard to turn their minds subsequently to pure fiction specially adapted for children, is Miss Tanner's opinion.

Although it is a public library, books is not suitable for juvenile reading, ac-as possible, so that the boys may spend the nights and week-ends at it, at a minimum cost. They will also co-operate with the "Y" camp at Fisher's Glen this summer.

For the "Y" secretaries' summer at a Lake Couchiching two outstanding men have been secured to speak on the training of men for work in Canada, and foreign fields. Professor Burr, the American author of several boys books, will lead in the discussion on the sociology of boy life, and Professor Lindeman, of Chicago University, will be the other speaker. The Toronto secretary said that the Algonquin camp equipment was available for any groups which desires to hold its outing there next summer.

In regards to the Christmas holiday program for each "Y." it was decided to hold "open house" on New Year's Day, Stunts will be put on by the boys, and their parents and friends will be invited Lunch will also be served. Some events that will be put on by the boys who cannot swim.

Two hundred and seventy guests, the largest attendance on record, will be present at the banquet at the Testing the house tonight and the big dining room has been lavishly decorated for the occasion with a most pleasing and artistic combination of the Christmas and Rotarian colors. Visiting guests are coming from Toronto, Hamilton Guelph, Windsor and Barantford and these will, it is confidently believed, go back with great also of the wonderful things they saw, heard and participated in.

QUESTION OF LAKE OF WOODS LEVELS MAY BE CONSIDERED AGAIN International Interests May Compel Reopening of Matter. Spiked Shoes for Winter. Horse owners must see that their animals are properly shod to prevent them slipping on the ice-covered pavements if they do not wish to receive official attention from George Tustin, inspector for the Humane Society. He interviewed Mayor Little about the mater today and was given authority o confer with the engineering department to see what the city could do to make the streets safer for equine travelers. "It is downright cruelty to make a horse go up some of the hills in the city without any load, but when they are made to draw a heavy wagon as well it is terrible," Mr. Tustin said. The pavements are built for automobiles and the horses can't get a foothold on them at all after a light snow biles and the horses can't get a foothold on them at all after a light snow are reopened as an indirect result of the recent waterpower concession given to the Backus interests by the Ontario

of the Lake of the Woods levels may be reopened as an indirect result of the recent waterpower concession given to the Backus interests by the Ontario Government at the White Dog Rapids of Winnipeg River.

The situation is somewhat tangled, and the interests involved somewhat diverse. Manitoba, is supremely anxious that its power works at Point Du Bois be not endangered, while Fort Frances interests are here to ask that they be safeguarded. The Federal Government is also interested. This morning Premier Norris of Manitoba, and Attorney-General Johnson had a conference with J. B. Challies of the waterpower branch of the interior department. It had been expected that Premier Drury would also be here, but the latter appears to take the ground that the White Dog concession is purely a provincial matter, and not subject to Federal interference, so he did not come. There is, however, another side to the question. The Norman dam on the Lake of tine Woods may be affected by the damning of the White Dog and the Norman Dam is on international waters. In the meantime the United States i anixious to have the whole matter of the Lake of the Woods levels reopened.

STILL LAYING RAILS.

Although it is not usual for railroads to keep an extra gang of men working in the winter time, the G. T. R. has employed a gang to lay rails between Dorchester and Ingersoll. Nearly sixteen miles of rails still remain to be laid.

Over 300 G. T. the G. T. R. will have their final examinations on Friday morning at 9 o'clock. The examinations will be held in a car fitted for the purpose which will be located west of Richmond street. They will be held under the direction of Dr. E. M. Scaborn of this city.

With the closing of the Welland Canal it is expected that, there will be fewer interruptions in the train service in the local division of the Grand Trunk. Owing to the fact that the road was forced to cross the canal at Pt. Colborne, Merriton and Thorold, the trains were often delayed while the bridges were up to allow the boats to pass. WHEN CITY HAS DECIDED.

The committee appointed by the county council to attempt to affect a hamicable settlement with the city of London over the matter of county pupils attending the collegiate institute has not yet been called together. In county circles it is intimated that the county committee will probably not meet until it becomes apparent that the city has really decided itself what is to be done in the matter, and whether one, two, three or more collegiates are to be built. It is admitted that if the city bodies or committees could maintain a little more unanimity in public matters before laying them before the county council to ask cooperation, county dealings with the city might reasonably be expected to be a trifie more satisfactory, instead of in many cases forming grounds for subsequent litigation costly to both city and county.

Seen this morning by the Canadian Press, Senator Robertson said that he had taken the matter up with Hon. C. C. The Dominion Company, he was informed, had paid the highest wages of any shipyard on the Great Lakes, and its failure was attributed, in a measure, to this fact.

The statement was made subsequent to the argument of H. W. The chairman during the argument again emphasized the importance of the labor factor in both the freight and express rates situation, declaring that while wages remain as high as at present the public cannot reasonably expect lower rates.

THE INTERNATIONAL MIND.

The success of the League of Nations depends upon the international mind, and for dia is due to harsh and selfish methods This involves the study, not so much of governments and boundaries as of peoples. It involves looking at the affairs of another nation from its own point of view, as well as from ours. As a continent, ravaged by war, suffering more than any outsider can conceive. What it needs their friends. He says: is to be fed from the surplus of a more fortunate continent, such as America, to have its industries revived, transportation and communication improved, and trade as nearly as possible free between European countries. If Europe could be converted into a commercial unit resembling the United States the end of its troubles would be in sight. That may not be practicable at present, but it is the international aim that ought to be kept in view.

The awakening of China is regarded some times as a "yellow peril." with the vast industrious population of China richly endowed with coal, iron and other fundamentals of industry competing with the white races, sometimes as offering opportunities for extending our own trade. The international mind regards the situation from the point of view of China and Asia. China has the requisites of a great manufacturing nation. North of it lies Siberia, with the promise of becoming one of the granaries of the world, like our own Northwest Each is the natural complement of the other China supplying Siberia with manufactures, Si beria helping China out with food and timber This does not preclude trade with the outside world, in fact, the richer Siberia and China grow the more they are likely to trade with us and with others. But, the international mind will grasp the Asiatic point of view, the international heart will rejoice in the hope of Asiatic prosperity, not regard it with jealousy or with fear. The international mind also will think in terms not alone of wheat, timber, iron, coal and oil, but of humanity. It will think of the myriads of Chinese people, not as miners and factory "hands," but as human beings, whose welfare is the first consideration. It will have the same attitude toward the peasants of Siberia and the workers of Europe.

THE MILLIONS OF CHINA.

How many people are there in China? This is a question that is frenquently asked and concerning which there has always been a lack of information. No regular census, as we know the word, has ever been taken, and the enumerations that have taken place in recent years have not been uniform throughout the provinces, so that the final figures arrived at were always subject to correction. Lately, however, the Chinese postoffice has succeeded in collecting fairly definite information from its various administrative units, and while this, too, is subject to correction, it probably represents of a kiss. The length depends on who is being the best survey that has yet been made. The kissed. Chinese postoffice department puts the total population at about 428,000,000. This does not include either Mongolia or Tibet.

> I am told that, if President Wilson's views upon self-determination were applied to the state of Florida or Mississippi, where the negro population exceeds the white by many thoussands, there could be but one outcome to such an application, which I sincerely hope and trust will never be permitted. In some such light one is forced to view what is called the Egyptian Question, where a numerically inferior Christian population is asked to accept the rule of an Islamic or pseudo-Islamic majority, calling itself for political purposes the Egyptian Nation, but in reality being neither a nation nor markedly Egyptian. In the light of historic truth, as well as in the light of actual experience, one has to admit that Egyptian nationality ceased to exist a good many years before the birth of Christ: that it has never recovered from this overthrow; and that there is neither Egyptian language, literature, nor art.

Nor is there any race of people in that country which may be regarded in the way one regards the Frenchman of France, the Englishman of England, or, say, the Dane of Denmark. A native of Egypt may be anything, from a woolly-haired negro to an ivory-colored landowner or government official. The practice of polygamy has made a hotch-potch of the race and destroyed its identity. Patriotism, in the Western sense of that much-abused word, democracy, and those liberal institutions which are at once the glory and the stigmata of the Christian world, do not exist in Egypt or in any other Moslem province. The well content to do without them.

My soldier-servant, Ibrahim, put the whole political situation in a nutshell, when, before we were separated by order of the higher authorities, he asked me to get him a new job. "Why don't you go to one of your own people?" I replied. "I am only an Unbeliever and an Englishman "

We were excellent friends and understood one another perfectly, and so I could permit myself these candors. "If I go to an Egyptian, he say. 'Bring me money, or bring me a girl, and then I find you a job.' If you send me to an Englishman, he say, 'What can you do?' and he give me so much pay." Thus Ibrahim.

"Where would you find a girl?" I asked next. Ibrahim shrugged his shoulders and said, 'My sister."

The Egyptian Nationalist politician, invariably a lawyer, journalist, priest, or some other windy individual, wishes to get hold of Ibrahim's money and Ibrahim's little sister. In Europe and America, gullible Intellectuals and Labor people, of both sexes or none at all, applaud and sympathize with the noble periods and mendacities which come as easy to the Oriental as tumbling off a log. What, however, he is really after is Ibrahim's money and Ibrahim's little sister.

NO THIRD DEGREE IN CANADA

[Ottawa Journal.] "I would like to know what is meant by this third degree' stuff. I have never seen any of it." This is the answer of Inspector of Detectives Guthrie of the Toronto police department to a charge that John Doughty, held in connection with the disap-I Small was subjected t degree" methods in his interrogation by the Toronto

Inspector Guthrie's statement is welcome in view of the charge that was made. If it is not sufficiently formal to entirely satisfy the public that the charge was false, it should be supplemented by an official declaration.

For the public is concerned in the matter-not merely in the case of John Doughty, but in any suggestion that "third degree' methods are practiced in this country. The so-called third degree system of interrogating prisoners is not to be tolerated under any circumstances in Canada. It has no place n the administration of British justice. It is an American institution of which the United States should be left in sole possession. The news dispatches the other day told of the questioning of an accused man in an American city for twenty-four hours continuously. We want none of that in this country, nor any of the other "third degree" methods of obtaining confessions that have been illuminated by disclosures of American police practices. British justice requires protection for the accused as well as protection for society. It aims to afford him every opportunity to exonerate himself. The "third degree" police practice as used in the United States has not only been unjust to the accused, but also to some extent it has interfered with the application of justice to the guilty. It is one of the reasons why popular sympathy so often goes out to the actual criminal in his prosecution for crime, why people like to see the police beaten

The "third degree" is a fitting part of the police system that operates on the policy of convicting someone, whether it is the guilty person or not. The principle of British justice is the antithesis of that. Now that Tipperary is under martial law It not only contemplates that the prisoner shall be there are a lot of folk who do not object to its adjudged innocent while there is a reasonable doubt of his guilt, but it insists that he shall have every opportunity of establishing such doubt, and maintaining it. And the spirit of the British people in $50 wager. A BALLADE OF GOOD ADVICE

[Edward W. Barnard.]
Don't you like a good selection
When to buy a gift you go?
Whatsoever its complexion
You want something comme il faut!
Later, when the stocks are low,
You'll find every problem knurly,
Therefore, lest your cake turn dough,
Do your Christmas shopping early!

Of a 'leventh hour throe,
When a leisurely inspection
You no longer may bestow?
Don't wal, till the snops o'erflow:
saun their steaming hurly-purly;
Not forgeting miscletoe,
Do your Christmas shopping early!

You'll agree upon reflection
This is just the time to show
What's in your professed affection
If you ease their wintry woe
You'll win through the portals pear
How? Why surely you must know
Do your Christmas shopping early!

Do not wait till salesfolk grow
Tired and tense or sour and surly!
Do they do that? I'll say so!
Do your Christmas shopping early! SEASON ENOUGH.

It is significant that public support of the $50,000 civic grants for the Children's Hospital and the Victorial Home For Incurables is being urged by practically all the apeakers who are addressing the December meetings of the Mothers' Clubs of the city, the month having been reserved to the study of the muncipal situation in view of the coming election. Ruffles did want to go with some of them, "No. I have sold Ruffles to a rich man," his master used to tell the children, "He is to belong to a little dirl who will be very kind to him,"

Ruffles had been thinking of that very thing. This Santa Claus was certainly a wonderful person from all the reports he had heard of him. That very night before he went to sleep Ruffles made up his mind to run away in search of the jolly old Christmas saint.

twelve strikes in a row the day before, the Nationals, bowling against Selaks in the City League, last night, rolled what is certainly a city record, if not one for Ontario, when they stacked up a total of 3031 for three games.

M. Sansone led the attack on the altitude record with 631, with Karrys next. Hawkins was the only man on the team to turn in under 600, and his mark was 541. He got off to a bad start in the first game or else he would have made the total still higher.

Whether the score hung up is a new Ontario record can't be proven off hand, but around the alleys it was believed to be.

With the McCallum cup, captured by Hymans. and emblematic of the Dominion championship, resting here and such scores as have been hung up the last two days, London bowlers are excelling themselves.

developments in the Mexican oil situation which, it is charged, seriously endanger the rights of United States citizens in Mexico. The claim is being made that events in Mexico which have led to protests filed with the state department furnish evidence of British, French and Dutch plans to monopolize the oil supply of the world. The happenings in Mexico emphasize, it is contended, the protest of the United States over the action of the British Government in carrying out its mandate for Mesopotamia, which this Government construes as closing the door to equal opportunity for all nations in developing Mesopotamia's petroleum resources.

The state department has taken cognizance of the situation in Mexico and is making inquiries. It is giving assurances to those concerned that it stands firm on its insistence for the protection of American rights within Mexican territory. So far no additional action has been taken, but the situation has developed to a point where this Government is irritated over what is alleged to be a concerted effort on the part of foreign interests to freeze out American citizens in the oil fields of Mexico. The new situation arises primarily from an extension by the late Government, headed by President de la Huerta of the Mexican federal zone system, an extension which permitted the Mexican Government to grant concessions to bore for oil on property controlled by or the Mexican rederal zone system, an Government to grant concessions to bore for oil on property controlled by American interes's. De la Huerta went out of office on November 30, and was succeeded by President Obregon. Under the orginal federal zone system, of which the United States had no complaint to make, the Mexican Government reserved to itself the right to strips of land ten metres wide on each side of all navigable streams and to grant concessions to bore for oil in these strips. De la Huerta extended this system so ac to provide that the federal zone should apply to all streams within the republic, whether navigable or not. In the closing days of the de la Huerta administration concessions to bore for oil in these additional zones were granted by the wholesale to Mexican citizens who, in turn, sold them to British and other foreign oil interests.

New Arrangement.

The new arrangement works out this way: "If you have obtained a concession for an oil area in Mexico and are working it, you are confronted by the appearance of some concessionaire who proceeds to drill for oil on the banks of a trickling rill that wends its way through the property you have leased The Mexican Government controls each side of the trickling rill for a distance of ten metres and farms out the privileges of exploiting these strips to other persons interested in oil production. You may have struck a valuable lead. The new federal zone concessionaire New Arrangement. the new federal zone concessionalre having been convicted on a right in the narrow strip that he has burglary charges, and allower beating from the Mexican Government and strikes your lead. "Prior to 1914," explains the Bankers' Trust Company," Canada secured in Great Britain the greater part of the capital required to develop her natural resources. The war immediately dried up the wells from which flowed this vivilifying supply. In fact, the current was reversed and Canada gave back to the mother country many millions of capital.

"Then it was that Canada turned to the United States for the capital no longer to be obtained overseas. The capital is that in the past six years we have loaned Canada nearly a round billion of dollars. This money has gone to help Canada meet her military expenses, to help her finance her exports of the standing of the Russian population.

"A large amount has been invested in American owned factories, because on account of Canadian tariff regulations it is more profitable to manufacture certain classes of goods within her borders rather than to export them to her. Again we need paper pulp and paper and Canada has in abundance the raw materials to produce them if we will turn them into the manufactured product on her side of the boundary line.

"But this is not done at a loss," says the bank. "On the contrary our interest and profits received from our Canadian investments are estimated to have been during the past six years, around $330,000,000 while Canadians have probably paid us over $90,000,000 in freight money, insurance and the like. Therefore, of the approximately one billion dollars which was invested in Canada in recent years, nearly half represents merely a reinvestment of payments made to us by our Canadian friends. Such in brief is our invisible trade with Canada."

AIR BOMB'S VALUE AGAINST WARSHIPS

Decks of Big Ships Must Be Protected Like Sides To Guard Magazines.

London, Dec. 15.—British naval circles are tremendously interested in experinents soon to be carried out by the French navy as to what effect airplane bombs will have when dropped on the deck of a fully protected battleship. The bombs will have when dropped on the deck of a fully protected battleship. The British navy was equally interested in the tests recently made in Chesapeake Bay on the old battleship Indiana but the French experiments, according to reports received here, are to be along lines which will be more indicative of what constructional course Great Britain will follow if it is finally decided that big ships must continue to be built; despite improvements in both submarines and airplanes.

The long discussion in connection with the big ship controversy now going on has developed a general belief that the submarines have been conquered. Even the foremost protagonists of capital ships, however, admit that airplanes are still an unknown facter in naval warfare.

During the war there was but little direct experience which is now of value. One British airman scored a direct hit on the deck of a German torpedoboat, the A-40, lying at a dock. The A-40 was sunk. She was a small torpedoboat and of course her decks were of the lightest steel plates. It was shortly afterward observed that the A-40 was salved without much difficulty and recommissioned as good as new. The records also show one or two merchantmen sunk by air bombs, but it took more than one to finish them.

It is now reported that the French navy is determined to settle the point at the expense of some former enemy warships now in her possession. The first vessel chosen for the experiments is the former Austrian armored cruiser Prinz Eugene, which has a fairly heavy armored deck. Her decks are now being reinforced at the Toulon Navy Yard, and when everything valuable in the way of machinery has been taken off the ship will be towed to sea and the best French aviators called upon to drop their heaviest bombs to find out whether they can score hits under ordinary Chinese Government Has Not best French aviators called upon to drop their heaviest bombs to find out whether they can score hits under ordinary conditions of combat and what damage the hits will do. The test is also intimately connected The test is also intimately connected with another naval problem developed at the battle of Jutland and elsewhere. Naval armor has hitherto been the heaviest about the belt. In the last conflicts this fact has been met by the development of the art of high angle fire, which brought down shells plunging vertically upon the lesser protected decks. Some of the severest casualties sustained upon either side in the Jutland fight were caused by shells piercing magazines, thus destroying the battle cruisers more effectively than by the use of torpedoes. Service Routes Will Cover Republic and Connect With Colonies.

PARIS, Dec. 15.—Aviation is safer than any other means of locomotion, according to M. Flandin, Minister of Aviation here, whose plans for next year include an extensive program which will easily put France in first place in so far as civilian flying is concerned. At the present time the established air rotes aggregate 2,500 miles. They will be increased tenfold next year, when new interior lines will be in operation and France will be con-in operation and France will be connected with her African colonies through a daily aerial service, the pilots, flying machines and hangars for which are ready now.

During the first ten months of this year French aviators flew a million and a half kilometers, with accidents only at the rate of one for every 100,000 kilometers flown and only one death for every 215,000 kilometers flown. Even bad weather did not prevent successful flying, the official records showing that 95 per cent of all flights were successful. Meanwhile fear on the part of passengers is being gradually overcome by constant propaganda.

The air ministry shows that while in 1919 less than a thousand air passengers were carried between interior points and across the channel the number of passengers already carried this year exceeds 7,000. Thirteen tons of freight were carried last year, while this year 103 tons have been carried. Despite the high postal rate for aviation dispatch five tons of mail have been carried by French pilots since the air service was inaugurated last February.

air service was inaugurated last February.

"France's merchant marine is not to be compared with that of the United States or that of Great Britain, but the French government has recognized the value of aviation and is leading in it." M. Flandin told members of the Aero Club of France. "Undoubtedly there will be extended the necessary credits to permit the carrying out of our plans. Not only are aeroplanes to be assigned to the government controlled routes, but scores of dirigibles soon will be carrying freight from one end of France to the other at rates which will defy rail competition, especially when speed is a factor to be considered.

A majority of the aeroplanes now in the service are owned by exploitation companies to which subventions have been granted by the government. However M. Flandin is now arranging to pay a large premium to individuals who are willing to devote privately-owned flying machines to the building up of France's air commerce.

Silesian monasteries were filled principally with German monas. Freuerick the Great's father was a factor in Upper Silesian industry. He founded there iron works and blast furnaces which were counted as world models in those days. Then, early in the innesteenth century, the iron and coal industries expanded, and the zinc industry not long afterward. In this era great corporations have been formed which now represent billions of marks in value to German business and are inseparably a part of billions of marks in value to German business and are inseparably a part of it.

"That these industries could increase in importance from year to year is the result of the chemical and commercial skill of the manufacturers, the diligence of the workers and state support.

"A new expansion of these industries in the service of peace and of society is certain if they remain German. Should the district be lost by us to Poiand it would itself be heavily penalized, for it would lose the stream of young engineers from German technical colleges and its supply of German machinery and chemicais. Germany, too, would lose buyers of these Silesian and many other goods and her own requirements of coal, zinc and iron.

"Already Germany is weakened by her deliveries of Ruhr basin coal to the Entente. The loss of her Silesian coal would place her in gravest peril. The reconstruction of Germany would be nullified and it would be impossible for her to carry the heavy responsibilities imposed by the treaty of Versailles.

"Let German industry be ruined and the prosperity of the world will suffer. Germany has always been a large buyer of all kinds of raw materials, and through her technical experience and her labor she has been able to supply the world with great quantities of finished articles. It is out of the question that to am could take Germany's place in these respects by gaining the natural resources of Upper Silesia. Poland would not even understand how to exploit them successfully, not to speak of her inability to use them as the basis for a great independent industry. If the craving of the world for were is to be satisfied it is vital that the vote of the plebiscite should be for Germany. It cannot conceive of Germany without Upper Silesia."

taxation on distilled spirits and sugar. The proposal aroused the centre and right wingers, who number many producers of brandy and sugar, who did not want their industries to bear the enormous burden.

The government finally postponed the crisis for a month by making a "Christmas package to the employees."

It was decided that every city and national employee was to receive his complete January salary wherewith to enjoy Christmas. As everyone knows, about the middle of January the employees again will be penniless, and another crisis will be threatened. In the meanwhile the government hopes to armeanwhile the government hopes to arrange a satisfactory compromise, but where the billions for salary increases are to be found puzzles the experts.

ADMIT WOMEN TO DIRECTORATE: REDUCE DELEGATES

TORONTO, Dec. 15.—Considerable business was put through by the United Farmers of Ontario at their seventh annual convention here today, including one important change being made in the constitution. The change was to permit of women being elected to the board of directors. Henceforth, each federal electoral district will appoint both a male and a female member to the board, instead of only male members, as has been the case.

One of the most interesting features of today's business from the standpoint of the delegates themselves was the discussion and vote on the question of a reduction in the number of delegates to the convention.

The change was made owing to the increased cost of railway tolls, the delegates' transportation expenses being paid by the organization.

GREENOCK, Scotland, Dec. 16 .- With great solemnity, the remains of Mary Campbell, Robert Burns' "Highland Mary," were transferred today from the Old West Kirayard here to a new grave in Greenock Cemetery. The removal had been necessitated by an extension of a ocal shipward.

RUBBERSET COMPANY.

Gentlemen:

I have a RUBBERSET shaving brush which was given to me at Christmas time 1909. A few of its bristles have been broken off. But after nearly ten and a half years of constant daily service, it is a better brush than the one which I used previously was after six months of service. And this previous brush was, when new, just as good-looking, was just as expensive, and was supposed to be "just as good" as a Rubberset.

If my brush continues to give as good service as it has in the past, I will never need a new brush. But if some burglar should find that I carelessly leave it on the bathroom shelf, and make away with it, you may be very sure that no one would ever sell me a brush without the Rubberset trademark on it.

IMPERIAL JEWELS OFFERED FOR SALE IN DUTCH HOTELS

AMERICANS ARE BUYERS

Diamond Tiaras and Ropes of Pearls From Germany Hawked About by Hotel Porters.

THE HAGUE, Dec. 15 .- For those equainted with the backstairs methods of the sale of smuggled jewels in Holland, the news of wholesale smuggling of imperial jewels from Germany has come as no surprise.

Ever since the armistice there has been continuous traffic of this kind. Americans who appear to have a good bank balance are approached surreptiously by hotel porters offering fabulous bargains. Diamond tiaras and ropes of pearls are thus hawked about ropes of pearls are thus hawked about by hotel porters who were mostly en-gaged during the war in espionage on hotel guests. Secret meetings are arranged in isolated villas at Scheveningen Beach, the main stipulation being that the original owners remain unknown.

The expected death of the ex-kaiserin has brought to the front intensely interesting stories of her sacrifices, financial and otherwise, immediately following the revolution in Germany. Many of her jewels were disposed of secretly by the ex-kaiser's faithful privy councillor, Kogge, who made numerous trips to Scheveningen, finally selling the jewels to an American who, however, was unaware of their origin. Not only prominent Germans, but also German diplomats traveling in Holland, are said to have engaged in this traffic. Herr Kogge, who formerly managed the kaiser's sixty-two castles has rendered invaluable service to the Hohenthe Kogge, who formerly managed the kalser's sixty-two castles has rendered invaluable service to the Hohenzollerns ever since the revolution and himself told to the correspondent how he went to Berlin Castle in a taxi after the revolution and salvaged the imperial family treasure there. Marines guarding the castle first attempted to stop him, but on recognizing Kogge, allowed him to enter, thinking he only wanted business papers. Kogge finally drove off in the taxi with trunks filled with jewels, decorations of the exkaiser's and many securities, the vehicle being so full he was obliged to sit on the roof on top of the luggage. A few shots were fired at the councillor as he drove off, but no more serious attempt to stop him was made.

There is also a constant coming and going of servants in Wilhelm's house at Doorn. They are allowed to return to Germany every four months with much luggage.

He was said to be arranging the ex-kalsers' new house, but in reality he was busy with the former war lord's finances. All the ex-kalser's money is said to have been in von Gonthard's name.

OPERATION OF POSTAL SERVICE CAUSES U. S. $17,000,000 DEFICIT

Postmaster-General Blames Congress For Balance On Wrong Side.

Washington, Dec. 15.—Operation of the United States postal service for the fiscal year 1920 resulted in a deficit of $17,270,482—the second largest in the history of the service—Postmaster-General Burleson shows in his annual report today to the president, in which expenditures of the postofice department are placed at $454,322,609 and revenues at $437,150,212. The postmaster-general charges Congress with direct responsibility for the deficit, explaining that the expenditure included approximately $33,202,600 paid as a war bonus to postal employees, and stating that but for this there would have been a surplus of $18,427,917 Mr. Burleson says he declined to approve the bonus action of the legislative department, adding that he had offered saggestions of another plan for compensating the employees, which would have served the purpose without at the same time giving a blanket increase in pay to "thousands who were amply compensated."

"For reasons that can be readily understood," he continues, "the legislative department rejected these suggestions made by the postmaster-general, and hence is directly responsible for the deficit which inceits by followed the indefensible action.

"The postmaster-general feels constrained to point out that if a prompt halt is not called, and such a policy is persisted in, there will be a deficiency for the next fiscal year of approximately $36,000,000, and the postal establishment will cease to be self-supporting, as it should be, and will become a constantly increasing burden upon the general treasury."

Reference also is made to the decision of the interstate commerce commission, granting the railways additional pay aggregating $8,103,889, for carrying the mails. This served likewise to offset increases in postal receipts, Mr. Burleson declares.

In his discussion of his administration of the postal service the postmaster says:

"The present postal administration has been one of continuous and per-ter says:

"The present postal administration has been one of continuous and permanent progress and improvement. Nothing has been left undone that was within the authority of the postmaster-general to do to effect readjustments in the interests of the people as a whole, and not in that of any special class.

"The air mail service, which has been operated successfully since its inauguration, May 15, 1918, has been extended across the continent, and collaterally and further extension by contract service inaugurated.

"The parcel post service, both domestic and international, has been greatly extended, and facilities for handling parcels improved, 250 foreign countries and colonies now being reached by this service.

"City delivery service has been extended, the established service in all the larger cities materially improved, and the Government-owned motor vehicle service, inaugurated in 1914, has been established in 163 cities.

"The railway mail service has been operated with increased efficiency under the space system, facilities for the handling of mail improved, and the service firmly established upon a scientific basis.

"The money order service and the postal savings system have rapidly recovered from war conditions and are in most satisfactory operation.

Attention is again directed by the postmaster-general to the grow'h of organizations among the postal employees, and he urges that steps be taken to "curb the malicious and pernicious influence" of these organizations upon the postal personnel. He says they have been operated to "interfere to a considerable extent with the efficient conduct" of the service, adding that "much of the so-called 'demoralized postal service' and 'dissatisfaction' exists only in the minds and imaginations of paid agitators of these organizations, who instil and hammer these doctrines into the minds of the employees through the medium of their publications."

"The avowed purpose of these organizations," continues Mr. Burleson, "Is not solely to advance the social and economic weifare of their members, but to exercise a coercive influence influence "That is just what I propose to do," said the visitor, and drawing out his

Within twenty-four hours he was dumbfounded to receive a peremptory note from the Ministry asking why he had waited so long to transmit a check signed by Basil Zaharoff, reputed the owner of an English armament works and organizer of the recent Anglo-Persian oil flotation which has just been made in France in reply to the formation of a French company by the Standard Oil Company of teaching New York to take a joke.

While his success with the New Yorkers whose profession in attending the the atre was not very marked, he has undoubtedly been successful with the great majority of non-professional theatregoers. This is demonstrated by the fact that "The Tavern," which opened at the George M. Cohan Theatre in September, is still drawing big audiences to that house, and is one of the most widely discussed plays of the season. Had destiny placed Mr. Cohan in the Canadian northwest instead of on Broadway the great Mackenzie oil district would doubtless have been discovered long ago and heaven alone knows what other novelties he would have found in that far-away region. He atre was not very marked, he has unknows what other novelties he would have found in that far-away region. He is essentially a ploneer, not of the plodding, enduring type, but the ploneer who seeks out and develops new opportunities. When other producers have been wandering along the beaten paths trying to find some old signpost that might guide them to public favor. Cohan has set out to bleas a new trail and gen guide them to public favor, Cohan has set out to blaze a new trail, and generally it has proved a shortcut to popularity and profit. He has set up the signposts along the theatrical road. Cohan has come to be regarded in New York as an arbiter of théatrical styles. He introduced the mystery play, and before long the mystery play became the fashion; he developed a type of comedy which "kidded" the audience, and other producers were astonished to find that audiences like to be kidded; he concocted a musical show in which concocted a musical show in which there was a definite plot, and while many of the others were reluctant to follow such a terrifyingly radical lead, several real plots appeared, set to Monotonous Diet.

And now whenever New York is attated with a monotonous theatricial diet it turns to Cohan for a little tidbit to whet its appetite. This year his reeponae to this demand is "The Tayen" is reeponae to this demand is "The Tayen" is more to the contract of the capture of Paris would have been certain. Gen. Keim insists that the Germans still could have won had not won Buelow, commander of the Section Army, become panicky and interest of the doctors in question, Charles Nicolle and Thomas Conseil, have dishonored the street of the stage.

And in the weird and sometimes puzzling ramifications of this story can be seen a gentle burlesque of the very type of mystery play which Cohan himself invented.

Trick Storm Rages.

As the trick storm rages outside, the tavern keeper's son comes with a story of a mysterious shadow he has seen in the shed. This first scene, splendidly acted, creates an atmosphere of dread which gives the audience the impression that, after all, this must be a serious drama. Then comes a scene between the innkeeper, his serving maid, and his son, which serves to introduce a score or more of ancient stage speeches and with the eccentricities of the story (played by Arnold Daly), brings the element of mystery, and this is accentuated when a few minutes later "the unknown woman" is carried in. The entrance of the Vagabond, the central figure of the story (played by Arnold Daly), brings the element of mystery, and this is accentuated when a few minutes later "the unknown woman" is carried in. With the arrival of the governor and his party and their tale of a highway robbery placing the Vagabond under suspicion which is finally lifted when the sheriff himself proves to be the robber, the sudden and unexpected twists to the plot bring reminiscences of Baldpate and its Seven Keys, but the burlesque element is ever present, and gradually it broadens out until the last of the puzzled ones finally realize that it is all a Joke and settle back comfortably to laugh and settle back comfortably book he has his fingers crossed. "We are inclined to think that somebody is having a joke on us," says Heywood Broun of the Tribune, "but it is a novel jest and more than usually amusing." Louis De Foe of the World calls attention to similarity between certain scenes in "The Young Visitors" and the balliroom scene in "A Kiss for Cinder-ella," and asks, "Is thig re-s somewhat significant—and also somewhat suspicious—when one remembers that Barrie was the author of that fanciful and whimsical piece?" Alexander Woollcott of the Times suggests that "for 'A Kiss for Cinderella' Barrie found richer treasures by delving into his imagina—tion than he did when he unearthed the long-unpublished manuscripts of "The Young Visitors."

One thing everybody agrees upon and that is that the quaint literary style and precoclous ideas of the young writer, which form the amusing feature of the book, have been admirably retained in the play. This has been done by the selssors and paste method. The play is really the text of the book so manipulated that it fits into the mouths of the characters—plus the scenery. This is designed to carry out the juvenile idea. It is judicrously fantastic. So are the props." Chicago, Dec. 16.—An earthquake, the severest recorded here in two years is being registered on the seismograph at Chicago University. The centre of the disturbance was estimated at 3,080 miles from Chicago. The first shock was recorded at 6:21 a.m. (central time), and maximum intensity was reached at 6:54. At 9 o'clock the seismograph was still recording waves of decreasing intensity. As the observatory at Washington reported the same quelke was 2,800 miles from there, in an east and west direction, the quake apparently is centred in the Atlantic Ocean, being farther from Chicago than from the capital. in the Atlantic Ocean, being farther from Chicago than from the capital.

The distance of 2.300 from Washington, estimated by Father Torndorf, would indicate the location of the disturbance to be in the United States, near the Pacific coast, if it were west, or in the vicinity of the Azores, if to the east.

SHIPBUILDING YARDS

Toronto, Dec. 16.—Several hundred men stationed themselves at the gates of the Dominion Shipbuilding yards for several hours this morning for the stated purpose of seeing that returned soldiers get the preference, and also to urge that union wages be pald, according to some of the leaders. Many of them were at the premises long before 7 o'clock, and the majority stayed until nearly 10 o'clock, when they left for the Labor Temple. One of the men stated that they were instrumental in keeping at least two outside men as guards. "We want to give the returned men every consideration," said a former employee of the yards. "We will even agree to allow them to work at non-union wages." It was said, however, that fourteen returned men left the works this morning believing that they should not work at less than union wages. The union men state that the rate of wages given ranges from 47c to 60c an hour, whereas the union, scale is 60c to 90c.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE.

New York, Dec. 16.—Wall Street, 10:30 a.m.—Shorts began another aggressive selling movement in oils and steels at the outset of today's stock market session, basing their operations on overnight advices most of which accentuated the discouraging outlook in commerce and industry.

Vanadium lost 3 points, presumably as a result of the lower dividend, and Crucible Steel fell 2½ with losses of 1 to 2 points in Mexican Petroleum, Panama and several of the cheaper oils. Kindred shares, also equipments, shippings, coppers and food and leather specialties were forced down from fractions to a point, the reaction gaining ground within the first half hour. "BABY MINE" BIG LAUGHING HIT

OF THE SEASON AT THE MAJESTIC.

MAJESTIC.

Do you enjoy a rollicking comedy bill? Then take in the offering of The Majestic Players at the Majestic this week, "Baby Mine," from the pen of that well-known author, Margaret Mayo. The piece was built for producing laughter of the hilarious sort, and Majestic patrons have this week laughed till their sides ached at the screamingly funny comedy lines that run through this comedy farce. The plot or rather the basis for the merrymaking surrounds the unsuccessful attempts of a charming young bride to secure a suitable adopted child from the home, in securing the kiddie complications arise, whereby the owners of the adopted kiddies all ask for the return of their offspring, and when hubby is presented with one, then twins and finally triplets, the comedy that results is one long scream. Each and every member of the company is seen to advantage in the current bill, and the work of Miss Pates comes in for much commendation at the hands of this week's audiences. Miss Pates played the original role in "Baby Mine" for successful seasons on the road, and gives a sterling interpretation of the role of the charming wife.

Librarian Says Younger Set Gets Perverted Life Views

From Mushy Novels. BOSTON, Mass., Dec. 15.—Young girls re reading trashy fiction. They don't appreciate good books—not even standard fiction. And as for books dealing with important subjects of the day, with important subjects of the day, they pass them up completely.

This is the opinion of a Boston librarian for urging that younger girls should be taught to read a better class of books than they are reading.

"Girls 15 years old are reading books not fit to be read by even an older person," she said. "They prefer the trashy novels with their impossible plots and questionable situations to the more wholesome stories of standard authors.

After reading a number of such stories dealing with poor but beautiful girls who are rescued in the nick of time from every sin and crime imaginable, by a good, honest man, is it any wonder that these deluded girls have a wrong attitude towards their moral responsibilimade to read the classics if they don't wish to, but there is a great field of literature that is not strictly classical HICK HUMOR IN "PEACEFUL yet is of good sound principles and VALLEY," SHOWING AT THE withal is entertaining.

By an unkind trick of fate the families of these tenant farmers are invariably large, with the result that since the high cost of living began to affect the rural areas the farmers have been unable to maintain even their meagre-pre-war standards of living.

The tenants have formed a protective association under the auspices of syndicalist leaders and will demand that the landed proprietors fix an acceptable yearly rental system, with an opportunity for the farmers to buy their farms at the expiration of their rental

They call attention to the fact that the public would be affected considerably for the good if the present tenantry system were abolished, as thousands of animals which are now delivered to a few proprietors would be available for purchase by the general public. Especially in the region of Cosse do the proprietors demand half the animals raised on the farms, while their levy on the grain and fruit produced often amounts to as much as three-fourths

DETROIT. Dec. 15 .- Disease caused NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—In a terrific battle with a leopard in a dark warehouse in East Tenth street, Charles Dochtermann of 48 St. Mark's Place, it became known received injuries that caused his death in Bellevue Hospital. Dochtermann owner of the warehouse.

DETROIT, Dec. 15.—Disease caused the death of August Dwyer, according to Dr. Albert L. French, testifying to day in the trial of Frank H. Dohany, Detroit attorney, charged with manislaughter in connection with Dwyer's death. Selection of a jury was completed this morning, and Dr. French, county physician, was the first witten entered the place unarmed, when the leopard and other animals started an uproar. The leopard, weighing twice as much as Dochtermann, sprang at him from a corner, buried his teeth in the man's neck and clawed him. Only the arrival of help after the fight had continued several minutes, saved Dochtermann from death.

The story of the attack by the animal was hidden in an incorrectly written certificate of death filed with the department of health. When Dochtermann was taken to Bellevue Hospital a clerk overhead the word "leopard," mistook it for "leprosy," and so filled in the cause of death as the name of the disease. Yesterday, however, the correction was made, and the account of the battle made known.

Tightness of Money Market and Business Depression Given As Reasons.

New York, Dec. 15.—Difficulty is being experienced by many United States citizens whose 1919 incomes require federal tax payments varying from $100,000 to more than $2,000,000, to meet the last quarterly payment, due today, William H. Edwards, collector of internal revenue, revealed last night. In that one instance the quarterly figure was $700,000. "These taxpayers," Collector Edwards said, "told me they simply could not pay—that they did not have the cash. They begged for an extension of time, which I was powerless to grant."

The requests for more time have come from persons in every line of business, who Collector Edwards declared, "seem to have felt the pinch of the business, who Collector Edwards declared, "seem to have felt the pinch of the business depression and the tightness of money."
