The Eve of Polling

Why should any moderate-minded Conservative assist by his vote in inflicting Mr. Essery upon the city as London's representative man in the Provincial Legislature? There are few Marked Attention Shown Him prominent Conservatives he has not attacked in a personal manner. It is true that Mr. Essery forced himself on the Conservative convention, but it is one thing to bring a horse to water, and another to make him drink. It is one thing to pack a convention, but it is another thing, under the ballot, to Great Loss of Life by an Earthquake coerce voters into voting against their real opinion of a candidate. We ask all moderate-minded Conservatives on this occasion to vote for the interests of the city, and in the real interests of their party as well, by marking their ballots for Mr. Hobbs. Otherwise, they may find out as a party the truth of the warning words solemnly uttered by Mr. E. Meredith, Q.C., in describing Mr. Essery: "There is not a bigger autocrat in the city of Lon-

Mr. E. E. Sheppard, editor of Toronto Saturday night, a journal devoted to descriptions of teas in high society, and directions as to the proper style for gentlemen's collars and the trimmings of ladies' garments, is heralded by Mr. Essery, with characteristic rhodommontade, as "a man who has made a name for himself and his paper second to none on the face of the British Empire!" We observe that this distinguished man took upon himself to sneer at Sir Oliver Mowat as a "Christian Statesman." We can tell Mr. Sheppard that French forces did not lose a man killed or he has brought his sneers to the wrong market in bringing them to London. In this city, at all events, thanks to the teachings of the able and earnest clergymen of all denominations and all creeds, it is not regarded as a crime to be brought against Sir Oliver Mowat that he is a Christain Statesman.

The supporters of the Ontario Government vigorously supported Mr. Peddle, the workingman, a few years ago, as a Parliamentary candidate, and they are ready to do the like again. Let the workingmen return the compliment tomorrow by marking their ballots for Mr. Hobbs.

In order to form some conception of the size of some of the new questions, ary and imagine a British statesman anaking speeches about them. Imagine Lord Salisbury discussing the number of eggs that should be consumed by an asylum official at one meal. Fancy Gladstone growing eloquent over a consumptive calf. Just of a number of houses, imprisoning several think of Rosebery putting a paragraph into his speech about saving a few cents on the daily allowance of a lunatic.-["Knoxonian," in the Canada Presbyterian.

We thought this bye-election would hardly be allowed to pass with out revival of sneers at Sir Oliver Mowat as a "Christian statesman." And yet it may be that the fact that Sir Oliver Mowat is a Christian statesman has been his arm of power in standing up for the right and in saving for the Province 100,000 square miles of territory of which Sir Oliver's opponents would have robbed her. That Sir Oliver Mowat is well grounded in the "fundamentals" may have had to do with that prevention of robbery and jobbery which has left Ontario with a surplus, the only Province of which that can be said. We tell those who are sneering at Sir Oliver Mowat as a Christian statesman, that his thousands of friends instead of denying the imputation honor him the more and adhere to him the more because of such sneers. It is a curious thing that nearly every agnostic, every enemy of religion, every open advocate of the desecration of the Sabbath, is against Sir Oliver Mowat; but the great mass of the people of Ontario have for 22 years shown Sir Oliver that they "love him for the enemies he has made." Mr. Gladstone has never been ashamed to humbly confess his Divine | tion should be a stalwart one and distinct Master as his guide, his source of strength and consolation. Neither has Sir Oliver Mowat. And the fact that the foremost clergymen of the differ- a free and unrestricted vote of the electorent bodies are supporters of Sir Oliver | ate. Mowat, is clear evidence that with them it is no crime in the veteran Premier that in addition to being the greatest constitutional lawyer and ablest administrator of Canada, he is also a Christian statesman.

LONDON, Nov. 18 .- Mr. Gladstone has forgiven the Duke of Westminster for the latter's abuse of him and his desertion of the cause of home rule and in token of his forgivenes will attend the marriage of the Duke to Princess Adolphus of Teck and at the marriage breakfast will propose a toast to the Duke.

Sad Loss to Operatives.

LONDON, Nov. 18 .- Warehouses occupied by twenty extensive lace manufacturers were consumed or damaged by vesterday's fire. Falling walls smashed in the roofs persons, who had narrow escapes. Two thousand hands are thrown out of work. The loss is all the more serious in view of the fact that the business at present is brisk.

Movements of Royalty.

LONDON, Nov. 18 .- The Czarina and the Princess of Wales will go from St. Petersburg to Copenhagen at the end of the month, and will there meet the Duchess of Cumberland and the Duchess of Fife. The love of Emperor Nicholas for English artists extends, it is said, to dancers. As a child he was an enthusiastic admirer of Lydia Thompson, who, during a visit to Russia, was summoned to the palace, where she taught the present Czar to dance the Discount Rates.

LONDON, Nov. 18 .- The rates of discount last week were I cent for three months and cent for 30 days. Russia returned to the Bank of England £80,000 in gold, borrowed on the eve of Alexander's death. Paris continues to withdraw gold. One further shipment to the United States is expected but no more. The Duke of Argyll.

LONDON, Nov. 18 .- The Realm, of which Lady Colin Campbell is the editor, has appeared and is favorably received. In its first issue Realm announces that the Duke of Argyll is engaged to Miss Knox Little.

Argyll, was born in 1823, and is the fatter of the Marquis of Lorne, who married the Princese Louise, fourth daughter of Queen Victoria. Lady Colin Campbell, the editor of Realm, is the wife of Lord Colin Campbell, fourth son of the Duke of Argyll, from whom she was separated in 1884. The Duke of Argyll has been twice married.

The School Question in London. LONDON, Nov. 18 .- A fierce campaign in regard to the London School Board elections involves issues which the religious speak of as among the greatest in the history of the metropolis and the country. The vote which will be taken on Thursday will decide whether education shall be controlled by non-sectarians or by clericals. Since 1871, under a compromise between the parties, non-degmatic Bible teaching has prevailed, but gradually through the laxity of the non-sectarians the clerical element on the boards has increased influence until now they feel strong enough to strike for supremacy.

How is This? The New York Sun's correspondent cables from London: "There is trouble in store either for Mr. Blake or Lord Tweedmouth. The statement of Mr. Blake in America that Lord Tweedmouth offered the Irish party $10,000, is to be brought to the notice of Parliament. If the statement is substantiated it will constitute a serious breach of privilege, as in its nature, it is an attempt to corrupt members of Parliament. The matter is exciting keen interest in political circles, but a great deal will depend upon Mr. Blake. In case he denies the statement efforts will be made to secure from America trustworthy reports of what he actually did say.

Storm-Tossed Vessels. LIVERPOOL, Nov. 18 .- Owing to stress of weather the Cunard steamer Etruria, from New York, did not attempt to land mails or passengers at Queenstown, but proceeded direct to this port.

LONDON, Nov. 18 .- The latest intelligence received here regarding the loss of the American bark Richard Parsons, which was wrecked off Mendora prior to Oct. 5 while on a voyage from New Castle, N. S. W., for Manilla, is that six of the crew were drowned. Capt. Thorndike, who commanded the bark, was saved.

Fishing vessels arriving at Yarmouth report an aggregate of eight of their crews drowned during the recent storms.

In consequence of the flooded condition of the town, Eton College has been closed and the students have been sent to their homes. Postmen are compelled to use boats in delivering letters from house to house.

The Dead Czar.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 18 .- Alexander III. will be buried tomorrow. The latest state service before the funeral was held in Admiral Ting has received stronger orders | the fortress cathedral at 2 o'clock this afterto attack the Japanese fleet at the first | noon. Representatives of foreign governments had places near the Imperial family. Clifton R. Breckenridge is the new American ambassador, represented the United States. Services were held simultaneously in all the churches of the capital.

The Prince of Wales and the King of Denmark placed wreaths on the dead Czar's bier this afternoon. Prince Bismarck sent a wreath of forget-me-nots. The French have sent more mourners than any other foreign nation. A grand popular service was hold in the cathedral this evening.

It is estimated that 30,000 persons were waiting this evening to get into the cathedral to see the body. The line extended for miles from the door. Thousands had been waiting since Friday night. As the evening advanced they became impatient and often tumultuous. In the rushes for the door women fainted, several men were trampled and small trees, lamp posts and barriers were torn down. All business will be suspended throughout the Empire tomorrow, and domestic telegrams will not be accepted.

The French delegates occupy 50 rooms at the Hotel d'Europe. They have brought countless wreaths and 10,000 bouquets, which will be distributed at the doors of the cathedral.

The Next Royal Marriage. London, Nov. 18.—Queen Victoria is said to be getting increasingly feeble in her powers of locomotion, and has to be carried ip steps or the smallest rise of ground. But whatever may be her physical condition, her mentall powers are absolutely unimpaired and her capacity for work is undiminished. She takes increased interest in match-making, and has of late repeatedly expressed her opinion that the poorer princes of the younger branches of the royal house of England ought to marry into the wealthy aristocracy of Great Britain, as Prince Adolphus of Teck is about to do. This young man has certainly done a wise thing by choosing as his wife the daughter of the Duke of Westminster, the richest peer in England. Few people outside the two families and the lawyers are likely to possess trustworthy information respecting the settlements in this match, rumor has it that the duke has provided a dowry of $500,000, besides settling $25,000 a year upon the young couple. It may be said with absolute certainty that the prince has brought nothing into the settlement beyond life insurance policies and possibly a few thousands provided by the Queen with whom he is deservedly a great favorite. Prince Adolphus and his brideelect dined at Windsor Castle last night with the Queen, together with their parents. The marriage will take place next week and it is not improbable that the Queen will be present. Japan's Demands.

SHANGHAI, Nov. 18. - In diplomatic circles here the success of mediation between China and Japan is regarded as hopeless. It is rumored that Japan's the Chinese fleet and the payment of an indemnity ot $12,500,000, Japan to occupy Port Arthur, Wei Hai Wei and the Formosa ports until the indemnity has been paid. There is no prospect of China assenting to such terms. The Novosti (St. Petereburg) approves Great Britain's endeavor to restore peace in the East, and blames Germany for placing obstacles in the way.

A Shanghai special says: Should the Japanese succeed in taking Port Arthur, there can be no doubt that Li Hung Chang will answer for it with his life. The Viceroy's forces at Tien-Tsin are being overawed by an army of Hunan Tartars and Kiangnan troops. The general com-manding these soldiers has denounced the Viceroy for defalcations which he is alleged to have committed.

If the Chinese defense of Port Arthur is successfull the entire Japanese army may winter on the Yalu.

Gladstone Is Still "In It."

LONDON, Nov. 18 .- That the influence of Mr. Gladstone, despite his retirement from the Liberal leadership, is still paramount in the guidance of the affairs of that party, is plainly visible in Lord Rosebery's atest proposal touching the House of Lords. A division of opinion among the members of the Cabinet as to what form the measure for the abolition of the House of Lords should take, and regarding the most suitable time for the introduction of the question in the House of Commons, led Lord Rosebery's visit to Hawarden. Acting under the inspiration there obtained the Premier foreshadowed in his speech at Glasgow the scheme for a second chamber, with a system of conference on disputed matters between delegates from the two Houses, in which the delegates from the Lower House would largely overbalance those fom the Lords. Obviously the Ministers have under o nsideration some plan which is still too shadowy to permit of its being disclosed. Sir Wm. Harcourt, Chancellor of the Exchequer, and Mr. Henry Campbell-Bannerman, Secretary of State for War, opposed Lord Rosebery's desire to introduce the question of reform of the House of Lords early in the coming session of Parliament. They urge that the best course to adopt will be to hold to the resolution in reserve until the Ministry shall be ready for a dissolution. It is improbable that the Conservative leaders will be willing to wait the convenience of the Government. Lord Salisbury, it is known, is determined to force their hand by passing in the House of Lords, immediately the session shall be opened, a motion affirming the possession by that body of executive privileges. This will necessitate the introduction in the House of Commons early in the session of a counter resolution, and will cause a crisis which will make a dissolution imperative.

Terrible Earthquake in Italy. ROME, Nov. 18 .- Reggio and the whole Province of Calabria were shaken violently by an earthquake Friday night. Much damage was done and many persons were killed. The troops have been called out to help the families driven from their homes. In San Procopic several houses fell, burying their occupants. In Messina, where the shocks were almost as violent as across the straits, the convicts in the penitentiary were panic-stricken. Two hundred mutinied and tried to escape by overpowering the guards, but they were everpowered.

In Calabria train service ceased running on account of the landslides. Slight shocks were felt at the same time in Rome.

The earthquakes were felt in Southern Italy and Sicily throughout Friday night. The first shock in Messina was the most violent. It lasted twelve seconds and was accompanied with rumblings. The inhabitants fied shricking with fright from their houses and filled the streets with their clamor. The hospital, although but slightly damaged, was shaken so violently that many patients became hysterical and had to be removed. The panic abated somewhat about midnight, and a few persons returned to their homes. Most of the inhabitants, however, decided to pass the night in the streets and open squares. After two hours the rumblings began again and the former scenes of panic were reenacted. Men and women ran aimlessly in all directions. Hundreds dropped to their knees and prayed aloud for deliverance.

Early yesterday morning another shock came. Saturday many streets were entirely deserted. Dozens of persons have taken refuge on ships in the harbor. There have been six shocks in all.

In Reggio many houses crack and threaten to fall at any moment. The panic-strick inhabitants are camping in shelters erected by soldiers. Patrols distributed food and other necessaries. It is known that six persons were killed and several injured in Ragnara, but details are wanting, owing to the demoralization of the railway and telegraph service. Signor Tachni, chief of the Rome observatory believes that the shocks were confined to the Lipari Islands and the Provinces of Messina and Reggio, and were connected with volcanic activity in Mount

Reports of disasters caused by the earthquakes in Southern Italy are still meager, but they suffice to show that there has been great loss of life. Procopie, a village of 1,200 inhabitants in Reggio di Calabria, has been obliterated. Virtually all the buildings are thrown into ruins. The number of deaths is not known, but in one church 47 persons were buried alive under fallen walls. The last authoritative report was that the list of dead was above 60.

In another village of the same province eight persons were killed by falling buildings. The damage to property has been enormous. Troops and citizens are going to the help of suffering districts. King Humbert has sent several donations from his private purse.

The Province of Reggio di Calabria has suffered most from the earthquakes, although several towns in the adjacent Province of Catanizaro di Calivria were shaken severely. In Triparna, twenty buildings were laid in ruins and several persons were killed. In Mileto and Cataniminimum demands are the surrendering of zaro many were injured. A school house was shaken to the ground, but the teachers and pupils had escaped a few minutes before

> At 10 o'clock this evening reports of deaths, injuries and the demolition of buildings had been received from seventeen communes. In Bagnara seven persons were killed outright; in Oppido Mamartina, four; in Santa Euphemia, eight. Scores of others were injured in these

In Sicily telegraphic communication has been restored. The people of Messina still fear to return to their houses and the majority of them are encamped in open spaces, railways and vessels in the harbor. Electric lights have been set to replace the lighthouse, which was destroyed, and a torpedo boat patroles the channel. In Millazzo, near a Messina, sharp shock was The Central News correspondent in Tien felt today. Many walls were cracked, but

Railway Men Indignant

How They Failed to Get the Back Wages That Was Their Due.

Deprived of Their Just Rights by Mr. Essery's Autocratic Conduct.

Just before Mayor Spencer retired from office the Cleveland syndicate, who sought to control the London and Port Stanley Railway, were compelled by him and the aldermen of that day to put up $25,000 as a guarantee of good faith. The money was put up in the Molsons Bank in the usual way, and that strong bank, with millions of capital at its back, guaranteed its safety. When Mr. Essery was elected mayor he pretended that the bank's certificate was not good enough, and, to the amusement of every business man in the city, who knew that a chartered bank's certificate of money held on behalf of a city or an individual is as good as gold, he demanded that the deposit should take the shape of "cold cash." The change did not increase the security of the city one iota, but it enabled Mr. Essery to pose, to his own satisfaction, if to that of no one else who knew anything about business, an a veritable municipal Selon 1

But mark the sequel.

Chiefly through the crying down of their credit by Mr. Essery and his agents the syndicate were unable to finance the new international company and the $25,000 forfeit became the property of the city, as in any case it would have become in the result of failure to keep the bargain. It was intended by Mayor Spencer and the Council that this $25,000 should go towards indemnifying the city and the railway employes against any loss that might be sustained through the failure of the Cleveland syndicate to make the rail-

Many railway men-none of them well off-trusted to this understanding, and, with Mr. Essery's cognizance, allowed their pay to get behind. The syndicate was unable to pay them their wages, and some of them suffered privations in consequence. They had the strongest of claims on the $25,000, and out of that large sum the very first payment should have gone for their long over-due wages. Indeed, the interest handed over to the city by the bank would have more than paid them all. But Mr. Essery was so anxious to boast of his powers in collecting the money in his own way-no better than that of the business men who laughed an his lack of knowledge of business ways-that he resolutely de- Times from Vienna says that a letter has death struggle for Sir Oliver. clined to pay these men their just dues out of the money kept for that very purpose. Thus it is that these men, who had been for years trusted employes of the Grand Trunk Railway, were deprived of their over-due wages, and from that day to this Mr. Essery has refused to do them justice. In the circumstances, no railway man can vote further trust in Mr. Essery. He has proved that when given the power he is an autocrat of the worst stamp, ready to sacrifice the interests of the workers, if by so doing he can glorify himself.

The Prince of Wales,

LONDON, Nov. 18 .-- For the first time in his long and not over-splendid public career the Prince of Wales finds himself the subject of zealous and even excited European attention. It is pretty late in the day for him to develop the tastes of a politician, let alone those of a statesman, but a much more utilitarian temperament than his might well be compelled to high ambitions by the situation in which he discovers himself. Vienna, Berlin, Rome and Paris alike are watching him as the principal object of interest at St. Petersburg, outweighing the importance of both the dead Czar in his coffin and the live Czar on his new throne. At the funeral of the late Czar it was noticed that the young Czar requested that the Prince of Wales should walk beside him, and the people generally are wondering what significance this may have.

Led a Double Life.

LONDON, Nov. 18 .- The trial recently concluded here of the man Read, which resulted in his conviction for the murder of Florence Dennis, has disclosed the fact that for years the murderer has been leading a double life. Among his associates he was looked upon as a man of good reputation. He was employed as a cashier by the Docks Company, and lived quietly with his wife and family. To all appearance he was a good husband and father, but the evidence adduced at his trial show that he supported a second wife in one of the suburbs of London, and carried on a criminal intrigue with a married woman named Ayriss. He was also intimate with the latter's sister, Florence, and when she began to become troublesome he shot her to get her out of the way. He was an aspiring dramatist and song writer. Read, n a letter to a friend, in which he sums up his theory of life, said: "What a fraud everything is. With a brass face and no conscience you can do as you choose. No more hard work for me.' The Atrocity Mill at Work.

LONDON, Nov. 18 .- The London papers are today filled with what looks like a concerted outburst of Armenian atrocities. They have come with suspicious epportuneness from Varna, Vienna, Tiflis, and various other eastern points to harrow cur feeling with an undated series of barbarities happening prior to Oct. 9. The Standard's dispatch from Varna mentions 6,000 as the number of victims and other reports from Armenian cation. The Opposition also had a policy sources go as high as 10,000, and speak in the Government House question, and glibly of 200 women in one place being the speaker said that, being fond of claimassaulted and then bayoneted; of 60 in ing credit for the Government in another and of some nameless village where everything, Mr. Ross, if he came to each Turkish soldier had 100 people to kill London three years from now, as his share. There has been some trouble would take credit for abolishing that in Armenia which the local pashas charge house. They also had a policy on the fee the British consul with fomenting, and a system, with which Mr. Mowat was falling mixed British-Turkish commission is in- into line. The surplus of the Government vestigating the thing now, but these sweeping tales of wholesale massa been stated that such did exist, but if it crees may be safely put down as did, why should the Government go to invented for a purpose. It is not work and borrow money for railway difficult to guess that the Armenian annuities? The remainder of Mr. intriguers in the nearer Orient have heard Whitney's speech was a criticism how Russia and England are now walking of the general conduct of affairs by hand in hand, and have produced to order | Sir Oliver and a condemnation of a sensational provocation for them to direct his course. He praised Hon. Alexander the force of this new friendship against the Mackenzie as an example of what an Turk. That game was played once too economical administrator should be, and often, however, nearly twenty years ago. | concluded by saying that the election in been received there from Smyrna reporting Keki Pasha, a Turkish marshal, with a detachment of Nizans and a field battery, massacred 2,000 Armenians at Sassun. The bodies of the dead were left unburied, and their presence has caused an outbreak of cholera. Many Christians are reported to have fled by secret paths across the Russian frontier. So far, adds the Times, there has been no official confirmation of this news.

To Suppress Betting. LONDON, Nov. 18 .- The excellent people who wish to suppress betting and other forms of gambling have had an interview with the Home Secretary, and have asked him to do it for them. They are organized under the name of the Anti-Gambling League, and their deputation to Mr. Asquith was headed by Canon Scott-Holland, a clergymrn of more energy than discretion. Their aim is to stop betting on the turf by a kind of side wind. A statute framed for other purposes is to be put in force. Canon Scott-Holland alleged, not untruly, that the prohibitions and penalties of the existing law fall more heavily on the poor than on the rich. Mr. Asquith replied that he has no wish to turn the Home Office into a branch of the Anti-Gambling League. He therefore declares for a new local veto, insisting that local authorities ought to have the power to prohibit racing or to license it under such conditions as they think fit. He warns them, however, that the law is in a very uncertain state. The courts have yet to interpret the statute authoritatively with reference to racecourse betting. Till then the league must proceed cautiously. Racing and betting on races are two of the most popular pursuits in this country. The turf is an immense evil, but abolishing the House of Lords would be a joke to abolishing the turf or betting on the turf. Mr. Asquith therefore contents himself with assuring Canon Scott-Holland that the law shall be enforced impartially when he knows what the law is.

A New Grouping. M. Jacques St. Cere cables from Paris to the New York Herald: "The new grouping of the great powers is becoming more clearly defined to Europe and the advances made by Lord Rosebery to France and Russia appear to be not merely a matter of chance, but a ripely matured plan to mask the defeat of the English policy in other combinations. Germany is deeply wounded by the change in England's policy and So why not enjoy it while you Russian grouping appears incredible can???????????! it must not, however, be forgotten that the young Czar is on the very best terms with his English relations, and that if an understanding should be arrived at with England it will be necessary for France to be included in it.

The winter will pass in secret negotiations and the exchange of diplomatic notes, and it will be spring before any events will present themselves. It is above all things the desire of the great powers to avoid all complications. This desire is visible in the way they hold aloof from the China-Japan question. No one wishes to take the initiative in an intervention. The same prudence is being shown in colonial questions. France has decided to send an expedition to Madagascar, but will act as strictly within her rights as possible, and not a single power in Europe will protest. In the same way the terrible massacres of Christians in Asia Minor, where more than 6,000 Armenians have been atrociously butchered, arouses only the pity of the public, but not that of the governments of Europe. The truth of the matter is that each Governfeel that something is being prepe

179 DUNDAS STREET MR. ESSERY'S FRIENDS

Hold Their Final Meeting of the Campaign-Messrs. Whitney and Sheppard Speak-Nothing New.

The friends of Mr. Essery fired their lass shot of the campaign on Saturday night when a meeting was held in the City Hall The hall was crowded with men, while the galleries were largely occupied by ladies The chief speakers were Edmund E. Shep pard, of Saturday Night, Toronto, and Mr James P. Whitney, M. P. P. for Dundas county. Seated on the platform were thirteen people, namely, Messrs. Sheppard and Whitney, Mr. and Mrs. Essery, Major Beattie, John A. Leitch (Glencoe), R. Bayly, Q.C., Wm. Gray, Henry Macklin, W. H. Winnett, P. H. Bartlett, Thos. D. Hodgens and T. H. Smallman. Mr. Bayly presided, and spoke briefly. He first introduced Mr. Whitney. Mr. Whitney was warmly received. He told of the distance he had come to address the meeting-over 400 miles-and then came a giittering tribute to the late leader of the Opposition, Chief Justice Meredith, who, Mr. Whitney said, had for so many years fought a losing battle. He also paid a tribute to the late Hon. C. F. Fraser. The removal of these two gentlemen from the House would leave a gap on each side which it would take a generation to fill. Mr. Witney then told his hearers that party government was a necessity, as under the British system every good that came to the people came from party. The speaker thought of the Opera House meeting held by the Liberals on Monday night, when Hon. Geo. W. Ross and Hon. John Dryden addressed London's electors. Mr. Dryden had called Mr. Marter a partisan, but Mr. Whitney said such would have to be passed on in good humor, though Messrs. Ross and Dryden were the strongest of partisans. The platform of the Opposition was touched upon, and Mr. Whitney stated they were opposed to the present Ontario ballot, even though it was the same as has been in use without question in England for twenty years. Another plank of the Opposition was the abolition of the office of Minister of Eduwas touched by Mr. Whitney. It had

Mr. Sheppard condemned the appointment of Mr. Fred Mowat as sheriff of Toronto, denied that there was a surplus, and tackled the silver medal bull story. Many of Mr. Sheppard's jokes were hoary with age, but the audience respected their gray hairs and laughed obligingly where the laugh was supposed to come in. Though Mr. Sheppard said he had a daughter being educated in a convent, he strongly attacked the separate schools.

It was 10:50 when Mr. Essery was introduced. He was cheered by his friends and spoke very briefly for once in his life. He first pitched into Mr. Ross and then took credit upon himself because once he figured in court against seven justices. Then he personally attacked Mr. Hobbs as a good enough man to employ labor in a factory, but not as good as the speaker to talk about laws. He repeated former declars. tions regarding the schools and incidentall; hit out at Sir John Carling by asserting that Mr. Meredith was a superior man to At the close of Mr. Essery's speech the usual cheers were given and the audience

He states that the safe contained $30,000 of United States bonds belonging o H. H. Final Grand Rally Thomas S. Hobbs.

Greatest Meeting of the Campaign Held on Saturday Night.

Ontario's Grand Old Man and the Alleged Modern Moses Contrasted.

Good Reasons Why London Citizens Should Support the Ontario Administration.

Why Were the Railway Employes Refused Their Pay by Mr. Essery?

Ringing Addresses by Hon. A. S. Hardy, Thos. S. Hobbs, Newton W. Rowell, Geo. C. Gibbons, Q.C., and Thomas H. Purdom.

While small arms were being fired in the City Hall Saturday night the Government artillery was booming in the Opera House. It was the scene of the last grand rally of Mr. Hobbs' friends before election night, and the face of Shakespeare above the curtain never beamed upon a finer gathering. Every seat in the pit, circle and galleries was occupied, and throughout the evening scores stood in the aisles and passages. while hundreds were unable to gain admission and reluctantly went home. The assemblage was graced by a large number of ladies-a distinctive feature of London meetings, which strangers remark upon with surprised pleasure. It has seldom been the lot of a London audience to listen to a more entertaining, instructive, eloquent and convincing discussion of political issues. Mr. Hardy's keenlypointed and well-directed shafts of argument and wit were driven home with sledge - hammer blows. The able Commissioner of Crown Lands was in his best form. Mr. Newton W. Rowell, of Toronto, did credit to himself and his native city of London. The attractive manner in which he presented the usually dry subject of finance stamped him as an orator of no little skill. He has the magnetic quality in a high degree, and when he ended his brilliant address he received a veritable ovation. Messrs. Gibbons, Purdom and Hobbs rounded off this splendid programme. ON THE PLATFORM. On the ample platform were hundreds of London's best citizens, including not a few ladies. Mr. V. Cronyn, president of the Liberal Association, was in the chair. Only a partial list of those on the stage was obtainable, owing to their numbers: Newton W. Rowell. George C. Gibbons.

cent audience to those on the platform. "Our opponents are continually harping on our being afraid of public meetings. You read the reports of their "grand rallies," and running down the columns one is reminded of the old song, 'Down the Avenue of Chestnuts.' (Laughter.) We have had returns all along the line, and they show accessions where we never expected them, and our friends have only to do their duty on Tuesday and they will roll up such a majority as will satisfy the most ardent Liberal. (Cheers.) Even Court Pride will be proud of it." (Cheers.)

AN OVATION TO MR. HOBBS. Mr. Hobbs entered and took a seat at this juncture, and was greeted with tremendous applause, to which he bowed acknowledgment. MR. GEO. C. GIBBONS.

Mr. Geo. C. Gibbons, Q.C., was given the hearty welcome always accorded him by London audiences. He paid a neat compliment to Chief Justice Meredith. "If people differed from him it didn't make them his enemies; he didn't subject them to abuse. (Cheers.) If we criticised him on his public course, we made no personal attacks on him. (Cheers.) If it would have been a mistake to put out Sir Oliver Mowat and put in Mr. Meredith, as we believed, oh! you Conservatives, what kind of a mistake would it have been to put out Sir Oliver and put in his place Mr. Marter? (Cheers.) It is a mistake this country will never make. (Cheers.) Mr. Meredith was a martyr for twenty years; this man will be for the rest of his life." (Cheers and laughter.) Mr. Gibbons, amid laughter, expressed doubt whether he should talk three hours, but reassured his audience those who talked longest generally said the least. He had always recognized the right of labor and all other classes to representation in the House. The lawyers had their rights, and the merchants and manufacturers had their rights too. (Cheers.) Supposing the whole 94 members of the House were talking machines, what would become of the country? (Laughter.) Mr. Hobbs was a laboring man. He had started as a brakeman and worked his way up with his own hands. It ill becomes those who employed no labor to sneer at him and profess to be the special champions of the workingman. These men who were always shouting and proclaiming themselves the workingman's friend reminded him of one of Senator Hill's stories about a farmer who attended a meeting and was very anxious to announce his occupation. He said: "I was a farmer's son. I was raised on a farm. In fact I may say I was brought up between two rows of corn.' small boy jumped up and said: "He's a pumpkin, begosh !" (Laughter and cheers.) Mr. Gibbons said he was a democrat. He asked the workingmen not to be led astray by these false cries. "I have been among the Grand Trunk men and other working classes during this campaign and can say there is no section more free from party bias and more critical than the mechanic class-and I have too much faith in the intelligence of this city to think you will reject our candidate. (Cheers.) Mr. Gibbons made a strong appeal to the moderate Conservatives present to join with their Liberal friends in this campaign, which was not one of party politics so much as a question of having a suitable representative. You all What is the pride and glory of Ontario but know there is no such nuisance in the world as a long-winded man. We have would have to take out of your pockets the place of argument. Perhaps that was heard a good deal about biennial sessions, that amount to maintain it. (Laughter and cheers.) You all know that the Ontario House is a business house-that there are no great issues dividing the members-and I am vain enough to think that I am quite as capable as my opponent to discuss the business matters which will be brought before the House. (Cheers.) I have not sought political honor. I have not been a seeker of office. I can bear out what Mr. Gibbons says-that many Conservatives in London intend casting their ballots for me on Nov. 20. (Cheers.) I shall do my best if elected to serve you in Toronto, regardless of party, and I can assure you I will not be a party laughing-stock. (Cheers.) I think can do some good for the city of London

(Loud cheers.) MR. NEWTON W. ROWELL Mr. Rowell's reception was a most flattering one, and he did not hesitate to thank the audience for its welcome to a London boy. "It was in the city of London that I livered my first political speech." There was no question, said Mr. Rowell, so near the hearts and the pockets of the people as the question of finance. A squandering government would leave a burden that would fall on the young people in days to come. A parsimonious government would starve, impoverish and cripple the country. Mr. Marter recognized this and denounced the alleged extravagance of the Government, and with arguments not quite so forcible, and with illustrations much less forcible than his arguments, he strove to point out wherein the extravagance existed. Mr. Rowell repeated Mr. Marter's challenge that he (Mr. Marter) would with. draw Mr. Essery from the contest if the Government could prove it had a surplus. "All I have to say," said Mr. Rowell, "is in Toronto. If I cannot I will not ask you

four years hence to support me again.'

MR. MARTER DOESN'T KNOW MR. ESSERY. (Cheers and laughter.) He doesn't know him as well as the citizens of London. (Laughter.) He doesn't know him as well as the Conservative party. (Laugh ter.) When once Mr. Essery gets the bit in his teeth Mr. Marter can't draw him off.'

Mr. Rowell then proceeded to explode Mr. Marter's arguments against the existence of a surplus. Mr. Marter had given the assets of the Province at $1,500,000. which, subtracted from the liabilities, left a deficit of $762,000. But he completely ignored assets of $4,600,000, being capital due by the Dominion Government and the common school fund, for which the Province received 5 per cent interest, amounting to $300,000 last year. (Cheers.) $6,156,000. Taking Mr. Marter's statement assets they had a surplus of $3,894,000. (Cheers.) But among the liabilities Mr. Marter included some $2,140,000 of railway certificates, and he said Mowat endeavored were not liabilities because they were not | Meredith. presently payable. They had scattered ment met these liabilities every year with Province; Mr. Essery takes his place in the current revenues. (Cheers.) Last year the Government paid oil $219,000 worth of these certificates. In 20 or 30 years these debts would be wiped off. (Cheers.) Subtracting these, Ontario new had

A SURPLUS OF OVER $6,000,000. Cheers.) Today the Dominion Government had a debt of $240,000,000; Quebec. which started at Confederation with a clean sheet, was well nigh bankrupt; the Provinces by the sea were calling for better terms, but there was one Province which stood pre-eminent, towering above all, and that was Ontario. (Loud cheers.) And they had to keep in mind the other fact that Ontario was the only Province which for a long period had had a Liberal Administration. (Cheers.) Last year they received from permanent Government invest- That is the position which you are called ments apart from this $4,600,000 interest, at the rate of $9 per hour for 24 hours in the day and 365 days in the year. (Cheers.) Surely these were assets, for in these hard times creditors did not pay interest unless they had to do it. Mr. Marter said they should revert to the methods of the Sanfield Macdonald Administration. If the Mowat Administration had proceeded along the lines of the Sanfield Macdonald Administration they would have in the treasury today $16,-914,000. If they paid that back into the pockets of the people, the people would be relieved from taxation to that amount. It was a fundamental principal of the Liberal party that people could not be made rich by taxing them; and if Mr. Marter spent on the same scale as Sanfield Macdonald the people would have to make up the deficiency out of their own pockets.

The Opposition, during their twenty years' experience, ought at least to have become good critics. But in four years, out of the millions of dollars voted for supplies they CHALLENGED NOT ONE CENT. Cheers.) They are saying what is not true when they say the Government is extravagant or they were recreant to their duty when they sat in the House, dumb as dogs, and did not challenge the Government. (Cheers.) Mr. Marter said the Government had increased the expenses of civil government 150 per cent since 1873. Would it not have been fair and candid on his part to have told you that included in the cost of civil government now which was not included then, is the whole cost of administering the Educational Department, of Agriculture, of the Bureau of Mines and other services? (Terrific cheers.) The cost of the same services as those of 1871 has only increased 37 per cent. The cost of government in Quebec, largely ruled by Conservatives, has increased in the Dominion Government, where we get per cent-and yet no word of condemnation. (Cheers.) We should not laugh at (Laughter.) Most of his days he kept a and naturally when he enters city life he cannot shake off his early associations. (Laughter.) He used to say in the House that Dr. Bucke's family consumed some thousands of quarts of milk per year. The actual consumption is a quart per day for each member of the family. Mr. Hobbs received another ovation and, as Dr. Bucke is a vegetarian, I think he describe the urgent necessity for responof the Province 47 per cent. (Hear, hear.) the education of her young? And you be')-instead of biennial sessions it will be cent of their present allowances. Is there a man here who would like to see the lunatic, the blind, the halt and the lame turned out on the highways? (Cries of 'No!") A man who would condemn a government because it votes to make life pleasant for these poor people is a man who is not in harmony with the spirit of this age. (Cheers.) "As to liquor prohibition, if the courts decide that the Ontario Government has no prohibitory power the lines are then closev drawn. The Mowat Government stands FOR PROVINCIAL CONTROL, the Opposition for municipal control. What is the curse of politics in the United States? It is the low-down saloon in politics. It is not the respectable hotelkeeper who has accommodation and comfort for guests, but it is the man, no matter what his reputation, who controls a few votes, and will elect an alderman in barter for his license. (Cheers.) No greater curse can befall temperance in the land than that the license control should return to the municipalities. Respectable hotel-keepers first took active part in political life. It are one with the temperance people in saywas in London four years ago that I de- | ing this shall not be done, for they do not want to be brought into competition with such disreputable elements." (Cheers.)

Sir Oliver Mowat, Mr. Rowell said, would need no statue to his memory; it would be perpetuated in the statute book, in wise and beneficient laws, and in the great resources to the north, which he has won for Ontario. It was generally conceded that Mr. Meredith had been the brains of his party. He had some men of fair ability-Clancy, White, Clark, Campbell, Wood; but they had all gone. Who have the Conservatives to guide the destiny of Ontario? Mr. Marter, with his kitchen polities and butter and eggs policy? (Laughter.) Dr. Ryerson, who trotted around the calf with the cough until his friends began to doubt which was the greater calf and called him off? (Laughter.) Mr. Howland, who told some classical stories here the other night, probably as pointless as his arguments? (Laughter.) The course of decency and honesty in political and municipal affairs will triumph in electing as your representative Thos. S. Hobbs." (Prolonged cheering.)

HON. A. S. HARDY. The Hon. A. S. Hardy on rising to speak was accorded the same generous and enthusiastic reception that greeted the other speakers of the evening. After saying that it was the first time in 22 years that the Government had felt at liberty to speak frankly to the people of London, he went on to speak of Mr. W. R. Meredith and of the number of men who supported him, regardless of politics, in the hope that he would bring the blue ribbon of politicsthe Premiership-to London. Many had The real assets of the Province were supported Mr. Meredith on that ground who could not support his successor. of liabilities and subtracting it from the (Cheers.) Continuing Mr. Hardy spoke of the local patriotism of London and pictured in glowing terms London's magnificent position in the west and the pride that naturally prompted the citizens to elect to deceive the people by telling them these their former distinguished member, Mr.

London. (Laughter.) There is a great gulf between Meredith and Marter, almost as great as between Meredith and Essery. (Applause.) Referring to Meredith and Marter it is the case of the prince and the pigmy. I know of plenty of men in other parts of the Province, as well as the city of London, who would have voted to put Mowat out and Meredith in. I don't know that there is a single man in these towns or in the city of London-except Mr. Essery-who would vote to put Mowat out and Marter in. The case is different. You are no longer dealing with Mr. Meredith. If the blue ribbon of politics is going it will no longer go to a London man, but it will go to Muskoka. After Movat goes out Marter comes in. upon to face and look at and consider before you give your vote. And its a very grave position-grave for the city of London, grave for the Province of Ontario, grave for the entire Dominion of Canada.

(Applause.) Mr. Hardy was applauded when he argued that even in the 22 long years of opposition London had not been discriminated against by the Government in power. The asylum had been enlarged from time to time and all supplies bought in the city. Kingston, Brantford, Stratford and St. Thomas, and even Toronto, had all given the Mowat Government a fair measure of support, whereas

LONDON HAD STOOD ALONE. He asked them to reverse their verdict on the 20th and return the active and energetic citizen of London, Mr. Hobbs, over and above Mr. Essery. (Cheers.)

"Something has been said of the results of the last election." continued Mr. Hardy. "We are pretty evenly divided. That is to say the Government on the one hand and all the other forces on the other—the other forces made up of Conservatives, Patrons, P. P. A. and all other Independents. Not a very harmonious quartet out of which to make a solid Ministry, and Mr. Marter seemed in standing here to claim all but the Liberals. Were they his own they would not be Patrons or P. P. As. or Independents, and the large majority are just as likely to support the Government which is in a straight majority, which they say is equal to all others; and I say much more likely to fall in with the Government than those who by themselves represent 27 or, as they claim, at most 28 members out of the entire House. We have in this country a responsible Government. It is perhaps unfortunate that the majority of the Government is not larger; the absolute majority I am speaking of. I am not speaking of what the Patrons are going to do. They the same period 86 per cent, and that of | themselves have proclaimed it upon every platform from which they have spoken that Conservatism simon pure, has increased 76 | it is not their mission to turn out the Government. They proc aim it in their paper, they proclaim it from their grand master, Mr. Marter because his statesmanship is by the leader who has been elected; they largely mixed with butter and eggs. proclaim it by each and every individual one of the 16 or 17 Patrons who have been general store. He has been all his life deal- | elected, and therefore I think we have a right to take them at their word; therefore I think we have a right to claim that they are not there to turn the Mowat Government out. That is not their object and mission. There is very little danger of the Mowat Government not being able to carry out the Government." (Cheers.)

RESPONSIBLE GOVERNMENT. Mr. Hardy went on elequently to swinging there vote to defeat the Government there would no longer be responsible government, but the minority ruling. Then they could look for scenes such as were enacted in France, where the governments changed almost every morning before breakfast. He said that it had been urged by Conservatives that Mr. Meredith had been too fair and gentlemenly, and Mr. Marter was to be something different and was to do a great work of executiongoing to pound the Government to a jelly. There was to be no fairness, no gentlemanly treatment. Billingsgate was to take why they wanted Mr. Essery. (Laughter.) withdraw from the asylums 78 per cent, The Empire heralded Mr. Marter as a man -to pound the life out of them. (Laughter.) ANSWER TO SHEPPARD'S PRAYER.

"Mr. Sheppard, who is speaking in this city tonight, is the editor of a Saturday paper for young ladies or young gentlemen -to show how high they shall wear their cellars, etc. A great admirer of Mr. Meredith was Mr. Sheppard. Well, that is all right, but even, notwithstanding that, you will remember a year or so ago how he burst upon the country with his cry and his prayer, 'Oh, for a man!' (Somebody echoed 'Oh, for a woman!') 'Oh, for a man; Lord Almighty, he said, 'send us a man l' Well, his prayer seems to have been answered-(laughter)-answered very much as you would expect such a profane prayer to be answered, and he sent him Marter! (Laughter.) Mr. Sheppard will no longer sit in his studio at night or wander over green fields uttering 'Send us a man !' He has got the man. What does he think of him? How much better is he than Meredith? How much more is he going to accomplish than has Mr. Meredith? What has he ever done? What is his record? Before a man should be leader he should show that he has done something to qualify him for the leadership. I have failed to find it. I don't see it after reading what he said here the other night. Not much pounding to pieces or pounding the life out of us the other night. It sounded very much like the old poundage, the old system. One gentleman said there was nothing in it that was very new.

THE SAME OLD STORY that he has been telling along the concession lines of Muskeka (for he boasts that he lived in Muskoka for the past sixteen years). London, Monday, Nov. 19.

A LAST WORD.

We think the duty of all good citizens of London in the present issue is plain, and that parents, Conservative or Liberal, cannot afford to send to Parliament a representative of the type of Mr. Essery. Is he to be a model for the growing boys of London? Are his persistent self-seeking and abuse to be rewarded by such honor? Party is a mere means to an end with him, and that end promotion of self. His defeat is already assured, but it is as much in the interests of Conservatives as Liberals that it should be effectual and complete. A large majority will squelch the man who has the Conservative party by the throat, and will purify local politics for years to come. London cannot afford to send such a representative to Toronto, and will not.

A desperate effort is being made by machine politicians to induce moderate Conservatives to vote against their convictions in his favor, but self-respect and a true party policy, dictate rather that our Conservative friends should join in bringing about his overwhelming defeat. If he is beaten by a large majority it will at once be seen that respectable Conservatives have joined in doing it, and the party effect and the victory would be lessened, not increased. It is good politics for all decent citizens to join hands to this end.

-Let everyone remember that the polls open at 9 a.m. tomorrow. Get there as soon after as you can.

-Washington Irving says: "A tart temper never mellows with age, and sharp tongue is the only edge tool that grows keener with constant use." Have we not experienced this in London?

LUNDON FIRST,

Noting the antipathy displayed against the London Asylum for the Insane and for its management by the Opposition pilgrims from Toronto, and the indignation that London merchants should sell goods for the use of the inmates, a patriotic Londoner must be forced to the conclusion that these critics are chiefly annoyed because they cannot have the asylum moved to Mr. Marter's home in Toronto. Mr. Hobbs will "London Hirst." More business for London, more employment for her suggested on Saturday night, let us give the Government a chance, let us give Mr Hobbs a chance, let us give London a

It now has support assured it to enable it to carry on the Government without the the "doubtfuls," whereas Mr. Marter, whose candidate Mr. Essery says he is, has only 25 of the 94 members in the Legislature at his back.

MR. HOBBS A SUCCESSFUL ENGLISHMAN.

An appeal is being made to the electors to vote against Mr. Hobbs tomorrow on the ground that he is a native-born English-

This is an attack which we feel sure every Englishman and son of an Englishman will resent at the polls.

It is true that Mr. Hobbs was born in the beautiful county of Devon, in England, and received his early education there. Thousands of good Canadians, and hundreds of residents of this city, were born in that historic country, and this is probably the first occasion that it has been attempted to discriminate against a successful citizen of Canada merely because he was born on the soil of old England.

Away with such narrow provincialism! What every citizen of London, without regard to past political predilections, must acknowledge is that Mr. Hobbs is an Englishman of whom his fellow countrymen and fellow citizens of every class may feel proud. He arrived in London a poor English immigrant, He took the first job offering-on the Grand Trunk Railway-and he has never since ceased to work for the advancement of his adopted city. Is he to be defeated because he has been moderately successful as a business man, is constantly working to bring new industries to the city, and will be in a position to further aid in the advancement of the city as a supporter of the Government in power at Toronto?

We do not believe it. No intelligent citizen of London believes it. Mr. Hobbs will be elected by a large majority. Let every vote be polled.

ONTARIO'S SCHOOLS BEAT THE WORLD.

At the Chicago Columbian Exposition last year in competition with the world, Ontario was awarded first place for the best school system from the kindergarten to the university-in the words of the award, the ideal system.

Ontario was awarded first place for the best system of secondary education, of which the London Collegiate Institute is one of the highest types. Ontario was awarded first place for the best system of trained teachers. Ontario was awarded first place for the best text-books and the best system of preparing text-books.

Onterio beat the world. Italy, France. Great Britain and many States of the Union were arrayed against her. Canada was not represented on the jury.

Hon. Geo. W. Ross, Minister of Education for this Province, was asked to become one of the jurors, but declined, because Ontario was a competitor.

Well might the head of the school system checkmate this centralizing tendency. His in this Province exclaim in his recent ad-

> -Mr. Essery in his last mayoralty campaign said he intended, if elected, to get a lot of things for London right off-including a new drill shed and new harbor works at Port Stanley. He has not done so.

CONSERVATIVES AND MR. ESSERY.

The newspaper advocate of Mr. Essery has become desperate. It says it will not endeavor to palliate the many defects of its candidate, but it calls upon its readers to support him as a reliable partisan. Now, what self-respecting Conservative can respond to this appeal after the manner in which Mr. Essery has denounced that party and its leaders in recent years, applying epithets to them even stronger than he has

Within a very short time of the making of this appeal Mr. Essery denounced Mr. W. R. Meredith as a traitor, and he attacked Sir John Carling personally in these insulting terms:

"Mr. Carling is a bloated corruptionist who would load a steamer with beer and a band, and carry gentry around free and

And at Forest, Lambton county, less than a year ago he emphasized his contempt for the Conservatives of London in these words, which he has never withdrawn:

"I am still a member of the Liberal-Conservative party. They would like to get rid of me, but they cannot do so; I have got them where I want them, and they must put up with what I say, whether they like it or not."

What self-respecting Conservative can trust a man so utterly unstable as Mr. Essery has proved himself to be? Better, once and for all, to inform the little wouldbe autocrat by their votes that they have had enough of his domination and that they prefer to send a supporter of the Government to the Legislature whom they know where to find, than to vote for a professional supporter of the Opposition who may play them traitor in a month's time if his every whim and over-weening ambition are not gratified. -Saturday night's great mass meeting in the Grand Opera House was a fitting windup to a campaign, in which Mr. Hobbs has had the best of it from the start. It is made spparent that tomorrow this independent city of London means to emerge from the cold shades of Opposition.

MR. HOBBS SHOULD BE ELECTED. Because he is a supporter of a good Government, recently returned to power for another four years.

Because, ever since he arrived in London, a poor English immigrant lad, he has devoted his time and talents to the upbuilding of the city.

Because he has never proved recreant to any trust that his fellow citizens have re-

Because he has pledged himself to work constantly for the welfare of the people of London, and to aid in promoting all legislation that is for the benefit of the toiling

Because as a supporter of the Government he will be better able to work for our interests as a city than would a member it ting in Opposition.

Because he is a successful business man, leader in promoting new industries in London, and therefore likely to be able to serve the city well as her representative.

MR. ESSERY SHOULD BE DE-FEATED.

Because he cannot control his temper. Because a man who cannot manage him self is not fitted to assist in managing

Because he cannot be trusted. -You can do nothing better for yourself, your ward, your city, your province, your country, than to go straight to the polls tomorrow and vote for Mr. Hobbs.

NOT A WORD IN DEFENSE.

Days have elapsed since first a statement of Mr. Essery's junketing trips at civic expense were published, but he has remained silent regarding the subject. He talks plenty about other matters of minor importance, but he opens not his mouth in regard to his junketings.

Mr. Essery solemnly pledged himself that there would be no junketings at the expense of the city when he took office as mayor, but last year he and his associates spent $1,106 67 for civic junketings.

As will be seen, hundreds of dollars were spent on one trip. Why are the details not given? What was the money spent on?

Why has Mr. Essery not a word to say in reference to his broken pledges in this or any other regard? Is it reasonable to suppose that if he were elected M. P. P. for London, he would have any more regard for his pledges now made? Let us once more give the extraordinary list of expenditures, at public expense, for mayor and council junketings last year, as found in the city auditor's report:

TALKING THROUGH HIS HAT.

(Winnipeg Free Press.) Mr. Marter announces as a plank of his platform the abolition of separate schools in Ontario "if it can be done by constitutional means." He, of course, knows very well that it cannot be done by constitutional or any legal means in Ontario. We doubt very much his talking so glibly about it, if he were not perfectly well aware that he is merely uttering empty boasts. To abolish separate schools in Ontario, an act of the British Parliament amending the British North America Act would be necessary, and the British Parliament is not likely to rush to the disturbance of the federal partnership in obedience to the stump speeches of an beg to inform you and your numerous readirresponsible politician. An amendment ers that I hold no such position. I am simply to the B. N. A. Act can only come in re- farmers' assistant. I have very little to do sponse to an address from the Canadian with the management. I receive my orders House of Commons, or Canadian Parlia- from the managers and execute the same.

PROTESTANTISM NOT IN DANGER. During the local campaign which is about to close, we have had men, who rarely go near a church, on the platform and in the canvas, appealing to the citizens of London to vote against the Government recently returned to power, on the ground that Sir Oliver Mowat and his followers cannot be trusted to preserve the rights of Protestants in this fair Province!

To the thousands of know these strife fomentors, and who have noted their lives and records, this expedient is a subject of laughter. It does seem strange that men who are neither known for their piety nor for their good deeds should be able, even in the slightest degree, to influence their fellow citizens to decide this or any other election in an intelligent community like London on a narrow platform of sectarian bigotry. We are satisfied, however, that on the present occasion the appeal to bigotry will be in vain.

Yesterday, this journal had a representative in every Protestant congregation of any size in the community. If the mischiefmaking, se f-seeking politicians have been telling the truth, then every clergyman was recreant to his duty, for not one word was heard of the outery raised by the or ponents of Mr. Hobbs in this contest. In stead of that, more than one sermon wa preached emphasizing the view that mere professions were not enough to secure man's safety, either in this world or in the next, and that the man who worked was infinitely preferable to the man who merely

Think you, if there were any danger t Protestantism by sending a stalwar Protestant of Mr. Hobbs' stamp to support man like Sir Oliver Mowat, that the preachers of London would not have varned their flocks of the fact? The imputation that they do not do their duty, tha they are recreant to their trust, is gratuitous insult which every churchgoing citizen should resent at the polls.

Instead of being opposed to the Government recently returned to power for another four years, we are satisfied that the large majority of the clergy of London and their congregations trust Sir Oliver and his Administration to give equal rights to all, as they have done in the past. This view is not confined to Londoners. It is shared in not only by religious leaders of Liberal proclivities, but by so strong Conservatives as Rev. John Potts, D.D., secretary of edudemned to do so by the courts of the land. | and Principal Grant, of Kingston, who, in June last, recorded his conviction in the now celebrated phrase, "Ontario cannot afford to dismiss Sir Oliver Mowat."

> The fact is that sectarian opposition to Mr. Hobbs in this campaign comes from amateur religionists and professional agitators alone, and they are few in number. We do not lose sight of the danger of their appeals to the passions rather than to the good sense of men. All must recognize that they may succeed in bamboozling some people with their half truths and whole lies, but surely no reflecting man will be -A Hindu creditor adopts a curious expedient to compel a debtor to pay him his debts. He simply sends a notice to hi debtor that unless the "little bill" be settled by tomorrow at noon, he will come over and sit "Dharma" at the debtor's door. This involves an oath on the part of the creditor that, having once sat down, he will never rise again until the debt is paid. If he die there the debtor is responsible. How difficult it would be for one man to get near his door if the Foresters of London were to adopt the Hindu method of collecting just debts!

To the Editor of the ADVERTISER: An obscure sheet in Ottawa publishes an advertisement of Mr. Essery, attempting to make Englishmen believe that it is their duty to support him in tomorrow's election. Now, Mr. Thos. S. Hobbs is a respected member of the Sons of England order, and fully as much entitled to the support of members of the order as anyone else. Our order is a non-political one, and no newspaper has a right to advocate the defeat of any of its members. No newspaper has a right to call itself cur official organ, for we have none such. Indeed, I think the Englishmen of London and the sons of Englishmen have too much sense to take stock in the depreciation of Mr. Hobbs by papers in Ottawa or any other city which is a rival of London. They know what Mr. Hobbs has done to advance the interests of the city, to supply the workers with employment, and to help his brethren and every other class in the community in time of need. With that knowledge, the Englishmen of London can be safely left to act in the independent course they always pursue without the dictation of any outside intermeddlers. Yours truly, RICHARD WBAY, Phillis took up the corner of the sheet, unlocked the door—in which the key was left—and opened it half an inch for Jelly to peep in. There, in the middle of the gray room stood a closed coffin, supported on trestles. In the shock of surprise Jelly fell

Adair could have told; and yet, even here, back against the wall, and began to tremble.

The idea that came over her—as she said to some one afterwards—was, that Mrs. Rane had been put in the coffin alive. What with the sight of the previous night (and with the sight of the previous night (and hours and the days passed on, and he came that sight might have been), and what with this, she felt in a sort of hopeless horror and bewilderment. Recovering a little, she rupted, and the bridegroom borne off from, pushed past the sheet into the room, but as may be said, the very church-door, was with creeping, timid steps.

"Jelly, I wouldn't go in! The master charged me not to do so." But Jelly heard not. Or, if she heard, did not heed. It was a common deal shell; nailed down. Jelly touched it with her finger.

"When was she put in here, Phillis?" "Sometime during the night."
"And fastened down at once?"

"To be sure. I found it like this when I came this morning."
"-But-why need there have been so much haste?"

"Because it was safest so. Safest for us that are living, as my master said. The leaden one will be here today."

Well-of course it was safer. Jelly could but acknowledge it and recovered somewhat. She wished she had not seen-that -in the night. It was that sight, so unaccountable, that was now troubling her with her usual want of ceremony, Jelly opened the bedroom door and looked in. It had not been put straight; Phillis said her master would not let her to do anything to it until the two rooms should have been disinfected. Medicine bottles stood about; the bed-clothes lay over the foot of the bed. just as Hepburn's men must have placed them when they removed the dead. On the dressing-table lay a bow of blue ribbon that poor Bessy had worn in her gown the last day she had one on, a waistband with his buckle, and other trifles. Jelly began to teel oppressed, as if her breath was growing short, and came away hastily. Phillis stood on the landing beyond the sheet.

"It seems like a dream, Phillis." "I wish we could awake and find it one," answered Phillis, practically, as she turned the key in the lock; and they went down-

Not a minute too soon. Before they had well reached the kitchen, Dr. Rane's latchkey was heard.

"There's the master," cried Phillis under her breath, as he turned into his consultingroom. "It's a good thing he didn't find us

"I want to say a word to him, Phillis; I think I'll go in," and Jelly, taking a sudden resolution to acquaint Dr. Rane with what she had seen. The truth was, her mind felt so unhinged, knowing not what to believe or disbelieve, that she thought she must speak, or die.

"Need you bother him now?—what's it about?" asked Phillis. "I'd let him get his breakfast first."

But Jelly went on to the consulting-room; and found herself very nearly knocked down by the doctor-who was turning quickly out of it. She asked if she could speak to him; he said Yes, if she made haste; but he went out.

"And your breakfast, sir?" called out Phillis in compassionate tones. "I'll take some presently," was the answer. "What is it you want, Jelly?"

Jelly carefully closed the door before speaking. She then entered on her tale, At first the doctor supposed, by all this caution, that she was about to consult him on some private ailment of her own; St. Anthony's fire in the face, for instance, or St. Vitus's dance in the legs; and thought she might have chosen a more fitting moment. But he soon found it was nothing of he sort. With her hands pressing heavily the back of the patients' chair, Jelly told her tale. The doctor stood facing her, his arms folded, his back to the drawn blind. At first he did not appear to understand

"Saw my wife upon the landing in her nightgown?" he exclaimed — and Jelly thought he looked startled. "Surely she was not so imprudent as to get out of bed and go there! "But, sir, it is said that she was then

"Dead when? She did not die until nine o'clock. She could not have known what she was doing," continued Dr. Rane, pass-ing his hand over his forehead. "Pernaps she may then have caught a chill. Perhaps

"You are misunderstanding me, sir," interrupted Jelly. "It was in the night I saw this; some hours after Mrs. Rane's death." Dr. Rane looked bewildered. He gazed narrowly at Jelly, as if wondering what it was she would infer.

"Yes, sir. Or, I'd rather say this morning; for it was one o'clock. I saw her standing there as plainly as I see you at this

"Why, Jelly, you must have been dream-"I was as wide awake, sir, as I am now.

I had just got home from Ketler's. I can't think what it was I did see," added Jelly. dropping her voice. "You saw nothing." was the decisive answer-and in the doctor's tone there was some slight touch of anger. "Fancy plays tricks with the best of us; it must have played you one last night." "I have been thinking whether it was possible that—that—she was not really dead, sir," persisted Jelly, "Whether she could have got up, and-"Be silent, Jelly. I canot listen to this folly," came the stern interruption. "You have no right to let your imagination run away with you, and then talk of it as reality. I desire that you will never speak another word upon the subject to me; or to any Jelly's green eyes seem to have berrowed the doctor's bewildered look. She gazed into his face. This was a most curious business; she could not see as yet the faintest gleam of a solution to it.

"It was surely her I saw on the landing, sir, dead or alive. I could swear to it. Such things have been heard of before now as swoons being mistaken for death. When poor Mrs. Rane was left alone after her death-that is, her supposed death-if she revived; and got up: and came out upon the less with horror. "Fastened down," ran her thoughts, "at tweve o'clock—dead and cold—and I saw her on the landing at one! Oh, my goodness, what does it mean?"

CHAPTER XV.

At the front-parlor window at Eastsea, sat Ellen Adair—looking for one who did not come. Whatever troubles, trials, mysteries might be passing elsewhere, Eastsea was going through its usual monotosomething like mystery seemed to be loom-

To have one's marriage suddenly internot more agreeable to Ellen Adair than it would be to any other young lady. She watched him away in the fly, whilst his kisses were yet warm upon her lips. All that remained, was to make the best of the situation. She took off her bonnet and dress, and locked up the ring and license he had begged her to take care of. Until the morrow she supposed; only until the morrow. Mrs. Cumberland sent out a message to her own fly-man to the effect that, finding herself unable to get up, she could not take her drive, but he was to bring the fly at the same hour on the morrow. Mrs. Cumberland also wrote a line to the clergyman.

The morrow came: and went. Ellen scarcely stirred from the window, which commanded a view of the road from the station; but she did not see Captain Bohun. "Sir Nash's son must be worse, and he cannot leave," she said to herself, striving to account for the delay, whilst at the same time a vague under-current of uneasiness lay within her, which she did her best not to recognize or listen to. "There will be a and she turned sick and white. Mrs. Cumberland-who was better and had risen early, expecting Captain Bohun, and that the marriage would certainly take place that day-took the absence of letters with philosophy.

"He might as well have written a line, of course, Ellen; but it only shows that he is coming in by the first train. That will be due in twenty minutes.

About a year ago I took a very severe cough, had a virulent sore on my lips, was bad with dyspepsia, constipation and general debility. I tried wanted to catch Mr. Seeley before the latter | almost every conceivable remedy, outwardly and inwardly, to cure the sore but all to no purpose. I had often thought of try. clergyman and was prominent in the circles ing Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DIScovery, so I got a bottle and when I had used about one half the sore showed evident signs of healing. By the time that bottle was done it had about disappeared and my general health was improving fast. I was always of a very bilious habit and had used quinine and lemon juice with very little affect. But since using three bottles of the VEGETABLE DISCOVERY the biliousness is entirely gone and my general health is excellent. I am 60 years old. Parties using it should continue it for some time after they think they are cured. It is by far the best health restorer I know." 3

Men Who Are Disqualified From Voting in the Election Next Tuesday.

A Heavy Penalty Will be Imposed if Anyone Attempts to Break the Law.

By the fourth section of the Ontario Election Act officers of the customs of the Dominion of Canada, and officers employed in the collection of duties of excise are declared to be disqualified and incompetent to vote at any election for the Legislative Assembly. If any such person shall vote he shall thereby forfeit the sum of $2,000, and his vote shall be null and void.

This penalty shall be recoverable with full costs of suit by any person who shall sue for the same in the High Court of Justice, and if requested by the prosecutor the judge shall direct that in default of the amount being paid within one month, the person convicted shall be imprisoned for a period not exceeding one year, with or without hard labor.

At the Hobbs-Meredith election an officer of customs in this city swore in his vote and incurred the above penalty, but through the mistaken leniency of the Liberal party in this city he has not yet been prosecuted.

The ADVERTISER has obtained satisfactory assurance that in the coming election no one shall violate the law with impunity, and particularly that any disqualified person who persists in voting will be prosecuted immediately.

WITH A CORD.

Suicide of Rev. Albert Klien, of Port

PORT HURON, Mich., Nov. 18.-Rev. lbert Klien, for four years past pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church, committed suicide at his home in this city at an early hour yesterday morning. The deceased has been mentally affected for several months, and had spent some time at the Oak Grove Sanitarium at Flint, returning, from there at his own urgent request last Tuesday. Since his return he was quite rational until yesterday, when he seemed very nervous and fidgety, but retired as usual last evening to hisown room.

Yesterday morning when his wife went to call him she was horrified to find his liteless body suspended from the door by some curtain cords. He had apparently gotten up about 5 o'clock in the morning and secured the cords from the portieres in the sittingroom. With them he made a noose and fastened one end over the door. When found he had his neck in the noose, his feet barely touching the floor, a chair standing near by. Upon examination life was found to have been extinct about three hours.

EARTHQUAKE. CARSON, Nev., Nov. 18 .- Three distinct shocks of earthquake were felt in this section Thursday night.

SAND SIMOON. GUTHRIE, Ok., Nov. 18.—The simoon of sand which has been raging in Oklahoma Territory for four days has worn itself out. The surface of the country in places is swept as clean as a granary. In other places the sand is drifted as snowdrifts when whirled by the wind. Many stacks of goods here and elsewhere are covered with sand. Several houses have been wrecked and their roofs and timbers scattered far and wide.

HEAVY RAIN STORM. MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 18 .- There was a two-inch rainfall through the Memphis district Friday night, the first in ten weeks. It was sufficient to put out the forest and field fires that have been doing so much damage lately.

The President's Programme. NEW YORK, Nov. 18 .- A special from Washington to the Sun says: There is good reason to believe that the President in his forthcoming message to Congress will take a firm stand in favor of the single gold standard, He will not take a step in the direction of free silver coinage, but will indorse the single gold standard as forcibly as is possible for him to do.

Steamers Overdue. New York, Nov. 17.—The "New York," from Southampton, which in ordinary weather is signted off Fire Island on Friday afternoon, had not been sighted up to 11 o'clock this morning. She is probably delayed by the heavy weather which is reported by all incoming trans. Atlantic steamers. The Catania from Hamburg, a sixteen-day boat, is about five days overdue, and the Peruvian, from Glasgow, three days. The Panama, from Bordeaux, was due on Thursday.

The Dead Pugilist. SYRACUSE, N. Y., Nov. 17. - Con Riordan, whom Bob Fitzsimmons knocked out in this city Friday night, and who died four bours after the blow was given, was buried in this city today. Fitzsimmons was placed under arrest as soon as the seriousness of Riordan's injuries were made known, and was released on $10,000 bail to await the action of the grand jury, which will convene in January. The autopsy developed the fact that while Riordan was under the effects of alcoholic stimulants during the progress of the bout, death resulted from the blow delivered by Fitzsimmons.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children." Dr. G. C. OSGOOD, Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

DR. J. F. KINCHELGE, Conway, Ark.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me." H. A. ARCHER, M. D.,

Castoria.

111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

Sir John Thompson is now in Paris, placing his daughter in a French school and taking the risk that the Hamilton Spectator will hereafter describe the young lady as "French Miss Thompson."

The St. Marys Argus is authority for the statement that Mr. Pridham, Conservative member for South Perth, will not be a candidate at the next Dominion election. A Conservative convention for East Lambton will be held in Watford on Wednesday, Nov. 28, at 1:30 p.m.

IN LABOR'S FIELD.

Over 200 Families of Blacklisted Men

Starving. DENVER, Col., Nov. 18 .- After a careful canvass a committee has reported that 215 families of American Railway Union men are on the verge of starvation, and 400 unmarried men destitute in consequence of the blacklist enforced by the railways against the men who struck last summer. BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 18. - Late yesterday afternoon it was announced that all fears of a big strike in the Reynoldsville coal mining district was at an end. The men had decided today to go to work at the reduced rate of 25 cents per ton.

MARQUETTE, Mich., Nov. 18.—Eighty workmen employed on the Duluth, South Shore and Atlantic Railway shops here were on Saturday unexpectedly laid off until Feb. 1 by orders from Montreal.

They pleaded hard for liberty, and it was given them on condition that they would get out of town

-The following press dispatch from New York, dated Saturday, has been received: "Rev. Timothy O'Connell, formerly an Anglican clergyman in London, Ont., Ireland and elsewhere, is held in $500 bail for trial tomorrow on a charge of criminally assaulting a 10-year-old girl. O'Connell is 43 years old and a fluent speaker. He is smoothly shaven and his hair is slightly gray. He says he was educated in Trinity College, Dublin. He says he is a Royal Arch Mason. He severed his connection with the Episcopal Church some time ago and joined the Baptists."

-The following appears in the De Land, Florida, Weekly News: "The numerous friends of Rev. H. C. Speller will regret to learn that he has resigned as pastor of the First Baptist Church in De Land, the resignation to take effect Jan. 31, 1895. Mr. Speller is one of the most popular men who have ever graced the pulpit of any De Land church-popular with all classes, in all denominations as well as his own, and his many warm friends will regret to lose him. He is a fluent speaker, his words are well chosen and forcibly delivered, and he has made numerous converts during his two years' work as pastor of the De Land church. The best wishes of all will follow him to his new field of labor, wherever it may please his Master to send him." The Burglar Tonight.

A play somewhat different from the usual order of dramatic offering will be seen at the Grand tonight. Probably no other drama of the kind has the potency in drawing from all classes and conditions of people that is experienced by "The Burglar." Young and old, rich, and those less favored with the world's goods, are equally absorbed with the story. In a home of wealth and refinement are all the scenes enacted, even where the burglary is attempted, though frustrated by the artless endeavors of a bright child of 6 years. About 8 o'clock yesterday morning, Mr. Fred Abel, who lives on the Pipe Line road, South London, was coming to the city. His brother had gone a little before, and Mr. Abel, to overtake him, cut across the Grand Trunk track at the Wharncliffe highway. When he was a wooden bridge, Mr. Able was surprised by discovering the body of a man, apparently dead, and lying just outside the

BRONCHIAL AFFLICTIONS.

She Wishes to testify to the merit of that grat preparation known as Bark-well's Vegetable Healing Bronchial Balsam. "I was told by my neighbor what a grand balsam it was. My little girl was very ill with bronchitis and a very few doses restored her, and I believe SAVED HER LIFE. I feel itmy duty to let others know that they also can be cured of this terrible affliction." Bark-well's Balsam is the best, "surest and cheapest balsam for coughs, colds, asthma, bronchitis and all diseases of throat and chest. You can get it at rails. The police were notified and the patrol wagon was sent to the scene. The man was taken to the hospital, where an examination showed that he was alive, but unconscious. He was suffering from a badly cut and bruised head and face, a few cuts about the body and a long wound on the right knee. His clothes were also torn considerably. The injuries were attended to, and at 12 o'clock last night the stranger had recovered consciousness sufficiently to state that his name was H. Allen, but did not know where he hailed from. It is supposed that he was stealing a ride in a freight train, and in attempting to alight, missed his footing and was thrown, and struck his head on the end of a tie. Allen is fairly well dressed, 5 feet 8 inches in height, fair complexion, mustache, and of heavy build.

Different in November. In June the Opposition candidate was the best man in the Opposition ranks. He was believed to be the coming Premier. It was hoped he would be the distributor of offices. Mr. Meredith was a man who had many personal friends among the Liberals and they always voted for him. But he was successful by only a small majority. A change of two votes in each sub-division IV would have defeated him.

It is different in November. Sir Oliver Mowat worsted Mr. Meredith at the polls. Mr. Meredith knew that the Premiership could not be his for at least four years to come, and he resolved to leave Sir Oliver in undisputed possession. He retired, and became a judge. The Opposition candidate Hobbs, if every voter pledged to support Mr. Hobbs goes to the polls. Mr. Essery has no personal friends among the Liberals. He has denounced the Conservative party within the last few months, yet he asks for their votes. He has assailed Mr. Meredith and Mr. Carling, and he has attacked all who disagreed with him, either municipally or otherwise. He has no patronage under his control. If returned, he would sit in the cold shades of Opposition, and be of no use in advancing the interests of London. Yes, there has been a big change since une, and the electors of London will to morrow emphasize that fact by their votes. The Huron Students' Supper.

In fulfillment of a time-honored custom, on Wednesday evening the freshmen of Huron College invited their seniors to supper, and among the guests were the Venerable Archdeacon Phair, of Winnipeg; Prof. Burgess, Rev. Prof. Sherwood and Rev. W. L. Armitage, of the Memorial Church. After doing ample justice to the good things the following teast list was proposed minster, spoke very appropriately from the words: "The harvest truly is plenteous, but the laborers are few." Music was the Queen, cornet solo; "The Maple Leaf," by Mr. Westgate; "Canada," responded to by Mr. Westgate; "Canada," responded to Venerable Ardeacon Phair; "The Principal and Staff," ably responded to by Prof. Burgess, M.A.; song, Mr. Tancock; "The Ladies," Mr. Farr; recitation, Mr. Dobson; song, Mr. McMillen; "The Professions," B. Smith: "Trials of a Student at Huron," Rev. W. L. Armitage; "The Army and C. Purton; song, Mr. Abey; "Home Missions," Mr. Crawford; "The Church," elequently replied to by Rev. Prof. Sherwood; song, Mr. Curry; speech, Mr. Sutton, and "Indian Missions," Mr. Mills. The toast to "The Freshmen"—the hosts of the evening-was then proposed by Prof. Burgess, and spoken to by Mr. Applevard, the senior student. This brought to a close the most successful college supper held in many a year.

Missionary Lectures. The Y. P. S. C. E. of First Presbyterian Church held a special missionary meeting last evening. Mr. G. R. Faskin, who is taking his theological course in Knox College, and who delivered a powerful sermon at the evening service, gave a very earnest description of his summer's missionary work at Kicking Horse Pass. His field of labor was from one end to the other of the pass. It was very hard to do any work among the railroaders, as they are a very independent lot. He, however, managed to make friends among them as he did also with the Chinamen and lumbermen. He ridiculed the idea that a missionary's life was a hard one in the Northwest, and said that he enjoyed it. A great number of men from this district are in that neighborhood, and without becoming bad grow very forgetful.

Mrs. Johnston, of Brownstown. Jamaica. also addressed the meeting. She is a clever speaker and entertained the audience with a brief description of the Jamaica Evangelical and Medical Mission, Mrs. Johnston and her busband started the mission nineteen years ago, and now it is one of the most flourishing missions in the world. They own thousands of dollars' worth of property, and have received no subscriptions from white people except what they have earned themselves. while their congregations of black people are sending contributions to Africa to give the Gospel to their brother. Dr. and Mrs. Johnston have organized stations all over the land and entirely revolutionized one side of it. The doctor will be in London next January, when he will probably lecture. Mrs. Johnston also addressed the Sabbath school in the afternoon.
