The White Elephant Sale held by the Warwick branch of the Women's Patriotic League was a conspicuous success. The ladies favored them with fine weather and the contributions were very generous. Dainty cakes, pies and homemade loaves were on one counter presided over by Mrs. Thomson and Mrs. Thos. McLeay; white fancy articles, useful garments, etc. on another counter were quickly sold by Mrs. Shore, Mrs. Cook, and Mrs. Smith with other assistants. Amongst the many things contributed were hens, honey, apples, carrots, eggs, quilting frames, ironing boards, clothes horses and a four legged live horse was contributed by Mr. John Robinson but unfortunately did not bring the price asked so was not sold. A capital program was arranged for the evening and the audience much enjoyed the sweet singing of Miss Verna Auld and Mrs. Shepherd. Mrs. Edwards was the attraction of the evening, however, and came from Hymen Hall, London, to give an address on Red Cross work and its aims, also explaining the Red Cross workers, contrary to the general opinion, did not receive salaries, every official gave her services entirely free. Mrs. Edwards also explained that the information bureau, which has been the means of tracing many missing relatives, not only embraces this dominion but England as well. The pyjama suits are used for our men after they have been brought in from the battlefield wounded. Their trench clothes are removed and the pyjama suits put on for their admittance to hospitals.

Mrs. Edwards explained also that owing to the vigilance of the British Navy up to the present time not one man or one bale intended for the Red Cross had been lost at sea. When one returned soldier at present in London was asked the question, "Are you well treated in the hospitals in London, England?" The reply was, "Nothing can exceed the kindness shown and were I in my own home my mother could not show me greater kindness." In conclusion Mrs. Edwards urged her audience to continue to do good work they were doing, the need was as urgent as it ever was and this was no time to relax a single effort. A hearty vote of thanks was accorded Mrs. Edwards for her delightful address, also to Col. Kenward for so ably presiding, and the Warwick Branch of the Women's Patriotic League wish to take this opportunity of thanking most heartily all who so kindly helped to make the White Elephant Bazaar the huge success it was. The proceeds were about $20 at the home-made cookery stall and from the general sale, with donations and door fees the total amounted to $163.—E. Kirvill.

"I have used Vinol for many run-down, weak or emaciated patients with benefit. One young woman was so weak and ill she could hardly creep to my door for aid. I supplied Vinol to her liberally and in a month I hardly recognized her. She was strong, her color charming and her cheeks rounded out."—MOTHER M. ALPHONSA LATHROP, O. S. D.

The Duchess of Connaught

In Canada, which was almost the last home of the Royal Highness the Duchess of Connaught, the news of her death is received with general regret and with deep sympathy for the Duke and the Princess Patricia. All of our people who came in contact with the Duchess will remember her for her simple kindness and the absence of ostentation in her manner. Unfortunately the term of the Duchess's residence in Canada was very largely one of ill-health for the Duchess, and the war that has raged for the last thirty-one months did not conduce to the happiness of any of us. To the Duchess the struggle must have been peculiarly saddening. Of the Royal House of Prussia, she had close kin fighting against one another. The Kaiser and the Queen of Greece were her second cousins. The serious illness which caused her return to England so soon after originally coming to Canada left her with less power of resistance to such attacks as that which carried her off.

Slow Sale of Seed Oats

Thus far only sixty odd thousand bushels of No. 1 Canadian Western seed oats have been ordered for all points in Eastern Canada. Flour and Feed merchants are somewhat averse to purchasing carlots without assurance as to it being wanted for seed. As a matter of fact this seed oats should be worth the extra price for feed, because the light grain and weed seeds have been removed in cleaning.

Farmers desiring No. 1 C. W. seed oats should order promptly through their dealer or club together and purchase in carlots. These seed oats are of the Banner and Abundance varieties and the germination is much superior to Eastern grown oats of the 1916 crop. Seed Branch, Ottawa.

An Interesting Seed Case

A case of interest alike to seedsmen and farmers was recently tried in an eastern Ontario court. It appears that a field in the neighborhood had been seeded down for some years. The owner, it further appears broke up the field in 1915 and put it in grain. Next year he sowed grain again, at the same time seeding with timothy and red clover. In this second year a large quantity of mustard grew up with the crop. The owner of the field claimed that the mustard grew from seed mixed with the clover, entered suit against the seedsmen, and recovered $300 in damages.

Company of the 149th Moves

Sarnia, March 15.—The company of the 149th Battalion which has been stationed at Sarnia for the past month left here to-day to join the battalion at headquarters at London, where preparations are being made for a unit to go overseas. The battalion was recruited throughout the county of Lambton and is commanded by Col. W. W. MacVicar, of this city. A company from the 153rd Battalion, of St. Thomas, has arrived to take the place of the departed men.

She'd done her best

A woman in a railway waiting-room the other day had a great deal of trouble with one of her children, a boy of seven or eight; and a man who sat near her stood it as long as possible, and then observed:—

"Madam, that boy of yours needs the strong hand of a father."

"Yes, I know it," she replied; "but he can't have it. His father died when he was six years old, and I've done my best to get another husband, and failed. He can't have what I can't get."

Women Once Invalids

Now in Good Health Through Use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Say it is Household Necessity. Doctor Called it a Miracle.

All women ought to know the wonderful effects of taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound even on those who seem hopelessly ill. Here are three actual cases:

Harrisburg, Penn.—“When I was single I suffered a great deal from female weakness because my work compelled me to stand all day. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for that and was made stronger by its use. After I was married I took the Compound again for a female trouble and after three months I passed what the doctor called a growth. He said it was a miracle that it came away as one generally goes under the knife to have them removed. I never want to be without your Compound in the house.”—Mrs. FRANK KNOB, 1642 Fulton St., Harrisburg, Penn.

Hardly Able to Move.

Albert Lea, Minn.—“For about a year I had sharp pains across my back and hips and was hardly able to move around the house. My head would ache and I was dizzy and had no appetite. After taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills, I am feeling stronger than for years. I have a little boy eight months old and am doing my work all alone. I would not be without your remedies in the house as there are none like them.”—Mrs. F. E. YOST, 611 Water St., Albert Lea, Minn.

Three Doctors Gave Her Up.

Pittsburg, Penn.—“Your medicine has helped me wonderfully. When I was a girl 15 years old I was always sickly and delicate and suffered from irregularities. Three doctors gave me up and said I would go into consumption. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and with the third bottle began to feel better. I soon became regular and I got strong and shortly after I was married. Now I have two nice stout healthy children and am able to work hard every day.”—Mrs. CLEMENTINA DUBRING, 34 Gardner St., Troy Hill, Pittsburg, Penn.

All women are invited to write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for special advice.—it will be confidential.

CRUDE WIRELESS SYSTEM.

Long Used by an Indian Tribe of the Amazon Valley.

In these days of wireless telegraphy it may be interesting to learn that as long ago as July, 1898, the Geographical Journal recorded the discovery of a wireless telegraphic apparatus in use among the Catuquinaru, an Indian tribe of the Amazon valley, in South America.

The apparatus, called cambarysu, consists of a hole in the ground about half filled with coarse sand; above this layers of fine sand, fragments of wood and bone and powdered mica fill it almost to the surface of the ground. These materials are surrounded by a case of hard palm wood, which extends above the surface. The upper part of the apparatus consists of layers of hide, wood and hard rubber. Between the upper layers and the lower layers there is a hollow space. With a club, much like the stick used to play the bass drum, the native strikes the layer of rubber that forms the top of the instrument.

One of these instruments is concealed in each hamlet of the tribe. The villages are not more than a mile apart and are placed in a direct north and south line. Although a person standing outside the building in which the apparatus is kept cannot hear a blow of the stick on the rubber top, it is quite distinct in a similar building a mile distant. When one of these instruments is struck the neighboring ones to the north and south echo the blow. The Indian stationed at each one of the posts answers the signal, and by means of code messages a long conversation can be carried on.

GREWSOME PRESENTS.

To Make a Chinaman Happy Give Him a Coffin as a Gift.

A Chinese custom that seems particularly strange to occidental readers is described by Sir Alexander Hesse in his account of a journey through the interior of China, “On the Trail of the Opium Poppy.”

At the hamlet of Fenshiling, thirteen miles from Chichiang Hsien, he says, we passed into Pa Hsien district, in which the port of Chungking is situated. No one ever sees a coffin without being impressed by the sight, and here we saw them in the piece as well as made up. Every house had a coffin or two lying under its eaves, some new, some old, and one's first surmise was that mortality in these parts must be great.

The cause was, of course, the abundance of cypress, a wood that is much prized for coffin making, and it must be remembered that in China a coffin is a very acceptable present, especially if made by your own family. Hundreds of pounds are often spent on a single coffin, and it is highly treasured by the person for whom it has been designed. To western ideas the present of a coffin by a son to a parent would be somewhat suggestive, and the daily sight of it at the house door would be decidedly annoying. In China it is otherwise. A coffin is one of the most valued of gifts.

An Early Street Cleaner.

“One day,” Ben Franklin wrote in his autobiography, “I found a poor, industrious man who was willing to undertake keeping the pavement clean by sweeping it twice a week, carrying off the dirt from before all the neighbors' doors for the sum of 6 pence per month to be paid by each house. I then wrote and printed a paper setting forth the advantages to the neighborhood that might be obtained by this small expense. I sent one of these papers to each house and in a day or two went around to see who would subscribe an agreement to pay these sixpences. It was unanimously signed and for a time well executed. This raised a general desire to have all the streets paved and made the people more willing to submit to a tax for that purpose.”

Jewels on an Idol.

The jewels of an Indian idol must be worth stealing if many of those remarkably hideous images possess such valuable head ornaments as one made for the idol Parthasathy, in the Triplicane temple in Madras. The ornament is worth some 50,000 rupees and is made of sovereign gold studded with diamonds, emeralds and rubies, the largest emerald being valued at 1,000 rupees and the biggest ruby and diamond at 300 rupees apiece.

Exhausted from Asthma. Many who read these words know the terrible drain upon health and strength, which comes in the train of asthmatic troubles. Many do not realize, however, that there is one true remedy which will surely stop this drain. Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy is a wonderful check to this enervating ailment. It has a countless record of relief to its credit. It is sold almost everywhere.

A soft headed nail and a hard headed man are hard to drive.

True happiness is a reflection of the happiness you have given to others.

A diplomat is one who knows how to get what he wants without fighting for it.

Recruits Wanted for Production

Just as surely as lack of food is strangling Germany day by day, so plenty of food is winning the victory for the allies. The French armies, for instance, were never better fed than now, for France cannot forget the awful lesson of 1870—the failure of her food supply. To this she attributed the loss of that war.

To feed the French soldiers around Verdun, more than 25,000,000 pounds of food a week were required. This gives a faint idea of the colossal task of feeding an army. Canada and Britain have a huge army of fighting heroes on the line; every man MUST have plenty of food, in spite of a world shortage. Upon Canada's food production all principally rely.

The Farmers of Ontario Urgently Need Help

The Department of Agriculture appeals to men and boys to enlist in the farm help campaign. The Department appeals to men unfit for military service, or who find it impossible to enlist in the army. Do your “bit” by helping to increase production of foodstuffs. This is your hour of opportunity. The farmers of Ontario need the help of retired farmers, of men following no occupation (retired), of business men who can spare a portion of their time. We appeal to all who can so arrange their ordinary affairs to plan to help some farmer friend, particularly in seed time and harvest.

Confer with your county District Representative of the Department of Agriculture, or write, “Farm Help Campaign,” care Department of Agriculture, Toronto.

A short program, consisting of choruses, solos, speeches and instrumental music was rendered. Near the end of the program Privates McPhedran, Lampman, Randall and Tait, (the latter being unavoidably absent) were called forward and presented with Autographic Cameras and complete shaving kits by Messrs. Earl Morningstar and Neil McPhedran, and an appropriately worded address was read by Mr. Orville Ramsay. The address was signed on behalf of the friends and neighbors by Orville Ramsay, Wm. Pye, Neil McPhedran and Harry Ramsey. The boys then made suitable replies, thanking all for their kind remembrances. The ladies then served a dainty lunch. A pleasant evening came to a close by all singing "God be with you till we meet again," and "God Save the King."

Obituary

At the home of her parents, tenth line Brooke, on Thursday, Mar. 15, there passed peacefully away Myrtle Araminta the third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Edgar, in her 23rd year. Death followed a brief illness of about four weeks, during which time she was confined to her bed. She bore her sickness with the utmost patience and Christian fortitude. She seemed to realize her end was coming and chose as texts for her funeral John XIV—2 and Matt. VII—1. Her kind and loving disposition endeared her to all who knew her, and though young she had made a large circle of friends. She was a member of the Walnut Methodist Church, of the choir and of the Ladies' Aid. Besides her sorrowing parents she leaves to mourn their loss four brothers and five sisters:—Mrs. D. McGugan, of Brooke; Gordon, of Brooke; Mrs. L. V. Watcher, of Hamilton; Verna, Ina, Allan, Clare, Alleen and Clifford at home. The funeral was held from the family residence on Sunday Mar. 18th, and was conducted by Rev. N. A. Campbell, of Inwood. The pallbearers were:—W. A. Lucas, Archie McGugan, Clarence Dolbear, Walter Swan, Robert Edgar and Basil Maddock. Her remains were laid to rest in the Alvinston cemetery to await the resurrection of the just.

A Story of the Paris Commune

By WILLARD BLAKEMAN

The human race lives on the edge of the chasm of war. All modern wars, civilized people having now reached a stage where war is dreaded, may be referred to as stupidity. One of the most stupid contests within the last half century was the uprising of the Paris commune at the close of the Franco-Prussian war in 1871. If ever a country needed peace in which to recover from its wounds France did at that time. And yet a number of impracticable idealists, led by villains, for a time paralyzed the government by fire and sword. And when they had succeeded in acquiring the power to carry out their ideas their whole structure fell to the ground because these ideas were utopian.

The singular feature of all this is the sincerity and devotion to a cause under which there was no foundation. That the leaders were unscrupulous, as well as idealists, goes without saying. But many of the revolutionists undoubtedly fought and died, actuated by pure motives.

During the period when the communists held Paris by means of barricades erected upon the streets through which the national troops were attacking them, Captain Pierre Le Moynes was ordered to take his company into a narrow street and demolish a barricade, behind which a party of communists were entrenched. There was but little room in which an attacking force could operate, the street being not over thirty feet wide. Captain Le Moynes was obliged to march his men down the narrow lane, the houses of which rose on either side to a height greater than the width of the street. The distance from the beginning of the street to the barricade was about 1,000 feet. From the windows and the roofs of the houses it was to be expected that the advancing troops would be picked off by the communists.

Many a soldier, when he received the order to march into the death trap or heard the reverberation between the houses of the first tap of the drum which announced it, felt that there was little chance of his ever getting out alive. Each stroke on the drum-head sounded sharp and loud and ominous. As the little column moved onward there was a crack from a window, a faint cloud of smoke, and one of the men fell on the pavement. Another crack from a roof on the opposite side of the street, and another man plunged forward on his face.

"At this rate," thought Captain Le Moynes, "by the time we reach the barricade there will be not enough of us left to take it."

"Tap-tap! Tap-tap-tap!" came the drumbeats, while at short intervals a crack of a weapon here and there added to their viciousness.

But as the men advanced the shots came fewer. When one-half the distance had been covered, where there had been a dozen shots a minute there was now only a straggling fire, and the marksmanship was wild.

"Either they are breaking down," said the captain, "or they have concentrated all their force at the barricade."

On marched the troops, reduced by a fifth of their number, till, turning a bend in the street, they came in sight of the barricade. The firing from the windows ceased entirely. The silence, broken only by the sharply reverberating drum taps, was more ominous than if the drums had been deadened by a fusillade. The pile of cobblestones which floated the blood red flag of the commune looked ugly—more ugly because the weapons behind it, aimed down the narrow street, were invisible.

Captain Le Moynes halted his men for the purpose of taking in the situation. He cast quick glances at the upper stories and roofs of the houses on each side. No one was in sight, nor was a single shot fired.

"They are reserving their fire," said the captain. "We shall get it from the windows when we charge the works." He strained his eyes in an endeavor to get sight of something stirring within. Not even the flag moved, for there was no wind.

Silence before the storm is more depressing than after it breaks. Men standing waiting for a fight to open are more unreliable than in the heat of battle. Le Moynes' soldiers seemed restless. There was no reason for them to move till they received an order to advance, yet they changed position constantly, casting the white glances at the houses above them and the barricade.

Though they expected a hailstorm of bullets, when the order "Forward" was given they felt relieved. Suspense at the pure cane sugar which you will find best for marmalade and all preserving. On account of its very "FINE" granulation, Lantic Sugar dissolves instantly, making crystal clear syrups and bright, firm jellies.

MARMALADE without weighing

Slice six bitter oranges and seven sweet oranges and add three cups of cold water for each cup of the fruit pulp. Let stand for 24 hours in a glass or porcelain vessel, then bring slightly to the boiling point and boil for 15 minutes. Set aside for another 24 hours. Then measure five kitchen cups full of the fruit into a preserving kettle and boil briskly for about an hour. Add a 2-lb. carton of Lantic Sugar, which will need no weighing as it has been accurately weighed when it was packed.

Note: This quantity makes nearly 5 pounds of marmalade. It is better not to cook more than this at one time as the long cooking tends to darken it.

Don't buy sugar by the "quarter's worth" or "dollar's worth." Buy Lantic Sugar in our full-weight sealed packages. Weighed, sealed and packed automatically at the refinery. No hand touches it but your own.

least was ended. Again came the sharp tap of the drum as the little column moved on without opposition. Evidently the communists were reserving their fire till the last minute. When within a hundred yards of the barricade Captain Le Moynes halted his men again and called on the enemy to surrender. His demand was answered by a single shot.

Expecting this to be a signal for a volley, the captain quickly deployed his men so far as the narrow street would permit and gave the order to fire. A volley of bullets rained upon the stones composing the barricade. There was no response.

Le Moynes was puzzled. Drawing up his men in two lines, the one behind the other, he ordered them to fix bayonets and advance. A third of the distance was covered, but no volley; another third, with the same result. Captain Le Moynes, who was in advance of his men, went to the barricade, climbed it and looked down on the other side.

There was but one living being there, and that was a woman. She had been wounded by a shot from the troops and lay bleeding on the pavement.

Most of the women who fought with the commune were hags. This woman was not more than twenty years old. She looked up at Le Moynes with a pair of large dark eyes. They expressed a spirit of martyrdom.

It was all plain to Le Moynes. The commune was breaking down. The barricade had been deserted except by this Maid of Orleans, who constituted herself its sole defender.

Le Moynes turned, called on a lieutenant to bring the men to a rest, then went down the barricade to the woman.

"Are you badly wounded?" he asked.
"No; I have a broken leg."
"Who are you?"
"Elise Fourchet."

"What are you doing here alone behind this barricade?"
"I could not get the men to stay. They heard that our defenses are broken down in other parts, and they dared not remain."

"And you?"
"I would not desert."

By this time the soldiers had climbed the barricade and were waving the tricolor of France from its crest. Le Moynes called upon them to carry its defender into a house beside it, going with them as they did so. There was only one person besides the captain and his men, an old woman, who ministered to the wounded girl. A surgeon accompanied the soldiers, and he was called in to set and bandage the broken limb.

Had the damage done by the commune ended with its loss of control before the wholesale slaughter of its votaries which followed would not have taken place. When its leaders found that they were beaten, adopting the motto of rule or ruin, since they could not rule they resolved to ruin. They murdered the archbishop of Paris and other distinguished persons whom they held as hostages. Not content with this, they undertook to destroy the city. Paris was then full of beautiful buildings. Many of these were destroyed, including the most interesting, historically considered, the palace of the Tuilleries, the ancient abode of the kings of France.

It was these acts of vandalism that led the government to get rid, so far as possible, of so dangerous a portion of the population of Paris. The captured communists were marched out to the yards of the prisons in which they were confined, stood up with their faces to the walls and shot down by scores. Doubtless many of these believed that they were dying in a sacred cause.

Captain Le Moynes could he have foreseen these horrors would undoubtedly have continued to save his prisoner from the universal sacrifice, though he had but little time, and Elise Fourchet was not in a condition to avail herself of a permitted flight. The only thing the captain could do for her was to leave her with the woman who was caring for her. He marched his men away, but the national troops were pouring into the city, and when Mlle. Fourchet was found wounded and confessed that she had received a bullet while defending a barricade she was removed to a prison.

If the communists received a trial they were tried in large numbers together. When Elise Fourchet was brought before a judge for one of these wholesale sentences, noticing she was of a different class from most of the others, he asked her why she had engaged in such nefarious work.

"I fought to build, not to destroy," was her reply. "I did not know that we were led by bad men. One of our leaders, Cluseret, fought with the Union armies in the late war between the states of North America, and I supposed that a man who had risked his life in the cause of civil liberty must be representing the same cause in France."

The judge was touched by this appeal and remanded the prisoner to prison for further evidence. But the Parisians soon tired of the wholesale slaughter of the communists, and Mlle. Fourchet was never again brought to trial. In time, when all danger of a recurrence of the outbreak had passed, the prison doors of all communists who had not been executed were thrown open, and among those who walked out free was Elise Fourchet.

She ever afterward had a horror of the men who had led so many innocent persons into crime. Not all of them were punished unless by their own consciences. A few escaped, others perished in the havoc they had made, while others were banished from France. Probably no body of men ever set in motion a revolution that involved so much ruin, not only of histories, treasures, but of persons they deceived. As Paris is France, their chief devastation was in that city. Just before its capture bands of men and women—such men and women as followed Louis XVI. to the guillotine seventy years before—went from one historic edifice to another, applying petroleum and to petroleum the torch. When the ruin was completed Paris was a very different city from what it had been before. How that art treasure, the Louvre, escaped will always remain a wonder. While Elise Fourchet was long remembered as one of the heroines of the commune, she never afterward affiliated with communists. And as for the commune leaders, she detested them.

She ever afterward had a horror of the men who had led so many innocent persons into crime. Not all of them were punished unless by their own consciences. A few escaped, others perished in the havoc they had made, while others were banished from France. Probably no body of men ever set in motion a revolution that involved so much ruin, not only of histories, treasures, but of persons they deceived. As Paris is France, their chief devastation was in that city. Just before its capture bands of men and women—such men and women as followed Louis XVI. to the guillotine seventy years before—went from one historic edifice to another, applying petroleum and to petroleum the torch. When the ruin was completed Paris was a very different city from what it had been before. How that art treasure, the Louvre, escaped will always remain a wonder. While Elise Fourchet was long remembered as one of the heroines of the commune, she never afterward affiliated with communists. And as for the commune leaders, she detested them.

Fur Production in Canada

Canada's rich resources in fur-bearing animals formed her earliest commercial attraction, and, through generations of energetic exploitation, the fur industry has occupied an important position in primary production. Of recent years it has become increasingly evident that the permanent preservation of this source of wealth demands the much more rigorous protection of fur-bearers. One of the essential requirements is the collection of accurate statistical data of fur production from year to year, as a reliable index to the increase or depletion of our resources. Such a system is already enforced in several provinces, where trappers and fur dealers are licensed and com-

TRAVEL AS AN EDUCATOR.

Seeing the World and its Wonders Broadens the Mind.

Millions of people never travel. Rising day after day, they look out upon the same scenes, go through the same daily tasks and tumble into the same bed again at night, no different than they were the day before.

Each year thousands are traveling for the first time, not only the wealthy, but the middle class and even the poorest. They are coming to view travel not as an extravagance, but as the price of comfort, health, experience and knowledge. Ocean liners are veritable floating hotels, with ballrooms, promenades and conservatories, while trains are the last word in comfort with their thickly upholstered seats and handsomely appointed dining cars with up to the minute service.

The educational value of travel is beginning to have the greatest weight. Boys and girls who have been to the best schools help complete their education by seeing the world or such parts of it as their time and circumstances will permit. The grown up who is wise realizes the broadening influence of travel and counts each day well spent that brings him new experiences in foreign fields. No one can fail to be uplifted by seeing some of God's masterpieces or the handiwork of man in picture, sculpture, cathedral and splendid public edifices. Nor is it necessary to leave one's own country. There is plenty to be seen and learned in our home land if we will only go in search of it.—Kathleen Hills in Leslie's.

STANDARD TIME.

The Railroad Confusion That Existed Before Its Adoption.

Prior to 1883 time differences caused especially confusing complications on railroads in the United States. It was formerly customary for a road to use throughout large sections of its territory the local time of one of the principal cities through which it passed.

The result was that when two railroads met in some smaller town it frequently happened that they were running under widely different time systems. As many as five different kinds of time were thus simultaneously in use in a single town.

It was the need of an international standard of time that led to the prime meridian conference at Washington in 1882. This recommended the use of the Greenwich civil time, reckoned from zero up to twenty-four hours.

In accordance with this resolution and to remedy the aforementioned difficulty the United States and Canada selected a series of standard meridians differing in longitude from that of Greenwich, England, by exact multiples of 15 degrees.

On Oct. 18, 1883, a convention was called by W. F. Allen, secretary of the general railway time convention, which decided on the introduction of standard time, to take effect on Nov. 18, 1883, and on that day the change to the present system was made without any difficulty.—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

A Remedy for Earache.—To have the earache is to endure torture. The ear is a delicate organ and few care to deal with it, considering it work for the doctor. Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil offers a simple remedy. A few drops on a piece of lint or medicated cotton and placed in the ear will work wonders in relieving pain.

An Ounce of Prevention.
For the third time in one afternoon the lady found her new maid fast asleep in the kitchen easy chair.

"What, asleep again?" she said.

"When I engaged you you said you were never tired."

"I know I did," the maid answered, "but I should be if I didn't sleep."—New York Times.

Didn't Feel Comfortable.
So great was the indignation of the American colonists in 1765 against the stamp act that the Connecticut stamp officer rode into Hartford on a white horse to deposit his resignation, with a thousand armed farmers riding after him, and said he "felt like death on a pale horse with all hades following him."

A Spring Tonic

Substantial Proof by a Canadian Witness.

Beechmont, Ont.—"I feel it my duty to tell what Dr. Pierce's remedies have done for me. When I commenced taking them I was completely run down. I have taken altogether nine bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Favorite Prescription,' together with the 'Pleasant Pellets' and can truthfully say that I feel like a new woman. I would certainly recommend these medicines to any one suffering as I did."—Mrs. Wm. Plumley, Beechmont, Ont.

An imitation of nature's method of replacing waste of tissue, enriching impoverished blood and increasing nerve force is when you take an alternative extract of herbs and roots made with pure glycerine, without the use of alcohol, like Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. This vegetable medicine coaxes the digestive functions and helps in the assimilation of food, or rather takes from the food just the nutriment the blood requires.

Pure blood is essential to good health. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery not only cleanses the blood of impurities, but it increases the activity of the blood-making glands, and enriches the body with an abundant supply of pure, rich blood. It thus cures scrofula, eczema, erysipelas, boils, pimples and other eruptions that mar and scar the skin.

Write Dr. Pierce, 'Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., for free medical advice or for free booklet on blood.

BUILDS UP THE FARM

E. HODGETTS, Lambeth, Ontario, says:

"I used Homestead Bone Black Fertilizer on part of my oat field. The previous owner of the farm paid me a visit this Summer, and in walking over the farm we came to the oat field. My friend asked me why the oats on a part of the field were of much greater length and quality than the rest. I informed him that I had done so, and he said he could not have believed, if he had not seen it, that Homestead Fertilizer could give such results. I can recommend it highly to anyone wishing to build up their farm and grow big crops."

700 Bushels from 17 1/2 Acres

WM. READ, Lucan, Ontario, says:

"I feel under obligations to write you in regard to Homestead Bone Black Fertilizer. I sowed 17 1/2 acres of wheat on the second day of October. On account of the wet weather I was unable to sow any sooner. I used 200 pounds of the Bone Black Fertilizer per acre, and I threshed 700 bushels of wheat, machine measured. It is the finest sample that has been seen. A great many farmers thought it would be impossible to grow a good crop seeding at this late date, but the fertilizer certainly pushed the crop. You may use this as you wish, for I know if the farmers throughout Ontario knew the producing value of your fertilizer they would use a great deal more."

MARCH WEATHER RHEUMATIC WEATHER

Victims Can Cure Themselves With Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

With the coming of March people who are afflicted with rheumatism begin to have unpleasant reminders of their trouble. The weather is changeable—balmy and springlike one day, raw, cold and piercing the next. It is sudden changes of weather that sets the pangs and tortures of rheumatism, lumbago and sciatica going. But it must be borne in mind that although weather conditions start the pains, the trouble is deeply rooted in the blood, and can only be cured through the blood. All the lotions and liniments in the world can't cure rheumatism. Rubbing may seem to ease the pain while you are rubbing, but there its value ends. Only through the blood can you cure rheumatism. That's why Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have so many thousands of cures of this trouble to their credit. The new, rich blood which they actually make drives out the poisonous acid and rheumatism is vanquished. Among many sufferers from rheumatism who have been cured by this medicine is Mr. C. E. McGee, freight shed foreman for the G. T. R. at Peterboro, who says:—"In the course of my work I am naturally exposed to all kinds of weather, with the result that about two years ago I contracted rheumatism which settled in my legs. At times I could scarcely walk, and often had to quit my day's work owing to the stiffness and the pain. I tried different remedies without getting any help until I began to use Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I used six boxes of these and can say that I am about as well as ever I was. I still take the pills occasionally, and I hope that my experience may be of benefit to some other rheumatic sufferer."

If you suffer from rheumatism, or any other disease of the blood, begin to cure yourself to-day with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Joseph Spracklin, who had lived in Woodstock for fifty years and had been engaged in the harness business ever since coming from England, passed away last week. He was well known throughout Ontario as a breeder of spaniels and hounds, and for many years was a winner at the big New York shows.
