THE FAIR IMPOSTOR.

With a wild imprecation, he sprang to his feet, and paced up and down. 'Let her go, now I have her here, with my hand! Would a drowning man let go his grasp of the saving spar? Would a man relinquish to the winds the dearest desire of his whole life, at the moment he held it in his hand? No! Life is short—too short for such trifling with the greatest joy that can fall to it! Let her go? No! I would rather lose life itself than lose you—your queen, your pearl of woman-kind! Heaven! Can I believe that I held her here—against my heart—where I heard her heart beating against mine—that I felt the sweet breath against my cheek, and the rustle of her hair upon my shoulder?'

'It maddens me! It alarms me, too! Man is happy once only in his life, they say, and I have been so happy, so madly happy, to-night—so happy! he murmured, almost fiercely, 'that I could give all that remains to me of this useless life to hold her one short minute as I held her tonight! Give her up—throw aside, like a pig, the pearl fate has thrown in my path! No! Come what may, I seize the chance, if chance it be. By fair means—or foul—I will win her! Win her against them all, even against herself! For who among them all—the gaping 'idiots' who could love her as I love her? Ah! he broke off, to wipe his feverish brow—'I have sported with love, mocked it and abused it, and now it turns and rends me! Suppose—that I won her, and at the same time lost her—lost her sweet self, her soul? No, no! Such love as mine must create some responsive love in her! It shall be so! I swear it! Is that her window! See what a love sick fool I am! Dying for her shadow! And—ah! it is her! Hilda—Lillian! look down, my darling, on the man who loves you as man never has loved before—see where he stands ready to do all that man dare do to win you, and who swears to succeed!'

With a laugh that was almost a groan, he turned away, with quivering lips and moistened eyes. 'What a fool, idiot, madman I am!' he muttered. 'The stage-struck Romeo clings to me still. But—but let her go? No! That would be madness, indeed. Good-night, my queen lily of girls,' he murmured, and held out his arms toward the lighted window; then, as if ashamed of the frenzy that possessed him, he let them drop to his side, and setting his teeth hard, as if it cost him a great effort to tear himself away, he turned and disappeared.

CHAPTER XVI. HER SOUL SHINES THROUGH HER EYES.

The morning broke as clear and gay as only an English summer morning can be.

At the Grange prevailed a hush and quietude thoroughly well understood, for Lord Gerald lay a-bed with one of his nervous headaches, the outcome of last night's excitement and exertion.

Dawson Slade came down to breakfast cool and impassive as ever, looking, in his loose chevot, as unlike the Romeo of the previous night as it is possible to imagine. His first words, as he bent over her grace's hand, were those of apology.

'I played truant last night, I am afraid,' he said, in his low-toned voice. 'A long journey, with an accident thrown in as unakeweight, and the additional exertion of remembering a part I hadn't played for years, quite exhausted me. I should not have liked to have fallen asleep in the drawing room, your grace.'

The duchess smiled good-naturedly. 'Please don't apologize; it is we who ought to apologize; it was too bad of Gerald to tease you into playing. And yet I freely forgive him. The stage has lost an ornament in you, Mr. Slade.'

He sank into his seat, with a smile. 'I think Rayburn would have done better,' he said, modestly. The duke laughed.

'Not he, I'll answer for it. By the way, a telegram came from him last night, but it fell into the hands of a new footman, and—remained there till this morning. He—Rayburn not the footman—was summoned to the sick bed of a relative. It was, indeed, fortunate that you arrived to save us from a breakdown! Poor Gerald has one of his bad headaches, poor boy.'

'Just what I expected,' said Dawson Slade. 'He could have borne failure with equanimity, but success—'

'And such success!' said the duchess. 'Did she not act splendidly, Mr. Slade? The duke says that he never saw anything in his life to equal it.'

'Miss Woodleigh, you mean,' said Dawson Slade, paying the greatest attention to the buttering of his toast. 'Yes, she played remarkably well; wonderfully, as you say, for an amateur, and for her acting for the first time. By the way, I have not seen her on any of my previous visits; did not even know that Sir Talbot had a daughter.'

Her grace looked down thoughtfully, and the duke stirred his coffee as if he meant to scrape a hole in the bottom of the cup.

'It was not generally known,' said the duchess. 'She has been away from him since she was quite a little child, and returned only lately—about three months ago, in fact.'

Dawson Slade looked with polite interest, nothing more.

'Is there a mystery?' he asked. 'A romance, say, rather,' said the duke. 'You will hear it sooner or later, Slade; the country is full of it. Miss Lillian is the daughter of Lady Woodleigh, who left her home more than 20 years ago. No!' for Dawson Slade had raised his eyebrows and dropped his eyes.

'No! there was no guilt on her part, if some blame. Sir Talbot—he is an old friend of mine, and I do not wish to speak hastily—Sir Talbot is a peculiar man; there is not a prouder man in the county. At that time he was not only proud but haughty, stern and inflexible. He fancied he had reason to doubt his wife, and—well she left her home and took her child—this charming young lady—with her. They disappeared for years, for long after Sir Talbot learned that he had been unjust, and instituted steps to discover them. He didn't succeed until, as I say some few months ago, it was too late, so far as Lady Woodleigh was concerned; she was dead. But the child, Lillian Woodleigh, remained, and Harold brought her home.'

Dawson Slade looked up, with a sudden gleam in his eyes. 'Harold—her cousin?'

'Her cousin,' said the duke; 'quite so. He was the lucky man to find the woman whom many had sought for in vain.'

Dawson Slade took an egg, and chipped it with minute care.

'And how and where did he discover her?' he asked, quietly.

The duke put down his cup, wiped his iron-gray mustache, and smiled.

'That part of the story is still unwritten,' he said; 'we none of us know.'

'It is no business of ours,' said her grace, gently. 'None at all, my dear,' assented the duke; 'we are quite satisfied at the result of the quest. Such an acquisition doesn't fall to Woodleigh once in a hundred years.'

'An acquisition, indeed!' said Dawson Slade. 'It is not often that a young lady with Miss Woodleigh's beauty and talent drops from the clouds.'

It was an artful remark; it produced the vague irritation which it was intended to do.

'Dropped from the clouds is scarcely the idea,' said the duchess. 'But I inferred there was something mysterious about her discovery, said Dawson Slade, softly.

'Scarcely mysterious,' said her grace. 'It is only reasonable that neither she nor Sir Talbot should be willing to discuss the actual facts of her past.'

'But why?' he said, in the softest voice.

'Well,' said his grace, as the duchess paused, womanlike, 'it is to be supposed that Lady Woodleigh may have been living under an assumed name—in poverty, perhaps. Oh, there are a hundred reasons!'

Dawson Slade nodded. 'And yet I should scarcely have thought Sir Talbot—he sat just behind you last night, did he not?—that he would have been sensitive on such a point.'

'Most sensitive, I should think,' said her grace, 'considering that any trouble poor Lady Woodleigh may have undergone was caused by—by his lamentable misapprehension.'

'I see—yes, of course,' he murmured; 'and Miss Woodleigh, is she like her mother?'

Both the duke and duchess hesitated.

'Like Lady Woodleigh?' repeated her grace, knitting her brows, musingly. 'No, I don't think she is at all like. But,' she added, with alacrity, 'she is very like her father—the resemblance is quite palpable.'

Dawson Slade raised his eyes.

'Yes,' he said, almost to himself. 'She is like her father. There can be no question as to her identity.'

The duke looked up, with wide-opened eyes.

'Identity! My dear sir! No one has suggested a doubt on the point! There can be no doubt. As you say, her likeness to Sir Talbot is remarkable, but additional evidence is contained in the fact that she was fully acquainted with every detail of Lady Woodleigh's life abroad. Sir Talbot, and Harold himself, told us that much.'

Dawson Slade nodded, with easy acquiescence. 'And Lady Woodleigh's life abroad was known, then?'

His grace knitted his brows. It was a subtle question; but the duchess came to his rescue.

'Yes, a great portion of it. As I said, Sir Talbot had been searching for her for years, and one of his agents had—nearly succeeded in tracing her—or, rather, Lillian, for Lady Woodleigh was dead—but failed. He learned all about her, however, and wrote the story to Sir Talbot.'

'I see—I see,' said Dawson Slade, helping himself to marmalade. And when Mr. Harold Woodleigh discovered her—'

'Her story tallied with that which the agent had sent over,' put in the duke.

'Exactly,' said Slade. 'Very satisfactory! Pray do not think I—'

Eczema's Tortures

All treatments failed for three long years—Cure complete with D.R. CHASE'S OINTMENT.

Mrs. Link, 12 Walker St., Halifax, N. S., writes: 'After three years of miserable torturing and sleepless nights with terrible eczema, and after trying over a dozen remedies without obtaining anything but slight temporary relief, I have been perfectly and entirely cured by Dr. Chase's Ointment. After the third or fourth application of the ointment I obtained relief, and a few boxes were sufficient to make a thorough cure. It is six months since I was freed of this wretched skin disease, and at there has been no return of the trouble. I consider the cure a permanent one. Such cures are not brought about by ointments and substitutes for Dr. Chase's Ointment. It is therefore necessary for you to be certain that the ointment and signature of A. W. Chase, I. D., the famous Receipt Book author, are on the box you buy. 60 cts. a box, at all dealers or Edmandson, Bates & Co., Toronto. Write for a free copy of Dr. Chase's Recipes.'

Ladies of Culture and Refinement Use Salvia Hair Tonic. It Makes the Hair Beautiful.

At last a remedy has been discovered that will positively destroy this pest.

That Dandruff is caused by germs is accepted by every sensible person. Dandruff is the root of all hair evils.

SALVIA will kill the dandruff germs and remove Dandruff in ten days or money back.

McMurdo & Co., guarantees it. It will grow hair, stop itching scalp, falling hair, and make the hair thick and abundant. It prevents hair from turning gray, and adds life and lustre.

SALVIA is a hair dressing that has become the favorite with women of taste and culture, who know the social value of beautiful hair. A large, generous bottle costs only 50c. at leading druggists everywhere, and in St. John's by McMurdo & Co.

The word 'SALVIA' (Latin for sage) is on every bottle. Refuse all substitutes.

entertained the shadow of a doubt. It is a curious story; quite a romance. A delightful surprise for Sir Talbot.

'Ah!' breathed the duchess. 'I never saw a man so altered in so short a time. He was like a man of iron—stern, unsmiling, unapproachable; he is now like wax. Poor Sir Talbot!'

Dawson Slade looked up. 'Excess of joy is almost as bad to bear as excess of grief,' he said, in his soft quiet voice. 'He looks changed—much older.'

'Much!' said the duke. 'It has told upon him. He lives entirely for, and in her; and can see that.'

The duchess rose, as Dawson Slade gently pushed his coffee cup aside. 'What are the plans for the day?' she asked.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

A big bunch of magnificent pansies crowded close together in a tall china vase with a base relief of roses upon it—yes, it scarcely seems in these enlightened days, but that is what I actually saw yesterday in the home of a well educated woman.

That low growing flowers like violets and pansies and nasturtiums should not be put into tall vases is an axiom of such skill. Again and again I have seen the effect of such flowers utterly ruined by that treatment.

If you follow the habit of the flowerer's growth in selecting a vase for it, you will probably be safe. Tall growing flowers like long stemmed roses, daffodils, jonquils, poppies, carnations and lilies should have tall, straight vases. Low growing flowers such as violets, pansies, rambler roses, etc., belong in bowls or very low, wide flaring vases.

In buying vases remember that you are buying a frame, for the vase should always be subordinate to the flower, so that when you look at the vase of flowers you see the flowers, not the vase, just as you should see the picture and never the frame.

For this reason there should never be any design except a conventionalized one upon a vase. Any base relief, spoiling as it does, the life of the vase, is extremely bad.

Glass vases are probably the best because the stems of many flowers, such as the long, graceful stem of the rose and the exquisite pale green stalk of the jonquill, are almost as beautiful as the flowers themselves, and the glass vase, of course, display the charm.

The clearer and more revealing the glass, the more desirable the vase. Cut glass, for this reason, is not as good as plain glass, and colored glass, unless it happens to harmonize perfectly with the flowers and stems, is not as good as colorless. The perfect vase or bowl, most artists consider, is that of absolutely clear crystal glass.

Although glass is the best flower holder, there are many vases and bowls in dull soft colored china and crockery that make beautiful frames for certain flowers. As the Japanese, the people with the most perfect feelings for flowers, have naturally created the most perfect receptacles for them, a Japanese store is one of the best places to get vases and bowls.

"Do not mix flowers," is an artist's rule that I think may be taken with a grain of salt. It may be quite right for cultivated flowers, but I do not know of anything prettier than some of the combinations nature herself makes, such as buttercups and daisies and grasses, or clover and daisies, or golden rod asters.

Do not crowd too many flowers into a vase or bowl. That is the ordinary failing of the inartistic. Divide what you would naturally put into a given receptacle in half and it will probably be nearer the artistic quantity.

Try to have two or three one-flower vases in your home. There are some flowers, notably the rose, that are so perfect that a single blossom is sufficiently decorative for a room.

I have a friend who keeps upon her desk all the year around a tall crystal vase with a single white rose in it. When I admired the custom she explained its origin in a statement a great artist had once made to her, that two things represented absolutely perfect beauty of line and coloring—a half opened white rose and a perfect violin. She said she couldn't afford the violin but she could the rose and so she tried to have it always before her as she worked.

Often as I read her poems I fancy I can feel the influence of that perfect white rose mutely demanding of her a replica of its own perfection and sweetness.

Isn't there a suggestion for you in that custom?
Ruth Cameron

Remedies are Needed

Where we perfect, which we are not, medicines would not often be needed. But since our systems have become weakened, impaired and broken down through indications which have gone on from the early ages, through countless generations, remedies are needed to aid Nature in correcting our inherited and otherwise acquired weaknesses. To reach the seat of stomach weakness and consequent digestive troubles, there is nothing so good as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, a glyceric compound, extracted from native medicinal roots—sold for over forty years with great satisfaction to all users. For Weak Stomach, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, Pain in the Stomach after eating, Heartburn, Bad Breath, Belching of food, Chronic Diarrhea and other Intestinal Derangements, the "Discovery" is a time-proven and most efficient remedy.

The genuine has on its outside wrapper the Signature

You can't afford to accept a secret nostrum as a substitute for this non-alcoholic, medicine of known composition, not even though the urgent dealer may thereby make a little bigger profit.
Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. Sugar-coated, tiny granules, easy to take as candy.

Fads and Fashions.

Black and white, grey and dull purples are all allowed for second or half mourning.

Girls with gowns to their knees are wearing embroidered stockings in silk and lisle.

Most of the French frocks of mid-summer character are short enough to show the instep.

Dotted Swiss is much used this season. It is very striking to have the dot done in black.

Embroidered chiffon gowns are made over heavy satin; black over white is especially smart.

A novelty in hats is to have a different color from that of the brim, but matching in shade.

The black taffeta silk coats quite covered with silk braid are popular with middle-aged women.

Now custom allows any woman to whom the fashion is "becoming" to bare her neck for every waking hour.

Pierrot collars to supplement the low neck and protect the throat on occasions are in great demand.

Beads are to the fore—wooden, sat in and rubber—strung on metal thread on a gold gauze back ground.

Lovely scarfs are fashioned from the Persian bordered chiffons and marquisettes combined with marabout.

A pretty idea in scarfs is to place two different colors over each other, and then edge all around with marabout.

Perhaps the novelty of the season is the use of quantities of false curls, securely sewed in the bathing caps.

Pale rose tulle called "rose chair" is used for afternoon blouses, built of course, over a lace or net foundation.

A new green, dark and deep, goes by the pretty name of "scarabee," and is not unlike the tone of the antique gown.

The bandanna handkerchief cap is in good repute this year and is seen accompanying many of the smartest bathing suits.

Gloves are heavily embroidered nowadays, black gloves showing wide stitching in white, and white gloves in black or colors.

All the new shirtwaist suits are being made without shoulder seams.

Crushed Under an Automobile.

Campbellton, N.B., July 19.—One of the most active of Campbellton's workers for the relief of the stricken people, Charles W. Anslow, lies at the point of death in the Hotel Dieu Hospital to-night as the result of an auto accident late to-day. There were five men in the car. It was being backed down St. Andrew Street when something went wrong and the car turned over into a ditch. Three of the occupants escaped without injury. The fourth, Ross Malcolm, son of Thos. Malcolm, of the International Railway, suffered internal injuries, and Mr. Anslow was pinned unconscious under the car. Concussion of the brain is feared, and to-night Dr. Murray said there was little chance of recovery. Mr. Anslow was connected with the Campbellton Graphic newspaper.

WIRE WOUNDS.

My mare, a very valuable one, was badly bruised and cut by being caught in a wire fence. Some of the wounds would not heal, although I tried many different medicines. Dr. Bell advised me to use MINARD'S LINIMENT, diluted at first, then stronger as the sores began to look better, until after three weeks the sores have healed, and best of all the hair is growing well, and is NOT WHITE as is most always the case in horse wounds.

Naval War Code Distinct Peril.

London, July 20.—English ship-owners are up in arms against the ratification of the declaration of London. This declaration is the outcome of a conference held in London in 1908 and 1909 of the ten principal maritime powers, including the United States, to decide certain vexed questions of international law in naval warfare.

The declaration which formulated new laws on this subject, was signed by the representatives of all the ten powers, but has not yet been ratified by any of them. Now the Naval Prize Bill, which embodies the terms of the declaration, will come up for discussion in the British Parliament this Fall and a special committee of the London Chamber of shipping is preparing a report on it.

The declaration establishes a code in place of a number of indefinite usages which in the past have given a great deal of trouble, but the opponents of the bill say that the code is too elastic and that it remains at the discretion of an officer of perhaps no great experience to decide whether a merchantman is carrying contraband food, intended for the use of the enemy, and to sink her. In the past no neutral prize could be sunk and had to be released. It is feared that under the new rules every officer in command of a commerce destroyer would take no chances, but promptly sink the ship he suspected.

Horrible Tragedy

Edwin Miller, of Portugal Cove, Cuts His Throat With Scythe and Dies From Loss of Blood.

A terrible tragedy occurred at Portugal Cove at 11 a.m. to-day. Edwin Miller, a young man of that place, was out cutting hay in his field, when he evidently became insane, and walking towards the barn slashed his throat terribly with the scythe which he was using. His brother discovered him near the barn, and summoning help the unfortunate man was borne to his home. The police were notified of the terrible occurrence by the local constable, and Supt. Grimes notified Dr. Chaplin who drove quickly to the place, arriving in 40 minutes after he had left St. John's. He was too late to be of effective service, as by the time he got there the man had practically lost all the blood in his body—the jugular vein having been cut. He died at 120 p.m. from the effects of his injuries. He leaves a mother, wife and 5 young children. The awful affair has cast a pall of sorrow over the settlement.

King Edward's Religion

The Dublin Daily Express has published the following letter from the Archbishop of Canterbury to the Dean of Quebec, who had forwarded the Archbishop a cutting from the New York World containing a rumour that King Edward had died in the Roman Catholic faith:—

4th July, 1910.

"My dear Dean of Quebec.—You have called the Archbishop of Canterbury's attention to a preposterous and baseless rumour, which, you tell him, has obtained currency in some quarters about King Edward and the Roman Catholic Church. For the Archbishop to take to the woods, by way of increased importance and currency to an allegation which can only have emanated from some ignorant or malicious person. It must be as painful to the authorities of the Roman Catholic Church as to others that reports so totally devoid of foundation should, on the strength of anonymous newspaper paragraphs, find currency anywhere.—Yours faithfully, J. V. MACMILLAN, Chaplain."

This clipping was taken from the Guardian.

Boat Sank Under Him.

After practising with the Chronicle's crew this morning early, James Howard, son of Captain Howard, pilot, was out in the Quidi Vidi Lake from the north to the south side in a small boat to go home. He did not notice that the boat was trapped with the sea and coming quickly to his aid took him off the boat which was taken in two and brought ashore. If such a young man might have had a narrow escape from drowning.

AN AMBULANCE CALL.—The ambulance was sent out from the city to Topsail to-day to bring in Miss Harvey who is staying there and who is very ill.
STILL ANOTHER RUMOUR.—It was rumoured over the city to-day that a boat had been drowned this morning while swimming at the Goulds. The police knew nothing of such an occurrence. The story is evidently unfounded.
BLANK AT STUG HR.—Word was received Tuesday from Mr. John Sheridan of Riverhead, N.Y., that up to the previous day the 25th inst. the fishery at that place was a blank. All the craft had left and had gone further down the coast in an effort to secure a voyage.

Mass at Belvidere.

Some thousands of our Roman Catholic fellow-citizens, assembled at Belvidere Cemetery this morning and were present at the High Mass of Requiem offered up in the Mortuary Chapel there for the repose of the souls of those interred in the "city of the dead" near. Rt. Rev. Monsignor Roche was the celebrant, assisted by the clergy of the Cathedral and the Deanery of St. Patrick's. The cemetery now presents a beautiful appearance as the friends of those resting there had embellished the burial plots with flowers and otherwise attended to the graves.

Slaughter Houses.

Most of the city butchers received certificates from Inspector O'Brien, of the Board of Health, yesterday, showing that their respective slaughter houses are fit places to dress animals for meat, and that the rules governing the management of slaughter houses are complied with. In a few cases certificates are withheld for the present. Under the existing rules there is little doubt but that consumers will get clean meat.

Police Court News.

In the police court to-day a woman named Maria Norris summoned one S. Milley for indecently conducting himself before her while out in the country on the 25th inst. The case was fully proven and the accused was fined $10 or 30 days.
An assault case between two men residents of Kelligrews over a dispute about land ended in the defendant being fined $10 or 30 days.
A SUSPICIOUS PROWLER.—A resident of Leslie Street left a couple of days ago with his wife and family for a holiday over the bay. A domestic was left in the house in company with a lady friend, and last night noticed a man prowling about the place. The girl summoned her brother who remained in the house all night. If the intruder re-appears he will get a warm reception.

GOOD PROSPECTIVE MATCH.

This evening the Feildians and St. Bon's football teams meet on St. George's Field and a stubbornly contested game is looked for. Both are excellent teams and the outcome of the match will have a decided bearing on the result of the League matches.
McDONALD BIG CATCH.—Skipper M. McDonald in his schooner the Western Lass arrived at Salmonier Sunday with the splendid catch of 150 qts. of codfish for 10 days' work at the Cape. The McDonalds are possibly the best fish killers in St. Mary's Bay and will be easily high liners this season.
MILDRED'S GOOD RUN.—Job Bros. bargt. Mildred, Capt. Wiltshire, passed the Narrows Tuesday last just 13 days out from Oporto to Harbor Breton. ### Time to Act.

Surely the drowning fatalities of Monday and Wednesday will force home the urgent need of safe provision for boys swimming and bathing. After the drowning incident at Sandy Bottom, Quidi Vidi, some years ago public conscience seemed to be sufficiently quickened to stir up those in authority to do something. Something indeed was talked of, but nothing was done. Difficulties were raised about the extent of the City Council's jurisdiction and the matter was dropped. The toll of young life which has been exacted since that time, and which has stirred up the public mind more keenly the last few hours, should inspire a renewal of effort to provide safe bathing and swimming pools for our boys, even though we may not be able to provide for the construction of public baths in the city.

It has been suggested to us that a bathing pool could be settled on for each end of the city. Something should be done to make it safe in the way of grading bottoms and marking out depths, and by the hiring of an expert swimmer and diver for each place who would be there at stated hours, provided with a boat, life buoys, life lines, &c., and bathing and swimming could be prohibited out of these hours. The wages for the hire of two men for two months, and the initial cost of boat, lines and grading would not amount to much. Even economically it would be cheaper than the loss constantly incurred by the sacrifice of young lives in the first flush of youth and manhood. So that even from the most sordid of motives the community should do something. But Humanity itself calls upon the community to be up and doing, and to prevent the needless loss of life by providing safe pools for our boys.

Come, gentlemen of the Council. Come, members for the District of St. John's. It is up to you to get a budget on, and do something to spare on the Government and the Municipal Council to co-operate to lessen this deplorable loss of life.

Coast Fishery Report.

Lamaline—Dense fog, sign of squid, dogfish in abundance, codfish scarce.

Band Hold Excursion.

The band of the British Society of Hr. Grace held an excursion to Bell Island on Tuesday and fully 150 persons went over to the place and had a very enjoyable time. Sports of various kinds were indulged in, dancing was a very interesting feature, this excellent musical combination gave some nice selections, and the affair was a complete success.

CAPE REPORT.

Special Evening Telegram.
YESTERDAY.
Wind West, light, weather foggy; nothing heard passing to-day; the two strayed fishermen Bennett and Baker left here this morning in their dory for St. John's. Several fishing schooners anchored in Cape Cove, report fish scarce this week. Bar 29.30. Ther. 64.

Prisoners Give Police a Chase.

Sergt. Byrne and officer E. Quinlan arrived here by the Bruce express to-day with the two prisoners, Walsh and Skeans, from the Penitentiary, where they will serve 3 months hard labor. The officers arrived at Whitbourne at 4 p.m. yesterday, and the prisoners, who were staying there, immediately took to the woods. Byrne and Quinlan ran after them and after an exciting chase of fully half an hour's duration they captured the men. They then boarded the train took the men to Holyrood and this morning they were brought before Magistrate O'Toole. They were charged (1) with breaking into and stealing provisions, clothes, tobacco, bottle of rum, &c., from Mr. Martin Sharpe's store at Rantem; (2) breaking open and entering upon the premises of the railway and stealing four shirts, pants, stockings and coats, which they had on their person and were wearing; and (3) also breaking into another camp and stealing provisions, clothing, etc., from this. They pleaded guilty to each charge and were fined $10 or 30 days for each offence, or an aggregate penalty of $30 or 3 months.

Woman Insulted.

About 9.30 last night a woman passing along Duckworth Street near the Court House was insulted by a well known character who has already "done time" for similar conduct. A gentleman passing saved the woman from further indignities, and the scamp who molested her made himself scarce. This particular part of Duckworth Street is the stamping ground at night for persons of questionable character and no doubt the police will give some of these a fright.

Mayor Will Act.

We have it from Mayor Ellis to-day that he will take the initiative in devising a means by which public swimming places can be erected for the youth of the city and, if possible, obviate further drowning accidents. What will be done has not yet been determined upon, but the matter will likely be taken up by the Municipal Council immediately. If such is done our City Fathers will have the blessing of all the parents in the city.

Two Bankmen Missing.

Mr. H. W. LeMessurier, Assistant Collector of Customs, had the following message from Belleoram to-day: "Schr. Alan F. Rose has two men missing. They left to haul their trawls on the Bank during a fog on the 16th inst." Though the names of the men are not given they are known to be founders, and if they are not on board of a vessel still on the Banks the poor fellows must be lost.
The full Battalion of the Methodist Guards will parade at headquarters on Friday 29 inst., at 1.45 p.m. sharp, to attend the funeral of Private Wm. Joyce.—By order, G. C. E. S. Arty, Lieut. & Adjt. II.

The C. of E. Picnics.

Yesterday the children attending St. Mary's Church of England Sunday School had their annual picnic at Glendinning's farm, Mount Pearl. To the number of 300 they left here by special train at 10.30 a.m., and on arrival at the field enjoyed such sports as cricket, football, racing, croquet, etc. The Rector, Rev. Mr. Uphill, was present, and under the direction of Superintendent Belbin and the teachers the little ones spent a very pleasant day. Dinner was served at 2.30 p.m., and the happy youngsters did the good things provided ample justice. During the day about 250 adult friends assembled, and when the little ones returned home they remained for a few hours and spent a very enjoyable time. The children attending the Cathedral Sunday School had their annual outing on the spacious grounds at Smithville yesterday. Hundreds of the youngsters were brought to the grounds in expresses and on arrival spent a very pleasant day. Several of the Cathedral clergy were present. The teachers vied with each other in helping all amuse themselves, and cricket, football, racing and other field sports were heartily entered into until the call for dinner came, when a sumptuous repast was spread before the little ones whose appetites were sharpened by the bracing air of the country. After dinner the sports were continued and the picnics returned to the city last night tired, undoubtedly, but charmed by the pleasant day they had spent.

Capt. H. Bartlett Appointed Pilot.

We understand that Capt. H. Bartlett has been appointed as a pilot for the Earl Grey, he being chosen by Capt. E. English, the Harbor Master. Capt. Bartlett knows every inch of the Labrador, and no better man could be selected for the job. Capt. English is as deserving of congratulation in his selection of such a man, as Capt. Bartlett is of being given the position.

MINARD'S LINIMENT CURE DISTEMPER.

Note of Thanks.

The Sisters of St. Bride's Academy, who also kindly assisted, are due sincerest thanks. Mr. Halley was a great success as indeed were all, and the young ladies in question certainly reflected the highest credit upon Littledale, as they are all either present or past pupils of Littledale Academy. Miss Fivona sang very beautifully, as also did Miss Jackman and Miss Fitzpatrick—all three being possessed of exceptionally fine and well trained voices. Miss Mansfield recited very finely.

To the fine band of the T. A. & B. Society is due the warmest praise for their very excellent renderings, and considering the exceptionally old weather prevailing on that day, they performed splendidly.

To each and to all who in any manner assisted, sincere gratitude and cordial thanks are tendered, advt.

KEEP MINARD'S LINIMENT IN THE HOUSE.

A Bath Unsought.

Yesterday forenoon as fireman Jno. Galway, of the Western Station, was proceeding from his house on Alexander Street to work, a woman appeared on the gallery of a residence near and threw a vessel of soiled water completely over him and drenched him to the skin. Of course it was done accidentally, but just the same it was very annoying, and the man, who must be promptly at his post, had to delay while he went home for a change of clothing. About two months ago the very same woman did the same thing to Mr. Galway, and she and others who throw water from their doors should exercise more care.

Guy Celebration.

The dates for the celebration are now drawing near. The arrival of Rev. Wm. Stacey, the representative from the city of Bristol, brings these facts home to all in the strongest way. It is indeed pleasing to see the old city of Bristol so deeply interested in our welfare, and we extend the hand of good fellowship and a hearty welcome to Mr. Stacey, not alone for our feelings of loyalty to the Old Country, and more especially to Bristol for so much that we are indebted, but we acknowledge the honor and compliment implied to Newfoundland by appointing a native of our country as their representative. After this celebration is over our citizens will know more of the history of Newfoundland than they ever did before, and we will appreciate how closely connected Newfoundland has always been with the city of Bristol. The people of Cupids are now erecting a monument, and Mr. Stacey brings as the gift of the citizens of Bristol a handsome tablet which will be a fitting memorial of our first Governor. A tower with a magnificent iron flag staff is also being built at Guy Point in Cupids. A monster Union Jack, the gift of Newfoundlanders in Toronto, will be hoisted. These will be remembrances forever of the first settlement under Royal patent ever effected in Newfoundland.

The people of Harbor Grace, Carbonear and Bristol's Hope are going ahead with an elaborate programme of sports and will have as their memorial a hospital in remembrance of the 300th anniversary of John Guy's arrival in Conception Bay and his subsequent second settlement a few years later at Bristol's Hope. All wish to join to make this celebration a great success, and with every prospect of fine weather at this season we see no reason whatever why everyone who can possibly be present will not be pleased and delighted with the efforts of the several committees in charge. Mr. Stacey has that feeling for Newfoundland that the bard of Scotland so well describes in "This is my own my native land," and is glad to be back after an absence of twenty-five years to renew his acquaintance with old friends and visit the scenes of his boyhood. While he is in St. John's he is the guest of his relative, Hon. John Anderson, and is looking forward to having a really enjoyable time with all in Newfoundland. He is a most friendly and affable gentleman and sure to make many new friends before he leaves our shores.

In Memory of Victoria and Edward VII.

Newfoundland is Britain's oldest Colony and glories in the honor. She likes also to be regarded as Britain's most loyal Colony, and possibly that designation also is her right. But up to the present time, so far as we know, Newfoundland has done little to show her loyalty and devotion to the Empire. Victoria, the noblest of queens, as well as one of the best women, passed away, but there is no memorial of the great Queen erected in Newfoundland. Edward VII. laid Newfoundland under special obligation, since by his tactful dealing with France he made possible the settlement of the long vexed dispute over French claims in our bays and harbors, and even upon our shores; but yet, so far, no steps have been taken to erect a memorial in his honor. Opinions have been invited and expressed favourable to such a project, and there the matter rests. Now, it seems to us that the memory of these two great Sovereigns should be perpetuated in Britain's oldest Colony, and we believe that Newfoundland is sufficiently loyal and generous to pay the bills, if only something can be set on foot that will appeal to the loyalty and judgment of the people.

The question is, what would be a suitable memorial for Victoria and Edward? Many suggestions have been offered. One, supported by several persons, was that it should take the form of a statury. This would, doubtless, be very beautiful and appropriate, but would be utter lacking in practical utility. The memorial that would be best adapted to local conditions should be useful as well as ornamental, and confer benefit upon as large a number as possible. What then is one of the great needs of Newfoundland to-day? It seems to us to be an institution that would be a centre of light and inspiration to the teachers of our country. We have to-day in Newfoundland about nine thousand teachers, most of whom have entered upon that important and responsible profession with very little practical training. Once their professional work commences they are thrown almost entirely upon their own resources, to succeed or fail as conditions may determine. If they fail, or only partially succeed, who are the losers? The boys and girls of Newfoundland. Many of these teachers see little before them but a dull, monotonous round year in and year out. They may get into ruts and keep there. They may adopt poor methods of teaching and follow them up. They may make mistakes and persist in them, not knowing that they are mistakes. The result is some-et discouraged and leave the profession. Others keep on and do the best they can, but it often is a poor best. Now, what would help the teachers, lift them out of ruts, relieve the monotony of their work, inspire them to greater achievement and enable them to secure complete, instead of partial success, would be the establishment of an institution to which they could resort in summer for help and guidance. While it would be possible, perhaps, for pupil teachers to obtain training in the art of teaching during school terms, the principal object of such an institution, it seems to us, should be to make provision for the discussion of methods of teachings during vacation.

What an opportunity this would afford also for lectures upon Mineralogy, Natural History, Drawing, Agriculture, First Aid in case of accident, The Great White Plague, Hygiene, or any other living subject claiming consideration! A Master of Method should be provided, and experts in such subjects as were to be treated. If these could not be found at home, it should be possible, at limited cost, to get one or more first class men to spend a few weeks in Newfoundland in summer enjoying our delightful climate and recruiting for the year's work. Such a project seems fraught with tremendous possibilities. Such an institution would be a boon to the thousand or more teachers of the present day, and to the thousands that will come after them, and through the teachers a means of enlightenment and help to the young people of every town, village and hamlet of Newfoundland. Why should not the names of our late great and good Queen Victoria, and of King Edward the Peacemaker, be forever associated with such an institution as this in Newfoundland? We believe that if teachers and educationists take up the matter in the right spirit it will soon be an accomplished fact and mark a new era in educational work in Newfoundland.—Methodist Greeting.

New Boat Launched.

At 3 p.m. yesterday the new race boat Guard, built for the Methodist Guards by Mr. Robert Sexton, was launched at Quidi Vidi Lake from the wharf at the City Club boat house. A large number of people were present, including many begatta enthusiasts, and Mrs. Pitts, wife of Hon. J. S. Pitts, commander of the Methodist Guards, performed the ceremony of christening. This was done in the old time honored way by the breaking of a bottle of champagne over the bow of the racer as she slid into the water, while hearty cheers greeted her appearance in her proper element. The Guard is a very pretty boat, sits well in the water, and all who saw her on the lake yesterday entertain the best opinions of her. She is a remarkably speedy boat and the Guards' crew took the trial run in her, the amateurs taking her next. Both Mr. Sexton and the people who helped put such a splendid racer on the pond deserve the thanks of the community for keeping up the interest in our local Derby.

Hit By an Auto.

Tuesday Mr. T. Martin, a resident of the White Hills, went to Kelligrews where he purchased a horse, for which he paid $70. He left late at night and drove bare back to the city. As he came out Topsall Road an auto followed. The man says the occupants did not blow the horn and collided with the hind legs of his horse, dislocating one of them at the fetlock. The horse had to be stabled on the road and it is feared will have to be destroyed. If such should occur the loss will be a great one to Martin, who is a poor man.

Norris Arm Notes.

The mill at Norris Arm is now in full swing, the average daily cuts between 75,000 and 80,000 feet of lumber, most of which is pine.
The logs cut by the company last winter amounted to about 5,000,000. Next winter they expect to have 8,000,000 or probably more cut owing to increasing trade.
There are upwards of 250 men working in the employ of the Central Forest Lumber Co. in and around Norris Arm. Next year the company contemplate increasing their number to 400 men.
At present in the yard of the company a large amount of lumber is stacked, enough in fact to supply the local trade independent of the foreign shipments which are very large.
The purchasing agent of the company, Mr. W. J. Sparrell, who is now in town on a short holiday, predicts a busy season for the company.

Arrested for Larceny.

Monday evening Supt. Grimes, of the Police Department, had a wire from Mr. Levi Sharpe, of Rantem, saying that two men, who were travelling from the northward had broken into his camp (No. 4) where they had stolen provisions, tobacco, and as it was later learned some articles of clothing. Later it was learned that the two thieves reached Waltham that night. Tuesday the Supt. heard from the railway people that the men on the new branch railway had searched for the men, going as far as Shook Harbor, but could get no trace of them. The police waited hoping that the men would be located by those on the line, and then were informed that the two marauders would be at Placentia Junction that night and were on their way home to Harbor Main. The officers arrested the pair at 10 p.m. and Sergt. Byrne and Constable Quinlan were despatched to capture them by yesterday morning's train. The officers arrested the pair whose names are Walsh and Skeans, and brought them to Holywood where they will be tried by Magistrate O'Toole. It is said that they also broke into another place and stole some goods on their way.

Castaway Fishermen Arrive.

Wm. Baker, of Ireland's Eye, T.B., and M. Bennett, of Grand Bank, fishermen of the banker Olivia May, Geo. M. Forsey master, arrived here in their dory this morning from Cape Race. They left their schooner on the Banks at 1 p.m. Saturday last, during a thick fog to go to haul their trawls, but missed their buoy and started to return to their vessel. After rowing for some time they found that they were astray and decided to shape their course for the Newfoundland shore. They reached Cape Race at 11 a.m. Monday, suffering terribly from hunger and thirst and were well cared for by the kind-hearted Messrs. Myrick. The mist was so thick that it lasted till Monday at 8 a.m., when it cleared but became dense again at 3 p.m. and they saw nothing until the Cape lighthouse beam shined Monday morning. They had a half bottle of water in the boat and this they husbanded, but it was soon consumed and then for nearly 24 hours they had nothing to quench their thirst nor had they any food whatever with them. They left the Cape at 7 a.m. yesterday, sailed down shore with a fair wind and harbored at Petty Harbor last night. When they left their vessel she was doing well and had 500 gals. on board. She has returned with a full cargo of fish for dories. The vessel is still on the Banks.

Big Train Day.

The trains were well patronized yesterday by picnickers and holiday seekers. Over 100 went out by the regular at 8:45 a.m., 400 children by the special at 10:30 for St. Mary's picnic, 650 for the Cochrane Street Sunday School outing at 11, and 300 by the 2:30 excursion train, while 50 went out at 6 o'clock. In all, about 1,500 went to the country by rail and returned during the night. Not the slightest mishap occurred to mar the pleasure of a very pleasant holiday.

Two Other Escapes.

A boy named Chafe, bathing in a pool at Waterford River, yesterday narrowly escaped drowning, and another went beyond his depth at Quidd's Wild. Parents should now impress on their boys the danger of being too bold when they go bathing in nearby ponds and streams.

Special to Evening Telegram. OTTAWA, July 27. Evidently the summary of General Sir John French's report on the Canadian Militia, which has been published in The Times, is somewhat unsatisfactory. "I have received the report of General French on the Canadian Militia," stated Sir Frederick Borden this afternoon, "but it is not my intention to make it public until such time as Sir Wilfred Laurier returns. It will be given out some time before Parliament assembles." "Will you indicate in a general way its contents?" he was asked. "I may say this much," replied the Minister, "that from my view it is favorable. There is nothing in it to which I take exception, having regard to the fact that the General has based his report on the preparedness of the Militia for war and without reference to the ordinary prevailing conditions. But even Generals, you know, sometimes differ."

Special Evening Telegram. LONDON, July 27. The King's Accession Declaration bill, in an amended form passed its second reading in the House of Commons to-day by a vote of 410 to 84. The bill as it now stands provides that the pronouncement against Roman Catholicism shall be eliminated and the clause "and declare that I am a faithful Protestant" shall be substituted. The non-conformists showed a strong opposition to the original substituting clause which read, "and declare that I am a faithful member of the Protestant Church as by law established in England," and the Premier finally accepted their amendment. It is believed that all difficulties have now been removed and that the bill will survive the Committee Stage and be accepted by the House of Lords without further trouble. During the discussion in the Commons to-day several anti-catholic societies gathered near the parliament and a number of "no popery" placards were displayed.

Special Evening Telegram. GLACE BAY, N. S. July 25. One of the most important seizures made in Cape Breton for some years took place here last night when Capt. Ed. Dicks of the schooner Miantonomah and four of the crew were arrested charged with smuggling liquor from St. Pierre and landing the same at Scatarie, July 23. The sch. was also taken in charge by the customs officers at Scatarie with the Government "Broad Arrow." The case has been worked up by John Bourinot, Chief of the N. S. Preventive Service. Capt. Dicks was taken to Sydney to-day and was given his liberty on furnishing bail to the amount of $2,000. The consignee of the cargo is a St. Anne's liquor dealer. The sch. returned with the load of liquor. The case will be heard here on Friday morning.

A procession of 2,000 pilgrims, whose some are "scattered" from ocean to ocean among them some of whom came on crutches, in wheel chairs, and by train, marked the close of the Feast of St. Anne, which has been in progress for 9 days at St. Anne's church. Simultaneously occurred the procession of lighted candles from the Shrine of St. Anne, the only other shrine in the United States possessing the sacred relics. At the latter place the candles were carried in the procession. Many wonderful cures are reported at both shrines.

Badly Hurt In Thresher

Blood poison set in—Great suffering—Cure effected by DR. A. W. CHASE'S OINTMENT. Mr. C. Hopkins, St. George, Ont. writes: "I feel like shouting the praises of Dr. Chase's Ointment. While threshing grain, my son got badly hurt. One of his legs was pinched between the sheaf and ran the prongs of the fork into my son's leg. He did not take much notice of it and in a day or two it got sore and very itchy and blood poison set in. We did everything for it but it would heal one place and break out at another and kept on this way for three months. Finally I thought of Dr. Chase's Ointment and in a week's time we noticed a wonderful change. By the use of three boxes he was completely cured and the wounds healed up. There has not been a sign of a spot on him since." Whenever there is itching or irritation of the skin or sores that refuse to heal you can apply Dr. Chase's Ointment with every assurance that the results will be prompt and satisfactory. ### Successful Party at Mount Cashel.

Yesterday afternoon the weather was most favourable for garden parties, picnics, and outings generally. Those who attended the garden party at Mount Cashel had full benefit of it as well as of the good things provided for consumption and entertainment. The attendance was large, the gate receipts high, and the sales gratifying.

There were present the Deputy Governor, Sir Edward Shea, the Acting Premier, Hon. R. Watson, Monsignor Roche, Clergy, Christian Bros., and other men of prominence.

On the raised platform exhibitions of dancing by the boys were given to the piping of Mr. Power's clarinet, and at intervals Mr. Bennett's band discoursed sweet and popular melodies.

At Torbay at 3 p.m. 12 competitors lined up for the six mile road race. For 4 miles G. Way kept and increased a good lead, then he collapsed from cramps and had to give up. Wall then took the lead followed by Greene and Thomas. The latter also had to give up, and at the finish Wall came in first in 37 mins. 40 secs.; Greene second and Kavanagh third.

The football boys were of course centres of interest. The Casuals won their round with the B. I. S., 1 to 0; the Feldians beat St. Bon's, 3 to 1; the Stars beat the C. E. L. 1 to 0; Col. legians beat the Ex-pupils of Mount Cashel, 4 corners to 1.

In the Inter-Brigade relay race for the H. D. Reid Challenge Cup, the C. L. B. team came out winners, with C. C. second, and Highlanders third. The Guards did not enter. The members of the winning team were:—E. Chafe, E. Spry, J. Marshall and W. Oliver.

In the second round of the football five the Stars and Feldians knocked out their opponents, and in the finals the Feldians won with a team made up of R. Tait, H. Dickinson, H. Rendell, E. Pinsett and J. Volsey. To them Rev. Monsignor Roche presented gold medals.

The ladies and gentlemen who contributed largely to the success of the Garden Party well deserve the praise given them for the brilliant success of the outing.

A PLUCKY LAD.—John Morgan, the plucky young centre forward of the Star football team, who is not yet 18, is making a name for himself in athletic circles. He is one of the best players on the Star team and will stroke the football team in the Guard on Regatta Day. He will also pull stroke for the C.C.C., of which he is a member, in the Brigade Race in the Pink-
Up.

Picnic at Topsisail.

Delightful weather had charming scenery added to the enjoyment of all those who attended the Cochrane Street Sunday School picnic held at Topsisail yesterday. After the arrival of the train the school proceeded to the grounds kindly loaned by S. Garrett, Esq., where the usual games, such as cricket, football, swinging, races, etc., were indulged in. Tea was served at 4.30 and all did justice to the good things provided by the caterer, Mr. Gale. Amongst the visitors present we noticed Rev. Drs. Cowperthwaite, Curtis, Reva, Matthews, Westlake, Ridout, Nurse and Messrs. E. B. Woods, of New York, M. T. Knight, A. Soper, A. Lindsay and others. Return was made to town at 9.40. Much credit is due the energetic Superintendent, Hon. H. J. B. Woods, the teachers of the school, and the Reid Nud. Co. for the successful carrying out of this annual outing which is looked forward to with such interest by the scholars of the school.

PRESENTED TO MR. BILLINGSBY.—On Tuesday night the employees of Parker & Monro presented an overmantle to Mr. W. Billingsby, their foreman, on the occasion of his wedding. The presentation was made by Messrs. J. Power and F. Walsh.

Member of the Guards

Wm. Joyce, to whose sad death we refer in another column, was a member of the Methodist Guards Brigade and well liked and very popular with his comrades and the officers. Only last week he passed his examination in the "first aid" class. His father, the late Mr. George Joyce, who died in March last, was a trusted employee of Arve & Sons. Heartfelt sympathy with the mother of the deceased boy and his sister and brother is expressed all over the city, and in this the Telegram sincerely joins.

A THIRD DROWNING

William Joyce Loses His Life in Long Pond—His Brother and Friend Barely Escape a Similar Fate.

A heavy toll in human life is being paid to the eagerness of young men and boys to go swimming in the ponds near the city. Three deaths in almost as many days from drowning is a fearful thing to contemplate, and the sacrifice of these valuable human lives must surely be the result of carelessness or negligence on the part of some person or persons in authority. One thing is certain that if the boys be not prevented in some way from going to suburban ponds to bathe, accidents will frequently occur.

The feelings and sympathies of citizens were again profoundly stirred last evening when it became known that William Joyce, aged 17 years, who resided at No. 150 Gower Street, had met his death by drowning in Long Pond.

The unfortunate lad who worked in the Hardware Department of Ayre & Sons, Ltd., was the only support of a widowed mother, his father, the late George Joyce, having died in March last. The facts of this very sad drowning accident are as follows:—

Yesterday afternoon being fine and warm the deceased lad—William Joyce, his brother, Walter, and J. W. Smith, a companion, left the home of the victim at 4 p.m. to go to Long Pond to have a bath. They crossed the bridge at the foot of the pond and went up the north side but would not go out in Sandy Bottom as too many boys were already there. They proceeded up towards the head, and undressing went out there. Both Smith and Walter, the brother of the deceased, could swim a few strokes, and immediately they entered the water the drowned lad started to dip his head and bathe it. The Smith boy jocosely asked him if he liked bathing his head, to which he replied: "that is about all I can do in the water." He now passed his two young friends and walked farther out in the pond, dipping his head in the water the while. They paid no particular attention to him afterwards so engrossed were they in the pleasures of bathing, until suddenly Smith saw him put both hands to his eyes and brush the water from them and from his hair. Telling him that he was a regular water dog, Smith was surprised to get no answer, and only since did he realize that the poor boy was then getting beyond his depth and had come to the surface when he was seen to brush his head and face with his hands, for he immediately disappeared to again come up and thrust one of his hands above the surface after which he sank to rise no more. Both now rushed after him to effect a rescue, and it was only by the intervention of a merciful Providence that a triple drowning did not occur. The two lads were not aware of the close proximity of the overfall until they, too, were out beyond their depth in the effort to save their young friend who, as he struggled in the death throes beneath the surface, gripped each by the legs and brought them under also. They had never before visited this part of the pond and hence their ignorance of the danger they ran. How they escaped from his embrace they do not know, but they did, and frightened they scrambled ashore. Smith was the first to reach the bank, and for a few seconds thought both brothers were gone until he saw Walter wading towards him. Both were exhausted as the result of their struggles in getting ashore, and looking to the spot where William had disappeared they could see bubbles rise to the surface, and they screamed loudly for help. Two young men were in a boat at some distance down the pond and hearing their cries rowed for the scene. Up the river which runs into the head of the pond they saw a man fishing, and Smith running up to him and telling him what had occurred, he grasped the rod he used and ran back to the pond and tried with the implement to raise the body, but could not do so. Those in the boat had by this time arrived, and one of the two young men in her, Tilley, by name, called to some young chaps who had assembled, told them he could not swim, and asked any of them who could to try and get the boy off bottom. Getting no answer he stripped, and seeing the body on the bottom lowered himself over the side of the boat and brought the dead boy to the surface, with the aid of his friend the body was placed in the boat and brought ashore where Tilley and his companion laid the boy on his back, worked the arms and tried to if possible to restore animation. This was fruitless. The poor boy had been about 15 minutes on bottom before being brought to the surface. Dr. Rendell later stated that life was extinct in a few minutes after he had sunk.

The boys about now ran to the cottage of Mr. R. G. Rendell, on the north side of the pond, told of the accident, and the Central Fire Station was phoned. Here, fortunately, Dr. Rendell was engaged in delivering a lecture before the police and firemen on first aid, and he with Sgt. Savage and Const. Lawlor, drove at high speed to the scene of the accident. The physician worked for a while on the body but soon discovered that life was extinct. From the time the accident had occurred until the doctor and police arrived fully a half hour elapsed, and this considering the time it took for the boys to get to the cottage, and the physician and officers to drive from the station was quick work.

The body was then borne out in a carriage to the Central Station, and in the meantime Supt. Grimes summoned Revs. J. K. Curtis and John Bartlett by phone to break the news to Mrs. Joyce. This was a sad and certainly a hard task, but the kindly clergymen accomplished it, though the blow to Mrs. Joyce, already mourning the death of a beloved husband, was a terrible one, and little surprise could be evinced when she became weak through grief and became so ill that Dr. Cowperthwaite had to attend her. It was feared that the bringing of the poor boy's remains to the house would have a dangerous effect on his mother, and so they were not conveyed home till near 9 last night when the poor woman could bear with some degree of composure the sight of her dead boy. A number of people collected at the residence when the corpse arrived there, and few there were who did not shed tears when the great grief of the mother and her children was witnessed.

This sad accident should be a warning to boys who cannot swim to refrain from going to ponds and rivers where there is always a danger of drowning.

Two Men Drowned on the Grand Banks.

Yesterday Mr. H. W. LeMessurier, Assistant Collector of Customs, received the following message from the Sub-Collector at Pushthrough:—"Schr. Glencoe, of McCallum Harbor, arrived at Pushthrough on the 19th from St. Pierre. The captain reports that two men were drowned on the Grand Banks from the United States' fishing schooner Arcthusa, Capt. Clayton Morrissey. The two men were natives of Newfoundland. One was Jeremiah Sutton, belonging to Pushthrough. The other was from Placentia, name not known."

A Pressing Necessity.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—Hardly a day passes now in which boys do not go to the suburban ponds to bathe, many of them who cannot swim doing so at the risk of their lives. In view of the accidents of the past few days it would seem that the erection of public bathing pools where boys could learn to swim is a great necessity, and on all sides are heard demands for such a convenience. If these were erected in some proper spot and properly managed, no lads need go to ponds where there is always the danger of accidents. Not a parent in the city at present but is living in a state of terrible apprehension when their sons are off in the country. This is not allayed till their safe return home. Swimming is pleasurable as well as a useful art, and boys should be given a chance to learn it without risking their lives. Those in authority should arrange to have proper swimming baths erected by next season at least.
PARENT.

Wake Up!

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—Does not the frequency of these drowning accidents emphasize the necessity of having a swimming pool either in or near the city? The youth of the city does not receive the attention and treatment, either from the Government or the Municipality, which they ought to, and which the youths of other modern cities now receive. It is time that we woke up to this fact and give our young people the heritage which is theirs by right, that is, the thoughtful consideration of their needs and requirements, and the meeting of those needs and requirements in the best possible manner, thus interesting them in their native place and binding them more firmly to the state. Those in authority ought at once to take this matter of a swimming pool into serious consideration and do something to make the thing a present reality.

I am, dear sir,
Yours truly,
NINETEEN HUNDRED & TEN.

The S.S. Lorle's Narrow Escape.

The S.S. Lorle, which left here for Harbor Breton early last week, had a narrow escape from running ashore at Brunette Island in Fortune Bay on her way to Harbor Breton. The lookout descried the land through a thick fog in time and the engines were reversed. She had on board a large number of laborers from St. John's who were going to discharge her at Harbor Breton.

Bell Island Races.

The committee in charge of the arrangements for the proposed Regatta at Bell Island met Monday night when they decided to confine the amateur race to the officials of the two companies store keepers and office hands, while a special arrangement was made for Lance Cove. It is impracticable to have a swimming race. Six of the committee were selected to carry on the field sports.

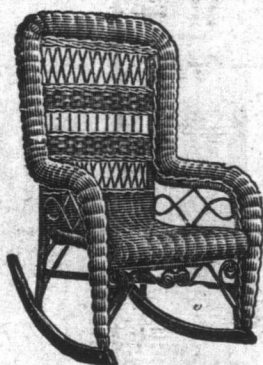

UNSEEMLY CONDUCT.—A number of young men who were coming from a "time" in the country early Tuesday morning created a disturbance and annoyed the residents of Hutchings' Street by shouting, indulging in horse play and kicking about night vessels. The conduct was unpardonable in some of them at least, who knew that a young lady of the place was at the point of death.
