CONVIGTS HOMELESS.

Three Hundred of Them Without Any Penitentiary in Nebraska.

Costly Prison Burned Down-Scenes at the Fire-No Escapes Made.

London, March 2. - The Nebraska here, has been almost entirely destroyed by fire. Shortly before midnight Warden Davis, who took charge of the prison less than two weeks ago, was aroused by the crackling of flames and odor of smoke. An alarm was immediately given, convicts, guards and employes were aroused and an appeal was telephoned the Lincoln fire department for help. The con-victs were ordered to clothe them-selves and were marshalled into the great courtyard, where, for several hours 300 of them were kept standing in a long double line under the eyes of a score of armed guards patrolling the top of the wall surrounding the yard. A number of militiamen were obtained from Lincoln to assist the prison gua.ds. Warden Davis and his aides made quick work of removing the books, records and papers of the institution to a place of safety. Nothing else of value was saved. The fire originated in the warden's kitchen, in the upper story of the main kitchen, in the upper story of the main building, almost directly over the of-fice. The flames spread in all direc-tions, gradually eating their way westward through the new cell house and eastward through the main build-ing. The Lincoln fire department re-worded with home certs and starmer. ing. The Lincoln fire department re-sporded with hose carts and steamers, and two streams from the pond were soon playing on the flames, with the effect, however, of only temporary checking their spread.

After it was seen that the major portion of the building was doomed, all efforts were concentrated on the east end of the building, occupied by the deputy warden, the chapel and containing a reserve cell room. The woodwork in this portion of the building was thoroughly soaked, and the firemen finally succeeded in saving

All bedding and extra clothing for the convicts was destroyed, and it is the convicts was destroyed, and it is probable that until permanent quarters can be provided the convicts will have to sleep in tents. How the fire started is a mystery.

No complete estimate of the losses has yet been made. It is certain they will reach $300,000, however, with no Co. F., Second Nebraska national holding high offices, and for whom he had the greatest respect, to declare the tenets of their religion to be superstitious and idolatrous. Mr. Costigan quoted the Guardian, one of the leading Protestant organs in England, in which this statement is made:— 'Christian charity had made great strides in two and a half centuries, and if the declaration of the time of Charles II. has long ago become too offensive to be used by any of His Majesty's subjects, why is the studied insuit of calling all Roman Catholic subjects idolaters to be maintained as The penitentiary building was built in 1876 at a cost of $300,000.

Later estimates reduced the probable losses to $200,000. A remarkable feature of the runs is that the great feature of the ruins is that the great walls of main building, which were of thick, heavy stone, crumbled like pulp under the intense heat. The prisoners were apparently the least concerned of all and never was a body of supposed lawless men more tractable. Not a convict was injured. Casualties among the fire fighters were confined to slight burns or pruises. The penitentiary fire apparatus was quite inadequate, and when the engines areived from Lincoln the flamss were bursting through the roof. After four hours the fire was under control.

News of the fire caused great excitement in the city, heightened by baseless reports of loss of life, mutiny and the escape of many convicts. As the legislature is in session it is believed early action will be taken to provide for new buildings.

Catholics did not com- my views, but I know too well the temper of my fellow countrymen. For my part I an quite content to be a subject of the Protestant King of England. I may be asked;—Why should this declaration be removed from the law? It is simply because it is offensive.

Because it is painful to Roman Catho i subjects, who honor the King and are loyal to him, who are ready to fight, and if need be, to die for his crown. It is painful to them that he should take such an oath against dogmas which are clear and sacred against dogmas which are clear and sacred to them. That is the only ressul. Whether this motion passes or does not pass, whether if it is passed it is heeded or not heeded in England, whether this path is maintained or not maintained in the law, the loyalty of Roman Carbobics will not be affected thereby. They will continue maintain, the Protestant religion, as established by law. What I am dealing with is not the confination oath at all, it is a declaration beyond and beside the coronation oath. It is one as useless, so far as any practical purpose is concerned, as a fifth wheel to a conder. If any hom, gentleman will satisfy me that in the carrying out of the request any injury is done, or we are impairing the strength of the Crown, or interfering with the permanence of the succession as now arranged. I should be willing to with draw my resolution. But surely when affected thereby. They will continue to be as they are to-day-willing and cheerful subjects of His Majesty King Elward VII., and of this successors. But it can be well admitted that the pride and devotion which we all take in this great empire which was the first refuge of liberty of conscience when liberty of conscience was all banished from the rest of the world, would be more enthusiastic if that legislation, the last remnant of persecuting ages, the last remnant of per-secuting ages, the last vestige of which I have spoken, were to be blotted out forever from the statute book of free England. (Applause) Costigan went on to state that when the subject was discussed in the British House of Commons in 1867, Earl Kimberley, who had formerly been Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, said he had himself been called on to make this declaration before the Irish Privy Council in the presence of a large number of persons of the Roman Catholic faith, and he must say that he had never in his life made a declaration with more pain before men holding high offices, and for whom he had the greatest respect, to declare The leader of the opposition spoke in favor of the resolution, but regretted its wording, and suggested certain changes.

IT IS SIMPLY AN OLD SCOW

That is What A. R. Coltart Says About Supt. Jones' Ancient Gunboat.

"The Historical Research Society were away out when they identified the boat sunk back of the Belmage property as a gun boat," said A. R. Coltart yesterday morning. "The boat they have found is the remains of one of the barges used by John Waddell's father forty years ago. The bar in the vicinity of the Eberts bridge prevented boats going up the river and Mr. Waddell, Sr., lightered the staves and heavy timbers across the bar and down to the schooner Amity, owned by the Eberts Bros. and tied at their dock back of where the Central Drug Store now stands. Mr. Waddell had two of these scows. They became useless when navigation was opened up past the bar and two scows were allowed to sink. One of them is the one discovered by Mr. Kearney and the other is sumewhere near." the boat sunk back of the Delmage A PROTESTANT SECONDER.

Mr. Kendull (Cape Breton), who seconded the motion, said that on any pocasion he would consider it an honor to have the opportunity of doing so, but he appreciated the distinction all the more since he had the honor of representing a constituency, which in 1822 secured the right for the first time in the nineteenth century for a Roman Ostholic to sit in a British Legislature. "I am a Protestant of Protestants," he said, "and can say to my Roman Catholic friends here that not under any conditions would I subscribe to many of the

Taking the counties of Lincoln and Welland he found that of all the deaths from consumption therein in a ten-year period, 33 deaths to each of these names. It was but a step to associate the deaths not alone with certain families, but with certain houses.

Dr. Bryce noted the fact that the death rate from consumption increased very rapidly, as such old counties as Lincoln, Welland, Haldimand, Essex, Kent and Lambton became settled. THE TIMES ON THE CORONATION OATH.

On the subject of the coronation eath the London Times thinks a change can be made by which the contumelious epithets can be removed. It says: "The oath prescribed by the Bill of Rights was incorporated in the Act of Settlement, when the British people had just shaken themselves free from the tyranny of James II. and from the power of dispensation by the Pope, on which the monarch rein evading his constitutional pledges. The circumstances have been altogether changed in the last two centuries. Similar caths by which private persons and ordinary officials were bound have been modified so as to do away with offensive and contentious matter. Yet there are still ample guarantees for the maintenance of the Protestant character of the British constitution, which, indeed, will never be in any danger while the British people remain, as they will certainly remain, Protestant to the very marrow of their bones. An Act of Pagliament bringing the language of the declaration to be subscribed by the Sovereign into harmony with the amenities of modern life might be passed, without touching any point of constitutional policy or giving the slightest opening for any conceivable advance of Roman Catholicism to political power by the exercise of personal influence over the ruling Sovereign."

RUSSIA STRIKES THE FIRST COM-MERCIAL BLOW AT UNCLE SAM.

The New York Press takes the view that Russia's action in discriminating against United States imports is the outcome of a well-matured and vigorous policy of retaliation. It does not believe in the theory that the recent imposition by the United States of a surtax on Russian beet sugar was the exciting cause of the commercial war that has just been declared by the Czar. Russia's commercial hostility to the United States was clearly manifested towards the close of last year, when a prohibitory tariff was placed on United States imports into Siberia. This tariff took effect on Jan. 1 last. The 30 per cent. discriminatory tariff me effective on March 1, so that after that date the United States will be practically ousted from both European and Asiatic Russia. "The immediate and sweeping nature of the retaliation," says The Press, "shows that the Czar's Government not only sought war, but sought to avoid peace." The loss of Russia's trade does not in itself cause much alarm in the United States. The total exports of the United States to Russia amounted last year to only $11,000,000, or less than one per cent. of the country's total export trade. Russia's action is rerious only because it is be lieved to be the forerunner of a com bined policy of retaliation by the other European nations. M. de Witte we are told, has accepted the invitation of the Austro-Hungarian Minis ter of Foreign Affairs. He has headed the anti-American crusade. has struck the first resounding, if not exactly staggering, blow for Euro pean commercial independence of the Yankee invader." What the United States fears is that the loss of Russia's trade may be followed by the loss of that of Germany, France, Holland, Belgium and other European countries. The United States official returns show that during the year 1900 the exports of merchandise from that country amounted to the encimous value of nearly a billion and a half of dollars. The imports for the same period were less by $650,000,000, showing an enormous balance of trade in favor of the States. It is this excessive adverse balance that is upsetting the equilibrium of Europe. Of the exports of the United States last year the value of upward of six hundred million dollars was sent to the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland. Against these exports the imports from Great Britain amounted to a little more than one hundred and fifty millions in value. The returns show that in value more than one-half of the total exports of the United States last year was shipped to Great Britain and her colonies. The next in importance in the trade of the United States is that with Germany, the exports to Germany last year having amounted to nearly two hundred millions and the imports to little less than one hundred millions in value Last year the Netherlands bought commodities from the United States to the value of nearly eighty-four mil-

1900 were greater than to France. It is evident from these statistics that the countries of Europe have it in their power to deal a crushing blow to the United States if they choose to follow the precedent of Russia. The New York Press, however, consoles itself with the fact that, come what may, Europe cannot get along without United States petroleum, cotton and other products. Moreover, if it continues, "the effect of all Continental restrictions will be to increase our trade with Great Bri-

lion dollars and sold to the American

ain and her colonies, whose markets are of move importance to us than those of all the rest of the world together. Canada takes more of our goods than France, Australasia more than Austria-Hungary, with Russia combined." We do not think the United States is justified in counting on the markets of Great Britain and her colonies as its special presenve. Canada feels the injustice of the United States tariff just as keenly as do the European countries, and when this country is blessed with an upto-date business Government, Canada will undoubtedly adopt the Russian policy of retaliation. If the United States will not agree to the principle of reciprocity of trade, Canada will some day adopt the principle of reciprocity of tariffs.

HEROISM.

The Scars of the Soldiers of Jesus Christ.

THE MARTYRS OF EVERYDAY LIFE

the Cross-Be Right and Do Right and All Earth and Hell Combined Cannot Prevail Against You.

Washington, Feb. 24.-In this discourse Dr. Talmage praises Christian heroism and tells of great rewards. The text is Galatians vi, 17, "I bear in my body the marks the Lord Jesus.

We hear much about crowns, thrones, victories, but I now tell the more quiet story of scars, honorable and dishonorable. There are in all parts of the world people bearing dishonorable scars. went into the battle of sin and were worsted, and to their dying day they will have a scarification of body or mind or soul. It cannot be hidden. There are tens of thousands of men and women now consecrated to God and living holy lives who were once corrupt; but they have been regenerated, and they are no more what they once were than rubescence emaciation, than balm is vitriol, than noonday is midnight. But in their deplated physical health or mental twist or style of temptation they are ever and anon reminded of the obnoxious past. They have a memory that is deplorable. In some twinge of pain or some tendency to surrender to the wrong which they unwholesome reminiscence. carry scars, deep scars, ignoble scars. But Paul in my text shows us a scarification which is a badge of honorable and self-sacrificing service. He had in his weak eyes the result of too much study, and in his body bent and worn, the signature of scourgings and shipwrecks and maltreatment by mobs. In my text he shows those scars as he declares, "I bear in my body the marks of the Lord Jesus." Notice that it is 'not wounds, but scars, and a scar is a healed wound. Before the scar is well defined upon the flesh the inflammation must have departed and right circulation must have been restored and new tissue must have been formed. It is a permanent indentation of the flesh-a cicatrix. Paul did well to show these scars. They were positive and indisputable proofs must perpetually resist they have an

that with all his body, mind and soul he believed what he said. They were his diploma, showing that he had graduated from the school of hardship for Christ. They were credentials proving his right to lead in the world's evangelization.

Men are not ashamed of scars got in battle for their country. No American is embarrassed when you ask him, "Where did you get that gash across your forehead?" and he can "That was from a saber cut at San Juan." When you ask some German, "Where did you lose your right arm?" he is not ashamed say, "I lost it at Sedan." When you "Where did you your eye?" he is not annoyed when he can answer, "I suffered that in the last battle under our glorious General Garibaldi." But I remind you of the fact that there are scars not got in war which are just as il-lustrious. We had in this country years ago an eminent advocate who was called into the presidential cabinet as attorney general. In midlife he was in a Philadelphia court room engaged in an important trial. attorney on the opposite side of the case got irritated and angry and in most brutal manner referred to the distinguished attorney's disfigured face, a face more deeply scarred than any face I ever saw. The legal hero of whom I am speaking in his clos-ing argument said: "Gentlemen of the jury, when I was a little child I was playing with my sister in the nursery, and her clothes caught fire, and I ran to her to put out the fire. ucceeded, but I myself took fire, and before it was extinguished my face was awfully burned and as black as the heart of the scoundrelly counsel who on the other side of the case has referred to my misfortune." The eminent attorney of whom I speak carried all his life the honorable scar of his sister's rescue. Albert Barnes, the most distinguished of all commentators, unless it be Matthew Henry, for years at 4 o'clock in the morning might have been seen going f. om his house in Philadelphia his study in the church and in those early hours and before breakfast to give all those wonderful commentaris, a theological library in themselves. He said that as he was pastor he felt bound to give all the rest of each day to work connected with his pastorate." But at what a ruindraft upon his eyesight he did that early morning work, first candlelight and then by gaslight! When he got through those wonderful volumes of Scriptural exposition Albert Barnes was a blind man. Scars,

But why do we go so far for illustration, when I could take right out of the memories of some whom I address instances just as appropriate? To rear aright for God and heaven a large family of children in that country home was a mighty un-dertaking. Far away from the vil-lage doctor, the garret must contain the herbs for the cure of all kinds of disorders. Through all infantile complaints the children of that family went. They missed nothing in the way of childish disorders. Busy all day was that mother in every form of housework, and 20 times a night called up by the children all down at the same time with the same contagion. Her hair is white a long while before it is time for snow. Her shoulders are bent long before the appropriate time for special s Spectacles are ome for far off. years before you would have supposed her eyes would need re-enforcement. Here and there short grave in her pathway, this headstone bearing the name of this child and another headstone bearing the name of another child. Hardly bereavement lifts its, shadow than another bereavemen drops one. After 30 years of wifehood and motherhood the path turns towards the setting sun. She can-not walk so far as she used to. Colds caught hang on lorger than former-ly. Some of the children are in the heavenly world, for which they were well prepared through maternal well prepared through maternal fidelity, and others are out in this world doing honor to a Christian ancestry. When her life closes and the neighbors gather for her obsequies, the officiating clergyman may find appropriate words in the last chapter of Proverbs: "Her price is far above rubies. The heart of her husband doth safely trust in her, so that he shall have no need of spoil. She will do him good, and not evil, all the days of her life. She stretcheth out her hand to the poor. She is not afraid of the snow for her household; for all her household are clothed with scarlet. Her husband is known in the gates, when he sitteth among the elders in the land. Her children arise up and call her blessed; her husband also, and he praiseth her. Many daughters have done virtuously, but thou excellest them

People think they must look martyrs on battlefields or go through a history to find burnings at the stake and tortures on racks when there are martyrs all about us. At this time in this capital city there are scores of men wearing themselves out in the public service. In ten years they will not have a healthy nerve left in their body. In ommittee rooms, in consultations that involve the welfare of the ration, under the weight of great sponsibilities, their vitality is being substracted. In almost every village of the country you find some broken down state or national official. No man that was ever put to death by sword or instrument of torture was more of a martyr than that man has been wrung to death by the scars may not be visible, for these are scars on the brain and scars on the nerve and scars on the heart, but nevertheless are they scars, and God counts them and their reward will be abundant. There is a woman who has suffered domestic injustice of which there is no cognizance. She says nothing about it. An inquisitor's machine of torture could not wring from her the story of domestic woe. Ever since the day of orange blossoms and long white veil she has done her full duty and received for it harshness and blame and neglect. The marriage ring, that was supposed to be a sign of unending affection, has turned out to be one link of a chain of horrible servitude. A wreath of nettle and nightshade of brightest form would have been a more accurate prophery. There are those who find it hard to believe that there is such a thing as hell, but you could go right out in any community and find more than one hell of domestic There is no escape for orment. that woman but the grave, and that, compared with the life she now lives, will poured into the ear of the honey-suckle. Scars! If there be none on the brow showing where he struck her arriving home from midnight carousal, nevertheless there are scars all up and down her injured and im-mortal soul which will be remember-ed on the day when there shall leap forth for her avengement the live forth for her avengement the live thunderbolt of an incensed God. When we see a veteran in any land who has lost a limb in battle, our sympathies are stirred. But oh, how many have in the decreasie realm many have in the domestic realm lo t their life and yet are denied a pillow of dust on which to slumber Better enlarge your roll of martyrs. Better adopt a new mode of count-ing human scarifications. A broken bone is not half as bad as a broken There are many who can, in the same sense that Paul uttered it, say, "I bear in my body the marks of the Lord Jesus "—that is, for the sake of Christ and his cause they carry scars which keep their indenture through all time and all eternity. Do you think that Paul was accurate when he said that? If you have studied his career, you have no doubt of it. In his youth he learned how to fashion the hair of the Cilician goat into canvas, a quiet trade, and then went to college, the president of which was Gamaliel, an institution which scholars say could not have been very thorough because of what they call Paul's imperfect command of Greek syntax. But his history became exciting on the road to Da-mascus, where he was unflorsed and blinded. His conversion was a con-vulsion. Whether that fall from the horse may have left a mark upon him I know not, but the mob soon took after him and flogged and imprisoned and maltreated him until he had scars more than enough to assure the truthfulness of his utterance, "I bear in my body the marks of the Lord Jesus.

All of Paul's suffering was for Christ's sake. He had intellectual powers which could have achieved for He had intellectual him all worldly successes. You see what he could do in a court room when with extemporaneous speech he made the judicial bench tremble; when on Mars hill he confounded the Athenian critics; when he preached amid the excitement of a tumbling penitentiary; when in a storm at sea he took command of the ship, the only one on board cool headed. With his inspired logic, and his courage of utterance, and his power of illustration, and his capacity to move audiences, and his spirit of defiance, there was no height of worldly power he might not have gained. God never before and never since made another human being like him. But with all his capacity and opportunity of achieving worldly renown he turns his back on home and becomes an exile, on bounteous tables and eats his hard crust by the roadside, on the pleasure yachts that sailed the Mediterranean and embarked on a freightboat from Alexandria, on scholars in Athens and talks to fish-ermen instead of plaudits of arous-ed and enthusiastic assemblages he gddressed audiences that talked back and asked insolent questions and broke up in a riot. Instead of garlands flung at his feet they hurled stones upon his head. Five times he not from mercy, but because 40 strokes were the severest punishment the law allowed, and they feared, through counting wrong, they might make it 41 and so themselves be punished. Why, Paul must have been carred all over, and he only tells the plain truth without any commentary when he declares, "I bear in my body the marks of the Lord Jesus." It was as much as to say: "See those long scars? That is where they whipped me. See you that ugly indenture. There is where they stoned around my ankles? There is where they made my feet fast in the stocks." There are many who, like that apostolic martyr, have on them the mark of the Lord Jesus. There is the great army of foreign missionaries, sometimes maligned by disso-lute American, English and Scotch merchants, who at Hong Kong and Calcutta and Constantinople have had their wickedness reproved by the pure home life of those missionaries. There is the great army of the minis ters of the gospel, now in heaven, who, on small salaries and amid fawho, on small salaries and annulating tigues that slew them, served their day and generation. There is another great army of private Christians who in Sabbath schools and in tract distribution and in humanitarian and evangelistic efforts have put their life in sacrifice on the altars of God. There is another army of Christian invalids who lost their life in overwork for the church and the world's redemption. People call their illness neuralgia or nervous prostration or insomnia or paresis or premature old age. I call their ail-

me. See you that encircling scar on my wrist? There is where they hand-cuffed me. See those ugly curves ments scars, as my text calls them All ye who bear in your body the marks of the Lord Jesus, have you thought what use those marks will be in the heavenly world? What source of righteous reminiscence! In that world you will sit together and talk over earthly experiences. "Where did you get that scar?" saint will say to saint, and there will come back a story of hardship and struggle and processition and wounds and back a story of hardship and strug-gle and persecution and wounds and victory through the grace of the gos-pel. Another spirit will say to lis-tening spirit, "Where did you get that hurt so plainly marked?" And the answer will be: "Oh, that was one of the worst hurts I ever had. That was a broken friendship. We were in sweetest accord for years, towere in sweetest accord for years, to-gether in joy and sorrow. What one thought the other thought. We were David and Jonathan. But our personal interests parted, and our friendship broke never to be renewed on earth. But we have made it all up here, and misunderstandings are gone, and we are in the same neighboring castles on the banks heaven, on neighboring thrones, Where did you get that says another spirit to listening spirit, and the answer comes: "That is reminder of a great bereavement, of a desolated household, of a deep grave, of all the heartstrings at one stroke snapped altogether. But you see it is no longer a laceration, for the wound has been healed, and my once bereft spirit is now in compan ionship with the one from whom for awhile I was separated." did you get that long, deep scar?" says another immortal to listening immortal, and the answer comes That was the awful fatigue of a lifetime struggle in attempting amid adverse circumstances achieve For 30 years I was tired-oh, so tired! But you see it is a healed wound, for I have found rest at last for body and soul, the complete rest, the everlasting rest, that remaineth for the people of God." Some one in heaven will say to Martyr John Rogers, "Where did you get that scar on your foot?" and the answer will come, "Oh, that was a burn I suffered when the flames of martyrdom were kindled beneath me!" "Ignatius, what is that mark on your "Oh, that was made by cheek?" paw of the lion to which I was thrown by the order of Trajan!" Some one will say to Paul, "Great was scourged, at each whipping 39 apostle, that must have been on cut once, the mark which I see on cut once, the mark which I see on cut once, the mark which I see on your neck." And Paul says, "That your neck." apostle, that must have been a deep was made by the sword which struck

> Now what is the practical use of this subject? It is the cultivation of Christian heroics. The most of us want to say things and do things for God when there is no danger getting hurt. We are all ready for easy work, for compensating work, but we all greatly need more courage to brave the world and brave satanic assault when there is something aggressive and bold and dangerous to be undertaken for and righteousness. And if we happen to get bit what an ado we make about it! We all need more of the stuff that martyrs are made out of. We want more sanctified grit, more Christian pluck, more holy reckless-ness as to what the world may say and do in any crisis of our life. Be right and do right, and all earth and hell combined cannot put you > down. The same little missionary wrote my text also uttered that piled up magnificence to be found in those words which ring like battle axes on splitting helmets: "In all these things we are more than con-querors through him that loved us, persuaded that neither for I am death, nor life, nor angels, nor principalities, nor powers, nor things present, nor things to come, nor height, nor depth, nor any other creature, shall be able to separate us from the love of God, which is Christ Jesus our Lord."

Pain in the Back Makes life miserable for many. Can it be cured? Yes, in a night. Nerviline gives a complete knockout to pain in the back, because it is strongpain in the back, because it is strong-er, more penetrating, more highly pain-subduing than any other remedy extant. ALWAYS WAS A TOWN. ALWAYS WAS A TOWN.

An interesting fact has come to light in reference to the City of Chatham. There is no record to show that Chatham was ever a village. The oldest by law in the civic records is No. 11 and this by law calls Chatham a town although passed in 1851. It is signed by Duncan McColl, clerk, and Geo Witherspoon, Reeve. All the succeeding by laws also call Chatham a town.

His face did not change color, and his steps were strong and resolute. He sat down in the electric chair at 12.06. He was asked if he had any last message and replied in a voice full of strength and without tremor "I have nothing to say." The officials made the last preparations, the fatal circuit was turned on, and at 12.09 he was declared dead.

The crime for which Ferrell died was the murder of Express Messenger Lane. He wanted money to get mar-ried. Lane was a friend of his. He went into his car at a way, station and rode with him. When Lane turned his back he shot him, robbed the safe,, and got off at the next sta-tion. He was arrested while spending the evening with his sweetheart, arranging for their wedding.

THE WILL DEADT TIE. HOW BIG ANIMA'S ARE TRAPPED IN

Hunter's Fearful Experience With a Pack of Hyenns-The Gortlin Said to Be the Flercent of All the Wild Creatures in Africa.

AFRICAN JUNGLES.

Since his boyhood Arthur Spencer, one of the bravest wild animal trappers in the world, has been battling with the terocious beasts and lives to tell the tale. Through stratagem he has always successfully overcome brute force, although he has passed through experiences which of themselves were enough to kill a man of ordinary nerve. "Yes, I am in an interesting profession, which is not generally understood by the people." said Mr. Spencer. "They crowd and jostle into the tents during the season to look at the wild animals, but they never realize what patience it requires and the hardships gone through to catch the beasts in their native lands and bring them to America.

"A wild animal catcher has to study the ways of living and the characteris-tics of the animals he is after. For instance, a monkey can never be captured unless you know how to go about it. A unless you know how to go about it. A man can't scramble through the tops of a tall tree and get within a hundred feet of a nimble monkey. The way we take them is to carry into the jungle a big gourd of fermented rice juice. When we reach a tree which is filled with chattering monkeys, we open the gourd and pretend to drink the liquid. We then retire to a safe distance, and the monkeys, ire to a safe distance, and the monkeys, in their imitative way, come down the tree and all freely drink of the liquor. A half hour later we can come back and pick the little fellows up as they lie about under the trees in a drunken stupor.

"A baboon is taken in a similar manner, but I have never known one to live through the trip to Europe or America.

They generally died on my hands before we got 100 miles away from the coast. They either died from seasickness or from the effects of a change in climate.

"I consider a gorilla the fiercest of African wild animal life. In efforts to get him we are compelled to pierce into the heart of jungles where in midday it is dusk. When we suddenly come upon the gorilla family, the mother sends her young one scampering up a tree, while she stays to defend him. The old man, standing on his rear legs, beats his chest and gives a roar louder and more terrible than that of the lion. He then comes at you like a flash of lightning. The only thing to do is to wait until he is about on you, then shoot him with an explosive shell. If your shot misses, it is all over

"We take all large animals in pits. If a man is careful, there is not much dan-ger. A deep pit is dug in the path of an elephant tank, which in this country is known as a deer lick. In the pit is placknown as a deer lick. In the pit is placed a heavy-net, the top of which is fastened with rubber. When a rope which is attached is pulled, it closes and forms a strong bag. The net is stretched and the pit covered with bamboo, earth and grasses. "I have had both my legs broken, my ribs caved in and my skull laid bare by attacks from wild beasts. The most trying circumstances occurre; when I was a boy in 1879. I was in Africa, and a party of 70 of us started out on a hunt. I was a boy and tired easier than the rest. I soon stopped beneath a tree, expecting to hurry and catch up with the party later. I fell asleep, however, and when I did awake it was late in the afternoon. I heard a harsh laugh and thought it was some of the party who had returned to find me. The laugh came to my ears, and, looking across a short veidt, I saw a pack of hyenas coming toward me. It was useless to shoot, for they were too many. It was also useless to climb a tree, for they would wait until I fell to the ground from exhaustion. I pretended to be dead. These byenas only eat decomposed bodies. Soon the animals were sniffing about my face and body. They pulled and mauled me, but ! lay perfect-ly still. Suddenly they seized me in their teeth and started across a rolling country and dragged me thus for miles, dropping me at the mouth of a cave from which came the awful odors of such dens. They nauled me about some more and finally dragged me into the cave, where I remained that night. The next day the pack again went out on a hunt, and I escaped a short distance, only to fall exhausted and suffering intense agony. A passing caravan picked me up and car-ried me to a small town, where I soon re-

DIPHTHERIA NEXT DOOR

Perhaps this dreadful disease is in your neighborhood, even at the very next door. Then danger is near your home certainly, and terrible danger, too. Did you know you could destroy the germs that cause this disease? You can, and it's best done with our Vapo-Cresolene. Put some Cresolene in the vaporizer, light the lamp beneath, then let the vapor pass off into the sleeping room, Have the children sleep in the room and breathe-in this medicated air. You see this vapor destroys the germs that may have lodged in the children's throats. We know this from the record of cases and bacteriological tests. It is an easy way to prevent all contagious diseases that may be about.

The following article was taken from The London (England) Morning Post, Thursday, January 31st, 1895: To the Editor of "The Morning Post."

Sir.—About two years ago an accident revealed to me a disinfectant that has an extraordinary controlling power over diphtheria—Cresclene. I know neither its origin nor composition, but I know it has cured many cases of diphtheria I have seen since. It is absolutely safe, does not interfere with other treatment, and is easy of application.

A tent is to be built round the bed with sheets, the vaporizer inside it, the lamp lighted, and the receiver over the lamp kept constantly half full of Cresclene, so that the patient shall be in the vapor of Cresclene day and night. This will give complete relief in less than 24 hours. I shall now briefly relate the particulars of the last case I had under my care. A boy about four years of age was put to bed apparently quite well. Next morning he was found dull and heavy, was roused with difficulty, and refused all food and drink. When I saw him at a p.m. he lay in the same dull state, his neck swollen on both sides as if with mumps, his upper lip double its size, and his face a livid purple color. He never roused up to notice anything until I took him out of bed and forced open his mouth to see his throat; the right side showed a large patch of diphtheria membrane. I never expected the child could live, but ordered one drop of tincture of steel in water every bour, and Cresolene to be used freely. At one o'clock, or in about eight hours, the child asked for a drink; at nine the next morning he wanted to get up; and at 10 a.m. I found him convalescent. Of course I give patechnical details in your paper. I take the unusual course of publishing it in your journal because it will thus be brought directly before the public without loss of time, whereas in a medical paper it would probably receive uo notice unless I were to publish e detailed report of some hundred cases. It would take some five years to collect these, and all this time, cases would perish that might be saved. It is perfectly safe and does not interfere with any other treatme To the Editor of " The Morning Post."

REV. JOHN E. HUNTER,

The well known evangelist, was born n Durham County, Ont., July 29th, 1856. His boyhood days were spent on a farm where he acquired the physical vigor necessary for the arduous labors of an evangelist. He was brought up a Presbyterian, but at the age of fifteen Presbyterian, but at the age of fifteen was converted in a Methodist revival, and four years later was called, like Eusha of old, from the plough to the pulpit. His circuits became the centres of extensive revivals, and also many other fields where he assisted in special services. During his probation, Mr. Hunter spent two years at Victoria College, and shortly after his ordination, on the 12th of July, 1882, was married to Miss Jennie Jones, of Essex, He was then by his own request trans-He was then by his own request transferred to the Mamitoba Conference, where he continued in the pastorate until the conviction of his call to evan gelistic work becoming more intense the, in July, 1884, joined Mr. Crossley, and the two went forth, like flaming evangels, through the principal towns and cities of the Dominion, gathering thousands into the churches. Mr. Hunter is of Irish descent, and possess. es all that keenness of perception, nervous sensibility and tendency to wit, so characteristic of the Irish people. He is also endowed with much of that peculiar force called magnetism, which peculiar force called magnetism, and conattracts and holds attention and constitutes its possessor a leader of men. He is a man of power in the pulpit, his Bible readings are intensely practical and interesting, and his exhortations, in their melting pathos ed appeal, are unique and full of per-suasive power. He shows marvellous tact in managing a revival meeting, no general on the field of battle having more perfect control of his forces. God has endowed bim for this special work. Which General Proctor Fank Near Pike. ville to Save it From the Americans.

The Chatham Historical Research Society, otherwise known as the Relic Hunters, took a prospecting jaunt up to Pikeville yesterday afternoon, to examine the well-preserved hull of the Canadian gunboat scuttled or sunk by Gen. Proctor, when, during the war of 1812-13, he was retreating before the advancing Americans.

Last June, Samuel C. Kearney, who fishes logs and things out of the river, located the boat while following his usual occupation. Lately, perceiving the lowness of the water in the river, Mr. Kearney realized that the gunhoat, which he had discovered, must be very near the surface of the water. He informed President Jones of the Research Society, of his find and his belief. Mr. Jones at once called a meeting of the society to investigate Mr. Kearney's find. Four active members responded to the call of their chief. They were Pres. E. B. Jones, Vice-president R. C. Burt, Assistants

Thomas Arnoid and Samuel Kearney, also Photographer A. S. Park, whose duty it is to photograph all finds of the society.

The Planest was invited to ride with the party, and he trudged wearily along through the deep snow, buoyed up with expectancy. Photographer Park took several views on the journey up the river. Arrived at their destination, a hole was cut in the ice with the ice chisel which had been brought along, and as luck iwould have it, success crowned the first effort. Within six inches of the water's surface a rib of the ancient warship was revealed A huge snowde ft slose to the bank and directly over the sunken boat, had prevented the formation of ice of sufficient thickness to bear a man's weight and Mr. Kearney, in his anxieto to expose the boat to view, steppe boldly on the treacherous spot and ar instant later his lower half had dis-appeared from view and he was floundering in the icy waters of the

The ice, on which Mr. Jone and Mr. Burt were standing, gave warning crack; Mr. Jones leaped to a place of safety, across the channel which had been cut in the work of exposing the boat to view, but Mr. Burrunfortunately landed in the middle of the channel, where the water was both cold and wet. Chutching the ice on the other side, he scrambled hurriedly from his cold and perilous position. The section of the boat exposed to view was now carefully examined. It was found that the boat had been built of oa i. The ribs were in good condi-tion; the outside planking still re-mained intact, and was of two-inch oak. In some places the inner sheeting was still visible. Huge wrought-iron spikes had been used in the construction, and rows of these could be plainly

LADIES' MOCK CONFERENCE.

It was Not Only Amusing but Conveyed Some Good Lessons.

Large Audience Present-The Subects That Were Discussed.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Park St. Methodist Church in their desire to raise money for the schemes of the church, decided to give a mock conference. After careful preparation, the ladies made their public appearance last evening. The church was crowded and everybody present enjoyed the realistic work of the conference. Many good lessons were taught, and the affair was a decided success.

The conference opened the session with Rev. Mrs. E. W. Scane in the president delivered her opening address welcoming the delegates in her silks and satins, at usual happy manner. The secretary, Rev. Mrs. S. F .Gardiner, then read the minutes of the last meeting, which were adopted,

The corresponding secretary, the Rev. Mrs. Grandy, next gave her re-

Communications were read from the Men's Missionary Society, and the Men's Christian Temperance Union, asking the conference to recognize them as auxiliaries of the conference and give them a vote in the same. A petitions was also read signed by several hundred asking that the railways be forced to supply automatic contrivances on the day coaches whereby smokers will be obliged to consum their own smoke.

Rev. Mrs. Thornton read a paper on systematic giving after which a discussion followed taken part in by Reverends Reddick, Dingman, Barfoot, Perkins, Knott, Atwater and Brock.

The ways routing of business was set

The usual routine of business was set aside and the members of the conference entertained with an exquisitely rendered contraits solo by the sweet singer from the south, Mrs. Milton Bogart, entitled, There

SUNDAY A DAY OF REST. Rev. Mrs. Jones, the chairwoman of the committee on stated work, then presented the report of that committee. The report recommended a consolidation of church in-terests and a doing away with many of the minor organizations in the church. It also recommended the amalgamation of the morning service and the Sunday school in order that Sunday may be more of a day of rest; that church parlors be thrown open on week nights. The discussion on this report was lead by the Reverends Powell, Cartier, Towl, Shaw and Knott.

Rev. Mrs. Chanter, chairwoman of special committee, read a very interesting report uggesting the establishment of an Order of icons to give the men interested in church work a better opportunity of exercis-ing the charitable instincts The report re-commended that the conference erect homes dation of the order and also decided on some distinctive manner of

The committee on courtesy then introduced a delegate from Prairie Siding in the person of Mr. Westman. Mr Westman had been sent by the men of his church to make a strong plea for the recognition of the equality of men in church matters. Judge Hamil nobly championed the cause of the poor men, but after a discussion by Reverends Wemp, Thorndecided to lay the subject on the table

LET THE CURFEW RING. Some new business was then laid be fore the conference by the Rev. Mrs. Jones. One thing recommended was that a shekter be supplied for the young men who think it their duty to see all the congregations of the different churches in and out of church ferent churches in and out of church land. (What a spectacle it would be on Sunday and that the edifice be called the Watch Tower. That the curfew ing the thrity-nine articles in the berning every night at nine delegate to the Hon. John Costigan revision to the Watch Tower. be rung every night at nine o'clock, to compel all the men to get off the streets, unless accompanied by their wives or some other suitable escort.

Rev. Dr. Massey made a motion to change the annual millinery coefficient. change the annual millinery opening from Easter Sunday to some week night, as it detracted sadly from the congregations' interest in the devotional exercises. The president com-mended the idea and added as a suggestion that ante-rooms be provided in the different churches, fitted up with tables and hat stands so that the more startling ideas in millinery could be examined at leisure.

Messrs Dingman and Austin, delegates from the Men's Missionary So. ciety, were heard on the subject of allowing the society to vote in that Conference.

Moved by Rev. Mrs. Atwater and sec anded by the Rev. Mrs. Shaw, that the conference adjourn.—Carried.

The mock conference closed with the singing of "God be with you till we

The only safeguard is to keep the system in the highest possible condition of health and on the first appearance of a cold in the head to use some safe antiseptic like Stuart's Catarrh Tablets freely, a tablet taken every hour or two for a couple of days will be sufficient to break up the attack.

La Grippe attacks the weakest part of the system, it may be the lungs, heart, liver, stomach or kidneys, but wherever it finally locates, it almost invariably starts with cold in the head and throat or in other words, the disease at the beginning is acute the disease at the beginning is acut

This is the reason Stuart's Catarrh Tablets have been so successful in breaking up attacks of grip. The antiseptic properties of the remedy destroy the germs before the whole system is thoroughly infected.

Dt. Anniston says: Stuart's Catarrh Tablets being free from cocaine and harmful drugs, should be freely used at this time of the year on the first appearance of grip symptoms. They check, the excessive catarrhal secretions, stop the fever and prevent pneumonia.

They are composed of antiseptics and may be used by little children as free-ly as by adults and with great benefit. Dr. Lewiston says: My usual pre-scription for the Grip is Stuart's, Ca-tarrh Tablets, which can be found in all drug stores. Keep to the house for a day or two and use the tablets freely, and I have never heard any complaint of failure to cure.

Costigan's Address to The King Amended

Continued from First Page, Mr. Charlton found little in the remarks of the leader of the Opposition to criticise, and proceeded to take the same line of argument in justifi-cation of passing the resolution.

COSTIGAN SCORED.

Clarke Wallace deprecated bringing of religious questions into Parliament at all. We had, he Parliament at all. We had, he thought, sufficient to do in passing measures to promote the progress and well-being of the country. Mr. Costigan had never made a speech in parliament calculated to promote the welfare of the country. All of his speeches had been of the racial and religious character, calculated to disturb the house, First he brought up the New Brunswick school question, and then the home rule resolution and then the home rule resolution of 1882. On that occasion he had accused Mr. Costigan of doing so for the purpose of booming himself for the cabinet position. Mr. Costigan had, with great vehemence, degied it, but within a few weeks he entered the cabinet War, he to the state of this kind Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will give more certain and speedy results than any other medicine. They act promptly and directly, making new, rich red blood and strengthen the nerves, and correct all the irregularities inthe cabinet. Was he to-day afraid the mantle of oblivion was to fall upon him that he must bring up this question to let people know the still alive? True, the language of the declaration was strong, but stronger even was the denunciation on Westminster Confession of wherean the Pope of Rome is describ-ed as "that anti-Christ, that man of sin and son of perdition." (Laughter). on, Oldershaw and Chanter, it was That was the doctrine subscribed to by Mr. Charlton himself. Yet Mr. Charlton talked of fighting to the death against the offensive words of the Sovereign's declaration i and of 'not pressing the cup of bitterness to this neighbor's lips. That was the strong language against Roman Cath olic dogmas expressed in the thirty-nine articles of the Church of Engbound them to "persecute and impugn all heretics and chismatics." Why should not Mr. Costigan ask the house to take steps to have that oath amended? There should have been the greatest freedom for discus sion and amendment of this resoluion, but by the arrangement betwee the Premier and Mr. Costigan, whereby it was brought in as a motion on supply, amendment was impossible. There was no reason for an expression of epinion by this parliament on the subject. It was a matter for the Britisn parliament to deal with, and he was satisfied it would mete out justice to every subject of the Empire members of both sides, an amendment to the motion had been agreed upon, which might prove acceptable to the House. It was to strike out the last clause of the Costigan resolution, which reads as follows:—

"That in the opinion of this House the above mentioned act of settlement should be amended by abolishing the said declaration and the British Sovereign be freed forever from the obligation of offending the religious principles of any class of his faithful subjects throughout the British Empire."

And substitute the following:—

come—Hope for Similar Sufferers.

There are thousands of young girls throughout Canada who owe their good health, if not life itself, to the timely use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. Among these is Miss Maud Patterson, whose home is in the vicinity of Strathroy, Ont. To a reporter, who interviewed her, Miss Patterson said: "Several years aga I began to suffer from headaches, was easily tired out, and could see that my health was not what it had been. At first I did not think there was anything serious the matter, and thought the trouble would pass away. In this, however, I was mistaken, for as time went on I became weaker. The headaches attacked me more frequently, my appetite failed. If I stooped I would grow so dizzy that I would almost fish over. I became very pale, and always felt tired and worn out. I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I have reason to rejoice that I followed the advice, and as I continued their use, it seemed as though day by day they were imparting new life to me. My appetite improved, the headaches disappeared, the pallor left my face, the dizziness that bothered me so much also disappeared, and I felt altogether like a different person. I feel that I owe my renewed health entirely to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and as I know that there are many girls who suffer as I did I would arge them to know that there are many girls who suffer as I did I would arge them to lose no time in giving this medicine a fair trial."

a fair trial."

The case of Miss Patterson certainly carries with it a lessonato others who may be pale, languid, easily tired, or subject to headaches, or the other distressing symptoms that mark the onward progress of anaemia. In cases of this kind Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will give more certain and speedy results than any cident to this critical period.
