BANISH THE BAR POLICY WAS ENTHUSIASTICALLY INDORSERD

Members of Big Hamilton Methodist Conference, in Session at Woodstock, Heartily Support Liberal Leader's Strong Platform—Rev. J. W. Colley, of Port Elgin, Chosen President.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Woodstock, May 31.—The "Banish the Bar" policy of Mr. Newton W. Rowell was enthusiastically indorsed at Thursday afternoon's session of the Big Hamilton Methodist Conference in the Central Auditorium here. Chown, who was in the chair, received hearty and prolonged applause from the large crowd of pastors and laymen as he outlined the question. He said he was not dragging this question into politics, but was already there "by the authority of every court of the Methodist Church, and by the sovereign conviction of the people for a generation past." He referred to the grief of himself and many others when a few years ago they had been disappointed at a convention of one of the two parties in seeing this moon vanish for which they had been working for so many years.

"It," said Dr. Chown, "having dragged the politicians of this province into the adoption of our policy—and in using that word dragged I do not refer to the leaders of the Opposition, because I believe he is acting according to a supreme conviction—hear, hear!—if having dragged them into adopting our policy—namely, the abolition of the bar—if we fail to stand by the men who risk their political lives to carry out our best, we shall receive the contempt, and deserve the contempt—(hear, hear)—of the party in the Legislature that at present opposes that policy, and if we fail in this crisis the friends of our cause, we shall deserve their everlasting suspicion, contempt, and distrust. (Hear, hear, and applause.) Under the circumstances I can see nothing for it, having invited our public men to deal with one of the most difficult public questions in a certain way, when they have accepted our challenge, but to give them our most support in carrying this task to a successful issue." (Applause.)

Need More Ministers.
Dr. Chown pleaded earnestly for the cultivation of such an atmosphere in the home of the Methodist people as would lead boys into the ministry. The ministry today, he

WHEN NOSTRILS ARE PLUGGED YOUR CATARRH IS BAD

BY ACTING TODAY YOU CAN QUICKLY CURE CATARRH, AND AVOID BRONCHITIS, PERHAPS CONSUMPTION.

Most Agreeable and Surest Cure is Catarrhazone, Which Cures Every Curable Case.

Catarrhazone proves especially good in those chronic cases where mucous drops down the throat, sickness of the stomach, and pollutes the breath. When the nostrils are stuffed, only a few breaths through the inhaler are needed to clear the passages, and where there is coughing and sore bronchial tubes the soothing, healing properties of Catarrhazone act almost as magic.

Once you stop taking medicine into the stomach and get the healing oils and pure balsams of Catarrhazone at work you can be sure of quick and lasting cure for nose colds, catarrh, weak lungs, bronchitis, and speaker's sore throat.

13 YEARS OF CATARRH CURED.
"As Catarrhazone has cured me of a Catarrhal Cough and Asthma that lasted thirteen years, I feel I can honestly recommend it. I really used all kinds of medicine, but Catarrhazone was the only one that did any real good. I am entirely cured—have no cough, no bad breathing spells, no sign of a cold or catarrh about me. But I will always occasionally use 'Catarrhazone,' I prize it so highly. Mrs. E. L. Osmond, Johnson P. O., Ont."

The complete $1.00 Outfit of Catarrhazone is sufficient for 2 months' treatment, and is guaranteed. Smaller size, 50c, at all dealers, or The Catarrhazone Company, Buffalo, N. Y., and Kingston, Ont.

MANY ARE ACQUIRING THE HABIT

Hunt Daily for New Words in London Advertiser Dictionary.

NO LET-UP IN DEMAND

HOW MANY TIMES HAVE YOU SAID, "I CAN'T JUST FIND THE WORD I WANT?" It does not do any good to look into the air, or to gesticulate impatiently. You will not find words floating by the air but you will find them in The London Advertiser Dictionary.

Don't go groping about for words—keep them at your elbow. Get the DICTIONARY HABIT. It grows on you. Everybody is falling victim to its beneficial fascination. Don't be an exception to the rule. Get into the game of word hunting with one of the Webster New Illustrated Dictionaries to help you.

The London Advertiser will present you with a dictionary in exchange for six coupons clipped from consecutive issues of the paper at a small expense bonus. Open the book at random and see how many things you did not know stare at you from the pages.

WORD-HUNTING HAS A DOUBLE REWARD

Not only do financial and business success reward those who improve their knowledge of the language; but they are immediately rewarded by the increased enjoyment they get out of life.

One of those who write their thanks upon receiving the dictionary has sent a message of appreciation to the "BEST AND CLEANEST PAPER." He congratulates The Advertiser upon the great educational value of the venture.

Jewell, and Miss Dorothy Shillington again did the honors.

At the Sacred Heart Convent, an unusually pretty ceremony was enacted in connection with the presentation of flowers. Miss Agnes Duffield, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Duffield, gave Princess Patricia a magnificent bouquet of pink roses, making the presentation address in perfect French. Miss Gertrude Manley, daughter of Capt. Manley, presented a bouquet to the Duchess of Devonshire, an equally good German. This little incident was commented upon by their highnesses, and it pleased them greatly.

INGERSOLL LISTERS WERE HEAVILY FINED

Law Is Being Rigidly Enforced and Many Cases Have Been Heard.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ingersoll, May 31.—An hour and a half of Magistrate Paterson's time was taken up yesterday afternoon hearing three cases against Ingersoll listers. They were charged with being under the influence of liquor while on the interdicted list, and the hearing was drawn out, as their counsel made the most of his defence. After listening to the evidence in each case the magistrate imposed a fine of $10 and costs, amounting to $15 in all, for each defendant. The cases were described as having been fairly numerous during the past few months, and it would seem that the law is being rigidly enforced.

The town football league has practically been closed. The championship went to the Nornoxes for the second time in succession after a bitter struggle with the Beaver-Bankers. The Nornoxes have a strong, well-balanced team and their record is one to be proud of. They did not suffer a defeat during the season, and only one goal, scored by a player named which is a showing probably never equalled in the history of town league football here.

Postmaster Gibson, who had been ill for several days, had sufficiently recovered yesterday to be able to attend the session of the Hamilton Conference at Woodstock.

Will Celebrate.
An important part will be taken by the school children of the town in the Dominion Day celebration. They will march to the park and will then assemble and sing the songs under the direction of Mr. Sanders, organist and choir leader of the Methodist Church. The Caledonia Society will have the concert of the band of education to allow the pupils to rehearse the songs at the schools after 4, and they will commence the work with considerable zest. Most of the other features for the holiday have been decided upon and a big time seems certain.

It is believed the town baseball league will open in the course of a few days. Now that the footballists have about concluded their schedule the way is open for the diamond athletes. The diamond is in fairly good shape and a few practices will improve it. Once the teams get going, there should be no difficulty in picking a nine that would give a good argument with some outside team of prominence.

In view of her approaching marriage next week Miss Margaret Hearn was tendered a miscellaneous shower by about 50 of her friends at the home of Mrs. R. H. Hearn. The shower was a most successful one, and the bride-to-be was the recipient of many useful and ornamental articles, coupled with which were sincere well wishes. Before the gathering dispersed refreshments were served.

The evening of a stirring address was given at the missionary society by Mr. N. W. Rowell, K.C., and Professor John Duxbury, of Manchester, rendered his classical reading of the Book of Job, eliciting warm appreciation.

Torpid Liver in the Spring

In the spring both the liver and kidneys are overworked in an effort to remove the various impurities which accumulate in the system during the winter and in overcoming the trying effect of the changing temperature.

Once the liver gets sluggish and torpid, there are all sorts of troubles with the digestive system. Sour stomach, flatulency, wind on the stomach, acute indigestion, irregularity of the bowels and bilious headache are among the symptoms.

The liver must have assistance. The process of restoration will be hastened if the kidneys are also in good shape and strengthened, for on these two organs depends entirely the purification of the blood. Both these filtering organs are acted on directly and promptly by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. For this reason there is no treatment which will more quickly rid the blood of poisonous waste matter than this great prescription of Dr. Chase. Put it to the test this spring and wipe the tired, languid feelings consequent on a poisoned system.

LONDON, FRIDAY, MAY 31.

THE AFTERNOON AFTER.

The writer of a "special to the Mail and Empire" this morning on the subject of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's banquet speech must have woken up yesterday afternoon with a thick head. He says it is a joke that Sir Wilfrid made out Taft to have.

"Only repeated in his 'adjunct' letter what had been said by Canadian jingoes. For it is pointed out that the 'adjunct' letter was written on Jan. 10, whereas the reciprocity agreement was not signed till Jan. 21, and was not made public till Jan. 26. Nor was it till after the Champ Clark out-break of Feb. 14 that the 'adjunct' idea began to take hold firmly in Canada. President Taft is represented by Sir Wilfrid Laurier as performing the feat of echoing something yet to be said."

In answer to this absurd prattle, it is only necessary to quote again, as Sir Wilfrid did, from Mr. Taft's letter. "Concluding with his rather wistful argument for Roosevelt's support that Canada would become in a business sense an adjunct of the United States, he adds: 'I see this is an argument against reciprocity made in Canada.'"

So then, Sir Wilfrid Laurier did not make the mistake of representing Mr. Taft as echoing Canadian "jingoes" yet unsaid. If the "adjunct" argument had not yet, by Jan. 10, been used in Canada, Mr. Taft himself was seeing things ahead. "I see" meant "I see in prophetic vision," "like some bold seer in a trance, with a glassy countenance, etc." as it were. Mr. Taft was either speaking in the prophetic present tense or Canadian jingoes had been saying what he credits them with, or he was telling what was not true. The mistake does not at any rate lie at Sir Wilfrid's door. The Mail's correspondent and his friends who were discussing Laurier's speech with such "merriment" should have taken something to clear their minds.

Certain editorial misrepresentations of Sir Wilfrid's remarks which appear in the same journal are less glaring, but perhaps more deliberate. For example:

"It is a serious confession for Sir Wilfrid now to make that such a letter could kindle the American people into a passion to grab this country."

Anyone who reads Mr. Taft's letter can see that he was using the term "adjunct" preposterously, of course, in a business sense merely, with no political context. Not only Mr. Taft's letter but some of the ex-premier's remarks the Mail and Empire fails properly to understand.

DEATH OF WILBUR WRIGHT.

The death of Wilbur Wright removes an epoch-making inventor. His name will probably rank with Watt, Stevenson, Gutenberg and two or three others, the masters of mechanical discovery.

Like most other inventions, the making of a practicable and safe airship is a work of time, gradual improvement and many minds. But there can be no doubt already that the Wright brothers are to have the main credit as pioneers. Like most of the great inventors, they were not children of wealth, but profited by the advantages provided in a democratic country. Since 1886, when he was 29 years old, Wilbur Wright, with his brother, had pursued his studies and experiments in aeronautics, with unremitting industry, in time that could be spared from his business occupation, often in more time than could profitably be spared, with great personal danger, but with increasing success. His premature death at 45 years of age robs the world of a great genius, who was more than ever in a position to carry forward the perfecting of his work. He and his brother had predicted that before long motorless airships would be evolved by their labors.

The younger brother, Orville Wright, remains to go on with the work. And yet it may very well be that deprived of the constant associate of many years he may find his own powers weakened. Together they have done honor to Dayton, the city of their birth and life. The whole world will regret this loss, especially, perhaps, France, where the aeroplane has been most enthusiastically promoted and utilized. French newspapers generally agree that the supremacy of their country in aviation is due to the lead of the Wrights. Wilbur was the better known in Europe, where he proved himself the best flier in the world, and came safely through all perils.

It seems strange that a man should have surmounted the dangers which beset aerial navigation only to die in his bed at 45. Here was a man simple, unassuming and religious, never courting fame and honors, gliding from the world without sensation, whose works will blossom in his dust. The surviving brother has the world's sympathy in what must be more than a common sorrow.

APPLE BLOSSOMS.

The Halifax Echo makes a suggestion that fruit growers should arrange some sort of celebration that would focus the attention of the country and still further spread the fame of Annapolis Valley's choicest product, the apple. Just now the Valley is a vast spread of pink blossom, incense-breathing and prophetic of riches. Noting that scores make an annual pilgrimage to enjoy this spectacle, the Echo thinks that some organized rites started in honor of apple blossom would make a hit with the public and advertise the industry and the province.

Canadians have always taken an interest in sap-gathering and sugaring off. The operation is romantic, out in the wild woods and recalling olden days. But with the chemical miracle of sugar and syrup, may be compared, the more purely natural wonder of bloom rushing from winter's mouth as he dies and drawing after it an apple out of mystic elaters within the stem. The maple is more uniquely Canadian. But the apple tree is much more important for our needs. Thoreau sang in his wild prose the merits of the wild apple. He is welcome to a monopoly of most of that production, but to the domesticated Canadian apple the world generally pays more and more attention, and it does seem that our own people should cultivate it not only with a sprayer but in praises, from spring bud, to cider.

We admire our beds of Dutch tulips, the English violets, the cosmopolitan rose, but what has been more pleasant the last few days than a drive along the roads of Middlesex through the apple orchards, glowing in the sun and loading the air with fragrance at night? Nova Scotia has its Annapolis Valley, but Ontario is already high among the world's apple countries and may be greatest of all when the Stay-in-Ontario movement has done its work. Once the possibilities of soil and markets are fully realized this province will turn some half-abandoned farms into still larger acreage for the apple. Perhaps the price of the fruit may be brought again within the reach of all. At present it is often a little forbidding, though the May bloom and its smell are happily still free to the public.

INGENUOUS MAID.
[Sketch.]
"Oh, auntie, can I go to the fancy-dress ball as a milkmaid?"
"No, darling, you're too small."
"Well, then, can't I go as a condensed milkmaid?"

THE MAIN QUESTION.
[Mick's National Monthly.]
The other day little Philip wanted a pair of rubber boots. Papa tried to reason him out of it, but the youngster persisted in his demand. Finally papa told him a little story—one he had read in the newspaper. The boy was all attention, and the story proceeded: "A little boy in Baltimore had been given a pair of rubber boots by his father. He waded in the water with them—water ran over the tops of the boots—boy took cold—mother put his feet in hot water—grew—doctor came—little boy died—under-taker—funeral."
The small boy listened attentively to the end of the story, and the father was congratulating himself on the impression he had made, when, with a long breath, Philip asked: "What did they do with the boots?"

PARENTAL TESTIMONY.
[Washington Star.]
"I don't blame young people for being rather self-confident and aggressive," said the conservative citizen. "You think the rising generation is entitled to consider itself superior?"
"Beyond question. You are constantly hearing parents telling what smart things their children say, but you never hear children repeating any clever observations by their parents."

FATAL FLATTERY.
[Judge.]
Art Chnoisseur—Where did you get this daub?
Friend—I picked it up in a studio, said something nice about it out of politeness and the artist gave it to me.
Art Chnoisseur (sadly)—You can't be too careful.

NOT A BOSS.
[Washington Star.]
"You shouldn't call me a boss," said Mr. Fardheel.
"But you are a leader an auto-crat."
"Maybe. But a boss is a man who makes people work. My specialty is showing anybody I take an interest in how to live easy."

AN UP-TO-DATE KING.
[New York Tribune.]
With the King of England going down in a submarine boat and contemplating a flight in an aeroplane there would seem to be no sense in talking any more about effete monarchies. The most strenuous president of a republic could scarcely show himself more up-to-date than the King.

POOR GOVERNMENT.
[Louisville Courier-Journal.]
"What's the matter, Hiram?"
"I thought the agricultural department was run in the interests of the American farmer."

"Well, ain't it?"
"I wrote 'em for some literature to help me get summer boarders, but they had nothing of the kind in stock."

HARRIGAN'S PARROT STORY.
[St. Louis Globe-Democrat.]
The late Ned Harrigan, of Harrigan and Hart fame, was a great story-teller, and liked nothing better than to gather a congenial lot about him in some rathskeller and entertain them. His parrot story is one of the best.

"An Irishman by the name of Burke ran a bird and goldfish store in the Bowery, and was noted for his wit and the funny things he taught his parrots to say. One day a man came in who stuttered very badly and says to Burke:
"I w-w-want t-to-o b-buy a p-p-p-a-r-r-o-t!"
"All right, sir," says Burke. "I hev a f-f-fine b-l-r-d here for tw-twenty dollars."
"C-c-can he t-t-a-l-k?" asked the man.

"Well, he g-g-gorry," says Burke. "If he couldn't talk better than ye can I'd cut his head off."

TESTING TIME.
[Brantford Expositor.]
Mr. Borden has not yet found a chairman for the railway commission in succession to the late J. P. Mabey. It's a testing time for the new premier because he must now show whether he is a time-serving politician or a real statesman. It is to be hoped the selection, when made, will be such as to command the confidence of the entire country.

MAKING A "HOUN DAWG" OF NATIONALISTS.

[Montreal Herald.]
The Gazette has now discovered that Nationalist movements have never done any good to the country or (which is of course the same thing) to the Conservative party. The Gazette was much more respectful to Nationalism a few months ago and its present language sounds sadly like the thud of a kick inflicted on a man who is down.

SMILE.
[Milwaukee Sentinel.]
When the hand of fate's agin you
And the road of life is rough,
Do not let your troubles pin you
To the ground and say "Enough!"

Do not bow to fate or trundle
When it sings a doleful note;
Simply answer with a chuckle
When it tries to pin your goat.

NO FEAR.
[Ottawa Journal.]
A question was put in the British House of Commons whether there was any provision in the home rule bill to secure the maintenance of English, as the sole official language in the Irish Parliament and the Irish courts. Premier Asquith replied that no such provision was necessary. The government have evidently no fear that Gaelic will supersede English.

SWAT-THIE-FLY.
[Woodstock Sentinel-Review.]
It is now the fashion to organize "swat-the-fly" campaigns. It is said the casualty list of a campaign finishes in a town in the United States represented a total of over sixteen million dead flies. These campaigns may not excite as much attention as a presidential contest or even a municipal election, but they are not to be despised for that reason. It is not always the thing that attracts the most attention that is of the greatest importance.

A REMINDER.
[Scribner's.]
Lady—"I guess you're gettin' a good thing out of tendin' the rich Smith boy, ain't ye, doctor?"
Doctor—"Well, yes; I get a pretty good fee, why?"
Lady—"Well, I hope you won't forget that my Willie threw the brick that hit 'im."

ONE KILLED 14 INJURED WHEN AUTO SKIDS

Sight-Seeing Car Overturned in a Suburb of New York.

[Canadian Press.]
New York, May 31.—One man was killed and fourteen persons seriously injured early this morning when a sight-seeing automobile skidded and turned turtle on the Hoffman Boulevard in the Borough of Queens. The dead man was John Eagan, of New York.

The party was returning from Rockaway Beach. Their car was so badly wrecked that it was left in the roadway. The injured, who were taken to hospitals in Jamaica, L. I., included six men and eight young women.

LIQUOR TO BE BARRED FROM MILITIA CAMPS

Minister of Militia Says That Rules Will Be Rigidly Enforced.

Ottawa, May 30.—That the regulations concerning the consumption of liquor by men in arms will be strictly enforced this year was the emphatic statement of Hon. Col. Hughes, minister of militia, when asked if there were any new regulations this year governing the consumption of liquor by training citizens. "Regulations are the curse of the world today," was the minister's statement. "They are nothing unless they are enforced, and the existing orders concerning liquor will be strictly adhered to this year."

The sale of liquor of any kind is prohibited in camps, and it is said that during this season's camp a strict watch will be kept for any "private supplies" being brought into the lines. Canteens were abolished last year, and although it is stated that drunkenness in many of the camps adjacent to cities increased, they will not be permitted this year. "That the minister has a very high regard for the general sobriety of the Canadian militia was evidenced by an assertion today: "The Canadian soldier does not drink and needs no regulations prohibiting his drinking. I venture to say that more drinking begins at Sunday school exercises and picnics than there is at military training camps. I know, because I have seen it at picnics," was the minister's half-jesting, half-serious remark.

A CADETS' CAMP ON THE HEIGHTS

Will Be Held Commencing July 9 Next.

A cadet camp will be held on Carling's Heights, commencing on July 9, and lasting for six days. It will be in charge of Col. Hodgins, D. O. C., and a number of prominent military men will take part in the camp.

All the cadet corps in Western Ontario will take part in the exercises, and any boy of good character who wishes to join will be admitted. Inspector Edwards is looking after the arrangements, and hopes to have a large number of boys from the public schools attend. "I think it will be a good thing," he stated to The Advertiser. "I am hopeful that many of the boys will go. It will be an excellent outing for them, and the results should be very beneficial."

The Books We

Used to Read
[By Special Arrangement With the Winnipeg Telegram.]

The other evening I enjoyed a purple after-dinner session, with a keen lawyer, a companionable real estate agent, and a professor of the classics, who still preserves some youthful jollity, after long years of wrestling with conditional verbs and the peculiar uses of the dative. Strange to tell, mirabile dictu, as the professor would say, all three (and, needless to say, I was one with them in this matter) were much given to novel reading in the far-off palmy days when they were steady patrons of the public library. The lawyer admitted that he inclined to the lurid style of fiction in those sweet early days of innocence. He had forgotten the delightful plots of some of his juvenile favorites, but never would his memory fail him when he desired to summon up the beatific titles of his chambers. He recalled "Half-Hung Simon, or the Five Years' March to the Gallows," as a popular success of dime-novel shops in the late seventies of the courts. Premier Asquith replied that last century. Another big seller among his set was "Rough Rob, the Terror of Dynamite Camp, or the Twin Brethren of Blue Blazes." Another quasi-historical narrative bore this modest title, "Old Stonewall, or the Seven Buckets of Blood." Stonewall, he remembered, was a tender-hearted hero, but he was obliged to kill someone in every chapter.

After discussing the effect of this kind of literature on the boyish mind, we all confessed that our appetite had become less barbaric in later days. The dime novel was the lowest stage in our evolution. "In our 'Jesse James' and 'Old Sleuth' period we were hungry for the taste of blood. We did not enjoy the novelist who would waste precious time by describing the landscape or otherwise worming his way into the subject. We admired the 'Cap. Collier' method of shooting off a gun in the first sentence, scalping an Indian, or handcuffing a desperado in the first paragraph, and contriving to serve up a tragedy in every chapter, and a group of them as a grand finale.

Little barbarians though we were, itching for guns and slaughter, still we had sense enough to enjoy literature of a more benign type. The professor told how he ran away from school one day and sat down under a hemlock tree to read "The Arabian Nights." He did not conclude the book until dark, and that night was long be-nightmared by Aladdin and the genie over whom Solomon had such easy control. I think it was the real estate man, a right jocular man of ample girth, who recalled a pleasant reminiscence regarding his first go at "Robinson Crusoe." He was reading it as he walked home from school, and was so tremendously interested that he walked over the narrow bridge into the river. Defoe, we agreed, could desire no more splendid eulogy than that! The lawyer testified that among other benefactors of his youth he gave a high place to Sir Rider Haggard. He surprised us all by quoting a yard of impassioned narrative from "Allan Quatermain." The old Zulu (I cannot spell his name; he called his battleship the woodpecker) was one of his favorite heroes. And "She," that was a story! Never could he forget the all-night sitting in which he devoured that African romance. It was, he voted, one of the most entrancing stories ever written. There was also much talk of other writers who engaged our boyhood, such as Cooper, Lever, Grant, Jane Porter and Scott.

As the midnight drew near we fell into a discussion concerning the lack of imagination in the boys and girls of the rising generation. We believed that they were lost to literature because parents today do not take time to read poetry to their children, and do not interpret to them the beauties of song and story. The professor said that the first thing that ever reached his imagination was Tennyson's "Lady of Shalott," as it was read and explained to him by his father. He had also, as a boy of seven, been greatly impressed in hearing Rev. Dr. Punshon quote stanzas from Macaulay's stirring lay, "Horatius at the Bridge." Finally, in whatever way we had managed to acquire taste for high and imperishable poetry and prose we were unanimous in agreeing that we had a delightful evening and that blessings should be called down upon the head of him who first invented books.

Callot Gown of Black and White
Taffeta—A Stunning Dryden Sketch

In this characteristic drawing Miss Helen Dryden has given us with verve and snap a charming effect of the new style. The dress is of white taffeta, with trimmings and underskirts of black. The shoulders are very long, the sleeves slightly gathered and put in on a heavy cord. The vest is trimmed with small glass buttons. A finishing touch is the big black leghorn hat with white aigrettes under either side of the rolling brim.

BUTTER AS OINTMENT.
It escapes the notice of many housewives that they possess in their larder the very finest ointment yet discovered for all sorts of bruises, cuts, chaps, or roughness of the skin. This is butter. The soothing qualities of the cream with which the butter is made are such that even the worst bruise will vanish under its application much quicker than with any of the many ointments obtained at the druggists.

An Attractive Wrap

This style of garment is among the latest importations from Paris. The sleeves are cut in one with the garment, although large at the top, are as small as coat sleeves at the wrist. The material used for the garment illustrated was black and white check with facings of black satin.

THE RIGHT TO FORGET

By Beatrice Fairfax.

[Copyright 1912.]
"Some write songs in marble; he, more just,
Stoop'd down serene and wrote them in dust.
Tro'd under foot, the sport of every wind,
Swept from the earth and blotted from his mind.
There, secret in the grave, he bade them lie,
And grieved they could not 'scape the Almighty eye." —MADDEN.

It has happened very often that a man who wants to forget his wrongs is denied permission by his friends.
"In a foolish, sentimental way they feel that they must prove their friendship by sympathy. They greet the man who has been wronged in this way: "How are your scars this morning?"
Naturally, he relates the story of how they were inflicted, and relates it many times, enlarging each time on his anguish of spirit and body and the injustice of the one who wounded him.
They are compelling him to write his wrongs, if not in marble, in at least something more lasting than dust that will be "swept by every wind."
To his shame, let it be known, that he enjoys their sympathy, and develops an appetite that demands it.
They are encouraging his weakness by refusing him the right to forget.

This weakness is not an exclusive characteristic of the men. Women and girls have their little wrongs, and other women and girls salute them with solicitation concerning them.
And again the story grows by retelling, and again one who should write her troubles in dust is encouraged to write them in marble, and calls the world to pause and read.
I beg of my girls that they demand the right to forget, and grant to others of their sex the same privilege.
Why darken today's sun by a recital of yesterday's storm?
Why weaken the mind with a burden of a grievance, and keep that grievance alive by retelling.
Why look with sympathy at the girl with a pin scratch until she is assured that a cut by a sword could not be deeper or wider?
Wouldn't it be better to ignore it, and turn her mind to happier things?
Wouldn't it help her to forget, if you fail to notice that she has been the victim of an injustice?
These are not the days of martyrs.
These are the days when the girl who writes her troubles on the dust, and forgets them, is honored more than she who writes in marble, and calls the world to pause and read.
The one who writes in dust soonest forgets, and is the soonest to laugh. And there never was a time in history when the brave spirit that forgets and laughs was loved and needed more than it is loved and needed today.
There has been such a revolution in this particular that the sigh is not really respectable.
No I beg of all girls who wish to be of some use in this great busy life—whether quietly at home or in more public paths makes no difference—that they write their little wrongs in the dust.
I beg that they forget; that they demand the right to forget, and that they grant to others the right to forget.
Be women while still young, and by that I mean do a woman's part. And that never has been to call for a tablet of marble every time hope failed and things went wrong.

CYNTHIA GREY'S CORRESPONDENCE

She's "Not a Saint."
Dear Miss Grey: Noticing your advice to readers of your column, I too wish to ask about a few things. If you find it convenient please answer my questions this week. 1. I am fifteen and not tall for my age. How long should my dresses be? 2. I have dark brown hair. I have brown eyes and medium complexion. What colors would deal kindly with me? Do you think a blue silk dress made in empire effect, would be suitable and up-to-date? 3. At school I am asked to write essays. As a result a few boys and girls at school ask me to help in that line. I am not a saint, but still help. I am the recipient of many favors from them; but if they see me anywhere outside of school they never recognize me. I often feel hurt. What do you think? Hoping you will excuse me for my numerous questions, I am
A CHRONIC GRUMBLER.

A.—1. That would be a suitable length. 2. Grays, browns and blues of varying shades. Yes, 3. You are having to learn one of life's lessons early. Nearly everybody has the feeling, at times, that they are slighted and left out in the cold by the people they most admire and desire to win recognition from. But don't harbor the slightest thoughts in your heart, at times, that they are slighted and left out to embitter your life. Don't render favors for what you are going to get in return, but assist your mates just out of the pure joy of being helpful, and if you are sunny and courteous, always ready with the cheery word and helping hand, I am sure that you will not always have reason to feel slighted by those whom you would befriend.

Footwear Fads

Have you noticed the new shoe buttons? Do. They are a sign of the times and the times are big times, indeed, for the shoe dealers.

The shoe button is, in itself, a glorified reincarnation of its former modest and uninteresting self. In former cycles of existence, shoe buttons spent their lives in kiosk and useful deeds, holding fast to the post of duty, but nothing more was expected from them.

Today the shoe button is a thing of frivolity and fashion. It is of pearl, white or smoked; of crystal, plain or set in a ring of black or gold; or jet—in fact, of nearly everything except the ground-up pasteboard material that used to form it.

As to the shoes themselves, well, here are the fabrics used: Gold and silver, tissue, satin, silk, suede, crocheted lace, cloth, canvas, linen, buckskin, and the various grades of leather.

White shoes will easily win over all others in popularity during the coming summer. Already they are to be seen wherever a dainty lingerie or linen gown makes its appearance. Kid and buckskin are the favored material for these shoes which have the added advantage of cleaning easily. There is a decided fancy for the leather vamp and contrasting upper. A soft, fun material is used in combination with black satin. The latter material is the favorite wear for evening slippers. Nothing else is so becoming to the foot. Buckles of all kinds, silver, gilt and studded with jewels, "choux" of satin or chiffon, pompons of silver tissue and the like adorn evening slippers. Truly has midday placed vanity underfoot this season.

The Birthday Calendar

IF THIS IS YOUR BIRTHDAY

Much good fortune will come to you this year, and you can add to it by moderation and careful planning. If you disagree too quickly with those around you, the result will not be to your advantage.

Those born today will be fortunate and a real wealth. They will be it out thoroughly. In this way you will help to prevent the thick white sediment from forming into hard clinkers at the bottom of the kettle.

TEA KETTLES.

Always empty the water out of a tea kettle after using it, and before filling it with fresh water again, rinse it out thoroughly. In this way you will help to prevent the thick white sediment from forming into hard clinkers at the bottom of the kettle.

Wipe a rump steak two inches thick, place in a slightly greased broiler, and broil or pan-broil until nearly done. Pile a border of highly-seasoned mashed potatoes around the edge of a slightly buttered plank, using a pastry bag and tube, put steak on plank, and set in oven to brown potatoes and finish cooking meat. Garnish with glazed silver-skinned onions, buttered carrot slices, stuffed green peppers and salted mushroom caps. Place plank on a platter and surround with a border of parsley.

Filled Cake Pies.
Cream one-fourth cupful of butter and add gradually while beating constantly, one cupful of fine granulated sugar; then add two eggs, well beaten and one-half cupful of milk. Mix and sift one and two-third cupfuls of flour with two and one-half teaspoonfuls of baking powder, and add gradually to the first mixture. Beat vigorously and turn into two buttered and floured deep pie tins. Bake in a moderate oven thirty minutes. Put between layer of cake lemon filling, and sprinkle top with powdered or confectioner's sugar. For the filling thoroughly mix one cupful of sugar, two and one-half tablespoonfuls of flour, the grated rind of two lemons, one-fourth cupful of lemon juice, and one egg, slightly beaten. Melt one teaspoonful of butter in a small saucepan, turn in mixture and cook, stirring constantly, until the boiling point is reached. Great care must be taken that the mixture does not adhere to bottom or sides of pan. Cool slightly before spreading.

Some Divorce Laws

Taking advantage of the Pennsylvania divorce laws, a husband was recently successful in obtaining a divorce from his wife because, by her cruel and barbarous treatment she had rendered his position intolerable. Habitual drunkenness and failure to support are also recognized in many of the states as sufficient grounds on which a woman may obtain a divorce from her husband, while "mental incapacity at the time of marriage" is a cause in Georgia. The courts of the latter state, however, only grant divorces after the concurrent verdict of two separate juries sitting at different times.

At Washington a short time ago a judge of the local divorce court held that absence of the husband's morning and evening kiss constituted a cruelty and was calculated to make a woman's life miserable to make a divorce from his wife because she said she was unable to endure his perfection. According to his evidence, the husband gave his wife every luxury within his means, placed no restraints upon her amusements, and never showed jealousy. He never spoke an unkind word, and never used liquor, tobacco, or profanity, and never stayed out late at night.

"Did she find fault with you?" asked the judge.
"Oh, yes," replied the husband. "She frequently said she could have loved me if only I beat her, or at least scolded her, once in a while; but I couldn't do it."

A SPIRIT LAMP.
A simple spirit lamp can be easily made out of a blacking tin. Drill holes all around the lid, fill the tin with cotton-wool, and soak it with methylated spirits. Put the lid on and place a lighted match against the tin. The spirits, as they evaporate, will burn like a small gas ring. It makes a splendid little stove for invalids' food.

TECUMSEHS MOVE INTO FIRST PLACE AS RESULT OF YESTERDAY'S VICTORY

TECUMSEHS WIN SECOND GAME AND SHOVE KOLTS FURTHER DOWN

Silcox's Slants Were Too Much for Knotty Lee's Aggregation,
While London Had Little Difficulty Solving
Rose and Schuyler's Slings.

Had it not been that Mr. Schuyler, an extension ladder gentleman employed by "Knotty" Lee to serve up benders for the Hams, was as wild as a peevish mongroose during the pastime on Thursday afternoon, the Tecumsehs would not have been on the business end of an 8 to 5 score. We mention the fact that the game was wild to explain it. He was more generous with passes than Andy Carnegie is with libraries, and so the Hams shoved the Bovermanites to the undisputed leadership of the league. Many thanks, Mr. Schuyler.

The new person unfolded himself at the end of the third inning. Prior to that time, Mr. Rose, portlander, was handing up the slants, covered with moisture. He moved along well until the third, when with the sacks jagged, Mr. Cocash, whose name listens like a new brand of soap, smote a jagged one on the eyelash, shoving two perspiring gents across the platter.

ROSE TO THE OCCASION.

Mr. Knotty Lee came to the conclusion that his Rose was a bloomer, and chased him off the landscape. Mr. Schuyler mounted the koppe, and during the third inning those who could hit him, he could not hit, and when the third athletes dragged their weary legs to the dugout, four runs and incidentally the game, were frapped. Of course, the Hams had to throw some little interest into the festivities by starting a rally in the ninth inning, but it failed to land the bacon. In the meantime, our own Mr. Silcox was going along in his own way, and that generally spells victory. They picked him up plenty in the last two verses, but he had enough left to stave off any dangerous rushes.

A GOOD GAME.

It was a good game in spots, but at times it was not as interesting as a bull fight. Both teams wobbled badly at times, some rather fancy heaving going damage.

Before it is everlastingly too late a word must be said for the big battery for the Hams. Mr. Red Fisher, the human lightning rod, has in Schuyler a gent built on the same style of architecture as Fisher himself. Both could make a swell living shoeing blackbirds out of cathedral towers.

Mr. Fisher is touted as the greatest thing in backstops in the Canadian League. He is long on size, but he did not show that his name would be written on the scroll of fame by what he did here.

ABSENT TREATMENT.

Somebody should tell him to get to the plate and stop a few of the gentlemen who slide across the pan. No ball player can give the runner absent treatment and expect the umpire to get it.

Another cute little party was introduced in the person of Mr. Schaefer, who does some plain and fancy fielding in practice, and talks the rest of the afternoon. Mr. Murphy is also a long distance conversationalist, but Mr. Bill Phyle, former manufacturer of home runs, stopped the contest, when Mr. Murphy was three laps behind about seven hundred rosters. Connie could not con Bill.

Outside the comedy features, it was some ball game. For seven innings Mr. Silcox had the Hams eating out of his lily-white mitt. They could not get a lick. In the meantime, the Tecumsehs were going along like hitting fiends, gathering seven large luscious tallies. In the eighth, Silcox stubbed his toe, two runs trickling across. In the ninth, the Hams took some real lusty wallop at his res, and only tight fielding prevented more damage.

Some Doings.

The finish made the fans take short breaths and look wise. The locals had five errors during the mix-up, but errors out no figure with this outfit. They go after everything in sight. The whole mitt pulled off some stellar plays. The outfield did not have much to do, but they did it well. Mr. Cocash, our latest little fielder, showed that he is there with the wallop in the pinch, his sizzling single sending in the first two runs, and paving the way for the appearance of Mr. Schuyler.

Jo Jo Keenan made a big hit yesterday for Hamilton, fielding well and doing the hefty part of the hitting. Mr. Keil, the best discovery of Mr. Lee's, came to life in the ninth, with a three-ply knock that was a beauty. Schuyler will be some pitcher if he ever finds the range. His spit ball is a beauty, while his other curves break fast and far. He will either burn the league up, or be chased in a hurry.

Silcox pitched fine ball up to the eighth. He had a safe lead then and put it up to his fielders. He is in shape, and any team that beats him will know there has been a game. Benny Speer caught a nice game.

The Hams Score.

The Hams got the first tally in the third. With one gone, Mr. Murphy walked, and stole second. Mr. Keenan, one of our esteemed citizens, burned one through Lindeburn that sent the Spaniard across with the run. This ended the scoring on the part of the visitors until the eighth. The Tecumsehs came right back in the third with a pair. With two gone, Mr. Lindeburn slammed a hit over second. Rose made a balk, shoving Lindeby to second.

"Kid" Zoccano Will Box An Exhibition For Pinel Fund

Tony Zoccano, better known in pugilistic circles as "Kid" Zoccano, is in London at present, and is out with an offer to box an exhibition with any local "bug" at 122 or 125 pounds. Zoccano states in a letter to the Sporting Editor, that he would be willing to go on in an exhibition for the benefit of Private Archie Pinel. His letter is as follows:

To the Sporting Editor of The London Advertiser:

Dear Sir,—Some of the baseball players were telling me that they were going to play a game for the benefit of Private Archie Pinel, and they asked me if I would give an exhibition in boxing. I would be very pleased to do so, if the local authorities will permit, and if I could get anyone at 122 or 125 pounds to go on with me. I have retired from the ring, but am willing to go on again for this occasion. Yours truly,
(Signed) "KID" ZOCCANO.

WITH TECUMSEHS ON THE WARPATH

Cocash, the new outfielder, hits the ball hard. He only got one bingle on Thursday, but it caused Mr. Rose's retirement, and won the game. That was the turning point.

In the seventh Lindeburn got all the assists. All three were hard chances. There is no difficulty in hearing Bill Phyle announce his decisions. He has a strong voice, and he is not afraid to use it. His work was worth mentioning.

"Knotty" Lee has not got his team working very well at this minute. They are not as strong as they were last year, Keenan being the best-looking player he has on the roster. It is doubtful that the management will be able to sell another lemon like Tom Grieve.

The Tecumsehs are playing wide-awake ball these days. They are making plenty of errors, but are hustling and fighting every inch of the time. They go best when behind, and are dangerous until the last man is chased to the dug-out.

Jo Jo Keenan was given a great hand when he started the rally for the Hams in the eighth inning. The little fellow is full of pepper, and is the big stuff in that infield.

Knotty Lee's bunch do not look any too fast at the present rate of going, and are not as good as St. Thomas or Berlin. There will become strengthening done before long, it is thought.

Red Fisher was away off in his pegging on Thursday, and did not look nearly so good as the day previous. He is spike-shy, too, and missed a play or two at the plate that a courageous catcher would have got.

Lindeburn had bad luck on a couple of grounders, but redeemed himself by some lightning plays when things looked bad.

Heavy Hitting Game Played in the Commercial League, Last Night.

McNee's Japs defeated the Classic Shoe team in the Commercial League last night, 12 to 6. Both teams hit freely, but the Japs played errorless ball behind Daniels, Coates, for the shoemen, was wild at times, but he might have won out if given better support. The features of the game were throws by Delaney and Durham, from left and right, thereby cutting off two runs.

THE LAST VOYAGE OF THE DOMINA ISABEL

The dip of the chains missed us by the barest inch; then we swung clear, tossed high on the creamy crest of a huge roller, which enabled us to look straight down on the sloping deck.

"Is everyone here?" I asked.

"All but Jim Cole, sir."

"Cole, where is he?"

"He is down below."

"Well, all I know about it is, I hauled him out of the tangle and shook him wide awake. Then I left him to go and report to Kelly. That's the last I saw of him, sir, but it's a sore thing he ain't here."

De Nova had hold of the tiller, and I sprang forward, pushing past Sanchez, who was in the bow.

"Lay her nose close in where I can jump for the chains," I ordered sharply. "We can't leave Cole behind to drown."

It was a bit of the ticklish job the way the sea was running, and that jumping, I wrecked sagging under, but the mate knew his trade, and as the boat rose high on the swell, I leaped and hung on, my feet dangling in the froth. As the sudden hull swung reeling over I clambered up and dropped to the deck. The missing negro was nowhere in sight. I leaned over, staring down at the bobbing boat being hurled back by the rebound of the surge, yet seeing only the white face of Doris returned appealingly toward me.

"Pull out, boys; strong now! Give her plenty of room, so she won't suck you down when she drops. I've got to try the cabin."

I got that far. I even got fairly within the door, and my ears caught the dull, muffled sounds of blows between the decks. My God! the fellow had actually gone back into that icy hold to dig for coal. As I stood there, trembling, wondering if I could dare the passage, I felt a sudden quiver of the deck, heard a sharp, ripping sound forward, a yell of mingled voices, and turned and ran for the rail. With all my strength I flung myself forth—straight out into the gray sea. I went down, down, down, feeling as if the very life was being sucked out of me, every muscle paralyzed by the coldness of the water. As I came up, gasping, struggling, scarce able to move, I found myself in the arms of a man, every instant in agony; and then, all at once, I found the crest and breathed the welcome air, my stiffened limbs moving mechanically, my brain throbbing with pain. I could see nothing until a huge roller flung me upward, buffeting my face with icy spray, and there, below in the hollow, tossed the long-boat, every pallid face staring up at me. I saw them frantically back water as the great surge hurled me down headlong. I was beside them; they clutched at me and missed. The stern, swung suddenly about by the blow of the sea, loomed over me, and then my fingers gripped a dripping out-blade. God knows

WAS A GREAT SUFFERER FOR FIVE YEARS FROM DYSPEPSIA.

Dyspepsia is one of the most prevalent troubles of civilized life, and thousands of people suffer untold agony after every meal, for nearly everything that enters a weak dyspeptic stomach acts as an irritant.

The long train of distressing symptoms, which render life a burden to the victim of dyspepsia, may be promptly cured by the use of Burdock Blood Bitters.

"I thought I would write and tell you of the good Burdock Blood Bitters has done me and also tell you how thankful I am."

"For five years I had been a great sufferer from dyspepsia, and tried different doctors and proprietary medicines, but could get no relief. One day a friend told me to try Burdock Blood Bitters. I did not have much faith in it, but I thought I would give it a trial. To-day I am completely cured, and I will always recommend it."

Burdock Blood Bitters has been on the market for about thirty-five years and is manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

with fire. I see the faces of the men before me haggard and hopeless as they stared, dull-eyed and aimlessly, out over the endless waste of water to the dim sky. We were so tired of it; it had grown so hateful in its pitiless vacancy, its dull dreary void. The very waves mocked us, the foam-flaked crests chasing each other in maddening sameness, the flying clouds the form of grotesque phantoms, leering and dancing like incarnate fiends. It seemed to me that with every recurring wave those within the boat appeared older, grayer, more deeply lined; their exposed flesh looked mottled with salt spray; their limbs cramped from confinement and cold; their eyes lustreless and heavy with despair. They conversed with some effort at cheerfulness at first, figuring on the speed with which we sailed, dividing up the treasure, counting the gold pieces, and speculating upon their probable value. But depression followed swiftly as day merged into day, with only that same desert of tumbling waters stretching about us, that same wild sky overhead. Finally the growing voices ceased altogether, the fellows became moody and sullen, scarcely answering even when addressed.

"Did—did you see Cole?" she questioned at last, more calmly.

"No, but I heard him; he was down in the lazarette, chopping at the ice, poor fellow."

I could only press her hand under the warmth of the blankets, still feeling it difficult to breathe.

LADIES DEBATED NEW CONSTITUTION

Orders of Daughters of Empire Had a Very Busy Session.

Charge Will Be $50 for the National Chapter, and $25 for Primary Chapters.

Toronto, May 31.—Predictions that stormy passages would mark the annual meeting of the Imperial Order, Daughters of the Empire, were not fulfilled at yesterday's session of four score regents and delegates from chapters in all parts of Canada, in Foresters' Hall, College street. The delegates met in the morning, and after some preliminary remarks by Mrs. A. E. Gooderham, the president of the National Chapter, took up the proposed new constitution of the order. The consideration of this momentous document, in which Mr. E. F. B. Johnston, K. C., as legal adviser of the order, participated, was continued until 6 p.m., by which time a considerable portion of it had been adopted or amended to meet the views of the delegates.

At the commencement of the discussion of the constitution it was suggested by a delegate that a federal charter instead of operating under a provincial charter system. Then a debate took place upon the clause providing for the granting of life memberships in the order. On the suggestion of Mrs. Colin Campbell, of Winnipeg, it was decided to include the fee for such membership in the National Chapter from $100 to $50.

Mrs. Cranston, of Victoria, B. C., thereupon proposed that primary chapters be authorized to appoint persons to be made life members of their own local organizations, but not of the superior chapters, such as those of the province or Dominion. After some debate the motion was adopted and the fee for local life membership was fixed at $25.

Mrs. Cranston, of Hamilton, had a number of amendments to propose to the clauses providing for the establishment of provincial chapters. The order she said, had grown, but had grown lopsided, and steps should be taken to make it grow as it should. An order stretching from the Atlantic to the Pacific could not be controlled by one small chapter, the provinces must control their own affairs. Mrs. Cranston thereupon proposed that the provincial chapters should consist of the regents and vice-regents of primary chapters, while the provincial officers and a council of ten from the number at a meeting to be held annually in the capital cities of the respective provinces.

Mrs. Campbell, of Winnipeg, thought the provincial chapters would lose much in strength if they included only the regents and vice-regents of the primary chapters, and that in framing the constitution he had sought to make the provincial chapters representative of the whole membership in their districts. It was finally decided that all provincial chapters should consist of all the officers of primary chapters, that lists of persons nominated for offices in the provincial chapters should be voted upon by all the members of those lesser bodies, and not merely by the persons present at the meeting of the provincial chapter. The suggestion that half of the councillors should be required to reside within a certain radius of the capital city was expected to cause a warm discussion. The question was disposed of, however, by the adoption of a provision that provincial chapters should have councils of twenty members, and that each provincial chapter might elect as its secretary a resident of the province, and the residence qualifications of its councillors.

Unauthorized Circulars.

Before the business of the day was commenced, Mrs. A. E. Gooderham briefly addressed the delegates. Before the consideration of the proposed amendments to the constitution was begun, she wished to call attention to the fact that since October last at least five unofficial documents had been sent out without the knowledge of the National Council. She declared that the present executive had not during its seven months departed from the policy followed by the order for the last five years.

Mrs. Gooderham said that the Victoria League in Britain had advocated the establishment of a home in Canada for young girls arriving from the old country. With the idea the Duchess of Connaught had expressed her sympathy, and Mrs. Gooderham believed that if such institution were opened it might appropriately be called the Duchess of Connaught home. Her royal highness telegraphed her regret for her absence from the meeting, and Mrs. Langstaffe, president of the National Chapter of the Daughters of the Empire in the United States, sent greetings, and expressed the hope that members of the order in all parts of the world would sing "God Save the King" at noon each day.

Today the meeting will continue the discussion of the constitution, will receive reports of officers, and will elect new officers. Papers on "Recommendations to Methods of Work and Tuberculosis," by Mrs. Henshaw, of Vancouver, and "Work and Methods for the Alleviation of Tuberculosis," by Mrs. A. Hodgetts, medical officer of the Conservation Commission, will be read.

Mrs. Cranston thereupon proposed that the provincial chapters should consist of the regents and vice-regents of primary chapters, while the provincial officers and a council of ten from the number at a meeting to be held annually in the capital cities of the respective provinces.

Mrs. Campbell, of Winnipeg, thought the provincial chapters would lose much in strength if they included only the regents and vice-regents of the primary chapters, and that in framing the constitution he had sought to make the provincial chapters representative of the whole membership in their districts. It was finally decided that all provincial chapters should consist of all the officers of primary chapters, that lists of persons nominated for offices in the provincial chapters should be voted upon by all the members of those lesser bodies, and not merely by the persons present at the meeting of the provincial chapter. The suggestion that half of the councillors should be required to reside within a certain radius of the capital city was expected to cause a warm discussion. The question was disposed of, however, by the adoption of a provision that provincial chapters should have councils of twenty members, and that each provincial chapter might elect as its secretary a resident of the province, and the residence qualifications of its councillors.

Unauthorized Circulars.

Before the business of the day was commenced, Mrs. A. E. Gooderham briefly addressed the delegates. Before the consideration of the proposed amendments to the constitution was begun, she wished to call attention to the fact that since October last at least five unofficial documents had been sent out without the knowledge of the National Council. She declared that the present executive had not during its seven months departed from the policy followed by the order for the last five years.

Mrs. Gooderham said that the Victoria League in Britain had advocated the establishment of a home in Canada for young girls arriving from the old country. With the idea the Duchess of Connaught had expressed her sympathy, and Mrs. Gooderham believed that if such institution were opened it might appropriately be called the Duchess of Connaught home. Her royal highness telegraphed her regret for her absence from the meeting, and Mrs. Langstaffe, president of the National Chapter of the Daughters of the Empire in the United States, sent greetings, and expressed the hope that members of the order in all parts of the world would sing "God Save the King" at noon each day.

Today the meeting will continue the discussion of the constitution, will receive reports of officers, and will elect new officers. Papers on "Recommendations to Methods of Work and Tuberculosis," by Mrs. Henshaw, of Vancouver, and "Work and Methods for the Alleviation of Tuberculosis," by Mrs. A. Hodgetts, medical officer of the Conservation Commission, will be read.

At the commencement of the discussion of the constitution it was suggested by a delegate that a federal charter instead of operating under a provincial charter system. Then a debate took place upon the clause providing for the granting of life memberships in the order. On the suggestion of Mrs. Colin Campbell, of Winnipeg, it was decided to include the fee for such membership in the National Chapter from $100 to $50.

Mrs. Cranston, of Victoria, B. C., thereupon proposed that primary chapters be authorized to appoint persons to be made life members of their own local organizations, but not of the superior chapters, such as those of the province or Dominion. After some debate the motion was adopted and the fee for local life membership was fixed at $25.

Mrs. Cranston, of Hamilton, had a number of amendments to propose to the clauses providing for the establishment of provincial chapters. The order she said, had grown, but had grown lopsided, and steps should be taken to

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Ottawa, May 31.—Canadian riflemen are going after everything in sight this year. The Palma trophy is the latest thing they have determined to capture. It has been decided to enter a team for the Palma trophy, which is the big international rifle prize of American origin. Canada won the trophy once before and then lost it to England, which parted with it to an American team. Canada is going after it again. The shoot will take place some time after the Bixey and the D. R. A. meets.

EAST ENDERS ARE FOR ANNEXATION

Progressives Strongly Favor the Taking In of Pottersburg
By the City.

EAST LONDON MARKET

Report Stated That Progress Is Being Made Toward Securing
One.

The question that occasioned the most discussion at the meeting of the East London Progressive Association Thursday night was the proposed annexation of Pottersburg.

"All the influential residents of Pottersburg are keen for annexation," was a statement that was made several times, and the meeting decided to take steps to bring about this object.

Two letters from Mr. J. Grant Henderson, commissioner of industries, asking for the assistance of the association towards this end, were read, and a committee was appointed to range with Mr. Henderson for a public meeting to be held in Pottersburg as soon as possible.

The committee elected is composed of the following: Messrs. Hargreaves, Leach, Christian, Pearson, Wakeling, Watkinson and Procter and will commence immediately to prepare for the meeting in Pottersburg. Mr. Henderson will be asked to secure speakers for that occasion.

East End Market.
The report of the market committee showed that progress is being made toward the establishment of a market in the East End. The matter of opening up Dorinda street was discussed, and the feeling of the meeting was that this street should be opened as soon as possible. Mr. Hargreaves, who has charge of the employment and real estate bureau of the association, reported that there had been several inquiries for houses to rent, but that none had been available. There has been but one application for work, and the applicant had been placed in a position.

NOT MERGING

Again Denied That Tuckett Are to Unite With Macdonald.

[Canadian Press.]
Montreal, May 31.—C. Meredith & Co., the concern which has purchased the Tuckett Cigar and Tobacco Company in Hamilton, Montreal and London, this morning denied that it was to be merged with the business of Sir William Macdonald or the business of any tobacco company. It was stated that the acquisition of the company was the first step in connection with its complete reorganization and enlargement.

The name of Sir William Macdonald got mixed up in the matter through the efforts of other parties to merge his enterprise and that of Tuckett at the same time as the negotiations between the Meredith Company and the officers of Tuckett were being carried on.

WORK WILL BE RUSHED ON NEW ART BUILDING

Western Fair Board Named a Special Committee to Erect the Structure.

The new art building for the Western Fair will be constructed at once, a special building committee being named at the session of the executive of the fair on Thursday evening.

Mr. W. J. Reid, president of the association, was informed by Ald. Johnston that the Government grant of $2,500 had been made towards the construction of the building, and he advised that work be commenced at once.

"We must have a creditable structure," declared Mr. Reid.

"We want a building, permanent, beautiful and suitable," declared Mr. W. M. Spencer, chairman of the grounds and buildings committee.

After some discussion it was decided to name Ald. H. E. Johnston, William Moore, W. H. Abbott, R. R. Bland and W. J. Reid, a special committee to construct the building. Plans and specifications will be called for at once, and in the meantime, the committee will secure all possible information on such matters. A meeting of the committee was called for Friday evening to go into the question more fully.

It was also decided to invite Hon. Martin Burrell, minister of agriculture for the Dominion, and Hon. J. S. Duff, provincial minister of agriculture, to open the Western Fair on Tuesday, Sept. 10. The secretary, Mr. A. M. Hunt, will communicate with them at once to arrange for their visit.

Mr. W. M. Spencer, chairman of the grounds and building committee, pointed out that the matter of lighting the grounds had not been disposed of and it was decided to leave the whole matter in the hands of Mr. Spencer's committee.

Secretary A. M. Hunt advised the executive that the prize lists and advertising matter would be ready for mailing on Saturday next.

WOMEN MUST HELP GUIDE THE SHIP

Sir George Gibbons' Address
Before National Council
Thursday Night.

WOMAN IN THE HOME

Jean Blewett Made a Characteristic
Speech—Woman's Suffrage Deal
With by Dr. Stowe-Gullen.

Five most comprehensive addresses were delivered on Thursday night in the Normal school at the final meeting of the National Council of Women sessions, the subject for the evening being "Patriotism as Exhibited in Citizenship."

Rev. J. Gibson Inker occupied the chair, and after favorably commenting upon the National Council work, called upon Sir George Gibbons to give an address upon "Peace and Arbitration."

"I am glad to be here to attend this meeting of thoughtful women," said Sir George, "because I know you are thoughtful women who gather here to discuss these great economic questions which have to be discussed and thought out, and many of which can be better discussed and better thought out by the women of the country than by the men. More than ever was the time come that it is essential that you shall join with the men in helping to guide the ship of state."

Uprising of Masses.
The speaker dwelt upon the spread of socialism, and stated that unless some remedy is applied shortly, an uprising of the masses the world over is sure to take place. War has largely lost its glamor, and is now more a matter of money and the power to build large ships and maintain a large army. The war between the United States and Spain was not a credit to the former country because of the unequal fighting strength. "I am not against war," said Sir George, "because I know you are not, and I don't believe in peace at any price, or in foregoing principle. The people who talk war the loudest do not go to the front, who do the fighting, who get killed. When war comes, the best go, and the best do not come back. War is not to be avoided by not having a navy, or soldiers. Much as I am in favor of arbitration and peace arrangements, nobody respects our navy and militia more than I do. Some day the nations of the earth will gather together in peace, their armies and navies, not for the purpose of despoiling each other, but for the purpose of keeping each other in line."

International Peace.
In reference to arbitration, Sir George spoke of the efforts for international peace as made by the Hague Tribunal, and dwelt upon the settling of the dispute between Great Britain and the United States regarding the Canadian fisheries. In his opinion the trades and labor people of European countries were doing much to avert war, and the inclusion of the large gathering in Berlin to protest against war between England and Germany was related. "The only solution of the difficulty is the proposal of some leading American statesman, to establish a permanent judicial court, not a floating court as we have at the present time, but one composed of fifteen men, elected from the nations of the earth, who give enough to give judgments in the interest of our own nation and in the interest of truth and of right. Until you have something like this to offer you can't prevent what has existed since the world began."

Jean Blewett.
Mrs. Jean Blewett, of the Women's Canadian Press Club, Toronto, spoke on the subject of women in the home and elsewhere. Mrs. Blewett is endowed with a rare charm and pleasing personality, and intersperses her remarks with bright bits of verse of her own composition.

"A home without a woman is like a body without a soul," she said. "No matter what beauties it may possess, without her presence it is a place, graceless and unprofitable." In speaking of business and professional women, Mrs. Blewett stated that she was proud of the progress they had made in the world. "Woman has entered the hall of business and public life without losing her womanliness, and in face of opposition and criticism at first, and the world is better for it. Mrs. Blewett paid a tribute to Queen Victoria and rendered a pleasing sketch about the celebration of May 24.

The Woman's Movement.
Miss J. L. of London, England, and Dr. Stowe-Gullen, of Toronto, each delivered most convincing addresses on the woman's movement. Miss Owen urged the necessity of women being allowed to express their individuality by means of the ballot. "Women are citizens, and true citizenship expresses itself in service, but there can be little done to remedy social evils unless woman is allowed to have a voice in the government of the community. Woman's influence was compared to the power of Niagara, which, Miss Owen stated, did little good until it was utilized to produce electricity. "But if we want to bring about reforms, if we want to have our say in philanthropic and remedial measures, if we want to get our hands on the lever of progress, we must make it very evident that we do want it."

Woman Suffrage.
Dr. Stowe-Gullen referred to the suffrage question as one of the greatest and most momentous problems that the world has faced.

"Nowhere in the history of the world has the question ever been argued for the direct liberty of one-half the human race, and indirectly for the rights and liberties of the whole race," she stated. The origin of the movement in 1848 and some of its subsequent history were briefly outlined, and industrialism in its relation to women commented upon. Dr. Stowe-Gullen stated emphatically that women's entrance into commercial life was not to blame for the rate of wages being lowered. Regarding education, the speaker stated that professional women owed much to the suffrage movement, as prior to it, universities and colleges were barred to the weaker sex. In respect of the statement so often made that "woman's place is home," Dr. Stowe-Gullen cleverly turned the table upon mankind by stating that home is also man's place, and that they had neglected this fact too long. The immigration question was spoken of as a grave danger to Canada within the next few years. The people coming in from foreign countries do not take any part in the national life, but remain here only for the purpose of money-making. "If the men of our country do not awaken to the situation, and see the seriousness of it, it will be no time before we will all be compelled to face the situation and suffer from it," said Dr. Stowe-Gullen.

The Playground Movement.
Dr. Curtis, the playgrounds organizer, also gave an address, and urged the delegates to the National Council to advocate this movement when they returned to their homes in the various cities of Canada. Dr. Curtis is to address London audiences many times during the coming week, and no doubt a wider interest in the recreation grounds here will result. He referred to the educational value of supervised amusement, and of the excellent results of "team play," by which street boys are taught honor not only in games, but also in all relations to their fellows. "The city that says it is against the law to play in the streets, but does not furnish any other place for the children to play, is providing a school of crime," stated Dr. Curtis.

Vote of Thanks.
A hearty vote of thanks was tendered the speakers of the evening on behalf of the National Council by Mrs. Elizabeth Denison and Dr. Margaret Gordon, of Toronto. An enjoyable feature was the singing of "O Canada" by the choir of the First Methodist Church, and which elicited hearty applause from the audience. Mrs. Radcliffe, wife of the principal of the Normal School, was presented with a handsome bouquet of carnations by the president of the National Council, Mrs. Farrington, as a slight token of appreciation for Mr. Radcliffe's kindness in loaning the school for the annual sessions.

500 MEN WILL GO INTO MEDICAL CAMP

Tents Are Going Up Rapidly
On Carling's Heights—
The Training.

Members of the divisional headquarters, Army Medical Corps, were at Carling's Heights early this morning, preparing for the general encampment of the corps, which opens tomorrow. Already the field is dotted with white tents, and by tomorrow night it is expected that fully 500 men will be under canvas on the heights ready for the week of practical work which will begin on Monday.

Special interest attaches to this camp, because of the fact that it is the first of the kind ever held in Canada. For the first time the field ambulances, which form the units of this arm of the service, will operate as nearly as possible under actual service conditions. The various situations likely to arise out of different classes of engagement will be considered from a medical standpoint, and the various manoeuvres which would be required for the removal and treatment of the injured will be carried out under realistic conditions as nearly as possible. Like those of the regular army, the field ambulances will be selected from among the officers of the department to judge of the probable success or failure of such work as will be carried out by the corps. The last five days will be spent in bivouac.

Every attention will be paid to camp sanitation, and an effort will be made to give efficient training in the proper care and housing of men in camp in order to prevent disease. Lieut.-Col. G. C. Jones will be in command, with Lieut.-Col. Fotheringham as administrative medical officer. It is planned to have a different ambulance for each problem, while the members of the other units will attend as spectators.

In this way the whole corps will get some benefit from each problem.

The units to participate are the Fifteenth Field Ambulance, London; the Fourteenth, Toronto; the Tenth and Thirteenth of Toronto, and the twelfth and Nineteenth of Hamilton.

About 20 detached medical officers will be present from different points.

LIVELY BATTLE OVER CLUSTER LIGHTS ON RICHMOND STREET

Petition of Ratepayers Sent On to Council By Board of Works.

The petition of a number of ratepayers in the north end for the extension of the cluster lights on Richmond and Dundas streets, was heard by the board of works last night, and finally recommended to the council by acclamation. The petition was presented by the board of works, after a discussion lasting for several hours.

Ald. Richter, because of his knowledge of the street lighting question in the city, was asked to read the petition, and he objected strongly to any action on the petition until the question of lighting rates in London, now before the hydro-electric commission, shall be decided. "I think we should wait until we know whether or not it is going to cost us nearly $30,000 for our street lights before we authorize any further expenses," said he.

"Well, I think the ratepayers who signed this petition deserve some consideration," declared Chairman Pockock, who, with Superintendent Richter, presided over the water commission. Surely the city of London can afford what Hamilton, Woodstock and even St. Thomas are going to do. I see no excuse at all for the holding up of this thing.

"Well, I simply want to see the matter settled one way or another, that's all. I don't think we should go into this thing without first knowing what it is going to cost," said Ald. Richter.

In Hands of Commission.
The whole matter is in the hands of the hydro-electric commission, and even if we get the best of the argument it is the city of London which gets the best of it," said Chairman Philip Pockock.

"We are not going to make away with the money. In addition to holding up a project, which would be of untold advertising value to the city, you are exposing the citizens to serious danger from the network of overhead wires on downtown streets. At present it would be an injustice to ask the citizens and other private companies to pace their

BOTH SIDES CONCLUDE IN SPARKING CASE

Expected That the Jury Will Bring in Decision Saturday Afternoon.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Pad Axe, Mich., May 31.—The presentation of testimony in the sparking case came to an abrupt conclusion in court here this morning, both sides resting at 10 o'clock. After having been on the witness stand for a week the defendant was excused from the stand after a half-hour's quizzing by his own and the opposing counsel. The defence then read the testimony of Sheriff Donald MacAulay at the doctor's preliminary examination into the record, for the purpose of impeaching the sheriff's version of the "looking glass" conversation, as related at the trial. Attorney Joseph Walsh, for the respondent, then announced that the defence rested.

Both Cases Rest.
The prosecution placed two witnesses on the stand, Mrs. Edith O. Richardson and Mrs. Edwin Herford, both of whom testified to the details of the applications for insurance in the Gleasons. Their testimony was presented for the purpose of impeaching the doctor's statement on that point. The prosecution endeavored to show that Mrs. Gleason was in good health last June when the doctor states that he was making daily visits to her home to treat her. The court excluded the testimony upon the ground that the evidence sought to be introduced was part of the people's original case. After Mrs. Herford had testified, Prosecutor Boomhower announced that the people rested, and the defence made the same announcement.

A recess was taken until this afternoon, when Mr. Boomhower began the opening argument for the state. The importance of the case caused Judge Peach to decline to limit the arguments of the counsel, and the attorneys thereupon agreed that each would take four hours to present its side of the case. Mr. Boomhower and Mr. Woodworth are to argue this afternoon, and Mr. Walsh and Mr. Snow will argue Saturday. The judge's charge will probably occupy about three-quarters of an hour, and it seems probable now that the case will go to the jury about 3 p.m. Saturday afternoon. The court will keep the jury over Sunday unless a verdict is secured before that time.

Wires underground for the sake of coning a few blocks. When our extensions are complete, then we can have all wires placed underground. Suppose one of our trees fell on a citizen, involving the city in a suit for damages?"

"I think the advertising value of the lights to the city would more than compensate for the few thousand dollars we will spend on them," said Mayor Graham.

Why Six Conducts.
Ald. Richter then inquired how many conduits were used for street lighting. When told that only one duct was necessary for that purpose, he demanded to know why the public were charged for the laying of six conduits.

"Why, the revenue from those six conduits will in time form a magnificent source of revenue to the city," said Supt. Glanville. "We can charge the telegraph and telephone companies less for rental than it costs them for the upkeep of their overhead wires and still make a profit."

"How does that help the ratepayer?" asked Ald. Richter.

"Just because it is provided that the city shall share in all revenues from the rental of conduits," said Chairman Pockock.

Petition Sent On.
At this point Mayor Graham cut short the discussion by moving to recommend the petition. The motion was carried. Ald. Coles and Moore voting with the petition, while Chairman Robinson and Ald. Blandford did not vote.

County Councillor S. Frank Glass called the attention of the board to the condition of Dundas street, near the town line. He reported that the pavement was in bad shape. Chairman Robinson informed him that the board was about to commence repair work there immediately on the return of Engineer Wright, who is expected on Monday.

The HOME Original Charter BANK 1854 of CANADA

Teach your young son to appreciate the usefulness of a bank. Open a savings account for him by making a deposit of one dollar in his name. Give him the passbook and explain how interest is paid, or compounded and added to principal. Encourage him to save his money and bring it to the bank. The youth who learns to save early has a great advantage over the young men who carry their earnings around in their pockets and spend it carelessly.

"BABY FARMS" TO BE LICENSED

No. 3 Committee Accepts the Suggestion of Inspector J. A. McCallum.

BUILDING IS INSANITARY

Market House Must Be Put in Proper Condition at Once—Butchers Object to Rentals.

Maternity homes or baby farms, will be licensed by the city. At the meeting of No. 3 committee held on Thursday evening the matter was brought up by a report from Inspector McCallum on the subject. He outlined the methods adopted in some cities, and it was suggested that a license fee of $10 be charged against each of the places, and that all information as to the percentage of infants, what disposition had been made of any of them, in fact every possible bit of knowledge concerning them, be tabulated and filed with the city clerk. The management of the maternity home would be furnished also with a copy of the document. This idea appealed to the committee, and will be adopted.

As the board of health are also looking into the case, it was decided to defer definite action for a short time, in order to have the benefit of their advice.

The Market House.

The sanitary condition of the Covent Garden Market House was the cause of a debate of some length. Dr. B. Williams, chairman of the board of health, was present and emphasized the order of the board that the building be put in a sanitary condition by June 1. There was no denying the fact that it was very bad, and something had to be done.

"The building is very bad," said Ald. Murphy. "I inspected it one day, and could not eat any dinner afterwards."

Mayor Graham pointed out that the engineering department had been somewhat disorganized owing to the absence of City Engineer Wright, and as a result, conditions could not be remedied, but the building would be improved. He asked that the board of health allow a short time to improve matters, and Dr. Williams consented to that.

The Rentals.

The butchers who rent stalls in the market house complained of the charge recently made for them. It will be remembered that the city council raised the tariff for the stalls from $120 a year to $200. Mr. James A. Anderson, representing the butchers, thought the charge outrageous, and declared that the butchers could not pay this amount of money with the high cost of meats.

Ald. Ashplant favored the reduction of the rental to $150 a year, saying that this was sufficient to give the city a reasonable revenue from the building. However, the committee asked Mr. Anderson to send a communication to the council setting forth the views of the butchers. This will be done and will come up for consideration on Monday evening next.

Action was deferred on the recommendation of the board of health that six back-yard inspectors be employed, the city and the board each to pay half the cost. Mayor Graham explained that it would be unwise to add this additional expense on the city, when the work could be done by the police force. Before the council meeting he will confer with City Solicitor Meredith on the matter, and a decision will be arrived at on Monday evening.

Some minor matters were disposed of. Those present were Ald. Ashplant (acting chairman), Ald. Murphy, Ald. Rose, Mayor Graham, Fire Chief Aitken, Inspector McCallum, and Secretary F. Hughes.
