When you have been at the Canadian National Exhibition for several days—and the General Public has jostled your elbows and leaned on your shoulders and shut out the view of your favorite exhibit, and stepped on your clean white shoes—

When, in fact, you are thoroughly tired of sight-seers while still fresh for sight-seeing—then pay a visit to the Ryrie-Birks store.

The Ryrie-Birks store is spacious, unhurried and uncrowded, and here you will find all sorts of lovely things—antique and modern silver, jewellery that exemplifies the best in craftsmanship and art, charming European novelties, and—to keep the Exhibition note—a $100,000.00 replica in precious stones of the Great Gates to Exhibition Park.

Visitors to the Exhibition will be cordially welcomed—whether as shoppers or sight-seers—to the Ryrie-Birks store.

HIGH COMMISSIONER LARKIN LAUDS MANUFACTURERS LIFE

Insurance Company Opens Massive Headquarters Building at Toronto.

NOTABLES SPEAK

Toronto, Aug. 26.—After 35 years of ever-expanding business, the Manufacturers Life Insurance Company reached not the culmination, but a milestone on its history, with the opening this afternoon by the Hon. P. C. Larkin, high commissioner for Canada, in London, of its magnificent new headquarters building on Bloor street, between Jarvis and Church streets.

The speakers at the banquet, with which the opening was celebrated, were unanimous in praise of the building as an architectural acquisition to the city. It is six stories high, with basement, and is of dressed Indiana limestone on a pink Milford granite base.

Massive Structure. The massiveness of the building suggests a stability which a skyscraper fails to convey, and aroused admiring comments from all who saw it for the first time. The president of the company, W. G. Gooderham, introduced the high commissioner at the gathering outside the building, and the key having been handed to Hon. Mr. Larkin by the architect, H. C. Larkin, who formally declared the building open, and the company repaired to the dining room on the sixth floor.

Mr. Larkin speaks. The first speaker after the loyal toast was Hon. P. C. Larkin, who congratulated the company on its growth, saying that the new building was a monument to the wisdom of their Canadians and a sign of their appreciation of most valuable of all commercial interests.

He noted that the first life insurance was written in 1853 in England, and added, amid laughter, that the first risk died within a year, leaving a policy of £385 for the maintenance of his dependents, a not inconsiderable sum in those days.

Looking over the record of your company," said Premier Ferguson, "I venture to think the company is to be congratulated on its splendid staff of agents. Business comes from the activity of agents, and very little from those who merely keep up the office."

He noted that the first life insurance was written in 1853 in England, and added, amid laughter, that the first risk died within a year, leaving a policy of £385 for the maintenance of his dependents.

Stand High Up. In concluding, the premier said that the Manufacturers Life stood well among the leading companies of the world, and that its position was justified by its activities, while its splendid service to the public was beyond question.

Canada Can Sell All Her Wheat.
There is probably more speculative buying in wheat than any other commodity, and on this account speculators are continually searching for information on production.

The Premier's Judgment.
A deputation from the United States temperance forces has been touring several cities in Ontario to secure information about Ontario's 4.4 beer, the reason being that the claim has been made by several members of congress that Ontario's regulation was the solution of the U. S. prohibitory laws.

Where They Should Be.
A suggestion is made that Chatham and Kent county shall have a special place in the Canadian National Exhibition at Toronto, in which the manufactures of the city and the products of the county shall be displayed.

He Judged Too Quickly.
A Toronto speaker, addressing a party of new arrivals from Britain, said: "Don't be ashamed of your English or Scottish speech. I'd rather have a Scottish accent in any shape or form than a Canadian accent."

Note and Comment.
Friction caused a fire in a Montreal grain elevator, and it will do the same in domestic circles.
Newspaper heading says, "Wheat experts cutting down Yield Figures." Then get rid of the experts.

No One Section Can Govern.
The Saskatoon Star says the west is no farther ahead by reason of the existence of the Progressive party. It says:
"The Progressive party has held since 1921 a strategic position of great strength. The life of the government has been almost continuously in the Progressive party's hands. On many occasions during the past four years the party could have forced the government's resignation, either by inflicting an outright defeat or by making life so uncomfortable for Mr. King and his ministers that they could not carry on business."

Man was fined in court at Ottawa for selling water for perfume. No watered stock smells well when it gets into court.
Woodstock gas stations are starting to cut prices, and London hopes some one from here will journey down and borrow the cleaver.

Believes New Structure Should Have Name That Would Be an Honor to the City Itself.
Editor of The Advertiser:
Sir,—I have been watching with some interest the names which have been sent into your office as suggested for naming the new London hotel. It seems to me that it would be more advisable to name the hotel something which would be in honor of the city itself, rather than the big celebration which is contemplated in the summer of 1926, the "centennial of the city," that it would be most fitting to name the big hotel the "Centennial Hotel."

what the Saskatoon Star blames them for not doing—tried to defeat the government.
The Star overlooks one vital point—no section of Canada can rule the country. The western view and the eastern view clash, and the only solution possible is one that gives some advantage to each with no injury to either. It is of such a line that Premier King has sought to work for an all-round national development, and he has conscientiously sought to make methods and implements of production as cheap to western Canada as can be done.

Makin' Trouble
Why Hank and Jim, the best of friends, ain't speakin' to each other now, since Hank he had a relative who stirred an everlasting row.

There's the Jim and Hank live side by side, they'd done so for ten years or more, and Jim would often drop around and help Hank do the household chore. And Hank helped Jim to paint his house, and put some shingles on his shed, and neither one could ever see how there be stormy days ahead.

Hank's uncle came to visit him, a cranky sort of worm all through, and always nosin' round the place to find what mischief he could do.

When Hank come home from work one night, his uncle stopped him up to say, how he'd been measurin' up his land and notin' several things today.

Well, Hank he didn't want to fight, but they kept naggin' after him, until he got a lawyer hired to write a letter after Jim, and tell him how, in legal phrase, that he was breakin' up the law, and how he'd better move right fast and settle up this fencin' row.

Hank's uncle went off home again and left Hank with the case to fight, advisin' him before he left to fight to death to get his rights.

I guess there's lots of folks like him, that stir up trouble every day, and when they've done their dirty work, proceed at once to move away. If Jim and Hank had had some sense, they'd grab this trouble-making man, they'd ride him on a hickory rail and dump him in the garbage can.—ARK.
