TOPICS OF TO-DAY.

Two murderers will go to their doom in Canada to-morrow—one at Belleville and the other at Quebec city.

The Montreal Anglican Synod, on the motion of Dean Carmichael, of Montreal, passed a resolution in favor of consolidating all the branches of that church in Canada. The union is almost certain to take place.

It is stated in Montreal that one of the results of the defeat of the Conservatives in Quebec will be the retirement of Mr. L. O. Taillon from the leadership of the party. Mr. Taillon was among the slain in the recent electoral fight.

Queen Victoria has taught all her daughters and grand-daughters to make bread and butter, and yet there is not one of the girls but buys these supplies for her husband, remarks a synical Yankee editor. Very well. Did you ever hear of one of your girls making butter if she could find a substitute?

The reports of the Statistical Committees of the various Conferences of the Methodist Church of Canada show an encouraging increase all along the line. The membership returns are as follows: Toronto, 37,728, an increase of about 700; London, 27,254, an increase of 672; Bay of Quinte, 29,965, an increase of 787; Montreal, 34,156, an increase of 1,073; Guelph, 28,420, an increase of 126; Niagara, 26,814, an increase of 792. Total membership, 184,437, being an increase of 4,150.

Heligoland, the island which Great Britain has agreed to give over to Germany, in the rearrangement of territory consequent on the African deal, is an island in the North Sea 40 miles northwest of the mouth of the Elbe. It had a population in 1871 of about 2,000 souls. The island is triangular, about a mile long from north to south, and one-third of a mile broad from east to west. It was formerly much broader, but the action of the sea is continually wearing it away. In 1714 it was taken from the Duke of Holstein-Gottorp by the Danes, from whom it was captured by the English in 1807, for whose fleets it served as a station during the war with France. It was formally ceded to Great Britain in 1814. The inhabitants are descendants of Frisians and speak the Frisian language as well as the low German. The Government consists of a governor appointed by the Crown, aided by an executive council, a form of government established by the Queen in 1868.

At Leipsic they are now celebrating the centenary of the pipe, and the Petite Presse seizes upon the occasions to give a few notes upon the history of the use of tobacco in Europe, which will be interesting to smokers and their enemies. Snuff, it appears, was the first form in which tobacco was used in France, and the pipe didn't make its appearance until the reign of Louis XIV. At that time the French Government began to distribute pipes among the soldiers. Jean Bart was an inveterate smoker, and the story goes that some Bourbon princesses used to smoke pipes. There was very little smoking in Europe in the eighteenth century. No great man of that time was a smoker. During the French revolution the pipe was comparatively unknown. Neither Robespierre nor Danton, nor any one of the leaders of that period was a smoker. But when Napoleon's army returned from Egypt the pipe became fashionable. Gen. Lasalle used to lead his cavalry charges with a pipe in his mouth; and d'Oudinot was the possessor of a splendid meerschaum, which was presented to him by Napoleon, and which was ornamented with stones to the value of about $7,500. Gen. Moreau, when his legs were about to be amputated, called for his pipe, that he might smoke it during the operation; but how he enjoyed it history doesn't state. The Restoration brought about a reaction against the pipe, and it was not until 1830 that it retained a popularity which it has preserved up to the present time. Except perhaps in England, the pipe is considered out of place on the street; but at home it is just the thing in all sorts of society, and it is smoked by many great men, including Bismarck.

He was helpless in their hands, and signed the check to escape.

Canada vs. Ontario.

TORONTO, June 19.—In the Chancery Division yesterday the case of the Attorney-General of Canada vs. the Attorney-General of Ontario was argued. On March 23, 1888, the Ontario Legislature passed an act, Vic. 51, chap. 5, respecting executive administration of the laws of Ontario, by which the Provincial Executive was clothed with power to remit and commute criminal sentences. The Government of Canada has asked the courts to declare the act beyond the powers of the Attorney-General of the Local Parliament of Ontario. Hon. Edward Blake, Q.C., and A. Irving, Q.C., appear for the Ontario Government, and Christopher Robinson, Q.C., and Lefroy for the Dominion. Mr. Robinson's argument took up the whole day.

"An Artist in Abjectness."

LONDON, June 19.—The Pall Mall Gazette, commenting upon the settlement of the question between England and Germany relative to Africa, denounces Lord Salisbury's surrender of the Island of Heligoland to Germany in return for German concessions in Africa as shameful, but says the announcement of the settlement is admirably dramatic. "Nothing," the Gazette says, "could be more abject, but Lord Salisbury is an artist in abjectness. He announced his Sedan on the anniversary of the battle of Waterloo."

Varying Views.

LONDON, June 19.—Commenting on the East African agreement between England and Germany, the Globe says England gains far more than she gives away.

The Pall Mall Gazette says: "Lord Salisbury announced his Sedan on the anniversary of the battle of Waterloo."

A Paris correspondent declares France and Russia will oppose an English protectorate over Zanzibar.

The St. James' Gazette says: "The agreement is a bad bargain. It will be the duty of Parliament to reject the bill providing for the surrender of Heligoland to Germany."

Mr. Morley said that the agreement with Germany was equitable, and the front bench of the Opposition would not oppose it.

The Paris Temps says: "Lord Salisbury has carried his desire to please Germany to the utmost limit. When we think of all the glorious memories connecting equatorial Africa with the history of English explorers, and when we consider how recent are Germany's claims there and the dangers in cutting in two the English possessions, we can only conclude that Lord Salisbury has very powerful reasons for making such large concessions. We vainly seek to discover what concessions Germany has made which could explain Lord Salisbury's generosity."

LONDON, June 19.—The Chronicle protests against Salisbury going out of the way to enlarge the territory of Germany when there is the utmost necessity on account of Newfoundland to cultivate the friendliness of France. It thinks the Government blunder has brought Parliament within measurable dissolution. If the Heligoland Bill is neglected the ministers will be bound to appeal to the country.

The Telegraph's Berlin correspondent says: "The idea of ceding Heligoland to Germany was entirely England's and the spontaneity of the offer gave Emperor William much pleasure. The Colonial party is indignant and disappointed, but the leaders of the National Liberals and a majority of the Right indorse the agreement fully. The Vossiche Zeitung, the Tagblatt and the Boersen Courier all express congratulations upon the successes of the Emperor and the Government, and the financial world is delighted."

THE PRESBYTERIANS.

Proceedings of the General Assembly—Ministers Superannuated—Relations of Church and State—The Temperance Question—The Sister-in-Law Business.

OTTAWA, June 18.—The General Assembly this morning found itself face to face with such a mass of business that chaos held reign for a quarter of an hour, when efforts were made to fix the order of business. Finally it was agreed to allow the Moderator to arrange the business for the forenoon. Rev. D. M. Gordon, of Winnipeg, presented the report of the Committee on Loyal Addresses to the Queen and Governor-General. Both addresses were adopted.

The Committee on the retirement of Ministers reported, recommending that leave to retire and be placed on the aged and infirm ministers' fund be granted to Rev. Geo. Christie, Presbytery of Halifax; Rev. W. A. Johnson, Presbytery of Quebec; Rev. Geo. Combie, Presbytery of Lanark and Renfrew; Rev. A. Currie, Presbytery of Chatham; Rev. D. Gordon, Presbytery of Stratford; Rev. Geo. Bremner, Presbytery of Lanark and Renfrew; Rev. Robert Wallace, of Toronto; Rev. H. Waddell, Presbytery of Chatham; Rev. A. McLelland, D.C.L., Whitby. The committee recommended that Rev. Mr. Meikle, of the Presbytery of Toronto, be retired, but that his name be not placed on the fund till 70 years of age. Rev. S. Drummond, of Whitby, same provision, allowance to commence with resignation of charge.

Rev. Alex. Ross, Lindsay, was retired, but not placed on the fund. Rev. Mr. McMilliken, Guelph, not granted, the Presbytery not having complied with the rules and evidences of infirmity not being sufficient.

On the next name, Rev. A. Wilson, a long discussion arose. The committee recommended that he be not received, as he was not infirm nor 70. An amendment by Prof. McLaren was finally adopted, allowing Mr. Wilson leave to retire from the active ministry, and referring his application to become an annuitant to the favorable consideration of the aged and infirm ministers' fund.

The report on statistics presented by Rev. Dr. Torrance showed 1,920 churches and connected stations in Canada—83 more than last year—and a membership of 157,999—an increase of 5,977.

Rev. Dr. MacVicar presented the report of the Committee on Civil and Religious Liberty. The report states that:

It is manifest that the aggressions of ultramontanism have received at least a temporary check, and that the public mind is more thoroughly alive than it has been for a long time to the necessity of guarding vigilantly the legislation of the country and the education of our youth from the undue influence of Romanism. * * * But while there is ground for congratulation on what has been already accomplished, much yet remains to be done. * * * The following are some of the objects which the committee think the church ought to aim at furthering by all legitimate means: (1) The complete separation of Church and State, each to be independent in its own sphere—a free Church in a free State—the mutual rights of each to be respected, but neither to invade the prerogative of the other; (2) the abolition of all grants from the public exchequer for ecclesiastical or sectarian purposes; (3) the abolition of compulsory tithes and other ecclesiastical dues; (4) the providing of elementary education by the State, and, while recognizing the propriety of giving instruction in the truths held in common by Christians, in no case shall money raised by taxation be devoted to the propagation of peculiar religious dogmas or denominational views; (5) the reorganization of the Council of Public Instruction in the Province of Quebec in such a manner as to secure the educational rights of the minority; (6) the abrogation of the offensive clauses in the order of precedence for the Dominion, which recognize certain ecclesiastics and utterly ignore the great Protestant churches, which represent the majority of the people of Canada.

It is recommended that the General Assembly reappoint the committee, with instruction to watch the progress of events in connection with these and kindred matters, and to take such other action in the premises as may be deemed necessary.

The discussion of this report was postponed.

Rev. Dr. Campbell presented the report of the special committee on the case of Mr. Charbonnel, with instructions to define last year's resolution on the subject of marriage with a deceased wife's sister as follows:

The committee are of the opinion that, under the deliverance of the General Assembly of the year 1889 on the marriage question, it is now the law of the church to allow liberty of opinion in respect to the proposition: "A man may not marry any of his wife's kindred nearer in blood than he may of his own." It should be noted, however, that the deliverance of the General Assembly above referred to deals specially with the case of office-bearers. But it may be held, as in the opinion of this committee it should be held, that in the above-mentioned deliverance liberty of opinion carries with it liberty of practice, and that what is affirmed of office-bearers is, a fortiori, true with respect to members of the church. Then, in the opinion of the committee, the aforesaid decision of the General Assembly removes all ecclesiastical impediment or ground of discipline in the case of parties, whether office-bearers or otherwise, marrying in the relationship referred to in the said decision. The committee, however, recommend that in view of all the circumstances of his case the application of Rev. Mr. Charbonnel to be received into the full ministry of this church be not granted."

After a warm discussion the first part of the report, containing the deliverance, was disposed of by the adoption of a motion to lay it on the table. The vote stood 79 to 76. On the motion to decline Mr. Charbonnel's application, Dr. Warden stated Mr. Charbonnel's age to be 61, and not 70, as supposed. On this new light Rev. Dr. Campbell, convener, declined to be responsible for the recommendation of the committee. Ultimately Mr. Charbonnel's case was laid on the table for a year.

The amendment moved the other evening by Rev. D. J. Macdonnell to the report of the Committee on Temperance was taken up. The fight which followed was entirely over the deliverance, which read as follows:

The Assembly believes that the general traffic in intoxicating liquors is the source of terrible and enormous evils; that it blights the prospects, destroys the health and character and ruins the soul of the individual; that it mars the happiness, wastes the resources and disgraces the life of the family; that it lowers the moral sentiment and endangers the peace and safety of society; that it greatly increases the number of the "lapsed masses," intensifies every evil, and is a fruitful source of crime; that it not only hinders most seriously and in many ways, but antagonizes the church in her work of uplifting the race and winning souls for Christ, and that it is contrary to the teaching of the Scripture and the spirit of the Christian religion.

Mr. Macdonnell's amendment offered a substitute for the first two lines, so that it would read as follows:

This Assembly believes that the general traffic in intoxicating liquor, especially the indescriminate sale of liquor in bar-rooms and saloons, is accompanied by enormous evils, etc.

Mr. Macdonnell's amendment was lost by 32 to 142. An amendment by Principal Grant to strike out the deliverance altogether was lost by 27 to 143.

Mr. Macdonnell moved to strike out the words "Contrary to the teachings of Scripture"—lost by 42 to 156.

The report of the Foreign Mission Committee nominating Rev. Dr. Morton, of Trinidad, for the position of paid secretary to the committee, but leaving the appointment over for a year, was adopted unanimously.

The resolutions of Dr. MacVicar's committee were then taken up seriatim.

Rev. Dr. Thompson, of Sarnia, asked if complete separation of Church and State would prohibit the State from teaching religion in the schools.

Dr. MacVicar—No; we do not propose that the State shall be irreligious.

Dr. Thompson—I think it leads to that.

Rev. Dr. Sedgewick, of Nova Scotia, asked how the State should teach Christianity to those who on conscientious grounds were not Christians. Did the fourth resolution mean that there were to be no separate schools in Ontario or Quebec? That seemed to be the meaning of the resolution, and it involved an attack on the constitution of the country, and there was no evidence that the people were dissatisfied with the constitution. The result of the elections in all the Provinces emphasized the fact that the people approved of the constitution. The Government of Ontario went to the country with the programme that separate schools should not be upset, and he was told that the adherents of the Presbyterian Church gave the largest part of the majority received by Mr. Mowat. He moved to strike out clause 4.

Rev. D. J. Macdonnell supported the report. Their desire was that in separate schools precisely the same education should be given and the same books used and there should be the same inspection.

Principal Caven said although a member of this committee he was not present at any of its meetings, or he would have suggested a little different wording of clause 4, so as to make it read "and while recognizing the religious character of the state in no case shall money," etc. In substance, however he agreed with the clause.

Principal Grant warned them not to pass abstract resolutions. Their people would demand to know what they meant as applied to practical questions up for settlement. He agreed with Dr. Caven that there should be Provincial home rule in regard to education. He had not the slightest fear that then the minority in either Ontario or Quebec would be treated unfairly. But he would not advocate the abolition of separate schools in Ontario, because the great historic position of the Presbyterian Church was to see that education was not secular; that education should be religious in its tone, and if they could get separate schools as they were established in Ontario—and not as they had been made—that was a good practical compromise on the question. If, however, the hierarchy took the position that the schools were to be under that church as much as sacramental ordinances, that would be a different matter. But they should remember that was not a declared position of these schools in the constitution, and they were not to think so much of the condition of these few schools as of the great mass of public schools. In one way or the other the Roman Catholic people would have their way with their children, and we should get our way with our children. "But," added Dr. Grant, "I will never consent to hand over these schools to the Roman Catholic Church." Did complete separation of Church and State, he asked, forbid co-operation? If not, who was to draw the line? If there was a band of Roman Catholic Indians, there would have to be a paid Roman Catholic chaplain, and so with Protestant Indians, and he doubted if any one in that Assembly would object to it.

Dr. Grant advised further consideration and a postponement of the whole report till next year, instead of now giving an off-hand deliverance on the subject. They were the great questions of the next ten years. As it was now near 11 o'clock, a motion to adjourn was carried, and the sederunt was closed with the benediction.

SYNOD OF HURON.

Thursday Morning Session.

The election of members to the Executive Committee and delegates to the Provincial Synod was proceeded with this morning. The scrutineers retired to ascertain the result of the ballot.

A communication was read from the Synod Office, Toronto, stating that copies of the jubilee proceedings of last year were ready for sale and soliciting the help of the Synod.

A circular from the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada was read soliciting the influence of the Synod in an endeavor to secure total prohibition of liquor selling.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE.

Rev. G. C. Mackenzie presented a memorial for the Church Workers' Fellowship Guild of Grace Church, Brantford, as follows:

Your memorialists consider that the exclusion of women in this diocese from the right to sit and vote in vestry to be unjust to those excluded.

That having regard to the influence of women in almost every department of church work, and to the great extent to which the funds of the church are augmented by their labors and usefulness, and recognizing fully their great labors in the cause of Christ, it appears to be wrong and impolitic to exclude them from the management of church affairs and from a voice in the election of those who direct the church government. We would therefore move that the constitution be so amended that women be accorded the right to sit in vestry and vote at congregational meetings.

NOTICES OF MOTION.

Rev. J. C. Caswell—That the Sunday School Committee be authorized to purchase a number of Mr. D. J. Caswell's Sunday school charts.

Rev. J. Gemley—That 100 copies of the jubilee proceedings be procured by the Synod.

Mr. T. H. Luscombe—That the Dominion Parliament be petitioned for such enactment of prohibitory measures as may be agreed on by committees from the different churches.

ELECTION OF AUDITORS.

Mr. Charles Jenkins presented the report of the committee appointed to nominate two auditors as follows, which was adopted:

That George F. Jewell and Charles F. Complin be the auditors of the Synod, and that a complete audit be made quarterly of all books and accounts. The remuneration of Mr. Jewell to be $150 and of Mr. Complin $100.

SHALL THE WOMEN VOTE?

Colonel Gilkinson took the floor and moved the following amendment to canon 19:

That the word "male" be expunged from the canon.

Mr. Gilkinson explained that the object of the amendment was to permit those women of the church to sit in vestry who had the same qualification as was exacted from the male members. In consideration of the important part taken by the ladies in church work it was in his opinion nothing more than right that they should participate in the government of the church.

Mr. R. Bayly raised a point of order and called for a vote by order.

Mr. Wilson contended that the point was not properly taken. The vote by order could be called but once and that surely was after the matter had been before the committee and all amendments and changes made thereto.

Judge Ermatinger and Archdeacon Marsh supported the objection of Mr. Bayly.

The Bishop explained that if the matter went into the committee the principle of the amendment would be admitted. If there was opposition to the amendment it should be taken at the initial stage of the question.

Chancellor Cronyn explained that when the word "male" was put into the canon it was done so almost unanimously. The Synod had power to change the reading if it so desired by the act of incorporation.

Rev. Dr. Armstrong supported the amendment. He was glad that the movement had originated with the laity because if it had been brought forward by the clergy there would be a great howl about it. The objection would perhaps then be made that the clergy wanted to pull the wool over the women's eyes and secure their influence. If the motion was voted down at this Synod it would be carried at the next Synod. If thrown out now the members of Synod would not be able to see the Bishop for the pile of memorials that would be sent in in favor of its adoption. The position that the speaker took was that the man that paid the piper had the right to call for a tune. The motion could be carried and if not found desirable it could easily be repealed. (Voices—"No, no, you could not repeal that motion so easily.") If the motion was adopted the church would occupy 100 per cent. better position than it occupied to-day.

A hearty round of applause greeted the Doctor on taking his seat.

Rural Dean Gemley opposed the motion. It was, he said, a revolutionary and dangerous movement and should be suppressed. It did not please the Saviour to include women in the government of the church.

Rev. Dr. Armstrong—Did they have any vestries then?

Rural Dean Gemley said he was sure that the majority of the women of the church were opposed to the amendment, and on their account he would object to it, because its adoption would be the cause of great trouble and discord. The women, if true to their faith, would continue to work in their present sphere. In the Scripture it was plainly stated that the women should not be heard in church and the speaker assumed that the true interpretation of the passage was that women should have no voice in the government of the church.

Rev. A. Brown followed in the same strain as Mr. Gemley. The church should be careful, he said, in adopting any popular movement until it was carefully ventilated and nothing should be accepted simply because it was popular. The voice of the people was not, in the opinion of the speaker, essentially the voice of God. The working of the amendment would be prolific of family quarrels on account of the peculiar tendencies of the female mind. The unseemly sight would probably be presented of a husband voting against his wife and vice versa. He urged that the motion be defeated and thus nip the trouble in the bud. The women would not be satisfied with the right to sit in vestry and vote at congregations. They would aspire to be wardens, lay delegates and even the office of protogator of the Synod would not be above their aspirations.

Judge Ermatinger, on taking the floor, expressed the hope that the mover of the amendment would see the desirability of withdrawing it. The speaker was in favor of it, but there was not time at the present Synod to go into the necessary details. One of the many reasons he put forward for the adoption of the amendment was that difficulty was often experienced in getting the male members to be present at the vestry meetings. The attendance of the women would also, he thought, have a tendency to reduce to a fraction asperities, which characterized so many vestry meetings.

SUNDAY SCHOOLS REPORT.

Rev. John Daniel, chairman of the Sunpay Schools Committee, submitted the following report:

The number of congregations in the diocese last year was 267, of this number twelve had been closed, leaving 255 to be accounted for. None of the congregations which had ceased to hold services had ever been supporters of Sunday schools. The rural deaneries of Brant and Waterloo report a Sunday school to each congregation. Totals	423	471	1243	7495	9460	$7997 99	$1439 59

The 153 schools report $7,653 30 expended on themselves, while 49 schools have contributed to missionary and kindred objects $1,439 59. The libraries are owned by 146 schools, Huron being the only county in which every Sunday school has a library. The largest school is that of Christ's Church, Chatham, which numbers 57 officers and teachers, and 559 scholars. There are on the other hand eight schools in the diocese, with from ten to twenty scholars each. In this connection the committee urge the necessity of having a church Sunday school, however small, in connection with every congregation.

The committee would earnestly press upon all superintendents and Sunday school teachers the importance of making the church catechism the basis of doctrinal instruction in Sunday schools, with careful attention to its natural divisions of the covenant, the commandments, prayer, and the sacraments.

Mr. Dymond to Mr. Downie—Do you know of any place where the catechism is not taught in the Sunday schools?

Rev. W. Henderson answered that he knew of a place where the catechism was not taught from one year's end till the other.

Mr. Dymond—Such a thing should be brought to the notice of the Bishop.

Voice—Where are the schools?

Mr. Dymond contended that the matter should be dealt with privately for the sake of discipline. If every weak brother was brought before the Synod the members would have their hands full. (Laughter.)

Mr. James Woods expressed regret that any schools had dispensed with the catechism.

Mr. Dymond—You may as well leave out the Bible because some persons objected to it.

Mr. Woods continued, saying that the catechism to him contained all the great truths of the Bible in a condensed form and children should be taught it from their earliest school days.

Rev. C. R. Matthew explained in relation the depository of books. The Synod had voted $1,000 to this fund but the Executive had turned over but $500 and this would explain the scarcity of books mentioned by some of the members. The report was adopted.

BY THE BISHOP.

Under the head of "Business Submitted by the Bishop," the question of the union of the branches of the Church of England, as set forth on pages 5 and 6 of the Convening Circular, was introduced by the Bishop and submitted to the Synod.

Rev. A. Brown moved accordingly that Rev. W. A. Young and Mr. Chas. Jenkins be appointed representatives of London Synod to the conference of the whole church of British America, held at Winnipeg in August, and that $100 be voted them for traveling expenses.

Mr. Imlach thought that as the proposed meeting would be one of the most important in the history of the church the Synod should appoint two additional representatives. The result of the conference would no doubt surprise all the church people, and it was important that Huron Synod should be well represented.

Mr. A. C. Clarke supported Mr. Imlach's amendment. The proposition of church union had originated in the Huron Synod, and he was in favor of having two more representatives.

Archdeacon Marsh thought that the expense of four representatives would not be $200. A reduced rate could most likely be secured on the railways.

Rev. Mr. Young—Yes, we will go up as settlers in an emigrant train. (Laughter).

It was decided, on motion of Mr. Wilson, to appoint two representatives and two substitutes independent of the representatives of the Provincial Synod.

Rev. A. Brown moved that the expenses of the Provincial Synod representatives—Messrs. Young and Jenkins—be paid by the Huron Synod in case the Provincial Synod made no provision for them. (Carried).

Rev. Dean Innes and Mr. W. J. Imlach were appointed representatives, with Rev. Canon Richardson and Mr. Thomas Wilson as substitutes.

AMENDMENTS.

On behalf of the Executive Committee, Archdeacon Marsh moved the following amendments to canon 29., each of which were adopted:

That the latter part of clause No. 5 be amended to read as follows:

The assessment of each parish, when made, shall continue unchanged for a period of five years, the first of such periods to date from June 30. 1890; provided that if there be a change of incumbency, or that after one year from assessment it shall be shown to the satisfaction of the Maintenance and Mission Committee that the financial ability of any parish has been, since such assessment, seriously impaired, it shall be in the power of said committee to reopen the matter of assessment, and to reassess the parish for the unexpired portion of such period.

That clause No. 7 be amended to read:

That within one month after the assessment has been made the secretary-treasurer shall notify the incumbent and churchwardens of each parish assessed of such assessment. All appeals against assessments shall be signed by the churchwardens and forwarded to the secretary-treasurer not later than one month from the date of such notice. All appeals shall be considered by the Maintenance and Mission Committee, and if not allowed by them shall be submitted with their report to the Executive Committee at the meeting next ensuing.

That clause No. 8 be amended by the addition of the following:

It shall be the duty of the clergyman to make a report to the Maintenance and Mission Committee not later than July 10 in each year, according to the usual form.

Rev. Canon Chance moved an amendment to the constitution respecting the election of members of the Executive Committee, placing it in the power of the Bishop to appoint ten members. Lost.

Rev. Alfred Brown moved an amendment to canon 29 to encourage the building up of parishes. In support of the amendment Mr. Brown made a lively speech. He proposed granting a lump sum of $300 instead of the annual grant of $100 to clergymen, who were not provided with a rectory.

On motion of Archdeacon Marsh the amendment was declared out of order.

Rev. W. A. Young took up the question of the security of loans and moved the following in order to secure the Synod against all possible losses:

That it is expedient that the various trusts administered by the Synod be consolidated, and that the Executive Committee be instructed to take such steps, including legislation by Parliament, as may be necessary in the premises.

Chancellor Cronyn supported the motion. He thought it was an excellent idea and would in all probability save the Synod from loss.

The motion was carried with an unimportant amendment.

Wednesday Evening Session.

A large number of ladies occupied seats in the gallery when the evening session was called to order. The report of the committee appointed to look into the question of "lay help" came up for consideration. The committee had found it advisable to refer the matter to a sub-committee which recommended substantially as follows:

That it is expedient that in every parish young men be associated in guilds, and that definite work be assigned them.

That one or more persons be licensed by the Bishop to assist the clergyman in the discharge of his duties in the office of lay readers.

That congregational meetings be encouraged as a useful means of quickening church life, promoting fellowship and encouraging activity.

That annual conventions of church workers be held in connection with the rural-decanal meetings.

That an association of male lay workers be formed for co-operation, to meet annually, and that the Bishop call such a meeting for organization in the autumn of the present year.

That the Bishop issue a pastoral expressive of his views and those of the Synod in respect to this report; and giving such advice in regard to the selection of lay readers as the Bishop may see fit.

Mr. A. H. Dymond, a member of the sub-committee, gave a review of the work as set forth in the printed report. In conclusion he said that as it had pleased God to set the officers of the church over the laity it was the duty of the male laity especially subject to possibilities to respond to every call of the clergy, and this was the state of things that the committee sought to establish by the adoption of their report. If the clergy would call the laity to the front not merely to be talked to but as coworkers they would receive an exceedingly great reward. He moved the adoption of the report.

Mr. Imlach followed with a rousing speech in support of the adoption of the report. He was convinced that it contained many admirable features, and would be a means of building up the male laity help, which, to the speaker, appeared a great necessity. He was not jealous of the ladies, but thought that it was time for the formation of something in the line of a man's auxiliary. He was not in favor of allowing the ladies to have everything their own way in church matters. The present way with the laity in a great many instances was to leave the spiritual part of the services to the ladies, while the men looked after temporal affairs.

Mr. Charles Jenkins, the portly and good-natured layman from Petrolea was the next speaker. He provoked continuous peals of laughter as he told of his personal experiences with the surplices of the diaconate. He thought that to be efficient the diaconate should be reorganized and that the deacons should constitute a live and healthy body in the army of church workers. The great drawback was an excessive amount of individuality, and if this was overcome there was every reason to believe that the march of the church forces would be more brisk and satisfactory.

Rural Dean Mackenzie, of Brantford, also spoke in support of the motion. By means of lay help he had been enabled to start two chapels in his neighborhood, and regular services were now held in both. This extension of the parish could have been accomplished in no other way than by the assistance of the laity. A parish guild was organized, and it took in old men and young ladies—in short all members of the church. The guilds included a ladies' visiting chapter whose work was to visit every home in the parish, and a St. Andrew's brotherhood composed of young men of the church also made up a new feature and one which gave promise of rich results. The ladies, both young and old, had sustained their reputation for Christian work. The King's Daughters, composed of young ladies of the congregation, had done much to wipe out the stain of social distinction which prevailed to a great extent in the country parish. There were four thing, said Mr. Mackenzie, that were set out by the New Testament: Apostolic teaching, the breaking of bread, of fellowship, and the prayers. To all these, with the exception of fellowship, the Church of England had been true. Fellowship had not, however, received the prominent place that it should occupy and to this source could be traced the weakness of the English Church in Canada. The church did not provide a fellowship. It was not the few respectable families that should be looked after, but the people at large that should find the attention of the church. Pew rents—the curse of the church to-day—should be wiped out and the church doors thrown open to people who would to-day as in the olden time hear the Gospel gladly.

Mr. James Woods followed with a plea on behalf of the young men of the church. He urged that the clergy when they saw a young man desirous of filling the pulpit do not "sit" on him. There were some young men that could talk in public and others that could not. If it was not in them it could not be brought out. If, like himself, the young man was born on the proper side of the Irish Channel, he could talk, and perhaps too much.

Rev. W. Henderson followed in a neat speech. He maintained that the laymen were a long way behind in their duties, and that there was abundance of opportunity for the laity taking part in the services. If they grew weary of the beautiful service of the church it was their own fault.

Mr. A. C. Clarke thought that the non-advancement of the church was owing to the inactivity of the laity. He expressed the hope that the movement would have the support of every churchman in the diocese.

Judge Woods made a few remarks respecting the arrangement of the Prayer Book and suggested that some improvement be made in that direction.

The report was then formally adopted and the Synod adjourned.

THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

There is beauty all around when there's love at home, but when there's love at school the results are not always commendable. Delia Lyon, 30 years old, a teacher in Jackson county, W. Va., ran away with Tommy Murray, one of her scholars, 16 years old, and married him. However, she promises to continue teaching and support him.

Miss Mae Fuller, a teacher at the Nashville school, grew weary of being talked about by various grumpy parents and to make an example of such people, whose name is legion, has sued Mrs. Caroline Evarts, for $5,000 damages.

According to the returns of the British Education Department, 2,358,560 children in the elementary schools of England and Wales have earned a grant of £117,928 for singing by note. Singing by ear, which is paid a lower grant, earned £33,514 with 1,340,581 scholars.

According to the latest reports of the Minister of Education, there are 40,000 primary schools in Russia. Twenty-two thousand are public schools under the authority of the Minister of Education and 18,000 are parish schools under the management of the "Holy Synod." Religious instruction is given in the secular schools by clergymen, who have to render an account of their doings to the Government.

The Association for the Education of Women in Oxford offers a prize of $100, the gift of Mrs. Humphrey Ward. The prize is intended to promote independent research, and competitors are advised to select a town to the records of which they have convenient access. A Brantford telegram says: There was quite a sensational session of the High School Board last night when a letter was read from Rev. Mr. Sinclair, of St. George, charging that Mr. A. H. Morrison, the English master, "teaches to the pupils under his charge what is contrary to the Christian doctrine." It is alleged in this connection that Mr. Morrison has used the term "a person called Christ;" that in referring to the familiarity of certain persons with the names of the Deity, he made the statement, "They will soon be clapping him on the shoulder and saying, 'Come on, old fellow, and have a drink,'" and further that he (Mr. Morrison) has been in the habit of expressing his peculiar religious beliefs to the pupils. The accused in reply states that his comments have always been dictated by the necessities of the lesson in hand, and that he has ever spoken of the Deity with reverence and of sect with tolerance. The charge is the outcome of a long series of letters in the local press, Rev. Mr. Cooley some Sundays ago having asserted from the pulpit that it was a disgrace to Brantford that she should number an infidel among her school teachers. The matter has been referred to a committee of the Board for investigation.

QUEBEC'S LESSON.

The Quebec Government has been sustained by a majority of from 25 to 30 in a House of 73. Premier Mercier paid no attention to the prophecies of the Tory organs that his party would be wiped out of existence in the Province, but went right ahead with the contest, and the result has proved who were the false prophets. Even Mr. Taillon, the Tory leader, has been defeated. Though Mr. Chapleau, Sir John Macdonald's most unscrupulous lieutenant, and Sir Adolphe Caron went to the rescue, and Dominion Government employes from Ottawa stumped and canvassed the counties for the Tory candidates, the record of the crowd was such as to discredit them in advance. Mr. Mercier, to our mind, is not a model legislator, but he is an improvement on the men who landed the Province in over $20,000,000 of debt, and who have carried out, as members of the Dominion Government, a similar programme of extravagance, corruption and feathering of family nests to that which disgraced their regime in Quebec. We in Ontario cannot improve the system of administering public affairs in Quebec, but we can insist on an improvement at Ottawa. Hitherto the public resources of Canada have been used for unduly influencing doubtful constituencies. Millions of dollars have been thus squandered. The very men who denounced Mercier for his free-spending habits will take millions of hard-earned dollars from the people of Ontario and spend them in buying up troublesome districts. So long as this system is allowed to prevail at Ottawa, so long will Macdonald, Chapleau, Carron & Co., have imitators in the smaller Provinces. With the Dominion purse closed to every questionable demand, economy would soon prevail in the Provincial Governments.

THE VALUE OF EXPORT TRADE

In his paper on "Comparative Taxation" in the June Century Edward Atkinson, of Boston, makes the remark that "The only way by which we can put a part of our taxes upon the people of other lands is by increasing our exports to which local and national taxes have already been charged as a part of the cost." The theory of the protectionists is that by putting a tariff tax on goods brought in from foreign countries we are levying taxation upon foreigners and making them contribute to our public revenue. This theory would imply that the foreign producers are selling their goods to us at a price less than the amount of the tariff rate imposed, whatever that may be, and that to this extent they are sustaining a loss of profits, if not upon cost of production. Now a state of things may be conceived in which farmers or manufacturers sell products for less than the cost, or at a very small margin above cost. But only very foolish men can be expected to carry on business in this way. If goods must be sold at a loss, the least loss is likely to be sustained at home, before cost of transportation is added, and unless producers are very cosmopolitan any favors which they have to bestow are not as likely to be shared with foreigners as with their own countrymen. The first element in fixing the price of an article is the cost of production, and this includes the cost of raw material, of labor, of the use of machinery, and of any rates or taxes which may be imposed by the municipality or the State as the interest of the business in the maintenance of law and order, without which no rights of property could be secured. If any other charges are made they are added to the cost of production, and if an article in reaching a foreign market is made subject to an additional tax the actual cost is increased by that much, and the whole becomes a charge upon the consumer. The producer, unless he sells at a loss, receives the full amount of the cost price at the place of sale, and if this place is in a foreign country it includes the duties, if any, which that country imposes upon his goods. He may pay the duties when the goods are sent in, but they are recouped to him in the end; otherwise the transaction is a loss and he is deterred from repeating it. If the market has fallen he may be obliged to sell at a reduced margin of profit, but until profit finally disappears every item of cost is paid for by the consumer and returned to the producer. It follows, therefore, that in the conduct of export trade under profitable conditions—and trade is a business of mutual advantages—is the consumer who pays the whole cost of production. If the article is imported he pays any duty which the Government of his own country may levy upon it, and he also pays any tax which is the article's share imposed by State or local authorities in the country of production. And so it is perfectly clear, as Mr. Atkinson asserts, that the only way by which we can put a part of our taxes upon the people of other lands is by increasing our exports. It is also equally clear that the chance of building up an export trade depends on cheapness of production, and a very essential element in cheapness of production is cheapness of raw material.

SILVER AND GOLD.

The United States Senate has emasculated the bill for the increased coinage of silver, and has passed a measure for the free coinage of that metal. Since 1878, when the Bland Silver Act became law, no Secretary of the Treasury has ever issued over $2,000,000 each month of silver money, while the law has permitted $4,000,000 to be issued. One reason for this caution was found to be the indisposition of the financiers to circulate the silver money. They had an idea that silver, the baser metal, would as a natural sequence drive gold out of circulation entirely. So great and widespread was this belief, that the silver coins were absolutely debarred from circulation, and as soon as the United States treasury paid them out they would flow back again. The banks almost everywhere refused to take silver on deposit. Finally, at a moment when the situation was getting quite serious, the solution to the dilemma was discovered, which was, to store up in the vaults of the treasury the silver dollar, and issue in their stead treasury notes in various denominations. These were soon found to go into circulation and to stay there as they passed freely from one hand to another in the payment of debts—the butcher, the baker, the candlestick-maker and all other tradespeople were only too glad to be the recipients of them in place of personal "I. O. U's." Confidence in this silver paper money, although backed then by only 72 cents of real value, grew day by day, and at no time since has there been a halt—the result is that there is now in circulation of these money tokens about $300,000,000, and the cry being still for more, the United States Government recently promoted a measure directing the Secretary of the Treasury to purchase $4,500,000 worth of silver a month, at the market price, but not to exceed $1 for 375.25 grains of pure silver, and to pay for it in treasury notes of the United States. The denominations of these notes were to vary from $1 to $1,000. These notes were to be redeemable on demand "in coin" at the treasury or any of its agencies, and to be legal tender for all debts. The bill so stipulating passed the House of Representatives, but the Senate would have none of it, and after debating its provisions for many days so altered it as to provide for the free coinage of silver. The unit of value of the United States dollar was fixed at 412½ grains of standard silver or of 25 8-10th grains of standard gold. These coins, it is stipulated, shall be legal tender for all debts, public or private. Any owner of silver or gold bullion may deposit either metal at any mint of the United States to be formed into standard dollars or bars for his benefit, or he may take certificates of denominations of less than $1 or more than $100 instead, which certificates shall also be legal tender for all taxes and debts, public and private.

The amended bill will now go back to the House of Representatives, and it is said will be passed by that body. What action the President will take remains to be seen. It is known that he favors an increased coinage of silver, but he is opposed to the free coinage idea. The fact is that both he and his Cabinet fear the result of the inflation of the currency which the placing of silver on a level with the more precious metal will cause. This apprehension was exemplified by Mr. Sherman, of Ohio, in the debate in the Senate. He intimated that he did not believe that the effect of the free coinage of silver would be to advance its price to that of gold. On the contrary the result would be to demonetize gold and to cause it to be hoarded. It would practically limit the coinage of the United States to a single metal, and that silver. He further said that $42,000,000 a year increase of currency would meet all the needs of the country, but intimated that he was not averse to an increase to $54,000,000 a year, partly as a compromise, and partly because he "believed that treasury notes, based on silver bullion, would be as safe a substitute for paper money as could be conceived." The currency of the country, he maintained, was larger now in proportion to the population than ever it was before. Under the circumstances, we would look for the vetoing of the free coinage measure by the President, but for the fact that the silver mine owners of the West have enormous influence in Washington, and as Mr. Harrison has not a backbone of any too great strength he may be afraid to go in the face of the majority in Congress, even to ward off what may prove a crisis.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

AN AFRICAN craze prevails in Germany. The Foreign Office is flooded with applications, largely from army officers, but including all sorts of people, asking for Government employment in Africa.

New Brunswick—Nova Scotia—Ontario—it is time this Liberal procession in the Provinces was stopped.—[Montreal Gazette.

Oh, dear, no, the Liberal procession still goes on. In Quebec Mons. Chapleau and all his satellites could not arrest its progress. The Liberals are the people.

MRS. HARRIET BEECHER STOWE has just celebrated the 78th anniversary of her birth. Mrs. Stowe has been in feeble health of mind and body for two years past, and lives very quietly. Her infirmities seem, however, to have been exaggerated in report for she spends much of her time in the open air, and still has occasional flashes of brilliancy in talk and writing.

THE discoveries made by Stanley show that the Nile is the longest river in the world, being at least 4,100 miles in length. Were the Mississippi regarded merely as a tributary to the Missouri, as some geographers contend, the latter stream would surpass the African watercourse, having a length of 4,500 miles. The Amazon is estimated at 3,600 miles, and is second in size of the great rivers of the world.

THE British Museum has now on exhibition for the first time part of a pillar that has been pieced together from the fragments of the older temple of Diana at Ephesus. This was the temple which was burned down in the night on which Alexander the Great was born. It was built in the sixth century before Christ, and the great interest of the pillar exhibited is that it consists of fragments of the set of pillars which Crœsus, King of Lydia, presented to the building of the temple. The base still bears the inscription "Crœsus, the King, dedicated me." Round the drum of the pillar were figures carved in a rude style, of which two, a man and a woman, a very grotesque couple, still remain.

WE all know them; they are in every community, in every church, in many families, say the New York Ledger. They are always uncomfortable themselves and they inflict discomfort on everybody else. A really aggressive and well-developed specimen will overshadow a locality like a banyan tree, yielding the whole year through all kinds of fruit bitter to the taste, and not to be digested without serious injury. These people supply an ample stock of friction; they bring out the latent possibilities of general unpleasantness in a large or small circle; they sow seeds of discord, not only in the fallow ground, but by the wayside, and are followed by abundant harvests of the kind that are sown with joy, but reaped with tears.

GEN. SIR FREDERICK ROBERTS, who is likely to be selected as adjutant-general of the British army, in succession to Lord Wolseley, is the son of Gen. Sir Abraham Roberts, G.C.B., and was born in 1832. He entered the army as a lieutenant in the Bengal Artillery in 1857. He served with distinction throughout the Indian mutiny campaign, and for personal valor received the Victoria Cross. He took part in the Abyssinian war of 1868, and was made a lieutenant-colonel. In 1872 was created a C. B. for his services in the Looshai expedition. In the Afghan war of 1878 he commanded the column sent to operate through the Koorum Valley, and after surmounting the difficulties of the Peiwar Pass, gained a brilliant victory at Charasiab, and entered Cabul. On the investiture of Candahar by Ayoub Khan he commanded the troops in the memorable march from Cabul to that city, described as one of the most brilliant military feats of modern times, and utterly defeated Ayoub. For these services he was created a baronet and received several other distinctions. He was sent to South Africa to command the expedition against the Boers, but was recalled, peace having been restored before his arrival. He subsequently succeeded Sir Donald Stewart (who by the way arrived in Canada a few days ago) in command of the Indian Army. Sir Frederick Roberts is one of the most distinguished of modern British generals. He would prove a worthy and capable successor of Lord Wolseley at the Horse Guards.

The Tecumsehs Defeated Again at Hamilton.

Toronto Worsted by the Hyphens—Grand Rapids Shut Out—International League Changes—Sporting News in General

HAMILTON, Ont., June 18.—Between 600 and 700 people went to Dundurn Park this afternoon to see the two ball games between the London and Hamilton clubs. The first game was called at 2:30 p.m., the agreement being that the second game should be called at 6 o'clock in order to allow the Londons to catch the 6:30 train for home. Latouche did the pitching for Hamilton in the first game and Jones for London. Neither was hit hard. The fielding of the Londons was simply appalling. Errors were made at critical places, and for every hit but one that the Hamiltons got they made a run. The visitors got a good lead in the first part of the game, too, the score being 2 to 0 at the end of the fifth inning. In the third, after two men were out, Leighton, Friel and Coughlin made singles, and with good base stealing earned two runs—all they got in the game. Hamilton began to score in the sixth. Cartwright (the first batter), got first on an error by Shortstop Connors. He stole second and went to third on a wild pitch. A hit by Hulin sent him in, and Sales' two-bagger sent Hulin home. The seventh was the awful inning. Dowie opened it with a hit, Twohey hit to Coughlin and gave a chance for an easy double, but Wright dropped the thrown ball. Then Latouche hit the ball to Jones, who juggled it, let it fall, picked it up and dropped it again, all the runners making their bases. In the meantime Cartwright hit to Connors, who threw home, but Reidy dropped the ball. The errors gave Hamilton two runs. In the ninth Cartwright got first on a wild throw by Connors. He stole second, and scored on a hit by Casey. Casey stole second, but was put out trying to score on a hit to Jones. Hulin made a hit, stole second, got third on Sales' ground hit, and scored on Sales' steal to second. Connors' errors were particularly costly. The London shortstop played a brilliant game for five innings, but after that went to pieces. Score:

ODDFELLOWS AT DORCHESTER.

A union picnic of (Anglican, Presbyterian and Methodist) Sabbath schools, of Dorchester, was held yesterday in the Exhibition Grounds, a large crowd of children and their parents being present. The Dorchester Brass Band enlivened the picnic, the other attraction being a baseball match between Oddfellows of this city, chiefly members of Dominion Lodge, No. 48, and the Dorchester Station team, which was arranged by Bro. W. H. Shaw, who entertained the London brethren in grand style. The following score shows the results of the game:

A LETTER FROM DELAWARE.

To the Sporting Editor of the ADVERTISER:

Dear Sir,—Permit me to make a few statements regarding a game of ball played in Delaware last between the Struthers, Anderson & Co. club, of your city, and the Clippers of this village. The report of the score as published in the daily ADVERTISER of Tuesday is simply a creation of the too vivid imagination of the S., A. & Co. youths, because it is wrong in almost every column. Hiscott did not strike out nineteen Delawares, and could not do so in a four-hour game. The base hit column of S., A. & Co. is simply ridiculous, because were it not for fielders' errors few of their men would have reached first base. The assist and put-out columns are ludicrous in the extreme, because no record whatever was kept of them. No one knows better than the London pitcher that he was pounded for more than eight hits. S., A. & Co. did play with eight men for a time because it was to their advantage so to do, on account of one of their nine being afraid of the ball. Although the sun was an hour high at the end of the tenth inning, and the Delaware team willing to play off the tie, some of the Loudoners stated they could not see the ball on the field, and others that they could not remain any longer, on account of engagements in the city. The S., A. & Co. team, which is supposed to be employes of the wholesale house of S., A. & Co., but is really a combination selected from all parts of the city, need not run away with the idea that the Clippers expected a walk-over at the commencement of the game, because we all looked for a defeat from such a renowned collection of ball tossers as they were supposed to be. To settle the matter satisfactorily, however, the Clippers will play the same nine against the same S., A. & Co.'s nine at any time and at any place that the London club may select. Thanking you for the space in your valuable paper, I remain, W. A. HUTTON,
Captain Clipper Baseball Club.
Delaware, June 18, 1890.

FLYS.

Speaking of the recent baseball game there, a Delaware correspondent says: "The S., A. & Co.'s are gentlemen and their next appearance here will be an attraction."

A game of ball was played yesterday between the Asylum team and the City Shoe Clerks; score, 19 to 14 in favor of the Asylum. A game was also played between the Ladies' College employes and the Asylum, the score being 7 to 2 in favor of the Asylum.

Stratford and Seaforth played a keenly-contested match at Seaforth Wednesday. Stratford started off well, winning the first game in 5 minutes and the second in 25, but the home team captured the next three in 38, 4 and 52 minutes. Mr. John A. McKay, of Woodstock, was referee, and Messrs. Dunn and Crawford umpires.

Up to date the Hamilton directors are about $6,000 out of pocket, and they cannot be blamed for making a change. The team has played good ball, standing four games behind the leaders, and the game should be patronized. The Hams are sure to stand up well in the race, and it will be a great pity if they are taken to Montreal. —[Hamilton Spectator.

The Boys at Camp—Started to Work—The Colonel's Address.

The camp at Stratford has now settled down to work, and drill will be carried out regularly from this time forward. The Stratford Herald says: "The main guard was furnished Tuesday by the "D" School corps of London, and the precision and sharpness of their movements was a revelation to the raw recruits." Yesterday morning the battalions were addressed by Lieut.-Col. Smith, D.A.G. He gave the men some sound advice as to their conduct in camp, and particularly impressed upon them the necessity of cleanliness. He commented upon the good reputation the brigade had left behind last year, and said he hoped the same would be attached to it this year. In conclusion he said that every man when down in the city should respect the uniform he wore and behave himself. They should remember the whole thing was summed up in two words—obey orders. The officers also addressed the men in a similar strain. The men are in splendid condition and appear pleased with their surroundings.

FIRE UNDERWRITERS.

Semi-Annual Meeting—The "Jack" or Rope-transmitter—Persentation to Dr. Davidson.

The semi-annual meeting of the Fire Underwriters' Association of Ontario was commenced yesterday in the London Mutual building, Mr. John Beattie, president, in the chair. A large number of companies were represented. The principal matter of discussion was the device which has been brought forward, and which, it is claimed, tends to lessen the risk of fire from steam engines used to drive threshing machines. It consists of what is called a "jack" and "rope-transmitter," and has been tried with great success at the Agricultural Farm, Guelph, the steamer being at a distance of 300 feet from the barn. A trial of the contrivance took place some time ago in this city before a number of farmers, and by universal consent it was pronounced to answer its purpose admirably.

Mr. D. C. Macdonald, of the London Mutual, informed the meeting that a trial of "jacks" to be used by threshing machine engines would take place on the Market Square, and suggested that the association adjourn to witness the machines in operation. The meeting therefore adjourned until 4 o'clock.

The President then called the meeting to order and considerable discussion took place as to the proper course to pursue in reference to the steam threshers. The following resolution, moved by Mr. W. G. Willoughby and seconded by Mr. Jas. Pettigrew, was unanimously carried:

That the Executive Committee of this association be instructed to take steps to petition the Government to insert in the statuory condition a clause making void all claims for loss occasioned by steam engines used for threshing, unless the engines used for threshing are at least 100 feet from barns or stacks.

A committee was appointed to draw up a form of permit for the use of steam threshers to be adopted by the association pending legislation as to the previous resolution. A committee was also appointed to arrange the payment of a salary to the Secretary. The association then adjourned for the day.

At 9:30 this morning the President called the meeting to order. The principal matter of business was the discussion as to the new system of driving threshing machines by "jacks." A resolution moved by Mr. D. C. Macdonald, seconded by Mr. Jepson, was carried to the effect that the association recommend to the farmers of Ontario for their own security, that the new system, as previously explained, be generally adopted.

Before adjourning the meeting Mr. R. J. Doyle advanced to the table, and with a few introductory remarks begged leave to present, on behalf of the association, a handsome gold-headed cane to Mr. Charles Davidson, the previous secretary and a member for 40 years.

Mr. Davidson replied, thanking the members in a few well-chosen words for their token of esteem.

The association then adjourned until the annual meeting to be held at Toronto in February next.

Ontario's Crops.

TORONTO, June 18.—Mr. B. E. Walker, general manager of the Bank of Commerce, in the course of his address on presenting the bank's annual report says: The hopes entertained a year ago regarding the crops in Ontario were unfortunately not realized, but if the returns from cereals have been bad farmers have done fairly well with their cattle, and we have again an increase in the amount of cheese manufactured and the money return therefrom, the product of the year ending March 31 being nearly 93,000,000 pounds, valued at $9,250,000. The export of eggs from the Province reached 10,000,000 dozen, the price to the farmer averaging about 11½ cents. This is lower than the price for 1887 and 1888, but speculation on the part of dealers during these years advanced prices beyond what the United States market ultimately justified. It will be unfortunate if another market has to be found, as no product of the farm has maintained its value more steadily during the period of general decline in prices. The profit from raising hogs, which is yearly becoming a more important feature with our farmers, has been particularly satisfactory.

Whatever the outcome of the present season may be, the prospect of success is always pleasant, and the crop reports of the Northwest and of Ontario are at the moment quite satisfactory.

This Syrup is pleasant to the taste, and unsurpassed for relieving, healing and curing all affections of the throat and lungs, coughs, colds, bronchitis, etc.

THE METHODISTS.

Toronto Conference—Sunday School Progress—A New Mission—Prohibition—The Chaplain Question.

TORONTO, June 19.—On the assemblying of Conference yesterday, Rev. J. W. Wilkinson read the report of the Sunday School Committee, showing encouraging increases. The number of conversions reported were 1,564; the number of scholars, 6,344; receipts from Sunday school extension fund $4,718 81, an increase of more than $300 over last year.

The Stationing Committee asked leave to plant a new mission station in the Toronto West district, near the Massey works, to be called the Toronto Western Mission. They will ask a grant of $100 from the Mission Board for one year only. The request caused some discussion, but the suggestion was adopted. The Conference delayed a few minutes after noon to allow the officials of the Elm Street Church to present a beautifully engrossed address to the retiring pastor, Rev. D. G. Sutherland, D.D., who leaves with this year the Church and Conference. Mr. Waring Kennedy read the address, to which Dr. Sutherland feelingly replied. The report from the Temperance Committee set forth the great evils of intemperance, declaring in clear terms in favor of prompt prohibition. The preaching of temperance sermons was urged and the dangers of tobacco and cigarette inveighed against.

On motion of Rev. Dr. Sutherland, seconded by Mr. Joseph Tait, M.P.P., the following passed by a large majority:

That this Conference commends the action of the Government in dividing the duties of the chaplain of Penetanguishene Reformatory among the ministers resident in the town, and is of the opinion that a similar course should be taken in regard to other penal and reformatory institutions throughout the country.

DOWN A MOUNTAIN SIDE.

The Terrible Plunge of a Coal Train—Three Men Killed.

ASHEVILLE, N. C., June 18.—Perhaps the most destructive wreck in the history of the Western North Carolina Railroad occurred at Melrose Station at the southern side of Saluda Mountain, about 32 miles from this city, on the Asheville and Spartanburg division, last night. The following were killed: Engineers Smyra and Tunstall and Fireman Taylor. The injured were G. Bocock, flagman, and Conductor Ricketts. Two colored brakemen, named Foster and Greenlee, sustained painful, but not dangerous wounds. From the apex of Saluda Mountain to Melrose, the scene of the accident, a distance of more than three miles, there is a fall of fully 600 feet. This has made railroad authorities especially careful at that point, and an engine is kept constantly there to help all trains up and down the mountain. The track was very wet last night when a coal train started down and soon after beginning the descent it became evident that the twelve loaded cars were too much for both engines to hold with all brakes down. The speed gradually quickened under heavy pressure until a speed of 75 miles an hour was reached, when the tracks spread and the entire train plunged headlong down the mountain with a terrible crash, burying beneath the broken cars, cross ties and earth the brave fellows who had stood to their posts. The loss to the company in engines and cars alone will reach $75,000.

THE RAILWAYS.

The Canadian Pacific Railway traffic earnings from June 7 to 14, 1890, were $310,000. For the same period in 1889 they were $275,000, showing an increase for 1890 of $35,000.

A Topeka (Kan.) telegram says: Articles of incorporation have been filed for a standard guage railway 2,000 miles long from Bismarck, N. D., to Galveston. The capital stock is $10,000,000.

A new transcontinental road has been opened by way of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul and the Northern Pacific, and hereafter through trains will leave Chicago daily at 5:30 p.m. A connection will probably be formed between these roads and the Grand Trunk by which the latter may compete with the Canadian Pacific for transcontinental traffic.

THE BANK OF TORONTO.

The Annual General Meeting of the Bank of Toronto (being the 34th since the commencement of business) was held, in pursuance of the terms of the Charter, at the Banking House of the Institution, June 18, 1890.

On motion, George Gooderham, Esq., was called to the chair, and Mr. Coulson was requested to act as Secretary.

Messrs. Walter S. Lee and T. G. Blackstock were appointed scrutineers.

By request of the Chairman, the Secretary read the following

Report:

The Directors of The Bank of Toronto have pleasure in presenting to the Stockholders the 34th Annual Report, accompanied by a Statement of Profit and Loss Account and a Balance Sheet showing the position of the Bank as on the 31st May last.

The general condition of trade and agriculture in the country during the past year has not been favorable to an increase in profits, but your Directors have to report that the business of the Bank has yielded a fair return upon its operations.

As your Directors have for several years past been enabled to declare a bonus of 2 per cent. in addition to dividends amounting to 8 per cent., they deemed themselves justified in paying dividends this year at the rate of 10 per cent., believing that this would be more acceptable to the Stockholders.

The net profits of the year, after deducting interest due depositors, allowing rebate on current notes discounted, and providing for all bad and doubtful debts, have amounted to the sum of	$281,845 68
Add balance from last year	41,962 99
Total	$323,808 67

This sum has been appropriated as follows:

Dividend No. 67, 5 per cent	$100,000 00
Dividend No. 68, 5 per cent	100,000 00
		$200,000 00
Added to rest account	100,000 00
Carried forward to next year	23,808 67
		123,808 67
Total		$323,808 67

From the foregoing it will be observed that the Rest Account has been increased $100,000, making the total amount of that account $1,500,000.

Since the last report a branch office has been opened in King street west for the convenience of many customers of the Bank, and the results have been satisfactory to the Board.

The business of the Bank in Montreal is now of such an extent that it has been deemed advisable to purchase premises in a desirable location, and thereby secure a suitable and permanent office for the branch in that city.

An Act was passed during the recent session of the Dominion Parliament extending the Bank charters for a further period of ten years from July 1, 1891. The various changes in the provisions of the Act received the careful consideration of your Directors.

The Cashier and other Officers of the Bank have discharged their respective duties during the year to the satisfaction of the Board.

The whole respectfully submitted.

(Signed) GEORGE GOODERHAM, President.

Rubber is King.

In former times "there was nothing like leather." Now rubber is king and is running leather and other manufacturing material a hard race. This is easily proved by glancing through the complete and artistic catalogue just issued by the Toronto Rubber Company (T. McIlroy & Co.) It is printed on fine toned paper, and contains illustrations of several hundreds of articles made in rubber, including the elegant mantle, the heavy mill belt and an infant's teething ring. The book itself is a marvel of excellence in printing, but its contents are really a revelation as to the innumerable uses to which rubber can be put. b

Badly Injured.

Joseph Knowles, one of the best known members of the Forest City Bicycle Club, was practicing a five-mile dash last night at Queen's Park and had completed about three miles when a small boy threw a stick at the wheel. It caught in the spokes and gave Knowles a terrific fall. He was picked up in an unconscious condition and was placed under the care of Dr. Drake. It was at first feared that his injuries were fatal, but he is now reported as considerably better. The practice which many children have of throwing articles at a passing bicycle is fraught with great danger.

Obituary.

Mr. George W. Frank, of Mitchell, died the other day of paralysis of the brain, in his 42nd year. Deceased had been engaged for some time as turner in Orr's factory and went home sick about a month before his death. He had been a resident of Mitchell for five or six years, and was a highly respected citizen. His funeral was attended by the I. O. F. in a body. A wife, a son and two daughters are left to mourn the loss of a husband and father. Messrs. F. W. Frank, of Strathroy, and James and Robert Fronk, of Adelaide township, are brothers of deceased, and the two former were able to attend their brother's funeral.

Fierce Storm in Appin.

Tuesday afternoon Appin was visited by the heaviest wind, rain and hail storm in the memory of the oldest inhabitant. A gale was followed by rain and hail, and lasted about half an hour, by which time the streets were flooded. The farmers will be the greatest loosers, as all their crops are laid low. Fences, trees and telegraph poles were overturned. Mr. Archie McDonald, south of the village, lost two head of valuable cattle, and Neil McIntyre lost a fine steer by trees falling on them. Mr. Long, section foreman, received a very severe shock while repairing wires which had been blown down, but was round again in the evening. Mr. Mullens sustained a slight loss by the wind blowing down a chimney, which fell through the back of his house. School Teacher Campbell had a rather narrow escape, several of the bricks just missing his head. The storm did not extend to any distance east and west, as far as learned, but seemed to travel south, levelling the grain all along its track as flat as it had been done by a roller.

Marriage in London Township.

The groomsmen were Messrs. Chas. Moffatt, brother of the groom; Stuart Morrison, Toronto; Lawson Burnett, Canandaigua, N.Y.; Chas. Guiney, Buffalo; Bert Scatcherd, London, and Fred. Farncomb, Exeter. The bride was given away by Mr. George Belton, her brother. A large number of guests were present, Among them being Miss Schuyler, of St. Louis; Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Hodge, Mr. and Mrs. J. IT LEAKED OUT.

Unexplained Disappearance of a Married Man and a Domestic.

A mysterious disappearance, which occurred on Saturday morning, and which, as it affected the happiness of a home in the city, was kept as quiet as possible, has just leaked out. On the southwest corner of Bathurst and Clarence streets, in a neat, comfortable-looking house last week resided the family of Mr. A. Nixon. The family consisted of Mr. Nixon and his wife (to whom he had been married but eleven months since) and two children, a girl and a boy, aged respectively 6 and 4 years. Both of the children were by a former wife, the little girl being a cripple.

Mrs. Nixon was an industrious woman and in addition to the charge of the domestic duties of the home she kept a number of boarders, and employed as her assistant a woman named Higgins, who according to report was married to a man in the States who had deserted her and by whom she had had one child.

Last Thursday Mrs. Higgins announced her intention of resigning and departed for the East on the train leaving at 11:30.

On the following Saturday Mr. Nixon also disappeared, having first cashed a number of notes to the amount of $500. A short time after 12 o'clock Mrs. Nixon became uneasy and thought she would investigate the cause of the non-appearance of her spouse. She went to the G. T. R. station and made inquiries, but as Nixon was a stranger in the city, having resided here but a short time, she was unable to get any information respecting his movements. It is stated that the boarders noticed that there was considerable intimacy between Nixon and the domestic when at the boarding-house and communicated the intelligence to Mrs. Nixon, who refused to entertain any doubt of her husband's constancy.

Nixon came from the vicinity of Delaware and his folks are well-to-do farmers. A reporter called on Mrs. Nixon to-day and found her at home but far from being communicative. She admitted that her husband had gone and that the woman had also disappeared, but further than that she professed to know nothing.

C. P. R. DISASTER.

Cause of the Catastrophe—A Self-Sacrificing Employe—The Victims.

TORONTO, June 19.—the cause of the accident on the Canadian Pacific Railway at Claremont is laid to the account of the heavy rainstorms of the past few days, which overflowed the creeks and streams and greatly weakened the bridges and culverts along the line. The party consisted of John Wanless, jun., inspector; James Atton, engineer; George Oliver, fireman; — Moriarty, sectionman; — Lott, sectionman; David Nyswander. Tha last named, a storekeeper at Green River, was engaged as special help for the occasion.

When about three miles from Locust Hill and while the locomotive was going at the rate of about fifteen miles an hour, the ill-fated spot was reached. Without a moment's warning a stone-arch culvert gave way and the engine was precipitated head first into the swollen creek. The rush of the water beneath had completely undermined one side of the culvert, and the stonework crumbled away at once under the weight of the engine. The only one of the six persons on board who managed to escape was Nyswander. In the shock he was thrown off the train into the water, and, grasping a tree that was floating near, he made his way to the bank. The others must have been killed almost instantly.

A BRAVE MAN.

Superintendent Tait arrived from the scene of the accident by the Montreal express last evening. He says: "I consider Mr. Wanless, who was one of the best officers in the service, sacrified his life in order to ensure the absolute safety of the passengers. Every possible precaution was being taken, for no trains were allowed to go forward after the report reached our officers that portions of the line were slightly damaged. About two hours before the accident occurred—11:26 was the time the watch found in the pocket of the deceased driver stopped—a train passed over the structure."

THE VICTIMS.

The search for the bodies was prosecuted all day and about 2:30 o'clock the remains of George Atton were dragged up about half a mile down the creek.

Mr. Wanless leaves a wife and five children, who are sadly prostrated over the unexpected calamity. The Canadian Pacific officials speak very highly of their late servant, in whose ability and integrity they had the utmost confidence. He has been connected with the road since its inception and was formerly attached to the Toronto, Grey and Bruce. He was about 35 years of age. His father, an old and valued employe of the company, has been tie and timber inspector for a great many years.

James Atton, the engineer, resided at West Toronto Junction, and was also an old hand on the road, having served on the Credit Valley line.

George Oliver, the fireman, resided at West Toronto Junction, and leaves a wife and three children.

Sectionmen Moriarty and Lott resided in the neighborhood of Locust Hill.

This was her opportunity. All her natural ferocity arose within her, intensified a hundred times by the instinct of self-preservation. With a sudden blow she struck the pistol from his hand, and it fell upon the floor of the carriage, and then with a frightful yell, she sprung like a wildcat straight at his throat. So sudden was the attack that the long, lean hands were gripping his windpipe before he knew that it had been made. Back she bore him, though he seized her round the waist. She was the heavier of the two, and back they went crash! against the carriage door.

It gave. Oh, God, the worn catch gave! Out together, out with a yell of despair into the night and the raging gale, down together through 60 feet of space into the black river beneath! Down together, deep into the watery depths—down into the abyss of Death!

The train rushed on, the wild winds blew and the night was as the night had been. But there in the black water, though there was never a star to see them, locked together in death, as they had been locked together in life, the fierce glare of hate and terror yet staring from their glazed eyes, two bodies rolled over and over as they sped silently toward the sea?

CHAPTER XXXVI.

SISTER AGNES.

Ten days had passed. The tragedy of which the foregoing is a record had echoed through all the land. Numberless articles and paragraphs had been written in numberless papers, and numberless theories had been built upon them. But the echoes were already commencing to die away. Both actors in the dim event were dead, and there was no pending trial to keep the public interest alive.

The two bodies, still linked in that fierce dying grip, had been picked up on a mud-bank. An inquest had been held, at which an open verdict was returned, and they had been buried. Other tragedies had occurred, the papers were filled with the reports of a noted and remarkably full flavored divorce case, and the affair of the country lawyer who committed bigamy together with his lawful wife came to a tragic and mysterious end began to be forgotten.

In Boisingham and its neighborhood much sympathy was shown with Belle, whom people still called Mrs. Quest, though she had no title to that name, but she received it coldly and kept herself secluded.

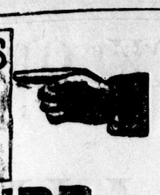

As soon as her supposed husband's death was proved beyond a doubt, Belle had opened his safe, for he had left his keys on his dressing table, and found therein his will and other papers, including the mortgage deeds, to which, as Mr. Quest's memorandum advised her, she had no claim. Nor, indeed, had her right to them been good in law, would she have retained them, seeing that they were a price wrung from her late lover under threat of an action that could not be brought.

So she made them into a parcel and sent them to Edward Cossey, together with a formal note of explanation, greatly wondering in her heart what course he would take with reference to them. She was not left long in doubt. The receipt of the deeds was acknowledged, and three days afterward she heard that a notice calling in the borrowed money had been served upon Mr. de la Molle on behalf of Edward Cossey.

So he had evidently made up his mind not to forego this new advantage which chance threw in his way. Pressure and pressure alone could enable him to attain his end, and he was applying it unmercifully. Well, she had done with him now, it did not matter to her, but she could not help faintly wondering at the extraordinary tenacity and hardness of purpose which his action showed. Then she turned her mind to the consideration of another matter, in the connection with which her plans were approaching maturity.

It was some days after this, exactly a fortnight from the date of Mr. Quest's death, that Edward Cossey was sitting one afternoon brooding over the fire in his rooms. He had much business awaiting his attention in London, but he would not go to London. He could not tear himself away from Boisingham, and such of the matters as could not be attended to there were left without attention. He was still as determined as ever to marry Ida, more determined if possible, for from constant brooding on the matter he had arrived at a condition approaching monomania. He had been quick to see the advantage resulting to him from Mr. Quest's tragic death and the return of the deeds, and though he knew that Ida would hate him the more for doing it, he instructed his lawyers to call in the money, and make use of every possible legal means to harass and put pressure upon Mr. de la Molle. Well, she had done with him now, it did not matter to her, but she could not help faintly wondering at the extraordinary tenacity and hardness of purpose which his action showed. Then she turned her mind to the consideration of another matter, in the connection with which her plans were approaching maturity.

It was some days after this, exactly a fortnight from the date of Mr. Quest's death, that Edward Cossey was sitting one afternoon brooding over the fire in his rooms. He had much business awaiting his attention in London, but he would not go to London. He could not tear himself away from Boisingham, and such of the matters as could not be attended to there were left without attention. He was still as determined as ever to marry Ida, more determined if possible, for from constant brooding on the matter he had arrived at a condition approaching monomania. He had been quick to see the advantage resulting to him from Mr. Quest's tragic death and the return of the deeds, and though he knew that Ida would hate him the more for doing it, he instructed his lawyers to call in the money, and make use of every possible legal means to harass and put pressure upon Mr. de la Molle. At the same time he had written privately to the Squire, calling his attention to the fact that matters were now once more as they had been at the beginning, but that he was as before willing to carry out the arrangements which he had already specified, provided that Ida could be persuaded to consent to marry him. To this Mr. de la Molle, notwithstanding his grief and irritation at the course his would-be son-in-law had taken about the mortgages on the death of Mr. Quest, and the suspicion that he now had as to the original cause of their transfer to the lawyer, had answered courteously enough, saying what he had said before, that he could not force his daughter into a marriage with him, but that if she chose to agree with it he should offer no objection, and there the matter stood. Once or twice he had met Ida walking or driving. She had bowed to him coldly, and that was all. Indeed, he had only one crumb of comfort in his daily bread of disappointment, and that hope deferred which, where a lady is concerned, makes the heart more than normally sick, and that was, he knew his hated rival, Col. Quaritch, had been forbidden the castle, and that intercourse between him and Ida was practically at end.

But he was a dogged and persevering man, and he knew the power of money, and the shifts to which people can be driven who are made desperate by the want of it. He knew, too, that it is no unusual thing for women who are attached to one man to sell themselves to another of their own free will, realizing that love will pass, but wealth, if the settlements are properly drawn, does not. Therefore, he still hoped that with so many circumstance bringing an ever increasing pressure upon her Ida's spirit would in time be broken, her resistance would collapse, and he would have his will. Nor, as the sequel will show, was that hope a baseless one.

As for his infatuation there was literally no limit to it. It broke out in all sorts of ways, and was for miles around a matter of public notoriety and gossip. Over the mantlepiece in his sitting-room was a fresh example of it. He had, by one means and another, obtained several photographs of Ida, notably one of her in a court dress, which she had worn two or three years before, when her brother James had insisted on her being presented. These photographs he had caused to be enlarged, and then had commissioned a well-known artist to paint from them a full length life size portrait of Ida in her court dress, at a cost of £500. This order had been executed, and the portrait which, although, as might be expected, the coloring was not entirely satisfactory, was still an effective likeness, and a fine piece of work now hung in a splendid frame over his mantlepiece.

It is said there are more ways than one to kill a cat, but the majority of them are failures.

It would be a gross injustice to confound that standard healing healing agent—Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil—with the ordinary unguents, lotions and salves. They are oftentimes inflammatory and astringent. This Oil is, on the contrary, eminently cooling and soothing when applied externally to relieve pain, and powerfully remedial when swallowed.

I used one bottle, and the permanent manner in which it has cured and made a new man of me is such that I cannot withhold from the proprietors this expression of my gratitude.".

The steamer B. F. Ferris, of Saginaw, containing 500 passengers, sprung a leak off Winona beach, on the Bay shore, about 21 miles from the mouth of the river, Sunday afternoon, through striking a sunken log or snag. Friday afternoon a party of eight employes of the Michigan stove works, Detroit, boarded the yacht Crescent and started for a short cruise in Lake St. Clair. About 3 p.m. Chas. Hurst, jun., who was walking along the deck alongside the cabin, slipped and fell overboard. The boat ran off before the wind quite a considerable distance before it could be brought about, and by the time it reached the scene of the accident the man had sunk for the last time. Hurst was about 21 years of age, unmarried, a stove mounter and resided with his parents at No. 1336 Chene street, Detroit.

A more horrible death has scarcely ever been the lot of a human being than that which overtook William Lowry, an aged colored resident of Marquette, on Saturday. He was found by a party of woodsmen in the forest near Onota pinned to the ground by a tree which had fallen upon him. He had barely strength to speak to his rescuers and thank them. He said he had lain thus four days without food and tormented by insects. Portions of his body swarmed with maggots. He was brought home, where he died next morning from exposure and starvation, as the internal injuries sustained were not enough of themselves to be fatal.

Mr. Bowlby, the well-known Q. C. of Brantford, is in attendance at the Synod.

Mr. Lawrason, of this city, has been the guest of his uncle, Mr. N. Ames, of Paris.

Mrs. Archibald Chalmers and children are about to leave the city to spend the summer with relatives at Lochee, by Dundee, Scotland.

Three drunks were up before the Police Magistrate to-day. One was discharged and the others fined $1 or five days and $2 or a week respectively.

S. Edgerton, Dundalk, Grey county, writes that a boy named Benjamin Smitten, formerly of the Guthrie Home, London, left his employ on March 29, and has not returned.

Mr. A. Taylor, manager of Oak Hall, allows his men one holiday every week during the months of July and August. The employes of the establishment appreciate this very much.

Bishop Baldwin will preach the anniversary sermon of St. George's Church, Sarnia, next Sunday morning, and will hold a confirmation service there. Rev. Canon Davis, of this city, will preach at the evening service.

Janitor Merritt had the City Hall nicely prepared last night for the annual missionary meeting in connection with the Synod of Huron, but received a notice in the evening to the effect that it was not wanted, no missionary meeting being held this year.

Among the changes at the recent annual meeting of the shareholders of the Bank of Commerce is the election of Mr. Robert Kilgour to the Board of Directors and the retirement of Mr. Henry Darling from the presidency. Both gentlemen are relatives of Mr. James Kilgour, of this city.

Mr. F. C. Trebilcock returned yesterday from a six weeks' trip to the Maritime Provinces, looking as if the outing had proved a pleasure to him. He indulged in some fishing at St. John while away. One man with whom he traveled—so it is said—caught 160 trout, over half of which weighed more than three pounds apiece.

James Dobbin, of East London, appeared at the Police Court this morning charged by Inspector Henderson with a breach of the Liquor Act. The only evidence was that of Thomas Holdway, who testified that the amount of liquor he desired could not be held by the bottle and he drank the surplus. The Magistrate decided that no case was made out and dismissed the charge.

The other night some marauders broke into Rev. J. A. Browne's residence at Belmont by prying open an outside cellar door, which was nailed down, and effecting an entrance to the house through the kitchen. It is supposed that nothing was taken, but steps have been taken to prevent a repetition of the crime by having two young men sleep there during Mr. Browne's absence.

James Graham, of Komoka, Canada, an old resident of the Soo, is visiting with the family of David Miller. He arrived last Thursday on the steamer United Empire. Mr. Graham has nothing but words of praise for the officers and crew of the steamer, who, he says, cannot be surpassed both for gentlemanly conduct and their first-class treatment of the passengers. Mr. Graham was at one time highway commissioner for this county, and is an old and valued friend of Judge Steere, who was at that time township clerk.—[Sault Ste. Marie Herald.

Several persons have been in the city asking about the body of the unknown youth killed on the G. T. R. Sunday. Mrs. Begg, of 741 York street, reports that a boy answering the description of the deceased called on her Saturday and asked for some food. He said he had come from the States, where both his father and mother had died, and was going to an aunt in Toronto. Mrs. Begg gave him some clothes, which he tied in a bundle, saying that he would wear his old ones for a while. She could not identify the boy's old clothes, and unless the bundle is found cannot say whether the victim is the same youth or not.

Apple Blight.

From what can be learned a general blight has fallen on the apple crop in this district. The farmers are talking of nothing else, and many theories have been advanced as to the cause. There has been no frost, but it is generally believed that the peculiar electrical condition of the weather during the past week or so has been the reason. The fruit was just beginning to form, but the germs of the appie seem in some mysterious manner to be blasted, and are literally rotten. The same report comes from Elgin county.

A Radical Remedy.

On Monday afternoon Mr. Harry Pearce, G. T. R. baggageman here, met with a rather unfortunate accident. In working among his bees he was stung by one of them, and being told that ammonia would give relief, he thought he would try it. Mr. Thos. Welch, drug clerk, was at the station on business on the day mentioned, and having a bottle of ammonia with him, the desired opportunity was offered. In opening the bottle the liquid escaped rather suddenly, and quite a quantity of it came in contact with Mr. Pearce's face and eyes, the latter particularly suffering, and he is now laid up. Mr. Welch also came in for a share of the pungent liquid, but escaped much lighter than the baggageman.—[Strathroy Age.

Stolen Sovereigns.

A warrant was sworn out Monday before Police Magistrate Noble, of Strathroy, against a young Englishman named Davis, by his employer, Alex. Luckins, 2nd line, Adelaide, charging him with stealing six British sovereigns, several two shillings pieces, a quantity of jewelry and a silver watch and guard, in all valued at about $70. He was last seen at Watford on Monday, and tendered a sovereign in pay for his breakfast. He succeeded in getting a bottle of whisky at Adelaide village, for which he tendered a sovereign in payment, but change not being handy he secured the refresher on his own promise to pay. Chief Wilson, of Strathroy, is on his track, but it is feared he has gone over the border by this time.

Waugh Lauder To-Night.

At Victoria Hall this evening Londoners will have an opportunity to hear the celebrated pianist Mr. W. Waugh Lauder, assisted by Dr Sippi, in a programme which embraces a splendid list of popular selections. The difficulty with many others has been that they have been too classical for popular taste. Dr. Oscan Paul (Leipzig), in a letter introducing Mr. Lauder to Liszt said: "Mr. Lauder has the ability to become a second Tanzig." The Cincinnati Commercial-Gazette says: "His endurance of the sheer physical drain in performing large compositions and the lightning-like speed of his nimble runs arouse astonishment, and before this emotion has time to abate or clog he charms his hearers with a warm cantabile, breathing all the sentiments of the heart. Mr. Lauder is a musician of wide learning and an excellent linguist." A second recital will be given to-morrow evening.

A Call Extended.

At the call of the Session Board of the St. James' Presbyterian Church, Tuesday evening, a large and representative gathering of members and adherents was held in the body of the church to give their views as to whether they were prepared to extend a call to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Rev. D. McGillivray. Rev. Mr. Ballantyne, of Knox Church, in the absence of Rev. Mr. Sawers, officiated as moderator. By a unanimous vote of the congregation it was decided to proceed with the selection. The names of Revs. Dr. Booth, Barron, McLearn and Talling were proposed. The result of the first ballot was in favor of Mr. Talling, and after the second ballot, by a unanimous vote, it was resolved that Mr. Talling be the choice of the congregation, a meeting to extend the call to be held on the 30th June. Rev. Mr. Talling is a young and clever man, just out of college, and is very highly spoken of in Toronto and surrounding places.

Sing Their Own Praises.

There are few, if any, in the great army of smokers who have not been, by experience, placed in a position to judge as to the merits of the "Norma" 10-cent cigar manufactured by H. McKay & Co., of London. In almost every cigar store and hotel in Canada this fact of all lovers of 10-cent goods has found its way, and is finding rapid and constantly increased sale. Unlike other similar goods, its fame is not of a transient nature. The "Norma" contains all the merits of the imported cigar, and has in many cases supplanted its more expensive rivals, and each successive season but adds to its host of admiring consumers.

The large establishment of H. McKay & Co. is kept continually engaged in supplying the demands made upon them for the "Norma."

ALMA COLLEGE.

Closing Exercises — Musical Recital—First of the Series—A Splendid Success.

The "undergraduates, musical recital," the first of the series of entertainments in connection with the annual closing exercises of Alma College, St. Thomas, took place Monday evening before a very select and appreciative audience. The following programme was carried out:

Piano quartet—Andante and Menuetto..Haydn

Piano—Sonate, Op. 14 in E—Allegro, Allegretto and Rondo.....Beethoven

Piano—Sonate, No. 17, Cotta Edition—Allegro, Adagio and Presto.....Haydn
Miss B. Ellis.
Song—Dove Song.....Mozart

Duo—I Would That My Love.....Mendelssohn

Misses Ellis and Hollenbeck showed, perhaps, the best execution, while the playing of Misses Brebner, Marsteller and Francis was remarkable for brilliance of style. The vocal selections were all rendered in a pleasing and unaffected manner, "The Ash Grove" having the preference. Miss Fleury rendered with feeling Singale's "Fantasia Sonambula."

And Solid Gold Watches Found in Tea.

The Provincial Tea Company have opened a branch office of their establishment at 396 Richmond street, London, for the purpose of introducing their now famous blend of tea which they claim has no equal for the price in Canada. In order to lose no time in introducing their tea the company have decided that for the next 30 days they will put in every can a souvenir consisting of solid gold and silver watches of the best American and Swiss makers, genuine diamond, ruby, sapphire, turquois, amethyst, pearl and garnet jewelry set in solid gold and many other articles of less value too numerous to mention. Of course, this expensive method of advertising cannot continue long, 30 days being the limit, after which the tea will be sold same quantity and same price on its merits alone. The following and many others, whose name we do not mention by request, are among the fortunate purchasers up to date: P. Levy, the popular clothier, Dundas street, found in a box of tea a solid gold hunting case Elgin jeweled movement stem wind and set watch; Chas. B. R., residence, Point Edward, got a gent's hunting case watch in his can of tea; Mrs. F. Stern, Ridcut street, found in her tea a lady's solid gold hunting case stem wind and set watch; Chas.
