An enormous crowd gathered at the scene of the murder, at the child's home, and the streets were thronged with people eager for details of the crime. The crowd was in an angry mood, too, and it would have gone hard with the murderer if they had found him. ## RAILWAY BILL PASSED. 7 KNIVES AND SHOT GUNS

They Figured Sensationally at an East End Surprise Party Last Night.

Ottawa, Sept. 30.—With the third reading of the transcontinental railway bill to-day, after almost two solid months of debate, the greatest project of the longest session of the Canadian Parliament becomes a reality. The measure was thoroughly discussed, if not strenuously resisted, at every step, and the fact that it at last passed into law, lacking only the confirmation of the Senate, is a matter of congratulation and of relief to both parties. Liberals and Conservatives alike may honestly claim to have done their duty, and the public have not lacked for the fullest information on both sides of the struggle, the debate on the third reading, occupied the greater part of two The Social Function was Rehearsed again at Police Court to-day - Some Ugly Experiences.

Roman Nolan had a surprise party struggle, the debate on the third reading, occupied the greater part of two days, during which fourteen amendments, many of them identical with those proposed in committee, were moved, and rejected by the House. It is an interesting fact that neither Mr. Blair nor Mr. Tarte was in the House during the voting on any of these amendments. Other events in to-day's proceedings were references to the sitt his home, Park avenue, last night and this morning. It turned out to be a big surprise. The party was given in honor of Mrs. Enos, of Woodstock, who is visiting in the city. Lem. Johnson, porter at the Hotel Garner, was hired to do the fiddling. He played-endments. Other events' in to-day's proceedings were references to the situation at Sault Ste. Marie, in the course of which Sir Wilfrid Laurier denied that the companies' new plan for raising money had been laid before him, and a proposal by Mr. John Charlton that the Government should liberally assist Captain Bernier's polar expedition. On this point Mr. Prefontaine expressed personal sympathy with the project, but said the Government The music had a bad influence r else the musician had noticed a few things.

Jake Enos was real jealous of this comely sister-in-law, Mrs. Enos, of Woodstock, the belle of the ball. He thought that Daniel James and Nelson Parker were getting too big a share of her favors and he was fast getting angry. Then the eight gallon keg of beer had been opened and Jake was complaining that he wasn't getting his share of the invigora-and when Jake was waiting to get his swing in.

Pulling a knife he is alleged to have stabbed David James twice. Then Nelson Parker knocked Enos down. Festivities had now reached their height and everybody appeared to be having a good time. Roman Nolan had been looking after his guests' wants in the liquid refreshment line, and when he saw his friends getting things that were not on the bill of fare, he thought it time to invite a few more guests. So. Roman hied himself down town. It was just 1.20 a. m. when he found P. C. Dezelia, and the officer at once went to the dance because he had been sufficiently urged.

After the host left, however, the party broke up. Enos went home and got his shot gun and decided to square accounts with Nelson Parker, for the blow in the eye. He had been knocked down and out right in front of his amorita and he was boifing at the indignity. It is alleged that he lay in wait on the railroad track near the apple factory and when Parker came along he is said to have filled Parker's legs full of quail shot. Parker certainly got his. His left leg looks like the cover of a pepper box. It is as full of shot as a porcupine is of quills.

The police at once began to round up the guests at the party and it

P. C. Dezelia had a busy night of it. He went back with Nolan and on the way met Mrs. Jacob Enos and her sister-in-law. Mrs. Enos was bleeding from a but on her arm. She was sent to Dr. Rutherford's house. Then Dodson was aroused and P. C. Dezelia came along. Dr. Musson was sent over to James' house over the Creek. He was seriously stabbed. When court opened this morning the prisoner's docket presented a scene such as has never been seen before. The prisoners were—Nelson Parker, shot in the leg; Daniel James, stabbed in the breast and back; Jacob Enos, black eye and otherwise bruised; Joan Franklin and James, Oxendine.

They were charged with being in an unlawful assemblage of persons and pleaded not guilty. They elected to be tried by Judge Houston. On the information of Parker, a charge of shooting and doing grievously bodily harm was preferred against Jacob Enos. He pleaded not guilty and was also remanded. Parker and James was stabbed in the fleshy part of the chest, the knife coming out under the arm. His shirt was all slashed and it is a wonder that he was not killed. Mrs. Enos also has a badly cut arm.

"I have lost the savings of years, the money intended to keep me in my old age. In February last I was told that the reserve fund amounted to $264,000, that the company did not deal in margins, and that no such dealings would be indulged in. On the faith of this statement I paid in $1,264. This has all been lost. I am prepared to swear out an information on these lines."

The Master, Mr. Hodgins, was much impressed by the address. He said: "I can assure you, sir, I feel deeply the disaster that has overtaken the prosperity of St. Thomas. I can assure you and everybody concerned that I shall go back to St. Thomas as desired. Intimation of the date will be duly given, and I shall proceed with the investigation. I will make it my business to place the responsibility for all the actions of the company and its officers, and if anything is definitely shown that is criminal I shall at once place it before the proper officer, and criminal proceedings will be at once instituted. THURSDAY, OCTOBER 1.

FLIGHT OF TIME.

Exactly. This is the 489th day the North Renfrew vacancy.

THE VACANT CONSTITUENCIES

This is the way the Toronto News,

Independent Liberal, sizes it up:-It is now a year and four months since the Legislative seat for North Renfrew became vacant. Sault Ste. Marie and Muskoka are also unrepre sented. In all three constituencies the fair observance of the constitution is refused. All considerations of fair play and constitutional obligation are subordinated to the political exigencies of the Government. There is no other explanation of the deliberate disfranchisement of North Renfrew than that Ministers have been unable to find a candidate who has pirations; the third alone holds out fair hope of carrying the constituency. We do not profess to say whather or not the Government's fear of defeat is well founded. But that the Ministers and their organizers shrink from the contest is very manifest. They hesitate also to order an election in Sault Ste. Marie for the same pitiful reason which has denied North Renfrew its legitimate voice in the Provincial Parliament. Somewhat to the amazement of the Government, which counted upon Mr. Clergue's intervention in its behalf, a Conservative carried that seat at the general election. It was not clear that the opinion of its electorate had changed, and hence a new election was not ordered when Mr. Miscampbell was unseated. Now the Sault has been visited with the disastrous collapse of the Clergue enterprises, and the Government is confronted with new political conditions. The community is looking to Ministers for counsel and relief, and, no doubt, the Ministerial candidate will be made the organ of the Government's beneficence. There will be a vigilant concern for party interests, and a careful selection of party instruments for the preparation and execution of such measures as may be taken for the relief of workmen or for the support of Clergue's embarrassed enterprises. But this is of far less consequence than the deliberate betrayal of the constitution for partisan purposes.

THE THREADGOLD COMMIS-SION.

The Dawson City Record has this to say as to the proceedings of the commission appointed by the Government to investigate the Treadgold concession in the Yukon:

"If ever the hand of the Government was well displayed it occurred yesterday when the royal commission sat at Bonanza. Rather than listen to the unanswerable testimony of the miners, the commissioners threw formalities to the winds and launched forth in the bewildering sea of argument to convince the miners that they should and must accept the Treadgold concession as the only hope of the country. If any miner or other opponent of Treadgold undertakes to make correspondingly as biased statements as those hurled forth in favor of Treadgold by Mr. Justice Britton he is at once stopand told not to say another If he persists in telling the worst facts as he knows them the stenographer is commanded to not take down the words of the witness.

"It is fine for the commissioners on the bench, who prima facie know nothing of the harmful workings of the concessions, and seem inclined to went to know less, to presume to tell the miners what will be for their good. The least the commissioners could do would be to allow the miners to go to the lengths they themselves take the liberty of going, in stating the Yukon's side of the case. Yesterday whenever the commissioners got son well concerned by the minersbetter posted than themselves-they gave way to Mr. Treadgold to let him carry on the Government's arguments with the miners. In the forensic efforts that followed the stenographer was commanded to take no notes of what was said, for it cerstainly was clear that there would be some very pertinent if not harsh things said of Treadgold and the Government with that freedom of speech permitted. Of course it would not do for this heart to heart talk to go to Ottawa to be read by members of Parliament for it contained too much truth to sound well. Candidly, it would seem from yesterday's occurrences that the commissioners are sent here to "square" the Tread-Makes the clothes clean and white. gold concession with the miners by

THREE WAYS. Montreal Star.

There are three, and only three possible futures for this country-a precarious independence, annexation to the United States, and a more vital union with the British empire. The first is dangerous, considering our geographical situation, and might have humiliating results; the second is totally opposed to our national asthe promise at once of security and national development. An ungenerous prejudice prevents Messrs. Bourassa and Monet from seeing this; but even the Province of Quebec does not pin its faith to them by any means, and in the rest of Canada their influence is absolutely nil.

Mr. Pitt's Canadian Nobility.

A contemporary recalls the fact that the framers af the Canada Bill of 1791 thought seriously of estab-lishing an hereditary aristocracy lishing an hereditary armound here. Thirty years later, Mr. Gour lay wrote:

"As to establishing hereditary nobility in Canada, it is a thousand pities that Mr. Pitt's notion had not beep carried into effect. Nothing could have so well exposed the abcould have so well exposed the absurdity as actual trial and consequent ridicule. By this day we should have witnessed many a pleasant farce. We should have seen persant farce. We should have seen persants, the Duke of Ontario leading in a cart of hay, my Lord Eric pitching, and Sir Peter Superior making the rick; or perhaps His Grace might now have been figuring as a petty-fogging lawyer, His Lordship as a peddler, and Sir Knight as a poor barson, starving on 5,000 acres of parson, starving on 5,000 acres of parson, starving on 5,000 acres of clergy reserves."

The report of the debate in the British House of Commons upon the Canada Bill, shows that on March 4th, 1791, Mr. Chancellor Pitt explained that he should propose a Council and House of Assembly for each Province, the Assembly to be constituted in the usual manner, and the members of the Council to be members for life, reserving power to His Majesty to annex to certain honors an hereditary right of sitting in ors an hereditary right of sitting in the Council. TRIBUTE TO COLONIAL TROOPS.

Zeyal Commission Says They Were Akin to Beers in Resourcefulness.

The report of the British Royal Commission on war, of which Lord Strathcona was a member, was re-cently published. The Commission pays a high tribute to the Canadian and Australian contingents. It says there has been received much evidence indicative of the high qualities and value of the over-sea colonial troops, specially the first contingents, and adds that they were picked bodies of men, chosen from among a large number of applicants, chiefly of a kind well suited to the conditions of war in South Africa. If, as an important witness said, they were not so useful as British troops for a serious attack which had to be driven serious attack which had to be driven home, they, on the whole, were more akin to the Boer than to the regular individual in resourcefulness and ability to look after themselves. HORSE WHISPERERS.

Ireland, as well as the far north of Scotland, had-possibly still has-its horse whisperers," though the "brotherings" which give such permanence and geniality to the Scottish "plow-man's whisper" never seem to have existed in the sister island. Irish "whisperers" have been lonely men, whose secret has generally died, with them, says the Golden Penny.

The most famous "whisperer" of modern times was James Sullivan of Dunhallow. No horse was ever brought to Sullivan which he did not permanently tame. Ordinarily restive inimals he would master in a few minntes. For exceptionally vicious horses he took about half an hour, during which time he shut the stable door and forbade any one to open it till he gave the signal. When the door was opened the horse was still lying down and Sullivan by his side, playing with him as a child does with a puppy. There was no tying up of the foreleg or any other visible means of coercion. How his ascendency was obtained no one could tell.

A successor of Sullivan named O'Hara became almost equally famous, and was often urged to explain what was the secret of his influence. But O'Hara treated his questioners as Samson did the Philistines, deluding them with various and unsatisfactory answers. At one time, for instance, he said the secret lay in "rocking" the horse—putting one hand firmly on his crupper, and with the other grasping his shoulder and then swaying him to and fro, gently at first and gradually increasing the motion till you throw him. At another time he protested that his plan was to bite the animal's ear. Both these are well known jockey tricks. The most stubborn horse, they say, will be wholly subdued by being thrown twice or thrice, and if you can get a vicious horse's ear between your teeth and bite hard you are his master and he your submissive slave from that time forward. As to the idea that the "whisperer" works by kindness, it stands to reason that that method supposes the entire education of the animal to be in your hands. If you have only half an hour to do your work in, you must show overmastering power as well as kindly feelings. A hors whose temper has been spoiled by chronic bad treatment looks on all men alike as tyrants and bullies EFFICACY OF THE ONION. Apply It Outside and Inside and Cure a Cold.

The idea of an onion cure may not strike the fancy of the æsthetic. However, the experience of those who have tried it is that it works wonders in restoring a racked system to its normal state again. There are three kinds of doses in the orion cure, or three onion cures, as you choose to put it. One is a diet of onions, the other is onion plas-ters and the third is onion sirup.

It is claimed by those who believe in the onion cure that a bad cold can be broken up if the patient will stay in-doors and feed on a liberal diet of onions. It need not be an exclusive diet, but a liberal one. For instance, an onion cure breakfast includes a poached egg on toast, three tablespoon fuls of fried onions and a cup of coffee. Luncheon of sandwiches, made of Bos-ton brown bread, buttered and filled with finely chopped raw onions, seasoned with salt and pepper, makes the second meal on the schedule. For supper the onions may be fried as for breakfast and eaten with a chop and a baked potato. The strange efficacy of onions is well known to the singers of Italy and ildings, $12,000.00.

Onion plasters are prescribed to break up hard coughs. They are made of fried onions placed between two pieces of old muslin. The plaster is kept quite hot until the patient is snugly in bed, when it is placed on the chest to stay overnight. Onion sirup is a dose that can be bought of any druggist and is claimed by some to be unequaled as a cure for a cold in the

All this is probably quite true. For to be done up with onions, both inside and out, would be enough certainly to chase out any self respecting cold.

Whittier and His Admirers. Few poets had more admirers among women than Whittier had, and this admiration frequently took personal form. One day his sister, in her slow, Quaker fashion, was describing these erup-tions. "Thee hast no idea," she said, tions. "Thee hast no idea," she said, "of the time Greenleaf spends in trying to lose these people on the streets. Sometimes he comes home and says, 'Well, sister, I had hard work to lose him, but I have lost him.'" To this Whittier pathetically added, "But I can never lose a her."

He Wanted the Shoes. "Here, waiter!" said Mr. Meddergrass to the attendant in the city cafe where he was breakfasting. "I see you got some 'fried soles' on this here bill o' fare. Bring 'em on. I think them was the uppers I got fer griddlecakes a dent occurred about half a mile west of here yesterday, where a freight, eastbound, struck and killed Alfred Gault, who was sitting on the track apparently asleep. Immediately the engineer saw him the emergency brake was applied, but the train was so close to Gault that he was run over and instantly killed.

The train was brought to a standstill, and while standing a couple of men came rushing up the track, saying that another man had been killed a quarter of a mile farther east, it is thought by the Imperial Limited. This latter man was afterwards identified as William Cartwright, employed by the Keewatin Lumber Company. He was unmarried and has no relatives in town. There are more realistic situations in the play "Side Tracked" than perhaps any other show of its class on the road, while the ludicrous comedy situations cannot fail to amuse all.

MÉXICAN INDIAN MAIDENS.

They Take the Initiative In Love Affairs and Do the Courting.

The custom of Mexico requires the Indian girl to do all the courting. She is just as bashful as the young swain whom she wishes to fascinate, but she has to take the initiative in love affairs. The young people meet only at the feasts, and after she has got mildly under the influence of the native beer that is Hberally consumed by all she tries to attract his attention by danc-ing before him in a clumsy way up and down on the same spot. But so bashful is she that she persistently keeps her back turned toward him. She may also sit down near him and pull his blanket and sing to him in a gentle, low voice a simple love song, such as "Beautiful man to be sure." If occasion requires, the parents of the girl may say to the parents of the boy, "Our daughter wants to marry your son." Then they send the girl to the boy's Lome that the young people may become acquainted. For two or three days perhaps they do not speak to each other, but finally she playfully begins to throw pebbles at him. If he does not return them she understands that he does not care for her. If he throws them back at her she knows that she has won him. She lets her blanket drop and runs off into the woods, and he is not long in following her.—Carl Lumboltz in "Unknown Mexico."

Change of Air.
The quasi miraculous benefits which are associated with change of air in the popular belief are in reality derived when they accrue from change of environment, qua change of habits of life. In a great many instances the measure of benefit obtainable would be as effectually secured, and at much expense, by mere change of habits. without the fatigue and inconvenience of change of domicile. The overwrought city clerk might advantageously take to driving a cab, while the cabman would find it a relief to discharge for a time the functions of caretaker of a deserted house. Many an overworked physician would experience a distinct improvement were he to qualify as chauffeur, with no other object in view than to cover space, and there are few domestic servants whose health would not be sensibly modified by a brief experience as milkmaid or gleaner should the season lend itself to that pursuit. The "literary gent," whose brain is sterile of new ideas might recuperate his energies by usurping the role of a sick man and remaining in bed for a week or two.

Immediately upon giving an order for a fresh cup a pistol report was heard, and it was discovered that the cook had shot himself. The reason for this, it was later found out, was that he had poisoned the chocolate, and of course when a fresh cup was ordered he supposed his treachery had been discovered. It was in remembrance of this narrow escap that Frederick ordered a spider's web to be painted on the ceiling.

New Zealand's Ownership. Queer points are raised from time time in courts of law. For instance, one just seriously reserved for consideration by an Australian judge of the supreme court—namely, whether New Zealand is legally a British possession. It sounds like a loke at the expense of that most loke at the expense of that most ardent and energetic of Imperialists, King Dick Sddon. At the same time it is possible there may be something in the point. Although Captain Cook repeatedly urged upon the Imperial Government the colonization of New Zealand, no practical step was taken until very late in the thirties, when it leaked out that the French were contemplating the anthirties, when it leaked out that the French were contemplating the annexation of the islands. It was close race between a British and a French man-of-war, the British ship winning by a few hours. It is con-ceivable in the excitement of the moment some formality in the pro-clamation of British sovereignty over clamation of British sovereignty over New Zealand may have been over-looked. In 1835 a Frenchman who called himself Baron de Thierry pro-claimed himself "sovereign chief of New Zealand," but his funds failed, his ninety-three followers deserted, and he sank into obscurity.—London Chrenicle.

British papers say that Sir John British papers say that Sir ohn Fisher, who takes over the Portsmouth command, is one of the strongest men on the flag list. He has seen a good deal of active service, and first became really famous in the Egyptian war of '82, when he adapted and commanded the "iron-clad train." In spite of his years, he is an energetic dancer, and as he has daughters, everyone in the district is looking forward to a good deal of entertaining at Admiralty House. at Admiralty House.

Treasure Treve in England. Not long ago 6,775 English silver pennies which some man had hoarded up for his own benefit in times when pennies were silver were sold to the public at auction in London, realizing $500 for the national treas-try. This money was dug up by some laborers at Colchester while laying the foundation of a building The crown stepped in and seized the a few rare coins in the collection were sent to the British museum. When the hoard was found the price of these silver pennies wenk down in all the coin collectors' markets. This strange and not particularly reason-able law of a treasure trove" has extended from England to France, Germany, Spain and Denmark. If any one finds hidden treasure and con-ceals it for his own use he is liable to fine and imprisonment. It used to be a hanging matter.

Strikers and Police in Conflict, and Many People Hurt. Budapest, Oct. I.-A sanguinary encounter between the police and striking car men took place. Revolvers were used on both sides, and many persons were wounded, several of them mortally. Fifty arrests were made. The collision was due to an attempt of the strikers, about 2,000 men, to prevent non-strikers from working, and to the strikers attacking the yards of the carriers.

Marriage Licenses in Canada.

London, Oct. I.—A correspondent of The Imperial Colonist, relating the romance of a young couple falling in love on the woyage to Canada, says no young girl should come to Canada without protection of some sort. The Leader, referring to the matter, says the ease with which marriage licenses can be procured in Canada is stated to be one of the pitfalls waiting the unwary girl emigrants to the west.

MILNER HAS REFUSED.

Will Not Accept the Colonial Secretaryship. London, Oct. 1. - The Associated Press understands that Lord Milner has refused to accept the Colonial Office portfolio. Premier Balfour is exfice portfolio. Premier Balfour is expected to make an announcement to this effect at the luncheon at Sheffield. The Conservative press is emphatic in regretting the protracted Cabinet crisis. The Standard says:—"Until the Cabinet crisis is ended business men everywhere will be filled with undefined apprehensions. Even in Wall street, much more than in London, a termination to the crisis would be welcomed with a sense of general relief. The procrastination does not assist the Ministry to recover its shaken prestige."

These werg Henry Holmes, Malcolm McLean and Neil McIntyre, all of Ailsa Craig. They were killed instantly. Holmes was caught under the engine and dragged half the length of the bridge, being literally cut to pieces. McLean was hit on the head and thrown against the stonework of the bridge, his brains being knocked out. #### NAMED FOR CANADA

CHRISTENED GREAT BATTLESHIP IN HONOR OF THE DOMINION.

Princess Louise Performed the Ceremony Using Pelee Island Champagne-A Terrible Fighting Machine-One of Five New Warships Which Are the Most Formidable Afleat-Canada's Interest in the Event.

"Dominion" is the name which the British Government chose when wish-ing to christen a great battleship in our honor. The newest of Britain's huge men-o'-wan was launched at Barrow on the last Monday in Au-cust in the presence of a distinguishparrow on the last-Monday in August, in the presence of a distinguished company. The ceremony of naming the ship was performed by Princess Louise, and to add "local color" to the event Pelee Island champagne was used. The vessel being new and unsonbisticated was being new and unsophisticated was just as well pleased as though Veuve Cliquot had been permitted to trickle cown her nose.

Terrible Fighting Machine.

The Dominion, when she is completed, will represent, the highest type of battleship ever built. She will be one o, the largest vessels in the navy. Her guns are of the most powerful ever constructed, and in one minute they will be capable of firing one projectile of 850 pounds, sixteen of 380 pounds, and eight of 380 pounds, and eight o 100 pounds. In pursuit of an enemy the Dominion can fire ahead four pro-jectiles of 850 pounds, eight of 380 pounds, and sixteen of 100 pounds pounds, and sixteen of 100 pounds. Anything that she can approach within twelve miles she can throw a shell aboard of. In other words, the Silver Spray would have little chance in an encounter with her. Her speed will be 18½ knots an hour, and her officers and crew cost will exceed $5,250,000, and she is named after Canada. named after Canada.

Five New Warships The Dominion, as stated, belongs to the most powerful type of battle-ship in the British navy. She shares with four sister ships the honor of being the most formidable man-o'war floating the Union Jack. They are the King Edward VII., launehed at Devonport; the Commonwealth, building at Fairfield; the Hindostan, building at Fairfield; the Hindostan, building at Clydebank; the New Zealand, building at Portsmouth. These are all 16,350-ton ships. The weight of metal discharged by one of these vessels in a single round is 5,920 lbs., and is greater than that of any other British ships. Two American men-o'-war, the Georgia and the Connecticut, exceed this figure, tremendous as it is the latter being capendous as it is the latter being capendous as it is, the latter being capable of unloading 7,380 pounds of sudden death at one discharge.

Theoretical Improvements. Experts declare that the Dominion and the four other ships of her class exemplify the new tendency of battleship designers to afford better pro-tection to the secondary battery, and to increase the calibre of the guns. The improvement-for such we must it to be-was first noticeable in the Mikasa, a battleship built for the Japanese Government by Vickers and Maxim, the builders of the Dominion. In lieu of the scattered case-ment system, a central battery is used. It must be admitted, however, that most of the "improvements" which each of these great ships shows on its predecessor are of a theoreti-cal nature. There is no finality about They represent experiments The reason is that there has been little or no opportunity to test in action the merits of the different systems of armaments. The bombardment of Alexandria in 1882 was the first and last time that modern British ships have been engaged. The Spanish-American War was not as suggestive of the power of these eviathians as it might have been and the navies of the two countries been more evenly matched. The same remark applies to the naval battles between China and Japan. Where (anada Stands.

Canada's interest in discussions of that she has a ship for which she will stand sponsor. True, the Do-minion is not ours, in the sense that the Good Hope belongs to Cape Colony, inasmuch as this magnificent vessel, which bore Joseph Chamberlain to South Africa, was a free gift of Cape Colony to the Motherland. Canada, however, through her Gov-ernment, expressed her unwillingness ernment, expressed her unwingness to make any such contribution to the Empire's navy at the colonial con-ference. Australia is giving a mil-llon dollars a year for this purpose, New Zealand $200,000, Cape Colony $250,000, Natai $175,000, and even Newfoundland has promised to con-tribute $15,000 annually, besides $9,-000 for fitting up a drill ship. The 000 for fitting up a drill ship. The ancient colony also maintains a naval reserve force of 600 men. But where is Canada? This country is standing modestly by, and permit-ring the rest of the Empire to name

A Gift From the Dominion On this eccasion, however, Canada will not fail in showing appreciation of the honor done her. She will deof the honor done her. She will desire to follow the precedent established by Godparents, who grace somewhat similar occasions by presenting a mug or a spoon to their little namesake. This custom is very popular in the United States, where the practice is made of naming vesthe practice is made of naming ves-sels after the various States. The State so honored never fails to pre-State so honored never falls to present to the vessel some magnificent present, beautiful dinner plates being probably the favorite gift. Most of the large American men-o'-war have exquisite services, and much rivalry is shown by the various States, each being anxious to outdo her sisters. The Dominion Government will probably not allow the opportunity to pass without presenting to the Dominion some present to show that we are not insensible to the compliment that has been paid us. Whatever gift is chosen, it must be worthy of a great country. The bost is none too good for the Dominion, and only the best would be worthy of Canada.

Mrs. Anderson, a prominent society woman of Jacksonville, Fla., daughter of Recorder of Deeds, West, says:

"There are but few wives and mothers who have not at times endured agonies and such pain as only women know of. I wish such women know the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It is a remarkable medicine, different in the compound of the compo action from any other I ever knew and thoroughly reliable.

action from any other I ever knew and thoroughly reliable.

"I have seen cases where women doctored for years without permanent benefit who were cured in less than three months after taking your Vegetable Compound, while others who were chronic and incurable came out cured, happy, and in perfect health after a thorough treatment with this medicine. I have never used it myself without gaining great benefit. A few doses restores my strength and appetite, and tones up the entire system. Your medicine has been tried and found true, hence I fully endorse it."—Mrs. R. A. The experience and testimony of some of the most noted women of America go to prove, beyond a question, that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will correct all such trouble at once by removing the cause, and restoring the organs to a healthy and normal condition.

The interior is, as might be supposed, lavishly fitted up, the grand staircase and landings being entirely of marble. One of the downstairs rooms possesses a beautiful mantelpiece, concerning which an amusing story is told. A pompous diamond merchant in the city, meeting Lord Rothschild, and wishing to create a favorable impression by a display of wealth, asked the great financier whether he had seen anything to approach the materials of a signet ring which he handed his lordship for inspection. "Very pretty," said the head of the Rothschilds; "I've got a mantelpiece like it in my house." it adjoins. The interior is, as might it in my house

A poet of almost heroic build is Arthur Stringer. There are six feet and an inch of him. Also he is more or less good to look at. An English recruiting sergeant would scan him with longing eyes. Seeing him in a trowd you might pick him out for a thampion athlete or, by his smooth face, for a matinee idol. There's nothing about him to suggest the poet—save his poetry. Neither does he seem to have the poetic temperament. He is no dreamer, no idler. ment. He is no dreamer, no idler. His mental poise seems to be as sound and as well balanced as his physical carriage, which is saying a nd deal.

Canada is rather proud of having produced such a poet, and with good cause. London, Ontario, is his birth-place. His years are about thirty. place. His years are about thirty.
He comes from a fine old English family in whith there's an earldom or something of the sort, but Mr.
Stringer carefully keeps this fact in the background. He stands on his own feet. You may see by glancing at him that he needs no coat-of-arms background to proclaim his no-

Before he was twenty-five he had published two volumes of verse in Canada. They were slim little volumes which brought him small fame and less money. Yet it was poetry, good poetry. The Canadians, however, prefer to wait until "The States" discover their geniuses "The States" discover their geniuses before showing their own appreciation. So Mr. Stringer sailed down into New York, prepared to starve in a hall bedroom. But he didn't. The New York magazine editors—who are much maligned, you know—promptly discovered that his poetry was good and paid him well for his verses. Since then, both by shart staries and verse, he has been winwas good and paid him well for his verses. Since then, both by shart stories and verse, he has been winning wide recognition and the rewards which accompany the same.

Just now, while his new book of poems is being praised by the London critics, while the publishers are issuing his first novei, "The Silver Poppy," Mr. Stringer is up in Ontarlo, on the shores of Lake Erfe, looking after his fruit farm, working in blue shirt and overalls and enjoying himself hugely. Next fall, when his melons and pears and grapes have all been gathered and sold, he will pack his trunks and typewriting machine and start either for New York or London, where he will settle down for a winter's hard work.

Mr. Stringer's novel is likely to receive an extraordinary amount of at-

Mr. Stringer first met the lady in the manner described in the book, and his experiences of this "yellow vampire" are faithfully described. Here is a little sermon on honesty that Canadians who produce for ex-port should take well to heart. "Disport should take well to heart. "Dishonesty on the part of the American cheesemaker," says an agricultural newspaper published in Iowa, "destroyed his English market for his product, and gave to his shrewder and more honest Canadian competitor a market worth millions of dollars a year. It pays in the long funte be honest."

Having, according to this, gained a market worth millions by honesty, it should not be necessary to remind Canadians who export cheese, butter, fruit, and other products that "it

Canadians who export cheese, butter, fruit, and other products that "it ways in the long run to be honest."
But such reminders are necessary. The Canadian trade agents abroad are sending home warnings against sharp practices in packing goods for export. The Government has found it necessary to guard the outlet, to prevent improperly packed and disthecessary to guard the outlet, to prevent improperly packed and dishonestly graded goods from getting away to foreign parts. It seems that the individual producer often takes no interest in the foreign market, and that the small dealer is often equally deficient in a sense of responsibility, so that everything depends on the man who actually does the exporting. The Government by various newly-devised regulations seeks to enforce honesty where it does not exist, and the importance of this cannot be overestimated. But the individual producer should bear in mind that when the preducts of a country get a good reputation in the country get a good reputation in the world's markets it means prosperity for the producing classes.

Declines to Acc pt Fees.

Niche as Murphy, K.C., who is an old friend of Sir Melville Parker, who has been recently ill at his home in Cooksville, noted the fact that Sir Melville, who over 40 years ago was appointed a justice of the peace, is one of the very few holders of such office who declines to accept fees or emolument for his services. While living a quiet retired life as a country gentleman, Sir Melville has always taken an active interest in local affairs, and was warden of Peel County, and was reeve of Toronto Township for several terms.

"A man of education," said Mr. Murphy, "of refinement and of a most genial disposition, with both friends and oppowents, and a Justice of the Peace for many, many years, in the County of Peel, Sir Melville has settled more cases that have some before him by making friends of those who wanted to be enemies, than any other Justice of the Peace in Canada. And he was always an adherent of the fact that stands patent, that Justices of the Peace should not be paid fees, and he held his position in that capacity without any fees or reward for his valuable and long service."

BIT OF FRENCH HISTORY.

An Empire Lost For Want of the Right Sort of Riding Habit. An old legend which makes no pretense to truth tells how a kingdom was lost for want of a horseshee nail. But a volume of sober historical and biographical purpose, written by Count d'Herrison, makes it appear that the Empress Eugenie, after the battle of Sedan, lost the chance to preserve the empire of her husband by not possess ing exactly the right sort of riding habit. It was the evening of Sept. 3,

The news of the surrender of the French army and of the Emperor Na-poleon at Sedan had spread about Par-is. The city was excited, and there was talk of a revolution and the ban-ishment of the imperial family. At this juncture Emile de Girardin, a man who was trusted by the empress and who had had no little experience during the previous changes of govern-ment, arrived at the palace of the Tuileries. "If your majesty were to appear on horseback in the midst of the peo-ple," Girardin said, "and announce the abdication of the emperor in favor of the prince imperial, your own assumption of the title of empress regent and the appointment of Thiers as prime minister, the empire might be saved

Something must be done to turn the tide." The empress accepted the advice. But when this leader of the world's fashion sought for a proper costume for her performance it could not be found. The only riding habit in the Tuileries was a fantastic one of green, embroid-ered with gold and silver, made for a festal hunting occasion, and the hat was a not less fantastic three cornered affair of the epoch of Louis Quinze. The empress felt that it would not do to appear in this garb on such an occasion. Her appearance in it might have the opposite effect upon the people from that which she intended. The plan had to be given up, the empress and the prince imperial were banished and the Napoleonic empire was at an end. <

A NOSE FOR NEWS.

The Genuine Newspaper Reporter Is Born, Not Made.

"Poets are born, not made," said the retired newspaper man to the New Or-leans Times-Democrat, "and I might add that reporters come into this world in much the same way. For instance, the 'born' reporter will get a story if there is one in sight, while he who only has what I would call a mechanical sort of training will skim over the same ground without ever discovering that anything out of the ordinary has happened. Not many years ago I was holding an important position on one of the principal journals of Chicago. I was one day put on the city editor's desk, and, wanting to test the ability of two new men on the staff, I assigned both of them to the same story. Of course neither knew the other was in the neighborhood, and you ought to have seen their respective reports. One of them had a two column story that created a sensation from one end of the city to the other, while the other turned in about two 'sticks' of the driest stuff I ever remember to have read, I am satisfied that both the men covered the story to the best of their respective abilities. One of them simply had a 'nose for news' and the other didn't. As I said, reporters are born. not made by studying 'journalism' in the abstract. The natural born reporter is at home in a newspaper office, he can live on ink and can sleep soundly on the imposing stone. He sees little news in a dog biting a man, but he is quick to grasp the importance of an item telling about a man biting a dog."

A Puzzling Problem.

The man seemed to be very much excited. "We've made a bet," he said, "on a question of law, and we've agreed to leave it to you."

"I'll do the best I can to settle it," returned the great lawyer, gratified by this evidence of the opinion in which he was held. "What is the question of Dear Sirs, — Your MINARD'S LIN-law? "Why, a two dollar cat belonging to Brown ate a ten dollar bird belonging to Jones, and we want to know who has legal title to the combination of bird and cat."

A Word In Season. The playwright turned pale with excitement and a sudden rush of pride as he heard from his position in the wings the sound of stamping feet and roaring voices. "They are calling for the author!" he cried feverishly. "What shall I do? Must I make a speech?" The manager, who had not only heard but seen the audience, took him by the elbow.

"The best thing you can do," he whispered, "is to slip out of the stage door and escape while there's time."

The Eucalyptus Tree.
When the world's supply of coal is exhausted, which is not a matter for immediate worry, the eucalyptus tree may be grown as a substitute. This eucalyptus stores up more of the sun's energy than any other tree (1 per cent of that reflected on the unit of area), and in South Africa it has been found cheaper to raise it than to import coal. An acre of eucalyptus plantation will produce each year the equivalent of thirty tons of coal.

His Musical Taste. "You never applaud at a concert." "No," answered Mr. Cumrox. "If I enjoy a piece well enough to applaud it I know by that fact that it isn't the sort of music that mother and the girls would approve of my applauding.".

Convictions that remain silent are either sincere nor profound.—Balzac.

IT IS NOT THE BRAIN

But the Stomach that is Responsible for that Depressing Headache— Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets will cure it and cure it Permanently.

"He hasn't enough brains to have a headache," is a term so often used that one might be led to believe head-aches were caused by the brain. But aches were caused by the brain. But any physician will tell you that head-aches—the dull depressing kind that are worst of all—come from the stomach. Headaches are one of the symptoms of Indigestion, and Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets drive them away once and for all.

This is not an idle statement but

This is not an idle statement but something that has been proved thousands of times. Here is one of the proofs. Juliana Sandburg, of 221 John St., Hamilton, says:

"For over six years I had been troubled with Dyspepsia and Headaches. Nothing I ate would agree with me and nothing I tried would cure me.

"Acting upon the advice of others I began to use Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. I got relief almost at once and was soon completely cured."

Reading of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets won't cure Dyspepsia Headaches, but using Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets has never failed to do it.

Education of the Blue Bloods.

The new governess, having by the passive assistance of the school-room pierglass primly patted her back hair and bestowed an admonitory twist upon the silver "Mizpah" locket adorning a particularly scraggy throat, turned affably to her two pupils, and in a prim "Miss Edgeworth" sort of manner, remarked: "My dears, the countess having left the ordering of your course of study entirely in my hands, I purpose following the method I have hitherto pursued in the numerous highly respectable and intensely superior middle-class families it has been my privilege to educationally direct. We will therefore commence with the simplest lessons suitable for your tensely superior middle-class families it has been my privilege to educationally direct. We will therefore commence with the simplest lessons suitable for your years, your sex and station. It is now ten o'clock. Until 10.30 we will concentrate our attention upon the caligraphic art. You, Lady Blanche, will write out 'Modesty is the crown of womanhood' twenty-five times; while you, Lady Ermyntrude, will transcribe 'Virtue is life's purest pearl' in similar ratio."

Lady Blanche, aged eleven, took from her pocket an elegant bonbonniere, and choosing therefrom a marron glace with the same careful earnestness that a mature smoker betrays when selecting a cigar from a well-filled case, proceeded to daintily nibble the corners.

Then, leaning comfortably back in the low rocking-chair and crossing her long legs in a ladylike manner, she bestowed a comprehensive wink upon the more juvenile Ermyntrude, and said, pleasantly. "My dear Miss Frumpletoweer, it will be better for all parties concerned if we come to an immediate and perfectly clear understanding. You, I presume, for the sake of a certain number of spondulicks paid quarterly or annually, as the case may be, have agreed to impress upon our plastic minds certain trite items of cut-and-dried information which serve to make up, as a whole, what is termed education, whilst we—my sister and my-self—as a duty we are supposed to owe to our parents, have consented to be thus impressed. So far so good. But when you speak of modesty and virtue in the—forgive me if there is anything offensive in my manner of putting it!—childish, middle-class manner to which you have, from your own admission, hitherto been accustomed, you fairly make me tired! Why, good gracious! Suppose sister Ethel had followed your first maxim, and hadn't made a dead set at the Duke of Dullborough, and dogged him all over the blessed shop, so to speak, do you imagine she would now be a duchess and a persona grata even in royal circles? Or what becomes of mother—who has been three times divorced—if your If your second aphorism is worth a pinch of salt? No, no! Modesty and virtue are excellent things in their proper place—which I opine to be some musty dictionary safely stowed away upon some top shelf. What we principally require is some little practice in waltz-steps and the perfecting of our French accent, the latter of which—Ermy's in particular—I frankly admit to be vile. You'll have a capital berth here when you get to know the ropes—providing, of course, that we pull together. In that little cupboard there, behind the bookcase, you'll find a bottle of cherry brandy and a box of fairly decent cigarettes, and underneath the sofa cushion is a copy of Gautier's 'Mademoiselle de Maupin,' which we prigged from mother's boudoir, and which will certainly not be missed for a day or two. Suppose we begin with a cut-at that for an hour or so? There's heaps of words I can't make out, and the dictionary's such slow work!"

And as every hair upon the respectable tionary's such slow work!"

And as every hair upon the respectable governess's head betrayed irrepressible symptoms of standing bolt upright, she added, easily:
"I suppose even you've had a mash or two in your time! But you shall tell us all about it at your leisure. Ermy, dear, do run upstairs and fetch my puff. You'll find it between the poudre de Ninon box and my ivory-backed church-service."—

Golf is played on a green. You just go on the green. The boy puts the ball on a little hillock of sand, and all you have to do is to hit it. Not the boy or the sand, but the ball.

Hit the ball as hard as you can, and send it as far as you can. Then let the boy go and find it. Meanwhile, you consult the fourth requisite for the game, the bottle of Scotch.

Golf is a special Scotch game.
The boy is called a caddie, and you can readily see that he is a very useful thing to have about you. He carries all the implements of the game (except that fourth one), places the ball for you, and hunts for it afterwards. If you are a particular person, the caddie can be commissioned to swear for you. But most golfers prefer to de their own swearing. They find it useful, as an aid to the real science of the sport.

In putting the ball into the hole it is customary to use the club. But, if you can get the caddie to turn round and look at the prospect at the critical moment, you will find it much easier to shove the ball into the hole with the toe of recent parts.

shove the ball into the noise with the coe of your boot. Ladies play golf, but they never should. They cannot master the language of the royal and ancient game. If they smash a club, or get bunkered, they merely ob-serve, "Bother it!" And "Bother it!" is not golf.—"Ally Sloper's Half-Holiday."

Up to Him.

"Edward," asked Genevieve Zoremus,
"do you think a girl should propose?"
"Why, no, indeed! It is beneath woman's dignity."
"There, now!" said the gentle girl;
"I told mamma she was wrong. She said that when a young man came to see a girl every night in the week for two years, and stayed for dinner every Sunday, and smoked her father's cigars, and always happened around whenever we, had any company, so he would be invited to go to the theater with us, it was the girl's privilege to take it for granted that he was sincere in his attentions and ask him whether he preferred a wedding-trip, or would rather just settle down to home life in a neat little cottage."

Edward knew a hint when a brick wall was shoved over on him.—"Judge."

"Your aunt is shut up in an asylum, isn't she!" "Well, she is and she isn't. She is in there all right enough, but they can't stop her talking."—"Judge."

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Sept. 30.-The immediate fear of more rioting being practically at an end, unless unexpected developments occur, the people of Sault Ste. Marie are once more wondering who will eventually secure centrol of the great works at the Sault. The report was received here to-night that the Speyer loan had been underwritten by Philadelphia banking institutions, but where new and condicting stories are flung about almost every day there is little disposition to believe anything. The unsecured creditors, however, do not see how the mere taking over of the Speyer loan would favorably affect them. Liens, continue to be registered against the property, although this course can do little good to the creditors, for everything appears to be covered by the blanket mortgage given to Speyer. It centrol of the great works at the blanket mortgage given to Speyer. It was stated that the veneer mill was not included in the list of the properties under the mortgage schedule, but this under the mortgage schedule, but this turns out to be incorrect, one authority stating that there are two mortgages on the mill. The total liens on the properties on the Canadian side now amount to about $000,000, and on the American side to some $300,000, and the Sheriff is serving writs every day. With the arrival of the second contingent of troops from Toronto this morning, the guards at the various places where the soldiers have been stationed were strengthened and a morning, the guards at the various places where the soldiers have been stationed were strengthened and a more thorough patrol of the streets made. Every point of approach to the works of the Soo Company and danger-point on the canal were carefully guarded, also all public buildings. Over 400 militia, regulars and volunteers are now safeguarding property here. The special train with the volunteers which left Toronto at noon yesterday arrived here at 9 o'clock this morning. There were 287 officers and men, under command of Major Merritt, 109 from the Queen's Own, 71 from the Grenadiers, 83 from the 48th Highlanders, and 24 from the Army Medical Corps. The troops were paraded through the main streets and at different points were greeted with cheers by the population. Everything then was so quiet in the town that both Colonel Buchan and Mayor Plummer thought that the

and Mayor Plummer thought that the presence of so many troops were not required, and it was arranged that the Toronto volunteers should return home this afternoon. They were actually being marched to the train when an order came counterwardings the investment of the control o being marched to the train when an order came countermanding the instructions to return. This was done, Mayor Plummer explained, at the express wish of Mr. Coyne, manager at the Soo works, and Mr. Body, superintendent of the Ste. Marie River Canal. Both these gentlemen believed that the property was in danger, and they desired that troops might be allowed to remain a couple of days longer, till matters quieted down. Mr. Coyne made his request in writing to Mayor Plummer, and the latter agreed to permit the troops to remain. When the bill comes in for the troops there is going to be an argument as to who is responsible. It is costing at least $800 a day to keep so many soldiers here, and Mayor Plummer disclaims responsibility for requesting such a number of troops. He said to your correspondent that he had originally asked for fifty men, but had increased this number to end

He said to your correspondent that he had originally asked for fifty men, but had increased this number to one hundred on the urgent appeal of Mr. Coyne and Mr. James Conmee.

Although 300 more workmen came in from the lumber camps to-night, the town is quiet under the guaradianship of the troops. It is probable that the Toronto volunteers will return to-morrow, but the regulars will be left here for several days yet. This morning the Algoma Central sent out a special train to bring in some of the men. The train, which went as far as Ogidaki, 03 Algoma Central sent out a special train to bring in some of the men. The train, which went as far as Ogidaki, og miles up the line, returned at 8 o'clock to-night. There was a guard of soliders on board, and no trouble occurred. The train had to proceed very slowly, though, in order that all the bridges and trestles might be examined, as it was feared they had been tampered with. A mile below Island Lake the train struck a hand-car, on which were six French-Canadians who were making their way in from camp. None of them were seriously injured. As the city was not feeding any more men, the Soo Company looked after these. At Soo Company looked after these. At Tagona Station, about four miles out, agents of the Son Company boarded the train and distributed three meal tickets to each man. This will keep them over dinner-time to-morrow, and after that they are expected to secure after that they are expected to secure work and get out of town. Most of those who came in to-night were French-Canadians, and they were unacquainted with the situation here. A guard of the regulars was drawn up at the company's station upon the arrival of the train, but the men shouldered their baggage and quietly left the grounds. There are still some two hundred and fifty men to come from the lumber camps, and the company will try and bring them in to-morrow. The steamer Minnie M. is due to arrive

At the street car station, out near the works, this afternoon, a group of the men stood around a natice posted by Mackenzie & Mann, asking for 500 men to go on the Canadian Northern near Winnipeg, and offering for station men 10c to 20c, bridge carpenters 30c an hour, laborers $1.75 a day with board at $4 a week, and free transportation. No one in that group, however, seemed disposed to accept the offer. To-morrow may tell a different tale.

Some societies had passed proval. Some societies had passed out of existence during the year, and new ones had been formed. One Secretary, in explaining about his society, said that the low spiritual life of the young people was certainly the secret fithe loss of interests never before of the loss of interest; never before in his village had young people lived such worldly lives. # PURITY.

We use only the best grade of barley, which is malted under our direct supersion, and the choicest Pacific, Bavarian and Kent Hops, and will gladly contribute $1,000 to charity if any one can show that any Brewer in Canada uses better,

In brewing, after the beer has been boiled in the kettle, it is pumped in to surface cooler (an enormous pan) and then allowed to run slowly over pipes, through which cold water and cold brine is circulating, and at the same time exposed to strong drafts of pure air, to bring the beer down to proper temperature. During this process the beer will absorb bad odors or impurities in the air, and a brewery located in a neighborhood where there are impurities in the air is certain to produce beer that is more or less charged with impurities. Our plant is located in a section free from dirt, dust and "bad smells," and the coolers are 80 ft. from the ground.

We employ only competent men whose wages run from 25 per cent. to 40 per cent. above that paid by most of our competitors. All of our apparatus is strictly first-class and up-to-date. POOR BREWING

MATERIAL, ANTIQUATED APPLIANCES and CHEAP LABOR MEANS FILTH AND BEER THAT IS UNHEALTHFUL.

When you pay the standard price of five cents for a glass of beer you have s right to receive, and should demand the best, and if you do not have it furnished you should refuse to accept it.
