250 Saint Johners Arrive Today

Will Tour Campus

About 90% of the student body of the University of New Brunswick, Saint John Branch, will arrive in Fredericton today at 3:00. This was announced last Saturday by Gerald White, President of the Students' Representative Council at Saint John.

The main reason for the trip is the Ian and Sylvia concert, beginning at 8:00 tonight.

In addition they will take part in campus tours which will serve to introduce them to the parent University. During their short stay they will be encouraged to mix closely with UNB students from the Fredericton campus.

One informed source said that a large proportion of the three hundred-student Saint John Branch will be returning for Saturday's football game against the Shearwater Flyers.

It has not been formally discussed yet whether trips by the Saint John students to Fredericton will be a common occurrence this year, although some students at the branch said they hoped this would be the case.

Last year there were no official trips to the up-river campus by the then freshman - only Saint John group. This year there are more than fifty second year students in addition to almost 250 freshmen in Saint John.

Drama Active Again

The University of New Brunswick Drama Society made an announcement Monday concerning their 1965-1966 productions. "This year promises to be full of top-notch entertainment brought to students by the society," said Gordon Cunningham, Drama Society President.

Productions planned for the season include a night of one-act plays by authors such as Pinter and Albee. The festival (Dominion Drama Festival) production, according to one executive member of the society, will more than likely be that Pulitzer - Prize winning play by Arthur Miller, "Death of a Salesman," "Again the Society is tackling one of the most difficult plays of the Twentieth Century," one member noted.

The first meeting of the Society, for all interested people, will be held in the Tartan Room of the Memorial Student's Centre on Monday evening, September 27th at 8:00. The Agenda will consist of slides of previous productions and a discussion of this year's proposed plays.

Voting Rights Unclear

OTTAWA (CUP) — Prime Minister Pearson told executives from the Canadian Union of Students that there is no way out of the legal difficulties surrounding student voting in the current federal election.

Following the 45 minute meeting with the prime minister last week, CUS President Patrick Kenniff announced that he was seeking legal advice on the issue.

CUS legal council today reported that students who come under the following categories should be able to vote in the university constituency:

Nelson Castonguay, chief electoral officer, admitted last week that some students would be able to vote in their university constituencies provided they were willing to swear that the university was now their normal place of residence. They would have to claim that they were not planning to return to a previous home following the university year.

He denied however, that University of British Columbia students had found a way out by claiming that deposits made in the summer for residence constituted residence.

the inside

The inside. Beginning in this week's Brunswickan is a features, or magazine section. Thanks to the work of Brunswickan features editors Nelson Adams and Flossie Stickles, this will be a regular part of the University newspaper.

In addition to interviews, previews, and reviews, the inside will contain information of general interest to the students such as articles on faculties, education, the SRC, and entertainment.

Readers can expect the inside to range in size from four to eight pages in the Brunswickan. But, as the Editor-in-chief noted, "We need plenty of contributions to keep the standards high."

Features writers can become part of the Brunswickan staff by writing or telephoning the Brunswickan office in the Students Centre.

"WATCH OUT FOR WHAT?"

"All that changes stays the same."

— The Old Indian or somebody

"It would seem that the campus will see a new organization this fall... a branch of the Kindness Club. Be kind to the Lombardy Poplars! Yes, this may be THE lost cause to be fought for this fall. First, of course, the people who are engaging in all the noble screaming will have to be taught just what the devil a Lombardy Poplar is... most of them wouldn't know a Lombardy (or any other kind of) Poplar if one fell on them. But alas... lack of knowledge will not deter those who WILL make a civil disobedience issue out of every alleged wrong from the price of postmens' shoe laces to the propriety of doing "the shake" in bare feet. So we can anticipate sit-ins in or under the trees... especially by the people from Mackenzie House, who have nowhere else to sit anyway.

This year, as well as was the case in the nineteen years previous, we will be told that education is "at the crossroads" (which after all, is not such a bad location) and that the position of the student in the community is at a never-before-reached "point of crisis" (which will nonetheless be surpassed in next year's speeches). We will be reminded that we have a high degree of responsibility to maintain and improve the image held by the general public of university students. In translation, that means that we are NOT to lie about our ages no matter how great our thirst... we are not to walk on the lawns, smoke in the classrooms, play cards in the student centre, carry cases of beer up the hill (use taxis), or go to bed without our student card handy (lest it be lost in a fire, presumably). There will be similar prohibitions concerning parking, both on the campus and in the Corbet Road. We will be allowed, however, to demonstrate with impunity... provided the issue is not at variance with University policy and we get a parade license from the Chief of Police.

That pretty well covers the current situation... so you see that, in the midst of change, campus life remains constant. It would be a grave mistake to take life at UNB too seriously... that way one would miss out on most of his education.

With it in mind that THE COLUMN has never been seen before by at least a thousand of its present readers, and that some of its former readers who have forgotten about it might wish to keep it that way unless they can understand it (which should confuse the average reader right there), here is an idea of what to expect in the next thirty weeks. The writer, insofar as he can reasonably be predicted to do so, will examine Sally Freshette and other campus eccentrics... comment upon the burning issues of the day (carefully avoiding that other time)... and satirize such institutions as lend themselves to that artistic medium (providing at least a veil of protection from the laws of libel). He who laughs may not pass, but at least he will be a happy failure.

Brunswickan Expands

This Brunswickan is being read by University students in two cities. After discussions with the Student Council President of the Saint John Branch of UNB, an agreement was reached whereby the Brunswickan will appear at the college in the afternoon of the same day it is issued at the Fredericton campus.

The cost of the paper will be shared on a per student basis, Saint John students contributing an amount equal to the Fredericton contribution. The money is part of their SRC fees.

Reporters at the Saint John branch will submit newsworthy items to the Brunswickan by mail and by telephone, depending on their urgency. Staff members in Fredericton expressed their pleasure at the idea of serving two cities.

It is probable that the Brunswickan, Canada's oldest student publication, is the first to be delivered in two metropolitan areas.

UNB Candidate

Des Cunnington, in Fredericton early to prepare for a hectic political campaign, says his club will try to raise money to place a candidate in the November election.

Cunnington, Grand Patriarch of the Christian Atheist Party states that he feels quite confident about the outcome. He sees no problems in raising the deposit. The CA party, founded at UNB about ten years ago, is based on the principles of 'Democratic Anarchy, Militant Pacifism, and Middle of the Road Revolutionary Thinking.' Its object is to provide a chance for all students to participate in UNB's Model Parliament without becoming affiliated with a national party.

The party has always met with great success in the past.

It is the only 'third party' in the model parliament.

Radio Reorganizing

Radio UNB, the University closed-circuit broadcasting station, will be holding its first general meeting on Tuesday, September 28. The organization, suffering from a number of setbacks as a result of some members failing to return to the University, will welcome new members who are willing to learn about the broadcasting trade.

Old and new members from UNB and STU should attend said Station Manager Burk Brisson, when the group gathers in Room 12 on Memorial Hall at 7:00 Tuesday.

It was also announced that Radio UNB will be off the air for a two - to - three week period in order to train new staff.

CEA Conference

The Canadian Education Association has been holding its annual convention in Fredericton since September 22. The conference is taking place in the Lord Beaverbrook Hotel.

Upwards of 500 delegates are expected including the Standing Committee of the Ministers of Education of all ten provinces.

The opening address was given Wednesday by the Very Rev. Msgr. Donald C. Duffie, President of St. Thomas University.

Educational financing, as a national and a provincial-municipal problem is a problem of major concern and is the topic of a panel discussion planned for the conference.

Recorder Stolen

A new tape recorder was stolen from the Brunswickan office last Friday. The recorder, a Phillips Model 3300, is about the size of a medium-sized transistor radio.

A reward is offered for the return of the recorder, which may have been deserted somewhere on campus by the person responsible for its disappearance. If it is found, the discoverer should report its location to the Brunswickan and can collect his reward immediately.

MEMORIAL STUDENT CENTRE

The Memorial Student Centre was opened in May, 1955. In it are located offices of the Students' Representative Council, the Alumni Association, and of various clubs and student organizations. The building also contains common rooms and a cafeteria.

Although they suffered a few casualties, the Lombardy Poplars, standing at the foot of the Hill on the site of a proposed new 'truck route', are still there. The University obtained a court injunction temporarily suspending the City of Fredericton cutting operations.

foundations while the other is completing the main structure. There was some delay when the second company took over, as the bill of material had not been approved, and just recently there was a shortage of bricks, which halted work for three weeks.

At present, work is being completed on the top floor only, which will house approximately fifty men. The expected completion date for the whole building is the end of October.

Meanwhile where are the residents of MacKenzie House living? It seems one can find a MacKenzie House resident in many places on and off campus. Some are living three to a room in Jones and Aitken while others are crowded two to a room in the singles of the other residences. Still others, when hearing wind of "no place to live" made arrangements downtown. It is hoped that these students will find replacements when they vacate and move "up the hill".

Incidentally, one unique feature of MacKenzie is its floors — they are made to reduce noise.

DINING HALL WINGS

Two small wings have been added to the men's Dining Hall. They will give the space needed immediately to serve the increased number of students in the residence complex. The expansion provides more dishwashing facilities and a staff dining area. The new space and equipment will supplement serious shortages that have hampered service at McConnell for nearly three years.

DAWSON'S BUILDING AT LAST

Last year the Brunswickan mentioned that a new building for the Maintenance department would be constructed near the heating plant.

The huge addition will house most of the department's equipment, and is expected to be satisfactory to accommodate the University's needs for the next few years.

It includes space for staff to congregate in periods between duties.

BOOKSTORE - BANK EXTENSION

An extension to the University bookstore-bank building is under construction. The building, located just below the Campus Services (Maintenance) Building, houses the Bank of Montreal (University Campus Branch) and the bookstore.

as females cannot be expected to go out and cut down a tree or saw logs the same way a man does but we still can do the same things in the brains department.

Sue: There will be a personal satisfaction after five years of study and consequently, an enjoyment of the woods. Even though we might be in executive positions we will know we have first hand knowledge about the woods.

Carol: I agree with both the other girls. As long as we attain the same marks as the men why can't we do just as much to aid forestry as they do. Chopping a tree or logging isn't the only thing in Forestry.

Brunswickan: With these attitudes how do you expect to be treated by your classmates?

Emmy: They will treasure us or resent us on this point.

Sue: I agree.

Carol: I expect to be treated on an equal basis. We have the same entrance requirements, therefore shouldn't we have the same treatment? We should not be discriminated against. It should not bother them. I don't feel I'm intruding on men's rights.

Emmy: It's a novelty for them although that doesn't sound good. If we can equal the men's studies, they should accept us. We realize that we will never equal them at spring camp or at the Hammerfest. I would definitely like to enter into these events but I realize that it would mean a loss of my femininity. We just ask them not to resent our presence. I would like to learn. They must realize that this is not a novelty for us and we have come to learn. I'm very wary about the whole situation. It's rather confusing.

Carol: I never realized that this was so unusual until I arrived. What is so unusual? It's the same thing as any other course as far as I am concerned.

Brunswickan: What would your plans have been had you not been accepted and found it too difficult to stay in Forestry?

Emmy: I'd change to Engineering or the Sciences. But I think I can overcome most problems with will power. I really want this and trivial criticism won't bother me.

Sue: I think I would transfer to UBC.

I still say if we can keep up with them academically we should be accepted with no questions asked.

Carol: I'll probably find out by the end of the year or next whether I really want this as much as I do now. I would switch into Science if I did decide against it. But one thing — I don't feel that I have to go through with it just because other people expect it. If I think I'm capable, then I'll do it.

Brunswickan: What are the others' reactions to your taking forestry?

Emmy: "You're crazy." "Boy! Have you got ambition?" The guys think we're really nuts, I guess.

Sue: "I get the same reactions."

Carol: Yesterday in the parking lot outside I told somebody I was in forestry and they asked me how the Dean ever (See page 10, column 3) let that happen? Otherwise nobody is against it. I don't think it really makes a bit of difference to them.

What are the co-ed's reactions?

Emmy: They think it's terrific. They really like the whole idea. All the kids at Murray House are happy for me.

Sue: Everybody seems to think it's fine. There is certainly no opposition, even if there is some criticism.

Carol: They told me it would be hard but they know I realize this and they are happy that I'm being an individual. They are happy that somebody is finally going into forestry. They ask questions and I try to answer them. There is certainly no hard feelings from any of the girls.

Apparently there have been several females at U.N.B. who have taken this course and have failed to succeed. What do you think of your chances for success?

Emmy: The Dean said that there was no reason why not. He told us there would be problems but they could be surmounted. There are, of course, pitfalls and traps that we don't know about yet. With help and lots of study I'm sure that I can overcome both the traps and pitfalls. There are three of us which is not as bad as one against the whole faculty. You cannot cringe under social pressures.

Sue: Everything seems rather ominous right now. All I know is that I'm willing to learn and try my very best. It's not going to be rosy and I think we all know this which is a step in the right direction I hope.

Carol: If the Dean has accepted us into the faculty, he must think we're able to succeed. Here we are so what we do from now on academically or otherwise is our own individual decision. I really cannot see why all three of us can't obtain our degrees.

There will probably be questions about losing your femininity in such a profession. I would like to draw a parallel here. This is a situation similar to that of a male nurse. Do you think he loses masculinity? Would you like to date a male nurse? What are your feelings about this situation?

Emmy: It is fine with me. This is what the man is. I think he's a great guy. I would date him. Why not? He's a boy which I would date. I certainly would not hesitate because he's a male nurse.

Sue: It doesn't make any difference?

Brunswickan: Do you think you are going to lose your femininity?

Emmy: Absolutely not. I'm not going to try to keep my femininity in the physical sense. It's never been my ambition.

Sue: No.

Carol: No.

Brunswickan: Do you have an axe?

Emmy: Yes, I own an axe. I could chop a tree out of my yard but I don't feel I am going to have to be a wood chopper.

Sue: I can use an axe. I am not going to. What is the point? I am not a man. I am not trying to be.

Carol: Sure, but I feel the same as the others. That's the real thing in forestry. It's just the layman's idea of a profession.

Brunswickan: Do you think you are being truly realistic?

Emmy: I think so. I am realistic about an ideal.

Sue: I am going, as are Carol and Emmy, to overcome any problems involved. We are all willing to learn and be helped by anyone who is willing to help us. I know, at least I know, I want and I am trying to be realistic about getting it.

Carol: I never thought it was so different. As far as I am concerned there is nothing idealistic about it. I know what I want and what I eventually want to do. I am up against what I am up against. I hope to overcome the problem by academic ability.

Brunswickan: Is there anything you would like to say to your fellow students?

Emmy: Yes! Haalpp! Just be accepted. Nevertheless, criticism does encourage me.

Sue: Understanding and tolerance of our mistakes.

Carol: I want to be treated equally.

Nickel chrome plating takes it all with a grain of salt

Winter goes to war on automobiles, with snow, ice and road salt. But modern automobiles fight back. Take the bumpers, for example. They are finished with multi-layer nickel chrome. It resists corrosion. Keeps bumpers looking new for a long time. And in this new, improved automobile bumper finish, nickel's contribution is quality.

Student Loans

The Canada Student Loan Plan provides available funds for student who needs financial assistance. It enables a student to study in full-time studies directed towards a degree or diploma at universities or other educational institutions above the high school level.

Applications may be made to a student of Canadian citizenship or who has been a resident in Canada for not less than one year.

The student declares that he intends to remain in Canada. Qualification for enrolment at an educational institution as a full-time student is a requirement before an application can be submitted. Applications of the provinces except Quebec have enrolled in the Students from Quebec arrange funds through their own provincial government lending scheme.

Application is made through an authority named by each provincial Government and the application is passed, a student is issued a "Certificate of Eligibility." This certificate is then taken to any bank where applications are made available upon completion of the relative amount of a loan must not exceed $1,000 in any one academic year and not more than $5,000 in aggregate. Depending on the amount of each loan granted is arrived at by the Provincial authority after consideration of the original application submitted, which includes the student's financial situation.

With regard to the repayment of the loans, the student who has terminated his studies has an interest-free period of six months before repayment must begin. Interest at a rate of 6 per cent per annum is effective from the first day of the seventh month after graduation or discontinuation of studies, with the first payment due on the first day of the following month or eighth month. The payment of course depends on the size of the debt and the student's ability to repay, but it must be repaid within ten years. A repayment plan is arranged with the bank which had negotiated the loan. Larger reductions may be made if the student finds he is able to increase his monthly payments. An attractive feature of these loans is that they are life insured. In the event of death the Federal Government will repay the bank and the debt will be cancelled.

Applications should be submitted early in the summer in order to provide for prompt negotiation on the student's arrival at university. Further information regarding this plan may be obtained through the provincial government authority or by asking your banker.

Officials are required for the following athletic activities: Intramural referees and umpires — Softball, Soccer, Football. Supervision — Life guards at swimming pool; gymnasium supervision. Bowling — Pin spotting. Please apply at the General Office in gymnasium.

UNB Jackets

by Roger Neill

The culmination of frosh week will once again bring hoardes of new and crisp University of New Brunswick jackets on the campus and downtown scenes. The significance of such a phenomenon is the point in question.

What does it mean to the frosh themselves, their parents, the townfolk, professors, upperclassmen — this impressive showing of red and black.

To freshmen it exemplifies a hard-earned goal after twelve — or so — years of a more dull and uninteresting existence.

The blaze of a swinging social life athletics, and higher education all lie in that red and black article of clothing which freshmen are just burning to show off.

The parent also holds esteem and regard for the jacket because it points out to relatives and friends that "my kid made it". They are in most cases even willing to ignore the somewhat exorbitant price for this feeling of pride.

To the townsfolk, the jacket is a dependable and heartwarming sign of fall as the turning of the leaves, and in most cases this is what the red colour brings to mind. The store owners also get a warm feeling — when they see their cash register ring up $36.95 for a leather jacket.

To the professors it has a very different meaning. In the case of the leather jacket it means a constant "creak", similar to that of a mounted leather saddle, every time a jacket moves. With a class of twenty or so it could possibly drive a professor to distraction.

Finally the Upperclassmen's view who, due to his years in college, has acquired an air of criticism. To them the jackets are "a lousy example of workmanship," "poor attire in practically any type of weather" and "merely a way of bolstering one's ego." They are hot in summer, cold in winter look ridiculous if zippered up to the neck and after two years look like carpet underlay. (It will ever be thus).

To the cyclist and hitchhiker the jacket is invaluable. The Maritime provinces are open to free travel if a UNB jacket is worn, and the cyclist certainly finds protection in the leather jacket. So in these areas the contention that the jackets are impractical, is proved incorrect.

We know the Frosh will form their own opinions. Despite the controversy, the jackets will be proudly worn and it would be pretty hard to change, even if we wanted to.

Dateline is the Brunswickan's weekly calendar of up-coming events. If your club or organization is holding a dance, meeting, performance or show of any kind, let us know. Deadline is one week from publication (Thursday).

Bomber Business

by Jeff Goldman

Paul Courtice, a returnee Quarterback from last year's UNB Red Bombers, led his Gold Team to a convincing 13-0 victory over the Red Team, piloted by Mike Mallory and Wally Langly, in last Sunday's Annual Intra-squod Game played at College Field. Courtice teamed up with flanker Russ Radcliffe on a 25-yard pass-and-run play to set up the first TD. On the very next play, halfback Bruce Petruault grabbed a Courtice shot in the end zone on a play covering 10 yards. The convert attempt was blocked. In the final quarter, halfback Pete Harding grabbed another Courtice toss and scored on a twenty-yard play. Tetrault converted.

Head Coach Don Nelson is receiving very able assistance from Dr. Merv Shaw, a former coach of the Dalhousie Tigers; Gary Smith, former all-star quarterback with the University of Alberta Golden Bears and University of Western Ontario Mustangs; Dan Skaling, former star with the SMU Huskies and UNB's own Gabe Barban, who completed his four years of player eligibility with last year's squad. This year's aggregate appears certain to improve on their winning 4-3-1 record last year.

Shearwater Navy, former rivals in the now defunct Atlantic football Conference, are billed as the 1965 Red Bombers' first opponents in a scheduled exhibition tussle this Saturday afternoon at College Field. Navy, fresh from a stunning 9-6 upset over last year's Atlantic Bowl finalists, SMU Huskies, should provide plenty of stiff competition for the Red and Black. Game time is 1:30.
